

ATLANTA PASSES COLDEST JUNE 9 IN HER HISTORY

Average Temperature for the Day Was 58 Degrees, and Next Lowest Was 61 in the Year 1897.

DROP OF 22 DEGREES WITHIN A FEW HOURS

Cotton Not Damaged to Any Material Degree, Says Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Conner.

Atlanta passed the coldest day for the month of June ever experienced within thirty-five years, taking it by the average temperature, yesterday. Beginning late Sunday night, when the mercury stood at 81, a sudden drop was experienced, and by breakfast time Monday the thermometer registered 59, and by nightfall stood at 57.

The previous low average record for this day was made on June 9, 1897, when the average temperature for the entire day was 61 degrees. Monday's average was 58, bettering it by three degrees.

Not Coldest Day in June. While Monday was extremely cold, it was not the coldest day in June, that occurring June 1, 1899, when the thermometer registered 39 degrees.

The average temperature for Monday was far lower than the average for the month of June, that being 75.5 degrees.

The sudden drop in temperature caused the farmers to "uncle" to get out of cold storage overcoats which the owners had thought could be laid aside at financial profit until winter.

High Winds on Monday. A high wind which played the weather wits the duty light skirts hither and thither, and caused the summer hats to tug at their scant moorings.

Those who suffered the most were the bare-footed newbies, who covered in corners of the big skyscrapers, and with their feet sticking out all about the murder.

Housewives who did their own work found that kittle had discovered a near Florida by the stove, and that kittle preferred the warm pantry to the kitchen.

According to the weather bureau, Atlanta is in for a spell of cold weather, and for the next four or five days it is thought that the temperature will fall. While no storms are predicted, it is probable that a little cloudy weather will be experienced.

According to Weather Observer Von Hermann, this sudden drop in temperature was caused by some disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico, but exactly what he does not know.

Cotton Crop Not Hurt. Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Conner, when seen at his office in the state capitol Monday in reference to the probable effect of the cold upon the cotton crop, was inclined to take a sanguine view of the situation.

He did not think that the cotton had been damaged to any material degree by the low temperature so far, and would not suffer much, provided the cold did not last too long.

"Of course, cotton cannot stand very much cold," he said, "but it is a continued spell of cold that hurts it most. We have had colder weather in June, one day in particular, some years ago, when it was cold enough for frost. Of course, if it continues cold for several days it will hurt, but I do not think farmers need be alarmed yet."

"Weather conditions are unfavorable today, it is true, but the cotton crop has such a good start and our reports from most sections of the state indicate that the outlook has improved greatly in the last ten days and the crop generally is in excellent shape."

The Man Who Needs a suit of clothes, a hat, a pair of shoes or anything else for his personal comfort and adornment—the man who doesn't know where to go to buy—should read The Constitution advertisements.

When he does, he buys to best advantage. This season of the year generally finds many men with depleted wardrobes.

The things that lasted through winter and survived the early part of spring, now look ancient and woe-begone.

These must be replaced by the new-comers in the realm of things to wear. Business demands are such that most men must dress well, and naturally most men are just as eager to exercise economy as most women.

The Constitution will help you surprisingly, sir. Read them, and when you need a particular thing in clothing or its adjuncts, you will know precisely where to go when you start out to buy.

OVER THE BALKANS WAR CLOUD HOVERS

Servia and Greece in Better Position for War Than Bulgaria—Awaiting Reply to Servian Note.

London, June 9.—With both sides stubborn in refusing to make the slightest concession, war between the Balkan states is hourly becoming more imminent.

Bulgaria sends a negative reply to the Servian note, and nothing indicates that she will answer otherwise. Servia and Greece are in a better position in this respect, but also occupy superior strategic positions. These facts probably account for the calmness with which Servia apparently regards the prospects of war.

A Sofia dispatch to The Daily Mail discussed the question of providing Servia with a commercial outlet to the sea. A tentative plan was outlined and will be submitted to the home government for further consideration.

The Bulgarian reply to the Servian note, the dispatch adds, will be to the effect that Bulgaria is not in a position to make concessions of any kind, as she feels that she is absolutely in the right and that Servia's claims are totally unfounded.

Servia Prepared for War. Belgrade, Servia, June 9.—General Radomir Putnik, chief of the general staff of the Servian army, arrived here today by special train to attend the war council which will be held under the presidency of the king.

The Bulgarian reply to the Servian note respecting a revision of the treaty of alliance, which it is believed will be in the negative, is expected at an early date. Preparations for war continue, and the hospitals are being reopened.

Does Georgia want a colony of Japs? That is a question which the people of this state may have to answer for themselves in the near future.

Governor Brown was in receipt yesterday of a letter from B. F. Johnson, president of the Johnson American Land Exchange, of Washington, D. C., inquiring whether or not Georgia had a law prohibiting the alien ownership of land or placing any restrictions thereon.

Mr. Johnson said that he represented a colony of thirty or forty Japanese, who were being forced out of California by the alien land ownership law recently enacted in that state, and who were seeking a location in Georgia.

The writer said further that he had been in correspondence with the owner of the land, and that the latter was willing to sell to the Japs. He wanted to know whether the laws of the state made any discrimination against them and also whether there was any public sentiment against their settlement here.

The letter added that the eyes of the white-brown men were now being turned to the south, since things had been made so difficult for them in the Pacific slope states, and he did not doubt that there would be a colony of several hundred to locate here in the near future provided there was nothing in the way of their acquisition of land and their coming was not displeasing to the people.

Governor Brown said that he did not know of any law on the statute books of Georgia that would prevent the Japanese or anybody else who had the money to buy it from acquiring land in this state, but he would refer to Mr. Johnson to the attorney general for an expert opinion on the subject.

Plug Hat Luncheon. The plug hat luncheon given by the Baltimore Ad club Monday was quite a success. The main social feature of Monday was the big parade and advertising pageant. One hundred and fifty national advertising floats were in line. Atlanta delegation marched behind a huge Coca-Cola float and carried electric torches with "Atlanta Always Ahead" inscribed in large letters.

W. L. Halstead and Henry Grady are taking in every phase of the convention. Ivan Allen, president of Atlanta convention bureau, has been taking copious notes. President Harry Goodhart takes the convention as a very serious affair. The convention is a big success, and we are having a royal good time.

Woodhead is Next President. After William Woodhead, of San Francisco, and Herbert S. Houston, of New York, had been nominated for the presidency of the organization, Mr. Woodhead was given a clean field by the withdrawal of Mr. Houston, who appeared personally before the convention and requested that his name be dropped. The election of Mr. Woodhead will take place tomorrow.

Among those who made addresses at the afternoon session were William Shaw, of The Christian Endeavor World, of Boston, and James Keeler, of The Chicago Tribune.

A message from President Woodrow Wilson to President Coleman was brought into the convention hall this afternoon by Frank J. Ruth, one of ten Marathon runners of the Baltimore Cross Country club. The start was made from the white house at 11:34 o'clock this forenoon and the finish line in the Fifth regiment armory was crossed at 4:16 o'clock. The distance of a little over 40 miles was covered in 4 hours and 42 minutes.

President Wilson's Letter. President Wilson's message was: "My Dear Mr. Coleman: Allow me to avail myself of this occasion of the great meeting of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America to send my warm greetings to the convention and to express my hope that your session may give a fresh impulse to the work of your organization. Your slogan, 'Truth in Advertising,' ought to win to you, if lived up to, the support and admiration of the business community. Sincerely yours, 'WOODROW WILSON.'"

FAILING THE FIRST TIME, HE TRIES MATRIMONY AGAIN ONLY TO LAND IN CALABOOSE

Mobile, Ala., June 9.—John Fowler, a local inventor, whose first wife, procured through an advertisement in a local newspaper a year ago, left him eight days after the ceremony, took a second venture into matrimony today. He married Mrs. Mary S. Maupin, where three children, he said, would be surety for her regular appearance at home.

Hardly had the fire on the new hearth been lighted tonight when a police officer stepped in and arrested the bridegroom on a charge of being a dangerous and suspicious character. The officer said the fire was too large for such a warm evening.

Mrs. Maupin took Mr. Fowler as her first husband twelve years ago in the house in which President Wilson was born, in Staunton, Va.

ATLANTA AD MEN OWN BALTIMORE

Gaily-Clad Local Delegation Showing Maryland People Why the Gate City Is Always in Lead.

Baltimore, Md., June 9.—(Special)—Nattily attired in gray suits, the delegates from Atlanta arrived at union station Sunday noon. There were forty men in the party, arriving over the Birmingham special of the Southern railroad, accompanied by ten delegates from Birmingham and five from Lynchburg, Va.

The delegation was generous in its advertisement for Atlanta. The word Atlanta was emblazoned on the special coaches. Each Atlanta delegate, with his gray suit, blue tie, straw hat with a blue band, blue silk hose and tan shoes, carried a cane and white umbrella.

L. D. Hicks, our advance agent, had secured a huge tallyho. This was drawn through the streets of Baltimore by six beautiful black horses. Everywhere the delegation stopped, registration headquarters, hotels and at Druid Hill park, where the address of President George W. Coleman was delivered during the afternoon, they attracted considerable attention.

Albert S. Adams is chairman of the delegation, which is quartered at Hotel Bennett. Sunday night was given over to exchanging visits among the delegations.

Monday's session opened with George W. Coleman, president, presiding. Addresses of welcome were made by the governor of Maryland, Mayor James H. Preston and Edward J. Shay, president of the Advertising Club of Baltimore. Fred Johnson, of Dallas, Texas, responded.

Toronto, Canada, has been selected for the 1914 convention. It is reported that the government of Maryland, Mayor James H. Preston and Edward J. Shay, president of the Advertising Club of Baltimore, and Chicago will both announce for 1915. Atlanta wants the ad men in 1916.

The Monday afternoon session was given over to a general meeting, with addresses by prominent advertising men on the scope and purposes of the convention.

Ladies attending the convention have been given more courtesies than ever before at an ad men's convention. Among the entertainments for them are an all-day boat trip and an auto tour.

Warring Thing of Past, Taft, Cannon, Underwood, Clark, Lunch Together

Washington, June 9.—Former President Taft spent several hours today with other members of the Lincoln Memorial commission, going over plans for the new $2,000,000 memorial to be erected in Washington.

PROBE APPLIED TO EX-CONGRESSMEN

Lobby Investigating Committee Convinced It Has Seen a Flash of Underground Workings of a Lobby.

Washington, June 9.—Turning away from the examination of colleagues who might have been influenced in matters of legislation, the senate lobby investigating committee late today began to inquire into the Washington pursuits of those who might have exercised the influence.

With only half a dozen senators yet to take the witness stand, the majority of the committee is convinced that it has seen a flash of the underground workings of a lobby and believes that only patient search is needed to reveal the trail that will lead to the quarry.

The minority members, apparently are not so certain that an "insidious" lobby will be discovered. The few senators who have not been heard are out of the city and will testify before the hearings are concluded.

Former Congressmen Examined. One former senator and four former representatives today admitted more or less interest in legislation at the capitol, but none would say that he considered his cause unjust, or that he had done anything improper.

Their work has been done in the open, they said, and consisted mostly in the filing of briefs before committees of congress, making oral arguments in behalf of clients and arranging for hearings for their employers.

Senator Reed, the principal inquirer, apparently expected to show that many men spend most of their time in Washington, with nothing to do but convince congress it is wrong about particular legislation.

Former Senator Charles A. Faulkner, of West Virginia, the first witness from the outside, told the committee he represented twenty-two of the big railroads of the country, and had represented them here for many years.

Knows of No Lobby. Faulkner said he knew of no lobby that had ever been brought before him in reference to railroad matters for the purpose of influencing members of congress.

"My business has been to find bills that affect railroads, send them to my clients, and give my opinion of them," he said. "If the railroads had something they regard as prejudicial or if they need amendment, they notify me to arrange a hearing before the committee in charge."

Senator Cummins said Faulkner had appeared four or five times before him and that questions of issue had been argued as they came in court.

The other former congressional witnesses were J. A. T. Hull, of Iowa; A. W. Kopp, of Wisconsin; Charles S. Bennett, of New York; and Charles B. Landis, of Indiana.

Two Years in Washington. Mr. Hull said he had been out of congress for two years, and had been in Washington most of the time since. He had represented an association of corn products manufacturers in connection with the pending tariff bill presenting his case by filing briefs with the house ways and means committee, and sending letters to senators.

He had talked with Senator Cummins because the latter was familiar with the duties in which he was interested also in legislation for the Veterinarian Association of the United States, which wished to obtain commissioned ranking for its members in the army; for a Mr. Baker, of Philadelphia, who was interested in the duty on coconuts, and for representatives of the government of Ecuador, who wished

Using Child's Body as Shield Cleveland Man Escapes From Vengeful Father With a Gun

Cleveland, June 9.—The police and a crowd which today attacked Helen Leproski, aged 3, and used the child's body as a shield when her father attempted to shoot him.

Helen and her baby brother sleep beside the window on the first floor of their home. About 3 p. m. Mrs. Leproski heard a scream, and looking toward the window saw the arm of a man withdraw from the room with the head clutching the struggling form of little Helen.

Leproski got a shotgun. The man was caught in the back yard but shielded himself with the child until he could back around a building and escape. Two suspects are held. Physicians say the child has a good chance of recovery.

Preacher Would Substitute The Physical Examination For Marriage License Law

New York, June 9.—Diverse views of the eugenic movement are held in New York churches. Several addresses on the subject were delivered from local pulpits yesterday.

The Rev. George W. Grinton, secretary of the Methodist conference of New York, attacked the activity of churches in the movement as a "ten-day fit of hysteria." He declared the betterment of the race would be furthered best by education and by the day fit of hysteria.

He declared the present marriage license law which would require examination by state physicians of applicants for a marriage license.

RIGHT OF STATE TO CONTROL INTRASTATE RATES IS UPHELD

BACON CONTINUES FIGHT ON BLALOCK

Tells President That Hitch Must Be Cared For—Resents Senator Smith's Attitude Toward Appointments.

Washington, June 9.—(Special)—The announcement that A. O. Blalock, of Fayetteville, has been selected for collector of internal revenue for Georgia to succeed Henry S. Jackson, and that his nomination would shortly be sent to the senate, is premature.

This is one of the officers whose jurisdiction extends over the whole state, including the southern as well as the northern judicial circuits.

Under the agreement entered into between the two Georgia senators, Senator Bacon has put forward Blalock in the northern district and Senator Bacon in the southern. Both have announced their choice for collector of internal revenue. Senator Smith is supporting Mr. Blalock and Senator Bacon has put forward Hitch.

Senator Bacon called at the white house today to present to the president the name of Joseph S. Davis, of Albany, for appointment as marshal for the southern district of Georgia, and David C. Barrow for appointment as collector of the port of Savannah.

President Wilson received these suggestions and then himself brought up the question of the collectorship and advised Senator Bacon that he had decided to give the position to Hitch.

Senator Bacon said that he had not joined in making the nomination, and it would most emphatically not be acceptable to him. He said he had a candidate for the position in Mr. Hitch, and that unless the latter was provided with an equally good place, he would continue to urge Mr. Hitch for collector. Until this is done, he has no other candidate for the office.

The president suggested to Senator Bacon that he and Senator Smith confer and endeavor to reach an agreement.

Effect Written Statement. Later in the day Senator Bacon filed with the president a written statement of his attitude and a request that no nomination be sent to the senate until he and Senator Smith agreed upon a nominee.

In view of Senator Bacon's opposition to Mr. Blalock, the report that the latter would be nominated, is therefore, premature to say the least of it. Of course, he may land later, but it will only come about through Mr. Bacon being given a position equally as good and which will satisfy all parties.

Delay in Davis Nomination. Senator Bacon's action in withholding until today the nomination of Joseph S. Davis for marshal of the southern district, was out of courtesy to Senator Smith, and not an indication that he has ever wavered in his support. Two months ago Mr. Bacon made up his mind, and he has stood by Mr. Davis ever since.

Under the agreement between the two senators designed to promote harmony and amity, neither was to appoint anyone whom the other objected to for these reasons.

According to Senator Bacon, the nominee must not be one whose active political rank and position might make him personally offensive, but a friend of one senator was not to be turned down merely because he had opposed the other politically and in a fair and legitimate way.

According to Senator Smith, one who had actively opposed his political campaigns ought not to be nominated by his colleague, Senator Bacon.

Question Still Open. This question of interpretation of the agreement is still open. It would require a supreme court decision to finally settle it.

This question of interpretation came up when Senator Bacon notified Senator Smith that he intended to nominate Joseph S. Davis for marshal. Senator Smith replied that Mr. Davis was his political opponent, and indicated that the agreement between them as forbidding an anti-Smith man from being named in south Georgia.

Senator Bacon took immediate offense, and he said that he could not afford to turn down a life-long friend because he had happened to get off Senator Smith's political reservation. Thus the situation continued for weeks, Senator Bacon standing firmly by his nominee, and Senator Smith construing the agreement between them as forbidding an anti-Smith man from being named in south Georgia.

Finally last week Senator Bacon concluded he had waited as long as courtesy to his colleague and a decent regard for their agreement warranted him in waiting. On Saturday afternoon he gave out his decision, and today he recommended Mr. Davis to the president.

Both Senators have expressed to the other the desire that there should be no friction or disagreement between them over federal patronage, but Senator Smith is seeking to keep any of his political opponents out of the office. Senator Bacon is insisting that he will not sacrifice his personal friends because they did not happen to support Senator Smith. If Senator Smith continues to show a disposition to dictate south Georgia appointments, Senator Bacon will stick his finger in the door.

There will come a tug of war such as has rent with dissension the senators from other states.

COMPTROLLER ISSUES CALL FOR STATEMENTS

Washington, June 9.—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks of the United States for the close of business Wednesday, June 5.

Substantial Victory Won by the State of Minnesota in Decision of United States Supreme Court.

DECISION WILL AFFECT MANY PENDING CASES

Justice Hughes Holds in Decision That the Authority of the State Over Intrastate Transportation Is State-Wide.

Washington, June 9.—The power of the states to fix reasonable intrastate rates on interstate railroads until such time as congress shall choose to regulate rates was upheld today by the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota freight and passenger rate case.

At the same time the court laid down far-reaching principles governing the valuation of railroad property for rate-making purposes, and, according to these, held that the state of Minnesota would confiscate the property of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad company by its maximum freight and 2-cent passenger fare law. It enjoined the state from enforcing these laws, as to this road for the present.

In the cases of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, however, the court held that these roads had failed to show that the rates were "unreasonable" or confiscatory, and consequently reversed the United States district court for Minnesota, which had enjoined their enforcement, as both confiscatory and a burden on interstate commerce.

Considered for Fourteen Months. The decision, regarded as one of the most important ever announced by the court, had been under consideration for fourteen months. Railroad commissions from eight states and the governors of all the states filed briefs in support of the states in the cases, recognizing that the principles involved affected them all.

Rate cases from Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon, Kentucky and West Virginia were not decided today, but the points announced in the Minnesota cases are regarded as governing them generally. These cases probably will be disposed of tomorrow, when the court will hold another session, as it will also do on Monday, June 16, the final day of adjournment for the term.

The criticism of the apportionment of value between interstate and intrastate business on a gross revenue basis and the apportionment of expenses by regarding intrastate business as two and a half times as expensive as interstate business, was regarded here as favorable to the state of Missouri in its fight to uphold the validity of the maximum freight and 2-cent passenger law enacted by it.

Effect in Other States. Similar confidence was inspired in advocates of the Arkansas state rate regulations, but all recognized that

REVISION OF TAX BIGGEST PROBLEM

Treasurer Speer Regards the Question as Most Important This Year—Moon Has Drawn Bill.

That the revision of the tax system so as to put the state on a better financial basis is by far the most important problem that will engage the attention of the legislature this summer was the opinion of state Treasurer W. J. Speer expressed yesterday. Mr. Speer believes that a much larger revenue may be raised, without any increase of the tax rate which the voters will hardly consent to by putting tax assessments throughout the state on a just and equitable basis.

Outlook for Solution Good.

"The great problem in Georgia now is to get all the property that belongs there on the tax books and to set it entered at a valuation that will deal justly with all the taxpayers without discrimination," he said. If the legislature this year solves this problem, it will have done more for the people of the state than any other legislative body in recent years. It is an old question and a difficult one but I believe the outlook for its solution this year is better than it has been in a long time.

"I know that we had a law providing for tax equalizers some years ago but the law proved unpopular and was repealed. I am certain, however, that if we try a law now providing for equal taxation among individuals and counties, the people will in time come to recognize the elementary justice of it and give it their indorsement."

The Case of Kansas.

The treasurer cited, as an illustration of what might be expected from a proper revision of the law, the remarkable change in Kansas brought about by the reorganization of the tax system of that state.

"A short time ago," he said, "the tax rate in Kansas was from 5 to 10 mills and there was a world of complaint among the people about the burden of taxation. Since the law has been changed, taxable values in that state have jumped from $700,000,000 to about two billions, and the tax rate has been reduced to less than 2 mills so you see that with a legislature that will hold down appropriations to a strictly economical basis, there will be no increase in the tax burden by a change in the law so as to compel fair returns."

Mr. Speer was not familiar with the details of the Kansas law, but he knew that it had worked a remarkable revolution in conditions in that state in a very short time.

The Comptroller Hopeful.

Comptroller General Wright is more hopeful of a tax revision law by this general assembly than he has been in years. He said:

"There seems to be more serious interest taken in the subject by members of the legislature than has been heretofore. I believe a good law will be enacted this summer. It will go a long way towards securing the proper legislation if the press will keep the matter alive before the people."

It was learned that another member of the incoming house has prepared a bill dealing with the subject of tax revision, namely B. T. Moon, one of the representatives from Troup. This makes three members of the incoming house who are known to be giving serious attention to the subject. F. A. Lipscomb, of Clarke, and O. V. Gower, of Crisp, being the other two. Attention has already been called to the work of the last two in the direction of tax reform.

Noted Illustrator Gives Aid To Uncle Remus Association

Mrs. H. H. Fudge, chairman of the postcard and souvenir committee of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, is to be congratulated on her efficient and successful work. The postcards and souvenirs have been so popular and the sales so encouraging that Mrs. Fudge decided to get out some new designs—among them another picture of Uncle Remus.

Through the kindness of Miss Katherine Wooten, of the Carnegie library, Mrs. Fudge has received permission from Mr. Frost, the famous illustrator to whom Mr. Joel Chandler Harris dedicated one of his popular books, to photograph his studies in the beautiful Uncle Remus fireplace in the children's reading room at Carnegie library. Mr. Frost not only wrote Miss Wooten giving his consent for the Uncle Remus association to make copies of this artistic fireplace and mantel, but offered to contribute a drawing of a rabbit for the Wren's Nest.

The Uncle Remus mantel and fireplace is one of the attractions at Carnegie library. It is composed of thirteen blue and white tiles which were made from the original drawings of Uncle Remus and the Little Boy, Brer Rabbit, Brer Fox, Sis Cow, etc. The panel above the fireplace is white bordered with laurel leaves in the center of which surrounded by a wreath of laurel stands a little rabbit.

On each side of the wreath of laurel above the fireplace are the following lines:

"The world is so full of a number of things, I am sure we should all be as happy as kings"

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS TO GREET DR. MULLER

Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs Comes to U. S. to Repay Root's Visit.

Washington, June 9.—Senator Root, Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, Dudley Field Malone, assistant secretary of state, and a distinguished party of officials left here today on the government yacht's Mayflower, Sylphy and Dolphin for Hampton Roads to greet Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, who lands there tomorrow.

The Brazilian minister comes to repay the visit of Mr. Root to South America, when he was secretary of state. An elaborate program of official functions has been arranged for the distinguished guest while he is in this country.

The official party from Washington is expected to arrive in Hampton Roads tomorrow, when a convoy of American warships will steam out to sea to meet the Brazilian warship, Minas Geraes, aboard which is the Brazilian minister. After being received by Secretary Bryan and inspecting Fort Monroe, the party will leave for Washington tomorrow night. Wednesday Minister Muller will be received by President Wilson, who will give a reception in his honor.

Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels, John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, Ambassador Da Gama, of Brazil, Senior Rodriguez, editor The Journal de Commercio, Rio de Janeiro, a close personal friend of Dr. Muller, B. L. Chermont, counselor, Lieutenant Commander Aquino, naval attaché, and J. F. de Barros Pimentel, second secretary, all of the Brazilian embassy here, General Erasmus M. Weaver, chief of coast artillery, Lieutenant Commander B. C. Bulmer, United States navy, Captain Le Vert Coleman, United States army, and Charles Lee Cooke, state department attaché, were among the officers in the welcoming party.

Brazilian Ship Off Coast.

Norfolk, Va. June 9.—The Brazilian dreadnaught Minas Geraes, bearing Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, coming to the United States to return the official visit to Brazil by former Secretary of State Root, was today proceeding slowly up the coast, expecting to be off the Virginia capes early tomorrow.

LAGRANGE FIGHTING A LEAGUE RULING

LaGrange, Ga. June 9.—(Special).—A special called meeting of the directors of the Ga.-Ala. league will be held in Gadsden Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of investigating what is termed the insubordination of the LaGrange ball team management in regard to paying men who have participated in games in higher leagues.

President Boykin has fined LaGrange $100 and has ordered that the team remove from its ranks two of the following three men: Zack Schuesler, pitcher; E. O. Beasley, pitcher, and Fred Newkirk, first baseman.

The team is entitled to one man who has played in higher leagues, so it is allowed by the ruling to keep one of those three. LaGrange is fighting the ruling and has refused to pay the fine on the ground that Schuesler has participated in only one game and Beasley also in only one in higher class and for this reason were only tried out in higher leagues and are not legally barred from playing.

The LaGrange fans are indignant over the matter and the club officers claim they are living up to the league laws in every way.

NEW COUNTY ADVOCATES SECURE HEADQUARTERS

Boosters of Movement to Give Metter a Courthouse Lodged in the New Kimball.

The committee in charge of the movement to create the new county of Candler is the first in the field in the matter of securing headquarters in Atlanta, in anticipation of the coming legislative session. Secretary F. H. Sills, of Metter, was here Saturday and secured two rooms on the parlor floor of the Kimball hotel, where the people of Metter will entertain their friends.

This is only a beginning. By the time the legislature meets the hotel lobby will present the appearance of a full fledged convention, with banners streaming in every direction, announcing various new county movements.

"We have received some splendid assurances of support," said Mr. Sills, "and I am more confident than ever that the coming legislature will authorize the establishment of Candler county, with Metter as the county seat. We have received pledges of support from 113 out of 124 members of the house of representatives, which is more than two-thirds majority, and I believe some of the others will come to us when the time comes."

EMORY PLEADS TODAY FOR COLLEGE SPORTS

Students and the Alumni Join Forces—Dr. Dickey, Foe to Movement, Re-Elected.

Oxford, Ga. June 9.—(Special).—Dr. James L. Dickey, who is quoted as declaring he would resign if intercollegiate athletics were ever introduced at Emory college, was re-elected today for the usual three-year term at the first meeting of the trustees.

At the same time the trustees, after considerable argument, decided that they would allow the student body and the alumni one hour Tuesday morning in which to put forth their plea for the introduction of the system of athletics, that is allowed in practically every other college in the country and which the students and a number of the trustees claim is the only cure for the falling off in attendance of the Oxford institution.

Those favoring the new system claim that the election of Dr. Dickey to this position again does not necessarily mean that their cause is lost, as numbers of the trustees have already declared themselves in favor of the change in athletics.

Lauren Foreman, of Atlanta, and J. E. Mathews, president of the Student Body association, will appear before the trustees Tuesday morning in behalf of the petition and both will make short talks. Mr. Foreman will represent the alumni who are clamoring for the change, and Mr. Mathews, who is known as the best speaker and debater in Oxford, will speak for the student body, which is unanimously with him.

At the election of college officials Dr. C. B. Eard, of the Woman's college, of Tallahassee, Fla. was chosen to succeed Professor A. G. Sanders in the chair of Greek. Dr. Boyd is a graduate of Wofford college and received his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Wisconsin.

No one has yet been secured to take the place of Dr. F. N. Duncan, of the chair of biology, who has resigned to accept a similar position in a new university in Dallas, Texas.

BOY DIES AS RESULT OF EXPLODING CAPS

Jesup, Ga. June 9.—(Special).—The 15-year-old son of farmer Bud Kennedy, who is wounded Saturday morning when a box of percussion caps exploded in his pocket, died last night soon after his leg was amputated near the hip joint.

The boy was badly cut and torn by the force of the explosion and his hip was almost blown off between the hip and knee and the thigh bone was shattered.

GUNMEN ARRESTED AFTER PAYING FINES FOR DEPREDATIONS

Jesup, Ga. June 9.—(Special).—Sol and Jake Williams, who terrorized West Broad street Sunday night, pleaded guilty in the charge of drunk and disorderly conduct in police court this morning and were fined $30 with an alternative of sixty days on the streets.

The fine was paid this afternoon and the men were rearrested on warrants charging Sol Williams with carrying a pistol concealed and with pointing a pistol at another not in self-defense. Jake Williams was charged with assault and battery in two cases.

Both men demanded indictment by the grand jury which meets next November. Sol Williams is being held under a bond of $250 and Jake Williams is under a bond of $300 pending action by the grand jury.

GEORGIA DRUGGISTS MEET IN COLUMBUS

Columbus, Ga. June 9.—(Special).—Druggists from various sections of the state are arriving tonight to attend the annual session of the Georgia Pharmaceutical association which begins Tuesday morning. The sessions will be held in the superior courtroom.

The convention will last two days and will be marked by papers, addresses and entertainment features.

Several distinguished members of the profession from other southern states will attend as special guests of the association.

WORLD CONFERENCE OF ADVENTISTS ENDS

Washington, June 9.—The world conference of Seventh Day Adventists concluded its twenty-four-day quadrennial session at Takoma Park, Md., and thousands of delegates from all parts of the world left for their homes. The next meeting place has not yet been selected.

The only business transacted today was the appointment of Elder A. J. Haymer, of Nashville, Tenn. as president of the West Indian conference, and of Elder W. R. White, of South Lancaster, Mass., as president of the South African Union conference, with headquarters at Capetown.

JESUP MEN INJURED WHEN MULE RUNS AWAY

Jesup, Ga. June 9.—(Special).—J. V. Roberson, a well-known sawmill man, and Dan Lane, a farmer, were painfully injured in a runaway this morning when they were caught between an overturned buggy and a tree.

The men were driving a mule down the street when the animal became frightened and shied around a corner, capsizing the buggy, throwing the men against a tree.

Roberson was severely injured in the back and side, having six ribs broken. Lane's injuries consisted of a broken hand and bruises on the body where he struck the tree.

New Gray Suits Of Tropical Worsteds

In hot weather fabrics the smooth surfaced light weight worsteds have perhaps held the popular vote for the longest time.

Suits are cut in the conventional sack style, the current code of fashion for summer being comfort.

Of the lately arrived patterns, a cool gray, produced by the gentle mingling of black and white, is just the color effect desired; and, though there are three pieces to the suit, you may wear only two or one, as the occasion may require.

TECHS QUARTER CENTENARY

The Georgia School of Technology is celebrating its quarter centenary. The best vindication of the school's mission is found in the biographical sketches of its first graduating class of ten students published in yesterday's Constitution. There is George G. Crawford president of the Tennessee Coal Iron and Railroad company. This concern is a subsidiary of the United States steel corporation. It is in effect the southern branch of that great industry. Mr. Crawford has steadily risen since he first allied himself with the steel industry until finally he was placed in charge of the Birmingham plant. Under his supervision the steel company's activities in the Birmingham district had made it crowd Pittsburg as an iron and steel producing center. Oscar Elsas is another graduate of the Tech's first class. He is now first assistant and main reliance of his father Jacob Elsas president of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills one of the greatest textile industries of the south and in line for succession to its presidency. J. B. McCrary a classmate of Crawford and Elsas is head of the J. B. McCrary company well known as engineers and contractors and dealers in stock and bonds. W. H. Glenn is now vice president of the Georgia Railway and Power company. H. I. DeWine manager of the DeWine projects throughout the south also supervised the construction of these various enterprises. The remaining members of the class have likewise found their way into constructive work and achievement of the highest order. They have been and are in the first rank of the firing line of the new south taking a dominant part in that practical construction which is so rapidly placing the south at the front of the nation. Each succeeding class has accomplished in proportion to the pioneer class and each year the demand for Tech graduates far exceeds the supply. The Georgia School of Technology is among the states best assets.

It is a pity to have to record that the school has won this pre-eminence and furnished master builders to the south and the nation despite a policy of parsimony on part of the state that has at times amounted to restriction. The appropriations that successive legislatures have given the institution have been literally begged and wheedled by its heads and friends addressing the legislature and legislative committees in behalf of the actual needs of the school. This has been made to feel that they were asking aims of the state. Where they have asked for a dollar lest the school stagnate they have been given half a dollar and told then to be thankful. To the shame of Georgia be it said that this one of its most achieving institutions has been built almost upon mendacity. The story is no different from that of the University of Georgia. For several consecutive years that institution has asked the legislature for a relatively nominal appropriation for the construction of a central heating plant. A plant of that sort would within a short time save its first cost by economizing on insurance and on coal. Coal turn-downs have been the

"too poor," says the state! Just a year ago President Matheson, of the Tech, told the general assembly that friends of the institution and of industrial education would donate to it a power plant, complete and modern in every mechanical detail and valued at $100,000, if the school would provide the $50,000 for a building to house the plant. And he, too, got a turn-down for an answer, the sole excuse being—"too poor."

The thrusting of mendacity upon the men who are equipping the future citizens of Georgia is bad enough. The libeling of this state as poverty stricken is worse, it is indefensible in proportion to population, Georgia is the richest state in the south, gauged by those assets which allow other states to deal generously in matters of education, it is one of the richest in the union. Considering the tremendous value of the state road, a public asset unique in America Georgia owns millions of dollars over and above every cent it owes. The state road is not, of course for sale. But it is an asset, nevertheless. And if for example the state of Georgia should see fit to liquidate, it could retire all of its bonds and every other form of indebtedness and leave a tremendous book balance on the credit side of the ledger. And that is not to mention Georgia's other assets the marvelous increase of its farm land values and the enhancement of its city real estate and steady appreciation of value on part of its manufactured and agricultural products.

Tech and Georgia and the other schools have thrived and discharged their missions despite this miserly and unsupported plea of poverty from the state. Isn't it time for the legislature in justice to the future of this state to turn over a new leaf?

SUICIDE, NOT "MARTYRDOM"

The British militant suffragettes will, of course now acclaim Emily Wilding Davison a martyr. The misguided advocate of votes for women who flung herself in front of the king's horse at the derby is a simple suicide and not a martyr. She was a victim of her own aberration and hysteria. The suffragette claim that the government is responsible for her death is true only to this extent—that the deplorable weakness of the government in dealing with the anarchy and nihilism of the suffragette campaign has made the self destruction of this unbalanced woman possible.

Miss Davison's last protest endangered not only her own life but the lives of others. Her plunge into the field of flying horses came near causing the death of several jockeys. One of them, indeed is now at death's door. The lives of others would have been snuffed out had the woman succeeded in her original effort to thrust herself into the very center of the course. Her end was entirely characteristic of her career in behalf of universal suffrage—violent reckless of herself and of others. Several times she had been ejected from parliament houses where she had secreted herself. She was suspected of attempted assassination. She was an advocate of the torch.

And now she is celebrated as a martyr to the cause. It is pitiful! For men are apt more than ever to be inspired by caution in extending the ballot to women who can glorify such wanton insanity. The main reproach to the British government is that it should have been so nervous in dealing with the situation. When first the campaign of lawbreaking began it should have been sternly repressed. Instead it has paltered and coaxed and compromised until incendiarism and violence have reached into an ascending scale finding a climax in melodramatic suicide and destined in all probability to go yet farther lengths of pathetic ferocity. Here is presented the curious paradox of that nation renowned beyond all others for its pitiless suppression of the outlaw mouth in trembling and helpless before a band of ferocious petticoats.

MR JORDAN'S FIRST LETTER

Elsewhere the Constitution publishes the first of a series of European letters from Harvie Jordan of Atlanta. Mr. Jordan who is an authority on agriculture is now in Europe as a member of the federal commission to study rural credits and other features of European agriculture. The report to be made to congress by this body of experts will undoubtedly be the basis for widespread rural reforms in this country.

Mr. Jordan's first letter deals instructively with the land banks of Italy, the wonderful agricultural system of that and adjacent countries and the splendid high ways of the old world. It presents in brief compass facts with which the farmer and the business man should familiarize himself; he expects to keep abreast of the tide of development in agriculture just now beginning its flow.

STATE PRESS PRAISES BIG WOMAN'S EDITION

A Big Success. (From Fitzgerald Leader-Enterprise) We congratulate the Woman's club and its state editors on the excellent articles and the scope of their ambitious program for the educational moral and economic uplift in the state. The volume contained 126 pages, and every page seems to carry a message of importance to the public. Splendid Piece of Work. (From Cedartown Standard) The Woman's club edition of The Atlanta Constitution is a splendid piece of work. We are glad that city officials at the instance of the Cedartown Woman's club saw to it that Cedartown was represented with our sister cities in this mammoth edition. A Handsome Paper. (From Adel News) The woman's edition of the Atlanta Constitution was an unusually handsome paper beautifully illustrated and all the articles were splendidly written. A Mammoth Sheet. (From Cuthbert Leader) The woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution issued yesterday is a mammoth sheet that makes a fine appearance. Great in Every Respect. (From Dalton News Era) Hats off to the club women of Georgia! The woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution issued by them June 4 was great in every respect and was something of which every Georgian may well be proud.

A Credit to the Promoters. (From Douglas County Sentinel) That woman's edition of The Constitution Wednesday was a hummer. It was full of well edited matter and a credit to the promoters of the enterprise. A Superb Newspaper. (From Dalton Citizen) The woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution issued Wednesday is a superb newspaper. The good women who handled this mammoth edition deserve much credit for everything interesting, instructive and entertaining to women was handled ably indicating that the editors know a great deal about journalism.

A Mammoth Sheet. (From Lumpkin Independent) The woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution issued Wednesday is a mammoth sheet that makes a fine appearance. A Nice Edition. (From Murray News) The Atlanta Constitution in its edition of Wednesday issued a woman's edition consisting of about 126 pages and devoted to womanhood in Georgia generally. The edition was issued by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs for the Ella I. White memorial fund and was a handsome and creditable affair.

A Model Enterprise. (From Rome Tribune Herald) The special edition of The Atlanta Constitution which bore the title of The Woman's Edition was a model of newspaper enterprise both geographically and from a journalistic standpoint.

The Best Yet. (From Bainswick News) The woman's edition of The Atlanta Constitution under the auspices of the federated women's clubs of Georgia is by far the best work of its kind ever published in Georgia or the south.

The Talk of the Day. (From Union Banner) The magnificent 126 page edition of The Atlanta Constitution gotten out by the women's clubs of Georgia was the subject of much favorable comment in Athens. The ladies and The Constitution are both to be commended and complimented.

HELP THE OLD NEGROES A WORTHY APPEAL

I did not know that I observed in Friday's Constitution in effort to persist in old bodyguards (ex-slaves) of southern soldiers. This is a noble sentiment. I know in my right negro Sam Brown who lives near Folsom De Witt county Georgia who carried his young mistress dead body from the field of battle in Virginia. Dr. Thomas J. Hays grand son of Patrick Henry also owned a large farm in Decatur county on the Florida line being a surgeon of the Second Florida regiment. Dr. Henry made his favorite servant Winston his body servant for nearly three years in Virginia. I have often heard Winston relate how he helped Dr. Henry amputate legs. I jump all day after battles. This faithful old negro died last summer practically neglected by everybody and in great poverty. It was my fortune to find him just before he died and to soothe him on his dying pillow and I thought then that the state ought to aid all such faithful old negroes as he. (DR.) T. A. Air Navies Still Experimental

(From The Cleveland Plain Dealer) The Italians in Tripoli and the Bulgarians in Thrace have not found the zero plane any essential part of the machinery of modern war. Their armies were well supplied with airplanes and with skillful and intrepid aviators. But neither Italians nor Bulgarians gained any considerable advantage from the work of the flyers either as scouts or as bomb droppers. This lack of practical results does not however argue that flying contrivances are not destined to play an important part in the warfare of the future—if there is to be any warfare of the future. The science of aviation though it has made tremendous advances is still very young. It is not too fanciful to hold that development may make possible actual air warfare. It will contend with one another in the heavens while the dreadnoughts are peppering and pounding on the surface of the waters. At any rate Europe is not neglecting this possibility and nearly every country is endeavoring to keep strictly up to date in the swiftly advancing science.

Electric Meters.

Renovo a railroad town in Pennsylvania has adopted the very convenient scheme of placing electric meters on the back porches of the houses. This arrangement permits the meter reader to read a great many meters in a day. It is a common matter to read three hundred meters. Another advantage is that the meter is placed in a conspicuous place where the consumer may read it from time to time and get better acquainted with it.

HARVIE JORDAN DESCRIBES ITALY'S RURAL CREDIT BANKS

(Harvie Jordan, former president of the Southern Cotton association and a vice president of the Southern Commercial Congress, is traveling Europe as a member of the United States commission for the study of foreign rural credits and other phases of foreign agriculture. The commission, all composed of experts, will make a report to congress upon which it is hoped to found rural credit banks in this country and to introduce the more adaptable features of agricultural systems now succeeding in the old world. Mr. Jordan will supply a number of articles, descriptive of his travels, to The Constitution. This is the first of the series.)

By Harvie Jordan.

Budapest, Hungary June 3—(Special)—Since landing at Genoa the American commission assembled for a two days conference at Rome and sent out from there sub-committees to important cities and agricultural sections in southern, central and northern Italy, to investigate various phases of agriculture and farm life. I confined my work principally to studies of rural co-operative banks and central federated banks in and adjacent to the old city of Bologna. Every facility for investigation was furnished by prominent officials of the Italian government and municipal authorities.

The rural co-operative banks are the most popular banking institutions in central and northern Italy, while the land mortgage banks of Naples and in Palermo Sicily, supply the financial needs of agriculture in southern Italy. The confessional banks are purely Catholic institutions as no farmer or person can become a member unless he be a Catholic in good standing. While deposits may be received from any source no loans are made to anyone except regular members of the bank. There are seventy-two of these rural co-operative banks with the interest of each community as secretary and federated with one big central bank in Bologna. There are also liberal or independent rural banks but they are largely in the minority. There are no salaries paid to any of the officials connected with the operation of these banks and no dividends paid on the shares of stock. All of the profits go to the reserve fund which increases the capital of the bank for making loans. This altruistic system of operating the rural banks is also applied to the large savings banks in so far as the payment of dividends are concerned. Only salaries (which are small) and actual expenses of rents and taxes are paid out of the profits. The balance going into the reserves of the institutions. All of the detailed data pertaining to every phase of the land mortgage banks and rural credit banks of these European countries as well as that of co-operative marketing societies production and social life is being gathered and will be assembled into the final report of the commission for the benefit of the American people upon its return to the United States.

Marked Progress

The progress of agriculture in the sections I visited is very marked and reflect great credit upon the Italian farmers. The system is so intensive in the provinces around Bologna that no space is left for pastures or meadows. In many respects the customs of farming and the simple methods of hand labor employed are practically the same to day as under the old Roman Empire of the Caesars. The principal crops which came under my observation were wheat, rice, hemp alfalfa grapes and vegetables. The draft animals on these farms for plowing and hauling are oxen. In breaking the land there are often as many as four yokes of oxen hitched to one plow. The land being turned 24 inches deep. The oxen are the largest and finest animals of the kind I ever saw. They weigh from 1700 to 2000 pounds each, are kept in splendid condition, are pure white and in my examination of at least 100 head of them I failed to find a single scratch or even a place where the hair was rubbed on the necks or shoulders so careful are the men who work and attend to them. Most of the land is held in large estates and worked on shares by the owners but in some cases, especially in the rice producing sections 400 to 1000 small farmers will organize a co-operative society and lease some of these lands for a term of years and operate them upon a joint co-operative basis. Farm labor is so plentiful that labor unions exist in the rural districts of Italy the same as our labor unions in the large cities of the United States. While riding over two large estates I had the pleasure of being most hospitably received and entertained for an hour in each of two old castles built in the fifteenth century, before America was discovered by Columbus—and now in a splendid state of preservation and occupation by the owners of the estates we inspected.

Splendid Roads.

The roadways of Italy are very fine and kept by the government in splendid condition. I traveled for 15 miles over one of these public highways which was originally built as a military road and used by the Roman legions a thousand years ago. Over these roads a yoke of oxen will pull a two wheeled cart loaded with five tons of produce from the farm to the market this is equal to 20 bales of cotton or four fifths of an ordinary car load of cotton. Unlike the small farmers as a gradually working out their independence and freedom through the valued aid of the rural banks and co-operative societies yet on the large estates the hundreds of small share farmers employed appear to present the true type of the peasant and the social distinction between the peasant and the big land owner who may be a count or a Marquis is about as great today as it was a century ago. There are about four distinct classes. The royalty the aristocracy, the mercantile or middle class and the laborers and peasants. There is but little chance for a man to rise above the class of his ancestors. This is where the republican form of our government differs from the monarchial countries. Agriculture in central Italy may be likened to garden culture. There is not a foot of waste land anywhere. The crops are planted in sections 100 feet wide and from 400 to 1000 feet long. The division between sections is occupied by a row of trees with grape vines festooned between and I am told this custom has been pursued for centuries. The branches of these trees are cut each year for fuel. In Italy, has no coal mines. Lands are fertilized heavily with barnyard and chemical manure. Large quantities of wheat straw is kept in the stalls and not a particle of the manure is allowed to waste. Rotation of crops is scientifically pursued. The yield of crops per acre have doubled in the last 50 years and are much greater than in the United States. The darkest blot upon the agricultural life of these old countries is the fact that the women on the farms have to do all the drudgery of the home and also keep their places in the field. On one big rice farm I saw hundreds of young women squatting in water nearly knee deep pulling up weeds from among the rice while men stood on the banks nearby superintending the work. It is no uncommon sight to see from 50 to 100 women and girls bare footed and bareheaded in a field bending over and pulling out grass and weeds from rows of cultivated crops. We are in Hungary and Austria until June 1 and then to Germany Sweden Denmark Switzerland Belgium and Holland until July 1. We are receiving every courtesy and hospitality on the part of the countries visited.

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES OF EUROPEAN POLITICS

WHO KILLED PRINCE ARTHUR?

The young English princes who have borne the name of Arthur seem to have been unusually unfortunate but upon none of them is more interest attached than upon the youth of that name who was a nephew of the famous Richard Coeur de Lion. The manner in which this young prince met his death has always been a matter of much doubt. Shakespeare introduces the prince in a most touching scene in his play of King John. Arthur was the son of Geoffrey Duke of Brittany and his wife Constance and was born after his distinguished father was slain in a tournament. He was acknowledged as the successor to his father in the title of Duke of Brittany. He was the grandson of King Henry II and when his uncle King Richard died in 1199 he was no doubt his rightful heir. But John another son of Henry seized the crown and the people because of the extreme youth of Prince Arthur seemed to be satisfied to have him their ruler. But such was not the case with the barons of Anjou Touraine and Maine who espoused the cause of the young prince and took the oath of allegiance to him and his mother. When the mother felt that the life of her son was in danger in England she sought protection with him from the King of France Philip Augustus. The French king who was waiting eagerly for an opportunity to deprive the English king of continental possessions embraced the cause of Arthur, and not only sent troops to assist the barons of Anjou and Brittany but also invaded Normandy. But the leaders in the cause of Prince

Arthur soon came to the conclusion that Philip Augustus was fighting to satisfy his personal ambition rather than to assist the young prince. They carried him away from the French court. But this hardly done when the Seneschal of Anjou learned from secret information that King John was acting treacherously and secretly arranged a session of his nephew in order to poison him. He thereupon changed his plans and carried Arthur by night to Angers and again placed him under the protection of the French king.

Finally Philip made peace with King John and he induced Arthur to remain content with the Duchy of Brittany and renounce all claims to the English throne. The young prince had nothing else to do. He seemed to be pushed from one side to the other as they saw fit in the manipulation of European politics of that period.

But the peace between the French and English kings lasted only for two years when the young prince's claims again were brought forward by Philip Arthur at the time was fifteen years old. On the first of August of the same year 1215 an assisting effort to put down an insurrection in France was surprised by King John and was captured with all the barons who accompanied him. He was carried a prisoner to Falaise whence he was subsequently transferred to Rouen and from this on nothing further is authentically known of him although there is no doubt he was murdered. There have been written many accounts of the murder. According to that given by Ralph of Cokeshall John at the suggestion of some of his evil counsellors resolved on putting out the eyes of the prince and sent some of his crochets to execute the barbarous deed and on the way back he said that this was prevented by Hubert de Burgh who was at that time governor of Falaise.

He was then removed from Falaise to Rouen and on the third of April it is said that he was taken from the tower in which he was confined and placed in a prison where King John waited for him and there was murdered by Peter de Maulac at the king's command. According to another version Maulac refusing to do the deed John murdered his nephew with his own hand. Still another story has it that when the king reached the castle of Falaise he ordered Arthur to be brought before him and he promised him many honors if he would forsake the French king but Arthur stubbornly refused and thereupon was ordered to Rouen to be imprisoned in a new tower just completed there. He was placed under close guard but shortly afterward suddenly disappeared. Popular tradition was from a rather early period almost unanimous in representing the murder as having been perpetrated by the king's own hand but this perhaps arose more out of hatred to John's memory than from any accurate knowledge of the truth.

JUDGE URGES CHECK ON QUICK DIVORCES

Aroused by the general tendency of the Fulton county courts becoming what seemed a divorce machine, Superior Court Judge W. D. Ellis made it plain to all Monday that he would not be present at the present divorce calendar in any but a perfunctory manner, and in a strong charge to the jury said that no case would be "rallied" through his court.

SOUTH IS PROSPERING. SAY BRADSTREET MEN

Encouraging Reports Are Made by the Managers From Many Cities.

"Atlanta and the south are being swept upward and onward in a tide of prosperity never before known in this section," said J. E. C. Pedder, division superintendent of the Bradstreet agencies, yesterday at the annual gathering of that organization in the Empire building.

It was to Bradstreet representatives located in Birmingham, Jacksonville, Savannah, Greenville, S. C.; Mobile, Augusta, Macon, Charleston, Tampa, Chattanooga and Albany the Atlanta division superintendent was talking and his declaration was based upon reports sent in to the Atlanta office by the superintendents of Bradstreet in the sections indicated.

Declaring he was looking forward to a fine business fall, Superintendent Pedder said reports showed that all grain crops were promising and ascertained that if the promise made good—and he had no doubt they would make good—money would be much easier than at present.

VICE INVESTIGATION MAY BE RESUMED TODAY

There is much speculation as to whether the Fulton county grand jury will resume the vice probe when it meets this morning for a three-day session.

Foreman Beck said yesterday that there was a large amount of criminal business to be attended to, but intimated that if this could be cleared up today that the vice inquiry might be taken up.

TECH WILL HONOR FOUNDERS TODAY

Exercises Will Be the Crowning Feature of the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Celebration.

The celebration of founders day at the Georgia School of Technology will begin at 9:30 o'clock this morning in the Tech Young Men's Club building and today's exercises will mark the crowning event of the entire anniversary celebration.

Founders' Day Exercises

Following the alumni banquet at 11:30 o'clock in the Tech Young Men's Club building, the exercises will be held in the gymnasium. Dr. I. C. Hopkins, president of the association, will deliver an address of welcome and an enthusiastic program will be on and at the Young Men's Christian association in the afternoon and present state of Tech. Graduates of long ago will share the program with graduates of recent years and they will relate their experiences out of school as well as on the campus.

The graduates of the class of 1913 will attend Dr. Smith's address at the Tech tonight and from there will adjourn to the Georgia school of technology where they will be the guests of the faculty and Mrs. Joseph M. Brown.

Burlesque Present Today

Decked in gala attire the students will rally this afternoon for the first burlesque program in student history. Planning for many days and which will be the feature number in the class day program, George M. Hope Jr. of Atlanta will read the class history and the last program will be read by Harleston Hall of Atlanta.

The senior mantle will be dropped on the waiting shoulders of the juniors by Walter R. Boyd of Atlanta. The class of 1913 has selected Austin Winn of Eastman Ga. to deliver the memorial from the graduates to the Georgia School of Technology and Dr. Samuel S. Wallace head of the department of English will accept the token for the school. The exercises by Robert L. Hughes will conclude the program.

Then 1,000 students will re-enact all the campus scenes of the past year. Their costumes will take off professors and exhortations promising student and student activities. Peachtree and Whitehall streets will be invaded by the gay burlesques who will promote the campus cutting up and then some as they parade down the streets.

This pageant is the big feature of the entire celebration and the committee in charge of arrangements has aimed to make it as unique and original as the ingenuity of undergraduates could devise. The members of the committee who are directing the

SUITS FOR REBATES ARE HELD ILLEGAL

One Shipper Cannot Claim Rebates Simply Because Granted Competitor

Washington June 9—Holding that one shipper cannot sue for rebates as damages because competitors received rebates the supreme court today reversed the decision of the Pennsylvania courts.

Justice Pitney dissenting declares the decision practically annulled the right of the shippers to sue for damages conferred by recent legal legislation leaving a right to sue only in the most negligible instances where the goods of a shipper came into competition with competitors who received rebates.

In a companion case that of the Mitchell Coal and Coke company against the Pennsylvania railroad, the court held that shippers must go to the interstate commerce commission before suing in the courts to recover damages for unlawful discrimination in allowances for hauling on sidetracks. Damages were held to be proper in case because of the unlawful as distinguished from the lawful rate charged in the other case.

It still remains a case that of the Morrisfield Coal company against the same railroad the court held shippers must go first to the commission instead of to the courts in cases of unlawful discriminations resulting from the district court case Justice Pitney dissented in all these cases.

MACON BANK WINS SUIT IN THE SUPREME COURT

Washington June 9—An echo of the financial collapse of R. H. Plant of Macon Ga. in 1901 was heard today in the supreme court when it was decided that the American National bank of Nashville Tenn. was liable to the agent of the First National bank of Macon for $3,000.

That represented the amount of a deposit which Plant gave to the Macon bank in the Nashville bank the Saturday before the Monday on which bankruptcy proceedings were begun against him. The Nashville bank had a deposit by Plant of $3,000. It credited the Macon bank with the amount of the check but the next day upon learning of Plant's insolvency claimed a right to revoke its action and employ the $3,000 to extinguish part of Plant's indebtedness to it.

The agent are A. L. Loebe, C. C. F. H. H. Arlington Jack P. Hinz and George M. Hope.

The crystal palace was the scene of the most brilliant Tech social function of the year last night at the annual promenade given in honor of the senior class by the Juniors. The roomy campus was crowded with dancers and society was out in full force. The annual book burning by the seniors followed the dance and faithful and worn text books were ignited by the care-free near graduates.

The sophomore german opened the festivities on Monday and 10 couples took part in the various figures and danced to their hearts delight from 11 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dr. Alexander P. Claxton of Washington D. C. national commissioner of education delivered the principal address of Monday's session at the Tech Y. M. C. A. auditorium. The annual president's reception occurred from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock Monday afternoon. The grand finale of the entire Tech celebration will be the annual shop exhibit on Wednesday.

Washington June 9—Discussion of the social evil and its suppression, featured the first day's session of the International Association of Police Chiefs, which began its annual convention here today. In his welcome address President Richard Sylvester urged the members to do all in their power to aid the federal authorities in enforcing the white slave laws.

Chief Beavers of Atlanta, was one of the leading speakers of the convention. He was characterized by Mayor G. H. Sizemore of Norfolk, Va., as the first step into the segregated districts of vice. He declared such places should be subject to stringent state and municipal laws.

In the afternoon the more than 200 chiefs were received at the white house by President Wilson.

Chief Beavers' speech in full is as follows: One of the most vital questions that is interesting our cities today is the social evil. Vice commissions and investigating committees are being appointed by all of our large cities and many reports have been made by them. Some recommend one thing and some another but very few of them have recommended suppression.

How an individual man may do it is in favor of public prostitution or public indecency for public indecency it is.

Why should we maintain such houses before our children's eyes for we do maintain them in a way by putting our approval on them? If we say to our boys that such houses are necessary then we say to our neighbors that they are necessary and would we say a thing to our neighbors that we would not allow them to say to our daughters? It reminds me of the old saying that a man will protect a woman against every man but himself.

Or can we segregate such places near our neighbor be he ever so humble when we would not have them near our own door for you cannot have such places in a city without putting them near some decent home or where they are exposed to public gaze? Or can you have one standard of morals for your boys and another for your girls? If you set a low standard for your boys you set a low standard for your neighbors also.

Why should we not do unto others as we would have them do unto us? And why do we as sworn officers of the law set before us the standard of the law that we would not set before the people? The law forbids it as a disgrace to morals and health.

None of us are wholly free from guilt who permit this open shame. The law is the law and city ordinances against such in every state in the union and if the laws are wrong why not change them and if they are right why not enforce them? What respect have we for those who live on the rents of such places? You say you have none but still you allow him to carry on his nefarious business.

I do not say that police officials can do away with this evil entirely but I do say that it can be reduced to a minimum and they can stop recognizing it as public officers and thereby put their stamp of disapproval on it.

It might take a long time for doctors to rid a city of an epidemic but it would not take a city long to rid itself of a doctor found promoting the epidemic.

Vice is one thing and I protected vice is another and public officials are paid to prevent crime and when they protect it they assign a place to it then they are subject to be impeached.

Physicians declare the system deadly and unnecessary. Scientists say that from it come bacteria, blinding and blighting of babies, maiming and killing of wives. Biologists have pronounced it the greatest source of social impurity. The law forbids it as a disgrace to morals and health.

I dare say that 99 officers out of 100 would enforce the laws against the social evil if they knew their duty depended upon it. They would not stop to think whether it is necessary or not. The trouble is higher up.

Defenders of Segregation. Defenders of segregation have knowledge of the world. They know the saddest thing is the closing of the sadness they will not eliminate the social evil. Some of them almost weep in referring to the antiquity of the evil but they forget that it was committed a long time ago and that it must die also of a violent origin. Can I believe his brother Abel before the brother had been devised. Imaginative stagers at the thought of the heights that might have attained by the thief and the murderer in their peculiar lines had they been favored with a segregated district in which to ply their lawless practices. Theft and murder are older than harlotry but the defenders of segregation would nevertheless think for a moment of advocating the protection is not the putting of a girl worse than the putting of a pocket.

I understand that a splendid few has been leading the battle for decency in the city of Pittsburgh. Similar battles are being fought all over the country. The good people are fearlessly standing behind the guns in the combat against this great evil that menaces our girls and threatens our glorious womanhood.

In olden times death was the penalty for the seducer of a girl. We have included in our laws a time will include a tariff based on the raising of girls. Did the descendants of the Teutons whose blood is in our veins approve of this shame? They punished crimes against chastity with death.

The state that officially tolerates and guarantees houses of vice assumes the role of procurer. The same must be said of cities. This policy of legalizing the downfall of girls can not always exist among men of our blood and character.

The great city of Berlin has closed these places. Madrid and London have done the same thing. Chicago has closed them as has eight or ten other large cities in the United States.

Under the segregation plan the open houses of vice means the protection of the law against violating the law. In my own city the city of Atlanta we had a segregated district until eight months ago. It had existed ever since Atlanta had been a city. There had always been a sentiment that such a district was necessary for such a settlement. The question is a question that puzzles the mind. No doubt some men are honest

KOSEME INITIATES STARTLE ATLANTA

In Strangest of Costumes Tech Boys Parade Through the Streets.

A feature of the junior prom at the Tech last night was the Kosme initiation. Kosme is an honor society composed of juniors elected at the end of their sophomore year and the basis for determining eligibility of sophomores is their standing in the various student activities.

The stunts of the new members of the Kosme kept the dancers at the junior prom in a constant uproar. The men were all clad in fancy burlesque costumes, and arrived at the hop after a parade through the downtown streets of Atlanta.

J. Lucas typified the "booster" in a dress suit and a reddened nose. C. S. Seabler gowned in decallete was a perfect lady. B. D. Smith the hobo and J. J. Strickland so disguised as to look the image of President K. G. Mathewson, were arm in arm the entire evening. William Robinson, a Mexican, J. L. Parker the devil, and L. F. Witherton a German and Ben Gant, negro brought up the rear of the procession with G. M. Hill a red faced wabbling sailor.

When passing through the business district Monday evening this motley crowd aroused the curiosity of throngs who followed them, wondering what it all meant.

HAWKINS STRUCK BY CAR

R. C. Bone, Driver of Auto, Gives Bond of $100.

As a result of an automobile accident at Mitchell and Whitehall streets last night, in which C. F. Hawkins, a plumber of 210 South Forsyth street, was run down, R. C. Bone, driver of the car, was arrested and carried to police headquarters where he was required to give bond of $100 for appearance in recorder's court this afternoon.

The victim was carried to Grady hospital. He sustained a fractured arm and a number of cuts and bruises about the head and body. His injuries are not serious, and he will be able to attend court this afternoon. He is about 25 years of age.

The accident occurred about 10 o'clock. Bone was driving down

Whitehall street from Trinity avenue. Turning into Mitchell street at the intersection of Whitehall, he ran into Hawkins, who had stepped from the curb. The machine was traveling at a rate not more than seven miles an hour, eyewitnesses say. The pedestrian was bowled over and knocked completely under the car. Bone stopped with the man crumpled up beneath his machine. Passers-by ran to extricate the victim. He was suffering from the wound in his right arm. Plainclothes policemen Carter and Pittman summoned an ambulance for Hawkins and drove with Bone to police station.

By strengthening the system you can better resist the attack of the blood-antibodies which rob the blood of its vitality and vitality you will find the depressing effect of the hot summer.

STOP THAT ITCH WITH RESINOL!

Brings Instant Relief and Quickly Clears Away Skin Eruptions.

If your skin itches and burns with eczema or other tormenting, unsightly skin trouble, simply wash the sore places with Resinol Soap and hot water dry and apply a little Resinol Ointment.

The itching stops instantly, you no longer have to dig and scratch sleep becomes possible and healing begins at once. This is because the soothing antiseptic Resinol medication strikes right into the surface, arrests the action of the disease and lets the tortured, inflamed skin rest almost quickly, easily and at little cost. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are also speedily effective in even the stubborn cases of pimples, blackheads, dandruff, sores and piles. Prescribed by doctors for eighteen years, and sold by practically every druggist in the United States. For generous sample of each write to Dept. 43-S, Resinol, Baltimore Md.

Drugs and Toilet Articles are in such frequent use in our every-day life—particularly these warm days—that we naturally seek to buy where we can purchase best and at the most advantageous prices.

In recent years druggists have more and more realized the value and power of regular newspaper advertising, and it is worthy of note that the largest drug stores are the ones most conspicuous in the advertising columns of the newspapers. Advertising attracts customers.

The druggist who advertises may be depended upon. His stocks are fresh and reliable, his prices right. He wants the people to know these things—to know that it is to their advantage to buy from him.

Such advertisements appear frequently in The Constitution and merit your special consideration.

Why do Brewers of Germany and England use only Brown Bottles?

Sunlight grows the hops, but spoils the brew. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives best protection against light.

In England and Germany the brewers won't use light glass bottles.

"Beer should not be exposed to the light, especially direct sunlight, as it will thereby be detrimentally affected, the light having an influence upon the albuminoids in the beer, causing the latter to become hazy."

Flag Raising Postponed—Two Games Today

Rain Prevents Flag Raising; Brady and Price Will Hurl Against the Barons Today

By Hugh W. Roberts
Birmingham Ala., June 9.—(Special)—A constant shower of rain beginning in the morning and continuing through the afternoon put a quietus on the pennant raising ceremonies.

A double header has been scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and between the battles the captured pennant will be raised to its lofty perch in center field.

The interference of the elements proved a great disappointment to President Kavanaugh and the Atlanta directors who were eager for the festive occasion. The league's executive was forced to leave for Little Rock tonight while the Atlanta directors also left without witnessing the event.

Sandwiched in between two battles the pennant raising will occur with Harry Jones master of ceremonies and the players and officials as participants.

Manager Mulesworth has announced that Foyen will open for the Barons while Manager Smith will send Brady to the firing line in the initial struggle.

Thompson will serve in the second game while the Atlanta pilot has intimated that Price will ornament the ship.

The flag raising ceremonies will be short and simple while it is expected that a record breaking crowd will witness the celebration if the sun shines. The weather forecast is favorable.

GOING AT HIS NATURAL STRIDE

HARRY WEI CHONCE
Crackers speedy centerfielder who has just gotten into his true stride. He is now hitting at a .324 clip which is a natural clip for him and he gives every indication of getting better as the season progresses. This time last year Harry was not in the 300 class which is evidence that he will probably hit higher this season than last.

Jim Savage and Sailor White Due in City This Afternoon; Meet at Auditorium Friday

Jim Savage and Sailor White will reach Atlanta this afternoon from New York ready for the bout Friday night at the Atlanta Auditorium-Armory. Both men are trained and ready for a hard struggle.

There is not any doubt but that Jim Savage was afraid to meet White in Atlanta Friday night. He claimed a broken hand but cold feet fits the case better.

When the chance of taking White's place was offered to Sailor White he snatched at it. This man would tackle anybody. He is a huge bulk of a man weighing way over 200 pounds and still big in proportion. He believes that no scrapper in the world is his equal.

None that White's plan of campaign is always based on the belief that he is bound to win and the quicker the better. He is a perfect fool for slugging. He has some science but usually he does not deign to use it. He battles in whirling right in and leaning away at his opponent letting the fists fly where they will.

A man who bases his calculations on a scheme of scrapping like that is sure to get a lot of knockouts for and against him. And this has happened in White's case. He has been put out a couple of times. But he has put out a lot of the cleverest heavyweights in the business. And he has not been in a scrap yet where there was not action a-plenty.

White is a coming scrapper. Anybody who is going to be heard from more than that white is just the man to bring out the very best game of Jim Savage. Being primarily a boxer there are times when Jim slumps back to mere boying. When a guy carries it to him however he has an alternative than to mix. That enables him to show his cleverness and to land his new punch as well.

With White the aggression and with Savage always forcing the limit to defend himself from the tearing rushes of his big opponent there should be ten rounds of tremendous action on Friday night.

But all the excitement will not be concentrated in the dual bout—not by a long ways. Miller and Spider Britt will put on another grudge fight as a ten round opener. These lads have had an unpleasantness pending for a long time now and they will get out of their system on Friday night. Both lads will be required to post some appearance money to guarantee their safe arrival in the ring.

Mike Saul and Terry Nelson another pair of willing workers will figure in the semi windup also at ten rounds. These lads don't know how to do anything but scrap.

WHIFFS

In Their Favor.
THE BARONS will have a chance to beat Atlanta in an attendance point Everything is in their favor. They will present a doubleheader to the Birmingham fans today, for pennant raising day and the two attractions combined ought to give them the one grand opportunity to break the local record. But at that we doubt their ability to do so.

Call Both Games.
CALLER KING will detail both games of the doubleheader in Birmingham today. The first pastime is scheduled to start at 2:15 o'clock. Brady and Price will do the hurling act for the Crackers. Foyen and Thompson will hurl for the Barons.

Break His Stride.
CY FALKENBERG had his winning streak broken by the Red Sox Monday. He dropped his first game in eleven pitched. The only pitcher in the big leagues now whose record has not been broken is Alexander of Philadelphia. He has won eight without losing any. He'll get his eighth today.

Eight Southerners on Roster Of Mike Finn's Leading Gulls

If Mike Finn's 1913 Mobile team, now on the Dixie pennant it will be most appropriate inasmuch as eight of the fifteen athletes doing duty on behalf of the local club are southern boys. A discussion on the bench during the rain which started yesterday gave a game brought out the fact that eight of the Mobile players boast the south as their home and for a few moments north and south battled in a thirty-five battle of words. The winning out because of their native city.

Both the Gull catchers, Charlie Schmidt and Lury Dixon are southern boys. Schmidt from Port Smith, Ark. and Dixon from Little Rock, Ark. The pitching corps furnishes two more southerners in Bud Clark from Fort Vista, Tex. and Pug Clevet from Fort Worth, Texas. The outfield is still Breaking Bad.

THE AMERICAN pilot team is getting all the bad breaks in advance of their match with the English team in defense of the international trophy. The first match takes place today. After seeing the team to defend the cup injuries made it necessary that an entire new team be chosen and just two days before the meeting. If the Americans win under this handicap great will be their play. The Big Four will play with the two Waterbury's will try to find the cup successfully again.

More Changes.
FRANK BELLER, it is believed, is a bullock. But Brian to have a team in the collar that he is fast making handles to his lineup to stem the slump. Frank Manush has been given his unconditional release and Josh Swindell who has been no use to him at all this season has been sold to Cleveland. The Naps will probably ship him to Toledo. Frank has a new outfielder named Kall already in the lineup and seems certain to make many more changes in the near future.

The Loud Noise.
INTEREST in the American league pennant race centers this week on Shibe Park. The Athletics and the Naps meet there Thursday, Friday and Saturday and these three games are going to have a direct bearing on the pennant race. The Naps are pushing the White Elephants, lovely for the lead. A battle of giants is sure to be to store for the fans.

Where He Slipped.
CONNIE MACK says he didn't miss one, but it looks like he slipped a bit when he let C. M. Galloway go. The Kansas City club is one of the best in the league. It is one of the best to realize that the entire mogul of the Mack's is using every persuasive power to buy Mack back, but as yet the K.C. management cannot see it his way. Mack is keeping them in the penitentiary.

Sensible Rule.
JUDGE KAVANAUGH has issued a ruling that should interest umpires. He has officially stated that if the weather be such that for their coats the umpires. Maybe he could issue some other ruling that would help in case the efficiency of the umpire. If he can do this the fans will think him Bill Hart is the best umpire to have seen in a season. His way is fine as it is good as well as a time. He is on the way to the stadium back here next week.

Shake Out Box.
TALLEY in the Nashville Demo 1st competition. President Kavanaugh's probable decision to order the games played here at Nashville and Atlanta would be a good thing. This seems to be the best thing for the masses. The ball of the Nashville Demo 1st level today.

Standing Pat.
BILL SMITH stands pat all over the present Atlanta team at least for a while. He believes that the present personnel is formidable enough to win ball games and the present pitching staff can come through with a sufficient number of victories to enable the club to start climbing. He will try out this theory for the next couple of weeks and then he will be in a better position to make some more changes. But we are none to side with Bill this time.

Badly Worried.
SHAWNEE BILL Biley is a worry much worried athlete. His ability to hit with last season's regularity is causing him many sleepless nights. But the main cause of Biley's worry is that he is hitting at .143 this season. Talley has always been considered as one of the hardest yet in the league to pitch to next hitting a grand slam but this year he has been used to whang a bill which has captured his angora. But Bill says it will shift soon. He's hoping.

McLoughlin and Williams Too Fast for Australasians

New York June 9.—One stage of America's quest of the Davis cup emblematic of the world's lawn tennis championship was won last afternoon when the United States team won the final and deciding matches of the preliminary against Australasia.

Side tennis of the Davis cup matches they are to proceed to England Thursday to participate in the English sham tournaments both in single and doubles.

After the match today which decided the Davis cup, which had just been decided by McLoughlin grabbed a most emphatic and called for three cheers for the victors and then led in the cheering that followed his request. McLoughlin outplayed Doubt in every department of the game winning 15 games to 10 and 20 points to 60.

U.S. Champions Strong.
He outplayed the Australasian at most two to one and his nets and out of bound shots were considerably fewer than Doubt's.

McLoughlin found his greatest difficulty in handling the low twisting service and returns that Doubt uses continuously.

In the Williams match the form was wild in service and volley in the early sets and cooled and netted the ball repeatedly. First set of his usual severe backhand game and played with deadly accuracy in the first two sets.

The Harvard freshman woke up in the third set and with more strength and care ran out in rapid fashion. The first test came in the fourth set when both used utmost efforts to win. Williams rushed to the net at every opportunity for he realized that Price was his equal at best court play and his backhand combined with excellent side line and cross court shots really won.

The apparent to accept the inevitable in the first set fading away both sets he was from a technical tennis stand point Williams seemed to be just coming into his stride and yet he had his opponent in every department of the play.

Motordrome motor race racing the most sensational of civilized sports will be introduced to the Atlanta public tonight rain always permitting at Jack Prince's new board track at the old show grounds.

For three weeks now the pick of the American riders have been amped at the show grounds awaiting impatiently the opening of the track and the beginning of the local season.

Rain interfered with the first attempt to hold a meet—as it always does when Jack Prince attempts a debut here.

YALE BULLDOGS WIN IN TWELFTH ROUND

Princeton N. J., June 9.—Princeton and Yale played off their baseball title Saturday afternoon and it took twelve innings to decide the issue, Yale winning a 4-3.

As Yale won the first game between the two teams at New Haven on May 31 today's game gave them the series. It is the first time in four years that Yale has captured the series and the first time since 1895 that they have won two straight games from the Tigers.

Yale won the game in the twelfth when Middlebrook singled stole second and third and tallied when Gill played Blossoms grounder to first in stead of the plate.

INTEREST CENTERED IN SENATE PRESIDENCY

Anderson and Allen Open Headquarters in Kumball Next Week

There is every indication that the contest for the presidency of the state senate will furnish most of the political excitement preliminary to the meeting of the legislature this year.

J. Randolph Anderson of Savannah senator from the first district and John T. Allen of Milledgeville senator from the twentieth are in the race in it to the neck and in it to the finish whatever that may be so they say.

Both are good men and have many friends in the state who are boosting their respective candidacies.

The contest will reach an acute stage when both candidates open headquarters at the Kumball house which they will do next week.

Mr. Anderson has secured rooms 106 and 107 while his rival will be in the next floor in rooms 208 and 210.

Both candidates now claim as it is understood 77 votes pledged out of a possible total of 144 and as the finish battle will be waged in the same building they promise to make it interesting to political onlookers for a while.

No personalities have entered into the contest. Both men have been supporters of Governor Brown in all of his campaigns for governor and generally speaking they have slept in the same political bed.

Burwell Leads in House Fight.

With the withdrawal of J. J. Fullbright of Burke from the speakership race there are still three candidates left in that contest namely W. H. Burwell of Hancock, J. N. Barndollar of Jefferson and J. S. Shoberg of Sumner.

As it seems to be the prevailing opinion of political gossipers that Mr. Burwell has considerably the best of his opponents and will probably be elected speaker at the next ballot there is not near so much interest shown in that contest as there is in the fight for the presidency of the senate.

MAYOR WOODWARD WILL APPROVE JUNE BUDGET

Finance Sheet Must Be Returned to Council by Wednesday Afternoon

Mayor James G. Woodward said yesterday that he had not approved the June budget which carries $200,000 for the cash purchase of the crematory. He indicated that he would approve the sheet if it does not contain some appropriation of which he is not aware.

The sheet has not reached the mayor yet. It was still in the hands of the city clerk at a late hour Monday afternoon.

Chairman C. B. Humphrey of the finance committee says he is certain the mayor will approve it.

He need not have so much fear as to what it contains. Chairman Humphrey said it is what it does not contain that is distasteful to this committee and the city at large.

Council Meets Wednesday
Council will meet again Wednesday afternoon. The sheet must be returned by the mayor before the meeting. It makes little difference whether he approves it or not. Council will overdo his veto if the sheet is not approved.

The proposition agreed to by the Democratic company to resign speaker and let its attorney in go, the crematory deal together with the specifications for which the contract was made was submitted to Mayor Woodward Monday afternoon. It was approved by the finance committee says he is certain the mayor will approve it.

He need not have so much fear as to what it contains. Chairman Humphrey said it is what it does not contain that is distasteful to this committee and the city at large.

ELKS WILL CELEBRATE FLAG DAY SATURDAY

Atlanta Lodge No. 8 B. I. O. Elks according to the patriotic committee of the government of their order will celebrate the 146th birthday of the United States flag next Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the lodge.

On the fourth floor of the Elks one 10-foot flag will be characterized. They expect it will be a fitting and dignified affair.

Walter P. Adams, president of Atlanta Lodge No. 8 will be the orator. The history of the flag will be told by Miss Margaret Ryan. Besides a musical by an orchestra other interesting musical features will be the rendition of the "The Song" by Miss Edgar McKee. The verses composed by herself and dedicated to the flag, a tenor solo by Frank Moore, a soprano solo by Miss Lillian K. Knott and another vocal solo by Wilford Watters.

W. W. Memminger will deliver the Elk toast to the flag. Altar exercises will be conducted by the regular and other members of the lodge.

The public is invited to attend the exercises Saturday evening.

COURT MAKES DEMAND FOR IMPORTANT DEEDS

Decree Signed in Case Brought by the Chandler Land Corporation

The clerk of the United States district court has received a decree signed by Judge Pardee requiring the Georgia Land and Timber company W. B. Ellington J. L. Sweat J. D. Blacklock and J. M. Parks as defendants to surrender certain important deeds. The case was brought by the Chandler Land corporation as ancillary to the celebrated suit of Baker et al vs McKee et al filed several years ago and still pending in the United States court.

The Chandler Land corporation charged that defendants first above mentioned have colluded and conspired to seize a portion of plaintiff's holdings in Ware county by the wrong means, to wit, by the wrong possession of certain deeds in the custody of J. M. Parks as a commissioner of the federal court. The decree sustains the contention of the plaintiff and removed Parks from office as commissioner and appoints O. C. Fuller in his place.

The main bill which was brought by heirs of Henry Bell against the heirs of Joseph McKee was filed some fifteen years ago involving lands worth half a million dollars and under this bill by a consent decree the Chandler Land corporation acquired a considerable portion of the holdings involved in that suit. J. M. Parks was the last of a series of commissioners appointed in the main case as custodian of the unsold lands and the deeds.

The Chandler Land corporation is a Georgia company. Charles J. Haden being president. It was represented by Watkins & Latimer.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

SHARP ADVANCE MADE IN THE COTTON MARKET

Opening at Decline, the Market Became Firm on Covering by Shorts.

New York, June 9.—The cotton market showed renewed strength today with prices making new high ground for the movement and closing steady at a net advance of 5 to 13 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 3 points, in sympathy with lower cotton bids due to the market almost immediately firming up on covering which seemed to be chiefly inspired by increasing uneasiness as to the situation in the near months owing to further shipments from the West.

There were scattered complaints of excessive rainfall from some sections of the West, but generally speaking, the rains reported over Sunday were characterized as beneficial and private crop accounts were favorable enough to suggest that there had been no change in the crop situation to help the advance.

SHORTAGE IN SUPPLY PUT WHEAT PRICES UP

Market Closed Firm at Advance of One-Eighth to One-Half Cent.

Chicago, June 9.—Government estimates this afternoon regarding the 1913 crop of wheat proved to be almost exactly as high as here in advance by experts.

Although wheat at the outset was under some selling pressure, due to rains in Kansas and suffered a temporary dip at midday on heavy primary receipts, the course of the market, on the whole, was upward.

Despite holding sales by cash houses, oats climbed on account of well-reported fears of government action to keep the market from showing a lower condition than had been predicted.

STOCKS WERE AGAIN ON THE DOWN GRADE

Heaviness of Foreign Markets Principal Cause of the Decline.

New York, June 9.—The principal securities markets of the world were again under pressure today, and the movement of stocks here was sharply downward.

Foreign markets were disturbed by the prospect of renewed hostilities in the Balkans and some uneasiness was felt in London regarding the approaching fortnight settlement.

Pressure from abroad was an important factor in the market's movement. Traders showed no desire to attempt to mark up prices here in the face of heaviness abroad, especially in view of the fact that should they succeed, they would merely be holding out added inducements for further liquidation of European holdings of American stocks.
