

FOR THE LAST WORD FROM GEN. HUERTA WASHINGTON WAITS

American Officials Are Considerably Puzzled by Developments, but They Are Still Inclined to Hope.

STORY OF ULTIMATUM DISAVOWED BY HUERTA

Disavowal Did Much to Relieve the Tension at Washington—Envoy Lind Is Still Parleying With Huerta.

Washington, August 19.—(Special.)—Although somewhat puzzled by the days' developments, administration officials anxiously awaited tonight the receipt of the Huerta government's complete reply to the American communication presented by John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had received during the past 24 hours a summary from Mr. Lind giving briefly the Huerta government's rejection of the American proposals. About 1,000 words of the text of the Huerta reply, reported to be 7,000 words long.

A message from Mr. Lind stating that he had been in conference at an early hour today with Provisional President Huerta, during the interview had been cordial and that nothing about the suggestion of Huerta himself.

A denial from Charles O'Shaughnessy, authorized by Provisional President Huerta, that there was no truth in the report of an ultimatum demanding recognition by the United States.

This information coming in disconnected either messages which administration officials themselves confessed some difficulty in understanding, was given to members of the senate committee on foreign relations, republicans as well as democrats, and had the effect of staving off debate on the Mexican question, following sensational reports of a threatened severance of relations by the Huerta government.

Officials, though somewhat skeptical of the outcome of the present negotiations, took the view that nothing could be done by the United States, at least until Mr. Lind actually concluded his parleys with Huerta and his cabinet with whom the American envoy has established pleasant unofficial relations.

BACK ACROSS THE BORDER CANADA WILL SEND THAW

Dominion Government Intends to Deport the Slayer of Stanford White as an "Undesirable Citizen."

THAW HIRES A LAWYER TO FIGHT DEPORTATION

Thaw Popular in Canada. Cheered by Great Crowd. Should He Be Deported He Will Be Placed on the Soil of New Hampshire.

Ottawa, August 19.—(Special.)—Thaw will be deported from Canada under the present plans of the Canadian immigration department, because within the meaning of the Canadian immigration act he is regarded as a "prohibited person." If custom is followed, he will be sent back to New Hampshire, from which state he entered the dominion.

It was late this afternoon when the department was officially notified of Thaw's apprehension and immediately inspectors D. H. Reynolds and E. E. Williams were dispatched to Sherbrooke with instructions to watch the case and institute proceedings as the above mentioned end. The department this afternoon wired the chief of police at Sherbrooke to hold Thaw under the immigration act.

The act seems plain in regard to Thaw's case. There are certain classes who, under section 40, are not eligible to enter Canada, or who if they succeed in doing so are not permitted to remain here. The law states that idiots, imbeciles, insane people or erstwhile criminals shall not enter the country, and if they succeed in eluding immigration officers they shall be deported forthwith.

There is an exception, however, and it is interesting to note that the negro pugilist Johnson recently managed to pass through Canada under the clause which provides that one of the prohibited class who enters carrying with him through transportation to another country may not have his progress impeded.

Information received here does not say whether Thaw had taken the precaution of securing such transportation, though following so closely on the Johnson affair it is difficult to see how his legal advisers could have overlooked this possibility.

Questions of the legality of Thaw's arrest, to which he was taken under the immigration act, Deportation proceedings are very simple. They merely consist in arresting the subject of deportation, and if there is sufficient evidence as to his identity and as to his disability to enter the country, he is escorted across the border to a point seventy-five miles in the interior.

LIKE OLD ADAM, DIGGS IS WHINING, GIRL TEMPTED ME

On Trial for White Slavery, Diggs Says That Marsha Warrington Forced Him to Go to Reno With Her.

WRONGED MRS. DIGGS TRIES TO SAVE HUSBAND

Takes Stand for Him Just After Hearing Him Admit He Had Been Unfaithful to Her in Her Own Home.

San Francisco, August 19.—Mrs. Maury I. Diggs sat today in the courtroom where her husband stands, charged as a white slaver, heard him testify that he had been unfaithful to her with Marsha Warrington in their own apartment, and twenty minutes later herself took the witness stand to testify in his behalf.

With her evidence the defense and the government rested and the government began its arguments to the jury. By stipulation of Judge Van Fleet, each side has two hours and twenty minutes in which to sum up and the case will be in the jury's hands late tomorrow afternoon.

Three witnesses held the stand today Maury I. Diggs occupied the morning with his account of events that led to his flight to Reno with Marsha Warrington, accompanied by Drew Carmichael and Lola Norris. They were arrested in Reno, Nev., brought back to Sacramento and the two men charged by the federal government with violation of the Mann act, which makes it a felony to transport women from one state to another for immoral purposes.

Carmichael will be prosecuted, the government announced today, when the jury has made up its mind about Diggs, and regardless of whether it finds him innocent or guilty or discharges him.

The other two witnesses were Mrs. Carmichael and Mrs. Diggs. They were questioned briefly and told of the sleeplessness, erratic, nervous behavior and air of moribund which characterized the two men during the week preceding their flight.

Mrs. Diggs told how she had gone with her troubles to her father-in-law, Mrs. Carmichael tried to tell how she had been seduced by Judge Hughes of the juvenile court, but in as much as she did not go until after the arrests in Reno the judge held her testimony immaterial.

Frank's Statement Dictated To Wife Several Weeks Ago

SAYS COUNSEL NEVER SAW IT

Leo M. Frank stated to a reporter during the progress of the trial.

"Neither Mr. Arnold nor Mr. Rosser ever saw the statement," said Frank. "Neither helped me with one word of it."

The conclusion of the statement was extemporaneous and came to me while I was on the stand. Frank never once referred to a note during the time he was delivering the statement. The only papers he had in his hand at any time were the financial sheet, invoices and other papers referring to work at the factory.

MANY GENERAL BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Wayward Home for Girls Approved, But Not to Be Precedent for New Expenditures.

Practically all of the general bills enacted by the legislature at its last session were passed up to the governor and signed by him yesterday.

Among them were the general appropriations bill, about which so much has been said; the inheritance tax bill, the bill creating a home for wayward girls, the permanent registration bill, the medical practice bill, the bill doubling the corporation tax and the "blue sky" bill.

STATE IS HARD HIT BY JUDGE'S RULING BARRING EVIDENCE ATTACKING FRANK

Court Rules Out All Specific Acts of Immorality Charged to Prisoner, Despite Vigorous Fight Made by Solicitor Dorsey, Who Had Called Many Witnesses to Prove His Character Bad.

DR. SAMUEL BENEDICT COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF DR. ROY F. HARRIS

State Makes Strong Effort to Show That Minola McKnight Was Not Coerced Into Signing the Statement Which She Afterward Repudiated—Boy Says He Saw Frank With Mary Phagan.

The state was given a big setback Tuesday when Judge Roan ruled out all specific acts of immorality charged to Frank which Solicitor Dorsey was seeking to get before the jury.

When the defense placed Frank's character in evidence, no one was more gratified than Solicitor Dorsey. He stated that this was the thing he had hoped for all along and that he would have no difficulty in tearing it to tatters.

TESTIMONY RULED OUT. At the afternoon session Miss Nellie Wood, who worked at the pencil factory, was placed on the stand. Before any questions were put to her Solicitor Dorsey stated that he wanted a ruling from Judge Roan as to the class of evidence that he would permit in the record.

SAW FRANK WITH MARY PHAGAN. One of the few strong pieces of evidence which the state managed to get to the jury was a statement of Will Turner, a youth of sixteen, that on one occasion when he was working at the pencil factory, he had seen Frank in conversation with Mary Phagan in the metal room; that the girl was retreating from Frank and Frank was following her.

THE PERMANENT EXHIBIT.

The permanent exhibit of Atlanta's industries is about to materialize.

With the exhibits already signed up and those in sight it is expected that the movement will culminate at today's meeting and that definite announcement can be made at once of the success of the undertaking to bring together under one roof a permanent exhibit of the products of the manufacturing industries of Atlanta.

Several manufacturers who ought to be represented in this exhibit have not as yet responded. If they withhold their co-operation the whole movement may fall. The Constitution does not for an instant believe that any manufacturing establishment in Atlanta whose participation is expected will refuse to join the movement, thus jeopardizing the success of a public enterprise which means so much for the city.

Immediate action is necessary and it is to be hoped that every manufacturer whose name is not already on this honor roll will see to it that it is put there before night.

The movement is one which means so much from the standpoint of civic pride. It does not promise immediate personal return, but the ultimate benefit to the city as a whole guarantees a splendid return to each participant. It is not Atlanta's way to undertake, and then abandon, a movement of this sort and if today does not bring about the definite success of this enterprise the Constitution will be very much disappointed.

"BILL SMITH DAY."

This is "Bill Smith Day" at the ball park. They say it's the birthday of William Andrew Smith, formerly of Springfield, Ohio, but now of Atlanta, Georgia, and manager of Atlanta's baseball team.

As an advertiser of the city of Atlanta, Bill Smith deserves appropriate recognition. He has put the city on the baseball map by winning two pennants, and he is working hard to keep it there by winning a third.

The Atlanta fans and their friends should turn out in full force today, and let Bill Smith and the Crackers know they are there. Whatever may be the outcome of the game, and Atlanta can help to make it ours,—the Birmingham Barons should feel, on departing, that they have been somewhere.

A PITIABLE CASE.

No man in public life has made a greater parade of his virtue than Governor Sulzer. As a member of congress, representing a district in New York's populous east side, and as a candidate for chief executive, he often made profession of his irreproachable integrity.

In assuming the duties of his elevated office, Mr. Sulzer said:

"I am free; without entanglements, and will remain free. No influence controls me, but the dictates of my conscience and my determination to do my duty, day in and day out, as I see the right, and regardless of consequences. In the future I will walk in the street called straight. Whatever I do as governor will be open and above board. I shall confide in the people."

And now Sulzer is out, pending trial on impeachment, and Lieutenant Governor Flynn is acting governor. Even if Sulzer gets through with an acquittal, he is ruined for life.

It is a pitiable case at best.

THE WAYWARD GIRLS' HOME.

Governor Slaton yesterday approved the measure carrying an appropriation of $10,000 for the establishment of the state reformatory for wayward girls, with $10,000 additional for maintenance.

The establishment of this institution has been made possible by the brighter outlook for the state finances incident to the enactment of the state equalization tax measure.

At first it appeared that it would be impossible to get this appropriation through the general assembly, notwithstanding the tremendous pressure brought to bear from every part of the state and especially from the women of Georgia.

When the fact is taken into consideration that an appropriation for $20,000 represents a tax valuation of $4,000,000 it will be seen that the step taken by the general assembly, and now approved by the governor, in authorizing the establishment of this institution is a very important one.

Of course, as the institution grows and demonstrates its usefulness it will cost the state more and more, but the initial appropriation will no doubt stand at least until the meeting of the new general assembly, which assembles two years hence. In the present status of its finances the state has taken an exceedingly commendatory step in committing itself to the policy of establishing a new institution, but the worthiness of this appeal has been such as to fully justify the exception made by the general assembly.

The state has operated a reformatory for boys for several years. This year there are two hundred boys, seventy of them white, in the Milledgeville institution. These youthful offenders against law and society instead of being merely imprisoned and punished are being subjected to influences intended to cure their evil tendencies. They are being educated and trained for moral self-support and useful citizenship.

The state cannot afford to do less for its wayward girls than it does for its offending boys; indeed, the influence of an evil woman is worse than the influence of an unreformed man.

There never has been any doubt as to Governor Slaton's very cordial support of the principle underlying this measure. Had the state's finances warranted it he would have been glad to have approved a bill containing an appropriation two or three times as large as that carried by the bill signed by him. But manifestly such an appropriation would have been unwarranted at this time.

Not only the good women, but the good men of Georgia, are back of this measure and it may be confidently predicted that within the next two years this institution will be established on such a firm basis as to abundantly justify its creation and the comparatively small appropriation allowed, though when the fact is taken into consideration that even this appropriation represents a tax valuation of $4,000,000 it will be seen, after all, that the taxpayers are not lightly represented in the contribution made by the state to this very worthy end.

MILADY'S TOOTSY-WOOTSIES.

The claim comes from Chicago to the effect that the women of that city boast of having the smallest feet in the country. The Washington women, says The Washington Herald, "are now laughing because the belles of Chicago evidently don't know what small feet are."

Washington dealers, who have customers from all sections of the country, state that the feet of southern women are smaller than those of northern and western women; the southerners have short, wide feet, and the northerners have long narrow feet. Nothing very definite is said as to the general dimensions of the western feminine foot. Washington probably does not mean to imply, by this omission, that the western foot is both long and wide.

The question, "Why is the southern foot smaller than the northern or western foot?" periodically bobs up for discussion, as in this instance.

If heredity has much to do with feet, the evolutionist might explain by the argument that in years gone by the northern and western women were more accustomed to do their own work, while colored servants saved "Young Mis'" many of the steps that make the feet larger.

After all, what's the difference? Small feet—if not too small—are indeed attractive, but every man with good judgment will solemnly swear that he likes best the size of shoe worn by wife or sweetheart.

AS TO "SOUTHERN CHIVALRY."

The Kansas City Star, discussing "Where Humanity Begins," declares that one might suppose, from much that is said and done, that a large part of humanity is not considered as being human at all.

The Star, no doubt in ignorance of the real facts, has slandered a large number of human men while attempting to find an illustration to suit its theme.

"When, for example," says The Star, "some southern statesman talks of the chivalry of the South," he is thinking of the attitude of the southern gentleman to the 'fair daughters of the South'; not at all of the southern gentleman's attitude toward charwomen and factory workers. His very expression, 'fair daughters' and the like, ignore the humanity of a great mass of women."

It is a safe venture that The Star performer never visited the south, or that if he did, he did not study conditions here.

Here in the south any gentleman is as deferential to a working woman as to any other woman. No matter how poorly she may be dressed, a woman will always find the southern man ready to give her a seat in a car, and with his hat off the minute she enters an elevator. And here any woman is a "fair daughter" whose life and character is above reproach—this whether she is working her own way or is the petted daughter of a millionaire.

The Cloud-Angels.

Sweet pathways of the summer! But you glimpse, when summer's lost, The cool, cloud-angels shaking down the spicy frost; Echo takes your voice up, and thrills it back so clear You think some sweet-heart-fairy of the wild is hovering near.

The cool, cloud-angels—they romp in rosy crowds, Laugh as they chase the lightning around the hilly clouds; By winds that run to kiss them their golden tresses tossed; They are the glad rain-dancers, the fairest of the frost!

They sometimes picnic on the hills—these lowly hills of ours, And leave their shining autographs upon the hearts of flowers; City Times: But the lightning flashes messages—gray mist the landscape shrouds, And merrily they vanish and hide their curls in clouds!

When it comes to this here town, Ontel he fetches the tariff down; They ain't no use for to plead an' pray, For he's been instructed thataway!

Soon or late— That talk is straight; He must know the swing of the tariff-gate!

Fore he left he says, says he: "When it comes to the tariff, look to ME! I don't lay the blamed thing flat I'll go barfooted an' eat my hat!"

An' I'll say to you: Ef he don't pull through He'll eat that hat an' his head off, too!

Why He Lost Out. One of the new Billville citizens of Missouri is in trouble there, according to this item from the Kansas City Times: "When Mut Summers talks he stretches his neck out like a rooster when it is about to crow. Last week Mut was arrested for trespassing on railroad property. It was a trumped-up charge and Mut thought he would have no trouble proving his innocence, but the trial was held in Justice Good's office, where the ceiling is so low he didn't get to say a word."

The Roxy Side. Not a word of worry That time's a-getting gray; We've seen the sights, Had merry nights, And many a dancing day!

Has His Opener With Him. The editor of The Alkali Eye is always prepared for emergencies. He says: "We air invited ter go along on th' fifteen, th' same bein' th' extension to Houston's well-known an' up-to-date street car line. A street car line ain't nothin' much ter open, but we shall take along our corker for a duck never knows what may turn up. We air expected ter do somethin' ter somethin' that will be waitin' fer us at Harbor terminal, an' while it is usually water there, it's a harbor terminal we ain't got no idee that we would be invited ter go along if there was to be nothin' but water."

A Trust Petition. Hear de Coal Trust prayin' "What air his heart an' soul: "Don't let summer burn de work up! 'Till we done sold all de coal!"

His Rapid Rise. "After the boy graduated," said the old man, "I told him that bein' able to talk Greek an' Latin wouldn't keep the wolf from the door, so I put him to plowin'—give him a regular course of practical field work; an' long before the crop was laid by he'd made such progress that I didn't have no trouble at all gittin' him a job as president of a agricultural college!"

The Contrary One. He kept hollerin' fer "Justice!"— Now his friends are all in tears Because they took him at his word An' gave him twenty years.

The Immovable. I knows lots o' politicians who think it is sich a big thing ter save dey country 10,000 pounds o' ortermobile steam couldn't pull 'em f'm office once dey gets in.

WESTERN INTERVIEW ON SOUTHERN CONDITIONS

Rev. E. A. Bassett-Jones, rector emeritus of the Church of the Advent, Nashville, Tenn., on a recent visit to a daughter in Evanston, Ill., was interviewed by The Index of Evanston, concerning conditions and possibilities in the "new" south.

Mr. Bassett-Jones is an Englishman, who has lived many years in the United States, his property to be shared by a man who country. "Father Bassett," as his friends call him, says: "Since the civil war the south is working out its own salvation. The new south is made by southerners, comparatively few coming in from other portions of the United States and many immigrants from abroad. Capital has been invested there so extensively that it has made a new country of it and at that they haven't really begun to develop the vast fields of coal, iron and mineral wealth, there still being mountains of it to which no railroads have yet been run."

"The south has awakened with a new spirit. It was a good thing that slavery was abolished, but the prevalent northern idea concerning slavery is all wrong. Uncle Tom's cabin was ridiculous. Slave owners did not beat or ill-treat their slaves, if for no other reason than that they were much too valuable property to be abused, but a man who did whip his slaves was looked upon with the same contempt that would be given a teamster here beating his horses."

"We have no active race problem there; in fact, we have more of it here, from what I can learn. The old slaves knew their masters thoroughly and loved them. They were kept in the north, many of them educated and the descendants of that class conduct themselves in a way which has the approval of their white neighbors. We have the 'Jim Crow' cars where they are separated from the white people and we do not permit them to attend school with the white children. There are lazy, worthless, impudent blacks in the south, but the great mass as plentiful in the north. Fisk university in Nashville and their idea of educating the colored people, is in my opinion, commencing too near the top. The negroes are taught Hebrew and the 'isms.' I think Booker Washington has the right idea in teaching the negroes to be self-reliant, to learn how to cook and to sew and to enable them to make their own way in life and become good citizens."

"Politics and the tariff cut some figure with us, but like other communities the country over, graft is being eliminated, and we are getting nearer to a representative government."

"Under the plantation system that was universal before the war almost all the old estates were heavily mortgaged. The planters were too proud to work. They got ready money by marketing cotton and tobacco, which was always as good as cash. More than half the money they received on another mortgage. When the war devastated that country those who rented had to adapt themselves to entirely changed conditions and to go to work. They did so, developing the country until now our southern cities are full of active, energetic, up-to-date business men, many of them living and gaining wealth from the development of the natural resources of the country. It is true that this has all been done with the aid of northern capital, but it has not been a work of philanthropy or a gift enterprise. Idle money sought profitable investment and the new south is a new, wonderful reality and the southerners who are making it are great, big, warm-hearted, brainy men, the finest type of Americans."

South Pole Relics.

(From The Indianapolis News.) There are new and interesting relics of the South pole which were brought back to civilization by the Terra Nova—the antarctic exploring ship. Among the articles are a big plain cooking pot, whose interior has been scraped clean and bare by men at the point of death by starvation; an empty court exhibit, a shining shovel, the inner lining of the tent in which the bodies of Captain Scott and his companions were found by the search party and a shabby velvet. The book is a much-thumbed "penny edition" of Mary Johnston's story of old Virginia. By Order of the Company. Curiously enough, the Terra Nova was the book, when picked up in Captain Scott's tent, was open at the chapter headed, "We Go Out Into the Night"—a sad recollection of the sacrifice of one of the men who "walked out into the night," sacrificing himself, a dying man, he died with a chance, a shovel all day and taken it to bed with him at night. When he lays aside his shovel it is sign that he is ill and unless something is done for him soon he will fade away. No one has ever seen a section hand in a hurry. If the section hand should hurry he would be so much work that the president of the road would cut one man out of each crew and would get his salary raised for effecting the economy.

Some section hands become managers of railroads when they grow old, but most of them become grandfathers and let it go at that.

High Cost of Motion Picture Films.

(From Answers, London.) Every frequenter of the motion picture theaters must have been struck, at some time or another, by the luxuriousness of the stage setting of most of the society dramas—the magnificence of the decorations, the richness of the furnishings, and the costliness of the dresses worn by the performers.

Few, however, have any real conception of the huge cost of these things, or appreciate the pains taken by the big film producing companies to get the best of everything.

Take, for instance, the costumes of the principal actresses. The capitals of Europe are ransacked for the latest "creations" in millinery and modes. When Miss Miriam Nesbit and Miss Mary Fuller were last over here with the Edison company, they paid a visit to Paris for the purpose of purchasing a stock of such things for future Edison productions, and in two days' shopping they spent more than $15,000.

The World's Mysteries

WAS THERE A PLOT TO ASSASSINATE LINCOLN?

For more than fifty years countless stories have appeared of an attempt to assassinate President-elect Lincoln in Baltimore while he was en route from his home in Springfield, Ill. to Washington to become the head of the nation. These stories have been conflicting and perhaps were founded upon real evidence or perhaps were merely worked out of an imagination that such a thing might happen. That it was well to take the precaution that was taken in order that no risks were run in getting Lincoln to the Capital City there is no doubt, and that Baltimore, like many other border cities, and indeed cities in the north, contained an element that might have wished for his destruction is also true, but was there really a conspiracy that was of such a character that it would have been possible to succeed in Baltimore?

Many articles have been printed on this subject, and many chapters in history and biography have related graphically the plans that had been formulated by the conspirators, but even those of the most recent date or from the pen of persons who should be thoroughly conversant with how much of a conspiracy existed, if any at all, has left the subject to grave doubt because of the very meager details that they have been able to give.

In a recent long article, a prominent magazine published Allan Pinkerton's hitherto unpublished tale of what had been occurring in Baltimore from the time it became known that Lincoln was to pass through that city. Pinkerton hints at a great conspiracy. He accuses the Baltimore police as being entirely in the hands of the Secession element, whose leader was George F. Kane. He says the plan of the conspirators was skillfully laid, and that "one of the leading spirits in the plot was a barber, whose name I do not recall." From his statements you would be led to infer that a band of cutthroats controlled Baltimore.

All this was hardly proved by later events, even though a mob of ruffians did fire upon a body of Massachusetts troops as they passed through the Baltimore streets a short time thereafter. Mr. Pinkerton claimed to have mingled with the would-be assassins and added that no one's life was safe in their hands. If such conditions actually existed, why, when Lincoln had been smuggled through Baltimore and gotten safely to Washington, did not the detective force or the Secret Service Department return to Baltimore with the evidence they had and bring the conspirators to justice? Thousands of union officers and eminent statesmen in sympathy with the north passed through Baltimore during the rebellion and were never molested. What became of the big conspiracy that had been hatched, if it actually existed?

All these questions are asked by those who take a broad view of the supposed attempt that was to be made upon the life of Lincoln. And why was such an attempt to be made in the station at Baltimore? As the president was passing through the station, the story goes, and was about to enter his carriage, the conspirators were to start a free-for-all fight, and in the midst of the excitement the assassin was to shoot Lincoln.

This would seem like a bungling plot and one that was not likely to be successfully carried into effect for the reason that in every city, in those excited times, the president was carefully guarded that it was not likely that anyone could have got near enough to his carriage to fulfill the design, from the mere fact everyone was watching with the closest suspicion.

Losing the historian, states "It was alleged that statesmen, bankers, merchants and others were engaged in the conspiracy, and they were meeting secretly in a private room in Taylor's building, on Fayette street near Calvert." Who were these "statesmen, bankers, merchants?" No names were ever mentioned. If the detective force of the United States knew of such meetings and knew who the men were, why were they allowed to go on with their plans, unmolested?

There may have been threats, there may have been a plot in Baltimore. Lincoln might have met with foul play. But all these things are problematical, for there has never been any evidence produced to show that the threats were more than idle gossip, the plot of any great importance, surely not involving "statesmen, bankers, merchants, etc." nor any real connected conspiracy of any kind.

THE SECTION HAND.

BY GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swash"

Railroads can be operated without presidents or private cars or union stations, but they would have a hard time getting along without section hands.

A section hand is a tired man in blue overalls who manures the railroad right of way. His duty is to give engineers heart disease by toiling diligently upon a track until the cowcatcher of the on-coming train brushes his jacket as he steps aside.

Nothing can exceed the diligence of the section hand when a train is approaching. A conscientious section hand will save up work all morning in order to have enough on hand to keep him busy in the middle of the track when the Cannon Ball Express is trying to get by.

Section hands work for $1.40 a day and travel to and from their job on private cars. The section hand's private car has four wheels and a double action hand motor. When the section hand takes off his coat and works hard he can travel 13 miles an hour on his fiery steed.

When times are hard and the owner of a railroad finds that he can't afford to keep his private yacht in commission he cuts the pay of the section hand to $1.10 a day and the latter says nothing, not having learned the English language as a rule. Section hands have saved hundreds of American railroads from bankruptcy by getting their pay cut to $1.10 a day.

Section hands are so called because they work with their hands and let the roadmaster do the worrying. The section hand wears a shovel all day and takes it to bed with him at night. When he lays aside his shovel it is sign that he is ill and unless something is done for him soon he will fade away. No one has ever seen a section hand in a hurry. If the section hand should hurry he would be so much work that the president of the road would cut one man out of each crew and would get his salary raised for effecting the economy.

Some section hands become managers of railroads when they grow old, but most of them become grandfathers and let it go at that.

has other sets almost equally as valuable. Miss Asta Nelson is credited with being the most expensively dressed actress in the pictures. Frequently her costumes in the society scenes in which she specializes will cost as much as $20,000.

It might be thought that as the actual dresses worn by the performers are not seen by the public, but only the photographic representations of them, that common material or imitation stuff would do as well as the real articles.

But, as a matter of fact, this is far from being the case. Indeed, the very reverse holds good. To get a really first-class photograph, first-class "properties" must be provided.

In the early days of the picture play business this was not properly realized, and a company that laid out $5,000 on a collection of properties, although expecting them to last for years, was considered extravagant.

Nowadays, on the other hand, it would be a very cheap affair that would start with less than $15,000 or $20,000 worth; while one of the best known of the really big film companies is reported to spend as much as $50,000 every year in dressing—or, as it is technically termed, "robing" its shows.

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON, The Famous Froze Feet

A PLEASURE TRIP.

"Mr. Pigeon keeps automobiles for hire," said Mrs. Jamesworthy, "and I think it would be so nice if you rented one for next Sunday afternoon and took us for a drive in the country. Mr. Pigeon says he has good careful chauffeurs and fine autos. I'm just as anxious to save money as you are, but I think we should have an outing once in a while."

"So do I, Mrs. Jamesworthy," replied her husband. "All work and no play made Jack a dull boy, as Solomon remarked. This thing of taking an outing has been on my mind for a long time, and only this morning I cabled Count Zeppelin asking him what he'd take for the use of one of his dirigible airships for the next three weeks. Until I have heard from the count I don't like to make any positive arrangements with this Mr. Pigeon, who has the reputation of being a robber in disguise."

"I know quite well how anxious you are to save money, and your frantic efforts in that direction would move any man to tears; and I agree with you that we should have an outing. Therefore, let us go and sit on the lawn and eat peanuts. That is amusing and inexpensive, and far more satisfactory in the long run than bumping over the roads in a hired automobile, with the knowledge that when you get back home you'll have to dig up every nickel you have laid away for winter use."

"I am astonished at your suggestion, Mrs. Jamesworthy. Here you stand, a woman of mature years, supposed to have your faculties on straight, and yet you calmly make a preposterous proposition that would cause ridicule in an institution for the feeble minded."

"There is some satisfaction in riding in an auto that you own. If I had as many kinds of money as I have bunions I'd own the finest car in this neighborhood. Then we could go touring around over the countryside, the admiration of the sturdy peasantry. We could and would feel that we were cutting a wide swath in social as well as sporting circles, and we could cultivate an atmosphere of hauteur that would cause plebeians to take their hats off when addressing us. I like to be envied by other people as much as any man."

"But what satisfaction is there in riding in an auto that you own? In the first place, it's all ways out of track, and after you travel three weeks something breaks, and the chauffeur has to crawl underneath with a crowbar and a monkey wrench, and the ladies in the party have to walk a quarter of a mile up the road to avoid hearing his comments. And when the machinery is fixed, and the car is in motion, it makes more noise than three freight engines on a trestle, and farmers whose horses are scared begin using their shotguns, and there is unpleasantness all round."

"In the second place, Mrs. Jamesworthy, your careful drivers never are careful. These livery chauffeurs are the most reckless desperadoes on earth, and they take a fiendish delight in running over hogs and dogs and cattle, knowing that the man who chartered the car will have to foot the bill. My friend Ezekiel Playfair had occasion to hire an auto to some time ago, and by the time he got down to paying for the live stock killed on that excursion he was a broken man, and he never smiled again."

"But the chief objection to your plan is the fact that everybody knows a livery auto as far off as it can be seen or heard. There's something about such a machine that gives it away everywhere. You can't fool the proletariat into thinking that you're riding in your own car. You may look as majestic as you please, but the innocent bystanders will size you up. If we went touring in a borrowed car everybody would say: 'There goes Jamesworthy and his infatuated family riding around in an old tin auto, and thinking they are making a great hit.' And when I appeared again in the glaring smart everybody would be joshing me until I resorted to violence."

"Put that foolish notion out of your head, Mrs. Jamesworthy, and if you must have an outing, take your umbrella and walk around the block."

"Busy in the middle of the track when the Cannon Ball Express is trying to get by."

road would cut one man out of each crew and would get his salary raised for effecting the economy.

has other sets almost equally as valuable. Miss Asta Nelson is credited with being the most expensively dressed actress in the pictures. Frequently her costumes in the society scenes in which she specializes will cost as much as $20,000.

It might be thought that as the actual dresses worn by the performers are not seen by the public, but only the photographic representations of them, that common material or imitation stuff would do as well as the real articles.

But, as a matter of fact, this is far from being the case. Indeed, the very reverse holds good. To get a really first-class photograph, first-class "properties" must be provided.

CURRENCY REFORM HITS MORE ROCKS

Chairman Owen, Considered Sponsor for Administration Bill, Changes Front—Measure May Be Remodeled

Washington August 19—Unexpected developments in regard to the currency reform legislation in the senate today promised serious complications for President Wilson's plans for this session of congress.

At a conference of democratic members of the senate currency committee Chairman Owen who has been considered one of the original framers of the bill now before the democratic caucus of the house made it clear to his associates that he was opposed to several features of the bill including the plan for twelve regional reserve banks and the proposed recommendation of important changes in the measure.

The result of the senate conference has been to leave the currency situation entirely open tonight so far as the senate's probable action is concerned. Senator Owen did not suggest a definite plan to his colleagues but said he was opposed to the regional reserve bank and to the proposal to compel all national banks to enter the new legal system and to other features of the bill as it was introduced by Chairman Glass of the house currency committee.

Material Changes Liked The attitude of the senate committee is such as to indicate that they will be material changes in the administration measure if not a complete remodeling of it before it comes to the senate.

Several members of the committee tonight inclined to the opinion that the senate action might be asked to consider some measure of a temporary nature which would leave the bill in the hands of the senate committee to be remodeled as they see fit.

Senator Owen said he would like to see the bill amended so that it would be a measure of a temporary nature which would leave the bill in the hands of the senate committee to be remodeled as they see fit.

"Very sorry, Madame, the butter has not come on this afternoon's train," said the waiter at the hotel situated in the center of Georgia's richest lands. "We get it from Tennessee, and the train it comes on is late."
 "No, ma'am, these folks 'round here don't raise butter."
 "Yes, ma'am, they has cows."
 "Yes, ma'am, they milks 'em."
 "No, ma'am, I don't know what they does with the cream, and I don't know what they does with the butter. This here's a cotton raisin' country 'round here anyway—they don't raise much else. Folks is rich 'round here and can send to the city if they wants to, to get they're butter."
 "They likes the store butter—them what's rich and can buy it."

Did You Ever Hear It Before?
 This very conversation can be heard winter or summer in the average small hotel in Georgia. It is especially peculiar to the summer resort hotel, to the small town hotel that takes summer boarders. There is no use blaming the hotel keeper. He can't farm and keep a hotel and keep from killing the women in the hotel who complain all at the same time. Any one of these occupations would try the strongest, most patient masculine spirit.

What an absurd situation it is that anywhere in Georgia people should have to send to Tennessee or any other state for the butter they consume. Ultimately, the state is wonderfully adapted to every phase of agricultural life. The soil yields every product upon which healthy cattle subsists, and the farm of any size, which does not show its care of the dairy department is backward and can not be regarded as anything but yet half primitive.

An Expert Talks.
 "The people of Georgia send away to other states millions of dollars annually for butter," was the statement made to me yesterday by one of Georgia's most prominent men assisting a movement for the pushing of dairy products as a state investment.

"We are paying tribute to butter producers whose grass is growing on lands worth $200 an acre. Our Georgia money has helped to establish the famous Elgin butter trust of Illinois. With the butter industry situated, and the people of Georgia refused in a study of scientific methods, the care of cows and the preparation of butter and cheese, upwards of five millions of dollars would be saved every year."

How Women Can Help.
 "It is impossible to compete without a knowledge of modern methods," he continued. "Hens and cattle can be grown in Georgia for less than in the northwest. What we lack is in knowing how, and I believe this is one of the movements in which the women of Georgia can be helpful."

"The dairy is the department of the farm nearest the home. It is the department upon which the state's best interest is dependent, therefore I believe that the women of the state should become the most enthusiastic factors in pushing the movement for better dairying."

The Humana Interest Side.
 There is as much of the human interest about the cow and its products that nobody who once gets an insight into scientific dairying, can fail to become interested; fall to wish the industry in their own home where the indulgence is possible. There is no doubt about it that there is many a housewife in town as well as in the rural district who, if they knew how to manipulate the dairy products, would become interested in it, and finally assume that part of the business of the home or the farm.

Until common school and secondary education become so rationalized that the girl will be taught the things about the home and its making, that she should know, outside agencies will have to help out in the matter, and this agencies in the most enthusiastic direction that the dairy instruction car of the Southern railway. It comes as the voice in the spirational both to dairymen and housewives.

 This special car is fitted up with the machinery and apparatus to start to the small farm dairy. On the car will be dairy agents of the Southern railway, state veterinarians, Dr. Peter F. Bahusen, and dairymen from the Georgia College of Agriculture. These men will give illustrated lectures on subjects of interest to every man who owns a cow; they will discuss southern dairy problems; they will give expert advice on how to keep cows and handle milk; they will tell you how to make more money from cows.
 Milk will be tested free for the percent of butter fat. Milk samples brought to this car will be tested free of charge, and advice and instructions given, based on the results of the test. Daily demonstrations will be made in the handling of milk and butter. Any agency which makes so directly for better health, better homes, better farms and better hotel life in Georgia, should be appreciated, encouraged and helped on.

Midsummer Cotillon.
 The third annual midsummer cotillon at Highland Lake on the evening of August 14 was the most brilliant social event of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sebels, of Columbia, led the ball and Mrs. Sebels was beautiful in a brocade corsage trimmed with chiffon and fillet lace. She wore a corsage bouquet of fuchsia, ferns and hydrangeas.
 Mrs. Martin Sullivan, of Montgomery, with Mr. St. Julian Grinke, of Charleston, assisted in leading. Mrs. Sullivan, a lovely blonde, was gowned in cerise chaperone.
 Twelve hundred couples were led by the favored table, where the ladies each received corsage bouquets of hydrangeas, ferns and goldglow. Other favors during the evening were Japanese fans and Japanese sparklers. This Japanese scheme of decorations was carried out in the spacious ball room, where lanterns, umbrellas and garlands made the scene one of brilliant coloring. The stars were banked in white leaf pines and huge fern baskets filled with goldglow.
 Mrs. William Kelly and Mrs. Ernest Ladd, of Mobile, and Mrs. Robert Oates, of Flat Rock, with Mrs. F. M. Howden, of Savannah, were the gracious hostesses at the punch table.
 Mrs. Kelly wore white shadow lace over white chaperone. Mrs. Ladd wore white chaperone with an overdress of lace. Mrs. Oates wore black lace over red silk. Mrs. Howden wore black jet over chaperone.

DAIRY INSTRUCTION CAR IN ATLANTA TWO DAYS

Southern Railway to Conduct Meetings Thursday and Friday for Dairymen and Consumers.

Dairymen and farmers who supply Atlanta people with milk and butter and Atlanta people who get their milk and butter from local dairies will alike have the opportunity of gaining much valuable information on handling cows and the making of sanitary dairy products by the visit to Atlanta Thursday and Friday of the Southern Railway's special "dairy instruction car."

The car, which is on an extensive tour of the country, over the lines of the Southern Railway, is fitted out like a model farm dairy with up-to-date machinery and apparatus necessary to the small farm dairy, and will be in charge of Dr. C. M. Morgan, head of the dairy division of the Southern Railway, assisted by Dr. Peter E. Bahnsen, state veterinarian, and dairy experts from the Georgia College of Agriculture and the state and United States departments of agriculture. QUAINT OLD PAINTING STOLEN FROM LIBRARY

Mystery surrounds the theft of a quaint old painting of Patrick Henry, which disappeared from the wall of the Carnegie library two weeks ago. The portrait was handed on to the library from the Young Men's library years ago and was placed on the second floor of the building. It hung in a small oval frame within reaching distance of the floor and some one evidently placed it under his or her coat and calmly walked out with it.

As a result of a shooting scrape on Courtland street near Harris Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock Dave Wright, a young negro man living near Grant Park, is lying desperately wounded in Grady hospital and Abe Smith, another negro lad, is lodged in the police station charged with assault and attempt to murder. According to Smith's story as told the police when he was taken to headquarters, the trouble originated over a game of "craps," in which both negroes were participants. Smith claims self-defense.

Charged with assault and battery and assault with intent to murder for striking a blackjack on a newsboy, W. K. Dunn appeared before Recorder Pro Tem Preston Tuesday, and was held under a $500 bond. SHORT WEIGHT ICE MEN ARE GIVEN STIFF FINES

The war of the police department on ice dealers who give short weight in their deliveries continues unabated, one or more offenders appearing for trial before the recorder every day. The city is making a determined effort to rid Atlanta ice consumers of this class of offenders, and each dealer found guilty is given a stiff fine, with the promise of a larger one should he appear for the second time. Nat Lumpkin, a young white man employed by the Southern Ice company, was fined $15.75 Tuesday on evidence showing that he practiced short weight giving to the extent of 20 per cent on his deliveries.

STATE CHEMIST BEGINS MILK INVESTIGATION

Dr. R. E. Stallings, state chemist, announced yesterday that he had inaugurated a state-wide investigation of the milk supply. He has taken up first the dairies of Atlanta and the nearby towns which supply this city with the greater part of its milk. Every dairy which is found to fall below the rules as to sanitation and whose milk is under the standard will be compelled to clean up or shut up. The investigation is under the immediate direction of K. W. Atkins, a new member of Dr. Stallings' staff. Mr. Atkins says that ordinarily the bacterial count in milk should not run above 100,000 to a third of a teaspoonful of milk, while, in some of the specimens he has examined, it has run as high as 22,000,000.

SLATON WILL ATTEND GOVERNORS' ASSEMBLY

Session Next Week at Colorado Springs Will Be Attended by 45 Governors.

Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, accompanied by Colonel Frederick J. Paxon, chief of staff, and Mrs. Paxon, will leave for Colorado Springs Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, arriving there on Monday. The governor goes to attend the annual meeting of the conference of governors, which it now seems will be the most important gathering of this noted body that has ever assembled.

Forty-six out of the 48 governors of the states of the union have definitely announced that they will be present, only two of the entire number being prevented by providence or otherwise from attending. The conference meets on Tuesday, August 26, and will be in session for four days at the Antlers hotel, Colorado Springs. The assembly will be welcomed by Governor Ammons and by Mayor McKesson, of Colorado Springs. In response Governor Spry, of Utah, will deliver an address. Permanent organization will then be effected and that evening a great reception and ball will be tendered the governors and their wives by Mrs. Ammons, the wife of Colorado's governor.

On Wednesday Governors Cruce, of Oklahoma, and Lister, of Washington, will deliver addresses on "A State Department of Efficiency and Economy," and the governors generally will discuss the topic. At the close of Wednesday's session the members of the conference will be the guests of Colorado state societies, and that evening an executive session will be held. On Thursday morning and afternoon addresses will be made by Governor O'Neal, of Alabama; Hunt, of Arizona, and Hodges, of Kansas, on "Distrust of State Legislatures; the Cause, the Remedy." This will be followed by general discussion by the governors. On Friday Governor Dunne, of Illinois, will make a talk on "The Growth of Administrative Commissions," being followed by a general discussion at the close of which the visiting governors will be shown points of interest around Colorado Springs. On Saturday Governors Baldwin, of Connecticut, and Carey, of Wyoming, will lead in a general discussion of Assumption of Nomination and Election Expenses. This will be the first time in all the gatherings of the governors that as many as 45 will attend.
