

FORMER DETECTIVE HELD ON CHARGES OF SAFE-CRACKING

R. W. Miller and T. W. Reeves, Former Railroad Sleuth, Captured in R. A. Gober's Store.

NIGHT WATCHMAN BOUND AND PUT IN AN ICE BOX

Long List of Burglaries in Atlanta Laid at the Doors of Two Prisoners by Chief of Detectives Lanford.

A nights vigil by five detectives last night culminated in the capture of two safe-crackers in the act of rifling the vault of R. A. Gober's store at 30 Carroll street, and the rescue of the night watchman, a youth of 18, who had almost frozen in the ice box in which the robbers had bound and locked him.

One crackman called. The two prisoners were brought to police headquarters and locked up under charges of burglary. They gave the names of R. W. Miller and T. W. Reeves, both of 13 Rosewell street. Reeves is an ex-railroad detective, and formerly was marshal of East Point. Miller gave no occupation.

Long List of Burglaries. Chief Lanford, who was called from his home upon word of the arrests reaching headquarters, stated that a long list of burglaries will be laid at the door of both men, and that the police are aware of the identity of the man who escaped. Miller and Reeves were immediately placed under a third degree, which was in progress at 2 o'clock this morning.

Detectives have been shadowing Miller and Reeves several weeks. They were suspected of having committed a number of daring burglaries in all parts of the city. Early last night they were seen in the rear of the store, which runs from Powell street within a few feet of the Decatur street intersection.

The headquarters men stationed themselves around the Gober home at 8:30 o'clock. Shortly before 11 three men appeared and called for the owner of the store. When they were met by the watchman and assistant manager, who lives with Mr. Gober, answered the summons Miller, who was dressed in a suit and the outfit of the trio, asked to be sold a soft drink and some smoking tobacco.

Locked in Refrigerator. A youth got his keys and accompanied the trio to the store. He turned on the electric light just above the cash register something struck him near the temple. He was too dazed to act, and before a scream could reach his lips he was over his mouth and he was bundled into the refrigerator.

The detectives, noting the address with which the lights were turned on and out, slipped on their sliding places towards the store. Hatter and Garner stole behind Miller, who stood on the sidewalk. Hatter, holding a wooden club in his hand, and caught hold of his throat. Before he could utter a cry of warning, Hatter's hand was over his lips and Garner was making a dash for the door. They found Garner tinkering with the money drawer of the safe, which had been unlocked, and the door of which was swinging open.

Hatter pulled his pistol into Reeves' face before the robber could move. As with the second man, he dived through a window, carrying glass and woodwork in his wake. He disappeared in the darkness and could not be located.

While the detectives were searching the building for further evidence.

Cardenio F. King Dies Convict At Very Hour Faithful Friends Had Secured Pardon for Him

King Well Known in Atlanta Where He Began Career. Convicted in Boston for Financial Fraud.

Blidgewater, Mass., July 21.—A spectacular career was ended under dramatic circumstances when Cardenio F. King, once widely known as a financier and newspaper publisher of Boston, died a convict at the state farm here in the very hour that friends were aware of the approach of death, were making desperate efforts to obtain his pardon.

Only a legal technicality prevented his last hours being those of a free man. Word that his condition was hopeless was sent to Governor Foss at Boston this morning and soon afterwards Mrs. King and their four sons, who were the beneficiaries of the welcome message that the governor had pardoned the members of his family, the Boston Daily Globe, and the Boston Daily Tribune, were notified of the death.

King brightened perceptibly at the news. He was not told of the word received shortly after that Attorney General had given an opinion that a pardon could not be granted by telephone. Later, however, a telegram brought assurance that a pardon would be granted tomorrow, when the court had been ordered to convene. The Boston Daily Globe, the state farm, hurried with the news to the public, but returned to announce that King was dead.

King was convicted of obtaining $25,000 under false pretenses from persons who had trusted him with funds for investment, and was sentenced to fourteen years. In January, 1909, he began his term at Charlestown, but became seriously ill and was removed here. A chronic intestinal trouble still plagued him, and in January, 1913, he was transferred to the state farm, where he died.

King's financial operations in Boston in 1901, in 1907 he began publication of the Boston Daily Globe. It was discontinued after several months. In 1908 King's customers began to complain that stocks for which they had sent him money "had" been defunct. Bankruptcies and other liabilities were nearly $300,000 and amounted to $1,000,000.

A warrant for King's arrest was issued, but he disappeared. He was traced finally to Columbia, S. C., and returned to Boston and surrendered in June, 1909.

King was pronounced upon him following a dramatic recital in which he stated that he was innocent of any wrong intention. He closed by praising Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston financier, of bringing him to financial ruin.

King Well Known in Atlanta. Cardenio F. King was well known in Atlanta where he operated a number of years ago. King came here from North Carolina and engaged in newspaper work. He soon forsook the newspaper business to push promotion schemes. After a few years in Atlanta he returned to North Carolina and went from there to Boston, where he became involved in the trouble that resulted in his conviction.

FREE REPLY TO THE HUERTA OF A HUERA REGIME

Advices Received in Washington Indicate a Definite Conclusion Will Soon Be in Mexico.

KEEN APPREHENSION FELT AT WASHINGTON

Conflict Between Huerta and Opponents Has Reached a Point Where an Early Explosion Cannot Be Avoided.

Washington, July 21.—Reports of conditions surrounding the Huerta government in Mexico have put administration circles in an attitude of keen apprehension toward the situation there.

Advices which officials believe to be pertinent to the situation seem to indicate that the strife between the Huerta regime and the revolutionary elements is nearing a point where some definite conclusion is to be reached.

Information of this situation which was permitted to become known was given to the cabinet by a representative of the United States was making no additional naval or military preparations.

While the impending collapse of the Huerta regime are being talked over freely in official circles, though no official of the administration will permit his name to be coupled with them. All information made public was from the stipulation that it should not be represented as reflecting the views of the administration.

Meanwhile President Wilson is awaiting the coming of Ambassador Gaither to Mexico City to make a first hand report on the situation. His reports will be compared with those of President Wilson has received from other sources.

Cardenio F. King died at Havana today, and an indication of the desire to hurry him to Washington was sent to Surgeon General Bull of the public health service, to expedite the ambulance passage through quarantine at Havana and Key West.

The outbreak at Durango. Recent representatives to hold a parity with General Huerta, before his attack on Durango, given as the reason for the outrage against the republicans were international, following the recent local department affairs received.

General Urdaneta sent the consuls word as to the situation at Durango. As a retaliation for their refusal to give up the city, the virtual secretary of state under the Huerta regime and the other members of the cabinet, indiscriminately. Money was demanded from the banks and from wealthy citizens.

On his attention being called to the following statements appearing in the press: (1) that the president had stated that he would not recognize the Huerta administration; (2) that the president had stated that this country would establish a protectorate over all Central American countries to guard the Panama canal.

Mexico City, July 21.—Tuxpan, a maritime town 100 miles northwest of Mexico, was captured by the United States yesterday. It is an oil center and a considerable port. It is situated on the Gulf of Mexico. It would be necessary to give protection. Admiral Fletcher would not proceed beyond the Gulf.

The American families are seeking refuge here, fearing that disturbances may result in the overthrow of the honor of the new Japanese minister.

TAX REFORM BILL READY FOR ACTION BY HOUSE

Mulhall Testifies the Indiana Man Was in the Pay of Manufacturers While Member of Congress.

$250 A WEEK FOR WATSON AND PROMISE OF $100,000

For This Money Mulhall Says Watson Agreed to Pass Bill for a Tariff Commission, Watson and Cabinet.

Washington, July 21.—Martin M. Mulhall, late lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers, swore today that former Congressman E. Watson, of Indiana, was employed in 1908 while he was still a member of the house to buy through a bill for a tariff commission. Mulhall testified that Watson was to receive tariff of $250 a week while working for the bill and $100,000 if he got the measure through congress. He did not say who was to give the money.

Mulhall's letters dealt largely with what the National Association of Manufacturers was going to do for the former Congressman James E. Watson, of Indiana, toward getting him a place in President Taft's cabinet and of how Mulhall was to be paid for his services. Mulhall, Schwabman and eventually Frank Van Cleave and others high in the ranks of the association wanted Watson in the post of secretary of commerce and labor, after he had been appointed governor of Indiana. In one letter Mulhall wrote: "If Mr. Watson is selected for secretary of commerce and labor it would be to uphold our splendid organization throughout the life in the history of the nation. There is no additional information during the day to supplement from high quarters that this government considered the situation a very grave one. Huerta regime and looked forward to the development of a party of industrialists with the deepest interest."

PLUNDERING AND PREACHING.

To leave debt unpaid when one has plenty with which to pay them is plain dishonesty. To preach morality to others in the face of such a situation is plain hypocrisy. The great state of Georgia must not plead guilty to either count.
 The state has tremendous sources of wealth back of it. Yet for forty-four years it has made thousands of country school teachers wait for ten to twelve months for their slim pay. It has made thousands of them pay tribute to shysters in pay discounts.

Now the state, typified by its law-making body, is faced with a proposition to make Bible-reading mandatory in the public schools. The Bible is simply a concrete square-deal, whether in any language, any denomination and under every pagan creed.

The foremost test of HONESTY AND GOOD FAITH in the state is culpable in dishonesty and had faith. The spectacle is inconsistent. It inspires N. C. Williston, a correspondent, elsewhere to say:

"Can a burlesque honesty?"

He says, further, that at the final analysis the Bible is the repository of the principles of honesty and fair dealing common to all denominations and even to the heathen. How, then, he asks, can the state of Georgia afford morality on the school children of Georgia, when the state itself stands faced with the nakedness of the eighth commandment:

"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL."

To the shame of all Georgia and of many previous legislatures and administrations of Georgia, it must be said that the indictment is supported, in principle at least, by facts. The employer that hires a man, and then withholds his pay is guilty of dishonesty, to put it charitably.

That is what Georgia has been doing for forty-four years with her country school teachers.

Cartoonist Greck has accurately expressed the situation in today's Constitution. Mr. Williston is right. The state cannot afford to make an issue of perfunctory Bible reading until it purges itself with regard to the country school teachers.

He is right, too, when he says no legislature can afford to underwrite abstract morality until it corrects Georgia's dishonest tax system.

There are some plain facts regarding the proposal to decree the reading of the Bible in the common schools of Georgia, and its deal with just one phase of the situation.
 The other is handled also by Mr. Williston, and by two able and honest advocates of organized religion in Georgia, the Rev. H. C.
 Bernard, secretary of the board of co-operation of the Georgia Baptist convention, and auditor of the convention's mission board, and by the Rev. J. D. Winchester, evangelist for the Georgia Baptist Mission board.
 These men are, naturally, zealous advocates of their denomination. But they present as dangerous understatements and administrative truth the mistle of church and state, or anything that favors of force in the process of proselytizing. Mr. Bernard expresses it vividly when he declares that if the bill becomes a law "you will find that you will have dug up more snakes than you will ever be able to kill."

Mr. Williston directs attention to a point that should challenge thought among all denominations. He refers to the Con-stitution's report of the views of the preachers of Atlanta on the movement. The denominations cited are wide apart as the poles on the proposition. And there are apparently irreconcilable internal differences within more than one of the denominations.

 If this is true in just one city and at this early stage of the proceedings, what bitterness and dissension may not develop if the bill becomes a law and the whole state is involved?

If more agitation has precipitated these differences, what may not be expected from application? Is there any guarantee that the state may not become the theater of religious feuds of ineradicable nature and doing more harm to genuine religion than all the churches can stamp out?

In justice to all concerned, we doubt if this movement begun with due consideration of the gravity of the matter. Undoubtedly, the bill is well-intentioned. But that is all that can be said in its behalf.

THE EXTRA-LEGAL LENIENCY.

The starting action of a grand jury in Kansas City precipitates almost a new or at least an infrequent feature in our jurisprudence, and that is what may be called extra-legal leniency. A defendant had been indicted for and convicted of murder. The evidence was direct. There was not the slightest doubt in the minds of any one of the jurymen of the guilt of the defendant.

Upon the finding and delivering of a verdict of acquittal, which amazed the courtroom, the foreman asked permission to speak to the prisoner. He told the latter that the jury was satisfied as to his guilt, but, they, it seemed, believed he deserved another chance. Would he agree to amend his ways and look after his old mother if that chance was forthcoming? Of course, in the predicament of the defendant, there was but one answer to such a question. He walked out a free man, with not even a suspended sentence over his head.

The sanity of procedure of this nature is open to question. The offender had shown himself to be an individual of dissolute habits and violent temperament. If he had yielded to the malignant influences upon him, there was no guarantee that he would do so again. It is easy to understand that the average jury moved by sympathy might have been induced to grant a new trial at this would be to his benefit.

And that is where our present system of jurisprudence falls down. If the man showed elements of compunction and tractability, he ought to have been given the opportunity to show the faith that was in him. At the same time, it was distinctly the duty of the law, acting through the jury, to conserve the interests of society. This could have been done by the man being placed under suspended sentence or indeterminate sentence. But it appears wrong and a subversion of the sacred function of justice to free a convicted murderer with no stronger punishment or restraint than a null and unsecured promise to "be good."

It is regrettable that of this nature that still further increases the already heavy handicap under which society struggles as against the criminal. As it is now, it must fight with technicality and sometimes indifferent public sentiment. Then the pardoning power is often liberally abused. If,
 on top of this, juries get out of their way to formally release murderers, where will we stand in the far analysis?

THE NORTH GEORGIA APPLE.

What is the matter with the capitalists of Georgia and the farmers of north Georgia that they do not turn to the culture of apples? Here and there is a sporadic orchard, and even a company for promoting the industry. But as a whole, it is languishing and the fact does not reflect credit upon the business acumen of Georgia. For, if ever a fortune, an easy fortune, was made, it is the fortune that lies in the production of apples in Georgia.

The Blue Ridge section of this state is ideally adapted to apple culture. Apples from Rabun county have taken prizes in national apple shows here in Atlanta. Individual orchards have made displays of fruit that would credit to New England or to the famed apple belt of western Pennsylvania.

In practically all of the mountain counties of the state there are hundreds of acres fitted by nature for transformation into orchards now lying idle. The sheltered coasts in which apples thrive would be abundant. The climate, which is just the proper severity and variation for firm, healthy fruit, is available. There is enough territory now virtually going to seed to produce apples to feed the whole country.

But with apples, as with corn, wheat, oats, cattle and other products, Georgia is sending money outside the state for the products that should be raised here.

The wonder is greater from the fact that while thousands of dollars and incalculable energy is invested in the peach crop, only an insignificant amount of time and money is spent on apples. And as between the investment values of the two crops, it is almost impossible to draw a comparison. The peach, even of the hard-st variety, is always menaced by a late frost. The apple survives many harsh frosts and thrives on weather that would destroy the peach. It has, of course, its insect foes, but they do not compare in number or virulence with those against which the peach grower must direct his efforts.

The next few years ought to see a decided turning to the apple industry. If the railroads and trade boards will do a little timely pointing in that direction, it should not be difficult to turn the tide.

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

"I hear the woods a-calling, and I may no longer stay,"
 Said the poet, "while the pine trees are waving me away."
 Said the old man, "Take this ax along,
 'cause I don't want them pine trees an' cuttin' winter-wood!"

"The river's voice invites me, and after my steps would be Where it lies to the meadows—tell my secret to the sea."
 Said the old man, "Take this thought along,
 and handle it with care:
 Set your stakes for business and start a grist-mill there!"

There was truth in: In shady wood, or by the singing stream,
 Poetic visions vanish and the dollars in the dream.
 You don't see gold dust from the stars high
 up in heaven profaned; Takes bread and bacon, after all, to make the world go 'round."

"The fact that I had inherited a lot of money from my uncle got into the papers, and within twenty-four hours I began to realize that the thing of being rich is an annoyance. All the business men, and fresh people in the United States hunted me up, and wanted to know what I had done with my money. For people who used to look at me with haughty disdain hunted me up and tried to ask me a half interest in a corner property, or an equity in a herd of cows, or a share of a farm in the half of Iowa. It really was annoying the way they camped around my boarding house and wailed me
 the ears and eyes out."

"Then a number of weatherboard men, and a lot of other fellows, and a long time camped on my trail and showed an unreasonably determination to know how I had done it. Every man who inherits money has the wisdom to contend with. I was a hard interest in a corner property, or an equity in a herd of cows, or a share of a farm in the half of Iowa.
 It really was annoying the way they camped
 around my boarding house and wailed me
 the ears and eyes out."

"The hills invite, the rivers say: 'The fish are waiting for you, and the sun is too hot for making hay, and the take your ease and a holiday.' But old-time folks to beat the nation—the hills through your belt vacation, and as you're taking your ease, and the same old daily grind is there, but you've been a free vacation man and paid the price for your coat of tan."

"The Duke of Mish is coming here for dinner, so I'm going to get a new suit. I don't want to be out of the office last half a winner, and I must do a little hustling on the side."
 "So the dollars are denied
 me, and the suit is on the side."
 "Since the dollars are denied
 me, and the suit is on the side."
 "The price of beef is rising every minute and it's hard to stifle the tempt and the horse is in the race, and he must win it."
 "I must do a little hustling on the side."
 "For my little to provide
 I must do a little hustling on the side."

"Sorrow of the Rich.
 The millionaire that happens. He gives thousands to build a mission, to the heathen, and the heathen advise a barbeque and serve the missionary to the guests, then, if the millionaire goes to church and drops a dollar in the collection basket, he gives him a withering look, and the person knows that he won't like the climate to which he will go when he dies. He gives all his money to the poor, the said poor won't recognize him, and he will ask for a job at a dollar a day. To every gift of happiness the millionaire has a basket of trouble.
 Amen."

"In the Hatlessman's Bed.
 The rattlesnake would snake the birds, too late for a flight.
 Beware how you wander—beware!
 A quart for the rattlesnake for every rattle snake.
 But there's a mighty little 'moonshine'
 in to spare."

"Lookout for your zoning when you hear his rattlesnake hiss.
 No grave will be grant you for us, pray!
 But live a half a million which is cool in the spring.
 And I can't afford of rattlesnakes today!"

"George Ballo's Objects.
 Says Ballo, of The Houston Post:
 "The Atlanta Constitution commends the change of the 'Commoner to a monthly and adds: 'Now let them make the Congressional Record a yearly.' What would the country newspapers do for single wrappers?"

"Deal Greatly With the Poor.
 "Never turn a stranger from the door," said the Georgia farmer, "for my way may turn out to be your door cabinet. When on a vacation, you have been trying to make living for himself and family and failed to hook any platform treatments. Treat him kindly and bid him enter and refresh himself for the Lord only knows what he owes me to do before we are through with this game of life."

"The Storm Cloud.
 H. H. Storm, Cloud, Projekts about.
 If you want to please us Don't let the clouds be his
 He is as blind as any man,
 An' got too far for fear,
 Don't let de thunder scold him,
 An' mebbe he'll stay home!"

"All That Saved Him.
 "How long has he been in congress?"
 "Well, what sort of a record has he made?"
 "Well, but I'll say this much: It's a mighty good thing for him that some folks in the district can't read!"

"I do get tired of the eternal struggle able to wear purple and fine linen while his neighbor couldn't always command burlesque.

 I thought I'd be perfectly happy if I had paid the money for a week or two without having to work for it. I was reasonably modest in my desires. I didn't ask for any kind of lamp, and I didn't want for the Midas touch. I'd have been satisfied with an income."

ATLANTA'S LATEST SKYSCRAPER, THE MAGNIFICENT HURT BUILDING, WILL USE CENTRAL STATION CURRENT FOR POWER AND LIGHT

THE HURT BUILDING

The purchase of CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC CURRENT for light and power for the magnificent new Hurt Building, at the intersection of Pryor Street and Edgewood Avenue, is probably the highest indorsement yet given this method of obtaining electricity.

The rates and service which Mr. Joel Hurt has secured for his building are the standard rates and identical service offered any individual or enterprise desiring electricity for power and lights under similar conditions. The contract is made to cover the requirements of the building now under erection. It contemplates that should the building be extended to double its present size the contract may be so adjusted as to meet the additional requirements at virtually the same cost at which the service could be furnished from an isolated plant. In short, a contract is made now with the hope that it will prove to the interests of the Atlanta Realty Corporation in its future building to continue to obtain its supply from the Georgia Railway & Power Company. If, after the expiration of two years, it should appear that the Atlanta Realty Corporation can produce its power from its own station at a saving worth considering, it would be at liberty to do so, and cancel the present contract.

Mr. Hurt, who built this latest monument to Atlanta's enterprise and progress, is well known as one of the greatest developers in the country. The Equitable Building and the superb Druid Hills residence section are his products; and it was he who conceived and built the first electric trolley lines in Atlanta, forerunners of the present street railway system.

Mr. Hurt is a trained engineer and is thoroughly familiar with the intricate details of the electrical business. Therefore, when he decided to buy Central Current for his masterpiece, the Hurt Building, after carefully investigating every other method of obtaining electricity, it was distinctly an expert indorsement of Central Station Current.

HOT CHARGES MADE IN KENT HEARING

Disbarred Lawyer Appears Before Senate Committee and Asks That His Disabilities Be Removed.

The bill of Senator Fred Kea, of the sixteenth district, removing the disabilities of William B. Kent, who was disbarred in 1910 on twenty-one counts of unprofessional and wilful misconduct, was heard before the general judiciary committee of the senate yesterday afternoon and action upon the measure was deferred until a later meeting of the committee.

Did Beer Have Influence?

Mr. Kent in defending himself before the committee, stated that the petition requesting the legislature not to reinstate him was drawn up by the association at a barbecue held at the barbecue two kegs of beer, containing 120 bottles, were served to the lawyers and that while he did not charge them with being drunk, he did think that this beverage had some thing to do with their action.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

The chamber of commerce committee having in charge the establishing of a permanent business district for Atlanta made some news in the chamber Monday morning and received the board of directors of the chamber to make them a price on the four upper floors of the new chamber building at the southeast corner of First Street and Adams Street.

After hearing the desire of this committee President Moore, of the chamber, called a special meeting of the board to consider this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chamber rooms.

There is still a possibility that the committee, of which Brooks Morgan is chairman, will withdraw from the many other offers which have been made.

Among the proposals was that of J. R. Smith, who has offered to erect a six-story building at the corner of Walton and Barton streets at an approximate cost of $1,000,000.

An attractive offer made the committee on permanent exhibits of the Atlanta chamber of commerce is that of L. Turner, Atlanta's well-known realty dealer, on a lot on First street.

The lot in question is 50 feet wide of Mitchell street on the west side of First street, facing east.

It is willing to dispose of this property for a price of $500,000 in order to put the chamber of commerce. This offer will be given due consideration by the committee.

Green Realty Sale. The L. V. Green Realty company has sold for the estate of Mrs. M. Harper Mims to W. S. Gray, lot No. 2, block 12, on Peachtree street, near Adams Park. The lot is 30 feet wide of Mitchell street on the west side of First street, facing east.

East Georgia Avenue Sale. The Martin County Board of Commissioners has sold for the estate of Mrs. Mary Hunt a six-story building on a lot on East Georgia avenue, near Adams Park. The lot is 30 feet wide of Mitchell street on the west side of First street, facing east.

East Avenue Residence Sale. E. M. Williamson has sold for the estate of the late F. M. Johnson a residence on East Avenue, near Adams Park. The lot is 30 feet wide of Mitchell street on the west side of First street, facing east.

COOLER WEATHER LOWERED COTTON

Breaking of Hot Spell Caused Decline of 5 to 12 Points in Futures—Selling in the Last Hour Caused Loss.

New York, July 21.—With a sudden drop in temperatures over the entire cotton belt on Monday and heavy showers in parts of the south, the cotton market developed moderate heaviness today and closed steady at a net decline of 5 to 12 points.

The opening, which was steady and 7 to 11 points lower, reflected, in some degree, the weakness at Liverpool, which at the hour of the local opening was about 1 1/2 points higher. The decline had been influenced by the disappearance of a good temperature over the belt. Offerings were quite liberal and included a high grade of cotton brought by local traders at the close of last week. The weather was fairly well absorbed, however, and the market advanced to a point of opinion in private advice from Texas as to the state of the crop. The buying from Wall street and Liverpool sources followed the market and prices recovered about half of their early loss.

BUSIEST WEEK YET CONVENTIONS HOUSE

Appropriations, Tax Revision, Inheritance Tax on Schedule—New Counties Probably Be Sidetracked.

With the general appropriations bill set as a special order for today, the tax revision measure back from the floor and means committee in charge for passage and the inheritance tax bill set as a special order for Thursday, as it will be if the rules committee acts favorably on the resolution introduced by Mr. Smith of Missouri, yesterday, the house will have little hands full without any further consideration of the new county question this week.

It was the intention of Chairman Crawford (Wheat) to have the appropriations bill cleared up by the house sitting in continuous session until the floor was taken. This would be getting the bill through with unusual dispatch, as heretofore two and sometimes three days have been consumed in debating it.

Mr. Flinn in One Day. In view of the fact, however, that the house meet in the session of the noon to convene the vote of the recent national election, the program to finish in one day may be broken into. As the general appropriations bill contains nothing but the routine expenses of the state this year, reduced to the lowest practicable base, it is hardly likely that serious objection will be raised to many of the items.

As usual, the bill will be considered by a committee of the whole to consider the bill item by item, though it is reported back to the floor for a final action on the entire measure. This will take time, but it is not impossible that the bill will be cleared out of way in a single day.

The general tax bill, if the program of Chairman Aikin is carried out, will be reported to the house Friday. It is expected that the bill will act on it at its next week, possibly on Monday. It is understood that the appropriations bill to be acted upon in advance of the tax bill. The innovations made with the income tax of the members, however, as it is to be taken up. With the appropriations bill ahead, the work and many committee will have to be raised before starting out on the tax bill.

Both the chairman of the appropriations committee, Mr. Aikin, and the chairman of ways and means, Mr. Aikin, have earned the gratitude of the state for the initiative and energy with which they have taken these measures, always the most important consideration of the legislature, under way. It is not too much to say that they have done well.

unlikely that Governor Flinn will have both bills in his hands ten days before the close of the session, as requested.

The chief obstacle that stands in the legislature from now on to the end is the new county question. The question of what members are asking themselves in view of the practical certainty that no more new county measures can be passed by the house this year, is why should they be considered in the consideration of them?

In order to please Mr. Wohlwend of Macon, the house voted a reconsideration of the Chandler county bill. This was done with the express understanding that the bill was not to be heard from again this year.

The rules committee will give it a chance the house will have the opportunity of saying tomorrow whether or not it will be willing to devote the balance of this session to real work, giving first consideration to matters of general interest involving the public welfare.

Hardeman Resolution. The resolution which Mr. Hardeman, of Jefferson, has introduced Monday has caused the debate on the reconsideration of the Chandler county bill did not have a chance he will offer today in conjunction with Mr. Fairburn, of Clarke. It will put the whole square on record as to whether the state or the new counties are to come first. It will have the effect that there is left and a world of annoyance, and will save the new county question a lot of money. Delegates are notified that they may take a vacation of the other hand, the school teachers and the people have a sufficient amount of resolution to vote today on the bill with interest.

Another resolution which Mr. Hardeman will offer today is to expedite the business of the house will be to make a special order of the day for August 1 at 9 o'clock instead of 10. Both resolutions will be referred to the committee on the rules.

House's Still Active. Meanwhile, the committee on the rules, somewhat disinterested, are still active. The committee on constitutional amendments, which is expected to report this afternoon to the Warner county bill.

The Warner county bill, the only one which has passed the house so far, has been passed by special order in the Senate tomorrow.

A FISH STORY FROM AUTO ROW

This is a fish story right off of fishing and having a general good time. Captain Willaver, accompanied by the above named gentlemen and Mayor Hughes, of Sarasota, left on Monday the week for a little fishing trip.

ATLANTA'S LEADING TWO BILLS ARE MERGED FOR PHOTO CONVENTION BY RETAIL MERCHANTS

Believed That the Delegates Association Wants Garnishment and Fraudulent Check Measures Passed. By Fred Hoover.

Every section of Georgia has sent representatives to the first annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association, which opened a three-day session at the new Ansley hotel Monday morning.

The main feature of the convention will be to add the passage of the garnishment and fraudulent check bills pending in the legislature, which the association drafted.

At Atlanta for 1914 says Harry Goodhardt, of the Southern Photographic Material company, after talking with several hundred delegates. The Kansas City Post quotes L. D. Hicks, of The Southern Ruralist, as saying:

Atlanta deserves the 1914 convention and the present situation will win out. The magnificent support which is being given the Atlanta bills, such as the garnishment and fraudulent check bills, will greatly aid our delegation in their fight.

The Atlanta convention bureau has a display in the lobby of the Biltmore hotel, and has opened an office in the convention hall, which is the center of all political activity.

Helpless, Bulgaria is crying for peace. King Ferdinand Appeals to the German Emperor to Stop the Rumanians. London, July 21.—Any idea that the London army is preparing for a counter stroke is now quite abandoned. It has become known that in his capacity for bringing about peace King Ferdinand appealed to the German Emperor regarding Rumanian action. This morning the emperor's reply has not been disclosed.

Bulgaria Accepts Conditions. Bucharest, Rumania, July 21.—It is officially confirmed here that Bulgaria has accepted conditions laid down by Rumania, and also has agreed to the treaty with Serbia and Greece.

"ON TO ATLANTA," KNOXVILLE SLOGAN

Exposition Directors Coming Here to Discuss the Matter of an Exhibit.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 21.—"On to Atlanta" will be the slogan of the directors of the National Conservation exposition to be held in this city during the months of September and October. A committee of exposition directors will go to Atlanta to take up with business men, jobbers and manufacturers of that city the matter of an exhibit of Atlanta-made goods in Knoxville, and also to perfect plans for a big Atlanta day at the exposition. T. A. Wright, president of the National Conservation Exposition company, will head the delegation.

With so many other of the large manufacturing cities of the south to be represented in Knoxville by extensive lines of exhibits the directors of the project feel that Atlanta, too, with good reason, might be considered as a "chick" city. Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis, Baltimore, Memphis, Nashville, Birmingham, Winston-Salem, Greenville, S. C., Lynchburg and Knoxville are the national marketing and each will display at the Conservation exposition and the exposition management wants to add the name of Atlanta to this long list.

The exposition directors are to go to Knoxville and there take up the exhibit question with the chamber of commerce of that city and the Merchants and Manufacturers' association.

Within the last few days exhibit space in the different buildings has been going very fast, until now there is very little of any kind left. Before August 1 the exposition management hopes to be able to make the announcement that every foot of space has been taken. It is for this reason, as well as for the other reasons noted above, that the exposition committee is going to Atlanta at the present time. During the last week the management of the national show was obliged to add 30,000 square feet of outdoor exhibit space to the grounds.

Some of the cities that will be in attendance at the exposition are: Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; Cincinnati, O.; Cleveland, O.; Dallas, Tex.; Denver, Colo.; Detroit, Mich.; Houston, Tex.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Kansas City, Mo.; Louisville, Ky.; Memphis, Tenn.; Nashville, Tenn.; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; St. Louis, Mo.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; Tampa, Fla.; Washington, D. C.; Wichita, Kan.

2 CONVICTED BANKERS PARDONED BY WILSON. Washington, July 21.—President Wilson today pardoned T. F. Baker and John Wheeler, convicted at Abilene, Texas, April 19, 1912, of violation of the national banking act and each sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Wheeler, who owned extensive tracts of lands in Texas, Wyoming and Nebraska, had received a $50,000 loan with the banker's capital and surplus permitted under the law. The loan was paid in full with interest, but the banker had forbidden there is no penalty in the law for not repaying the loan and the men were not charged.

The department of justice, after investigating the matter, found that the men were not guilty of misappropriating the funds of the bank because there was no fraud in connection with the loan.

Baby Disfigured with Red Humor. Came in Patches, Almost All Over Her. Like Ringworm, Made Sores and Itched. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Clare, N. C.—"My baby was broken out with a red, skin and itching humor when about two months old. It would come in patches and would not clear up until I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. The places were like ringworms and when they would spread they would turn red and make sores and itched. Cuticura Soap to her face and disfigured her badly. Her clothes irritated it.

"I used several different kinds of salves that were recommended for the trouble and would not clear up until I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. The places were like ringworms and when they would spread they would turn red and make sores and itched. Cuticura Soap to her face and disfigured her badly. Her clothes irritated it.
