NEW YORK COTTON EXCHANGE ASSAILED BY SENATOR SMITH

Georgian Declares Business Methods of Institution Are Unfair and Disreputable and Menace Interests of Country

LEGISLATION IS URGED TO CURB OPERATIONS

Fight Begins in Earnest in Senate to Pass Bill Which Seeks to Reform Exchange's System of Handling Cotton

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Vigorously attacking the system employed by the New York cotton exchange as unfair and disreputable, and declaring it handles its business in a way that is unjust to the producer of cotton and the manufacturer, Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, in the senate today, urged the passage of legislation to suppress an abuse he alleged exists.

The fight for a reformation of the methods and practices of the New York cotton exchange got under way in earnest in the senate this afternoon, under the leadership of Senator Smith. The bill came up as unfinished business at 1 o'clock, and it is the plan of the senator from the cotton states to keep it continuously at it until the measure has passed the senate.

Senator Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, author of the measure, agreed early in the day to accept the amendment of the Georgia senator, and the bill, as now perfected, provides that the members of any exchange engaged in selling contracts for the future delivery of cotton must use a contract containing certain terms specified in the bill.

PROVIDES FOR DELIVERY.

The contract must provide for delivery of cotton within the standards fixed by the department of agriculture.

If the cotton sold is middling and the delivery is one of the other standards then the commercial difference in value between the standard delivered and the standard sold must be paid.

There are certain other provisions also required to be inserted in the new contract which will stop other abuses that have existed on the exchange.

The bill then forbids the use of government mails to those engaged in the business of conducting an exchange for future deliveries who do not use a contract required by the bill.

It furthermore provides that no one shall use the mails or the telegraph lines for the purpose of sending out any price lists of sales of cotton in an exchange which does not use a contract for the future delivery of cotton in accordance with the provision of the bill.

It furthermore provides that any one violating the requirements of the bill shall be subject to a fine of $5,000 and twelve months in the penitentiary.

Senator Smith declared that while the changes are simple and will work with an effort to regulate them, they should understand that forbearance has about ceased in the business world and changes themselves help to put their business on a decent and legitimate basis. The amendment against these will be to terminate them.

SENATOR SMITH'S SPEECH.

Senator Smith's speech in full follows:

In support of legislation to suppress abuses in cotton exchanges, I wish to refer especially to the New York cotton exchange. This exchange handles over 250,000,000 bales of cotton annually. Its records profess to show the sales daily of middling cotton and the prices at which this grade of cotton sells in New York City. Their sales profess to apply not only to immediate months, but monthly in future to each month during the year. They, therefore, profess to record the market price of middling cotton for immediate delivery, and for future delivery during eleven months of the year.

New York City is the great metropolis of our country. It is the center of wealth and trade. The New York cotton exchange is by far the largest cotton exchange in the United States. Its sales far exceed those of any other cotton ex-

Little Wooden Box Holding $532 Sits On Curb All Night

Nobody Thought It Worth Picking Up and Absent-Minded Clerk Is Very Glad

From 10 o'clock last Sunday night to 7 o'clock Monday morning a little wooden box reposed on the pavement at the corner of Broad and Walton streets while hundreds of pedestrians hurried by without the remotest idea that they could have picked up the box and the $532 it contained and walked off without so much as saying "Thank you" to anybody.

It was left there accidentally by a cigar clerk, who caught his home car and absent-mindedly forgot about the box he had placed for a moment on the curbing.

Hundreds of late home-goers and early risers Monday morning must have glanced at the box and walked right on by. Many of them must have been "broke" or badly bent. And yet not one thought of slipping the box under his arm and strolling away with enough money to last him for months.

It happened that the two clerks of Tumlin's cigar stand, corner Walton and Broad, put the $532 in the wooden box when they closed up shop for the night, intending, as was customary, to carry it to Tumlin's other stand in the Hurt building and deposit it in a safe there.

As they walked out of the cigar stand, Clark No. 1 said: "Here comes my car. No need for both of us to walk way down there. You take the money."

"O. K.," said Clerk No. 2.

Clerk No. 1 caught his car and went home to bed. Clerk No. 2 paused on the curbing a minute with the wooden box under his arm. Just then a friend strolled up.

BOX SLIPS HIS MEMORY.

"Hello," said Friend. "Did you see that queen—"

"You don't mean to tell me—" Thus Clerk No. 2. The conversation became interesting. Clerk No. 2 put the wooden box by his foot on the pavement a minute—it was very heavy—and talked and listened.

They talked fifteen minutes. Their conversation was not about money. The little wooden box was forgotten.

"Well," said Clerk No. 2, "here comes my car. See you tomorrow."

Clerk No. 2 caught the car and went home to sleep the sleep of the just. Friend ditto in the other direction. And the little wooden box was left on the pavement with only the moon for company.

At 7 o'clock Monday morning the box was still there. George, Tumlin's negro porter, opened shop as that hour. He unlocked the doo and glanced over his shoulder. He noticed the box. Where had he seen it before?

He picked it up and carried it in the store and opened the lid. The money was all there.

So next time a little wooden box should be left on the pavement, take a little tip and walk away with it. Who knows? It might be an infernal machine.

Says Wife Is Cruel And Jabs Him With Pins; Wants Divorce

Alleging that his wife would get into tantrums and then would stick her hat pins into him, so that great and painful wounds were caused, James Edwin McConnell, of Atlanta, filed a petition for divorce Thursday morning on the grounds of cruel treatment against his wife, Catherine Fleming McConnell.

McConnell avers that she would get into the tantrums and fits of rage without warning him and would stick the hat pins, with a hat pin, she also struck him with anything she could get hold of.

The plaintiff also alleges that his wife cursed and vilified him, both in public and in the confines of their home, and that she always refused to keep house, and insisted on boarding. He accuses her of infidelity, and states in the petition that she admitted that charge. He says she now lives in Des Moines, Iowa. Judge Lee B. Bell, of the superior court, ordered her served with notice of the suit by publication.

Lewis W. Thomas, attorney, filed the suit.

Belated Passengers To Get Benefit From New Transfer Rule

In future belated passengers on Atlanta trolley cars will enjoy the privileges of transfers and the cars operating as late as 2 p. m.

The state railroad commission Wednesday afternoon revised the transfer rules of the Georgia Railway and Power company by requiring that transfers be issued after midnight and up to 2 o'clock in the morning.

WEST SAYS HE MAY NOT ENTER GOVERNOR'S RACE

Statement Taken by Some to Mean He May Be Candidate for Senate

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—William S. West told The Journal today that probably he would not be a candidate for governor of Georgia in the event he decides not to enter the lists as a candidate for the United States senate.

The statement, which comes on the heels of the senator's announcement that he would make a statement concerning his future political course following the meeting of the state committee, is regarded in Washington as the most significant development relating to Georgia politics since the death of Senator A. O. Bacon.

"I am not certain that I would desire to enter a contest for governor, in the event I decide not to run for the senate," said Senator West. "I have to make a decision as to my course following the meeting of the state committee, but right now, I cannot give an intimation as to the nature of that decision.

"I expect to be away until Monday week, April 6, in my absence, I hope to shape my future course as regards politics."

WOMAN TO CLAIM SHE SLEW CHAPMAN TO PROTECT SELF

Attorneys for Defense Declare Gordon County Woman Killed Her Nephew When He Attacked Her

MRS. CHAPMAN TO TELL HER OWN STORY ON STAND

Accused Woman Appears Confident of Her Acquittal, Committment Trial Has Been Held

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CALHOUN, Ga., March 26.—Attorneys for Mrs. Charles Chapman, held here with her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Barnes, and her husband on the charge of having murdered her nephew, Sid Chapman, last Saturday, stated to The Journal correspondent today that Mrs. Chapman would admit having slain the young farmer, and that she would plead justifiable hogicide.

This was the first definite statement as to who actually did the shooting.

"Our plea," said one of the attorneys for the defense, "will be justifiable homicide, that Mrs. Chapman shot Sid Chapman to protect herself when he attacked her in her own home."

Mrs. Chapman, who is thirty-seven years old, appeared in court carrying her six-months-old baby in her arms. She appeared confident of her acquittal.

At the commitment trial Lewis Chapman, brother to the slain man, testified that the young woman had on occasion threatened to kill Sid.

Mrs. Chapman was expected to go on the stand during the afternoon and relate her story of the shooting.

The case was first set for preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Fox at 10 o'clock this morning. So great was the interest in the case that the court room was too small to accommodate the crowds that had assembled from all sections of the county. Attorneys for the defense asked that the case be postponed until this afternoon.

The three persons mentioned in the warrant—Charles Chapman, Mrs. Lizzie Barnes and Mrs. Mary Chapman, wife of the slain man, were in the court room. Young Mrs. Chapman appeared with her six-months-old baby in her arms.

The prisoners are represented by Colonel O. N. Starr, while Colonel J. G. B. Erwin appears as prosecuting attorney.

BEAVERS' CLUB OFFICER WINS IN HIGHER COURT

Court of Appeals Reverses Fulton Superior in Case Against Pitts

The state court of appeals Thursday morning reversed the superior court of Fulton county in overruling the certiorari of H. R. Pitts, an official of the Beavers' club, who was found guilty by Recorder Broyles of violating the city ordinance which prohibits the keeping of intoxicating liquors for unlawful sale.

The case against Pitts was made by the city detectives several months ago, at the time they raided a number of locker clubs. He was given a heavy fine by the recorder and certioraried the case to the superior court.

In its decision the appellate court says:

"In this case there was no evidence to authorize the inference that the accused in any way acquiesced or participated in the illegal sales which necessarily constituted the evidentiary foundation of the charge of keeping intoxicating liquor for sale, and no testimony which indicated that he knew that these sales were to be made or had been made. Consequently the conviction of the defendant was unwarranted, and the judge of the superior court erred in overruling the certiorari."

BOOKKEEPER ON TRIAL FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

J. P. Heath Charged With Taking $1,000 Belonging to Western Union

The trial of J. P. Heath, formerly a bookkeeper for the Western Union Telegraph company, charged with the embezzlement of funds aggregating the total of $1,000 from the corporation by which he was employed, occupied the time Thursday in the criminal division of the superior court.

The chief witness against Heath was E. E. Connelly, who was employed by the same company, but under Heath. He claims he had turned cash over to Heath, for which he has been charged with not reporting to his office.

Heath admitted the money he received from Gormley was borrowed from the latter, and had no connection with the company's funds.

NEGRO IS IDENTIFIED AS GIRLS' ASSAILANT

Following the arrest by the county police of two negro men who were suspected of trying to criminally assault a young white girl several days ago, L. C. Haynes, the white man who rushed to the girl's rescue, has identified one of the negroes.

The negro, who gave his name as Will Johnson, lives at Armour Station. The other negro arrested with Johnson was released.

The police are now confronted by a rather unusual situation in that they do not know who the white girl in the case is, in the excitement she got away without any one learning her name and address. Officers are trying to locate her.

Actor Identified As One Who Robbed Jefferson Loan Bank

A "MOVING" PICTURE---IN TWO REELS

I. STERNBERG SAYS E. RHYNATA HELD UP PLACE ON MARCH 5

Actor Held for Attempt to Rob Negro Bank Identified as Man Who Held Up Cashier of Jefferson Loan Society

STERNBERG SURE POLICE HAVE THE RIGHT MAN

Blood Stains Found on Vest, Rhynata Declares Were Caused by a Cut on One of His Fingers

Edward Rhynata, arrested Wednesday afternoon under suspicion of the police that he was the perpetrator of a brazen attempt to hold up and rob a negro bank on Auburn avenue, was identified positively Thursday morning by I. Sternberg, clerk in the Jefferson Loan society's office at 59 North Forsyth street, as the man who held him up in that office on the morning of March 5 and walked away with $40 of the society's money.

"That's the man," said Sternberg, looking at Rhynata behind the bars at police headquarters. "I told you I'd know him if I ever saw him again."

Sternberg's story of the robbery, in which he was the victim was not given great credence by the Atlanta police at the time, though they searched with clues Sternberg gave them. They believed it improbable that any man would commit a robbery like that in broad daylight on a downtown street and get clean away.

CLUE TO MARSHALL.

The attempted robbery of the Atlanta State savings bank, Wednesday afternoon, was quick on the heels of Sternberg reported.

Rhynata admitted to the police on Thursday that his real name is Edward Marshall. He said Rhynata is his stage name.

A chance identification of Marshal or Rhynata, has added further to strengthen the case against him. Thursday morning Henry Echols, a chauffeur, was at the police station to see Sergeant Neeley regarding an automobile theft. As the two stood conversing by the sergeant's desk, Detective Chewning passed by with Marshall.

Echols glanced at him and said, "Why, that's the man I saw driving a horse and buggy like an express train along Peachtree street about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. I was standing by the automobile outside the Capital City club and had a good look at his face as he went by."

The police held as evidence against him a vest, on which appeared stains. The police said they were blood stains. Rhynata, or Marshall, did not deny that they were, saying if they were blood stains they were caused by a cut finger. He showed a cut on one finger. The police theory is that the stains were left when Marshall, or Rhynata, was struggling with the negro youth in the Auburn avenue bank, Wednesday afternoon.

Rhynata's preliminary hearing before Recorder Broyles, set for Thursday afternoon, has been postponed until Friday, so that Sternberg, J. O. Ross, Jr. can appear against him.

Rhynata denied positively Thursday morning that he knew anything of the matter, though he admitted readily that he had paid several visits to the office of Sternberg, in the Auburn avenue, on the ground floor of which the Atlanta State Savings bank is located. It went there, he said, looking for the brother-in-law of a Dr. Pincus, who, he says, claims to be a Hindu clairvoyant. He and Pincus have played "small time" engagements together in little theaters, he said. Pincus owes him $5, he said, and he was seeking to locate the clairvoyant through the brother-in-law and collect the money.

Thus Rhynata explained the fact that he was found in the negro financial negroes in the crowd found at the bank when the police returned there with him. The young negro, J. O. Ross, Jr., who was alone in the bank when the hold-up invaded it some time after 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, has not yet seen Rhynata. Ross was hurt in a struggle

R. A. WILSON CONVICTED IN EMBEZZLEMENT TRIAL

Jury Recommends That Former Cashier Be Punished for Misdemeanor

R. A. Wilson, former cashier and bookkeeper for the S. W. Bacon Produce company, of 35 West Alabama street, was convicted by the jury in his alleged embezzlement of $7,657 of the company's money, was found guilty by a jury Wednesday afternoon at 10:30 o'clock. Judge Ben H. Hill's court when the verdict was read Thursday morning.

The jury recommended that the case be treated as a misdemeanor, and at the request of Wilson's attorneys, Judge Spence and Walter McElreath, sentence was deferred until Friday. Wilson is out on $7,500 bond.

Discrepancies in the books of the Bacon company were discovered September 12, 1913, by auditors. Wilson, who was accused of embezzling, admitted the books showed shortage, but declared they were simply badly kept and that the firm had all the missing money.

Wilson is a married man and is about thirty years old.

ROW OVER PURCHASE OF FIRE APPARATUS

Councilman Lee and Reynolds Excluded—Purchasing Dept. May Be Overhauled

An executive session Thursday morning by Mayor Woodward, Chairman Humphrey, of the finance committee; Comptroller Goldsmith and Purchasing Agent Chambers, over the purchase of an automobile fire apparatus, resulted in sharp criticism by Councilman Jesse B. Lee, who was given to understand that he executive session did not include him.

Councilman Frank H. Reynolds also was present when the four named officials went in executive session, and also got the hint to retire from the room.

Councilman Lee felt such keen resentment that he even went so far as to indicate to persons in the city hall that hereafter he and the mayor, whom he has supported up to this time, will part company.

The bids were all in at 12 o'clock Wednesday and were opened at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and the representatives of the various companies were heard from. Adjournment was then taken until Thursday morning.

Up to this time the whole matter had been handled by the mayor, the finance chairman, the comptroller and the purchasing agent. But Thursday morning Councilmen Lee and Reynolds, being members of the board of firemasters, went to the meeting.

Councilmen Lee and Reynolds made no move toward the door until it was indicated that the purchasing committee consisted only of the four named officials, and then they left the room and left it standing, so to speak, especially Councilman Lee.

The result of the executive session was to again postpone action on the bids, this time until next Tuesday, and in the meantime an effort will be made to get the opinion of an expert as to the relative merits of the different machines.

In previous years the apparatus for the fire department has been purchased by the mayor and the finance, which, while called a board, in reality is a standing committee of councils.

This year all supplies have been purchased by the purchasing agent, this office having been created toward the close of 1913, and the various departmental boards and standing committees of council which previously, some bids and awarded contracts for supplies, apparatus, materials, etc., have had nothing to do with the purchases.

The ordinance creating the purchasing agent provides that he "may call in whomever he may see fit, like mayor, the chairman of the finance committee and the comptroller as an "advisory" committee.

This language, being rather vague and ambiguous as to the extent of the authority of these three officials acting in conjunction with the purchasing agent, has caused a difference of opinion among council members. Some contend that the purchasing committee consists of four members—including the purchasing agent, mayor, finance chairman and comptroller—and that nobody else has anything to do with purchases. Other council members maintain that the authority of the three officials in conjunction with the purchasing agent is merely advisory, and, that while the ordinance does not specify that he may call in the board of firemasters for instance, where fire department supplies are to be purchased, still it would seem to be the proper thing for the members of this board to be considered by the purchasing agent.

BRITISH ARMY HEAD QUITS POST; ASQUITH FACING NEW CRISIS

Many Leading Officers Expected to Follow Action of Field Marshal French, Chief of the Imperial Staff

LONDON, (Associated Press.) March 26.—Premier Asquith was brought face to face with a new crisis by the resignation of Field Marshal Sir John French, chief of the imperial staff and virtual head of the British army.

The field marshall, who was one of the signatories of the memorandum to Brigadier General Hubert Gough, giving guarantees to the army officers that they would not be ordered to fight the Ulster Unionists, regarded the repudiation of the document by the government as a slight on himself. For this reason he resigned.

The resignation of Lieutenant General Sir John Spencer Ewart, adjutant general to the forces, is imminent, according to the opinion prevailing in military circles today.

Other leading officers of the army also were expected to resign as a direct outcome of the repudiation of the guarantees given to army officers in Ireland. The premier yesterday declared that these guarantees were not sanctioned by the cabinet. Colonel Seely, secretary of war, subsequently resigned from the cabinet but the premier refused to accept his action.

CABINET HOLD MEETING

The result of a meeting at the war office of the principal commanding generals of the British army was awaited with anxiety by the general public and political circles today, as it was thought they might also step, which would virtually disrupt the army administration.

In the north of Ireland, where the controversy between Nationalists and Unionists has created a difficult situation for the British government, there was no disturbance today. The two parties were seemingly content to await events in London.

Field Marshal French and General Ewart were joint signers with Colonel Seely, secretary for war, of the two repudiated paragraphs that brought about the resignations yesterday of Colonel Seely.

A conference of all the principal commanders of the British army was held today at the war office. Those present included Field Marshal French, Lieutenant General Ewart, General Sir Horace Lockwood Smith-Dorrien, aide-de-camp general to the king, and Lieutenant General Sir James Moncrieff Grierson, general in command of the eastern division of England, with headquarters in London.

Colonel Seely and Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, also conferred with Premier Asquith.

TROUBLE IS NOT OVER.

Although it was generally conceded today that Premier Asquith had regained the upper hand in parliament, the government by no means is altogether out of trouble. It has still to deal with the army officers in Ireland under the new conditions established by the premier's speech in the house of commons yesterday. Brigadier General Gough declares this will mean wholesale resignations and the disruption of the army.

The premier's speech won back the support, not only of the Liberals but of the Irish and Labor members of parliament, by the stand he took in repudiating the guarantee given to the mutinous army officers in Ireland that they might decide whether they would serve against the Ulster Unionists.

CANDLER BUYS STOCK IN ATLANTA NATIONAL BANK

Capitalist Purchases Holdings of A. R. Swann and Edward H. Inman

Interesting news that became current in local financial circles Thursday, was that Asa G. Candler, the Atlanta capitalist, had acquired by purchase from A. R. Swann, of Tennessee, a large block of Mr. Swann's stock in the Atlanta National bank, in accordance with this Mr. Candler was reported to have purchased the stock of Edward H. Inman, of Atlanta, amounting to 200 shares in the bank.

Mr. Candler admitted generally the truth of the report but declined to reveal details of the transaction with Mr. Swann.

This appears to have been the largest block of stock transferred by purchase since early in the organization of the Atlanta National bank. The institution is the oldest national bank in the cotton states, having been established soon after the Civil war at the time of the national banking law enactment. It is one of the most substantial banks in the south.

Mr. Swann, who now has converted part of his holdings into cash, is a wealthy citizen of east Tennessee, with large investments in that state and in Florida and other places.

HAS OTHER INVESTMENTS.

His attorney in Atlanta said Thursday that Mr. Swann had found opportunity for further and even more profitable investment of part of his funds, and to avail himself of that had sold part of his Atlanta National holdings.

Control of the Atlanta National bank is not affected by this transaction, it is assured. It is said no change whatever is contemplated either in the bank's policy or management, the deal being merely a transfer of a portion of the stock outstanding. The bank is capitalized at $1,000,000, with surplus of $1,000,000. Its stock is said to be selling about 3 to 1. At that price no less than $1,500,000 worth of stock would have to be dominated to give control of the bank. Mr. Candler's purchase is said to have aggregated somewhat less than $1,000,000. The exact figures are not obtainable.

Although Mr. Candler is president of the Central Bank and Trust corporation, there is evidently no relation borne to the affairs of that bank by his purchase of a heavy interest in the Atlanta National. Not even a suggestion of consolidation is justified by the known facts.

DISTRICT ODD FELLOWS IN CONVENTION AT ROME

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

The convention will come to a close Friday night with election of officers and choice of the next place of meeting, which will probably be Cedartown.

THE SENATOR'S ADDRESS

change and all other cotton exchanges. The recrods of its daily prices are sent by the press associations to each paper in the United States which handles reports from a press association. Its daily price lists have a circulation throughout the United States and throughout the world far in excess of all other price lists in the United States indicating the market price of cotton.

CONTROL PRICE OF COTTON.

The public generally understands that cotton is really bought and sold on the New York exchange, and that a purchaser under their published prices can buy for immediate or future delivery middling cotton at the prices indicated by their price lists. It must, therefore, appear at once that the price lists which go out from the New York cotton exchange have an almost controlling influence on the market price of cotton.

Lint cotton is the second greatest agricultural product of the United States. Corn comes first. The crop last year, including the seed, was worth one billion dollars. A large part of the crop is shipped abroad. Upon it our country depends to a great extent for its international trade balances. That portion of the crop manufactured in the United States furnishes employment for a large number of citizens, and is one of our chief articles of profitable manufacture. The importance, therefore, of the staple, both as it applies to our international trade balances and as it applies to the producer and the manufacturer, is apparent.

I charge that the New York cotton exchange handles its business under a system which is unfair and disreputable. The system permits the manipulation of prices for gambling purposes, and it is continuously used to raise or lower the market prices of lint cotton to meet the wishes of the manipulators. This is unjust to the producer of cotton, and to the manufacturer, and is an unfair slap at the interests of our entire country.

My charge is that instead of being a legitimate exchange furnishing an opportunity for those who have cotton now, or will have it in the future, to trade with those who need it now, or will need it in the future, the New York cotton exchange has devised a scheme by which the seller can so tender to a purchaser cotton that the purchaser cannot take it, or if he does take it he receives something he did not buy, worth much less than the legitimate market price of the cotton which he was supposed to buy.

INSIDE CROWD HOLDS CARDS.

My charge is that the New York cotton exchange contract with its rules and regulations surrounding it creates a system of doing business which amounts to little less than gambling and enables the inside crowd to play with the outside crowd, the inside crowd holding the cards and looking at them with every opportunity to fleece their outside customers.

I wish to point out some features of their contract and mode of business, at least sufficient to justify my charge.

First: NUMBER OF GRADES. The New York cotton exchange uses under its system a large number of grades of cotton. While middling is the basic grade of all sales, they retain the right to the seller to deliver any one of the grades named in their list, and their list covers twenty-two grades of cotton besides middling. A purchaser may buy 100 bales of middling cotton. He may have in view for the sales of middling cotton in his own mill or he may have a customer who desires the cotton and will use it at his mill. When the purchaser through the New York cotton exchange receives the cotton, although he bought middling cotton he may have delivered to him cotton so far below middling that it is entirely useless for the purpose intended. Not alone is this true, but he may be tendered a mixed lot of cotton with only a few bales of each grade scattered over the entire list of twenty-three grades requiring him, if he takes it, to hunt purchasers for each one of the various grades, none of which may be the grade he actually purchased.

Again, these various grades of cotton may be scattered all through the warehouses, not classified, so that the purchaser can go to the warehouse and if he obtains what is tendered to him he must have large quantities of cotton handled and hunt through lot after lot for his particular grades.

GRADE NOT SPECIFIED.

They have also a system of tendering the cotton which they call pro forma. It consists of tendering cotton through an invoice which does not specify the exact grade of the cotton and which leaves the party tendering the cotton additional time to designate the exact grades of cotton to be actually delivered. The purchaser puts up his money and must wait to find out what he is to receive. When he finally receives a list of the grades he then must go through the process I have just described of obtaining it and if he finds he cannot handle the cotton outside of the New York cotton exchange on account of its bad character and undertakes to resell it through the exchange, although it has been examined and certified by the exchange to him, he must have it reclassified and certified, and pay for this work. With all these hindrances thrown around him he naturally throws up his hands and says "Keep your cotton, and settle with me as you please."

Second. Arbitrary differences. The mode of delivery before described is bad enough, but far worse is the system pursued by the New York cotton exchange of fixing an arbitrary difference of value between the middling cotton which the purchaser undertook to buy and the twenty-two other grades, either one or many of which may be delivered to the purchaser. By this I mean that a purchaser may buy on the New York cotton exchange middling cotton, and that when he calls for his cotton the seller can deliver him any one of the eighteen grades of cotton less valuable than middling, or any one of nine grades of cotton more valuable than middling. If one of these thirteen grades is less valuable than middling, or if a mixed lot is tendered the seller does not pay to the purchaser the actual differences in market value of the lower grades which he tenders and middling cotton. He is required by the rules of the New York exchange simply to tender an arbitrary difference which the exchange itself has fixed and which it has been in the habit of fixing only once a year.

Good ordinary cotton is a grade below middling. The difference in its value and the value of middling varies every year, based upon the character of the crop, the amount of good ordinary produced, and the demand for it. The market difference in value might be $8 a bale, and yet if the exchange fixed a difference at $8 a bale the purchaser of middling cotton would be forced to take good ordinary and receive only $8 a bale bonus for taking a cotton worth $8 a bale less than the cotton he purchased. The purchaser would, therefore, be receiving in cotton and money $5 less a bale than the middling cotton which he bought was worth. This would be a cent a pound less than his middling cotton on the spot markets was worth. It will readily be seen that the inside sellers, realizing they could settle for middling cotton under the system of the exchange at $5 less a bale than its market price, could bear on the market the sales of middling cotton down 1 cent a pound.

I will mention yet another element that furnishes opportunity under the New York cotton exchange system to manipulate and bear the market by fraud the seller from having to deliver a genuine quality of cotton. All middling cotton is not exactly the same cotton. All the lower grades of cotton below middling are not of exactly the same value. Cotton is graded largely according to color and cleanliness. Under the system used in the New York cotton exchange a large lot of cotton can be purchased and then the best of the various grades can be picked out and sold to manufacturers while the poorest is retained and kept in New York to be tendered to purchasers. There is a difference in the length of the staple of cotton in the same grade, and there is a difference in the character of the cotton of the same grade. A systematic effort to select cotton of short staple and poor character though falling within the grade of middling makes it possible for those dealing upon the New York cotton exchange to retain a lot of fraudulently called dog-tail cotton, and supplied with this inferior quality of the graden to be tendered further not only a low grade with an arbitrary difference between this and the grade sold, but also a poor class of the lower grade far below the average run of the grade. This means also has been resorted to on the New York cotton exchange, and low grade cotton had been accumulated from year to year to be tendered to purchasers as an additional means of depreciating the character of the tender made by the seller when the purchaser calls for his cotton.

LAW SHOULD HIT BOTH.

As low as has been the standard of character of cotton used by the New York exchange, I see by the papers of last Saturday that a big cotton house, the biggest perhaps in the United States, which is supposed to be heavily short on the New York cotton exchange, has been endeavoring to force the exchange to accept and certify a large amount of additional very low character cotton heretofore rejected by the exchange. I do not believe the officers of the cotton exchange will dare to yield to this demand. If they do, the law should be used to strike both the cotton house and the exchange. The difficulty, however, in that one small ordinary dealer cannot carry the burden. It requires an organization of manufacturers and cotton men to meet the situation.

I have certainly pointed out a sufficient number of lines of conduct pursued on the New York exchange to show that the system is unfair. If not disreputable. Its unfair means of delivery give sellers upon the exchange the opportunity to force down the prices bid for cotton on the exchange almost at their pleasure for the sellers will know that buyers cannot afford to take under their system what they offer. The immense quantity of their sales with their facility for advertising their selling prices all over the country, tend to force actual prices down, and thereby injure the spot seller. The prices are made fictitiously to rise and fall, thereby injuring all who handle cotton, the manufacturer as well as the cotton grower.

The time has come when this institution as now conducted should be suppressed, unless it can be forced to adopt honest methods. It is no more entitled to the use of the mails and the telegraph lines under its business as now conducted than was the lottery the exclusion of the business of which from the mails was sustained by the supreme court of the United States.

It is the organized enemy of cotton growers and cotton manufacturers, manipulating prices of the raw material which the one manufactures and which the other grows.

A few years ago, suffering from the effect of the evil conduct of this organized enemy, certain cotton buyers and cotton manufacturers united and determined to buy and require delivered to them all the cotton held by the New York exchange. They made an agreement that they would buy and distribute among themselves the cotton, agreeing further that neither of them in the contract would resell the cotton, so that it could be used in the gambling marts of the New York exchange.

SHOULD HAVE BEEN PRAISED.

The organization was made in self-defense against a wicked enemy which by unfair means was attacking and breaking down their legitimate business. This organization should have been commended by honest men who believe in a square deal, and yet under the direction of the department of justice these good men engaged in a patriotic work were charged with being guilty of an illegal conspiracy and were indicted for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust act. I regard this movement by the department of justice as the most inexcusable offense to be found in its history.

Today if a body of men, manufacturers and cotton merchants, would join under a similar agreement and buy up all the junk called cotton now on the New York exchange, agreeing not to resell any of it through any exchange, and thereby arrest the work of the men who have been manipulating cotton for the past few months to the injury of the public, they should be commended for their service more than the organization of private citizens who would invade a den of gamblers or robbers, or gunmen.

I would be glad to see the exchanges continue in legitimate business. I would be glad to see them continue operation with their unfair system eliminated. But, if this cannot be done, then better destroy them than to allow a conclusion of their present conduct. If they can be forced to give up their unfair methods which I have criticised and others which are well known, if they can be made to deliver cotton covered by government standardization, and deliver it promptly with no strings tied to the mode of delivery to deprive the purchaser of his rights, then with their gambling methods brought to an end, they would be of real value.

We will try them now with an effort to regulate, but they should understand that forbearance has about ceased. There is a way to stop them entirely, and unless they help purify their own house and bring it to a condition of decent and legitimate business, the next movement against them will be to terminate them.

TO PRESENT "THE GENIUS" FOR ELKS' CHARITY FUND

Players' Club Rehearsing Every Night for Performance at Grand Tuesday

Announcement was made Wednesday of the cast that is to present "The Genius" at the Grand next Tuesday night for the benefit of the Elks' charity fund. Rehearsals are being held each evening by the members of the Players' club, and the performance has reached already a degree of excellence which insures a treat for all who attend.

Two of the scenes which were used in the former presentation of the piece, last Shrove Tuesday, will be staged again, but the third will be new. The new scenery is being painted now by local artists especially for this Elks' charity performance.

Two new players will be seen in the cast next Tuesday evening, Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin and Lamar Hill, neither of whom appeared in the original production, have consented to take part this time notwithstanding the limited opportunity allowed them to rehearse their lines. Bereavement in the family of two of the players made necessary this call upon the compliance of Mrs. Jarnagin and Mr. Hill. Both have been seen in former productions by the Players' club and the art of each is known so well that their acceptability in the cast is assured.

Following will be the cast of characters:

Jack Spencer, a Rich Young Man in Search of Art—Frank Taylor.

Victor Le Mercier, a Young French Painter—Lamar Hill.

Bryan Macgonigal, a Sculptor—Dana Belcer.

Otto Vogelsberger, a Musician—Hamilton Douglas, Jr.

Cyrus W. Jenkins, a Self-Made Man—Franklin M. Mikell.

Cyril Farquhar, a Rich Aesthete—Mrs. C. Fred Bonawitz.

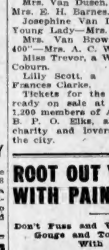
ROOT OUT YOUR CORNS WITH PAINLESS TANGO

Don't Fuss and Worry, and Pick and Gouge and Torture Your Toes With Caustics.



TANGO for Corns is the most marvelous remedy of the age. No wonder everybody is enthusiastic about it. One touch of TANGO on a corn ends your suffering. Applied in a second, and it is done. No plaster or salve to fuss with; nothing to stick on the stocking and be jerked from the sore toe, causing excruciating agony; no swelling and tenderness, no blood. Whatever you do for a corn, NEVER use a point or a blade, because the risk is too great. A slip of the instrument and a drop of blood caused many cases of blood poison.

TANGO is the one safe remedy that roots out the core of the corn painlessly. It softens this kernel and brings it out, the root, and the corn is gone forever. No pain, no fuss, no sore, bandaged toes.

TANGO is the safest and surest remedy for corns and bunions; the one GUARANTEED remedy. Any druggist will return your money if TANGO fails to root out the CORE of the corn painlessly. 25c at All Druggists. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.—(Advt.)

FLAMING POSTERS TO AID IN "CLEAN-UP" CAMPAIGN

Atlanta Advertising Service Volunteers to Help Work Without Cost

Further plans for the "clean-up" campaign of the city by the Atlanta chamber of commerce in preparation for the thousands of visitors expected here during grand opera week and the grand convocation of the Ancient Arabic Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, took definite shape Thursday morning when the Atlanta Advertising Service, under direction of H. L. DeGive, volunteered to place posters gratis on fifty billboards in Atlanta.

These posters, in red letters, large enough to be seen for blocks, will be put up at once and no eye can escape seeing one, no matter in what part of the city one may ride or walk.

Similar campaigns have been inaugurated in Boston, St. Louis, Denver, Buffalo, Baltimore and many other large cities throughout the United States.

Atlanta is getting in fine shape for her campaign and by April 18 the city will be painted anew and spotlessly clean. Interest in the movement is general and citizens in every walk of life have pledged themselves to cooperate with those in charge of the work.

ALL RUN DOWN IN THE SPRING

The reason why you feel so tired at this time is that your blood is impure and impoverished. You need the rich red blood that gives life to the whole body, perfects digestion and enables all the organs to perform their functions as they should.

with the robber, who threw a piece of iron and hit him on the head.

The chase of the criminal began at the bank, around which a big crowd of negroes was attracted by the noise of two pistol shots. The robber escaped by a rear door into an alley, jumped into a buggy and drove away at a gallop. He fled to Houston street, to Piedmont avenue, where two policemen on foot sought to head him off at the corner. He eluded them by turning into Piedmont avenue, following that to Harris, turning the corner into Williams, and disappeared. The police surrounded the block between Harris and Cain and were searching it, when another hue and cry was raised after a man who had jumped into a wagon on Harris street, just west of Williams. This man rattled away toward Marietta street, the crowd of police and citizens following.

SAID HE WAS SICK.

While the crowd was gone, Call Officer James Palmer continued searching. He entered the house at 20 Williams street and found a man in bed with a young woman washing the man's face. "He's sick," said the young woman. "You mustn't come in."

The officer withdrew, but stopped a few feet away in the hall and listened. Hearing noises of some one moving around in the room, he returned and arrested the man in bed. In a dresser drawer he found a revolver which smelled like it had been fired recently, he believed. One chamber was empty. The other chambers were filled with cartridges on which the box grease was still fresh, according to the officer.

J. O. Ross, Jr., the young negro on whom the hold-up made his attack, said afterward that the man wore a stiff hat, gray suit and glasses. He looked up when the man entered from the hall of the building, said Ross, and was surprised immediately by the command to go and get all the cash out of the vault. The man then came behind the bank counter, said Ross, pointed a gun at him, and commanded him again to go into the vault.

"There's no money there," Ross said.

"You're a liar," the man answered.

Ross said he lunged at the intruder, forcing the revolver up. The gun exploded harmlessly. The struggle continued, and the revolver was discharged again. The robber tripped and Ross leaped away. Just then the white man threw a heavy piece of iron at him, said the negro, hitting him on the head and knocking him semi-conscious. He screamed, but by then the bank was surrounded by negroes. The white man fled through the rear door, commandeered the horse and buggy of Jerome Sanders, a negro, and galloped away. As he started, he fired a couple of shots toward the crowd, making it pause in its pursuit.

The automobile load of police was within sight of the fugitive when he looked back, turned a corner and disappeared.

HAS TALK WITH WIFE.

The young woman who Rhynata said is his wife appeared at police headquarters within the hour after Rhynata had been locked up. She was crying and said she wanted to stay there with her husband. She was admitted to his cell. Later she returned to their rooms on Williams street.

Mrs. Rhynata appeared again at police headquarters Thursday morning, but was not admitted to see her husband alone. Captain Poole accompanied her to his cell, where she consoled him through the bars and cried over his predicament.

"Oh, he's absolutely innocent," she protested. "He couldn't have done a thing like that. He is a good man."

Mrs. Rhynata told the police her husband left home about 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and was back within fifteen minutes.

Rhynata himself admitted that, saying he went to a drug store on Peachtree street for some medicine.

Rhynata said he is a magician on the stage. His wife helps him in the act, he said. He played last in Gadsden, Ala., he said, and during February he played a week at a moving picture theater in Atlanta.

POLICE MAKE BIG HAUL IN "BLIND TIGER" RAID

One of the biggest blind tiger raids of the year was made late Wednesday night by Plain Clothes Officers Waters and Miliam, when they searched the home of Dave Shields, colored, 48 Gartrell street, and confiscated several hundred bottles of whisky.

The two officers went to the negro's home late at night, having heard that he was operating a "tiger." They were refused admittance, so they telephoned Assistant Chief Jett, who obtained a search warrant from the municipal court. The house was then forcibly entered, the negro arrested, and the whisky carted to police headquarters in the patrol.

MAN MAY SELL LIQUOR AND STILL NOT BE MEAN

Selling intoxicating liquors in violation of the law is not an offense involving moral turpitude, according to a decision handed down by the state court of appeals Thursday.

In the case of Edenfield versus the state, appealed from Emanuel county, the court holds as follows:

"As the offense of selling intoxicating liquor is not one of those offenses involving moral turpitude, a witness cannot be impeached by proof that he has violated this law."

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theatres are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

The Forsyth is certainly recording a record breaker for attendance this week, as every performance has witnessed standing room, sometimes to the capacity limit. Mary Marble and Sam Chip are the headliners, presenting the picture book playlet, "In the Land of Dykes." This popular couple always make a big hit, and when each of the other six numbers are of the variety composing this bill, it is an offering hard to beat. Howard and Radiff, assisted by Dorothy Hayden, are the big comedy hit, and other unusual entertaining features are the Castle pictures, showing the muchly advertised Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle at the Sans Souci restaurant in their favorite dances; the Frescotts, two mentelapathists above par; the Aoshi troupe, presenting feats of magic mystery and Risley; Elida Morris, singing comedienne, and others.

Next week promises another big offering to be headed by Taylor Granville and company, offering "The System."

BRINSON RAILWAY CO. AMENDS ITS CHARTER

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten it.

There is some dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of child-birth. But, thanks to a remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, the period is one of joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is a penetrating, external application. It makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and homes.

Thousands of women know from experience Mother's Friend is one of our greatest contributions to happy motherhood. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Especially recommended as a preventive of caking breast.

Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 251 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable book to expectant mothers.

ATLANTA BOY THESPIAN TO APPEAR AT FORSYTH

On the bill announced for the Forsyth theater next week will be Clark Jones, an Atlanta boy, a brother of Adam Jones, of this city, and son of Peter Jones, also of Atlanta.

Using the stage name of Harry Clark, Mr. Jones has made a wide success both in this country and in Europe with his act, the Trans-Atlantic trio. It is claimed that he is the first artist to play classical music on the banjo.

Mr. Jones is well known in Atlanta and his many friends here are looking forward with much interest to his appearance on the local vaudeville stage.

NEGROES SENTENCED TO HANG GET RESPITE

By an appeal to the state supreme court the execution of Robert Paschal, William and George Hart, three Jefferson county negroes, under sentence to be hanged in the Fulton county jail on Friday for the murder of Mrs. Seth Irby, of Louisville, has been automatically stayed.

These negroes were tried in the Fulton superior court because of the feeling against them in Jefferson county. They were convicted of first degree murder and Judge B. H. Hill sentenced them to be hanged. The appeal to the supreme court was filed by Attorney Hugh Howell.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR, ITCHY SCALP, END THIS AT ONCE--25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save your hair! Make it grow luxuriant and beautiful

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—(Adv.)

DORSEY IS WORKING HARD ON FRANK CASE

Solicitor Will Vigorously Resist Attorney's Motion for New Trial

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, despite his refusal to discuss recent developments in the Leo M. Frank case, is known to be preparing evidence with which to fight the extraordinary motion for a new trial which attorneys for the defense will file in the criminal division of the superior court.

Although actively engaged in the prosecution of routine criminal cases each morning, he is devoting his afternoons to work on the Frank case.

City Detectives Starnes and Campbell, who have been working practically under his directions since long before the trial, consult with him each day.

Two of the big points of the defense in the coming motion will be the attack on the solicitor's theory that the hair found on the lathe in the metal room was that of the slain girl, Mary Phagan, and the contention that the murder notes could not have been written in Frank's private office as Jim Conley claims.

The solicitor is carefully preparing to fight these two points, and many witnesses are said to have been interviewed by the two detectives.

When it became known that the state's expert, Dr. H. F. Harris, had made a microscopic examination of the hair and decided it was not Mary Phagan's, the solicitor stated that in this matter he did not consider the opinion of the physician of value, and that he still believed the hair to be Mary Phagan's.

TO CALL ON EXPERTS.

To combat the contention of the defense he will have the testimony of several experts, it is said, who will swear that a microscopic examination of hair is not of greater value than a visual examination.

The murder notes before the trial were in the hands of Solicitor Dorsey and he made a careful study of them, including a microscopic examination of the almost obliterated signature now claimed by the defense to be that of H. F. Becker, a former master mechanic. He expected at the trial, it is said, that the defense would stress the point that the order blank on which the murder note was written bore the numerals in the blank for the date "190—" instead of "191—," and contend that such paper would not have been in Frank's office. As a result he already has testimony in his hands with which to fight he defense's contention.

MRS. LUCINDA GOODWIN IS DEAD IN BALTIMORE

Woman Who Formerly Lived in Atlanta Will Be Brought Here for Burial

The body of Mrs. Lucinda Goodwin, eight-years old, who died Wednesday morning in Baltimore, will arrive in Atlanta Friday morning. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the Second Baptist church, Dr. John E. White officiating.

He was also past grand sire of the Odd Fellows, and is present grand secretary of the sovereign lodge in Baltimore.

Mrs. Goodwin was beloved by a large circle of friends.

PREACHER MUST GO TO KENTUCKY FOR TRIAL

C. T. Pratt Charged With Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses

C. T. Pratt, a holiness preacher, of Bartow county, who was arrested several days ago while holding a meeting in Cartersville, must go to Kentucky to stand trial on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, the accusation under which he was taken in custody and on which he has since been held in the Bartow county jail.

Governor Slaton, after a hearing Wednesday morning, granted the requisition of the governor of Kentucky, and Deputy Sheriff J. West Parkins, of Whitley county, Kentucky, left Atlanta for Cartersville to take Pratt back to stand trial.

According to the complaint against the preacher, he several months ago took a note for $121.36 from J. K. Rose, of Williamsburg, Ky. After the note fell due Pratt, it is claimed, sold it to a Williamsburg bank. Rose claims he paid the full amount of the note to Pratt on the understanding that he was to pay the bank and claim the note for him, which, he alleges, Pratt failed to do.

INDIAN CONVICT GIVEN PAROLE BY GOVERNOR

Governor Slaton Wednesday afternoon paroled M. L. Lowry, who claims to be a Creekstan Indian and who has served fifteen years of a life sentence for the murder of a man named Burns.

Burns, a trapper, was shot and mortally wounded in a Glynn county swamp in 1897. Lowry, who was also a trapper, was arrested and convicted on circumstantial evidence. He was condemned to death, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Atkinson.

On the prison records Lowry is listed as a negro, but during all the fifteen years that he has been in the penitentiary he has maintained that he is an Indian and has sought to have the record changed.

ROME MINISTERS MAY ARBITRATE MILL STRIKE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., March 26.—The textile workers of the Anchor Duck Mills are still out on a strike, and there seems to be no probability of an early settlement of the difficulties between the operatives and the mill owners.

Charles A. Miles, of Fall River, Mass., a general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, makes caustic comment upon the sermon preached by the Rev. W. L. Walker, pastor of the First Baptist church, in which he makes criticism of the preacher's remarks concerning the strike and declares that this unsympathetic attitude on the part of a respresentative of the church tends to create an estrangement between the working men and the church.

He asserts, however, that he is perfectly willing to have the questions at issue arbitrated by the other ministers of the city if they will consent to this.

CHANCE FOR THE BLIND TO HEAR GRAND OPERA

Any Person With Paid Ticket May Carry Sightless Friend Without Cost

Have you a blind friend who loves music?

You may take him to the grand opera this season without cost, if you accompany him, see that he is seated, and have a paid-for ticket yourself.

P. F. Backnight, secretary of the Georgia Association for the Blind, has secured this concession from the Music Festival association. There are a number of seats behind the "sight line" in the auditorium, close to the stage but at such an angle the stage cannot be seen. But the voices may be heard perfectly, and any blind person is welcome to a seat there. The only requirement is that some friend with a paid-for ticket accompany the blind music lover and see that he is safely seated. He need not sit with the blind friend unless he desires, but may have his own seat anywhere in the auditorium.

The big red velvet curtain, embroidered with gold and valued at $40,000, has arrived and is being hung in the proscenium in preparation for the opera season. It is loaned every year by the Metropolitan.

Several thousand dollars' worth of season tickets have been sold now and not called for. Unless they are paid for and taken up before Saturday night the reservations will be cancelled and the seats put back in the racks to be sold singly.

WOMEN ON FOUR BOARDS FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

Charter Amenders Will Recommend Women for Health, Schools, Library and Park

Five women each on the board of health, the board of education, the park board and the library board was agreed to and adopted Wednesday afternoon by the charter amendment committee of general council, after a discussion between the committee and a delegation of women who appeared to advocate the proposition.

These boards now consist of one member from each of the ten city wards and the mayor and the chairman of the corresponding council committee as ex-officio members, making a total membership of twelve. The addition of five women will make the membership seventeen.

The plan worked out by the committee is as follows:

The women are to be full members, with voting power the same as the men; they are to be elected by general council in the same way that board members are now elected, and they are to come from five districts formed by grouping the First and Fifth wards together, the Second and Third wards together, the Fourth and Ninth wards together, the Sixth and Eighth wards together, and the Seventh and Tenth wards together. The reason for this grouping is that the wards, in the order named, are adjacent to each other.

A charter amendment embodying the full details of the plan above outlined will be reported to general council with a recommendation that it be adopted. If council adopts the amendment, it will then be transmitted to the state legislature along with other charter amendments adopted by council, and the legislature will be asked to enact the same.

The committee discussed a number of other charter amendments Wednesday afternoon, that important of these being a change in the system of electing the chief of construction and other administrative officials of the city government.

These are now elected by the people, and several members of the committee proposed that they be elected by general council instead. A number of them formerly were elected by general council. It was argued that the chief of construction, city warden, city building inspector, city clerk, city electrician, etc., which offices are purely administrative and subject to the direction of general council, should therefore be elected by general council. Under the present system of electing these officials by the people they are compelled every two years to leave their offices and make a city-wide campaign for re-election.

'FOLLIES" HERE AGAIN AND MAKE BIG HIT

Atlanta Theater Crowded to Its Capacity Long Before Curtain Was Raised

"The Follies" played to an overcrowded house on Wednesday night at The Atlanta theater, the return engagement being just as entertaining as the first performance a short while ago.

"Standing room only" was the reply given to those who went late for tickets, and there were many who were so eager to see the performance that they availed themselves of that as a last resort.

The company was just the same as that which appeared during the first engagement and the production was better in some details than was the first presentation.

"The Follies" will be at the Atlanta Thursday afternoon and night, and the seat sale indicates a filled house at both performances.

CITIZENS OF WEST END SEEK BETTER CAR SERVICE

Resolution Will Be Considered at Meeting to Be Held Friday Night

Protests on the car service furnished citizens of West End by the Georgia Railway and Power company on the Walker to West View line will be made at a joint meeting of the West End Improvement club and the West Side Improvement club, to be held Friday night at the Odd Fellows' hall, corner Gordon street and Lucile avenue, West End.

Resolutions will be drawn up for presentation to the power company in which it will be claimed that the cars on the Walker-to-West View line are so small and inadequate that morning, noon and night seats are filled and passengers are forced to crowd together inside and on both front and back platforms.

The West End citizens believe the power company will see the justice of their plea and will give them bigger cars and better service.

At the same time West End citizens look for co-operation from those on the north side who patronize the other end of the Walker-to-West View line. It is probable that citizens of Druid Hills and the Highland avenue neighborhood will also call a mass meeting to join their protest to that of West End.

CARD FROM WILLIAMS.

A card from Eb T. Williams, of West End, explaining the purpose of Friday's mass meeting, is as follows:

Editor The Journal: West End has outgrown the Walker street car service. A certain hours in the day, especially in the morning, at noon, and late in the afternoon, it is impossible to get a seat. After the small number of seats are filled, the passageway inside, and the platforms are always crowded to suffocation, and the conductor has to "crawl over" us a dozen times or more, to collect the fares. There are not even tells on these small inadequate cars, and it is a fact that this, one of the best patronized lines, is the most neglected.

Now, I make this appeal to the residents of West End along this line, to get together, and place this matter before Mr. Arkwright, who is a just and fair man, and we believe that he will give us large cars and pay as you enter.

As a member of the West End Improvement club I call on the members, and also ask the other improvement club at Battle Hill to co-operate with us for better car service. It is also imperative that another car line should be built out Sells and Greensferry avenues to accommodate residents there. Within the past three years West End has built up so fast that where there were woods and unoccupied streets, and dirt roads then, there are thickly settled streets, which are graded and paved. It is essential that action be taken at once to relieve the situation. After all the men give up their seats, women with small children in their arms frequently have to stand.

EB. T. WILLIAMS.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES LEAD TO FIGHT WITH LAWYER

J. B. Gordon Discusses Case With Attorney Coburn and Blows Follow Hot Words

Great excitement was caused in the offices of Felder & Coburn, attorneys, Wednesday morning, when W. S. Coburn struck J. B. Gordon and then closed with him, putting him out of the office and breaking a glass partition in the fight.

Gordon had stated, according to Coburn, that divorce proceedings recently brought by his wife with Felder & Coburn as her attorneys, would never have continued were it not for the lies told by Felder & Coburn.

When he said this to Coburn, it is said, the latter struck him in the face. Gordon then reached for a heavy paper weight, witnesses state, but Coburn was too quick for him.

Seizing the weight, he hurled it out of the open door, and then struck Gordon again, this time knocking him against a glass partition, which broke from the impact.

Gordon's face was bleeding, the blood flowing over Coburn's clothes and on to the floor. Two woman stenographers in the outer office fled when they heard the blows and saw the combatants.

Gordon, leaving the office, went at once to Judge Roseer's branch of the municipal court, where he swore out a warrant against Coburn. He stated then that he had not struck the latter. This was borne out by witnesses.

GORDON BLAMES COBURN.

"Coburn made a very cowardly and dastardly assault on me," declared young Gordon, in giving his version of the affair, which varies greatly from that given by the attorney.

"The lie was never passed during our entire conversation," said Gordon. "I had gone to Coburn's office in response to a letter from him. I found he was attempting to revive the litigation between my wife and myself. Finally, as I was leaving the office, I told him that I hoped he and Felder would not revive the litigation. He took exceptions to this, and as I rose from the chair, he jumped up and grabbed me by the back of the coat collar and tried to strike me with the top of an ink well. I knocked it out of his hand, and shoved him through the door of his private office. We were separated by several people, who were in the office. Coburn even tried to bite me. When I was knocking the ink well top from his hand."

Several months ago Mrs. Gordon, who was Miss Sadie Goldstein, brought suit for divorce and alimony through Attorney Coburn. The alimony phase of the suit was heard by Judge John T. Pendleton, of the superior court, and he awarded Mrs. Gordon $10 per month alimony, remarking that there seemed to be little grounds for divorce, and that he hoped the differences of the couple would be adjusted.

Later the divorce petition, which had never been heard, was withdrawn from the court, and the litigation was stopped. Gordon, at the time of the withdrawal of the suit, told reporters that he expected to effect a reconciliation with his wife.

The litigation was accordingly stopped. After two months, however, Mrs. Gordon, it is said, complained to her attorneys that she was dissatisfied with the arrangements and that her husband had neglected her, and said she either wanted to sue again for divorce or else effect a real reconciliation.

Albert Howell, Jr., Nominated Third Vice President to Succeed Him

Announcement was made Thursday morning by President Mell R. Wilkinson, of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, of the resignation as third vice president of Colonel William Lawson Peel, who for personal reasons has retired from active work in the organization.

Since the retirement of Colonel Peel, the nominating committee of the chamber has named Albert Howell, Jr., fourth vice president, to succeed him, and H. G. Hastings, now fifth vice president, is to step into the place of Mr. Howell. The vacancy occasioned by the promotion of Mr. Hastings will be filled by Dan E. Allen, who was chosen fifth vice president.

Mr. Allen was a member of the board of directors and the vacancy caused by his elevation to a vice presidency will be filled by J. R. A. Hobson.

Mr. Wilkinson announces also the appointment of Clyde L. King as chairman of the manufacturers' committee. The members of the committee will be named after a conference between Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. King.

Villa's Repulse.

If Villa's attack on Torreon has been so disastrous a failure as dispatches now indicate, there is scant prospect of the Constitutionalists restoring peace in Mexico. The rebel leader approached the federal stronghold with bright chances of victory. His army was supposed to outnumber the enemy's, though the latter was strongly fortified and well equipped with artillery. In the early stages of the battle, Villa's men swept irresistibly forward. They captured important outposts of Torreon and were almost at the gates of the city itself when, according to latest reports, they were routed with heavy loss.

It may be that these reports, coming as they do from Mexico City, are inspired by the Huerta regime, but it is significant that Villa has permitted no dispatches from his own camp. Had the revolutionists taken Torreon, their march toward the capital would have been greatly facilitated. Furthermore, they would have caught the imagination of the people and would have won support throughout the country. But if they have lost this decisive battle, their cause seems rather forlorn, and other influences must be looked to for the republic's pacification.

We all get our start in life by picking up ideas.

Season Tickets for Grand Opera

Of much importance to music lovers in Atlanta and throughout the South, is the announcement that the sale of season tickets for the approaching week of Metropolitan grand opera will end next Saturday, March the twenty-eighth. After that time it will be impossible to secure season reservations or the peculiar advantage of the accompanying scale of prices. The cost of seats purchased on the season ticket basis is naturally lower than that of those bought for single performances, and the variety of seats from which to select is wider now than it will be. As a matter of economy and prudence, hundreds and hundreds of people are securing season tickets while they are available. Indeed, the sale of season seats is already notably larger than it was last year, and every indication points to a new record of opera attendance.

It is well to remember, then, that the season-ticket sale ends next Saturday and that thereafter the present opportunities will be withdrawn. Owing to the Auditorium's great seating capacity, an abundance of excellent seats are still available, but the popularity of the opera program this year makes the demand for them unusually heavy.

With more justice comes less desire to talk about it.

There are times when the truth is about as inspiring as a cold fried egg.

Rebuking Murdock.

For seeking to array the House "Progressives" in support of free tolls for coastwise shipping, Congressman Murdock is sharply rebuked by some of the strongest adherents of the new party. Says the Chicago Tribune, a particularly earnest and able champion of the "Progressive" cause: "Murdock's past record saves him from the accusation which will be leveled at other Congressmen lining up for the measure, whose chief purpose is to put the public's money in the hands of a monopoly. Not venality, but uncontrolled political ambition is Murdock's incentive. He seems a chance to embarrass the Administration. To do so, he is willing to sacrifice the rights of his constituents, the treasury of the United States, and the national honor. If the "Progressives" in Congress follow Murdock, the party will have to go into the fall campaign, either repudiating its Congressmen or supporting law-bred monopoly."

The Tribune sees the strategic as well as the moral aspect of the tolls issue, and realizes the incubus its party would have to carry as an advocate of special privilege to the coastwise shipping interests. The Democratic party can ill afford to be less foresighted. Its responsibility in the matter will be peculiarly great, for, the Democrats are charged with control of the Government. On them will fall the heaviest condemnation, if the country's foreign affairs are still further embarrassed and the national treasury is drained of millions of dollars merely in order to get a special privilege to a shipping monopoly. When the canal bill was before Congress in 1912, a majority of Democrats consistently voted against the tolls exemption clause., The majority is bound by every consideration of party principle and expediency to vote now for its repeal. And happily, all omens indicate that the majority will so vote.

Old John Lind will have to keep off the lecture platform until it is all over.

The New Haven Settlement.

The President's "constitution of peace" for the settlement of trust problems has won another notable victory in the agreement that has been reached between the Government and the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. Facing the alternative of adjusting itself to the law or entering upon a long battle in the courts, the railroad has wisely chosen the former course. Its management has seceded to all the essential demands of the Department of Justice; monopoly will give way to normal competition, adventurous finance will be supplanted by legitimate business, the interests of stockholders and the rights of the public will both be conserved, and all this will be accomplished without strife or litigation.

The agreement provides, among other things, for the sale of the New Haven's controlling interest in the Boston and Maine system, for its disposal of the Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut trolley lines, and for the release of its steamship lines in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission decides these cannot be legally held. These changes are to be effected, not suddenly, but through a period of years so that they may take place with a minimum of disturbance to all interests concerned.

The results no doubt will be distinctly invigorating to the railroad itself. The company turns from its old policy of aggrandisement, its ambition for monopoly and faces a new day of service and efficiency. "The decline of the New Haven from one of the most prosperous railroads in the country to virtual bankruptcy," says one observer, "was caused by monopolistic mismanagement. Its stock is at the lowest point in years. Dividends have been passed, rolling stock has deteriorated, and wrecks have destroyed much property. It is the intent of the present agreement to end this disastrous period and to enable the railroad to start anew. The agreement is notable not only for New England but for the whole United States."

The quiet and economical settlement of a long vexed problem is due largely to the Administration's wise policy. Without threat or bluster, the Administration let it be known that the anti-trust act must be obeyed. Offending interests realised that at length they were dealing with governmental power at once firm and conscientious, that there was no desire to destroy them but an unswerving purpose to bring them squarely within the law. They were given opportunity to adjust themselves without attack through the courts, and in the case of the New Haven and other corporations, this opportunity has been used with broadly satisfactory results.

This is what the President has happily termed a "constitution of peace." It is a condition and an atmosphere, in which all business breathes fresh assurance. Men feel that there is no need of war between the Government and business interests; there is need only of fair play and common justice. A few years ago a settlement such as has been accomplished in the New Haven case would have been virtually impossible. That it is possible today and that it will be repeated through many other instances, is a remarkable tribute to the new political order.

The Call of the South.

The Georgia Chamber of Commerce has published, in the form of an illustrated magazine, a remarkable summary of Georgia's resources and opportunities. The articles, covering a wide range of subjects in which home-seekers and investors are particularly interested, are written by men who are closely identified with the State Chamber and who are in vital touch with the development of the commonwealth. The publication will impress every reader and will do much to carry forward the work the State Chamber of Commerce has undertaken.

This organization has proved itself worthy of support in every county of Georgia. It is upbuilding the State at home and is advertising it throughout America. Alliance with the State Chamber will be of definite, far-reaching value to each community in plans for local development. It is designed to promote the interests of rural and urban districts alike, to help the merchant, the farmer, the manufacturer and to broaden the opportunities of all Georgians.

Its latest piece of enterprise, the publication entitled "The Call of the South," eloquently bespeaks the ideals and the practical purposes for which it stands. Wherever the magazine goes, it will carry the story of Georgia's rare and abundant advantages, and will beget fresh interest in the opportunities of the South.

THRILLERS

By Dr. Frank Crane

(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

The farmers, said the show man, are getting "plum blase."

There was a meeting of the American Association of State Fairs and Expositions some time ago at Chicago.

There were delegates from all over the west. There was gloom. Because thrillers have ceased to thrill and nerve-wreckers to wreck. Said one of them, I quote from the news column:

"An' I offered him the breath snatchin' sensation of the day, what charms real snakes while doin' the debutanty slouch on a slack wire strung from a court house to the soldiers' monument, an' he said it was too tame! An' then I made the prop'sition to have two steam indines run toward each other sixty miles an hour and bust directly in front of the grand stand, but he said it was too tame.

"An' then I sprung my big thriller—the guy that eats lunch in his own aeroplane glidin' upside down —an' he said that was a tame, too! He told me to peddle tame tricks like those to children's parties."

Moving men are having similar troubles. Train robberies, knife fights on the cliff, and Nick Winter's hairbreadth escapes are leaving us jaded.

It is also becoming harder for the novelist when he starts out with a murder in the first chapter to work on up to something more exciting.

The Poor Little Rich Girl with a thousand dollars' worth of mechanical toys mopes in the window seat.

The pleasures of the palate are limited. You can eat only about so much. Your digestive capacity is limited; by and by you are drunk and can't taste anything.

Work has its evils and pains; but nothing to speak of, compared to play.

Every healthy man ought to get down on his knees a-mornings and thank God for his job.

For this is the magnificat of the happy the world over:

"My soul doth magnify the Lord, for that I can work, do work, and want to work."

When you work you get tired, which is blessed.

When you play you soon get satisfied, bored, nauseated. Whence springs our grand crop of pessimism, self-pity, and world-weariness.

If, as they say, work is the punishment of God and play the blessing of men, then of a surety is God's punishment better than men's blessing.

Don't let the soap-box orators fool you. The wage-earner is not to be pitied. For the man that eats the most out of his life is the one who has work, is interested in it, and gets paid for it.

The Journal's Letter Box

Marietta, Ga., March 23, 1914.

Editor The Journal:

Replying to Mr. W. A. Brannon on corn, hay and peas vs. cotton, will say that we were of the opinion that he got that "dope" by inquiry before he told us. I would not be so heartless as to suppose that a man of experience in farming would send out that kind of advice.

I have been waiting for that string of postals that Mr. Brannon was to get dropped into The Journal office, and which he thought would help him to show us Georgia "clod-knockers" how to farm. As they have not put in their appearance, I presume said "clod-knockers" are not much interested in this get-rich-quick corn and peas farming scheme, which speaks well for the gray matter which they carry in the back of their heads. It would most certainly be a foolish scheme for any farming world if a one-horse farmer could make the crop of corn and peas that Mr. Brannon dreams about, but where in Georgia did he see that one-horse farmer made 300 bushels of corn and such an unreasonable amount of peas as he states? He must be some farmer. I can name one-horse farmers within thirty miles of Atlanta who have made twenty-five bales of cotton in a season. How does that look alongside a measly 900 bushels of corn?

Speaking of the postals Mr. Brannon wanted sent in, saying which estimate is nearest correct, reminds me that I have a letter here from a Georgia farmer, as follows: "I noticed in The Journal today you had something to say that showed what was what. There are just lots of folks in this country who need 'bringing down' just like you did that fellow." This shows that Georgia people do not run off after every pretended "Moses" that appears on the scene.

If Mr. Brannon had advised the growing of more corn and peas and stopped at that, his advice would have been good, but when he gets so far off the track as to advise the growing of these as a money crop against cotton, we know immediately that his estimates are only paper and pencil affairs and do not come from experience. When he again says that land which will grow a bale of cotton will easily make fifty bushels of corn, and that he never heard of as little as one bushel of peas per acre, it is additional evidence of his agricultural ignorance. I have planted acres and acres without making a quart per acre, and so has almost every other farmer who makes a practice of planting peas in corn. He says he never hears a word on this thing, but did he ever know of the yields he mentions, only in his dreams?

Now, Mr. Brannon states that Georgia averages a bale of cotton on every three acres, and the average price is 11 cents, which means that Georgia's cotton crop is worth a little over $18 per acre. Does he not know that our corn crop averages only a little better than $10 per acre at his 50 cents per bushel? If he undertakes to prove his theory by averages, does he not see that his figures will pile up 40 per cent more debt each year?

He states that the corn and pea man would have time to look after hogs, etc., and do an awful lot of other things. Well, we raise cotton for money instead of corn and peas, but we have had time to sell $1,778 worth of hogs since January 1 this year. I am not pretending to say that this is a one-horse man's job, for we have 100 acres in the farm, but mention it to show Mr. Brannon that we raise some hogs as well as cotton and have a little actual experience in getting the dollars out of Georgia soil.

The plain facts in this matter are that our agricultural writers and teachers, almost to a man, agree that we should raise less cotton, corn, and hay. We farmers know this, but when you ask one of these men, whose word is considered authority, to point out one best money crop, not one in a hundred will display enough ignorance to make the subject to say corn and peas, because he knows better. Not one farmer in a thousand who has tried it will say corn and peas, because he knows better. Not one man in a hundred who has studied the question and has the welfare of his fellow man at heart will say corn and peas, because he knows better, even though he has never trod the new ground of planting peas in corn or the sun, as it grows or sees the growing stalks of cotton bend their heads to kiss the first rays of the morning sun, or hold them erect in gladness at the beginning of a long needed shower.

Certainly the natives of any country are the last to get out of a beaten path when they know that path is right. Likewise, a man just coming in and knowing least about the other fellow's job is first to offer advice.

C. W. FOWLER.

Yours I disdainfully now for the gentle

Ill of the chill that has handed o'erlong!
Spaint away, winter, I long to farewell you—

Up with the city that is symbol of spring!
Frenzy? . . . I know, but I had to have copy—
Ain't it a queenie little, cute little thing?

THE SEARCHLIGHT

Electric Greetings to the Stranger.

Modest claims of some eighty American cities flame upon the stranger's vision of night skys by means of huge electric signs as his train draws into their stations. The popularity of these electric sign displays is steadily increasing. Not only are they flaunted by the larger cities, but also small communities of 1,500 population bare their hopes to the world in bright electric letters.

Schnectady, N. Y., announces in calm, incandescent words: "Schenectady Lights and Hauls the World," while by similar means the traveler is admonished to "Watch Scranton Grow," and advised that "Topeka, Kan., Topeka Will." Welcome on the mat Walla Walla, Wash., is a legend shining toward the weary wanderer. "What Walla Walla Wants Is You." Boston is alliterative, terse and hopeful. "Bigger, Busier, Better Boston" is its electric slogan.

"Welcome" is the pleasant greeting to the stranger at Menominee, Mich. Many of the cities hint that the visitor's wanderings are over. "Try Tuscaloosa, Ala.," and "You Will Like Tacoma" are invitations to pause and get acquainted. Other signs are mild statements of the place's virtues, such as "She Sits Forever in the Sun," Colorado Springs, Col.; "Durham Renowned the World Around," Durham, N. C.; "Mott in the Spot," "Pittsburg Promotes Progress," "Shreveport Spells Success," and "All Roads Lead to Spokane."

Press Comment on the Frank Trial

The Reporter earnestly hopes that a new trial will be granted. A question has been raised as to the fairness of the first trial, as to whether the jury made its verdict solely upon the evidence adduced or was unduly swayed by the clamor of the crowds which thronged the court room and the streets outside. Doubt having been created, it is better for society that a new trial be granted.—LaGrange Reporter.

We are not interested in Frank. We are only concerned about the matter of giving him a fair trial and an opportunity to secure from the public generally equal justice before the law. He should be viewed as an American citizen and a human being who, charged with a great crime, seeks to arrest public attention so that it may be directed toward the great principle that every man is presumed to be innocent until he is proved guilty by "due process of law."

We have not been solicited by any man to espouse the cause of Frank. We do not do so but distinctly affirm that we do not know, from all that has been offered, whether he is guilty or not, and hence we insist that this fact should be known, beyond a reasonable doubt, before we demand his life. We are unable to place the value on the testimony which was given it by the verdict of the trial jury. We very much fear that certain rights, which are guaranteed by our courts, were not sacredly regarded when this man was tried for murder.—Bartow Tribune.

Mississippi River Floods

V.—Mississippi-Panama Trade Route.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Often spoken of as twin projects, in that both are giant undertakings even for an age of confident engineering, the control of the Mississippi river and the construction of the Panama canal bear a still more fascinating relationship to one another, and one which is startling in its promise. This is their complementary relationship as elements of a new world trade route. That the engineers building at Panama and along the national river are laying the foundations for the world's greatest avenue of commerce, a Mississippi-Panama canal-Pacific ocean route, is the unavoidable conviction forced home by consideration of these two waterways conjointly.

* * *

Containing 1,240,050 square miles within its basin, or about one-half of the productive area of the country, and reaching, with its tributaries, the grain, stock and ore markets of the northwest, and west and the factories of the middle states, the Mississippi river system forms a widespread network of waterways arranged to the greatest advantage for gathering the country's products. The Panama canal forms the strategic key necessary to the fullest realization of the river's importance. With its completion, a shortest waterway is opened between the largest industrial center and the markets of the east.

* * *

The United States is the world's greatest manufacturer, and there is every reason to believe that it will steadily increase its lead in this respect. The output of its industries has grown from four and one-fourth billions of dollars in 1870, to five and one-third billions in 1880, and is now more than twenty billions. Of these gains the basin of the Mississippi valley has produced 27 per cent in 1870, 30 per cent in 1880, 35 per cent in 1890, while today it is producing about 40 per cent.

* * *

Wares turned out by the factories in the area drained by the Mississippi have reached the annual enormous value of $8,000,000,000, and there is almost unlimited opportunity in this territory for further industrial development. The gross value of all the products of the valley is approximately $15,000,000,000, or greater than that of the entire world's international trade. That these astronomical figures will be multiplied many fold with coming years of progress, seems assured by indications of present growth, and is made doubly certain by the building of the Panama canal.

* * *

Thus, the Mississippi has its sources in one of the most productive regions of the world, and the future of this region is limited by only the needs of the people who inhabit it. With the improvement and control of the great river's channel, and the channels of its principal tributaries, the vast commercial surpluses of the basin will have the advantage of cheap water transportation to the port city New Orleans, from whence, by shorter routes than those enjoyed by competitor nations of Europe, these goods may be shipped through the Panama canal to countries in the west coast of South America and in the Far East. New Orleans will command the most significant markets for manufactured products.

* * *

This is an outline of the promise of the nation's two greatest engineering projects, the Atlantic-Pacific canal and the improvement of its national river. With the successful completion of both, there is great probability that the trade map of the world will undergo a wonderful rearrangement. Among other things it seems to indicate that the world's trade will be gradually diverted from the Atlantic to the Pacific ports.

The western coast of South America lies nearly due south of the mouth of the Mississippi and, therefore, through the canal, New Orleans has the most direct route. The distance from New Orleans to Yokohama, the trade center of Japan, by way of Panama is 9,248 miles and by way of the Suez canal, 14,471 miles. New Orleans to Shanghai, the commercial center of China, via Panama, is 10,264 miles as compared with 11,732 miles via Suez. To Hong Kong, one of the chief distributing ports of merchandise for eastern Asia, the distance via Panama is 10,830, while via the Suez it is 12,832. The Philippines by way of Panama are 10,993 miles as against 12,946 miles by way of the Suez. Melbourne, the largest Australian commercial port, is 9,427 miles distant from New Orleans by way of Panama, and 14,303 by Suez. American goods find especial favor in Australia and, likewise, our exports to New Zealand are rapidly increasing. The distance from New Orleans, via Panama, to Wellington, New Zealand, is 7,939, against 15,620 via the Suez.

Thus the canal will shorten steamship routes from New Orleans to Manila 1,935 miles; to Hong Kong, 2,062 miles; to Shanghai, 2,406; to Melbourne, 4,876; to Yokohama, 5,203, and to Wellington, 7,861. So the canal tremendously promotes the advantages of New Orleans as a trading port; but more than this, the waterway at Panama gives to the Mississippi port the advantage over London, the present dominant city in Oriental trade, by bringing it 5,000 nearer of the two to most of these ports. The New Orleans routes will be shorter by 263 miles to Shanghai, by 1,732 to Melbourne, by 1,977 to Yokohama, and 4,676 miles to Wellington. It is proper to assume that command of the markets of all those countries bordering upon the Pacific ocean will be given to the products of the Mississippi valley by the development of the Mississippi-Panama canal trade routes.

The markets of the Pacific countries, all in the course of rapid growth, seem destined to become the largest in the world; moreover, the bulk of those countries' imports are, and will for decades remain, manufactured articles. By reviewing the amounts of present Pacific trade as gauge is given for the estimation of that volume of business which should come to the Gulf City through the opening of the Panama canal and the improvement of the Mississippi river with its tributaries, to the fullest possibilities for navigation. The total value of merchandise entering the western ports of America other than the United States is greater than $900,000,000 per year. This trade is mounting swiftly. China is taking approximately $850,000,000 worth of goods each year. Her 400,000,000 people are just determining to share in western civilization. Their awakening should bring with it a growing demand for commodities of the west that will climb to a staggering total value. Japan's imports amount to about $300,000,000 a year. About $150,000,000 worth of goods is sold annually by Hong Kong. Australia and New Zealand together take $400,000,000 worth. The Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands import $75,000,000 yearly.

The connection of Argentina with the Pacific coast by rail offers a direct route via Panama to this country, whose annual imports amount to $300,000,000. This shows an aggregate Pacific trade of $1,650,000,000, which may be expected to double, treble and quadruple during the present century. There remains about $500,000,000 worth of trade done by ports on the western coast of the United States, giving a total of $2,000,000,000 of Pacific ocean trade, in which the twin projects should aid the Mississippi valley to win an ever increasing share.

Among the principal articles of international trade the United States produces three-fourths of the world's corn, two-thirds of its cotton, one-third of its petroleum, one-half of its copper, one-half of its pig iron, two-fifths of its coal, and more than any other country of its wheat, oats, tobacco, lumber and manufactures. Of this country's production in these articles the Mississippi valley produces 85 per cent of the corn, 75 per cent of the wheat, 70 per cent of the live stock, 70 per cent of the cotton, 70 per cent of the iron ore, 70 per cent of the petroleum, 50 per cent of the wool, 50 per cent of the copper, 50 per cent of the lumber, 50 per cent of the coal, 40 per cent of the manufactures, and has about 70 per cent of the farm areas and farm values of the country. To its rich productivity it adds one of the greatest river systems in the world for the transport of its wares. There are 19,000 miles of navigable waterway in this system, and it is to be connected by heavy traffic canal from Chicago to the great lakes chain. With the improvement of its rivers the Mississippi valley will be the most favored spot on earth as regards water communication.

IMPROVEMENTS AHEAD

PLANS FOR THE COUNTY AND CITY PUBLIC WORKS

Extensive Improvements Are Mapped Out for the Work This Year

The board of county commissioners with the street committee of the city council has agreed upon a program for public works, grading and paving of streets and construction of sewer mains for the year 1914 and a definite order in which the various jobs are to be done has been fixed.

As is usual much more than a year's work has been placed upon the program. In fact, those in a position to know say that the program contains as much work as can be done in two, possibly in three years.

However, Tull C. Waters, chairman and also an influential member of the public works committee of the commission, states that the board is determined not to vary the order of work. As a result of this it is apparent that the jobs at the head of the list for the various convict camps will be reached during the year. The first three jobs, both of grading and paving on each camp's program are certain to be completed unless the board goes back on its decision not to vary the order of work. In some of the camps, where the first jobs are light ones, as many as five or six pieces of work at the top of the camp program can be completed during the year.

With the coming of summer the paving season is opening up, and the paving work will, as a result, come first. In the fall the grading will be done. The grading of Glenn street is the first thing on the program. Glenn street, West Georgia avenue and Pryor street will be paved with a smooth surface, and during the year the famous drive from West End to Grant Park will be completed, according to Chairman Waters.

Other jobs, which are on the program with a good chance of completion, include the changing of the grade of Forsyth street, the changing of the grade of Pryor street from Georgia avenue to Pryor street, the completion of the River road to Bolton, the paving of Curran street and the paving of Chattahoochee avenue to the Bolton road.

HELD ON SUSPICION OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

W. J. Sharpton, who lives at 365 Flat Shoals avenue, was arrested Wednesday afternoon by city detectives on the belief that he is one of three highwaymen who on March 12 robbed J. W. Hardigree on Forsyth street.

Hardigree was held up and made to give his watch, overcoat and some money to the robbers, who succeded in escaping. The trail led to Sharpton because he pawned the watch. When the officers went to his house they found also the overcoat, but Sharpton says that he is not guilty. He claims that on March 13 a man went to his house and asked him to pawn the articles and that he did it as an accommodation. He stated that he does not know the man's name, but that he would recognize him should he see him.

OCCASIONAL SHOWERS ON PROGRAM FOR FRIDAY

Unsettled weather with occasional showers is the weather man's forecast for Friday. He says also that the temperature will be considerably higher, though it is not yet as warm as it ordinarily should be at this time of year. Thursday morning the temperature was 56 degrees, and the forecaster predicts it will rise Friday morning to about 62 degrees.

Although showers are predicted, there will be no continuous rain, says Mr. von Herrman. Reports from all over the country Thursday morning show occasional showers are general throughout the country.

VETERAN DROPS DEAD AT GRAVE OF HIS FRIEND

PULASKI, Tenn., March 26.—As the body of D. C. Biles, a Confederate veteran, was being lowered into its grave near Conway, Tenn., Biles' friend, B. F. Chambers, also a veteran, dropped dead near the coffin yesterday. The shock was too much for Henry H. Reece, a third veteran, who was carried away suffering from a paralytic stroke.

POLICEMEN TEST LIQUID AND FIND IT EXPLODES

Nitroglycerin Found on Premises of Rexford Fields Shatters Rock

To convince themselves that the liquid they found buried at 89 Brookline street on the premises of Rexford Fields, one of three men who are being held as train robbers, was really an explosive, some of the city policemen took their find to the stockade Thursday morning to test it.

They poured out a tablespoonful of the nitroglycerin and proceeded to explode it. Thereafter no doubt remained as it not only gave forth a convincing noise but shattered the rock on which the experiment was made.

Two quarts of the explosive were found and the officers declared this is enough to blow up every skyscraper in the city.

The nitroglycerin will be kept at the stockade for use in shattering rock.

ATLANTA NEW YORK PARIS

A Great Many Women Have Come to Think That the First Requisite to Stylish Dress Is

A Madame Irene Corset

They feel that if the corset is right, it is a comparatively easy matter to select modish smart dresses and to have them fit according to the dictates of the good dame who rules the fashions. With a Madame Irene Corset, fitted by one of our trained and skilled fitters, a woman is indeed properly, stylishly corseted.

The Madame Irene people are, perhaps, the closest-to-Paris makers of corsets in America. The designer of the Madame Irene spends half the year in Paris. She designs right there; she takes the exclusive French models and makes them over for the American woman. She simply puts herself in the way of making the most modish corsets by getting to the very source of fashions.

That is why there are so many individual and specialized models of Madame Irene Corsets. The French woman is given to the idea of a special corset for almost every occasion.

When she dances---a special corset---it is a very light, supple affair with no bust.

When she rides or exercises, as at golf or tennis, another corset that is light and boneless but sturdy, perhaps it will be an elastic slip-on.

When she dons her "Tailleur," a corset of, perhaps, more bones, but the waist will be free and the hips held comfortably in.

When she dons her elegant costume, her corset is her first and great thought. It will fit without a flaw, it will be of softest and finest material, a suedeine, a coutil, a tricot; it will hardly have any length above the waist line; the waist will be drawn in but slightly; the real fitting will be over the hips---glovelike, graceful.

The French woman would find the Madame Irene a corset after her own heart!

There is a model for all her occasions, for all your occasions.

And it will be fitted here by women who know how!

Given all these different models of Madame Irene Corsets, our fitters have every means of getting the right one for you. If it is not this one, it is that one; there is no occasion for putting the wrong model on you.

And now your Easter Corset! Let it be a Madame Irene! Which is another way of saying let it be the smartest and most graceful corset that you can get.

There Is a Very Noticeable Tendency on the Part Of Women to Avoid the Last Hour Rush for Their

Easter Suit

We say it is that, it may be that the healthy, vigorous busy-ness in the suit section is due simply to the fact that women are finding the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. suits are what they want.

It is a fact that the suits are what the fashions are, of the right materials, trimmed with the ruffles and frills that have the call, fashioned along the lines that are the most becoming, the most charming.

And every day new ones arrive!

Today's express brought novelties in serges and wool crepes, trimmed with taffeta---prices begin at $21.75. Other late arrivals are Silk Suits at $19.50 and $25.

We could list many things that have come out of New York within the last forty-eight hours---suits sure to find favor among those seeking new apparel for Easter.

The display of suits is at its best right now.

The wise woman will make her selection now and have done with it for the season.

NEW CROP MONTHS FIRM ON BAD WEATHER REPORTS

Market in New York Closed 3 Points Off to 8 Points Up From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 26.—The cotton market appeared to be more or less unsettled at the opening today. Cables were slightly lower than due, but the near months and the distant months appeared to prevail around the ring that the local old crop short interest had been sufficiently reduced to the technical position. Beyond further realizing by old longs or recent buyers there did not appear to be any great amount of cotton for sale, however, and the opening slightly at unchanged prices to a decline of 3 points on the market showed a fairly steady undertone.

Offerings were well taken at the early declines and the market was firmer about 10:30 o'clock on renewed covering with prices about unchanged to 6 points net higher.

New crop positions seemed to be attracting increased attention during the early afternoon, owing to continued reports of delayed farm work and the market sold about 7 to 8 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 26.—Cotton cables put cotton 2 to 3 points off on the opening today. At the call prices were 2 to 4 points down. Wet weather and a threatened cold wave in the cotton region stimulated buying and half an hour after the opening prices were 2 points over yesterday's close.

Covering by nervous shorts was the main support at the market during the morning, and noon prices were 3 to 5 points over the final figures of yesterday.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS

Miller & Co.: We can only continue our frequently expressed views in the belief that the facts are against advances and strength should be utilized to sell on.

Logan & Bryan: Weather conditions which are attracting more influence on the course of prices will probably play an important part in determining the immediate trend of values.

Shelton-Hamill & Co.: At this juncture we think it a traders market.

Hubbard Brothers & Co.: It is advisable to use caution on the short side, selling only on rallies for quick turns until the outlook clears up.

COTTON SEED OIL MARKET

NEW YORK, March 26.—Market was easier under liquidation on part of western interest and refiners, followed by weakness in lard. Trading became active and weakly inclined shorts did some buying. On the decline there was scattered short covering and some fresh buying which helped to check the downward rush.—Pearsall.

MAYNARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, March 26.—The market opened about 4 lower this morning on further weakness in New York and seems again entirely under the control of the northern spot center. July in New York is now 160 points under the price quoted for spot middling and still the intention there is again reported bearish with the bear element apparently experiencing no opposition in shaping the course of the market to their liking. Why the summer position is not, or should not, be at such an enormous discount under the actual price of cotton is a problem to many, but the very fact is intimidating and tends to suppress support all round.

May and July are $5 to $8 under the cost of cotton to the trade south and this fact should attract mills to secure their supplies by taking up futures.

Liverpool came in as due and quoted spots 6 lower, sales 8,000. The man showed closed and rainy weather over the entire belt and rainy weather is indicated to continue for the next forty-eight hours, except clearing and much colder in the northwestern quarter where a cold wave is likely for tomorrow.

Local railroads received word that the line between Memphis and Meridian is cut and that large shipments of cotton which had been held back for cars will now be moved, which will increase consumption statistics. The interior sight for the week looks about as against 140,100 last year and we compare with mill takings of 264,000 last year.

Spots are steady but somewhat inactive. After this week's weekly and slight comparisons will become more favorable.

NEW YORK STOCK LETTER

NEW YORK, March 26.—The dull sagging tendency of the market continues but we do not look for any decline of consequence at present. The earnings of Steel corporation will be published Thursday and will be rather poor. Traders are waiting for news on prospects of this showing. When the news is published believe stocks will be a purchase for a turn.—Porter.

Fire at Waycross

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 26.—It is estimated at noon that the damage by fire in the Coast Line shops today will reach at least $5,000.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS QUIET AND LOWER

Canadian Pacific, Copper, Car Foundry, Interboro and St, Paul Are Down

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 26.—Union Pacific opened slightly higher today but all of the other leading stocks showed a tendency to sell off. Trading was dull and recessions were confined to a few specialties, such as Canadian Pacific, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, Interboro, Copper and Car Foundry.

The drooping tendency became better defined later steel, the coalers and some industrials running off sharply. Efforts to buy New Haven around the opening figures of 60¾ disclosed a scant supply, the price mounting to 60¾ on the second transaction.

The slow downward movement of stocks was reached today. Steel was sealed down because of the definite reports of declining business and prospects of lower prices. The railroad list again reflected the influence of dwindling earnings. Lehigh Valley's February net recession decreased $100,000.

Operations on the short side were light and the buying was confined to a few issues, with the initiative because of the market's inability to absorb stock on the rallies. The upward bulge was quickly checked and some shares fell a point under yesterday's close. Large blocks of Steel changed hands and it fell 1¼ during the last two hours. Rumors of a reduction in the dividend on Steel common were denied in official quarters.

Selling or the international list continued in the afternoon session and some shares fell a point under yesterday's close. Large blocks of Steel changed hands and it fell 1¼ during the last two hours. Rumors of a reduction in the dividend on Steel common were denied in official quarters.

The Texas disturbance will probably move northeastward into the Ohio valley tonight, and the next thirty-six hours and be accompanied by rain or snow. Atlantic states will experience slightly higher temperatures tonight.

Section Director.

Weather Conditions

Forecast till 7 p. m. Friday.

Atlanta and vicinity: Cloudy tonight and Friday, with probably showers.

Georgia and Alabama, Cloudy tonight and Friday, with probably showers.

Unsettled weather prevails over nearly the entire country, with rain at a large number of stations. In the eastern portion the weather is cloudy and threatening, raining practically everywhere. A storm of moderate force is in central over western Texas, and another in the lower plateau region, where the temperature is high on the Atlantic coast and in the northwest.

Temperatures are relatively high in the south, but a marked cold wave has appeared in the northwest, with a decrease of 40 degrees below zero at Williston and a minimum of 18 degrees below zero at Calgary.

The Texas disturbance will probably move northeastward into the Ohio valley tonight, and the next thirty-six hours and be accompanied by rain or snow. Atlantic states will experience slightly higher temperatures tonight.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP.

Times-Democrat says:

There being an utter absence of general speculative interest, operators will do its own initiative on a supply and demand basis, if the technical status of the New York market were not so badly broken up. Of course, all depends on the way the riddle of May and July will remain. Will May and July be pounded by the same interests that created March? That is the question which nobody outside a very small coterie can answer. In the long run the underlying features of the cotton crop may be a grand and lofty tumbling meanwhile. As to new crops it is far too soon to speak in definite way, even though the indications are selling them at a discount of 150 points. By the law of probability the south should produce a bumper crop this year, since the crop of 1912 and 1913 were moderate, not to say small, as measured by present day standards. But the law of probability may not always work out in farming and the exceptions not only prove the rule, but break the speculator who banks on the rule.

Map shows cloudy entire belt. General rains needed light to moderate in Carolinas, east Texas, Mississippi valley and at scattered points in the Atlantic coast.

Forecast:

Carolinas—Unsettled tonight and Friday, probably rain, colder in north portion Friday; temperature 30 to 40 degrees.

Arkansas—Unsettled tonight and Friday, probably colder Friday; cold wave at Bentonville, with temperature 18 degrees.

Oklahoma—Tonight unsettled, probably rain in east portion; colder in west; cold wave; temperature will be 26 to 32 degrees Friday fair and colder except in north portion.

Texas—Unsettled tonight and Friday, probably rain and colder tonight in northwest portion, colder Friday; cold wave tonight; moderate to brisk southerly to easterly winds on the coast.

West Texas—Tonight and Friday unsettled, probably colder; cold wave tonight; Friday, probably showers; colder in west portion Friday.

Louisiana—Tonight and Friday, probably showers with thunderstorms; colder in southwest portion.

Georgia and Alabama—Cloudy tonight and Friday; possibly showers.

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: March, 12.98; May, 12.13; July, 11.86; August, 11.72; October 11.34.

11 a. m. bids in New Orleans were: March, 12.84; May 12.33; July 12.54; October 11.43.

Main features of the bond conditions and constant rainy weather in the belt. Colder in Arkansas, Oklahoma and northwest Texas.

Shorts unwilling to purchase over Texas Panhandle or more eastward and cause increasing southerly winds today and tomorrow.

The principal feature of the market was the buying of May by Atlantic interests, the prominent seller, selling rather general, buying by contract. Bullish sentiment is based upon the majority soom to favor purchase on soft spots.—Anderson.

STOCK GOSSIP.

New, Jones summary:

Bank of England rate unchanged at 3 per cent. Discount rate in open market question bright today. New Haven board appoints agreement reached by committee of justice and President Elliott and recommends same to stockholders for meeting on meeting April 21. Western Union shareholders will receive their half of cash paid and purchased by bankers from American Telegraph and Cable securities. Stimulating influence in Panama canal decide to abandon their demand for highway bridge. Weekly Woolen officials say good business so far this year about twice that of year ago. Cotton future bill to be taken up for debate today. Bureau of railway economics says railroads in part in February handled 2 per cent less in January of 7 and 5-10 per cent and decrease in February as compared with 1913 of 5 per cent compared with January, 1913. Twelve industrials up 1.12, twenty rails down .74, sales 104,31, off .69.

Bonds: The bond market held well considering the cutting of the Panhandle division and the poor earnings of the railroads. Reports from the Steel statement, due next Tuesday, Hour and Leather due next quarter. While this is not good and may cause a temporary weakness in the market, we rather buy Steel on weak spots than sell it.—Porter.

Harrah and his crowd are bearish and are selling Steel.

Arrangements are being made for organization of a new company to take over business of assets Realization company.

Directory took no action on New York Springs common dividend. Last year 2 per cent out of 4 per cent earnings was declared.

Southern Pacific earnings net decrease $404,000 for eight months, decrease $4,500,000.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: Bears in wheat believe the market has gone to stay. They bluntly and should rains again be shown in the northwest the market will quickly break, but the bulls contended that it was merely a question of waiting for the crop scares and prices would advance rapidly. Sentiment among corn traders after the close was mixed but a majority of traders were looking for a further decline, believing the selling pressure was the greatest part of yesterday was of an excellent character. Provisions, except at the coast for May, was not of the kind that would encourage bull movements.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat—We can see nothing new to expect, any decided price movement.

Corn—Some advance should be taken of all sharp rallies to sell corn.

Oats—The oats market continues without any independent feature and is likely to follow the fluctuations in corn.

FEARS OF COLD WEATHER HELD WHEAT MARKET UP

Wheat Closed Unchanged to 1-4c Up—Corn, Oats, Pork, Lard and Sides Are Down

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 26.—Complaints that Kansas had received very light showers and that the western third of the state was in declared need of moisture today gave the wheat markets an upturn. Brokers for leading speculator were prominent in the buying. Sales were reported by them of around ¾ down to a like amount up and then gradually advanced.

Severe cold northwest tended to avert any important selling. Prices closed steady at the same as last night to ¼c higher.

Many traders were under the belief that the edge was off the demand for the present at least. Country offerings here were small. Prices started unchanged to ¼ lower, reacted a little and then sagged ½ cent generally. Covering by shorts led to a transient corn rally. Closed, however, weak at ¼@⅜c to ½c decline.

Oats seemed disposed to hold about steady. The best sentiment was bearish. Trade was relatively cheaper than other grain.

Weakness in the hog market carried provisions lower. First sales ranged from 5c off to an advance of 2½c but later there was a general decline.

Allen, and had been gone about thirty minutes when he was informed that his house was on fire, but before any assistance could be rendered the building was destroyed with everything it contained.

The cause of the fire is supposed to have been a spark from a blazing piece of wood in the fireplace, or a defective stove flue.

Hope For Bald Heads

Well Known Politician Nearly Bald Now Has Heavy Growth of Hair.

Tells How He Did It.

A western politician, well known on account of his baldness and his ready with surprised his friends by appearing with a heavy growth of hair; many of his friends did not know him, and others thought he had a wig. On being asked how he did it, he made the following statement: "I attribute the growth of my hair to the following simple recipe which any lady or gentleman can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 oz. of Glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. It not only promotes the growth of the hair, but removes dandruff scalp humors and prevents the hair from falling out. It darkens streaked, faded, gray hair and makes the hair soft and glossy. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost and mixed at home."—(Advt.)

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

Roman Striping, Admirable in Small Doses.

Paris.—The woman who wants an attractive summer gown that is a bit out of the ordinary, has the approval of such houses as Callot and Cheruit in choosing striped taffetas in white with a narrow thread of dark blue, or dark green or gray.

Callot is showing effective models in these fabrics which are intended for the spring season in Paris and will later be worn by the American women at fashionable summer resorts.

The idea is one that appeals to many women who do not care to have their best frock for hot weather made of linen or cotton fabrics, which needs so much care and attention. They want a durable fabric in a light color, and these narrowly striped silks answer that demand.

These silks have nothing of the effect of Roman striping, which is so popular at the present hour; they are more like the directoire silks that have been recurrent in the fashions for a century. The especial gown that Callot made which attracted attention, was of dark green and white silk, the entire effect being light and especially suitable to the American summer.

Callot's Striped Gown.

This frock had a skirt narrow at the hem, slightly broadening above the knees and with a great deal of extra length in the back, tucked up at the end of the corset to give a bustle effect. The bodice was absolutely plain and simple; it was loose and broad shouldered with long slim sleeves that reached to the wrist, and a high pleated collar that flared straight out at the back of the neck. Beneath this was a surplice waist of white batiste.

There is nothing about this gown, even though made by Callot, that is not easy to copy and in good taste to wear. That bunched-up effect at the back is not new for Premet brought it out last summer and is still using it, but it is an unusually good trick.

There are many women who do not care to wear the panier effect at the side because of their figures, and yet they do not like a plain back which makes a gown look a bit oldfashioned and reveals the figure too definitely.

This idea of bunching up the drapery and covering the edge of the corset is surely liked by many women, and those who have not tried it will find it is an easy way out of a difficulty.

That Roman Striping.

There is no use in avoiding Roman striping because there is so much of it on the market. It is admirable in small doses. There are women whose figures allow them to wear whole garments of it, but no one should attempt a whole gown of it. If you have the kind of silhouette that will permit you to wear a skirt of striped colors, you should ask for the new Roman linen when you are making up cool summer frocks.

Paul Poiret is using it for separate skirts to be worn with jackets, also of linen, but in a solid color. If the skirt has a strongly defined dark and light stripe, the jacket will be of dark blue linen. A woman can utilize this idea with a striped linen skirt and a plain tan or white jacket. As these coats are quite short, and many of them have a beaver tail, or postillion back, the combination of the two fabrics and colors is very effective.

"Olde Folkes' Concerte"

Aside from the most worthy cause which it represents, it offers an evening of rare entertainment at the nominal cost of 25 cents.

CLUB WOMEN TO WEAR BLUE BADGES AT CHICAGO BIENNIAL

A blue ribbon will be the distinguishing mark of the 3,471 club women who will arrive in Chicago June 8 or 9 over railway lines from north and south, east and west, to attend the twelfth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs. There also may be women from South America, Canada, China, England, India, Mexico, the canal zone, the Philippines, Sweden and Australia, for all these countries have affiliated organizations. Besides the 3,471 delegates there will be three or four times that number of visiting club women. Every week adds to the list of committee workers who are preparing for the convention—"the greatest on record."

It will take 175 women to prepare and distribute badges to the local board, who will have yellow as their color; to all standing committees, advisory and state committees; the transportation reception committee, who will be at all trains; press reporters and the 200 ushers and pages. Fifty women, constituting the decorating committee, are already arranging for flowers to decorate the Auditorium theater, Art institute and other halls where meetings will be held.

In relays, the 125 members of the bureau of information will be on duty from 8:30 a. m. until 10:30 p. m. with a department in the Auditorium theater foyer and committee members in each hotel to answer all questions and keep bulletin boards of meetings where all who run may read.

The distribution of literature, all of which is to be indorsed by the General Federation and Illinois state presidents, will require a committee of 150. To one-third that number, forming the hospital committee, will fall the duty of seeing that proper entertainment and courtesies are extended speakers, eminent guests and the officers of the General Federation.

One hundred members are found on the utilities committee to provide police protection and fire protection through the municipal authorities; establish postoffice stations in the Auditorium foyer; to arrange for telegraph and telephone service there, and for bank representatives to take deposits and cash checks. These are but a few of the things that are being and will be done by twenty-seven committees of 4,000 members, for the entertainment and comfort of the biennial convention of Women's clubs.

What Is Elegance?

"Elegance is native, it does not rest on the form of a skirt or the cut of a habit. We adorn or detract from our clothes—we make them elegant or vulgar."

That is what Alphonse Daudet thought of elegance—and of the way women wore their clothes. He was referring to the Empress Eugenie, a woman of supreme elegance, and as the styles she helped to make famous are the styles that some our clothes follow today, Daudet's words are worth heeding. For surely the clothes of the second French empire are clothes that must be carefully worn.

Elegance is hardly a characteristic that can be had for the asking. But neither is it a characteristic that can be easily lost. So those of us who possess it may rest content in the thought that it is one of our greatest assets and those of us who have it not, may rest content in the knowledge that clothes would not give it to us, even if we could spend thousands of dollars a year for them.

For, as Daudet says, "we adorn or detract from our clothes. We make them elegant or vulgar." They do not make us.

Virginia to Distribute Copies of Houdon's Bust of Washington

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 26.—Word was received here yesterday that Governor H. C. Stuart, of Virginia, has signed the bill recently passed by the Virginia legislature permitting other states to obtain exact copies of one of America's priceless art possessions, Houdon's bust of Washington in the state capitol in Richmond.

The bill permits copies to be made but forbids their sale to private persons. The governor of Virginia must approve every application for a copy and the state must be paid $500 royalty for each.

The Houdon statue was made by the French sculptor at the behest of the Virginia legislature in 1784 and the arrangements were made by Thomas Jefferson, then minister to France.

Recognizing the possibility of destruction of the original, Virginia in 1851 provided plaster reproductions of the statue to be made for the several collegiate institutions of the state but this is the first time, with the exception of the copy given to France in 1910 that it has permitted a copy to be placed elsewhere than in Virginia.

To Install Block Signals

President Fairfax Harrison, of the Southern railway, announces that automatic electric block signals will be installed on two of he road's biggest lines leading out of Atlanta—from the Atlanta Terminal station to New Holland on the Charlotte division and from Howell station to Austell, Ga. Signals will also be installed at several places on the line between Atlanta and Washington.

SAYS COUNTY COULD SAVE WITH MODERN MACHINERY

Alderman Maddox Gives Figures—Work Is Done Cheaper by Aid of Steam Shovel

Alderman J. W. Maddox, the grading contractor, who is running for county commissioner, is doing a piece of excavating in West End and the county convicts are doing a piece of excavating nearby. The alderman's job is a private contract and he is using a steam shovel. The convicts' job is a public road job and they are using the pick and shovel.

The alderman's main plank as a candidate for county commissioner is that the county could do more work and better work with modern machinery, such as the steam shovel, than it does by moving dirt with convicts wielding the pick and shovel. The alderman has made some figures comparing the cost of moving dirt on his contract with the cost of moving dirt on the county's job nearby, and he believes these figures will interest the taxpayers of Fulton county. He says:

"I have nine wagons going all the time. The county has eight wagons, and one of them is standing still all the time. My steam shovel costs $2 per day for fuel and oil. Interest and depreciation on the shovel amount to $1.30 per day. My engineer and fireman together cost me $6.50 per day. This makes a total operating cost of $10 per day.

"The county has twenty-eight convicts at work with the pick and shovel. Figuring that it costs the county $7 1-3 cents per day per man to feed, clothe and house them, the total cost of the twenty-eight men is $16.80 per day. This figure is very low. It is what the county pays the sheriff to feed the prisoners in the county jail, where they are idle and have only two meals per day, whereas the convicts are hard at work and must be fed three meals per day. But make it $7 1-2 cents, to cover food, clothing and housing.

"To this I add $5 per day for the salaries of two guards and one foreman. I add $4 per day to cover powder used in blasting to loosen the dirt. This runs up the total cost to $13.50 per day.

"With my steam shovel and two men I move enough dirt to keep nine wagons on the move. With twenty-eight convicts and two guards and a foreman and gunpowder blasts the county moves enough dirt to keep seven wagons on the move.

"It costs me $10 per day to put my dirt on the wagons. It costs the county $19.50 per day to put its dirt on the wagons. I put 30 per cent more dirt on the wagons than the county, which justifies me in subtracting one-fifth of my operating cost, bringing it down to $8 per day, as compared to the county's $19.50 per day.

"The item of repairs on tools could be charged to the county's operating cost. I should say $1 per day for this would be cheap. I move stumps and roots. The county leaves stumps and roots alongside its work.

"I say if the county would use modern machinery it could move 75 per cent more dirt, and could put the convicts on paving, which means that it could lay at least 50 per cent more paving."

Joe Tinker Is Pleased With Club Prospects

Leader of Chicago Federals Thinks His Team Will Put Up Great Battle--Also Believes the Club Will Prove Good Drawing Card in the Windy City

BY JOE TINKER,
Manager Chicago Federals.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 26.—My team may line up this way for the coming season:

Zeider, 3b.
Fritz, 2b.
Tinker, ss.
Coles, rf.
Zwilling, lf.
Wickland, cf.
Jackson, 1b.
Wilson, c.
Hendrix, p.

Reserve Fielders—Walsh and Flack.
Reserve Infielders—Farrel, Beck and Stanley.
Pitchers Besides Hendrix—Brennan, Black, Prendergast, Lange, Watson, Swan, McGuire and Fisk.
Reserve Catchers—Block, Mulvaney and McDonough.

I shall probably carry twenty-four men, including myself. The plan is to carry six outfielders, six infielders, three catchers and eight pitchers. This will enable me to carry an extra catcher or an extra pitcher in the event I find it a task to pick the goats. Wilson at present is by far the leading catcher.

In the event Killifer joins the team it is probable the Philadelphia backstop will be made first catcher, with Wilson second. Jimmie Block looks to be as good as when he was a member of the White Sox. His broken finger, which handicapped him all last season, has been operated on and he says now it is as good as ever. Block is hitting the ball hard.

Jimmie McDonough and George Mulvaney, both popular Chicagoans, are showing well. McDonough has the better of Mulvaney in experience, but the younger catcher looks like a comer. His squat throw to every base is perfect. Evidently he must have been watching Jimmie Archer, the Cub star, for he has his trick to perfection.

Predictions are made now that Al Wickland and Eddie Zwilling, the two rabbit outfielders, will become immensely popular with the north side fans. They are about the fastest and surest fielders the game affords and both are good hitters. Also they are bright athletes and in the game all the time. Wickland was on the Cincinnati Reds and I grabbed him as soon as I became the Federal manager, for I saw in the youngster a second Tommy Leach.

Zwilling comes from St. Joe, Mo., in the Western league, where he batted 306 in 169 games. He got a total of 187 hits for 291 bases. He binged the ball for 28 doubles, 13 triples and 12 homers. He also stole 30 bases. This record is exceptionally good. Wickland was in only 26 games and batted .315.

Cad Coles has an enviable record. He led the New York State league last year, playing with Elmira. He batted .356 in 114 games. He got 163 hits for a total of 232 bases.

Probably the hardest fight on the team will be between Bill Jackson, of Seattle, and Fred Beck, of Buffalo. Jackson only batted .253, but he stole 47 bases and led the league in this theory. He was in 156 games and got 74 hits for a total of 143 bases. Beck batted .240 in 93 games. He is also a good outfielder as well as a first baseman.

There is no need of introducing Zollie Zeider. Every fan knows him by his nose. He was with the White Sox several years and was traded to the New York Highlanders for Hal Chase. Robbie says he is a natural third baseman, but never had a chance to defend that position, while with the White Sox, when Harry Lord was going good, Zeider is all over the infield playing every position. Last year he was afflicted with corns which prevented him from being of much benefit to Manager Chance. It took several months for a chiropodist to make his feet track properly. He is elated over the opportunity offered him to play third. Jim Stanley, however, will give him an argument.

I hold down the short place, but Johnny Farrel, a Chicago lad, is a sensation in fielding, and when I want to take myself out of the game, or am put out, Johnny will be my understudy.

Ganzel Loses Infielder McDonald

ANNISTON, Ala., March 26.—John Ganzel, manager of the Rochester International league team training here, has learned it was said today, that infielder McDonald has jumped to the Pittsburg Federals. McDonald formerly was with the Boston Nationals. According to Vanden Payne, secretary of the Rochester club, McDonald already had signed with Rochester and had accepted advance money.

The Federals have made heavy inroads on Ganzel's team, 11 in all, eight of his old regs have jumped to the new league.

Yanks Here for Single Game With Crackers

Manager Frank Chance's Entry in American League Pennant Race Play Crackers at Ponce de Leon This Afternoon—Carl Thompson Slated to Do Hurling

The New York Highlanders, piloted by Frank Chance, will be the opponents of the Crackers at Ponce de Leon this afternoon. The New Yorkers reached the city last night, having left Birmingham at 2 o'clock owing to the fact that rain caused the game with the Barons to be called off, and are fit for this afternoon's fray.

As previously announced, the visitors will work Carl Thompson in the box against Smith's man. Carl has been training with the squad for several weeks at Houston, and will no doubt cut loose everything he has in an effort to hang it on his former team mates by as wide a margin as possible. In addition to Thompson, the Highlanders will doubtless work Ed Sweeney, a former Cracker, behind the willow. Golden, a former member of the Albany club in the Sally league, is with the visitors. In addition to the above players to whom a good bit of local interest is attached, Manager Chance will offer several youngsters who are rapidly proving valuable players in the American league, and who are counted as stellar performers for the coming season.

Manager Billy Smith has not announced his line-up, but it is probable that Long, Welchonce and Flanagan will work in the outfield, with Earl, Schwind, McConnell and Eibel on the inner defense. Munch will no doubt do the receiving with either Dent, Doescher or Price furnishing the hooks and shoots. Harry Holland appeared on the field at Wednesday's game in a uniform, but owing to the fact that the Washington club, with which Harry has been training, was seriously handicapped by bad weather, he is not in the best of shape, and Manager Smith will hardly use him before the end of the week.

This afternoon's game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Buffalo Federals Beat Pittsburgers

DANVILLE, Ill., March 26.—The Buffalo Federal league club came from behind in the seventh and last innings of the game here Wednesday, with the Pittsburg club of the same league, and by a timely batting rally in which much power of attack was shown, scored three runs and took the game by the score of 6 to 4. Earl Moore, the first twirler for the Buffalo team, was unhittable, only one safety being garnered off his delivery in the time he occupied the rubber. Smith hit two terrific drives that netted three bases each and both Oakes and Bradley made two hits for the Stogies.

Vols Tie With St. Louis Browns

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 26.—In a game featured by hard hitting and loose fielding on both sides the Nashville Southern league team played the St. Louis Americans' first team to a tie Wednesday afternoon, score 6 and 6. Both teams made four runs in the first inning. Witte, who pitched, eight innings for St. Louis, was wild, issuing seven bases on balls.

MACON, Ga., March 26.—The Cleveland Naps' league team again defeated the Boston National league club here Wednesday 3 to 2. Cleveland now has won three out of the four games played with Boston. Cleveland made its three runs in the ninth inning and Boston its two in the eighth.

Gardner Is on Job at Sewanee

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SEWANEE, Tenn., March 26.—As soon as Rs reached Sewanee Tuesday for definite statement can be made as to who will pitch, as it is too early yet to get a line on the twirlers; however, so far Walker seems to have a shade the better in control and speed over his fellow slab workers and will in all probability be used in the first game. Walker and Dinkins should make a battery hard to beat, for Walker is fast getting the hop on the ball, and Dinkins, who has a terrific whip to bases, is very reliable with the big mitt.

Players Share Profits Of Brooklyn Federals

BALTIMORE, March 26.—R. B. Ward, president of the Brooklyn club, before leaving for home Tuesday, disclosed a profit-sharing plan for players of his club. Each player will have an ownership in the club proportionate to the salary he receives. Shares of common stock will be set aside for the men as a bonus, and when dividends are declared they will profit the same as the original holders of stock.

Sheppard Will Run Unattached

NEW YORK, March 26.—Melvin V. Sheppard, for many years associated with the Irish-American A. C., under the colors of which club he established many notable records, has announced his intention of competing unattached for one year.

Crack Poloist Is Home Again

NEW YORK, March 26.—J. M. Waterbury, captain of the American team which will defend the international polo cup this year, returned Wednesday from England. He said that at present he had no idea of the makeup of the American team. Only practice, he said, would determine its composition. Mr. Waterbury thought Louis E. Stoddard would not appear on the polo field this season but that Malcolmn Stevenson, Foxiall Keene and Rene LaMontagne probably would be in the tentative line-up.

Harry Payne Whitney, captain of the team which successfully defended the polo cup last year, came back with Mr. Waterbury. Mr. Whitney said that dislocation of his left shoulder from a hunting fall probably would keep him out of the game this year, although he might take part in the practice for the international matches as a member of a scrub team.

Saturday Afternoon League Will Hold Meeting

Saturday afternoon at 4 p. m. there will be a meeting of the Saturday Afternoon league for the purpose of organizing for the 1914 season. All teams wishing a berth in this league should have representatives present.

ALONG THE WAY

By Innis Brown

The Crackers finished the Jerseymen two up, Wednesday's contest, however, was slightly more spirited than that of Tuesday, in spite of the fact that the margin of victory was the same.

The visitors from the north died hard, and it required ten innings to pronounce the obsequies. Steamer Flanagan said the last sad rites with the resounding smack of a clean single to center, scoring George Kircher, who walked and went to second, while Earhard was squelching Long on a grounder down the first base line.

From the viewpoint that good Old Father Chadwick occupied, when figuring bogey for nine innings of play of the great pastime, Wednesday's game fell about as far short as it possibly could and still retain for its basis the catch, toss and festive swat. If any man of the few dozen who gambled on the weather and ventured out to the park had never seen a ball game before he can now close the chapter of his baseball experiences, and rest secure in the fact that he has seen everything that the sport offers.

There was good ball, and there was bad ball. There were sensational stops, and wretched boots. There were rifle-like pegs, and staggering heaves that shot almost a city block wide of the target. There were some weak pops and measly grounders, and there were shrieking drives through the infield, and over the domes of the wide works, including the outer defense. And what is more, both sides participated liberally in the festivities, regardless of the nature of the game.

Digging down into the records of errors of commission, may be mentioned the fact that Arthur Schwind blew himself to his share of afternoon of reckless-ness and abandon. Art managed to let opportunities go a-glimmering by no less than five occasions. However, be it said in his behalf, that on at least three of these the youngster was taking daring chances, a disposition which is to be heartily commended. May Allah deliver us from the blokes who take up his guard over one select spot, and sticks to it with the persistency of a Son of Israel forking free lunch.

Then to go a little further with the unpleasantries of the afternoon, Eddie Zimmerman who flanks the visitors' defense on the left side of the rampart, kicked away, or more properly speaking, heaved away, three glorious chances for help to the assistance of Pitcher Donnelly. Eddie blew this trio in the first four rounds, and there is really no telling just how far he would have gone had not Manager Harry Smith sent relief in the persons of Fayntar and Dion.

Having gotten over the rough places with but blowing a tire or two during the clutch, we will revert to the stuff that stimulates the hope which is supposed to spring eternal in the breast. Some of activities which makes ye fan to rise up on his hind legs, throw his kelly into the air and rend the atmosphere with real fanatic yells. It was there, all right, meaning the stuff that created the above.

For instance, Tommy Long produced the summum bonum of the fan's delight, or to be a little more explicit, Tommy poled one for the circuit, it being the first time the stunt has been pulled this season at Ponce-de-Leon-on-the-Sewer. Thomas was the first man to face Donnelly in the fifth, and he fired one squarely between Bill Zimmerman and Witter almost to the left field fence. Fortunately Witter had just been substituted for Hi Myers in center, and he was fresh and spry. He got the ball back to the infield as Long trotted over the platter.

Then there was the smack of Mr. Bert Tooley, who was thrown into the breach in the ninth, vice Mr. Holmquist, as first aid to a faltering attack. Mr. Tooley distinguished himself with a resounding swat that bore to deep center between Long and G. Kircher, and was good for three bases. It might have been good for more but for the fact that Kircher just about set a record in legging it after the pellet, and returned it with promptitude. Incidentally this poke scored visitors Getz and Heckinger with two runs that knotted the count.

With the robust Mr. Collins up next, and Tooley on third, the outlook was rather squamish for the home boys but at this juncture, but Ferryman succeeded in having Collins lift a spinner over Joe Dunn's turret, and Joseph scored on the play at the final out. Then came the kayo punch, delivered mainly through the instrumentality of citizens Kirch and Flanagan. As mentioned above, Kirch walked on four defective ones, skipped down to second while Earhard was accomplishing Tommy Long's dribblar along the first base line, and cantered home when the Stearmer hooked a sharp one to center. Witter had in mind to cut Kircher down at the plate, but he let the ball get through his pins, and he never even looked around to see where it went.

In reviewing the happenings of the afternoon, it will not be meet to overlook the doings of Nealon Lynch, the auburn-haired son of the golden west. All told, Mr. Lynch had a fairly profitable afternoon. He poled out three safe shots, including a triple to the score board, handled four chances, two of which were very difficult, in faultless fashion, and stole one of the three bags acquired from O'Rourke and Heckinger. He worked his way around to third base three times, but his mates never got his S. O. S. from that port of call.

We would also call attention to the work of Herr Earhard at first for the Newark entry. He handled the thirteen chances offered him and made one hit in four trips up, but the mere mention of the facts falls far short of chronicling this young fellow's activities. His chief accomplishment was the flagging of wild-eyed pegs, contributed largely by Eddie Zimmerman. Eddie fired three in the general direction of the right field stands, but neither would have dented the proverbial barn door, had Edward been hurling dornicks in a barn yard. For all of that, not a single one of these got clear of friend Earhard, and never an extra base did the Crackers get on this account. The visiting first sacker went after the random shots with the desperation of a 5 o'clocker grabbing a strap-hanger on a crowded trolley.

After a bit of investigating, we learned that Pitcher Donnelly is the bird who was purchased by the Crackers last season, but refused to report. After lamping Mr. Donnelly in action, no one will lose any sleep over his obstinacy in refusing to join the local camp. Here are a few of the reasons why: In the first round he issued four free trips to first, gave up two hits and added a wild pitch to his assortment of offerings. He allowed five hits, gave up five passes and uncorked one wild heave, to say nothing of the times he had poor O'Rourke fighting for dear life to flag other erratic passes during the proceedings that he escaped the slab.

We met an old friend during the afternoon, we refer to Bill Lynch in the rear of Donnelly. He was none other than Albert Arlington Britton, once a Cracker. Bill came to bat twice in the last half of the ninth, after Tooley had subbed for Holmquist with the ash. He loaned it advisable to pass Welchonce plugging for Dunn, and likewise Ham Reynolds, sticking for Ferryman in favor of this pair was unintentional. His finish in the tenth has been chronicled above.

National Baseball Commission Explains Draft Ruling

Nat'l Commish Gives Decision On Draft Rule

Organization in Settling Claim of Two Clubs for Player Fillman, Explains Ruling With Reference to Waivers Required in Disposng of Drafted Player

(INCINNATI, Ohio, March 26.—The national baseball commission Wednesday denied the claim of the Lexington (ky.) club of the Ohio State league, for the services of Player Fillman, upholding a ruling of the national board that the player was the property of the Paris club of the Texas-Oklahoma league. The commission also issued a notice to all national agreement clubs as follows:

Section 18 of the agreement with the Baseball Players' fraternity reads as follows: "Before a major league player shall be released outright or under an optional agreement to class A or lower classification his services shall be tendered to all class AA clubs at a price not to exceed $1,000 and then to all class A clubs at a price not to exceed $750. If he be a drafted player the club from which he is drafted shall have prior claim to all other clubs in its classification.'

"There seems to be a misunderstanding as to the exact meaning of this particular clause.

"When a major league club makes application for inter-league waivers it should at the same time notify the president of the league of which it is a member, whether the player will be released unconditionally, outright or under an optional agreement if waivers are obtained. An outright release is construed to mean the player's transfer from one club to another, either with or without a consideration and without the retention of the right to recall him. In such case the player must first be tendered to class AA and clubs at a price not to exceed those stipulated in section 18.

"If it is the intention of the major league club to release the player under an optional agreement, then the amount of the option price shall not be less than $1,000 as stipulated in rule 13 of the constitution and not more than the respective amounts prescribed in section 18 of the fraternity agreement.

"If the major league club and the minor league club cannot agree on the optional price, the presidents of the leagues of the respective clubs shall determine the consideration provided, however, it shall not exceed the amounts fixed in section 18, above quoted.

"Section 18 does not change the system of returning drafted players as described in section 9, article 6, of the national agreement and regulated by rule 32 of the commission, in any respect.

"A drafted player who has not been claimed before February 1, following his selection, becomes subject to section 18 when released by a major league to a minor league club.

Tom McMillan Going Great With Rochester

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ANNISTON, Ala., March 26.—Large numbers of local fans turn out to watch Rochester team in their workouts here every afternoon. From present indications, although he has lost eight men Gancel will be strictly in the hunt for the International rag. His pitching is also rounding to form nicely, the only weak spots noticeable on the team are first base, which, in the event he should get a good man to cover it, will be played by himself. Little Tommy McMillan is showing better form than any shortstop ever seen here, his stops and throws being little short of marvelous.

Another Gilmore Becomes Federal

CHICAGO, March 26.—Grover Gilmore of Chicago, who played with the Joliet club of the Western league last season, is the latest addition to the Federal league. Gilmore yesterday signed a contract to play with the Chicago (Ill.) Federal league club. Gilmore had a batting average of .311 in 112 games with Denver and had a fielding average of .973.

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

Altout by U. Goldsmith.

Ill fares the land—to hastening ills a prey
Where winters flourish and where springs decay;
Where week by week the mantling frosts careen
And put a blight upon each putting green;
Where, with the wild call in the golfer's blood,
He fain must flounder ankle deep in mud,
Cursing with all the venom of his soul
The waded glory of the Nineteenth Hole.

Come on, O spring, with all your ancient gleam
And bring again the glory of the dream,
Where iron blades flash within the tendor sun
And mashies echo with a shot well spun;
Come, though I plump the pill into some trap
And rave all day at each misguided rap;
Come, though I play an hole below a "ten,"
And curse the day that brought you back again.

Or, in the more expensive slogan of the fan, "Come on, Spring; you big mutt. Hit the dirt. Slide you bonehead, slide!"

The Chase Uplift.

Reports from the West indicate that Sir Harold Chase is planning to make a serifice effort this season to regain his old post at the head of all first basemen.

Chase ruled for a long time as the king of first base soil. But he started to slip some time ago and last season was well back in the rut—well below Daubert, Melnnis Kopf and Sweeney at least. Hal was thirty-one years old last month, so there's no reason why Time should have sent in such an early call. It would add considerably to the gaiety of nations to have the California Miracle back in old-time form, the loud cheering over to the right which greets this statement being from a Mr. J. J. Calahan, of Chicago.

As brilliant a ball player as he was, Hal certainly put the curse of the Ghost Flower on the Yanks. It was his run-in with Stallings that cost Farrell a winning manager. Then Chase, as leader, let the club skid from second place to sixth. And at the finish all that Farrel got for his star was a gap at second base when Borton fizzled and Zeidler jumped.

By Ray Caldwell.

In the fell clutch of circumstance
I'll seek no more the ribald crowd;
Beneath the bludgeonings of Chance
My pocket's empty and I'm cowed.

If a ball club can pick up three first-class people in one season it's a luck institution. You can figure from this what Frank Chance was up against when he had to go out and find eighteen.

The Three Musketeers.

We sincerely hope, trust and pray that Chick Evans sells enough bonds to get a soon start for English shores where he can join mashies with Travers and Ouimet.

Boston is sending Ouimet and New York has already sent Travers. If Evans could complete the make-up of the Three Musketeers of American golf the test of America vs. England in golfing circles would be the most comprehensive ever known. Chick's jaunt across would add notably to the invasion.

When Merkle was injured two years ago, McGraw pulled Fred Snodgrass from center to plug the gap and the peppery Californian made good in a hurry. When Herzog was traded and Shafer abricated, leaving a wide gap at third, McGraw shoved the same athlete into this vacancy, with the odds strong that he will make good. Yet there are those who have wondered for three or four years why the Giant leader kept this player within sight.

France is about to younk her Mr. Carpentier of fistic renown into the army. If Prexy Wilson can dispatch our White Hopes to Mexico he has a cinch ahead on making his re-election unanimous.

If there is any freezing to be done we'd rather it was the earnest athlete at work in Dixie than the rest of us in press box and stands on April 24.

Shafer's Case.

While Tilly Shafer has been kidded back and forth about his retirement from the game, the facts involved are that he was never strong enough to obtain any pleasure from portraying our illustrious pastime.

All through last season Shafer was smitten with violent headaches that made his dome rock with anguish. We took him out for a golf battle one morning, and he was unable to complete the round on account of this trouble. Shafer got no fun out of the game, and when baseball ceases being fun it becomes the hardest work in the world.

Few people appreciate the immense strain brought on by attempting to retain pink in the condition from April to October. Six months of drive begin to relieve the system of its pep by July, and from that point on it's mainly a matter of keeping the fagged spirit from breaking in two.

We skidded one summer from playing twice a week on a college ball club to the daily routine on a wandering outfit of semi-pros. The first two weeks was ajoyride. The next two were rather pleasantly spent. But after that, barnstorming under a summer sun that hatted 98 in the cool of the evening, the sight of a baseball soon became repugnant to us, and the game itself was about as much fun as breaking rock along the equator. From stealing second with joy and abandon early in the trip, it soon took a three-base hit to drive us home from third. Try running some time with ten pounds of lead in each shoe and a spike driven into the middle of your clammy brow and you'll understand how a lot of ball players feel after July Fourth.

Plan Race for Veteran Scullers

NEW YORK, March 26.—James H. Riley, the one-time sculling champion, is planning for a veteran's race on Saratoga lake next August. Riley came into prominence again two years ago by rowing Jim Ten Eyck, coach of the Syracuse crews, a match race at Saratoga. According to the plan announced today by Riley no oarsman under sixty will be allowed to compete. The distance probably will be a mile.

M. A. C. to Organize Under New Name

ST. LOUIS, March 26.—The Missouri Athletic club, whose building here recently was destroyed by fire with a heavy loss of life, yesterday reorganized under the name of the Missouri Athletic association.

The present directorate will control the new organization. A mass meeting of members residing in different parts of the state will be called next week to finance the proposed new building.

Perry to Help Jimmy Grant

Jimmy Perry, who stopped "Stew" Donnelly in three rounds Tuesday night has decided to stay in Atlanta for the Jimmy Grant-Knockout Eggers ten-round bout at the Orpheum theater next Tuesday night. Grant has asked Perry to remain here to condition him for the fight and to act as his chief adviser during the scrap.

Grant aided Perry while the latter was training for the Donnelly fight. The Pittsburg welterweight sees the makings of a champion in Grant and says that if he whips Eggers and stays the distance with Kid Williams, who is to meet the winner of Tuesday night's battle, he will try to induce Grant to go east with him.

"I have seen both Coulon and Williams fight," said Perry this morning, "and I honestly believe that Grant, with a little more experience, can beat either of them. He is the hardest hitting little fellow I ever worked with. And he can take a hard punch, too, as I well know, for I slugged with him during my training session for Donnelly."

Promoter Leo Castro has arranged two other ten-round bouts to fill out the card. Battling Kelly and Kid York are going to hook up. It is always a slugging affair when they clash. Then Kid Williams and Battling Shepard, who put up such a sensational scrap at the Georgia A. C. Tuesday night, will clash again. These little chaps just stand toe to toe and mix it from start to finish.

Tickets will go on sale tomorrow at Tamlin Brothers stores and The Rex. Prices of $1, $ and $3 will be in effect.

FULLERTON SEES CLASS IN MINOR LEAGUE CAMPS

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 26. Class in baseball is a subject that has been discussed ever since two leagues named themselves majors and lettered the others. This spring there is a lot of discussion as to whether or not the Federal league will "class" with the majors.

There is a glorious opportunity to study "class" here at Hot Springs right now, and it is interesting. I'll wager that, not one in a thousand baseball fans can go to the three parks here and tell by their playing whether they are watching the Boston Americans, the Pittsburg Pirates or the Indianapolis association team, unless they know the men and the uniforms. An expert might find blemishes in the individual actions of the Indianapolis team, but the article of baseball that Jack Hendrick's boys are exhibiting is just as good as that of the Pirates, and, generally, put between us, and fearing to be accused of heresy, it is more advanced, modern and up-to-date than the kind the Boston Red Sox are showing at the other end of the valley.

Jack Hendricks is a major league manager. He has proved this fact with every club he has ever handled: Springfield, Fort Wayne, Denver. He knows a ball player, and he knows how to handle ball players. He gets results, and it is no experience to see him the spring handling a bunch of players mostly unknown to him, whipping a Tamlin Brothers store and The Rex new team into shape, and making a team that must fight for prestige in Indianapolis against the Feds and in the association against stronger teams.

Hendricks' team is composed of cunningly chosen players. He has five men who, a year ago, were looked upon as major league promises. Evidently Hendricks spotted them at that time, and thinks, with a year or more of experience, they are better than when the major leagues found them wanting in something. He has a corking pair of youngsters, one in the infield, one in the outfield, and it looks as if he had a pretty fair array of pitching talent.

The Indians have, by the way of thinking, the best training grounds at the springs, sheltered between two mountains. It is protected from wind on three sides, and gets the sunshine.

The catching staff is good enough. Paddy Livingston has been a corking catcher for many years. Yaun is a good man, and McCarthy, from Troy, is very promising.

The pitchers are getting a chance to show their merits. Willis and Burk, who once were with the Cardinals, and Harrington, who once promised to be a Chicago find, are with the team. Lo Roy, the Indian; Mertz, Schardt, Gaskill and Wetzel make a promising array.

The infield is complete. Metz, at first, is well known. Crandall is at second. This fellow will bear watching by the scouts. He hits a ball as solidly almost as his brother Otis does. Kelleher, once with the St. Louis Cardinals, has class enough for the majors. Galloway is another Cardinal recruit.

Cole, from Lincoln; Niles and Reilly make up the outfield.

Jackets Meet Auburn Friday

Coach Heisman's Yellowjackets will engage in their first real college game Friday afternoon, when Mike Donohue brings his aggregation of ball tossers, over from Auburn to perform on Grant field. The Jackets have had two preliminary games, both of which they have won by narrow margins. However, they will enter the series against Auburn with the determination to get a measure of vengeance on the Plainsmen for the defeat on the gridiron last fall.

But little is known of the Alabama Tigers' diamond strength, but it may be assumed that Coach Donohue will bring a live hustling bunch, who will go in to trim the Jackets. The Alabamians may not be quite so formidable with bats, gloves and spiked footwear as they were with gridiron paraphernalia, but they are coming to win. One game will be played Friday and a double-header is scheduled for Saturday.

Princeton Will Enter Penn Relay

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—Princeton university, it was announced today, has entered a team in the four-mile relay race for the international championship at the University of Pennsylvania's carnival on April 25. The entries for this race now include Oxford university, of England; Cornell, Chicago, Princeton and Pennsylvania, all teams of championship caliber. Harvard may also enter this event conditioned, the Crimson coach says, upon his runners showing good form.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

National Utility Contest

THE 160 hens in this test laid 1,908 eggs or an average of nearly 11 eggs per hen. These hens made a big gain this month over what they did in previous months. They laid more eggs in 25 days in February than they did in both December and January combined. The ten highest pens in this experiment are as follows:

		Eggs.
Pen 92	S. C. Reds, Pennsylvania	432
Pen 86	Barred Plymouth Rocks, Michigan	372
Pen 95	S. C. Reds, New Hampshire	293
Pen 85	Barred Plymouth Rocks, Texas	287
Pen 98	White Orpingtons, Kentucky	247
Pen 99	White Wyandottes, Arkansas	230
Pen 94	S. C. Reds, Ohio	230
Pen 90	White Orpingtons, Missouri	228
Pen 93	S. C. Reds, New York	225
Pen 88	White Orpingtons, Missouri	194

White Orpington hen No. 888 from Kentucky has laid 63 eggs and made highest record for this test. Hen No. 929 S. C. Red from Pennsylvania is second with 61 eggs to her credit.

NATIONAL S. C. WHITE LEGHORN CONTEST.

At the close of the month these hens were laying on the average about 50 per cent production, or the 280 hens were laying about 140 eggs per day. At this rate they will lay nearly as many eggs in March as in the three previous months. That is what we expect. They have been a mystery. They have bright red combs, are active and happy, have consumed a lot of feed, but have never laid as they should. The same has been true with all Leghorns for the past three years during our winter months. The English pen has been the exception. Most of the Leghorns moulted this winter and four pens of foreign Leghorns were immature and just now ready to lay. We expect the Leghorns to lay from now on while the other larger breeds are moody. These hens laid 2,296 eggs in February, or an average of over 8 eggs per hen. The ten highest pens in this experiment are as follows:

		Eggs.
Pen 79	S. C. White Leghorns, Pennsylvania	414
Pen 70	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	411
Pen 65	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	354
Pen 75	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri over Island	344
Pen 69	S. C. White Leghorns, Kentucky	332
Pen 61	S. C. White Leghorns, Nebraska	316
Pen 64	S. C. White Leghorns, British Columbia	311
Pen 71	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	309
Pen 67	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	290
Pen 80	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	253
Pen 73	S. C. White Leghorns, Missouri	250

The highest individual record in this experiment was made by a Leghorn pullet No. 702 from Missouri, and she has laid 59 eggs to her credit. Hen No. 611 from Nebraska is second with 58 eggs to her credit.

HOMES
PRICES WORTH WHILE

E. FOURTEENTH, $12,500—Nine rooms, a deep lot, and one of the best neighborhoods in Atlanta. You couldn't find another place in this block for less than $20,000. Terms easy.

E. SEVENTEENTH, $8,000—Right off Peachtree. The location alone is worth this money, and the house is eight rooms, practically new, and has every convenience. Sleeping porch, furnace heat, etc.

WESTMINSTER, $8,250—Just off Piedmont, a big corner lot, and a very attractive shingle home. Looks like a place someone thought out carefully before starting to build. This is a splendid location to live, the golf course near, and fine people all around you.

LUCILE AVE., $4,750—A brand new bungalow of seven rooms, and anyone would say $5,750 the minute they saw it. The lot is a beauty, level and well shaded, in a new section of Lucile, which accounts for the price. It was built to set a standard on some property owned by our client, and the price was put on it, not to make a profit on the place, but to get the right folks, to add value to their other lots.

WE THINK these are splendid values, and worth your while looking into. Remember, we have hundreds of others, and know it would pay you to ask about them,

Dr. Connally's Plans for Office Building on the Brown & Allen Corner–March Building Permits Already $35,000 Ahead of the Whole Month Last Year, Although Year Is Still Behind–Southern Bell Leases Office Space

Dr. E. L. Connally will erect some kind of office building on what is known as the Brown & Allen corner, at Whitehall and Alabama streets, and work will be started next fall when the present tenants will vacate.

This statement was authorized Thursday by Thomas W. Connally, Dr. Connally's son.

No definite plan has been decided on as yet, Mr. Connally said. It is not known whether the building will be eight, twelve, sixteen or twenty stories, but the probability is that it will be sixteen stories, hardly less than twelve.

Various plans have been considered, altered or rejected altogether. It is very probable, however, that the second floor, and possibly the third, fronting Whitehall street, will be divided into upstairs show rooms, suited to the needs of milliners, tailors and similar retail concerns. The balance of the space will be offices.

One tenant from the east is already figuring on space, and several tentative applications have been made. The store rooms on the ground floor will be large ones, according to the present plans.

Mr. Connally emphasized the statement that while no definite plan was yet agreed on, a building would be erected to replace the present three-story structure.

MARCH BUILDING GAIN.

In fact, building is going to be conspicuous for its activity during 1914. March already shows a gain of nearly $35,000 over the entire month last year, and the year, to date, is only $137,722 behind.

The value of permits for March to date is $470,948, while that for the entire month of 1913 was $1,108,949, a difference in favor of this month of $34,508.

Thursday, in common with the preceding days for some time past, shows a large assortment of dwelling permits. There can be no other sign of returning activity than ohuse building. It shows that real estate is being absorbed by the ultimate consumer, and incidentally it proves that money is becoming easier.

A study of Thursday's permits shows dwellings ranging from $1,000 up to over $12,000 to be spent in replacing a house recently damaged by fire.

BELL TELEPHONE LEASE.

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company has leased 1,500 square feet of space on the third floor of the Empire building, corner of Peachtree and Carnegie (formerly the Equitable) building.

On April 1 the lessee will use this space for its tariff department. It was taken with a view of its adaptability for a large force of clerks.

This building was the first office structure in the south, and the owners are pleased with the fact it still meets the requirements of those tenants seeking extensive space.

ADRIFT!

A STORY OF LOVE AND HATE

THE PARTING OF THE SWEETHEARTS.

An Interesting Eclair—Universal Motion Picture Drama to Be Shown at the Savoy Theater Thursday

Orville whittled furiously at a birch twig. "Fools" he muttered. - Barbara endorsed the tensely voiced sentiment with a look of her head. Evening twilight shimmered dreamily over the Canadian woods and purpled the ripples in the stream at their feet. The girl looked wistfully into the flaring colors of the sunset.

Orville sat beside her, as strong and eager and young as the eternal mystery of the rippling stream. "I suppose he thinks that ends it."

"But it won't," the girl assud him. "I'll see you and the whole continental divide couldn't part us," she added rebelliously. "It will only be a few months—perhaps a year, and then—"

Orville sighed. A year! He gauged the distance with eyes of youth. So much might happen, so many changes might transpire. He tossed another twig into the stream. It rocked on the sinuously rushing ripples, zigzagged helplessly in the swirl, and then with a swirl and a leap caught the other twig. "See! They meet again," cried the girl, an exultant twitch in her voice.

"But there may be year between. And the stream may be longer and deeper," observed the boy with the philosophising of young blood. "But I guess you're right, they'd meet some time, wouldn't they?"

"And I'll wait for you," she promised him. And indeed her love grew as deep and tender as the night that was gathering over the wilds.

"I'll always be you!" she murmured as they kissed each other farewell. "And remember the stream and the twigs. They meet."

He stulled and walked homeward. The stars seemed brighter, the night wind a breeze so friendly. A year was such a short time, after all.

His mother opened the door for him and served his supper. "Barbara is going away to her aunt's," he told her, "Her father is sending her away."

Mrs. Stuart looked at him understandingly. There was the kind of face that can never forget its youth.

THE FAMILY FEUD IS REMEMBERED.

"I see—Roseman hasn't got over it yet," she murmured as she seated herself beside him. "It's the old feud. Years ago there was trouble between our families. It's like a curse—it's been handed down from father to son and from mother to daughter. But if you ain't good enough for Barbara Stuart, she ain't good enough for you, either," she added haughtily.

"Edwin Roseman isn't the kind of man who forgets," she went on, dreamily. "It's in his blood. He would rather die than see you marry his daughter. But don't worry. There are lots of girls—and lots of them that are just as good as Barbara Roseman."

Again Orville frowned at thought of the folly of the wise. They would never understand. They had no conception of youth he had glimpsed the mystery that lurked in his mother's eyes whenever she mentioned the name of Edwin Roseman. Could it be possible—? And again he thought of the twigs and the stream, but this time the stream was longer, less turbulent and weary with age.

There was a faltering rap at the door, and a man entered. His hair was silvered and his face was seamed, but the eyes lurked the youth that is loath to surrender. Orville happened to catch a glimpse of his mother's face, and marveled at its sudden shifting of expressions.

"Good evening, Mr. Roseman," she said, icily, but there was a hitch in the voice that belied its coolness.

Roseman seated himself awkwardly. "Barbara has just left, and I felt—well, a bit lonesome," he faltered.

Dormant fire blazed in Mrs. Stuart's eyes. "You sent her away!" she cried. "And I'm sorry—very sorry you thought my son wasn't good enough for her. Not good enough for a Roseman!" she laughed mockingly, but something other than scorn trembled on her lips.

"Julie—" He held out his hand pleadingly, but there was no response in the woman's pinched face.

"Leave—at once!" she commanded, pointing to the door. The man rose from the chair and lurched toward the door. Steadily his face tensed with anger.

ROSEMAN THREATENS ORVILLE'S MOTHER.

"I am going," he said. "But some day you'll repent your stubbornness."

He was gone. The woman sat trembling at the table, her face white. Something vital seemed to have departed from her.

"I know he was right," she sobbed. "I'll regret—I've always regretted it!"

"He isn't worth it," mumbled Orville, savagely.

One evening, months later, he went to the store with his mother to purchase provisions. Other evenings he had gone with Barbara to the stream to listen to the message of the gurgling current. Now Barbara was gone—and it was her father's fault, he thought bitterly. Hatred for the man who had parted them blazed in him. Suddenly, while he was occupied with his thoughts Roseman entered the store

FIFTH REGIMENT IN DANGER OF DISRUPTION

Business Men Discouraging Employes to Enlist Causes Depletion in Ranks

The possibility of the disruption of the Fifth regiment, Georgia national guard, and the loss to Atlanta of the regimental headquarters, through the indifferent attitude of business men who discourage their employes from enlisting in the service, was discussed Wednesday afternoon at a joint meeting of committees representing the chamber of commerce and the Fifth regiment.

At the meeting the point was made that the disinclination of employers to encourage their employes to enlist had made it very difficult to recruit the full complement of companies necessary to the organization of a regiment.

Should the regiment lose one company Atlanta would cease to be regimental headquarters, as the companies of nearby towns, which were formerly available to fill out, can no longer be attached to the Fifth regiment. Therefore, with one company short the regimental organization would be destroyed and the remaining companies would be formed into detached battalions and companies with majors and captains in command.

Members of the joint committee, which met Wednesday afternoon, were:

From the chamber of commerce: Colonel E. E. Fomeroy, chairman; Wilmer L. Moore, Colonel F. J. Paxon, J. Epps Brown, John Morrie, Sr., and F. O. Foote

From the Fifth regiment: Colonel Orville H. Hall, Lieutenant Colopel W. C. Hendrix, Captain Oscar Palmour, Captain C. A. Stokes, Captain W. H. Leahy and Captain John W. Quillian.

After the meeting Captain Leahy made the following statement:

"The value of an efficient national guard to Atlanta has been demonstrated on more than one occasion when the military rendered splendid service to the city in preserving order, and the committee from the chamber expressed surprise at the state of affairs as reported by the officers and it was the unanimous view that something should be done at once to change the condition of things. It will be the purpose of the joint committee to inaugurate a campaign of both publicity and further investigation, for it must be obvious to everybody that the maintenance of a well-disciplined military organization is absolutely essential to the welfare of the community.

"Atlanta is the only city in the south with a full regiment of infantry, and it is felt by the committee that every encouragement should be given to keep this organization intact, ready for service with full ranks, to promptly answer the call of any duty it may be required to perform."

TURNER INSISTS HE WILL IGNORE ELECTRICAL BOARD

City Electrician Declares He Will Not Approve Any of W. M. Carter's Work

W. M. Carter, an electrical contractor, went before the board of electrical control Wednesday afternoon and charged that City Electrician Turner discriminated against him by refusing to grant him a permit to do electrical work in Atlanta.

The board of electrical control without calling in Electrician Turner, and, as he says, without notifying him of the meeting, authorized Carter to go ahead in business.

Turner Thursday morning denounced the board or electrical control and declared he would approve none of Carter's work. He stated his position as follows.

There are city laws governing electrical contractors and regulating installations. One of these laws provides that where an electrical contractor, after stating an examination and obtaining a business license, leaves the city and remains away, he applies for another business license, he must stand another examination. Carter stood an examination and got a license in 1911. He went away and came back a short time ago. I simply applied the law to his case exactly as I have applied it to three other electrical contractors during the present year.

"WENT WHINING TO BOARD."

Then he went whining to the board of electrical control, and that board called a meeting and heard his complaint and authorized him to go ahead in business without notifying me of the meeting or calling me in to state my side of the case.

The law as it applies to Carter is a good law. It protects people who have electrical installations put in. Its purpose is to require contractors to keep informed of the city's electrical ordinances, which must be changed from time to time to keep abreast of modern electrical practice. I am going to enforce it so long as it stays on the books.

The board of electrical control, as I have previously pointed out, is an absurd body. It consists of the chief of construction, the chief of the fire department and two council members. The idea of having two heads of city departments pass on the actions of the head of another city department! It is absurd. I might as well pass on the actions of the general manager of the waterworks or the general manager of parks.

If the city attorney rules that Carter does not have to stand another examination, which I understand the board of electrical control claims, I will not pay any attention whatever to his ruling. The law is plain enough for a child to understand. I don't need the city attorney to construe it for me.

TO SUBMIT BOND ISSUE FOR HOSPITAL CHANGES

Proposition for Big Improvements to Grady to Be Put to Atlanta Voters

Citizens and city officials who are backing the movement for a larger and greater Grady hospital met Wednesday afternoon in the directors' room of the Lowry National bank and agreed upon May 5 as the date on which they will ask the general council to submit to the voters of Atlanta a bond issue of $750,000 for hospital extensions and improvements.

Committees were appointed to lay before council members the needs of the hospital and enlist their support for holding the bond election; to wait on Chairman Eugene D. Thomas, of the Fulton county Democratic executive committee, and make arrangements for holding the election in or near the polling places for the county primary, which is to be held on May 5; to wait on the editors of the three Atlanta daily newspapers and ask their support of the bond issue; and to raise the necessary funds for financing the bond campaign.

In the event the members of council signify their willingness to submit the bond issue to the people on the date mentioned, Mayor Woodward will be asked to call a special meeting of council at once, so that the action of council may be taken without delay and give all the time possible for the bond campaign. The next regular meeting of council is not due until Monday, April 7, and it is desired to get the special meeting one week earlier if the way is clear.

This will allow, at the most, only five or six weeks to make the bond campaign, which means that it must be a campaign of the most vigorous and effective sort in order to educate the voters to the needs of the hospital and induce them to go to the polls and vote for the bonds.

One of the main arguments in favor of the bonds will be that the revenue from a pay ward to be erected with a portion of the bond issue will be sufficient, to pay the interest and sinking fund, so that the bonds will impose no additional burden on the city's current income.

On this idea Mayor Woodward, who has not looked with favor on the various bond issues agitated lately, will probably support the special issue for Grady hospital. His position toward bonds has not been that the improvements proposed are not needed, but that the city has been cramped financially that it can hardly provide the actual operating expenses of its various departments, much less talk on the added burden of interest and sinking fund.

This argument will not apply to the proposed Grady hospital bonds, if it can be shown that the pay ward will yield sufficient revenue to carry them, and hence the mayor's support is confidently expected.

KIND LADY HELPS SICK OLD SOLDIER

Could Not Walk a Step. Both Make Statement Regarding Trouble and Place Credit Where Due.

Blackwells, Ga.—"Last year an old soldier living in my neighborhood," says Mrs. Hattie Armstrong, of this place, "was so stricken with his back that he could not walk a step. He got no relief from medicines he was taking, and I recommended Thedford's Black-Draught to him. He got two 25c packages, and by the time he had used them he was entirely well.

I have been using Black-Draught for 10 years in my family, and am never without it in the house. I have six children and I give them Black-Draught for colds, and it cures them. I suffered with constipation for a long time, and I could get nothing to do me the good that Black-Draught does. It is all that keeps me on foot."

Mr. S. M. Watkins, the old soldier referred to above, says: "I was down with my back last summer, and couldn't get anything to relieve me. On a friend's advice I took two packages of Thedford's Black-Draught, and it did me more good than all other medicines put together. It's the finest medicine for headaches, as well as constipation and colds, I have ever tried."

EAST LAKE BOAT HOUSE THREATENED BY FLAMES

Night Watchman Discovers Fire Late at Night in Time to Save Building

Atlanta golfers who lost thousands of dollars worth of sticks in the fire that destroyed the East Lake club house last Sunday, narrowly escaped another disastrous blow Wednesday night when the boat house at the lake caught fire in the ladies' locker room from a defective flue.

The night watchman discovered the fire about 11:30 o'clock and gave the alarm. Officers of the club, who were at the boat house, and several nearby residents came to his assistance and the fire was quickly extinguished. Several fire engines from town arrived in time to help.

The fire did not reach the men's locker rooms and no golf sticks were burned. The athletic club and members had made preparations to use the boat house in place of the destroyed house this summer and today are congratulating themselves on the outcome of the second fire.

Decatur's growth has been neither sporadic nor accidental, but has been due to the far-seeing planning and work of its public spirited citizens, with an unusual number of whom the town has always been blessed.

From the beginning Decatur's chief concern has been its home life, its schools, its churches. This has given character to the town and laid the solid foundation for the modern Decatur, whose chief concern is still for the highest welfare of its people—their education—their health—their home life—the moral atmosphere of the community.

It is on this account that Decatur has become so widely known as the typical home town, and has attracted to its borders men and women who are, above all things else, home builders and home lovers.

The men and women of Decatur today are striving to make our beautiful, fine old town modern in all the best, and in none of the bad, senses of that word, and are doing everything in their power to make Decatur the model home town.

If you have not been to Decatur, remember that the corporate limits of Decatur and Atlanta are only two miles apart, and that street car lines, modern highways, the Georgia Railroad, and innumerable telephones make it very easy for you to study the town.

The trees are becoming green again and our beautiful flowers are beginning to bloom, and it is a good time for you to come to see us. If you cannot come right away, write to us or phone.
