

RIGID POLICE PROBE OF BROTHER'S DEATH URGED BY CALLAWAY

Starnes and Campbell Assigned by Chief Beavers to Investigate the Goldsmith Apartment Tragedy.

ONLY THREE WITNESSES TESTIFY AT INQUEST

W. B. Carhart Freed After Coroner's Jury Hears Stories of Killing of James Callaway.

Disatisfied with the verdict of justifiable homicide that was returned by the coroner's jury in favor of W. B. Carhart for the slaying of James Callaway early Wednesday morning, Major Frank Callaway, brother of the dead society man, is urging the police to make a rigid investigation.

"We are not going to drop this case with the verdict of justifiable homicide," said Major Callaway. "We are going to the bottom of it and find what there is behind it. Not only do we feel that we should take this course, but it is something anyone else would do under similar circumstances. It is a mystery that needs solving—for a mystery, indeed, it is."

Mr. Callaway did not state, however, whether or not he and his representatives would urge a grand jury indictment of the man who was freed by a coroner's verdict. He did state, however, that there were no prospects of a criminal warrant as was reported Wednesday afternoon.

Alleged as Victim.

"A stigma has been put upon the name of my dead brother," Major Callaway said. "The police have assumed that they will do all in their power to probe the mystery."

Detectives John Starnes and Patrick Campbell, star men of Chief Lanford's staff, have been detailed on the Goldsmith apartment tragedy.

Mrs. Carhart, garbed in black, wearing a heavy veil, came in her limousine to the Patterson undertaking establishment during the inquest Wednesday morning. She showed signs of the nervous collapse she suffered the previous night under the shooting. While testifying in another room in the Patterson undertaking establishment, she was not called as a witness, however.

Starnes Hears Evidence.

She suffered another nervous breakdown upon returning to her home in which the tragedy had been enacted. Her husband, too, suffered from the effect of the shock. While testifying to his fifteen years' acquaintance with the young man he had slain, he broke into tears before the coroner, requiring some time to regain composure.

Regarding his attitude toward continuing the police investigation, Major Callaway was asked Wednesday afternoon shortly following the verdict of the coroner's jury, if he would plead for a grand jury indictment to be returned against the slayer.

"I can say until the investigation is completed."

A noticeable fact of the coroner's probe was the mystery of the dead man's presence in the Carhart apartments was explained. The principal witness, stated he even did not know how Callaway had gained access to the place, although he was the front door caretaker last night.

Three Witnesses Called.

Only three witnesses were called before the inquest. They were J. W. Goldsmith, who testified that he saw the shooting occurred; J. W. Hurl, a physician, and Mr. Carhart. Mr. Goldsmith, who testified that he saw the slayer in the place, had heard the sounds of footsteps going to the apartment under the Carhart apartments at fifteen minutes after 1 o'clock, the time at which Mr. Carhart tested the door and had been sleeping on the sleeping porch since 10 o'clock. Mr. Goldsmith stated, "and awake on account of the noise. I went into the room and saw the slayer on the sleeping porch and turned on a light looking at the clock. I was impressed with the fact that it was only fifteen minutes after 1 o'clock when I had thought it later. I called the attention of my wife to the noise. In a second or two we heard the sound of footsteps going up the stairs that leads to the second floor from the Peaches street entrance. Then we heard two persons entering the apartment and we saw the slayer. I heard a commotion above and in a moment the sound of the door opening. I heard something like the ground outside being stepped on. I then saw the slayer and he was armed with a revolver. I ran and looked over the sleeping porch. In the moonlight I could see a form struggling on the ground. I went to turn over on the left side. I went to the telephone to call medical aid and then telephoned police headquarters. By the time the patrol arrived—when I was called to the door by the slayer's wife—I had been later than ten minutes—Mr. and Mrs. Carhart answered the door and I notified the police. I walked out then and led the police to the body."

Heard Three Voices.

Mr. Goldsmith also stated in his story that he had heard three voices in the Carhart apartments, two of which seemed to be those of the slayer. He called hearing Mr. Carhart scream, but could not understand the words. Questioned by Coroner Deane, Mr. Goldsmith said that he had often seen Callaway, but could not recall seeing him at Carhart home. He was acquainted with his brother, Frank Callaway, he stated.

"Mr. Carhart certainly didn't know the man he had shot at the time he fired the shot," Mr. Goldsmith said. "I was not a moment's conversation on the fact when the body was turned upon."

Birmingham is negotiating for a sliding rate of from 15 to 75 cents per 1,000 feet.

Chattanooga will have practically the same rate as Birmingham.

The fight for an "89-cent gas rate," launched by the Gas Consumers' league against the Atlanta Gas Light company, subsidiary of the Georgia Railway and Power company, has attracted leaders in the movement for cheaper gas who say there will be no parley until the Georgia railway commission settles this question.

Is Atlanta entitled to a lower gas rate?

If not, they say, a movement will be launched looking to the establishment of a municipal plant by the city.

$3,500,000 BOND ISSUE BETTER, SAYS NUTTING

Subcommittee Will Meet on Thursday Morning to Formulate Report to Present to Whole Committee.

Emphatic denial of the report that a fight is brewing on the proposed issue of $3,500,000 in bonds for the rehabilitation of the school system, and for the improvement of various other departments of the city, was made by council leaders Wednesday afternoon.

Members of the sub-committee of the general bond issue committee say that they are not in a position to make a committee or among members of council, but they admit that there are members of both council and the committee who would like to see the total amount of the entire bond issue advanced to about $15,000,000.

SERBIANS LOSE BELGRADE; RUSS AND GERMAN ARMIES STILL BATTLE IN POLAND

$1,250,000,000 CREDIT VOTED FOR GERMANY

Herr Liebknecht Only Member of Reichstag to Oppose New War Loan.

Berlin, December 2.—(Via Amsterdam to London).—With one dissenting vote, that of Herr Liebknecht, socialist, the reichstag today voted a new war credit of $1,250,000,000.

The president of the chamber's speech dwelt on the unity and patriotism of the German people and commented appreciatively on the large number of reichstag members serving at the front. Of the progress of the war the president said:

"Japan joined our enemies from a desire to seize as booty the monument to German culture in the Far East. On the other hand we have found an ally in Turkey, as all the Moslem people wish to throw off the yoke of the infidel and shatter the foundations of European imperialism. Our army and our fleet will continue."

The imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, attended the session and threw out the uniform of a general. All secretaries of state and the Prussian ministers were present.

Many members were in uniform and wore iron crosses.

He addressed to the members of the chamber Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg said:

"The emperor is absent with the army, but he has charged me to transmit his best wishes and cordial greetings to the German house of representatives, with whom he knows he is united until death, in stress of danger. In common concert for the weal of the fatherland."

"Our first thoughts go to the embattled soldiers of the whole empire for the honor and greatness of the empire. Full of pride and with unshakable confidence we look on them and our Austro-Hungarian comrades in arms. We are firm in our conviction of our fight and in our great battles with brilliant victory."

"Our latest effort in the war forced upon us is the Ottoman empire, which we know that if the German empire were destroyed it, too, would lose its position in the world. As our enemies have formed a powerful coalition against us, they will, we are sure, find that the arm of our allies reaching the west, will be in their own hands."

The imperial chancellor said that where the reichstag had expressed the first resolution of the whole people, the war great deeds had been accomplished. The German troops had carried the war into the enemy's country.

"There we will stand firm," declared the chancellor, "with the future with every confidence. But the resistance is not broken. We are not yet at the end of the war. The nation will continue to support us. We will continue to fight as hitherto, for we must and we shall win. We will continue to fight for right and for freedom. We will remember how our defeated countrymen in hostile countries were maltreated in a manner that has never been forgotten. The world must learn that none can be tyrant on the head of a German subject with impunity."

It is evident to us who are responsible for the Reichstag will war. The apparent responsibility falls on those in mobilization and the Russian empire. The responsibility falls on the British government. The Russian empire could have made the war impossible. It has declared at St. Petersburg that England would not allow a continental war to develop from the Austro-Serbian conflict.

HEAVY LOSSES MARKING STRUGGLE IN POLAND WITHOUT A DECISION

Germans Claim Success at Certain Points While Russians Report Gains at Others—Each Side Claims to Have Taken Thousands of Prisoners—Heavy Fighting Has Been Resumed in France and Belgium Where the Allies Are Expected to Take Offensive.

London, December 2.—Belgrade, until the outbreak of the war Serbia's capital, was occupied today by Austrian troops. The Serbians previously had evacuated the city.

Thus, on the sixtieth anniversary of the reign of Emperor Francis Joseph, who again is reported seriously ill, and four months after the outbreak of the war, his general's report shows that the most important successes have been obtained.

Belgrade frequently was bombarded early in the war and left for the necessities of the campaign. Austria to send troops against Russia must have fallen early to Serbia's high neighbor.

For a lieutenant from Austria, the nature of the Serbian opposition and only after Russia was invaded did the Serbians begin to move. The Serbians, to drive them back. Now they are being forced backward and are being driven toward the advance of the Russian into Hungary to defend their rear.

Russia has been beating German raiding parties through the Carpathians, divert Austria's attention, but the dual monarchy seemingly is determined to finish with Serbia.

BATTLE UNDECIDED IN NORTH POLAND

This, however, is only a small affair. Russia, with its army, captures north Poland. There the German army, which, aided by reinforcements, escaped from the Polish capital, is now around it. It has formed a new front and the German army has resumed the offensive. The German army has taken many prisoners. The German army has taken many prisoners. The German army has taken many prisoners.

CORN SHOW DRAWS CROWD TO CAPITOL

List of Additional Prizes Has Been Made Public—Remarkable Exhibits Made by Boys and Girls.

The second day of the corn show at the state capitol proved that the boys and girls of the corn clubs, canning clubs and pig clubs are by no means the only people interested in the work they are doing. Neither does the interest lie wholly among the farmers.

On Wednesday hundreds of Atlantans, many of whom probably have not been on a farm in years, went to the state capitol to see the splendid exhibits that the boys and girls have brought to Atlanta. Some of the visitors had anything but words of highest praise for the fine exhibits.

This inspection by the city folks was not of a casual nature, either. Among those who went to the capitol on Wednesday was a group of Atlanta's leading manufacturers and a number of other business men.

WAYCROSS MAYOR ROUGHLY HANDLED IN FIGHT AT POLLS

Waycross, Ga., December 2.—(Special).—In a free for all fight at the polls in the city of Waycross, the mayor, J. W. Tomberlin, was roughly handled by a group of men who were determined to elect a contributor to the civil league. Both men inflicted stinging blows on the other, and when efforts were made to stop the fight, Mayor Scott J. Best and Dr. Crawford became involved, the latter pulling the mayor to one side in such manner that spectators thought another fight was under way.

A few moments later Mr. Tomberlin made another effort to grab a list of names Mayor Best had in his hand, but a spectator interfered and the trouble was over. The fight was over almost as suddenly as it began. The mayor's interference, according to his statement tonight, was merely to keep any one from jumping on Mr. Highsmith, while he was down. There were three wounds, but they took a long time to kill him. He had battled so long and steadily against the violence of a civil life that these sudden blows found him an unyielding victim. Now, though, since he has given up the battle of life, his shoulders were drawn and his shoulders stooped and worn.

number that the farmer had the best security of all to other lands, that is the source of all wealth, that cannot escape, that is there tomorrow as it is today. It is true that in the earlier days this failure to make land collateral was excusable because of the epidemic of wildcat speculations that swept the country. Of late years there has been so much speculation that it has reached a stable value in practically all parts of the country, and the wildcat operator, once the scourge of the nation, is everywhere and nowhere.

Under these conditions the time is come to release the farmer from a bondage that works to the injury of the whole country. Give the farmer room and facilities with which to expand, and every other source of prosperity in America will expand and grow great with him.

PRactical Church Help.

It is indeed the spirit of the Christian religion that characterizes the resolutions of the Baptist mission society of Atlanta, published elsewhere on this page.

Representing all the churches in this district, the pastors take the view that the church should extend practical as well as spiritual aid; that its members, its influence, its very temple should be consecrated to the alleviation of human need and human emergency.

This follows closely the creed of the Gospels. Such an attitude is bound to draw men toward the church and broaden their interpretation of its functions.

A DANGEROUS JUNGLE.

The constitution publishes today a communication from L. A. Niven, editor of the local Georgia fiddler publication, that ought to inspire a good deal of honest searching among both the business men and the farmers of all the cotton belt states. His next exposure of the dishonesty that has been raging in The Constitution as to the lack of markets for home farm products, and the relative intrinsic values of peavine and timothy hay.

It will be remembered that commenting upon the contribution of Mrs. Nellie Peavine, Black, several Atlanta commission merchants took the position that peavine hay, grown extensively in Georgia, should not bring as high a market price as timothy, and that the Georgia farmer seemed to lack in knowledge as to how to present his product.

Mrs. Niven takes issue with these gentlemen. He says that, balancing up the protein content and the carbohydrates in the two hays, peavine will be found an article far superior to timothy. He says that it should yield at least as good a price.

As to these technical points, The Constitution calls for judgment. But it is by no means uncertain upon the local contention of Mrs. Niven that what is needed chiefly here is the knowledge of the city and the state who produce in the country is cooperative. He breaks no bones about sounding the warning that unless an understanding is effected before the coming cotton crop is planted, or the diversified crops of next year brought forward for market, the farmer will be heavy loss to all concerned. For the farmer will have trouble in realizing on the diversified crops he produced in place of cotton and the business man will be injured by bringing up that always comes from the farmer in a financial impasse.

All this may be unpleasant, but it is the naked, obvious truth. The south needs, as it has not needed since reconstruction, an understanding, an entire cordial between the producer and the consumer; a treaty of new trade relations between the country and the city. As it is now, and confessedly, folk seem to move around in a fog. One man says that markets are plentiful for country products. Another claims that the country is overstocked with goods, and we need this jungle cleared up and cleared up quickly.

Heaven knows there are factors enough interested in this business to assure some sort of common basis. The farmer's very life depends upon finding a market for his products, and he cannot pick his crop until the certainty of finding a market for food crops is established. The business man, and his credit, and the business he has long built up, hang upon it. The transportation companies are vitally concerned. The federal and state departments of agriculture, the agricultural colleges ought to find a solution a part of their vocation. Surely, with these interlocking and indispensable factors, some success should be possible to the question some way out of the jungle.

Dan Hughes, assistant state commissioner of agriculture, had one key to the door when he said we must have a central bureau of markets. What may be the city and county state chambers of commerce, the farmers' organizations and the railroads? Is it imperative to find an answer to this ridge of markets before many more weeks have elapsed?

Don't worry. Father can tell to a nickel just how much shopping time till Christmas.

Home products to the front, and the home label as familiar as general prosperity will be.

VALUE OF ADVERTISING IN HEALTH CAMPAIGNS

More Says Health Advocates
Must Recognize Newspapers
Have Space to Sell.

Jacksonville, Fla., December 1.—The value of publicity in campaigns for the promotion of the public health was emphasized here today by the address of Dr. W. H. C. Moore, of New York, addressing the American Public Health Association. Newspaper advertising was especially commended.

"I have no sympathy with the advertising which is believed as a form of newspaperism—that a property owner of public health would exclude advertising of harmful patent medicines," said Mr. Moore, who is engaged in public health work. "I also believe our criticisms would come with better grace and more force if we recognized that newspapers had space to sell and that advertising space was their chief source of income."

The speaker did not advocate personal advertising by physicians, but believed it to be both necessary and desirable in health campaigns of general interest.

The secretary's report showed the association to have a membership of approximately 1,300, the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba being represented in the list. During the past year 31 new members were added.

The princess later left Mrs. Victor of Thurn and Taxis, who was married to Mrs. Victor of Thurn and Taxis, who was married to Mrs. Victor of Thurn and Taxis.

The difficulties of the princess have been claimed the right to use the title of princess, but the court of the Russian Emperor has refused to grant her the title.

In spite of the fact that a very light vote was polled in the city yesterday, Mayor James G. Woodward, the nominee of the white primary, for the city of Atlanta, was elected over Samuel Kriesberg, socialist candidate.

There was no opposition to any of the other candidates for ministerial offices or to the general council.

The election was quiet, and the interest in the contest was taken in it by friends of the mayor.
