WILSON BRANDS ACT ON CANAL TOLLS AS MISTAKEN ECONOMY

President, in Person, Delivers Message to Congress Urging Repeal of Exemption Clause of Law

"GRANT ME THIS REQUEST IN UNGRUDGING MEASURE"

"The Large Thing to Do Is the Only Thing to Do," He Says—Law Now Conflicts With Treaty

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Wilson personally appealed to congress, assembled in joint session today, to sustain the national honor of the United States in upholding treaty obligations by repealing the Panama tolls exemption against which Great Britain protests. He asked congress to do that "in support of the foreign policy of the administration," and added that an exemption for American ships not only was "a mistaken economic policy," but was in contravention of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure.

The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do; a voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned and misunderstood.

We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong, and so once more deserve our reputation for generosity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation.

MESSAGE IN FULL.

President Wilson's address, the shortest he has yet delivered to congress—exactly 420 words—was as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress—I have come to you upon an errand which can be very briefly performed, but I beg that you will not measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I state it. No communication I have addressed to the congress carried with it graver or more far-reaching implications to the interest of the country, and I come now to speak upon a matter with regard to which I am charged in a peculiar degree by the constitution itself with personal responsibility.

I have come to ask for the repeal of that provision of the Panama canal act of August 24, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from payment of tolls, and to urge upon you the justice, the wisdom and the large policy of such a repeal with the utmost earnestness of which I am capable.

In my own judgment, very carefully considered and maturely formed, that exemption constituted a mistaken economic policy from every point of view, and is, moreover, in plain contravention of the treaty with Great Britain concerning the canal concluded on November 18, 1901. But I have not come to you to urge my personal views. I have come to state to you a fact and a situation.

THE LARGE THING TO DO.

Whatever may be our own differences of opinion concerning this much debated measure, its meaning is not debated outside the United States. Everywhere else the language of the treaty is given but one interpretation, and that interpretation precludes the exemption I am asking you to repeal. We consented to the treaty; its language we accepted, if we did not originate it; and we are too big, too powerful, too self-respecting a nation to interpret with too strained or refined a reading the words of our own promises just because we have power enough to give us leave to read them as we please.

The large thing to do is the only thing we can afford to do, a voluntary withdrawal from a position everywhere questioned and misunderstood. We ought to reverse our action without raising the question whether we were right or wrong and so once more deserve our reputation for generosity and the redemption of every obligation without quibble or hesitation.

I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the administration. I shall not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure.

LONG DISPUTE.

The Panama tolls question has been a subject of dispute for nearly two years. Diplomatic correspondence between Great Britain and the United States found the question unsettled when President Taft left office. Except for an assurance to James Bryce, then British ambassador, when he left the U. S. A. years ago, that the question would be taken up in the regular session of congress, President Wilson has never directed any official communication to England on the tolls question.

The president recently told callers he had never discussed the matter formally or informally with the British ambassador here, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, because he believed the obligation on the part of the United States to repeal the exemption clause was one which this government itself should realize without outside influence or pressure.

Administration leaders in both house and senate have assured the president that, with the delivery of a message by him showing that international circumstances had arisen since the measure was last debated, the president's suggestion for repeal would meet with prompt action.

The house chamber and galleries were packed as usual to hear the president read his address. The French and German ambassadors and other members

DARING HOLD-UP IN CENTER OF ATLANTA IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

DEMANDED ALL MONEY BUT OBTAINED ONLY $45

When Clerk Refused to Open Safe Bandit Put Pistol in His Pocket and Made Clean Getaway

A sensational daylight holdup in the heart of Atlanta at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the offices of the Jefferson Loan society, 59 North Forsyth street, resulted in the escape of a lone bandit with $45 and threw the entire neighborhood into a furor of excitement.

The bandit walked into the loan society's office, threw a pistol into the face of the clerk behind the wicket and demanded all the money in the place.

After pocketing $45 he calmly walked out of the door and disappeared around the corner in the direction of the Piedmont hotel.

MANY SAW BANDIT.

Numerous pedestrians were passing at the time and several saw the bandit stick the gun into his pocket, but his disappearance was as sudden as his daring robbery was successful.

I. Steinberg, a clerk at the bank, was alone in the office at the time. He was standing behind the wicket when a well-dressed stranger entered the door.

"I am from Bradstreet's agency," he told the clerk. "I want to examine your rating."

Steinberg pushed open the wicket to tell the stranger that he would have to wait until the manager of the firm came in. Hardly had he uttered a word, when the bandit raised his right hand and Steinberg was staring into the black muzzle of a revolver.

"Hand over your money," said the bandit. Mr. Steinberg handed it over—$45.

"Now go to that safe and give me everything in it," continued the bandit, after pocketing the $45.

Steinberg refused. He had a pistol in his pocket, but with the black mouth of the bandit's weapon not a foot from his eyes, he was afraid to draw it.

"KILL ME FIRST."

"You can kill me before I'll touch the safe," declared Steinberg.

"Oh, all right," said the bandit, with a laugh, and backed toward the door. He thrust the revolver into his pocket and slid outside.

With the disappearance of the bandit, Steinberg gave a yell and dashed into the street. Numbers of people were passing and rushed up to him at his cry.

Steinberg saw the bandit disappear around the corner to the Piedmont, but, if his excitement and the confusion occasioned by the sudden gathering of the crowd, the bandit made good his getaway.

DESCRIPTION OF BANDIT.

Officers were summoned, and, armed with a full description of the bold thief, endeavored to follow his trail.

The bandit is described as being about thirty years old, youngish appearing, smooth shaven, with dark hair and eyes. He was neatly dressed in a dark gray tailored suit, with an invisible stripe in it. He wore a hat and is said to have weighed about 140 pounds and to have been about feet 8 inches tall. His nose is described as slightly acquiline.

In the safe which Steinberg refused to open for the bandit were several thousand dollars worth of diamonds, it was stated at the office of the loan society.

Bank of Warwick Robbed of $1,500; Vault Wrecked

WARWICK, Ga., March 5.—The Bank of Warwick, a state bank, was robbed and its vault wrecked about 2 o'clock this morning, at which hour several citizens heard the noise of the explosion. As shooting of firearms during the night is a not uncommon occurrence here, nothing was thought of the explosion until the bank officials arrived at the bank this morning and found the vault in ruins.

The robbers secured about $1,500 in cash. Valuable papers that were in the vault were scattered all about and the officials have not finished the work of checking them up to see whether or not any are missing.

Several citizens of the town heard the noise of an automobile exhaust shortly after the explosion occurred and it is believed the robbers came into town and made their get-away in a motor car. Whence they came and where they went is a mystery. Sheriffs of surrounding counties and police authorities of neighboring towns have been communicated with in an effort to apprehend the robbers. They left no clues as to their identity, their number or the direction in which they left.

M. I. Ivey, cashier of the bank, has taken charge of the efforts that are being made to apprehend the robbers. Ben Harris, assistant cashier, is engaged on the work of checking up the bank's disordered papers. L. O. Benton, of Monticello, Ga., is president of the bank. The robbers used nitroglycerine in robbing the bank, and the vault was so badly wrecked that a new one will have to be built.

"BABY" DEPARTMENT HOLDS BANQUET

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The department of labor, the "baby" among the executive branches of the government service, today entered upon the second year of its activities. Yesterday marked its first anniversary and the occasion was celebrated at a banquet last night of the officials and employes of that department.

Secretary Wilson in discussing present day labor problems predicted that the time would come when every worker would receive the full profits of his labor. He said that his department would work to bring about this condition.

DIAZ IN WASHINGTON TO ASK HEARING BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Claims He Can Win Many Influential Citizens to His Cause, as Well as Huerta's Officers

AGENTS DECLARED PEOPLE WITH DIAZ

Leader However Denies Knowing Del Villar and Ocon Who Called at Capitol Yesterday in His Interest

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Felix Diaz arrived here today to attempt to get a hearing before the senate foreign relations committee and give his views on the Mexican situation.

Pedro Del Vilar and Cecelio Ocon, who represented themselves as his supporters, appeared before the committee yesterday to ask what attitude this government would take toward a revolution headed by Diaz. The general himself, in New York last night, declared he did not know the two men.

Diaz, notwithstanding his denial that he knew either Vilar or Ocon, came in response to their messages urging him to plead his own cause. Whether the committee will hear him has not been determined, but the request may be granted, inasmuch as the committee wishes to get all the information possible on the Mexican situation.

Diaz, it is understood, will endeavor to convince the committee that, as the leader of a movement to establish a state government in Mexico, he could win many influential citizens of the republic as well as officers of General Huerta's government and the army.

It developed today that before the committee yesterday Vilar and Ocon declared 90 per cent of the people of Mexico would back Diaz in an effort to overthrow Huerta. "If you can show such support," one of the senators asked, "why don't you turn in and settle the whole trouble at once?"

WANT SUPPORT OF UNITED STATES

The Diaz followers stated they wished the moral support of this government in such a movement. Questions as to whether there were available finances for such attack on the Huerta government were met with evasive replies and it was inferred by some senators that it was the purpose of the Diaz movement to attack Huerta with his own forces in the same way as leaders of the Madero government turned upon him when Huerta seized the reins of power. Diaz remained at his hotel most of the day contemplating a conference with Senator Fall.

Benton's Sister, in Atlanta, Asks Aid From Howard

In an effort to find out whether or not William Benton, the man who was slain by General Villa in Mexico recently, is her brother, Mrs. E. R. Southard, of 24 Fortress avenue, Atlanta, has written a letter to Congressman William Schley Howard, of this district, asking him to take up the matter with the state department.

Mrs. Southard called at the offices in the Candler building of the Second brigade headquarters, U. S. A., Wednesday afternoon to learn if they had any information there thoroughly establishing the identity of Villa's victim. She was referred to Congressman Howard.

While there is but a remote possibility that the Benton slain in Mexico and Mrs. Southard's brother are one and the same, she is determined to either prove or disprove the possibility.

Her brother, William Benton, she says, lived for many years in Montgomery, Ala., going to Mexico in 1890, where he soon was lost track of by his relatives in Alabama and Georgia. Mrs. Southard says she has heard nothing of him since 1900, when he was believed to have been living near El Paso, with his wife and family.

According to Associated Press dispatches, the William Benton slain by Villa is a Scotchman over whose identity there is no question.

Should it prove, however, that he was in reality Mrs. Southard's brother, a native of Florida, a resident of Montgomery and Atlanta for many years and unquestionably a citizen of the United States, it would have the effect of immediately relieving the tense situation between England and the United States and rendering Villa responsible to Uncle Sam and not John Bull for the death of a prominent citizen.

Carranza's Board Begins Probe of Benton's Death

(By Associated Press.)

EL PASO, Tex., March 5.—Investigation into the execution by General Villa of William S. Benton, the British subject, and into the disappearance of Gustav Bauch, the German-American, was begun at Juarez today by the Mexican commission appointed by General Carranza, chief of the constituionalists.

The commission will endeavor to ascertain whether the arrest and conviction of Benton was made according to due form of law and justice. It is not expected that an examination will be made of Benton's body.

An attempt will be made by the Mexican commissioners to learn whether Bauch was executed or whether he is still alive. If alive, an attempt will be made to learn his whereabouts. The Anglo-American commission today was still awaiting instructions from Washington.

The headquarters of the constitutionalist government was established today across the river at Juarez. Seventy men, heads of departments, clerks and secretaries brought with them a carload of official papers.

General Carranza and members of his cabinet were expected to leave Nogales for Juarez today.

BOTH WEST AND SLATON SILENT ON CONFERENCE

New Senator Won't Ask for Re-election, Is General Opinion

Candidates for the United States senate, prospective candidates for the United States senate, prospective candidates for governor and politicians generally would give a good deal to know just exactly what passed between Governor Slaton and Senator-designate W. S. West during the three-hour conference which they held in the former's office at the capitol Thursday.

At 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, after the conference had continued for two and a half hours, a Journal reporter was admitted to the governor's office and allowed to propound a few questions to the two confreres. Neither would discuss the political situations. Both agreed that while the state flag is still flying at half-mast in memory of the late Senator A. O. Bacon, it would be inappropriate for them to make any announcement of their future plans.

Both declared that they had no intention of issuing any public statement at this time. Senator-designate West would not say whether he intended to be a candidate in the primary for Senator Bacon's unexpired term and the governor was equally reticent concerning his own plans.

That they discussed every phase of the political situation and reached an understanding is taken for granted, although nothing was said by either of them which could be construed into an admittance of the truth of such an assumption.

The impression continues to grow that the new senator will not stand for re-election and that Governor Slaton will go after Senator Bacon's unexpired term.

Senator-designate West reached Atlanta Thursday morning and left at 2:45 o'clock for Washington, where he will arrive Friday morning. He was given his commission by Governor Slaton and expects to present it to the senate on Friday or Saturday. The new senator's credentials were mailed to Senator Hoke Smith, several days ago by Governor Slaton and the former has already transmitted them to the senate.

MICHIGAN MAN IN RACE FOR HIS LIFE

C. W. Post Rides Special Train Across Country to Have Operation Performed

LA JUNTA, Col., March 5.—A special train bearing C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., who is making a race with death across the country, reached here at 7:30 o'clock this morning and departed ten minutes later over the main line of the Santa Fe for Kansas City.

Mr. Post is being rushed to Rochester, Minn., for an operation which, it is hoped, will save his life. It was reported that he was standing the journey as well as could be expected.

WESTERN CATTLEMEN CALL ON WILSON

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Senator Ashurst and a delegation of western men interested in cattle raising called on President Wilson today in the interest of the bill introduced by Representative Kent, for federal regulation of public grazing land.

REVOLUTION REPORTED IN BRAZILIAN STATES

War Between Local Forces and Federals Said to Be Due to Race Question

(By Associated Press.)

BUENOS AIRES, March 5.—A state of siege was proclaimed in Rio Janeiro, Brazil, today, according to dispatches reaching here from that city. It is understood here that a strict censorship has been imposed on dispatches from Brazil.

Reports have been current for some time that a revolutionary movement was in existence in the Brazilian states of Pernambuco, Ceara and Para and that fighting was in progress between the local forces and the government troops.

The causes of disaffection were said to have been racial differences. In the last week of February a body of fanatics was reported to be marching on Rio Janeiro.

The situation in the various states was reported as becoming worse, especially in Ceara. Business was said to be virtually suspended in several states, chiefly those where the negro population was very numerous. The state of Ceara, at the last census, had a population of about 850,000. Para 450,000 and Pernambuco 1,200,000.

$38,000 Tied Up in Flour Sack Is Found On Floor of Station

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—Expressions of gratitude in the form of kisses last night were showered upon William H. Egan, station master of the Pennsylvania railroad station here, by the twenty-seven men and women members of an emigrant band because he had been instrumental in restoring to them a flour sack which contained $38,000 in gold and bills.

The party, en route from Montana to Poland, dined in the station and then started for the pier to board the steamship Olympic. The leader's wife, to whom her fellow-travelers had entrusted their money, forgot the bag in a waiting room. It was found by an attendant and turned over to Egan. Its contents had hardly been counted when the emigrants rushed back clamoring for their money.

When they learned that every dollar of the $38,000 was intact, they made a rush for Egan.

WOMAN GETS SIX MONTHS' SENTENCE

(By Associated Press.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 5.—Mrs. Addie Jewell, whose various advertisements as "a handsome widow in search of a housekeeper's position" netted her a considerable income, pleaded guilty of using the mails to defraud in the federal court today and was sentenced to six months in jail. Her husband is serving a sentence as an accomplice.

MAJOR ULM MAY EDIT DAILY VALDOSTA TIMES

Executive Secretary to Governor Slaton Tendered Place—Is Silent

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VALDOSTA, Ga., March 5.—Major A. H. Ulm, executive secretary to Governor Slaton, has been tendered the place of editor of the Valdosta Times by the directors of that newspaper, and it is believed here that he will accept it.

Major Ulm spent a day or two in Valdosta during the early part of the present week, and while here looked into the affairs of the Times. He expressed himself as much impressed with the paper and its field, and, although he has not yet indicated whether he will or will not accept the editorship, it is regarded here as highly probable that he will do so, such action on his part being dependent upon his being able at this time to give up the place he now holds with Governor Slaton.

BRANTLEY TO MACON.

C. C. Brantley, who has been editor of the Times since 1896, has accepted the position of associate editor of the Macon Telegraph and will leave to take up his new duties in Macon about March 10. He will have charge of the local and state departments on the Macon Telegraph, and Louis Pendleton, brother of the late Editor Charles S. Pendleton, will handle the political policies and general management of the paper.

Mr. Brantley is a well-equipped newspaper man and wields one of the strongest pens in the state. He has made a great success of the Times.

Major Ulm is one of the best known newspaper men in Georgia, and has had a wide experience. He has been associated with daily papers in Atlanta, New York, Newark, Macon and Augusta, and is a political writer of great ability.

Major Ulm was executive secretary under Governor Brown during both of the latter's terms. If he finds that he can make the necessary arrangements to leave his present position he will probably come to Valdosta with his family within the next few weeks.

MAJOR ULM IS SILENT CONCERNING HIS PLANS.

Major Ulm stated Thursday morning that he had not reached any decision about the Valdosta offer. He admitted that he had been to Valdosta and did not deny that he had been tendered the place of editor of the Times. Further than this he would not talk on the subject.

REPORTER APOLIGIZES TO SOUTH CAROLINA HOUSE

Was Requested to Do So, Following Row With Legislator

(By Associated Press.)

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 5.—After investigating the personal encounter of Tuesday night between A. D. Oliphant, a reporter for the State, a Columbia morning newspaper, and Representative Rogers, of Spartanburg, the majority of the house committee on privileges and elections submitted a report requesting Mr. Oliphant to apologize to the house. The minority of the committee recommended that the speaker reprimand Mr. Oliphant. At the investigation Mr. Oliphant testified that Mr. Rogers provoked the difficulty by calling him a liar. Mr. Rogers denied his intention to reflect on Mr. Oliphant's veracity.

After debate last night the house adopted the majority report of the committee. Mr. Oliphant then appeared before the bar of the house and apologized to the house.

LEO M. FRANK BEGS DETECTIVES TO OPEN MINDS TO THE TRUTH

Convicted Man in Tower Gives Out New Statement and Hits at City Detective John Black

"TELL TRUTH WHILE YOU CAN DO SO WITH HONOR"

Stiles Hopkins Tells How Affidavit Was Secured From Epps—Boy Sticks to Sworn Story Regardless of Father

Following the Epps affidavit and the replies to it of the detectives, Leo M. Frank from his cell in the tower urges the inhabitants of the "castle on Decatur street" to open their hearts to the truth, which is on the onward march, and to do right, while they can with honor.

Anent the statement of Detective John Black in reply to the Epps affidavit, Frank says:

When you shoot at a target and hit the bull's eye, the bell rings. There is pretty good evidence that there is some truth in the Epps affidavit from the noise they are raising at police headquarters. When a man is in a tight place, and his position has been wrong and is attacked, instead of doing what the truth would enable him to do, producing facts and arguments, he turns in desperation to physical violence and wants to smash someone in the face with his fist.

Detective Black has offered to whip the man who accuses him of any misconduct in the case.

"TRUTH ON THE MARCH."

Frank was apparently gratified by the developments of the past few days. This is what he said to reporters:

I again say that truth is on the march and a part of it is already here. And in that castle on Decatur street they are beginning to feel the denouements that have come, and that the future may hold in store.

Truth is coming like a dawning day, and the first pink signs of it can be seen in the east. The rays of the truth are being concentrated on Decatur street.

The officers of the law, in view of recent developments, should take cognizance of their consciences, and do right while they yet can with honor. I don't think that Black is a man inherently wrong, and I ask him and his colleagues to do right while they can.

Attorney Reuben R. Arnold, of the defense, refrained from commenting Thursday upon the developments in the case, but Stiles Hopkins, a well known attorney with the law firm of Rosser, Brandon, Slaton & Phillips, gave out a statement, telling how the affidavit was secured from little George Epps.

HOPKINS' STATEMENT.

Mr. Hopkins went to the reformatory with J. Cleveland Cooper, clerk of the superior court of Baldwin county, and presented a letter of introduction to J. E. Lovvron, warden of the reformatory.

He already had the affidavit prepared in accordance with the statement of Epps to one of the agents of the defense.

The warden called Epps into the room and before Mr. Hopkins spoke to the boy, asked him if he had testified at the trial of Frank.

Epps replied that he had, and that he had told falsehoods. The boy expressed his own desire to correct his false statements, the warden telling him that he was not forced to make any statement that he did not desire to make.

Mr. Hopkins states that he then gave the affidavit into Epps' hands, and asked him to follow while he (Hopkins) read from a typewritten copy, with Clerk Cooper looking over his shoulder.

BOY SIGNS AFFIDAVIT.

Mr. Hopkins says that he purposely made several mistakes in reading, and that each time Epps corrected him, showing that he was listening carefully to the statement, which subsequently he swore was the truth.

After he had sworn to the paper the boy remarked that he felt better, according to Mr. Hopkins.

Despite the statement of his father and the statement of detectives, Epps on Thursday stood by the story told

Two Men Get Different Values

Two young men came to Atlanta recently and both started at the same time in search of a room. Both finally found places and were paying the same rent, but one was living in a cold, unhomelike boarding house, while the other had found a comfortable and congenial room.

The explanation is that one followed casual directions to a "certain neighborhood" and had been guided by pieces of paper pasted above door bells and window signs, while the other made his selection with the aid of The Journal Want Ads.

in the affidavit, according to the following special dispatch from The Journal's correspondent:

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 5. George Epps, inmate of the state reformatory, in an interview this morning with The Journal's correspondent, corroborates the statement published in yesterday's Journal and declares it is correct in every essential particular.

He avers that his original story told at the Frank trial was concocted by an Atlanta detective named Black, and that he was assured no harm would come to him for swearing to the statement, and furthermore, he says, he was promised money out of the case if he stuck to this story.

He declares that he made no statement to anybody until this story by Black was planned for him, and that he told his father the story because he knew he had to stick to one statement throughout the trial in order to obtain the promised reward, and when it was not forthcoming nor any aid extended him when he got in other trouble, he decided to make a clean breast of the affair, and consequently gave out the story which tallies in most details with his published statement yesterday.

DEATH SENTENCE SATURDAY.

Strict secrecy is being maintained by Judge Ben H. Hill's order as to the time that he has instructed court attaches to bring Frank before him to hear the reprononcement of the death sentence.

However, it is generally believed that Frank will not be resentenced until Saturday.

Rumors are persistent that additional affidavits from state's witnesses are in the hands of the defense. An affidavit from one of the witnesses used by the state in the attempt to break Frank's time alibi is said to repudiate statements by the witness on the stand, and the defense is momentarily expected to make public this affidavit.

Apparently little attention is being paid either by the defense or the state's authorities to the report from LaGrange that Ed Ross, colored, tells a story to the effect that Jim Conley on the afternoon of the Phagan murder came to his (Ross') boarding house and washed blood from his hands, telling Ross that he had been in some trouble at the factory.

Further developments in the case are expected when Luther Z. Rosser, senior counsel, and Attorney Herbert J. Haas, of the Frank defense, return to this city from New York on Friday. Despite the reported denial by Mr. Rosser, the rumor is persistent that the attorney made the trip to consult William S. Osborne, the handwriting expert, who was employed in the case by Solicitor Dorsey, but whose testimony was not introduced at the trial.

EPPS' STATEMENT.

A denunciation of the new story of George W. Epps, Jr., as false by the boy's own father; by the solicitor general and by Chief Newport Lanford and Detective John Black, forms a late development in the Frank case. A telegram from the Georgia chamber of commerce to the New York Times, characterizing as absurd statements attributed to Luther Z. Rosser, chief counsel for Frank, was also made public Wednesday night.

George W. Epps, night superintendent of the Candler annex building, and father of the newsboy, who in an affidavit made public by the defense Wednesday repudiated parts of his testimony against Frank and made sensational charges against the detectives and the solicitor, declares that his son, in the affidavit is lying.

He asserts that the boy told him almost immediately after the murder of Mary Phagan, the same story, which he told on the witness stand. Yet in the affidavit the boy declares the story was "framed for him" by Detective Black.

"George told the story to his mother and myself two days before he ever saw Detective Black," Mr. Epps declares.

The affidavit states in substances that the parents of the newsboy didn't know that he was a witness in the case until he eappeared before the coroner's inquest, and that he was whipped by his father for testifying.

DIDN'T WHIP SON.

Mr. Epps declares that this is palpably false, as he has not whipped his son in several years. Mr. Epps says that the whole of George's testimony at the trial was known to him just a short time after the murder, and before the boy saw the detectives.

Chief of Detectives Lanford declares that the new sensation is simply "anoother one of the defense's false affidavits."

"The truth will stand," says Chief Lanford, "regardless of these false attacks upon it. If I had a shadow of a doubt of Frank's guilt I would proclaim it to the world in box car type. But I haven't, and I am sure the only effect of these false affidavits will be to land someone in the chaingang."

Chief Lanford calls attention to the statement in the Epps affidavit in which the former newsboy, who is now at the state farm at Milledgeville, says that Detective Black told him that he must make his story fit with Jim Conley's.

At the time that George's testimony was first put on record at the coroner's inquest Conley had not even been arrested, Chief Lanford points out, and did not admit any connection with the case until some time later.

WHAT DORSEY SAYS.

Solicitor Dorsey emphatically denies the portion of Epps' affidavit referring to him, in which the boy assertts that the solicitor encouraged him to make false statements.

Detective John Black is highly indignant as a result of the charges hurled against himself and the other detectives, and he declares that he has suffered long enough and is ready to resent personally and physically the charges of crookedness, if he can find the man who really makes them.

"I did as much work, if not more than any detective at police headquarters on the Phagan case," Black says, "and there is not a man on earth who can truthfully say that I turned a finger to any crookedness. I defy any man to accuse me of crookedness. I simply did my duty, and will continue to do it. One phase of my duty, I consider, is to whip any man who charges me with being a crook, and believe me, I will do it."

Specifically as to the Epps affidavit, Black declares that it is "undiluted bunk." The charges against himself, which are made in it, he characterized as lies. He points specifically to the paragraph saying that he found Epps in the vicinity of the boy's home, and declares as a matter of fact that the lad was brought to headquarters by the slain girl's step-father, J. W. Coleman, and made his first statement in the presence of a number of people.

ROSSER RIDICULED.

The Georgia chamber of commerce has taken exception to the purported interview with Luther Z. Rosser, which was published in New York papers.

The following telegram has been sent the New York Times:

"We understand interviews given your paper March 4 by Attorney Luther Z. Rosser, of Atlanta, chief counsel for Leo M. Frank, stated 'You see, the Jewish population of Atlanta is not large. Frank come to Atlanta a stranger and engaged in a new enterprise. He knew few people who were not of his own religion, being closely occupied with his business, and this fact rather counted against him at the time. There was the prejudice to be found in the south of the employe class against the employer and some local prejudice against a stranger.'

"Without expressing any opinion on the merits of the Frank case, this organization can only account for Attorney Rosser's misstatements concerning (1) the alleged anti-Jewish feeling in Georgia, and (2) that there is any prejudice to be found in this state of the employe class against the employer, and (3) that there is any local prejudice against a stranger—on account of his zeal for his client.

"Atlanta's Jewish population has gained over 100 per cent during past ten years and they number among our most respected and best citizens.

"Atlanta and the whole state of Georgia not only have no prejudice against a stranger, but we cordially invite manufacturers and investors, farmers and the better class of immigrants to make their homes and engage in business among us. The statement of Attorney Rosser concerning 'some local prejudice against a stranger' is doubly absurd when it is known that the heads of our public service corporation, many of the banks and largest business houses and manufacturing concerns came to Atlanta from New England, the north and the middle west.

"In the name of fairness to Atlanta and the entire state of Georgia, this statewide organization requests your publication of this telegram in your issue of Thursday morning.

BOY RAN AWAY.

The record of the children's court shows that George W. Epps, Jr., aged fifteen years, of 246 Fox street, was first brought to the detention home on June 9, 1913, because he would continually run away from home. He was released after a lecture, but appeared again on December 22, 1913, charged with larceny after trust, in that he had collected various small sums for a messenger service and converted the money to his own use. On this charge and because of general waywardness he was committed, in December, to the Georgia state reformatory, where he now is a prisoner.

Super Dansant at Piedmont Hotel Is a Great Aid to Digestion, Declare Professional Dancers There

"Tango your food!" is the advice given Atlantians—dyspeptics, hypochondriacs and healthy folk all—by Miss Katheryn Wheaton and Guy T. Murray, the two New York dancers who have inaugurated the super dansant at the Piedmont hotel.

"Don't stew it! Don't chew it! That's not the way to do it!—Just try that old digestion rag!" is their song, with the accent on the digestion.

"It's really the best thing in the world for digestion," says Miss Wheaton, who is a former Savannah, Ga., girl and a true southerner. "At the super dansant, you can get up and dance after the oysters or after the entree, after the soup or after the salads, after the cocktails or after the coffee. And each will go down a little better for the dancing."

The first super dansant at the Piedmont Monday night was a great success and will be continued six nights during the week. Miss Wheaton and Mr. Murray dance all the best modern dances, the tango, the hesitation and the maxixe. They give private lessons and intend to inaugurate a series of teas at some of the clubs.

"New York is dance mad," they say. "The afternoon teas, to which men never went before, are now crowded with both sexes, and all because of the dancing. The old men and women are the worst, too. They are crazy about it. We have taught hale old gentlemen over sixty years old who have never danced in their life before."

The dancers predict that Atlanta will go just as crazy about dancing as is New York and other cities north and west.

"It's sweeping the country," they declare. "New York complains of hard times, but it's just because New York is spending all its money on dancing, paying $25 a minute for the privilege of dancing with some professionals, dancing from noon until 6 o'clock in the morning, just stark, raving mad about it."

Smokers No Exception

(New York Herald.)

Commenting upon the death at the ripe old age of 110 years of a woman who had smoked eighty years, the Toronto Globe's philosopher makes sage pronouncement that "they may stand it for a time, but it is certain to kill them eventually."

Exactly. Nothing is surer in this world than that smokers will die if they live long enough.

BROTHERHOOD HAVE TEMPORARY QUARTERS

Since the burning of their hall in the McKenzie building, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, through E. The meetings will be held each Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

DIAZ IN NEW YORK SAYS COULD ESTABLISH STABLE GOVERNMENT

States simply is awaiting the outcome of the investigation instituted by General Carranza.

It was apparent that Carranza's determination to supply information about the Benton case, though technically denying the United States the right to ask it, was favorably received here, and his prompt ordering of the inquiry into the Bauch case likewise was welwelcomed.

Upon the results of the investigation and Carranza's subsequent action depend in a large measure the policy which the American government will pursue toward the constitutionalists.

MAY DEMAND ACTION.

Should the Carranza commission controvert important points satisfactorily proven here, it is unlikely that the United States government will remain silent. There is every likelihood, too, that if Bauch was wantonly murdered, as reported, a satisfactory explanation of the incident and punishment of the offenders will be demanded.

Persons familiar with the inaccessibility of the territory in which General Caranza will be isolated for the next ten days or more during his overland journey to Chihuahua City do not expect there will be any report on the subject for another fortnight.

Though the Huerta government has promised a full and complete explanation of the reported killing of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen, near Hidalgo, Mexico, nothing of a satisfactory nature has as yet been received by the state department. Governor Colquitt's efforts to obtain the extradition of those responsible for Vergara's disappearance are being watched here with much interest.

Carranza's Friends Urge Him to Move Carefully

NOGALES, Sonora, March 5.—Appointment of a Mexican commission to investigate the William S. Benton case resulted, it was learned today, from some difference of opinion among General Carranza's advisers. While it was asserted those surrounding the constitutionalist chief, realized his delicate position as a result of the Briton's death, they had argued that his act in refusing information to the Washington government had created a false impression in the United States and England in regard to his implied meaning in the matter.

From those in close touch with General Carranza and his policies it was learned that the appointment of the Benton commission was but the first step in a series of acts calculated to do away with what was considered a misunderstanding.

Diaz Knows Nothing Of New Revolt, He Says

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—General Felix Diaz, who is stopping here, claimed today that he was not acquainted with Pedro Del Vilar and Cecilio Ocon who, through the senate foreign relations committee at Washington sought yesterday the moral support by the United States of a movement to bring about peace in Mexico by another revolution headed, they said, by Diaz.

"I know nothing of any such movement," General Diaz said when told of the representations of Vilar and Ocon.

General Diaz said he had adopted a policy of strict neutrality. If such a movement did crop up it would have to gain considerable strength before he would even think of leading it, he said.

Bryan Held Conference With Foreign Committee

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Senator Fall, of New Mexico, Republican, will speak Saturday on his resolution requesting the president to advise the senate as to what measures have been taken to protect American citizens in Mexico.

No speeches on that subject have been made in the senate, and the administration let it be known that it did not welcome discussion on the subject in congress at this time.

Secretary Bryan today talked over the Mexican situation with members of the house foreign affairs committee.

"I discussed all phases of the Mexican situation," said Secretary Bryan, "but I cannot go into details of the conference. I must hold the matter executive. There was a phase of our conference, however, concerning which I think I shall make a statement later."

Vergara's Slayers Are Ordered Arrested in Mexico

(By Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, Tex., March 5.—Replying to Texas' requisition for the kidnapers of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen, General Joaquin Maas, federal general commanding the district where Vergara was lured into Mexico and reported executed, today wired that he has ordered the "arrest of the persons named." His telegram did not say whether, if apprehended, they would be surrendered to Texas.

of the diplomatic corps were in spaces reserved for them. No official of the British embassy was present. The Misses Wilson had places in the executive gallery and Mrs. Wilson for the first time was absent. She was not yet recovered from the shock of a fall in the White House a day or two ago.

President Wilson reached the capitol ten minutes before the time for the reading and waited in Speaker Clark's room until 12:30 o'clock, when he was escorted into the chamber and promptly began reading his brief address as soon as a burst of applause had died away.

SHORT MESSAGE

Mr. Wilson's message was so brief that he had finished reading almost before the surprised galleries realized he had begun. It took less than five minutes and as another burst of applause greeted its close, Mr. Wilson hurried out of the chamber and drove back to the White House.

The joint session dissolved at once and the two houses resumed their work.

Not a sound had interrupted the president as he read his message and as he finished the assemblage was all smiles, the demonstration being regarded as a tribute to his first year in office and the first year of Democratic supremacy in the government.

Within ten minutes after the president had addressed congress, Senator Chilton, Democrat, of the canals committee, introduced a bill authorizing the president to suspend tolls.

PLEASES ADAMSON.

Speaker Clark ordered the address referred to the interstate commerce committee.

Chairman Adamson, who will have charge of the repeal legislation, declared the address fitted his ideas exactly. He said:

The president's address pleases me because it means honesty at home and justice abroad. It is not true that we are surrendering to Great Britain if we repeal the free tolls clause. Myself and other Democrats took a position against this piece of rascality before England ever heard of it.

Democratic Leader Underwood declined to discuss the president's address.

The section which Senator Chilton's bill would add to the Panama law is as follows:

The president is hereby authorized and empowered by proclamation to make, suspend, alter, change or abolish any tolls contemplated or provided for by this act, and may prescribe tolls to be charged in any case in which the tolls are prohibited herein.

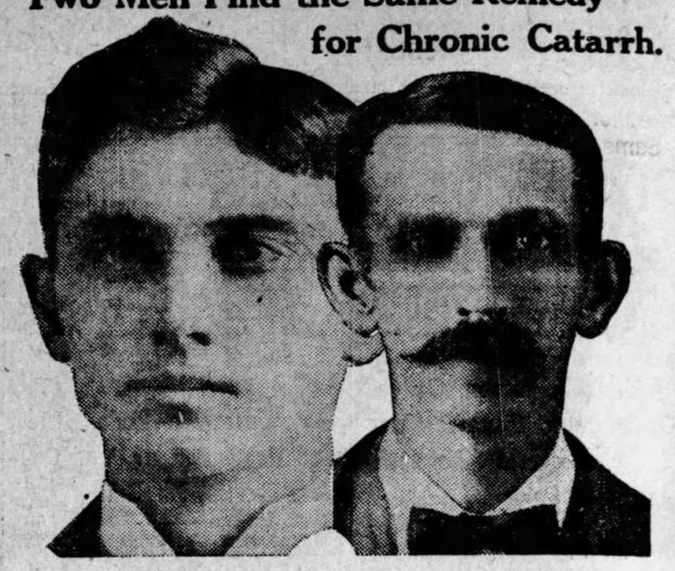
Two Men Find the Same Remedy for Chronic Catarrh.



Mr. Delton Buck, Eyota, Minn., writes "Finally the catarrh began to affect my eyesight and hearing, and becoming alarmed I wrote to Dr. Hartman. He advised the use of Peruna and salt water eye baths, which advice I followed.

"I continued the above treatment several months until I was entirely cured, and now, after nearly three years, have had no return of the disease. I consider myself permanently cured, and cheerfully recommend Peruna to all those suffering as I did."

March, April and May are good months to effectually treat catarrh.

Mr. Samuel A. Seal, R. R. 2, Treadway, Tenn., writes "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great good your medicine, Peruna, has done for me in a chronic case of catarrh of the stomach.

"A friend of mine passing by handed me one of your pamphlets, and seeing how Peruna was recommended for catarrh, I sent to Rogersville, Tenn., for Peruna. After taking it a few days I began to get better. I continued using it until I was able to go to work on the farm again, and now I am in very good health and do work on my farm."—(Advt.)

SEASON TICKET SALE FOR OPERA OPENS ON MONDAY

Prices for All Seats Will Be Same as Those of Last Year

The public sale of season tickets for Metropolitan grand opera this year in Atlanta will begin on Monday morning under music festival auspices at Phillips & Crew and at the Cable Piano company. On the day the sale opened last year there was a line extending far out on the sidewalk long before noon and as the day advanced the line increased in size. The patron who wants to get his exact choice of seats will, therefore, be wise to be on hand as early as possible Monday or as soon thereafter as he can. This does not mean that the choice seats are all going to be sold out the first day or even the first week, for the auditorium is a tremendously big place, but patrons who have some "pet" location will be more likely to get what they want by applying during the early days of the sale.

The season sale will continue every day at the two places above named through March 28, at which time the season sale will end and after that no more tickets will be sold at season rates. The sale of seats for single performances will begin April 6 and continue through the engagement.

The prices both for season seats and for seats for single performances are exactly the same this year as they were last. Season seats for the seven performances in the first 24 rows of the arena are $21. Season seats in the arena from row 25 to 35 inclusive are $17.50. Season seats in the arena from row 36 to 43 inclusive are $10.50. Season seats in the first three rows of the dress circle are $21. The next 3 rows in the dress circle are $17.50, and behind that in the dress circle some of the seasons seats are $12.25. Season seats in the balcony range in price from $14 to $7.

Seats for single performances range in price from $1 to $5. A six seated box for the season costs $189, and for single performance costs $45. A four seated box for the season costs $1236 and for single performance costs $30. Orders by mail will receive the same attention in the order they arrive, as applications in person. All mail orders must be accompanied by check, draft or money order, and with self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. All checks should be made payable to the Atlanta Music Festival association, and all mail orders and communications should be addressed to C. B. Bidwell, treasurer 1007 Third National Bank building.

MUNICIPAL COURT IS EXPENSE TO COUNTY

Report Shows Cost for Month $4,500 and Income $3,000

That the municipal court, which was expected to give the county a revenue, is operating at a cost of about $1,500 a month, was shown by a report made to the board of Fulton county commissioners on Wednesday.

The income of the court for the month of February, according to the report, was approximately $3,000, while its expenses amounted to $4,500.

The board of county commissioners on Wednesday heard a petition from Lowry Arnold, solicitor of the city criminal court, asking for the erection of a home for incorrigible women, especially those who have been convicted in the courts.

At the present time, Mr. Arnold points out, there is nowhere to send women convicted in the city criminal courts except to the farm and the people of the county, he said, would revolt at the idea of sending white women there. From 50 to 60 white women, found guilty in the city court, would be given sentences each year if there was any institution to which they could be committed.

Sheriff Wheeler Mangum also appeared before the board to ask that a vehicle to transport prisoners to the court be provided for his office.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN FROM BUSY CORNER

J. H. Roberts Left Machine at Whitehall and Hunter Streets; Offers Reward

When J. H. Roberts, city salesman of John Silvey & Co., returned from calling on a number of his customers Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to the corner of Whitehall and Hunter streets where he had left his five-passenger, 1914 model, Ford automobile, he found the car gone.

"Some one stole it," said Mr. Roberts, "and though I have been on a diligent search for it since I have been unable to locate or learn anything of the missing machine."

The state number of the car is Georgia 2386; the car number is 335170; the motor number 372884. Mr. Roberts has offered a reward for information leading to the recovery of his machine.

JURY DISAGREES IN TEEL MURDER CASE

The jury in the case of J. R. Melton, on trial in Fulton county on a change of venue for killing Mans Teel, in Harris county, last December, reported at 9:30 Wednesday morning that they were unable to agree, and Judge Ben Hill, of the criminal division of Fulton superior court, declared a mistrial.

The trial of Melton was changed to Fulton county for fear of a feud between his family and Teel's family. The shooting occurred in front of a mill in Harris county. Melton and Teel were at outs. Teel drove up to the mill in a buggy with his wife. Melton shot him dead with a load of slugs. He claims self-defense.

Melton was given his liberty on a $1,000 bond.

PEOPLE IN ATLANTA ARE AMAZED

No medicine has ever caused such amazement in Atlanta as the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This remedy drains such surprising amounts of foul matter from the body that it is known as the most thorough bowel cleanser sold. Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowel and JUST ONE DOSE relieves constipation and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY. Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Advt.)

Dr. Flinn a Factor in Big Bible Conference

DR. RICHARD ORME FLINN.

Session This Year Has Been Most Interesting and Successful in History of Atlanta. Speakers of International Reputation

The Bible conference this year at the Tabernacle has been one of the most interesting and successful in the history of the Atlanta Bible Conference association, which for sixteen years has been conducting an annual conference.

A notable array of speakers have appeared on the various programs, several of them being of international reputation, and the details of the conference have been most admirably arranged.

The man who is largely responsible for the success of this year's conference, and who had charge of all the preliminary arrangements is Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church. As executive chairman of the committee of ministers, which took charge of the work this year because of Dr. Broughton's absence, most of the heavy preparatory work fell on Dr. Flinn, and since the opening of the conference he has had much to do in attending to various details of the meetings.

Dr. Flinn took up the work that Dr. Broughton was forced to lay down this year because of his duties as pastor of his London church, and he has devoted much time and thought to the perfecting of the arrangements.

When Dr. Sol C. Dickey, of Winona, Ind., who is directing the conference, addressed the first audience last Sunday afternoon, he said that he had never before stepped into control of a conference at which the preliminary details were so splendidly handled. When he appeared on the stage he was offered an easy chair in which to sit; and what he said illustrated his position in regard to the conference work. He said he had been "sitting in an easy chair ever since he arrived."

Dr. Flinn is intensely interested in the work of the conference, and hopes to see it grow with each succeeding year.

Jury Frees Woman Of Bigamy Charge, Don't Need Divorce

A jury in the criminal division of the superior court held that if a woman has married a man in good faith, but finds that he already has a wife, that she is at liberty to discard him and marry another man, without the formality of a divorce.

Mrs. Ella Pratt, alias Mrs. Ella Stephens, was arraigned Wednesday morning on a charge of bigamy, the indictment charging that she was already married to Henry Stephens, when on November 23, 1913, she married J. W. L. Pratt.

Mrs. Pratt admitted that she had married both men, but asserted that after living with Stephens for some time, and bearing much abuse from him, that she discovered that he had a wife the mother of several children, in Alabama.

She then drove him from her home, and married Pratt.

The jury held that she had done no wrong and found her not guilty. The same verdict was entered in the case of Pratt, who was charged with bigamy also since he had full knowledge of his wife's marriage to Stephens, when he went before a minister with her.

D. D. D. In Hospitals; Standard Skin Remedy

How many hospital patients, suffering the frightful itch, the raw scorching pain of skin disease, have been soothed to sleep by a soothing fluid washed in by the nurse's hands?

That fluid is the famous D. D. D. prescription for eczema.

THE SUPERVISING NURSE of one of our prominent Catholic institutions (name of nurse and institute on application), writes regarding a patient. "The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

How many eczema sufferers are paying their doctors for regular treatment and are being treated with this same soothing, healing fluid?

DR. GEO. T. RICHARDSON frankly writes "D. D. D. is superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle. Follow these directions—and see!

And it certainly takes away the itch at once—the moment the liquid is applied. The skin is soothed—calmed—so thoroughly refreshed—delightfully cooled.

All druggists of standing have the famous specific as well as the efficient D. D. D. Skin Soap.

But we are so confident of the merits of this prescription that we will refund the purchase price of the first full size bottle if it fails to reach your case. You alone are to judge.

HIS CASE HOPELESS MOST FRIENDS THOUGHT

Could Not Eat or Sleep. A Friend Advises Black-Draught, Which Does the Work.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—This town is the home of Mr. A. J. Hughes, whose condition for five years was such as led him, as well as most of his friends, to believe that he could not recover.

Mr. Hughes now says: "I was down with stomach trouble for five years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die.

My condition was such that I could not eat or sleep. I tried many different medicines, but they did me no good.

Nearly all my friends thought I would die, but one of them advised me to take Thedford's Black-Draught. I followed his advice with but little faith.

However, I have now taken Black Draught for three months, and can truthfully say that I am well.

I haven't had sick headache any more, and feel so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

This reliable, vegetable remedy has been in successful use for three-quarters of a century. To purify the blood, renew the appetite, regulate liver, stomach and bowels, we urge you to try it.

Why suffer, when the same relief that Mr. Hughes found is within easy reach of you? At every drug store. Only costs one cent a dose. Try it.

At the Threshold of Spring We Display Scores of New

Dresses in Styles Confirmed

By the Recent New York and Paris Style Shows

THE Paris Style Show held early in February, and the New York show being held this week, include revivals of the quaint fashions for a hundred years.

Dresses are reminiscent of the period of 1830—wide hip flounces, draperies and puffs. These bouffant draperies naturally make for a changed silhouette.

Collars hark back to Henri II, the Renaissance and Degage. Sleeve styles run the gamut of years—long and short sleeves, Mandarin, peasant and modern. Waists may be long or short.

Dry detail, of interest only because it places Fashion's seal upon the dresses assembled here. Prices range from $19.75 to $75, with especially attractive styles at $29.50 and $35.

Pussy Willow Taffetas at $29.50

—This Pussy Willow Taffeta is of exceptionally fine quality. Though soft and supple, it has fullness and weight in body—it will wear and wear. The patterns show dainty Oriental flowers, Cubist and Egyptian designs; quaint geometrical figures. The model is after Paquin—with wide hip draperies, fichu of net and embroidered silk collar and cuffs. Various colors. Among the many other styles at $29.50 are—

Chiffon taffeta, $29.50—two-tier skirt with draped net bodice, plain silk collar, three-quarter sleeves.

Crepe de chine $29.50—crushed flower belt and collar, simple skirt.

Chiffon Taffeta Dresses at $35 make a winning appeal. They are clever copies or adaptations of authentic Parisian styles. Among them all the smart features are incorporated—wide girdles of plaid or striped ribbons; white and colored satins for contrasting trimmings; plain and puffed vests of tulle; deep flaring ruffles; tunics and draperies.

So much for the styles—the taffeta is a soft, firm quality that will give unending service (Dresses, Second Floor.)

12½c to 20c Val Laces 7c

Two and three yards of charming Val laces for the usual price of one yard is a value to be grasped. There are round threads, platte and diamond mesh Vals in edges and insertions from 3 to 5 inches wide. All fresh and new; dressmakers and small storekeepers should buy bolts and bolts.

$2 Embr'd Shirtwaist Fronts 98c

Hair Bow & Sash Ribbons 39c

—Because the wholesaler had left only white, pink and blue, we have 50c brocaded satin and taffeta ribbons to sell at 39c. Six different designs in flowered effects in each color. Five inches wide; snappy for sashes and hair bows. They'll sell in a jiffy at 39c. (Main Floor, Right.)

$3.50 to $5 New Leather & Moire Bags at $2.98

EARLY in January an importer showed us similar bags that we would have had to sell at $4 to $5. Knowing merchandise, we put no money in Fashion's fads—we bought just one of each style. As constructive merchants we took those sample bags to one of our New York manufacturers. We conferred together, suggested certain improvements, placed quantity orders, and this

Fine Bag Value Results

Though the styles are the very newest staple and pannier shapes, we focus attention on the materials. The leathers are real seal, morrocco and pin seal. The moire is of exceptionally heavy silk. Frames are gilt, German silver, gun metal or leather covered. Variously fitted with card case or mirror and coin purse. The moires have round or wish bone tops and are lined in contrasting colors. Every bag is of the newest; shown tomorrow for the first time. Choice $2.98.

The Two Silks Highest in Fashion's Favor Are

Taffetas & Moires

—Dame Fashion is not unreasonable and capricious. She doesn't pounce upon a fabric and say, "This shall be the style." There must be a reason. The reason for the is because it is supple enough to drape easily, yet with body enough to stay "put." Our assortment of chiffon taffetas embraces solid colors, changeables and black. All 36 inches wide at $1.50. Also yard wide black taffetas up to $2.50 and flowered and striped taffetas at $1.50 and $2.50.

Moires Are in High Favor

because they make the smartest of suits and wraps. The rich watered surface is a trimming in itself; the fabric proper has body enough to tailor easily. Deep, rich black; 36 inches wide. $1.50 and $1.75. (Silk Salon, Main Floor, Left.)

Toweling Remnants at Tumbled Prices

—One big table heaped high with dish toweling, crash toweling and huck toweling. Among the latter there are $1 huck towelings at 50c—a saving of a half. Most of the remnants, however, show savings of a fifth to a third. (Main Floor, Left.)

$1 French Bead Necklaces 69c

—Our own importation of French pearl necklaces exquisitely tinted in rose and natural to resemble the natural beads. Each strand fitted with 10 carat gold clasp.

Pearl Necklaces 98c

25-inch strand composed of large pearls graduating to smaller sizes.

Rose Coral Brooches 25c

—A gold filled filigree brooch is set in the center with imitation coral in a rose design. Very attractive. Hat pins similiarly treated are 2 on card for 25c.

New Circle Pins 25c

—Gold filled circle pins in buckle designs. Roman or polish finished; plain or hand engraved. Round, square, oval and oblong shapes. (Main Floor, Center.)

59c & 75c Stockings

Stamped Scarfs & Centerpieces

—Lovers of art needlework will be delighted when they see these finished pieces. The material is a union linen; the designs for colored embroidery embrace roses, poppies, poinsettias, etc. There are cream and natural centerpieces (30-inch), pillow tops with back and scarfs (18x54 inches).

50c for all-linen pieces—18 x54-inch scarfs and pillow tops of heavy natural linen, finished with hemstitching. Stamped for solid color embroidery. A sample piece of each finished.

Brassieres 29c

—Ready-made brassiere finished with stays, trimmed with scalloped border. Stamped for solid or eyelet embroidery.

Fresh 50c Neckwear 19c

—About 200 pieces in all—oddments that we don't want cluttering up stocks. Fresh and attractive, withal, and as smart as if you had paid full price. Includes a bit of everything—fichus, guimpes, yokes, collars, bows and novelties. Black, white and colors.

Remnants of Table Linens

Short Lengths at Short Prices

—The linen chief has gone through his stock with a sharp stick. Everything must be in shipshape for spring business. Therefore he "washes the faces" of many linens—clips off the top two yards or so that have been exposed. The many odd lengths remaining from our recent January Linen Sale find their way to the remnant table. Linens of all kinds are included—Irish, Flemish and German; cream, silver and full bleached. Various widths in lengths from 2 to 3½ yards.

Savings Range from a Fifth to a Third

There are $1 linens at 79c; $1.25 linens at 89c; $1.35 linens at $1. Other linens show less reduction. Whoever needs table linens, however, should surely find what she wants at a worth while saving. (Main Floor, Left.)

COUNCIL WRANGLE OVER FIRST WARD ALDERMAN

Election of Successor to Late J. H. Harwell Brings on Row

The successor to Alderman J. H. Harwell, of the First ward, who died Tuesday at Grady hospital, will be elected by the general council to serve until the regular city election in December, and the names of several First ward citizens are being mentioned among the city politicians.

Carlos H. Mason, former police commissioner from the First ward; J. N. Renfroe, who ran for councilman in the First ward last fall and was defeated; J. R. Seawright, a former saloonkeeper, and Harry B. White, a real estate man with the firm of Foster & Robson, are suggested.

Mr. Mason would be a strong candidate for the place if he desired it, but he is understood to be planning a trip to Europe in the spring and probably will not be a candidate.

Mr. Renfroe had the support of Mayor Woodward in his race for councilman last fall, when he was defeated by Charles N. Alverson, and if he is a candidate for Alderman Harwell's place it is considered likely the mayor will support him again.

Mr. Seawright and Mr. White are both looked upon with favor by Councilman Wardlaw and Councilman Alverson, who under the custom of general council will have the privilege of nominating Alderman Harwell's successor.

NEW METHOD IN VOGUE.

The city charter formerly provided that a vacancy in the general council should be filled by special election called for the purpose. In 1912 the legislature amended this clause in the charter at the request of general council, so that vacancies should be filled by the general council until the next succeeding regular city election. Several vacancies have been filled by council under this new provision. In these elections council has followed the long standing custom which prevails in electing board members, of allowing the delegation from the ward where the vacancy exists to make the nomination.

But right here a lively fight is liable to develop between the Woodward and the anti-Woodward factions in council. Last Monday in the election of a police commissioner from the Seventh ward, the friends of Marcellus M. Anderson, knowing that he would not receive the nomination of the Seventh ward delegation, undertook to override the old custom and elect him on a nomination outside of the ward, and the man they picked to place Mr. Anderson's name in nomination was Councilman Wardlaw, of the First ward. The Woodward forces supported Robert T. Pace, the nominee of the Seventh ward delegation, and elected him, the vote of Mayor Woodward himself breaking a tie.

HOT FIGHT EXPECTED.

Now the Woodward forces are liable to retaliate, when the election of an alderman from the first ward comes up, by supporting a candidate in opposition to the nominee of Councilman Wardlaw and his colleague, Councilman Alverson, in which event the factional lines will be sharply drawn and there will be a very lively fight.

Alderman Harwell was elected for a term of three years beginning January 1, 1913, which makes his term expire on January 1, 1916. Under the charter provision explained above, his successor, elected by council, will serve until the regular city election, next December, in which election the successor has the privilege of being a candidate before the people to serve for the balance of the unexpired term. Any others who desire the place may also be candidates, so that it would be possible for Alderman Harwell's unexpired term to be served by two different men.

ANOTHER CADILLAC CAR FOR CAPT. R. M. CLAYTON

City Trades in Old Machine and Gets New One for Construction Chief

A Cadillac touring car, of five-passenger capacity with forty-horse motor, was purchased Tuesday afternoon for Captain R. M. Clayton, the city chief of construction.

The regular price of the car is $2,050. The city paid $1,600 and gave an old Cadillac car in exchange, the agent allowing $450 for the old car.

A number of bids were made by agents for various makes of cars, and there was considerable difference of opinion in the purchasing committee as to the best bid. The committee consists of Mayor Woodward, Chairman Humphrey, of the finance committee of council; Comptroller Goldsmith and Purchasing Agent Chambers.

The finance sheet carries an appropriation of $2,600 to "buy three cars for the construction department." To meet this appropriation the Buick agency offered a $1,450 touring car, a $1,150 touring car and a $1,050 touring car, each of five-passenger capacity, for the $2,600 and the old Cadillac car and a worn-out Hupmobile runabout in the construction department.

Mr. Chambers, the purchasing agent, was inclined to consider this the best of all the bids, in view of the total selling price of the three cars being $3,650, but Chairman Humphrey, of the finance committee, who has driven several Cadillac cars, held out strongly for this make, and Mayor Woodward joined with him.

OLD BOYS PAY HONOR TO MEMORY OF MRS. BELL

Hundreds of Bell house boys and other friends of the late Mrs. Emma E. Bell, who died Tuesday, gathered at the residence on Peachtree street, Wednesday afternoon for the funeral services conducted by Rev. Richard Orme Flinn.

A long line was formed on either side of the walk leading to the house and through this the casket—banked high with the most exquisite floral offerings that ever graced an Atlanta funeral—was borne. The pallbearers were C. E. Currier, Dr. W. S. Elkin, Myron E. Freman, W. W. Kingston, Thomas B. Paine, Percy H. Adams, J. C. Haskill and Dr. F. Denton.

Interment took place at West View cemetery.

50 NEW MOOSE IN HERD; NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

Fifty well known business and professional men of Atlanta were initiated into the local lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose Wednesday night, at the Moose home in the Silvey building. Officers for the ensuing year were also elected as follows:

Dictator, Charles Lehman; parliamentarian, Jesse W. Armistead; vice dictator, Homer Ashford; prelate, W. A. Milner; sergeant-at-arms, Robert W. Norris; inner guard, C. P. Jones; outer guard, Robert Dillard; past dictator, W. L. Shatzen; secretary, J. L. Williams, and treasurer, Ed A. Baughan.

Backbone of Winter Is Shattered; Spring Now Here---Almost

The long-suffering backbone of winter was broken again Thursday morning in the statement of the weather man regarding the weather prospects for the next few weeks.

"Broken?" he queried. "Why's it's shattered to bits! Spring is here—almost."

His forecast for Friday was for fair and slightly cooler conditions. Thursday's rain he predicted would cease before night, when it would grow colder, but not cold enough to drop below freezing. Friday will be a fine day, he declared.

PLAN CITY SCHOOL FOR PLAYGROUND DIRECTORS

Innovation by Park Department—Joe Bean Will Again Supervise Playgrounds

The playgrounds of Atlanta's park department this year will again be under the supervision of Joe Bean, who was the supervisor last year, Mr. Bean having been recommended to the park board by the playground committee and Manager Dan Carey and duly elected.

This year there will be an innovation in playground work in the shape of a training school for playground directors. This school will open about March 15 and will run about two and one-half months. Young ladies who expect to apply for positions as playground directors are requested to enroll in this school at once, since none but graduates of the school will be elected as directors.

The teacher of the school will be Mrs. Florence Kent Tibbets, one of the most successful and best known playground directors in the United States. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Florence Kent and had charge of the famous Mount Pleasant playground of Washington, D. C., where she achieved a nationwide reputation among playground workers for her splendid success, and afterward conducted a school for playground directors in Washington similar to the school to be established in Atlanta. Mrs. Tibbets and her husband have located in Atlanta, and the park department considers itself fortunate in being able to secure her services for the school. In this school the students will be taught in a comprehensive way the principles and methods of playground work, from rendering first aid to the injured to the rules of the game of baseball.

The playgrounds will open in June and will run for three months. Joe Bean as supervisor last year did fine work. He is athletic director and coach of the Atlanta Athletic club and formerly held a similar position at Marist college. He is a young man of fine character and is thoroughly versed in athletics, games and playground work.

ATLANTA LANDMARK DESTROYED BY FIRE

Old St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church, a landmark at the corner of East Hunter and Hill streets for nearly half a century, caught fire in an unknown manner about 10 o'clock Wednesday night, and burned to the ground. The old building was originally a mission of the Trinity Methodist church. Since the erection of the new St. Paul's church, it had been used for a synagogue by Shairith Israel, a local Jewish sect.

RISINGS, ITCHING HUMORS

Smith's Blood Syrup Best for Weak or Thin Blood, or if Blood Is All Upset—Best for All Blood Humors

High living or hard work weakens the blood and we have pimples, itching humors, eczema, risings, eating sores, boils, ulcers, bone pains, swellings and we feel all played out and worried. We have bad breath and spots before the eyes, hands and legs tremble and we feel weak; can't stand hard work. The moment you feel as above or have aching bones or any blood humors, get a bottle of Smith's Blood and Liver Syrup from any reliable druggist. Take a spoonful in a glass of water after meals and on retiring. Also eat plenty of nourishing food. Soon your blood will become pure and rich, and your skin takes on the rich, red glow of perfect health and your body is changed into a clean, healthy condition. Aches and pains and itching stop. All sores are healed. Smith's Blood and Liver Syrup has been used for generations to purify the blood. It is made from an old Indian formula and is dispensed by most druggists in big half quart bottles for only $1, or will be sent express postpaid by John E. Daniel, 4 Wall St., Atlanta, Ga. (Advt.)

Libby, McNeil and Libby's Men Have Rough Trip With Four Big Trunks of Samples—On to New Orleans

Through snow and ice and mud, an automobile arrived in Atlanta from New York Wednesday and began at once its business of visiting retail merchants. It is the car of Libby, McNeil & Libby, the Chicago firm, and it carries four huge sample trunks filled with pickles and olives and condiments and preserves and asparagus put up by the company. With it came H. S. Jones, of Chicago, one of the company's salesmen.

"We had one time of it up yonder in the Blue Ridge," declared Mr. Jones, who bore the seasoned look of an automobile tourist hardened by exposure. "They were having all sorts of weather when we came through that country. But this car is out for business, not pleasure, and we couldn't afford to consult our pleasure. We just had to keep coming."

During its stay in Atlanta the car will be under the guidance of W. M. Burke, secretary and manager of H. H. Whitcomb & Burke Co., brokers. It will pay calls upon all the principal retailers. After several days of this work it will go on to New Orleans, to continue its mission there.

Many long miles of hard road lie behind the car. Before it turned south toward Atlanta it toured from Detroit to Buffalo, visiting all the principal towns and cities on the route, and from Buffalo went on down to New York. Thence it came by way of Washington, Norfolk, Richmond and the Carolinas to Atlanta.

Atlanta Moral City Of U. S., Says Judge; Due to Prohibition

That Atlanta is the most moral city of its size in the United States, was the assertion of Recorder Nash Broyles at a temperance meeting at the Second Baptist church under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's union Wednesday night.

The recorder's speech was one of a number made. He declared that since prohibition, the city had improved 100 per cent in morals and quoted statistics showing that arrests for drunkenness were but 3,000 in 1913, as compared to 7,000 in 1907, the last year before prohibition.

C. C. Wayne, president of the young people's society, presided at the meeting.

ATLANTA CONCERN GETS BIG PAVING CONTRACT

A $125,000 paving contract in Hillsboro county, Florida, has just been awarded to an Atlanta contracting firm, the R. M. Hudson company, with offices in the Healey building.

The contract is for smooth pavement in and around the city of Tampa, and the company will be several months on the job. It began shipping machinery Tuesday, and will start work right away.

DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR, ITCHY SCALP, END THIS AT ONCE--25 CENT DANDERINE

Girls! Girls! Save your hair! Make it grow luxuriant and beautiful

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—(Advt.)

FAMOUS PIANISTE TO APPEAR IN ATLANTA

Miss Elvyn Will Perform at Philharmonic Orchestra Concert Thursday

The appearance of Miss Myrtle Elvyn, the noted pianiste, on the program for the concert of the Philharmonic orchestra Thursday night at the Atlanta theater lends more than usual interest to the event.

Miss Elvyn is the first famous artist to appear with the orchestra in two seasons, and as her reputation is well known, many will be glad of the opportunity to hear her. She will play the beautiful concerto for piano in A minor.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, president of the Atlanta Musical association, which maintains the Philharmonic orchestra and which brings Miss Elvyn to Atlanta, is being congratulated on her success in securing the artist. Miss Elvyn made her American debut in October, 1907, with the Theodore Thomas orchestra, and sprang at once into public favor.

The program for the Philharmonic concert, which begins at 8:30, is as follows:

Overture to "Don Juan"—W. A. Mozart.

Concerto for Piano, A Minor, Op. 16—Edward Grieg.

"Allegro Molto Moderato Adagio," Aliegro Marcato.

Intermission.

From "Rural Wedding"—Carl Goldmark.

Intermezzo—Scherzo.

"The Seasons"—P. I. Tschaikowsky. "Song of the Lark" (March); "Barcarolle" (June); "Hunting Song" (September); "Christmas" (December.)

ONCE CONVICTED, NEGRO AGAIN FACES TRIAL

Ed Fowler Appears Before Judge Ben Hill on Murder Charge

Ed Fowler, negro, once convicted as the murderer of Henry Newsome and sentenced to life imprisonment because of doubt believed to exist, who was granted a new trial several weeks ago, went on trial for the second time on the charge of murder, Thursday morning, in the criminal court of Judge B. H. Hill.

Newsome's assassination at the Atlanta National bank corner on February 1 of last year was done at an hour of the afternoon when crowds were passing there. The negro who stabbed him to death escaped in the excitement. Some weeks later Fowler was arrested as the assassin. His new trial was granted on the ground that his identity had not been proved sufficiently.

DR. WALKER TO GO TO CALIFORNIA CHURCH

Pastor of First Presbyterian Church to Leave Atlanta About April 1

Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church for the past two years, has decided to accept the pastorate tendered him by the First Presbyterian church of Long Beach, Cal. He expects to leave Atlanta about April 1. He will announce formally to his congregation next Sunday his decision to leave.

"I regret going, but my wife's health is so much better out there on the Pacific coast that I am influenced strongly by the fact," said Dr. Walker. "Also the Long Beach church is an influential one with a large membership. I think I can devote my life to pastoral work there as well as here."

Twenty-five years ago Dr. Walker was the pastor of the Presbyterian church in Decatur. Later he went to the Central Presbyterian church of Baltimore, and afterward to the Immanuel Presbyterian church in Los Angeles. There he served fourteen years, and it was from there that he returned to Atlanta.

LATE SNOW PROVES BOON TO GEORGIA'S FARMERS

Business Men Are Cheered With Reports on Crop Conditions

Business men will be cheered by the news that Georgia farm land is now in a better state of preparation for receiving crops than it has been before in years. This intelligence was brought by J. E. C. Pedder, superintendent of Bradstreet's, who has just returned from the southern part of the state.

This condition is due to the fine open weather of February, which allowed the farmers opportunity to plow, and the snow which followed, which pulverized the ground and killed insect pests.

Mr. Pedder says that sales of fertilizers are heavier than for some time previous. He also sees more evidence of intensified farming, and more diversification. In this connection he calls attention to the grain crops and the planting of pecan trees.

LAND IN GOOD SHAPE.

"The land itself is in a better state of preparation than for years past," Mr. Pedder said. "The open weather of February permitted farmers to plow, and the snow which followed pulverized the land and put it in fine shape to receive the crops.

"The weather was also of great benefit to the winter grain crops. Both wheat and oats were helped by it.

"Farmers are using more intensive methods. This impressed me in south Georgia particularly. There plantations which used to have 1,000 or more acres have been divided into tracts of 75 to 100 acres, which have been colonized by German and other farmers, who are applying scientific methods.

"The method of fertilizing is also being changed. Instead of putting all his fertilizer in the ground at once, the farmer fertilizes his crops at various stages, even to the top crop of cotton. This has the effect of steady stimulation of growth, and does not cause as many weeds and grass as the old method.

"In the matter of diversification, I was specially impressed with the growth of the pecan industry, particularly in central and south Georgia. The farmers are planting the trees in their cotton fields, using the land for general crops until the time when the trees begin to bear. In this way the trees get the benefit of the fertilizer put into the crops.

"In ten years the man who has planted pecan trees has become independent, and this without the loss of his land for other crops. Whereas if he sticks to cotton, he is not much better off at the end than at the start.

"There is no reason why Georgia shouldn't be a tremendous force in agriculture. The main trouble with us is bad roads. The Georgia dirt road is good enough in good weather, but in bad weather it is extremely bad.

"I think we should have the Kansas system, where the state puts the roads in fine shape and furnishes the farmer with machinery to repair the damage following bad weather conditions. Thus the state is without expense after the road is built, and the farmers enjoy good roads.

"Good roads are just as essential to farming interests as streets in the city are to general business."

JOURNAL READER GIVES $1.00 TO STRIPLING FUND

As a result of the story in The Journal's magazine of last Sunday, several subscriptions have been received at The Journal office to aid the family of Edgar Stripling, the convicted slayer of Bill Cornett, who escaped and rose to the high position of police chief at Danville, Va., until he was discovered and brought back to Georgia to serve his sentence on the state prison farm.

Stripling's family is destitute, and Stripling himself is so broken in health that he will not last the year out. The latest response has come from J. M. Wright, who subscribes a dollar to aid the pauperized family of the prisoner.

Dixie, Journal, Georgia and Atlanta to Be Given Away to Winners in Voting Contest

"Giddap—whoa-oa-o-a-o!"

They're here, "Atlanta," "Journala," "Georgia" and "Dixie," four of the darlingest little Shetland ponies you ever saw in your life, just waiting to be owned by Atlanta boys and girls who are hustlers enough to get the winning votes in The Journal's pony contest.

They trotted down Forsyoth street yesterday and every kiddy in sight looked at them with the most covetous eyes imaginable. And each of the four little ponies jerked his shaggy head as much as to say, "Send in your votes. I'm waiting for you, little miss and master."

All you have to do is to call at The Journal office and get a voting book. They will explain to you just how to use it. Get votes and you get the ponies.

The boy who gets the most votes gets "Atlanta;" the girl who gets the most votes gets "Journala;" the second boy gets "Georgia," and the second girl gets "Dixie."

With each pony goes a handsome basket cart and yellow harness. Every one of the little rascaus are gentle, and each is just dying to be won by a little boy or girl.

VEGETABLES IN FLORIDA ARE NIPPED BY FROST

(By Associated Press.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 5.—Mail reports from south Florida indicate that the vegetable crop was injured from 50 to 75 per cent by the recent frosts. Around Fort Lauderdale ice formed on the lakes and the damage is great.

At Dania most of the beans, cabbage, peas, tomatoes and lettuce was frosted and but little will be fit to market, it is said. Already the prices are soaring here and people in the north may expect to pay much higher prices for all green goods from Florida.

NEW AUTO-AMBULANCE FOR GRADY HOSPITAAL

$3,200 Machine Is Purchased From White Company for $2,800

An automobile ambulance for Grady hospital, for which the finance sheet carries an appropriation of $2,800, was purchased Thursday morning from the White company, makers of the ambulance now in use by the hospital.

In the purchase of the ambulance competitive bids were not asked, owing to a piece of business enterprise on the part of the White company which put them in a position to make an exceptionally attractive proposition to the city.

Realizing last fall that the Grady hospital would need another automobile ambulance, a representative of the company asked Dr. Summerall, the hospital superintendent, if there would be any objection to the company making a car and shipping it to Atlanta, to be ready in case the city should select another White. Dr. Summerall informed him that there would be no objection, though of course the city would be under no obligation to buy the car. The company proceeded to build and ship, and the car has been waiting several months for the purchase to be made.

Thus the company was enabled to hold out as an argument in favor of its car the fact that it was ready to be put in use immediately, whereas, if another make of car should be purchased the city would be obliged to wait several weeks for it to be delivered. Also, the White company reduced the regular price of its ambulance, $3,200, to $2,800, the latter being the amount provided in the finance sheet.

The ambulance was driven to city hall Thursday morning and attracted considerable attention. It is practically the same as the ambulance now in use by Grady hospital, and will greatly increase the hospital's efficiency, as the one ambulance now in use cannot possibly answer all the calls.

Stormy March Puts Five Opera Stars on Sick List in New York

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—Four grand opera prima donnas, Mme. Melba, Mary Garden, Emmy Destinn and Mme. Matzenauer, are on the sick list as a result of the stormy entrance of March.

Mme. Melba, according to dispatches from Springfield, Mass., is prostrated there by laryngitis and has cancelled all American engagements. Mary Garden is simliarly afflicted, but hopes to rejoin the Philadelphia-Chicago company on its western tour by the end of the week.

Miss Destinn and Mme. Matzenauer are suffering from weather ailments that have caused temporary cancellation of engagements.

High Water Shuts Mill

One year of Wilson reads like a political romance.

It takes more than one warm day to make a spring season.

May the farmer receive all the compliments of the season, and then some.

President Wilson was not the man to stop work even on his first anniversary.

The Victories of Peace.

The remarkable progress made by the United States in the last twelve months both in affairs of government and business would not have been possible, had the nation been involved in war. Instead of tariff reduction, there would have been tax increase, instead of banking and currency reform with its stimulus to enterprise, there would have been financial tension and discouragement; instead of a peaceful surrender of Big Business to public sentiment and national law, there would have been stiffened defiance on the part of monopolies, and indefinite postponement of the troublous problems they convey. The Democratic party would have lost a year of opportunity to fulfill its pledges, and the American people a year of inestimable service to their urgent needs.

t the beginning of the Wilson Administration twelve months ago, there was insensate clamor, just as there is today, for armed intervention in Mexico. But the President was not to be hurried or deceived. Others might talk glibly enough of war but he, as the responsible head of the nation and as one familiar with all aspects of the problem, knew precisely what war would mean, what its effect would be in the party's program of constructive reforms and what burdeps it would impose on our economic and human interests. Fortunately, the President's policy of "watchful waiting" was supported by Congress, by the reputable element of newspapers and by the rank and file of the people. The jingoes and demagogues and persons selfishly concerned were left to yawp to their spleen's content, while the Government proceeded calmly in its great task of freeing and strengthening business and conserving the country's welfare.

The fact that the United States has solved so many problems in the last year, and that it is entering today a new era of contentment and prosperity depended very largely on its sane avoidance of a Mexican war. What the future may necessitate, we cannot foresee; but of this we may be sure, the wise patriotism that has guided the Administration thus far is still in control and may be depended upon to meet with honor and efficiency any crisis which may develop.

England acted rather hastily after all, for it will yet be proved that Benton was an Atlanta man.

The City of Atlanta continues to show how human it is by not having quite enough money for its needs.

Even the original Wilson man finds it hard to realize that the administration has done so much already.

England evidently realizes that Uncle Sam, her former colony, has acquired quite sufficient experience to run things over in this neck of the woods.

The Tennessee prohibition law, however, doesn't apply to river boats, and we anticipate some rush to get aboard that particular class of water wagon.

The Interminable Cost of War.

The money cost of wars, even those of a minor character, can never be reckoned in advance. At the beginning of Italy's movement against the Turks in Tripoli, it was estimated that twenty million dollars would suffice for the campaign; but within a year, says the World's Work, a special war fund of a hundred and fifty millions had been exhausted, and "the people already taxed four times as much as any other people in Europe had additional tithes saddled upon them." Even after a treaty of peace with the Ottoman government had been concluded, the drain upon the Italian treasury continued. Tripoli was conquered, but not subdued. The native tribes were as vexing as ever, and the task of holding the land proved as costly as that of winning it. Thus a campaign which in the outset was expected to cost twenty million dollars has required to date something like three hundred millions.

Little wonder that governments which are truly great and responsible are becoming more and more cautious in venturing upon a course that leads to almost interminable burdens for the rank and file of the people. Aside from its appalling human cost, the economic cost of war should make for prudence and restraint. The nation that takes up arms for any cause other than its honor and its vital interests makes a terrible sacrifice of public welfare. It discourages business, cripples productive enterprise and puts a staggering load on the mass of its citizens. There are circumstances, to be sure, where material interest must give way to principle; but not until every means toward honorable peace has been exhausted is war honorable or justified.

Portugal Survives Another Crisis.

The young republic of Portugal has successfully withstood another and, perhaps, the severest trial of its strength. A concert of railroad strikes, inspired by syndicalism which is anarchy's latest fashion, tied traffic throughout the country and cut off virtually all communication with the outer world. It was suspected that the government at Lisbon had fallen, and there were rumors that the exiled King Manuel would be recalled to the throne. Later reports showed, however, that the strike had broken and that the constitutional authorities were effectually in control. That they remained so through such a crisis is a tribute to their ability and a good omen for the republic's future.

Since Portugal took its place among self-governing nations a few years ago it has encountered a series of stormy situations. In the outset there were all manner of monarchist conspiracies; then came muntinies in the army, violent outbreaks on the part of political cults, and industrial uprisings, of which the syndicalist strike was the climax. The fact that the majority of the people are illiterate and still sunk in the poverty to which long years of misrule had crushed them added greatly to the difficulties of the new government. But there are evidently enough citizens of intelligence and true patriotism to sustain the leaders of reform, and even in its brief experimental period the republic has accomplished constructive work.

Commenting on the latest outbreaks, the Washington Post remarks:

> Political and social chaos is the desired end of syndicalism, the cult of the red flag element in that part of Europe, and both republics and monarchies, or any other constituted form of government, are included in their scheme of devolution and elimination. It is most cheering, therefore, to learn that the period of isolation and danger is likely to be followed, in the opinion of the defenders of social order, by a season of tranquillity throughout the country. Presumably, the violent demonstrations which offered proof of the real character and designs of the strikers has had the good effect of uniting all the forces of good government, and in the future they will probably be found more solidly aligned in support of republican policies than in the past.

What a contrast between Portugal and Mexico! the one laboring patiently and efficiently to set up free government against the odds of monarchical centuries, the other wasting its strength in petty wars and turning its face from New World inspirations! Both countries are of Latin heritage; the one is old, far older than America and barely emerging from the shadow of a throne; the other is young and surrounded with splendid examples of responsible freedom. Yet, while Portugal upholds its constitution and stands proof against agitators and adventurers, Mexico continues its way of lawlessless and enslavement.

Huerta would scarcely have gained headway in the republic of the Pyrenees, if we may judge by its brief record; the opportunity offered by the Madero administration would not have been so quickly cast aside. It is one of the mysteries of the time why a sufficient number of intelligent Mexicans cannot be mustered to inaugurate and uphold an orderly government.

Changing it a bit, one might call it the Monrow doctrine.

Men are great pretenders; some even pretend to understand women.

But it's better to be born great than it is to thrust yourself upon greatness.

Another foolish habit is falling in with people who are always falling out.

Loafing is an easy profession only for men who don't understand anything else.

We feel sorry for the rich woman who has poor taste. Everybody sits up and takes notice.

The neighbors throw rice at a young couple when they start o na wedding tour—but when they go housekeeping they borrow it back, and then some.

Editorials in Brief

For one reason at least beside the question of entertainment the production of any play by Shakespeare should be gratifying to all thoughtful persons, for it affords the playgoing public an opportunity to drink of the well of English undefiled, in comparison with which the slang, vulgarity and profanity so often heard on our stage are like a draught from an evil smelling sewer. There is no one, no matter how uncultivated, who can fail to derive a certain pleasure from the wealth of language with which Shakespeare clothed his ideas. Nor has the art of reading become extinct, as some owlish ones would have us believe. Good plays make good actors and rich verbiage should inspire good reading, even if there be Shylocks among us who suggest Broadway's rialto instead of that of Venice in their delivery of the speech to Antonio.

The recent crop of criminal dramas has so corrupted public taste that "Kind souls! what! weep you, when you but behold our Caesar's vesture wounded?" sounds strangely in ears accustomed to "Hey, Maggie, git onter de fringe on his pants!" Many schemes for the betterment of our stage have of late been offered for consideration, but in educational value the Shakespearian drama surpasses them all.—New York Herald.

You may beat your dyspepsia by joking at it. I sat down at the club lunch opposite an artist suffering from indigestion. I prescribed. Let's take the absolute worst things! We ordered roast pork, roly-poly pudding and Scotch ale, laughed all the time at the solemn men who were giving other advice, and —when we met again confessed that our dyspepsia had disappeared in laughter.—London Chronicle.

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

"On Such a Night—"

I love to sing of the winter thing
In a rugged manner and bold;
I like to spiel of the bracing chill
And chant of the tingling cold.

I love to write of the stormy night,
And the rage of the sleet and hail;
I'm fain to tell of the snowy spell,
And speak of the winds that wail.

I love to spiel of the way I feel
As the terrible storm destroys
The sturdy ship (in the manner of Kip-Ling, Newbolt or Alfred Noyes).

I love to sing of the winter thing,
In a vigorous, yearnful pome—
But gosh! how I fear the walk from here
To the subway bound for home!

Dimly we begin to sense why the March hare was mad.

And there's another bright side. The storm raised Ned with the telegraph wires and there wasn't a baseball rumor that came out of the West last night.

Old winter sad, in snow yclad,
Is making a doleful din;
But let him howl till he crack his jowl,
We will not let him in.

Let him push at the door,—at the chimney roar,
And rattle the window-pane.
Let him at us spy with his icicle eye,
But he shall not entrance gain.

Thus Thomas Noel, about seventy years ago. If Poet Noel had lived in an apartment house in 1914 he might have sung less bravely. One of the windows in our demesne blew in yesterday afternoon, and he—winter—gained entrance, willy-nilly. The esteemed superintendent (slang for janitor), informed of the disaster, refused to act, saying he wasn't going to be nobody's dog. He, by the way, is one reason the Socialist Party doesn't grow faster.

AND, SINCE THAT RESOLUTION IS DECIMATED—
(From the City Record, February 28th.)
Automobile Engineman Joseph P. Haste, Division of Apparatus, Brooklyn and Queens, for reckless driving; charges dismissed.

Simeon Ford's little daughter, aged nine, has drawn six pictures which appear in the current "Vanity Fair," and her father has written verses to elucidate them. The rhymes are bad and the feet halting, and our advice to young Miss Ford is to get another collaborator—one who doesn't link "stream" with "green" preferred.

"It's not a mongrel song," ecstacizes the publisher of "The Ragtime Dream." "For instance, the refrain is made up of 'take-offs' on seven of the already popular song hits of the day." Some day, perhaps, that publisher will issue a mongrel lyric. Until that millennial morning, however, you are not going to know what one is.

If you ever had, have or expect to have a headache we should advise you to read a piece called "I Cure a Headache," by Henry Wallace Phillips, in "Harper's Weekly" for February 28.

REVEALING THE SOURCE.

Now is the winter of our discontent (Shakespeare). Is the influence of the Fourth Estate (Burke) to become a proverb and a byword (I Kings vi 7)? The freedom of the press has never been denied to us (Joseph Anderson) since the brave days of old (Macaulay) when burning Sapho loved and sung (Byron).

Whither are we drifting (New York Times)? Out of the night that covers (Henley) us, we know not what course others may take (P. Henry) and across what trail (Grantland Rice) the whips and scorns of time (Shakespeare) may urge our innumerable caravan (Bryant). But any one who says we will not dare to do our duty as we understand it (Lincoln) lies (T. Roosevelt).

"There is censorship and there is censorship," says the Evening Post. Not to add nonsensorship.

Our notion of soft-heartedness is to feel sorry for the income-tax clerks in Charley Anderson's office, who, because the office kept open until six o'clock Saturday evening, were deprived of their half-holiday.

About 87,200 income-tax schedules have been filed in New York, a large number of them, we imagine, to the bone.

"'Julien,'" hazards the revered, since one cannot break a habit, "Evening Mail," "might well be called a one-man opera were it not for the extraordinary impersonations of Miss Farrar." And, as Tommie writes, "Louise" might be termed a one-woman opera were it not for the conspicuous artistry of Mr. Dalmores.

Mouse and the Woman

Once more there is excuse for asking how much of sincerity there is in the fear of mice to which so many women give such vehement expression. A night telephone operator over in New Jersey saw one of the little creatures steal out on the floor of the room in which she was keeping her lonely vigil, and, though his attack was not on her, but on the crumbs of her luncheon, she promptly fainted. On recovery she rushed into the closet, where she was imprisoned till morning by the spring catch on the hastily slammed door.

Yet this young woman, like all others, knows that mice are perfectly harmless; that they never did hurt anybody and never will.

The wicked suggestion has been made that feminine outcries on the appearance of mice are a mere fashion or habit, inveterate now, but originating in nothing better than a desire to show an interesting sensitiveness and timidity and to give rescuing man a chance to show his superiority. There must be something more to it than that, however, for not a few women, even when quite alone, as this one was, manifest almost convincing indications of this fear, perhaps not the less real because so unnecessary.

Apparently the fear is instinctive, but nothing in ancestral history explains the instinct, since in the line of mothers running back through the traglodytes to mere anthropoid forebears, never a one was devoured by a mouse and not more than half a dozen in all can have been bitten by one. And instincts are not so easily made.—New York Times.

Novelists in a Nutshell

LONDON.—Interesting opinions regarding British novelists, past and present, were expressed by the Very Rev. Mgr. R. H. Henson in a lecture at the Westminster Cathedral hall. Among them were the following:

Thackeray—The most perfect exponent of the early Victorian novel.

Sir Walter Scott—I am entirely unable to read him. I've tried and persevered again and again.

The Brontes—Whenever I try to read a novel by one of the Brontes I seem to feel oppressed by a horrible sort of nightmare with too many clothes on the bed.

Henry Kingsley—I put Henry Kingsley in the highest class of those who keep a perfect balance between exterior events and interior psychology. It is true he is full of misinformation. His idea of a priest is a man who perpetually wears sofa slippers in order that he may listen at keyholes. If I may mention it in the presence of his eminence, his idea of a cardinal is that if you have $50,000 you can become one.

R. L. Stevenson—If it is true that he wrote for boys, then any person who is not a boy ought to be ashamed of himself. It is perfectly certain he is one of the immortals.

Meredith—George Meredith was preaching a gospel, and those who say to the contrary do not understand what words mean. His gospel was that humanity is a thing which really matters.

Thomas Hardy—Very unsatisfactory about the external elevents of life.

Henry James—Has a certain exterior weakness. One feels that he does not know what he means by an exterior force—what Christians call the will of God. The thing that matters to him is the interpretation of human nature.

Anthony Hope—The high priest of modern society. It is in his psychological novels that Mr. Anthony Hope best carries on the tradition of the modern school. You feel when anything happens in his books that it is more or less an interruption to the story.

Miss Mary Cholmondeley—I don't know whether her books will live ultimately, but I am perfectly sure they will live a very long time. She stands out among contemporary women writers as one of the most sane, wholesome, and clean writers we have.

Mr. H. G. Wells—He is the almost perfect example of the balanced novelist, and my enthusiasm for him has no bounds. He is a novelist, I firmly believe, who is a genius, and I think he will end as a Catholic and a feudalist. Of course, I am speaking only of his books.—Washington Post.

Fairies Still in Ireland

Nobody ever drove the fairies out of Ireland, and nobody ever will, for that matter. The Emerald Isle is sans snakes, but not sans the "wee folk," for the sturdy citizens of Donegal yet will relate the doings of the sprites who reward good and punish evil with quite as much avidity as they did hundreds of years ago.

The little folk, whom the more stolid Britishers insist are but creatures of Celtic imagination, are peculiar elves. Few there are who have seen them, and the few have done so only when the moon was at the right phase or on some holiday in elfdom, when, the legend goes, the fairies are visible to mortal eyes and even may be captured if you but snip their shadows.

"Auld sod" Irish—many of them—are firm in the faith that the "wee folk" forecast joys and sorrows, and that they keep away the wicked banshee and otherwise protect the households of their favorites. When Michael McFaul, a farmer of Clonmany, county of Donegal, missed recently from its hiding place some $1,500 he had saved as a preliminary to embarking upon the sea of matrimony, he never once doubted but that the incident was a warning from "wee folk" that they did not look kindly upon his suit.

"'Tis that they don't like her," he said, "and I'll not be marryin' into bad luck. 'Twas just their way o' tellin' me."

The police, however, were less inclined to the theory of elfish warning, and when a young woman employed at the McFaul household tried in a neighboring village to cash some large bank notes she was arrested and convicted of the theft.

The McFauls refuse to accept the loss in other than a philanthropic mood, and still believe the little folk of the woods chose that manner of expressing disapproval of the marriage which would bring no happiness to the family.—Kansas City Star.

Science and Literature

The literary treatment of scientific matter is naturally of much more interest to the general reader than to the man of science. By literary treatment I do not mean taking liberties with facts, but treating them so as to give the reader a lively and imaginative realization of them—a sense of their esthetic and intellectual values. The creative mind can quicken a dead fact and make it mean something in the emotional sphere.

When we humanize things, we are beyond the sphere of science and in the sphere of literature. We may still be dealing with truths, but not with facts. Tyndall, in his "Fragments," very often rises from the sphere of science into that of literature. He does so, for instance, in considering the question of personal identity in relation to that of molecular change in the boy. He asks:

> How is the sense of personal identity maintained across this flight of the molecules that goes on incessantly in our bodies, so that while our physical being, after a certain number of years, is entirely renewed, our consciousness exhibits no solution of continuity? Like changing sentinels, the oxygen, hydrogen and carbon that depart seem to whisper their secrets to their comrades that arrive, and thus, while the Non-ego shifts, the Ego remains the same. Constancy of form in the grouping of the molecules, and not constancy of the molecules themselves, is the correlative of this constancy of perception. Life is a wave which in no two consecutive moments of existence is composed of the same particles.

Tyndall has here stated a scientific fact in the picturesque and poetic manner of literature, Henri Bergson does this on nearly every page. When his subject-matter is scientific, his treatment of it is literary. Indeed, the secret of the charm and power of his "Creative Evolution" is the rare fusion and absorption of its scientific and philosophical material by the literary and artistic spirit. . . .

Science is the critic and doctor of life, but never its inspirer. It enlarges the field of literature, but its aims are unliterary.—John Burroughs, in the March number of the North American Review.

Quips and Quiddities

Stranger—The whole town seems to be turning out to this funeral. The deceased must have been very popular.

Native—Stranger, he was one man in a million. After he bought his car he gave everybody a ride that he had promised to."—Judge.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced against you?" asked the judge.

"The only thing I'm kickin' about," answered the convicted burglar, "is bein' identified by a man that kep' his head under the bedclothes the whole time. That's wrong."—Puck.

Th limited express tore madly along through midnight darkness. Suddenly the alert engineer sprang to the lever and set the brakes. The sparks flew from the rails as the locked wheels slid along with a cry of pain. The lights were extinguished as car after car toppled from the rails. Then came a shuddering silence more terribe than the harsh grating of iron on stee.

Some passengers made torches from fragments of wreckage and searched for dead and injured. A sound singularly like a snore issued from a pile of debris. Hastily removing several pieces of twisted iron, they dragged forth a slumbering porter.

"Great heavens!" they exclaimed. "Didn't you know there had been a wreck?"

GERMAN UNITY

By Frederic J. Haskin

Prominent jurists, representatives of the leading press associations, of the German newspapers and foreign correspondents crowded t..e court rooms at Strassburg during the trial of the officers who had figured in the revolt at Zabern. Besides the keen interest in the points at issue regarding the proper relationship between the military and civil authorities, there was much tense speculation concerning the probable after-effects of the incident. The excitement with which the German papers had commented upon the trouble between the Prussian soldiery and the people of Zabern magnified the affair in the eyes of the world into an ominous sign of general discontent.

Since the formation of the empire in 1871, two questions have been asked by writers of other nations often enough to have become conventional. These are "Can Prussia hold the empire together?" and "When and upon whom will the new nation's wonderful military machine be used?" The Germans themselves raise these questions with tragic seriousness in the heat of each fresh political combat, though now with decreasing vehemence as the lines of division are coming more strongly to be between feudal and class privilege and a democracy of industrial workers and business men. These questions were raised again in comments upon the Zabern case. As an exemplary answer, it must be admitted that the empire has scrupulously kept the peace and has steadily knitted the bonds between her federated states ever more intimately and firmly.

Spain, Great Britain, France, Russia and the United States were unified much earlier than Germany, where, in fact, the process of founding a great empire is still proceeding; how successfully cannot always rightly be judged by the tone of leading articles in the powerful native dailies.

The German empire is a confederation of twenty-six states and political units. It is composed of the kingdoms of Prussia, Saxony, Bavaria and Wurrttemburg; the grand duchies Baden, Hesse, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Saxe-Weimar, Mecklenburg-Strelitz and Oldenburg, the duchies Brunswick, Saxe-Meiningen, Saxe-Altenburg, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha and Anhalt; the principalities Schwartzburg-Sonderhausen, Schwartzburg-Rudolstadt, Waldeck, Reuss-Greis, Reuss-Schleiz, Schaumburg-Lippe and Lippe; the free towns of Luebeck, Bremen and Hamburg, and the imperial territory of Alsace-Lorraine.

A theme of German poets and writers and an ideal which animated the students of the German universities from the downfall of Napoleon to the time of realization in 1871, the empire, united Germany, was the greatest fruit of the Franco-Prussian war, the culminating masterpiece of Bismarck's foreign policy. As a result of the war the South German states joined with the North German Confederaion, of which Prussia was the dominating power, to form the empire in 1870, and on January 18, 1871, the king of Prussia was proclaimed German emperor at Versailles. The office of German emperor was made hereditary in the reigning house of Prussia, that of Hohenzollern.

Legislative functions of the empire are vested in the emperor, the Bundesrat, or federal council, and the reichstag, or imperial diet. The federal council represents the governments of the various states of Germany, by which its members are appointed for each session. The imperial diet represents the people and its members are elected for five-year terms by universal suffrage. Prussia has overwhelming representation in both the federal council and in the diet.

Supreme control of military affairs and the navy, of imperial finances, of patents, copyrights, tariffs, posts and telegraphs, immigration and emigration, and in matters relating to banking, navigation, civil and criminal legislation, judicial procedure and foreign affairs are vested in the imperial government. The chancellor of the empire, appointed by the emperor, conducts all the affairs of the government, represents the emperor before the bundesrat and the reichstag, and is the sole responsible official. All departments of the government are under his immediate authority. The German states have separate legislative assemblies, including Alsace-Lorraine, and administer their internal affairs.

Prussia exerts an overruling predominance in the affairs of the empire. She has had much to overcome of suspicion and jealousy in the federated states. The German trait of independent investigation and tenacious hold upon opinions formed in such investigation has increased the difficulty of welding the empire. A primary demand of the German has been always to work out and give voice to his own ideas, for which right he has ever been willing to fight, go hungry, forego preferment, friends and social place. On the other hand, however, he trouble far less about freedom of action.

German nature is a most fertile ground for schism from whatever creeds, philosophies or tenets. There are thirteen parties, more or less, represented in the imperial diet, and probably twice as many kinds of politics. When half a dozen Germans meet there are six brands of politics in bitter conflict. Amalgamation of these various party viewpoints and of the interests of the several distrustful states into a workable government majority has been one of the problems which the imperial government has had always before it. Exaggerated interpretation of the sparks struck out in the clash of factions in the adjustment of government control is one of the grounds for a recurring fear for the stability of the empire.

Another phase of internal fermentation in the empire, which has received much sensational interpretation, is that of the rapid development of the Social Democratic party. Examined according to the acts and teachings of its leaders, this party gives little evidence of being the revolutionary menace to Germany that many critics have considered it. The fact of the close dependence of one class upon another has become so self-evident in this age of community, national and international co-operation, that a spirit of democracy has permeated through all the countries of the globe. The German Social Democratic party means that this spirit of democracy in the empire has outgrown many antiquated feudal forms. The Social Democrats are uniting today, not for the subversion of the empire, but for the expansion of privilege and for the gradual elimination of a residue of prejudice handed down from the Middle Ages.

Hitherto the empire has been able to obtain the passage of its militar, and naval budgets, notwithstanding the tremendous burden of taxation imposed upon the people for the maintenance of the world's greatest military organization, and fierce competition with the powers in the upbuilding of its fleet. Germany's position, a virile nation shut in by other virile nations, demands some such guarantee of her integrity, and her people realize this, though they grumble about the tax rates. Similarly, the tremendous drain upon the land's resources by the loss of from one to three years of the lives of all of the country's young men from productive work, while serving their apprenticeship to warfare as conscripts in the army or navy, is borne, willingly, and, at the same time, criticised severely.

Prosperity for the Germans began with the foundation of the empire. For 200 years, from the peace of Westphalia in 1648 to the Peace of Frankfort in 1871, Germany lay prostrate from the effects of the devastating Thirty Years war. It is not strange that this long reminder of penury and suffering should have ingrained itself as a fundament of all German political thought. German politics must be understood in terms of this 200-year period.

After a woman gets the idea in her head that she can earn a better living than her husband can he might as well learn to sew the patches on his own garments.

MAN CAN DEAL WITH SPIRITS, SAYS DR. MORGAN

Spiritualism an Existing Fact of Demoniacal Origin, He Says

Public and emphatically, Dr. G. Campbell Morgan Thursday morning made the declaration that spiritualism is an existing fact, but that it is of demoniacal origin.

"I believe in spiritualism," said the speaker. "There is terribly something in it. It is traffic with the under world of evil. Man can and does have dealings with spirits, but in the long run it is harmful. Modern spiritualism is a new demoniac movement, and the church of God must set herself against it."

Dr. Morgan spoke in the course of his concluding lecture on "The Things of Strength in National Life," his subject being "The Church In Its Relation to National Life."

Just before he rose to speak, the address of the morning being the last before the Bible conference, the entire audience of several thousand people rose to pray for the continuance of God's blessing on the noted divine, this being their public way of expressing their love and admiration for the speaker.

Dr. Morgan then read a letter which he had received asking him to discuss the responsibility of the mother in the training of her children, and made a few remarks in reply thereto. He then read from Paul's letter to the Ephesians, chapter 3, beginning at verse 20.

He chose for discussion the words, "Unto him be the glory in the church and Christ Jesus unto all generations forever and forever," and after explaining the words and context entered upon his discussion of the church as a factor in national life.

CHURCH NATION'S CONSCIENCE.

He said in part:

The chruch is the conscience of the nation, and if the conscience be dead what tragedy then befalls. Its sole purpose is the glorification of God through the betefiting of humanity.

The supreme matter in life is that of the glory of God. That is the assumption of the Bible from beginning to end—not the benefiting of humanity but the glorifying of God; but mark you, God can be glorified only by benefiting humanity.

How then is God glorified in human life and history? What part has the church to play in the life of the nation?

The church is the conscience of the nation. It is a separate and distinct thing which yet lives within the nation. It must inspire the motives of the nation, guide its actions, save its lost ones. It must be free from the trammels of political party. The new Testament is full of politics and there were well defined political parties during the time of Christ's ministry, but he was never identified with any of them.

The church is a spiritual, not temporal power; but, for the reason that it is a spiritual power its authority is above that of kings, presidents, judges and things that must be done in the nation's life. It must not drift hoping that these things may come to pass; nor spend the time in praying that they may, but must insist on their being done by those in power.

The church is both a destructive and constructive force.

It is evermore at war with all things that rob God of his glory by harming men. It is against spiritual wickedness, mental degradation, physical disability. Spiritual wickedness is everything that distances God from man in the name of religion, whether it be popes or priests, the new Spiritualism, anything that obtrudes between the native soul of man and his God and prevents his reaching God directly.

The church is against ignorance in all its forms. It must insist that everyone have the opportunity to learn.

I get a little weary of those scientists who take the position that they are on one side and the church on the other. The church has made possible the progress of science and stands for the right to learn and know.

The church is against all physical disability. It is the business of the church whether or not eight or ten persons shall live in one little room. It is its business to deliver from mental, spiritual and physical suicide wherever possible.

The church is a constructive force and should insist that Christian men exercise their privilege to vote in bettering conditions in the national life, should stand for clean "garden cities," fresh air and gracious surroundings for the laboring class, and should demand within the nation the opportunity for all men to worship God on Sunday.

It must sternly issue its ethical degrees, but it must also teach the compassion of God that lies in the power of God.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—(Advt.)

AUSTRIAN HOUSE AGAIN REASSEMBLES

VIENNA, March 5.—The lower house of the Austrian parliament, whose sessions were suspended on January 30, owing to the violent obstruction of the Czech deputies, reassembled today but was again brought to an abrupt stop by the tumult raised by the opposition members. The speaker once more suspended the sessions.

The obstruction of the Czech deputies was brought about by the attitude adopted by the government in the settlement of German and Czech differences in Bohemia which the Czechs regard as unduly favoring the Germans.

To the People of Fulton County:

In announcing for a place on the board of county commissioners, I desire to state that I stand:

1. For care and economy in spending the county's money in order that the tax rate may be kept within reasonable bounds.

2. For a more general distribution of public improvements whereby the poorer sections of city and country, now sadly neglected, may share in the benefits from the abolition of the convict lease system.

3. For efficiency in handling the county's labor power and for a living wage for all free labor employed, including those who care for and direct the convicts.

4. The convicts should not be petted and pampered any more than they should be beaten and driven. They should be made to work diligently, but no man should be pushed beyond his mental or physical capacity. They should be properly clothed and housed and should receive all the clean, well-cooked food a healthy man doing hard work demands and deserves. They should be given some hours for recreation as well as for rest and sleep in each twenty-four and the guards and others in charge of them should be men of kindness, firmness and intelligence. The healthy convicts should be rigidly guarded against infection from those suffering from consumption and infectious diseases. Those who are diseased should be kept apart; given light work and such attention as their unfortunate condition deserves.

My candidacy is not the result of personal ambition. It is based on the call of a large number of working people, properly expressed, that a member of their ranks should be included on the board. My whole desire will be, if elected, to serve all the people so well that my own people will get the honor therefor and I hereby pledge myself thereto.

My candidacy is initiated and indorsed by the Labor Legislative league and my campaign committee is composed of more than a hundred and fifty well-known printers. J. L. Rodier is chairman and Earl E. Griggs is secretary.

ARRANGE ON SATURDAY FOR COUNTY PRIMARY

County Executive Committee Will Fix Date, Entry Fees and Other Details

The Fulton county Democratic executive committee will meet next Saturday, March 7, in the council chamber in city hall for the purpose of fixing a date for the county primaryl for the nomination of county commissioners and other officials of the county.

In fixing this date the committee will probably select a day between May 1 and 10, so that the primary will be over before the big Shrine convention in Atlanta.

Other details of the primary, such as entry fees for the various candidates, hours of opening and closing the polls, rules and regulations, etc., will also be determined by the committee at the Saturday meeting.

The chairman of the committee is Eugene D. Thomas, chief justice of Atlanta's new municipal court, and the secretary is J. O. Cochran, former chairman of the city park board.

Albert D. Thomson, the city alderman from the Fourth ward, who is a member of the count yexecutive committee, may introduce a resolution providing that the committee submit to the voters of the county on the regular primary ballot the question of enlarging the board of county commissioners from five to fifteen members.

Mr. Thomson announced some time ago that he and Secretary Cochran were preparing such a resolution, and the announcement caused a lively, although brief, furore in political circles. Mr. Thomson is undecided whether he will go ahead with his resolution, or withhold it.

WAYCROSS WOMAN HURT WHEN HORSE RUNS AWAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 5.—When frightened by broken harness yesterday afternoon, a horse being driven by Mrs. S. C. Houk, wife of a former resident of north Georgia, and her daughter, Miss Sarah Houk, were thrown from the buggy and painfully injured. The full extent of Mrs. Houk's injuries are not known and may be serious. The buggy struck a hitching post with considerable force, and when thrown out of the buggy Mrs. Houk in some way struck the post.

NEGRO GIRL CONFESSES TO FIRING WRIGHT HOME

Fifteen-Year-Old Servant Held by Police – $1,000 Damage to House

Angered because she was made to carry out ashes in a coal skuttle, Annie May Hayes, a fifteen-year-old negro girl employed at the home of William A. Wright, comptroller of the state of Georgia, at 99 East Fifteenth street, set fire to the house Wednesday morning and caused $1,000 damage.

This confession she made Thursday morning to Comptroller Wright and Probation Officer Gloer at the detention home, where she has been confined since her arrest Wednesday afternoon. She will be arraigned Thursday afternoon before W. W. Tindall, judge of the probation, court, for a preliminary hearing.

The girl's story, as told to General Wright and Officer Gloer, was that she thrust a lighted match into a closet piled with refuse on the second floor of the dwelling and left it to do its work.

She had been employed at the Wright home since last November. General Wright says that she was the daughter of an old ante-bellum darkey of theirs and that it was largely on account of this old mammy that the girl was employed.

She had shown an unruly disposition several times, said Mr. Wright, but they had kept her in the hope that she would improve. Wednesday morning, it seems, Mrs. Wright told the girl to carry out some ashes in a coal scuttle instead of a wheelbarrow, as she had been accustomed to do.

The girl did as she was told, but in a rather insolent manner. Soon afterward Mr. and Mrs. Wright left the house, leaving the girl there alone. According to her confession, she then went to the second floor and thrust the match into the inflammable material in the closet.

The fire was first discovered by a passerby, who turned in the alarm. Fire engines arrived on the scene in time to quell the flames, but the damage from smoke and water will amount to about a thousand dollars, according to Mr. Wright.

The fact that no wires or deefctive flues could have caused the blaze led detectives to make an investigation, and the negro girl was at once suspected and arrested. She was put in the care of detention home officers, as she was only fifteen years old.

E. A. Wells, Jr., Dead

E. A. Wells, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wells, died early Thursday morning at the family residence, 23 Connally street. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Bloomfield's chapel and interment will be in West View cemetery.

DE LOS HILL, JR., TO BE BURIED THURSDAY

The funeral of Delos Hill, Jr., the eleven-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. DeLos Hill, who died Wednesday night, will be held Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the North Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, the pastor, will officiate, and interment will be in West View cemetery.

The pallbearers will be John M. Cooper, W. O. Foote, John W. Hardwick and Charles F. Whitner.

The boy, who was the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Hill, was one of the brightest pupils in the North avenue school, and was an honor student. He had been ill for about six weeks at the family residence ,282 Ponce de Leon avenue, but until the last moment it was believed that his life could be saved.

He was a grandson of Mrs. Keren Hill and Mrs. A. A. Parkhurst.

The Store Is Taking on the New Life of Spring

A dozen SPECIALISTS have returned from New York and other markets.

They studied and analyzed styles, fabrics, furnishings, art wares; whatever was new and worthy they bought.

The things are arriving daily. The store is effulgent with the new life of spring, the very flower of the world's merchandise. And all of it is certified to, is practically guaranteed.

We stand back of it, ready to make right any error, ready and willing to see that realization squares with expectation.

It is a Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. idea that your money spent here shall get what you think it should get.

These are days to look and learn how aptly our words fit our actions.

There Is a Fashion---Call for Separate Skirts

It may be because the blouses this spring are so charming; it may be because the skirts themselves are so charming and novel; in all probability it is because of both facts.

Regardless, separate skirts are in high favor, and therefore are shown at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s in the splendid variety that any new fashion deserves.

There are taffeta skirts; there are moire skirts.

There are tussah-royal skirts; there are gabardine skirts.

There are serge skirts; there are wool faille skirts.

There are bold Scotch plaid skirts; there are novel English check skirts.

There is newness and smartness about them all.

Even the simplest are novel.

Ruffles, drapery, tunics, tiers, flounces, make them so.

Some of the bold black and white English checks are smart to a superlative degree, and always graceful.

Prices begin at $5.75 for the serges in black and colors.

The silks begin at $8.95 for a ruffled moire.

Then prices go gradually through $9.75 and $10.00 to $15.00.

"Sight Seeing"

There is a lately arrived lot of jersey petticoats, with variously fashioned messaline ruffles, at $5.00, that we believe are the most remarkable values we have seen. Black and colors. Muslin Underwear Section.

The little taffeta jackets in the Suit Section are creating much interest. Paris sent the first of these to America. They are short, little Eton affairs, to be worn with the colorful dresses of spring.

New silks are being received with due enthusiasm. We mean the glace taffetas; the two-toned taffetas; the charming pussy willow taffetas, with their dainty little flower designs; the world of crepes.

Perhaps the most satisfactory silk hose that a woman could buy is this Gold Stripe hose. It is guaranteed against a thread "running" below the stripe placed at the bottom of the garter top. $1.00 and upwards.

No Pie Crust Promises

Journal advertisers never make "pie-crust promises."

They know that to break faith with the public would be fatal—worse than throwing their money away.

That is one reason why Journal advertised goods are more in demand.

People know that there is quality behind them.

They look on them as standards. Any dealer knows that there are more calls for advertised goods than for goods not advertised.

This is especially true if they happen to have been advertised in the newspapers which directly reach the people.

The standard of advertising is more exacting today than ever before. Advertisers are more careful of their promises and more interesting in their text and illustrations.

The world grows better, and Atlanta advertisers lead the march in The Journal.

HIGHER CABLES AND SHORT COVERING CAUSED ADVANCE

Market in New York Closed 3 to 8 Points Higher Than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—The cotton market opened steady and sold 4 to 9 points higher during the early trading in response to higher Liverpool cables and renewed covering.

Favorable advices from India and reports of steady southern spot markets seemed to inspire some scattered buying for long account but most of the business was supposed to be switches between months or on straddle accounts between New York and Liverpool.

Trading was dull after the close of Liverpool and prices eased off slightly under scattering realizing, with active months ruling 3 to 5 points net higher shortly after midday.

Trading remained quiet during the early afternoon, but prices ruled steady and about 4 to 8 points net higher.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—Better cables than due caused a rise of 4 to 8 points in first prices of cotton. The market had a good tone in the early trading, both sides bought and the advance was widned to 6 to 9 points on the most active months.

The promise of large exports for the last half of this week were a steadying influence in the absence of bull support. At noon prices were 6 points up net.

The market was dull, but steady in the afternoon and at 2 o'clock stood 5 to 6 points up.

"Last Supper" Picture, Missing Since 1773, Found in Maryland

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Charles Henry Hart, noted art critic of Philadelphia, announced here today that he had discovered in Frederick, Md., "The Last Supper," the masterpiece by Gustavus Hesselius, the first American painter, missing since 1773. Mr. Hart vouches for the authenticity of the painting and said it was in a good state of preservation.

The painting had been in the possession of Mrs. John Gassoway, of Frederick, who, after reading an article by Mr. Hart on the life of Hesselius, in which he stated that the picture probably had been destroyed, wrote him that she had an ancient oil painting of "The Last Supper."

The authorship was unknown to her, and she invited him to inspect it. Mr. Hart went to Frederick yesterday and brought the painting here.

"It undoubtedly is the work of Hesselius," he said, "but I cannot attempt to set a value upon it today."

APPEAL IS FILED FOR MRS. BUFFUM

(By Associated Press.)

ACCIDENTAL DISCHARGE OF SHOT GUN COSTS LEG

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., March 5.—The accidental discharge of a shotgun cost Frank Rainey, special delivery clerk of the Rome postoffice, his left leg. While in a local repair shop after a rabbit hunt, Rainey dropped the gun, and both barrels were discharged. He is at a local hospital, and it is believed he will recover.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS QUIET AND LOWER

Weakness of Chesapeake and Ohio Caused the Whole List to Ease Off

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—Chesapeake and Ohio opened 2 points lower today, being depressed by the announcement of the $33,000,000 issue of five per cent notes. This was the only movement of importance in the early trading with the exception of a rise of a point in Texas company to 49¾, a new high record. Trading was fairly active, particularly in Steel, which rose fractionally. Changes in general were irregular with a good undertone.

Shorts showed a disposition to buy back stocks and some specialties reflecting favorable conditions fluctuated widely. Chesapeake and Ohio, which fell 3¼, caused the list to fall back later to fractionally under yesterday's close.

Fortified by large speculative orders for the principal stocks and signs of a better demand for a wide assortment of minor specialties, the market displayed general strength for a time today. Appearance of railroad statements, including Reading's showing, further decreases in earnings, had only a temporary influence and it was not until acute weakness developed in Chesapeake and Ohio that the upward movement was checked.

The provision of Chesapeake and Ohio's note issue calling for expenditures of $17,000,000 for improvements in the next five years, before dividends are paid, caused the stock to sell down 5 points, to 59. Bear operators made the most of this slump and sold stocks all through the list, depressing prices under yesterday's close.

Bonds were irregular.

Reactionary tendencies were in the main checked by midday but the list continued to present features of weakness. Beet sugar dropped 2¼. General Motors advanced 4 points.

Eastern railroad stocks showed general weakness, following a further break in Chesapeake and Ohio to 58¾. Baltimore and Ohio gave way 2 points and Reading and Lehigh Valley 1.

Completion of forced liquidation in various spots removed a load from the market and prices mended somewhat in the final hour. New Haven jumped 2 points.

Closed steady.

$33,000,000 BOND ISSUE CAUSED BREAK IN STOCKS

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—With the announcement today of an issue by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad of $33,000,000 5 per cent, five year notes, the stock sagged abruptly during the first hour of the market declining to 60, against 63¾ at yesterday's close. Trading was unusually heavy and implied some doubt as to the stability of the dividend.

It appeared that one of the provisions of issue provides that during the term of these notes the company is to set aside from its earnings $17,000,000 for improvements to the property before further dividends can be paid. That is to say, fixed amounts must be set aside each year—$2,000,000 the first year, $2,000,000 the second year and $4,000,000 for each of the remaining three years.

Officials of the road refused to discuss this feature of the situation except to express the belief that earnings would be large enough to cover the additional charges.

"HOTSPUR" SPORTING WRITER IS DEAD

(By Associated Press.)

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 5.—Edward H. McBride, forty-two years old, widely known as a sporting writer under the name of "Hotspur," died here today following an operation for a throat infection.

Weather Conditions

Forecast till 7 p. m. Friday:

Atlanta and vicinity: Rain and colder tonight; Friday fair.

Georgia: Rain this afternoon and tonight; colder tonight; Friday fair.

Alabama: Rain this afternoon; cloudy and somewhat colder tonight; Friday fair.

The southern disturbance remains central over southern Alabama and Georgia as a slight depression, with the atmospheric pressure below 29.75 inches. Another low pressure area also exists this morning over Minnesota and Wisconsin, in which the pressure is below 29.6 inches. Under the influence of these two storms generally cloudy, threatening weather prevails over most of the country, with rain or snow at a good many places. The largest amounts were: New Orleans 1.24 inches, Mobile 1.00 and Pensacola 1.94.

Temperatures are slightly highly in the south, and generally moderate everywhere. It will be slightly colder tonight, but not fall to the freezing point.

Rain is indicated for tonight at Atlanta and vicinity and fair Friday.

Section Director.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says:

Yesterday's news contained one bullish item, for it appeared that some 4,000 bales of the New Orleans stock had been burnt and would consequently trouble the rings no more. In the present state of feeling, it does not suffice to export cotton, nor even to spin it—fire alone can do effective work. In the meanwhile, substantial progress is making toward the reconciliation of the March New Orleans price with the official quotation for middling. At yesterday's close the difference was ⅝ of a cent. Considering the many grades and colors in this crop, "even running" ought to be worth a quarter more than "basis." According to this theory, March should bring about 12.50, with middling at 12.75. The slight gap will doubtless be closed, point by point, as the month runs out. The trade is eagerly awaiting the census bureau's report of ginnings, to be issued on March 20, as this report will practically determine the size of the crop. In the meanwhile, it is announced that the national government has ordered a crop of 13,940,000, exclusive of linters. If these figures were confirmed by the government, the biggest receipts at ports and interior town would lose their significance and the huge exports would begin to tell. There is already more or less talk about the new crop. As usual one hears complaints of too much or too little rain, according to the district from which the reports chance to come. From this time forth the news will be constantly more abundant and more varied and the fluctuations in the distant months should be correspondingly wide.

Forecast:

Kentucky—Rain or snow this afternoon and tonight; Friday fair.

Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Alabama—Rain tonight and Friday; somewhat colder.

Tennessee—Rain tonight, fair in extreme eastern portion; Friday fair.

Mississippi—Tonight and Friday.

Louisiana—Tonight and Friday generally fair; light variable winds on the coast.

Arkansas—Tonight and Friday generally fair, colder Friday.

Oklahoma—Tonight fair and colder; Friday fair and colder in southeast portion.

Texas—Tonight and Friday generally fair, colder Friday; light westerly to northerly winds on the coast.

Large eastern spot house says stocks in counted and uncounted towns, particularly the latter, are steadily diminishing. The spot situation is firm. Crop preparations about normal at present. Sales of mules and fertilizers to date rather larger than last year. As to acreage, we doubt whether there will be much increase, if any. Consider predictions of 40,000,000 acreage absurd. Labor is lacking for it. Some abandonment in weevil district in favor of other crops is likely.

Washington—Storm warning displayed on Atlantic coast. Wilmington to New York.

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: March, 12.15; May, 11.71; July, 11.70; August, 11.59; October, 11.36.

10 a. m. bids in New Orleans were: March, 12.44; May, 12.35; July, 12.34; October, 11.45.

Moscow, Russia, cables: "Large business. Russian spinners probably have to buy quarter million more this movement."

Liverpool cables: Good American and continental buying, steady tone, improving.

Neill Bros., of London, in their latest report says: "November month after month warrant a considerably larger figure for consumption of American cotton than our initial estimate of 14,750,000. We think we have erred on the side of moderation."

"I look for a gradually declining market in cotton and in cotton seed oil, in anticipation of a rather bearish ginners' report, which promises to be around 500,000 or 600,000 for the period. This will cause liquidation and probably give the market a good basis for bulling.—Tate.

Bremen, Germany, says: "The opinion seems to be gaining ground among spinners and manufacturers that present prices are cheap. There is more demand for spots which is supporting prices against the weakness at New York."

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says:

A slight change in sentiment regarding the immediate course of the wheat market was noticeable after the close yesterday, a number of traders expressing the belief that there had been break enough for the time being. Corn traders expressed the belief last night that values were to hold close to the present level until there is either an increase in the cash demand, or the movement. The technical condition of the market was regarded by bears as a weak one and that large amount of long gr

News of Women and Society

To Miss Walsh

Miss Marie Cobbs will entertain at a matinee party at the Forsyth theater Monday, March 9, in honor of her guest, Miss Nellie Walsh, of New Orleans.

Eight guests have been invited.

The invited guests are Miss Walsh, Miss Cobbs, Miss Cornelia Pickens, Miss Pauline Randall, Miss Louise Dobbs, Miss Frances Bailey, Miss Jeannette Johnson, Miss Dorothy Douglas, Miss Lyndall Hadden, Miss Betty Carter, Miss Madge Pollock, Miss Effie Schussler, of Gainesville; Miss Martha Green, of Newnan, and Miss Katherine Darby.

Surprise Party for Colonel Lowry

Colonel and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry were guests of Dr. and Mrs. E. Bates Block for dinner Wednesday evening at their home on Peachtree street, and after dinner were joined by the members of the family connection, when Colonel Lowry found himself the center of a surprise party gathered together in celebration of his birthday.

Old fashioned dances were a feature of the evening, the quadrille and the lancers were danced and Colonel Lowry led with courtly grace the stately Virginia reel in which all present joined.

Supper was served during the evening from a table which had for its central decoration a mound of deep red roses, the favorite flower of the honor guest, and crystal baskets holding an artistic arrangement of the roses combined with fragrant white narcissi were placed on mantel and cabinets in the drawnig room.

Many bright and original toasts were proposed to which Colonel Lowry made equally clever responses.

Guests at Tea Dance

Among the 150 guests at the tea dance at the Piedmont club Wednesday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. John D. Little, Colonel and Mrs. William Lawson Peel, Mrs. William Tilt, Dr. and Mrs. John Sommerville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Small, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Meador, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alsop, Jr., Mrs. Henry S. Birthday Dinner

Weir Crankshaw, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crankshaw, will celebrate his twelfth birthday anniversary at a stag dinner Saturday evening at the home of his parents on East Fourteenth street.

Covers will be laid for eighteen.

Matinee Party

Mrs. G. W. Seay, of West End, entertained the members of the Thursday Domino club and a few invited guests at a matinee party at the Lyric theater Thursday afternoon, to witness Norman Hackett's appearance in "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

Rome Woman's Club Receives Gavel from Mrs. Woodrow Wilson

An interesting feature of the meeting of the Woman's club in Rome Wednesday afternoon was the presentation of a gavel sent by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson as a gift to the club members. Mrs. John C. Printup made the presentation speech and Mrs. A. W. Van Hoose, the president of the club, received the gift, which will be highly prized, from the fact that Mrs. Wilson spent her girlhood in Rome, when, as Miss Ellen Louise Axson, she was a schoolmate of many of the members of the club. The gavel is made from a piece of the historic elm tree which grew on the grounds of the White House, and is a piece of artistic workmanship.

Interest in the work of the Woman's club is steadily growing. Plans for the new club house are well under way, which, when completed, will be a very handsome building and will contain every known convenience of the modern club home.

Witherspoon-Stallings

An event of much interest was the wedding of Miss Ruth Stallings and Mr. Preston Witherspoon, of New York, which took place Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents on Peachtree street.

Dr. Charles Daniel, of the First Baptist church, and Dr. Dunbar Ogden, of the Central Presbyterian church, were the officiating ministers and the beautiful and impressive ceremony was performed in the presence of a small group of interested relatives and friends.

The reception room of the pretty apartments was artistically decorated for the occasion with handsome foliage plants which formed an effective background for the many white waxen lilies used about the simulated altar and on numerous cabinets.

Miss Jennie D. Harirs and Miss Helen Dargan, as ribbon bearers, and Miss Marion Goldsmith and Miss Mary Helen Moody, as bridesmaids, were the bride's attendants, and Mr. Scott Parrish, of Richmond, served the bridegroom as best man and only attendant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was very beautiful in her wedding robe of clinging white charmeuse veiled in tulle, outlined with seed pearls. Her wedding veil was also of filmy tulle and half concealed a shower bouquet of valley lilies.

The bridesmaids wore charming models of white taffeta and tulle, and carried sheaf bouquets of Easter lilies.

Mrs. Stallings was very handsome wearing a gown of black velvet with tulle overdraperies in silver.

Mr. and Mrs. Witherspoon left during the evening for New York and will sail from there for Europe.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Parrish, of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. John C. Holmes, Mrs. Charles C. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lamar, all of Macon, and the bride's brother, Mr. George B. Stallings, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Shorter College News

ROME.—On Monday evening, March 2, Madam Labodie gave Ibsen's "The Doll's House" in the college auditorium. Madam Labodie is a woman of charming personality, and she gave "The Doll's House" with insight and discrimination. The reading was enjoyed by the faculty, students and people of Rome.

On Tuesday afternoon, March 3, Miss M. E. Lindsey entertained in honor of Miss Cora Belle Smith, the new head of the department of expression. Those present were Mrs. A. W. Van Hoose, Mrs. Charles Goetchius, Mrs. Clopton Mitchell, Dr. Adelaide Ellsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Gaines, Mr. Hogan, Miss A. W. Raynor, Miss Anne Stevens, Miss Cook and Miss Blalock.

On Wednesday afternoon the Dramatic club entertained the faculty in honor of Miss Cora Belle Smith.

The Polyminian Literary society had for its study Saturday evening, March 7, "The Life and Works of William Shakespeare." The program was as follows: "Life of Shakespeare," Josephine Bagley; "Shakespeare's Sonnets," Eugenia Flournoy; "Shakespeare's Lyrics," Wilda Hardman.

THIRD WARD CIVIC CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Third Ward Civic club will be held Friday, March 6, at 3:00 p. m., at the residence of the president, Mrs. John Justis, 616 Woodward avenue. A full attendance is desired. We will have with us at this time Mrs. Haden, president of Second Ward Civic club.

MRS. A. S. WILSON, Secretary.

Miss Dobbs Gives Jonquil Luncheon

Miss Fay Dobbs entertained at luncheon Thursday at the Ansley hotel in compliment to Miss Mary Lillian Warren, of Kansas City, who is the guest of Miss Theo Prioleau. A mound of jonquils formed the centerpiece of the prettily appointed table, around which the group of young girls were seated. Place cards were painted with the bright spring flowers, and the minor details continued the color scheme of gold. Invited to meet Miss Warren were Miss Ferol Humphries, Miss Mildred Hale, of New Haven, Conn.; Miss Lawson Hines, Miss Alice Parks, Miss Helen McCarty and Miss Louise Parker. Mrs. Thomas Coleman Hodge completed the party and chaperoned the young people.

Hill-Godwin

WARM SPRINGS.—Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Godwin announce the marriage of their daughter, Ella, to Mr. Clifford Halliday Hill.

The wedding took place at the country home of the bride's parents near Warm Springs.

Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, which was beautiful in its quiet simplicity.

The bride wore with a traveling suit of blue cloth a corsage bouquet of valley lilies.

Miss Minnie Godwin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a spring suit of blue silk ratine with hat to match and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mr. Wellborn Hill, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill left immediately for Palm Beach, Fla., where they will be for some time before going to their country home near Washington.

Meeting of Brenau Club

An important meeting of the Brenau club will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Hotel Ansley. A large attendance at this meeting is desired because of subjects of importance that are to be discussed. Of the series of meetings begun last year by the club, this session will be of greatest moment.

The club has steadily grown in membership, and its monthly meetings have increased in interest.

Bridge Party

An event of Tuesday afternoon was the bridge party given by Mrs. C. Decker Tebo at the Winecoff hotel.

Mrs. R. M. Pierpont made top score and Mrs. J. C. Hanson cut the consolation prize.

Among those invited were Mrs. Otis Witherspoon, Mrs. J. L. Hussey, Mrs. J. C. Henson, Mrs. R. M. Pierpont, Mrs. E. L. Adams, Mrs. Lee Terrell and Mrs. Powell.

Reading at Georgian Terrace

Committee No. 4 of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church will give a reading on Monday afternoon, March 9 at 3:30 o'clock at the Georgian Terrace.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton will give two charming selections and assisting in the artistic program will be Mr. Kurt Mueller at the piano.

W. O. W. Encampment

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 5.—The great encampment of the Woodmen of the World, comprising this district—Georgia, Alabama and Florida—is to be held in Columbus ten days beginning August 14, this date having been determined by the local committee and District Deputy Rosenthal at a meeting held late yesterday.

Society Woman and Athlete to Talk Here at Big Suffrage Rally

MRS. STANLEY M'CORMICK.

Among the prominent suffragists who will be here Wednesday of next week for a big mass meeting that night at the Atlanta theater is Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of New York, treasurer of the National Woman Suffrage association.

Mrs. McCormick is a society woman, an accomplished horsewoman and a fencer of considerable skill. She has traveled extensively in Europe and is an ardent advocate of votes for women. She will be one of the speakers here.

Other prominent women who are on the program for Wednesday are Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the national association; Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago; Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, secretary of the national association; Mrs. James Lee Laidlaw, auditor; Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the congressional committee; Mrs. Antoinette Funk, member of the congressional committee Mrs. Desha Breckenbridge, of Kentucky, and Miss Kate Gordon, of New Orleans, head of the Southern States Suffrage association.

How to Darken Gray Hair

By a Specialist.

A very satisfactory preparation which darkens gray hair and acts as a corrective agent for dandruff and other diseases of the scalp can be made at small expense and in your own home by dissolving a small box of Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water and then adding an ounce of bay rum and a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can furnish these ingredients. This is to be applied once a week until the hair is sufficiently darkened, then every two weeks to keep the hair soft and glossy and the scalp in a healthy condition. It may be used with equal success in darkening the beard. This is a preparation that gives splendid results, both as a hair darkener and a remedy for all scalp disorders, and is well worthy of a trial. You will find it far superior to the ordinary store preparations and much less expense.

The Dress of a Business Woman

This is what the highest salaried business woman in the United States says:

DRESS to the business woman is very important.

For while the most tasteful costuming cannot make a good business woman, dressing in bad taste can go a great way toward destroying the efficiency of the best office.

The greater part of the business woman's life is spent in business clothes—then why not make them something of a study, since it is desirable to be as attractive as possible?

The basis of the business woman's wardrobe should be a rather plain tailor-made suit, of good material, made in a way to conform to the general and best features of the prevailing style and yet to bring out the best lines in her own particular figure. While this is not the simplest matter in the world, every woman can, by thinking out the problem as she would any other question coming up in her business, determine it in a manner to make the most of her individuality.

Good material in this suit is a "sine qua non." A cheap cloth musses and wrinkles and after a few weeks looks like an old garment, while a good cloth is worth in lasting qualities and superior appearance many times the difference in price.

One good, first-class suit of this kind is worth two or three flimsy dresses, and there is always something about the trim, tailor-made woman that commands the respect and admiration of her co-laborers of the opposite sex.

Here Is What One Woman Says About Wooltex

WOOLTEX AS FIRST AID

BY HELEN WALSWORTH LESTER

TO HAVE the train hours late and to be obliged to hurry straight from the station to a fashionable tea—with no chance of getting at a trunk—is a test of a woman's serenity.

The tea was in my honor, and there I was in traveling garb. But I was quite serene because I was wearing a Wooltex suit. Spite of my trip half across the continent, it had kept its look of quiet elegance. Every line was as shapely as when I started, and a good brushing made me quite content with my appearance.

As I slipped into my place beside my hostess, she gave me a quick, appraising glance, then nodded approval. Inwardly I said, "Bless Wooltex!"

Wooltex garments have often proved a first-aid to me. As a teacher, I am forced to go direct from my schoolroom to concerts, lectures and teas, and yet I am always suitably dressed in my irreproachable tailor-mades.

And it's not only looks. A teacher is expected to be well dressed at all times, and her clothes must stand exposure to all kinds of weather. A wealthy woman can afford to buy a watch just for the beauty of its case, but if she had only a teacher's income, she would demand a guarantee as to the inner mechanism.

Wooltex garments are certainly trouble-savers, too. I send my suits to the tailor's for an occasional pressing and that's all the trouble I ever have. And my suits and coats refuse to wear out in any reasonable time—and they keep their look of good style straight through.

As a first-aid to an anemic bank account, Wooltex garments excel. I am spending less on clothes and yet I know I am far better dressed than was possible before I discovered Wooltex.

"The Standard Everywhere for the Woman of Fashion"

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

All the time that Peter Rabbit and her other friends were worrying about her Mrs. Grouse was very warm and very comfortable in the henhouse of Farmer Brown's boy. That first night she had slept soundly, for you know she had been very, very tired. In the morning when she had opened her eyes she couldn't think at first where she was. Then she remembered how she had been picked up by Farmer Brown's boy when she was too weak to fly and put in the box of hay, where she now was, and given all she could eat.

Sh peeped out of the box timidly and looked around. It was a strange place, a very strange place, to Mrs. Grouse. You see, never before in all her life had she ever slept under any roof excepting the thick, low hanging branches of a hemlock tree. Always she had been where she could spread her stout wings and whirr up and away when she pleased. But here she couldn't fly because there were walls on all sides and a roof and no place to fly to. The very thought made her heart sink and frightened her. Along one side were rows of boxes with hay in them. In some of these were birds who looked as if they might be relatives of hers only they were ever so much bigger than she. And sitting on long sticks across one end were more of these birds. Presently one of these, the biggest one, stretched his long neck out and made a terrible noise. It frightened Mrs. Grouse still more. You see she never had heard a rooster crow close at hand before.

Mrs. Grouse kept very still. None of these strange birds had noticed her and she didn't want them to. Little by little as she looked and listened she remembered things she had heard Unc' Billy Possum tell about Farmer Brown's henhouse. You know Unc' Billy knows all about the inside of that henhouse. Somehow the things she was looking at were very like the things she had heard Unc' Billy tell about.

"Why!" she exclaimed, "I believe this is the very place!"

By and by she heard footsteps and she knew them for the footsteps of Farmer Brown's boy. All her old fear of him returned and she crouched down in her box all of a tremble. The door opened just wide enough for Farmer Brown's boy to squeeze through. You see he was afraid that if he opened it wide Mrs. Grouse might get past him and fly away. So he squeezed through as narrow a space as he could and shut the door after him. He smiled down at Mrs. Grouse.

"How do you do this morning, Mrs. Grouse?" said he, and his voice was low and very pleasant. "I expect that you are anxious to get back to the Green Forest, but I am not going to let you—not yet, anyway. You see that crust over the snow is just as hard and icy as ever and I am afraid that if I should let you go now you would have hard work ot find enough to eat. You might starve to death. You are a great deal better off right here, even if you don't think so."

Of course, Mrs. Grouse didn't understand what he said or perhaps she would have felt better. You see, she is very, very timid. Then, again, she was frightened by being shut in where she couldn't use her stout wings. She felt very helpless. So she trembled more than ever and made herself as small as possible in the farthest corner of the box. Farmer Brown's boy noticed it.

"You haven't a thing to be afraid of, Mrs. Grouse," said he, and if only Mrs. Grouse could have understood him perhaps she would have felt better.

He got a piece of wire netting and fastened it over the box. Then he left some nice corn and barley for her and went away. Mrs. Grouse felt worse than ever. You see now she couldn't even get out of her box. She felt that she was a prisoner, very much a prisoner, and such a feeling is dreadful. For a long time she couldn't even eat. But by and by she grew so hungry that she just had to eat. After that she felt better. A full stomach always makes one feel better. Pretty soon Mrs. Featherlegs discovered her and called all the other hens. They crowded around the box and made unkind remarks about Mrs. Grouse. They asked her what business she had there and made fun of her, because she was so much smaller than they. And then Mrs. Grouse was very glad, indeed, of that wire netting which a little while before had seemed so hateful. When they finally left her alone she grew very thoughtful. She had learned many things—what the inside of Farmer Brown's henhouse was like that Farmer Brown's boy could be very gentle, that even a hateful wire might prove a blessing and much more.

Dr. Nunnally to Move

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., March 5.—Dr. G. A. Nunnally, one of the best known Baptist ministers in the state, and a member of the state board of education for Baptist convention, will leave Rome next week for Monroe, Ga., to make his home. Dr. Nunnally has resided here for the past four years. He was at one time president of Mercer universtiy.

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1914, by W. Werner.)

BLIND

Stephen Gale took his wife's face between his two hands. "When I return I shall see these dear features for the first time," he said, smiling.

Emily Gale smiled back, and, although he could not see that smile, he was aware of its ripple upon her cheeks as his slender, sensitive fingers touched them. What he was not aware of, however, was the supreme courage that was keeping the tears out of her voice and eyes as she replid: "That will be a happy day for both of us, dear."

"I know it, Emily; I know it." He moved away from her restlessly. "And yet I sometimes wonder if it were not better that I should continue as I am. I have grown so used to living in the dark. I fear the effect. I wonder if I should know you were I to meet you unexpectedly, my own wife."

For a moment Emily did not speak. Then she said gently: "I think you would know me. There would be my voice."

"Your voice, yes! There is no other voice like it. It is the most beautiful sound in the world to me. It matches your face, your soul." He folded his hands on the back of a chair and leaned there, studying some pattern in the darkness with his mental vision. "One thing troubles me. It is the fear that my idea of you will suffer. I have carried that idea so long. It has been with me thirty years, and now, perhaps, I shall be called upon to relinquish it and conceive another. Do you understand, Emily? I sometimes fear that it will make a difference somehow." He raised his head, and his blank eyes turned as if in quest of some object. "Those roses there on the table. Their fragrance is all about me. My mental picture of them shows them to me as being pink roses. What color are they?"

"They are yellow—Gloire de Dijon."

"That is what I mean. They are still roses and delicately fragrant, but my idea of them and what they actually are differs. So I fancy it will be with your face. Not that it will make you any less precious, my darling, who has for thirty sightless years been a glorious wife to an unworthy man." His voice jarred a little.

Emily went to him and took him in her arms. "Dear, never call yourself unworthy again if you would not make me unhappy," she whispered. "It is I who should judge of your worth, and to me you are what you have ever been—the noblest, finest, loftiest soul living. And the man I love." She kissed him. "And now shall I go on reading our book to you? Surely you want to know what happened next. I myself am very curious about it."

She managed to speak lightly. He made his way to a chair, and, taking another near, she opened a book and began to read in her wonderful voice. At the end of an hour she closed the book. She knew nothing of what she had read, her mind had been upon business of its own. But he did not guess that. She had filled his mind with pleasant images, and while he was dreaming of what he had heard she arose and left him to speak to the servant about dinner. Afterward, instead of at once returning to him, she went out upon the porch.

She saw a scene she loved, but which Stephen had never seen. Now he was to see it. The doctor had said so. "There is help for you, Stephen." She had heard the words between joy and terror. Tonight the doctor and Stephen were going up to the city and tomorrow would be performed the operation that was to give him back a portion of his sight. At first she had felt that she could not bear to have Stephen go to meet his great trial alone, but afterward she saw that it was better. She was needed at home. Then, too, the extra expense must be considered. The operation was costly beyond their means. Emily Gale thought of all this and much more as she looked toward the river beside which she had lived with the husband of her choice for thirty wonderful years. Now he was to be made to see and all would change. He realized that, too, but not as she realized it. She clasped her hands hard and lifted her eyes. "God help me—and him," she prayed.

She kissed him good-by bravely at their own door, for the doctor had come in his car to take him to the station. She did not watch the car out of sight; she had some faint superstition against it. Instead, she went back into the room he had just left and sat down in his chair and, covering her face with her hands, thought.

She wanted him to see what he had never seen—their meadows. This dear, homely room, all that went to make up the home of their hearts. But there was one thing that she did not want him to see, and her heart sickened when she thought of it. And that thing was her own face!

To begin with, her voice had attracted him. He was slowly recovering from the accident which had taken his sight, and she had been only a little kind to him. She had never dreamed that he would care for her. When, finally, he told her that he did she had tried to explain to him that she was plain. He had smiled, "With that voice?" She could not answer. She wanted him so, and she saw that he needed her. From these two reasons their marriage had come about. She had never again mentioned her looks to him. She had let him form the image of her he wished. What did it matter whether she was beautiful or plain? He would never see. And he loved her as she was.

For thirty years she had sustained him in this decision. She had never actually deceived him. Merely she had not said, "Listen, Stephen; the woman you love is ugly. She has red, scant hair, unlovely eyes, a big mouth, a crooked nose, and a complexion which is a bad mixture of all nature's assorted pigments. Think of the ugliest thing you can remember, and believe me when I say I am far uglier."

Now he was to see for himself. All that night she did not sleep. And all next morning she did not eat. She walked upon the porch or through the room where they had read together, lived together for thirty years. She felt a great joy for him and a great fear also.

At noon a note came saying he had arrived safely. The operation was to take place that afternoon. There was no doubt that it would be successful.

Most of the afternoon she spent on her knees praying.

Most of that afternoon she spent on her knees, praying, for she was a deeply religious woman. The doctor had promised to telegraph her the moment the operation was over, and she waited. At 6 o'clock the message had not arrived. The maid prepared some supper for her, but she could not eat. Her nerves were a torture and her head ached. She put her hands to her temples and pressed hard. And so she came to the mirror to take cognizance of herself.

She was a plain woman—too plain. And her husband would see that she was. Yet as she looked into her own eyes she wondered if the garment, the husk, had ever more than a passing importance. It was not her appearance, but her voice, her soul, that had companioned Stephen for thirty years. And they were unchanged. They would ever be unchanged. He would find it so.

Fresh courage came to her, and hope, and a still kind of patience. Then suddenly she was aware of an unmistakable burr-r-r-ing. A motor was approaching. She turned, saw the headlights, heard the call of the siren, and ran out upon the porch. A big, dark car had stopped in a great flare of palpitating light. Two men alighted. One led the other as they came up the walk. Then she knew.

"Stephen!" she cried. And had him in her arms. "But the operation"—

He flung his head back and laughed. "There was none."

"He backed out," said the doctor, glumly.

"You mean"—

"I mean, dear," Stephen answered, "that I preferred to go on living in my darkness after all. The prospect of too much day terrified me. I seemed to be on the verge of losing all security, all peace. It was as if I had been long wrapped in a soft, warm mantle, which was suddenly to be snatched away, leaving me naked and shivering. I'm afraid there's a proportion of coward in your husband, after all, but I know you'll bear with that as you always have borne with everything for thirty years. Anyhow, I've come back even as I went away."

"I tell him he's a fool," barked the gruff and disappointed doctor.

But Emily said nothing. She only held Stephen closer.

GIBBS BULL HEAD CATSUP COSTS 10c

The Gibbs Buyer Says:

"I BUY Tomatoes for Gibbs Catsup from the Farmers of Maryland,—Delaware, and New Jersey. In many instances, I buy from the SAME MEN EVERY YEAR. They know it's wasting my time and theirs to offer me anything but "First Choice," and First Choice is not always GOOD ENOUGH. You see, we sell over 5,000,000 Bottles of Catsup a year,—so we don't strive to make MUCH on EACH BOTTLE. That's why we can, and do pay good prices for tomatoes!"

GIBBS BULL HEAD CATSUP

is made of selected Tomatoes. The same locality does not Produce the Same High-Grade Tomatoes every Year,—so the Gibbs Buyer choses from the crops of Three States,—and he buys the BEST that are offered.—Just Granulated Sugar and Spices are blended with these CHOICE Tomatoes to make Gibbs Catsup. Twentieth Anniversary Celebrated

An event of Wednesday evening was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney Cherry in celebration of their china wedding anniversary. The parlor, reception hall and drawing room were elaborately decorated in palms, Lady Hillington roses, ferns and smilax. The dining room was in pink and white and the centerpiece of the table was a mound of carnations and ferns. Two crystal baskets filled with the same fragrant flowers and tied with tulle were placed on corners of the table, while cut-glass compotes holding pink and white bonbons and tied with pink tulle, continued the color suggestion.

An orchestra rendered selections during the hours the guests called.

Mrs. Cherry was gowned in yellow brocade veiled in princess lace and her corsage was of Lady Hillington rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Cherry were assisted in receiving by Miss Esther Cherry, Miss Virginia Cherry, Mr. Pinkney Cherry, Jr., and Mr. Max Redmond Cherry.

Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mrs. Oscar Hummler, Mrs. Henry Watson, Mrs. Robert C. Turner, Mrs. J. C. Gavin, Mrs. C. M. Dennis, Mrs. S. H. Cayce, Mrs. C. N. Northington, Mrs. W. H. Lewis, Mrs. W. S. Cornett, Mrs. J. J. Dennis, Mrs. J. J. Murphy, Mrs. Joseph W. Hill, Mrs. Fred Hutcheson and Mrs. Carr.

Those serving punch were Misses Hattie Patterson, Wamsleigh West, Irene Hollis, Pauline Randall and Mary Kate Davison and Miss Marie Wright, of Greensboro.

A hundred and fifty guests called.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten it.

There is some dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of child-birth. But, thanks to a remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, the period is one of joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is a penetrating, external application. It makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and homes.

Thousands of women know from experience Mother's Friend is one of our greatest contributions to happy motherhood. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Especially recommended as a preventive of caking breast.

Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 231 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable book to expectant mothers.

Money Saved by Making Your Cough Syrup at Home

Takes But a Few Moments, and Stops a Hard Cough in a Hurry.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take one pint of granulated sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready made for $2.50. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. It keeps perfectly.

You will find it one of the best cough syrups you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually conquers an ordinary cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect, and the taste is pleasant.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for whooping cough, spasmodic croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most vaulable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This plan for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy. The plan has often been imitated but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Tango: Lesson 4

THE SINGLE CROSSOVER

THE SINGLE CROSSOVER FROM ONE TANGO STEP TO ANOTHER.

Crossing From One Figure to Another an Important Step in the Tango—Needs Skill and Grace

(This is one of a series of articles especially written for this newspaper by Mlle. Anna Pavlowa, the greatest living premiere danseuse, who has posed with her dancing partner, Lawrenti Novikoff, for each figure. The dances to be explained and illustrated are those now in vogue in society ballrooms.)

Have you ever been seized with a sudden desire to cross the street for some apparently inexplicable reason? Well, the same conditions often prompt either, or both, of the partners in their Tango evolutions. The man may want to alter his position from the left to the right side of the lady, possibly for no evident purpose, though often for definite causes.

First, he may find his arm tiring or feel that his partner's arm is weary, and he realizes that by a shifting of positions relief may instantly be had. Again, for the sake of variety, it seems pertinent to reconstruct dancing matters or, finally, to carry out a desired figure it becomes imperative to begin with the lady on his reverse side.

What more natural under any of these conditions that the masculine guide should signal for a single cross-over? Quite so. Immediately there comes a pretty slipping by of figures, a few simple, easy movements of arms and hands, a glide or two and, presto, a new order of things tango ensues.

The single cross-over is as nothing to the dancer, but its very simplicity makes it a sort of tango conjunction, or proposition, ever ready for utilization and a necessary factor at almost all times. The figures presented in the picture taken of myself and my partner are at the conclusion of the single cross-over, in which the arms are elevated preparatory to commencing some new figure.

This holding aloft of the arms might be called a flourish, a sort of ending to a dancing phrase, just as a coloratura soprano would conclude a series of notes with some long-held tone or vocal embellishment calculated to ornament the effort.

I have seen the single cross-over used repeatedly by a couple proceeding in one length of a ballroom with an intermingling of steps and figures that really made the cross-over itself a part of the dancing scheme.

To perform it effectively, the man, in passing behind his partner, should keep as close to her as he can without brushing against her gown. When too much space prevails between the figures, at the instant the cross-over is made it spoils the effect, even though the step may be conveniently and easily employed.

Very little retarding of the forward motion occurs when the change in position is brought about, the man swinging across with a half glide and carrying his own arms and those of his lady to their proper places, concluding with the flourish aloft as described.

In my next article I shall introduce to my readers somewhat elaborate figure involving the engaging and disengaging of arms.

Gettysburg Veteran Orders Own Coffin Made From Cannon

General John P. Taylor, in Robust Health, Prepares for Funeral

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—General John P. Taylor, a Civil war veteran, and member of the Gettysburg battlefield commission, although apparently in good health, is making advanced preparations for his funeral. He has placed an order for a solid bronze coffin to be cast from old cannon and a vault has been sunk in the private burying grounds on his estate near Reedsville, Pa. The general plans to have this covered by a big granite block to be surmounted by a bronze statue of himself. The firm which secured the contract for the coffin has been instructed to ship it to a Lewistown undertaker to be held until needed for execution of the contract he holds for the burial of the veteran.

General Taylor despite his eighty-six years is still robust and enjoys a horseback ride almost daily. He is a member of the national monument commission and a former commander of the Legion of Honor.

Bean's Poison Fought By Its Own Serum to Save Student's Life

NEW YORK, March 5.—A serum made from the poisonous jequirity beans, one of which Samuel Dworkin, a New York school of pharmacy senior, chewed and swallowed Tuesday, is being injected by physicians in an effort to save the student's life. The serum was prepared by a wholesale drug house that manufactures an essence from the bean for diseases of the eye.

Dworkin remains unconscious, and the poison seems to effect a paralysis of portions of the spinal cord.

The jequirity bean is a native of India, where for centuries it has been used as a standard of weight. Because of its intensely hard shell, bright body and red tip it also has been used to form strings of beads for personal adornment. If swallowed whole it does no injury, the gastric juice not being powerful enough to dissolve it. The poison becomes effective only when the bean is mashed or crushed, as was done by Dworkin.

Among the speakers will be Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs .Grace Duffield Goodwin, of New York, and Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, of Trenton, N. J.

DELAY IN GERMAN EMBASSY BUILDING

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Because the original plans for the new German embassy which it is proposed to build in fashionable northwest Washington did not meet with the approval of Ambassador Count Von Bernstorff, another competition to select an architect will be held shortly, it was announced today. It had been expected that the embassy building would be begun this spring, but the work will now be delayed until fall.

OUR ASTROLOGER

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1914.

Weak is the sway Of stars this day.

Astrologers find this rather an unimportant day in which the planetary influences are not strong.

While Jupiter is mildly adverse, Neptune is in a friendly aspect. It is a day in which commercial enterprises should be conducted with care, even though shipping interests have rather a fair omen.

Under this rule athletes should conserve their strength, and care should be taken to guard against errors in judging their powers.

It is a day when the wise should shun speculation. Sign no bonds, guarantees or securities of any sort.

While this configuration prevails diseases of the liver are common, and for that reason diet is recommended to those who are subjects of the planet.

Neptune's kindly influence is held to be beneficial for psychic development and inspirational writing.

This planet in the ninth house points to religious and legal scandals. Troubles in connection with litigation which involves big interests in the financial world are foretold.

There is a sign which is interpreted as indicative of sensational events in which royalty is concerned. Visits of distinguished persons who will come to the United States next summer are said to be unusually significant.

Places of amusement have the augury of possible accident. Danger from fire is foreseen in a large city.

Mexico has an evil star still in the ascendant. The murder of a prominent American again is prognosticated. This will precipitate diplomatic action, the seers predict.

Increase of crime is prophesied. Suicides will be so numerous within the year that widespread discussion of causes and prevention will take place.

Mercury is in an aspect read as favorable for aviation. There will be an astonishing growth in interest in the aeroboat, which will become a much patronized vehicle within a short time, if the stars are read aright.

Persons whose birthdate it is are warned against speculation or investments in which there is any risk.

Children born on this day probably will have careers that are devoid of spectacular features. Much will depend on the hour of birth. Girls should be guarded against unfortunate marriage.

Informal Dance at East Lake

An informal dance at the East Lake Country club will be an event of Thursday evening.

Among those present will be Miss Marion Hodgson, of Athens; Miss Laura Cowles, Miss Alice May Freeman, Miss Mary Hines, Miss Mary Blalock, Miss Annie Lou Pagett, Miss Annabelle Farrar, Miss Natalie Farrar, Mr. Julian Thomas, Mr. Palmer Johnson, Mr. Frank Spratlin, Mr. Ben Daniel, Mr. Fred Hoyt, Mr. Moultrie Hitt, Mr. Carl Ramspeck and Mr. Trippe.

Society to Witness Comedy

Social interest is centering in the presentation of "The Golden Goose," the comedy by Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, which won the prize offered by Mr. Hackett for the best farce and which is to be presented Saturday evening at the Lyric by Mr. Hackett, assisted by a number of members of the Players' club.

Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin and Mrs. Ransom Wright will be among those taking leading parts.

Many box parties are being planned for the evening and supper parties will follow at the clubs. The plot of the "Golden Goose" is bright and very original and full of clever situations, and it is expected that a large audience will be present to witness the sparkling comedy.

Odd Fellows to Meet

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., March 5.—On March 26 and 27 Odd Fellows from the counties of Paulding, Polk, Chattooga, Floyd and Walker will gather here for the semi-annual convention of this division. An interesting program has been prepared, with addresses by Grand Master T. M. Haynes, of Savannah; Grand Secretary T. H. Roberson, of Gainesville, and Past Grand Master W. S. Coleman, of Atlanta.

Manufacturer of X-Ray Tubes, Dies Of X-Ray Poison

(By Associated Press.)

HARTFORD, Conn., March 5.—Henry Green, pioneer manufacturer of X-ray tubes, died at his home here today of carcinoma of the liver, induced by X-ray poisoning. He was born in England fifty-four years ago. He developed the first focusing tubes to be successfully operated.

John L. Baur, a glass blower who aided him in the development of the tubes, died from the same disease in 1906.

"Hoss Swappers" to Meet

DALTON, Ga., March 5.—Dalton will, on March 19-20, entertain the "hoss swappers' convention," and the promoters are making preparations for the big annual event. Traders from Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia will be in attendance, bringing with them all of their old plugs, as well as better animals. Horse racing will feature the meet, and a big crowd is expected.

How to Darken Gray Hair

Without Sticky Drugs.

Over 500 ladies and gentlemen in Atlanta have experienced great satisfaction in darkening their gray or streaked with gray, hair by applying Q-Ban, like a shampoo, to hair and scalp. This ideal preparation should be applied to hair and scalp, on retiring. Then let hair fall free and dry over night.

The gray disappears and a few more applications of Q-Ban, like above, darkens the hair so evenly and naturally no one can possibly suspect you are using a hair color restorer. In addition, the above treatment stops dandruff and itching of the scalp, stops falling hair and promotes its growth. Q-Ban is not sticky or messy—delightful to use. Cannot injure or stain the most delicate scalp or hair. Q-Ban gives a delightful feeling of refreshment and cleanliness to the scalp, also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance to the hair which makes the hair so fascinating and attractive. What Anne Rittenhouse Says

What About the Collar—or the Absence of It—This Spring?

PARIS, March 5.—Small detail but important is the line of the eck.

Not for years has there been anything more generally becoming in woman's dress than V-neck. And well may we all rejoice when another season's fashions indicate that the V-neck is still accepted.

There has been much talk about a change of outline at the neck. It has even been predicted that the line which is narrow at the throat and widens out to the shoulders would come into prominence along with the clothes of Madame de Pompadour. This outline is shown on some frocks, and it may become much more usual than it is. But for the present, at least, it cannot replace the simple V-neck that we have all learned to like.

What About the High Collar?

Some effort is making to reintroduce the high collar. One summer frock which I saw recently is made with a high, fitted net collar. The frock itself is made of white crepe and there is a small round yoke of net. Almost at the top of the collar there is a band of taffeta, perhaps an inch wide.

We have reveled in collarless frocks for a long time, and perhaps it is time for a change. But that high collars and long sleeves should be thrust upon us just as summer is in sight is just another one of the uncomfortable oddities that add piquancy to the changing fashion.

The high collar, however, will have to fight for a place if it is to have one that is worth holding. And for the present the open-necked frock in the daytime is the rule.

A good many of the new taffeta and poplin suits are made with high, linen collars, that flare at the sides. Some of these collars are turned over and pointed much in the manner of the Directoire collar. Some of them are shaped in Medici fashion, with wide, clearing points.

The same sort of collars are shown on frocks for house and street wear. And the dainty starched organdie collar, with the inch-wide hem, or the collar of linen hemstitched an inch from the edge, and starched to stand out in a point under each ear, is still worn.

Separate Blouses.

On separate blouses, to wear under coats, the V-shaped opening in front is still the rule. For most of the separate blouses fasten in front and, therefore, a satisfactory high collar on them is impossible. They are usually finished with some flaring linen or lace or net collar, sometimes with a flat, turned back collar.

Some of the new coats are finished at the back of the neck with little frills of figured silk or velvet or brocaded ribbon. These frills extend only half way about the neck of the coat—from the place on one side of the coat where the shoulder seam would be, if there were a shoulder seam, to the corresponding point on the other side.

This is a most attractive background for the frilled lace or starched organdie flaring collar of the blouse worn under the coat.

40 Is a Woman's Glorious Prime

When a woman realizes that her youth is slipping by! Almost 40!

She looks back and sees that first white hair over her ear. She jerked it out, and laughed! Then she remembers combing her hair each morning and carefully looking and picking out two or three glistening white threads. And the next year! The white hairs pulled out one day were replaced by twice as many the next. And she drifted on.

Are you just drifting toward a gray-haired old age at 40, the age that should be the glorious prime of a woman's life?

We wish you would get our booklet "Charm" and read it. (At any of our stores, or sent by mail upon request.) It explains why you can safely use Robinnaire's Hair Dye. It is not an ordinary coloring. We should have named it a Restorative, because it is a pure, scientific compound that simply restores the hair to its own original color and beautiful, healthy condition. If you have but a few white hairs, don't pull them out. Restore them to their original vigorous color, and at the same time put your hair in a healthy condition and stop its fading. The hair responds quickly to the proper care and treatment, and the woman who wants to keep its beautiful color and fine texture can do so.

Robinnaire Hair Dye is absolutely pure and harmless. Non-sticky, and does not stain skin or scalp. Use it immediately if your hair is fading and losing vitality. Trial size 25c, postpaid 30c; regular large size 75c, postpaid 80c. Prepared for light, medium and dark brown and black hair. For sale by all Jacobs' Pharmacy stores and druggists generally.

How Anyone Can Banish Hair or Fuzz

(Modes of Today.)

Superfluous hairs are easily and quickly removed with the aid of a delatone paste. Get an original package of delatone from your druggist and mix enough with water to cover the hairy surface. Apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. No possible harm or injury follows this treatment, and excepting in rare instances, only one application is required to remove every trace of hair. Results are more satisfactory when you get the delatone in an original package.—(Advt.)

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to every suffering womam."—Mrs. HARRY FISHER, 1642 Juniata Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Woman's Case.

Providence, R. I.—"I cannot speak too highly of your Vegetable Compound as it has done wonders for me and I would not be without it. I had a displacement, bearing down, and backache, until I could hardly stand and was thoroughly run down when I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me and I am in the best of health at present. I work in a factory all day long besides doing my housework so you can see what it has done for me. I give you permission to publish my name and I speak of your Vegetable Compound to many of my friends."—Mrs. ABRIL LAWSON, 126 Lippitt St., Providence, R. I.

Danger Signals to Women

are what one physician called backache, headache, nervousness, and the blues. In many cases they are symptoms of some female derangement or an inflammatory, ulcerative condition, which may be overcome by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands of American women willingly testify to its virtue.

Mgr. Dobbs Gets "Dixie" Walker From the Naps

Pelican Boss Pleased Over Obtaining for Appalachian Hurler–Addition of Walker Gives Further Strength to Already Formidable Array of Pitching Material

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—Pitcher "Dixie" Walker was returned to the New Orleans club yesterday by Cleveland, the proper waivers having been secured, and Manager Johnny Dobbs was highly elated over the acquisition. Walker showed a world of speed and promise here last season. In 1912 he was a bear in the Appalachian league, winning seventeen and losing eleven, the same league from which Nick Cullop and Finis Wilson came. Only twenty-one years of age, Walker stands 6 feet 1 inch in height and weighs 184 pounds. Some piece of man, this fellow.

Walker is a righthander, and has shown sufficient in the two exhibition games of the season to satisfy Manager Dobbs of his worth. He twirled five innings of the game on February 22, allowing but one run and four hits. He tossed two innings last Sunday, allowing no runs and no hits.

DOBBS PROUD OF BOXMEN.

Manager Dobbs is naturally proud of his wonderfully strong array of pitching talent, now that Walker has been added to the list, and Pitcher Styles, another big righthander, who pitched last year for the Thomasville Georgia-Alabama league team with success, is a likely addition. Johnny can't see where any other club is as well fortified with riflemen. His list follows:

Finis Wilson, Dixie Walker, Orlie Weaver, Jim Bagby, Nick Cullom, Rube Evans, Harry McIntyre, Abner Peddy, Luke Glavenich, Jim Gudger, Fred Leibemann.

One would suppose the task of selecting the ones to retain is going to prove quite difficult, but Manager Dobbs says that the best bowlers will be determined within the next two months, and all will be given every chance.

OUTFIELDERS WORK HARD.

Dobbs' younger set of outfielders exhibited praiseworthy pluck in sticking to their jobs in practice yesterday, and both Cochran and Sylvester won the plaudits of the spectators by the energetic manner in which they chased flies and safe hits hither and yon. Hendryx also starred at the gardening game. "Hub" Northern showed little pepper, and finally "Buck" Banville, the local semi-pro backstop, was sent out to replace the tired "Hub" in left field by Manager Dobbs.

The Pelican infield worked very well, Edmondson, at first, being a little weak on low knocks or throws, but getting around very well and throwing fine. Charlie Starr, the Pelican captain, was by far the surest fielder in the flock. Knaupp, at short, was there with a lot of spectacular stuff. Lindsay and Barbare alternated at third.

The practice was the longest of the season, starting at about 1:30 and lasting for nearly three hours, and there were almost more Pels out in uniform than one could "shake a stick at," the weather being ideal and the park in good shape.

JAKEY ATZ RECOVERING.

Jakey Atz was a spectator at the workout, having about gotten over his illness of the last two or three weeks. He is rather weak, but hopes to regain his strength rapidly and get into harness as early as possible.

Evers Appears In Cub Uniform

MACON, Ga., March 5.—Johnny Evers arrived here yesterday. Dressed in a Chicago uniform he appeared on the diamond a few minutes after his arrival and was in action with the Boston National players.

The Cubans, Luque, Villazon and Gonzales, also joined Stallings' club yesterday as also did Pitcher Hogg.

Evers wouldn't discuss Murphy except to say that "I'm through with Murphy."

Penfield Will Coach Princeton Football Squad

PRINCETON, N. J., March 5.—Wilder Graves Penfield, of Oxford university, has been engaged to coach the Princeton varsity football team next season, according to an official announcement last night. He has been granted a half year leave of absence from Oxford, but will continue his studies in America and receive credit therefor at the English institution.

Penfield coached the Princeton freshmen eleven last year.

STRAY SHOTS AT SPORT TARGETS

BY INNIS BROWN

MOLEY'S TROUBLES.

Chubby Charlton Molesworth, who directs the destinies of the Birmingham Barons, is having his troubles these days, and his Barons are producing the lion's share of his worries. When Moley reported in Birmingham to begin active work several weeks since, he stated that for a limited period during the winter, he had what he thought was a sure pennant winner for Slagtown, but that things had undergone a change.

First the National commission awarded Firstbaseman Leary, whom Moley had drafted from Utica, to the St. Louis Browns. Next Joe Finneran, purchased from the Phillies, jumped to the Federals. Then Moley claimed Pitcher Burleigh Grimes from Chattanooga under the waiver process, and now Grimes writes in to say that he is going to the Federals where he can get real money in large bunches.

But this is not all. Thirdbaseman Eddie McDonald, Pitcher Curley Brown, and Outfielder Clyde McBride are all holding out for more money and are kicking like a Missouri mule against the terms offered. Just now Moley can appreciate the old adage that "A burnt child dreads the fire" and he fears that either or all of this trio may see fit to do a brodie to the outlaws. Also Moley has sounded out Bob Messenger about coming back, in case he fails to stick with the Browns, and Robert avers that before he will come back to this league again, he too, will join the outlaw guys. Yes, Moley is having his troubles, but that swarthy covering of his chubby form doesn't hide any yellow, and he is hurtling to land others to fill holes that may result from the loss of the recalcitrants.

OTHER NOISE.

While Molesworth is having his diamond troubles, another party is stirring another branch of the Birmingham sport public. Comes one William Demetral, a wrestler, who shys that Slagtown fans have been watching a bunch of framed matches on the mat during the past few weeks, and that he can come down and mop up the floor with anything in the city now posing as a wrestler. Possibly Demetral is correct with reference to the cards being stacked in these bouts, but since he admits that he himself is a wrestler, it looks pretty much like a case of the "pot calling the kettle black."

Come to think of it, we seem to remember that some six or seven years ago, one Demetral took part in a grappling match in Nashville, whereby a score or more of his fellow countrymen were frisked as clean as a whistle of quite a nice bunch of coin. The case stirred up so much noise at the time that Demetral caught the quickest train out of the city, and several local sports found difficulty in getting out of the mess. It may be added that Demetral wrestled a grappler known as Demon Bartl in this particular match.

SAD LINES.

Ball players on the reserve lists of Cotton States league clubs are finding themselves victims of rather embarrasing circumstances about now. The league, to all purposes and intents, is as dead as the proverbial door nail, but the last sad rites have not been said, and so long as such rites are deferred, the players must stick around and wait. Being within the pale of organized ball, no club in another league has a right to begin a dicker with any of these players until they are released. In the meantime managers are busily signing up men to fill the holes in their teams, and these fellows are being left out in the cold. Looks like they will have to be farmed to butchers or bakers during the coming season, who may see fit to recruit their delivery forces.

The fact that several men prominent in organized baseball can't "see" the Federal league doesn't mean much. We have seen the time when a flock of "red bugs" caused an awful lot of damage, without exposing themselves to the vision of the naked optic.

Think what would happen if Willie demanded that Wolgast get as much money from a bout as he does, and then goes ahead to name his customary figures. The fight would have to be staged in the adjoining building to a government mint, else they would never locate a sufficient amount of currency at one place.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Possibly they did not realize it at the time, but the Federal league magnates sidestepped a reef on which the good ship would likely have foundered when Walter Johnson refused to join their ranks. Figure what a dilemma these poor fellows would have faced with Walter included in the list of players to be divided up among the eight clubs. Some guy would just about have risen up and said, "Gimme that fellow, and take the rest."

Nap Lajoie says money is one of many things that attract men to baseball. At that we know a bunch of fellows that would never be squeamish about the variety of attractions, if the coin jingles loud enough.

There isn't much doubt that Jim Thorpe has arrived. Every week or so, some scribe discovers an athlete "who rivals Thorpe" and now Johnny McGraw says he is a great ball player. At that we are only a matter something more than a year late. A score or more of Swedes knew this equally that long ago.

Aero Club Gets Racing Balloon

NEW YORK, March 5.—Presentation of a large racing balloon to the Aero Club of America by Rodman Wanamaker, to be used for the defense of the International cup in the contest of October 6, nevt, starting from Kansas City, marks the interest in ballooning as an international sport.

Announcement of the gift was made at a meeting of the executive committee of the club, of which Alan R. Howley, is chairman. It was voted to accept the balloon, with thanks, to the donor. The balloon is being constructed by Mr. Wanamaker's order in this city. It will have a capacity of 80,000 cubic feet, the limit permitted under the rules of the trophy. Its completion is expected within a month. Two other balloons will be used by the Americans in the contest.

One of the three pilots for the American team this year has accepted the place, it was announced. He is H. E. Honeywell, of St. Louis, who was second in last year's contest. Ralp H. Upson, one of the American pair who won in the race from Paris, is considering the invitation given to him to participate again, and will answer within a week

Hoppe Won From Slosson

CHICAGO, March 5.—Willie Hoppe defeated George Slosson in last night's session of the 18.2 balk line billiard tournament here, 500 to 35. Hoppe ran out in seven innings, making a high run of 216 points in the sixth. His average was 71 3-7 to Slosson's 5.

Score by innings:

Hoppe: 77, 88, 0, 1, 216, 89—500. Average, 71 3-7.

Slosson: 1, 1, 30, 1, 2, 0, 0—35. Average, 5.

In the afternoon game today of the all-star 18.2 billiard match, Koji Yamada defeated C. Demarest, of Chicago, 500 to 414 in 28 innings. The Japanese made a high run of 57 and Demarest of 60.

The score:

Yamada: 0, 14, 49, 5, 45, 2, 0, 0, 57, 54, 17, 1, 29, 0, 9, 23, 1, 26, 46, 9, 43, 11, 21, 0, 9, 2, 1, 27—500. Average, 17 24-28.

Demarest: 0, 14, 31, 5, 0, 5, 0 4, 9, 17, 30, 14, 0, 53, 13, 1, 12, 8, 7, 39, 19, 2, 60, 2, 34, 11, 24, 0—414. Average, 14 12-28.

Off Season Has Been Busy One For Magnates

Things Have Been on the Hum in Baseball Circles Since World's Series Closed Last Fall–Deals That Have Been Put Through Are Numerous

BY FREDERICK G. LIEB.

NEW YORK, March 5.—It probably will take baseball men a long, long time to forget the strenuous winter of 1913-1914. Some folks were of the opinion that the baseball season came to an end when Eddie Murphy attached himself to "Red" Murray's fly for the farewell out of the 1913 world's series, but things only started to buzz in real earnest after little Edward made his clutch.

Shortly after the players whacked up the coin announcement was made that the ball tossers, represented by the Baseball Players' fraternity, would demand certain requests from the magnates, and that the players had decided not to sign until their requests were granted.

The old fossils in the pastime began to get after the fraternity and marveled at their daring. Articles were printed of the terrible things which happened after the brotherhood war, when the players first tried to get their rights. However, thanks to the Federal league invasion, the players got almost everything they asked for, and no terrible things have happened ta the tossers who assisted Davy Fultz in presenting the grievances to the national commission.

About the same time that the fraternity story broke, naughty William Dahlen was pried loose of his job in Flatbush, and after Fielder Jones and nine hundred others had been mentioned for the vacancy Cholly Ebbets announced our corpulent Baltimore friend, Wilbert Robinson, would seek to lead the Flatbush Hussars from the wilderness of the second division.

No sooner was Robbie sworn into the Flatbush job, when a company of National league magnates marched to the Pennsylvania capital in Harrisburg and wished a job on Robbie's old battery pal, Governor Tener. Tener agreed to run the National league, and a few weeks later Tomaso Lynch was released to New Britain and Governor Tener elected president of the N. L. for four years.

This took place at the December meeting of the National league, and the fun then began to start in real earnest. Charley Herzog and Grover Hartley were switched to Cincinnati for Bob Bescher, but this deal faded into insignificance after the Pirates and Cards pulled their big swap and the Brooklyns "bought" Joe Tinker for $25.000.

Several weeks prior to that Joseph had been let out as manager of the Reds, and after Herrmann sold Tinker to Brooklyn the Cincinnati board of directors took the stage and handed Garry one of the worst rebukes of his career. The Redland board, however, won out, as Ebbets agreed to let Yingling and Moran go to Cincinnati as part payment for Tinker.

Joe then requested $7,000 from Ebbets in addition to his bonus, which Charley would not pay, and then the biggest splash of the winter season came when, on a Saturday night, Tinker, along with Mordecai Brown, hopped to the Federal league. That move made the Feds, and they have been advancing nicely ever since.

When the Feds first started to go after regular players the magnates laughed with glee and said the Gilmore crowd would never start the season. However, after the Feds nabbed Killifer, Brennan and Knabe from the Phils the magnates woke up.

They still called the Feds all sorts of amusing names, but their actions did not go with their words. Presidents, managers, scouts and business managers rushed here and there, while the unfortunate ball players grabbed all sorts of kale. It was a mighty poor athlete who failed to get a raise last season.

During a litle lull in Federal league activities Charlie Herzog was sentenced to manage the Cincinnati team, and James Lannin bought out Jim McAleer's stock in the Red Sox, Jim's administration not finding much favor with Czar Ban I, of Chicago. McAleer won a world's championship for Beanville in 1912, but he hurt the feelings of the Boston fans to such an extent in turning the trick that American league business in Boston fell off considerably.

Organized baseball succeeded in coaxing back several of the Fed jumpers. Billy Shettsline, the general utility man for the Phils, fetched Killifer to Philadelphia, where President Baker talked soothing language in his ears and signed him up. Our peerless scout, Arthur Irwin, also snared King Cole and brought him to New York, where the King was made to renounce his Federal faith.

A finishing touch for this winter of excitement was the February meetings of the big leagues, when Charley Murphy canned Evers, which was a signal for much doings. Johnny refused to be traded to Boston as long as Murphy

SUPERSTITIONS PLAY BIG PART IN DIAMOND REALM

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Superstition is one element in baseball "dope" that no one can figure out. In fact superstition plays an immense part in all sports. I had a letter yesterday from one of the managers of major leagues; and in it he said:

"The team looks a little better. I think we have strengthened up in two positions. I would be hopeful but for the fact that every load of barrels I have seen since leaving home has been full barrels."

I know this manager well; and his remark about the barrels is significant. If he sees a load of empty barrels on a wagon, he is as confident of winning a game as can be. If the barels are filled, he is downhearted. Of course it is foolish, but if I were the owner of that team I would hire a few wagons, load them with empty barrels and have them driven past the hotel several times; or better, have them meet the players as they are going to the grounds for practice.

The idea that meeting a hay wagon loaded with loose hay brings luck is general in baseball. I have seen players risk their lives to grab straws from such a load to wear in their caps. Baled hay, on the other hand, is unlucky.

Frank Chance is perhaps the most superstitious of the managers. He has a dozen or more good and bad luck signs. The worst thing he can think of is to look at the scoreboard during a game. If he accidentally sees the board, the luck is sure to change. He has had the scoreboard moved on two parks, so he could not see them from the bench, and always hunts a seat from which it will be almost impossible to see the score.

Clark Griffith, who scoffs at all superstitions and jokes about them, has his pets. If Grif dreams that a pitcher is getting hit hard, that pitcher is kept out of the game. He says he isn't superstitious, but that it don't pay to take chances.

There is a major league manager who a year ago was leader of a team that seemed the strongest in the circuit. It looked as if it would win as certainly as anything in baseball can be figured. One reporter picked the team to win. That evening the manager was gloomy.

"I thought we'd win sure," he said. "I never had a doubt until this morning."

"What's gone wrong?" was asked.

"Why, that fellow picks us to win," he wailed. "He never was right about anything. He's jinxed us. If he'd have piked us for fourth we'd have won sure."

benefited a nickel by the transaction, and Johnny was voted a mint of money to stick in organized baseball and to play second base for Boston.

In the meantime the Federal league slipped into Brooklyn, adding to the excitement. Ebbets tried to switch his Newark team to Brooklyn and transfer Jersey City to Newark, which got him in bad with his Newark friends.

Ban Johnson threatened to break with the National league if Murphy was not kicked into oblivion, and Chubby Cholly defied them to put him out. Governor Tener took up the gauntlet, and soon Murphy was out of baseball, which was without doubt the best thing which happened during the winter league season.

The Federals tried to grab our own faithful Matty from us and put him in charge of the Brooklyn Tiptops. It is not likely that the Big Train will run on the Federal rails next season, but the fact that Matty is considering the Fed proposition has caused much anguish.

And still nearly two months until the first ball of the 1914 season will be grooved across the plate.

Los Angeles Player Joins the Federals

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—Claire oGdwin, third baseman last season for the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league, reported to Manager George Stovall, of the Kansas City Federal league club, today. Goodwin signed a contract with the Federals recently.

Whittemore Led Big Golf Field

PINEHURST, N. C., March 5.—P. W. Whittemore, Brookline yesterday headed a field of 232 players in the qualifying round of the annual spring golf tournament here. His card was 75. Twelve flights of sixteen players each qualified for the match play rounds.

St. Louis Federals Increase Capital Stock

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—The St. oLuis Federal league club has increased its capital stock from $20,000 to $135,000, according to a statement filed here today, in connection with the reincorporation of the club. Otto F. Stifel, a local brewer, owns a controlling interest in the club, the statement indicates.

League to Back Naps in Fight For Blanding

President Ban Johnson Says His Organization Will Go the Limit to Help Cleveland Club Retain Pitcher Who Joined Feds–And Then Came Back

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 5.—"The organization will back the Cleveland club to the limit should the Federal league carry out its threat to wage war for the services of Pitcher Blanding," said Ban Johnson, president of the American league, last night. Johnson and other baseball magnates were leaving for New York to meet members of the Comiskey-McGraw party on its return from its trip around the world.

"Pitcher Blanding returned to the Cleveland club of his own volition," contiued Ban Johnson. "In a public statement Blanding admitted he had made a mistake when he joined the Federals. We will protect this player to the limit, and the fact that he deserted the organization at an earlier date will not lessen the strength of our campaign of protection."

Johnson laughed at the idea that the organization was fearful of the outcome of the baseball war.

"I think the Federals are the worried ones," said he.

Preceding the Johnson party by a few minutes were President Gilmore, of the Federal league, and George Stovall, manager of the Kansas City team. They also were on their way to meet the members of the around-the-world party.

Athletic Youngster Defeat Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 5.—The recruits of the world's champions, of Philadelphia, defeated the Jacksonville club here Wednesday by the score of 4 to 0. Plank and Bender each worked in the game, but did not extend themselves. Wyckoff and Brown also pitched for the Athletics and were practically invincible. All of the recruits of the Philadelphia club showed up well.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Jacksonville	0	6	2
Philadelphia	4	5	1

Baseball Men Meet to Greet Globe Trotters

Prominent Figures in Diamond Affairs Reach New York to Take Part in Reception to McGraw, Comisky and Party—Federal League Will Have Representatives Present

NEW YORK, March 5.—Baseball men from all parts of the country are arriving in New York today to welcome the returning world-touring Chicago and New York teams and incidentally to discuss the invasion of the Federal league.

The chief organizers of the new league also are planning to make their presence felt, as was the case when the rules committee of organized baseball conferred here recently. This time President Gilmore and several managers and owners of Federal league teams are said to have their eyes on some of the returning tourists.

President Gilmore wants Crawford and Speaker for the Brooklyn team, while Manager Brown, of the St. Louis Federals, will try to sign Lee Magee and Ivy Wingo. Doolan is another player the Federals are after.

M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association of Minor League Baseball Clubs; John H. Farrell, secretary of the same organization; President Barry, of the International league, and other leaders in minor league circles, are already here, and others are expected to arrive today. Mr. Sexton declared today that the Federals will not last long enough to be a real menace to organized baseball, and President Barrow flung another challenge at President Gilmore to do his worst.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league, and President Tener, of the National league, will be here for the welcoming banquet to the world's tourists Saturday night, and meetings between them and the minor league officials, it is said, have been arranged to discuss plans for a campaign against the Federals.

Bradley to Lead Brooklyn Feds

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 5—"Bill" Bradley, former third baseman of the Cleveland American league team but now aligned with the Federal league, announced before leaving Hot Springs last night presumably for Brooklyn, that he had been offered attractive terms to manage the Brooklyn club and had tentatively accepted.

Bradley is also quoted as saying that a determined effort is to be made to sign Collins, Gregg, Whaling, Perdue, Lewis, Cady, Leonard, Wagner, Engle and other players now in Hot Springs. Besides Bradley a Federal league representative whose identity has not been established is said to be in Hot Springs conducting negotiations.

Ray Collins arrived in Hot Springs today. Neither he nor Manager Carrigan of Boston would talk of his rumored defection to the Federals. Manager Carrigan said: "Collins is here training with us. Any definite information as to his standing should come from headquarters."

Outfielder Lewis also reported at the training camp of the Bostons today.

DavisCup Play Set for August

NEW YORK, March 5.—The international challenge matches for the Davis lawn tennis cup will be played August 13, 14 and 15. The American national lawn tennis championship tournament at Newport will begin on August 24, a week later than usual.

These dates were announced yesterday by R. D. Wrenn, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis association, but the places at which the international matches will be played were not chosen.

The American committee yesterday notified the six nations challenging for the Davis cup that the matches in the first round, between Canada and Australasia, and between the British Isles and Belgium, must be completed by July 25. The semi-final round, in which Germany will meet the winner of the Canada-Australasia series, and France meets the victor in the British Isles-Belgium matches, must be completed by August 1. The final match to decide which nation may challenge the American defenders of the cup must be finished by August 8.

Mr. Wrenn pointed out that these avoided a conflict with the English championship tournament in which A. F. Wilding, of the Australasian team, will wish to defend his title.

HAM REYNOLDS IS LATEST ADDITION TO CRACKER CREW

J. Hammond Reynolds, prominent citizen of White Plains, Ga., ball player by profession, and incidentally chief dependence for the catching job of the 1914 season with the Cracker crew, is the latest addition to the forces that Manager Bill Smith is marshalling daily at Ponce de Leon. Ham blew in Thursday morning, informed Bill Smith that he was on hand, and then slipped Billy the information that he is at present hors du combat, or words to that effect.

You see, Ham has recently been connected with a distinguished seat of learning down in the state of Florida. His position was that of teaching the young athletes how to throw and slam the old baseball. One nice sunshiny day last week, Ham slipped in back of the willow in a practice and while he was showing his receiving candidates just how the job ought to be handled, a foul tip ployed hob with one of his digits. Ergo, Ham is nursing that digit very carefully, and will hardly be able to do much real work for a week. Bill Smith was slightly peeved at the sad tidings, but when Ham countered with the reply, "Aw, Billy, a feller just couldn't keep out of it with the nice pretty weather we were having," the local pilot allowed as how he reckoned it was pretty hard—meaning to stand by and watch the other fellows.

Notwithstanding the fact that considerable moisture permeated the atmosphere at the park Thursday morning, Manager Smith had his corps on the job, and working hard. The crew composed of Manush, Nixon, Schwind, Browning, Amason and Manager Smith was augmented by the addition of three thespi-diamond stars from the week's bill at the Forsyth. "Oh Gosh" Brown, "Signor" Senelli and "Kid" Hassam were all out cavorting around. Senelli is a bit overweight, and Hassam rather light, but Brown handles himself like a real ball player.

All of the Crackers on hand were working nicely. Old Frank Manush was as frisky around that third bag as he was a few years since, when he topped the third-sackers in this league. Schwind, too, looks good. He is exceptionally fast, and goes after them both left and right in good form.

Amason, who was recruited from Tech, was out for the first time. He has plenty of reach, and handles himself well around the bag. His shifting of his feet was good to see. He gives promise of making a good ball player, and Manager Smith will give him a thorough trial.

Al Nixon grabbed a few flies in the outfield in approved style, and still has that good wing with him. Browning lobbed a few over for batting practice, but, of course, made no attempt to cut loose anything.

From now on the squad will work out both mornings and afternoons. The morning session lasts from 10 o'clock to 11:45, while the afternoon work covers hours between 2 and 4. All fans are cordially invited to come out and look the bunch over, but spectators will not be permitted on the field during practice hours.

St. Louis Browns Defeat Cardinals

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5.—The St. Louis Americans defeated the St Louis National league team here Wednesday by a batting rally after the Cardinals were well in the lead. The Browns outplayed the visitors on the whole. Manning pitched good ball.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Nationals.... ....012 001 020—	6	9	5
Americans. ... .. 001 003 003—	7	9	6

Buffalo Federals After Clyde Milan

(By Associated Press.)

DANVILLE, Va., March 5.—Manager Larry Schlafly, of the Buffalo Federal league team, left here last night for Washington in an effort to sign Clyde Milan, of the Washington Americans for the Bisons. Manager Schlafly said that he was authorized to offer the American league's star base runner a contract of $21,000 for three years' salary and $5,000 bonus.

Pitcher Geo. Suggs Is Married Now

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 5.—Pitcher George F. Suggs, of the Cincinnati National league baseball team, and Miss Mozelle Cox, of Kinston, N. C., were married this evening at 7 o'clock in Kinston, the home of the bride and former home of Suggs.

New York Fans Want Army-Navy Game Again

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—In an effort to further a movement to bring the army and navy football game to New York again this year resolutions were adopted yesterday by the Merchants' association setting forth arguments in favor of this city as the scene of the contest. The resolutions will be presented to the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy.

Jersey Skeeters Arrive in Durham

(By Associated Press.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 5.—The Jersey City baseball team of the International league arrived in Durham, N. C., this morning for spring practice. The team is headed by Manager Hulwitz and is composed of twenty-five players.

Players Arrive

AMERICUS, Ga., March 5.—The American association team of Cleveland, thirty strong, arrived in Americus last night and will begin practice on the Muckalee diamond Thursday morning. Jimmy Sheckard, former Chicago Cub, is manager. Secretary Blockwood, of the Cleveland Naps, accompanied the team to Americus and will remain here for several days. The local ball park had been put in firstclass condition for the coming of the Cleveland club.

BY RIPLEY.

HE HAS MADE GOOD. That is not unusual for Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania. In fact, it is monotonous to the man who has been in turn an Irishman, star ball player, a world-touring one, too; congressman, governor, past master of the Elks, Republican party leader, and owner of rich properties to make good as the president of the National league.

And what is more, he made good before he started, for you know John K. Tener is still governor of Pennsylvania.

Tener, like the hero in the "mellow-drama," arrived just in time. He was the last straw that saved the National league from drowning in the pool of their own defects. The Federal league, whom they outwardly ridiculed and inwardly feared, had raised havoc. Charley Murphy, their own worst enemy, had been doing the same thing. Organized baseball was about worried to death.

Wait! 'Long comes John K., and, in an instant, boosts Murphy right out of the business (something that others had failed to do for some years past), and establishes confidence anew. Now bring on your Federal league!

Governor Tener is the best thing that has happened to organized baseball for many years.

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE WELCOME HOME.

(An immense crowd will welcome the Giants and White Sox home when they land this week.—News proclamation.)

They'll all be there at dockside, when the steamer runs aground,
From Denver east to Boston they are scheduled on the bound;
To push the vocal smear about and greet with maudlin roar
The Speakers and the Crawfords who are slipping back to shore;
They have planned a celebration that will set a record mark
To make each hero welcome as he tumbles off the barque,
And they'll gather there by thousands where the gray sky overspreads—
(Including Mr. Gilmore of the Feds.)

All honor to our heroes who have traveled on the fly—
To show astounded aliens the flaming Batting Eye;
Who've poked the pill upon the snout from Tokio to Rome,
Who've tripled down the English green—and now are headed home;
No wonder that across the land the thousands rush apace;
To grip the hand of Speaker and to look in Crawford's face;
And the fellow out there swimming where the breakers split in shreds
Will be a Mr. Gilmore of the Feds.

HISTORICAL COMMENT.

A number of eminent heroes have returned home before this. A partial list includes Dewey, Caesar, Hobson and Alexander the Great. But not knocking the triumphal arch or the chaplet of apple blossoms once in vogue, we are rather inclined to the reception awaiting Tris Speaker, Sam Crawford, Lee Magee, Mike Doolan and Ivy Wingo.

To have two heated rival factions waiting to pay you more money than you have ever drawn in your career has the triumphal arch and the laurel stuff crowded into the ashcan class.

VITAL STATISTICS.

Two of these athletes report from the American league and three from the National. Speaker's loss would dump the Red Sox beyond recall. Crawford's jump would block the Tigers from any shot at first division. If Mickey Doolan abdicated and responded with a coy "yes" to Mr. Gilmore's persuasion the wrecking of the Phillies would be complete. The passing of Wingo and Magee couldn't affect the Cardinal status, as this is already beyond repair.

There is quite a cluster of high-class baseball flesh in this quintet, and the deadly grapple at dockside between Mr. Gilmore and organized baseball should be well worth lamping. The two will weigh in at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, catch weights, and the decision will follow in the wake of the kale.

What English writers think of baseball is exactly as important as what American writers think of cricket. Which, in either instance is not what one might term the most important matter ever put into print. Their right to pan our national pastime is exactly equal to our right to fire the hoarse guffaw in the general direction of their own favorite sport.

ON THE CONTRARY, MR. SULLIVAN—

"The American league," announces the only John L., "started without a cent. Their backers didn't have a dollar."

Didn't they? How about the $500,000 that Charley Somers, of Cleveland, dumped into the corral at one tidy little pitch? Somers was one of the league's main backers, and he had two million more—and the nerve to use it—if there had been need of additional cash.

Last sason the Phillies finished second. This season, if they lose Knabe, Seaton, Brennan, Killifer andd Doolan, it won't be a case of finishing—it will be a case of good luck—devilish extraordinary good luck, at that, before they can even start.

THE MONOPOLY.

It is rumored in certain exclusive circles that the Feds are planning to invade Washington next season, rather than compete with two clubs in New York.

If this move comes off the only sane arrangement the Feds can make will be to arrange a schedule not to conflict with Walter Johnson.

There seems to be some doubt as to whether or not Admiral Dewey fired that shot across the bow of a German warshiu. But there isn't a particle of doubt as to the shots Admiral Baker fired across the bows of Marquard and Matty. Thereby showing the relative importance of baseball and war.

Matthewson and Honus Wagner Are in Right

Peerless Hurler and Great Shortstop Have Received Assurance of Soft Berths With Giants and Pirates Just as Long as They Want to Stay in Baseball

NEW YORK, March 4.—In the crowded ranks of baseball there are two players who are sure of their jobs for life, or as long as they want to be identified with the game. They never will be sent back to the minors, and are so highly regarded by their employers that they are considered as valuable an asset to their clubs as a ball park.

These two player are Christy Matheewson, of the Giants, and John Peter Wagner, of Pittsburg. Wagner has been the recipient of an offer from Barney Dreyfuss, the Pittsburg owner, which is unequaled in the history of the game. Wagner gets a salary of $10,000 and Mr. Dreyfuss announces that he is willing to give him this sum each year for the rest of his life. Mr Dreyfuss considers Wagner's services to the club in the past, and also his value as an adviser or coach, when his playing days are over, are sufficient to make such a liberal offer.

The Pittsburg owner says that the famous short stop is good for a couple more seasons as a regular and, after that, he will have several good seasons as a pinch hitter, for there is not a man in the game who is a more timely hitter than Wagner. After that, Mr. Dreyfuss figures that Wagner will be worth a great deal to the club as coach for the young players. As a strategist and adviser, Wagner's services are valuable. The Pittsburg owner says that Wagner can stay with him for the rest of his days, even if he gets old enough to grow a white beard a foot long.

But it is doubtful if Wagner will accept the liberal offer of the Pittsburg club. Hans has an eye for business, and does not expect to stay in the game when his playing days are over. He has been so thrifty during his baseball days that he would not accept any kind of a pension from the Pirates.

Wagner has been getting $10,000 a year from the Pittsburg club since 1901, and it is stated on good authority that he has drawn his salary only twice during that time. He has allowed it to accumulate, and it has been invested in good securities by Mr. Dreyfuss. Wagner can live comfortably on the income of these investments. When his playing days are over, Wagner will probably give all his time to the automobile business.

The case with Mathewson and the New York club is very much the same. It is stated that Manager McGraw has often told the pitcher that when he was through as a player he could still sign with thee club as a coach and adviser for as long period as he pleased.

But when Matty is through pitching, he will quit baseball. He is without doubt the most prosperous player in the game. He has always been a high salaried man with the New York club, and has won several bonuses by winning a certain number of games in different seasons.

Mathewson has more interest outside of baseball than any player in the game. His pen brings him in a good extensive insurance business. During the past few seasons, when insuring players had become a general practice, Mathewson wrote a number of big policies.

Nap Juniors Go To Americus

Ten Members of Old Toledo Club Pass Through Atlanta En Route to Training Camp

The Toledo ball club that was, or the present crew, variously designated as the Little Naps, the Cleveland Juniors, and otherwise, is assembling for their spring session of getting into condition. The scene of ths process of conditioning is none other than Americus, Ga., the metropolis of Sumter.

The main body of this organization passed through Atlanta Wednesday afternoon, and reached their destination along about the time the sun was sinking over the red clay hills of Georgia, as the poet chap would say. There were ten players in the group, including Bluhm, Devogt, Crum, Brenton, Dashner, Southworth, Hillyard, Hudnall, Casy Jones and Jim Baskette. With the players were Scribes Ben Ling of the Press, and Sam B. Anson, of the News and L. Van Oeyen, photographer.

In Atlanta they were joined by W. B Blackwood, secretary of the Naps, who also has charge of affairs for the Nap Juniors. Blackwood made the trip to Americus with the party. He will look after the details of getting the boys suitably located, and will then return to Cleveland. The remaining members of the team, including Manager Jimmy Sheckard, will join this crew at Americus.

Secretary Blackwood has been with the Naps for a number of years, and can relate world without end amusing stories in connection with the recruiting and training experiences of the club. He tells a good story at the expense of Ab Peddy, the big hurler, who is a member of John Dobbs' Pelicans at present.

According to Blackwood's version, Peddy had been acquired by the Naps and ordered to report for a tryout. He came into the city where the team was playing, and located the hotel at which the boys were stopping. He registered under an assumed name, however, and hiked out to the park to take a look at things. Convinced that he could stand the pace, he returned to the hotel, registered under his own nme, and introduced himself to the manager. His only explanation was that he wanted to see just how things looked before he got to deep into the situation.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Food Products

FOR the past three years all kinds of food products have been higher than ever known before. This has played an important part in not only the supply but in the production at a profitable price of all kinds of live stock and fowls throughout the United States. Without plenty of feed from beginning to end it is impossible to raise a good animal or a good fowl, and the man who is a liberal feeder usually not only has the best in quality but gets them to market much quicker. A person who will stretch out the feed and after so long a time have even a larger cost for producing an animal than if the same amount of feed had been given in a short length of time. It does not pay to let a fowl or animal stop growing, even though feed be high. It is better not to attempt to keep these things if you can not make up your mind to feed them, as you can never make a chicken of the best quality unless it is forced from the time it is hatched until it goes to market. A great many people do not realize the difference in quality that is accounted for by this method of feeding a full supply at all times and one that has only had a limited amount of feed. There is all the difference in the world in a carcas of animals of fowls that have been grown by the two methods, and a great many of our people have learned to appreciate this fact, they are willing to pay for it and the man who raises something good can usually get a premium over that which has been stunted.

One reason our southern cattle never bring the top of the market in price is because they are forced to cover such a large range of territory to secure something to eat, and in doing so the muscles in their body become hardened and they are never so tender as the animal that has had plenty feed and a small space to cover to secure this feed, or in other words has been forced from the time it is born until ready for market.

Food products of all kinds, especially for the past three years have been so high in price that it has been out of the question for the average breeder to buy a sufficient quantity of feed to feed with a liberal hand and make a profit out of his products. Until the time comes when we raise our own feed and lots of it, and not until then will we ever be able to make much money out of poultry and live stock in the south. But with the many great advantages that we have here to grow this feed it should be done, and is being more largely grown than it has in former years. There is nothing a man can put on his land that will make a larger per cent of profit than grain or hay. The only difference with the man who grows this product is that it is a little harder to find a market or to convert it into cash than it is cotton, especially when grown in limited quantities. This is one reason why we do not grow more of it in the south.

It is no trouble to make one and one-half tons of pea vine hay on an acre of land that will not make one-third of a bale of cotton per acre. It can be done so much quicker and a crop of oats growwn on the same land besides, but how few people believe this and will do it. The thousands of tons of feed that are sold over the south every year should convince our people that we must sooner or later grow more of it. It will not only improve our lands but in time to come will make us more independent than for us to keep up a regular routine of planting cotton year by year. The sending of the boll weevil to the south I believe some time will be a blessing in disguise, and will help us more than we are now willing to believe it will do. It is simply a matter of time for us to wait and see what the results will be. In many parts of Texas and Louisiana where this plague has visited in some of these sections now can be seen great prosperity and a world of food products being raised where a few years ago it was all cotton.

In some sections where a person use to see five to ten cotton gins now there are standing great alfalfa mills on the same premises, and hundreds and hundreds of acres of land that were formerly in cotton are now a solid mass of green alfalfa. This hay is ground into meal and is shipped to all parts of the world. The work is done by machinery with one-tenth of the labor that it use to require to raise cotton, and land that eight to ten years ago could be bought at $10 to $25 per acre is now worth from $100 to $300 per acre.

This wonderful feed is a long ways from most of the markets that use it. Therefore the price is very low, usually $10 to $15 per ton. We here in Georgia are paying from $25 to $35 per ton for the same feed. When one sees these things and know that it can be just as easily done in Georgia and at a market for these products, he can not help but appreciate what a great future there is here in this section for the people who will raise feed instead of altogether cotton and the boll weevil will teach us how to do it and make ten times as much out of our farms as we are now doing. Yours very truly,

Georgia Bonus

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.

Easley, S. C.

I am a most interested reader of your page in The Journal. Am also interested in the cultivation of alfalfa. Would be very glad to receive one of your booklets on the subject.

Thanking you in advance, I am

MRS. E. H.

ANSWER.

I am sending you my little booklet, telling exactly how to succeed with alfalfa. This book covers my thirteen years' experience, and if you will follow the instructions as outlined in this book you will succeed with alfalfa.

There have been more than 10,000 acres of alfalfa planted in Georgia during the past two years, and those who have followed these instructions have succeeded. Many have made a failure, simply because they did not follow instructions and planted some other way, which, they supposed, was better, but caused failure in the end. I will be glad to give you any further information in reference to same if desired.

QUESTION.

Metcalf, Ga.

Please answer the following questions to the best of your knowledge through your department in The Journal:

1. What color hen do you think I would get by breeding a Silver Spangled Hamburg cock to a Buff Rock hen?

2. A Cornish Indian Game cock to a Buff Rock hen?

3. A Brown Leghorn cock to a Buff Rock hen?

4. Would a hen a cock bred from either of the above combinations bred together beget like, or would I have to go through the same process to get more chickens of the same color?

I do not especially care about the comb. I want a hen that is something like a partridge in color, only that she has yellow and dark spots.

Thanking you, I am

S. H. M.

ANSWER.

By breeding a Silver Spangled Hamburg cock to a Buff Rock hen I am inclined to believe a good per cent of the birds would be Buff foundation in color with black spots on them. Of course some of them would be white with black spots, similar in color to the Hamburg. I have never seen this cross made, therefore cannot tell just what it will be, but I feel confident that they would be similar to a Sacilican Buttercup, as they have Hamburg blood in their make-up.

The Cornish Indian Game male bred to the Buff Rock, I believe, would produce birds similar in color to the Rhode Island Red, and the Brown Leghorn male and Buff Rock female would do likewise. Reds have a cross of Buff Cochin. Game and Brown Leghorn blood in them, and your suggestion would probably be the same thing.

It would take six years of scientific line breeding to get 75 per cent of the birds to beget like in color; that is, a large per cent of them. It generally takes six years to perfect anything in cross breeding. Usually the fourth and fifth year will go backwards more than the second and third year, but after the sixth year passes they will improve very fast then and the type and color generally set as a fixture. In making nearly all kinds of seed and chickens generally after the sixth year 75 per cent of them will come absolutely true to the types that are wanted and are being bred for.

YES, YES, YES,

THERE IS a vast difference between a barn and a bungalow. You have seen the barn, now let me show you the bungalow. I will admit that there are a few bungalows in Atlanta, but they are of the higher priced type, but there are few—if any—typical California bungalows of the medium price. I have just completed five. I sold them all before they were finished. I have seven under way now. I can build you a real bungalow on your lot, with five rooms and hall complete, from $1,250 to $1,650. They will sell from $600 to $1,000 profit. If you are from Missouri drop in and I will be glad to show you what I am doing. When I am not building for myself I take enough contract work to keep my men going. It will cost you nothing to talk to me; you might save something. P. B. Hopkins, Building Contractor, 316 Empire Bldg., Phone Ivy 5111. I use paint, not stain.

Sixth Street Apartment House, Sold Some Time Ago for $40,000, Again Changes Hands—Dowman-Dozier Company to Erect Building—B. J. Massell to Erect Building on Peachtree—Ponce de Leon Avenue and Other Realty Sales

A transfer of a bond for title conveying a Sixth street apartment house from J. W. Garland to C. G. Turner went to record on Thursday.

The property is a three-story frame building on a lot 100x100, on the south side of Sixth street, beginning 200 feet east of Peachtree street.

Mr. Garland bought it from the Cole-Mitchell company several months ago for $40,000, giving a piece of farm land as part payment. The consideration in the transfer by Mr. Garland to Mr. Turner is not stated in the conveyance.

BUILDING NOTES.

Thursday's building record was not as strong as Wednesday's but at that there were two rather important announcements.

The Dowman & Dozier company, manufacturers, took a permit for the erection of a two-story and basement brick plant on Murphy avenue. The building will cost $12,500.

Ben J. Massell announced that on March 15 he would erect a mill-constructed building on his lot on Peachtree street, between Pine street and Merritts avenue.

The building will have three floors and a mezzanine floor and will cost around $10,000, occupying a lot 21x100. It will be built as an automobile sales room, but it is not yet leased.

Cloudy and rainy weather put a damper on general building plans, although there was quite an assortment of minor jobs, mainly repairs, alterations and small frame buildings.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

The Burdett Realty company on Thursday announced the following small sales:

For Judge R. B. Russell to a client, No. 493 Ponce de Leon avenue, a two-story frame residence on a lot 53 1-2x268, for $8,500. This is on the south side of the street beyond Ponce de Leon place.

For Mrs. Avie A. Bowen to W. G. Talley, No. 254 Lucile avenue, a six-room bungalow on a lot 53x185, for $5,500, and for Mrs. Daisey A. Smith to a client, a tract on Humphries street at Leonard, fronting 222 feet on the former and 231 on the latter. The consideration was withheld.

LOAN CONDITION.

One of the best known loan agents of Atlanta has some interesting observations on the condition of the money market.

He says that he has more funds to lend now than for some time, but that the rate remains about the same. He seemed to think that the improvement in conditions is more in the amount of available funds than in the interest rate. He represents one or two insurance companies and several individual lenders.

Another agent is advertising funds on hand available at 6, 7 and 8 per cent, and several other funds are being advertised from day to day. The fact that house building is picking up indicates easier money conditions.

BIJOU—Eddie Black company.

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

Tomorrow afternon and night the Atlanta will offer the famous Henry W. Savage spectacle and morality play, "Everywoman," for two performances only. This play is being given by a wonderful cast and is as good and well presented as when first seen here. Mr. Savage has kept the players up to the high Savage standard and the performances will be thoroughly worth while in every respect. "Everywoman" is a spectacle which carries with it a moral lesson which preachers, teachers, critics and all say one should see. It is a play of fine merit and packed houses will doubtless greet it at each of the two performances Friday.

Saturday at a matinee and again at night "The Rose Maid," real musical comedy with real songs and fine dancing, will be the attraction at the Atlanta. Seats are now selling for the two performances. This operetta made a tremendous hit here last season and this year will be given by a company of the same merit. It is a company of fifty with a chorus which is prepossessing. The comedy is well worth while and no one will find it dull or unattractive.

Seats are now selling at the Atlanta for the engagement of the noted Russian dancer, Pavlowa, who comes Monday and Tuesday with a matinee Tuesday. Pavlowa is assisted by a company of eighty and a complete symphony orchestra, which makes the engagement very important. It is sure to be the most brilliant social and artistic event of the season, for hundreds are now arranging to see each performance. The bill will be changed at each of the three presentations.

A bill of exceptional worth is the seven Keith vaudeville acts which make up this week's Forsyth offering.

There is a bevy of pretty girls in "The Dance Reverie," and Miss Ethel Green, one of the daintiest comediennes in vaudeville is the big hit of this show. Williams, Thompson and Copeland in "The Burglar's Union," have a splendid comedy; the Gray trio entertain with music and song. Sam J. Curtis and company offer "Goodbye Boys," a neat little variety act; the Hassams have a marvelous equilibristic act and Prevost and Brown have the best closing act of it's sort ever seen here.

Next week's headline will be Laddie Cliff, the English comedian, billed to appear some weeks ago, but on account of illness was cancelled. A sensational feature will be Ismed, the Turkish pianist. Carl Byal and Dora Early will offer a comedy singing specialty.

Only five more opporunities to see the Norman Hackett company at the Lyric this week in their offering, "Alias Jimmy Valentine." Matinee today and Saturday, and night performances tonight, tomorrow night and Saturday night will conclude the engagement of this superb company.

In "Alias Jimmy Valentine" Mr. Hackett selected a splendid vehicle, in fact, the best next to "Double Deceiver" of any of t he attractions he has appeared in during his ten weeks' stock engagement. In the title role Mr. Hackett is perfect, while Miss Diehl who plays the role opposite to him plays her part in a capable fashion. The other members of the company have good parts and show to good advantage.

Saturday night, the prize play will be used as a curtain raiser, and much interest is being manifested by the large advance sale on for that night.

"Checkers," the great race track play, will be seen at the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday, from 2 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and from 7 until 10 o'clock at nights. "Checkers" is in five reels, presented by the All-Star Feature Film Corporation. Thomas W. Ross, who created the title role of the Henry W. Blossom play, will be seen in the lead, and Katherine LaSalle, the original Pert, is again in that part.

$4,181 FOR WESLEY HAS BEEN RAISED THIS WEEK

Thursday's Result of Women's Campaign Were $1,133. Meetings Daily

With $1,133 reported Thursday and $402 reported Wednesday at the central committee's meeting in the Hotel Winecoff, the sum of $4,181 has been raised this week by the women's campaign for a new and greater Wesley Memorial hospital. Yet the real campaign has not started. That will not begin until Monday. These are but the gleanings, the results of the preliminary canvass by which the committees are training.

Substantial subscriptions Thursday were $500 from A. K. Hawkes, W. M. Crumley, $100, and S. M. Inman, $250. Those of $100 or more in Wednesday's list were Mrs. Elizabeth Winship Bates, $100; Mrs. Charles McGehee, $100; Mrs. John A. Miller, $100.

Of the amount raised this week about half has been paid in cash. The remainder is represented by pledges to pay all before November 1, or by notes which can be discounted and converted into cash. For every dollar of cash that has been deposited in the Central Bank and Trust corporation, Asa G. Candler has deposited $3 more in accordance with his agreement with the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital.

All these subscriptions are the forerunners of the big campaign next week, when the ladies expect to raise about $3,000 a day. The work this week is somewhat of the nature of an army's maneuvers before it enters an active campaign. The object is to raise $25,000 in Atlanta and deposit it in the bank, where Mr. Candler's contribution of three to one will increase it to $100,000. Later $25,000 will be raised in the state at large. A number of voluntary contributions have been received already from various parts of Georgia.

From the central committee came, on Thursday, $60; from Inman park committee $100; from Trinity committee, $68; from Park street committee, $35; from First church committee, $370; from Druid Hills committee, $500.

Wednesday's reports were as follows: From St. Mark's committee, $215; from Grace church committee, $113; from Park street, $60; from East Point, $1.50; and from the central committee, $12.50.

J. H. Ewing, the real estate man, a member of the advisory board, addressed the committee Thursday.

Mrs. Jane F. Carr, chairman of Trinity's committee, informed the meeting that the Phi Mu sorority of Wesleyan graduates, of which she is a member, has become interested in the work and is considering the establishment of a memorial room. That would mean $1,000 contributed by or canvassed by the members of the sorority.

Mrs. R. K. Rambo, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary, who presided Thursday when Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, general chairman, surrendered the chair to her, issued a positive request that every chairman of every canvassing committee, and every other member of the central committee, be on hand at the Winecoff hotel Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

"We are getting thoroughly organized now," said she, "and it is essential that every member be here to get in touch with the work."

Following were the reports Thursday:

Trinity committee, Mrs. Jane F. Carr, chairman: Mrs. L. Sage Hardin (cash), $10; Mrs. Stella Carr Benson (additional), $25; Mrs. John A. Manget, $3; C. N. Bergstrom, $20; P. M. Edwards, $5; Miss Marie Redding (cash), $5. Total, $68.

Park Street church committee, Mrs. R. H. White, chairman: Mrs. Lelia Berry, $1; Mrs. Maggie Brandon, $1; Mrs. T. A. Lovelace, $1; Mrs. J. E. Collier, $1; Mrs. R. L. Hollis, $1; Mrs. I. B. Eubanks, $1; Mrs. R. A. Broyles, $1; Mrs. George K. Christian, $1; Mrs. D. M. Braswell, $5; Mrs. T. D. Longino, $1; Mrs. A. J. Mayfield, $1; Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, $5; Misses Culberson, $3; Mrs. Hubert Culberson, $1; Mrs. D. E. Boswell, $10; Mrs. O. E. Stewart, $1. Total, $35.

First church committee, Mrs. William Mixon, chairman: Mrs. W. M. Crumley, $100; S. M. Inman, $250; Norman C. Miller, $10; Mrs. W. N. Hill, $10. Total, $370.

Inman Park committee, Mrs. Florence C. Harris, chairman: Mrs. F. C. Harris $10, Mrs. George C. Walters $50, Mrs. D. W. Orr $5, Mrs. Adeline Seitz $25, I. T. McAndrews $5, Mrs. T. R. Jackson $5. Total, $100.

Central committee, Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, chairman: Miss Alice Mai Jones $5, Mrs. J. F. Anthony $5, Dr. M. E. Turner $50. Total, $60.

Druid Hills committee, Mrs. W. A. Candler, chairman: A. K. Hawkes, $500. The personnel of the following committees was reported Thursday:

Capitol View, Mrs. J. L. Jepson, chairman; Mrs. O. C. Cole and Mrs. W. A. Stewart.

Inman Park, Mrs. Florence C. Harris, chairman; Mrs. R. W. Cameron, Mrs. T. R. Jackson, Mrs. E. L. Adams, Mrs. Isabel Kuhns, Mrs. Joseph L. Dennis, Mrs. W. A. Fincher and Mrs. W. D. White.

In detail the subscriptions reported Wednesday were as follows:

St. Mark's church committee, Mrs. Elizabeth Winship Bates, chairman: Mrs. Bates, $100; Mrs. Charles McGehee, $100; Mrs. A. M. Hughlett, $10; J. L. Bell, $5. Total, $215.

Grace church committee, Mrs. Robert H. McDougall, chairman: Mrs. J. W. Wiley, $5; Mrs. J. B. Calhoun, $2; Mrs. J. P. Jackson, $2; Mrs. N. A. Ansley, $2; cash, $1; cash, $1; Mrs. John A. Miller, $100. Total, $113.

Park Street church committee, Mrs. R. H. White, chairman: Mrs. J. H. Andrews, $5; Mrs. W. R. Bean, $5; Mrs. J. W. Rockey, $5; Mrs. H. L. Crumley, $5; Mrs. W. M. Jenkins, $5; Mrs. J. N. McEachern, $25; Mrs. Craig Confield, $5; Mrs. E. V. Carter, $5. Total, $60.

East Point church committee, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, chairman: Miss V. M. Bunn, $1.50.

Central committee, reported through Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, general chairman: Mrs. Hettie K. Phillips, $5; Dr. C. A. Rhodes, $12.50. Total, $17.50.

A note of sympathy was addressed by the committee to its member, Mrs. W. P. Howard, whose husband died suddenly Tuesday evening. Mrs. Howard was at work and with the committee at its session Tuesday morning. Her co-workers were moved to deep sympathy with her in her grief.

E. W. Martin, of Trinity congregation, was added to the advisory board.

The personnel of the following additional canvassing committees was reported Wednesday to the central committee:

St. John church: Mrs. J. T. Comer, chairman; Mrs. W. F. Wooden and Miss Florrie Crimm.

Haralson, Mrs. W. R. Carrol, Mrs. J. V. Welborn, Mrs. A. J. Swann, Mrs. H. C. Montgomery and Mrs. Wood.

TENNESSEE BANK CASHIER INDICTED

Claude Anderson Held With C. H. Raine on a Number of Charges

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 5.—Claude Anderson, cashier of the failed Mercantile bank, was indicted on five counts here today by the Shelby county grand jury.

At the same time twelve additional indictments were returned against C. Hunter Raine, president of the bank, now in jail on an indictment charging larceny, embezzlement and fraudulent breach of trust, which grew out of the failure of the Mercantile bank.

"Lid" on Resorts and Cabarets Sends New Yorkers Early to Bed

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—All of the cafes, restaurants and cabaret resorts along Broadway and cross streets were again closed at 1 o'clock this morning by the police, acting on instructions of Police Commissioner McKay, despite the statement of Mayor Mitchel yesterday that he had not given orders to enforce the early closing rule laid down by the late Mayor Gaynor.

There was no disturbance in enforcing the order. The proprietors of most of the places notified their guests to get ready to depart a few minutes before the time for closing and at no point did the police have to interfere to speed the departing guests.

The "lid" was put on so tight that the restaurant district was "dry" for the first time during the present administration.

BLEASE WAS READ Y TO FIGHT REPRESENTATIVE

Jerks Off Coat When Lawmaker Approaches—House in Uproar

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 5.—An exciting scene marked the session of the house of representatives here last night when Governor Cole Blease went into the hall to reply to statements made by W. F. Stevenson in a speech on the asylum probe and to deliver a message in person. Personal encounters at one time seemed likely.

When the governor charged that Representative N. B. Barnwell was acting in a cowardly manner by raising a technical point that the governor was not within the constitutional limits in making his remarks, Barnwell advanced to the speaker's stand, but was restrained. Governor Blease said that he came prepared for a fight because he could not stand the alleged misrepresentations.

After the tilt with Barnwell the governor left the hall accompanied by a number of his supporters. Stevenson followed for the purpose it was said, of stating that he did not wish Governor Blease to understand he had apologized for any statement made in his speech. The governor apparently believed Stevenson wanted to fight and pulled off his coat.

"I have been in some fights, but I never take off my coat," said Stevenson, returning to the hall.

Disorder reigned for several minutes, while the governor was making his charges. Friends of Barnwell and the governor crowded around and for a time is looked as if a general fight was imminent.

The governor in his message, or address, charged that the report of the legislative committee on the asylum probe was unfair in that it failed to discuss the charges by Senator Tillman that Governor Blease and his "underlings and satellites" were trying to manipulate the sale of the asylum property in Columbia. He denied all these charges, and also took exception to a speech by Mr. Stevenson, earlier in the day.

Mr. Barnwell raised the point of order that the message was passing the constitutional limits allowed the governor. Governor Blease then made the remark about Mr. Barnwell which precipitated the confusion.

JOSEPH FULD SWALLOWS A POISON BY MISTAKE

Deputy City Clerk Has Close Call When Taking, as He Thinks, Dose of Paregoric

Joseph Fuld, deputy clerk in the office of City Clerk Walter Taylor, had a close call Thursday morning at his home when he swallowed carbolic acid by mistake for paregoric.

As he was leaving for his work, Mr. Fuld's wife called attention to his cough and suggested that he had better take a dose of paregoric. He went to the medicine cabinet in the bathroom, took out a bottle and put it to his lips and swallowed a mouthful of the contents.

Instantly he realized his mistake, and Mrs. Fuld hurriedly called in Dr. Visanska, the son-in-law of Mr. Fuld, who was at his home in a few minutes, and, by prompt work, probably saved his life.

Outside of a rather badly burned throat and some internal discomfort from the effects of the acid, Mr. Fuld is now quite recovered.

LESS DYSPEPSIA NOW ---HERE'S THE REASON

The fact that there is less dyspepsia and indigestion in this community than there used to be is largely, we believe, due to the extensive use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, hundreds of packages of which we have sold. No wonder we are willing to offer them to you for trial entirely at our risk.

Among other things, they contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science. They soothe the inflamed stomach, allay pain, check heartburn and distress, help to digest the food, and tend to quickly restore the stomach to its natural, comfortable healthy state.

There is no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. Your word is enough for us. If Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets don't restore your stomach to health, and make your digestion easy and comfortable, we want you to come back for your money. They are sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00.—Elkin Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt).

COUNSEL FOR STATE DEPARTMENT RESIGNS

J. B. Moore Will Take Up Carnegie International Peace Work

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—John Bassett Moore's resignation was effective today and the state department was without a counsellor. Mr. Moore prepared to take up his work for the Carnegie endowment for international peace and later to resume his place as head of the department of international law at Columbia university, New York.

Although official correspondence between President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and Mr. Moore, announcing the resignation, emphasized that the counsellor was leaving the government service only because the term for which he had promised to serve was at end, there was continued discussion in official and diplomatic circles of lack of harmony between Secretary Bryan and Counsellor Moore and persistent stories of how Mr. Moore became dissatisfied with the arrangement of his duties in the state department.

While it was admitted that Mr. Moore's views on the recognition of the Huerta government in Mexico and the administration's course in other foreign affairs differed from those of his chiefs, all officials took pains to say that the counsellor had carried out administration policies when once agreed upon. One phase of the resignation being widely discussed was that Mr. Moore, at the end of his administration, found himself performing duties usually assigned to officials far below the rank of counsellor and at times learned much regarding the administration's policies from news dispatches. One of such instances being referred to today was when Mr. Moore first heard of the sending of John Lind to Mexico through the newspapers.

Discussion of possible successors continued without any announcement of a selection. Hannis Taylor, former minister to Spain; John Lind, now the president's personal representative in Mexico, and Henry White, former ambassador to France, were being mentioned.

The office of solicitor of the department also is vacant, no successor having been chosen to Joseph W. Folk, who resigned to become chief counsel to the interstate commerce commission.

ATTACKS VOTES FOR WOMEN AMENDMENT

Senator Ashurst's Proposal Not Approved by Reed and Vardaman

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Senator Ashurst's resolution proposing a constitutional amendment extending the right to vote to women of all states was attacked in the senate today by Senators Reed, of Missouri, and Vardaman, of Mississippi. Both had given notice of their intention to speak in opposition to the measure, a final vote on which its advocates confidently expected today.

TWO MEN ARE SHOT BY WATCHMAN AT MACON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., March 5.—When two strange men attacked the night watchman of the Massee-Felton Lumber company at 3 o'clock this morning, he shot both of them, killing one instantly and perhaps fatally wounding the other. The name of the dead man is not known. The wounded man is J. L. Walters, twenty-two years of age, of Griffin. The latter says he met his companion in Griffin yesterday and never ascertained his name.

The watchman has been put under arrest pending an investigation by the coroner.

SOUTH CAROLINA GIRL IS LOST IN SAVANNAH

(By Associated Press.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 5.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of Miss Maud Pricher, of Prichardville, S. C., who yesterday completely vanished in this city.

Miss Pricher came to Savannah early in the morning with her father, A. M. Pricher, on a shopping excursion, and suddenly disappeared just before time to start home. A thorough search by police failed to find the young woman.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED TO KEEP HIM IN STATE

Mrs. Gaber Suing for Divorce Uses Drastic Means to Hold Husband

On the petition of his wife, who feared he would leave the state of Georgia before a divorce and alimony suit could be tried, Ruben Gaber, an employe of the Southern Bell Telephone company, was arrested and put in jail by Deputy Sheriff J. W. Chambers late Wednesday afternoon.

Gaber's arrest was made under an order issued by Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court. His bond was placed at $200, but he was unable to make this and went to the Tower instead.

Mrs. Anna Gaber, who left her husband after a month's experience of married life, alleges that Gaber gave her only $12.50 during that time, on which she says he expected her to furnish the home and supply the table.

She states that he is making a good salary at the west exchange of the telephone company, and that on February 22 he accused her of stealing $10, and then struck her on the nose.

She also says her father, Jacob Feldman, had to come to their home and live there to protect her from her husband.

They were married in Philadelphia January 18. She and Gaber separated on February 25.

Judge Bell will hear testimony on January 15 to consider Mrs. Gaber's petition for divorce and alimony. Unless Gaber raises his $200 bond, he will have to remain in jail until that date. At a late hour Thursday he had not made the bond.

DUST FROM SKIES CAUSES NEW ILLS

Medical Publication Gives Theory That Disease Attacks Man Like Grip

NEW YORK, March 5.—War against dust is urged in an article in the April issue of the Medical Council, which puts forward the theory that new diseases attacking man in epidemics, like grip, are due to the so-called cosmic dust.

This cosmic dust is commonly supposed to come from the stars, but the suggestion is made that it is nothing but common terrestrial dust carried high by the heat of the tropics or by volcanoes and whirlwinds.

The thousands of tons of such dust fall yearly on the earth and it is is highly charged with living organisms.

"We are coming more and more to realize," says the article, "the role of dust in the etcology and transmission of disease; but we have studied the problem in its local phases, not in its cosmographical relations."

COLUMBIA STUDENTS WANT MOORE TO RETURN

NEW YORK, March 5.—News of the resignation of Prof. John Bassett Moore as counsellor for the state department at Washington was received with eager interest at Columbia university. The students and authorities have been anxious for Dr. Moore's return, for his absence from the law faculty of the university has left a big gap.

This has been accentuated by the resignation of Dr. Frank Goodnow to become president of Johns Hopkins university. Dr. Goodnow was professor in constitutional law and it is possible that Dr. Moore may fill Dr. Goodwin's place as well as taking care of the courses in interhational law.

STOCKMEN'S CONVENTION TO END WITH BANQUET

Election of Officers of Panhandle-Southwest Association to Be Held Today

(By Associated Press.)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 5.—A final business session to elect officers and select a place for the 1915 convention and a round of entertainment awaited the 1,000 or more delegates and visitors to the Panhandle-Southwest Stockmen's association today. A banquet and a ball tonight will end the festivities.

The blooded live stock sales which have been a daily feature of the convention have attracted widespread attention.

COLUMBUS TAX RETURNS SHOW BIG INCREASE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 5.—The Columbus city tax returns will show an increase over the past year of one million dollars, according to one of the city assessors, who states that the work of completing the assessment will be completed in a few days and the figures announced.

In this increase quite a number of new buildings are figured as well as the many permanent improvements. The report of the assessors will be filed with the city clerk on or before the 10th of the month.

VILLAGE ISOLATED DURING STORM

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 5.—Wrightstone, a village in Burlington county, New Jersey, on the Pemberton and Hightstown railroad, was completely isolated for three days as a result of the recent storm. All roads were blocked by huge snow drifts and not a person, it is stated, had entered or left the town from the time it became snowbound Sunday night until today.

AUTOMOBILE SKIDS; BREAKS NEGRO'S LEG

Wet Sidewalk Causes Machine to Strike Wagon; and Later Hits Man

An automobile that skidded on the wet pavement at the corner of Peachtree and Third streets Thursday morning, ran into a laundry wagon. The wagon crashed into a negro alighting from a street car and the negro is now at the Grady hospital with a broken leg.

In the automobile were E. E. Centerfield, of Hartwell, Ga., who had just purchased the car, a brand-new Oakland, and was taking it home with his white chauffeur, Claude Sorrells, at the wheel.

Mr. Centerfield took the negro, Charlie Robinson, of 131 Young street, to the hospital in the car. Sorrells gave himself up at police station and was released on bond.

Case of Wealthy Manufacturer Completed—To Go Before Jury

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 5.—William Cheney Ellis, the wealthy Cincinnati manufacturer who is on trial charged with having murdered his wife in a Chicago hotel last October, will probably know his fate before night.

After the closing argument of Stephen A. Malato, assistant state's attorney, the case will go to the jury. Counsel for Ellis completed their arguments last night at a special session of court.

Attorneys for Ellis pleaded transitory insanity.

ATLANTA CLASS OF 79 BANQUET AT PIEDMONT

Members of the oldest graduating class of the Atlanta Medical college, who received their diplomas in 1879, or thirty-five years ago, celebrated the event Wednesday evening with an elaborate banquet in the colonial dining room of the Piedmont hotel.

Among those present were physicians who are now practicing as far west as Texas. There are but seventeen living members of the class out of thirty-eight original graduates.

Those present were Dr. H. D. Allen, Milledgeville, Ga.; Dr. B. F. Brazelton, Weatherford, Tex.; Dr. W. J. Chapman, Inman, S. C.; Dr. J. P. McWilliams, Lafayette, Ga.; Dr. J. L. Selmon, Douglasville, Ga.; Dr. H. B. Stewart, Mountain Inn, S. C.; and Dr. C. T. Stovall, Vienna, Ga.

Present as guests of the class were Dr. C. E. Davis, Dr. W. S. Elkin and Dr. George H. Noble. The next gathering of the "old guards" will be held March 4, 1917.

COLEMAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER CHARGE

Marion Coleman, colored, a former employe of Charlie Jones in the Rex saloon, was tried for murder and acquitted in the superior court before Judge Ben H. Hill Thursday morning.

Coleman admitted the killing of Ike Foster, colored, in Ola Bradley's house in the rear of 127 Auburn avenue, on the night of May 19, 1913, but said it was done in self-defense. The jury so found in twelve minutes.

Coleman had been out on $5,000 bond, signed by Charlie Jones. Attorney John W. Moore defended the man.

PLANS FOR BRYAN'S PAN-AMERICAN TRIP

Secretary to Start in July for Conference and Visit Many Countries

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Plans for Secretary Bryan's trip to South America at the time of the Pan-American conference next September were going forward today in the Pan-American union and the state department but officials declared they were yet immature and that no exact itinerary could be made up at this time.

Secretary Bryan's announcement to the Pan-American union aroused the greatest interest among the Latin-American diplomats here who recalled the visits of Mr. Bryan's predecessors, Secretaries Root and Knox. Senor Suarez, the minister from Chile, extended the invitation and President Wilson readily approved the plan.

While Mr. Bryan plans to leave here in July, going down the west coast visiting the nations there and to return on the east coast, visiting Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil, arrangements have not sufficiently advanced to make it certain yhether the secretary will go by the Panama canal route, altnough he might as the waterway will be ready for ships at that time.

Considerable interest was aroused over whether Mr. Bryan would touch in Mexico during his trip but it was pointed out that it probably depended upon conditions there at the time.

WHITEMAN PROMISED TO PAY; WAS RELEASED

Former Minnesota Legislator Was Arrested in Hot Springs Charged With Mistrust

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, March 5.—On the promise that he would repay $800 of the money by tomorrow night and the rest in two weeks, Alonzo J. Whiteman, former Minesota state legislator, who was arrested in Hot Springs, Ark., on a charge of keeping a check for $2,518 which Mrs. Sara Conger had entrusted to him, was released last night at Zion City.

Whiteman made the promise to Mrs. Conger and officials of the Zion City church, in which he had been a worker under Alexander Dowie and Wilbur Glenn Voliva. Mrs. Conger is a member of the church.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF ORDINARY OF DODGE?

EASTMAN, Ga., March 5.—Authorities today are investigating a report that an attempt was made at 1:30 o'clock last night to assassinate Joel F. Coleman, ordinary of Dodge county.

It is said that a party of men armed with shotguns called at the Coleman home and, when the ordinary refused to open the door, attempted to break in.

The men are said to have fled when the sheriff, C. N. Mullis, was called.

RESULTS OF COLDS

To Neglect a Cold in the Beginning is to Run a Pretty Big Risk.

When the Liver Gets Lazy the Blood Thickens and the System Becomes Easily Susceptible to Cold and Disease.

A cold is directly traceable to an inactive liver. The liver finds its efforts overcome and food remains in the stomach or bowels. The head gets hot, the feet cold and the bowels constipated. Right then and there is the danger point. The bowels must be kept open. The system must be relieved of congestion.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known relief. It is better than calomel. It will rejuvenate the liver, send the blood racing through the veins, dispel the congestion and make you feel as if life is worth living.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT acts quickly and mildly, and never gripes or nauseates. Don't take an inferior substitute. Some stores may offer other preparations upon which they make larger profits, often similar in name, but very different in action. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is 25c for a large jar at druggists, or sent by mail (postpaid). Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Advt.)

PRESIDENT'S WIFE RECOVERING FROM FALL

WASHINGTON, March 5. — Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was recovering today from the shock of a fall on the White House floor last Sunday. She sustained no injuries and expects to be up and about in a day or two.

You probably haven't much idea about the way clothes-styles are designed; the artistic talent employed in producing the models you like.

Design in clothes is the intangible thing which makes the difference between correct, and almost correct, style. It is the mark of supremacy in our goods.
