Nineteen Officers of United Mine Workers Are Charged With Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

FIRST ACT UNDER LAW AGAINST A LABOR BODY

Alleged Attempt Was Made to Raise Wages in West Virginia and So Prevent Competition.

Charleston, W. Va., June 7.—President John M. White and eighteen other officials of the United Mine Workers of America, were indicted in the federal court here today on a charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. It is alleged the defendants conspired with the coal operators of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to raise wages in the West Virginia coal fields, so as to prevent its competition with other states.

Those named in the indictment are John P. White, Frank J. Frank, J. Mayes, vice president; Thomas Haggerty, Joseph Vazy, James Cantrell, Charles Hatley, Marco Roman, George R. Edmonds and Benjamin F. Morris, organizers of the United Mine Workers of America; Thomas Cairns, president; Clarence C. Griffith, vice president; James M. Crago, secretary of district No. 17, United Mine Workers of America, and James Diana, John Nutter, Rome Mitchell, W. S. Reese, F. D. Stanley, U. S. laborers and A. D. Alexander subordinate officer of district No. 17.

First Labor Case. It is said here that this case is the first one in which officers of labor organizations have been indicted on charges of having violated the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictments charge that the nineteen men engaged in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce.

It is charged that the indicted men have been agents and members of "an unincorporated voluntary organization of individuals," the United Mine Workers of America having many thousands of members who unlawfully combined and conspired together with the object and intent of unionizing and making matters of coal production and distribution in the state of West Virginia and in the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, in the markets of the United States outside of West Virginia.

Shipped in Competition. The indictment alleged that coal produced in West Virginia is shipped in competition with coal mined in the other states of the United States, and that not more than 15 per cent of the coal output of West Virginia is consumed within the state.

"The object and purpose of the United Mine Workers is to fix wages to be paid to laborers and to refuse to allow said laborers to work unless said wages are paid," the complaint further reads. Continuing, it stated: "The organization intends to unionize the miners in West Virginia and to fix the price at which coal of West Virginia could be sold in the outside markets named, thus permitting the competitive states to compete more favorably in the western markets with the product shipped from West Virginia."

It is charged that the mines in the competitive states are unionized, dominated by the United Mine Workers and the coal operators of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, have en-

MRS. DAISY GRACE AND C. H. OLDHAM SOUGHT BY POLICE

MRS. GRACE EXPOSED BY WOMAN DETECTIVE

Mrs. Ida Plummer Informed the District Attorney That She Was Representative of Mothers' Congress.

Westchester, Pa., June 7.—(Special.) Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Ople Grace, who was acquitted several months ago at Atlanta, Ga., after being tried for shooting her husband, is a fugitive from justice, following a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace S. M. Paxton.

Charles H. Oldham, manager of the Chester Valley Electric Light company, also is a fugitive from justice on a similar warrant. Both warrants charge statutory offenses and are based upon alleged actions of Mrs. Grace and Oldham at the Swan hotel, at Downingtown, where, it is charged, they lived as "Mr. and Mrs. Oldham" for several months until last Tuesday, when the proprietor of the hotel requested "Mr. and Mrs. Oldham" to vacate their apartments.

The warrant calling for the arrest of the couple were made at the instance of Mrs. Ida Plummer, who follows Mrs. Grace to Downingtown and became very friendly with her. After Mrs. Plummer had obtained all the information she desired she told the hotel proprietor that "Mrs. Oldham" and Daisy Ulrich Ople Grace were the same.

Following her revelations Mrs. Plummer came here and was closeted for several hours with District Attorney Sproat and County Detective Jefferson. This conference ended in the issuance of the warrants for the arrest of the couple.

Mrs. Plummer told the district attorney that she represented the Mothers' Congress and that she was interested in the case, as she sought to prevent Mrs. Grace getting a divorce from the husband, who is a helpless cripple as a result of the revolver shot which Mrs. Grace was accused of firing.

She gave as her reason that if Mrs. Grace obtains the divorce she seeks she can gain possession of her 8-year-old blind boy by her first husband, who is an inmate in an Overbrook institution. Other persons declare that Mrs. Plummer is a detective in the employ of Grace, who is seeking a divorce in the Georgia courts, and that she is a personal friend of Grace.

MACON POLICE CHIEF ARRESTS HIS OWN SON

After Hot Argument Father Hails His Offspring to Court for Violating Ordinance.

Macon, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The unusual spectacle of a chief of police arresting his own son was seen in Macon today, when Chief W. B. Chapman arrested Holt Chapman, proprietor of a drug store at Second and Mulberry streets.

The charge against the younger Chapman is that of painting signs advertising his business on the sidewalks in violation of the city ordinance, this law having been passed recently at the request of the Woman's Improvement association, which has started a campaign in the interest of a "city beautiful."

A heated argument ensued between father and son when the arrest was made and young Chapman declares that he will employ a lawyer and fight his case through the court. Chief Chapman will be the chief witness against his son when the case is tried before the recorder.

LOVERS ELOPE ON MOTORCYCLE; WED AFTER A HOT CHASE

Waynesboro, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Eluding the vigilance of their parents the wedding was telegraphed Elizabeth McElmurray eloped on a motorcycle from this city and was married last night in North Augusta. The ceremony was performed at his paragon by the Rev. George White, a Baptist minister.

Hayward Fulcher and Miss phoned from Augusta by the couple, who were stopping at the home of the bridegroom's sister. They told of their escape from relatives and friends who joined in the effort to prevent the marriage, and how they dodged automobiles that patrolled the road to Augusta Thursday night, near the city about daylight. They stopped at a farm house until the afternoon, when a garage in Augusta was called up and a car sent out for them.

FELDER MAKES ANSWER TO DICTAGRAPH EPISODE

BOY MEETS DEATH IN LAKE AT PARK

James Minor Jordan, Thirteen Years of Age, Drowned in Three Feet of Water at White City.

Drowned in 3 feet of water of the lake at White City park, the body of 13-year-old James Minor Jordan was found by his playmates yesterday afternoon. He was unconscious and died a few minutes after having been placed on the operating table at Grady hospital.

The dead boy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Furr, who live at 105 Powell street. He had spent most of the afternoon roller skating in the park rink. About 4:30 o'clock he left the floor of the rink for the lake. Overheated, he plunged into the water, attempting to swim across.

A few minutes later, when one of his several companions missed the Jordan boy, they discovered his body in 3 feet of water in the center of the lake. He was brought to the shore, and while the Grady ambulance was on the way to the scene, efforts were made to resuscitate him. He died on the operating table.

Cramps, caused by reaction of the water on the child's overheated condition, are thought to have been the cause of his death. He was a good swimmer for his age.

DECLARES LOBBY PROBE IS UNFAIR TO SENATORS

Bacon Says Investigation Has Aroused an Entirely Groundless Suspicion.

Washington, June 7.—(Special.)—Scorn of lobbyists are waiting with nervous impatience tonight, the resumption of the lobby investigation by the senate committee next week. They came to Washington on subpoena today not knowing the inquiry had been adjourned over until Monday. Whether any of them have attempted improperly to influence Senators or are mere legislative agents will be decided after they have given their testimony.

Senator Bacon has been extremely irritated at the manner in which the investigation was conducted. He thinks the inquiry into the personal affairs of senators, the amount of their property, how it is investigated and whether they have been approached improperly, has caused an unfair and most unfortunate impression to get abroad in the country.

"In so far as the inquiry sought to determine if there was a paid lobby in Washington, attempting to improperly influence legislation, the investigation was right and proper," said Mr. Bacon. "I have no objection to anything that could be brought out so far as it affects myself, and presume that is true of all other senators."

"At the same time it must be recognized that such a personal investigation into the private affairs and personal acts of each senator must necessarily produce an unfortunate and undesirable impression in the public mind.

"There has been no charge that any senator is guilty of corruption or any improper conduct in connection with the legislation, and I am sure that there is no ground for any charge or suggestion to that effect."

"And yet such an investigation must produce an impression on the public mind that there is some ground for accusation or suspicion in that direction, and for that reason it is entirely unjust to senators and conducive to no good end."

"Nothing is desirable which shakes public confidence in the integrity of public officers when there is no possible ground for the same."

Well-Known Attorney Writes Four Cards Covering All the Phases of Situation and Answering All Charges.

DICTAGRAPH TRAP JUST "FRAME-UP," HE SAYS

Col. Felder Asserts George Gentry, Who Took Down the Stenographic Notes, Will Return and Expose the Deal.

Colonel Thomas B. Felder has written four cards—to Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford, Chief of Police Beavers, James R. Gray, editor of The Journal, and Foster Coates, manager of The Georgian—all bearing on the late dictagraph incident which was published in the three papers of Atlanta. He states the whole thing was a "frame-up" from beginning to end and says he will produce proofs of his statements.

In his card to Newport Lanford Colonel Felder brands him as a crook and applies to him various epithets. The letters follow:

Apologizes to The Public. Atlanta, Ga., June 7, 1913.—Newport Lanford, Chief of the Vice Department of the City of Atlanta, Atlanta, Ga. With apologies to the reading public for parading before them a "barrow of butcher's offal," so harmoniously tendered in your personality, I shall now proceed to redeem the pledge heretofore made to lay bare, through the columns of the papers, your infamous career in the mal-administration of the affairs of the official position which you disgrace and dishonor that as to you, the incident so far as newspaper publication is concerned, shall be forever closed.

In dealing with the situation in my several cards, I am acting strictly within the limitations of the late lamented Gov. Sam P. Jones. "What you have a gentleman, use a razor; when you have a hog, use a brick." It must strike even one of your mental caliber that in treating you tonsorially, the late instrument recommended by the illustrious divine must be employed. It is not within the purview of this card to deal with the vice conditions which flourish in this city under your fostering care and protection.

"I am quite certain it will be thorough and exhaustive. If so, I entertain no doubt that this phase of the situation, which will show, abundantly, your criminal connection therewith in all of its hideous deformity."

REFORM IS FAVORED IN PENAL CONDITIONS

Fulton County Representatives Are Desirous of a Complete Investigation

Fulton county's representatives in the approaching assembly will unanimously favor the request of the Prison Association of Georgia for the appointment of a commission to look into penal conditions in Georgia and suggest whatever reforms and improvements may be needed along practical and conservative lines.

Representative John Y. Smith has already been quoted as heartily in favor of the measure. Representative R. O. Cochran has promised that he will give it his support and Representative R. B. Blackburn has given a following interview on the subject.

"Unless some unforeseen complication arises I shall be glad to vote for the creation of such a commission. I can see no harm that will come to it and on the other hand it is quite possible that great good may result. I think such a commission should be given the power to investigate the penal system thoroughly and instructed to report back to the legislature."

"It seems to me that this is a conservative and intelligent way and possibly the best way to get reliable and uncolored information on prison conditions in Georgia."

"I am in favor of treating convicts in a humane way at all times consistent with safety to the state. If there are any inhuman punishments being inflicted on convicts in Georgia or if they are being subjected to any inhuman or unnecessarily cruel treatment such conditions should be taken cognizance of by the legislature and corrected so far as possible."

Personally I think that the immediate solution of the convict problem in Georgia will be the construction of a central penitentiary. How or in what manner I am not prepared to say at the time. In the meantime I think the penal laws we have should be enforced humanely.

Twenty-Two New Teachers Named to Fill Vacancies in Matrimony-Depleted Ranks

As usual, the little love god has played havoc in the ranks of the women teachers in the Atlanta public schools, and the board of education when it went into the election of teachers for the coming year yesterday found itself confronted with twenty-two resignations of young women, most of them have either joined the matrimonial ranks or expect to do so in an early date.

The matrimonial scythe has cut a wider swath in the ranks of our teachers than usual this year. Superintendent Slaton told the board, "and there are consequently a number of places to be filled."

The superintendent would not tell just how many of his force were contemplating matrimony, however, as he said that would hardly be fair.

With the new regular teachers, supernumeraries were also selected yesterday, but their names will not be made public until each has been assigned to a school. Mr. Slaton and Assistant Superintendent Landrum are working on these assignments, and hope to finish tomorrow.

The board of education re-elected every official from the superintendent to the office clerical force and named two new principals.

Examinations of applicants for teachers' places to be filled next year will be held August 15 and 18. All teachers who have been required to take a reinforcing examination will do so at that time. As the annual June vacations and the ranks of the teachers considerably depleted by matrimony, those who pass a good examination in August will stand an excellent chance of getting places next year.

Following are the officials and teachers for the Atlanta public schools for 1913-1914:

Wonderful Treatment for Corns, Callouses and All Sore Feet

Millions of people who endure daily torture from sore feet will welcome the information that there is now a simple treatment that positively and quickly cures foot ailments of all kinds. You can say goodbye to corns and callouses; itching, bad smelling, and sweaty feet. This treatment works right through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Use it once and your feet feel delightful. Use it for a week and your foot troubles will be a thing of the past. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts. Amazing results follow. Calocide was formerly confined to doctors' use but now any druggist will supply it. If he does not have it in stock he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is sold to be enough to put the worst feet in fine condition.

Conzelman Signed By Bill Crakers On Road Monday Athletics Will Be Boosted Tennis Meet to America

LUCKY POLE

Crackers Winning But Showers End Pastime for Day

The Score Was 1 to 0 in Last Half of the Fourth Inning. Conzelman Looks Like a Real Hurler.

By Dick Jemison. Harry Covaleskie, the big Pole, carried all his horses with him Saturday afternoon, when he wiggled out of a drubbing from the hands of the Crackers.

Conzelman a Find. This boy Conzelman lived up to all his advance notices. Fred Clark, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, knows a twiler when he sees one, and he made a wise move in keeping a look string attached to Joseph.

Good Fielding. Elberfeld and Bisland, the rival shortstops, were the holding stars of the game. They both had several difficult chances, and they handled them in approved style.

The Pole got by in the first two innings but in the second he allowed two hits, though no runs resulted. Alperman opened the fourth with a single to right that came near the plate.

Conzelman pitched a gem. He was a disappointed crowd too, for they were having a lot of fun at the expense of both Covaleskie and Elberfeld.

Joe Conzelman Is Signed; Made Debut on Saturday; Chappelle to Beaumont

Joseph Conzelman, the former Brown university pitcher, was signed Saturday morning by Manager Billy Smith. He made his debut in the afternoon against the Lookouts and had the rain stayed away.

ON ROAD TRIP

Crackers Battle On Hostile Soil For Whole Week

Play Barons in Slagville and the Lookouts in Mountain City—Team Then Returns Home.

Billy Smith and his crippled Crackers will take a road jaunt of a week, playing in Birmingham and Chattanooga before the return to their home lot again.

The team pulls out of here tonight for Slagville, where they tackle Moley's rejuvenated Barons in a three-game series, starting Monday. To date, the Crackers have all the edge on the Barons, having won six of the eight contests that the two teams have played.

Monday will be the concluding day at Rickwood field. The Barons awarded this choice date to the Crackers, and they are going to endeavor to show the Gate City what a big crowd is, by turning out en masse for the pastime that afternoon.

Ty Cobb Writes His Final Story of Series For The Constitution, Discussing Exactly The Requirements of a Star Ball Player

By TY COBB.
EDITORS: This is the sixteenth and last of a series of weekly articles written exclusively for The Constitution by the world's greatest ball player.

(Copyright 1913 by Ty Cobb Service.)
When a ball player starts to discuss a subject, he starts to discuss a hard proposition. Is he? Every man in the game strives to get columns of space in the news papers and make his name known to every man, woman, boy and girl in the world. Some succeed and are stars indeed. Others are stars but their light is hidden under a bushel. At the outset let it be understood that I am not going to get a hit now or my plain unvarnished opinion of a star of the diamond. If you can find one playing the game you may pick him. I'm not going to get a hit now or my plain unvarnished opinion of a star of the diamond. If you can find one playing the game you may pick him. I'm not going to get a hit now or my plain unvarnished opinion of a star of the diamond. If you can find one playing the game you may pick him.

Wants to Win Game
If he is getting into the game and saying to himself, "I've simply got to hit the ball somewhere and bring that runner home so our club will win the game," he is a winning ball player. If on the other hand he is whispering to himself, "I'm not going to get my average will down several points, then has nothing more than an individual star."

Must Place Victory First
Of course there are a lot of pitchers who are stars and are at or near the top of their respective leagues. They always try to win and while they like to be high in the average it is victory for them that counts. They don't care for the average, but they care for the victory. They don't care for the average, but they care for the victory. They don't care for the average, but they care for the victory.

Cobb's Hitting
Ty Cobb got two hits in 12 trips to the plate Saturday, batting .400 for the day. Here is the record:

Player Infielder outfielder and catcher. The man who is interested in the game and constant study and practice. No man can stand still and expect that he will keep abreast with the national game. He must be alive and live fast and dream baseball.

Must Use Head on Bases
Then again I do not believe any player can be a star who is a legerhead, commonly called a "bonehead" on the bases. Some players do not get on so very often but when they do, look like they are going to get a hit. When the least chance offers itself get around to the plate. As I said in a previous article it is not always the base stealer who is valuable. The base runner is the man who is more valuable to the team.

Make Game Constant Study
As this is the last article of the series I consented to write I want to give you a few words of advice to young players. I want to make baseball a constant study. It is nice to go joy riding over the country getting a big salary and enjoying the plaudits of fans and newspapers. But the minute baseball becomes all play and no work you are slipping backward and won't last long.

Baseball Is Supplanting Cricket; France and England Adopt Game

London, June 7.—Baseball is invading France. The English people are disgusted with cricket and are beginning to look to the American game as a substitute. Germany is awakening to a deep interest in outdoor sports with the holding of the next Olympiad at Berlin. Baseball has won Cuba, and is making rapid strides in Central America, and it has been introduced with marked success among the savages of northern Luzon as a vent for their energies that in the past have been expended in head hunting and footling. In England the question is becoming daily more interesting, and the situation here today gives rise to the question whether or not it is to become a world game instead of an American pastime with the logical outcome of international contests at the end of the season.

Critics for Cricket
England's national game cricket is facing a crisis. The people are complaining that it is too slow and is being compared greatly to its disadvantage to the snap speed and sustained interest of baseball. Gate receipts for the county championship matches have fallen so far that cricket fans are worried over the future of the game. Cricketers want to see exactly what the baseball public occasionally clamors for more hard hitting. The great complaint is that the current present day cricketers give too much to safe play instead of taking chances by hitting the ball hard. A game which requires two days

With eight countries competing for the Davis cup emblemize in the world's lawn tennis championship there can be no question as to the international status of tennis. The game, whether played upon grass or clay courts, is gaining steadily in popularity in all parts of the world. Some idea of the hold that tennis has secured upon the amateur sportsman in the United States is shown by the fact that during the international play between the British and Australasian teams in Australia and New Zealand last winter the net profits of the match, including from gate receipts and program sales amounted to almost $20,000.

and seldom furnishes any exciting finishes. The English people are disgusted with cricket and are beginning to look to the American game as a substitute. In England
But a more radical note is being heard with considerable insistence. Cricket not meeting the need of the day in England, baseball is being seriously considered as a national substitute and the question whether the great American game will not become the summer pastime of the British Isles is by no means idle gossip. Formerly have been made seriously by a number of English sporting writers that the American game be given a trial. These men are disgusted with the state of cricket, and declare an exceedingly remote with the present attitude in control.

Baseball has already reached some degree of popularity in Ireland and a number of teams are playing ball in the Midlands. Several teams are planning to play this summer in London. Among those is a nine composed exclusively of the employees of a London branch of an American firm and the Colours of Park Boys' club of San Francisco now visiting England will endeavor to introduce the game among the school boys here.

MOOTED QUESTION

STILL IN FORM

Gunboat Smith Clearly Has the Best Claim, Says Corbett—Willard the Best Prospect.

BY JAMES J. CORBETT
(Formerly a member of the Commission of World. Written exclusively for The Constitution)

New York, June 7.—(Special)—Which heavy weight shall we crown white champion? This seems to be the one question hanging heavily on the minds of the fight fans these days. While Luther McCarty lived the public was disposed to recognize him as the best of the lot although in reality he was no more entitled to the honors than several of his rivals.

This is something new—a development of the last year or two—the inclusion in titles in the old days a champion was a champion of all colors and creeds. There was no such animal as a white champion. In my time in the ring, talk was indulged in occasionally about drawing the color line but as a rule the black fighters were given an equal show with the pale faced brothers.

But to get back to the question of which of our promising (or of the best) is the best. The only name that is mentioned in the best record of the lot is Gunboat Smith. He has fought more frequently and won more than any of the other leading candidates among the white heavies.

Whether the "Gunboat" is good enough to maintain his standing at the head of the column is a question that only the future will solve. Personally I do not think he will ever succeed in winning the heavyweight championship. As an opponent for such men as Sam Langford and Joe Jeantette he can hardly be considered seriously at this time and there are at least two men and possibly three in the ranks of the whites whom he may never but is equipped to defend the honor of the white race in the struggle for fist supremacy.

Willard Best Prospect
Big Jess Willard is a farmer farmer looks the best prospect just now despite the fact that he recently lost a decision to the "Gunboat." As near as I can figure from reading the accounts of that battle, written by newspaper men present and from letters received from several well known San Francisco sporting men, the referee or in awarding the decision to Smith several writers contend that Willard should have been given no worse than a draw. Even Bill Naughton is all conservative to end the ranks of 11 testers and expressed dissatisfaction over his signature.

It is the opinion of many of the authorities that with a little better decisiveness if the pair are given a draw in the recent contest it was lack of experience alone that deprived the "Big Boy" of victory. At times he has shown a bad way but did not know how to get about the job of finishing a man. In stating these facts I am not at all intending to take credit away from the "Gunboat." He certainly made a great deal against big odds and that he has not succeeded in staying the 15th but in earning the respect of the referee proves that he is made of the right stuff.

But the "Gunboat's" greatest handicap is in his size or rather lack of it. Prize ring history will show that the old saying "A good big man can lick a good little man" is a true one and Willard in good hands is probably made his splendid natural talents and advantages count in the one ring.

Willard has every physical advantage over his rivals. He is a feet 3 inches tall, weighs in condition about 230 pounds, has an enormous reach and unlike the other big men is anything but clumsy in his movements. Jess needs a teacher one who can instruct him how to utilize his strength and reach and to light to the best possible advantage—and a manager who will keep him busy fighting.

Needs Experience
Willard should be brought east at once and matched with the "Big Boy" who will take a chance with him in six and ten round bouts and in that way the big fellow would acquire the knowledge and experience that only actual contests can give him.

Willard is a great prospect and one of the best that has appeared in many years. Gunboat Smith might beat him in a return battle if it were to be fought in the immediate future (do not expect the western critics) but in six months from now if he has been properly handled he should prove a hard man for any fighter to defeat.

If Gunboat claims the white hope championship and his record warrants his doing so, he will likely find Willard the most dangerous of his rivals. Unless Tommy Burns has worked wonders with Arthur Pelky since taking charge of the Chicago man, there is little to hope for in that quarter. Pelky has been boxing professionally for several years and until his recent trip to Calgary and sudden jump in a prominence has not been considered a fighter of the first class—or anywhere near it.

Pelky made his New York debut in Tom O'Rourke's white hope tournament in 1911. If memory serves me right, Al Palmer won the finals though he and Pelky did not clash in the tournament. Later Pelky was seen here with Jess Willard and although what might be termed a veteran company I with the veteran Willard he failed to show anything that impressed the sports in his favor. The experts were unanimous in awarding Jess the contest.

The Metropolitan Golf Champion Wins the New Jersey State Title From Oswald Kirkby.

Short Hills, N. Y., June 7.—Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J., holder of the national and metropolitan amateur golf championships, regained the New Jersey state golf title which he has now won four times by defeating last year's winner Oswald Kirkby of Englewood today.

Travers won by 3 up and 1 to play finishing the 36 hole match during a terrific rain and thunderstorm which converted the putting greens into miniature lakes. During the first round Kirkby held his opponent safely and was five up at the eighteenth green. It was not until the pair had reached the fifteenth green on the second round that Travers took the lead.

The storm broke furiously at this time and almost blinded the players. Kirkby's ball went into a brook on the second shot of the green and he simply flourished, while Travers flopped on winning the six cent hole 8 to 9 the scores being approximately. Settling the better drive from the seventeenth tee Travers won the hole in 4 to 5 and the match by 3 up and 1 to play.

Several experts the nature of his ailment was discovered and an operation followed that restored the big fellow to perfect health. The last few weeks Kaiser has been taking the baths at Mount Clemens, Mich. and letters advise me that he has rounded into fine shape again.

It is part of Palmer's program to take on several lesser lights for limited bouts. He hopes in that way to fight himself back into the shape that made him the popular choice for the premier position in pugilism not so very long ago. He has great confidence in his ability to make good and O'Rourke told me only the other day that Palmer will be prepared to meet all comers within the next month or two.

Palmer's "come back" will further complicate the heavyweight situation since his defeat by McCarty and temporary retirement from the ring. Smith and Willard have come to the front very fast and were regarded as the only worthy rivals of McCarty up to the time of that unfortunate boxer's death. Palmer's record previous to his meeting with McCarty was even more imposing than the Gunboats and the latter's achievements in the ring are considered quite good enough to place him at the head of the white division.

Jim Flynn the veteran is another who has thrown his Kelly into the ring. Flynn recently showed he is still on earth by walloping the daylights out of Jim Coffey one of our local pugilists and he is thought to be a coming. Jim now wants to box Gunboat Smith or any of the big fellows.

Little can be expected from Flynn however. He showed his best long ago. He may be able to beat novices like Coffey but it is doubtful if he could stand ten rounds with hard hitters of the Palmer and Smith type. At his very best Flynn was only a fair hitter. He was of the rough and tumble school who depended solely upon his chances to land a knock out blow in his battles. Everytime he was matched with a man of class he failed to do so. Against Sam Langford he was the biggest kind of joke.

If we are ever to produce a man good enough to send after Jack Johnson—for Johnson is still the champion—he will come from the ranks of the younger men. Flynn is too old a bird and he has been tried before and found wanting. It is to the Smiths, Palmers and Willards we must look to bring back fist supremacy to the white race.

LAGER BEER

Can Be Made At Home For One Cent a Glass

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 8, 1913.—Through a recent invention of an English brewer of this city a sparkling and foaming Lager Beer can be made right at home for one cent a glass. The brewer has concentrated Barley Malt and Hops, the principle ingredients of Beer, so that simply by the addition of water and sugar a genuine and pure Lager Beer can be made. It is made in any kitchen no apparatus or experience necessary. A few minutes does the work. It is claimed by many that the Beer made by his method is better and purer than the best Brewery Beer and above all saves the Brewer enormous profits. The question of the legality of his method has been carefully investigated by the highest authorities and found to be legitimate in every respect. He has written a very interesting booklet giving the details of Brewing Beer at Home and by writing to Brewmaster A. S. Shah, 70 Sycamore St. Cincinnati, Ohio, he will be most pleased to mail his booklet absolutely free to anyone sending their name and address.

GOODRICH TIRES

Best in the Long Run
Smashingly Popular
Because of Their Lasting Value

There are forty-three years of experience in rubber manufacturing in every Goodrich Tire.

Crude rubber has little resistance. It takes men of long, successful experience to know which of the best crude rubbers will grow rugged, tough and resistant when compounded.

It takes men of long, successful experience and of deep knowledge of their craft to know how to compound that rubber. Collectively put, this is "putting the rub in rubber."

Rubber is the life of your tire.

The strips of fine, stout fabric—Sea Island cotton so wonderfully woven that it is as costly as silk—help form the backbone, but without the rubber the tire could not be made.

This fabric, rubber-impregnated, is built up with layers of pure rubber, into the backbone of the tire. The sides are reinforced with strips of rubber, making the body strong where the strain will come—eliminating the chance of rim trouble. The tire is finished with the thick, tough Goodrich tread.

This is the specially compounded rubber which must meet the grinding, wearing, bumping, bruising contact with the road. And it does it.

All of this—backbone and tread, side-strips and bead—is converted into a one-piece tire in the Goodrich unit molding.

Our principle of unit molding was the crystallization of our twenty-seven years of experience with rubber before we made the first American clincher tire. This principle demonstrated its exactness at the start; we have never changed it.

In our unit molding the tread and body become one—a unit. The tread being of the tire, and not simply put on it, naturally does not peel nor strip.

Water and dirt cannot creep under it to ruin the tire and place you in danger. The whole tire being a unit, you are insured long, uniform wear. You are free from the risks caused by weak spots and dead places from over-vulcanizing which cooks the life out of rubber.

If you were to study a cross section of a Goodrich Tire you could not detect a layer line or separation. It isn't there. Our unit molding has unified the whole tire.

Your tire dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire is best for your needs—but they are all one kind and quality.

Write for our free folders which tell you how to get the most and best service from your tires by avoiding the common causes of injury.

FOXHALL KEENE BADLY INJURED

Captain of American Polo Team Breaks Collar Bone in Practice—New Selection Necessary.

Hempstead, N. Y., June 7.—Accident today deprived the American polo team of its glider and most brilliant performer Foxhall P. Keene, ranking high among the famous polo players of the world and only three days ago appointed chief of the team which will meet the British challengers for the International trophy next Tuesday.

Keene was thrown from his pony at Meadow Brook during what was planned to be the last practice game before the International match his collar bone being broken.

Another captain probably will be selected by the cup committee of the National Polo association by tomorrow night. Harry Payne Whitney, Lawrence Waterbury and J. M. Waterbury already have been designated as substitutes for the American team selected this week.

and then was taken in an automobile to the Meadow Brook club house where the broken bone was set. The bone broken today, his left collar bone, is the same one he injured some years ago while hunting.

indicates clearly the visitors' superiority. All the fireworks that tennis of championship caliber car develop were on exhibition in the first and deciding set. The play was so fast and thrilling that the spectators were on their feet throughout the entire sixteen games needed to decide the issue.

Amateur Yachtsman Will Sail Lipton's Challenger

London June 7.—"In entrusting the command of Shamrock IV in the races for America's cup to an amateur yachtsman W. P. Burton, I am aware I am doing something unprecedented," said Sir Thomas Lipton today, but I believe the results will fully justify the wisdom of my choice.

WIFE'S FINE REDUCED BY PLEA OF HUSBAND WITH BABE IN ARMS

The plea of a father who clasped a tiny baby in his arms, and the importuning of a sympathetic police matron, yesterday morning prevailed upon Recorder Broyles to reduce a woman's fine so that she might be able to leave prison and return to her husband and baby.

notice headquarters with the pretty prisoner's 17-month-old babe, visiting her in the matron's ward. With tears in their eyes, the grief-stricken parents pleaded with Mrs. Bohnfeld, the police matron, to beg Judge Broyles to lower the fine so that the mother could gain freedom.

Australasian Doubles Team Wins Tennis From Americans; Final Single Matches Monday

New York, June 7.—Playing tennis that ran the gamut from sensational to mediocre the Australian team defeated the United States pair in the doubles match of the Davis cup preliminary today by a score of 2-6, 6-2, 6-7, 6-2, 9-7.

The victory gave the visitors their first match of the series which now stands:

U. S. 1 States 2 Australasia 1. On Monday the two remaining single matches will be played and while America needs one match the Australasians must win both to secure entrance into the second round, to be played in England next month.

For thrills and excitement no Davis cup tennis match played in this country has before equaled that of today. The United States pinned its faith to Maurice F. McLoughlin and Harold H. H. Kent while the island continent's representatives were Stanley N. Doust and A. B. Jones.

Five Full Sets. For five full sets these players battled back and forth first one pair obtaining the advantage only to lose it a moment later to their opponents.

Wretched individual play was nullified by wretched lack of team work and numerous gets made only to be cancelled by stupid plays a moment later.

The spice of adventure was added by a lightning thunderstorm which soaked the majority of the 5,500 spectators and delayed the play for almost an hour. If it had the second set been started when a heavy rain descended on the spectators Tarpaullins were hastily stretched over the playing turf while the thousands rushed for the clubhouse. The crowds proved too large for the porches and floors, and when the supports began to creak the leached gathering sought safety under the open sky.

Rain Turns Tide. The delay and the changed condition of the court, however, turned the tide of victory in favor of the Australasians. The heavy condition of the turf took the edge off McLoughlin's game and gave the visitors the advantage that finally enabled them to win out.

While the Californian was the star of the match, the steady team work of the Australasians proved too much for him to overcome, aided as he was by flashes of brilliant form on the part of Hackett. The Americans never at any time appeared to understand the technique of double play, and either interfered with each other or left territory uncovered which their opponents were quick to shoot.

Hackett failed to show the form which has marked his play in previous years and both his service and returns for the greater part of the play, were weak and ineffective.

Jones proved to be a tennis player who lived up to the reputation which preceded him to America and his service and volleying were both fast and accurate. Doust did not appear to equal advantage but he did team up with Jones in excellent manner at crucial points which enabled them to stave off the wonderful rallies of McLoughlin.

McLoughlin Stars.

It is doubtful whether the United States champion ever played better tennis under conditions distasteful to him. Realizing this the Australasians played at Hackett.

With McLoughlin serving the Americans jumped into the lead and ran out the first set in eight games. The second set saw the situation reversed. The third set went to the Americans only after a desperate clash of twelve games in which tennis of all types was uncovered. Deuce games were common.

In the fourth set the United States representatives appeared to lose all ideas of team work and instantly interfered with each other and the score of 25 to 18 points and six games to two

Seven Premiers Sold Last Week

To the following seven of the oldest automobile owners in this city, and men who appreciate REAL automobile value:

- Chas. I. Ryan, Cashier Fourth National Bank
- Albert Howell, Jr., President Atlanta Constitution
- Dan C. Lyle, Real Estate
- Joseph Brown Connally, Real Estate
- H. T. Dobbs, Insurance
- Dr. L. C. Fischer
- Jonathan B. Frost, Publisher Frost's Magazine, "The Call of the South"

You realize that there must be a reason for these seven well-known business men to purchase PREMIER cars in preference to all other cars.

There must be real reasons, backed by facts, and not by mere statements alone.

We KNOW, and they KNOW, the reasons.

We want YOU to KNOW them.

They purchased PREMIER cars—

Because—PREMIER have been building successful six-cylinder cars since 1906. This is not an experimental year with PREMIER.

Most High Grade Cars Will Have These Important Features Next Year

- Six cylinders
- Center control
- Concealed hinges
- Self-starting motor
- Clear running boards
- Electric Lights
- Left side drive
- Built-in lamps
- Tire Inflator

PREMIER "America's Greatest Touring Car" HAS THEM TODAY

And is the ONLY high grade car having ALL these important features TODAY. These refinements and conveniences are appreciated by all,

BUT...

These men, experienced in automobile stability and service, buy the Premier primarily because of its superior construction, which assures constancy and durability. Surely you do not want to make a mistake in your Automobile purchase. Therefore demand these vital features and specifications in the Motor Car you buy this season.

It Is No Longer Necessary to Buy a Car Every Year

In 1902 we saw the advantages of the vertical motor over the horizontal motor.

In 1903 we saw the advantages of the four-cylinder car over the two-cylinder which we were then manufacturing.

In 1906 we saw the advantages of the six-cylinder car over the four-cylinder.

In 1908 we saw the advantages of the long wheel base over the short.

In 1911 we saw the elegance of straight lines and fore-doors. In the past the Premier Company saw that certain features were bound to come. They did come!

NOW—in 1913—today—we know the car of tomorrow is bound to have these features: Six cylinders—self-starting motor—left-side drive—center control—clear running boards—built-in lamps—concealed hinges—electric lights—tire inflator.

Within the next two years all high-grade cars will have these features. THE PREMIER HAS THEM TODAY. That is why the Premier is the logical car for long service.

Completeness and Studied Refinement Back Premier Features

There is a grace in the Premier fore-door design that gives elegance to the appearance. The conveniences and advantages of the left-side drive are well known. It enables you to drive more safely, and to enter the driver's seat with equal ease from either side. Clear running boards, built-in lamps and an elegant exterior and interior finish give the Premier a refined and tasteful appearance.

Luxurious Turkish cushions, made on double-decked springs, from highest grade hand-buffed leather and the best of white curled hair, combined with exceptionally long springs and scientific chassis balance, make Premier touring a joy.

The Premier Is the Logical Car For You to Buy

COMPARE the Premier, part for part, with other high-grade cars and you will find higher grade materials, better mechanical design, a more excellent finish, for less money over any six-cylinder car sold in America; and, in addition to these, the added features mentioned above.

COMPARE Premier records in the most rigid Reliability Contests, long-distance tours, such as the amateur "Ocean to Ocean" tour, and others and the results in the hands of users, with all the high-grade cars.

You then get the proof that the Premier is in a distinctive class of its own.

These are the reasons why these seven men purchased Premier Cars.

PAIGE 36 A Next Year's Car

THE new Paige "36" is a revelation in motor car building. It's a next year's car. No other manufacturer is building such a car to sell at such a price. Maybe later, but not now.

The Paige "36" is a big car, excellently designed and constructed, and phenomenally equipped. People say the price—$1275—seems impossible. But that's the price.

For those who want a smaller car, the Paige "25" at $950 offers a value just as extraordinary. Come and see the Paige before you choose any car. Both models are offered in a variety of beautiful body types.

News Wise and Otherwise Of Boys Who Put 'Em Over

The making of automobiles by the thousands has become an old story and no longer occasions surprise, but the making of the most complex and important of automobile accessories a thousand a day was not heard of until the Bosch Magneto company completed its Springfield factory.

The team of boys and lot productions has come true, for not only has "1,000 magnetos a day" production been realized, but it has been surpassed. Averaging a thousand a day since January 1, the Bosch Magneto company actually produced and shipped over 1,780 magnetos from its Springfield factory on May 15.

The branches shipped 214 magnetos on the same day, this making May 15 a record magnet shipment day.

Splitdorf Electric Company.

Another step toward placing the service for Splitdorf electrical ignition devices upon the highest standard of efficiency was taken when O. J. Rohde, of the Splitdorf Electric company, of New York, opened the Atlanta branch, situated at No. 8 Harris street, corner Peachtree street, on the 15th of May. It is the first branch with all modern testing apparatus for their various electrical ignition outfits. They carry a complete stock of new goods, also parts for every outfit they have manufactured.

On June 1 Mr. Rohde will open another branch at No. 230 Halsey street, Newark, N. J., along the same lines as the one recently opened in Atlanta. Shortly after the month of June a similar branch will be opened for the Canadian trade with headquarters in Toronto, Canada.

Mike Murphy's Hard Luck.

Mike Murphy is certainly running in hard luck here. Three weeks ago the old guards of the Detroit Athletic club presented the veteran trainer with a Paikie "36," but he has not had an opportunity to enjoy his car, having laid up in bed for several weeks. He says: "I don't mind taking a rest once in a while if the doctors prescribe it, but what is worrying me is when I am going to get a ride in my new Paikie. I'll give those doctors two more days to get me well, and if I can't get out of bed, then they are just going to place that old cot of mine in the rear of that machine, and then I will get a ride."

Wagner in Tire-Making.

Fred J. Wagner, who has been identified with the automobile business as an able figure in many capacities, has entered the tire-making end of it. He has just been elected vice-president of the Ajax-Grieb Rubber company, makers of Ajax tires. With Horace DeLisser, chairman of the board of directors, and J. C. Matlack, secretary, Wagner makes up the strongest possible representation for this company in the selling end. Wagner is probably one of the best known men in the industry and known as an able business man.

Wagner's first connection with the automobile business was trade journal advertising in which he made a great success. He also is a prominent figure on the sporting side, acting as official starter in all sorts of big contests. Later on he became part owner of Horseless Age, retiring from that not long ago.

British Engineers Coming.

Consequent upon the visit made to them by the Americans in 1911, a party of British engineers arrived in New York via S. S. Minnewaska, on May 28. The visiting engineers, most of whom are members of the Institution of Automobile Engineers of England, came to this country to attend the semi-annual technical sessions of the Society of Automobile Engineers under the auspices of which they will also make an inspection tour of automobile manufacturing plants through out the country.

Among the European engineers who are following: B. B. Brown, president Institution of Automobile Engineers, London; Basil H. Joy, secretary I. A. E.; Thomas Clark, member Society Motor Manufacturers and Traders, London; Carl T. F. Benson, Coventry; Hans Kappenhall, superintendent Daimler Motoren Gesellschaft, Marfelfeld, Germany; J. B. Ferguson, Belfast, Ireland; J. Inglis Ker, Glasgow, Scotland; C. Gilbert Moore, Coventry; T. C. Pullinger, Paisley, Scotland; E. Wood, Bristol; Chas. Wheeler, J. B. Dunlop, F. S. Bennett, H. Massac Bulet, J. A. Freshlich, E. C. Paskell, London; E. B. Wood, Bristol; L. Pollack, Coventry; C. A. Brant, Coventry; Tom Norton, London; R. H. Johnston, New York manager of the White company, is taking the initiative in organizing a reunion of all those who took part in the memorable New York Automobile Engineers and Drivers' contest in 1911. Next October will occur the tenth anniversary of the event and it is planned to bring together at a banquet the entire band of "Mudlarks" as those who took part in the "Mudlark" "mudrace" medal.

Preparations for the dinner have been started at this early date in order that every one who is eligible to attend may be reached and make definite plans to attend the banquet. It is awarded to the one who travels the greatest distance to attend the banquet; the "Mudlark" musical medal will be awarded to the one who composes the best song relating to the race, and the "Mudlark" mirthmaker medal will be voted to the one who tells the best anecdote.

Other prizes and surprises are in contemplation and there is no doubt that this gathering of the pioneers of the industry will be a fine and festive affair.

Mr. Johnston has asked the following "Mudlarks" to serve on the committee of arrangements: H. W. Peck, New York city; Howard G. Reynolds and John C. Kerrison, Boston; Webb Jay, Chicago; Windsor T. White and Frank B. Stearns, Cleveland, and F. Ed. Spooner, Detroit.

The motorist who today buys one of the light, handy and efficient automobiles which have become recognized as staple all over the world is often amazed at the cars and attention he finds in the best purchase of his car. More and more manufacturers have come to realize that lasting sales success is based on the prestige of their cars in the hands of owners. Skillful service is used in practically all sales arguments by dealers and often, for long periods, no charge is made for the minor adjustments and skilled advice given a novice.

A step still further in advance has been taken by the Studebaker corporation which believes it a matter of especial importance to have owners of its cars thoroughly familiar with the forces that "make the wheels go round."

With infinite care and at no small expense the Studebaker engineering department has compiled, in terms which any layman can understand, an "information book" with a separate edition for each of the three Studebaker models. The book is a complete treatise on the car, explaining each detail of the mechanism, giving explicit directions for its care and making plain in each case the reason for attention and the results of adjustment. The book starts with a chapter of general instructions for use as soon as the car is delivered. The owner is then told how to start the motor, drive the car and stop it.

During the past year investigating committees in New York city have unearthed and laid bare some startling facts. The good citizens of Gotham did not believe such conditions could exist in their home town, but the proof was there, and it looks now as though they really would get to the men "higher up."

While these committees were digging up evidence, the Watson Contracting company of New York was conducting a little investigation of their own. The company specializes in street grading, and naturally the one big item of expense is the cost of hauling heavy building materials from the water front to the location of the different jobs.

Previous to 1912 they used horses exclusively for all of their hauling. Then as an experiment they purchased two Garford trucks and kept a careful check on the amount of work they could do, together with upkeep costs. The result was that the trucks were the economy and all around efficiency of the trucks was so apparent that today, just a year from the time of their first tests, this company has in operation a fleet of eighteen Garford trucks. One member of this firm claims that one of these trucks will do the work of at least nine of their best horses, and that they have sold as many as forty-four horses at one time since the Garford trucks have been installed.

In appreciation of the splendid efforts of Messrs. Goux, Wishart and Metz, the first, second and third drivers in this race, the Bosch Magneto company of New York will present them with checks of $500, $300 and $200, respectively.

Up until ten days before this great event we did not expect to have a Firestone tire on any of the cars entered in the 500-mile experimental swastika race at Indianapolis, Decoration day.

The driver of the Peugeot cars, however, after trying out various makes of tires on the track, called us on long distance and requested in consideration of their using our tires on cars imported into America, that we sell them Firestone tires.

We promptly drew tires from our different branch stocks for the cars entered in the Indianapolis race. Our limited stock did not even permit of a selection of tires—we took new and old just as they ran.

We did not know positively that Wishart of the Mercer team was using our tires until the day of the race. There were only three out of the thirty-one entries that used Firestone tires, and, as stated above, these three came to us unsolicited and were taken care of from tires which we had in stock.

The day of the race was exceedingly hot—in fact, the highest temperature that ever marked an international automobile race. This, of course, made it particularly hard on tires. You can readily understand how gratifying it was when Goux in his Peugeot car won the race and Wishart in his Mercer took second place—both racing on Firestone tires.

The other car equipped with Firestone tires was obliged to leave the race because the car took fire and was damaged beyond immediate repair.

It was a great race and a great victory for Firestone quality and endurance.

As an evidence of the increasing popularity of motor trucks with power-dumping bodies for contracting work, the Pennsylvania state highway department has purchased for its use a locomotive company two Alco trucks to be employed in road building activities in the state.

Both vehicles are of 5 tons rating and are fitted with a type of body for hauling heavy materials such as rock, gravel, crushed stone and sand. The body raises or lowers by the power of the motor, has a maximum angle of 45 degrees, and deposits a full load of material in thirty seconds. A hand windlass is also provided in the event that a slower speed is desired.

Another feature of the trucks is the type of tailboard which opens automatically with the lifting of the body and is so constructed that the material carried may be spread over the road as the truck travels forward.

The entire operation of the hoisting mechanism is controlled from the driver's seat, a lever being conveniently located for the purpose. The dumping mechanism does not bear any weight of the load and there is no wear and tear upon it while the truck is on the road.

Contractors, coal dealers and others who demand speed in unloading and loading have come to realize that the mere of its time a motor truck is actually on the road the more money it saves," says C. A. Benjamin, the Alco general sales manager. "The business radius is correspondingly wider and greater mileage is possible for the truck. That is what has led engineers to devise a method of eliminating idle minutes."

In India the American car is rapidly getting a strong foothold. It has been a hard fight, India being an English possession, at one time, a number of English cars have been sold there. Up until lately, the automobile buyer has been very skeptical in buying a low-priced car, owing to the fact that the English car has been so high priced that the automobile owner of India has been educated up to the idea that he could not purchase a reliable car unless he had expended a good sum of money for it.

Evidence to the effect that the popular-priced car is gaining a good foothold in India is brought out by the following letter received by the Paige-Detroit dealer in Bombay, India, from one of his customers: "It may interest you to hear of my experience with the Paige car. I purchased May 1912. Now that it has done 4,000 miles, I have nothing but praise for its behavior. It has been used in all weather and over rough roads and has never caused me the slightest trouble. The engine runs silently without vibration, and has had no attention beyond grinding valves. I am confident when this car gets better known it will have an extensive sale and supersede many of the other higher-priced American cars."

Confronted with the necessity of handling in a short time, a great amount of granite to be used in the monument to Oliver Hazard Perry at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, which is to be dedicated September 10, a firm of Massachusetts quarries found their horse equipment inadequate for the task and turned to a Perless 5-ton motor truck. The quarries of the Massachusetts Pink Granite company are on the top of a high hill 2 miles from the mill where the blocks are shaped and prepared for shipment. Up this hill no road has ever been built; there is only the track used for many years by the horses drawing stone carts. In spite of the steep grade down which the loads were hauled, it took sometimes four and sometimes six, or in bad weather, even ten horses to pull the carts along. Two trips a day were made.

Now the one truck is doing the work that was done by all the horses and a lot more than the horses were ever able to do. The conditions are about as unfavorable for trucking as any that could be experienced. The blocks are carried one at a time, and before the cars are dressed they weigh from 11, 000 to 12,000 pounds. Loading is done by the use of a heavy derrick.

Over this route—much worse than the ordinary country road—the truck makes eight trips a day and covers a total distance of 32 miles. Though they bought the truck only as an emergency measure, the officers of the company declare they are through with horses for good.

In a veteran Studebaker car that had been driven more than 50,000 miles, E. D. Hopper made a privately conducted reliability run from his home in Joplin, Mo., to Detroit, and is now on his way back. The trip won a wager for Mr. Hopper, as the car required neither repairs nor adjustment between Joplin and Detroit. Three observers were carried, one of whom was the stakeholder.

Y. M. G. A. WINS S. A. A. U. MEETING

Birmingham, Ala., June 7.—The Young Men's Gymnastic club, of New Orleans, won the senior meet of the Southern Amateur Athletic union here today with a total of 58 points. The totals made by the various contestants was as follows: Y. M. G. A., New Orleans, 68; St. Paul Athletic association, Covington, La., 28; Birmingham Athletic club, 28; Boys' High school, (New Orleans), 20; Birmingham Y. M. C. A., 11; Birmingham High school, 2; Atlanta Athletic club, 1; Steven (unattached), 5.

Three records were broken. T. Dutton, of the Young Men's Gymnastic club, put the 16-pound shot a distance of 40 feet 4 1/2 inches, or 1 1/2 inches better than the old record held by R. A. Barker, also of the Y. M. G. A.

Gilbert Ritchie, of the Birmingham Athletic club, broke the discus record with a throw of 118 feet 11 inches, which betters the old record held by R. A. Ludlam by 3 feet 10 inches.

Gilbert Ritchie also broke the 56-pound record with a cast of 30 feet 10 1/2 inches, or 3 feet 2 1/2 inches better than the previous record.

NEW ERA FOR FARMER IS BROUGHT BY AUTO

President Willys Says Automobile Is Enlarging and Revolutionizing Farm Life.

By JOHN W. WILLYS, President Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, Ohio.

The automobile, more than any other one thing, has been the means of bringing the farmer in closer touch with the outside world. This point I am sure will be conceded by the most biased of people. Before the coming of the motor car, it was a common occurrence for a farmer and his family, living 20 or 30 miles from the railroad, to spend their entire lives cooped up in their own little circle, with little or no knowledge of the big things going on all around them.

Today we find the farmer a bigger factor than ever before in the history of the world. He is no longer looked upon as a mere producer of foodstuffs, necessary for the general welfare of the country, but as an important citizen, to whom we owe the lion's share of our great prosperity.

And the automobile is largely responsible for the present high standing of the farmer. With it he can get into the big cities, where he can see and find out what other people are doing and keeping pace with progress. There, is, too, another angle that must not be overlooked, and that is the automobile is the one source of pleasure for the farmer's entire family. We all appreciate a change of scenery once in a while, and the general atmosphere and customs of the city people are as interesting to the farmer and his family as the open farm country is to city folks.

By traveling about more and more each year, the farmer has acquired a vast amount of knowledge. The shrewdest kind of a buyer—machinery and automobiles in particular. The modern American farmer can ask more

Auto Speedway Has Done Big Work for Indianapolis

By George M. Dickson, General Manager National 40 Company.

When the first self-propelled vehicle was made to run—and then, more remarkable, was actually stopped at will, people laughed. That laugh soon changed into an ever-increasing cheer all over the world.

When four Indianapolis men presumed to suggest a speedway upon which automobiles would be raced at unheard-of speeds, the same people smiled knowingly. That smile changed into a look of surprise and admiration.

Such is the progress in Indiana, where the first car was built, and where the fastest time with motor cars has been made.

These four men who conceived the new world-famous speedway are Carl

You Get a Whole Car When You Buy The Mighty Michigan

You don't get just one or two features. One part combines with another to form a perfect whole, a handsome, sturdy, powerful, easy-running motor car with features found in the latest six-cylinder cars—Packard, White, Lozier and other expensive makes. A car so easily controlled, with operating levers, buttons, etc., so conveniently placed that your wife can drive it with ease anywhere at any time.

If the Michigan were not all it is represented to be, if it did not make good day after day, shrewd dealers, American and foreign, would not have placed orders for more than sixteen million dollars worth of 1913 models. That they chose this superb forty after careful examinations and comparisons proves our statement that the public does appreciate the unusual value offered in the Mighty Michigan Forty. An examination and test of the Michigan will be well worth your while, whether or not you now intend to purchase a motor car.

Four of Many Michigan's Features

- Four-forward-speed transmission as used to-day in all the best foreign cars.
- Left-side drive, to which all the best cars are coming.
- Oversize tires—35x4 1/2 inches—wider, we think, than on any rival car.
- Drive shaft 1 1/2 chrome nickel steel, sufficient for 60 horsepower.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Made In Secret

The essential feature in No-Rim-Cut tires is made under lock and key. It cannot be copied. And a faultless tire without hooks on the base was never made without it.

That's why the legions who wish to end rim-cutting have come to No-Rim-Cut tires.

None Like It

Of course other makers try to end rim-cutting. It's the bugaboo of tiredom. More money has been spent on these attempts than on any other tire improvement. But faults developed and tires came back. That's the only reason why any maker clings to clincher tires today.

We solved the problem by six flat bands of braided wires which we vulcanize into the tire base. We set them at certain angles.

This makes the hooked base unnecessary. It lets you turn your rim flanges outward. Not one of these tires has ever been rim-cut. And in seven years no fault has developed. This is the feature which we control by secrecy.

Over Rated Size

No-Rim-Cut tires, compared with clinchers, are 10 per cent oversize. That means one-tenth more capacity. And that, on the average, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

So we save rim-cutting and save overloading. And that means so much that Goodyear tires now far outsell any other. It means so much that last year's sales exceeded our previous 12 years put together.

Write for the Goodyear Tire Book—14th year edition. It tells all known ways to economize on tires.

It can be readily seen that the increased revenue from this source for years to come would be stupendous.

From a standpoint of right there is no argument against it as Whitehall is one of the most important arteries of the business section in fact it and Peachtree street (of which we are all proud) really constitute the backbone of our city's streets and it can not be ga--rred if the backbone is bent the whole system suffers.

There is no citizen of Atlanta who would not blush to exhibit Whitehall from Trinity out to a visitor, and your committee wishes to thank you and through you our city council who recognize the wisdom and necessity for this work being promptly executed.

WEATHER BUREAU AGAIN SHAKEN UP; THIRTY DEMOTED

HEISKELL AND CARROLL ARE UNDER SUSPENSION

Charges Against 50 Employees Alleging They Received Salary Increases for Promoting Candidacy of Chief.

Washington, June 7.—Thirty-one employees of the weather bureau have been reduced for connection with the alleged political activity which resulted in the recent dismissal of Chief Willis L. Moore.

Charges have been preferred against fifty employees in all, alleging that they procured increases in salary or promotions in grade in return for promoting Moore's candidacy for secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's cabinet.

Thirty-one already have been demoted to their former status. Secretary Houston announced today. Copies of the charges and all other papers in the cases have been laid before the civil service commission.

RALPH O. COCHRAN SPEAKS AT DOUGLAS

Candidate for U. S. Senate Indicates Policy Upon Which He Will Make Race.

In the first speech of his campaign for the United States senate, Ralph O. Cochran, representative-elect from Fulton county and candidate to succeed Senator Hoke Smith in 1914, indicated at Chapel Hill, Douglas county, Saturday afternoon, the policy which he will make his race.

In his speech Mr. Cochran advocated a legislative policy which would stick closer to the promotion of the business of the country rather than tampering so much with radical reforms, which he believes are not conducive to good business conditions.

Mr. Cochran states that he is not opposed to gradual reform which does not interfere with business operation and the natural course of things, but to sweeping reforms which leave business men without anything stable upon which to base their plans, and as a result bring about a stringency in the money market.

He advocated an increase in the facilities for technical education in manufacturing and agricultural lines as a great aid in this process.

FOUR MURDER CASES TRIED AT DAWSON, GA.

Dawson, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Terrell superior court adjourned Saturday afternoon for the term, the criminal docket having occupied the entire week. A large number of cases were tried, including four murder cases, in each of which the result was a conviction with a recommendation by the jury that the defendant be imprisoned in the penitentiary for life.

The terms of the county commissioners expired during the present session of the court, and the grand jury named the following: J. C. Hollingsworth, M. D. Loring, J. A. Hiller, W. M. Dunn and J. W. Bridges, all of these being new members except Mr. Hollingsworth, who was chosen to succeed himself.

The board of education here has selected the faculty of the Dawson public schools for the next scholastic year as follows: Superintendent, J. C. Dukes; associate principals, W. D. Hawkins and Miss Janie Bush; seventh grade teacher, Miss Cora Eula Gumm; sixth grade, Miss Kate Wright; fifth grade, Miss Ollie Monroe; fourth grade, Miss Cecile Little; third grade, Miss Maly Tweedy; second grade, Miss Lula Belle Marshall; first grade, Miss Besse Pye; music, Miss Chap Saville, and expression, Miss Jennie Belle Jackson.

Three Negroes Shot.

Leesburg, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—At a negro entertainment at Century, a small place 4 miles from Leesburg, three negroes were shot last night. None is dead, but all three are supposed to be fatally wounded. The negroes were shot by William Murray, Jr., a negro who had been drinking heavily, but before the sheriff arrived he had made his escape.

Worried Into Suicide.

St. Louis, June 7.—Frank Mercurio, who had saved $5,000 from money earned by peddling fruit, committed suicide here today soon after receiving a second "blackhand" letter demanding $2,000. Worry over the letter had so unnerved him that he took his life.

Wonderful Work of Schools In Making Grounds Beautiful

What it would mean to the school children of Atlanta to have attractive school yards was strikingly indicated in the contest which ended on Thursday in the presentation of the Walter Rich prizes to Davis street, English avenue and Edgewood schools, a contest from the Atlanta Art association, headed by Mrs. James N. Moody, with Mr. Rich and members of the board of education, making the presentation.

The colossal work the children of these schools have done since March stands almost like a fairy story, but the results and the records are there to prove it. It was in March that Mr. Rich for the second time offered the prizes, showing the children that their achievement of last year was remembered, and that the outside world was interested in what they did.

The art association committee visited the contesting school at once, and finding some of the yards, only bare and ugly expanse of hard washed clay, with no soil and not a break in their red barrenness, gave in gullies, they could hardly believe their own eyes when they went back to the same schools last week to make their decision.

At Davis street, Miss Julia Riordan, principal, and English avenue, Miss Lulu Kingsbury, principal, there was a contest of the yard, and the prize was a blade of grass on the whole block.

Yet, the English avenue children, by doing their own grading, and filling with soil and fertilizer, much of which they transported themselves in wheelbarrows, made their grounds so full of blossom and beauty that the whole committee exclaimed at the wealth of color when they came in sight of the yard, and the prize for the most artistic work even "under adversity," went without restation to English avenue.

At Davis where there was also absolute barrenness to start with, nine of the students were found in wheelbarrows, made their grounds so full of blossom and beauty that the whole committee exclaimed at the wealth of color when they came in sight of the yard, and the prize for the most artistic work even "under adversity," went without restation to English avenue.

WILSON UNRUFFLED BY LOBBY CHARGE

Confident People Believe He Represents Them and Has Right to Further Legislation He Promised Them.

Washington, June 7.—Senators on the lobby investigating committee were of the opinion today that Senator Townsend's sensational charge that President Wilson himself actually had been lobbying for the tariff bill, would not be taken up by the committee as an issue unless some specific charges were made.

The committee was in recess today preparing for its next week's work, which will not only finish the testimony of the dozen senators yet unexamined, but will begin questioning the score or more of men whose names have been brought out in testimony as having represented special interests in Washington.

White house officials professed to be undisturbed by Mr. Townsend's charge and it was said the president would not take the stand to make a personal answer unless some specific charge was made against him. Officials declared Mr. Wilson was confident that the people of the country would take the position that he was representing them in Washington and had the right to use all his influence to further legislation promised in the democratic platform. It was denied that the "patronage club" had been welded to keep senators in line.

"President Wilson will be welcome before the committee if he desires to appear," said acting Chairman Reed today, "but I see no reason why he should deny charges that never have been made."

Democratic members took the position that it remained for republicans to pursue inquiries on "whether President Wilson had used 'undue influence' with any democratic senators and insisted that the statements by Senators Townsend, Weeks and Warren had been of a general character.

Senators Nelson and Cummins, the republican members of the committee, had no plans today for following up that line of inquiry.

"I intend, however, to insist before the hearing is over," said Senator Cummins, "that President Wilson furnish the committee with the facts or information upon which he based his statements as to 'insidious lobbying' in Washington."

The list of witnesses for next week was enlarged today by the addition of R. D. Bowen, Paris, Texas. Circular letters, signed by Bowen as chairman of the "National Farmers' Union committee on the greater consumption of cotton," were furnished by Senators Russell and Kern. These letters urged cotton farmers to "use strong lag" with their senators in favor of higher duties on cotton cloth.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Rest, fresh air and well-cooked, nourishing food do help many persons suffering with Lung Trouble. But in many cases the disease is only temporarily "arrested," and something more is needed. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles and has brought about many complete recoveries in many cases where the surroundings were not ideal. Judging by the many reports of recoveries received, we believe it should be used in every case of Lung Trouble. A remarkable case follows:

WILSON, III.
"My Dear Sir: Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia which developed into Consumption. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my condition improved so that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 100 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Today I weigh 158 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain farm."

OLD LADIES GRATEFUL TO MRS. EMMA BELL
Mrs. Emma Bell, 268 Peachtree St., City.
Dear Mrs. Bell: I am instructed by a resolution of the board of lady managers of the Home for Old Women to express to you the thanks and appreciation of the board for the splendidly generous donation by yourself and the gentlemen of your household of the furniture and curtains for the dining room at the home.
It is difficult for me to convey to you the depth of appreciation which we feel, and which every inmate of the home, as well, feels, for this kind and gracious act.
We are endeavoring, in every way which may suggest itself, to make this institution indeed a home for these aged and helpless ladies and it was a noble thought as well as a charitable one which led you and the gentlemen who are associated with you in this gift to bestow upon them so much that adds to the comfort of the surroundings in which they are spending their declining years.
Without doubt, this act was performed, as have been the others in which you were of such material assistance to the home, without thought or expectation of praise, and yet we wish you to know that not only the managers but every inmate of the home feel the deepest gratitude, and all wish hereby to express their thanks. Sincerely,
(Signed.)

AMERICAN NATIONAL FEDERAL DEPOSITORY

City, County, State and Nation Are Now Depositors in This Institution.

The American National Bank of Atlanta, of which William L. Peel is president and Robert F. Maddox, vice president, was advised yesterday by the treasury department at Washington that it had been designated as a depository for public moneys of the United States.

This well-known Atlanta bank now occupies the unique distinction of being a depository of the city of Atlanta, the county of Fulton, the state of Georgia and the United States.

The bank is one of the strongest in the south, having a capital and surplus of one million dollars, and with some of the very strongest business men of Atlanta in charge of its executive directions as officers and directors. The designation was made by the secretary of the treasury, Mr. McAdoo.

In rounding out its list of corporate depositors, from the city to the federal government, the officers of the bank feel that in this respect at least they have gotten about all that can be expected in the way of recognition of that kind. At the same time the individual and business depositors of the bank have been increasing in gratifying proportion. All of which is a tribute to the management of the bank, for, after all, neither a bank nor anything else is more than it is made by the men who are back of it.

WOULD CHANGE CONTROL OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Western Governors Contend That Forest Service Has Discouraged Mining.

Salt Lake City, June 7.—Today's sessions of the conference of western governors was devoted mainly to drafting an address to the public outlining what changes were considered advisable in government control of natural resources in order to obtain the highest efficiency.

Clay Tallman, commissioner of the general land office, was the first speaker. "I am not here to defend," he said, "in fact, I am not going to try to defend the actions of the department in the past. I am here as a constructionist."

Commissioner Tallman asked a series of questions of the governors with a view of ascertaining the exact changes wanted. Especial attention was given to the position of the United States forest service, it being alleged by some of the governors that the administration of the service had discouraged mining and prospecting.

Mr. Tallman said that as far as he was concerned, if the prospector confined his work to actual prospecting and obeys the rules of the forest service there will be no disposition on the part of the administration to hinder, but every effort will be made to encourage.

There was a general discussion of national control of oil and mineral lands. Some of the governors took the position that blanket withdrawals should stop. Both Assistant Secretary Jones and Commissioner Tallman indicated that the administration's policy would be the freest opening of all mineral and oil lands to the honest developers.

At the instance of Mrs. Emma Bell, the gracious presiding genius of the Bell house, the Bell house boys recently furnished the dining room of the Home for Old Women. Saturday Mrs. Bell received the following letter, acknowledging her kindness:

Fire Follows Explosion Mile Underground in Mine of Susquehanna Coal Company at Shamokin, Pa.

Shamokin, Pa., June 7.—Two miners were killed and more than a dozen were hurt today in an explosion in the Scott shaft, 4 miles from here, operated by the Susquehanna Coal company. The explosion occurred in the second lift of a slope almost a mile underground, and the slope immediately caught fire.

Mitchell School Census.

Thomasville, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The school census of Mitchell county, which has just been completed, shows a total of 7,471 children between the ages of 6 and 18. Of these, 3,826 are white and 4,145 are colored. The census taken in that county in 1903 showed a total of 6,035 children between the ages of 6 and 18, an increase for this year of 1,445.

"Roving Nell," the Girl Hobo, Comes Into Atlanta on "Blind"

Tallahassee, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—One of the most unique hoboes ever seen in this section passed through the city Monday night en route to Atlanta. She was "Roving Nell," one of the very few female hoboes now roving the country.

"Roving Nell" is a good-looking girl, about 16 years old, and has traveled in eleven different countries and in almost every state in the union. She came in here on the "blind" of a passenger train and left the same way. She went to a boarding house, saw the picture shows, and spoke to a few people about town.

She was dressed as a "sporty" young man and not a person in town knew that she was a woman except a boy who had known her some time ago, and knew that she was a victim of wanderlust. She appeared well, and excited no curiosity, although she was here all day.

Her brother, who has taught her the ways of the road, was with her, but did not stop here. He went on to Atlanta, and, according to the understanding with his sister, would meet her at a certain corner next night. After seeing this town, she boarded one of the Southern's fast trains and went her way rejoicing, and did not have a sign of a ticket either.

Some years ago the girl's brother told her of life on the road, and how fascinating it was. When the girl was quite young the boy promised her that he would "earn her to hobo," and he has done the job well. She is as expert as any man that ever rode the rods. She loves the road, and says she would leave it under no consideration.

Her mother still lives, and the boy and girl furnish her a living from the money they make along the road by selling some small trinkets. She is heartbroken over the life her child leads, but cannot prevent her taking the road when the fever strikes her. The girl tells harrowing stories of how she has outwitted her mother, gotten to a freight train, and left her home, having no idea where she was going.

Fence Election in Tift.

Tifton, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—Ordinary C. W. Graves has called an election on the question of fence or no fence in Tift county, to be held on the first Wednesday in July. There is a strong sentiment in favor of no fence in this county, and it is possible the no-fence will carry, although the election will probably be a close one.

ALL GRADE CROSSINGS SHOULD BE ABOLISHED

This Is Eventual Aim of Public Safety Committee—Many Other Suggestions.

Through the agency of its committee on public safety, the Atlanta chamber of commerce has been making a careful study of the people's needs with regard to the improvement of their health and their greater security from accidents, and has now almost completed a series of measures to be proposed to the general assembly this summer for legal enactment, looking to that end.

This committee is composed of W. J. Lowenstein, chairman; Ben Lee-Crew, Porter Langston, Edwin R. Haas and W. Woods White. It has been at work for months, not confining itself to local demands, although these have not been neglected, but including within the scope of its research several propositions aiming at the betterment in health and safety of the people. As the committee will need the co-operation of all the citizens of our commonwealth in carrying out its aims, a review of what has been undertaken by it will not be without public interest, particularly as the meeting of the legislature is now less than three weeks off.

Grade Crossings.

One of the first things to engage the committee's attention was the need of more efficient safeguards against the danger of accidents from grade crossings. With this object in view, Mr. Lowenstein entered into correspondence with Chairman Murphy Candler, of the railroad commission, and he has succeeded in gaining the hearty co-operation of that body in the measure to be proposed. In fact, the commission went so far as to appoint a legislative committee, with Judge George Hillyer as chairman, to which this matter with other matters of legislation was referred, and it has incorporated in its annual report the following recommendation to the legislature, embodying in a large degree the suggestions made by the chamber of commerce committee on the subject:

"The commission recommends that the entire subject of the removal, improvement or safeguarding of grade crossings of public highways be placed under its jurisdiction, and that it be empowered to order their removal by under or over passage, the improvement or the safeguarding, as in its discretion seems to proper, apportioning the cost in each instance as it seems equitable. The commission also recommends that no new grade crossings of established highways by railroads, or of constructed railroads by new highways, be allowed in this state, except after application to and approval by the commission."

It is recognized both by the commission and the chamber of commerce that it might prove disastrous to the railroads, without securing any addition to the public safety commensurate with the enormous expense involved, to seek to eliminate all grade crossings from the state. But it is hoped, by giving the commission discretionary powers in the matter, to remove at an early date the most dangerous grade crossings, and, as the greater density of the population and the increase in traffic makes it more feasible, to extend the process until nearly all grade crossings have been abolished.

Unlawful Trespass.

Another subject which the committee took up was the greater security of railroad property from unlawful trespass and the prevention of unlawful boarding of trains. Two bills were drafted and submitted to Chairman Candler. On this topic Mr. Candler writes as follows:

"After looking into the matter, I am not at all surprised that unlawful trespassing on railroad property or the boarding of trains unlawfully, is not now sufficiently prohibited by our present laws, or perhaps would be so with a slight amendment to the present law as to trespassing to meet the construction placed upon the act by the supreme court of Georgia, which construction seems to me correct. I have read the draft of the two bills, sent you through Mr. Wick-ersham's office, and while I think perhaps some change in verbiage might be made, on the whole I see no objection to them. They are in somewhat better shape than the drafts which you prepared for legislative presentation."

Safer Street Cars.

In regard to a matter of special interest to the people of Atlanta, namely, the placing of life-guards on street cars, the committee has already been largely successful. This subject was taken up early in the year with officials of the street railway company with the result that a great number of the cars have already been equipped with life-guards and most of the rest will be so equipped as rapidly as practicable.

The following from a recent letter of Vice President Glenn, of the Georgia Railway and Power company, shows the result of the committee's activity in this direction:

"In reply to your favor of March 24, I beg to advise that since writing you on January 2, we have been actively engaged in placing life-guards on our cars. Since that time, about sixty of our cars have been equipped with these life-guards and the work has not been delayed at any time. These life-guards are made in our own shops and are of a type similar to the H. B. life guard.

"The work of equipping our cars will continue until all cars on which it is practicable to place these life-guards have been equipped with them."

Dangerous Weapons.

There is hardly a single subject of legislation which has proved more difficult to lawmakers in all the states than the sale and carrying of dangerous weapons. As the legislature has already gone as far in regulating the carrying of weapons as the constitution will permit and the result is still anything but satisfactory, the committee decided that more could be achieved for the public safety by throwing stringent restrictions around their sale. With this view, a bill, embodying the three following provisions, will be introduced:

"1. It shall be unlawful for any dealer in firearms to make a sale, loan or gift of any pistol or pistol cartridges unless an application is presented to the dealer that has the indorsement of at least two responsible citizens vouching for the applicant's good character.

"2. It shall be the duty of the dealer to file daily a sworn statement with the chief of police a copy of each application, giving name, description, etc., of applicant as well as the caliber and number of the pistol, and make also brand and size of pistol cartridges.

"3. It shall be the duty of the dealer to include in the sworn statement that the two indorsers are personally known to him as possessing good character, etc.

"4. Providing penalty for violation."

In addition to the measures for the public safety outlined above, the committee has been working on a number of bills looking to the improvement of the health of the state. Prominent among these is a measure giving the state board of health discretionary power to order the muzzling of dogs in districts where rabies seems to be epidemic, the final purpose to be achieved being the banishment of hydrophobia from the state as it has already been driven from England and certain continental countries of Europe.

JOE HALL WRITES ON THE BOND BILL

Commends the Bill to Be Introduced by Representative Miller on Subject of Bond Refund.

Editor Constitution: I have seen many bills that members of the legislature proposed to introduce at its approaching session. I have looked with interest to see if any bill has been introduced in the interest of the taxpayers, but so far have failed to see any suggestion of any bill of this character.

I herewith hand you one that I think is in the interest of the taxpayers, and will thank you to publish this bill in the interest of the taxpayers and their representatives in the general assembly.

My young friend, Wallace Miller, representative from this county, has kindly consented to introduce this bill. On the first day of July, 1915, there will fall due $3,400,000 of valid outstanding bonds of this state; provision for the payment of these bonds must be made by the present legislature.

The course of the state will be compelled to issue another series of bonds for the purpose of raising money with which to pay off and retire the bonds becoming due at that time. The issue of $3,400,000 of bonds which comes due in 1915 will be issued and sold under the act of legislature passed in 1884, providing for the sale of thirty-year bonds, and the money arising from the sale was used in the payment of the valid bonds of the state, which became due during the year 1885 and 1886.

If this bill should be enacted into a law by the general assembly and the bonds issued, as provided therein, the whole of the public bonded debt of the state will have been provided for, except an issue of $250,000 which falls due in 1922, and an issue of $250,000 which falls due in the year 1926, and that portion of the debt of the state which is held by the University of Georgia (the amount of which I do not just now recall). The balance of the public debt of the state, as provided for by bonds which fall due, and are payable $100,000 each year, and which payments are met by levy of tax for sinking funds, as required by the constitution of the state. If these bonds, as provided for in this bill, are authorized by the general assembly, the whole of the public debt of the state, with the above exceptions, will have been retired by the year 1926.

I think that the average rate of interest paid on bonds issued in 1885 was 4 per cent. At this rate of interest the taxpayers of the state will have paid, when these bonds become due in 1915, 120 per cent interest, or in other words, have paid an interest on these bonds of $3,400,000, more than $4,000,000, and the principal of the bonds is still due.

If the general assembly should again provide for an issue of bonds to run for thirty years, and pay interest on the same at 4 per cent, which at this time would be as low a rate of interest as could be obtained, the taxpayers would, in that time, have paid over $4,000,000 as interest on the bonds, and the principal of the debt would remain unpaid.

Since the adoption of the constitution of 1877, there has annually been paid on the principal of the bonded debt of the state $100,000, and the result is that under this wise provision of the constitution about $3,500,000 of the bonded debt of the state has been paid, and the interest charges retained from an amount exceeding $100,000 to less than $300,000, and interest is annually reduced on $100,000.

To provide for the payment of the debt of the state in the manner provided in the bill would only require an annual appropriation of $100,000. This small amount could be paid, and not felt by the taxpayers of the state. The reduction in the interest of the whole of the bonded debt of the state would, in a few years, equal the amount required to meet the bonds, as provided in the bill.

When the constitution was adopted it required that in addition to the interest on the public debt, $100,000 a year should be raised by taxation to pay the principal. The taxable value of the state was in round numbers about $300,000,000. These values now exceed $500,000,000, so it will be observed that the burden upon the taxpayer to raise this additional amount does not increase as it was when the amount of $100,000 a year was originally required to be raised.

There will be, under the provisions of this bill, no necessity to levy any tax to meet principal on these bonds before the year 1916, when they are due to the state from the Northeast railroad $100,000, which becomes due in 1915, and which is appropriated by the constitution to the payment of the bonded debt of the state. There is also the treasury available for the payment of the bonded debt of the state, $100,000 in the sinking fund in excess of the amount required each year to meet the bonds of the state falling due.

I hope that the provisions of this bill will commend itself to the good sense, patriotism and statesmanship of the general assembly.

JOS. H. HALL.
Macon, Ga., June 6, 1915.

The Proposed Bond Bill. The bill of Representative Miller provides that the governor be directed to cause to be issued interest-bearing negotiable bonds of this state before the first day of July, 1915, to the amount of the same by sale or exchange for other bonds of the state falling due on the first day of July, 1915, for the purpose of paying off and discharging that portion of the principal of the public debt of the state which falls due the first day of July, 1915. The said bonds to be issued and disposed of by the governor at such times and in such amounts not to exceed in the aggregate $3,400,000, in the discretion of the governor. The bonds shall be of the same tenor as the bonds which mature and be payable at the rate of $100,000 a year, the first of said bonds to become due on the first day of July, 1915, and annually thereafter on the same day to the amount of $100,000 until the whole amount shall be paid and retired by money arising from tax to be levied each year for said purpose, and the general assembly is hereby required to provide annually for the payment of the principal and interest on said bonds by the levying of a sufficient tax upon the taxable property of this state for said purposes, and the money arising from the levy of said tax, when paid into the treasury, shall be kept separate and apart from all other funds and shall alone be applied to the payment of the principal and interest upon said bonds; that the governor may, in his discretion, so issue said bonds that the first series of the same shall become due in the year 1920 and then the sum of $500,000 shall become due and payable, and the general assembly, as herein required, shall provide each year, after the year 1916, for a sinking fund not to exceed $100,000 a year for the redemption of the first series of said bonds when they shall fall due on the first day of July, 1920.

The governor is authorized to give notice by publication in such place or places in some public gazette and by such length of time as he may see proper of the sale and negotiation of said bonds and to invite bids for the same and the lowest rate of interest at which the bidder will take said bonds or any portion thereof, provided that the same shall be held or construed to limit the governor to this method of sale or negotiation, but he may reject any bid made in response to said public notices and dispose of said bonds by private sale, if in his judgment he thinks it best to do so.

The governor is authorized to exchange any of the bonds issued under the provisions of this act in the redemption of any part of the public debt now outstanding and falling due during the year aforesaid, and he may issue registered bonds in exchange for maturing outstanding bonds.

All bonds, whether coupon or registered bonds, issued under the provisions of this act shall be exempt from all taxation by or under the authority of this state, or any municipal, county or authority whatsoever.

The governor shall only issue and pay out or use any of the bonds authorized by this act in the redemption of the same amount of the outstanding bonds of the state falling due in the year 1915.

WISCONSIN HOGGISH ABOUT ITS BERRIES. La Crosse, Wis., June 7.—Because the state of Wisconsin wants a quart of berries to be larger than a quart must be in the other states, a cartoon of Arkansas strawberries were commandeered by State Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery. Each box contained only a liquid quart instead of a dry quart. Strawberries are "dry" under the Wisconsin law and must be measured in a quart which is wide, low and deep up and in a tall, narrow vessel which cannot be heaped so well.

DIPLOMAS ARE GIVEN TO 35 YOUNG LAWYERS

Twelve States Represented at the Atlanta Law School Commencement Exercises.

Lawyers from twelve states were graduated from the Atlanta Law School at the commencement exercises at the Grand opera house last night. Members of the faculty and the thirty-five graduates were seated on the stage which was beautifully decorated with palms, when the curtain went up at 8:30 o'clock, and all the barristers who received their degrees were clad in cap and gown.

The invocation by Rev. John E. White opened the program, and this was followed by music. Then came the principal address of the evening by W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, Ga. The presentation of the diplomas and prizes by Dean Hamilton Douglas followed, and forthwith thirty-five names were added to the roster of those who are qualified to practice law in Georgia. The valedictory to the class, by Blair Foster, concluded the program.

Following the exercises the graduates and faculty of the Atlanta Law School adjourned to the University club for the annual banquet. Basil Stockbridge was toastmaster, and the speakers were Hamilton Douglas, George Westmoreland, W. O. Cheney, L. J. Grossman and G. G. Osborne.

A complete list of the graduates follows:

ney, Eugene Righardson Clarkson, Allen A. # CLAIMS INDIAN FUNDS HAVE BEEN MISAPPLIED

Senator Lane Demands Details Before Action Is Taken on Appropriation Bill

Washington, June 7.—Demands of Senator Lane of Washington that the Indian affairs committee of the senate get complete statements as to how all Indian funds are administered before acting on the $10,000,000 Indian appropriation bill now pending opened up an Indian fight that probably will be carried on to the floor of the senate.

Senator Lane made a final demand today upon the committee of which he is a member, for complete information. Thus far the committee has been unable to furnish him with the facts. Senator Lane proposes to ask the committee Monday to authorize only temporary appropriations for the Indians and to institute at once an investigation of the Indian bureau.

Other committee members declared it was impossible to get the detailed statement of expenditures Senator Lane desired and that the bill would be recommended for passage early next week. Mr. Lane said if such action were taken, he would renew his fight on the floor of the senate. The Indian bill contains a provision for which Senator Townsend of Michigan has made a hard fight for a complete investigation of the Indian bureau, the Indian service and the administration of all funds.

Senator Lane filed a protest with the committee today in the form of a letter in part as follows:

"I have asked for a reasonable and plain business statement on the facts without prejudice to anyone as they relate to the many differing provisions of the measure. This bill provides for specific appropriations amounting to between nine and ten million dollars, and in addition confers power to administer property and money amounting, I am informed to hundreds of millions more.

"Up until this time I have been unable to secure information except what pertains to a few agencies which in every instance show that the money appropriated has not been applied for the purpose for which they were asked. In addition, such statements prove conclusively and beyond dispute that appropriations are accompanied by rights of absolute control over millions of dollars worth of property no account for the management of which anywhere appears.

It is my desire to ascertain now whether or not the committee intends longer to deny me the right of having the facts as they pertain to this matter laid before it for consideration.

A fellow shouldn't sit in a hammock with a fat girl unless he knows the ropes.

What a silent place this world would be if we should all think twice before we speak.

Fine Entertainment at Theaters This Week

STELLA MAYE, Of Maye and Addis, at the Forsyth, and some of the girls in "Hiram at the Cabaret," at the Bijou

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth)

Roehms Athletic Girls head the bill of exclusive Keith vaudeville that will be the attraction at the busy theater all of the week that starts with matinee on Monday afternoon, and there will be six other featured selections from the best vaudeville talent to make up a program that will be the talk of Atlanta.

Theatergoers recall with tremendous pleasure the brilliant successes credited to the Forsyth last summer and will remember that it was almost a set rule to secure seats for performances two or three days in advance simply to be sure of accommodations. This history is repeating itself this year.

Vaudeville has a wonderful grip on the people of almost every city, and here in Atlanta the fact is at its height. The recent shows at the Forsyth have measured to that degree of excellence that keeps theater crowds ed, and the permanent reservation list is growing every day. Among the features that will be seen immediately following the coming week will be Bud Fisher, the cartoonist of Mutt and Jeff fame; Gertrude Vanderbilt and George Moore, Herman, Timberg, Marie McFarland and Madam Rao Fenton and her dancing boys and others.

The headliner for this week, Roehms Athletic Girls, is a quintet of pretty girls who box, wrestle and do bag punching hits. These young ladies have appeared exclusively in the Keith houses of the east all this season. They have been held over two and three weeks at a time in some of the theaters and it is reported that they have drawn the attendance records of several large theaters. The young ladies are attractive in appearance and have become great favorites with the fair sex in every city.

Signor Travata, the eccentric violinist, was discovered abroad by one of the best-known composers who aided in securing the vaudeville engagements for the present star in the procession. His work will be a treat to the music lovers, and a genuine surprise to the folks who may figure there is nothing new in violin playing.

Chick Sale, the character comedian, who presents A Country School Entertainment will be a feature that will attract as much attention as anything on the bill. Sale portrays a number of characters one might find at a country school commencement. He does not leave the stage to make these changes which makes the act all the more interesting.

John and Mae Burke, in "The Rag Time Soldier" are sure to score a laughing hit. John Burke is a funny fellow. He is a dancer, a singer and can play the piano upside-down. Mae Burke is a splendid partner and has not yet failed in her career to win attention.

Gordon Pickens and company, in a comedy sketch, pretty Misses Maye and Addis and the Stalner Trio in comic horizontal bar stunts, make up the bill.

Musical Comedy Tabloid.

(At the Bijou.)

"Hiram at the Cabaret" will be the attraction this week at the Bijou. This is another of the big musical comedy tabloid vaudeville treats that have served to park the Marietta street theater at all its performances since the introduction of the policy.

Hiram at the Cabaret will be presented in two scenes by a company of clever people headed by Walle Burke, who is a character comedian of rare ability. There are a dozen pretty girls in the company, there are principals and comedians who have won attention and it is further said that the music is as good as some of the high priced shows that have toured the circuit this season.

The story of "Hiram at the Cabaret" deals with the experiences of a countryman at his home preparing to go to New York to take in the sights. He is told about a cabaret and when he arrives on top of a one of the New York theaters the fun gets fast and for an hour and a half, there has been nothing to detract attention from what is happening on the stage.

The chorus numbers have been selected with great care and some of the new and popular numbers will be introduced. The reviewers in cities in the circuit declare the show to be one of the best on the tour and it may be expected that it will score a hit here. The Bijou admission is 10 cents with 10 cents extra for reserved seats. There are matinee performances every afternoon two on Monday and Saturday and two night performances each evening.

50 Cents Reward for Wiggletails

Offered by City of Columbus

Columbus, Ga. June 7.—(Special)—The city of Columbus is now an advertiser in the daily newspapers. It is a piker either in using display type regular dr. goods style.

Mayor L. H. Chappell is the man behind the ads and "Find the Wiggletail" is the theme. Here is a part of a city of Columbus advertisement well displayed in a space two columns by ten inches in local daily paper and incidentally, in other southern cities can thereby get a good pointer.

"Find the wiggletail. Any smart boy can make money today. To the boy or girl man or woman who will today report to the health department a vessel or pool of stagnant water in Columbus containing a dozen or more live wiggletails a reward of a half dollar will be paid.

"Don't make or empty the vessel simply find the wiggletails and report to the city clerk phone 235, giving your name and house number."

by the Birmingham and Montgomery contingents who joined them here.

It appears that the work of the Atlanta ad men in Baltimore is already cut out for them. According to L. D. Hicks who is in Baltimore, they are expecting great things of the local men and their famous Atlanta spirit.

The Atlanta men are slated to head one of the divisions of the big parade, and none other than the Fifth Maryland regimental band, which was a prominent body in Atlanta at the unveiling of the Peace monument at Piedmont park two years ago, to furnish the music for the Atlanta division. The only thing in this division which will be louder than the horns of the boys of the Fifth regimental will be the banners bearing the slogan "Atlanta Always Ahead."

ATLANTA ONLY MON. JUNE 9

THE WHY AND WHEREFORE

This year's exhibition may well be regarded as the one close to finality because it is bigger, better than ever.

Embodied here are the crowning efforts of two authoritative personages whose lives have been devoted to exemplary historical entertainment.

BECAUSE THEY HAVE TRIED TO EXCEL.

Standing superbly alone on an eminence, defining a path, untrammelled by precedent.

BECAUSE IT HAS NO COUNTERPART

Throughout its existence it has adhered to the square deal, and proved the profit that lies therein.

BECAUSE IT IS NOVEL AND INTERESTING

Behind its success is the unexampled degree of efficiency and the victorious elements, knowledge, experience and public approbation.

BECAUSE IT NEVER FAILS TO INSTRUCT

BECAUSE IT ALWAYS PRESENTS SOMETHING NEW

Bringing the races of the earth into closer contact, strengthening the relations of general brotherhood of mankind.

BECAUSE OF ITS CONGRESS OF NATIONS

In the tapestry of life are woven threads of every color, draping warmth and veracity around arena exploits.

BECAUSE IT IS CLOTHED IN REALISM

Reaching the summit of excellence by the exercise of unshakable confidence, indefatigable patience and inexorable fidelity to ideals and traditions.

BECAUSE IT IS TRUE TO NATURE

Time is fast obliterating from the face of nature the figures of the west composing its chief characteristics and historic interest.

BECAUSE OF THE PROGRESS OF CIVILIZATION

Disclosing most prolific development this year in fields hitherto undreamed and presenting "Pioneer Events in Frontier Days." A wondrous drama, adequately staged, scenically mounted with fully 1,000 participants.

WITH BUFFALO BILL THE ORIGINATOR AT THE HEAD

Intensive Spectacles, Olympic Games, Fox Hunting, Sights, Skillful Contests, with Many Added Famous Foreign and Domestic Displays. The Gem of Exhilarating Interpretations Beyond Which It is Impossible to Go.

MRS. FRANK WRITES ABOUT PHAGAN CASE

Wife of Suspected Superintendent Again Expresses Confidence in Husband.

Again arraigning Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey for imprisoning her house servant, Minola McKnight, the girl who recently made such a startling affidavit in the Mary Phagan mystery Mrs. Leo M. Frank, wife of the suspected factory superintendent, has written another letter in regard to the conduct of the case.

She says that such methods as torturing witnesses will gain the office of solicitor general nothing and that she should be taken to task by county authorities for his actions relative to her husband's case. She again expresses belief in the prisoner's innocence and confidence that he will be acquitted.

Editor Atlanta Constitution I think fairness to Mr. Frank requires that the public should clearly understand Mr. Dorsey's position as stated by him in his card in The Constitution of June 6 and repeated in the papers yesterday, in reply to my statement that he proposes to use testimony which comes from witnesses as the result of torture.

His real position, as gleaned from his card can be stated in the following sentence which he employed:

"I have only to say without in any wise taking issue with her findings as I might have I welcome all evidence from any source that will aid an impartial jury under the charge of the court, in determining the guilt or innocence of the accused."

That is to say, he thinks it unnecessary to waste time in disputing the fact that the detectives are practicing their testimony from witnesses by torture. He considers this point immaterial. He believes he is thoroughly justified in using tortured testimony if it is turned over to him for no other reason than that he is innocent.

Driven to Hysterics.

The Journal and The Constitution stated that he had his cook arrested and carried to his office and quizzed to such an extent as to drive her into hysterics and that after this he sent her screaming to the police station, in the night before last.

When her office was taken to the detectives' torture chamber, and according to The Atlanta Constitution, she there had the third degree applied to her to the point of exhaustion after which, she made an affidavit, which the detectives, or some one, immediately gave out to the papers.

The solicitor had no charge against this cook and did not suspect her of any crime. Yet Mr. Dorsey waives this aside as a trivial matter, not worthy to be discussed by him, because he says "I welcome all evidence from any source, clearly implying that he will take it from the torture chamber if it is offered to him."

That he and the detectives violated the criminal law in arresting his cook when they had no charge against her and when they suspected her of no crime, I am told by lawyers, admits of no doubt. But this Mr. Dorsey thinks, need not be discussed by him.

Who Will Suffer Next?

While Mr. Dorsey thinks all this is entirely proper, it is the next thing to an impossibility to believe that many persons in the community will agree with him. Indeed I would agree with him that he should use, even in the newspapers, torture chamber testimony to take away a man's life.

When Mr. Dorsey introduces this third-degree evidence to the jury, can it be supposed that he will at the same time tell the jury that it comes direct from the torture chamber?

It is our time to suffer now. Can anyone tell whose turn will come next?

I do not wish to be in any manner bitter toward Mr. Dorsey, even in my feelings because it is so perfectly clear that his action is dictated by a serious mistake of judgment and my only purpose is to let the community understand as thoroughly as I can in the interest of fairness to my innocent husband, that Mr. Dorsey is proposing to use third-degree torture chamber testimony in an effort to take his life and that he thinks it is perfectly proper for him to do so.

Tortured Affidavits.

Mr. Dorsey and the detectives know that I cannot go on the witness stand and deny the affidavits they have published in the newspapers, wrung from my cook in the torture chamber by the third-degree process, because I am informed that under the law a wife will not be permitted to testify either for or against her husband. The law puts this absolute seal upon my lips, and my only recourse is in letting the community know the facts through the newspapers as far as I can.

I know I cannot keep up with all the false affidavits and false rumors and rumors about me that have been industriously put in the newspapers, but I feel that I should call attention in this instance to Mr. Dorsey's position, which he so boldly justifies.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST LUMBERMEN DISMISSED

Cases Against Fourteen Secretaries of Lumber Associations Quashed.

Chicago, June 7.—Criminal indictments against fourteen secretaries and former secretaries of lumber associations throughout the country have been dismissed at the instance of the department of justice, it was learned today. Five civil suits filed by the government for the dissolution of the alleged lumber trust are still pending.

The indictments were returned in Chicago in 1911, and charged the defendants, representing fourteen associations with conspiracy with restraint to trade. Alleged black-list figures largely in the testimony before the grand jury. Later the civil suits were filed, and these, it is said, eventually will come to trial.

The indictments were quashed by United States Judge Carpenter at the request of District Attorney Wilkerson, who acted on instructions from Washington. According to statements by counsel for the defendant, the government found that its evidence bearing on the indictments was insufficient.

Most of the men indicted are no longer secretaries of lumber associations.

The names are H. F. Blansfield, Tennessee; George P. Sweet, Michigan; William P. Hollis, Minnesota; Harry A. Gorsuch, Missouri; Harry C. Seacore, Indiana; Bird Critchfield, Nebraska; E. E. Hall, Nebraska; H. H. Hemerway, California; Louis L. Heilmann, Colorado; H. S. Adams, Ohio; A. L. Porter, Washington; A. C. Richter, Pennsylvania; Arthur H. L. Holmes, Michigan; and B. N. Hayward, Ohio.

Civil Case Won.

New York, June 7.—Attorneys here for the department of justice explained this afternoon that the government has already won its civil case in the lower courts against the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers association. There are three other civil suits pending—against the Northwestern Retail Lumber Dealers association, at St. Paul, Minn.; the Colorado and Wyoming Lumber Dealers association at Denver, Colo. and the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers association at Detroit, Mich.

How One Clerk Built a Business

Somebody tells an interesting story about a young clerk who found employment in a little general store owned by a German American.

When this clerk got his job the store was conducted in a very slipshod fashion. Stocks were badly mixed, and the window displays hodgepodge in character.

The clerk had brains, he used them.

He thought, planned and acted.

He brought order out of chaos.

Stocks were righted, the window displays simplified and well balanced.

Business began to increase, soon it began to thrive. Meanwhile, the clerk was writing the advertisement—simple, homey, truthful, convincing and INTERESTING.

He told old things in new ways.

He never lost an opportunity to improve that store HIMSELF.

Today the clerk owns the store.

THE CONSTITUTION'S advertising columns show the same spirit of ambition and progress.

The successful merchant is always the right sort of advertiser.

LOCAL TAXATION AID TO LITERACY

State Superintendent M. L. Brittain Pleads for County Unit System of School Support.

A striking and almost startling parallel between illiteracy and the percentage of school funds appropriated by state local taxation, has been discovered by Prof. M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, as the result of investigations made in the preparation of his annual report, which is soon to be submitted to the governor. Here are some of the facts which Professor Brittain brings out which will be of special public interest in view of the approaching meeting of the general assembly.

Florida High in Literacy.—Florida on the other hand, appropriates only 16.7 per cent of its money spent on schools directly from the treasury, while 82.3 per cent is raised by local taxation. Florida's tax on land is 25 cents per acre, which is the lowest in the country. In fact, stands above all other states in the South and Gulf states from North Carolina to Texas inclusive.

Next to Alabama in the high percentage of funds appropriated by the state is Georgia, with 79.4 per cent, paid directly from the state exchequer and 20.6 per cent raised locally. Now the average attendance in the child of six years age per year in Georgia is 52 days. Ten states only have lower average in this respect. This is notwithstanding the fact that Georgia appropriates actually directly from its treasury for the support of schools more money than any other state in the north which stands highest as regards literacy raise almost the entire amount of their school money locally. First in this regard is Massachusetts with 96.5 per cent of the money spent for education raised by local taxes. Others in the order of their rank are Kansas, 93.8 per cent; Rhode Island, 90.3 per cent; New Hampshire, 88.2 per cent; North Carolina, 88 per cent; Montana, 87.9 per cent; New York, 84.2 per cent.

Pay Teachers Salaries Promptly.—Professor Brittain sees in the greatest need in Georgia now so far as schools are concerned, next to the prompt payment of teachers' salaries, is the encouragement of local co-operation and aid. Unless the people of a community are sufficiently interested in its welfare to tax themselves for the support of its schools, he does not see much hope for that community in an educational way. He attributes Florida's success in stimulating an interest in public education in that state and in lowering the percentage of illiteracy to the fact that Florida requires each community to lay upon itself a local tax of at least three mills before it can secure any money from the state treasury. In this connection Professor Brittain says:

"Comparisons may be sometimes drawn, but it seems inexcusable that Florida should be cited as doing so much more by this way than Georgia. The only difference that explains this is the fact that Florida has written in her laws that each county shall levy a school tax of not less than nor more than seven mills before securing the state aid. This means that every particular school district in Florida is financially superior, but this is not the case in all of Florida, and certainly not in Georgia, where the average yearly attendance is only 40 days. The only commonwealth that has more heavily upon the state than Georgia is Alabama, which is graded lowest of all."

As Professor Brittain sees it, however, it is natural that this should be so. It is simply that what we pay most dearly for, we must prize a principle as all us human nature itself. "Here we have local initiative and support," he says, "we have a far greater interest in the child, more diligent study on his part, and truancy is reduced to a minimum. In those districts a much larger proportion of the children are in school and the average yearly attendance is much higher. When the parent contributes a dollar through local taxation to the schools, he is careful to see that there is no waste and that his child gets the benefit of that expenditure. It is by no means so particular otherwise."

"The conclusion would seem to be unavoidable, therefore, that Georgia does not so much need greater appropriation from the state treasury as local co-operation and aid. The fact that a greater state appropriation is a favorite grandstand play with the demagogue does not make the truth any the less plain to the thinker. Prompt payment to the teachers and every possible encouragement towards local support and interest stand high above all the other educational needs in Georgia. It is easier and much more popular to pose as the champion of the child by loud insistence upon greater appropriation from the state treasury—even if this forces us to keep behind a year or two in payment—than the real statesman in Georgia—worth all of our political time-servers—is he who will secure prompt and business-like payment of our school funds and promote local initiative and support."

Will Help the Teachers.—It will be seen from the above that the state superintendent holds that the extension of the principle of local support besides being of untold advantage to the pupils, will also mean a great deal to the teachers. Where the money for their salaries is raised locally, they can expect to be paid more promptly, and in many instances the services of better teachers can be secured.

Much has been said of late in Georgia about the advantages and disadvantages of the county unit system in politics. Now Superintendent Brittain is an ardent advocate of the county unit system as applied to schools. By this means, he hopes to bring about the equalization in Georgia of the country and city schools and thereby to check the much deplored trend of population from the country to the cities. Here is what he has to say on the subject: "A defect in our Georgia schools is always clearly apprehended but serious in its results has been the division of the state into established between urban and rural schools. Impatient because of the difficulty in per-

Emory Boys Threaten to Use Dictagraph on 'Trustee Meeting'

By O. G. Melton. Emory College, Oxford, Ga., June 7. (Special.)—When the board of trustees of Emory met Tuesday morning to discuss inter-collegiate athletics they had best talk in a whisper. "Fuzzy" Williams, general publicity agent of the student committee working for inter-collegiate sports, has issued a statement that the entire meeting is to be aired to the public. As an aid to this he has decided that in all probability he will immediately install in the meeting room a dictagraph. Cranston Williams, Cranston is the name his parents gave him, has been a great aid in the fight for inter-collegiate athletics. He has handled the publicity end of the game to perfection. He is a son of Jim Williams, the editor of The Greensboro Record-Herald, and perhaps he inherits his ability to air a candidate or scheme from that source.

Education during Superintendent Brittain's incumbency of office may be seen in the fact that, while six years ago only four counties had county-wide local taxation, now twenty-nine counties have adopted the plan. They are: Ben Hill, Bibb, Burke, Camden, Chatham, Coffee, Columbia, Crisp, Echols, Emanuel, Fulton, Glynn, Hancock, Irwin, Jenkins, Jones, McIntosh, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Newton, Quitman, Randolph, Richmond, Screven, Spalding, Terrell, Tift and Wayne.

The foregoing and many other interesting facts regarding the educational status of the state will be embodied in Superintendent Brittain's annual report, which is now in the hands of the printer, and which will probably reach the governor some time this week.

STEAL $5,000 IN JEWELS AND SET FIRE TO HOUSE—New York, June 7.—In the absence of the family, robbers entered the home of John Best, on Staten Island, early today, blew open a safe containing $5,000 in jewels and money, and fire to the house and fled. The residence was wrecked. Neighbors saw three men step from a black touring car and go into the house, but thought they were calling on the family. The robbery was not discovered until after the arrival of the firemen.

Miss Davison May Die.—Epsom, England, June 7.—Miss Davison, the militant suffragette who threw the king's horse in the Derby, was reported to be in a very low condition tonight, her death being momentarily expected.

In spite of the fact that Williams is but a sophomore in college he has made an enviable record. His chief claim to glory lies in the fact that he is considered the general live wire of the student body. Fuzzy knows what happens long before the scheduled time. During the summer months he will manage The Greensboro Record-Herald while his father takes a vacation. He was an associate editor of The Emory Weekly during the past season and has been elected managing editor for the next year. He served as general vice president when the Emory Journalism class edited The Atlanta Constitution.

Williams is a member of the sophomore class, the Sigma Nu fraternity, is 18 years old, is considered extremely handsome by the ladies, and a jolly good sport by the faculty and student body.

Atlanta music lovers will celebrate this afternoon at the auditorium free concert the anniversary of the birth of the famous composer, Robert Schumann, whose "Traumerl" has made his name a beloved household word all over the world. The concert by the city organist, Percy J. Starnes, under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Festival association will be devoted entirely to works of this great composer.

Robert Alexander Schumann was born June 8, 1810, at Zwickau, in Saxony. He was the youngest son of Friedrich August Gottlieb Schumann (born 1771), a bookseller, whose father was a clergyman in Saxony. His father took a lively interest in Belle Lettres, and was himself known as an author. He promoted his son's leanings toward art in every possible way, with which, however, his mother seems to have had no sympathy. In the small provincial town where Schumann spent the first eighteen years of his life, there was no musician capable of helping him beyond the mere rudiments of his art. There was a talented town-musician, who for several decades, was the best trumpeter in the district, but as was commonly the case, he practiced his art simply as a trade. The organist of the Marien-Kirche, J. G. Kuntze, Schumann's first piano teacher, after a few years declared that his pupil was able to progress alone, and that his instructions might cease. He was so impressed with the boy's talent that when Schumann subsequently resolved to devote himself to art, Kuntze prophesied that he would attain to fame and immortality, and that in him the world would possess one of its greatest musicians.

The program for this afternoon is as follows: 1. Jaglied, (Hunting Song), Op. 82. Schumann's. (Overture), Op. 124. 2. Evening music, Op. 89. Algretto scherzoso, Op. 99. 3. Schlaf und ruhe, (Paradise and the Feet), "Mourning," "Traumerl." 4. Etudes Symphoniques. (Finale), Op. 13.

The hour for the concert has been changed from 8:30 to 4 o'clock. Next Sunday the Atlanta Music Festival chorus will assist in the concert, their last appearance prior to their disbandment for the summer.

RAILWAY TELEGRAPHERS PARABLE SERMONS TO MEET AT WAYCROSS ARE GIVEN TODAY BY DUNBAR OGDEN

Waycross, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—One of the most important meetings the Order of Railway Telegraphers has had in this section in some time will be held in Waycross, June 14. Division 182 of the order holds a convention in this city on that day and over a hundred delegates are expected from five different states. Fourth Vice President J. J. Dermody, of Cincinnati; General Secretary and Treasurer J. H. Williams, of Wilson, N. C., and General Chairman B. F. Wheeler, of Ovid, Fla., will attend the meeting.

A banquet at LaGrande hotel will be the chief feature of the entertainment program.

"Parables of the Kingdom," is the subject of a series of sermons which have been begun by Dr. Dunbar Ogden, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church and moderator of the Atlanta Presbytery. Both of his subjects for this Sunday will be in this series, interpreting the lessons of Christ's parables in the light of modern problems. In the morning Dr. Ogden will speak on "A Mustard Seed and a Little Leaven," and in the evening, "A Pot of Gold and Pearl." The parable series will be continued by Dr. Ogden for several weeks.

EASTMAN TO BE HOST OF EPWORTH LEAGUERS

South Georgia Conference Will Hold Sessions From June 16 to 19.

Eastman, June 7.—(Special).—Eastman is making great preparations to entertain the South Georgia Epworth League conference which meets in this city from June 16 to 19.

At a recent meeting of the cabinet various committees were appointed to look after different phases of the conference.

K. M. Miller, who was elected local secretary, has sent out several hundred letters to the various pastors and leagues of South Georgia, urging them to elect delegates to the league convention, and he is daily receiving assurance that a splendid delegation will come.

Professor C. C. Pittman, principal of the Eastman high school, has been selected by the local cabinet to deliver the words of welcome on the morning of the 16th.

Several missionaries will be present. Rev. Arthur Moore will conduct the sunrise prayer meetings. Rev. George W. Matthews, quiet hour services each day. Rev. James W. Hitch will preach Waycross from Korea on June 10, and will come to Eastman with the newest message from Korea.

CALLS SUTZLER'S NAMING OF MITCHELL ILLEGAL

Albany, N. Y., June 7.—Supreme Court Justice Chester today upheld the contention of Attorney General Carmody that Governor Suter was without legal authority in appointing John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, as state labor commissioner. The question now goes to the higher state courts.

The effect of Justice Chester's decision is also to uphold the conclusion of the attorney general that the governor may not appoint several other state officers without the consent of legislature.

MISS LAMOTTE TO JOIN ENGLISH MILITANTS

Baltimore, Md., June 7.—Miss Ellen Lamotte, chief of the Baltimore city tuberculosis bureau, has obtained an extended leave of absence from the health department and expects to sail soon for London where she will join the militant suffragettes.

Miss Lamotte, an ardent equal suffrage worker, said today that she had always been a decidedly militant suffragette, and she considered the work in England "nothing short of magnificent." She said she was anxious to get into the thick of the fight and see for herself "just what the hitherto apathetic English women are doing."

Pupils Present Greek Play

Columbus, Ga., June 7.—(Special).—The closing exercises of the Columbus high school this year were unusually interesting by reason of the fact that the high school boys and girls presented a Greek play, "Dido, the Phoenician Queen." The exercises were held at Spruiker Opera house, and were largely attended. Diplomas were delivered by Hon. H. R. Goetchius, president of the school board.

HAIL STORM RUINS COTTON FIELDS AND CAUSES REPLANTING

Griffin, Ga., June 7.—(Special).—For the second time this week Spalding county has been visited by a severe hail storm. The first came last Monday, devastating the cotton crop over about 5,000 acres of land, and forcing the farmers to replant at this late day. Last night another hail storm came to the county in a different section, and wrought vast damage. Where cotton had been chopped the entire crop was destroyed; but a few plants here and there are left standing where no chopping had been done. However, the entire area will have to be replanted. As a consequence of the storms seed for planting are very high in price and scarce.

W. P. Blanton, the leading farmer in Spalding county, says for fifty years he has been farming here, and never in his experience has he known conditions to be so unfavorable. His custom always has been to gin some cotton in August and a great deal in September. This year, he says, he will gin no cotton in August, and very little in September.

HOUSER ON COMMITTEE OF TRADE SECRETARIES

Charleston, S. C., June 7.—A session of agricultural development by A. V. Snell of Charleston, featured the morning proceedings of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' association convention here. The annual business meeting takes place at noon to elect officers and select the next place of meeting, Baltimore and Vicksburg being the alternate cities for 1913.

After luncheon the visitors enjoyed an automobile ride to the navy yard and a harbor trip, concluding in time to catch the 5 o'clock train for Baltimore, over the Atlantic Coast Line to attend the national convention of Ad clubs. A large delegation of Charlestonians will accompany the secretaries to Baltimore. Bruce Kennedy, of Montgomery; Jeff Bailey, of Waycross; S. F. Andrews, of Vicksburg, were among the morning speakers.

Officers elected as follows: Bruce Kennedy, of Montgomery, president; A. V. Snell, Charleston, secretary-treasurer; executive committee: H. H. Richardson, Jacksonville; Adolph Boldt, Houston, Texas; John M. Tuther, Memphis. Vice presidents, W. C. Radcliffe, Birmingham; W. N. Conoley, Live Oak, Fla.; Fred Houser, Atlanta; J. H. Warburton, Salisbury, N. C.; A. S. Johnston, Greenville; L. M. Ward, Sherman, Texas; N. B. Herring, New Orleans; John N. Tuther, Memphis; A. P. Bourland, Washington, D. C.; R. J. Beacham, Baltimore; F. H. Andrews, Vicksburg, Miss.; E. C. McCarty, Charlottesville, Va.; Field secretary, A. W. McKeand, Charleston.

For Commission Government.

Columbus, Ga., June 7.—(Special).—At a meeting of citizens presided over by J. Albert Kirven, and at which R. W. Page acted as secretary, arrangements were made to organize a club in the interests of commission government for the city of Columbus. There has been a growing sentiment for such a time in favor of commission government. A committee of which F. J. Dudley is chairman was appointed to arrange the preliminaries and call a mass meeting of the citizens at which the organization of the club can be completed.

TAFT VISITS CAPITOL AND LOSES HIMSELF

Finally Finds Speaker Clark and Declares He's Happiest Man in United States.

Washington, June 7.—Former President Taft made his first visit to the white house today since he left on March 4 to become a private citizen. Mr. Taft was the luncheon guest of the president and Mrs. Wilson, but before he sat down to the white house table again he made a brief visit to the executive offices and shook hands with all the old employees he knew.

Before his white house call, Mr. Taft motored to the capitol and got lost. He went to the house wing and looked for Speaker Clark in the chamber. The house was not in session and only empty benches greeted him. He strolled through the lobby and stepped confidently up to the door of Representative Underwood's private office to find it locked.

"I'm looking for Speaker Clark," said Mr. Taft.

"That's not his office," suggested a bystander, who pointed out the proper door.

"I'm looking for a gentleman named Champ Clark," said Mr. Taft as he entered.

Speaker Clark jumped from behind a newspaper and shouted:

"How are you?"

The former president and the speaker conferred for some time. Both are members of the Lincoln Memorial association, which will meet here next Monday.

"I am the happiest man in the United States," declared Mr. Taft as he left the speaker's office. Pointing to Mr. Clark he observed:

"The speaker hasn't changed any, I find."

"I haven't been on this side in more than four years," added Mr. Taft. "I used to come up and lobby as secretary of war."

POPE GREETS KAISER ON 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Rome, June 7.—The pope has written an autograph letter of felicitation to the German emperor on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the emperor's reign. The letter will be presented by Cardinal Kopp.

King Victor Emmanuel has also sent a letter to the emperor, in which he said that he hoped to renew his greetings shortly when returning with the queen from a visit to the Swedish sovereign.

WILLIAMS AND WALKER WIN MEDALS AT EMORY

Two Leaders in the Sophomore Declamation Spoke Selections From John Temple Graves.

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., June 7.—(Special).—Cranston G. Williams, of Greensboro, and Edward V. Walker, of Sparta, won the sophomore and freshman declamation medals last night. It is an interesting coincidence that of the twelve contestants, the two using selections from John Temple Graves were the winners.

Mr. Williams is a son of Editor Williams and is, himself, one of the most promising young journalists in the south. Although only 18 years old now, he is a veteran editor, having edited, set the type and printed a regular paper of his own some six years ago.

Mr. Walker is a son of John D. Walker, the wizard of the banking world. He is now the president of some ninety banks, most of which he visits by cross-country travel in some of his numerous motor cars.

The program of the evening was as follows:

Freemason, S. L. Burkhalter, of Warrenton, "Independence of Cuba."

F. W. Elarbee, of McRae, "America's Uncrowned Queen."

J. D. Harris, of Manchester, "Till Sundown Tomorrow."

W. S. Sawyer, of Savannah, "Ingersoll's Tribute to His Brother."

Lamar L. Timmons, of Monroe, "Shall Lee's Statue Stand in the Hall of Fame?"

BLACK HAND LETTER SENT TO PRESIDENT

Italian, Now Under Arrest. Admits Making Demand for $5,000 From Wilson.

Youngstown, Ohio, June 7.—Giuseppe Pomaro, 35 years old, was arrested here today on the charge of sending a black hand letter to President Wilson, demanding $5,000. It is said Pomaro admits his guilt, giving as a reason that he "just wanted the money."

The letter demanding the money was mailed on May 20, and was immediately turned over to the secret service department. Captain Washler arrived in Youngstown two days ago and found Pomaro at 105 North Watt street. It is said that Pomaro is one of a black hand band operating in this section.

The envelope was addressed: "Mr. Wilson, President of the United States, Washington, D. C."

The letter read as follows: "Mr. President: Send me $5,000 or it will be the worst for you. (Signed) GIUSEPPI POMARO, '28 North Watt street."

While in Indiana the vice president will make several addresses, chief among these being a speech accepting for the state a bronze bust of Colonel Richard Owen, presented by Confederate soldiers who were war prisoners at Camp Morton in 1862, when Colonel Owen was in charge. The bust will be unveiled in the statehouse corridor Monday.

Vice President Marshall Is Home for First Time Since His Inauguration

Indianapolis, Ind., June 7.—Vice President and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall arrived this afternoon for their first visit at home since the inauguration. He said the job of being the second highest officer in the land "is very pleasant."

While in Indiana the vice president will make several addresses, chief among these being a speech accepting for the state a bronze bust of Colonel Richard Owen, presented by Confederate soldiers who were war prisoners at Camp Morton in 1862, when Colonel Owen was in charge. The bust will be unveiled in the statehouse corridor Monday.

Firemen Hold Barbecue

Griffin, Ga., June 7.—(Special).—The anniversary meeting of the oldest Griffin fire company last night was an event of interest here. This was the forty-seventh anniversary of the No. 1 volunteer fire company, and it was celebrated in a manner fitting the occasion. A splendid barbecue and supper was served, attended by the members of this oldest of fire companies and a few invited guests. An address on varied topics delivered by Hon. Frank (Pop) Flynt was the feature of the evening.

25 Ansley Park Annex Lots

AT AUCTION

ANNOUNCEMENT COMING LATER WATCH FOR IT

WAIT FOR IT AND INCREASE YOUR BANK ACCOUNT

Another opportunity is to be offered Atlanta home lovers to share in the pleasure and prosperity of the city's most beautiful residence section—Ansley Park.

Twenty-five exceptionally desirable building lots have been opened in Ansley Park Annex. This subdivision has been prepared in the same thorough manner that has been characteristic of all the developments in Ansley Park.

Facing North Boulevard and overlooking the golf links, Ansley Park Annex offers the most attractive panorama of scenic beauty to be found in any section. A home here will place you in close proximity to an atmosphere of quiet comfort and center you in the very heart of suburban luxury.

No other section in the city of Atlanta has ever equaled the popularity of Ansley Park and the Annex will surely attract the same discriminating class as the Park has heretofore.

And aside from the satisfaction that comes from owning a home in this beautiful tract, there will be not one of the purchasers but who can, if he desires, realize a vast amount of profit upon his investment within a few years.

You already know the story of Ansley Park. You know we foretold years ago the great future of this section. How true has been our prediction is now known to every thinking person in this territory. Today, we tell you that Ansley Park Annex Lots will increase in the same proportion of value as did those in Ansley Park proper.

Nothing will ever stop the steady growth of Ansley Park and the Annex lying just adjoining will immediately begin to become more and more desirable and reap large benefits to those who are wise enough to take advantage of this opportunity.

Everyone remembers how quickly lots have been snapped up in Ansley Park every time they have been offered for sale. It will be just the same with the lots in the Annex. They won't last long. Twenty-five lots in Ansley Park never waited long for buyers.

The wise man will be on the ground early and join in the throng of bidders who realize that this sale means the chance of a lifetime.

The twenty-five lots will be sold at public auction within a short time. We are giving you an opportunity to think the matter over. Go out to the Annex today—look over these lots and give yourself the chance you have been looking for.

Watch for the announcement of the sale. It won't be long.

LOTS! LOTS! LOTS!

IN EAST POINT we are offering the choicest lots in that suburb. These lots lie elegantly, and nearly all of them are beautifully shaded. They range in price from $250 to $900. Terms of payment are 10 per cent cash, balance 2 1/2 per cent per month. All lots will have sewer, water and electric light connection.

EAST POINT LOTS are a good investment on account of its being the largest manufacturing city of its size in the country. Its population increased over 300 per cent during the past ten years. It will continue to grow, as it is a manufacturing city, and we have the best and most available lots in that section.

IF YOU WISH to confine your investments within the city limits of Atlanta there is nothing offered that will excel our beautiful "Brownwood" lots on South Moreland avenue. These lots range in price from $350 to $1,000. If you want a pretty home directly on the car line, with sewer, water and electric lights, here is your opportunity. These lots won't remain unsold long. Make your selection now while you have a chance to choose the best.

OUR "GRAND VIEW" lots, just to the right of Ponce de Leon, at North avenue and Bonaventure, are unexcelled by anything on the north side. In fact, they are the cheapest lots in the city, considering the location and their commanding view. Look these properties over and talk with us about them.

ACREAGE

106 ACRES between Decatur and Stone Mountain, on new car line. This tract fronts the highway for a distance of 1,600 feet. Price $150 per acre. Here is something extra good for subdividing into 5 and 16-acre tracts.

226 1/2 ACRES south of Decatur at $75 per acre. This is a beautiful tract, with a lake covering 6 acres of ground. Excellent fishing. Will trade for Atlanta property.

150 ACRES on Powers' Ferry road at $80 per acre. When the Powers' Ferry road is widened and cherted this property will be worth $150 per acre.

Who Were Maidens Who Sought To Tempt the Rev. Zane Batten?

Where did the temptation of pullet-proof St. Zane occur?
This is a question that has puzzled Atlanta ever since Dr. Zane Batten, the Philadelphia preacher, entertained a body of ministers in the Quaker City several days since with a thrilling account of his spicily adventures with eighteen "scarlet" women in a single block of an Atlanta street.
As nearly as can be ascertained, the temptation must have occurred on Decatur street in the block below Ivy.
Is This the Solution?
There is a prevalent opinion, however, that St. Zane is laboring under a misapprehension, and that he mistook the interpretation of the importunities of whatever maidens may have beset him.
The slight of so eminent and commanding a figure as that of a saint wandering along Decatur street on a Saturday night—for, of course, no one could have guessed that he was feeling the social pulse of the city—anybody would readily suspect that the poor saint was laboring under an attack of apoplexy, or other dread mental malady. So touching a slight could but appeal at least to the remnant of old negro mummies whom he might happen to encounter and these could not be depended upon to render him any assistance within their power.
If the temptation of St. Zane occurred at night, he could easily conclude black and 'crimson—or, perhaps, St. Zane is unfortunately color-blind!
From the facts which have come to light in the wake of St. Zane, however, he is a jolly old saint, and sallied forth to see on various and sundry occasions while in Atlanta. His swath, to be sure, was not so wide as a door, nor so deep as a well, but I will do.

Accompanied by reporters St. Zane made the rounds of several of Atlanta's locker clubs, after which he gave out interviews that The Constitution declined to print.

St. Zane was as leisurely in his inspection of the locker clubs as he of necessity must have been while strolling through the block in which the eighteen different damsels sought to kiss the hem of his garment, as it were.
Stayed Two Long Hours
When St. Zane gridded up his loins and got him forth to see "club life" in Atlanta, he apparently found it highly instructive—not to say enterprising in one club. In particular, which has something of a reputation for stony and laughter, St. Zane found it impossible to ascertain the exact moral condition of the place until he had tarried for a "spell" of two hours, and the proprietor finally put an end to the singing, dancing and innocent quaffing of beer that the St. Zane was investigating by closing for the night.
From a casual glance, though it appears that St. Zane had ideas of his own about the manner in which a saint should be tempted. There must have been at least one of the bevy of eighteen who was fatter for St. Zane took upon that was a certain other famous temptation, and St. Zane moreover took the more modern and profitable method of protection by making a bull's-eye of notoriety with the ink bottle through the columns of the press instead of literally landing it upon the countenance of the tempter.

Maybe some people want to sweat the railroads as well as the flies, because both are common carriers.
There are lots of people publishing books but there are mighty few who know how to write them.

Bottenfield Enlarges Force.
L. P. Bottenfield, the subdivision sales expert, has enlarged his force of salesmen from 49 to 60 men.
In conjunction with this enlargement of the firm comes an important change in the sales management. T. L. Motan, former manager of Mr. Bottenfield's sales department, has been succeeded by L. C. Bell and Hugh J. Lynch, joint managers of this department, both of whom are experienced men in organization work and salesmanship.
Mr. Bell has come to Atlanta from Jacksonville, Fla., where he was manager of Cohen Bros. department store, one of the largest establishments of its sort in the southern states. Mr. Bell stated that he came to take up the real estate business in Atlanta because of the broader opportunities which this line of business in a live city offered.
Mr. Lynch is an Atlanta man, and has had a number of years of business experience in this city. He knows the real estate business thoroughly from the work of the salesman up.

McKinney Boosts Decatur.
Colonel McKinney, of Decatur, on Friday night, addressed the Bottenfield agency on the advantages of Decatur. He pointed out its great advantages as a residence town, by reason of the class of its citizenship, the good streets and the numerous fine roads leading into the town. He also pointed out the convenient proximity to Atlanta, there being two excellent car services and chart roads all the way. He outlined the improvements which are being promoted by the board of trade, including a new hotel.

KANSANS ARE DINED AT THE DRIVING CLUB
John L. Tye Acts as Host to Commission Here to Purchase Marble.

Governor George H. Hodges, of Kansas, and his party, who passed through Atlanta Friday night en route for Tato, Ga., to inspect the Georgia marbles there with a view to purchasing stone for the construction of the $500,000 G. A. R. memorial in Topeka, were entertained at a dinner by John L. Tye, at the Piedmont Driving Club, on their return to Atlanta Saturday night.
Governor Hodges' party includes Lieutenant Governor Sheffield Ingalls, W. L. Brown, speaker of the house of representatives, Paul Klein, senate member of the commission, F. H. Chase, house member of the commission, J. N. Harrison, commander of the grand army of the republic, department of Kansas, Charles H. Chandler, state architect, and William E. Connelly, representing George W. Martin, secretary of the state historical society.
Among Atlantans who met the Kansans at Mr. Tye's dinner were Governor-elect John M. Slaton, Judge Joseph H. Lumpkin, Charles E. Caverly and H. H. Cabrinis.
Governor Hodges, who is the first Democratic governor in Kansas for the last twenty years, General Harrison, head of the department of Kansas and one of the most prominent and brilliant men in the state, and others of the Kansas party spoke Saturday night.

HANSON NO LONGER WITH STUDEBAKERS
Popular Automobile Agent Will Re-Enter Auto Field With Another Company.

George Hanson, one of the first automobile agents in Atlanta, and the first man to introduce the Studebaker cars in the south, has severed his connection with the Studebaker corporation.
There is considerable speculation as to with what line Mr. Hanson will connect himself. He is an extremely popular man not only in the automobile colony of Atlanta, who would regret very much to lose him from their ranks, but also with the business men of the city, among whom he is well known.
Mr. Hanson's friends will be glad to know, however, that he will not leave the automobile business in Atlanta. It is generally reported that he is considering an offer from the Maxwell people, with whom the Flanders people, formerly connected with the Studebaker people, are now associated. Mr. Hanson would not commit himself upon this question Saturday night, however.

Don't envy the buffer. He isn't always as happy as he looks.
It doesn't seem quite natural that pulling a man's leg should make him short.

AN APPRECIATION OF ABLE WORK

Mrs. Dan Lyle, retiring president of the College Park Club. Photo by McCrary.

The reports of the College Park club showing that too much cannot be said of the tireless energy, the wisdom and tact of the retiring president, Mrs. Dan Lyle, "the woman who brings things to pass." To take a club liked in membership and known for years for its exclusiveness, throw the doors wide open and go in for honest, earnest and real club work, required leadership of a master kind. To weld together progressives and conservatives, standing firmly for "the big things done in a big way," took courage, intelligence and a magnetic personality, which alone could have brought the results. It is with sincere regret that the club acknowledges the expiration of the time limit of her office.
Mrs. Fred Schaefer, the retiring secretary, has served the club faithfully and conscientiously. Recognizing that "minutes are chronicles, not essays," she has kept the history of the club concisely and accurately and it is with a deep sense of appreciation for her services and sincere regret that we accept her resignation.

Delegates to New York triennial—Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, Mrs. C. L. Pettigrew, Mrs. Mallory Taylor, Miss Rosa Woodberry, Miss Mary Pearson.

The Woman's auxiliary of the diocese of Atlanta held its fifth annual convention in Athens at Emmanuel church, representing eighteen parishes and missions in the diocese. Sixty delegates were present, including Juniors, besides a large attendance of Athens representatives.
It was opened with the service of morning prayer, read by the bishop, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Duck. Bishop Nelson preached from the text, "He that is not with me is against me. He that gathereth not with me scattereth." Urging that if the women realize the spiritual nature of the organization, that if their work be not done in the blessed sunlight of His presence and love, prayerfully, with the highest Christian ideal of winning the world for Christ, it is scattered.
Tribute to Mrs. White.
He referred to the loss of Mrs. H. C. White, a former president, beloved in Athens, her rare personality and sweetness and works, expressing, in the sorrow of her loss, that the joy and comfort that she has passed into the dear presence of Him whom she served, enjoying the results of that service she has given lovingly and prayerfully. She was commemorated in the concluding prayers in the communion service.
At the close of the service, the auxiliary was formally called to order by Miss Rosa Woodberry, who made an address, and announced the program. Words of welcome were extended to the members of the auxiliary. A message of loving greeting was sent to Sister Louise, of the home. A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Thomas Peters, of Atlanta, for a map, showing the opportunities for work in the collection of Athens. The memorial report was then received standing, read by Mrs. C. L. Pettigrew, with a special set of resolutions adopted on the death of Mrs. H. C. White. The members of the auxiliary attended the missionary service and addresses of the council at 8 o'clock.
The Thursday morning session was preceded by a corporate communion at 7:30 o'clock. After breakfast, in the parish house, and morning prayer, an hour of meditation on the gift of self was led by the Rev. C. E. Wheat, of Griffin. Mrs. Frank Holland made an address on the negro work in this diocese, making an earnest appeal for industrial training among the 50,000 negroes in Atlanta, better sanitation and moral and religious instruction, and commending the work, judgment and energy of those in charge of the negro mission stations here, and urging ing a generous response to their humble requests for funds.

Mrs. Mallory Taylor gave a full account of the meeting at Charlotte of the auxiliary department of Seawase, resulting in more compact organization, and strong resolutions from the committee on conference with the bishops present, recommending departmental organization of the diocesan auxiliaries, especially for problems peculiar to the department, and that they be presented at the next triennial auxiliary session. It was recommended also that more time be given at the triennial for reports from missionaries in the field.
Miss Wilmer Chalmers gave an account of the hospital work in the mill settlement work at LaGrange, and Miss Charlotte Wing, of the kindergarten there, and training of settlement workers.
A Chinese student of the University of Georgia, Mr. Ting Fang Woo, was introduced, and gave a Christian's message from his native land.
Details of Readjustment.
On motion of Mrs. Pettigrew, it was resolved to refer to the board of officers the details of readjustment to the new plan of sending all auxiliary monies through the parish treasurer, except the expense fund. Each parish and mission was requested to slightly increase this, for the central expenses of printing and other missionary educational work. To the officers were also referred the questions for discussion of the general secretary's letter.
Resolutions of appreciation were passed of the services of the retiring president, Mrs. Le Conte Furman, and her beautiful letter to the convention read. Resolutions of thanks for the hospitality of Athens, in its many courtesies, were adopted.
The bishop's letter and nominations of officers were read and accepted, as follows:
The nocturnal prayers and benediction were said by the Rev. Troy Beatty.
The report of the auxiliary was read to the council by the bishop, and received standing, with many expressions of commendation. It showed a total of $14,411.16 over and above their parish activities and woman's work, of which $2,735 was for extra missionary offering.

Look-Out!
What makes the citizens to wear
That air of gloom profound,
With furtive look and stooped with care
He restless roams around.
What is it preying on his mind?
Why does he never laugh?
Hush! Any time he fears to find
A loaded distograph?
He dare not play a quiet game
Of pinch or whisk.
Lest on recorded "lives of shame"
His name should head the list.
The slights may, perchance, trail
And they have on their staff
The demon three, they never fall,
The phon-phot, distograph!
He may not rob his children's bank
Nor beat his own dear wife,
Nodding to a playful prank,
Go lead a double life.
He used to say to those he met:
"Old birds aren't caught with chaff"
But now he fears they'll get him yet,
With just a distograph!

Hadley Is Robbed.
Madron Hadley, a youth of Atlanta, whose address was not given the police, was walking down Courtland street last night about 10 o'clock. As he reached the eastern end of the Auditorium building two figures came from the shadows. Both were revolver-wielders in Hadley's face and commanded him to hold up his hands.
While one of the highwaymen held his pistol leveled at the pedestrian's head his pal went through Hadley's pockets, relieving him of $5.50 and a leather wallet in which the money was contained. They then commaded the youth to run into Edgewood avenue.
He reported the incident to Motor-cycle Policemen Wood and Ollam, giving a good description of both robbers.

Parade Route for Big Attraction Is Announced by the Management.
Atlanta's first tented amusement of the season, Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee's Bill's Far East, is in town for two performances at Brisbane park, on Cooper street, tomorrow. The three trains came into the city during the night, and the necessary tents to house man and beast will be placed in position at the camp ground during the morning. That section of Atlanta will be the mecca for the small boy as well as for those who would catch a glimpse of behind the scenes not obtainable on any other day of the week.
Monday morning a parade will be offered, the first of the "Two Bills" have presented in many years. The line of march will leave the camp ground at 10 o'clock and traverse the following route:
From the grounds down Cooper street to Whitehall, to Peachtree, to Broad street, to Walton, to Marietta, to Brook to Mitchell, to Whitehall to McDaniel, thence "back home."

MORGANTHAU DECLINES TURK AMBASSADORSHIP
Washington, June 7.—Henry Morgenthau, the New York lawyer to whom President Wilson offered the post of ambassador to Turkey, at a long conference with the president today, declined the post. Neither white house officials nor Mr. Morgenthau would discuss his decision, but it was understood that he did not feel willing to give up his practice in New York.

SWEET GIRL GRADUATES WED, HE'S HAPPY TO SAY

President Judson Thinks Most College Men Also Are Soon Able to Marry.
Chicago, June 7.—Most college graduates enter business and soon thereafter are financially able to marry and most of the "sweet girl graduates wed, and are happy to say," testified Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, before the Illinois senate commission inquiring into the relation of low wages to vice today.
Volunteering that many of "our young men" work their way through college, Mr. Judson said school and college courses should be shortened so young men could marry at 19, or start on the serious business of life earlier.
Asked whether he thought the law should provide a minimum wage for minimum efficiency, Mr. Judson replied that the efficient man could earn more than the law could provide, that industrial training might be provided for the semi-efficient, but for the inefficient Mr. Judson had no remedy.
Men who are fitted for bank work are not the kind who would marry unless they could afford it, according to W. T. Abbott, vice president of the Central Trust company, who believed a man could marry on $1,000 a year. He thought establishment of minimum wage in a bank would destroy efficiency.
A. W. Harris, the third witness and president of Northwestern university, said he believed the duty of every community to see that the girl thrown on her own resources was able to live respectably.
Dr. Harris declared sons of rich men were not necessarily inefficient. Referring to sons of Chicago packers, he said he didn't know one of them that wasn't the business equal or superior of his father.
Mr. Harris said E. H. Harriman's fortune of $60,000,000 "was not too much compensation for a rare individual who made entire railroad systems more efficient and indirectly worked to the welfare of hundreds of thousands of working men and women."

NEGRO YOUTH KILLED BY DARING ROBBERS
Will Coombs Made Target of Highwaymen. Whom He Resisted.

Fighting two daring highwaymen who attempted to hold him up at Peachtree and Tenth streets early last night, Will Coombs, a negro youth of 178 East Ellis street, was fired upon twice. One bullet penetrated his abdomen.
He was taken to Grady hospital in a semi-conscious condition and died a few hours later. Incoherently he told the police a story of being set upon by two men who, with revolvers, ordered him to hold up his hands. When he showed fight they fired upon him, fleeing down Peachtree street as their victim fell to the sidewalk.
The wounded negro could give no definite description of the robbers. Both were negroes, he said. The police were unable to obtain a clew.

How Georgia Community Became Good; Recently Tigers and Gamblers Ruled; Now All Vices, Even Tobacco, Tabooed

By VICTOR L. STANLEY

Dublin, Ga., June 7.—(Special)—The story of an averted lynching in this county a few days ago when several of the citizens of the community of Orianna, in Laurens county, prevented the death by mob of a negro who had attempted an assault upon a white woman, carried more than the usual significance to those acquainted with the facts in regard to the community and the citizens who lived there.

This action on the part of the people living near Orianna was a victory for the men who had lived and worked for an upright, law-abiding citizenry that deserves more than passing notice. Out of a once lawless settlement, abandoned to the blind tiger and the gambler there has been made in four years one of the most ideal country districts in the state or the south, with a citizenry that has pledged itself neither to smoke, chew, nor drink, and to work for every form of civic righteousness that will aid the advancement of the community in which they live.

Four years ago, this community around the little station of Orianna, on the Wadley Southern railroad, was known as one of the worst pieces in the county for blind tigers and gamblers. It was a community shunned by most men with families to rear, and located in a remote section of Laurens county, hard to reach by the sheriff and his deputies. The law-breakers had things pretty much their own way. The farming lands around Orianna are among the finest in this section of the county, and after a while began to attract some good honest law-abiding citizens to the community. These new-comers were loath to take the lawless conditions that they found in and around Orianna. After a while, as they increased in numbers and several of the old residents joined in with them, they began to fight the evils with which their community was beset, and to drive away or subdue the lawless members of the section.

Not an Easy Task.
It was no easy task for those who remember the days when local option was the only prohibition measure in force in Georgia, and when three county fights were waged over whether a county should be "dry" or "wet," to appreciate the magnitude of the task before the good citizens of the Orianna community when they started in to drive out the blind tiger, the gambler and the lawbreaker generally, and make their section one desirable for a home.

At first their progress was slow, but they persevered, and began to get results. A good school was one of the first things that came as a result of the determination of the citizens to have a community that would make an ideal home for anybody. The school was what is known as a "line school" because it is situated on the line between Laurens and Montgomery counties, and both Laurens and Montgomery counties contribute to its support. Line schools have never been noted for being very much as schools, but the citizens of Orianna began to improve the school, and they had better results. The school was employed, the men of the community went down into their pockets for the money necessary to make the improvements, and said that they were willing to support a school that would be adequate for the needs of their children. They secured a young man named J. L. Poston for teacher who is now the principal of the school, and who started it on its upward journey. One of the first things done was to consolidate several small schools in the community and make arrangements for the children attending them to reach the big school at Orianna with little difficulty. This gave them a large school well equipped and conducive to the fact that it was not wanted and that made teaching much more effective and pleasant and the children became more interested. Slowly the school was improved until last year it was decided to build a modern building in every way and one that would accommodate every child in the community that wished to attend.

County Board Assists.
The county boards of education of both Montgomery and Laurens were consulted, and they gave as much money toward the new building as they could, but it was not until quite recently that the county board of school building they desired. The people of Orianna and community went down into their pockets and paid the money for the building themselves. They have just finished the building at a cost of $2,000, which is an unusual price for a school building in this section of the state. They have now a modern, comfortable and up-to-date a country school building as will be found in the state.

Model School at Brianna.

Professor Poston has proved to be the most wide-awake, energetic teacher for the community that they could have secured. He is a young man, fully equipped for his work, and his influence as a teacher has made the school largely what it is. But what is greater has been his influence in clearing out the evils that were hindering the peace of law-abiding citizens. Alert in every movement for better conditions, he has taught his pupils not only knowledge found in books but to be clean, law-abiding and religious men and women.

Probably no one man has a stronger influence for good over his home community anywhere than has Mr. Page along with R. B. Thigpen and R. E. Avery, the other members of the board. The building is admirably located on four acres of land, and is well ventilated, heated and lighted.

As Many Churches as Stores.
Although Orianna has only about 250 inhabitants with two stores, and is one of the smallest towns in the line of the Wadley Southern, it has two churches, a Methodist and a Baptist, both of which have preaching regularly. It is essentially a church-going town, and church-supporting community. The men who have been instrumental in making it the community it is have, in nearly every instance, been staunch members of one or the other of the two churches.

The lawless element gradually awoke to the fact that it was not wanted, and its members either moved off or became peaceful citizens. Not an opportunity was let go by the men in the community to advance the work done a little at a time, until they have now the most ideal country community in the state, supplied with good churches, unusually good school facilities and populated by a God-fearing and law-abiding citizenry.

A few days ago it was decided to organize a temperance union in the community. Less than a week ago the young men of the community, taking the lead, every man, woman and child in the Orianna community signed a pledge neither to use tobacco, whisky, nor profanity, and to stand by their pledge as long as they lived. This gives some idea of the sentiment among the inhabitants for there are about 500 persons in the community in all. To get them to sign a pledge of this character and stand by it there must be a pretty strong sentiment in favor of it among the people as a whole. Every person in the community has worked to clear it of vice and law-breakers and give it a reputation for civic uprightness. Meetings have been held and speeches made which never failed to drive home some argument for civic betterment. In consequence the community is now a home that can be found in any section has done as much for.

the movement as has Mr. J. E. Page, a well-known planter of Orianna. Placed in a position of influence, he turned it all in the direction of right and observance of the law. With him are others who have fought steadily and faithfully during the four years, and who are entitled to a large share of the results achieved. Of these may be named W. H. Toler, J. A. Youngblood, W. F. Avery, E. A. Avery, G. W. Spivey, J. D. Wilson, W. W. Dent, J. A. Curry, R. B. Thigpen, Ben Gillis, John Hill, S. B. McNeely, J. T. Blankenship, Emmett Thigpen, J. J. Leach, J. T. May, J. B. Clements, F. M. Youngblood, J. H. Bailey, W. V. Thigpen, J. W. Greenway, J. B. Rocks, J. I. Hicks, Arnold Thigpen, J. Chetson Flinders, Hardie Thigpen. Every one of these men have stood shoulder to shoulder in the fight for a better community.

Of the two churches in Orianna, the Baptist is in charge of Rev. I. S. Hughes of Dudley, and the Methodist of Rev. H. C. Brewster. The town is twenty-three miles from Mount Vernon, nine miles from Soperton, seven miles from Scott and seven miles from Adrian. The school district of Orianna held an election recently as to whether the citizens should pay a local tax to support the school, and only one dissenting vote was cast. Therefore, when it was told that the people of Orianna had not lynched a negro under circumstances that would have meant quick death for him in any other community, but quietly delivered him over to the sheriff to be tried according to law, those who had been acquainted with the community for years and knew its history marveled over the great change that had come in one of the smallest towns in the section, and the great amount of good that had been accomplished by the determined inhabitants who were tired of having blind tigers and law-breakers among them and the peace of the community broken.

I. L. Stewart.

I. L. Stewart, 27 years old, died at the residence, 42 Virginia avenue, at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at Wesley chapel, and the interment will be in the churchyard. The services will be conducted by the Cherokee Tribe of Red Men.

"MOTHER'S COMING PRESENTLY" A DAY NURSERY STORY

By Mrs. Gilbert Fraser, President

Sheltering Arms Day Nurseries.
The basic principles of the Day Nursery are to aid the working mother and her child to conserve the family and to raise the ideals of the family life. We cannot treat separately the mother, the child and the home. To the child the Day Nursery supplies its material, intellectual and moral needs during the day, while it has its own mother at night and on Sundays. The mothers bring their children to the nursery in the morning as they go to work, and come for them at night as they go home. Competent nurses and matrons are in charge of them. They are given good wholesome food, they are provided with clean aprons and rompers that they may present a neat appearance. They are examined regularly by competent physicians and specialists, and their physical needs attended to. A kindergarten is maintained in each nursery for the benefit of those from 2 to 7 years, while the older children are sent to school. A study hour is observed each afternoon, when these older children under the direction of the matron prepare their lessons for the next day. Once or twice a week each child is given a hot bath and its under clothes changed. Few of these children have the comforts of a bath room in their homes, and otherwise bathing is apt to be neglected. They are given a light supper before going home. At Holidays. At Christmas, Thanksgiving and all holidays beautiful entertainments are given, and many pleasures and outings are provided by the managers of the different nurseries.

The mother, while working for a livelihood, can feel that her children are being trained in all that makes for right living, and at the same time their children are her very own.

The nursery also relieves her of a large part of the expense of the child. The kindergarten and matron of each nursery entertain the mothers each month at a mothers' meeting, with the view of bringing the mothers into closer sympathy with the nursery and its methods, and of holding up higher ideals of motherhood. On this evening the mothers come directly from work, and both them and the children are served with a hot supper. An hour is then spent in discussing methods, and in explaining to them what we are trying to teach their children, and asking their co-operation. Lessons on hygiene in the home, morals, etc. are touched upon, and the dignity and responsibility of motherhood stressed.

At the close we usually have a game or contest of some kind with prizes and favors for all—and they all go home happy. We have an attendance of between thirty and forty mothers, and it is seldom that one of our mothers misses a meeting. We can mark improvement in the family life of these.

We claim that the Day Nursery helps the mother over the first twelve help-less years of the child's life in the most practical way possible. After that age the child can begin to help himself and her, too. The children of a day nursery receive more careful and intelligent training than the average mother in her own home would have the time or ability to give them.

The question of widows' pensions that is now being agitated, does not solve the needed problem of raising the mother's ideals of child training. The day nursery strives constantly to train the child, to keep the mother and to keep mother and child together. There are nearly 500 day nurseries in the United States—nearly 100 of which are in New York city.

The Sheltering Arms maintains four day nurseries in Atlanta, the attendance upon them being about 300.

The Methodists have a day nursery at Fulton Bag and Cotton mills. There is a day nursery for colored children at 308 Auburn avenue. Atlanta needs more day nurseries for colored children, and our immediate duty is to encourage their establishment.

SAMUEL BASHINSKI DIES AT SON'S HOME

Retired Banker of Tennille, Ga., Was in Atlanta on a Visit.

Samuel Bashinski, aged 87, a retired banker of Tennille, Ga., died at an early hour this morning at the residence of his son, Julius Bashinski, vice president of the Fulton National bank, who lives at 95 West Peachtree. He was visiting his son here in Atlanta, and was suffering from double pneumonia, which was the cause of his death.

Mr. Bashinski has for many years been one of the leading business men of Georgia, and his friends all over the state will mourn his death. For forty years he has been a resident of Tennille, Ga., where his son, H. M. Bashinski, is president of the local bank. In addition to his two sons, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Sol Herman, of Eastman. His body was removed to Greenberg & Bond Co.'s chapel, and will be sent to the family burial ground in Macon at noon today, for funeral and interment.

DR. GREEN WILL PREACH TO TECH BOYS TODAY

Processional From Georgia Tech Will Be in Full Academic Regalia.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Georgia School of Technology will take place this morning at St. Luke's Episcopal church on Peachtree street, and will be a highly impressive occasion. The sermon will be delivered by Dr. Thomas E. Green, of Chicago, one of America's famous lecturers and divines. The public is cordially invited to this service.

The processional from the Georgia School of Technology will be in full academic regalia. The faculty and members of the senior class will wear caps and gowns, with the insignia of their degrees. The procession will form at the North Avenue church house at 10 a. m. Saturday, and will march thence along North avenue to Peachtree street to St. Luke's church.

Love.

(From Preacher Amiel)
I am inclined to think that for a woman love is the supreme authority—that which judges the rest and decides what is good or evil. For a man love is a subordinate right. It is a great passion, but it is not the source of order, the synonym of reason, the criterion of excellence. In the case of a woman, love placed her ideal in the perfection of love and a man in the perfection of justice.

her stepfather, who was found to be in the last stage of tuberculosis.

Think of this child and her almost superhuman task, aging even in her earliest years under the pressure of duties far above her strength, and exposed daily to a horrible and lingering death; and then find it in your heart, if you can, to make light of or to minimize the efforts that are being made to relieve such cases. Of course, she seemed to have little realization of her danger. Notwithstanding her hard fate, the association nurses always found her neat and cheerful as she appears in the picture. A tiny little figure, she was making a heroic fight against surroundings that were unspcakably discouraging. But her resignation and unconsciousness of peril do not relieve of responsibility the community which allowed such a staggering burden to be imposed upon her.

The truth is that the public is just beginning to wake up to the seriousness of the danger and of its duty to scourge, which has been so long neglected, to be entirely feasible. Tuberculosis kills 300,000 people each year in the United States, that is one in every two and three-quarter minutes that the clock ticks, one-seventh to one-tenth of all deaths are tuberculosis. Its ravages are greatest among the young. It slays one-third of all those who die between the ages of 15 and 35. Its money cost to the people of the United States is estimated to be not less than a half billion of dollars annually. Think of it. The toll in dollars and cents taken from the pockets of our people in a single year, to have this monster would suffice to build a Panama canal. There are not less than one million people in the United States who are now in its clutches.

In the light of these startling facts, it may be of interest to the people to know just what the conditions of sanitation has done and is undertaking to do. Four trained social workers are employed every day visiting the homes of patients, supervising their nursing and teaching them how to prevent the spread of this communicable disease, and building up members of diseased households whose lowered vitality might make them more liable to contract the plague. Of the individuals examined in Fulton county, 127 were found to be free from the disease, precautionary sanitation having been made of other members of the family where the contagion is found. Of those who were discovered to have the disease, 182 have since died. 12 have been apparently cured, 48, upon decided improvement, gave up the treatment, 137 became discouraged and abandoned the treatment before they had had time to experience any permanent relief. There are about five hundred patients under treatment at the present time. Many of these have been sent to the state or city sanitarium.

The aim of the organization is to locate every indigent tubercular patient in Fulton county, to investigate his social condition and to give dispensary treatment where it is needed. Through its trained nurses it will supervise the sanitation of diseased homes, and when possible, make arrangements for the admission of patients to sanitarium where they can receive the most skillful treatment. The work is carried on in co-operation with the Associated Charities and with state and city boards of health.

One most pressing need that is encountered in the battle with consumption is for a more accurate and effective registration of communicable diseases. Under the system now in vogue in Atlanta considerable difficulty is experienced in locating tuberculosis patients. When physicians are required to report promptly for registration every case that comes within their knowledge and the necessary funds are forthcoming to carry on the work, it is believed that rapid progress will be made toward the ultimate elimination of the scourge, with all of the saving in money and in lives that implies from the community.

Can Atlanta Afford Not to Spend $10,000 Annually in Battle With Consumption?

STARTLING STATISTICS AS TO RAVAGES OF SCOURGE

There are more than five thousand people in the city of Atlanta who are suffering with tuberculosis in serious form. Five thousand are exposing daily to this dread disease twenty-five thousand others in their homes and at least double that number in their places of business, making seventy-five thousand of our total population of two hundred thousand who are forced into close daily contact with the fatal and infectious white plague.

The records of the city health board show that the death toll from this disease reported in 1910 numbered negroes, 155; whites, 125. In 1911, negroes, 184; whites, 141; in 1912, negroes, 182; whites, 142. These figures demonstrate that there has been no decrease in the number of victims of the awful malady. Eliminating from view entirely the suffering and toll and heartache and despair that have resulted from it, the cost in cold dollars and cents to the city is estimated at $2,500,000 annually.

Figures Carefully Compiled.
These figures are not taken at random nor are they mere guesses, but have been carefully compiled by the Atlanta Anti-Tuberculosis association, which has given four years of patient and heroic effort to combatting the disease. The community is now in a position to afford with safety to ourselves and our children to spend less?

It is true that Atlanta, with its 1,100 feet elevation above sea level, with its pure and invigorating air, and its moderate temperature the year round, rarely touching either extreme of hot or cold, has been blessed by nature with a climate that should render it the healthiest city in the United States. Notwithstanding, so rapid has been our growth and so absorbing our devotion to the pursuit of private wealth and power, that our citizens have lost sight of the vital importance of health conservation, neglecting even the most elementary sanitary precautions, and, almost within a stone's throw of our luxurious palaces and sparkling office buildings, festerling areas of squalor and dirt, that are veritable plague spots for the dissemination of the scourge, are to be found.

To seek out these zones of infection to labor in them and to inform the people of their menace has constituted the greatest part of the work to which the association is devoted. No more convincing illustration of conditions which exist and of their danger could be afforded than is shown in pictures which have been taken by the association of localities almost in the heart of Atlanta, within a few minutes' walk from the business section of the city.

Danger From Washermen.
An exterior view shows the hut of a negro woman who was compelled to earn a living for herself and her tubercular husband at the wash tub. On a bed in the corner lies the man in the last stages of the disease, while there may be seen heaped upon the floor piles of freshly laundered clothes. At course, the furniture, the floor, the very air of the place is loaded with the deadly tubercle germs. Now, this woman did the washing for ten white families, every member of which was constantly exposed to infection. This is only one case among thousands that might be equally to the point.

Other pictures show the horribly filthy surroundings among which these garments are washed and hung to dry. Here is a view of back yards on Germundren street adjoining the cabin from which the patient referred to was taken. Germundren street is a neglected little lane of degradation and dirt a half block west of Peters street and within two minutes' walk of the Terminal station. Outside of its hundred or hundred and fifty dusky denizens, it is doubtful if so many as a dozen people in the entire city have so much as heard of its name. Yet its power to infect and to slay reaches thousands.

There are sewers with their sanitary connections on Peters street a half block away, but nothing of that sort for Germundren. There the surface closet still reigns supreme. There are families hung on the line suspended from them to dry. Unkempt washings and surfaces are hung in disorder.

with rubbish and filthy scraps of papers strewn the ground directly under the lines on which the clothes are hanging. When the washing is over the water from the tub is poured out on the ground and flows into the street, a thick stream of pollution and disease germs. Pools of dirty water stand there continually.

Negroes Not Responsible.
Victims of cruel circumstance, these washerwomen are not to be blamed for the condition amid which they live. They are unable to earn a living in any other way than by washing clothes for the white race. They are not responsible for the surface closets and the other filthy surroundings in which they move. On the owners of the houses and on the city at large rests the responsibility for these yards like those shown in the picture on this page are fertile breeders not only of tuberculosis, but of many other deadly diseases, including typhoid.

It is to eliminate just such conditions that the association is laboring. In the particular case to which allusion has been made, the patient was sent to the tuberculosis sanitarium, the house fumigated, the yard cleaned, the owners of the family examined, and a rigid oversight instituted to prevent the spread of the contagion to others. This was not accomplished without great difficulty. The negroes are the substitution and prejudice against the work of the association. They believe that their relatives are being carried away to the sanitarium to die and that they will never see them again. In this case and in many others, that is true because the patients are already in a hopeless stage of the disease when discovered.

Similar Conditions Among Whites.
Conditions almost, if not quite as bad as these, exist among the whites, too, who, stricken with poverty, discouragement and disease, have no strength left to offer resistance to their surroundings. Take the case of the little white girl in the picture, a pathetic instance, indeed. Here was a child 11 years old on Jefferson street, who, while her mother and older sister were earning the living for the family in a factory, was left at home to cook, do the washing and keep the house, and at the same time to nurse

$3,679,000 BONDS FALL DUE IN 1915

State Treasurer W. J. Speer's Report Calls Attention to the Financial Condition of the State.

Special emphasis is given to the importance of the task devolving upon the legislature this summer of revising the revenue system of the state by the fact that $3,679,000, considerably more than half of the state's bonded debt, will fall due on July 1, 1915, and that the sinking fund provision for the payment of this debt must be made by this general assembly. State Treasurer W. J. Speer calls attention to the necessity of retiring or refunding these bonds in his annual report which is now in the hands of the printer, and which will go to the governor early this week.

After stating that the amount of the state's indebtedness on December 31 of last year was $8,730,702, the report will say:

Falls Due in 1915.
"About one-half of the above amount is made up of bonds issued under the act of 1894, amounting to $3,392,000, and those issued under the act of 1891, amounting to $287,000, and those issued in 1915. As no sinking fund was provided to take care of these bonds, and as there will be no funds available with which to meet them at maturity, except about $150,000, referred to below, the legislature at the next session will probably feel called upon to take some action looking to their retirement or refunding them into other bonds in which case the following statement, showing the status of the bonded debt, the sinking fund and its maturity and the application of the sinking fund thereto, will be of interest:

"The bonds, issued under acts of 1891 and 1894 were made to mature in 1915 and 1916, respectively, beginning in 1898 and 1917 respectively, and a sinking fund of like amount was provided and is being used to meet each installment as it becomes due, which will exhaust the sinking fund in 1915. But as the sinking fund is limited to $100,000 and its use annually is provided for up to 1935, to pay off the bonds just mentioned, the last installment of which will mature on January 1, 1915, it is necessary to provide for the sinking fund of that character to meet any other part of the debt falling due between now and that date.

"There will, however, be in the treasury, available to meet a small part of the debt maturing in 1915, about $150,000 of funds from the sale of public property, which includes a balance of $107,000 yet outstanding against the Southern railway as part of the purchase money of the North Georgia railway, which will be due November 1, 1914."

$3,679,000 Must Be Met
The treasurer gives a table of the various items of the state debt with their due dates and the provision that has been made for their payment. It is only the large amount of $3,679,000, falling due in 1915, however, that will necessarily occupy the legislature this year.

As it is, of course, out of the question to liquidate this indebtedness with the small sum of $150,000, which, according to the treasurer, is all that will be available for that purpose, and as it has not been proposed to sell any of the state's property for the purpose of liquidating it, about the only way in which the state's debt will be to be refunded is by another issue of bonds. As it will be of the utmost importance to use state to be able to dispose of these refunding bonds at as low a rate of interest as possible, and to maintain the state's credit on a high plane on which it was placed by the constitution makers of 1877, it will be seen how it behooves the legislature this year to perfect a law that will enable the state to meet its obligations promptly when they fall due and end the annually recurring complaints of an empty treasury and the embarrassment of the executive department, which finds itself strained for funds with which to meet appropriations. Of course, this can only be accomplished by rigidly keeping appropriations within the revenue of the state.

No Question of Solvency.
However, no matter what the general assembly may do this year, there will be no question of the state's solvency or the rating of her bonds in the money markets of the world. That was provided for by the authors of the constitution of 1877, when they pledged all of the state's property to the payment of its debt, and provided that the debt should ever be increased. As debt should ever be increased, as the estimated value of a single item of the Western and Atlantic railroad, is $20,000,000, the sale of the state's debt and leave a surplus in the treasury of more than $10,000,000. Nobody has suggested the sale of the road, but it is only cited to show that whatever may be the temporary stringencies of the treasury, owing to a defective tax system, there has never been the remotest question of the state's solvency.

The truth is that there is hardly a state in the union which ranks higher than that of Georgia, thanks to the wisdom of her constitution makers in prohibiting the increase of the state's bonded debt, and providing a sinking fund for its gradual liquidation.

Debt Reduced $3,000,000.
The debt, which at the time the constitution was drafted, amounted to upwards of $10,000,000, has now been reduced to less than $7,000,000, while the taxable value in the same period has increased from about one quarter of a billion to a billion dollars.

Georgia is not alone in her wrestling with periods of treasury stringency. Press dispatches during the past week have stated that the treasury of Rhode Island is empty and that there will be no money to pay the governor and other state house officers before the first of July. North Carolina is reported to be in a similar predicament, and Louisiana is contemplating a big bond issue in order to tide over her money difficulties. The governor of Tennessee made a trip to New York only last week to find a market for $10,000,000 of refunding bonds that have been issued by his state.

In this connection it may be stated that it will hardly be necessary to seek a market for Georgia's bonds in the east as there will probably be a sufficient demand for them right here in Georgia to absorb the entire issue.

Term of the Bonds.
It will be a question for the legislature to decide whether the refunding bonds shall run for a long or short term. Discussing this feature, Treasurer Speer said:

"It will be 1935 before the sinking fund of $100,000 annually will retire the bonds to which it is being applied. If the refunding bonds were made for a shorter period than 1935, the sinking fund would be exhausted before the bonds were paid off."

Young Poultry Fanciers at Hexagon Hall

S. B. Turman and his two daughters, Margaret Lethea and Helen Dorothy, as they appeared in the Memorial Day Parade. The Turman children are famous poultry raisers and their birds from Hexagon Hall are winners of many ribbons.

By Mrs. S. B. Turman.
THERE is a problem which perplexes many a fond parent—that of finding a safe and interesting outlet for the unbounded energy pent up in the growing child. At Hexagon hall there was, at first, little difficulty in securing toys to suit the varied tastes of Margaret and Helen; but, after a time, the Teddy bear ceased to interest certain ones and the unchanging smile of the dolls seemed to affect the nerves of their once fond mothers. "We are tired of them all; we want something really and truly live."

Not long after this statement, while out for a long motor trip with their parents, they stopped at a poultry farm, where were seen some immense chickens. They were grand-looking creatures, and moved with a stately dignity; they were snow white, and were almost as large as the swan that bore away Lehighville.

Peggy, the Aristocrat.
They learned upon inquiry that they were white Orpingtons, and were children and grandchildren of one Peggy Keelstrass, a fabulously wealthy hen, who by her own good looks and unceasing activities was reputed to be worth $10,000.

It was amazing to the children how one hen could have amassed so great a fortune. They begged for some of her progeny, but these Clara Vere de Vere of the poultry world were not for sale, so they had to be content with a precious setting of eggs. These were given to the care of a plebeian old hen. For a long, long time she sat upon them—three whole weeks in the dark corner of the barn; but the loving owners visited her quite often, "to keep her from getting lonely," they said. When the chicks hatched—ten fluffy white balls—their joy knew no bounds.

They now became real chicken cranks. They were given an incubator—a small 50-egg affair that looked like cheese box. They put in 49 eggs, and then the fun began. They had never seen an incubator in action, but the directions said emphatically that this one was so simple a child could run it—and so they were put upon their mettle, and their enthusiasm was contagious, and soon every one in the house was watching that incubator.

The First Faint Sound.
The frivolous little regulator would start up, up, up—up to 110 degrees, then it would toboggan to 90. Sometimes the lamp would go out when they put the lid on too suddenly; but after a time it slowed up and took an even gait, and after about three months—it seemed to them—they heard faint "peep" from the eggs! Well, the man of the house got up in the middle of the night just to look in that incubator. He said he heard something in the back hall. He took off the lid, he was amazed, he could hardly put it back—For there were 42 fluffy, wiggle, happy little chicks.

The daily paper devoted so much space to the poultry industry that the children learned a great deal about the care of their chickens. Kind "Uncle Dudley," of The Constitution, created a department for amateur exhibitors in the big poultry show at the Auditorium, which encouraged them to exhibit their birds.

Take the Blue Ribbon.
At the show they took the blue ribbon in the amateurs' class, and a silver cup was won for "the largest and best display by children under thirteen."

A well-known breeder bought all the birds they would sell, at a good price. That was more than two years ago. Since then they have won two other cups.

The fanciers—all four of them—have been wonderfully successful. Besides furnishing all the eggs for the house—sundry fried chickens from Easter until Christmas, as well as fowls for roasting—they have had orders for breeding stock and eggs.

necessary to increase the sinking fund for their retirement. Now, they might be issued so that the earliest of them would mature in 1935, and then the sinking fund that we now have could be applied to their liquidation from that date until the entire state debt has been wiped out. That and the rate of interest which the new bonds are to carry will be questions for the legislature when it meets."

Japs Victims of the Demagogue Is the View of Kenjiro Sato

By Kenjiro Sato.

History is full of political incidents to show that the demagogue has been the constant victim of demagogism. As soon as the Japanese in California became visible in number, they served as an abused object of local demagogism, and the demagogue found no better race than the Japanese to victimize to secure their selfish ends. "Japs are Mongolian," therefore, their mob psychology works well. Japs are politically defenseless, therefore they can be abused to any degree without fear of revenge.

The history of anti-Japanese expressions in the state legislature is probably the best dictionary of abusive, or shall I say, profane epithets? Here is an example. Coughlin, who while opposed to the enactment of the alien land bills in the session of 1909, said he intensely and unalterably hated the Japanese as a bandy-legged bugaboo—miserable, craven, simian, degenerate, rotten, little devils, who would make a liberal contribution to the vocabulary. Thus, at least, in one respect, the legislators are solons; they are creative as regards the language of profanity.

To Embarrass Administration.
While the bill was still pending before the legislature, reports came from Sacramento saying charges are becoming more persistent that certain California party leaders are playing a game of politics throughout this anti-Japanese controversy. Some of them to court popularity in labor circles for personal advantage, some to bring embarrassment upon the national administration and others to boost party strength at home. To concretely prove these charges is no easy task, but it is not necessary to do so.

We can rely upon our instinct to render proper judgments. If we should feel that such charges are not altogether incredible, it is high time for the people of California to realize what their legislators are doing in the name of this fair state.

Many a time foreign wars were provoked in the past just to manipulate domestic political games. The art of diplomacy was once in vogue, especially in the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries. The world then was full of robber barons who were unscrupulous demagogues as well. These princes, whenever they so pleased, dragged their unwilling subjects into wars. The people were defenseless; they had to submit, but we thought that we were out of that political stage when the bespot could sacrifice the innocent people for his selfish motives. Evidently we are mistaken about this.

Demagogues in Georgia.
In this very state, where freedom permeates, demagogues are not only tolerated to exist, but to actually victimize a portion of its own inhabitants, Japanese, just because they wish to indulge in their petty games of politics. What have the Japanese done to deserve this maltreatment?

Sixty years ago America sent Commodore Perry to invite the Japanese to open their ports. We obtained with his request. We did California now turns around and says, "Don't want to see a single Japanese in California; don't want to see a Japanese own a single foot of land in California." Is this California's conception of international courtesy? Unthinkable! But so insists the legislature.

modore Perry to invite the Japanese to open their ports. We obtained with his request. We did California now turns around and says, "Don't want to see a single Japanese in California; don't want to see a Japanese own a single foot of land in California." Is this California's conception of international courtesy? Unthinkable! But so insists the legislature.

Not the People's Will.
In passing the anti-Japanese land bill, the solons alleged that the bill was the expression of the people's will, but nothing is more untrue than such an allegation. The legislators representing the people of the southern California vigorously protested against the enactment of the bill, and in the south Japanese farming is most extensive. The landed interest there finds no necessity for any discriminatory laws. In fact, none who is directly interested in horticultural and agricultural industries is favoring the law to be. Was it not discovered by the investigation of 1908 that the Japanese are indispensable to carry on and develop these industries?

If you expect them to engage in these industries, is it not reasonable to expect that the more intelligent of them should rise from the rank of mere hand to tenant and same to independent farmers?

To deny the Japanese this opportunity of self-help because of their race is surely against the fundamental principle of American government.

An Industrious Race.
Besides, the Japanese, like the Puritans who occupied New England in colonial days, got more leaveings, lands either abandoned by or unattractive to the whites. But because the Japanese are industrious and make the barren soil blossom with fruitfulness, many whites are envious. Who is at fault? Neither jealousy nor prejudice adds to the productivity of the soil. At any rate, there is no economic reason for the discriminatory law, and land problem is primarily economic.

Are there other reasons? The exhaustive investigation of the United States immigration commission concludes: "They, the Japanese have comparatively small percentage of illiterates among them, are intelligent and eager to learn of American institutions, make a fairly rapid progress in learning to speak English, and unusually good progress in learning to read and write it. They have not proved to be burdensome to the community because of pauperism or crime."

Mrs. Wm. D. Grant, most remarkable old lady in the Atlanta city, who understands Japanese very well here adds, "The Japanese are peaceable, law-abiding, tireless industrious, home-keeping, moral, temperate, grateful and generous. They require no polling, no woman has ever been molested. That is a test for the worthiness as a people. What other alien race has such a record?"

The Best Advertising Medium Is the Daily Newspaper

Take a wideawake newspaper in any community, a thoroughly progressive paper like THE CONSTITUTION, and you have an advertising medium par excellence.

Stick to such a paper for all you are worth if you have something that is worth while advertising and worth while buying.

You'll have no trouble in getting customers. Wideawake people take at once to "live wire" newspapers, and you are certain in consequence to get a quick and big audience.

Tell your story as concisely and interestingly as you know. Pick out the REAL selling points, the points that will positively interest your public.

After you have written your advertisement put yourself on the other side of the counter and ask yourself as a customer how that advertisement appeals.

It is a good test. It keeps you down to a sane and conservative level of talk. Then, when your advertisement is ready, put it in "live wire" paper like THE CONSTITUTION.

You won't have to wait long for trade; it'll come in like a flood tide at new moon.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
Sealed bids addressed to the chairman of the sewer committee, and enclosed with the name of the bidder, will be received at the office of the undersigned until 3 P. M., on June 10, 1913, for the construction of two groups of sewers, each group approximately five miles in length. Successful bidder to obtain upon application to the undersigned.
The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

OSCAR WILDE'S PLAY TO BE SHOWN AGAIN
Atlanta is to be given another opportunity to see the play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," presented by the Players' club, according to announcement made Saturday. The second presentation will be made under the auspices of some local charity, the selection of which is in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. John Marshall Clayton, Robert L. Cooney, Lamar Hill and Hamilton Douglas.
It is also probable that the Players' club will give "The Importance of Being Earnest" with the original cast in several other cities, including Savannah and Birmingham.

Superfluous Hair Truths

Stop Experimenting

There are but few depilatories sold. You think there are hundreds because you have used the same identical preparations under several different names. This is easily explained. Women stop using.

So-Called Hair Removers

When they learn that they are harmful. Therefore, they can not be sold under the same name for any length of time. Then the identical, worthless, harmful concoctions are given new names and advertised again as totally different preparations to Deceitful the Same Foolish Women who innocently buy them over and over again under different names, and this will continue as long as women are so unwise as to experiment with unknown, so-called hair removers.

DeMiracle

Has Stood the Test of Time

DeMiracle has been sold as DeMiracle for over eleven years, and its name has never been changed. It is acknowledged the world over by eminent authorities as the one safe, perfected hair remover because it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell

If you use DeMiracle it will be impossible for any other person to know that you have used a hair remover because DeMiracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distasteful odor, an offensive, tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

Mrs. Hightower's Tea.

A beautiful occasion of the past week was the tea given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. T. J. Hightower, Jr., at her home "Glen Haven" for her sister, Mrs. Robert Bohannon, of Louisville, Ky. The attractive home was decorated with a profusion of plants and flowers. Gardenias were used in the drawing room, yellow daisies in the hall and white daisies in the library. A plateau of pink and white sweet peas formed the centerpiece of the tea table in the dining room, and pink and white sweet peas decorated mantel and buffet. Silver candelabra had pink shades and silver compotes held pink heart-shaped mints, and all details of the pretty table were pink and white. The cakes were embossed in sweet peas and the ices were pink.

Palms and ferns decorated the porch where punch was served by Misses Nellie and Ida Hightower and an orchestra played during the afternoon. Both Mrs. Hightower and Mrs. Bohannon wore white lingerie gowns. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Charles A. Bleson and Mrs. W. E. Eikin. There were about a hundred guests.

THE ONLY REAL HAIR SAVER AND HAIR GROWER

Price One Dollar at Drug, Hardware and Dept. Stores

Those who have tried the many so-called Hair Tonics, Hair Restorers, Hair Foods, etc., as found in the papers, know they are practically worthless, they don't reach the spot. Prof. Metchnikoff, Europe's greatest Biologist and Scientist, discovered that all Hair and Scalp ailments are due to certain germs or parasites that are propagated in the hair roots, where they feed on the elements that are intended to nourish the hair and supply its color. And he found that these germs could be reached and destroyed only by the Electro-Magnetic-Heat of the ARSENIIRON COMB, which also cures Dandruff, stops Hair-fall and Itching, prevents Premature Greyness, and changes a "Rink" into a "wave."

Good Work of Players' Club.

The production by the Atlanta Players' club Tuesday evening of Oscar Wilde's clever play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," was one of the best achievements of that popular organization.

Mrs. Thomas B. Felder, the president of the club, has received congratulations on all sides and the members are especially appreciative of the services rendered by the production by Mr. R. L. Cooney, who is chairman of the executive board of the club.

There is often times little trouble in getting amateurs to "act" well, for nearly every man and woman in his or her life has believed that he or she possessed hidden quantities of dramatic talents, and the outlet is not only delightful experience to the actor, but to the receptive good natured audience. But when the time comes for the real thing, when the "act" is being acted, there must be first an understanding of the play to be presented; then hard study of the lines and correct pronunciation, and finally the assembling forces—that is the bringing together of the lines, the action, the understanding and good English, under good direction, then the amateur has something more than mere "play" to do. It was the fact that every member of the cast the other night had put words into what they did, which made the whole a success, for it was a success, and the performance a real delight.

Not once was there prompting, nor did anyone "forget" a line. The performance proceeded without a hitch, without a single rough spot, and the audience were one in interest and spirit with the players.

After the performance there was the supper party at the Players' Dining club when the "after dinner speeches" were replete with humor and good nature, and mutual pleasure. It is stated that the next effort of the Players' club may be a comic opera in the fall, there being many of the members who are musical and who are anxious for an operatic production.

At the Driving Club.

The table d'hôte dinner and dance at the Driving club last night proved a most happy occasion when eighty members of the club dined at fresco, and danced afterward.

The table was ornate with flowers, and the menu was one of the tempting kind served in summer.

Among those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Linton Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Egan, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Wheatley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bohannon, Dr. and Mrs. Elkin, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. John Little, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nunnally, Mr. Stanley Mathewson, Mr. J. C. Colquett, Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Latimer, Captain Hornsby Evans, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank May, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eakens, Lieutenant and Mrs. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Calloway, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Inman, Mr. Lauren Foreman, Mr. Graham Phelan, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Tye, Mr. James P. Alexander, Mr. Smith Cuyler, Dr. Williams, Mr. James Harris, Mr. Milton Dargan, Mr. Dozier Lowndes.

Luncheon to Brides.

Miss Sara Rawson will entertain at luncheon Thursday at the Driving club in compliment to Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Jr., and Mrs. Charles S. Black.

Allen's Shoe Section "Alert and Ahead"

Our shoe section in the short space of two years and two months has become, by general acclaim, recognized as the best place in Atlanta, or the South for that matter, to find women's smart footwear. We strive to merit this distinction. We run the risk, and do often, show a style in footwear that is too advanced, too daring in its newness to be accepted immediately by the majority.

It, however, almost invariably follows that what Allen shows this season becomes the fad of the next season in footwear. It is a difficult task to foresee a trend in shoes, and often we have to pay the penalty for being the first in the field, but that is the price of pace in Allen's. Just as our hats, just as our suits, gowns, fancy goods, etc., are a little ahead, so are our shoes always typical of what is to come rather than of what is or has been. Right now we are showing the season's proper foot coverings in larger variety than has ever been displayed in Atlanta.

We Refer to Pumps, Colonials and Oxfords in White

We have rubber soles in buckskin or canvas, or the leather sole, and with the low heels, as well as the Cuban Louis XV, and the regular Cuban heel. The prices begin at $3.00 and end at $6.00. Another distinct novelty which Allen seems to have not only originated, but shown in greater variety than most stores, other than those in New York, is the cut steel slide Colonial in dull and patent leather. These have either the Cuban leather or the Cuban Louis XV heel, which is the newest style for day dress wear. They range in price from $6.00 to $16.00, according to the character of buckle selected. We have disposed of over 500 pairs of cut steel buckles since Grand Opera week.

Whether you are hard to fit or easy to fit, hard to suit or easy to suit, in Shoes, come to Allen's. If the salesman who waits on you does not fit you, the responsibility of your future satisfaction and comfort is ours. We know of no other shoe store or shoe department that makes such provision for the customer's satisfaction as Allen's shoe section does.

SOCIETY

A Charming Visitor

Sisson-Matthews.

The wedding of Miss Mary Sisson and Dr. O. H. Matthews was an interesting event of Wednesday morning, taking place at the Jackson Hill Baptist church at 10 o'clock in the presence of many friends.

Wins Scholarship.

Miss Lella Bright Cannon, who has spent the past two years in New York studying voice under Plihlanski, is spending her vacation in the city with her mother, Mrs. L. D. Cannon, and her aunt, Mrs. D. J. McRae, 647 Peachtree street.

Miss Kilpatrick Entertains.

Miss Frances Kilpatrick entertained the members of the senior class of Miss Moore's school at a pretty luncheon party Friday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated with daisies and ferns and the class colors of yellow were observed in all details.

Miss Kilpatrick wore a gown of white lace over satin. The punch was served by Misses Lillian Cagle and Carrie Waldrop. The guests present were Misses Carmen Weider, Lucy Stoddard, Mary Cagle, Dolle Bailey, Cecil Hartwell, Eugene Beck, Helen Rainey, Francis Kate Martin, Katherine Cleaton, Dorothy Davis, Christine Berger, Estelle Barrett, Tommie Bryon, Dorris Reed, Margaret Oglesby, Ruby Sawyer, Nell Morris, Ruth Newman, Florence McGee, Olga Newman, Mattie Lou Morris, Mattie Nesbit, Frances Wardlaw, Sara Liddell, Marie Cobb, Helen Atkinson, Mildred Gamble and Miss Hanna.

For Miss Crowley.

Miss Nellie Cooper entertained at a delightful heart-dice party Friday evening at her home on Hill street in compliment to Miss Bessie Crowley, a member of Miss Cooper's music class, who has made the best record for perfect lessons. Pink and white carnations and sweet peas decorated the house and the color scheme of pink and white was contained in the refreshments.

Miss Chambers Entertains.

On Wednesday evening Miss Ruth Chambers entertained the young ladies of the graduating class of the high school, of which she is a member, and a number of young men.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well-Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home-Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which also mixed at home in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Zeebo Compound and 1/2 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week and it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieve itching and scalp humors, and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

MISS ELIZABETH L. CLARKE,

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clarke, of Richmond, Va., formerly of Atlanta. Miss Clarke is the guest of Mrs. J. V. Hodges, of 206 St. Charles avenue.

of sweet peas and carnations arranged in vases on mantels and cabinets and Japanese lanterns were hung in festoons on the veranda.

The punch bowls, which were wreathed in ivy, were presided over by Misses Marion and Ivalyn Chambers. Small tables were placed in the living room, dining room and parlor and progressive games were played. The score cards were hand-painted in wild roses with "class '13" written in gold letters.

Flag Day.

Flag day will be appropriately observed next Saturday, June 14, by the Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. James O. Wynn is regent, at their chapter house on Piedmont avenue. A very interesting program has been arranged for the afternoon.

Shower Day.

June 28 is the 21th anniversary of the birthday of John Wesley, and the women's auxiliary to Wesley Memorial hospital will have a committee of ladies there to receive linen, and other donations, for the comfort of the sick and suffering. Goods may be sent to the hospital, and cash to the financial secretary, Mrs. J. H. Bradford, 391 S. Pryor street, Atlanta. Fifteen dollars completes a little bed for the children's ward. One has recently been donated, and, perhaps, others wish to do likewise.

For Mrs. Center.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edgar McKee entertained at a pretty dinner Friday evening at the Driving club.

Dixon-Draper.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends and acquaintances in Atlanta was that of Miss Alice Campbell Dixon and Mr. William James Draper, of New York, which was solemnized Wednesday evening, June 4, Dr. J. Wade Conkling performing the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given the wedding party at the home of Mrs. Hamilton Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper will visit places of interest in the north on their wedding journey, and will then make their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Craine-Simpson.

A beautiful home wedding was that of Miss Frances Jeannie Craine and Mr. James Augustus Simpson, which occurred Wednesday, June 4, at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hudson, 5 South Gordon street, West End park. The beautiful home was decorated with palms, ferns and daisies. The mantel in the drawing room, backed in dark green foliage, formed an attractive background for the wedding party. The attendants were Miss Annabell Richardson, a cousin of the bride, maid of honor, and Mr. Garrett Ware was the groom's best man. Mr. William S. Richardson, the bride's uncle, gave the bride away, and Rev. W. S. Reid, of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony. The music was furnished by Miss Mamie Clyburn, who rendered "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, before the ceremony, changing to Mendelssohn's wedding march at the approach of the wedding party, and playing the "Power Song" softly and sweetly during the ceremony. The bride was garlanded in white satin, her tulle veil caught with orange blossoms, and she carried bride roses. They left for a wedding trip north. The bride's gown was given away by her friend, Miss Genevieve Ward, of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams has returned to her home in Jacksonville, after spending two weeks with Mrs. M. F. Crowley.

and Mrs. Simpson will go to house-keeping at 16 Eggleston street, West End, where Mr. Simpson has bought and furnished a home.

Commercial Boys' Banquet.

After the graduation exercises at the Grand Opera house last night, the graduating class of the commercial department of the Boys' High school assembled for their first annual banquet at the Kimball house. The class president, Mr. Luther Deek Wallace, presiding. The occasion was very greatly enjoyed by all present. The friendly class spirit which has always existed prevailed throughout the evening.

Renewed Activity Is Ahead For Y. W. C. A. of Atlanta

The Young Women's Christian Association of Atlanta is on the eve of beginning a new and increased activity which will carry it forward to greater usefulness and service in the community than ever before. In the declaration made by Mrs Harry Dewar in an interview granted The Constitution the Y. W. C. A. is one of the most active workers in the organization.

Forward! Let us focus the blurred ideals says Mrs Dewar in speaking of the temporary lull in the work that has seemed apparent as a result of the giving up of the Y. W. C. A. quarters on the Peachtree viaduct. There seems to be a general misunderstanding in Atlanta concerning the removal of the headquarters of the Young Women's Christian Association from the Emery Steiner building. Many intimations have come to us that we are supposed to have resigned the call and claims of our association with the giving up of the old rooms. This of course is decidedly not the case.

Hope to Build Eventually. All the friends of our work have long known the necessity of new quarters but that should not be until the realization of buildings instead of renting kept us glued to our base on the viaduct. Finally forced by the surrounding the psychic moment for moving came suddenly and found us unprovided until Major Gunn and his associates most kindly offered us temporary quarters in the Wesley Memorial building. In this building we have pleasant rooms on the fourth floor for meetings also the use of gymnasium and kitchen and assembly room. Our brief stay here has enabled this committee to take sufficient time to get a decent safe wholesome place to carry on the work desired and needed by the business girls of Atlanta for their profit and pleasure.

Central Rooms Open Soon. Almost immediately we shall open large central rest rooms and carry on our work with renewed vigor. Besides the good matter from the lit pressions is made by the evidence in it of the generosity of women to women. It was a wonderful paper and a powerful medium for advertisement. Besides the good matter from the lit pressions is made by the evidence in it of the generosity of women to women. It was a wonderful paper and a powerful medium for advertisement.

About the Woman's Edition. It is interesting to note that the expressions commending the Woman's Edition are coming from men and women representing business professional and social life. Mrs Corra Harris writes 'I think the edition a splendid achievement. Besides the good matter from the lit pressions is made by the evidence in it of the generosity of women to women. It was a wonderful paper and a powerful medium for advertisement.

Light the road to far more than our $25,000 endowment or indeed anything which we in our bewilderment of success can now foresee. Mrs James N. Hazlehurst writes from North Carolina 'Woman's Edition is great. Congratulations to its survivors if there be such'. From The Journal of Labor 'One hundred and twenty six pages for a daily paper is some paper. It was a great undertaking but it was put out by the women of Georgia and nothing is too hard or impossible for them to do. It was a great issue of The Constitution. It was a great success as viewed by the business and the ads were all works of topographical art. But the real value of the paper lies in the reading matter—selected and original. In selecting the matter great care and judgment was exercised and the original articles were all interesting and instructive. It was, in every sense, a special edition—the women of the enterprise evidently having in view an edition that would do honor to what they represent and a credit to all the women of Georgia. In the edition they have more than made good in both cases and more—unlike most special editions—the advertisers and readers are all fully paid on their investment.'

Well at last the congress of the United States has gotten busy on the issue which Mrs. Henry Watterson calls the most momentous question of the day. If this body decides to do so it can enfranchise all of us women whether we will or not and in the twinkling of an eye we shall become unsexed and inferior and all the other bad things people think the vote will bring to women.

FOR MUNICIPAL HOUSEKEEPING

The greatest benefit will be to place women on our city councils and in the health department. The most important housekeeping now is municipal. The water supply, the milk supply, pure food, disease prevention, clothing, education, diversion, all these things were once in the hands of the queen of the home. Now to regulate them each queen must turn to the city council and the health officer. The health officer is the factor inspector, the board of education, the park board, etc. and to save their time and hers she must have a direct voice with which to speak to each of them.

Since the meeting of the City Federation of Women's Clubs Friday, when they issued their year book containing the names of eighty-four federated organizations with their activities, there have been other organizations added, so states Mrs. Charles J. Haden, president of the City Federation, when discussing the work of semi-annual meeting. The year book contains a complete list of the organizations doing active work in Atlanta and has been adopted and compiled by the secretary of the City Federation Mrs. William Percy assisted by the officers of the federation and others. The purpose of the organization is clearly set forth by Mrs. Haden in the foreword she states: 'The record of fifteen years of federated work vindicates the wisdom of those who founded the City Federation of Women's Clubs. Growing in numbers and influence as year follow year the federation now has upon its rolls more than 8,000 members. Its aid has been sought and given in a sense of duty well performed for the welfare of Atlanta and for the people of Georgia. The federated women move forward without discord do their work uncomplainingly expect no reward except a sense of duty well performed and the joy of looking upon a civic life growing better every day. Unfettered by political obligations free of motives of selfish gain the women of the federation have given solely to the public good. And this being known commands an universal confidence to a degree enjoyed perhaps by no other organization. The city federation has proved convincingly even to those once prone to cavil that women owe a duty to the public payable in a public way, through united effort. And having proven this the public has learned to depend upon them in the same capacity to accomplish undertakings which have hitherto fallen short of positive success. Victories of civilization are now coming in the fulfiling of the duties through armies of united women coming so silently and stealthily that conquests are complete before the battle is heard. And with it all no charge or complaint that they have taken every noble enterprise that it will serve public agencies of all kind making for public good. Fre

Every dress in stock that formerly sold at $15 or over is included in these reductions. There are fine voiles, lacey marquisettes, sheer lingeries, fashionable ratines and smart linens. White and colors. Styles and perfect workmanship are yokedmates. Here's how they go: All $15.00 to $18.50 dresses $11.85; $33.50 to $35.00 dresses $23.50; $19.75 to $23.50 dresses $15.85; $39.50 to $45.00 dresses $28.75; $25.00 to $29.50 dresses $17.85; $65.00 to $75.00 dresses $50.00.

Clearaway of All Coats

Every coat in stock included. 87 smart coats in all, for motoring, afternoon or evening wear. Wool serges, ratines, Bedford cords and novelties and silk charmeuse, in plain or brocaded patterns. White, black and colors. The new prices run like this: $8.50; were $12.50; $10.75; were $17.75 and $19.75; $15.75; were $23.50; $18.75; were $25 to $29.50; $23.75; were $35 to $45; $35.00; were $50 to $65.

Short Coats at Shorn Prices

These are the jaunty red and Shepherd plaid coats so popular for out-ing and traveling. $5; value $7.50; $3.85; value $6.50.

Newly Low Tickets on All Suits

Our entire stock of spring and summer wool suits grouped under one of these four prices: $10.00; values to $25; $16.85; values to $39.50; $25; values to $50; $28.75; values to $75 (Second Floor).

This $11.50 Trunk at $7.95

Is the famous Mendel "Iron-Clad," one of the sturdiest trunks built.

It is made of the best grade basswood, entirely covered with strong sheet iron and practically indestructible. Steel-rimmed edges, strongest mountings, extra strong bottom and two sole leather straps. Lined. Fitted with deep top tray and extra skirt tray underneath. Suitable for man or woman. Sizes, 34, 36 and 38. $18.50 Trunk, $13.50. Mendel dress trunk made of three-ply veneer basswood, fiber-bound, steel-trimmed.

This $9.50 Suit Case $6.95

Genuine leather suit case just as pictured. Strong steel frame, covered with genuine cowhide. Reinforced corners and edges, strong catches and lock. Wide straps on outside that go all the way around. Suitable for man or woman. Only $6.95.

These two items merely illustrate the extraordinary values in the June Trunk & Leather Goods Sale

In addition we have a carload of Mendel trunks to sell at a third less than usual prices. All indestructo trunks reduced one-fourth. All bellows suit cases reduced one-third. All English kit traveling bags reduced one-half. Practically all other trunks and leather goods greatly reduced. (Luggage Annex—Main Floor, Right.)

State Chairman of Education Writes of Work to Be Done

To the Federated Clubs of Georgia:
In assuming the important chairmanship of education, in which so much able work has been done in the past, you are asked to give to a somewhat hesitant chairman the support and co-operation which may lie in your power. Perhaps we may work out some good things together.

At present your chairman's energies have been fully spent upon this Ella F. White memorial edition which will serve the cause of federated work for education well, partly by the money we shall earn for such purposes and partly because it has brought more closely together chairmen, clubs and district presidents.

As soon as possible we would ask that all clubs not having a committee or department of education will appoint such. These committees and those now in existence are reminded that never before have there been so many burning issues of educational interest under discussion.

First of these—until it is settled—must always be the effort of this state to provide a compulsory school attendance law which will insure at least a modicum of schooling for all of our children. Without such a law, even the child labor law, for which club women so long strove and agonized, is of little avail.

Then come the many theories of education which are rapidly working themselves, in one form or another, into our systems. It should be the interest of our educational chairmen to familiarize themselves, in some measure, with these new ideas by their judgment and influence, either commend or discourage them.

Vocational training, particularly in the upper grades of the high school.

The effort to turn untrained, hopeless laborers into skilled workmen—there is so much to be said and studied here.

The partial substitution in our curricula of subjects more related to life for the classics. Shall we lose too much, or is the gain greater than any loss?

Particularly in a more rational curriculum for the woman—the mother, the home-maker—is there room for work.

Schoolhouses as recreation centers, parent-teacher associations, playgrounds, parks—each section and community's needs—puts a different face on all these questions.

Every one of your school boards ought to have some women on them, not for the sake of giving rights to the women, but for the help these women can and ought to give to the busy men who are doing all this administrative work.

There is much to do, and Georgia your chairman can be of service to you, do not hesitate to write to her, and from time to time send her reports of your educational activities.

MRS. ARTHUR GRAY POWELL,
State Chairman of Education,

Oldest Sunday School Member Will Rock the Youngest Baby

The special exercises of the annual Children's day at the Buckhead Baptist Sunday school next Sunday morning will be very unique, in that the oldest member of the Sunday school will rock the youngest baby in the cradle roll in what is probably the oldest cradle in the state.

The cradle is the old-fashioned box cradle, which was used eighty-six years ago to rock the mother of Rev. E. H. Peacock, pastor of the church. The cradle will be exhibited at the Sunday school exercises, in charge of Mrs. Dorothy Strickland, who on the day of the exercises will celebrate her eightieth birthday. Mrs. Strickland is the mother of Miss Kate Strickland, one of Atlanta's foremost charity workers, who was intimately connected in this work with the late Mrs. Sue Holloway and John F. Barclay.

The baby whose honor it will be to lie in the old-fashioned cradle will be selected Sunday morning. At that time the cradle roll department will be organized. The entire morning services will be given over to the Children's day exercises.

The program of the morning exercises is as follows:
R. M. Baker, superintendent of the Sunday school will open the school at 10 o'clock. Mrs. W. B. Wood will then have charge of the graduating exercises of a number of children in the primary department.

At 11 o'clock there will be songs and recitations by different Sunday school classes. Miss Eva Rary will contribute a recitation upon the subject, "A Woman's Fidelity." The closing address will be delivered by A. M. Smith, superintendent of the primary department of the Baptist Tabernacle Sunday school.

The following is the program of the night service:
The services will open at 7:30 o'clock with a special song service by the Buckhead chorus, under the direction of T. W. Tarrant. At 8 o'clock the members of the church will enter into a covenant service, led by the pastor and the deacons, at which time the church covenant will be read by the clerk. The celebration of the Lord's Supper and the ordinance of baptism will be administered by the pastor. This will be the first baptismal service in the new church, the baptistry having just been completed. The benediction will be pronounced by Rev. J. P. McGraw, pastor of the Baptist church at Blackshear, Ga.

Time Not Ripe for New Constitution Declares Judge Andrew J. Cobb

Athens, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—As voicing the sentiments of probably the larger part of the leading legal minds in the state, the report to the Georgia Bar association of the permanent commission on the revision of judicial system and procedure is more than interesting. As that report concerns the much-talked-of constitutional convention for Georgia, the consensus of opinion of the legal mind of the state is interesting to discover.

The report was made at the meeting last week of the Georgia bar by Judge Andrew J. Cobb of Athens, former supreme court justice of the state, who is chairman of the commission.

Judge Cobb does not believe that the time is ripe to make changes in the constitutional government of the state. His report in part is as follows:

"The Constitution of 1877, the first constitution since the constitution of 1861 that was really adopted in accordance with established principles, was ratified by the people on the first Wednesday in December, 1877. This method of amendment provided in this constitution is familiar, by a vote of two-thirds of each house of the general assembly and ratification by a majority of the voters voting on the amendment. There is a provision in the constitution that a convention may be called by the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of each house of the general assembly. This constitution has been amended forty-one times. The first amendment was in 1885, the last in 1912.

Adopted During Sane Period.
"Mr. McElreath, in his recent admirable work on the constitution of Georgia, says: 'It is an interesting fact that the constitution of 1798 is the only constitution ever adopted by the people of Georgia at a time when there was not a virtual revolution of the government itself. The constitution of 1777 was adopted in consequence of the casting off of the state's allegiance to Great Britain and of the necessity of setting up an independent government; that of 1798 on account of the abandonment of the articles of confederation, and the adoption of the federal constitution; that of 1861 on account of the secession of the state from the federal union; that of 1865 on account of the fall of the confederacy and the necessity of bringing readmission into the union; that of 1868 on account of the refusal of the federal government to re-admit the state under the constitution of 1865, making the adoption of another constitution a condition precedent; that of 1877, when the people of Georgia resumed control of their own affairs, after the end of the reconstruction era.

"The constitution of 1798 and the present constitution are the only ones which represent a settled condition of the state's organic law; the others represent temporary conditions and transitional periods." (McElreath on the Constitution of Georgia, page 114, section 37.)

"The purpose of this brief reference to the history of the different constitutions of this state is to emphasize the fact that the necessity of amendment was recognized and a method of amendment was always provided. The simplest and most expeditious method of amendment that has prevailed is that contained in our present constitution.

Method Is Simple.
"If any criticism is to be made upon this method it is that the method is too simple. The power to amend practically resides in the general assembly. The reference to the people amounts to nothing either as a safeguard against unwise changes or a judgment in favor of a change. Only two proposed amendments have ever been rejected and both of these objections were the result of popular prejudice rather than popular judgment. The more difficult method of amendment provided in the constitution of 1798, two-thirds vote of each house by two successive general assemblies, brought about wiser changes than the present method.

"The method of amendment being so easy, and capable of being used whenever amendment is absolutely necessary, the calling of a convention to overhaul the entire instrument should be timed so as to find the people who will select the representatives to form the convention in a sober, reverent and relevant state of mind.

Present Time.
"We may in some circumstances give our consent to have experiments performed upon one of the members of our body, but it is only in the case of dire extremity that we would submit our whole body to the hands of the experimentalist. There is too much experiment in the political thought of the present to submit the whole body of the fundamental law to the knife, especially when the probabilities are that the knife would be placed in the hands of the inexperienced or the reckless.

Changes in the constitution may be needed, but the present is not an auspicious time to frame anew the fundamental law of the state.

ACCIDENT BOARD FINDS CASE OF "MALINGERING"

San Francisco, June 7.—The first case of alleged malingering or simulation to come under the notice of the state industrial accident board has resulted in the refusal of that body to increase compensation for J. Goncalves, who was injured while in the employ of the Standard Oil company.

Goncalves was slightly hurt December 27 and refused light work offered by the company, although two physicians testified that he was able to perform it. The industrial accident board fixed his compensation at $1.35 per week, the difference between his wage from the oil company and what he could have obtained as a laborer.

Goncalves appealed. In denying his petition the board says: "The case under consideration belongs to that class of malingering or simulation which causes very great concern to those who are skeptical in regard to the merits of compensation as a system for dealing with industrial injuries."

FINAL RECEPTION AT HILL STREET SCHOOL

Parents and Visitors Gratified at Children's Performance Splendid Attendance

The pupils of the eighth grade gave a very interesting entertainment for the benefit of the schools on Friday May 31. The admission was 10 cents. Several parents and visitors came in all we made over $17 which we considered very good for only two performances. Our school has no auditorium the entertainment was given in the eighth grade room but if we did have an auditorium we would have had a full house in the shape of boys and girls had a very exciting entertainment.

The Parent Teacher Association of a very nice lunch to the teachers of our school last Friday afternoon in the afternoon.

The pupils of the eighth grade were given the honor of having the principal Mrs. Sams on the program. The principal was very pleased with the performance of the eighth grade. The other members of the program were: Miss Miller, Miss Gesslin, Miss DeBausure, Miss Vetter, Miss Weston, Miss Sadie Pomeroy, Miss Janet Cameron, Miss Mayson, Miss Mattie W. Keilam and Miss Malone. Every one of the pupils did exceedingly well and the judges had a very hard task in choosing the best. They decided however that the first prize should be awarded to John Miller and the second to John Miller and Miss Gesslin. The other members of the program were: Miss DeBausure and honorable mention given Percy Lambright, Janet Cameron and Matt Malone.

The winners of this and previous contests declared against each other. They were John Miller, Frank John and John Malone. All three boys did splendidly but the judges were unanimous in their decision in favor of John Miller. The other members of the program were: Miss DeBausure and honorable mention given Percy Lambright, Janet Cameron and Matt Malone.

LETTERS FROM THE SCHOOLS

Formwalt Street School

As the year is drawing to a close, we look back on our year's work with a great deal of pleasure and we think it has been a very profitable one. While we are all looking forward to our vacation and need not feel that there is a thing of sadness in parting for many of us. Our eighth grade children are spending their last week at Formwalt and when they leave they take with them a great deal of good memories.

An special invitation had been extended to the parents of the pupils who were to receive the prizes so there was quite a crowd and entertainment which assembled at our school Friday morning.

The highest honors two beautiful gold watches were presented by our principal Mrs. Sams were won by William Johnson and the eighth grade for a perfect record in deportment in the eighth grade.

The other watches were awarded to a most satisfactory one in whole ship covering a period of eight years and for having the honor of leading their class in the eighth grade.

The other watches were awarded to Frank Ruskin of the eighth for a beautiful record in deportment and scholarship for seven years having earned Formwalt in the second grade.

The honor of having led the class in the eighth grade was awarded to William Johnson who was elected class leader for the year.

On Wednesday June 4 the Juniors (eighth grade) a banquet (spread) in the gymnasium. There were some songs made to order for the occasion and a little to eat and the eighth grade received fake diplomas.

Friday was class day by the eighth grade. On this last day of school they burned the last pages of their work books. The eighth grade had the honor of having the highest number of pupils of course we are all glad that school is over.

English Avenue School

The lot of the school correspondent is not so easy as it looks. When nothing happens there is nothing to write about when things happen and fast there is no time to write about them so what is a poor correspondent to do?

We have had a dear merry May time have been the proud and happy winners of several prizes and have enjoyed the work as well as the play. On field day we won a blue ribbon and were awarded a volley ball set for our excellent record for the year in athletics.

We took second place in the 'clean up' contest and last but not least we are the happiest children in Atlanta over winning the Rich prize for the prettiest yard.

What a day before the judges came to look at our school yard a stray mule rolled on one of our flower beds and trampled on numbers of other plants. We were so distressed but our principal picked up a shovelful of dirt and we were well on our way to the flowers again and well on the horsehoe over the door and perhaps the fairy Good Luck will come in.

The plant we value most in our yard is a little magnolia tree given by Mrs. Moody in honor of William Humphries. We feel that it is a beautiful and fitting tribute to one whose memory we wish to keep green and we appreciate the thought and deed that made it possible for us to remember our school mate in this way.

We send a list of the names of the boys and girls who were on the list for the entire year. It is as follows:

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Boys Taking Commercial Course in High School Graduate With Promising Outlook

Although greatly hindered by a lack of suitable desks and other equipment the business department of the boys high school this year has broken all its previous records, both in attendance and excellence of work. The total enrollment for the year reached nearly one hundred of which number about thirty graduated.

As a rule the boys taking this course have applied themselves to their studies in a serious and businesslike way. Their department has given the teachers and principal very little trouble and in some of the classes there has not been a single absence from the room during recitation for weeks at a time. The boys have been uniformly courteous, respectful and attentive and have manifested a good class spirit throughout the entire year.

The fact that graduates of this department obtain excellent positions is particularly gratifying. Some of them are earning as much as $20 a month and so far as can be ascertained not one of them is now out of employment.

A prominent business man who has in his employment several of the graduates of the commercial department, has expressed his appreciation of the thorough preparation and efficiency of these young gentlemen. He had made it a rule to employ no one without a diploma from this department of the boys high school.

The class graduating this year is the largest since the department was created about ten years ago. In the matter of scholarship this is perhaps the best average class the department has ever had out.

Several members of the class have already accepted excellent business positions in fact nearly all the boys have either accepted places or have one in view.

Next year the business course will be still further strengthened by the addition of Spanish which owing to the opening up of the Panama canal will prove a valuable asset to a young man entering upon a business career.

On account of our Spanish speaking island possessions the civil service offers a wide variety of excellent positions for those who are thoroughly prepared to do office work and who possess a reading and speaking knowledge of Spanish.

The length of the course will be two years as heretofore and to the boys in our city who feel unable to go to college or who desire to prepare themselves at an early age for business this course offers exceptional facilities.

The class held their banquet at the Kimball house after the graduation on the night of June 8 at the Grand Opera house the honor guest being Professor W. F. Dykes, principal of the boys high school.

The boys graduating were: Paul Robbins, Allen, Fredrick W. Anderson, James Brannen, Ashbury, Walker, Akers, Bloodworth, Paul, Albert, Benning, Hugh, Anderson, Butler, Hyman, Cohen, James, F. W. ## MRS. MADDOX WILL HELP BEAUTIFY BROOKHAVEN

And now comes the delightful bit of social news that Mrs. Robert Maddox will personally interest herself in developing the wonderful landscape beauties around Brookhaven, now the country home of the Capital City club.

She is to be assisted by the group of ladies who reside over the palatial homes in the neighborhood of Brookhaven among them being Mrs. James Dickey, Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mrs. William Kiser, Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, Mrs. J. K. Outley, Mrs. Walter Andrews, Mrs. W. S. Wigham, Mrs. Clark How, Mrs. E. R. Wigham, Mrs. T. B. Felner, Mrs. Albert Howell, Mrs. James R. Gray, Mrs. Cobb Caldwell.

Their substantial participation in making club life brilliant as well as delightful is fully appreciated too, for when recently there was asked one of the most prominent citizens who has not the good fortune to have a wife to complement his efforts to become an officer of one of the leading clubs his positive reply was "No I do not think a man without a wife should be in a position of that kind, for so much of a social club's success depends upon woman's co-operation."

WOMEN IN CITY'S CLUB LIFE

No one doubts the fact that the world over women are the recognized leaders of society—that society reflects the spirit mind and heart of the woman in it. It is probably in no other place in the world are women as much a part of the actual life of a city as social clubs as they are in Atlanta.

The reputation which the Capital City club bears for its royal and finished entertainments could never have been what it is had there not been always the gracious lovely woman to complement the men's efforts. Among the members of the club by the president and host of the club in Atlanta's social life of the last quarter of a century no group of women have more impressed themselves in the minds of the men than the ladies of the Capital City club.

SPLENDID CHANCE AT BROOKHAVEN

Brookhaven with its knolls and slopes and trees and natural terraces, the lake and the general scenic effect, affords many possibilities for artistic treatment in the act with but little expense. Mrs. Maddox has proven in the landscape beauty of her own beautiful home on Paces Ferry road that she has a marked talent in that direction. It is probably in no other place in the world are women as much a part of the actual life of a city as social clubs as they are in Atlanta.

Seven Minute Sermon On the Golden Text

By Our Own Preacher (Copyright 1912 by W. S. Davidson) June 8, 1912

CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM

Christian Unity is Good. There is an anti-Christian theory of socialism but there is also a Christian socialism. This is the addition of Christianity to the churches and communities pervaded with a spirit of oneness and brotherly love living under laws which do not tend to foster such an anti-Christian individualism which discourage anything of the contrary nature. Such a form of socialism is good because it harmonizes with our social nature when we are in a normal condition. We love to live with our neighbors in good faith to find our interests harmonizing with the interests of others to find ourselves speaking words of kindness and its tending to fraternal greetings from every one with whom we have to do. It is good also because it harmonizes with the teachings of Jesus one of His most memorable prayers eloquent practical and philosophical was for the oneness of His disciples which Him and with the Heavenly Father. When that matchless prayer is answered there will be little or no trouble upon the earth for this world will have become a family in which to go to for help. This Christian unity, according to apostolic teaching for we are urged by the apostle to be of one mind one toward another.

there will be no opposition for men in the same business will recognize that they are brothers and will rejoice in each other's prosperity and that in the long run will promote the prosperity of themselves. In such a community there will be no unkind words no slander no envy no jealousy but a common impulse of good neighborliness. For the sake of true joy will animate everybody.

Christian Unity Should be Cultivated. It is not an utopian idea which cannot be realized. It is not something which if we aim for we can never get. It is both possible and practical. Every time we see the people to believe this our ideal is almost in sight. The way to bring about such Christian unity is to start it in ourselves. Let it commence with you and your family. Let it be free from all envy and strife and rooted out of your heart and that you personally become animated with love. Then let us to promote it in others practice and talk it charm people with the idea, and let it be unity in our homes in our workshops and business houses in our city councils our legislatures and last but not least that the church of Christ may be united.

Formwalt Street School

The eighth grade received prizes in the eighth grade for a perfect record in deportment in the eighth grade.

The other watches were awarded to a most satisfactory one in whole ship covering a period of eight years and for having the honor of leading their class in the eighth grade.

The other watches were awarded to Frank Ruskin of the eighth for a beautiful record in deportment and scholarship for seven years having earned Formwalt in the second grade.

The honor of having led the class in the eighth grade was awarded to William Johnson who was elected class leader for the year.

On Wednesday June 4 the Juniors (eighth grade) a banquet (spread) in the gymnasium. There were some songs made to order for the occasion and a little to eat and the eighth grade received fake diplomas.

Friday was class day by the eighth grade. On this last day of school they burned the last pages of their work books. The eighth grade had the honor of having the highest number of pupils of course we are all glad that school is over.

English Avenue School

The lot of the school correspondent is not so easy as it looks. When nothing happens there is nothing to write about when things happen and fast there is no time to write about them so what is a poor correspondent to do?

We have had a dear merry May time have been the proud and happy winners of several prizes and have enjoyed the work as well as the play. On field day we won a blue ribbon and were awarded a volley ball set for our excellent record for the year in athletics.

We took second place in the 'clean up' contest and last but not least we are the happiest children in Atlanta over winning the Rich prize for the prettiest yard.

What a day before the judges came to look at our school yard a stray mule rolled on one of our flower beds and trampled on numbers of other plants. We were so distressed but our principal picked up a shovelful of dirt and we were well on our way to the flowers again and well on the horsehoe over the door and perhaps the fairy Good Luck will come in.

The plant we value most in our yard is a little magnolia tree given by Mrs. Moody in honor of William Humphries. We feel that it is a beautiful and fitting tribute to one whose memory we wish to keep green and we appreciate the thought and deed that made it possible for us to remember our school mate in this way.

We send a list of the names of the boys and girls who were on the list for the entire year. It is as follows:

Second Grade—A. Blanche, Brown, Viola, Moon, Willie, Butler, Cleo, Mead, owe, Archie, Wheeler, B. Claud, Underwood, Rene, Reed, Lita, Stell, C. Claud, Bill, Fred, Reed.

Third Grade—A. Effie, Whitfield, Theodore, Howe.

Fourth Grade—Emma, Crane, Willie, Smith, Maude, Cannon, Annie, Mae, Nicholson, Lewis, Ashley, Fred, Howell, Edith, Grady, Edith, Danzell, Wiley, Moon, John, McWester.

Sixth Grade—Sidney, Jeffers, Candier, Brittsfield, Guy, Melton.

WHICH WAY, ATLANTA?

Here is a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on business to the people of Atlanta. Municipally speaking, their house is in disgraceful order.

We can't wear blinders any longer. The supreme court crematory situation tore them from our eyes.

What are the facts? For a good many decades we have been trying to make current income meet current expenses in this city and provide also for permanent improvements.

Following this delusive will-o'-the-wisp, we have let Atlanta run down at the beel. At the commencement exercises of the Girls' High school, the other day, President Daley, of the board of education, made an indignant protest against this policy.

Wholesome conditions here enable this state to view the problems of the forthcoming autumn and winter with tranquility. Since January 1, the pessimists have been busy throughout America.

There is another feature. We are now rebuilding this city, in a way. We are changing impossible grades and widening streets; and we haven't, in the way of re-grading and rebuilding, paving and repaving, laying new sewers and providing new ones, come anywhere within whispering distance of the work that should be done if Atlanta is to be built for half a century instead of just for today.

We cannot bind succeeding councils. And, having set our face toward a metropolis, and a healthy, up-to-date metropolis, at that, we cannot turn backward.

There is just one resource. The city must do as any business would do—it must utilize its borrowing credit. Business that seeks to live and expand simply on its capital goes under.

Georgia has no reason to share any of this misgiving. Good crops are synonymous of good times, and the portents in Georgia are all of good crops.

these imperative improvements? Council and the finance committee think so. The one has framed and the other has adopted a resolution creating a commission of ten councilmen and five citizens.

The city stands at the cross-roads. It is up to its people to say, and say swiftly, which fork it shall take.

THE Y. W. C. A.

Without the blare of a single trumpet the Young Women's Christian Association has done and is doing one of the noblest and most practical works of constructive uplift in the range of Atlanta's activities.

It is girls of this class that the Y. W. C. A. is founded to help, has helped and is helping. It furnishes a noontide refuge for the thousands of working women who must feed themselves cheaply, and who are in search of cleanly, congenial and safe surroundings.

As the Y. M. C. A. is an institution for the making and saving of men, so the Y. W. C. A. is an institution for the making and saving of women.

GEORGIA'S GOOD OUTLOOK. The yield of the soil, which is everywhere the basis of prosperity, holds singular promise of a propitious season in Georgia.

Georgia has no reason to share any of this misgiving. Good crops are synonymous of good times, and the portents in Georgia are all of good crops.

Georgia has no reason to share any of this misgiving. Good crops are synonymous of good times, and the portents in Georgia are all of good crops.

there is not the remotest danger of the return of the low price cotton panic years. Already September and October options are quoted at between 11 and 12 cents.

SKIN TIGHTS AND SLITS.

The ladies of Indianapolis, bless 'em! are playing that ancient game known as the pot and the kettle. Witness a recent dispatch from the Indiana capital which relates that hereafter the cops are to arrest any woman appearing in public clad in a split skirt unless she wears an underskirt also.

Now, doesn't that beat the Dutch? To mere man the split skirt without an underskirt is no greater peril to masculine tranquility than the unsplit skirt worn also without an underskirt—and we are reliably informed that the latter style is all-prevailing this summer.

However, we didn't start out on the uncharted sea of women's attire, to discuss which we confess our inability. The curious and interesting inconsistency of the Indianapolis ladies was what challenged our attention.

RELIGION AND THE NEGRO. H. H. Proctor, pastor of the First Congregational church, colored, of Atlanta, is one of the soundest and most practical of the leaders of the negro.

Our race today in the midst of its general prosperity needs to take counsel from the heart of its fathers in the day of their adversity.

With the civil war the white man's first avenue to aid the negro, his power to enforce mandates, was destroyed. The other resort, that of religion, should have been made to do double duty and gradually to solve, for the negro's sake and our own, all the hard and dangerous problems that rose out of emancipation and reconstruction.

As The Constitution has said, if the Christian churches of this country spent half as much money Christianizing the negroes of America as Christianizing the heathen across the ocean, the racial problem would be materially mitigated.

Also the tariff has fallen heavily on the lobby. Leading question in the senate: "Have you investigated yourself this morning?"

The Nobel peace prize is for performance—not hot air. How about senators who are financially interested in chautauqua dates?

The Voice of the Morning. Clear the Morning sloughs: "Be victor in the race; Courage strong The road along And God's light in thy face!"

The valleys hear the summons. The holy hills rejoice, And the dark night Hath dreams of light And ever star a voice.

And still sings the Morning Where naught the music mars: "The race of Time To heights sublime— Thy forehead to the stars!"

When you hitch your wagon to a star your headlights' on for all eternity. The world will know when you get to the hilltop, so don't try to out-thunder the storm itself.

Give Happiness a fair chance and she'll soon have Joy picking the banjo and the whole family dancing.

Tallahul Power Plant to Operate by August; Giant Dam and Tunnel Are Already Built

By J. Walter LeCraw.
Tallahul, Falls, June 7.—(Special.)—Work on the $5,000,000 electric power plant being constructed here has bounded forward with renewed impetus this week. With the verdict won by the power company in the state's land suit hearing in Clayton, a cloud of uncertainty has been removed. Suspense as to the fate of Tallulah has been dispelled. There is now not the slightest doubt but that the work will be pushed forward to an early completion, and the engineers declare in fact that it will be ready for operation by August.

Two of the three great divisions of the construction work—the dam and the tunnel—aband now complete. The third, which is the power house, is the center of increased activity. Hundreds of men are working day and night to bring it to the point where at least one of its five enormous generators, each of which will make 17,000 horsepower of electricity, can be put in operation. As soon as the work reaches this point the sluice gates in the dam will be closed and waters of the mad Tallulah will be banked up over a hundred feet above the river bed and turned into the long and tortuous tunnel, and then sent cascading down through the generators in the power house. Thus will the energy of nature stand harnessed and ready to grind the mills and run the wheels of Georgia Tallulah in the Landlight.

As the date approached for the hearing of the famous land suit last week in Clayton, speculation as to the outcome of the case spread all over the country. Tallulah Falls and the construction work going on came into the limelight more than ever before. Thousands of people not only in Georgia, but in other states, turned to watch the hearing of the case in Habun county.

"What will become of the millions already put into the power plant if the state wins the suit?" was the question uppermost in the minds of hundreds.

Although the power company attorneys and officials declared they were absolutely satisfied with their case, and that there was no doubt about the future of the plant, there were other people who actually, seriously talked about the state tearing down the works when the land was proven to be the state's property.

They even went so far as to suggest that a battering ram could be brought unto use to batter down the dam which has been constructed across the Tallulah gorge. A battering ram? Is it that great stone and concrete structure, a wall between two solid mountain sides and built to withstand the assaults of the turbulent swollen Tallulah could be shattered by a battering ram?

The completed Tallulah dam, viewed from the side where the lake will be formed. This great structure, across which wends the public roadway, is 125 feet high, and will turn the river from its bed into the tunnel.

This new concrete and iron railroad trestle had to be built by the power company and presented to the railroad, because the old bridge, seen also in the picture, will be completely submerged in the deep lake that will be formed when the dam is closed and the plant is set in operation next August.

A Glimpse Over the Works.
One glimpse at the portions of the enormous undertaking already completed will convince anyone of the fact that for many ages the works will stand the assaults of time. In the upper right hand corner of the group of pictures on this page is seen the big dam, made of stone and concrete, and reinforced with iron stretching across the Tallulah gorge. The photograph was taken over 300 yards away, at the top of the bluff where the railroad track passes, and it reveals the immensity of the structure.

The bottom sluice gates have already been closed, and the water has risen to the level of the second gates, forming a miniature lake which is seen in the picture. Flowing through these two gates at present, the Tallulah makes a beautiful water fall as it tumbles out on the other side of the dam and thence goes turbulently on its way over the natural falls.

When the sluice gates are closed in August, the water will rise to the level of the opening seen at the top of the dam, just beneath the road way that crosses now at the very top. The road is the regular public highway between Tallulah Falls and Clayton, and other points farther up the road, and it will be one of the most interesting bits of travel in the country when it is finished.

Riding Across the Dam.
Over this roadway the countrymen ride to town, to the store, to the prairie wagons and it seems a paradox of time thus to see twentieth-century science meeting the humble travel of the country side.

Crossing this big dam after the water is turned into the tunnel, travelers will see on one side an immense lake, coming almost up to the roadway, and on the other side a deep and rocky gorge. It is declared that except in the dry weather there will be water flowing over the dam directly under the roadway, tumbling down a hundred feet to the river bed.

In the - season there will be a full flow of water, and as people pass over the roadway a roar of the rushing waters will be heard beneath them. This will be, indeed, the most interesting spot of all Tallulah from a scientific standpoint. At the right of this picture is the opening of the tunnel, showing where the rock has been brought out and dumped into the river bed. All this will be hidden, however, by the closing of the dam.

A Journey Through the Tunnel.
In the lower left hand corner is a graphic picture of the tunnel. After two years of work, cutting through the solid rock, it is now practically complete. It is fourteen feet high and almost as wide, and covered with concrete through its entire length. The picture was taken by flashlight, near the upper entrance of the tunnel, and the reflecting light reveals vividly a curve. There are a dozen or more of these curves through the mile, and a view that the tunnel winds through the mountain.

Inside it is cold and usually dark, for work has practically stopped now, except at the lower end. To journey through it is like passing through a long mysterious vault, such as those described in the castles of the middle ages. Within two months, however, it will be closed to man. The water will rise to the very roof of the tunnel at all times. It will not fill it only half full or three-quarters full, according to the amount of water being used at the power house. The tunnel will be, in fact, a siphon, leading from the top of the lake at the dam to the bottom of the reservoir, 600 feet above the power house, known as the forebay. The water will rise eighty feet or more above the mouth of the tunnel in the forebay, filling the reservoir, and thus the tunnel will be filled with water all the time.

A 600-Foot Drop.
In five great iron tubes the water will drop from this reservoir a distance of 600 feet into the power house. A tremendous power will thus be available. The power house itself, of steel and brick, is to be one of the largest in the south.

It is shown in the picture with the framework practically finished. Standing thus beside the Tallulah river at the very lowest point of the gorge, it is in just the position to receive the combined energy of the whole river.

The power house is composed of two structures—the upper one, already finished, having the switch boards, transformers, etc., and the lower one, just beside the water, containing the five electric generators. Almost all the material for the power house has had to be brought to Tallulah by railroad and carried down to the river bed on an incline railway. This is the center of work at present, and from 200 to 300 men are busy every day upon the different phases of the construction work.

While it is declared that at least one unit of the power plant will be operated by August, which would create 17,000 horse power of electricity, the entire plant of five units, or 85,000 horse power, will not be operated probably until September. By this time the power will be brought into Atlanta and furnished to the mills and factories of the state capital. The first electricity furnished will probably be to South Carolina, a contract with the Southern Power company of that state calling for service by September 1.

Preston B. Arkwright, the president of the power company, who was in Clayton during the entire hearing, declares that the verdict in favor of the company in the land dispute will have its principal effect in strengthening the financial basis of the undertaking. scattered over the entire United States, will be stimulated by the removal of the suit which had been hanging over the company's head for many months. While the case has been appealed on motion for a new trial, there is little interest in the hearing, and it is generally believed that the verdict of Habun county citizens will be the verdict that will stand.

The motion is to be heard on June 28 by Judge J. B. Jones, at Galveston, and on his return to grant a new trial the case will pass before the supreme court of Georgia for final decision. But this will not be reached until October, and long before that time the gigantic power plant will be actually in operation, the Tallulah river will be harnessed and its energy will be sparkling over the wires to every corner of Georgia.

Beautiful spot on Cumberland Island Where "Light Horse Harry" Lee Was Buried

Remains of Gallant Revolutionary Hero Are Relocated at Last by His Mother State.

Brunswick, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—When the casket containing the remains of Light Horse Harry Lee, of revolutionary fame, were last week carried to their final resting place in Lexington, Va., the state of Georgia lost one of its most interesting revolutionary relics.

It was at the extreme southern end of Cumberland Island in the private burying grounds of the Green family that this illustrious soldier of the American revolution slept for ninety-five years.

The little enclosed area in which, with military honors, the famous hero was laid to rest in the spring of 1818, was then a part of the estate of Major General Nathaniel Green, a distinguished comrade-in-arms, whose family he was visiting at the time of his death. Years ago a large part of the island, including the historic water home of General Green, was purchased by Thomas Carnegie, a kinsman of the great steel king of Pittsburgh. The new owner converted the estate into one of the most beautiful retreats on the coast of North America.

In a detailed article on "Dungeness; the Rivalry of Light Horse Harry Lee," by Lucian L. Knight, some interesting facts are given about the grave of this gallant revolutionary soldier.

This work declares that General Henry Lee was easily the foremost officer of cavalry in the first war for independence. Among those who pronounced that famous eulogium on Washington, in which he characterized his former chief as "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

General Lee received the injuries from which his death finally resulted while taking the part of a friend in Baltimore. In the stirring times of 1812, Alexander Contee Hanson, editor of the Federal Republican, strongly opposed the declaration of war against England. Feeling ran so high that the house in Baltimore in which Hanson was living, and where Lee was visiting him, was threatened by rioters. Hanson, Lee and seven other gentlemen retired to the old city jail for protection. Here the rioters forced their way, and the whole party was beaten, mutilated and thrown down the steps of the jail, where they lay in a heap for three hours.

The Lee constitution was wrecked, and in hope of regaining his health he went to the West Indies, where he remained for over four years.

Steps at Cumberland Island.

It was while on your way back to his home in Virginia that General Lee was put ashore at Cumberland Island. He did not expect to find his old comrade, General Green, there, for both he and his widow had been dead for many years.

General Lee's daughter, Mrs. Louisa Shaw, by whom the old invalid was most graciously and gladly received; and here he remained until the death angel relieved him from his sufferings.

As soon as the fact of his demise was known all the vessels in Cumberland Sound displayed colors at half mast. The funeral was attended by the army and navy officers, who were on duty at the most of the St. Mary's river, and by detachments from the coast defense.

Prior to the civil war, the question of the removal of General Lee's body to Virginia, the birthplace of his father, was discussed by the legislature in session at Richmond, and commissioners to superintend the execution of the trust were duly appointed. But the outbreak of hostilities shortly ensued, and nothing further could be done at that time.

For years after the war the state of Virginia was too harassed by debt and too exhausted by the ravages of conflict to undertake this labor of love. Finally, however, in 1912, the movement which resulted in the removal of General Lee's remains from Cumberland was launched.

Barnesville, Ga., June 7.—(Special.) The faculty, patrons and students of Gordon Institute are highly gratified at the success of the sixty-first commencement just closed.

The commencement sermon was delivered by Dr. R. E. Doust, of Macon. The baccalaureate address was delivered by Judge Emory Speer, of Macon. Judge Speer was given a hearty welcome, an attentive hearing and proved himself a master of oratory and scholarship.

Forty-two young men and young ladies were awarded diplomas, which was one of the largest classes the school has ever graduated.

The following medals were won by different students: Sophomore scholarship, Miss Louise English; junior oratorical medal, Morris Kelly; junior essay medal, Miss Sara Smith; music medal, Miss Alice Overstreet; best drilled cadet, Cadet Robert S. Bell; sophomore declaimer's medals, D. L. Stockbridge and Miss Louise English; reader's medal for grammar grades, Miss Alta Peacock; declaimer's medal for grammar grades, Powell Bann; ready-writer's medal, Miss Ruth Lambdin; best essay on Sidney Lanier, Miss Marion Bush; best military man, N. C. Killian; best all-round student, T. A. Thrash.

The following is announced as the faculty for the next year: E. T. Holmes, president; L. D. Watson, vice president; Homer Bush, mathematics and physics; Mrs. Augusta Lambdin, English; W. P. Byrns, English and history; Paul Rossier, Latin and Greek; Lieutenant N. W. Riley, commandant of cadets and history; A. B. Combs, head of music department; Irvin Van Tassel, athletics and sub-freshman department; Miss Josephine Olyphant, head of grammar, scholastic and Ethel Parham, manual training; Miss Helen Maxwell, voice; Miss Helen Hope, expression.

Some Striking Figures.

Few people in Georgia have an accurate knowledge of the immensity of the buildings and grounds and the population of this institution. Some figures and comparisons may prove interesting and may serve to make fixed some of its proportions.

The state's property consists of 2,000 or more acres of land, fifteen or twenty large buildings with a total floor space that would cover more than twenty-five acres.

The total number of patients during the year 1912 was 4,527. The inmates today number 3,504, more people than the entire population of such sized Georgia cities as Barnesville and Washington, and adding to the patients, the employees and families connected with the institution, a city as large as LaGrange, Cartersville or Cordell.

The following table will give some idea of the cost of maintaining the sanitarium. The figures are entirely accurate and are taken from the 69th annual report for the year 1912:

Total cash disbursements... $524,154.06
Average monthly disbursements... 43,679.50
Average daily disbursements... 1,432.11
Daily per capita... 4.182
Average number of patients... 3,424
Annual per capita... 152.06

This great throng of inmates constitutes a small world in itself. Out of the vast number of patients there are many varying characters.

The majority of the patients have been in the institution for a long time and are classed as chronic or incurable. These will spend their lives here and not much more than custodian care is involved in their keeping. Many things are done for their amusement and diversion such as weekly dances, moving pictures, local entertainment and religious services every Sunday in the big amusement hall; also a library that circulates books, magazines and daily papers.

Band Organized by Inmates.

Particularly pleasing in this direction is the organization a year or more ago of a brass band through the efforts of the medical staff. Many Georgians made private contributions toward this end and perhaps nothing has added more to the pleasure of the patients than the weekly concerts given by this band.

In all the wards recreation rooms are provided, pianos and games are placed for the use of the inmates.

May of the patients enjoy to the fullest the walks and rambles upon which they are taken daily through the beautiful woods and meadows that surround the sanitarium. They come home laden with wild flowers and shrubs of the season with which they decorate and make attractive their rooms and halls.

All these things have a great tendency to relieve the sadness and gloom that necessarily abounds in an institution of this kind, and amidst it all there are many bright and hopeful signs that are not generally known to exist to many who have a mistaken idea that an asylum is only a place of cheerless surroundings and dismal confinement.

Many Patients Cured.

A large per cent of the patients annually coming to the sanitarium are restored to health sooner or later and sent back to their homes. It is often difficult to prevail upon the convalescent patient to remain a sufficient time for complete recovery so eager are they to get home.

In the government of the institution there are very few mishaps. With a constituency such as this one can naturally know that there are many chances for accidents. The patient's welfare and comfort is safeguarded on all sides, and any neglect or carelessness are very few mishaps when it comes to the ears of the management.

The food for the patients is varied and carefully prepared. Several excellent chefs have charge of the kitchen, and members of the staff daily inspect the preparation of the food. A large bakery is operated in connection with the culinary department, also an ice factory with cold storage rooms for meats, dairy products, vegetables and fruits.

Anyone visiting the sanitarium should by all means see the splendidly equipped dairy and the large herd of Holstein and Jersey cows that furnish large quantities of fresh milk and butter to be used for the invalid patients.

Also, another interesting feature is the Farm Conducted by Patients.

The large farm known as the colony farm, which is cultivated by colored male patients principally, having about one hundred men to every ten patients to work with them and take care of them.

This farm has been brought up to a high state of cultivation and the products largely augment the food supply of the institution. Aside from an abundant supply of fresh vegetables for daily table use, cantaloupes, watermelons, grapes and peaches, this colony farm yearly produces 8,000 or 10,000 bushels of corn, 4,000 or more bushels of oats, 5,000 bushels of potatoes, a large supply of hay, fodder and corn silage.

This farm was begun to be developed by the sanitarium authorities ten or fifteen years ago, on a tract of land which was formerly a part of the two miles south, acquired by the state for fuel purposes. After largely consuming it, the sanitarium began in a small way to open it up for cultivation. Today it is one of the most productive and attractive farms in the state of Georgia.

Splendid Results Being Secured.

The management of this great state hospital for the insane is supervised by a board of ten appointed by the governor. The members of this board include men prominent in business, medical and sociological circles from different parts of the state.

Contrast with such a humanitarian institution seems to get a firm grip upon these trustees, and they serve their trust with a deep and unselfish devotion.

Hon. John T. Brantley, of Blackshear, is president of the board and has been for many years. His Georgia is rendering more efficient and beautiful patriotic service.

President Brantley, in speaking of the work of the sanitarium looking to its greater efficiency, said: "The Georgia is committed to the sanitarium may be divided broadly into two classes—the incurable and the curable. To the first named it furnishes a haven, a safe asylum for life. To the second named it furnishes, or should, a hospital where every opportunity known to modern science is afforded for recovery.

"It is well equipped for the first, but poorly so for the latter. Its greatest need in this respect is a psychiatric hospital, furnished with everything modern science has found of value in the treatment of insanity, and made just as cheerful within and without as is possible to make it.

"Such an addition would enable the complete separation of the curables from the incurables, a vital factor in their successful treatment. The cheerful surroundings would aid in the treatment of the incurable mental diseases. It would furnish a wonderful stimulus to the medical staff

Many State Institutions at Milledgeville.

Anywhere in Georgia when Milledgeville is mentioned a smile is produced, for right promptly people think of the asylum, and they usually say something indicating the general opinion that exists in the minds of those who have never visited the old capitol city—that Milledgeville is just a big crowd of lunatics—that everybody down here is big-house.

The Milledgeville citizens is very accustomed to the joker, in fact, he always expects to be jolled when his home town is mentioned.

There is a natural and logical reason why Milledgeville and the asylum are so intimately associated in the minds of Georgians, for when the capitol was moved to Atlanta, away back in the 60's, this city was robbed of that which gave her prime importance—she was only a has-been when spoken of as the capital city.

But the asylum was left here and all through these years it has grown and grown and is still growing. There are people in Georgia who have forgotten that Milledgeville was once the capital—they never think of it—there are hundreds who never know it was—but it is doubtful if there is one who does not know that the state asylum is located here.

Milledgeville in itself is a busy, beautiful little city. The state in recent years has located here, because of the central situation and properties and lands owned incident to the old state government, other institutions, viz: the Georgia Normal and Industrial college, the Georgia Military college, the state reformatory and the state prison farm. All of these give individually and add much to the state wide prominence of the city, but beyond question, that which distinguishes Milledgeville most of all is the big state sanitarium.

REELFOOT LAKE CASE IS FINALLY DECIDED

Jackson, Tenn., June 7.—The supreme court has decided the Reelfoot Lake case, involving the title to the famous hunting and fishing resort in west Tennessee. The court held the original grant from North Carolina, the mother state of Tennessee, could not be vested from the West Tennessee Land company by the state, but the title to the remainder of the lake was vested in the state of Tennessee, and that the lake is navigable in a technical, legal sense. The object of the proceedings was to have the state acquire the lake by condemnation proceedings. Chief Justice Neil dissented.

Efficient Staff in Charge.

Dr. L. M. Jones is the superintendent, having general supervision of all affairs in the different departments. Before his promotion to the superintendency some six years ago upon the death of Dr. T. O. Powell he was one of the assistant physicians and his entire term of service in this institution has been thirty years.

Dr. Jones is admirably adapted for the duties of his position because of his long experience in this line of medical work and because he is a man of rare business judgment and of kind and gentle temperament and quick sympathy. His entire administration has been marked by a quiet, economical government.

Chief interest in the sanitarium centers naturally in the work of its medical department. Here the board, the superintendent, the clinical director and assistant physicians meet in one common effort to advance its efficiency.

The medical staff that supports Superintendent Jones in this department consists of fifteen or more physicians skillful as well as pathologists, surgeons who have a high rating in the profession.

The nurses training school is an important adjunct and many of the availing themselves of the opportunity afforded and are taking the course. Each year the graduating class is growing larger and larger and in this way many well educated nurses are constantly being added to the service.

To look after the constant wants of the patients in their lives on the many wards, in the inclosed yards and the recreation grounds two or three hundred attendants are kept in steady employment. These attendants in their daily work among the patients have many and varied experiences, and to do their difficult work is required patience, kindness and often much courage. There are many noble men and women in this department of the sanitarium.

More Room Needed by Asylum.

It is absolutely urgent that more room be provided for negro patients. The present quarters contain more than a thousand patients, and are crowded to the danger line, and their sanitary conditions thus crowded can be improved.

It is proposed to build an annex to the largest building used for negroes, since it can be served from the present kitchen and heating plant, and the board also hopes that the new building will carry a chapel or amusement hall, as no such provision has heretofore been made for them.

Charles H. DeSaussure, the sanitarium's efficient engineer, estimates that this building will cost $65,000.

The board also recognizes the importance of making provision for the comfort and well-being of the white female nurses. At present there is no place where they can gather for social pleasure when off duty—also they must obtain rest and sleep on the wards upon which they are employed.

The sanitarium equipment should include a nurses' hall for their use as a home. Such a dormitory is necessary and better service from these faithful women might reasonably be expected when this need is supplied. It is estimated that such a dormitory can be built for $40,000.

Chairman Brantley, in his interview, has spoken of the urgent need of a suitably equipped hospital for the recent and acute cases of insanity, in which alone rests the hope of recovery. The legislature will be asked to appropriate the sum of $135,000 for the erection of such a building.

There are many other needs that will be brought to the attention of the legislature that are necessary to bring this institution up to the state of efficiency that it should be, to keep all the properties in repair and meet the demands of the yearly income in the sanitarium.

State's Biggest Institution.

The Georgia State Sanitarium is by far the largest institution operated in the state, and its maintenance per capita cost is far less than in most of the states in the Union.

The members of the general assembly should devote considerable time and attention to seeing that every need of the institution is provided, and in so doing should defer largely to the advice of the management, feeling

GAVE HIS SKIN AWAY, NOW NEEDS IT AGAIN

In Addition to That, Kaplow's Wife, Who Thought Him a Hero, Deserted Him.

New York, June 7.—Charles Kaplow, a young athlete who has several times recently given large areas of his skin for drafting operations on burned children, is himself in need of such sacrifice on the part of someone else.

The last patch removed—26 square inches—left a wound that has refused to heal, and physicians decided that new skin would have to be procured. Several persons volunteered and the operation was to have been performed Monday. In the meantime, however, Kaplow's wife disappeared, and no trace of her has been found. She was a trained nurse, attracted to him by his heroism, and they were married not long ago after he submitted to the first skin removal.

It was said at the Flower hospital today that Kaplow's condition is serious.

SCHOOL CENSUS INCREASE 109 IN 5 YEARS

Lynchburg, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The school population of this county has increased 109 in the past five years, according to the census which has just been taken of each school district of the county. There are 4,107 children of school age, 2,232 of this amount being white children and 1,875 negro children. In 1908 there were 3,998 school children in the county, showing an increase of 109. The Trion school district was the only one showing a loss, there being being 80 less than there was five years ago.

There are 1,621 white males, 1,872 white females, 399 colored males and 415 colored females of school age. There are 31 white schools and five negro schools in the county.

M. & M. ASSOCIATION ARE BUSY MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR THE BIG CONVENTION

Southern Merchants' Convention, to Be Held Here August 4-16, Will Be on Biggest Scale Ever—Committees Appointed and Details Working Out.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' association are now hard at work working out the details for the Southern Merchants' convention, which will be held here for the two weeks commencing August 4, 1912.

At a meeting last Wednesday afternoon were appointed, and the actual outline of the work to be done arranged. At the first convention of this nature held here, in February, 1912, there were 900 merchants who registered. The second convention, in August, 1911, saw the number increased to 2,000, and it is expected that the forthcoming third convention will show a total of 4,000 visiting merchants.

All the jobbers and manufacturers of the city are entering into the spirit of the convention with their whole energy and enthusiasm, and the outlook is of the brightest for a big success. There will be ample entertainment provided for the merchants, and every one will feel the spirit of Atlanta hospitality which will make them determine to come again and as often as possible. There will also be plenty of time for the merchants to visit the different wholesale and manufacturing houses here, and it is expected that there will be a big revelation to some of the visitors who do not realize what Atlanta has to offer in this line.

At the meeting Wednesday, Bolling H. Jones was elected chairman of the convention, R. O. Crouch, of Griffin, Ga., vice chairman, and Willis E. Ragan, vice chairman.

The following are the committees who were elected:

Finance Committee—Willis E. Ragan, chairman; C. H. Arnold, J. L. Baldwin, B. M. Blount, Leonard Brown, J. S. Dougherty, Harry C. Fisher, L. E. Floyd, Sig Guthman, E. M. Hudson, J. R. Little, C. W. McClure, A. C. Mellan, J. K. Orr, Jr., F. E. Paxson, Meyer Regenstein, J. D. Robinson, Ralph Rosenbaum, W. O. Stamps, T. N. Stewart, W. A. Ward.

Committee on Program—Bolling H. Jones, chairman; H. E. Choate, R. O. Crouch, Griffin, Ga.; C. W. McClure, E. G. Thomas, J. W. Vaughn, Cartersville, Ga.

Committee on Base Ball—H. S. Colingsworth, chairman; Lynn Fort, J. R. Little, E. M. Hudson.

Committee on Theater—Meyer Regenstein, chairman; L. E. Floyd, E. G. Thomas, Jerome Silvey.

Every merchant in the south is invited to attend this Southern Merchants' convention, and they may rest assured that the time spent will not only be made enjoyable, but will be profitable to them from a business standpoint also.

COMMITTEE MEETING CALLED FOR MONDAY

The program committee of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association who have the program arrangement for the August Southern Merchants' convention in hand will meet tomorrow at noon. The association is expecting 4,000 visiting merchants to the convention. Full details as to the method of entertainment are to be arranged at this meeting and all members of the committee are urged to be present.

WHY NOT GET TOGETHER?

News of the U. C. T. Atlanta Council 18

It was with much sorrow that we learned of the death of our supreme Treasurer, Riley Newell Hull. The United Commercial Travelers have suffered a great loss by his death and he will be mourned by all the traveling men in the country.

Atlanta 18 expects to have a big meeting next Saturday night, June 11. Secretary Juncoford urges all of the members, as well as all candidates whose applications we now hold, to be on hand.

Brother U. L. Cox has been in the house all this week, but he expects to hit the road again tomorrow morning.

Brother Hugh A. Smith says that he had rather be in the house than on the road, but those salesmen surely do keep him skipping.

Brother H. M. Ashe has just returned from Boston, where he went with the Old Guard. He said that he had the time of his life.

Brother W. J. Elliott, of the Arnold Hat company, expected to start out bright and early Monday morning on a trip of a month or six weeks.

The Warren Manufacturing company, the Warren territory with the new fall line tomorrow, after a rest of one week in the city. R. G. McCowan will also return to his old territory in north Georgia.

The Dixie Pickle and Preserving company are busy renovating their place of business and things look as though it will surely be a beautiful place of its kind when the work is completed.

The wreck on the Seaboard, between Cartersville and Cedartown last week prevented W. Y. Bailey, of Fain & Stamps, who makes this territory, from getting to Cedartown. Mr. Bailey reports that when one of the best tows he has on his list is cut off it makes a big inroad into his week's business.

Montag Brothers report the addition of a new city man to their sales force. He is Aaron Cohen and will assist the old city man, Sam Sugarman, with the trade on school supplies.

C. P. Webb, the Alabama man for

NOTES OF THE CITY SALESMEN

President H. L. Simons occupied a seat in the carriage with Mayor Woodward in the Grocers' parade on Wednesday. Our president would make a hit as mayor both as regards size and ability.

E. S. Morris, with Kelley Brothers company, was out again this week. We were all glad to see Emory back on the firing line.

The C. S. A. was well represented in the parade Wednesday. We want to congratulate the promoters of this parade on the tremendous success they made of the undertaking.

The application of W. B. Burke, with Libby, McNeil & Libby, was received yesterday.

W. E. Park, with the Capital City Tobacco company, was reported as being again indisposed. We sympathize with Brother Park and trust he will soon be in good health again.

Forest E. Kibler, the "Old Reliable," was at the meeting yesterday morning. Brother Forest is a busy man these days. A little lady visitor has been stopping at his house for the past two weeks and he says her demands are making inroads on his bank account and he is having a hard time to keep any balance at all.

Brother H. S. Shackelford was the speaker at the meeting yesterday. His message was a good one and we hope to present it in these columns soon.

Brother Pete Wells, with the National Biscuit company, answered present yesterday. We were certainly glad to see him and trust he will continue to attend.

We had an enthusiastic meeting yesterday morning and hope to see many more like it.

According to the custom heretofore

News of the U. C. T. Fulton Council 505

Brother W. G. Moore will be in South Carolina for the next few days in the interests of his firm.

Brother F. W. Carlisle, Jr., the tobacco man, is now located in Nashville, Tenn., according to a letter received by the secretary. We wish Felix every success in his new location.

Brother T. F. McWaters, the Bowser tank man, is now working the city trade for his company.

Brother J. W. Curry reports that he will be out of the city for the next month on personal business.

Brother J. E. Almond reports that he will be able to attend the meeting regularly in the future. He has been unavoidably detained heretofore.

Secretary F. S. Brownlee advises that the applications are still coming in. You should be the next.

Any information desired about the U. C. T. can be secured from any secretary. It is to the interest of any traveling man to belong to the order.

established we will ask the jobbers and manufacturers of the city to make the week of June 27, vacation week for their salesmen in order that all who possibly can may attend the excursion to the Isle of Palms.

E. P. Harris, better known as Erl, has been transferred by his house, the N. K. Fairbanks company, to West Florida and South Alabama for a while. Our best wishes go with Brother Harris in his new field.

J. W. Grady, a prominent merchant of Stroud, Ala., was a visitor with the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company last Friday. Mr. Grady does not often come to Atlanta and stated that this was only his second visit since 1898. He saw some wonderful changes in the appearance of the city in that time.

Why Not Get Together?

The story told by Cartoonist Stanton, on the first page of this week's Constitution Firing Line, is one that is worthy of the closest attention from all traveling men.

The movement to pass a bill through the Georgia legislature to create the office of hotel inspector in the state is a good one. It has been advocated in these columns from time to time, and, until it becomes a fact, it will continue to receive our support. The different traveling men's organizations have recently appointed representatives from their various bodies to study ways and means in reference to getting this law passed and to draw up a bill which will meet the requirements.

The Hotel Men's Association of Georgia meets this week at the Tybee hotel for their annual summer meeting. They have invited the traveling men to send their representatives to this meeting in order that they may confer together on this subject. As a matter of fact, the hotel men are as anxious to see this law pass as the traveling men, and the best and wisest move for both parties to take is to consolidate and work together for the same end.

There is no doubt that there are conditions in some of the hotels in the state which call for an inspector in order to protect the traveling public. The conditions in some hotels are such as call for the most rigid enforcement of all laws governing such places, and possibly the enactment of additional laws in order to improve them sufficiently. An inspector would make the enforcement of these laws a simple matter. But there are also some members of the traveling public who do not conduct themselves, while guests in a hotel, in such a manner as to make it an easy matter for the proprietor to keep his house in good condition. An inspector would also help to discover these offenders, and would help the hotel men to protect both themselves and other travelers from these pests.

The traveling men comprise what we firmly believe to be the finest body of men in the world. They are men who stand for the best in life for all humanity, and the man who counts the traveling salesmen as his friends has an asset on the books of his character which counts for a badge of honor of no mean standard. But the traveling salesmen are not the only people who use the hotels, and amongst the many patrons of a transient house all sorts and conditions of men are found. The traveling men will join hands with the hotel men in endeavoring to place the blame for much of the disgusting conditions of some hotel rooms where it rightly belongs. If the fault with the hotel proprietor let it be known, and let him suffer as he deserves. But if the fault in with a previous occupant of the room let him be detected and punished as the law provides.

A hotel inspector would render it possible to place the blame on the right parties, and would protect both the traveling men and the hotel men. Both want to see an inspector in Georgia, and they should work together and use their almost unlimited power to secure one.

McCord-Stewart Co. IN THEIR NEW HOME

Big Wholesale Grocery House Has Moved to Splendid New Quarters on Hunter Street.

The McCord-Stewart company are now located in their new quarters on West Hunter street. The past week has seen the heaviest part of the big job of moving completed, and they are now shaking hands with their visitors in the new building. But if anybody wants to know what the delights of "fitting" are they can get a full description from this company.

Sales Manager E. M. Hudson was found Friday last literally "up to his eyes" in work. With his usual courtesy he gave a few moments of his time, but it was really criminal to take him from his job at all.

"We're moved," he said, "but the job isn't by any means finished and you can take my word for it that it isn't a job that I want to tackle again for a long time to come. Just look at the things I have on my hands to attend to at this moment. There are two squads of telephone men in the building installing phones—one from the Bell people and the other from the Atlanta. Then the electricians have a dozen or so men here wiring the building for lights and installing them. There is another bunch putting in flour mill machinery and another on coffee grinders and roasters. Then there is our regular business which has to be kept moving, fifteen cars of goods being unloaded right now, and a hundred other details that have to be watched.

"Yes, it's some job, but we are all proud of the new building. Floor space? Oh, 45,000 square feet. Yes, it's a beauty all right, and suits us fine!"

WEEKLY LUNCHEON THE CREDIT MEN'S

The regular weekly luncheon of the Credit Men's association for next Wednesday will have the pleasure of hearing a talk from Hon. John Y. Smith, representative-elect from Fulton county to the Georgia legislature. Mr. Smith will speak on the collection laws and proposed improvements. Every member of the association is strongly urged to be present. Mr. Smith will doubtless have points of much importance and interest to make.

The luncheon, as usual will be given in the assembly hall of the New Kimball hotel.

TRAVELERS INVITED TO SEND DELEGATES

Georgia Hotel Men Invite Travelers' Organizations to Send Representatives.

The midsummer meeting of the Georgia Hotel Men's association will be held at Tybee hotel on Friday and Saturday, June 13-14.

The Atlanta delegation will leave on Thursday, June 12, at 9:35 p. m., on the Central of Georgia, and will breakfast at the Savannah hotel. They will leave for the island about noon after being entertained by an auto ride around the city and other features.

An interesting feature of this meeting is the fact that the hotel men have invited each of the various traveling men's associations to send a representative to the meeting in order to discuss the proposed law to establish a hotel inspector in Georgia. This movement has been advocated by the traveling men and strongly urged through these columns. Each of the different associations have appointed members to take the matter up and push through such legislation as early as possible. The reputable hotel men of the state are just as anxious as the traveling men to see such a law on the statute books and they are anxious to co-operate with them in order to secure it. It is believed that this law will be a protection both to the traveling public and the hotel men themselves, and it is probable that at the meeting this week some definite idea of the form in which the bill is to be drawn will be arrived at.

Every good wish is a prayer and every good deed is an answer to prayer.

T. P. A. JOTTINGS

By W. M. Jenkins, State Press Chairman, Georgia Division, T. P. A.

Our state chaplain, Dr. S. R. Bell, who is pastor of Park Street M. E. church, Atlanta, according to our way of thinking preaches the gospel fresh from the Bible. Humanity requires service and those who do not give it die bankrupt so far as the affections of the people are concerned, at any rate. Financial advantages are given to but a few and the opportunity of doing what is commonly called "something really worth while" is limited. But without the financial opportunity other opportunities for good have come to all of us. We could wish for nothing better than to bring men closer together, cementing the ties of affection and relationship so that all might have a better understanding of each other. The lives of most men are pitched in minor keys and our voices add but little, individually to the volume of sound in the universe. To our thinking the greatest gift most cherished is given in this age to those with money, or its equivalent "pull." To win a firm hold on the ladder of success either money is needed or a share in that thing which the T. P. A. is, and always will be, working against—special privilege. We want everybody to fare alike, and would have the landmarks and guides in the journey of life equally divided for the successful and the unsuccessful. If we could leave the world so that everyone had enough and no one too much, these would be worthy relics of our best affections, tokens and records of our best and happiest hours.

Christ brought the first message of hope to the toilers, teaching and preaching love, peace and good will to every human being.

No man is exempt from some defect or can live free from some infirmity. Therefore, by the practice of sin, every man may be rendered odious and infamous—private citizens as well as officials.

It is unfortunate, to say the least, for any man who becomes satisfied with the life he is living, the thoughts he is thinking and the deeds he is doing. It is a bad sign when there is not forever beating and knocking on the door of his soul some great desire to do things larger and better.

The writer, as a delegate, regrets very much not being able to join the crowd and attend the national convention at Richmond, Va., June 9 and 10.

What if you have been misrepresented, crushed in the mass and condemned? If you are innocent, forget it. There are many such victims. The laws of retribution are sacred and just. From their decrees none can escape, not even the biggest chiefs and lawyers.

We believe it is the unchangeable and eternal principles of the moral law implanted within our inner selves that guides and directs. Only so far as you are able to walk by that guidance can you become permanently a good man or a great man. The same principles that govern individuals govern the city, the state and nation.

The T. P. A. as an organization stands upon the broad principles of the brotherhood of man and the universal fatherhood of justice to all.

Brother Erlich, of Savannah, is doing good and noble work for the T. P. A. Here is our hand to you, Brother Erlich.

If all men with the noble influence would say "this day will I live honestly with all men, be sober, pure and clean," it would help to save other men, not by preaching, but by example.

Where is that dinner the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce was going to give to the traveling salesmen of Atlanta?

The T. P. A.'s ask no quarter and on questions of principle concede nothing. We believe at all times that we are right in our stand for the public good.

We are not willing to turn the government over to the tender mercies of a certain few who would bottle up everything good and sweet—the sunshine, fresh air, love and the right to live in happiness.

We believe that judicial reform is not only needed, but absolutely necessary for the safety and welfare of the people.

Why should the poor be deprived of Sunday picture shows, while the rich ride out in automobiles on that day and enjoy life otherwise as they see fit?

A policy with the T. P. A. is an unselfish policy. It means that you are thinking of your family and not of yourself.

The Dougherty-Little-Redwine company have leased the building in which the old Anderson Hardware company did business on South Pryor street and move there July 1. They will occupy the place until the completion of their new building at 50 S. Pryor street, which is at present under construction.

T. L. Barron, with the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, came in Friday from Codarts with a nice bunch of orders. A. N. Wilkins also came in during the week with another good bunch. All the men report good rains in their respective territories and excellent crop prospects.

Manager Lynn Fort, of the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co., has been down with typhoid fever for the past ten days or so. Reports Eric stated that he was a great deal better, and that the fever had gone, but that he was still too weak to sit up. Condolences are with Mr. Fort and all the traveling men hope to see him around again soon.

W. E. Rumph, with the Warren Manufacturing company, left last Wednesday for his territory in South Carolina. He is carrying his new fall line, and is already flooding the company with orders.

ADDRESS TO THE CITY SALESMEN

Delivered by Sam J. Jones to City Salesmen's Association at Last Saturday's Meeting.

The aphorism, "As a man thinketh, so is he," not only embraces the whole of a man's being, but reaches out to every condition and circumstance of his life. A man is literally what he thinks, his character being the complete sum of all his thoughts. As the plant springs from the seed, so every act is the blossom of thought, and joy and suffering are the fruits. Thus does a man garner in the sweet and bitter fruitage of his own husbandry. If, one endure in purity of thought, joy follows him as his own shadow. Man is made or unmade by himself. In the armory of thought he forges the weapons by which he either builds for himself a mansion of joy or by which he destroys his own soul.

By the right choice and true application of thought man ascends to divine perfection, by the abuse and wrong application of thought he descends below the level of the brute. As a being of intelligence, power and love, and as the Lord of his own thoughts, man holds the key to every situation, and contains within himself that reforming and rejuvenating agency by which he may make himself whatever he wills. Just as a gardener cultivates his plot, keeping it free from weeds and growing the flowers and fruits which he requires, so may a man tend the garden of his mind, weeding out all the weeds and impure thoughts and cultivating towards perfection the flowers and fruits of right, useful and pure thoughts.

By pursuing this process a man sooner or later discovers that he is the director of his life. He also reveals within himself the laws of thought and understands, with ever increasing accuracy, how the thought forces and mind elements operate in the making of his character, circumstances and destiny.

Every man is where he is by the law of his being, the thoughts which he has built into his character have brought him there, and in the arrangement of his life there is no element of chance, but all is the result of a law which cannot err. The soul attracts that which it secretly harbors. It reaches the height of its cherished aspirations, or it falls to the level of its unacknowledged desires. Every thought sown or allowed to fall into the mind and take root there, produces its own fruit, and blossoming sooner or later into act, bears its own fruitage of opportunity and circumstance. As the rear of his mind, every man learns by both suffering and bliss. A man does not come to the almshouse or jail by the tyranny of fate or circumstance, but by the pathway of groveling thoughts and base desires. Men are what they are. Their whims, fancies and ambitions are thwarted at every step, but their innermost thoughts are fed with their own food, be it foul or clean. Man's wishes and prayers are only gratified when they harmonize with his thoughts and actions.

It is pleasing to human vanity to believe that one suffers for one's virtue, but not until man has extirpated every selfish, bitter and impure thought from his mind can he receive the great law, which is absolutely just and which cannot give evil for good or good for evil. Possessed of such knowledge, he will then know that the rear of his own harvest, man sows, and that all his past experiences, good and bad, were the equitable result of his evolving, yet unevolved self. Good thoughts cannot produce anything but good actions, and good actions cannot bring but results. Nothing can come of corn but corn, nothing from nettles but nettles. Man understands this law in the natural world and works in accordance with it, but few understand it as yet in the mental and moral worlds, and therefore, do not co-operate with it, although its action is just as sure and undeviating.

Law, not confusion, is the dominating principle of life; justice, not injustice, is the substance of life; and righteousness, not iniquity, is the moulding and moving force in the spiritual government of the world.

This being so, man has but to right himself to find that the universe is right. During the process of putting himself right he will find that he alters his thoughts towards things and people, things and people will alter towards him. The proof of this is in every person, and therefore, admits of easy proof by systematic introspection and self-analysis.

All that a man achieves and all that he fails to achieve is the direct result of his own thoughts. In a justly ordered universe, where loss of equipment means total destruction, individual responsibility must be absolute. A man's weakness, strength and purity are his own. They are brought by himself and not by another; they can only be altered by him, himself. His condition is his own and not another man's. His sufferings and happiness are evolved from within. As he thinks, so he is. As he continues to think, so he remains.

POPULAR DRY GOODS MAN BACK IN CITY

L. B. Robinson Comes Back to Atlanta and Takes Important Position.

L. B. Robinson is one of the most popular dry goods salesmen that ever traveled out of Atlanta. He is a man who has devoted his entire business career to the one line of business and he has become known as one of the men in the dry goods and notions line who understands the business thoroughly and whose statements can be absolutely relied upon.

Mr. Robinson started his business career with the A. M. Robinson company and was with them for five years. During his time on the road for this firm he led the entire force of salesmen for each year he was with them. His next connection was with Inman, Smith & Co., and he remained with them for eight years, during which time he repeated his record with the Robinson company by again leading the entire force for every year.

He was next with John Sney & Co. for a couple of years. At the end of this time his health not being of the best, he decided to retire from the road and went to live in Lumpkin, Ga., where he has a nice retail dry goods store.

He states, however, that the pull of the Atlanta spirit was too much for him and that he was always longing to return to this city. Therefore, when the A. M. Robinson company was looking for a good man to fill the position made vacant by the death of Robert Ransom, that of house and sales manager and assistant buyer, and when they wrote to Mr. Robinson stating that they were anxious for him to accept the said position, he soon decided that he would have to return to Atlanta, and a few weeks ago saw him back with his first firm. He now, as he expresses it, "feels perfectly at home" once more.

Mr. Robinson has moved his home to Atlanta, and he and his family are residing at 111 McLendon avenue, Inman Park.

CHILE CON CARNE

W. O. Stamps, of Pain & Stamps, was busy with his duties on the school board Saturday morning.

The ins this week with the Consolidated Paper company are S. P. came in from the Georgia and Central came in from the Georgia and Central roads from Milledgeville way, where he reports plenty of rain and fine crop prospects. Mr. Shyer came in from Columbus, where he has had good business and also reports good prospects.

The following traveling men with the Atlanta Casket company will spend Sunday in Atlanta: A. W. Murphy, A. A. Cook and P. M. Catlett.

J. E. Almond, with the E. L. Adams company, has had J. J. Eley, salesman for the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company with him all this week. They have been in the north Georgia territory, and state that they have had "some business."

J. O. Chambers, with Brown, Perryman & Greene company, came in Saturday from a trip up the Southern road around Gainesville way. He reports good rains and fine crops there. J. P. Tate also came in Friday after a good week's business.

The A. M. Robinson company report a good week's business from all their men. They shipped one order of 150 dozen shirts to a house in Galveston, Texas, this week.

Jim Little, of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, is at present in New York on a ten-day trip. He is accompanied by Mrs. Little and reports good business as the expectation of the New York houses.

J. D. Burrus, special representative for the John Deere Wagon company, of Moline, Ill., is in the city this week with the local John Deere Plow company house. F. R. Lybbuck, traveling central Alabama for the company, is also in the city for a few days.

The ins this week with the Ward-Truitt company are D. P. McDaniel, Lewis Parker and L. E. Meredith. Mr. Meredith is the latest addition to the force and has just completed his first week for them. He has sent in a splendid bunch of business from the territory on the Georgia road and is enthusiastic over his first week's business.

Montag Bros. report Leopold Helm making nearby Georgia points all week, and Harry Gotthelmer in town for several weeks' rest.

Trade Insurance

The safest policy for the retail merchant of today to adopt is to insure his trade and a continuation of their patronage by selling them goods with a known reputation for quality.

In almost every instance the best value has a manufacturer's brand or trade mark on it. The manufacturer is proud of his product and takes much care and goes to a heavy expense to brand or trademark it.

These conditions surround Shield Brand Shoes. We are proud of them, and we put our trade mark on every pair, and when you see a Shield Brand Shoe box, you may rest assured that the shoes in it are real shoes and represent the greatest shoe value you can secure for the price they sell for.

Mr. Merchant, the Shield Brand Shoe trade mark says--- Fit Best--- Wear Longest--- That is what we claim for them and that is what Shield Brand Shoes have proven to a vast number of men, women and children.

You can get the shoe trade of your community if you carry a complete assortment of styles, shapes and sizes of Shield Brand Shoes for men, women and children.

Write for samples, express prepaid, or salesman.

WHAT THE WILD WAVES ARE SAYING

BE INCISIVE!
The man without emphasis never sold a bill yet.
He may have taken an order, but in that case a 2-cent stamp would have been of as much good.
The difference between order-takers and salesmen is that the first is merely a survival of delivering mail by private carrier and the second is a man who makes business and money for his firm.
The man who sells the most goods is the man who has the strongest personality to impress on the trade.
The man who is selling shirts and is a strong enough personality to make the shirt buyers in his territory think of him when they think of shirts, is the man who is going to get the business.
The man who has no personality worth speaking of is not going to sell any shirts except a few when he happens to be on the spot and the merchant gives him an order either to get a quick delivery or else out of charity. In either case a 2-cent stamp would have done the work just as good.

NEW CONNECTION FOR DRY GOODS SALESMAN

One of the popular dry goods salesmen who work out of Atlanta is W. W. Scott, Jr. Mr. Scott has registered from here for the past fifteen or sixteen years, and he has handled dry goods and notions all that time. He is known throughout the territory as one of the most successful and popular salesmen from this city. Mr. Scott has recently been added to the sales force of the Ragan-Malone company. He will cover the territory in southeast Georgia and will start out for his new house immediately on his return from a trip he at present is making to New York city.

A POPULAR HOTEL.

Salesman Tells of Splendid Hotel in Bullochville.

J. D. O'Rear, who travels for the J. D. Frazier company, was talking the other day of the difference in hotels found in this state. He spoke favorably of the average, but said there were some which stood out in his memory as particularly good places to stop at. As an illustration of this class of houses he referred to the Hotel Tusculum, at Bullochville, Ga.
"It is a new house," said Mr. O'Rear, "but it has already won a wide popularity amongst the traveling men. It was built by a prominent merchant of the town, Will Butts, and when he erected it he had in mind the fact that what he wanted was a hotel which would rank as first-class in every respect and absolutely up-to-date. There is electric lights throughout, hot and cold running water in every room and every other feature of the modern hostelry. They are catering especially to the commercial trade and have made a rate of $2.50 a day which is a wonder when the fare is considered. But perhaps the way in which they are gaining fame the fastest is through the home cook which found there. I tell you, the meals are simply great. I guess the fact that it is a lady who has charge of the hotel has something to do with this. She is Mrs. Carrie Lou Green, and, believe me, she is certainly showing that a woman can run a hotel, just exactly as it should be run. I advise all the boys to visit here and see for themselves if I'm not exactly right on this matter, at any rate."

BUSINESS BUILDERS

THE SALESMAN'S MOTTO: I will accomplish everything within the power of energy, tact and resourcefulness; nay, more, I will attempt and overcome the impossible.

THE SELLING APPROACH.

There is probably no harder problem which faces the young salesman than when he has to approach one of the "big" men and try to sell him goods. Contrary to the doctrine that "Our greatest work, however, was 'all men are free and equal,'" the junior traveler frequently feels that there is a wide difference between different people he calls on and some times the words "merchant prince" means to him a man as hard to approach as a prince of the royal house surrounded by guards and secretaries. The awe which royalty inspires through material display, a big merchant inspires through the very size of his business and the numbers of people he has in his employ. This problem can only be overcome by persistent work, but the salesman must remember that the remedy lies wholly with himself.
Many a young salesman has left his hotel with his samples to go and call on a prospective customer and merchant and marched bravely around the first corner, to go a little slower around the second and so on until, when he comes to the place of call he first hesitates and then goes right past and walks around the block instead. Possibly after a round or two he will screw up his courage and go in or maybe he will go back to his room at the hotel and sit there until his courage has again returned and then, metaphorically shutting his eyes, go in and be so flustered that he forgets all his selling arguments and backs out feeling little and cheap.
But the next time he gets a similar attack he will not hesitate quite so long before entering and each time he will improve a little until soon he has discovered the fact that no matter how big a man's name may be over his store, he rarely weighs more than the average in actual bulk and as a general rule, the bigger a man he is in a business was the easier he is to approach with a straightforward business proposition.

That is one fact which every young salesman would do well to remember and keep repeating to himself. In nine cases out of ten the bigger the man he approaches the more courteous he will find him. In this day and time a man who is abrupt and rude generally is filling some little job which only makes the salesman smile when the man is discovered.
For a number of years the writer sold goods over a territory covering several states. The line carried was such that every class of business man was called upon, from the millionaire manufacturer to the corner retailer.
In every case except one the men who refused to give courteous attention to the proposition were the men who ran the smallest stores and in most cases did their own clerking. The only big manufacturer, big merchant or professional man who refused to listen was certain manufacturer who was notorious through his entire state for his grouchiness and discourtesy and whose business increased over 50 per cent the first year after his own retirement.

There is no better training for the young salesman than for him to mix with big business men. See them as much as possible and remember that there is nothing to fear from the man himself, it is only his business which makes him awe-inspiring. A certain firm had a salesman who suffered from this bashfulness. They sold heating fixtures for residences and there was a prospect of selling a fixture for the white house in Washington. The president at that time had expressed a desire to meet the salesman for fixtures in person and understand thoroughly the different features. The house in question sent this particular salesman, and, although he didn't make that sale, the experience of talking with the president gave him such confidence that he never hesitated after that to call on any one else and he became a star salesman for the house in a very short time.

CHILE CON CARNE

"Sport" Hamsner, with Pain & Stamps, remarked that they had more business than ever this week. He surmised that this was due to the fact that Bill Quarles rode in the first automobile in the grocers' parade on Wednesday, with Mayor Woodward. The other occupants of the car were J. G. Rainey, J. P. Eve and H. L. Simmons.

G. N. Gabriel, an old salesman with the Consolidated Paper company, was in visiting his old firm yesterday. He is now with the National Paper company.

G. B. McDowell, buyer and sales manager of the E. L. Adams company, has been indisposed all week, and is at Indian Springs recuperating.

Mark Bernstein, representing Aitshuler Bros., umbrella and parasol manufacturers of New York, was a visitor with Brown, Perryman & Greene company last Saturday.

Chris Irby, Jr., came in Saturday with a roll of orders that were evidence of a splendid week's business. He is with the A. M. Robinson company.

The ins this week with the Ridley, Williamson-Wyatt company are L. D. Lassiter and J. S. Cheek. They both brought nice bunches of orders with them.

W. H. Stentz, manager for the John Deere Plow company of Atlanta, left for Moline, Ill., yesterday afternoon, where he will attend the meeting of managers of branch houses of the John Deere company.

J. H. Roberts, city salesman for John Silvey & Co., led the sales forces of his company on May sales. He stated that they had the popular fabrics that the Atlanta merchants require and were thus able to answer all demands.

OLD CITY SALESMAN OPENS NEW CONCERN

The many friends of J. J. Barnes, Jr. will be interested to hear that he has started into business for himself. He is proprietor of the Oriental Dry Cleaning company, located at 65 James street.

Mr. Barnes was with the National Biscuit company for eleven years. About five years ago he was vice president of the City Salesmen's association and gave up his office when he was sent to Macon for his company to start a branch house there. About three years ago he returned to Atlanta in the capacity of local manager for the National Biscuit people and remained with them until about four months ago, when he started the dry cleaning business for himself.

He is a popular man with the Atlanta salesmen and probably knows as many of these good fellows as any man in the city. His friends will congratulate him on his venture and he will be glad to see them just as fast they can find time to call on him.

SAY WHEN!

In some sections of the West the rainfall is mighty unaccommodating to the farmers. For six months it will rain nearly every day, and then will come another six months without a drop.

Only by means of costly irrigation can they raise a crop.

Their soil is, in itself, above the average in fertility. The total rainfall during a year is ample, but the trouble is they DON'T GET IT WHEN THEY NEED IT.

Now, some merchants have that same trouble in regard to their stock of shoes.

They put a lot of money into shoes every year. They may get good shoes, too, but they don't make as much money as they ought.

Why?

They don't have the RIGHT STYLES in the selling sizes at the RIGHT TIME.

The Red Seal Shoe Factory, right here in Georgia, has solved this problem for thousands of the South's best merchants.

A half-million dollar stock of the very newest styles is at your service. Why not use it?

It will mean for you quick shipments—Low Freights—a bigger shoe business on a smaller stock, better kept.

Red Seal Shoes are the best known and best spoken of line in the South today.

Postal brings catalog or salesman without obligation on your part.

No End in Sight for Famous Huff Case

LITIGATION HAS OUTLIVED THREE GREAT ATTORNEYS

After Dragging Through Courts 14 Years

Many Sensational Features Have Developed During the Long, Weary Years Through Which the Case Has Stretched.

Macon, Ga., June 7.—(Special).—Through fourteen long weary years the litigation of the now famous Huff case has dragged its way through the mysterious maze of legal red tape, outliving the two lawyers who brought the original action, the original plaintiff, the venerable ex-mayor in the hands of the court as well as the receiver who was appointed to take charge of his assets. And the end is not yet in sight.

The case has not been without its sensational features, for out of it grew the arrest and conviction of the principal, W. A. Huff, now in his eighty-second year on the verge of court through the use of his vitriolic pen in an attack on the judicial character of the judge under whose jurisdiction the case has wended its way.

One of the most interesting phases of this same principal to bring impeachment charges before congress with a view of having Judge Emory Speer the trial judge removed from office for alleged abuse of his official position.

Neither Judge John I. Hall and Olin J. Wimberly the attorneys who brought the original action on behalf of Huff's creditors nor Clem P. Steed the receiver have been able to get the case to the finish of their work and it is possible that still others connected with the case may be called to the great beyond before the last word is spoken in the case.

Appeal Followed by Appeal. The case has now been before the court of appeals for the third time the final appeal coming only a few days ago following the rendering of the final decree ordering the distribution of the assets within the registry of the court.

Once the lower court has been reversed and with that reversal came a swing to Colonel Huff of $10,000. The court had decreed that should go to the executors of the estate of the two attorneys who brought the original action against him the sum of $10,000 and to Huff objected he has had to fight the case for some time to anything that should secure their remuneration from the parties who employed them.

The court of appeals took this same view of it and two years ago reversed the lower court and decreed that a little less than $7,000 and ordered each of the creditors sharing in the funds to pay 10 per cent of the amount and send them to be paid to be set aside for the attorneys.

Different Viewpoints of Case. The Huff case has two sides according to which side you view it from. If you look at it from the Huff angle and through the eyes of the plaintiff you see an old man on the brink of the grave being grievously wronged by the power of those in the seats of the mighty by holding from him and his wife the balance of the estate of the best years of his life you see him paying interest on the claims of his creditors, while his own fund of almost $200,000 reposes quietly in the banks and through the agency of the receiver drawing one cent of interest you see the two-sevenths interest of his children in the estate taken to pay the debts of their father.

But, as stated before, it all depends on which set of eyes you use. There is no doubt but that it is seen both ways in Macon.

Cost of Litigation. The records show that when the recent final decree of the court was made there was within the registry of the court about $94,000, though the original claim of the creditors amounted to a sum under $40,000. During the long term of years through which the litigation has passed the creditors have drawn interest on their claims until now the interest amounts to a sum over $50,000.

Not a Case in Bankruptcy. The Huff case is not a case in bankruptcy but a bill in equity filed August 5, 1893, by Hall & Wimberly, a firm composed of John I. Hall and Olin J. Wimberly in the United States circuit court in Macon before Judge Emory Speer for the appointment of a receiver and for seizure and administration of all the assets of W. A. Huff.

After this the court rendered the final decree in January, 1905 in favor of all the creditors holding that Huff was insolvent and that his property should be sold and the proceeds distributed to the creditors.

First Appeal Made. Huff and his children appealed from the court decree assigning error in the overruling of the demurrer and the appointment of the receiver.

It was recited in the decrees that there was no objection to the appointment of the receiver and that the children denied this and so did Alexander Proudfoot who was the representative of the defendants at the time.

That court affirmed but based its affirmation of the appointment of the receiver on the fact that the defendants had consented to the appointment of the receiver and that the court had no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver without the consent of the defendants.

COLONEL W. A. HUFF.

Huff's Life Filled With Activity.

In all of the eighty two long years of Colonel W. A. Huff's life there has not been one that has not been filled with activity. Born on the farm as a boy he underwent all the hardships and rigors of such a life frequently it is said hauling wood through the streets of the city of Macon of which he later served many years as mayor.

As a young man he worked at rail-roading, coming from the longest years to that of conductor and for several years he pulled a bell line through many a long night and busy day.

Later he entered the mercantile business in Macon and for several years was one of the city's prominent wholesale merchants.

It was in 1870 that Colonel Huff was elected mayor of Macon and he held that office for ten years during the reconstruction period when it took a man of courage and ability to do the things that needed to be done. One of his monuments that will live long after he is gone is Central City park where the annual Georgia state fairs are held.

After retiring from the mayoralty Colonel Huff was honored with three successive terms in the state legislature and those who know say that he was one of the most progressive practical and valuable members of that body and during a portion of the time he was a member of the legislature served as chairman of the finance committee.

Out of Politics for 15 Years. After retiring from the legislature Colonel Huff kept out of politics for fifteen years until the last Miller-Moore mayoralty race when he took the stump for Mayor Moore and made some striking speeches.

suburban lands in different tracts, and small lots near the home place. It was alleged in the bill that Huff was insolvent and that his property was so involved in judgments and other liens that it was necessary to seize all and bring in all creditors and claimants, among the latter his son Edison Huff and his daughter Jennings who claimed two-sevenths interest in all the property.

Huff Denies Insolvency. Huff by demurrer denied the necessity for the bill and seizure, but the court overruled the demurrer and also denied his insolvency, claiming that his assets were largely in excess of all his liabilities and that there was no cause for a receivership. The court held that Huff was insolvent and made Clem P. Steed permanent receiver.

After this the court rendered the final decree in January, 1905 in favor of all the creditors holding that Huff was insolvent and that his property should be sold and the proceeds distributed to the creditors.

Second Appeal Made. The court overruled the objections of the defendants and confirmed the entire sale and the defendants appealed, and again the court above affirmed the court below.

In the meantime Olin Wimberly had died and after the decision in the court of appeals, Judge John I. Hall and Mrs. Wimberly applied for fees out of the fund in court on the ground that they had been instrumental in producing it for the benefit of all concerned.

The defendants objected to the payment of this claim out of the excess of the fund coming to them, because Hall & Wimberly had represented the other side of the case and had in no way benefited them. The master, Mr. Farde, however, recommended that $10,000 be paid out of this excess and over the objection of the defendants the court confirmed his report.

The court affirmed but based its affirmation of the appointment of the receiver on the fact that the defendants had consented to the appointment of the receiver and that the court had no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver without the consent of the defendants.

For two years he devoted his time to his own affairs again and just eleven days before the election for water commissioners after the city assumed control of the local plant he announced his candidacy and called on his friends for support. That he was popular was shown by the fact that he received the next highest vote out of a field of five or six and was elected for the four-year term.

Today to look at the man one would hardly take him to be 82 years of age. He is an energetic, nervous temperament and tireless and indomitable in the advocacy of the things he thinks is right.

The Famous Huff "Circulars." The Huff circulars are famous in Georgia. Whenever he has a subject which he desires to discuss with the public and over which he does not care to have the blue pencil of the newspaper editor travel he sends his circulars to the printer and has several thousand circulars struck off and distributed. His latest effort along this line but which he has not yet put into effect, is to the publication of the letters which he sent to Judge Speer and which brought about the charge of contempt of court against him. He is said to have had several thousand of these circulars printed and distributed.

Colonel Huff rises every morning between 5 and 6 o'clock and after a simple breakfast which he always enjoys as he did in his younger days he goes to the library and there spends most of his hours. He reads his "Pain" and much of his own income he gives toward its support. The city and county each contribute $5 a month, but that amount is not sufficient to keep the institution running.

to make like sales, but never succeeded in doing so, of all the remaining property, with the exception of that known as the Armory property, and it was advertised for sale by Messrs. Mallory and Cone for the first Tuesday in December, 1909.

Huff and his children, apprehending the property being so considerable in value might be sacrificed if sold as advertised, through their attorneys, Mr. Felder and Mr. DuPont Querry, had also become connected with the litigation, appealed to the court to stop the sale and to have the property more fully advertised. This Judge Speer declined to do and ordered the sale to proceed.

The property was first sold in parcels for $77,000 and was then sold altogether and brought $70 more. The defendants objected to confirmation on different grounds and especially because more land had been sold than necessary to the extent of thousands of dollars and contended that the sales of parcels should be confirmed for a sufficient amount to pay the debts and costs, and no more.

Second Appeal Made. The court overruled the objections of the defendants and confirmed the entire sale and the defendants appealed, and again the court above affirmed the court below.

In the meantime Olin Wimberly had died and after the decision in the court of appeals, Judge John I. Hall and Mrs. Wimberly applied for fees out of the fund in court on the ground that they had been instrumental in producing it for the benefit of all concerned.

BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

The Inside of the Cup. By Winston Churchill. Mr. Churchill and his books are too well known to need an introduction much less a comment on his latest, and by some said to be his best, book. It is a powerful study of the modern tendencies of the church and their new relations to life. It is a well written story told in the United States in one of the largest cities in the middle west. The hero is a young clergyman the tanks the cod lived at ease, with the result that they came to market black, flabby and limp. Some genius among the fishermen introduced one codfish into each of his tanks and found that his cod came to market firm, brisk and wholesome. The article went on to speak of the world's catchfish—anything or anybody that introduced into life the "queer, unpleasant, but stirring touch of the kingdom of heaven."

Into the life of Mr. Marriott's hero come three women who represent the truest and best in womanhood—one of whom he marries, one who remains true to whom he remains true, and the other is the one woman who alone learns to understand him as he understands others. It is she who becomes the "catharsis" in his life—his inspiration "which lives" in every good effort and achievement.

Mr. Marriott has given the literary world a work of his pen which will be as popular as anything that has been published in years.

Wild Grapes. By Marie Louise Van Saanen. The author has written her story with simple and direct force. The type of woman vain and unscrupulous is paid by the author in the character of Mrs. Van Saanen. It is the minority among our American women. And there is something more than the problem of marriage to interest you, there is the struggle of the hero, a man working among men, who is a shoulder to shoulder, with other men who represent the best in life (Moffat, Yard & Co., New York).

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS. A Table For Two. Good Things to Eat. By Eldene Davis. A very attractive compilation inside and out, and it contains hundreds of recipes in quantities just for two. Forbes & Co. Chicago. Price $1.00.

The New Housekeeping. Efficiency Studies in the Home Management. By Christine Frederick. Editor of the Ladies Home Journal says that for the housewife who is a housewife and mother, consulting Household Editor of the Ladies Home Journal and the national secretary of the Associated Clubs of Domestic Science, has given the best solution of the household problem in a volume (Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, New York. Price $1.00 net).

Success in Gardening. By Jessie Peabody. In Gardening Success is wholly in the gardener. Success is wholly in the gardener. Success is wholly in the gardener. Success is wholly in the gardener. Success is wholly in the gardener.

The Son of a Servant. By August Strindberg. With an introduction by Henry Vanier-Burch. Translated by Claude Rieu. M. A. This book is a powerful indictment against parental tyranny, and against the treatment the child receives at school and the want of understanding by his parents and teachers upon whose shoulders the sole responsibility for the training received in childhood.

Understand Strindberg, who has become a very strong factor in the literary world, read this book. It is a book for the child and boyhood and then you will easily understand the title—"The Son of a Servant." (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York and London).

Growing Pains. By Ivy Low. Anyone who has suffered from "Growing Pains"—and it is whispered that everybody understands the title—will enjoy this book, for the penalties and pleasures of growing are amusingly described. Ivy Low, the author, an English girl and comes of splendid literary stock. Her uncle Mr. Maurice Low, is the author of the "Psychology of the American People." The English press has hailed this book as a masterpiece. (George H. Doran company, New York).

An Unknown Lover. By Mrs. George H. Doran. The author has written several books, but none so interesting as this charming story. A widowed brother and a sister decided to spend their lives together but the time comes when each is very desirous of change. The brother cannot give up an elusive girl who crosses his path and the sister, who has been very much interested in an unknown correspondent, decides to build a home for herself.

The Catfish. Which was reviewed in last Sunday's issue, is a novel of the "finest flavor and distinction." It seems that the title is misleading, but Mr. Marriott, the author, gives this explanation of the word.

"At one time the North sea fishermen used to catch a fish which they called the 'catfish' and which they put in tanks in the holds of their vessels in reference to the master, etc. Mr. Proudfoot then intervened for a fee he claimed against the Huffs as their attorney, and the Huffs contended that the court had nothing to do with their contract, no jurisdiction over the same. The master, however, allowed Proudfoot $3,000. The defendants objected to his report. Again the court confirmed.

On May 1, this year, Judge Speer decreed a distribution of the fund in court, allowing the Hall & Wimberly fee as against the creditors to the amount of nearly $7,000. He allowed Edison Huff and Mrs. Jennings their interest in the proceeds of the Kimball House property and the bill was paid, without interest, the same never having been disputed.

Fourth Appeal Now Pending. The court taxed the defendants with all the costs and expenses of the long litigation, including the Proudfoot fee, but not including that of Hall & Wimberly, amounts to about $15,000 and all the interest to date of claim and henceforth until payment and several thousand dollars attorneys fees covered by contracts made on the part of the defendants.

The court did not pass on the claims of Edison Huff and Mrs. Jennings at all, but disposed of the proceeds of the sale of their two-sevenths interest in the property by directing that this sum be paid to the creditors.

The defendants have appealed against the allowance of the Proudfoot fee, against the allowance of interest while the court had and held their money without interest, the amount of interest going to the creditors, and against as much as the principal against taxing them with all costs and expenses, because they say that they did not and do not owe the debts of their father and that their property should not have been sold to pay those debts.

Harper & Brothers announce that they are now reprinting the following books: Lorna Doone, by Richard Blackmore; Mr. Dooley's Philology, by F. J. Furness; and "The Four Georges," by Justin McCarthy.

Friends of Henry H. Saylor, author of "The Book of Annuals," are waging their next book will not be on the subject of gardening. Mr. Saylor has recently become an ardent automobilist.

"The Bend in the Road" which was mentioned several weeks ago, is proving to be a popular seller. Mr. T. A. DeWesse, the author, says "there is no cereal in the book," and yet it is equally as fresh and palatable as popular breakfast foods and as pleasing as its author.

"The Social Center," by Edward J. Ward, published by the Appletons, is a book of timely interest and of special value to all who are interested in this constructive work.

"Greater Love Hath No Man," is a new novel by Frank L. Packard, which tells a stirring story of a tremendous sacrifice and its reward.

William J. Burns, the greatest and probably the most popular detective who ever lived, has returned from England. His great success was recognized on the other side, too, as shown by the following dispatch received by The New York Times: "At the Savoy William J. Burns has been holding court ever since his arrival. His suite, which he occupies with H. H. McClure and Edward J. Bowen, is constantly crowded with London journalists. His picture has appeared in all the papers hailing him as America's greatest detective. He has a dictagraph strung from one end of the suite to the other, and gives afternoon demonstrations along with real American 'real, American' cigars. Mr. Burns' new book, called 'Masked War,' will soon be published."

Houses Struck by Bolts. Fitzgerald, Ga., June 7.—(Special.) Late Thursday evening during one of the hardest electrical storms of the season the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Knapp was struck by lightning. The bolt struck the kitchen stove, tearing down the chimney and setting the roof on fire. The fire department made a quick run, but found on arriving that the downpour of rain had done the work and the fire was extinguished. Mr. and Mrs. Knapp were both severely shocked. The house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. C. U. Gaines was also struck and set on fire but that was speedily extinguished. Two mules in the same lot with eleven others in the pasture of Mr. R. V. Stanley were killed during this same storm.

The court taxed the defendants with all the costs and expenses of the long litigation, including the Proudfoot fee, but not including that of Hall & Wimberly, amounts to about $15,000 and all the interest to date of claim and henceforth until payment and several thousand dollars attorneys fees covered by contracts made on the part of the defendants.

The court did not pass on the claims of Edison Huff and Mrs. Jennings at all, but disposed of the proceeds of the sale of their two-sevenths interest in the property by directing that this sum be paid to the creditors.

The defendants have appealed against the allowance of the Proudfoot fee, against the allowance of interest while the court had and held their money without interest, the amount of interest going to the creditors, and against as much as the principal against taxing them with all costs and expenses, because they say that they did not and do not owe the debts of their father and that their property should not have been sold to pay those debts.

Strikes Popular Note in First Public Address at Banquet by Pilgrim's Society.

London, June 7.—Walter Hines Page, American ambassador to the court of St. James, is complimented in editorials appearing in the evening papers today on his first speech in England, made last night at the banquet given in his honor by the Pilgrims society. The writers express pleasure that he devoted his speech to cementing the bonds of friendship between the two countries.

The Westminster Gazette says "Ambassador Page's speech showed that the United States has succeeded in sending an ambassador who is more than capable of maintaining the traditional reputation of his office for public speaking. Nothing could have been happier than the note he struck in this first public utterance."

The Pall Mall Gazette says "It is good to see the power of the friendly feeling existing between the two nations recognized."

Vacation Days Will Soon Be Here

"My, how time flies! I must begin to prepare for my vacation." Thousands everywhere are saying this.

THE CONSTITUTION'S advertisements are already hinting of vacation time needful. Outing suggestions abound.

The year's play days are here or coming. You take opportunity by the forelock when you study THE CONSTITUTION'S advertisements and profit by them.

It may be a camera, a tennis racket, a baseball outfit, a canoe, a fishing rod, or a thousand and one things that the merry days of summer demand.

It pays to read CONSTITUTION advertisements. They fairly teem with interesting and helpful suggestions.

It will pay you—yes, even if you do not intend to go on your vacation until July or August.

DANIELS IN LAUNCH IN HEAVY THUNDERSTORM

Washington, June 7.—Secretary Daniels and Mrs. Daniels made a run of several miles up the Potomac today in a motor launch while a heavy thunderstorm played over the water and spilled torrents.

They were returning from Annapolis on the yacht Dolphin when some mishap went wrong with the engines. The secretary wanted to get back to his office and elected to continue in the ship's launch, which river men declared was quite a hardy thing to do in a storm.

Chattooga Baptists to Meet. Lenoir, Ga., June 7.—(Special.)—The general meeting of the Chattooga Baptist association will be held with the Berryton Baptist church on Saturday and Sunday, June 28 and 29. There are a number of interesting discussions on the program and some prominent Georgia Baptists will be in attendance. There will be a sumptuous dinner spread on the ground each day at 12 o'clock.

Suburban Gardens. By Grace Taber. Illustrated with diagrams. If this little book is studied carefully by the reader it will enable him to select position and plan for the new house he is to build, to design his garden, how to grade, to lay out the walks, paths and garden entrance, and there is one chapter each on vines, trees, shrubby flowers, and also a chapter on general culture. It gives names and colors of all the annuals and other flowers which are popular for bedding. (Outing Publishing company, New York).

Fishing with Floating Flies. By Samuel G. Camp. For generations the Englishman has used it well, but it is even yet an art in America. Mr. Camp is one of the few Americans who really understands the matter from the selection of the outfit to the landing of the fish. There are eight chapters in this instructive little book and it would be well for the American angler to own a copy of it. (Outing Publishing company, Chicago).

The Constructive Quarterly. In the June number of the magazine Mr. Elias McBea, editor, has introduced some very interesting and instructive topics—topics in which the whole world is interested.

Dr. Sarah Low's article on "Christianity in the United States" is fully written, and several interesting questions are discussed and explained. Among them, "Why is it that in the United States Christianity should be broken into so many fragments, and in what senses are Christians of every name so nearly at one?"

"The Present Position of the Churches in Canada," by Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, is very strong in its condemnation of the influence of the churches in Canada over society.

"Orthodoxy in Its Essence," by Nicholas N. Gubokovsky, of St. Petersburg, Russia. The author of this article makes claims for the Greek church which is well worth reading.

Lady Henry Somerset, in an article, is asking a very important question, and one that shortly will have to be answered. "What place will religion hold in the woman movement when it has become a part of the political machinery of the world?"

THE NEWEST FEATURES IN THE SUMMER GOWNS

SEVERAL of the very latest effects in summer gowning are displayed on this page. At the right is a frock of violet tussah, the lower part of the skirt being of darker silk of the same color. A tiny jacket of orange satin bordered with a flowered material completes the costume.

A tailored frock of gray linen is worn by the figure in the center of the page; the short coat being made on cut-away lines with white vest.

Fashions From Various Angles

By MARION MORRIS.

THE suit question is the most difficult problem of the season because severely tailored modes are styled by the demitailored suits that are quite dressy. Heretofore you felt perfectly satisfied if you got a plain tailored suit of serge or another light weight cloth for you knew that it would be in good style for utility and semi dress wear throughout the Spring and Summer. But this is not so this season for you realize that a suit is absolutely necessary for demitailored occasions and that a cloth suit is needed for morning and traveling wear. In other words you are confronted with the necessity of getting two suits. Probably this may seem like extra expense if you don't stop to consider that a silk dress is always needed in the Spring and that if you can get a coat with it you will have a suit as well as a dress.

For you will have many social affairs that require an afternoon gown. If you expect to go abroad and intend to look in upon the races you will find it an economy to get two such occasions—a combination gown with an old gold rope neckline and a waist in a peg top or draped style with bodice of natural color net and mesh in lace and gold embroidered finishes with a gliding of Natter blue silk a suit of black crepe meteor with jaunty Empire waist and draped skirt and by having the neckline with gold color chiffon you can wear it with old gold gown and at other times the lace bodice of the gown may be worn with the suit. By so doing you can really have three beautiful costumes for the cost of two. As the season advances it is on some extent that the rich colored gowns and short black coats are foremost among dress styles.

ALTHOUGH I have already suggested a large number of styles I want to see and the first of them is a crepe de chine with a wide and elegant crepe that are so popular. The meteor always looks elegant and elegant while the others are apt to become a common by being imitated. The crepe de chine with the silk Bedford coat is worth of your consideration if you wish to expend at least five dollars a yard for the material. This silk is also used for the finest afternoon coats.

THIS is surely a season of blouses and even though new styles have been introduced every few weeks you have no occasion to feel pensive for they are all so different. Lace blouses which are the latest mode are certain to reign throughout the Summer because they are so fine and dainty. As these blouses are really transparent—being made of shadow lace—their designers were clever enough to know that just any kinds of cover covers would simply ruin their lovely appearance and they made them with amiable under bodices of lace net and ribbon. The prettiest of these blouses are fashioned with a front rucks edged with frills of a low lace which also continue down the fronts to the waist line. Sometimes these blouses have flat collars and turnback cuffs of white mesaline to give them a tone of richness.

It seems curious that not until this year did women realize that white crepe de chine makes the most satisfactory utility blouse. Of course the styles heretofore did not require this charming silk for their interpretation—on the other hand would have been better if they had so we had to wait for the Trotter styles of 1913 to make us conversant with the fact. These Trotter styles which are also known as De style modes—having been copied from the French work mens shirts—are the smartest when not trimmed with a wide except cordings of the same black silk cravats. The material is slightly gathered down the front and small revers that form a neck and a small collar. If the new white crepe de chine blouses have your admiration you will not regret a considerable expenditure if you get the effect of a wide and as that have but more to be said. If any trimmings for these plain chiffon are only look after the fact will do clean more essential and be sure to get them with dash or chiffon linings.

PEAU DE CUR is the name of the new light weight woolen fabric that is being used on steamer and sports coats. The tone of elegance that this leather effect material possesses explains why the London tailors are making it into severely fashioned English styles with belted backs. Long and slender quilts are the latest note in tailored millinery. And although fashion is perching many of them on the backs of hats they appreciate that on some styles they look best in the front or at the sides. They are nearly always poised at a decided angle.

Smart Afternoon Toilets

Plain and figured voile are combined in the first illustration in a very charming fashion. The little coat is exceedingly attractive and the skirt shows a new note in drapery.

Rice colored linen forms the second gown, which is made with a tiny vest of all-over embroidery, fastened with tiny rose glass buttons. The skirt is also ornamented with buttons.

This Mother Has Solved the Problem of Good Dressing on a Small Income

All of the clothes are ready for commencement day. Mildred aged twenty, Ruth aged five (their mother) aged forty are to take an active part in the exercises but my second daughter Louise aged fifteen is to progress from one school to another and on that day of days she demands that every member of her family shall be clothed beyond criticism. Beyond criticism is rather a large word but Mildred and Louise have the art of carrying their clothes well. Ruth is cunning in whatever she does and I've kept my figure shapely with good corsets. A perfectly fitting corset is an absolute necessity to the woman who makes her own clothes. To commit an Irish bull it is the sole wardrobe item that the poor but plump and proud woman cannot afford to be economical about.

On this occasion Louise happens to be the person of most importance and so I'll tell you first about her commencement day outfit. The frock—she is to wear on the afternoon when the prizes are to be awarded and the same evening at the class reception—is so beautifully simple that I made it in two days time. First I cut a white China silk princess slip by a thirty-two-inch bust paper pattern, fitted it to

Louise and then put it on to a wire and buckram length dressmaker form. When I was quite sure that the skirt hung evenly all round I trimmed it from waist line to hem with three boucées of graduated widths in creamy shadow lace the lowest one falling over a narrow ruffle of knife plaited creamy net. The bodice all over shadow lace is gathered softly into a Dutch necked yoke of finely plaited net and is draped over the shoulders to form short sleeves which an inch above the elbows are gathered into net frillings. About the waist is a cascade of white charmeuse sash ribbon fastening at the back under a big two loop bow

As Louise in common with the rest of us expects to walk from the boarding house to the academy, she asked for a long wrap to cover her graduation frock and so I made from Natter blue pongee a full length coat whose panel back and slightly curved fronts start without fullness from under a yoke so exceptionally deep that it resembles a bolero with pointed side benches running a ruffle over the waistline beneath the arms. The shoulders of this coat are dropped very low and into them are plainly fitted rather wide sleeves that flare at the wrists and are trimmed with three buttons each. The black velvet shawl collar is pongee was of such excellent quality for the price asked for it that I bought seven additional yards from which I made Louise a commencement day luncheon costume. Its narrow skirt has a slightly draped back a single inverted two inch wide box plait skirt flatly down the center of its front and starting from the top edge of the raised belt two six inch wide tabs one falling over each hip as far as the knee. The regulation floor jacket fastening at the waist with a single large silver button has square revers and wide cuffs of Natter blue and pearl white striped silk and finishing the neck is a serge turned over collar of white flannel net appliqued with a crocheted pattern in Natter pongee. Should commencement day prove to be very warm Louise may safely discard her jacket as the white net blouse that goes under it is the daintiest affair imaginable even though it was made from an old party frock of Mildred's.

Louise's academy is also Mildred's alma mater and as she expects to spend several days there with friends and to be very gay during that visit she had to have two new costumes. The one for the Commencement exercises and the class reunion that evening is made from five yards of forty inch broad machine embroidered white cotton voile elaborated with wheels and motifs of cream lace. At its left side the skirt is caught up as far as the knee and reveals a cham underskirt of all-over cream white blouse, whose fullness near the shoulders at front and back is gathered into the upper seams of the rayon sleeves is trimmed with clumsy landing. As these narrow bindings join the seams of the sleeves they help to simulate a neck to arm top yoke which is decidedly novel and very easy to make. Mildred's afternoon and evening coat is a knee length affair in white sponge made in Mandarin style with cut-in one wide sleeve a broadly turned over collar and crossed-over fronts that fasten at the left side below the waist line with three big material covered buttons. Bordered the collar is one band of coarsely meshed white lace the sleeves are two bands of the lace set three inches apart and trimming the entire garment are three bands of lace placed four inches apart.

While it looks dressy, this really is a very practical wrap as it may be home-cleaned with gasoline or dried some other hue. Mildred thought that she would need an elaborate visiting costume and so we bought enough white silk poplin for a suit which together we cut fitted and tailored. The walking skirt we copied from Callot's model—the one having a straight cut front gathered on to the belt slightly draped below the knees and at both sides overlapped by the edges of the back with which also is gathered on to the waist band and a little bit caught up near the knees. As there is nothing easier or amateur tailors to put together than a blouse coat, we made Mildred's that way relieving its whiteness with simulated buttonholes bound in black satin, with buttons of black jet and with neck and wrist frills of plaited black net.

Ruth's commencement day frock will have to be her party frock until she outgrows it. We really spent too much time upon it—Mildred and I—but when the idea of having her wear a half-long First Empire dress of sheerest white mull over a Lucile slip came to us, we couldn't resist the temptation to see how she would look in such a costume. Of course, the Empire robe was easily made. Anyone could put it together in half a day, but the slip of white net has three bands of gathered net veiling pink satin ribbons on the skirt and two similar bands on the bodice and these trimmings trail tiny garlands of lavender rose and pale blue satin roses interspersed with pale green chiffon leaves and silver gold tinsel spirals. She'll look a picture and I trust indiscreetly expressed admiration won't make her vain. Anyhow we've planned to tell her that it is the trend and not herself that strangers admire. Naturally so elaborate a costume has to be concealed under a wrap when Ruth goes on the streets and so it is a very last moment we've made to an Empire coat of white wash poplin. It fastens at the neck with wash moire ribbons and its hem is hand-sewed so that it can be let down in case Ruth continues to grow like the weed which she is not instead of the human exotic which she really is. The rest of her commencement day wardrobe consists of two cash frocks in natural color made to button diagonally from the left shoulder to the right top of the hem and with the fullness of the back of the waist line drawn in slightly under a leather strap. Both frocks—they really are coats—are finished at the neck with a narrow turned over collar and have long sleeves that are gathered into the arm eyes so that she may swing her arms about in comfort and that's what a cut in one sleeve won't allow a child to do.

So long as my old clothes are clean and reasonably up to date I never think it matters much about what I'm to wear but Mildred and Louise think differently and for commencement day they insisted that I have an afternoon gown of tea green raiine and cotton crepe. The bodice and the overdrapery I made of the rough material and the elbow sleeves and the underpart of the crepe and for the girde and ball button coverings we used black satin. Mildred's specialty is the making of girde collars cuffs and buttons and I think it is these little touches which give distinction to the home made costume. She made the collar for my three-quarter wrap in black crepe meteor. The garment is one of those almost shapeless affairs with cut-in one sleeves that fall over at the elbow and below it are seamed to fit the forearm. The fronts are drawn together and slightly upward to make a succession of graceful loose folds about the hips and it is bordered all round with a four inch band of black velvet. The collar deeply pointed at the center of the back and merging into narrow revers in front looks like a silk in Futurist pattern but it is really black faille hand-painted by Mildred. In addition the girls induced me to make a white cotton crepe frock and in order to have it become me I trimmed it with bands of embroidery that run diagonally the length of the waist and the skirt. The waist line is placed rather high under the arms and in the back but lengthened a trifle in front to increase the measurement from neck to belt. The three quarter sleeves are tapered off toward the wrist to give a slender look to the arm and the neck is finished in Dutch manner to make throat seem longer. I really like myself in this white gown yet feel certain that had it been made by a professional dressmaker it wouldn't have been satisfactory. The girls say I'm getting conceited about my own sewing but why shouldn't practice have made me very nearly perfect? Goodness knows I've had enough of it while making the clothes for three girls.

THE SUIT CASE BRIDE

Suit case brides are not numerous but each Spring the constant traveler encounters a few of the species in hotels and as often wonders why the brand new Mrs. didn't put entirely different things into her piece of small luggage. For instance why did she attempt to carry several elaborate and crushable evening blouses to wear at dinner instead of carrying just one simple and non-crushable soft satin frock of a quiet shade and two gimpes—a dark and a light one—to vary it?

Nor should she clutter herself with a flowered silk kimono which under its circumference is anything better than a bath robe. What she actually needs is a babani. Do you know what a babani is Miss Bride elect? No? Well it is a straight waist little frock that is put on over the head and looks on one shoulder. It is so perfectly modest and becoming that if visitors arrive unexpectedly you may appear in it. In fact when dining in your own room you may wear it as a dinner gown. Make it of China silk or crepe de chine and tuck it into the suit case instead of the kimono which you had planned to take.

If you will order an extra skirt matching the going away suit you need not burden yourself with an extra street costume as it may be worn while the other skirt is being pressed. And with this three piece suit the satin frock and the babani you certainly can keep looking smart and fresh for a week. Better than crowding the suit case with extra gowns and blouses is to fill up any of its spaces with pretty gloves handkerchiefs and neckwear not forgetting several pairs of dainty slippers and matching silk hosiery.

A HEMMING PARTY

A bride to be is going to give a hemming party soon. She called her best friends over the telephone and invited them to spend an afternoon on her porch and incidentally remarked—Everybody is to bring her thread. The hostess will provide needles thread and hemming. In the meantime she has bought material for her kitchen towels and the girls will have the privilege of hemming them and each girl may put her own initials in the corner if she chooses. This is a clever idea and one which the guests will no doubt enjoy.

He always did believe a black cat was bad luck, but after the Tax Collector's call he was sure of it.

This Attractive And Useful Design For Needleworkers Can Be Transferred Without Recourse To The Old And Obsolete Tracing Paper Method Which Is Unreliable At Best.

DESIGNS FOR PINCUSHIONS

This is the season when one thinks of making pretty embroidery gifts for the bride and the graduate. This simple design, we believe, is exactly what you will need. Too, its beauty will be greatly enhanced by your fairy stitches, the addition of lace and the pink or blue satin cushion used with the cover.

First of all use extremely sheer material. Perhaps shadow-embroidery would look neatest in the large cushion. This work is done on the wrong side, a simple cat-stitch which forms a rather solid background effect. The tendrils should be finished in delicate outline, and all circles indicate places for delicate eyelet work. In fact each pattern should be fragile. In case there is a color scheme, as is often the case with tokens for girl graduates, you can acquaint yourself as to that, and, possibly, develop something decidedly novel in a color scheme, whether the colors be conventional or not. The idea would be novel and pretty, though the colors might be gold and purple. In case of deep tones, the pattern should be worked in satin stitch on the right side.

The little pillow suggests something dainty for the lavette or baby basket. Such ornaments are in white, pink or blue, the color scheme done with ribbons, the embroidery wrought in white. Use a good grade of white handkerchief linen, soft white ball floss, a long-eyed needle, and avoid cross stitches for they show through the fabric.

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN
Saturate this Design with the soap and water mixture, then remove the excess moisture by partially drying the saturated Design or by applying a sheet of blotting paper. Place the material or fabric to which the design is to be transferred on a hard, flat surface and lay the Design, face down, upon the material. Cover with a dry sheet of blotting paper or two folds of newspaper, and with the bowl of a tablespoon rub, pressing hard, until the Design is entirely transferred, being careful to rub from, rather than toward you. When rubbing, you can see if enough pressure is being applied by lifting a corner of the Design to note how well it's taking. Do not wet the material, nor rub the face of the Design with damp fingers. To remove the Design lines after the article is completed, wash in warm water, with soap. The entire process is very simple and with a little care you can easily make perfect transfers to any kind of goods.

PATENT PENDING.

FASHIONDOM

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

TAPESTRY bows are used down the front of white blouses to give a touch of color.

A piping of colored materials is taking the place of ribbons on the new lingerie.

Tailored skirts continue to be cut an inch above the normal waist line. The puff of velvet at the elbow and the velvet collar are worn on many gowns.

Both the long and short sleeves are permissible—popular fancy inclining toward the long.

A touch of black is used upon almost every kind of costume and the effect is undeniably smart.

Brocaded crepe meteor is very new, soft, and clinging, and makes up into charming gowns for the elderly woman.

One exquisite negligee is of opalescent pale gray silk combined with pale gray lace which is lined with flesh colored chiffon.

The boudoir and drawing room gown are scarcely distinguishable—both are made of light weight filmy materials that cling closely to the figure.

Instead of belts, a novelty is that of cords composed of several strings of beads, twisted together, and knotted loosely at one side, where they are completed by a heavy "ball pull" tassel.

Many of the new evening slippers are made on English lines, with a more spool-like heel and long flat vamp. They are vastly becoming to some, but can never be surpassed by the American styles.

Corsage bouquets are pretty when worn at the fastening of an evening wrap. A handsome black velvet wrap seen at the opera had a dull gold corded ornament at the fastening, which held in place a bunch of purple velvet pansies.

Fashion is endeavoring to gain favor for the bloomer type of bathing suit. This, from the waist, line to knee, is not unlike a gymnasium suit, excepting that the skirt falls to reach the knee by a couple of inches. Cross-over blouse effects are used for the bodice of this.

The short coatlets of matelasse or broche is attracting much attention. It does not have sleeves, and it resembles a zouave jacket. The waist line is well covered and the bottom of the jacket is rounded off in a pretty manner.

THE BRIDE'S TOILET TABLE

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

ALL things connected with the bride and her wedding are dainty, so it is quite natural that she should stock her toilet table afresh.

First of all, she wants a delicate sachet powder for scenting her trunks, bags, boxes, and bureau drawers. Perhaps the most lasting and yet dainty scent is secured by mixing powdered orris root and any good violet sachet powder in equal quantities. This is really more elusive than any floral scent that you could select.

Every bride will want a nice lavender powder for her linen. If she knew she were going to trap the young man last summer she would have been wise to have dried all the lavender leaves she could beg, borrow, or steal, but it is too late for that now, and this powder is even more lasting than the dried flowers.

Mix ten ounces of dried lavender leaves, three ounces of powdered benzoin and six ounces of cyprus powder. Add to this one and one-half drams of oil of lavender.

She will also want a preparation for perspiration, and while some of the already prepared articles are good, the best thing for excessive perspiration under the arms is common baking soda mixed in equal proportion with plain unscented talcum powder. Never bathe under the arms with scents of any kind; better wash with a good bath soap and then rub on alcohol to which a little powdered alum has been added, finally dusting with the baking powder and talcum mixture.

The lemon should have a conspicuous place on the toilet table for some time before the wedding. The bride is apt to be sewing industriously and this is not particularly good for the fingers. She should keep a cut lemon on her dressing table. Every night after she has washed her hands she should stick her fingers right into the pulp of the lemon and rub them around and around. This will help to remove stains, stop the growth of the cuticle at the base of the nail, and make the knuckles look white and soft instead of red and rough. In case the skin has been roughened at the end of the finger by pricking with the needle, rub it with a piece of pumice stone before the wounds have time to absorb dust and dirt.

The hair is an important part of the bride's makeup. If it is stubborn and sticks out at angles, rub a few drops of brilliantine in the palm of the hand, then rub the hair brush around it that, and brush lightly over the hair. This will make the rough ends stay.

The bride should wash her hair three days before the wedding, in order to give it a chance to get back to normal conditions. The castile soap jelly is one of the best shampoos for the dark haired girl, while mixture of green soap and listerine is the right thing for the blonde. The jelly is made by shaving a cake of best white castile soap into a pint of boiling water. First wet the hair with warm water, then take about two tablespoonfuls of the jelly, adding a half-spoonful of borax if the water is hard, then rub until a thick lather forms. Now rinse several times, making each bowl of water cooler until it is quite cold.

Two tablespoonfuls of listerine, two tablespoonfuls of tincture of green soap, and the white of one egg make an excellent shampoo for the girl with blonde locks. Wet the hair with warm water, then rub the mixture thoroughly over the hair, being sure to massage it well into the scalp. Rinse thoroughly, then dry in the sunlight and open air if the weather is not too cold.

If it is necessary to curl the hair about the face, there is nothing equal to the old fashioned kid curlers. The night before the wedding the bride should dampen her hair with a little of a good curling fluid and put it up on curlers. Here is the recipe for an excellent lotion to retain the wave in the hair: Three ounces of quince seed juice, two drams of tragacanth, two drams of boric acid, one-half ounce of spirits of camphor, and three ounces of water.

All brides leave home for some sort of a trip, no matter if it only lasts a few days, and they should take a jar of good cold cream with them. On trains it is better to use a cleansing cream than the hard, and sometimes cold, water that is found in dressing rooms. Cold cream will remove that grease that seems to accumulate on the face when traveling on the cars.

The girl with the oily skin should have a bottle of the following lotion on her table and use it several times a day, washing over the face with a piece of old linen saturated in the lotion. One ounce of pulverized borax, two ounces of glycerin, and two quarts of camphor water (not the spirits of camphor).

These fanciful Decorations MAKE THE SUMMER HATS Smart

THE BRUSH AT THE

THE VERY SMALL

THIS IS SOMEWHAT
EXTREME.

ALTHOUGH the hats of the summer are in the main extremely simple as to decoration, what little trimming is used is placed in so unusual a manner as to make the appearance of the hat rather unique. The result is generally very smart. The feather fancies used are most beautiful as may be seen in the illustrations on this page.

The Paradise and the aigrette are both much worn, while the natural ostrich feather has many admirers. Many of the hats shown are quite small like those of the spring, but almost as large a number of extremely large hats is to be seen.
