DEMANDS OF BRYAN BRING QUICK PLEDGE OF PROBE BY HUERTA

Spanish Ambassador Receives Promise From Provisional President That Death of Private Parks Will Be Investigated

HUERTA'S PEACE ENVOYS ARRIVE IN WASHINGTON

Secretary of State Says He's Received No Report That American Was Executed, and Refuses to Comment on Messages to Huerta

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—State department officials awaited today a reply from the Huerta government to the urgent inquiry made by the Brazilian minister in Mexico City, at the request of Secretary Bryan, for information concerning the whereabouts of Private Samuel Parks. Spanish Ambassador Riano today received a dispatch from the Huerta government promising immediate investigation.

Mr. Bryan said he had received no proof from the Brazilian envoy that Parks, who went through the Mexican line in his uniform, was executed. But it is known that the minister, as well as General Funston in Vera Cruz, have been told repeatedly that the young private had been summarily executed and that his body had been mutilated and destroyed.

Neither, however, has been able to report to Washington the Mexican federal commander's account of just what happened.

War department officials say they assume Parks met death in the manner unofficially reported. Secretary Bryan declined to make public the text of the representations made by him to General Huerta through the Brazilian ministers, other than to say that they were "urgent."

ENVOYS IN WASHINGTON.

The three special delegates who will represent interests of General Huerta in Mexican peace conference at Niagara Falls, Ont., arrived here shortly after 2 o'clock. They were accompanied by S. H. Hanks, representing the American state department, and met by Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador. In the party were Emilio Rabasa, Augustin Rodriguez and Luis Elguero, the Mexican delegates, a staff of secretaries and clerks and the ladies accompanying the Mexicans.

What course the president would pursue in the Parks case was not indicated.

MAY PLAY BIG PART.

It is believed it will be one of the big items considered when an attempt is made to cast a balance of accouts between Huerta and the United States government.

As the Parks case assumed threatening proportions another stumbling block in the path of mediation was removed. That was the report to the British embassy from Sir Lionel Carden in Mexico City stating John R. Silliman, the American vice consul, over whose safety there had been grave fears, was on his way from Saltillo to Mexico City. There, it was assumed, he would be turned over to the Brazilian legation for safe conduct to the American lines at Vera Cruz. Silliman had been arrested by federal officials.

While the arrival of Huerta's delegates in Washington today attracted keen attention in diplomatic circles, the two days' postponement of the conference had the effect of keeping interest centered in the movements of the constitutionalists at Tampico and plans for their southern campaign.

Dispatches from Rear Admiral Badger early today stated the constitutionalists had renewed their assurances of protection for American lives and property at Tampico. Quiet was restored in the seaport, business was resuming and no further disorder was expected.

As the destination of the two Mexican gunboats which sailed from Tampico became known, any immediate possibility that they would attempt to return to set up a blockade against importation of arms and ammunition for the constitutionalists was removed. One of Carranza's confidential agents was quoted as saying a large shipment of French guns was ready to be moved toward Tampico, indicating constitutionalists could obtain plenty of equipment for the remainder of their campaign.

When the embargo on arms recently was restored at Rio Grande river points, it was done on a war department order and unless the navy department duplicates it or the president issues a general proclamation the constitutionalists can get all the ammunition from the United States they want if they ship it through Tampico.

Swift developments in the constitutionalists campaign was forecast in a statement by General Carranza, at Durango. Coupled with Villa's feverish activities south of Torreon was Carranza's statement that his general-in-chief expected to assault Saltillo in a day or two, and while strong opposition was expected, the outcome was not in doubt.

Villa had disposed his troops near Hipolito for the march on Saltillo. General Torres, operating about San Luis Potosi, was expected to attack that federal stronghold immediately. In case of a double victory it appeared the constitutionalists intended to concentrate about San Luis Potosi to gird themselves for the march on Huerta's capital.

With the Parks incident as the only disturbing cloud in the diplomatic skies today, conditions were considered unusually propitious for the arival today of the Huerta delegates.

The trio of South American envoys and the American mission will leave for Niagara Falls Sunday and it is confidently expected there will be nothing to delay the formal opening of the conference on Wednesday. The Parks case,

ELKS' GRAND LODGE IS ANXIOUS TO HOLD 1916 SESSION HERE

Prominent Members of the Order Declare Atlanta Has Only to Ask to Get Convention

Atlanta has but to invite in order to win the 1916 convention of the grand lodge of Elks. The city has shown itself capable of entertaining the Shriners. Therefore it can entertain the Elks, whose meeting is equally as large as that of the great company here last Tuesday and Wednesday. The question of capacity settled, Atlanta's invitation alone is required.

This is stated on the authority of Atlanta Elks who know the sentiment of the grand lodge, and who have been members of it in past sessions.

"We could have won the grand lodge meeting this year," declared Walter P. Andrews, a past exalted ruler of Atlanta lodge No. 78, Saturday, "but the Shriners met in May at Dallas, and we met in July at Rochester. The Shriners already had accepted Atlanta's invitation, and we preferred not to ask the Elks to this city the same year. Both meetings would be too big for Atlanta to handle in one summer."

START WORK NOW.

The meeting which Atlanta may win if she wants to bring here thousands of men from every state in the union is a little more than two years off, yet the work must be begun this July in Denver. There will be held the 1914 meeting of the Elks. The 1915 meeting probably will go to Seattle, where the Shriners also have decided to meet next year. Seattle is larger than Atlanta and could entertain both great conventions. But the 1915 meeting may be awarded to San Francisco, which invited it last year when Seattle's invitation was received. At the 1915 meeting the Elks will decide definitely where they will meet the following year. At the 1914 meeting, in Denver, Atlanta must begin work if she is to insure the success that seems now at hand.

The bigness of the Elks' gathering needs little emphasis. It has only to be compared with the recent Shrine gathering. There are approximately 200,000 Shriners distributed among 133 temples. There are 400,000 Elks in the United States in 1,400 lodges. Among these the Atlanta lodge ranks as the biggest and best in the southern states after that of New Orleans.

"The grand lodge is anxious to come to the south," said one Atlanta member of that body Saturday. "They have never entered this part of the country, and there is a great deal here they would like to see. The south can make a favorable and lasting impression on them, and Atlanta can win many valuable friends by having them here."

PARADE SIX MILES LONG.

Recollections of the meeting in Portland, Ore., where Atlanta's invitation was forecast for the first time in 1912, are that the great parade was six miles long and that it took over four hours to pass a fixed point. The Portland newspapers estimated there were 350,000 visitors in town for the day. It was in the Portland meeting of the grand lodge that Walter P. Andrews, one of the Atlanta members, spoke from the platform in Atlanta's behalf for the 1914 meeting. At Rochester last year this invitation was deferred because the Shriners had decided to come here.

"We had the favor of the grand lodge even before we showed how well Atlanta could take care of the Shriners," said Colonel Andrews Saturday. "Now our victory would be the easier, because we can point to the Shriners' meeting and settle all doubt."

The class of men who attend grand lodge sessions of the Elks is high, representing the best membership of that great benevolent and patriotic order. The Elks and the Shriners are associated closely by thousands of men who are members of both, the purposes of each being high and the carnival spirit reigning at the annual gatherings of both.

The movement to win the 1916 grand lodge of Elks started some time ago, and comes to public attention with considerable impetus.

NEXT QUADRENNIAL M. E. CONFERENCE MAY 2, 1918

Resolution Was Adopted at Session of Southern Methodists in Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 16.—Under a resolution adopted by the general conference of the M. E. church, south, today, the next quadrennial conference will meet on Thursday, May 2, 1918, at a city to be fixed later by the commission having the matter in charge.

With Bishop W. R. Lambeth presiding, the conference speedily settled down to work today following the devotional exercises led by Rev. B. H. Kern, of Baltimore. This was the last day, under the rules for the presentation of petitions and memorials and from now to the close, the conference is expected to dispose of business with much more dispatch.

A resolution by Dr. James Cannon, indorsing the work of the Anti-Saloon league in its national and state organizations and the work of the Women's Christian Temperance union was read and referred to the committee on temperance and social service.

The question of making the report of the Vanderbilt committee, presented yesterday, a special order was brought up by D. H. Linebaugh, but was temporarily set aside that the conference might hear the report of the fraternal delegate from Japanese Methodists.

At the conclusion of the delegate's address the special order of the day, the Vanderbilt committee report, was called up, and D. H. Linebaugh, chairman of the committee of fifteen, asked that report No. 1, approving the course of the bishops, be adopted. This was concurred in.

Dr. J. A. Christian moved to substitute the minority for the majority report, thus bringing the case before the conference in the proper manner.

Dr. A. J. Lamar opened the discussion and spoke in favor of the majority report. He declared both reports were adroit in not overstepping the bounds of propriety, the majority report providing that the conference must face the facts, while the minority ignored these facts and suggested that the church continue the relations as they were supposed to exist before the decision of the Tennessee supreme court. The majority report, he said, points out a definite plan of action.

The case, he asserted, could not be taken to the federal court, as it had been adjudicated in the state courts, and he did not believe that any member of the church cared to again go through the state courts after their recent experience.

Dr. Lamar claimed that the majority report says to the eight patronizing conferences, "we received from you Vanderbilt university with a clear and uncloaded title, but we now return it to you with a cloud, not because of any fault of ours, but because our representatives on the board of trust have been untrue to their trust." He said it was right that the conference should pay the expense of defending the rights of the annual conferences should they desire to test the question in the courts.

The conditions at Vanderbilt, Dr. Lamar said, are impossible for co-operation.

TRIAL OF LIEUT. BECKER HALTED UNTIL MONDAY

Widow of "Lefty Louie" Testified Yesterday She Lied on Stand to Save Husband

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—A recess today in the trial of Charles F. Becker, former police lieutenant and head of the strong arm squad in charge of the suppression of gambling, accused as the instigator of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, whose revelations it is alleged he feared might stamp him as the recipient of graft for police protection, halted until Monday the second presentation story of the now famous tragedy of the underworld.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman expects to finish the presentation of the state's case Monday and the defense probably will complete its rebuttal by the middle of the week. From this a verdict may be expected by a week from today.

Until yesterday the story of the alleged plot for the murder of Rosenthal had been given but few new touches, and the testimony of Rose, corroborated by Vallon and Webber, remained as the chief evidence upon which District Attorney Whitman based his case against Becker.

Then, however, Mr. Whitman sprang a surprise by calling Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, widow of "Lefty Louie," ing of Rosenthal.

one of the four gunmen executed on April 13 last, for his part in the kill-

Mrs. Rosenberg admitted that her testimony at the trial of the gunmen had little or no basis of truth but declared that she had so testified to save her husband from the electric chair. In making this admission and in telling under oath of the meeting in her flat between her husband, the other gunmen and Rose when the murder of Rosenthal was planned, she made it appear certain that no mistake had been made in the conviction of the gunmen, of whom her husband was one.

Mrs. Rosenberg's statements discount the confession alleged to have been made by "Dago Frank" Cirofici, just before the gunmen were electrocuted. In the confession he was quoted as saying he never heard the name of Becker in connection with the murder plot.

Martin T. Manton, chief counsel for Becker, after the adjournment, stated that when the prosecution closed its case Monday that of the defense would be closed by Thursday night. He said that if Becker wished to take the stand he would be called as the first witness in his own behalf, and Mrs. Becker, too, would be called if willing to testify.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BOY IS BITTEN BY MAD DOG

Four-year-old John R. Duncan was bitten on the cheek and hand by a dog, supposedly mad, about 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the front yard of the home of his mother, Mrs. C. R. Duncan, at 90 West Peachtree street.

The little boy's elder brother, Ludwig, aged ten, dragged the dog away and carried his brother into the house. The police were notified. Call Officer Barfield hurried to the scene and killed the dog.

Another call came about the same time from 662 West Twelfth street, the home of Carl Hurst, where it was reported two mad dogs had bitten a little child.

One of the dogs was killed.

WHOLE CITY JOINS IN MOVEMENT AND FUND IS MOUNTING

All Subscriptions Must Be in by 1 o'Clock Monday, as the List Will Be Closed at That Hour

MAIL YOUR CHECKS TO TREASURER J. A. BRICE

"All Honor to the Man Who Gave Us Shrine Week," Is Sentiment Expressed by Numerous Letters

Still the subscriptions poured in Saturday to that fund for conferring on Forrest Adair a memorial of Atlanta's appreciation of the Shriners' meeting.

At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the day's new subscriptions totaled $933.50. This, added to Friday's total of $1,115.50, made the total to date $2,049.

Monday at 1 o'clock all lists will close. No subscriptions will be received after that hour, and all outstanding lists will be turned in before then to furnish material for the definite and final total.

All who have not paid their subscriptions are requested to forward their check or cash before that hour to John A. Brice, committee treasurer, The Atlanta Journal building.

From office, store, street, subscriptions came, in lists, through the mails, by telephone and in person. It seemed that every man in Atlanta recognized the opportunity to pay a tribute to the leader in the success of the Shriners' gathering, to the man who more than any one else is to be credited with that success.

As on Friday, volunteers in the movement were circulating it everywhere about the city, carrying to every one the reminder that now is the time and here is the chance to honor one man for the great pleasure that was Atlanta's this week when she played hostess to the Shriners. The spontaneity shown by the volunteers was matched by that of other individuals who waited for no reminder, but filed their subscriptions directly with The Journal.

HOKE SMITH'S MESSAGE.

"I join with the state in rejoicing over the Shriners' convention," telegraphed Senator Hoke Smith from Washington. "Please place me among the subscribers to the testimonial of our appreciation for Forrest Adair."

The members of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association subscribed an aggregate of $107, including the subscriptions of James T. Williams and Herny R. Durand, of the Cafe Durand, already acknowledged, and of Lee M. Jordan, attorney.

"A step in the right direction," wrote Joseph Hirsch, sending his check for $5. "I hope the fund will reach such proportion as will purchase a testimonial fully commensurate with the recognition Mr. Adair deserves."

"We thank The Journal for the suggestion," wrote the Schlessinger-Meyer Baking company, sending $10.

WORK WILL STAND.

"His work will mean more to all of us than we can now imagine," wrote Ernest C. Kontz, sending his check for $5. "I thank you for the interest you have shown in the matter of this testimonial as well as for your inestimable services in all that pertains to the success of the great gathering."

"All Atlanta appreciates the great service and hard, thoughtful work Mr. Adair has given to his large task," wrote Walter E. Browne, sending $10, "and it is a pleasure to have this means of showing my appreciation."

"I am glad you started the movement to honor our great Atlanta citizen, Forrest Adair," wrote George M. Brown, sending $10. "He certainly deserves it."

"It is a beautiful tribute of well deserved appreciation you propose showing Forrest Adair," wrote John A. Manget, sending his check for $2. "Allow me to have this little share in it."

WILL HEAR CHARGES IN FRANK CASE MONDAY

Coercion of Witnesses, Perjury and Bribery Charges to Be Discussed

The venire of 36 members from which the 23 grand jurors who will make the probe of the charges and counter charges of perjury, bribery and coercion of witnesses in the Frank case, has been drawn.

The new grand jury will be empanelled on Monday morning, and then Judge Ben H. Hill, of the criminal division of the superior court, will deliver his charge, ordering a probe of the Frank case.

Probably the first case to be taken up will be the C. B. Ragsdale affidavit. Ragsdale has sworn that he was paid $200 to make an affidavit, saying that he heard a negro identified later as Jim Conally confess to the crime a few days after Mary Phagan was murdered.

The venire, from which the grand jury will be chosen, contains the names of a number of prominent citizens and is as follows:

St. Elmo Massengale, Henry Lewis, H. W. B. Glover, H. M. Ashe, George E. Argard, H. K. Taylor, C. E. Caverly, J. A. Perdue, R. J. Rice, G. S. Pryor, Guy Mitchell, W. O. Peary, F. J. Merriman, B. F. MAY GET CONVENTION OF OSTEOPATHS HERE, 1916

Georgia Assn. Making Great Efforts to Have Session of National Body in Atlanta

Atlanta may get the national convention of osteopaths in 1916.

The Georgia Osteopath association, which is holding its annual meeting in Atlanta, decided Saturday morning to go after the national convention in 1916 and since it is known that many members of the organization have expressed a desire to come south at that time, it is expected that Atlanta will have a comparatively easy time in landing the big meeting.

The American Osteopathic association, as the national body is called, numbers some 10,000 members and it is expected that at least 2,000 of these would attend the meeting here. Members of the Georgia organization are very much pleased at the prospect of getting the national convention to come here since in the past only northern and eastern cities have been favored by the national body.

The meeting Saturday morning brought the annual session of the Georgia Osteopathic association and the Gulf States Osteopathic association to a close. At the annual election of officers, the following were chosen: President, Dr. J. W. Elliott, of Cordele; vice president, Dr. A. C. Lane, of Griffin; secretary and treasurer, Dr. O. H. Gripe, of Atlanta.

PINK BOLL WORM PEST DISCUSSED BY BUREAU

Georgia Statesmen Advocate Exclusion of Egyptian Cotton Which Bears Worm

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.—The pink boll worm, a pest which infects Egyptian cotton, was the subject of a hearing this morning before the agricultural quarantine bureau, attended by Senator West and Representatives Edwards and Bartlett, of Georgia, and others from various sections of the United States who were interested. Representative Edwards urged the exclusion of Egyptian cotton from all sections of the United States and in this view he was seconded by the other Georgians.

The view that the Egyptian cotton seeds should be excluded from all sections of this country was unanimous, as was the idea that the lint cotton should not be allowed in southern mills. The worm is present in the seeds and home seeds are left in the lint through imperfect ginning, and it was agreed that the worm would certainly spread to the fields if allowed in southern mills.

The Georgians in the hearing held that to allow Egyptian cotton to be manufactured in the north and to exclude it in the south would be a discrimination against southern mills and that the only way to guard against the pest and at the same time to avoid discrimination would be to exclude the cotton from the entire country. Mr. Edwards said the cotton competed with sea island, and that Egyptian cotton is grown without fertilizer and with cheap labor.

The pink worm is said to be more disastrous to cotton than even the Mexican boll weevil. It is assured that some action restricting the importation of the Egyptian cotton will be taken.

(By Associated Press.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 16.—Thomas E. Watson, former representative in congress and once a candidate for president of the United States on the ticket of the People's Party, was indicted by the United States district court here yesterday, charged with sending obscene matter through the mails.

This indictment is the second that has been returned against the editor for publication of the articles. The previous indictment was held to be invalid by Federal Judge Sheppard, on the ground that it was improperly drawn.

COLORED STUDENTS HEAR CHAS. J. HADEN SPEAK

Delivers Address at Closing Exercises of Normal and Industrial Institute

That the best interests of the white and colored races are so nearly identical that both must work to a common end, was the theme of an address delivered by Charles J. Haden, president of the Georgia chamber of commerce, at the closing exercises of the Normal and Industrial institute Friday night.

The negro in the United States has made far greater progress in the past century, Mr. Haden showed, than have members of the same race who are without the benefits this country offers, in 3,000 years. This, he pointed out, can be attributed only to the assistant and co-operation the colored man has received from the whites, assistance which is being broadened in scope every year.

Mr. Haden laid stress upon the importance of the negro citizen's owning his own home. The men who fill the jails and chaingangs, he pointed out, are not those who own realty, but are "floaters" who have no steady employment.

The exercises marked the close of the school term of the institute. Six young negro women were given certificates of proficiency in dressmaking, domestic science and eight grade courses. Besides Mr. Haden, there were a number of colored speakers, among them Bishop H. M. Turner and Rev. M. M. Ponton.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY DR. MARION McH. HULL.

MAY 17, 1914.
Luke 16:14, 15, 19-31.

Golden Text—Whoso stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he shall also cry, but shall not be heard. Prov. 21:13.

The Pharisees were lovers of money, and when they heard Jesus speak to His disciples, the parable of the unjust steward, and heard Him conclude that by saying, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon," they scoffed at Him. "The idea, "said they, "whoever heard of anything as ridiculous." It is all very well for a man who is poor like the carpenter of Nazareth to talk in a derogatory manner of money, but we who have it know better," It must have been with some such words as these that they ridiculed Him for the position that He had taken.

But Jesus replied, saying unto them, "You are trying to justify yourselves in the sight of man, but God knows your hearts. You have not the same standards that He has at all. What you regard more than anything else, namely money, God gives very little consideration to. The new order of things has been instituted now, since John preached, until then, it was the law; now the law has been fulfilled in love, and the gospel of the kingdom is preached. Until then you had a corner on religion and turned everything religious into a money value for yourselves; but now, every man has an equal chance. Not that the law is to be set aside, for it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one tittle of the law to fail. Especially is this true in regard to the loose manner of life which you are living. Your wealth which you have accumulated by religious graft has made you lax in your moral obligations. Particularly is this true of your family lives. You are putting away your wives for money reasons, but the law given by Moses still stands, and whosoever putteth away his wife and marrieth another, committeth adultery; and whosoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery.' The Pharisees understood very well what Jesus meant. He condemned them in no uncertain tone for the luxury and licentiousness of their lives, their love of money and ease. And it hurt them all the more because it was true.

Parenthetically, we may remark that this tendency of the Pharisees is not unknown in our own country today, for with increasing wealth and lack of self-denial of those things which minister to the physical nature, there is a tendency towards a laxity in the moral obligations and a lack of restraint of the baser pasions. Divorce laws are too easy, and the breaking up of the family life by the courts in certain sections is undermining the very foundation of our nation's life.

The Pharisees were cut to the quick by this denunciation of their sin, but Jesus did not stop there. He told them a story of a rich man and Lazarus, which some have regarded as a parable. I do not believe this a parabe, for in no other parable is the name of any person mentioned, and here Lazarus' name is mentioned. The latter part of the story which reveals the future life is not in the nature of a parable at all, but of a revelation. It is the one time in which Jesus lifted the veil, and gave us a glimpse into the future. Such cases as that of the rich man and Lazarus were not at all uncommon. It is entirely possible that such an instance might have occurred in the city a few days before. Of course only Jesus could have given the knowledge of the things which occurred in Hades after the death of the two men.

DIVES AND LAZARUS.

Continuing His denunciation of the Pharisees, He told them of a very rich man who did not deny himself anything that his heart could wish. He lived in the greatest of luxury, clothing himself in the finest of garments, and feasting to the point of gluttony every day. Just outside of his door was a poor beggar named Lazarus, who was so helpless that he had to be laid at the gate. He could not walk, Starvation had brought him to that point of weakness where he could not even drive away the stray dogs that came and licked his sores. He asked for the crumbs merely that fell from the rich man's table, the things that the rich man could not use himself because his appetite was jaded to the point of satiety. But so far as the record goes, he did not even give the beggar the crumbs. Finally, Lazarus starved to death. His body was probably thrown into a pit, but his spirit was carried into Abraham's bosom by the angels.

After a time, the rich man also died, and was buried with all the pomp and display that money could command. In Hades, the place of departed spirits, he lifted up his eyes, being in torment, and seeing Abraham and Lazarus, begged that Abraham might have mercy on him. He based his claim to mercy on the fact that he was a descendent of Abraham, and begged his father Abraham that he would send Lazarus that he might dip his finger tip in water and cool his tongue for he was in anguish with that flame. But Abraham replied that it was impossible to grant his request for there was a great gulf between the two parts of Hades, that they could not get from one side to the other; and he recalled to him the fact that he had had an opportunity in his life time to do a good service for Lazarus, and had failed.

Then he asked Abraham to send some one from the dead to preach to his five brethren who were living the same kind of lives that he had lived, who were letting their opportunities pass, and they also would come into that place of torment. But this request was refused, because the granting of it would have implied that he himself had not had the proper warning and he had had. Abraham told him that they had the law and the prophets, and they were entirely sufficient to direct him how he might avoid this. By pointing them to the Messiah, who alone could save them. And besides if one should rise from the dead, they would not believe him.

As a matter of fact, Lazarus, (not this one, however) was raised from the dead after four days a short while after this, and they did not believe him; and not very many weeks after this, Jesus, Himself, was raised from the dead, and they did not believe Him, and so sending one from the dead, would not have changed the lives of these five brethren, who represented the Pharisees.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF PROXIMITY.

What did Jesus mean to teach by this story? Not that wealth was a sin; not that dressing well was a sin; not that feasting was a sin; nor did he intend to teach in any way that there was any piety in poverty. It is neither wrong to be rich, nor righteous to be poor. But what He did want to teach was this, the sin of the rich man was his selfishness. He used for himself that which God had given him, without thought of others at all. He had the wherewithall to supply the needs of the beggar at his door, and let him starve to death without giving him a crumb. That was his sin.

Now this is a sin of which everyone of us is liable to be guilty. It is not entirely the sin of rich people; but those of us who are in more moderate circumstances may be just as guilty, for certainly there are those in proximity to us whose needs can be supplied by us; and if we use for ourselves what should be used for them, we are just as guilty as this rich man was.

Look about you! Have you some knowledge that some one near you needs to be lifted to a higher plane of living, to a nobler life? Are you enjoying that knowledge and not giving it to the one near you who needs it? Have you some money which could be used if you deny yourself some luxury or even some necessity, and which so used for others near you would lift their lives nearer to God? Do not condemn lives too soon. You may also condemn yourself thereby. The Pharisees were guilty of covetousness, of using their money selfishly. How about you?

ACHES AND PAINS

Don't neglect a pain anywhere, but find out what causes it and conquer the cause. A pain in the kidney region may put you on your back tomorrow. Don't blame the weather for swollen feet; it may be an advanced warning of Bright's disease. A pain in the stomach may be the first symptom of appendicitis. A creak in a joint may be the forerunner of rheumatism. Chronic headaches more than likely warn you of serious stomach trouble. The best way is to keep in good condition day in and day out by regularly taking GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL Capsules. Sold by reliable, druggists. Money refunded if they do not help you. Beware of substitutes. The only pure imported Haarlem Oil Capsules are the GOLD MEDAL.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

The motion picture lovers of Atlanta have not been offered a better attraction this season than "The Three Musketeers," that closes a three days' engagement at the Grand tonight. Performances are continuous at the Grand from 1 to 11 p. m., and the prices 10 cents in the afternoon, 10 and 15 cents at night. A ten-piece orchestra furnishes music in keeping with the picture. Other feature's include Pathe's Weekly and two singers.

"Sealed Orders," the big six-reel war drama that opens a week's engagement at the Grand Monday afternoon, is described as a European masterpiece that is probably the first really big dramatic work designed primarily for cinematograph production. In the past, numerous big plays that have achieved stage success have been reproduced in motion picture form, subsequent to their stage popularity. In this instance, the story, dialogue and situations were all designed for the most effective results possible on the screen, in consequence of which the production enjoys an advantage that none of its predecessors have had. The long run "Sealed Orders" enjoyed in New York insures big houses here.

The Forsyth theater has had a busy week despite all the outside attractions during the Shrine week. Nat Wills, the headliner, never fails to win the laughs and create the hit to which he has been accustomed. Lula McConnell and Grant Simpson, in their comedy, "The Right Girl," have a good entertainment, and the other features all please.

Next week will see one of the greatest actors in America in headline position. Mr. Frank Keenan with a talented company will present "Vindication," by Willard Mack. Mr. Keenan will portray the role of a southern colonel. He has a son, who has been brought up to believe Robert E. Lee the greatest man who ever lived. When a comrade destroys pictures of Lee, he kills him. He is sentenced to be hun, and his father goes to the governor of the state, who is another war veteran, but of the north, and makes an appeal, not for his son's life, but for him to be shot instead of hung. Everything turns out satisfactorily, of course, with a good comedy punch for the finish, where only tears have been before. Six other features will surround this star.

This afternoon and tonight bring the last performances of "Are You a Mason?" at the Lyric. The farce-comedy has proven a delight to a people tired out from Shrine activities, and was an ideal bill for such a period. For next week Miss LaVerne has chosen the new Paul Armstrong play, "The Escape," which will give especial opportunities to Miss Chaffee, Miss Blakeney, Mr. Marcus and Miss LaVerne. The play is based on the science of eugenics, but the scientific phase by no means overshadows the dramatic. It promises to be the success of the stock season.

BIG CROWDS SEE FREE PICTURES OF CREATION

Large crowds are attending the free exhibition of the photo-drama of Creation, in moving pictures, part three of which is being shown at the Atlanta theater under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association.

This part of the great film depicts the life of Christ from the cradle to the cross. The pictures are hand-colored, and accompanying them are explanatory talks from a large phonograph.

The performances are at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night.

Auto Reported Missing

J. H. Kuhns, a photographer, 33 1-2 Whitehall street, reported to the police Saturday morning that his automobile which he had rented to Shep Thomas, a negro chauffeur, Shriners' week, had not been returned.

Joyful Anticipation of Motherhood

There is apt to be a latent apprehension of distress to mar the complete joy of expectation. But this is quite overcome by the advice of so many women to use "Mother's Friend." This is an external application designed to so lubricate the muscles and to thus so relieve the pressure reacting on the nerves, that the natural strain upon the cords and ligaments is not accompanied by those severe pains said to cause nausea, morning sickness and many local distresses.

Many people believe that those remedies which have stood the test of time, that have been put to every trial under the varying conditions of age, weight, general health, etc., may be safely relied upon. And judging by the fact that "Mother's Friend" has been in continual use since our grandmother's earlier years and is known throughout the United States it may be easily inferred that it is something that women gladly recommend.

"Mother's Friend" is prepared only in our own laboratory and is sold by druggists everywhere. Ask for a bottle to-day and write for a special book for expectant mothers. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., 307 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

NEGRO CHURCH SALVATION OF AFRICA, SAYS PASTOR

Rev. C. S. Morris Tells Students Missionaries Destined to Redeem Dark Continent

"The negro church of the south is destined by God to redeem Africa. Negro missionaries will carry light to this dark continent where others have failed," predicted Rev. Charles S. Morris, pastor of the Main Street Colored Baptist church, of Norfolk, Va., at the Negro Christian Students' conference at Clark university Friday night.

Morris spoke of the great advantages the negro missionaries would have over their white predecessors in getting at the heart of the African people, and converting them to Christianity.

Bishop W. P. Thirkield, of New Orleans, spoke on "Some Present Day Weaknesses of the Church," and advocated to the five hundred colored students present the sending of strong men into the ministry as a remedy.

Rev. R. E Jones, editor of a negro church paper in New Orleans, "The Southwestern Christian Advocate," spoke on the qualifications for the ministry.

Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, a Welsh negro, connected with the census bureau at Washington, D. C., advocated social and settlement work as a necessary preparation for the ministry.

Expressing the belief that the white man of today was doing everything possible to help the negro race, Booker T. Washington advised the members of the conference Friday afternoon to have faith in the white man, as he was the negro's friend.

Washington called the attention of the students to the growing co-operation between the white people and the negro race in the state and church, and declared that daily a greater degree of co-operation was being reached. He outlined the progress of the negro during the past century, and said that negroes ought to be extremely gratified over the wonderful strides they have made.

Dr. W. D. Weatherford, of Nashville, spoke on "Race Co-operation," and Major R. R. Moton, head of Hampton Institute, Virginia, also addressed the conference.

The sessions will continue three times a day until Monday night. Dr. John R. Mott is presiding over all the meetings.

PROF. J. T. DERRY DELIVERS MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., May 16.—The main court room at the court house was far too small to accommodate the crowds that thronged to participate in Memorial day exercises here yesterday afternoon. Prof. Joseph T. Derry, of Atlanta, made a masterful address, being introduced by Rev. W. R. Foote. Following the exercises at the court house, the crowd adjourned to the Confederate cemetery for the decoration of graves.

The veterans, in a large motor truck, headed the parade to the cemetery.

A Favorite for Fifty Years

Mr. Thomas Clark, 349 Comstock St., New Brunswick, N. J., says: "I was in terrible shape from rheumatism. Doctors failed to help me, I used different remedies with the same result. The pains often kept me awake nights. Dr. Jones' Liniment cured me. I have recommended it to a number of friends and it has become their favorite remedy."

If you have rheumatism you need Dr. Jones' Liniment today. If you let it go till tomorrow, it may become chronic and hard to cure.

BROTHER OF PRESIDENT ENTERTAINED IN ATLANTA

Joseph R. Wilson Guest of Atlantians at Capital City Club Luncheon

A group of prominent Atlanta citizens were guests at the luncheon given at the Capital City club Friday afternoon in honor of Joseph R. Wilson, brother of President Wilson.

The hosts of the occasion were C. W. Olson, W. A. Smith and Frank Reynolds, southern representatives of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company, of Baltimore, Mr. Wilson being at the head of the promotion and development department of this company.

Among those invited to meet Mr. Wilson were Colonel W. L. Peel, Mell R. Wilkinson, Clark Howell, Colonel John Temple Graves, James R. Gray, Shepard Bryan, A. W. Smith and Ernest Woodruff.

Mr. Wilson spent two or three days in Atlanta on business for his company, leaving Friday night for Nashville. Until about a year ago he was political editor of the Nashville Banner. He has a wide acquaintance in the south and many friends in Atlanta, where he has frequently visited.

Discussing the new regional bank system, as provided in the currency law, Mr. Wilson said:

"I have found the insurance business touches the pulse of conditions generally, and present indications point to better times. Everybody with whom I have come in contact on this trip has expressed optimism and had no note of apprehension as to the future.

"I have reason to believe that the new regional banks will be important factors in overcoming the financial depression, which, to a certain extent, has been felt all over America, and I look for their benefits to be noticed very soon."

COURT SAYS DETECTIVE MUST PAY HIS FINE

Decision Holds Atlanta Officer Cannot Make Arrest in Gainesville

That a municipal officer as such has no authority to serve a warrant outside his own municipality is the ruling of the state court of appeals in affirming the judgment of the Hall county superior court in the case of the state vs. E. A. Coker, an Atlanta city detective.

Detective Coker was recently convicted in Hall county on the charge of false imprisonment and fined $50. He carried the case to the court of appeals, which has sustained the lower court. It is now up to the detective to pay the fine.

According to the record in the case Detective Coker, acting under direction of Police Chief Beavers, took out a warrant before an Atlanta justice of the peace, charging H. H. Griggs, of Hall county, with perjury. He went to Gainesville, served the warrant and sought to bring Griggs back to Atlanta for trial.

The case was brought to the attention of the Hall county grand jury which indicted Coker. His trial and conviction followed.

COMMISSION IS AFTER MILEAGE INFORMATION

Prison Body Eager to Help State in Distribution of $100,000 Auto Fund

At the request of members of a legislative committee and in order that information may be obtained which will enable the state to properly distribute the automobile registration fund of more than $100,000 the state prison commission is sending out letters to the officials in each county of Georgia asking for data as to the rural route mileage in each county.

The last general assembly passed a law providing for an annual automobile and motorcycle registration fee of $5 on each machine, the fund thus derived to be appropriated among the counties of the state according to the route mileage in each county. All efforts to obtain accurate information as to the rural route mileage have been unsuccessful, and State Treasurer W. J. Speer, acting under direction of Attorney General Grice, is holding the fund in the treasury until the approaching legislature can provide for a practical distribution of the money.

Visitors Bring Back to Atlanta Glowing Reports of Their Entertainment

Shriners owned Savannah for a day, according to reports brought back by Atlanta Shriners who returned Saturday morning from the trip on which they accompanied the imperial council to the coast city.

Beginning with a breakfast served the visitors at the De Soto hotel shortly after their arrival, the Savannah Shriners and their friends proceeded to carry out a program of entertainment calculated to convince the visitors that Atlanta isn't the only city in the state in which real southern hospitality is dispensed.

The breakfast was followed by an auto trip about the city. After this tour, Yaarab patrol and the Atlanta drum corps paraded the streets in the business section of the city, headed by Alee patrol and band. Early in the afternoon, the visitors were taken by special boat to Tybee, where a "shore lunch" was served. Dinner was also served on the island after which dancing occupied the time until the trip back to Savannah was made at 11:30.

The first of the special trains which brought the Atlanta delegation back left Savannah shortly before 12 o'clock and arrived in Atlanta at 10:10 a. m. On this train came Yaarab patrol and the Atlanta drum corps. Potentate Forrest Adair also came on this train which ran over the Southern. Four other special trains carrying other members of Yaarab patrol and several Shriners from different parts of the country who pass through Atlanta on their homeward trips, came in shortly before noon —two over the Central of Georgia.

FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE ON CRUELTY CHARGES

Continued cruel treatment, which has resulted in wrecking her health and nervous system, is charged to Edwin Mahlon King in the suit for divorce filed in the superior court Saturday by Mrs. Grace Evelyn Cassie King.

The Kings were maried in 1906 and separated on April 6 of this ytar. For the past two years her husband has treated her cruelly, Mrs. King charges. He has repeatedly remained away from home at night, she charges, and would curse and abuse her when she asked him about his whereabouts.

As a traveling salesman King makes a salary of $190 per month and his wife asks alimony and counsel fees.

MAN BLAMES PHONE FOR MATRIMONIAL TROUBLES

James E. Gray, a railroda flagman, blames the telephone largely for his matrimonial troubles, in his suit for divorce filed against Mrs. Ethel Gray in the superior court Saturday.

His work, he says, kept him away from his home at night, but he says he learned from the people with whom he boarded that men would frequently phone his wife in his absence, and that she would then leave the house and sometimes stay away all night.

On the day of the final separation he remained at home, he says, and two men phoned the house calling for his wife.

TORONTO COUNCILMEN IN ATLANTA SATURDAY

They Are Coming to Inspect Atlanta's Sewage Purification Plants

A party of city council members from Toronto, Canada, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday afternoon to inspect this city's sewage purification plants. They will be met by Mayor Woodward and Captain R. M. Clayton, chief of the construction department, and will be taken to the plants in automobiles.

Some weeks ago the mayor of Toronto, H. C. Hecken, and the commissioner of public works came to Atlanta and inspected the plants, and were so impressed with their efficient purification of sewage that they made a report to the city council of Toronto which seemed incredible. When they told the council members that there was less odor around the sewage purification plants of Atlanta than around the waterworks plant of Toronto, the council members found it hard to believe them.

The result of these glowing accounts concerning Atlanta's plants was that the city council voted an appropriation to pay the expenses of a trip to Atlanta to find out if what the mayor and public works commissioner had reported could possibly be true. But the newspapers of Toronto criticised the appropriation as a junket" and council rescinded its action.

Then a number of council members determined to make a trip to Atlanta at their own expense, and these are the ones who will be here Saturday afternoon.

Ambulance Automobile Strikes Aged Veteran as It Speeds to Hospital

While rushing to the Grady hospital in an automobile with his injured son, L. E. Whitter, of East Point, head of the Whitter Manufacturing company, 116 West Mitchell street, ran over J. T. Stephens, 70 years old, of Lakewood Heights, a a Confederte veteran, at the corner of Forsyth and Mitchell streets, Saturday morning.

The veteran was knocked down, and suffered contusions on his right leg, a bruised head, a slight scalp wound and possible internal injuries. Mr. Whitter stopped the machine, took the aged man up, and with two injured passengers instead of one, continued the trip to Grady.

Earnest Whitter, 13 years old, had cut the fingers the fingers of his left hand nearly off, while working at a shaper in his father's factory, which makes furniture and business office fixtures.

"The man stepped directly in front of my car as I turned into Forsyth street," said Mr. Whitter. "We were going down gaade at the timt, not at cessive speed, nd although I slammed on the brakes, they did not hold the car. In my opinion, the accident was unavoidable."

Witnesses agreed with Mr. Whitter in stating that the veteran, not seeing the car, stepped directly in front of it.

At the Grady it was said that the condition of the veteran would not prove serious unless internal injuries developed.

TESTS TO ENTER NAVAL ACADEMY NOT SEVERE

Navy Department Issues Statement That They Are in Reach of Every Boy

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—That the tests required of candidates for admission to the naval academy are not so severe as to be beyond the aspirations of the average American boy is the asserting of the navy department in a statement issued today referring to the entrance examination held at Annapolis on April 21. In support of its claim the department calls attention to the large number of candidates at that time.

The statement is in the nature of an answer to criticisms of the entrance examinations.

At the examinations held April 21, according to the department, it happened not infrequently that all the nominees, principals and alternates, of certain congressmen succeeded in qualifying.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CANDIDATES ARE LIKELY TO FACE PROSECUTIONS

Thirteen in County Primary Race Must File Expense Accounts or Be Indicted

Thirteen candidates at the recent county primary, several of whom were successful, are liable for indictment and prosecution as the result of a failure to make a sworn report of the amount of their campaign expenses.

The state law requires that all candidates, irrespective of whether they win or lose, shall file with theclerk of the superior court a sworn, itemized statement of their expenses, and the sources from which the funds were derived to defray these expenses, within ten days after the date of the primary.

The primary at which county officials for 1914 were named was held on May 5, and Friday was the last day in which to make their statements. So far only the following have filed their statements: Wheeler Mangum, sheriff; Arnold Broyles, clerk of the courts; Hubert L. Culberson, treasurer; A. P. Stewart, tax collector; W. L. Gilbert, successful candidate for the board of county commissions, and Tull C. Waters, defeated candidate, and W. H. Abbott, defeated candidate for tax receiver.

Messrs. Culberson and Broyles had no opposition and consequently paid only the primary entrance fee. A. P. Stewart paid $1,550 to be re-elected tax receiver. It cost W. H. Abbott and Tull C. Waters $1,406.70 and $1,104.50 respectively to make their unsuccessful races. The amount of Dr. Gilbert's expenses is given at $457.20. Sheriff Mangum and his deputies spent $2,700 in retaining their office.

Among those who did not make their returns within the time limit are W. M. Mayo and L. O. Wright, unsuccessful candidates for sheriff; Charles I. Branan, defeated in the race for tax collector; T. M. Armistead, successful candidate for tax receiver and W. F. Wesley, unsuccessful candidate for the same position; and the following men, who made the race for the board of county commissioners: T. J. Hightower, C. G. Turner, Oscar Mills, N. A. Chastain, George B. Findlay, J. W. Maddox and William S. Wier.

Oscar Mills, in the list, was elected, and T. J. Hightower and C. G. Turner are contesting the election to the other position on the board.

Paul Donehoo, who was re-elected coroner without opposition, is also among those who neglected to file any statement of expenses.

In the sweet by-and-by, We shall meet on that beau-ti-ful shore,

(Found on page 485, "Heart Songs")

What word-magic can paint your feelings, when, as the years go by, some far-off tune is whistled in the street, that your mother used to sing to you; or some hand-organ ditty, softened by distance, floats into your window with a strain that you often heard on her lips; or some piano in the neighborhood accompanies a sweet voice with the music that once charmed away all your childish cares and troubles.

What words, we say, can describe these tender memories that come floating to you on the wings of melody. Yet, what would you not give to be able to summon at will these dearest of life's recollections!

"Heart Songs"—a piano or an organ—a woman's voice—be it that of wife—or daughter—or sister—will give you, once again, all your mother's favorites. Every evening, after your day's work, you may soothe your wearied senses with the old songs she used to sing to you. Your children will be the better for singing them and you the better for hearing them. Try it! This paper puts it into your power, almost as a gift.

Now to business.

Villa's idea of mediation with Huerta is to eliminate Huerta.

It is hard luck, having to march to work every morning without the accompaniment of a brass band.

Colonel Roosevelt says he doesn't know yet whether he'll be a candidate in 1916. He probably won't know he is a candidate after the race is run.

The Elks for Atlanta in 1916.

One great achievement calls for another.

Having set a new record in entertaining the Shriners, Atlanta is now bent upon securing a national convention of the Elks. The Elks meet at Denver this year, and it is virtually conceded that next year they will go to Seattle. But in 1916 Atlanta's turn will come.

There will be a line of doughty competitors, of course, and well-laid plans followed by unfagging work are necessary if we are to win. But the plans are already under way, and who that knows Atlanta doubts for a moment that in this, as in all other big enterprises, her people will work shoulder to shoulder until success is achieved?

A national Elks convention is well worth striving for. The Atlanta Elks abundantly deserve and will generously receive the entire community's aid. The Atlanta convention bureau likewise will be stanchly backed up in its admirable ambition.

The Journal pledges its heartiest support to this new and splendid undertaking.

Happy is the man who is too busy to make enemies. Also scarce.

Mexico will soon be called on to decide what to do with an ex-president.

To make a friend of a man, ask his advice and follow it. To make a friend of a woman say nothing and let her do all the talking.

An Unenviable Distinction.

Addressing a national convention at Memphis yesterday, Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, chief statistician of the federal census bureau, said that Georgia is the only State in the Union which has not enacted a vital statistics law.

Do Georgians realize what this means to the reputation and the material interests of their commonwealth? Do they realize the penalty of hindered development and lost prestige that will follow continued neglect of life-and-death bookkeeping? Do they appreciate the fact that Georgia now stands solitary and conspicuous as the one State among all the eight and forty, which has not given its people the benefit of a bureau of vital statistics?

Surely, the Legislature will not fail at its next session to remedy this shameful condition. A State that has no system for the registration of births, deaths, cases of disease and kindred data is woefully behind the times and is unjust to its citizens. Without such records as a guide, it is impossible to know to any degree of certainty the results of campaigns against diseases or to determine just where and how to proceed in combating them. The State appropriates money for anti-tuberculosis work, but it has scant means of learning whether the death rate from tuberculosis is declining or increasing. That is, to say the least, poor business. If the health funds of State and county are to yield due returns, there must be a system of vital statistics in the light of which they can be effectively applied.

Georgia has practically no place or mention in the health statistics published by the national census bureau. The only available figures of the kind are from one or two of our larger cities; and, so, in those reports of the United States government, which deal with health records and conditions and which are read as authoritative throughout the country, Georgia is conspicuous by her absence.

The result is naturally harmful to the State's reputation and progress, for, among the first inquiries of a prospective homeseeker or investor is that of health. The story goes that an Idaho man who contemplated moving his family to South Georgia wrote the United States health officials at Washington, asking for information as to the death rate and sanitary conditions of the community he had in mind. The officials had to reply that as there was no provision in Georgia for gathering vital statistics they were unable to furnish the facts desired. How many times this recurs and how many valuable settlers we lose in consequence, there is no reckoning. But it is certain that so long as Georgia remains without means of attesting its natural healthfulness, it will be at a distinct disadvantage.

Our counties and cities are busily engaged in exploiting their natural resources with a view to attracting new citizens and new capital from other parts of the Union; and the importance of such efforts to the State's upbuilding cannot be overvalued. But how can we expect a due measure of success in this regard, when the State has no standing in the [illegible] health reports?

To [illegible] point the homeseeker to authentic records that convince him of the abundance and variety of Georgia's material resources—its vast mineral treasure, its fertile soil, its bounteous harvests, its broad ranges of unused land ideally suited to cattle raising, its wonderful industrial progress and commercial growth; but when we come to the supremely important matter of health, there is no official record to which we can refer. And, so, the richest of all our natural assets loses much of its appeal.

From the standpoint of economic as well as human interests, it is imperative that the Legislature free Georgia from this handicap by enacting a vital statistics law at its next session. We cannot afford to let it be said another year that this is he only State in the Union which has failed in so important a duty.

Save those decorations. We'll need them again some day.

A saloon may be no house of mirth because it is full of "smiles."

Financial Progress in Georgia and the South.

An uncommonly interesting group of figures is presented in the current issue of the Manufacturers' Record, showing the South's growth in financial power between 1880 and 1914. Georgia's record in this regard is notable.

In 1880 the banking resources of this State were $7,849,727, in 1914 they were $244,036,099. Within the same period, Georgia's banking capital increased from $6,289,279 to $43,722,659, and its bank deposits from $7,923,284 to $120,721,258.

The last few years have been marked by an especially vigorous growth of financial interests. Between 1912 and the beginning of 1914 the resources of the six hundred and ninety-three State banks increased more than five and a half million dollars, their capital stock more than a million, their surplus and profits more than a million, and their deposits nearly sixteen millions.

The resources of national banks in Georgia, according to figures compiled January 14 last, amounted to $108,292,881, their capital to $15,168,500, and their individual deposits to $53,633,989. It is estimated, moreover, that Georgia's corporations represent an aggregate investment of something like five hundred and thirty million dollars.

The South as a whole has progressed wonderfully in financial affairs. As evidence of the general trend, the Manufacturers' Record witnesses the fact that the South today, with a population of 34,700,000, has two thousand and ninety-nine national banks, or four times more than the whole country had in 1880 when the population was 50,400,000. It appears further that the banking resources of the South today are in excess of four billion dollars, or some seven hundred and sixty-five millions more than those of the entire country in 1880. The Record interestingly says in this connection:

> It is most inspiring to know that in thirty-odd years corporate wealth has accumulated in the South to the sum of nearly nine billion dollars, an amount nearly equal to the aggregate wealth of all kinds in the section in 1880, and yielding a net income $600,920,728. National banking has been of slower growth in the South than in the rest of the country, and the capital of national banks today is less than forty-six per cent of the total capital of financial institutions in the South, but more than fifty-two per cent of those in the rest of the country; and the advantage quickly gained by the rest of the country through the circumstances of the founding and early development of the national system has been shared by other financial institutions, with the result that a considerable portion of the financing of undertakings in the South in recent years has been done from other quarters. The wonderful growth of banking capital in the South, however, bringing it to a point of greater per capita strength than that of the whole country in 1880, demonstrates the inherent qualifications of the South which are bound to be exercised, to the great gain of the South, in the freer system of the new currency law."

It is noteworthy that under this system five of the twelve regional banks are to be located in the South, Missouri being classed as Southern. The financial handicaps which this section has suffered in the past will thus be removed, and it will press forward more vigorously and prosperously than ever.

The increase of population, however, will soon replace the absent Shriners.

Atlanta is in third place in baseball, and in first place everywhere else, but then the baseball season is young yet.

Editorials in Brief

A man in navy uniform entered the United States District Court Clerk's room in Brooklyn at noon yesterday and said to Deputy Clerk James L. Reilly: "I am Thomas Gavan, an able bodied seaman aboard the Texas. I have served sixteen years in the navy, but am still a British subject. I have my first citizenship papers. I was told the Texas may sail tomorrow for Mexico. I know the regular naturalization day is Thursday, but I thought there might be some way to obtain my final papers before I leave." Gavan was taken before Judge Chatfield. Asked why he was so anxious to obtain final papers, he said: "If I die, I want to die as the seventeen died who were honored today—as an American citizen." Judge Chatfield convened the court for naturalization purposes. It was said it was the first time the court was ever held for one man outside of the regular citizen-making day. Thanking the court profusely, Gavan slipped his precious document inside his shirt and left happy as a schoolboy.—New York World.

GEN. CROZIER, BOSS OF THE ARMY'S GUNS

By Herbert Corey

WASHINGTON.—By and by some inspired war correspondent will sneak a letter through the censor's lines down in Mexico. And the i. c. will tell of a uniformed aviator's performance on a hydroplane.

"Laden with bombs," the correspondent will say.

But there's no need of going any further. Because the hydroplane will not be laden with bombs—at least, not with bombs that are spelled with two b's. Because that sort of thing is against the conventions of The Hague—and because that particular prohibition was put in those conventions at the suggestion of General William Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance—and because General Crozier is just the sort of a soldier who would have an aviator crucified for disobeying that sort of an order.

Aeroplanes may sail through the blue empyrean until the airmen get dizzy, observing the movements of the enemy. But that is all—pos-i-tive-ly all. Stories in which aviation and bombs get all tangled up with the common, or rathskeller, rum of Mexico are hereby officially discounted.

Crozier isn't particularly well known to the country—which observation applies equally well to all other soldiers who do not get into the "must" stuff on the first page—but he is one of the strongest men in the United States army. As chief of the bureau of ordnance, his duty will be to see to it that the army has all the guns it needs when it needs them, and all the ammunition, and that the ammunition fits the guns, a detail that has been overlooked in some previous affairs.

And he likely will see to it. He has served well in the field—somewhat hampered because things had been forgotten—and after he got back home he has raked the coals to a nice, glowing center and placed a few superior officers on them, and then watched their intellects during the process of reduction to bone ash. Crozier is frank—frank to a fare-you-well. And fearless. He has said things that he positively knew were going to hurt some of the very highest and most influential feelings we have. But he has never yet had to take anything back.

He was a captain, for example, in that march to Pekin during the Chinese trouble. He saw Japanese soldiers bayonet helpless Chinamen, and Russian soldiers kick little Chinese children in the face, and British soldiers loot cities with the advice, approval and assistance of their officers.

Crozier told about it. Whereupon those told on started to say it wasn't true, in clarion tones that gave every evidence of getting more clarion as the day brightened. But after thinking it over—and thinking Crozier over—all the clarion came out of those indignant yelps. Their owners knew he had the goods. When, just to make everyone happy, Crozier allowed that the American soldiers on that march were good soldiers—fine, honest, hard-fighting men—but sloppy.

"It was the fault of the American officers," said Crozier. "They permitted their men to go about slouchy in dress and carriage. There was no excuse for it, for there are enough officers graduated from West Point every year to teach the service better manners."

Mind you, he is enthusiastic about the quality of the American soldier—but he isn't enthusiastic about dirty collars and open blouses and greasy bridle bits. Our arms were better than those of any nation in that Pekin parade, he said, and our clothes were the equal of the best. In spite of the raptures that some critics went into every time they saw a Japanese cart, hauled by a pony and led by a coolie, Crozier demonstrated that the good old four-mule army wagon of our daddies, chauffeured by a man whose vocabulary could raise a blister on the skin of a warship, is the best means of army transport ever invented.

Officers of other commissary services agreed with him, too, after seeing that four-mule and orator combination perform. Evening things up, then, Crozier informed us that our army packsaddle—that western packsaddle that we've been going into spasms about for the past generation—wasn't in it with the packsaddle used by other nations. It destroyed the mule's back too quickly.

That's Crozier's sort. He sees things clearly; he can't be coaxed or ballyhooed into misstating them—or even into keeping silence—and after the dust settles down other folks are very apt to come around to his way of thinking. He doesn't care any more about politics or influence than a goat does for a speedometer. He recently advised against creating a government monopoly in the manufacture of smokeless powder. Many vote-hunting statesmen criticised him. A little later on, just to show that he was right, France abandoned her own monopoly, and begged the manufacturers to begin to make it again. France had come to Crozier's conclusion—that as a safeguard against time of need it was well to have more than one factory ready to go to work.

He put in effect an efficiency system at the Watertown arsenal—and that made trouble with the labor leaders—and he dared the politicians to deny it was good. Just between times he noted that the gun-carriages on which the great disappearing guns are mounted in the coast defense fortifications were not satisfactory. So that he put his head together with the head of General Buffington, and between them they invented a disappearing gun carriage that is superior to that owned by any nation anywhere. Each of these carriages costs $45,000 to build. Several hundreds of them have been built. The royalty on the several hundred would have amounted to a pretty penny. But Crozier and Buffington dedicated their invention to the nation. They never have—and now they never can—touch a penny of profit.

Also, he can keep a secret. The big men of the army—the men of the Leonard Wood class—know Crozier intimately. Last year he went to Paris, saying nothing to nobody, and got married, and came back. It was a love affair of long standing. But he had never felt it necessary to tell anyone about it. And there's one more thing that should be told of the boss of the big guns. He has served as head of the war college; he has commanded a department in the Philippines; he has been a member of the army hierarchy; and he is one of the few officers of equal prominence who dares fight for promotion by selection rather than by seniority.

He's a he-man, Crozier is.

"No, sir," said the youth, "I don't know. But it ain't close enough to prevent me from running yer errands."

He got the job.

"Why?" asked his neighbor, dubiously.

"He came over to my house last evening and borrowed my gun to kill a dog that kept him awake at night."

"Well, what of that?"

"Why," shouted Mr. Wilkins, "it was my dog he killed!"

"Your longevity," repeated the reporter.

There is a judge in a certain eastern city noted for his grouch. The most comical incident has no more effect on his frown than upon a wooden Indian. But one day a lawyer, who had tried in vain to make the judge laugh, walked into court and found the jurist doubled up with mirth. The lawyer hurried to his colleagues to find the reason.

"Dinner to the man responsible for that," he said. "Who told the story?"

Another lawyer drew a sheet of paper toward him and wrote the words, "The judge."

Gentle jocund May I sing
And the joys of gardening!
Bugs, their winter sloth forsaking,
To the lust of life are waking;
Nothing from their gambols safe is—

Cut-worms subterraneous nibble
Early peas the while I scribble;
Canker-worms for blossoms hankering
Practice their cantankerous cankering.
Merrily in mine orchard pale
Coddlings coddle the oyster scale!

How I love these blithsome creatures
With their bland voracious features!
How it shakes me with delight
When my paeony-buds they blight!

A Song of the Sunset

O wind from the golden prairie, sweet from the billowy lea
Where the orbed sun floats at setting like sunset on the sea,
A fragrance, not of flowers, is shaken from your wings;
In my breast a glow,
A burning, not of the sun, at touch of your kisses springs;
And voices, not for the ear, a spirit in me can hear,
Far voices I know!

O tumbling ocean of light, O waves from the westward rolled!
From islands of desire in regions known of old,
From immortal years of hope in the charmed world of the child,
Returns the tide
With the spell of a pristine time when life was free and wild;
And I fly away, away down the vistas of yesterday,
Where dreams abide!

Illusion the wonder-wrought progress! My heart to the past is true,
And vision only is real, and only the vanished I view!
The wraiths of mother's flowers coax me back, enchanted,
To the home she made
In the cabin beside the trail, embowered in vines she planted;
Her roses and mignonette, I feel them blooming yet—
They cannot fade.

Our home, a little isle in a limitless ocean of grass!
Now over my soul again the silencing shadows pass
That fell in the lonesome gloaming—the sorrow so solemnly sweet,
The awe thereof!
How we nestled, like huddling birds, about our mother's feet!
But we never wished to roam; our world was small as home,
As large as love!

We dwelt in wonderland and caught the secrets known
To fairy creatures with wings, and from timid blossoms blown;
We knew the hearts of wild things, frank nature our only book!—
Oh, we were free—
In my heart is a hungry pang as out o'er the plain I look.
But the cabin has crumbled down, and the old trail leads to a town
Where it used to be!

THE BRITISH CRISIS

V.—THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

LONDON.—The house of commons conducts the government of the United Kingdom, and, indeed, of the British Empire, through a committee of its majority faction, this committee being known as the cabinet, or the government, and presided over by the prime minister. This cabinet is always selected and controlled by the majority of the commons, but it may have, and always does have, a few members who are peers and who sit in the house of lords; but in that event, as in all others, he depends for his power and position on the will of the majority of the commons. Whenever the cabinet is defeated in the commons, or when the commons repudiates it by a vote of censure, then the cabinet resigns and the opposition party selects from among its members a committee that takes the offices and the powers of the cabinet and at once becomes the government.

• • •

All this constitutional machinery has an important bearing on the present crisis, precipitated by the attempt to give home rule to Ireland without the consent of the lords, under the provisions of the parliament act described yesterday.

• • •

The whole theory of responsible government by a cabinet holding office at the pleasure of the commons was built up on the apparently immutable fact that there would always be, as there always had been, two parties in British politics. The Tories and the Whigs contested for long, and were succeeded by Conservatives and Liberals. There seemed to be no room for but two political parties.

• • •

But in the fullness of time there came other party divisions for one reason or another, so that now both the government and the opposition are technically at least mere coalitions, or groups, of parties. That fact hampers them in more ways than one, and is particularly powerful in its effect on the course of events in the present struggle.

• • •

When the Liberals won the election of 1885 Mr. Gladstone came into power with a majority of 172 behind him. The Conservatives then had won but one election since 1852 and had been in power but six years in twenty-eight. The Irish Nationalist party had first appeared as a separate group in 1874 with fifty-six members. When the franchise was democratized in the early eighties this group speedily decreased to eighty-two, and it has ever since stood at from eighty to eighty-five—insisting in season and out of season on home rule for Ireland.

• • •

Mr. Gladstone in 1886 became a convert to home rule. There were those who said then that the great light which broke upon him was accompanied by the knowledge that the eighty-two Irish Nationalists in that parliament, by combining with the opposition, would reduce his majority to an unworkable and negligible quantity, just as he had been overthrown by that same Irish-Tory coalition a year earlier.

• • •

So he introduced his home rule bill. Ninety-three of his Liberal associates, led by no less a man than Joseph Chamberlain, deserted the Gladstone banner and voted with the Conservatives against home rule, not only defeating the bill, but overthrowing the Liberal government.

• • •

The Chamberlainites organized a new party which they called the "Liberal-Union party," protesting devotion to the ancient doctrine of the Liberal party, but stoutly maintaining the cause of the continued union between Ireland and England. But in practice the Liberal Unionists and the Conservatives formed so close a union that they soon became practically one party. When Mr. Chamberlain at last adopted the propaganda of tariff reform, which means tariff protection in England, as against the ancient Liberal doctrine of free trade, the Liberal Unionists lost every distinguishing characteristic. The Conservatives continue their organization and party name, but since 1893, when they resisted with the Liberal Unionists the second Gladstone home rule bill, which passed the commons, the two groups have been commonly known by the name of Unionists. Now that the Irish question is again acute, the name "Unionist" is universally used. That is, of course, by themselves. So, while there is a technical coalition on the opposition benches of Conservatives and Liberal Unionists, they are all practically members of one party. That there are sharp factional differences on questions of policy belongs to another story.

• • •

On the government side the situation is much more complicated. The government has to rely not only on the Irish Nationalist party, but also on the Labor party. The ministry is a coalition Liberal-Labor cabinet. The Irish have no place in the cabinet because their party has never permitted one of its members to be tempted by the lure of office, and, however it may vote, it is always technically in opposition.

• • •

To this very day all the Irish members sit on the opposition side of the house, although, without their aid, Mr. Asquith more than once would have been perilously near defeat. The Irish party has but one plank in its platform—home rule. It supports this government because this government has promised home rule. If there were any wavering on the part of the government, the Irish vote could decapitate the cabinet in a twinkling, and the Tory benches would not on such an occasion disdain the Irish vote.

• • •

Now, the Labor group is a different affair. There are in this present parliament 263 Liberals, forty Laborites, eighty-four Irish Nationalists and 283 Unionists. Of the Nationalists eight belong to the O'Brien faction, which repudiates the leadership of Mr. John Redmond, and declines to vote with the Liberal government. This shows that there actually are more Unionists than Liberals in the commons, and that the government is supported solely by its Labor and Irish allies.

• • •

The Labor group, as may be imagined, is radically democratic in tendency, and, as it has opinions on every conceivable subject—and not merely one obsession as have the Irish—it is necessary for Mr. Asquith and his colleagues to incline their ears to receive its counsel.

• • •

The whole Liberal-Labor coalition is called the Radical party by their friends the Tory opposition. But every once in a while a Tory orator will speak most graciously of what he terms the "Moderate Liberals." Now, the Moderate Liberals are chiefly English. The government is very largely controlled, at least in its outward aspects, by the Scotch-Welsh-Labor element which glories in the name of "Radical." And these self-confessed Radicals are heard to complain, in private, of course, of the reactionary tendencies of a certain section of the Liberal party. These are the ones of whom the Tories speak gently as "Moderates." The Radicals call them "Whigs."

• • •

The Whig element in the present Liberal party is a survival of the old Whig aristocracy, and is Liberal by reason of historic and hereditary sentiment. Some of its members are no doubt actuated by the belief that they can better stop the drift toward socialism by remaining in the frankly democratic party than they could by going over to the aristocratic opposition. It is significant that no one calls himself a Whig.

• • •

This survival is curiously akin to one that was the same in name, if not in character, in American history. When the old American Whig party died in the south, and after the war the Democratic party became supreme there, an occasional Democratic leader would oppose the popular tariff policy of his party and favor protection. Nine times out of ten his neighbors who did not agree with him on the tariff would point out that it was his old Whiggery asserting itself in the form of protectionism.

BAPTIST COMMITTEE MAKES MANY DRASTIC SUGGESTIONS

Re-draft of By-Laws and Sweeping Changes Outlined by Efficiency Committee of Southern Baptist Convention

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 15.—Sweeping changes in the constitution and by-laws of the convention, drastic recommendations covering the relations of boards and their administrative and co-operative adjustment, a clear outline of the Baptist position, and a plea for co-operation and Christian union, were contained in the report submitted to the Southern Baptist convention here today by the commission of efficiency.

Taking the position that the by-laws of the convention "required rearrangement, amendment and supplement," the commission recommended a complete recasting of the by-laws in order that the entire work of the convention might be simplified as far as possible. The redraft of the by-laws was submitted for action by the convention. In regard to the business of the convention the commission recommended that secretaries of boards request one speaker to prepare beforehand a speech upon any subject to be discussed, and that the remaining time be free for consideration of such a subject.

MULTIPLICITY OF COMMITTEES.

Declaring that in the past there have been too many separate committees and reports on various phases of the general reports of the various boards, the report urged that these reports be presented as usual on the first day of the convention, in printed form, the secretaries emphasizing such particulars as they may desire and "that each report, as a whole, be made the order of business during a morning session" and discussed as already suggested.

It was suggested that morning sessions be devoted to discussions as outlined, that the afternoon be left open for meetings of important committees and sectional meetings, and that inspirational meetings with selected speakers be held at night.

Regarding the work and relations of the convention boards, the commission reported that the established plan of organization of home missions, foreign missions and Sunday school boards should not be changed "and that their present location at Richmond, Nashville and Atlanta conserves the best interests of the Southern Baptist convention." Declaring that these boards are being effectively conducted, the report recommended that the convention instruct these bodies "to maintain affectionate relations with each other," and that "hereafter no large, general movement, appealing to the denomination, shall be launched by any one of these boards without consultation with the others and the proper submission of the convention." Other regulations affecting the general boards also were made.

RECOMMENDS BUDGET.

For the better conducting of the financial affairs of the convention, the report recommended the adoption of a budget, apportioned to the various states. The commission suggested that state organizations apportion the amounts to their district associations, to be by them allotted to the various churches. Regularity in giving to benevolent objects as well as to church expenses was urged, the whole round of church benevolence to "receive due and proportionate support."

The subject of Christian union and denominational efficiency, as viewed by the southern Baptists, was set forth at length in the report, with the recommendation that the convention adopt it in full as to the clear expression of the position of the organization. "This convention rejoices in the many evidences of increasing interest in Christian union among Christian people everywhere," said the report. "We are also in hearty accord with every movement and cause in which Christians of every name may take part without doing violence to the sacred mandates of conscience and without impairing their sense of loyalty to Christ." Discussing denominational efficiency the commission reported that it believed the highest efficiency of the Southern Baptist convention in the propagation and confirmation of the gospel would be attained by observance of "strict loyalty to Christ," by "fostering and multiplying denominational schools" and by complete alignment of denominational forces with the program of Christ.

To the same end the commission urged that renewed and increased emphasis be placed on education and training, and that the people of the church work earnestly to promote the internal peace and harmony of the denomination.

"We believe that in this way," added the report, "we can render the greatest service to other Chrsitians and most surely and speedily promote their union on the holy scriptures, the only possible base of a real and abiding Christian union."

AN INSURGENCY CONVENTION.

"This session of the Southern Baptist convention will go down in history as the insurgency convention," writes the Rev. Alex W. Bealer. "For years there has been a feeling in the hearts of the rank and file of the Baptists who attend the conventions that the annual sessions were being run by the different general boards. The talk has been that the brethren in charge of them had unconsciously drifted into this condition. In recent years the speeches that were made were from brethren selected by the boards, and year after year practically the same men appeared upon the platform. The man who was not selected to make a speech hesitated to take the floor, feeling that he was thrusting himself where he was not wanted.

A FEELING OF UNREST.

"It has been the custom in the past for the general boards to send representatives into the different states to collect money without consulting the state mission secretaries. The boards have multiplied their agencies, each one being divided into a number of departments. The men in charge of these departments have lal been anxious to succeed and they have been seeking an entrance into the churches. Sometimes the pastors and the people have been crowded to such an extent that they have been greatly embarrassed. There has been a feeling of unrest on account of this condition.

PERSONNEL OF COMMITTEE.

"It took shape last year in the appointment of the committee on efficiency. In order to do no injustice to the secretaries of the boards and to the president of the seminary they were added to the committee. It was composed of E. C. Dargan, Georgia; John E. White, Georgia; J. B. Gambrell, Texas; W. W. Landrum, Kentucky; William Ellyson, Virginia; G. C. Savage, Tennessee; C. P. Senter, Missouri; J. M. Frost, Tennessee; R. J. Willingham, Virginia; B. D. Gray, Georgia, and E. Y. Mullins, Kentucky.

"The prevailing sentiment of the delegates is that the convention has found itself, and it will never return to the old order. From this time forward the boards will express the sentiment of the Baptist denomination and not the sentiment of a single board. The report of the efficiency committee was not disposed of today. It will be taken up for final action on Saturday afternoon. The question of consolidating the three boards will be sent back to the committee to be considered for another year."

BIBLE SALES INCREASE IN MEXICO, DESPITE WAR

Mrs. F. S. Hamilton Has Charge of American Bible Society's Agency

Mrs. F. S. Hamilton is in charge of the American Bible Society agency in Mexico, and she not only remained at her post but in spite of disturbed conditions increased Bible sales in that country last year. She stayed in the City of Mexico until American marines landed at Vera Cruz, and with others she was forced to flee. Her correspondents, usually depended on to help sales, were scattered and discouraged; and only about twenty out of thirty faithful colporters were able to keep at work. Railroad transportation was interrupted and books could not be sent into many districts. Horses, if good animals and worth stealing, usually were stolen, no matter which army held the field, and so there was little left save foot travel.

Yet no fewer than 911 towns were visited, 23,369 volumes circulated—more Bibles, more testaments, more Scripture portions, increases all along. Nor were these all of the difficulties. Money of all kinds was scarce. Most Mexicans of grade who buy Bibles not only live as they earn, but live before they earn, and often promises to pay at pay day find debtors rather more hard up at pay day than at other times. Yet, out of the more than 23,000 volumes only 3,850 were donated.

Reporting to the society for herself and her colporters, Mrs. Hamilton says conditions in Mexico as a whole are worse than a year ago; but that armies, bandits, floods, persecution, rarely scare away Bible colporters, nor did they in Mexico last year. Crossing a river in a dory, with a bag of Bibles and two companions, one of the latter deliberately upset the boat in order to drown the colporter and prevent Bible distribution. The colporter was the only one of the three who could swim. He saved himself, and then generously saved the others. All that suffered were the Bibles from water. In one town in Lower California, where difficulties were exceptional, the extraordinary end came in the shape of an invitation to speak in the town hall, and everybody came out to listen.

SALVATION ARMY OPENS WORLD CONGRESS SOON

Of 700 Americans Who Will Attend, 100 Will Continue Work Abroad

NEW YORK, May 16.—It is now admitted that at least one hundred of the seven hundred American Salvation Army officers and delegates, coming from Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, New Orleans, Pittsburg and almost every city and going to London on May 30 to attend the Army World Congress there, will not come back. Instead, they will be sent to Australia, South Africa and to India, possibly also to the Far East, as expert workers to develop these countries in better army methods after the American pattern. A reason is that the Salvation Army has now made in America, under Commander Eva Booth, greater progress than has been made in any country, not even in England itself. Hence the demand for American workers. No fewer than four Boston officers will be sent to distant fields, it is said.

It is also stated that the next world congress, after this London one, is to be held in New York. General Booth is claimed to have given at this early date his consent to such plan. There will be at the London congress, opening on June 11 next, fully 50,000 delegates and visitors. There will be 5,000 bandsmen alone. Fully a dozen bands are going from this country in the 700 delegates and sail from here May 30.

The specific purpose of this congress is to gather momentum, through education, conference and exhibits, for great things that are planned during the next decade throughout the world. These things include cleaning up conditions in many foreign cities, the raising of vast sums of money, the erection of training schools and the perfecting of armies in countries wherein it has not yet entered in force. Just now some of its money campaigns in common with other money raising dates, are postponed because of Mexican troubles. This fall, however, a $500,000 campaign is on in Pittsburg and a $2,000,000 one in the whole country, chiefly in Chicago and New York.

WORST SMELLER IS BEST SELLER AMONG MODERN-DAY BOOKS, SAYS NEW HEAD OF SOUTH'S BAPTISTS

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 16.—Responding to the presentation of the new building, Dr. Lansing Burrows, of Americus, Ga., president of the Southern Baptist convention, criticised sharply the literature of the age. After recounting the great achievements of the Sunday School board, he said:

"And now we stand before the door of opportunity. The indomitable industry of the destroyer of human souls adapts his energies of shifting conditions. His most audacious attack is now upon the literature of the age. The three past generations have cultivated the reading habit. Men have grown story-mad and dramatically insane. The novalist and the dramatist nave the strongest influence upon the present generation. They bring no glad tidings for its inspiration to nobler things. They are men with microscopes fastened upon social bacteria and never upon the glinting stars.

"When with the incisiveness of their practiced pen they have destroyed a microbe they have destroyed the healthy tissue upon which it had feasted. They are like a foolish man who burns down his stable to be rid of fleas. They defend their atrocities by the plea that they are describing life as it is. They do not; they show us the rotten cancers of life. They make the great city the theater of life. They present to us the vast metropolis of New York, with its great white ways, blatant with its vulgar extravagancies, reeking with the odious smells of its sensuality, a roar with the shouts of its chorus girls and its sodden spendthrifts, a homeless, Christless, narrow-orowed and shrivcled-hearted worshipers of mammon and of lust, and they tell us this is life.

"There is no more provincial place on the continent says one who knows, than New York; no place to see life but life shriveled in the neat of passion, with men bereft of noble manhood and lofty purpose and women pictured as ox-eyed and tinted with peroxide, who dread fat more than sin and who regard pimples as their direct enemy. Of their books, the best seller is the worst smeller. Of their dramas they revolve about the seventh commandment. Let them picture the scarlet women and the married rake and they lack for neither readers nor spectators."

Dr. Burrows said there are men who would teach children the deepest mysteries of life and being and refuse them the book of God. The church's opportunity lay in the publication in the new building of clean, sober, uplifting literature.

With reference to the Sunday school board's work, the speaker said that with all the efforts put forth by the Louisville committee, established in 1890, there were found only 3,532 schools with an enrollment of 274,225.

"As the results in part of the activities of our Sunday school board there are reported in the statistics published this year 16,298 schools with an enrollment of 1,491,426.

METHODIST PUBLISHING BUSINESS INCREASES

In Four Years Gains $1,000,000—Net Profit of $250,000

OKLAHAMA CITY, May 14.—The business of the publishing house of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, for the four years ending February 28, 1914, shows an increase of nearly one million dollars over the immediately preceding quadrennium, with a net profit to the church of an amount exceeding a quarter of a million dollars. The total sales of the Nashville, Tenn., publishing house, and the branches at Dallas, Tex., and Richmond, Va., during the period amounted to $3,543,927.34. The profits amounted to $320,208 from the Nashville house, $26,263 from the Dallas house and $23,529 from the Richmond house, or a total of $370,001. From this amount of profits must be deducted the sum of $115,979, which represents depreciation in value of machinery, loss on personal accounts, etc., leaving a total net gain of the three houses of $254,021.54.

These statements are contained in the report of the book committee to the general conference which is in session here.

Dr. Ogden's Subject

"Playing in the Streets" will be the subject of Dr. Ogden's Sunday evening sermon at the Central Presbyterian church. The gathering of Shriners in our city will be used as the point of departure for a discussion of the value of play in the upbuilding of human character. The subject of the morning sermon will be "God's Dealing With His Banished Ones."

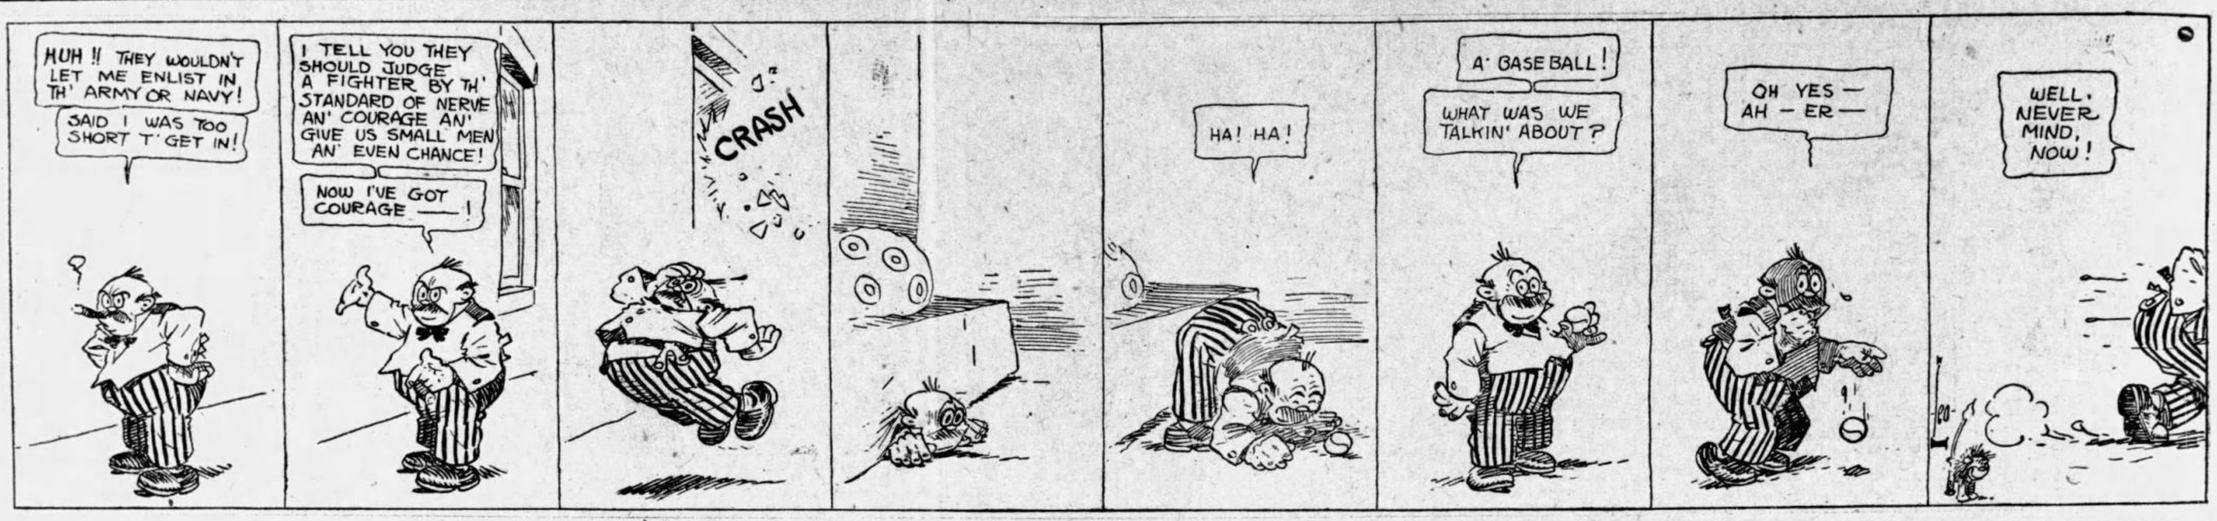
DRU

Georgia Beat Tech Easily; Teams Play Final Game at Grant Field

LITTLE PAL---SPEAKING OF WAR -BY LEO



THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

For three seasons Jennings, Cobb, Crawford & Co., the well-known institution, tore the American league into a number of shreds and galloped home with the bacon.

This old Tiger clan from 1907 through 1900 carried more pep and all-round hustle than any ball club that has entered a campaign in fifteen years. It had more average ambition and a generally keener desire to win.

Then a combination of too much success and a cave-in of the pitching staff threw it back into the ruck. The old pep faded and ambition waned. It flared up at spasmodic intervals in 1911, but the flaring was a natural process. For the stuff wasn't there to go the gait.

INTO 1914.

Today it looks like old times again in the Tiger camp. The old pep is back in bulk—linked with the old ambition. The club is hustling and fighting, and in the lurid eyes of Messrs, Jennings, Cobb, Crawford, Bush, etc., there is the old-fashioned pennant gleam.

The Tigers have come back—for a spell at least—and we have an humble hunch that they are pretty likely to stick around.

THE TIGER OUTLOOK.

Having the old hustling spirit and the old ambish, the query naturally arises as to whether or not Jennings has the material to wage successful warfare for the flag.

We don't know. But he has a good ball club and one fully capable of carrying even the Mackmen to the final stretch.

He has a good working catcher in Stanage. He has in Dubuc, Mains, Dauss, Hall and Covaleskie five good pitchers and at least three others of promise.

He has bolstered up the right wing of his infield with Burns and Kavanaugh, two firstclass entries. Bush is the same old Bush—one of the best. And Moriarty has suddenly improved 50 per cent in every way, according to those who have followed him all the year.

Add to this Cobb, Crawford, Veach and High for an outfield and the answer is fairly obvious.

Before the season opened we figured the Tigers in a range from fourth to sixth place. They'll beat this by a dozen laps. The club is far stronger than we figured it would be—good enough to finish third at least and with any break in luck to be a strong pennant contender.

Taken all in all—in both offensive and defensive strength—it is the best balanced club we have seen through the mists and mazes of this terrible spring.

It has the punch and the speed. It has the fielding strength and it is merely a question of the pitchers holding up and performing their share. If they do—well, it's no cinch that John Franklin Baker will break up another world series.

COMPARING THE TIGRS.

Just at present Detroit, even with the Cobb-Crawford artillery, hasn't the wrecking wallop of the Mackmen.

But Jennings undoubtedly has greater defensive strength.

He hasn't any one great pitcher like Walter Johnson to bank on, but he has a punch that Washington has never known—or shown.

He is stronger defensively than Mack and stronger offensively than Griffith. His club—right now—looks to be better balanced than any rival in sight.

ABOUT DUE.

"Pennant-winning machines," remarks Hughey, "are not built up in a day. It took McGraw from 1905 to 1911 to get running again out in front. It took Mack from 1905 to 1910.

"We finished our spurt in 1909 and it has taken us five years to get back in the running again where we have a fair chance to stick. This American league for 1914 looks to be more of an open proposition than any we have had since 1908, when half the league was bundled under one blanket down the way to the wire. But I am well fortified now in every department against injuries or mishaps, and if my pitching staff can go the distance—as I believe it can—we'll be somewhere right around."

THE OLD GUARD.

One remarkable feature of the Tiger dash is the great work displayed by the old guard who figured extensively in the flag days of 1909. Cobb and Crawford are fielding brilliantly and batting with the same old clout. Donie ush is daily displaying his best product at short, with a better tendency toward hitting the ball. Moriarty at third is doing the best work of his career and Stanage is working harder and catching better ball than he has shown in the last three years.

TRAINING WINNERS.

Trainer Harry Tuthill in another who sees no reason why the Tigers shouldn't win. Dr. Tuthill developed the winning habit at the Army last fall, when he conditioned the West Point eleven for its striking demonstration against the Navy.

He is said to have inserted the same germ in the Tigers that he used for the Cadets and at the proper moment, if ever headed, Jennings will start a remarkable display of forward passes.

Up to the moment of stumbling to press Cobb has only amassed the average of .330—which is a terrible indictment on the spring we have suffered, as Ty is best under balmier conditions.

FULLERTON'S GOSSIP

The heighth of imposition is reached when a fellow who passes your auto on the road makes you eat his dust and then summons you to back up his declaration that he wasn't going fifteen miles an hour.

The dopester who is strongest with the owners usually does not stand very high with the fans.

CONUNDRUM.

If the Pari muteul system helps improve the breed of horses and a gelding wins a derby what is a legislature?

We sincerely hope Bill Sweeney insured himself in one of his own companies against getting canned.

FABLE.

Phoepides had just finished his run from Marthon to Athens and fallen dead. The Alpha Alpha Upsilon committee snapped their watches and examined his sandals carefully. "No record," the committee reported. "The sandals are wrong."

Moral—Look at the trade-mark.

Well, anyhow; all that the Chicago Cub fans ever said about Murphy sounds mild now. The new president hasn't "got it" and they don't "havetogivittohim."

Sam Crawford, having been around the world, seems to be trying to hit every ball pitched to him over the same route.

Give it to Jack Knight. Having played for everyone else, he reserved his real ability to help out Jimmy Sheckard. Jack knows a good manager when he meets one.

We observe by the papers that golf has been added to the reasons why a college man should not attend classes.

IFS.

If the Athletics had the White Sox pitching staff they would have won all but two games this season.

If the Chifeds had kept Seaton they would be leading the race.

If Cleveland had permitted Blanding and Kahler to stay jumped they would be two games better off.

If the Chicago White Sox had made 3 runs each game they would be in first place.

Ty Cobb Still Closing Up on Rival Batters

Peach Now Stinging Ball for An Average of .315--Gained Eight Points, and Overhauled Five Rivals During Week

CHICAGO, May 16.—Ty Cobb's steady advance to the front among the American league batters was the feature of the race for hitting honors this week. The latest records show him in eighth place with an average of .315, an increase of eight points and an advance of five places since last week. Two weeks ago he ranked thirty-eighth, with an average of .240. Jackson, of Cleveland, leads the batters with .407. Then come Crawford, Detroit, .375, and Lelivelt, Cleveland, .346. Yale a Favorite CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—Yale was a pronounced favorite for the twenty-third track meet with Harvard today. Of the previous meets Harvard has won 12 and Yale 10.

If Snowy Baker keeps on his emigration movement he'll populate Australia. Wish he'd let us name a half a dozen to take with him and keep there.

After inviting Cheape to accompany them, the British poloists found they were kind of short on cash .So they invited Price to go along.

Dawson Set New Driving Record

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.—Joe Dawson, who two years ago won the annual 500-mile race here, yesterday broke the speedway record for one lap on the 2 1-2-mile course when he circled it in 1 minute, 36 2-5 seconds. His average speed was better than 93 miles an hour and part of the time he went faster than 100 miles an hour. The former record was 1:37.

The collection of speed demons now making trial runs over the speedway course is doubtless the most famous that ever congregated for a single event either in this country or abroad. Several foreign drivers including Jules Goux, last year's winner, are here along with other famous American drivers. Among the latter are Gil Anderson, Barney Oldfield, Earl Cooper, Tezzy Tetzlaff and many others. Practically all preparations have been finished for the big race on Memorial day, when a record breaking crowd is expected.

HANS WAGNER.

BY FULLERTON.

A group of the White Sox were standing in front of their hotel at Boston listening to Harry Sutor, the left-hander who pitched by theory. Sutor, never having seen Hans Wagner, was explaining how he would pitch to the Flying Dutchman.

"I'd drop two slow curves on the outside corner," he remarked. "He'd probably foul one. Then I'd shoot two high and outside, wasting them. Then he'd expect me to come back with a slow twister on the out corner and I'd cross him with a fast one."

Cole, a busher outfielder, who had been listening, turned suddenly, sprinted across the street and stood looking upward an instant. With hanging head and dejected air he strolled back.

"What's the matter?" asked Sutor. "What were you doin?"

"I was chasing that fast one you pitched to Wagner," replied Cole.

Fite, waddled away from the skinny members of the club in the annual fat-lean baseball contest here yesterday, winning the game by the decisive count of 15 to 7. In the beginning, the leans had a very slim chance to get away, making the first run, but the fats secured a big lead in the second inning, and held it through the remainder of the game.

The game was filled with thrilling circus stunts, keeping the crowd of several hundred people in a roar of laughter. Lem Stone, of the fats, brought back memories of the good old days, when backstops caught with only their meat hands, by wearing in addition to his baseball togs his handsome beard.

Billikens Hit Hard and Won Friday; Today's Game at 3 o'Clock

Billikens Get Third Game by Score of 13 to 4

Gilks' Men Jumped on Jap Efird Early, and Continued Batting Streak, When Price Was Substituted – Daley Hit Homer

Manager Gilks' Billikens got ample revenge Friday for the two defeats handed them by the Crackers when they piled up a score of 13 to the locals' 4.

Jap Efird essayed to pitch for the Smithmen, but was unable to hold the visitors safe. In the first round after Baker had doubled, Jud Daley drove out a circuit smash which netted the Billies two tallies. After this Efird was pounded heavily until Gil Price was sent to the rescue in the fourth stanza. However the first two balls the southpaw hurled were hit for singles. The Bills poled out a total of six hits which accounted for four tallies in this inning. They added five more to this before the humiliation ended.

Buscher went the entire distance for the visitors. While a bit wild, he pitched good ball in the pinches, holding the Smithmen to six bingles, which he kept well scattered.

Manager Smith's team presented the same line up as on Thursday while Manager Gilks shook up his line up. He sent Hollander to the lead off position and shifted Jud Daley to third place. Evidently his change had the desired result, judging from a box score.

It was ladies' day at the park and the fair sex attended in large numbers. In fact most of the tickets went through the turnstile marked "pass gate."

The two teams play the last game of the series at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon, festivities starting at 3 o'clock in order to allow the teams to catch an early train. The Crackers go to Mobile where they open a series with the Gulls on Sunday, while the Billikens go back home. Black will probably hurl for the Montgomery club and will be opposed by Perryman or Browning on the slab for the locals.

The visitors bunched four hits, one of which was a triple by Mullen, with two errors, and scored four runs in the first inning off Bagby. Early Game at Poncy Today

Beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon the Crackers will tackle the Billikens in the final game of the present series. This game will be started half an hour earlier than the usual time, in order that the Crackers may get an early train for Mobile, where they open with the Gulls tomorrow afternoon. Following the series with Lord's charges, the Smithmen travel to New Orleans, where they play four games with Dobbs' Pelicans. This series completes the trip, and the Crackers come back home for a single series with the Gulls at Ponce de Leon, beginning May 25.

In the meantime, the Billikens leave for their home lot, where they meet the Lookouts. If they put on a few such hitting fests as was produced at Ponce de Leon Friday afternoon, they are going to afford a bit of rather rough going for the league leaders. This afternoon's game should be a hard-fought battle. The home folks are exceedingly anxious to grab the final contest, in order that they may be as well fortified as possible for the hard battles that they are likely to encounter at home. On the other hand, the Bills want this battle, to make an even break on the series. Manager Smith will probably start Browning or Perryman, while Gilks will doubtless pin his faith to Black, his young southpaw.

GEORGIA TOOK FIRST

By Innis Brown

A liberal application of the old ash furniture to the service of Smooey Eubanks at Grant field Friday afternoon enabled the Georgia boys from Athens to romp home with an easy victory over the Yellowjackets in the first game of the local series, the final score standing 9 to 2. In addition to cinching the series with the Jackets with three in a row, the Beanies also clinched their claim on the championship of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association.

Just a week before the Red and Black hosts had wrung a victory from the Jackets' curve artist, mainly because his supports bucked and bent under pressure, allowing counters to ooze through, where tightly calked seams would have held the onslaughts without damage. But Friday "Smooey" stood sponsor for the damage himself. The Athens boys began early on his offerings, and the resounding whack of safe hits became a familiar sound before he was shooed to cover, to permit young Garlington, a tow-headed youngster, who showed considerable wares during the remainder of the game. Eubanks' curve ball was working nicely, though his control was off in spots. But the Georgia batters were taking their time, and tapping his hooks and shoots just over the inner rampart, and too close in to be intercepted by the outer guard. Not until late in the game did the Georgia batters take any full, healthy swing at the ball, and the wisdom of their method of attack in the early rounds was clearly proven by the ill success which they met in turning back Garlington's stuff with hard swings.

The Georgians clearly outclassed the Jackets, and the latter really never had a look in. Hitchcock was hurling a nice game, and whenever a Jacket reached first, he was in deadly peril of being doubled up by the swift work of the opposing infield. Unable to hit Hitchcock with any degree of success, and bucking such tough sledding, once they got a runner on, the local collegians were strictly up against it. This was true largely because of the fact that Bean's men were pummeling Eubanks steadily. Had Garlington taken the slab at the beginning, and retained his effectiveness along the full route, the two might have been battling until dark, since the youngster was working a nice game during his entire time.

Viewed purely from a critical standpoint, the game was no very artistic affair. Both teams erred several times, and the contest was a rather long drawn out affair. But on the other hand, interest was at a high pitch and rooting by both factions in the stands was spirited. After the Georgians grabbed off a five-furlong lead, the Jackets stuck manfully to their guns, and encouraged their entry. Furthermore the team was in there fighting like Trojans right on down until the last man went out in the ninth. The Georgia boys present were mindful of the fact that the victory meant a championship for them, and as soon as the team took a commanding lead, they mixed a bit of cheering with their other lines, concerning the Champions, who fear no harm.

As stated above the Athenians lost no time in taking liberties with Eubanks as soon as the game started. Ginn was an easy out, but Clements slammed one to left that went for two bags. McWhorter poled a hot one through short, and Clements went to third. McWhorter stole, and the pair counted on Henderson's single to left. Again in the next frame, Owens singled to right. Holden lifted a low foul to Witherington on his attempt to sacrifice, but Torbett dropped one safe in right, and Owens checked in at second. Burr fumbled Ginn's grounder and the bags were full. Clements whaled a single to right, and both Owens and Torbett scored. Clements permitted himself to be caught in a chase off first, and Ginn raced home. When the play was made to catch Ginn at home, Clements made second safetly.

Not content with a lead of five runs, the Georgians kept right on after Eubanks in the next frame. With one down, Hitchcock walked. Burr allowed a throw from Eubanks to catch the Georgia hurler off first to get by him, and the runner advanced to second. Owens slammed another single to right, and Hitchcock pulled up at third. Owens stole, and the two scored on Torbett's triple to right, after Holden had gone out on strikes. The fourth round marked the appearance of Garlington, and the Georgians were blanked. They came back, however, with one in the fifth, and another in the sixth.

Tech got men on in several of the innings, but were never able to get them into counting territory until the eighth. Tyler Montague singled to center, and went up two bases on two wild pitches by Hitchcock. He scored, when Burr was being thrown out to Henderson by Harrison. Johnson singled over second and stole. He scored on Pound's hit into right field. Pound took second on the throw-in, but was left stranded when Witherington popped to Hitchcock.

The two teams get together again this afternoon for the final game of the series between the two teams. A large delegation from Athens will come over on a special train to see the game, and a gala occasion is promised. Coach Bean will send in Corley, while Coach Heisman will doubtless place his dependence on Pitts. Both teams will fight as hard for this remaining battle, as though the series depended on it. Tech wants to escape the ignominy of a complete whitewash on the series, while the Athenians are equally as desirous of putting it over the Jackets for four straights.

RENEWED BULL SUPPORT CAUSED RISE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 6 to 21 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—Influenced by strong cables and unfavorable weather in the southwest, the cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 5 to 10 points. Active covering by Wall street advanced late months into new high ground. Liverpool was a fair buyer of old crop positions and private cables explained the strength there as due in part to reports that 12,000 bales of cotton had been destroyed by fire in Galveston. Further rains in Texas and a low barometer over the southwest, suggesting showery conditions over Sunday sustained prices after the opening.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—In the face of yesterday's moderate decline on this side Liverpool came in 3½ English points higher this morning and influenced the local market to an initial advance of 6 to 7 points on old crop months, 7 and 8 points on August and September respectively and 9 to 11 points on more distant positions. One to two points were lost on early realizing.

A renewal of buying for the long account, combined with more or less short covering, sent prices to a still higher level during the forenoon, July passing the 13 cent and October the 12 cent mark, the full advance from the opening level standing at the close 7 to 10 on the new.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—Weather conditions and prospects are again very unfavorable. The map shows continued fair and cool weather in the northwestern quarter of the belt. Indications are for generally fair of the Mississippi. Cloudy unsettled and rainy weather in the rest of the belt with danger of another rain disturbance coming over Sunday on the western states.

It was probably this unfavorable outlook which caused the strength in Liverpool today where futures closed 4 to 5 higher than due; spot prices unchanged sales 6,000.

Galveston reports between 10,000 and 11,000 bales destroyed by fire yesterday. The last New York dry goodss reports read better. "Cloth is reported steady and there is a better inquiry for yarns."

The market gained about ten points at the start and showed a strongly bullish tendency. Conservaism over Sunday restricted support today and there is naturally some hesitation around 12 cents for new crops, but conditions in old crops are so strong that the chance for an advance seems unlimited if strong interests should take hold of the situation. The premium of only 5 points on July in New York over October is entirely too small and does not do justice to the bullish facts in old crops.

Spots here are firm and higher to buy with a constant and steady demand.

Statistics today were very bullish. Four interior towns alone show a loss in stock of 6,000 bales.

The market continues firm and in spite of restricted Saturday support prices advanced to 13c for July and 12.06 for October.

Weather conditions will continue to be the ruling factor during the coming week.

ORATORICAL CONTESTS ARE HELD IN NEWTON COUNTY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

OXFORD, Ga., May 16.—In the historic old town of Oxford which bears numerous traditions along educational lines the second annual Newton county school fair and oratorical contests were held Friday.

The first prize in recitation was won by Miss Jean Patrick, of Brick Store, and the first prize in declamation by Kellar Melton, of Oxford.

Palmer institute, situated at Oxford, won the largest number of prizes in the two branches of the spring school feature. A wooden bridge modeled after the bridge Caesar built across the Rhine was an attractive exhibit in the Oxford school's display. The bridge was constructed by Warren Quillian and Kellar Melton, of Oxford.

The day's exercises were in the charge of County School Commissioner J. O. Martin, and Miss Clyde Willis, instructor in domestic science.

Miss Celeste Parrish, one of the state superintendents in county school work was a visitor and made a short address to the gathering. She was presented by Prof. H. H. Stone, chairman of Newton county's board of education.

Among the prominent teachers of Georgia who attended the exercises today were County School Commissioner Wright of Putnam county, County School Commissioner Carrot of DeKalb county, County School Commissioner Bird of Morgan county, Miss Estelle Colclough, domestic science instructor of Greene county.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS DULL AND IRREGULAR

Price Changes Were Small, and Trading Was Highly Professional All Day

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—A sharp setback in American stocks at London registered its effect on prices here at the opening of the market today. Most of the international shares were lower, Steel, Amalgamated, Union Pacific and Reading, the speculative leaders, all lost large fractions. Although the undertone was heavy, the movement was not uniformly downward, as a few shares, including St. Paul and Canadian Pacific, showed improvement. Trading was slow and no attempt was made to extend the opening losses. The list stiffened slightly after the first few minutes.

Early heaviness, due to the decline of prices in London, was of short duration but after the losses had been recovered the list eased off again and the session ended with a majority of small declines.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—The cotton market has advanced during the past week owing to the combined firmness of old crop supplies, and renewed anxiety regarding the new crop start as a result of rains in the western belt and dry, cool weather east of the river. General business has not been active but there has been a good demand for near months from fore'gn or local shorts, while there has been some trade and investment buying of late deliveries, based on expectations that continued large requirements will make the market very sensitive to unfavorable crop reports during the growing season. Exports of American cotton to Great Britain have been relatively light this season, and private advices attribute the near month strength in Liverpool to a comparatively small stock of tenderable cotton at that point. Strong English trade interests are now announced to be holding May-June contracts, in order to secure control of the available spot supply, and the Liverpool situation has been accompanied by active straddle buying or covering here at the widened differences. It is reported that some of the cotton taken up locally on the first May notices for southern interests has been retendered and a few small shipments have arrived here from the south, chiefly via Galveston, but May increased its premium over July to about 53 ponts during today's trading, selling at the predicted 13 cent lever, or about $7.50 a bale above the low record of last March. The big domestic mill consumption during April, as reported by the census bureau, contributed to the firmness of old crop months, which were also influenced toward the close of the week by reports of an improved spot demand from Manchester.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Miller & Co.: We think it wise to keep hands off the old crop months, confining commitments to the new crop positions which will continue controlled by the day to day climatic vagaries.

Logan & Bryan: We suggest buying for the time being.

Norden & Co.: We would buy new crop on any decline.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Report, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSSIP

Times-Democrat says: The status of the cotton market reminds one of the question with which undergraduates used to guy freshies: "What happens when two immovable bodies meet?"

For on the bear side stands a great international house, ready to back its judgment by selling New York July in unlimited quantities, and on the other stands the stuff itself, proof against all assaults, because of an urgent demand.

Not only so, but recent weather has made it practically certain that Texas can give shorts no relief in July, nor even in August. How much longer, then, will sleep be possible in "McFadden Flats?" That is the question.

Texas will probably enjoy summer skies for some days at least, but weeks of uninterrupted sunshine must come, to recoup the delay which has already occurred. Per contra, it is quite likely that Atlantic states will soon cry for rain. A monster crop is on all accounts to be desired, but desire and fulfillment now appear to be as far apart as the poles.

Galveston reports fire in Merchants, Planters and Cotton Compress company, destroying 12,000 bales.

Dallas wires: Texas cloudy, light rains central and north. Oklahoma cloudy, rains over east portion.

Map and weather prospects very unfavorable. Map shows fair, continued cool Mississippi, Alabama and Atlantics. Cloudy rest of belt; rains northwestern belt.

Indications are for unsettled rainy west of river with prospects of rain storm coming on Texas Sunday. Oklahoma generally fair with continued cool in Atlantics.

Forecast—Louisiana: Tonight and Sunday fair in south portion, unsettled tonight and Sunday in north portion, probably showers in northwest portions; gentle to moderate easterly winds on the coast.

Arkansas: Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably showers, warmer tonight in northwestern portion.

Oklahoma: Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably showers, warmer tonight.

East Texas: Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably showers; gentle to moderate easterly to southeardly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Unsettled tonight and Sunday, probably showers in north portion, warmer tonight except in southeast portion.

Alabama and Georgia: Fair tonight and Sunday.

Kentucky: Showers tonight and Sunday.

Tennessee: Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, probably showers in extreme west portion.

Mississippi: Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

Market very steady, good buying by spot people. Ring looks short. Expect higher market next week.—Andy.

Gwathmey, Riordan and shorts buying on better cables and prospect unfavorable weather over Sunday.—Clevenberg.

Thorn and Maginnis, of New Orleans, wire: Fear of rains over Sunday in the western belt caused rise.

PARIS, Tex.—More rain last night. Threatening and cold this forenoon.

The buying and selling was pretty well scattered around the ring, nobody being particularly conspicuous on either side. Gwathmey & Co. were buyers. Hicks & Dick Bros. sold. The advance can be run down to week end short covering fearing that weather in the southwest over Sunday and some new southern buying for long account for the same reason. Room sentiment is that October and December are good for 1225 if the map is unfavorable Monday morning as Liverpool is likely to come in as good buyer. July was neglected and feels the prospect of heavy tenders but should it get near 150 points under Liverpool there would be good buying for straddle account. General business picked up a little today but traders express regret that, if we are to in a bull market on Texas weather, it should start from a comparatively high level.—Clevenberg.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow, Jones summery:

New York, Missouri, Kansas and Texas sells $765,000 5 per cent equipment trust notes. Dun's Review says further strengthening of confidence is manifested result of betterment in some branches of business. Commercial failures this week 336 against 324 last week and 290 a year ago. Bradstreets says trade is decidedly irregular, but there are signs that country at large is getting ready for improvement to come. United Fruit company sells $10,000,000 four year 5 per cent notes. Wells Fargo and company contract with Baltimore and Ohio will be on basis of 45 per cent and expires 1917. Colorado senate votes down resolution to ask Governor Ammons to retire from office. Oklahoma interests ask President Wilson for clause in anti-trust bill that will regulate oil pipe lines.

The Mexican situation is not quite so favorable. Would buy stocks on recessions, sell on rallies or take profits on either side. Do not expect any material moves at present.—Clark.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Bartlett, Frazier & Co., say:

Wheat: In our opinion it will take constant bull news to sustain values.

Corn: We look for a quieter market.

Oats: The new crop seems to be in good shape as a whole.

Provisions: Some setback seems in order.

Most wheat traders argue that only about one year out of fifteen has there been any serious damage from hessian fly and the extent this year will depend largely on weather conditions. While trade has broadened in the last few days, commission houses are not reporting a sufficient increase in the buying orders to keep

White Provision Company Takes $25,000 Permit for Three-Story Addition to Quarters on Howell Mill Road — Five More Lots in Woodland Hills Are Sold — Regional Bank Location Still Waiting on Organization of the Bank

The White Provision company has taken a permit to build a $25,000 addition to its quarters on the Howell mill road.

The building will be of reinforced concrete construction and three stories high. The Griffin Construction company has the contract and work has been started.

A good many permits are being issued for buildings to be used for business purposes, larger quarters being necessary for expanding requirements of some concerns.

WOODLAND HILLS SALES.

W. E. Worley has sold for Woodland Hills to W. C. Roberts, of south Georgia, lot 3 in block B, and lot 1 in Block C, lot 5 in block C and lots 7 and 8 in block A of the Woodland Hills subdivision, a total of five lots, for an aggregate consideration of $6,250, or $12.50 a front foot. All the lots front on Woodland road.

BANK LOCATION.

The location of the regional bank in Atlanta is still up in the air, due to fact that the bank has not yet been organzed and there is really nobody as yet to select a location.

Until the bank is organized and an idea of its scope is gained, nobody can tell just what it will require in the matter of quarters and employes.

One banker said today that undoubtely the bank would require large vault space, for it will have to handle a great deal of valuable paper as well as a gold reserve.

How many employes will be required seems to be in doubt. This banker said this would depend on how much of a clearing house business the regional bank would do.

The bank, however, will have no dealing with the public like a commercial institution, and the banker seemed to think that a central location would not be necessary.

Several propositions are waiting to be made. The most generally discussed is the ground floor of the Healey building, where space can be had in any amount and with any arrangement.

ARGUMENT IN DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY REHEARINGS

Former U. S. Attorney Argues Against New Trial for Convicted Iron Workers

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 16.—Charles W. Miller, former United States district attorney for Indiana, who prosecuted the dynamite conspiracy case against a number of labor leaders in 1912, appeared again for the government today in the United States circuit court of appeals when the rehearing on the granting of new trials to Olaf A. Tveitmoe, of San Francisco; Richard W. Houlihan, of Chicago, and William Bernhardt, of Cincinnati, came up for oral argument.

Originally thirty of the convicted men filed appeals for new trials. The United States circuit court of appeals upheld the conviction of twenty-four and granted new trials for six. As to three of the latter—Tveitmoe, Houlihan and Bernhardt—the government requested a rehearing which was granted. Miller said the court had properly held that the general conspiracy had been established and that twenty-four of the defendants were directly connected with the conspiracy to transport dynamite and nitroglycerin upon passenger trains. The evidence, he said, must be largely circumstantial, but that "every link in the chain of circumstances is present," and that the verdict of the jury "is sustained by substantial evidence on every material point; that a clear prima facie case was established against Tveitmoe, Houlihan and Bernhardt."

Elijah Zoline, for the defense, replied that the three men had not been convincingly connected with the conspiracy at the trial.

RENEWS EFFORT TO FIND ORIGIN OF BIG EXPLOSION

(By Associated Press.)

DETROIT, Mich., May 16.—Coroner Bothacher renewed his efforts today to learn the origin of the explosion which caused the death of ten men and the serious injury to six others at the plant of the Mexican Crude Rubber company in this city yesterday.

Five of the six injured were reported by physicians as almost certain to recover. The sixth, John McDonald, 26 years old, is in a critical condition.

The Cetriana carries no wireless equipment and her position can only be conjectured.

The Cane Umbrella

Perhaps in the course of your shopping or walking tour you have noticed a smart woman, in a striped coat and a tight brown taffeta skirt with a long cane. And then perhaps you have been surprised, when rain began to fall, to see the smart woman in the directoire costume open the top of her cane and draw out an umbrella.

As if it were not enough for women to carry canes, without carrying these surprising long staffs that turn out to be umbrellas and canes combined!

The Incroyable costumes and fashions have brought about the carrying of canes by women. And the really smart woman who is in search of something new chooses the umbrella sheafed in a cane-like case of wood.

It is an amusing accessory, this umbrella cane, amusing to the woman who carries it and amusing to the people who observe her use of it.

Vera Cruz Under Rule of United States Soldiers as Seen by Correspondent

Fred L. Boalt Describes How Kind Treatment From American Troops Amazes All Classes—Prisoners Expected Instant Death

BY FRED L. BOALT.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, May 15.—Night on the plaza.

Vera Cruz is trying to pretend it is enjoying itself.

On two sides are the square hotels in front of which we drink lemonade. The waiters, who love us with their lips and hate us in their hearts, are devastated with grief because there is no ice. Being members of a stern and heroic race, we continue to drink the warm, sickish stuff.

On a third side of the plaza is the cathedral. One of its bells is silent—shattered by a cannon shot from the fleet when the city fell. In the tower four sentries stand, looking down into the plaza. A fifth man flashes messages to the fleet and the outposts. All around the signal lights are flashing. Shafts of light from the searchlights streak the sky.

On the fourth side of the plaza is the Constitucion where troops are quartered. The provo guard brings in peons drunk on vino. They think they are going to die.

Tomorrow, sober, they will be released and fed. Already they are learning that to be arrested by the Americanos is not half bad.

MEXICANS SIT AND SCOWL.

In the stand in the middle of the plaza a soldier band is playing. When it strikes up "The Star Spangled Banner," we rise, our soldiers and officers very stiff and erect. An American planter who has lived in Mexico twenty years, says: "By ——, that listens good!"

But the Mexicans sit scowling at their little tables and a group of British naval officers from the Essex remain seated. No discourtesy is meant. To stand at such a time might be interpreted as "taking sides."

Not so a group of French marines in top-heavy white helmets. They rise to their feet and bare their heads. They are short, stocky men, and they look efficient, for all their ill-fitting clothes, but on their sweating faces is an almost sickly pallor that contrasts curiously with the ruddy complexion of the Americans.

The band strikes up a lively ragtime tune. Two soldiers, khaki-clad, slither over the flagged floor of the plaza. A rifle is slung from the shoulder of one of them.

Even the Mexicans are compelled to smile glumly at their antics.

Very difficult to place are the women at the tables. A few are wives of officers. Others are expatriates. Even the young among them seem old. They are over-dressed. Their faces are strained. Perhaps it's the heat. One imagines they are tired, and that their gayety is artificial and forced.

CELEBRITIES ARE HERE.

There are celebrities on the plaza. Jack London, in loose-fitting khaki, knows every one and continues his bout with John Barleycorn. Richard Harding Davis, the novelist, looking uncomfortable in correct and starchy clothes, holds aloof.

To him comes a filthy beggar, whining and showing hideous sores. Davis shudders and turns away.

The crowds at the tables thin. The women have gone to bed to toss through sleepless hours in stifling rooms. For in Mexico no woman of virtue may go abroad without escort at any hour, and not at all after 9 o'clock.

Come then pretty and smiling senoritas of the underworld. Come, too, slinking from the alleys, the creatures of the Mexican night, to search for scraps among the tables and in the gutters. Gaunt they are, and very timid.

Taps has long since sounded. The magpies in the plaza no longer chatter. All round the lights are winking, from hill and ship and steeple.

They are telling the story of the night—that there is order in the city, and the federals are keeping a respectful distance from the outposts—and all's well

And so, finally, we go to our beds.

AMAZED BY KINDNESS.

I was having breakfast on the sidewalk of the plaza when a boy stole a roll from my plate. He expected instant death. So when I spared his life and let him eat the roll he explained to me in dumb show that his father, too, was hungry.

The waiter, whose English was better than my Spanish, would have driven him away.

"Why are thye hungry?" I asked.

"They were prisoners, senor," the waiter said. "The sailors of the Americanos came and released them from over yonder."

"Over yonder" was the bull pen behind the Constitucion. It can be seen from the plaza. A huge building, like a public market place, but barred.

"Why were they prisoners?"

With many gestures and shoulder shrugs the waiter told the story.

It was Diaz who put them there—they and many others. They were peons and very poor. The master told them to fight the soldiers of Diaz. So they fought. They did not know why they fought, save that the master told them to.

Madero ousted Diaz. Still lingered the father and son in the bull pen. They were forgotten.

Huerta came into power. Still they stayed in the bull pen. They stretched their skinny claws through the bars, begging for food. They lost all track of time. Maybe it was two yeas, maybe three or four.

Often prisoners died. The corpses lay untouched for days, rotting in the heat.

EXPECTED INSTANT DEATH.

When the Americanos came and opened the doors, the prisoners thought they were some new and strange kind of Mexican rebels and that they would be immediately slain.

Instead the doors were opened and they were given food and let go.

They couldn't understand it. They can't now.

"Ask them where they came from and why they don't go home."

They had worked for the master. It was far away. How should they know how far? Where? They did not know.

Had the man a wife, the boy a mother? Si, senor. Alive or dead? How could they tell?

Did they know what the Americanos were doing in Vera Cruz? No, senor.

I gave them 20 cents Mex. to pose for a picture and they called down upon me the blessing of the patricular Virgin of the district whence they came.

There was the look in their eyes that you see in the eyes of a mongrel who expects a kick and receives a caress.

Carranza and Villa Have Troubles With Generals

(By Associated Press.)

EL PASO, Tex., May 16.—Word was brought by refugees yesterday that one of the objects of the present visit of General Venustiano Carranza first chief, of the constitutionalists to Durango, has not been attained.

General Carranza, it is said, hoped on this visit to smooth over the differences between the Arrieta brothers and General Francisco Villa.

The Arrietas have in their command between 4,000 and 4,500 men. At the time of the siege of Torreon they paid allegiance to General Carranza and General Villa. Villa ordered them to report before Torreon, but they refused to do so. It is said. General Villa then is said to have issued an order of arrest against them.

When they heard of the order of arrest it was said the Arrietas threatened to join Huerta, but this they later denied and it was reported they agreed to join the constitutionalist army if the order of arrest was revoked, but it is alleged that when General Carranza requested them to report with their men before Saltillo they refused.

Refugees assert it may become necessary for a part of Villa's army to march to Durango to assert authority over Durango and to restore order which it is said has been indifferently enforced throughout Durango for many months.

Tuxpam Is Reported Captured by Rebels

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Tuxpam, on the east coast of Mexico, between Vera Cruz and Tampico, is in the hands of the constitutionalists, according to a report to the state department today from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz. Consul Canada said a party of Spanish refugees arriving at Vera Cruz from Tuvpam in a launch, informed him constitutionalists had occupied the city.

Federals in Desperate Straits at Mazatlan

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNA, Mazatlan, Mexico, May 15.—(By Wireless to San Diego, May 16.)—Mazatlan's water supply still is cut off by the besieging rebels and sickness and the death rate are increasing with alarming rapidity. Pestilence is feared.

The governor of Mazatlan disarmed the police today on the plea of lack of ammunition for defense of the city. His real motive, it is believed, was fear of internal revolt.

General Obregon, commander of the constitutionalists, is apparently working southward to cut the railroad from Manzanillo to Guadalajara and Mexico City before attempting other operations. If he succeeds in cutting the railroad thereby shutting off munitions of war, it is thought the west coast clites will fall without further fighting.

Property of Americans Destroyed by Federals

EAGLE PASS, Tex., May 16.—That the federals before they evacuated Monclova, their final stand on the Mexican National railway between Piedras Negras and Saltillo, destroyed practically all American property in the town, was stated today in a dispatch received at Piedras Negras from General Murgia, in command of the constitutionalist force at Sabinas.

General Murgia also stated that the federals, who left Monclova yesterday, and which was occupied by fifty constitutionalists under Major Falcon, were reported to be marching overland to Saltillo to join the garrison there under Generals Velasco and Joaquin Maas.

WOULD BARE SECRETS OF VANISHED NEW HAVEN CASH

Commission Seeks to Tell What Became of Stockholders' Millions

WASHINGTON, May 16.—"Just who got the vanished millions belonging to the stockholders of the New Haven railroad and how the deals were carried out by which these millions were divested from the road's treasury to the pockets of favored financiers, are questions which the interstate commerce commision expects to answer through the pending investigation into the New Haven's financial affairs."

This, it was stated authoritatively today, is the purpose of the commission in forcing the examination of Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven, and of other witnesses who have been or will be called upon to testify.

Examination of papers and documents, now in possession of the commission, indicate clearly, Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk pointed out, that it became really a practice of certain financial interests to purchase properties which they had been led to believe the New Haven wanted and then unload them onto the New Haven at from two to four times what they paid for them.

Chief Counsel Folk said that neither he nor the commission had received further communication from the department of justice concerning the testimony of Mr. Mellen, already adduced or about to be given. It is reiterated that the position of Mr. Folk and the commission is that it is more important to prevent in future such abuses as have been shown and indicated than it is to put anybody in jail.

Mr. Folk says frankly:

"The question of immunity is of little consequence as compared to the benefits to the public which will grow out of Mr. Mellen's testimony."

ADAMS THANKS ALL WHO LENT CARS TO SHRINERS.

"Please give some public expression to the thanks not only of the automobile committee of the Shriners' meeting, but of every noble of Yaarab temple, to those non-Shriners who came to our aid and lent us cars for the visiting Shriners," said A. S. Adams, chairman of the automobile committee, Saturday.

"Shriners from other cities were astounded by the generosity shown through our committee in this regard. A number of them told me it beat anything they had ever seen. They said they didn't believe it would have been possible, in their home cities, to do what Atlanta did."

W. S. WITHAM PRAISES SANITARY DEPARTMENT

Writes to Chief Jentzen Complimenting Him for Clean Streets During Shrine Week

W. S. Witham, the Atlanta banker, has written a letter to John Jentzen, chief of the city sanitary department, complimenting him in the highest terms on the efficient work of his department in keeping the streets clean in the downtown section during the Shrine convention.

"I came down town at 7 o'clock Thursday morning," says the letter, "and I was astonished to find the streets perfectly clean. I don't see how you did it, when 100,000 people on the streets Wednesday night did their level best to litter up every street, sidewalk and alley in the business district. You and your men deserve the thanks of the community for your good work."

Chief Jentzen will read the letter to his inspectors Monday morning, and is so proud of it that he intends to have it framed and hung in his room at home. "We often get criticised, but it is not often that we are so warmly praised," said the chief.

Every night while the Shriners were in Atlanta the sanitary department's street cleaning apparatus had to do all its work in the business district between 2:30 and 5 o'clock a. m. The outlying districts were all cleaned before that hour, then after the crowds had gone to bed the sweepers and street washing machines came into the business district and swept away the confetti, newspapers, flags, banners, horns, etc., which had been scattered broadcast during the festivities. Practically every man in the department, including Chief Jentzen, worked double time throughout the convention.

(By Associated Press.)

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 16.—Thomas Barrett, of Augusta, and E. J. Glenny, president of the New Orleans Cotton exchange, will go to Washington Monday to urge the passage at this session of congress of the Lever cotton future tax bill. They are two of the three members of the special commitee named for that purpose by the National Cotton conference held here the first week in May.

Atlanta Man Loses $2,100 Cash While Pursuing a Burglar

C. V. C. Culver Thinks He Dropped It Chasing Intruder From His Home

After carrying $2,100 in cash all day Wednesday, C. V. C. Culver, 69 Powell street, while pursuing a burglar at night across the tracks of the Georgia railway, lost the cash in $5 and $10 bills, with a check for $87.37 on an Augusta bank.

Mr. Culver says he was evidently watched during the day as he went from one office to another in Atlanta, making purchases and paying bills. He thinks the burglar followed him to his home on Powell street wtih the intention of robbing him.

"About 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night someone came to my front door and knocked," Mr. Culver said. "I asked who was there; no response. I did not have a gun, but rushed quickly to the front door.

"There I found some one had cut the wire screen and had opened the door. The man fled across the Georgia railway tracks; it was so dark I could not say whether he was white or colored."

Mr. Culver said he pursued the man, who outdistanced him, and then ran to the fire station on DeKalb avenue, where he reported the matter and asked for a gun.

It was during the chase after the man that Mr. Culver thinks he lost the $2,100.

He says he gave four $100 bills to his wife that night, and had $2,100 left in his pocketbook. When he awoke Thursday morning his pocketbook was gone. This was when he first knew of his loss.

Mr. Culver has just moved to Atlanta from Augusta.

Mr. Culver's theory is that the man he chased from his front door saw the roll of bills downtown and trailed him home. He is greatly disturbed over the loss of such a large sum of money, and asks any finder to return it "and ease a miserable mind."

SAYS AMERICAN SEAMEN INSULTED ITALY'S FLAG

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Italian Ambassador Confalenieri called on Secretary Bryan today in regard to a reported insult to the Italian flag by two American seamen in Philadelphia on May 14. The flag was displayed in front of a barber shop at the time of memorial exercises over American Vera Cruz victims, and it is thought the seamen mistook it for a Mexican flag. It was pulled to the ground and trampled on. Mr. Bryan assured the ambassador that the seamen, if found guilty, probably would be punished. The answer was satisfactory.

COMMENCEMENT TO END AT MARTHA BERRY SUNDAY

Graduating Exercises Held Saturday Morning With John J. Eagan Presiding

ROME, Ga., May 16.—The closing exercises of the Martha Berry School for Girls are now in progress and will come to an end Sunday.

The school was organized four years ago, and the first class to complete the full course will receive diplomas Saturday. The class consists of twelve young women from various north Georgia counties.

The exercises opened with the presentation of a pageant of Ivanhoe, which was witnessed by a large crowd that gathered on the lawn in front of the school buildings. The regular graduating exercises and industrial program were presented on Saturday morning with John J. Eagan, of Atlanta, president of the board of trustees, presiding. There were demonstrations in manual training, butter making, sewing, laundry work, house planning and furnishing, and home management, by members of the graduating class.

The senior class exercises were held Saturday afternoon, followed by the presentation of a play, "Miles Standish," by members of the third year class.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. G. G. Sydnor, of Rome, and the closing exercises of the Sunday School and Young Women's Christian association will complete the day.

WOUNDED OF VERA CRUZ FLOODED WITH FLOWERS

Convalescents Pleased When They Learn They Will Be Allowed to Return to Mex.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—All of the patients brought here from Vera Cruz by the hospital ship Solace are doing well, according to Dr. C. G. Smith, in charge of the naval hospital at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Such a great quantity of flowers and dainties have been sent to the hospital that the authorities are at a loss to find places for them and the wards have taken on the appearance of a horticultural exhibition.

The navy department has acceded to the earnest request of the forty-one convalescents that they be permitted to return on the Solace and rejoin their comrades in Vera Cruz.

This news was received with delight by those who will probably be able to return, but it brought tears to the eyes of the four who were wounded so seriously that amputation of an arm or a leg was necessary.

"PEACE SUNDAY" WILL BE OBSERVED TOMORROW

Fifty Thousand Pastors Expected to Heed Request for Prayers and Sermon

NEW YORK, May 16.—"Peace Sunday" will be observed tomorrow as the result of a request made by the commission on peace and arbitration of the federal council of Churches of Christ in America. A large percentage of the fifty thousand pastors to whom circulars have been sent, it is expected, will heed a request to devote prayers and a sermon tomorrow to peace.

"Peace Sunday" is the anniversary of the first Hague conference. With the letter to the pastors was conveyed an "appeal to the Christian churches" from the conference of the Evangelical churches of Switzerland, inviting a church congress on peace to be held in Europe this year. The federal council proposes that the American churches send delegates.

LONDON NEWSPAPERS RAP FAILURE TO JOIN IN FAIR

Complaint Is Renewed Over Asquith's Delay on Question of Participation

LONDON, May 16.—The London morning papers are making a renewed complaint over Premier Asquith's delay in dealing with the question of the British participation in the Panama Pacific exposition.

The Daily Mail in an editorial today asks whether the real reason for England's refusal to participate in the exposition is to be found in a secret understanding with Germany. "If so," the Daily Mail adds, "the sooner we know it the better. It is scarcely conceivable that the house of commons is to be thwarted and our friendship with the United States risked because the cabinet is committed to the blind policy of 'Made in Germany.'"

FORCED TO EAT CRUSHED ICE

And Was Not Even Allowed Privilege of Sitting Up, but Finally Wins Out

Kaplan, La.—Mrs. Casamear Burkhart, of this town, gives out following for publication: "I feel that I owe my life to Cardui, the woman's tonic. I was married last April, and was in fairly good health. Shortly after marriage my health began to fail, and for three long months I was threatened with serious sickness.

I passed most of my time in bed, with a nurse at my bedside. At last, I was told an operation was necessary. I was so weak I could retain nothing on my stomach but crushed ice, and was not even allowed to sit up in bed.

A friend of mine advised me to use Cardui, the woman's tonic, and they got a bottle for me, as a last resort.

After taking Cardui for one week, I was able to be up in my room. After continual use for two months, I was in perfect health, and could do all of my work without tiring.

I take an occasional dose of Cardui and Black-Draught now, to keep my system in good condition.

Several of my friends are using Cardui with good results. I am never without it in the house."

There's a bottle of Cardui waiting for you at your nearest druggists. Get it and begin taking today. You will never regret it.—(Advt.)
