MAN ENTITLED ONLY TO WHAT HE EARNS, ASSERTS A. J. OREM

More Intelligent Distribution of Wealth Will Insure More Prosperity, He Tells Citizenship Congress.

"SYSTEM WHICH BREEDS 'IDLE RICH' A MENACE"

Mr. Orem Also Attacks Sale of Watered Stocks—Wright Makes Plea for Correction of the Election Laws.

The Southern Christian Citizenship congress, under the auspices of the Civic League of America, opened last night at the Auditorium to the accompaniment of near sensationalism revealed in the address of A. J. Orem, of Boston, who in his treatise styled "From Theocracy to Theocracy," all but put outright socialism into the book of good citizenship.

Owing to his presence at the capitol, where he sat latein the matter of the McNaughton pardon arguments, Governor John M. Slaton was unable to preside at the enthusiastic gathering in Taft hall.

Asks Election Law Changes.

Seaborn Wright, of Rome, Ga., closed the evening session with an impassioned appeal for a correction of the election laws.

In introducing Mr. Orem as the principal speaker of the evening, William D. Upshaw declared that he had given the principal orator carte blanche in the matter of subject and text. Mr. Orem lived up to his rights.

In part he said:

"Greater problems confront the present generation than have confronted any previous generation in the history of the world. Present day questions are broader and more world-wide than former ones. Their consideration must be of broader scope. I believe that modern intelligence is being directed, however, to their successful solution.

"All forms of government have been tried with more or less success. If government administration is in the interests of a few, disregarding the rights of the many, government will be bad, no matter what the form. Modern civilization is tending towards democracy. Nations are more and more being educated to respect the rights of the individual. Economic problems and social problems will never be solved until governments are administered with due regard to human rights. Human rights should be more sacred than property rights.

Great National Problems.

"Great national problems are not conclusively settled until they are settled by the people. This takes agitation, education and time. In educating and preparing the people for the highest state of society it would seem that democracy is the best form of government. It distributes responsibility and tends to train all citizens along lines of economic and social reforms. If the people of a democracy suffer the high cost of living resulting from the sale of watered stocks, the legalized liquor traffic and other abuses, they have their own remedy—the sacred right of the ballot. If in this country conditions are intolerable the voters have themselves to blame.

"How are we to reach the voter and make him realize his responsibility? The most effective way to reach the majority of the voters is by an appeal to their selfish and personal interests.

"The wage question interests the working man. Laws and conditions which tend to improve business interest the business man. Conditions which widely distribute wealth help both the business man and the professional man.

Wants Intelligent Distribution.

"It is estimated that nine-tenths of the wealth of this country is in the hands of one-tenth of the people. If this be true I submit that if the situation were reversed nine-tenths of the people could distribute the wealth better than one-tenth can.

Wants Intelligent Distribution.

"A more intelligent distribution of wealth will insure more prosperity and happiness. To this end each man should have what he earns and no more. He is not entitled to any portion of what other men produce except that obtained through honest barter or other equitable means. Labor leaders tell us this is what they have been clamoring for. It's luck is one

PREACHER MAY FACE WHITE SLAVE CHARGE

Accused of Deserting Wife and Eloping With Woman and Four Babes.

Rome, Ga., September 19.—(Special.) Wearing a button with the words, "All for Jesus," Rev. William Powell, of Graysville, Tenn., passed through Rome yesterday in charge of officers. He was being taken back to Graysville to face charges of a statutory offense, and it is expected that prosecution under the Mann white slave act by federal authorities will follow.

Powell, who is a "Holly Roller" preacher, was arrested in Cedartown, Ga., where, it is alleged, he had been living for the past month in company with a Mrs. Patterson and her four little children. Powell was taken into custody at the request of an older son of the Patterson woman, who asserted that the preacher had induced his mother to desert his father, and to take her four youngest children and elope from Graysville with him.

Young Patterson said further that the family were all members of Powell's flock; that the preacher had great influence over his mother, and that she seemed to think whatever he said was all right. The young Tennesseean said further that Powell had a wife and children of his own, whom he sent away at the close of protracted meetings he had conducted in Graysville.

Powell, who had represented himself as from Oklahoma, had done no preaching at Cedartown, but had rented a house just southeast of the city and was occupying it, it is claimed, with his borrowed family.

RODDENBERY AT HOME; ILL FROM OVERWORK

Improvement Not Rapid, But Congressman Hopes to Recover Before House Convenes.

Thomasville, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Congressman S. Anderson Roddenbery has been ill at his home in this city for several weeks. He had a breakdown as a result of continuous and strenuous work in Washington, and came home to recuperate.

His improvement has not been as rapid as was expected, but his condition today is regarded as quite favorable. He hopes to be able to resume his activities at the opening of the regular session of congress in December.

EX-PRESIDENT SEN TRAVELING "INCOG," NOW IN VANCOUVER

Victoria, B. C., September 19.—Traveling incognito as Wong Kwok Yin, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former provisional president of the Chinese republic and leader in the recent revolt against President Yuan Shi Kai, is said to be in Vancouver. He was recognized by compatriots in spite of the fact that his appearance had been altered by shaving off his mustache. He is said to be en route to England.

It is said that Dr. Sun Yat Sen landed in Victoria from Japan on the last trip of the Japanese liner Chicago. He remained in Victoria for some days with friends, and later attempted to enter the United States disguised as a Japanese student, but was refused admittance.

The impression here is that Dr. Sun does not feel secure in disclosing his identity among his fellow countrymen in British Columbia, who are nearly all supporters of President Yuan.

These Housewives Must Go To Meat Market Every Day; Butchers Deliver No More

Huntsville, Ala., September 19.—(Special.)—The butchers of Huntsville believe that they have found a remedy that will give old man Highcostofliving as severe a jolt, at least in Huntsville, as that enemy of big families ever received. They have signed an agreement that hereafter all housewives must "tote" their own meat home.

The butchers claim that the new method of handling their trade will save them several thousand dollars each year, and will enable them to sell their meat for less per pound and thus escape the cry that is going the rounds of the country over the extortionate prices for meat.

"If every housewife has to lug a basket home every morning, then no woman can turn up her nose at her neighbor for doing what she herself has to do," is the argument advanced for the practicability of the plan.

Incidentally, Huntsville telephones will no longer serve as a means of ordering steaks, unless wife phones pa to bring it out with him from the office. In the new regime credit will also be a thing of the past.

NO GENERAL ASSEMBLY FOR REBBECAH BRANCH

Minneapolis, Minn., September 19.—The attempt of the Rebbecah branch of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows to establish a general assembly was voted down by the sovereign gran lodge today. Further consideration of the proposed plan was indefinitely postponed. The grand lodge today reversed a committee decision and enacted legislation that will hereafter prevent past grand masters from voting. The resolution adopted will allow the various state jurisdictions to deprive their past grand masters from that privilege. The Illinois delegation led the fight for the resolution and forced its passage.

The association of grand secretaries and grand sires tonight elected the following officers:

President, Frank N. Way, New Hampshire ;vice president, A. L. Cushman, Florida, secretary-treasurer, C. H. Lyman, Ohio.

SULZER'S LAWYERS ATTACK VALIDITY OF IMPEACHMENT

Attorney Marshall Claims the Assembly Was Not Constitutionally Convened When Articles Were Adopted.

SULZER ADMITS CLAIM OF ACTING GOVERNOR

Turns Over to Glynn Request for Extradition—Four Senators, Challenged by Defense, to Retain Seats.

Albany, N. Y., September 19.—Counsel for William Sulzer lost the first skirmish in a legal battle they began today, at the second session of the high court of impeachment, to prevent the accused executive from coming to trial. Their objections to permitting four senators to sit as members of the court were overruled.

They next attacked the validity of the impeachment with a motion to dismiss the proceedings, but failure to complete their argument when adjournment was taken until Monday, precluded a decision in the matter.

Meanwhile Governor Sulzer formally conceded that he had no right to exercise the functions of chief executive pending the determination of the impeachment. This he did in a letter to Lieutenant Governor Glynn, turning over to the latter a request for the extradition of a prisoner and explaining he had taken such action because of recent decisions of the supreme court that the "executive functions should be performed by yourself as acting governor."

Assembly Takes Recess.

After striving futilely from noon until 7:20 o'clock tonight to obtain enough anti-Sulzer votes to insure the passage of additional impeachment charges, Majority Leader Levy moved that the assembly recess until next Thursday. The motion was adopted amid shouts of joy and members who had been imprisoned in the chamber for hours, dashed for trains and their homes.

In making the motion for a recess Mr. Levy explained that the senate had adjourned until the same day and that even if the board of managers put additional charges through the assembly tonight the senate could not be notified immediately. He made an urgent plea for a full attendance next Thursday. The fight for additional charges will be resumed immediately on the convening of the assembly and meanwhile the democratic leaders will use every means to obtain a full attendance. It is generally understood that the charges were completed today. The three chief allegations are, it is said, that the governor usurped the powers of his office, following his impeachment, made a pre-election promise to make Dr. Giuliis Draper state commissioner of health and failed to account for the fund which he obtained to wage his direct primary campaign. At the "Peoples House" Governor Sulzer spent a quiet day. Late in the afternoon he went automobile riding. Before leaving he told attaches of the mansion he positively would not grant any interviews today.

The entire session of the court of impeachment was given over to legal argument and indications were tonight that Monday and Tuesday would be similarly occupied, precluding the calling of witnesses until Wednesday.

Four Senators Challenged.

After the adoption today of rules of procedure, D. Cady Herrick, chief counsel for the governor, formerly challenged the right of Senators Wagner, Ramsberger, Sanner and Wagner to sit as members of the court—the first three on the ground that automobile members of the Frawley investigating committee on whose reports the articles of impeachment were based; Senator Wagner, president pro tem of the senate on the ground that in the event of the conviction of the governor he would succeed to the profits and emoluments of the office of lieutenant governor."

Judge Herrick read a long brief in support of his contention to which Judge Alton B. Parker, chief counsel for the managers, replied, holding that the court had no power under the constitution to exclude any of its members. This argument Presiding Judge Cullen upheld.

"All precedents are against it," he said.

Judge Cullen, however, put the challenges to the vote of the court with the result that excepting the four senators involved, who asked to be excused from voting, the following members present today unanimously decided against the counsel for the governor.

A motion to dismiss the impeachment precipitated the second contest. It was made by Attorney Louis Marshall, who spent practically the whole afternoon session in reading a brief purporting to show that the impeachment was unconstitutional, based on the fact that it was brought while the assembly was in extraordinary session, and entitled to act solely upon matters presented to it by the governor.

Motion to Dismiss.

"The above ed respondent, William Sulzer, now comes and appears specially for the purpose of moving this honorable court to dismiss the proceedings instituted by the assembly of the state of New York for his impeachment," began the attorney in opening his argument. He cited a long list of precedents to prove his contention, drawing parallel in English law and that of other state:. He dwelt at length on the amendment of the New York state constitution adoped in 1875, which contained the following clause:

"At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon except such

PENSIONS SOUGHT FOR NEEDY WIDOWS

Associated Charities Will Also Ask Council to Buy School Books for Poor Children of the City.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Associated Charities at the Ansley hotel Friday night, the committee on public relief, of which J. M. B. Hoxsey is chairman, was instructed to ask council to make an appropriation to pension needy and deserving widows.

The committee was also instructed to ask for an appropriation of about $500 for the purpose of supplying school books to needy school children, and also an appropriation to provide for an assistant city warden.

The co-operation of City Warden Evans will be asked in these requests to council.

At the directors' meeting it was brought out that while the work and financial responsibility of the Associated Charities has greatly increased in the last several years, city council has made but small increase in the appropriations for the aid of the charities in its work.

Mothers Should Keep Children.

The directors were unanimous in their belief that the city could assist the Associated Charities in no more valuable way than in making a provision for the support of needy widows who have small children dependent upon them. The directors believe that it is a great mistake to take a needy child away from a good mother and put it in an institution when this can be avoided.

The realization of the good influence of the mother in comparison to that of an asylum has been recognized by other cities throughout the country. It was pointed out, and they have made provisions for their future citizenship by just such an appropriation as the council of Atlanta will be asked to make.

The board appointed a standing committee on hospital social service, with a view to investigating the advantages of this service, bringing the people of Atlanta to an appreciation of its value and eventually establishing it in connection with the Associated Charities.

In speaking on the need of such a service and to illustrate the work of it, Mr. Logan, superintendent of the Associated Charities, said that there were frequently cases where sick children were taken to hospitals, where it was learned that they were ill from lack of the right sort of food, and that after they had been cured and sent home they would again be fed in the same manner and become sick.

$4,000 Additional Needed.

Ivan E. Allen, chairman of the finance committee, reported that in addition to the $3,000 emergency fund, which the Rotary club has agreed to raise, and in addition to all funds in sight, the Associated Charities would need at least $4,000 more with which to complete its year's work. The directors discussed the situation at length, and various plans were suggested for obtaining the necessary funds, but no definite plan was adopted. The matter now stands, in the hands of the finance committee and the board of directors.

The directors, however, were of the opinion that the coming fall will be one of the most prosperous seasons that Atlanta has seen in many years, and, for this reason, are hopeful of being able to get hold of the money.

The report of Superintendent Logan showed that on August 1, 1912, the Associated Charities had open 734 cases. During the year 95 new cases were added, 19 old cases were reopened, and 44 cases were closed. This leaves the institution at present with 848 cases, of which 752 are resident cases under active treatment.

Jack Lewis, of the Joseph Dixon Crucible company, was elected a member of the board of the directors, to fill a vacancy.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Rotary club for its courageous action in volunteering to raise $3,000 to put the Associated Charities on its feet.

Members In Attendance.

The following members of the board were present at Friday night's meeting:

St. Elmo Mossengale, Walter McElroth, Albert S. Adams, W. S. Lounbury, H. B. Wey, W. C. Wardlaw, Rodwell Johnson, W. O. Foote, John E. White, J. T. Rose, L. C. Hopkins, Ivan E. Allen, E. H. Goodhart, Lewis J. Elsas, J. C. Greenfield.

SOPHOMORE IS KILLED DURING COLLEGE SCRAP

Lafayette, Ind., Septemeber 19.—F. W. Obenchain, of South Whitley, Ind., died during the annual "frank scrap" between the freshmen and sophomore classes at Purdue university here today. Obenchain, a sophomore, and his classmates wore leather collars, reinforced with metal to protect their necks. The dead student had a goitre of the neck and during the exertion attending the fight his neck swelled until he was choked to death.

Shortly before the fight ended it was discovered he was dead.

WOMAN SHOT, 2 KILLED AS RESULT OF JOY RIDE

San Francisco, Cal., September 19.—Mrs. Kate Coulson, 35 years of age, was shot in the neck early today, and George Bowers, night watchman in a garage, and William Acker, a chauffeur, were shot dead after the three had been riding most of the night in an automobile. A. R. Coulson, husband of the wounded woman, is being sought by the police. Mrs. Coulson is believed to be fatally wounded.

COUNTERFEIT NOTES PRINTED IN PRISON

Peterhead, Scotland, September 19.—That counterfeit banknotes so skillfully executed as to deceive local bankers and shopkeepers were made by convicts in the Peterhead prison was a startling discovery made today by Scotland yard detectives. In printing the bank notes the convicts used paper in which rations had been served them.

"Atlanta Has Much to Gain By Panama Canal Opening"

—John Barrett.

HON. JOHN BARRETT.

DR. CLARENCE OWENS.

"Atlanta and the whole state of Georgia has everything to gain through the opening of the Panama canal. The completion of this mighty waterway and the getting in touch with our twenty sister republics lying south of us means more to this state and city and in fact to the entire south than any other commercial or political undertaking ever inaugurated beyond the confines of these United States," was the statement of Director John Barrett, head of the Pan-American Congress, who visited Atlanta Friday.

Mr. Barrett and Dr. Clarence J. Owens, in charge of the work of the Southern Commercial Congress, which assembles in Mobile on October 27, were the honor guests at a luncheon given by Atlanta business men at the Capital City club. The two distinguished visitors are touring the sixteen states of the south, in the interests of the commercial congress which, in Dr. Owens' words, "will show to the world the relation of the states of the United States to the Panama canal, to Latin-America and to world commerce."

Many Delegates to Attend.

The fifth annual convention of the commercial congress will be attended by more delegates this year than on any previous gathering in the years of its existence. Prominent speakers from all over the nation will be in attendance and the multiplicity of addresses on varying subjects embrace the entire round of commercial activity in the south.

Mr. Barrett declared while here that he had caused the Pan-American Commercial Conference, held every two years, to be postponed so that the conference and the commercial congress might meet with delegates in Mobile.

For the first time in the history of the commercial congress there will be held this year a meeting of the woman's auxiliary, a new division of the congress work. Of interest to the delegates to this congress will be the appearance of the countess of Aberdeen, wife of the governing lord of Ireland. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has been deeply interested in the work of the congress.

Tour to Canal Zone.

One of the interesting developments in the congress will be the tour of over 300 of the delegates to the canal zone where a memorial tablet will be placed at the entrance of the canal to the memory of the late Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, who is acclaimed as the "father of the canal idea."

Another tour of the commercial congress delegates embraces a trip through the Latin-American countries to solidifying the commercial bonds between the southern republic and the United States.

The full program of the congress will be announced in a few days, Dr. Owens said.

Dr. Owens, who left Atlanta Friday night for Jacksonville, will deliver a lecture at a mass meeting in the Florida city tonight in the interest of the commercial congress. Mr. Barrett will also speak at this mass meeting, using as his topic the "Opening of the Panama canal." In cities where they have been spoken they declare they have found interest in the commercial organization at fever pitch and they expect great things of the Mobile gathering.

Numbers of delegates will go to Mobile from Atlanta as several speakers of prominence from this city will appear on the platform during the sessions of the body.

BEER-SELLING MEANS LOSING CITY LICENSE

Macon Judge Warns Saloonists They Can't Sell Real Article. Beer Being Tested.

Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Macon saloonkeepers are in a panic and this afternoon were undecided just which way to turn. This state of affairs is the result of the ruling by Judge Matthews, in the superior court this morning, that if they sell beer they are liable to forfeiture of license and the issuance of a permanent injunction against them.

This ruling, if sustained by the supreme court, probably means that every saloon in Georgia will be closed up.

The ruling was made following the dismissal of a charge of contempt of court against Ed Cassidy, who sold beer after he had been enjoinee by the court for selling intoxicating liquor onpetition of the Macon Law Enforcement League.

Judge Matthews dismissed the charge of contempt, stating that it was clear that Cassidy had acted under a misapprehension and had been advised by his attorneys that he had a right to sell "near beer."

However Judge Matthews put all saloonkeepers on notice that they are liable to prosecution if they sell beer and he told him that they could not expect mercy from him.

This morning the law enforcement league presented several bottles of beer purchased from the Cassidy saloon, which the report of the chemist showed contained between four and five per cent alcohol and according to the chemist this was enough to make the drink intoxicating.

Fighting His Twenty-Year Sentence, Haygood Gets Another Year for Cursing

Maysville, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Pink Haygood, fighting for a new trial on his twenty-year sentence for complicity in the murder of a man named Murray, got an additional year in the county chaingang today when he was found guilty of signing incality and cursing and otherwise insulting women near his cell.

Physicians told Judge Brand that Haygood was feigning insanity in order to escape his twenty-year service, and the judge ordered him to serve in the chaingang for using obscene language. At the end of that time the question of a new trial will be gone into.

M'NAUGHTON'S FATE IN SLATON'S HANDS AFTER LONG SESSION

Hearing of Pardon Petition of the Alleged Swainsboro Poisoner Lasts Until After Midnight.

GOVERNOR'S QUESTIONS INDICATE GUILT BELIEF

Executive States, However, That They Were Not Intended to Prejudice Case or to Show an Opinion.

With the closing of the argument for and against Dr. W. J. McNaughton late last night after a hearing which had lasted throughout the day, the fate of the condemned man was left in the hands of the governor. As the chief executive announced his intention of reading over again all the record in the case before making public his decision, it will probably not be until next week before the man will know whether or not he is to hang.

Judging by the questions which the governor put to the attorneys for McNaughton, it would appear that he was very strongly impressed with the man's guilt and that there would be little hope for him at that official's hands. The governor declared, however, that these questions were asked simply to elicit the truth, not to prejudice the case or to indicate an opinion one way or the other.

Suggested an Autopsy.

There were several facts brought out in the day's hearing that had not been previously generally known. One of these was that Dr. Green Bell, an uncle of Mrs. Flanders, who had attended the deceased at one time, suggested to Jordan Flanders, his brother, the suspicious circumstances connected with the death and the desirability of having the body examined for an autopsy.

The defense laid great stress on the fact that the deceased had been ill prior to the calling in of Dr. McNaughton and furnished affidavits to show that he had taken medicine in Thomasville and at other places and also that he had suffered with acute indigestion.

Those who furnished evidence regarding Mr. Flanders' illness in Thomasville were Theodore Titus, a lawyer, who addressed a personal letter to the governor, and Payton Thomas, a negro porter in the drug store where the deceased purchased medicine and also C. S. Hancock, who furnished an affidavit closely describing Mr. Flanders, but declaring that he did not know the man who purchased medicine in the store at the time indicated.

These affidavits were combatted on the part of the prosecution by counter affidavits from Mrs. Dasden and T. T. Stephens to the effect that Flanders could not have been in Thomasville at the time claimed. The prosecution admitted afterwards, however, that Mr. Flanders may have been ill at the time and place claimed and yet that would not have any effect on Dr. McNaughton's guilt which, it was said, was clearly established by the introduction of any evidence of the previous sickness of the deceased at Thomasville or anywhere else.

Hearing Hotly Contested.

Rarely in the criminal annals of the state has there been a pardon hearing before the governor that has been so sharply contested on both sides as was that of Dr. W. J. McNaughton which was opened at ten o'clock in the governor's office Friday morning.

As an indication of the feeling that exists in Emanuel against the condemned man, there was a strong delegation from that county to appear against him. In the delegation were

SAYS BAILIFF TOOK AIM BEFORE HE SHOT BOY

Columbus Officer Who Killed Lad Fleeing Fifty-Cent Debt Held Without Bond.

Columbus, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The preliminary trial of Bailiff Robert L. Willis, charged with the murder of Luther Hawkins, took place today before Recorder Foley, and lasted all day, much testimony being given and several arguments b g made by attorneys.

Witnesses testified that the shooting of young Hawkins by the officer, who was seeking to arrest i on the charge of jumping a 50-cent board bill, seemed to them to be deliberate.

Willis, in his statement, said that it was purely accidental. He broke into tears when a witness testified that he took aim at Hawkins before firing. His own statement was concluded in a burst of weeping. He said that he would not have done the deed for anything in the world. Judge Foley ordered Willis held without bond to await the action of the grand jury, which will meet soon.

MAYOR FINES SELF FOR RUNNING AUTO WITHOUT HIS LAMPS

Americus, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The unusual spectacle of a city's chief executive presiding in a case against himself was presented today when Mayor M. M. Lowrey, presiding as recorder in police court, entered a plea of guilty upon the charge of operating his automobile without lights and imposed upon himself a fine of $3, with the admonition never to be guilty again of a like offence.

"AUNT MARY," AGED 75, MARRIES MAN OVER 80

Swainsboro, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—That cupid is never too old to use his arrows effectively is shown in the marriage of Mrs. Mary Collins and Mr. Dan Page, which took place at Coral Sunday. The bride, who is affectionately known as "Aunt Mary" has passed the seventy-fifth milestone and is many times a grandmother. The groom, who is past the four-score mark has lost none of the lovemaking ardor of his youth and he and his bride are as chipper as a much younger couple on their honeymoon.

They are both quite popular wherever known and are being made the recipients of many gifts and cordial good wishes of their friends at Cobbtown where they will reside.

C. F. von HERRMAN, Section Director.

J. F. Price, W. R. Kemp, former state senator, S. S. Moore, R. A. Flanders, cousin of the deceased, Jordan Flanders, his brother, and Morris Lee Flanders, his nephew.

A. S. Bradley, of the Swainsboro law firm of Williams & Bradley, and R. Lee Moore, solicitor general, appeared as attorneys on behalf of the state.

For the defense appeared Judge Frank L. Saffold, of Swainsboro; John W. Bennett, of Waycross, as attorneys, and L. K. Meldrim, and the Rev. Dr. J. S. Wilder, of Savannah, who claimed to be entirely disinterested persons who had become convinced of the condemned man's innocence. A. L. Franklin, of Augusta, also appeared for the defense.

Medicine Made Him Sicker.

The afternoon session opened with the testimony of R. A. Flanders, a nephew of the deceased, to the effect that his uncle had declared on his deathbed that the medicine Dr. McNaughton was giving him made him sicker every time he took it. He also said that Dr. Greene Bell, since deceased, had first called his attention to the ugly circumstances surrounding the death of the deceased and had advised him to have the body exhumed and an autopsy made.

L. K. Meldrim, a deputy sheriff of Chatham county, addressed the governor in behalf of the prisoner. He declared that he had first become interested in Dr. McNaughton's case about a year ago and that in that time he had become more and more convinced of the man's innocence. He declared that the feeling in Emanuel county was very strong against Dr. McNaughton and that his life would be in danger there. He had made several trips to Swainsboro in an effort to have Mrs. Flanders tried, but without success.

The Rev. J. S. Wilder, a Baptist minister of Savannah, who has been the condemned man's spiritual adviser during his confinement here, made a very earnest plea to the governor in McNaughton's behalf. He declared that the people of Georgia generally believed McNaughton innocent and that the governor would do a great act of justice as well as of mercy by freeing the man.

Believes Man Guilty

W. R. Kemp, former state senator, declared his belief in the condemned man's guilt, but admitted that the feeling in the county against him had been very strong. He declared, however, that he believed a fair trial had been given the doctor by the jury. He did not believe there was a man in the jury box in Emanuel county who would not give a man a fair trial when he was sworn in the box.

R. Lee Moore, the solicitor general, declared that he may have made a mistake in nolle prossing the case against Mrs. Flanders. He had done it not on his own motion, but under advisement of learned counsel, but, independently of that action McNaughton should be heard on the merits of his own case. Two wrongs never made one right. If Mrs. Flanders had been allowed to go free when she ought to have been tried, that was no excuse for letting McNaughton go free when he had been convicted and condemned by an impartial jury of his fellow citizens and their verdict upheld by the supreme court.

It was 4:30 o'clock when the argument for the defense was opened by John W. Bennett. Judge Saffold told the governor that he had a very important engagement in Savannah Saturday and he would like to conclude the hearing Friday. The governor replied that he had an engagement to speak at the Auditorium in the evening and would therefore be compelled to adjourn the hearing for the day at 5 o'clock.

Night Session of Hearing.

In order to accommodate the attorneys for the defense, however, he secured by telephone a release from his evening engagement and determined to conclude the hearing at a night session, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Colonel J. W. Bennett opened the argument for the defense. He was frequently interrupted by the governor, who clearly indicated by his questions that he believed that the circumstances of guilt were very strong against the condemned man.

The governor was at a loss to understand how such a large quantity of arsenic could be found in the dead man's stomach and intestines, indicating that he possibly had as much as ten grains of the poison in his system, unless Dr. McNaughton had administered it to him.

He thought that there had been ample time for any poison which the man might have taken on his trip to Thomasville or elsewhere some weeks before his death to have been entirely eliminated from his system.

Amount of Poison.

Dr. W. J. Bell, of Atlanta, was allowed to interrupt at this point and to make a statement as an expert to the effect that there was no stated time during which arsenic poison might be eliminated. It depended altogether on the amount taken and the condition of the system as to how soon it might be thrown off. The amount of poison in a man's body also could not be judged by the proportion found in the stomach and intestines as larger quantities would naturally be found in those organs than in the skin and outer tissues.

The governor was still at a loss to understand, however, how Dr. McNaughton, as family physician of the dead man, could have failed to detect symptoms of arsenious poisoning, if the poison had been taking medicine other than that he was giving, and to have so notified him. The governor considered the illicit relations between Dr. McNaughton and the dead man's wife as established beyond controversy, and that furnished ample motive for McNaughton to want to put him out of the way.

In entering into the discussion, the governor declared that he did it without prejudice as he thought that was the best means to elicit the truth of the case. He would read all the evidence over again before making up his mind after he had heard the arguments.

At 5:45 o'clock a recess was taken until 7 o'clock.

At the night session, Mr. Bennett concluded his argument for the defense. He declared that he would never have entered into the case, if, after a close investigation of the evidence, he had not been thoroughly convinced of Dr. McNaughton's innocence. He also insisted that the doctor had never been given a fair trial.

Following Mr. Bennett's speech, Mr. Bradley made an argument of about three hours for the state. He declared that the reason the case against Mrs. Flanders had been nolle prossed was that there was not evidence to convict her. The state did have evidence to convict Dr. McNaughton, he said, but there was not sufficient evidence to convict Mrs. Flanders.

Mr. Bradley reviewed the testimony in the case, particularly the affidavits from Thomasville citizens, which had been introduced before the prison commission, showing that they were merely cumulative in effect and were not so credible as the affidavit of Mr. Flanders' friends and associates who had had much better opportunities of knowing him and familiarizing themselves with his habits.

Was No Drugster.

"It has been clearly established," he declared, "that Fred Flanders was not addicted to drugs of any kind and was not a habitual taker of patent medicines. Until he was taken with serious illness on the night of May 17, preceding his death on June 4, he was in perfectly well man, who had recently recovered from his indisposition while in Thomasville and had been working daily at hard manual toil in his saw mill."

The speaker declared that had it not been for Fred Flanders' determination to move to Thomasville in order to get his wife away from Dr. McNaughton, he would never have been sick nor would he have died.

Judge Saffold Concludes.

The concluding argument for the defense was made by Judge Frank H. Saffold, who strongly intimated that the purpose of the prosecution of Mrs. Flanders was to get McNaughton out of the way before they ever brought her to trial. This plan, he declared, had been thwarted by former Governor Brown, who several times reprieved McNaughton in order that Mrs. Flanders' case might be tried.

He laid great stress on an affidavit of Mrs. Anders to the effect that her husband had been taking medicine during his last illness, which was not administered by Dr. McNaughton.

Died in Convulsions.

One feature of the case which had not been brought out previously was that Fred Flanders died in convulsions. This was brought out in a statement by Morris Lee Flanders, a nephew of the dead man, who was present at the time of his death.

The hearing was not concluded until 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when Mr. Saffold brought his argument to a close. He had been his purpose to take a train for Savannah at 12:15, but he did not finish in time.

While the governor frequently interrupted speakers on both sides in order to ask questions and while he gave no intimation as to how he would decide the case, the impression seemed pretty strong that he would not go as far as the prison commission and free the condemned man altogether, but that clemency, if exercised by him at all, would probably be limited to commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

NEW COLUMBIA OPENS WITH BURLESQUE TODAY

With twenty-two people in the cast, the White Way Burlesque company, direct from Cincinnati, where they have just closed a successful engagement, will open the new Columbia burlesque theater, end of Walton street, opposite Union depot, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

It was the intention to open the new theater last Monday, but it was found that the stage was too small to accommodate the large company, so the opening was postponed until Saturday.

The theater is now in tip-top shape, and will surprise those who have not seen the inside of the new playhouse, as it seats 1,000 people, is artistically decorated, with spotlight, etc. The ventilation is excellent, so there will be no inconvenience from smoking, which will be permitted in the theater.

It has been a number of years since burlesque has been seen in Atlanta, and it is expected that the house will be crowded for the first show.

The management has been unusually careful in the selection of the company for the opening, and a surprise awaits those who attend the opening performance Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Prices are 15 cents for balcony, 25 cents for lower floor and 50 cents for boxes.

Washington, September 19.—Attorneys for the Louisville and Nashville railroad are waiting here to ask Justice Lamar, of the supreme court, to order a stay against the enforcement of the two and one-half cents passenger rate law in Alabama, until the case may be passed upon by the court.

The federal courts in Alabama recently dissolved an injunction against the enforcement of the law, and declined to stay the execution of the act pending an appeal. Attorney General Brickell, of Alabama, is here to represent the state. The case will be presented to Justice Lamar when he returns here tonight.

BODY OF MAYOR GAYNOR LIES IN BROOKLYN HOME

After Private Funeral Services Today the Remains Will Be Taken to City Hall.

New York, September 19.—The body of William J. Gaynor, mayor of New York, who died at sea September 10, lay today in his Brooklyn home. In a drizzling rain it was lowered at 4 o'clock this morning from the high deck of the liner Lusitania to the city's boat Correction.

Through a quiet that lay heavy over the harbor the Correction steamed to pier A at the battery. There a picked squad of one hundred police, who had stood all night in the rain, formed its escort to Brooklyn.

The funeral ship glided into the harbor and came to anchor at quarantine at 1:20 o'clock this morning, the American flag at her stern, at half mast.

A dozen stalwart sailors carried the body in its heavy lead casket from the mortuary chapel to the deck. The carpet of flowers under which it lay was removed and only the great American flag placed over the casket at Liverpool covered it as a windlass lowered it slightly twenty-five feet down an inclined plane to the deck of the Correction.

Aboard this latter boat the body was taken to a heavily draped catafalque in the center of the upper deck of which rested a coffin. The body was placed in the coffin and a wreath and a branch of palms were placed above it. The Correction cast off and weighed anchor a short distance away, awaiting the coming of day.

The black mist had changed to gray when the engines began to throb and she started on her short journey to the battery. The rain had ceased. It was full day when the Correction came to rest in her slip. Eight six-foot pall-bearers, four in the uniform of the fire department and four in the uniform of the police, each man with a bit of crepe on his sleeve, lifted it over the gangplank to the hearse. The long vigil of the picked squad of police sent at 9 o'clock last night to the pier came to an end. They stood at attention, each man at his horse's head, as the casket was placed in the hearse, and then, mounting their horses, led the funeral train through the deserted streets.

Their route lay through lower Broadway and past the city hall to Brooklyn bridge. Over this bridge which the mayor had so often trod on his way to and from his home, the funeral party went. It was after 8 o'clock when they reached the late mayor's home. There the body was taken to a large room. The committee appointed to receive it withdrew, the hundred policemen clattered back through the streets to their station houses, and the body was left with only the family around it.

It will remain there until tomorrow night. Private funeral services will be held there tomorrow afternoon and a new conclusion the body will be taken to city hall, there it will lie in state until Monday morning, when funeral services will be held in Trinity church.

MAYOR OF ROME MAKES ANTI-CATHOLIC SPEECH

Rome, September 19.—Ernest Nathan, mayor of Rome, today in connection with the exercise commemorating the forty-third anniversary of the fall of the temporal power, delivered a bitter anti-Catholic speech. It was his first speech antagonistic of the papacy since that delivered at the same exercises in 1910.

In part the mayor said today:

"The political reactionists, deaf to the voice of the national will, wrapped in their vestments of religion and flattered by the hope that they will regain lost prestige, are insinuating themselves among the masses of people called to the ballot in an endeavor to secure their support."

Referring to the recent games of the International Catholic league, held under the patronage of the vatican, the mayor said:

"The athletic squadrons marched in the streets of Rome and with impunity affirmed in various languages their impotent desire to restore it to the papacy."

JUDGE C. D. MURANE IS ASKED TO RESIGN

Nome, Alaska, September 19.—United States District Judge Cornelius D. Murane has been asked by the department of justice to resign. The term of office for which he was appointed has one year more to run.

It is said also that United States District Attorney Bernard S. Rodey, who was formerly delegate to congress from New Mexico and federal judge in Porto Rico, has been asked to resign.

Charges against Judge Murane are alleged to have been filed in Washington by representatives of large gold dredging interests of Nome.

AGREEMENT REACHED IN GALVESTON DOCK STRIKE

Galveston, Texas, September 19.—An agreement to end the dock workers strike here, affecting 3,500 men, was reached at a conference this afternoon. The agreement will be submitted to the several unions involved for ratification.

Terms of the proposed settlement were not given out but union leaders said they probably would be accepted. Five local unions involved will meet tomorrow to vote on ratifying the agreement.

SAVANNAH MEN HURT IN SKIDDING AUTO

Savannah, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Dr. L. J. Chedel and Allen M. Broom were seriously hurt in an automobile accident on the Augusta road about 3 miles from Savannah tonight. Dr. Chedel was injured internally and may die. Mr. Broom's arm was broken in three places.

R. L. Miller, who was also in the car, was shaken up. The machine ran into a soft place in the road and skidded into a ditch. The injured men are in a hospital.

Death of Infant.

Leesburg, Ga., September 19.—John Fort Hines, Jr., aged three years, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hines, died here today. The child's death was caused from a long spell of whooping cough. The interment takes place tomorrow at the local cemetery.

INSANE STONE MASON DYNAMITES HIS HOME

Mack Hurst Kills Daughter and Self and Injures Two Other Daughters and Wife.

Bloomington, Ind., September 19.—Mack Hurst, 50 years old, a stone mason, early today blew up his home here with dynamite, killing himself and his 17-year-old daughter, Maude, seriously injuring two other daughters—Fannie, 13 and Elizabeth, 6—and stunning his wife.

Hurst has been separated from his wife for six weeks and yesterday she refused to take him back. It is believed that he then, in a fit of insanity, determined to kill his entire family consisting of his wife and eight children.

The dead girl met the fate intended for her mother and the fact that they had changed beds for the night cost the daughter her life. Hurst, after steadily planting a stick of dynamite under each of the three beds in the house, tied two sticks to his own body and pulled into the bed which he had formerly occupied with his wife, but which last night contained the three daughters, Maude, Fannie and Elizabeth.

Fannie heard her father getting into the bed and spoke to him. "Lie still!" Hurst replied. "We will all die together."

Before the girl could move the explosion rent the house and aroused the city. Police and fire departments rushed to the scene, removed the bodies of Hurst and one daughter, and sent the two injured girls to the hospital.

Four sticks of dynamite, unexploded, were found in the ruins and the fact that only one, and that one attached to Hurst's body, had exploded, accounted for the escape of other members of the family.

MAN ENTITLED ONLY TO WHAT HE EARNS

cause of the social unrest which prevails.

With our society properly organized all who do work may have employment. It is not sufficient to declare this is an impractical visionary theory. The selfish creed of mankind has hitherto not given the world a chance to prove its practicability.

"By a proper education of the masses, physically, mentally and morally, we provide the nation with a defense more secure than can be provided by iron-clad fleets or standing armies.

"Statistics show that in 1850, 70 per cent of the population of this country were wage-earners and 30 per cent nonproducers. This is reversal in the present day.

Attacks Watered Stocks.

"Another reason for the high cost of living is the sale of watered stocks. It is a well known principle of bookkeeping that where there is a debit there is a credit. A Wall street banking house cannot make $60,000,000 by guaranteeing the sale of securities of the steel trust without someone losing that amount. Who loses it? The people! The people have to pay an amount sufficient to yield interest and dividends on the watered securities, thus making the cost of products a great deal more than they should be.

"Whenever a government grants a money-making privilege to one set of men, not granted to others, it sets up a bone of contention and at once creates an inducement for the privileged class to use some of its money for the perpetuation of the privilege. This encourages the corrupt use of money.

"Personally, I question the wisdom of granting to private individuals or corporations, to use and control for their own personal needs, anything which in its natural state is necessary to man's existence and is made valuable by virtue of its existence in society.

"I submit the system which breeds idlers, whether 'idle rich' or 'idle poor,' is pernicious and a menace to society."

Premium on Industry.

"Government should place a premium on industry, not idleness. The wealth of the country is constantly drifting into the hands of the few and the 'hopeless poor' and the hopefully poor are increasing in number. I do not believe the country can survive another century if existing conditions are allowed to continue unchecked."

At the conclusion of Mr Orem's speech Seaborn Wright discussed briefly the "Spirit of Anarchy." He declared that on account of the limited time he would be forced to confine himself to a short discussion. He made a strong plea for a crean ballot and the election of incorruptible officeseekers.

CHILD ASKS $5,000 FOR LOSS OF FINGER

Tifton, Ga., September 19.—(Special). Suit has been filed in Tift superior court for damages alleged to have been sustained by a child nine years ago. The suit for $5,000 is in behalf of Ethel Gibbs by her next friend, John C. Brown, and against the Tifton Cotton mills.

The petition recites that during the year 1904 the plaintiff, then nine years of age, was working in the mills of the defendant company and had the fore finger of her right hand caught in a draft gear-head and so badly mashed that amputation at the first joint was necessary.

JONES IS RE-ELECTED BY LABOR CONGRESS

Nashville, Tenn., September 19.—The second annual convention of the southern Labor Congress closed here today. President Jerome Jones, of Atlanta, and Secretary-Treasurer W. P. Puckett, of Atlanta, were re-elected. Albert H. Johnson, of Memphis, was elected vice president, and Robert E. Gann, of Anniston, Ala., second vice president. Birmingham was chosen as the next meeting place.

During this morning's session the convention was addressed by United States Senator Luke Lea.

The congress today voted to allow negro laboring organizations to affiliate with the Southern Labor Congress. Only two delegates cast negative votes.

Examinations for Carriers.

Secretary Jennings of the federal civil service commission for the fifth civil service district, with headquarters in the Atlanta federal building, will hold an examination for postoffice clerks and carriers in his offices in Atlanta on Wednesday, November 5. Secretary Jennings directs that all applications for examination must be filed in the office of the district of the civil service commission, room 301 before the close of business hours on October 1.

SLAYING OF MADERO NOT PUNISHABLE CRIME

Such Is Decision of Mexican Military Court After Investigation of Six Months.

Mexico City, September 19.—The deaths of the late President Francisco I. Madero and Vice President Jose Maria Pino Suarez were not brought about by a punishable crime, according to a decision pronounced by the military court here today.

The investigation lasted six months. It was started by the military commandant of the federal district immediately on the conclusion of the ten days' battle in the streets of Mexico last February, which resulted in Provisional President Huerta coming into power.

The result of the commandant's inquiry was followed to the permanent military tribunal, which continued the examination of witnesses.

Among the witnesses was Major Francisco Cardenas, who commanded the escort which conveyed President Madero and Vice President Pino Suarez from the national palace to the penitentiary. Two subordinate officers of rural guards and residents in the vicinity of the jail also were examined.

SCOTT THINKS REBEL LEADER FAR FROM BEING PRISONER

El Paso, Texas, September 19.—General Hugh L. Scott, commander of the United States border guard, receives what he believes to be reliable information today stating that Pancho Villa, the rebel leader, is not a prisoner of Maximo Castillo at Paiomas, Mexico, but is at Casas Grandes, 150 miles southwest of Juarez with at least 1,000 men.

Juarez federal officials have gone to Palomas to investigate the reported capture of Villa and ascertain if they cannot induce Castillo to surrender and turn over his prisoner. Castillo declares he is fighting in behalf of Emiliano Vasquez Gomez.

CALHOUN EDITOR GOES FOR MODERN PASTORS

Rome, Ga., September 19.—(Special.) The press and pulpit are at odds in the little city of Calhoun, in Gordon county, Ky. In today's issue of his paper, The Calhoun Times, Editor G. W. Tribble makes caustic criticism of the modern preacher and his pulpit methods. It is stated that some of the ministers of the city are angered at his article, and will reply next Sunday from the pulpits. The editor is a brother of Congressman Sam Tribble, of the eighth district, and is an able writer.

In the offending article he said, in part: "The average preacher of the present day, assisted by the cat-calls of some would-be soloist from the choir, can freeze out a congregation of Christians, much less an average congregation."

DAUGHTERS SELECT SITE FOR SHILOH MONUMENT

Nashville, Tenn., September 19.—A letter today from Mrs. Alexander B. White, of Paris, Tenn., president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, announces the site selected for the Confederate monument at Shiloh on which the daughters propose to spend $50,000. The site selected is a triangle formed by the intersection of two highways—the road from Corinth to Pittsburg landing and the Hamburg to Savannah, Tenn., road. The monument will face the way the Confederates were marching towards Tennessee river.

INVESTIGATES DEATH OF "BIG TIM" SULLIVAN

New York, September 19.—An investigation into "certain features" of the death of Congressman Timothy D. Sullivan whose mangled body was recently found at a railroad crossing in the Bronx borough, was begun today by District Attorney Whitman.

Since the funeral of "Big Tim" rumors have been persistent that he had not met death accidentally, some version that he had been set upon by footpads and left unconscious on the tracks or murdered outright.

"BACK YARD" ROW ENDS IN SHOOTING

In Fuss Over Chickens, Parish Woman Shoots Neighbor, Who Will Lose Eye and Possibly Life.

Statesboro, Ga., September 19.—At Parish, a small town 15 miles from here, yesterday, Mrs. Judson Howard was shot and it is feared, fatally wounded by Mrs. W. M. Parish, a neighbor. Mrs. Parish used a shotgun and shot out one of Mrs. Howard's eyes and otherwise wounded her. The women were neighbors and had been unfriendly for some time, because of quarrels over their children and chickens.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Howard went into her yard and Mrs. Parish appeared with a shotgun and threatened to shoot her. Mrs. Howard returned to the house and when she came out with a gun Mrs. Parish shot her twice. She fell in the yard and since the shooting has been in a critical condition. It was hoped to bring her to Statesboro for treatment, but her physicians say she is too badly wounded to be moved. Mrs. Parish was arrested by a bailiff, but released on bond. The relatives of the wounded woman are here to have her arrested again for assault with intent to murder.

ONLY 12,000 QUALIFIED TO VOTE ON CHARTER

Tenth Ward Is Only Section of Atlanta to Show Gain Over Last Year.

With less than 12,000 voters qualified to participate in the approaching election on September 24, interest in the charter campaign has diminished to an appreciable extent.

The registration list shows only 11,129 registrations, or nearly 3,000 less than it was in 1912, when 14,779 voters paid their poll taxes and qualified for the elections.

The Tenth ward is the only section of the city showing a gain. This is attributed to the annexed territory. Every other ward shows a decided falling off.

Early Closing of List.

Mayor Woodward attributes the small registration to the early closing of the registration lists by the city executive committee.

"There is no reason in the world why the lists should be closed so early," the mayor said. "It looked to me like the committee could have kept the books open longer and give all the voters a chance to get registered. It is unfair to take such an advantage."

The mayor charges that the above advocates of council's revamped charter are responsible for shutting more than 3,000 out of their voting privilege.

Mayor Woodward made the further announcement Friday that he is ready to plunge in a whirlwind campaign of one week against the charter which he says council is trying to foist on the people. He intimated that he is willing to make speeches against the charter every night from now on until the election.

A long statement urging the voters to repudiate the charter will be issued by the mayor for publication Sunday. He stated yesterday that there will be nothing sensational in the statement.

"I am just going to let the people have a plain statement of the facts," he said.

William H. Terrell, in a communication to The Constitution, points to several clauses in the charter which he claims to interfere with successful operation of the police and fire departments. He calls attention to that section which provides that "the mayor and council shall cause the entire police department to be armed and so uniformed as to be readily recognized by the public."

Practical Abolishment.

Discussing this section, Mr. Terrell says:

"This is seemingly a very simple provision, and apparently easily understood, but when you reflect that the city detective force is not uniformed or distinguished in any way from the body of our citizens, it becomes perfectly plain that the effect of this provision is to abolish the detective force by putting the entire force in uniform and giving them clubs and badges."

Mr. Terrell objects to section 122, which relates to the fire department and which requires the firemen to give their entire time to the service of the city, and live and remain at the several houses of the department to which they are assigned.

"At the present time, Mr. Terrell says, 'the firemen work five days out of six, that is five days of twenty-four hours each except one hour three times a day for going home and taking their meals, and they each have a short vacation each year. They all, except the chief and his family, reside away from the engine houses at which they are employed. This is so for lack of room, as much as anything else, the city not having provided ample places of residence for the firemen and their families at the engine houses.

"By this provision their days off and vacations are abolished, and they cannot even absent themselves to go to their meals. They must cook, eat and sleep at the engine houses.

"By various sections of the new charter all firemen, policemen, sanitary employees, employees of the Grady hospital, the chief of construction and all his employees are out of a job on the first of January, and must be elected by the boards, which must be elected by council. All civil service and pensions is and are abolished, and authority given to the new boards to provide same as they see fit. In other words, if I mistake not the new charter gives an opportunity to make a new start in a clean place, if we so desire. It seemed to me that these things are of sufficient moment to make it worth while to call the attention of the public to them."

Mayor Opposes Charter.

Mayor Woodward has been the most active of the opponents of the council's charter. He predicts that the people will defeat it.

SCORES CONVERTED BY ATLANTA PASTOR

Rev. Cabel A. Ridley, pastor of Central Baptist church returned to the city last night from Commerce, Ga., where he has been delivering a series of addresses at the First Baptist church.

Scores professed conversion—more than fifty at one meeting. In speaking of the meeting last night Dr. Ridley said:

"It has never been my privilege to speak to a more generous and appreciative people. The whole town cooperated in the meetings and herein lies the success. Commerce is a great community. Its newspapers are up to date, its citizens public-spirited, its churches wide awake and its hospitality without bounds."

NO INDICTMENT FOUND FOR JACKSON KILLING

The Fulton county grand jury returned over thirty bills on Friday after a strenuous four-hour session in the Thrower building.

The inquisitors failed to indict W. D. Partee, the railroad engineer, who on July 28 shot and killed Sam Jackson, another engineer, at the Georgia railroad roundhouse.

The members of the jury declared that no evidence was brought forth to lay a premeditated shooting on Partee, and they believed he had been justified in killing the engineer, who was evidently advancing upon him to do him bodily injury.

The grand jury also returned a "no bill" against B. A. Curtis, a chauffeur, who ran over and killed Samuel Goldstein, a well-known real estate man, on Pryor street several weeks ago.

The grand jury will sit again on next Wednesday. It is expected that an extra session of the body will be convened between Wednesday and Friday to clear up the congested cases to be brought before it.

MAYOR SIGNS PERMIT FOR CASTRO'S SALOON

Woodward and Lou Are Best of Friends After a Long Conference.

Mayor Woodward set at rest all rumors that he would veto the permit granted by council to Lou Castro, the former Cracker, to operate a beer saloon on Luckie street, opposite the Piedmont hotel, when he attached his signature to the ordinance approving the permit yesterday.

The mayor's action was a surprise to city hall. It was expected that he would oppose the permit for two reasons. One reason being Castro's activity against the mayor in his last mayoralty campaign. The other reason was council's refusal to grant a permit to John Faith, one of the mayor's political friends, to operate a saloon on Alabama street, between Pryor and Central avenue.

Castro himself expected to get the "ax" from the mayor. This would have meant death to his saloon project, for had the mayor vetoed the Castro permit he would have been sustained by the prohibition element in council beyond a doubt.

It is understood that Mayor Woodward and Castro are now good friends, and spent nearly an hour in the executive office "talking things over with his honor," and when he emerged he was all smiles.

"It's all right," he declared. "The mayor has certainly treated me white, and I'm for him whenever I can return the favor."

Mayor Woodward declared Friday that he never entertained any animosity towards Castro because of his late political affiliations.

"I hesitated because of the location of the saloon," the mayor said. "I did not like the idea of having a beer saloon on such a prominent street as Luckie and in the midst of several automobile garages where young men are employed. Castro has promised me that he will operate the place in a first-class manner, and I am sure that he will. He has told me that he does not propose to allow any loafing around the place and will not cater to young men."

WILLIAM E. ZEUCH WILL PLAY BIG ORGAN SUNDAY

William E. Zeuch, of Chicago, one of the most noted organists of the middle west, will be the soloist at the free Sunday concert at the Auditorium-Armory tomorrow. He will play a program entirely different in character from anything that has been heard in Atlanta this season. It is as follows:

"Paean" (Harry Alexander Matthews).

(a) "Meditation" (Sturges); (b) "Scherzo" (Vierne); (c) "Even Song" (Martin); (d) "Toccatta" (Gigout).

(a) "Minuet" (Beethoven); (b) "Berceuse" (Dickinson); (c) "Allegro Con Fuoco" (De Boeck).

(a) "Allegretto" (Wolstenholme); (b) "Song of the Chrysanthemum" (Bonnet); (c) "Chant d'Amour" (Gillett).

"Finale" (Vierne).

Mr. Zeuch is one of a number of the most famous organists in America, who have been brought to Atlanta by the Music Festival Association this fall in an effort to choose a successor to Dr. Percy J. Starnes.

MERCK IS FINED FOR ATTACK ON OFFICER

Policeman J. S. Melton and W. P. Merck, a motorman, who fought Thursday afternoon over a debt of $10, were arraigned in recorder's court yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The charges were dismissed against Melton. The motorman was fined $15.75. Evidence produced indicated that Merck was the aggressor, and that he forced the policeman to draw his revolver by hitting Melton with a billie.

The fine was paid.

Motorman Merck was not locked up in police headquarters Thursday. Both he and the policemen were given copies of charge. Neither was badly beaten. Merck received only a slight scratch on the face.

DR. JOHN NEELY DIES IN LOCAL SANITARIUM

Dr. John C. Neely, a prominent physician of Bainbridge, Ga., died in a private sanitarium in this city Friday. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Dr. Neely was the son of Professor Benjamin Neely, who was one of Georgia's best-known educators, and rendered great service to the state shortly after the civil war.

Dr. Neely also leaves three brothers, Frank H., T. A. and Benjamin, all of Atlanta. Three sisters also survive. They are Mrs. A. E. Young, of Cedartown, Ga.; Mrs. W. A. Plumb, of Augusta, and Mrs. Reginald Ginnell, of Florence, S. C.

There have been no funeral arrangements made as yet, but interment will probably be at Bainbridge.

BEAR HUNT IN ATLANTA; FRANK ADAIR LEADS WAY

"It's a bear—it's a bear—it's a bear." The strains arose over the clear Druid hills. No, gentle reader, it was not the vaudeville hymn by that appellation. It was the shrill cry of "regular Bear hunters." Frank Adair and his ten full-blooded "bar dawgs" were on the trail.

Cross lawns and golf courses, past streets and houses galore loped the hunters and the hunted. The hour was five in the a.m.

It seems that Mr. Adair recently purchased some very fine bear dogs from an estate in Mississippi. He also purchased a cub bear on which to train the dogs. Hence the dewy early morning with the accompanying bear chase.

The residents of the section where Mr. Adair resides have about decided to organize a "Druid Hills' Bear Hunting Club." They have also about decided to ask one Colonel Roosevelt, who is said to live somewhere near Oyster Bay, N. Y., here for the sport.

The chase for the wild bear has now been on for about five mornings. Everybody invited.

MORE DAMPNESS, SAYS WEATHER MAN—THAT IS, IT'S DUE

Showers are PROMISED for today. However, showers were promised for Friday, but they failed to appear on schedule time. Weather Forecaster von Herrmann declares it isn't his fault that the sun breaks up his very good schedules, but he feels that there must be something in the old saw about the excepting proving the rule, as the forecaster says he has not been wrong on a prognostication in so long that it pains his memory to remember just when he did not call the turn on the weather.

By all the dope machines in the weather works more rain should visit Atlanta on Saturday. The rain is general in most all sections of the southland and Atlanta was only spared on Friday by the fact that high winds shifted the otherwise dampish clouds and drove them into the mountains. That they may return any leak copiously is the word of the weather sharps.

The weather this time last year was warm and the skies had been clear for a week. Farmers were crying for rain or just enough of it to dampen their fields. To date this season the farmers have put up no such cry, as their fields in some sections of the state, according to weather reports, are already overloaded with H-2—O.

Forecaster von Herrmann promises a pleasant Sunday with bright skies and warm sun.

GRANDMOTHER OF GIRL TO PROSECUTE YOUTH

The grandmother of pretty Mele Smith, the 18-year-old college graduate, who recently disappeared and was arrested Thursday in Jacksonville, Fla., will help prosecute Fred Simms, the youth who was found with her, and against whom the government is said to have instituted charges of white slavery.

Simms will not be returned to Atlanta. The case will be fought out in Florida courts. Mrs. S. A. Engessar, the grandmother, will probably go to Jacksonville for the trial.

The girl will return to this city.

TESTING SENTIMENT ON ROAD SUPERVISORS

Prison Commission Sending Letters to the Different County Boards.

That the prison commission is taking steps to ascertain the sentiment of the county commissioners of the various counties in regard to the appointment of supervisors for the roads is shown by the following letter sent out yesterday to the commissioners in the counties of the state that are working convicts.

The letter was written by Judge T. E. Patterson and it will depend to a great extent on the nature of the replies received that action the commission will take in appointing road supervisors. Judge Patterson, as is known, is highly in favor of putting on the supervisors, even if it necessitates cutting off some of the inspection force, while Chairman Davison is opposed to putting them on.

The letter of Judge Patterson follows:

Dear Sir: The commission has had under advisement for some time the adoption of the policy of employing at least four civil engineers and road experts whose services could be at the disposal of the various counties of the state whenever they desire, at least for ten days in each year, to aid them in laying out, locating roads and bridges, aiding and assisting the warden in performing road work, putting a crown or surface on the roads and performing road work in the most economical manner, and performing such other duties as he might be called upon by the various county authorities in aiding them in their work. We realize that most of the counties are unable to employ an engineer for all of this time; however, this would be to the most advantage.

Because of this inability of the counties to thus provide an engineer it has been thought that this department might be of assistance to the counties in providing these four experts at the expense of the state, whose services the counties could use.

We would be glad if you would consult your warden, and any others who are interested in this matter, and write us at once whether you think this step would be advisable, and to what extent these engineers and road experts would be used by the various counties.

By promptly replying to this you will greatly assist us in reaching a conclusion concerning this matter. Assuring you of our desire to co-operate with you in every way possible in serving your county in an effort to better the road conditions, we beg to remain, yours truly,

THE PRISON COMMISSION OF GA.

This is the one absorbing topic in Atlanta now. Should this old institution be abolished? Has it outlived its usefulness? Read what men in all walks of life have to say in Sunday's Constitution.

When a Woman Says "Not Guilty!"

The lesson that grew out of the conviction in Millen of Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee for the killing of her former husband and his bride. Does it show that juries in Georgia no longer have any more hesitation about convicting a woman than they have about convicting a man? Have Georgia jurors decided to take seriously woman's appeal for "equality" as between the sexes? Britt Craig attended the trial, and his review of it will throw an interesting sidelight on the dramatic episode.

A CALL TO CIVIC PRIDE!

Atlanta has spent thousands of dollars upon grand opera. The investment was an excellent one.

Parks and playgrounds have engaged her attention.

Endowments for universities have won her financial sympathy.

Clean-up campaigns, looking to the banishment of disease, and subscriptions to fight tuberculosis have met liberal response.

The Associated Charities is threatened with extinction for the lack of a pitiful little sum of $3,000 in unpaid subscriptions.

The organization is one of the most valuable, productive institutions of Atlanta.

It is a factory for remaking men, women and children broken through misfortune or vice or sickness. It cures poverty, treating the disease and not merely the symptoms.

It is impossible to calculate what it has saved to Atlanta in parasites turned into producers, prospective jail-birds made self-supporting citizens, girls reclaimed from shame, invalids restored to health and hope.

The city that has given so spontaneously in the past to the causes here first mentioned should make up and more than make up the meager amount required to save the Associated Charities for eclipse.

Atlanta is appreciative.

Atlanta does realize the meaning of the Charities.

Let Atlanta show the appreciation and the realization.

THE IMPERILED NEGRO.

The most significant evidence we have seen recently regarding the industrial menace of the negro was buried in an inconspicuous dispatch from Columbus, Ga. Our correspondent related the difficulty of securing hands to pick cotton and the extraordinary inducements used to retain hands. Among these, was the serving of iced drinks in the field. And here was the ominous concluding paragraph:

> As a gentleman remarked, the incident is enough to make an old-time southern planter weigh his ample labor and complete control of it, turn over in his grave.

No laborer in the world's history was better treated than the negro field hand of ante-bellum days. Treat the field hand of today with the utmost consideration, and you may keep him to gather your crop and you may not. It's a gamble, with the dice loaded against the farmer.

The contempt of the average negroes for contractual obligations is proverbial. They will cheerfully "sign de papers" with a planter, as tenant or as laborer, for a year. They may even avail themselves of their relation to the planter to use his credit for food and household supplies. But, and the average farmer will bear us out, there is never any guarantee that the negro will work the year out, or that he will not jump his contract, leaving debts and, what is worse, the crop rotting in the fields.

Many of his women, most of them, in fact, are no better. As domestic servants they are uniformly unreliable, indolent and independent out of all proportion to their ability to care for themselves. The questions of morals and of prevalence of communicable disease need not be mentioned, save as issues inevitably affecting the industrial side.

Manifestly, the mass of the negro race, in city and country, are imperilled from the economic standpoint, as long as this condition continues.

The remedy? It lies, as The Constitution has reiterated, in a policy from the southern white churches, that will give to the southern negro a tithe of the attention now paid to the heathen abroad. It lies, also, in the broadening of negro instruction, including morals, to fit the ninety and nine of the race as well as the one for the tasks awaiting their activity.

Delay means penalty to the south, and tragic jeopardy to the negro.

GEORGIA CAN SHOW THE WAY.

Assistant State Commissioner of Agriculture Dan Hughes views with favor The Constitution's suggestion that that department inaugurate a bureau to keep up with cotton crop statistics and report frequently on the movement of the cotton crop. In a recent interview, he gives strong approval to the suggestion, but intimates that the department is at present too greatly embarrassed by lack of funds to permit the maintenance of a bureau that would discharge the proper functions.

As The Constitution stressed in a previous editorial, the matter of reporting the crop movement would entail negligible expense. This paper has periodically published a summary of this year's movement broadly covering Georgia, at no very great cost. It should be comparatively easy for the department of agriculture to duplicate these methods. It is not to be expected that every warehouse or ginnery should be covered. It will suffice to secure reports upon the chief markets only. What is wanted is not a fine tooth-combing, but a consensus that will show the drift of the crop.

Later, when other phases of crop estimates and reporting are under consideration, the subject may fitly be one for legislative action. Commissioner Price and Assistant Commissioner Hughes inherited from their predecessors effete and unenterprising methods. Heretofore, the department has been noted chiefly for its political and not for its agricultural activity. Its power has been used to foster personal and not broad, state-wide ends. The time has come for a radical change in policy. We believe the new administration is equipped to materialize that change. Mr. Price is a man of broad grasp and Mr. Hughes is a statistician and has at heart the interest of the farming classes.

If it be objected that as yet no other southern state maintains such a bureau, the answer is that Georgia can well afford to be the pioneer in this direction. The second cotton-producing state in the country should be adequately supplied with information about its greatest staple crop. We are sure the agricultural department can work out some plan to effect an innovation of such practical value to the farmers of Georgia.

WHEN THE GREAT SHED FLESH.

Folk who love queer contrasts in temperament can get plenty of material by comparing the post-official activities of former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft. A recent dispatch reports that Mr. Taft is successfully "banting" to lose weight. He has shed eighty pounds since he left office, although he still bears a generous allowance of 240 pounds. He attained this end by stirring up daily a ferocious appetite by exercise, then sternly repressing the inner man.

On the other hand, consider Roosevelt. From the turmoil of the white house he plunged, with only a slight intermission, into the turmoil of the jungle. He bearded the lion in his lair. He chased and slew the unwieldy elephant. He did to death the gentle hart's gazelle apd also the gazelle named after one mysterious Mr. Thompson. He emerged from the jungle the color of mahogany, keen of eye and almost as thin as a rail.

Both of our one-time presidents gained the same ends, but by different methods. Roosevelt evoked a tremendous appetite, satisfied it, but tramped down obesity under the feet of strenuous exercise. The more plethoric Taft, after the same end, chases a white ball around a golf course, lectures to university students, rocks on the front porch—and holds the craving of the palate in rigid subjection.

Perhaps future generations will form rival schools for flesh reduction, the one the Rooseveltian and the other patterned after the bulky Ohioan. Certain it is, that no two incidents could more completely and dramatically accentuate the dissimilarity between the two former cronies, who now pass by with averted face and the sibilant stage hiss.

Of course, we'll be resigned to the adjournment of congress, though in the busy season a fence-fixing congressman is very much in the way.

The Colonel is "going away" pretty often these days—probably to prove that he can "come back."

Doubtless Lecturer Bryan has reaped enough to settle the summer ice bill, but so good a provider cannot be expected to stop short of winter coal.

Whenever a big trust professes a change of heart the consumer wonders in what new place he'll have to dodge next.

Does Mrs. Pankhurst hope to recover from the effects of her hunger strike in a country where prices are higher than her hopes for woman suffrage?

If they should extradite Thaw on that conspiracy charge he should at once proclaim Sulzer governor and get a pardon.

Thaw has changed keepers, and isn't at all afraid that Uncle Sam will make him see stars.

And now the Colonel advises Sulzer to explain his explanation.

"Prosperity coming to her own," and she owns the whole country.

Just From Georgia

Winter Friends.

I.

Fellow's feeling thankful for the winter,
when he knows
A brighter place than yonder—where the honeysuckle grows;
Sweet rest and contentment in a fire-lighted nook
Where he puffs the real tobacco—fails to dreaming o'er a book.

II.

Sure, he isn't friendless as each glowing page he turns:
On such a night some Inn of old has sheltered Bobby Burns.
The snow without, in ghostly sheets, but never night seemed long
When the glasses on the sideboard rang with his mirth and song.

III.

How from a book's old pages an old friend greets your sight!
'I've had my day,' he tells you, "and I've come to have my night!"
No phantom he—as living you seem to see his face—
He talks another rocker by the roaring fireplace.

IV.

So a fellow's feeling thankful for the winter, for it leads
To restful nooks and friendly books of olden dreams and deeds.
O rare old winter gardens! Too sweet ye were to stay,
But I've a winter-corner where I dream the night away!

Sad Tale of False Love.

It has been a long time since the sweet singer of The Whitzett Courier dropped into verse, but the following, which he entitles "A Story of False Love," makes up for lost time.

"She know she had me—I loved her so,
With a love too strong to tell;
But the love in her heart is burning low,
Like the gas in a cheap hotel.

"I gave her a ring that was fair to see—
At the State Fair I did win it;
She kiss it a sideways look. Says she:
'They's narry a diamond in it.'

"Alas! Love's story is quickly told—
Of such girls there are many.
I told her: 'You love me for my gold.'
Says she, 'You ain't got any!'"

On a Wheelbarrow Income.

The editor of The South Houston Times has said it in this original fashion:

"We arise to remark that it's a darned hard proposition to run an automobile on a wheelbarrow income.

"There is nothing to add to the truth of the above, nevertheless, one of the Billville brethren says:

"From that text our brother of The Times has preached a sermon which has been the means of keeping us in the sensible wheelbarrow road. We entertained an idea of buying an auto on the installment plan, and the dealer gave us several try-outs in it. There's where we came to our senses.

"First day we hopped in all the town turned out to see; small boys caught on behind, hound dogs yelped at us, and it was like circus day everywhere we went. But when we stepped out at our own office every creditor we had was waiting with his bill. 'If you can afford to ride in one o' them things,' they said, 'you can afford to settle up.'

"That is what decided us. We told the dealer the deal was off, and that the two Jersey cows he'd killed while he was riding us on trial trips he'd have to pay for himself."

Revenge of the Rejected.

I.

They turned him down for the service—
made him as mad as Cain,
And he went away—so people say—with a fiendish look in his brain.
He failed in this and that thing: They put him to the test,
An' all he knowed was the sun riz east, an'
set somewhere out west!

II.

Lost to his friends, they wondered what he was doin' now,
Since he couldn't reach the government
peach, up on the office-bough?
But at last they heard this welcome word:
"He's a-doin' mighty well,
Editin' of a paper an' givin' the government h—ll!"

"One on the House."

Now that a monumenet is to be erected over the grave of Eugene Field old stories of his newspaper days are being revived. Here is one, of the time when he was with The Kansas City Times:

"George Gaston was a courteous old Frenchman who ran a saloon and cafe, which was a rendezvous for writers and theatrical folk. Field was continually in his debt and was continually winning Gaston's gratitude by some kindly bit printed in The Times. One Christmas Field's bar bill had reached a total of $135.50. Gaston, touched by a 'piece in the paper,' receipted it in full and handed it to Field.

"'How's this, George?' asked Field.

"'Oh, that's all right,' said the Frenchman.

"'Do I understand,' inquired Field with gravity, 'that I have paid this bill?'

"'That's what,' replied George.

"'Well, sir,' said Field, 'is it not customary in Missouri when one gentleman pays another gentleman in full to set up the wine?'

"And everybody had one on the house."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON,
The Famous Prose Poet

THE HOME ATMOSPHERE.

"Two boarders have left the house next door and are coming here," remarked the landlady. "This establishment's reputation is growing. I try to give my patrons the comforts of a home, and people hear about it.

"You certainly do try, my dear Mrs. Jiggers," said the star boarder, "and if your efforts are painfully futile it isn't exactly your fault. The comforts of a home are not negotiable. They cannot be transplanted to a boarding house. They exist only in the home. I admit that this establishment is superior to most boarding houses in this part of town, although your strict adherence to an obsolete rule touching cash in advance is fatal to all enthusiasm, but it has none of the comforts of a home, and never will have.

"When I was a boy, Mrs. Jiggers, I lived at home, and my father was a severe man of the old school who believed that a club was better than moral suasion as an educational factor. Therefore, his children obeyed him without indulging in arguments. After eating his midday meal it was my father's custom to sleep for an hour or two on the lounge in the sitting room. It was thoughtlessly understood that he was not to be disturbed at such times, and we all went around the house on tip-toe, and talked in whispers if we talked at all, as though somebody were dying in the room.

"So father had his little sleep, his little slumber, his folding of the hands to sleep, in peace and quietness, and rose from his couch a giant refreshed. Now, that is what I call one of the comforts of a home—the privilege of sleeping a few lines without frivolous interruptions, and that privilege is foreign to a boarding house. The highest ambition of the average boarder is to make as much noise as possible by day and night. Every night when I wrap the drapery of my couch about me I breathe a silent prayer that I may get to sleep before the usual uproar begins, but just when I am sliding gracefully into dreamland the gentleman who occupies the next room comes upstairs with such a racket you'd think he had a lot of iron castings tied around his ankles. When he enters his room he slams the door until the whole house rocks, and then he produces a tin whistle or a mouth organ and plays it, or he sings some atrocious song that makes my blood run cold; or he upsets a lot of furniture, or pounds the walls with an ax, or shouts at the cats on a neighboring roof.

"And when he finally subsides, some other gentleman comes up the stairs trying to kick holes through the steps as he comes, and so it goes all night long. I haven't had one good night's sleep since I was a little boy at home, beloved by one and all.

"Another comfort of the American home is strawberry shortcake in its season, Mrs. Jiggers. There is nothing more fascinating than a strawberry shortcake when properly made. And when the teeth are hardened with the luscious berries, the fortunate man who has a home and a wife and all the other luxuries of our civilization, takes home a basketful of the luscious berries aforesaid. The housewife gets busy and makes a real shortcake, designed to give every member of the family all he wants to eat. Cream, whose lineage may be traced to a real cow, is provided lavishly. The supper is composed of shortcake, without any side dishes or fixings to mar the enjoyment of the occasion.

"After sitting such a shortcake supper a man feels at peace with all the world, and wants to join the church, and send a five-dollar bill to the missionary treasurer. And the beauty of it is that he can have such a supper every evening while the strawberries last, and when he gets tired of it there is something equally inviting on the market.

"When I think of the boarding house shortcake, Mrs. Jiggers, tears, idle tears rise in my heart and gather in my eyes. A pint box of berries is used in common from twenty to thirty boarders. The shortcake itself is short in its dimensions, but in no other particular. It has a clammy, soggy appearance, a though it had been left out in the rain. A pitcher of light blue milk goes with it, and, as a matter of courtesy, the boarders are expected to refer to that milk as cream. And each boarder gets a slice just large enough to slug his hollow tooth. Speak not to me of the comforts of a home, Mrs. Jiggers."

To My Name-Child.

I.

Some day soon this rhyming volume, if you learn with proper speed,
Little Louis Sanichek, will be given you to read.
Then shall you discover that your name was printed down
By the English printers, long before, in London town.

In the great and busy city the east and west are met,
All the little letters did the English printers set;
While you thought of nothing, and were still too young to play,
Foreign people thought of you in places far away.

Ay, and while you slept, a baby, over all the English lands,
Other little children took the volume in their hands;
Who was little Louis, won't you tell us, mother, please?

II.

Now that you have spelt your lesson, lay it down and go and play.
Seeking shells and seaweed on the sands of Monterey;
Watching all the mighty whalebones, lying buried by the breeze,
Tiny sand-pipers, and the huge Pacific seas.

And remember in your playing as the sea-fog rolls to you;
Long are you could read it, how I told you what to do;
And that while you thought of no one, nearly half this world away
Some one thought of Louis on the beach of Monterey!

An Old Maine Hunting Gun.

(From The Lewiston Journal.)

Among his valued possessions Harry Smith, of Skowhegan, has a gun about 150 years old, and it has proved not only a safeguard, but it has helped make history. It was owned by his greatgrandfather, Captain Churchill, who assisted Arnold up the Kennebec on his expedition. It is known to have shot several men. Captain Churchill used it at home in hunting bears, and it has fifty notches on it to represent the number of bears that it has shot. It is of the old flintlock type and heavy enough to have killed a bear if it had dropped on him.

Getting Ready for Next Year.

(From The Hawkinsville Dispatch.)

It is generally admitted that feed stuff is going to be high next year, therefore the farmers should prepare for a big oat crop this fall. The best time to plant oats, according to experienced farmers, is in October, though some have planted as early as September and made good crops.

So many extraordinary stories are told of Roger Bacon, the English monk, that it is hard to believe any of them, although it must be admitted that he was an exceptional man. The unfortunate part about many of the stories is that they have been taken from the "Famous Historie of Fryer Bacon" and have been accepted as true, and while this book no doubt chronicles many of his achievements, the author has stretched his imagination in order to make his subject seem just as odd as possible.

Towards the end of this book the writer informs us that Roger Bacon broke his magic glass, burned his books of the "black art" and devoted himself to theological studies, and lived in a cell which he had excavated in a church wall. "Thus lived he," he says, "two years space in that cell, never coming forth; his meat and drink he received in at a window, and at that window he did discourse with those who came to him. His grave he digged with his own nayles, and was laid there when he died. He lived the most part of his life a magician, and died a true penitent sinner, and an anchorite."

It is hard to accept the statement was true of his living two years in a cell never coming forth, and that he dug his grave with his own "nayles." Roger Bacon was too wise a philosopher and too noble of character to have done the latter, as well as many other things which have been attributed to him.

The world has never had such a dreamer as Roger Bacon, and when we consider that he lived during the middle half of the thirteenth century, and that even then in his cell-study he dreamed of submarine boats, of flying machines, automobiles, telescopes and microscopes, safety lamps, telephones and phonographs, it is easy to imagine what a master mind he possessed and how far he was in advance of his times.

This was at a time when there was universal ignorance, and when superstition bestrode the world like a hideous nightmare. Naturally his ideas caused the people to look upon him as a sorcerer. It was this same marvelous intelligence and foresight that brought to him all his trouble and kept him confined, to jail a prisoner for at least a quarter of his life.

The exact date of Roger Bacon's birth is uncertain, but it is supposed that he was born about the year 1216, and that the place of his nativity was Somersetshire. Although at birth his parents were rich, financial difficulties overtook them, and early in life Roger was compelled to feel the pangs of dire poverty. This did not prevent him from taking a course at Oxford and later at the University of Paris. It was the deep thought that he gave to his studies, and the deductions that he was able to make therefrom, that made him the great thinker he was.

While many of his advanced thoughts were of no especial use to him, owing mainly to the religious zeal that dominated him, his inventive ideas have left their impress. The balance of the evidence is in favor of his having invented gunpowder, and he was father of the calendar as afterwards accepted. It was Bacon who inaugurated the method known as "Induction," to which nearly all of the achievements of the present-day science are due. He was a pioneer in sanitation and in chemistry, and it is even said, with much appearance of justice, that he investigated the power of steam.

"Sad is it to think," exclaims one of our foremost educators, "of what this great man might have given to the world had ecclesiasticism allowed the gift. He held the keys of treasures which would have freed mankind from ages of errors and misery."

Such was Roger Bacon and such his contributions to the world. Because he was away ahead of his time he was misunderstood and persecuted. His writings were condemned and he was cast into prison. On his death-bed he uttered the melancholy complaint, "I repent now that I have given myself so much trouble for the love of science." Then, as if taking back the seeming affront to his daring ambition, the old man cried out: "It is on account of the ignorance of those with whom I have had to deal that I have not been able to accomplish more."

It is not possible that with all this wisdom to his credit that Roger Bacon could have possessed the many eccentricities that have been attributed to him, especially the digging of his grave with his own nails, and especially in view of the fact that he was buried at Oxford, the institution where he was educated, but which had discarded him because he was so far in advance of his times in his thinking.

HASTE.

By George Matthew Adams

This is a great age for Haste. But as some wise Head has stated, Haste makes Waste.

Take time to Do things well.

Haste in Eating makes Waste in Health. The Stomach rebels and refuses to co-operate and the whole human machine backs up the Stomach. And with impaired Health, there naturally follows a slowing down of the Natural and Usual speed that always trots alongside Effort wisely and economically spent.

Take time to Think things out.

A loss of Energy in ill Temper and heated Words always means a loss of Power at the source—in your Brain and at the head offices of your Nervous System. Haste while in a Temper or under circumstances of Provocation is almost always regretted. When the Brain is all stirred up and the whole Body up in arms—that's the time for Patience and Waiting—never for Haste. The thing to do then is to—

Take time to Cool off.

You never see a really big man going about. He would like, if possible, to know who carried this sword in the war before it fell into the hands of my grandfather.

Three Thoughts for the Farmer.

(From The Perry Home Journal.)

If cows can be profitably kept in south Georgia, carried elsewhere to fatten and then sold to a western packing establishment at profit, certainly cattle can be profitably raised in Georgia and sold direct to the packer. Canning sweet potatoes is a growing and profitable industry, and there is much room for increasing the crop and the canning output in Georgia. The farmer loses two profits when he buys products that he can easily raise on his own land.

The Night Patrol.

Between the shadows and the stars
All night alone I keep
My vigil through the silent hours
When other people sleep,
My bull'seye buttoned in my coat,
My night-stick in my hand,
All ready for the prowling bum
Just aching to be fanned.

The rain of summer soaks me through,
The snow upon me falls,
But still I look for lurking shapes
By stoops and doors and walls.
From dusk to dawn my weary eyes
Must watch, and never rest,
Unwinking as the silver shield
That glitters on my breast.

But while I guard the dreaming town
From dangers of the night,
Ring up from tedious hour to hour,
And long to see the light.
I know that in a darkened house,
Behind the curtained glass,
Is one who wakes and thinks of me,
And waits to hear me pass.

—Minna Irving, in Leslie's.

Back in School.

Gee, but it's horrid, the classroom is torrid,
My fingers are all of them thumbs;
I'm sure I will be—
And my chums
All agree—
The gladdest when Saturday comes.

Golly, the teachin' is most of it preachin'
I'm tired of silly old sums;
I'm sure I will be
And my chums
All agree—
The gladdest when Saturday comes.

Punk! Oh, by hokey, this stillness is pokey,
My toes in new shoes it benumbs;
I'm sure I will be—
And my chums
All agree—
The gladdest, when Saturday comes!

Ponderous Personages

BRUTUS.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Brutus was a Roman citizen who rose from obscurity early in the last century B. C and went into the patriot business with great success for a time.

Rome was very shy of patriots during that period, it being the common practice for a Roman, as soon as he became great, to grab the country by unseating the delegates of the opposition with the aid of a short, sharp sword and to run it as a vested interest until death did him part, which it usually did in a painstaking and extensive fashion. When Brutus was still a young man, Caesar came back from Gaul, after having whipped all comers as far north as the traveling was good and at once began to eject the administration in Rome. Brutus joined with Pompey and fought him with great enthusiasm. However, Pompey was eradicated and Caesar, who was a first-class politician, forgave Brutus, gave him the postmastership and afterward made him governor of Macedonia.

Brutus might now have retired on his laurels as a patriot and have lived to a happy old age. But he had a brother-in-law named Cassius, who was lean, mean and scheming. He sold books on the installment plan and spent his spare time plotting. He persuaded Brutus that it was his duty to gather a small body of prominent citizens and butcher Caesar. This was very repugnant to Brutus, but he was strong on duty, and was one of those men who would do almost anything from chicken stealing down if they could figure a duty out of it. So he gathered a few personal friends together and one day when Caesar was standing himself in the Senate they formed a hollow square around him and stabbed him in seven dozen places.

Brutus now came forth to receive the plaudits of the people for his patriotism, but they received him with hoots and brickbats and old defunct cats, and he retired in a hurry to Greece to think it over. After a while it seemed to be his duty to gather an army and grab Rome himself, for he and Cassius opened an enlistment office and by promising each man a life job in the streets and walk department they gathered a vast force. Mark Antony and Octavinus everlastingly defeated them and Brutus fell on his sword and killed himself to save some one else the trouble.

"They received him with hoots and brickbats."

Brutus was an honest man and always did his duty. If he had been a better judge of duty he would have lived longer.

A September Song.

(From The New York Times.)

The golden rod is a glowing ember,
The aster flames by the garden path,
And over the meads of brown September
Floats the breath of the aftermath.

"Can you recall," say the vesper thrushes,
Poised for flight to the far away,
"Trysts in the tender twilight hushes
Under the faint new moon of May?

"Can you recall all the bounteous guerdon—
(Ah, the wealth of its promising!")
And we, we echo the poignant burden,
"Where, oh, where is our vanished Spring?"

"Vanished? Nay!" saith the fair Earth Mother,
"Though autumn sever and winter part,
With winds that sting and with snows that smother,
The spring abides in the constant heart!"

M'REYNOLDS TO HURRY ANTI-TRUST PROBES

Will Utilize Services of United States Attorneys Throughout Country in This Work.

Washington, September 19.—Attorney General McReynolds is making a vigorous effort to expedite pending anti-trust investigations and to keep abreast with all current complaints of violations of the Sherman law.

As a step in that direction the attorney general has decided to utilize to the fullest extent possible the services of the United States attorneys throughout the country instead of largely confining anti-trust inquiries, as has been the custom, to the special assistants in the department of justice. The plan is to increase the staff of special anti-trust lawyers in the department with the services of the United States attorneys. All charges of monopoly and restraint of trade are received they will be referred in many instances to the efficiently located United States attorneys equipped to undertake investigations.

In that way it is expected that anti-trust work, which is growing fast, will be conveniently distributed and the crowded condition at Washington relieved. With that policy in view the attorney general is giving unusual attention to the character and ability of men he is selecting for United States attorneys.

It was pointed out today that a mammoth task faces the attorney general and G. Carroll Todd, his assistant in charge of anti-trust work. There are many cases pending in the courts, especially a large number filed in the closing days of the Taft administration which must be prepared for trial. In addition investigations of great importance have been undertaken and rarely a day passes that the department does not hear of some new trust. Among the big investigations under way which are to be expedited are those of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and the American Smelting and Refining company. The former is nearly completed, but the end of the latter is not yet in sight.

WASHINGTON GARDNER NAMED HEAD OF G. A. R.

Detroit Selected by Blue Veterans as Meeting Place for Encampment Next Year.

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 19.—Former United States Congressman Washington Gardner, of Alpena, Mich., today was elected commander-in-chief of the grand army of the republic at the final business session of the forty-seventh annual encampment. Detroit, Mich., earlier in the day was selected as the meeting place for the 1914 encampment.

Other officers elected by the national organization were: Thomas H. Seward, Guthrie, Okla., senior vice commander; W. M. L. Rose, Pittsfield, Maine, junior vice commander; J. K. Weaver, Morristown, Pa., surgeon general; and Horace M. Carr, Carsons, Kas., chaplain general.

Immediately after the election of officers was completed the new commander-in-chief announced the appointment of Oscar A. James, Detroit, Mich., as adjutant general and Colonel D. R. Snooks, of Buffalo, N. Y., as quartermaster general of the G. A. R.

Commander-in-Chief Gardner was born in Morrow county, Ohio, in February, 1845. At the age of 16 he enlisted in the ranks of Company D, 65th Ohio volunteer infantry. He was on duty continuously from 1861 to 1865 in Buell in the army of the Ohio, under Rosecrans, in the army of the Cumberland, and under Thomas and Sherman in the campaign against Atlanta until disabled by a gunshot wound during the battle of Resaca, May 1864.

For several years after the war Commander Gardner attended college and later was a professor in Albion college, Michigan. He served for nine years as secretary of state for Michigan and for twelve years he represented the Third Michigan district in the United States congress. Since his retirement from congress he has been chiefly engaged in official work for a Chicago publishing firm.

Spirited speeches, extracts of which could be heard outside the auditorium, marked the final session of the G. A. R. encampment. The nominating speeches were begun shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Adjutant General Seely cast the vote of the encampment for the successful candidate for commander-in-chief more than two hours later. Election of the remaining officers lasted nearly three hours.

Only delegates were admitted to any of the official sessions of the encampment but it is understood that Commander Gardner's nearest opponent during the balloting was Colonel D. E. Adams, of Superior, Neb.

A general exodus of veterans and delegates attending sessions of allied organizations began tonight. Some who were prevented from visiting historic scenes in this vicinity by rainy weather are planning to remain through tomorrow which is listed on the encampment program as "sight-seeing day." Fair weather prevailed today for the first time during the encampment.

In bidding their hosts and hostesses farewell at the railroad stations tonight both veterans and visitors predicted a closer relationship between the north and south as a result of the encampment. Many warm friendships were cemented during encampment week between the two sections. The most significant of these are believed to have resulted from the reception tendered last night to the rank and file of the union veterans by Forrest Camp, United Confederate Veterans.

PANAMA CANAL WILL BE READY IN OCTOBER

Washington, September 19.—With the opening of the Panama canal from the Miraflores locks to the Pacific ocean, communication also has been established on the Atlantic side between the great Gatun locks and the sea. This has followed the removal of the railroad trestle between the locks and the ocean.

To make the opening navigable about 187,000 yards of earth in the railroad dike must be removed and two pipe line suction dredges are engaged in the work which should be completed by October 1.

When the work is completed there will remain only one obstruction to free communication in the whole length of the canal—the dike at Gamboa, which restrains the waters of Gatun lake from flowing into Culebra cut.

A big suction dredge now is removing the earth and silt that has accumulated in the bed of the canal between this dike and Gamboa lake since the cut was made three years ago. Early in October the last tremendous blast will destroy the dike itself, leaving a clear waterway across the isthmus.

OLD HORSE OMNIBUSES RUNNING IN LONDON

London, September 19.—Not one motorman or conductor employed by the omnibus company, whose action in refusing to recognize the union, is likely to bring about a general strike of transport workers in London, went to work this morning. One motor bus line from the south to the north of London was suspended, causing great inconvenience. A few of the old horse omnibuses were put on the street for the first time in years.

Several conferences were held this morning between omnibus men and representatives of the employees of the Amalgamated Tube system. The question of the latter in case of a general strike was discussed.

Practically the entire press of London supports the men in their demands.

BEGIN A REFORM ON MOVING PICTURE SHOWS

Chicago, September 19.—Moving picture plays in which there is a display of revolvers are to be barred from exhibition in Chicago, if a campaign begun today by judicial and reform authorities is successful. The elimination of even the suggestion of fire arms is sought.

Major M. L. C. Funkhouser, deputy superintendent of police, believes that "gun play" in motion pictures has a bad influence over boys.

Judge M. W. Pinckney, of the juvenile court, says many youths brought before him say they secured the ideas for their crimes from motion pictures.

SENATE TO CONSIDER MONEY BILL BY OCT. 6

So Declares Senator Owen, Who Expects Measure Out of the Committee by That Time.

Washington, September 19.—Fresh from its triumphant passage in the house, the entrance of the administration currency bill to its gauntlet in the senate was signalized by a statement from senator Owen, chairman of the banking committee, that he expected the measure out of committee and on the senate floor for action by October 6.

"I believe I am fully prepared to act on the currency bill now as I would be if I gave it much longer study," said Senator Shafroth, another democratic member of the committee. "I believe congress should dispose of it before the next regular session begins."

President Wilson's conference last night with Senator Reed, one of the committee democrats who has criticised many provisions of the bill adversely, is expected to be followed by individual conferences with other democrats who have shown opposition to the measure.

With the aid of Secretary McAdoo the president will endeavor to overcome some of their objections and bring the senate committee to the support of the bill.

Should Senator Hitchcock continue opposition to immediate currency legislation his aid would enable the republicans to prevent by a tie vote any favorable action or reporting the bill at once to the senate.

Public hearings were resumed today with Andrew J. Frank Hale of Waukesha, Wis. Samuel Untermeyer, who conducted the Pujo money trust investigation, and country bankers will be heard Monday. It is expected hearings will be closed by Wednesday.

Frame told the committee of 450 country banks in Wisconsin he had canvassed on the currency bill. 308 did not care to join the new system, nine said they would join, but expected the plan to be modified, two small banks said they would join, even though the administration bill was passed without change, and 130 did not answer his query.

LITTLEFIELD DENIES MULHALL'S ASSERTIONS

Former Congressman Claims, However, Gompers Headed Powerful Labor Lobby.

Washington, September 19.—The house lobby committee abandoned work on its report today long enough to hear former Representative Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine, who Martin H. Mulhall, former lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, testified was one of the chief allies of that organization in the house.

Mr. Littlefield testified that beginning with his entrance to congress in 1899, until he resigned in 1908, he found "an active, energetic and powerful labor lobby, headed by Samuel Gompers."

Mr. Littlefield said he did not intend to criticise members of the house for siding with labor on labor bills, "but," he explained, "when Gompers and his labor people became active, the tall timber was thickly populated and there was plenty of space in the open."

Mr. Littlefield frankly told the committee that his views on labor legislation coincided without those of the manufacturers and that early in his congressional career he gladly accepted the aid of the manufacturers' association through Marshall Cushing, then its Washington representative.

Littlefield said Mulhall went to his district in 1906 to help in his campaign.

Mr. Littlefield denied Mulhall's testimony thatthe National Association of Manufacturers spent $50,000 in his district in the campaign of 1906. He produced an affidavit from the cashier of a Rockland, Maine, bank where Fred Wright, the treasurer of the district republican committee, banked at the time, showing deposits of $20,660. He added that part of this money came from individuals who were members of the National Association of Manufacturers, but denied that it as an association ever contributed and the money went to support the state and county ticket, as well as to help him.

Before he left the stand Mr. Littlefield asked permission to make a statement about the late Representative Jenkins, of Wisconsin, who was chairman of the house judiciary committee when Mr. Littlefield was one of its conspicuous members.

Mr. Littlefield said he had known Mr. Jenkins for years and that he thought it only proper since he was dead and could not speak for himself that some one defend his character. He declared that he believed Mr. Jenkins to have been a man of the highest integrity and honor. He referred to the testimony of Mulhall that the National Association of Manufacturers had him appointed a judge after his retirement from congress.

"I know when he was appointed judge," he said, "I know the National Association of Manufacturers had nothing to do with it. I saw him when he came back to this country." Then he added as his voice broke and he fumbled for his handkerchief, "and I know that he died a poor man."

Former Representative John J. Gardiner, in all probability the last witness to be heard by the house committee, denied many of Mulhall's statements regarding the things he did and didn't do at Mulhall's dictation when he was chairman of the house labor committee early in the century. He denied with emphasis the testimony of Mulhall that he named a subcommittee of his committee at the dictation of James A. Emery, Washington representative of the National Association of Manufacturers.

CORDELE REALTY HAS HALF MILLION GAIN

Cordele, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the city council last night the tax rate for advalorem taxes for the year in Cordele was fixed at 18 mills on the dollar, or $18.18 on the thousand. The board of tax assessors for the year have perhaps been more vigilant in the performance of their duty than any like board that has preceded them, and it is claimed by city officials that the valuation made on all property is more equalized than ever before. The assessments show considerably over a half million dollar increase in property valuation over last year.

Rome, Ga., September 19.—(Special.) H. A. Walton, of Rome, thinks it was worth $500 to spend the night in the village of Cedar Bluff, Ala. He has filed suit for that amount against the Southern railway in Floyd superior court.

He alleges that he purchased a ticket for Gadsden, Ala., at the North Rome station, but that the conductor, for some reason unknown to him, refused to accept it for passage, put him off the train at Cedar Bluff and caused him to spend the night there. He asks damages in the sum named.

SHE IS PREPARING WAY FOR MRS. PANKHURST

Joan Wickham, Forerunner of Militant Leader, Lands Unmolested in New York.

New York, September 19.—The immigration authorities did not molest Miss Joan Wickham, when she arrived here today from Liverpool, to prepare the way for Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British militant suffragette leader. Mrs. Pankhurst is expected October 18.

Miss Wickham went to the Women's Suffrage headquarters to meet Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. She told reporters the methods used by militant suffragettes in England were necessary to get attention from officials. "We have never attacked human life," said Miss Wickham, "but if worst comes to worst there is a strong likelihood we will do so."

Miss Wickham said that she did not believe that the United States government would prevent Mrs. Pankhurst's landing in this country.

"Mrs. Pankhurst was here in 1911," she said, "and at that time she had been convicted and had been in prison. Her status then was exactly the same as it is now, and the United States government at that time made no objections to her landing here."

Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Wickham continued, expects to remain in this country about one month. She is out of the English prison on "ticket of leave," on account of her health, and as soon as she recovers, will have to serve the rest of her term.

BACK FROM WISCONSIN FURBUSH CONFESSES TO ROBBING COMPANY

Cordele, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Having made a complete confession to having absconded with funds of the express money orders belonging to the Southern Express company, Frank I. Furbush, alias S. J. Smith, express agent for the company at Warwick, has been returned to Sylvester from Superior, Wis., and is now in jail there. He is awaiting trial on several charges. Furbush was arrested at Superior last Thursday while attempting to get into Canada.

One of the former agent's pals, who, it is said, cashed some of the stolen money orders, has also been arrested, and is also in jail at Sylvester. Furbush attributes liquor and cards as the cause of his downfall. He is a married man and his wife and three children are now with her parents at Appomattox, Va.

SOUTHERN ENLARGES SPARTANBURG STATION

Spartanburg, S. C., September 19.—(Special.)—To provide additional facilities for promptly handling the growing volume of package freight moving through the new depot at Spartanburg Junction, the Southern railway is making a 275 foot extension to the present station platform, which is 350 feet long, and is installing electric lights to serve the entire plant, thus making it possible to work double shifts, as well as giving increased floor and track space.

Cotton factory products and other manufactures from the Carolinas, bound for the west, produce from western North Carolina for the southeast, and merchandise from the west for the Carolinas and other southern states are handled in large quantities through the Spartanburg Junction transfer, being there made into solid cars and dispatched on fast through trains to the principal points in the south and west. The increased facilities have been made necessary largely on account of the increased traffic in manufactured and agricultural products moving from southern points.

Contract for the extension has been awarded to the Elliott Building company, of Hickory, N. C.

Augusta, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Charged with violating the Mann white slave act, Benjamin Chapman, a druggist, was today given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Skinner.

It is claimed that Chapman sent money to Della Dixon a white woman, to pay her transportation from Greenville, S. C., to Augusta, and that she was brought here for immoral purposes.

The woman was a witness against Chapman today, and a number of affectionate letters, alleged to have passed between the two, were read.

RESINOL CURED AWFUL ITCHING IN ONE NIGHT

Had Suffered Six or Seven Months.

New York, April 26, 1912.—"The skin on my hand got red and rough. It itched and I began to scratch it. It itched so that sometimes I could not sleep all night. I was suffering very much. I used —salve and —, but they did not seem to help me. This went on for six or seven months. Then I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. I used them one night. In the morning, to my surprise, my hand was all well and the trouble has never returned. This is the absolute truth."—(Signed) Miss Celia Kleinman, 61 Columbia St.

If you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores, or piles, it will cost you nothing to try Resinol Ointment and Soap. HER TROUBLES BEGAN EARLY Young Lady Relates Her Experience, and Tells How She Overcame Troubles Which Started at Fifteen.

Paulina, La.—"When I was only fifteen years old," says Miss Lizzie St. Pierre, of this town, "I began suffering from womanly troubles. I had all kinds of pains, felt nervous, dizzy and weak, had headache, backache and with all that I had fever.

I commenced taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it made me perfectly well. Am only 17 years old now, but feel a whole lot younger.

Mamma got so she couldn't sleep, and always felt dizzy. She took the Cardui treatment, and now she is in perfect health.

If you think the publication of this letter will encourage other suffering ladies to try Cardui, you may print it.

I certainly feel thankful for what Cardui has done for my mother and me."

Thousands of women have written, like Miss St. Pierre, to tell of the beneficial results they obtained by taking this well-known woman's remedy. You must believe that Cardui will help you, because it has helped so many others.

Composed of purely vegetable, medicinal ingredients, having a gentle, strengthening action on the system, Cardui is a reliable remedy for young and old, with absolutely no bad after-affects. Try it, and you will find it of benefit, whenever you need a tonic.

Francis Ouimet, the Boston High school star golfer, tied Vardon and Ray, the English stars, for the United States open championship. They play off today.

High School Golfer Ties English Stars

Edited By DICK JEMISON

WHIFFS

New Golf Star.

FRANCIS OUIMET, the Massachusetts champion golfer, a mere boy, is a new star in the golfing firmament. This high school lad and an amateur, in a field of 157 of the world's greatest golfers, among them several of the greatest professionals, is tied with the great English players, Vardon and Ray, for the open golf championship of the United States, a wonderful achievement for even a more experienced golfer.

Many Supporters.

OUIMET will have many supporters in the play off which will take place today. Everyone in the gallery at Brookline will cast their sympathies with the game youngster, pitted against two of the admitted golf masters of the world.

A Different Tune.

SEVERAL weeks before the season closed, Mobile critics were jingling at our claims that Joe Adler was the best first baseman in the Southern league. The Mobile item has changed its tune. Here's one from a later issue: "Bill Smith, the Atlanta pennant winner, will have to look far and wide to secure a man who will succeed Joe Adler at first base. Adler is the boy that caused all the gloom in Mobile during that heart-breaking Atlanta series."

Strong for Bizzy.

BIRMINGHAM scribes agree with Atlanta writers on one subject—Bizzy land. They believe that he is the best young shortstop that has ever gone to the majors from this league.

Will Not Stick.

THE DRAFT for Milton Stock, the fast little shortstopper of the Mobile Gulls, will not stick, it is said that the National Commission will set this aside, as Stock was sold to the Giants during July. In order to be more explicit, he was recalled by McGraw, who loaned him to the Gulls.

Watch Him.

WHILE Connie Jackson and Speaker have got their eyes focused on each another in the race for the batting honors in the American league, they had better take a side look at an old decrepid player who was relegated to the limbo at the start of each and every one of the past six seasons. None other than the famous Nap Lajoie is only a few steps behind, and closing in rapidly. In every game during the present week he registered at least two hits to the game.

Roasting Champ.

WILLIE RITCHIE, lightweight champion, is being roasted to the Pacific coast girdles for what they claim was his running out of the match with Freddie Welsh, which he undoubtedly did. While columns of space to take place today, Columns of space are being devoted to the champion's refusal to meet Welsh again. They claim that the promoters failed to live up to their agreements in getting him the big laugh from all sides.

In Demand.

GEORGE STOVALL, deposed manager of the St. Louis Browns, is very much in demand. Both Chattanooga and Oakland want him as manager. Two National league clubs want him as a player. Another club, not mentioned, was willing to buy his release for $5,500 cash.

Now in Charge.

WHO WILL be manager of the St. Louis Browns next season? Branch Rickey seemed chary of the job on Wednesday, and will pilot it the rest of the season. The chances are that he will be appointed when the spring training season rolls round. We do not envy Rickey. He has some job wished on him.

A Good Joke.

GAVVY CRAVATH thought he sprained a good joke on the teammate, Luderus, this spring, when they agreed that on their drives Luderus, the "built like" would split, 50-50. Cravath laughed up his sleeve about his great thanksgiving. Luderus made a decent right field hitter and Cravath a dead left field hitter. The built of Philadelphia is located in right field. Luderus has not hit the ball once, while Cravath has several times. Who is the joke on?

How's This One?

WE ARE indebted to the Baseball Magazine for the following item: Mrs. Gavvy Cravath, wife of the Philadelphia slugger, speaks as follows: "I have been very happy since we came to live in Philadelphia, and I am quite sure Mr. Cravath is, too, since we have three short stands and fences, all Mr. Cravath has to do is to push the ball a little and then walk around, just as easy and dignified and comfortable, while in those other parks he had to run, and run, and slide, and get all mussed up every afternoon."

Ouimet, Vardon and Ray Tie for Open Golf Title; Play Off the Tie Today

Brookline, Mass., September 19.—An American youth—a stripling scarcely out of his teens—carved a niche for himself in international sporting history here today when Francis Ouimet, tied with England's famous professional golfers, Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, in the final round of the national open championship.

As the result of his exhibition of nerve and golfing skill he won the American's sole representative in the 18-hole three-ball medal play-off of the title which exists tonight has been entered, each of whom turned in a card of 299 for 72 holes contested during the past two days.

Ouimet's performance today lifted the nineteenth annual tournament of the United States Golf association out of the usual classification accorded a national championship, and brought the contest to a standard little short of other international competitions.

Of the half dozen home-bred and transplanted professionals, not one could keep pace with Ray and Vardon, and all hope of retaining the title honors appeared lost until Ouimet was found making his long drives amid rain and mud against the two older players.

Scene Never Equalled.

When the match was realized that in this home-bred amateur born and brought up on the edge of the Country club course, reeled off a game worthy of winning the championship, they lost that placid control which is proper that ordinarily marks the golf gallery, and rooted and cheered Ouimet in a manner never at baseball or football game.

The scenes that attended Ouimet's march over the last four holes never have been equalled on an American or European golf course.

Enthusiasm ran the gamut from despair to elation; silence was followed by great outbursts of cheering. When Ouimet's second shot from the eighteenth tee landed dead on the edge of the home green, 5,000 spectators massed themselves in a gigantic ring of breathless humanity about Ouimet and his playing partner, George Sargent.

The American youth needed the hole in one to win and two to tie. He gazed long down into the hole where the pin lay, dried his hands and made a 30-foot putt that just missed the hole and rolled 3 feet beyond.

A sigh arose from the crowd and all was still again. Ouimet looked over at that little stretch of sodden turf that lay between him and another chance for the title—gently tapped the ball and stepped back to watch its progress.

Slowly, it rolled to the edge of the hole, curled around the tip for an inch or two and then dropped into the cup, which tied him with Ray and Vardon.

Ovation for Youth.

Instantly a tremendous yell went up. The gallery swept past ropes and guards and closed in on Ouimet in a solid phalanx. He was lifted to the shoulders of the advance guard and carried toward the clubhouse surrounded by several thousand cheering, yelling golfers who forgot their golf in the enthusiasm of being just American cheering an American victory.

Many, not realizing that Ouimet was an amateur, thrust the bills of their nominations at him, only to be met with a smile and a shake of the head, which took the sting out of the refusal made necessary by their mistake.

Ouimet's ball battered against the browess of the two Englishmen, who already were tied with 304 before he had half finished his round. This was all the more praiseworthy because of the frightful weather conditions under which he was obliged to play. It was raining heavily before the forenoon round was started, and continued with but few let-ups all day. The fairways and greens were waterlogged and the rain beat down upon players and spectators alike.

It was hard on the English players, but worse for the Americans, since Ray and Vardon in particular have played many matches under similar trying conditions.

Rain Helped Englishmen.

The rain beat the ball down during flights from the tee, and the heavy turf took all the roll out of it, giving long drives of the Ray and Vardon type an advantage not to be lightly passed.

When the first pair started out on the final day's play the gallery which the field consisted of fifty-five players of the three open championships, five ladies, Ray, Reid and Vardon; Louis Tellier was the standardbearer of the French contingent, and followed by a few home-bred professionals and amateurs, supported by numerous Scotch and English professionals entered from American clubs.

Reid and Vardon were tied for first place with 147; Ray and Strong for second, with 148. McDonald, Smith and J. M. Barnes were tied with 150, and Ouimet led the fourth place contingent with 151.

Ray was first to report at home with a card of 41-35—76. Other pairs reported in rapid order, but neither equaled Ray's mark until Harry Vardon turned in 41-37—78. This tied him for third place with 225 for 54 holes. When noon arrived the best American card was that of Willie Hagin, of Rockford, a 76, for 227.

The crowd was disconsolate until the report reached the clubhouse that Ouimet was playing great golf on his outward round, and that he finished home with 78. From that point on Ouimet had a loyal following. He came home in steady style, getting a 76 for a forenoon card of 74, which tied him with Ray and Vardon at 225 for 54 holes.

Ouimet's "Come Back."

Right there the gallery began to sit up and take notice. The pick up the strokes on Vardon and two on Ray was a feat that aroused the greatest interest.

When the Woodland course Ouimet started out on his afternoon round, 1,000 sleshed over fairways and rough in his wake. At the start he took a five on the first hole, but came back with a good par, pars until the fifth, where he took two to get out of a sand pit and two putts for a six.

More trouble came at the eighth, where he sliced into the woods, took four to the green and two to hole. He turned for home with a 43, and many of the gallery lost hope. They had not known that Ray and Vardon had finished and were tied with 304. Ouimet appeared to crack here, pulling his shots and putting poorly. Fives and fours were marked on his card until he reached the fifteenth.

Then the Brookline youth arose to the occasion. He took the sixteenth in par three. On the seventeenth he holed for a 3, one under par and tied Vardon at 3.

It was a climax new to golf in this country, and even Ray and Vardon, who were trailing along amid the spectators, gripped their pipes until the stems threatened to snap under the strain of the clinched teeth. When Ouimet finally holded in with the four that tied him with this great pair of golfers, the two Englishmen looked at each other and nodded a silent approval that was followed a moment later by hearty oral praise.

Britons Praise Ouimet.

Vardon said: "He certainly played a great game and stood up under the strain like the man he is. He is a credit to American golf."

"It was a beautiful finish," said Ray, "and he deserves all the cheers that he got. One of the best young golfers I ever saw."

Ouimet took his honors modestly and said that except for some pulling and slicing, due to the wet and whippy condition of his clubs, he had no particular trouble.

"I never gave up hope," he said, "and expected to pick up several strokes on the short holes near home. I'm not afraid of either Ray or Vardon, and expect to do as well tomorrow as I did today."

The youthful hero of today's exciting finish is nearing 21, and was born in Brookline, where he attended a school until a year or two ago. At present he is employed by a Boston business concern, but while he was attending public and high school here he played and captained the Country club course, which he knows like a book, a knowledge which undoubtedly helped him to overcome the advantage of experience and age, possessed by his two competitors of tomorrow in the play-off round.

Of Ray's and Vardon's play it can be said that both held true to form, considering the weather conditions. Neither had any complaint to make, and took the added complication of a third contender in the play-off with good humor. Some idea of their play today can be gained by a comparison with that of Tuesday and Wednesday, when perfect weather and course prevailed as against the bad going of Thursday and Friday.

Comparison of Cards.

Vardon's cards for each 36 holes Tuesday, were 151; Thursday, 147; Friday, 153.

Ray's scores were: Wednesday, 148; Thursday, 149; Friday, 153.

Ouimet's cards for the same days were: Wednesday, 151; Thursday, 152; Friday, 153; Saturday, 151; Tuesday, 151 on Thursday, and 153 on Friday.

As the result of today's triple tie, first three places in the open championship will go to the trio—Ray, Ouimet and Vardon—each of whom tallied 304 for 72 holes.

Four players tied for fourth place, with 307 strokes. They were: Louis Tellier, the French professional; Macdonald Smith, of the Wykagyl club; Willie Hagin, of Rochester, and J. M. Barnes, of Tacoma.

J. J. McDermott, the 1912 champion, finished with 308, and Herbert Strong, of the Inwood, N. Y., club, 310. The rest of the field was strung out with the stroke cards of the trailers running into 340.

CARL MORRIS WINS.

Sapulpa White Hope Stops Al Reich in Second Round.

New York, September 19.—Carl Morris, heavyweight, of Sapulpa, Okla., knocked out Al Reich, of this city, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight.

A hard right to the point of the jaw after Reich had been worn down by considerable body punishment ended the bout. This was Reich's second professional bout, as he made his debut in the ring a week ago, when he defeated Walter White. Morris, who weighed 225 pounds, an advantage of 26 pounds over the local man, who showed considerable improvement, both in ring tactics and defense, got in several hard body blows. Morris hooked Reich's left jaw to the floor, and although Reich blocked some of the blows, the impact jarred him considerably. The local boy took the count, but Morris had the better of the first round.

In the second Morris stepped in with a straight left to the face and then sent in left and right to the head. Reich only partly stopping the blows. Morris kept his man on the defensive by administering body punishment, a heavy blow to the stomach making Reich unable to extend himself. Shortly after the breakaway Morris sent across the finishing blow. Reich was apparently conscious of his surroundings, but made no effort to get up until after the count.

INTRODUCING PLAYERS FOR WORLD'S SERIES

EDITOR'S NOTE—Under this head, The Constitution will give daily a brief sketch of the career of the players of the rival teams in the approaching world's series.

2. MANAGER "MUGGSY" McGRAW.

Manager John J. McGraw, of the New York National league team, was born at Truxton, N. Y., on April 7, 1873. His first professional engagement was with the Olean club, in 1890, when but 17 years of age. In 1891 he joined the Cedar Rapids club, of the Western association. Here the season was over Manager Barnie secured him for the then tail-end Baltimore club. McGraw played second base for a time in Baltimore, but his remarkable talents were not appreciated until Hanlon took charge of the team in the summer of 1892. Hanlon's keen eye at once saw the possibilities of the little infielder and he placed him on third base, where he played until he went to New York and became a bench manager. He remained with the Baltimore until 1899. In 1900 Manager McGraw, along with Catcher Robinson, was sold to the St. Louis National league club and played that season in the Mound City. In 1901 he and Robinson organized a new Baltimore club and placed it in the expanded American league. That season he was in many clashes with President Ban Johnson, but they did not extend in the season of 1902, and in the middle thereof McGraw sold out the Baltimore club to the Andrew Freedman National league club, which transferred McGraw and several of the players to New York, after selling Seymour and Kelley to Cincinnati. Under McGraw's management the New York team has always been a potent factor in the National league race. It won the championship in 1904-05, the world's championship in 1905, lost the pennant only by a technicality in 1908, finished third in 1909, a good second in 1910, won the pennant last year and seems a certainty again this year. Of Manager McGraw it may be justly said that he is the greatest and most valuable asset of the New York club.

St. Louis, September 19.—St. Louis and New York divided a double-header here today. The home team took the first game 1 to 0 in the tenth inning, while New York annexed the second 2 to 0. He revived soon, but left the game in charge of Doctor Conzelman, who ordered him home.

In the second game Marquard was almost invincible, letting the home team get but three hits, and fanning eight men. The leaders tallied their lone runs through the wildness of Hopper.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Senators 2, Tigers 1.

Washington, September 19.—Love, a recruit from Atlanta, who stands 6 feet 5 inches, started his first game for Washington today and was returned the winner over Detroit 2 to 1 in the last game of the season between the two teams. The tall pitcher was hit hard and got into many holes during the seven innings he was on the mound. Detroit had thirteen men left on the bases, eleven of them being stranded during Love's stay in the box. Comstock, who started for Detroit, pitched good ball for seven innings, and ordinarily would have won his game. He gave way to a pinch hitter.

ROCHESTER AND NEWARK IN CLOSE RACE FOR RAG

Newark, N. J., September 19.—Newark now needs to win but one of its three remaining games to claim the International league pennant. Newark did not play today because of rain, but Rochester, its nearest rival for the flag, loses the last chance to edge the leader out for final honors by dropping one game of a double-header to Toronto.

Newark's three games all are with Jersey City. Rochester has two more games with Toronto, and must win both to remain in the running. Should it lose one, even though Newark dropped all three, the final percentage would be .005 in favor of Newark.

The finish is one of the most exciting in years in the league.

RIVER LINE CAR ROUTE TO CHANGE ON MONDAY

Beginning next Monday morning, the route of the cars of the Atlanta Northern railway to Marietta, and the River line cars of the Georgia Railway and Power company will be changed in the business portion of the city.

The Marietta cars will come into Walton street from Marietta, as usual, but instead of stopping at Walton and Fairlie streets and returning along Walton, they will proceed to Forsyth street, thence along Forsyth to Marietta, along Marietta to Walton junction and thence along their usual route.

These improvements in the service on the lines mentioned were made possible by the construction of a switch and necessary tracks at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth, the work having been completed this week.

LOVE AND CONZELMAN PITCHED YESTERDAY

"Slim" Beat Detroit, While Joe Got a Tie With Philadelphia. Both Look Good.

Slim Love and Joe Conzelman twirled in the major leagues yesterday, the former beating Detroit 2 to 1, and the latter tying with Philadelphia, 3 to 2, after each had pitched a first game as a major leaguer, he having acted as relief twirler in previous starts. He twirled seven innings, allowing eight hits and one run. Detroit hit him, as it will be seen, but they were unable to get the hits when hits meant runs, no less than eleven of them being left on bases.

Love looks better every time out, and it is probable that the lengthy southpaw will make good.

Conzelman made his debut yesterday. He only twirled five innings, being taken out to let Hyatt bat for him in the fifth. Joe only allowed three hits in the five innings he worked, errors by his catcher being responsible for two of the three runs that were scored on him.

Women Golf Champs.

Montreal, September 19.—Miss Muriel Dodd, British golf champion, and Miss Mabel Cummings, Canadian champion in 1909-10-11—arrived here today to play in the woman's championship in Canada, which begins September 29 at Dixie, and the American tournament at Wilmington, Del., beginning October 3.

VARDON AND RAY MAY PLAY HERE

Arrangements Being Perfected to Have English Golf Cracks Play Atlanta Professionals October 11.

Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the English golf stars, who are tied with Francis Ouimet, the Massachusetts amateur champion, for the open golf championship of the United States, may play in Atlanta.

Stewart Maiden, professional of the Atlanta athletic club, has opened negotiations with the two English stars to play in Atlanta, giving, as a tentative date, October 11.

Definite arrangements have not been made, but the closing of the date for them to play here will probably be announced shortly, as Mr. Maiden believes it almost certain that they will come here.

Play in Chicago.

Chicago, September 19.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the English golfers now playing at Brookline, will meet Charles Evans, former western champion, and Warren K. Wood, present holder of the title, in a foursome on the Ravisloe links, Chicago, October 5, it was announced here today.

BEAVERS WILL TEACH POLICE WHAT TO DO IN BIG MURDER CASE

Having learned a valuable lesson from the Mary Phagan murder, Chief Beavers will teach his men what to do in the event bodies are found in the future.

The chief's instructions will be for the discoverer to keep hands off everything—including garments of the corpse —until finger print experts have reached the scene. The value of finger print evidence, says the chief, is inestimable in modern investigation.

Until such methods are installed in the police department, the chief says, federal experts will be employed in future cases.

GLOOMS AT PIEDMONT; BATHING SEASON OVER

Glooms paraded Piedmont park yesterday afternoon.

At precisely 6:30 o'clock, General Manager Dan Carey called several hundred bathers from the pond, and brought the bathing season to a close.

One appreciable feature of the season was the large number of out-of-town persons who took a dip while at the lake. More than 10,000 were registered from Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana. There were bathers from as far north as Saginaw, Mich.

With tears in his eyes, and unmistakable sadness in his voice, Manager Carey declared the lake closed. He went out shortly after 5 o'clock, and after giving the happy gang of kids the once over, departed.

"I can hardly break up their fun."

YOUNG MAN IS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON STREET

Apparently suffering from a sudden stroke of paralysis, a well-dressed young man about thirty years of age was found lying unconscious in the middle of West Peachtree street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, about 11 o'clock Friday night.

Letters found on the man's pockets by the Grady hospital authorities, where he was taken for treatment, showed him to evidently be John M. Anley, R. F. D. No. 1, box 16, Atlanta, Ga. The man was dressed in a handsome blue serge suit, and wore a diamond ring and pin. Up to late early hour this morning he had not regained consciousness.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building.

The largest monthly meeting in the history of the Atlanta real estate board was held at the hotel Ansley from 12:30 to 2 o'clock yesterday, about 80 members being present.

General A. J. West of the realty firm of A. J. & H. F. West, acted as toastmaster in his usual happy vein.

General West spoke in the optimistic spirit, declaring that the money stringency of a few weeks ago is now a matter of the past, and that the future looks extremely promising to the local realty men.

General West told of the splendid cotton crop in sight, which would put in circulation in Georgia during the next ninety days some hundred and seventy-five millions of dollars.

"This gigantic pile of money is a product of the soil—real estate—the commodity that you men of this city are dealing in, as a great deal of this money will go back, too, into real estate in Atlanta," he said.

Harris G. White, president of the board, made a strong address on co-operation of local realty men, and urged that all members of the board work for the big national real estate convention in 1916.

President White is making a strong effort to feature these monthly meetings, and the attendance yesterday spoke well for his work in the interest of the board.

Big Deals in Air.

Two large deals were made during this week, one involving more than fifty thousand dollars, it is said. The firm handling the transactions is one of the largest in Atlanta, and has made several of this size in the last year. Full announcement of these will be made some time during the coming week, it is thought.

Lofts for Rent.

There are any number of lofts along Peachtree street between Five Points and the Aragon hotel which are for lease at the present time, some of them at very reasonable rates, considering the location. Several of the Atlanta manufacturers are expecting to take lofts on Peachtree in the near future, as they consider the location more than recompenses for the climb up the stairs.

Work on Peachtree Building.

The work of erecting the new auto building on the property of Mrs. Henry Smith, on the east side of Peachtree, south of Linden street, will commence shortly, as the present buildings on the property have been removed.

The new structure, which is to be occupied by the Fisk and United States tire companies, will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 auto buildings in the the handsomest auto buildings in the city.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building.

The largest monthly meeting in the history of the Atlanta real estate board was held at the hotel Ansley from 12:30 to 2 o'clock yesterday, about 80 members being present.

General A. J. West of the realty firm of A. J. & H. F. West, acted as toastmaster in his usual happy vein.

General West spoke in the optimistic spirit, declaring that the money stringency of a few weeks ago is now a matter of the past, and that the future looks extremely promising to the local realty men.

General West told of the splendid cotton crop in sight, which would put in circulation in Georgia during the next ninety days some hundred and seventy-five millions of dollars.

"This gigantic pile of money is a product of the soil—real estate—the commodity that you men of this city are dealing in, as a great deal of this money will go back, too, into real estate in Atlanta," he said.

Harris G. White, president of the board, made a strong address on co-operation of local realty men, and urged that all members of the board work for the big national real estate convention in 1916.

President White is making a strong effort to feature these monthly meetings, and the attendance yesterday spoke well for his work in the interest of the board.

Big Deals in Air.

Two large deals were made during this week, one involving more than fifty thousand dollars, it is said. The firm handling the transactions is one of the largest in Atlanta, and has made several of this size in the last year. Full announcement of these will be made some time during the coming week, it is thought.

Lofts for Rent.

There are any number of lofts along Peachtree street between Five Points and the Aragon hotel which are for lease at the present time, some of them at very reasonable rates, considering the location. Several of the Atlanta manufacturers are expecting to take lofts on Peachtree in the near future, as they consider the location more than recompenses for the climb up the stairs.

Work on Peachtree Building.

The work of erecting the new auto building on the property of Mrs. Henry Smith, on the east side of Peachtree, south of Linden street, will commence shortly, as the present buildings on the property have been removed.

The new structure, which is to be occupied by the Fisk and United States tire companies, will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 auto buildings in the the handsomest auto buildings in the city.

FATHER AND BABY KILLED IN ROW

Drink-Mad Farmer Killed by Daughter—Wife Slays Own Baby Girl Shooting at the Father.

Clayton, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Emanuel Nichols, aged 35, a farmer living ten miles northwest of here in Rabun county, and his two-year-old baby girl, are dead, while his son and daughter, Conrad and Myrtle Nichols, have been bound over to the grand jury for voluntary manslaughter, as a result of a general shooting melee in the farmer's home Wednesday night.

According to the details given the coroner's jury the farmer's wife killed her own baby as she sought to kill her husband, who, it is claimed, came home in a drunken rage, battered down the door and swore he would "clean out" the entire family.

Mother Killed Baby.

The woman is prostrated over the accidental shooting of her child, while the two older children, both of whom are said to have fired bullets into their father, are under grand jury investigation by order of the coroner.

Nichols came home late in the night and rushed at his wife with a shotgun in his hand, the coroner was told, and as the woman screamed for help and escape, Conrad, aged 14, seized a small shotgun from the chimney corner and fired directly at his raging father. The load took effect in the man's body, but apparently he was so enraged and in such a condition that he paid no attention to it. His left arm, through the shoulder of which the shots ploughed, was disabled, but he kept up his attack with his left arm hanging limp by his side.

Girl Fired Fatal Shot.

Myrtle Nichols, the crazed man's 15-year-old daughter, then grappled with him and succeeded in wrenching from his right hand the pistol which he had drawn when he dropped the gun. As she jerked it from him, she fired twice. One bullet shattered the right arm and the other tore its way through his chest, killing him instantly.

Emanuel Nichols was the son of a prosperous farmer living in Persimmon district and he was well-to-do himself. The only reason for what is declared was an attempt to slay his entire family, is the intoxicated condition in which he is alleged to have been when he came home.

MAY EXCLUDE PUBLIC FROM THAW HEARING

Claimed That There Is No Precedent for Extraditing Insane Man on Criminal Charge.

Concord, N. H., September 19.—Harry K. Thaw's official custodian, Sheriff Drew, was in consultation today with New Hampshire officials regarding the arrangements for Thaw's hearing before Governor Samuel D. Felker next Thursday on the question of his extradition to New York state. The possibility of a disturbance at the proceedings was discussed, although all said there is no apparent likelihood of an untoward happening on that occasion. If Governor Felker approves, it is probable that the hearing will be held in the state senate chamber and that the persons allowed to be present will be limited to those directly concerned in the case, newspapermen and members of the bar.

A report came from friends of Thaw tonight that he had expressed a personal wish that the proceedings before the governor be handled exclusively by his New Hampshire counsel, but attorneys here declined to discuss it.

Letters and telegrams continue to pour into the executive chamber awaiting the arrival of Governor Felker on Monday. Councillor William H Sawyer, who is acting as the governor's secretary, says there are some interesting and important messages in the lot.

This rainy day kept Thaw indoors much of the time in his room.

New York, September 19.—Inquiries are being made through official sources throughout the country by counsel for Harry K. Thaw, it was learned tonight, to find if a precedent anywhere exists for the action of the New York state authorities in asking the extradition from New Hampshire of Thaw, an insane man, on a charge of crime.

Moses H. Grossman, of the Thaw counsel, who has the inquiry in charge, declared it had been his contention all along that Thaw could not be extradited on a criminal charge and that his inquiry, which was nearly completed, had more than ever convinced him that law and precedent were all against such extradition.

"Never, so far as I can find," said Mr. Grossman, "has there been an extradition of an insane man on a charge of crime. In fact, there has never before the Thaw case been an application for extradition in such circumstances. All the authorities we have been able to reach agree on this."

ARMY LEAGUE BRANCH TO BE ORGANIZED HERE

The organization of a branch of the army league, with the purpose of teaching the public the value of infantry forces, and impressing the necessity of the support of every citizen, will be accomplished within a few weeks, according to Brigadier General R. H. Evans, of the department of the gulf, who will confer with Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash, of the Georgia national guard, chamber officials, and others, upon the subject.

In all probability General Evans will make several addresses here and elsewhere in the interest of the movement, and will infuse interest in the movement in other cities.

TRADE REVIEWED BY COMMERCIAL AGENCIES

New York, September 19.—Bradstreet's review tomorrow will say that as trade broadens out optimism spreads and there is for the week a relatively cheerful trade report. Monday and Tuesday activity in jobbing lines or a tendency in that direction. Actual trade following a prolonged policy of slarying stocks is the foremost factor in broadening demand.

Coupled with this are a number of other activity-making characteristics. Thus the marketing of crops at good prices; copious rains in northwestern drouth-afflicted sections, stimulants afforded by fall festivals and a movement enlarged turnover in retail circles.

Thus the uplift has not been uniform in these branches of trade and industry—in fact, there are quite a few laggards—is significant that many of the returns indicate that trade, especially in dry goods, is well ahead of last year.

Business failures for the week were 259, against 279 in 1912.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week aggregate 4,143,992 bushels, against 3,801,477 last year.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, September 19.—Cables were rather indifferent this morning, so that other markets opened at a decline of some 10 points, but almost immediately met an active trade demand which led to a slow improvement through the day, the market closing around the best and some 4 or 5 points higher than last night. In the first hour there was considerable realizing still in progress and free selling from Liverpool and Continental sources, as a result of the relatively narrow difference between the markets.

Our advices from the south are to the effect that there has been in the past few days an active demand from the continent and certainly there was not today any marked pressure of hedging sales, the market has no large speculative interest behind it, and certainly of the position apparently lying in the trade demand which appears or the declines owing to the forward business in goods and yarns transacted during the summer without the covering of cotton.

The local feeling is still rather against a further advance at this time, traders pointing to the probability of better weather, a larger movement and a consequent supply contracts from hedges.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, September 19.—This is still a rather quiet market, as was shown this afternoon, when no attention was paid to the bull figures, which, on their face, were very bearish. Cotton is moving more rapidly than at this time a year ago but the market insists on believing that the crop is less than a year ago, and the bulls are very aggressive and the bears very timid, and it looks dangerous to be short. The market closed steady today on advices and a firm Liverpool.

COTTON THE PAST WEEK; REVIEW OF THE MARKET

New York, September 19.—The cotton market has shown continued strength and activity during the past week, which with prices making new high records for the season on the reports of damage to the crop from excessive rainfall in the south. December contracts sold as high as 12.40 at the opening here on Thursday morning or $12.85 per bale above the low records of last August, and while this price seemed sufficient to attract a good deal of realizing, as well as considerable selling for a reaction, there has been good support on comparatively moderate setbacks. Crop damage reports have been coming in from eastern as well as western sections of the belt and private condition figures have indicated a deterioration of from 2.9 to 4.4 per cent in the crop outlook between the date of the September bureau and the middle of the current month. This additional cause for apprehension of a short crop, have evidently made a considerable impression on sentiment and it was reported yesterday that trade interests were becoming more active buyers on all the declines.

There are many however who are not yet prepared to accept the extremely bullish view of the crop situation as was shown this afternoon, when no attention was paid to the bull figures, which, on their face, were very bearish. Cotton is moving more rapidly than at this time a year ago but the market insists on believing that the crop is less than a year ago, and the bulls are very aggressive and the bears very timid, and it looks dangerous to be short. The market closed steady today on advices and a firm Liverpool.

COTTON STARTED SELLING EARLY

But Market Became Steady and Closed at Six to Nine Points Advance—Spot Cotton Closed Steady.

New York, September 19.—The cotton market was not particularly active today and fluctuations showed considerable irregularity. The undertone, however, was very steady, if not altogether firm, and closing prices were steady at a net gain of from 6 to 9 points.

Easier Liverpool cables and reports of clearing weather in the southwest encouraged rather a sharp selling movement at the start, and first prices were from 1 to 5 points lower, whose active months quickly sold 6 to 8 points under the closing figures of last night as a result of scattering liquidation and pressure from local and southern sources. Liverpool was also a considerable seller here on the decline, which carried December contracts about 10 points below the high records of yesterday morning, but offerings were well taken, and the market soon turned firmer on reports that the trade was buying a good deal of the early cotton.

A broker, supposed to be operating for the account of spinners, was credited with taking fully 15,000 bales out of the market, in the shape of January contracts on the decline, and private forecast for local rains in the eastern belt, together with more numerous weather complaints from that section helped the rally.

Offerings showed a tendency to increase on all rallies above 12.20 for December, but after more than an hour's hilarity the market worked up to 12.28 for that position or 8 to 11 points net higher. Realizing sales caused a reaction of 3 or 4 points in the late trading, but business was comparatively quiet, although the opinion was expressed around the ring that a sharply speculative movement had been pretty well evened up for the week-end on pending fresh developments.

The continued large English spot sales attracted some bullish attention, but as was the case on Thursday the unusually large proportion of the business was in other than American growths, and English trade accounts remained of an unsatisfactory character, although China was said to have been a better buyer in Manchester late yesterday.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, September 19.—At the opening of the cotton market there was selling and liquidation on the part of longs through commission houses and prices about 80 points but the decline was quickly turned into an advance under general buying by spinning interests at 12 cents for January. This character of support made itself felt and with foreign and domestic mills entering the market freely cost of the local trade that spinners would soon be compelled to buy and they closed the market against any material decline through hedge sales by speculative liquidation is at present being borne out by actual developments.

WHEAT LOST OUT; CORN AND OATS UP

Scare Over Reciprocity With Canada Still Makes Wheat Holders Nervous—Decrease in Corn Arrivals.

Chicago, September 19.—Notwithstanding assertions that the present Canadian administration cannot afford to reverse its anti-reciprocity policy, the wheat market today showed weakness on account of apparently certain removal of Washington obstacles to Canadian shipments of wheat to the United States. Closing prices though steady ranged from last night's level to 2-8 below. Other leading staples all scored net gains—corn 1-8@1-4, oats 1-4 to 3-8, provisions 5 to 22 1-2c.

Wheat traders evinced unmistakable nervousness regarding Washington reports that the free listing of wheat could now be considered virtually accomplished. Accordingly, the market declined inclined to drag lower after the operation of resting orders to buy at a decline prevented a decided setback. Such decline was more that government action at Ottawa appeared to be wholly improbable did not greatly allay misgivings. Prospects that the winter crop acreage will be fully up to normal was a further handicap to bulls. There was also gossip that flour mills were in a better position ahead than sixty or ninety days.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,-815,000 bushels; a year ago 2,320,000. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 415,000 bushels.

Corn turned strong on a decrease in primary here. At that, however, the market was easy because of improved weather that seemed likely to promote further gathering of the crop. Oats followed corn. Shorts did most of the buying.

Provisions bulged sharply when corn switched to the upgrade. Early weakness in packing house products was due largely to demand for hogs being too hesitating.
