

600 SOLDIERS LEFT DEAD AND WOUNDED ON FIELD OF BATTLE

Crushing Defeat Is Inflicted on the Huerta Forces by the Rebels in Southern Chihuahua.

REBEL FORCES MOVING ON THE STATE CAPITAL

All Outlying Troops Called In to Defend Chihuahua City. All the Railway Lines Out of Commission.

El Paso, Texas, June 15.—Six hundred federalists were killed or wounded in a battle May 29, at Sanisidro, according to reports reaching here today from southern Chihuahua state.

After this victory over more than 1,200 federalists, the insurgents, under Generals Villa, Chaz, and Hernandez marched north toward the state capital, whence the Tarral garrison had retreated. They are reported as having taken Cuahuatlan, a mining town, west of Chihuahua City.

The four hundred federalists, who Friday evacuated Madera, were met yesterday by Villa's men at Bustillos. The rebels poured a hot fire into the federal troop train, killing the engineer and fireman. The train retired.

General Morado, acting military governor, has called in all other outlying garrisons to the defense of the capital. The insurgents are maneuvering to prevent these reinforcements.

Some five hundred federalists at Juarez alone remain unaffected by the general's orders. Juarez is threatened by a movement of constitutionalists from the Ojinaga district below the Texas border, according to military reports received from El Paso, Texas.

Railroads Out of Commission

Practically every railway line in the state is out of commission, as a result of rebel activities. There is no traffic on the Mexican Central north or south of the state capital. The Mexican Northwestern railway is operating below the border only as far as Casas Grandes.

The only armed force of consequence in the Casas Grandes district is led by Colonel Costello, a mutineer, from the federal ranks. He has proclaimed for the Vasquez Gomez revolution, which is not connected with the constitutionalist movement.

After taking Pearson last week, Castillo was joined by Braulio Hernandez, who previously was reported executed. Hernandez, a former secretary of state of Chihuahua, is said to be organizing a provisional government under the Vasquez Gomez banner in the Casas Grandes district, which was left unprotected by either federalists or constitutionalists as far south as Madera.

REBELS DEMAND SURRENDER OF TOWN OF SAN LUIS POTOSI

Mexico City, June 15.—The rebels have demanded the surrender of the town of San Luis Potosi, the key to communication with Tampico and the rebels. There are said to be 4,000 rebels between San Luis Potosi and Sanitillo and to the east and northeast. Practically all of Tamaulipas, with the exception of Tampico, is at the mercy of the rebels.

General Blaquet, the new minister of war, is promising to protect San Luis Potosi. Nueve Leon and Tamaulipas. He said today that he has planned an expedition from Vera Cruz, consisting of three vessels which will be sent to Matamoros. He expects co-operation from the south and will also make an effort to open the Laredo route.

Durango has been under siege for seventy days and the inhabitants have been reduced to dire straits. The federalists today reoccupied Zacatecas, which was recently evacuated by the rebels.

An uprising in the state of Campeche, headed by the governor, Manuel Brito, is giving the federal government some concern, although it is officially asserted that the movement is not receiving the support of the people.

There are rumors of further changes in the cabinet. According to report.

Thinking of Your Vacation

or of going on some pleasant short journey or week-end trip? Lots of people are nowadays vaguely planning and wondering where to go to escape the routine of workaday hours, if even for ever so brief a time.

No better bureau of information than The Constitution, with its staff and special journey announcements. Often an advertisement solves a problem that has been a perplexing annoyance for days, perhaps.

The Constitution resort and trip advertisements are always helpful—always suggest a pleasant jaunt; they help you plan more intelligently; they give you information that's worth while, and give the prospective trip or vacation a keen anticipatory zest by vividly describing the delights of the place you make up your mind to visit.

A tour through The Constitution advertising columns is itself an extremely pleasant and profitable journey.

KISS IN CLOSED CAB COSTS THIS COUPLE AUTO RIDE AND FINE

Their silhouettes cast upon the drawn shades of a cab as it passed beneath a street lamp caused the arrest of a woman giving her name as Mrs. T. R. Lucas, of Alabama, and J. H. Surley, of Fall Ground, Ga., Saturday night on the charge of kissing. Plain Clothes Policemen Green and McKibben made the cases.

When informed that she was under arrest and would have to go to police headquarters, the woman, a middle-aged brunette, well-dressed and apparently refined, broke into hysterics. Before the auto trip to police station was finished, her condition necessitated removal to Grady hospital, where she was confined for several hours.

Neither denied indulging in the kiss that cost so dearly. They declared they believed they had the right to bid an osculatory goodbye in the seclusion of a cab, if they wanted to. Both were going away on trains that left from the Terminal station, they said. They were arrested on the Terminal plaza. Collateral of $25 each was put up and both were released.

"TAKE CARE OF BABY" DYING MAN'S REQUEST

After Taking Carbohic Acid, M. Roy Fowler Falls Unconscious in Front of Wife.

M. Roy Fowler, a butcher, living at 125 Hunnicutt street, walked into the bathroom of his home early yesterday afternoon. A second later he came out and strode down the hallway to where his wife was standing, holding her 6-months-old baby in arms.

The man staggered slightly and there was a wild look in his eyes. He brushed his hand across the forehead, steadied himself by grasping at the staircase railing, and said to his wife, "I'm dying," he gasped, "and it won't be but a moment before I'm dead. Take good care of the baby, and put a few flowers on my grave. I had to do it—I just had to. Don't try to save me, I'm just unconscious at the feet of his wife. He had taken the contents of an entire vial of carbohic acid when he stepped into the bathroom. His lips and mouth were badly scalded by the acid. The bottle, however, was found and he threw it out of the bathroom window.

An ambulance was called from Grady hospital. He was rushed to the sanatorium, but died on the way. His body has been turned to the F. J. Bloomfield undertaking establishment, on South Pryor street. It will be transferred to Indian Creek cemetery Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock, where the funeral and interment will take place.

After an investigation, Coroner Donohoe said Sunday night that he believed Fowler's suicide was caused by financial troubles. He was a former railway employee and was an active member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

He also was a member of the Piedmont lodge, No. 190, Odd Fellows, and the Chippewa tribe, No. 50, Red Men. He was 46 years old and had been living in Atlanta for several years.

A coroner's inquest will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in the Bloomfield establishment. The dead man is survived by his wife and one child, three brothers, W. A. J. L. and T. A. Fowler, and two sisters, Miss Nan Fowler and Mrs. L. A. Fowler. He had been operating a butcher shop on East Hunter street.

DRIVES CAR INTO POLE TO AVOID COLLISION

Automobile of Paul Norcross Damaged and Pole Is Cut In Two.

Steering his speeding automobile towards the sidewalk in order to avert a collision with an oncoming automobile, Paul Norcross, a well-known business man who lives on Ponce de Leon avenue, yesterday afternoon shaved a pole at the corner of Highland and Ponce de Leon avenues, and narrowly escaped serious injury to himself, his wife and young child riding with him.

The pole was cut in half. The automobile which Mr. Norcross strove to avoid passed by unhurt. The Norcross car was severely damaged about the hood and radiator, but was able later to move to the city on its own power. The occupants were not hurt.

Mr. Norcross was driving down Ponce de Leon avenue early in the afternoon. At the junction of Highland an outgoing trolley car obscured view of an automobile going in the same direction. A street car drew nearer. Mr. Norcross, at the steering wheel, saw the coming machine.

Had he kept in his original path there would have been a collision. It was a case of "either the right or ram the other car. With a quick twist Mr. Norcross sent his machine into a nearby telegraph pole.

FROM SOURCE TO END OF MISSISSIPPI RIVER

St. Paul, Minn., June 15.—Andrew Koehn, honorably discharged quartermaster of the United States navy, who intends to row the entire length of the Mississippi river, left Lake Itaska on his long journey today. He will retrace the river when he finishes his trip, which he expects will consume about ninety days.

The trip is being made in a galvanized steel boat. Koehn expects to cover the distance between here and Lake Itaska (about 500 miles), in 20 days. The undertaking has been approved by the navy department.

24 PERSONS HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Victims Mostly Women and Children—Some of Them Will Die—Accident Occurred at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., June 15.—Twenty-four persons, mostly women and children, were injured in a rear-end trolley car collision on the Grove Courer Lake line in St. Louis county tonight. Two of them, Mrs. Dora Bingham and Mrs. Regina A. Carothers, will probably die. A score of others were bruised and cut by falling glass, but refused to go to the hospital.

The accident occurred near Overland Park. Both were open-air cars, crowded with picnickers. The trolley of the first car came off as it rounded a curve, leaving the car in darkness and the second car, running 40 miles an hour, crashed into it.

The cars were interlocked, and both telescoped. A passenger ran a mile to telephone for a wrecker. Nineteen of the injured were taken to the Missouri Baptist sanitarium and five were treated by physicians at Overland. The others helped each other bandage up their wounds and were brought into town on the wrecker.

The crash knocked women and children out from either side of the cars into the sulley beside the tracks. The shrieks of the children, frantic mothers, and injured passengers brought farmers and suburbanites to the scene from a radius of half a mile.

The open-air cars were twice the length of the city street cars and had only a narrow roof.

The forward end of one car and the rear half of the other were reduced to splinters. A similar accident occurred on the same curve two years ago.

CAMPAIGNS ARE URGED TO SAVE LIVES OF BABES

Washington, June 15.—Warning every community in the nation that the great death rate of babies is due to diseases which to a large extent are preventable, the children's bureau of the department of labor has prepared a compilation of the steps which various up-to-date cities are taking to protect child life, and will circulate it in a national campaign of diffusing child welfare ideas.

This bulletin, which will be a feature of the children's bureau, exhorts every community to wage such campaigns to save the babies' lives. In wards of such cities as New York and Philadelphia, where systematic summer baby saving campaigns were undertaken, the death rate of infants decreased between 30 and 40 per cent.

A baby nursed by its mother, the children's bureau declares, has approximately ten times the chances to live than a baby who is not. Various municipal and philanthropic activities in the directions of child welfare such as inspection of milk supply; municipal milk dispensing stations; baby clinics; visiting nurses; instruction of mothers and the destruction of the death-distributing fly.

WATER IS ADMITTED TO THE GATUN LOCKS

Panama, June 15.—Water was admitted yesterday for the first time to the Gatun locks. This was for the purpose of testing the valves, and the test was considered completely satisfactory.

INVESTMENTS IN SUBURBAN REALTY

—have been the basis of numerous fortunes. Here, in Atlanta, you undoubtedly know men grown wealthy through judicious investments in this city's suburbs. More and more people are leaving the dust and noise of the city for a plot of ground and a bungalow where the air is sweet and fresh. Look at the beautiful home sections that have sprung up within the last few years. They are only forerunners of what is yet to be.

Think of the money made by those shrewd enough to gain control of this land, improve it and offer it at an advance to an eager public. You have the same opportunity with this difference—you'll make more on your investment because of what has gone before.

Buy a lot or two—as many as you can—in an outlying district. Pay a small sum weekly or monthly as you will. Go on with your daily occupation and sit tight. It will not be long 'ere the houses built and other improvements made will have greatly increased the value of your holdings.

Atlanta is growing rapidly. But only those who have been absent for a time can appreciate the wonderful strides made. It is doubtful if any other city anywhere near the size of this offers so many safe* opportunities for investment in real estate. Strangers appreciate this and come here with the express purpose of buying land.

The Constitution's Classified offers daily many splendid opportunities for investment in suburban realty. Turn to those pages now and read. Do the same every day.

FEDERAL BAN ASKED ON ALL CHILD LABOR

Drastic Measure to Be Backed in Congress by Roosevelt Supporters.

New York, June 15.—A comprehensive plan for federal prohibition of child labor will be proposed in a bill to be introduced in the house of representatives in Washington on Tuesday by Congressman Ira C. Copley, of Illinois, was announced by the progressive party national service tonight.

The bill is based on the principles of former Senator Beveridge's original proposal in 1907, denying the right of interstate transportation to the products of child labor, manufacturers, producers, interstate carriers, jobbers and wholesalers are made responsible for unlawful shipments. By a provision similar to that of the pure foods and drugs act, commerce remains free to goods stamped or labeled "Registered under the federal child labor act."

Shipments from states having equivalent child labor laws are exempted from the operation of the proposed law.

The bill provides: "Section 2. That the employment of a child under 14 years of age in any mill, factory, cannery, workshop, manufacturing or mechanical establishment; of a child under 15 years of age in any coal mine, coal breaker, coke plant or in any establishment where poisonous or dangerous acids, gases or dyes are used, wherein the work done or materials or equipment handled are dangerous to the life and limb or injurious to the health or morals of such a child is hereby designated and defined as anti-social child labor, and as detrimental to the general welfare and debasing to commerce."

"The unusual phrase, anti-social child labor' is used to express the motive of the proposed legislation, the protection of society from the stunting of future generations," says the party's statement, the bill has been introduced by a joint conference of the legislative reference committee and progressive congressmen. The bill does not go to the extent of the uniform child labor law for the states in prohibiting all forms of harmful child labor. This would involve many practical difficulties, including the maintenance of an elaborate machinery of federal inspection. Mr. Copley's proposal is simply to establish a minimum standard and to insure that it is not nationally enforced.

SUNDAY WAS AS WARM AS ANY DAY IN JUNE

Sunday proved as warm as any day in June, and was in striking contrast to this day a week before, when cold and rain made the weather look like that of a late autumn day.

Officially, the temperature was not known, as the United States weather bureau is not open on the first day of the week, but from private thermometer reports, the mercury crawled well into the nineties by the beginning of the afternoon.

The day was clear, as forecasted, and also considerably warmer than on Saturday, and a light breeze tempered the power of the sun, making the atmosphere bearable at all times.

STRICKEN BY FEVER, HE FLED TO THE WOODS

Lewisburg, W. Va., June 15.—DeWitt Gardner, auditor of the Sewell railroad at Rainelle, Greenbrier county, disappeared yesterday and was found today in a woods suffering from an attack of typhoid fever. Mr. Gardner was delirious and ran for three miles through the woods before being captured by his friends. His condition is precarious.

MRS. MARY E. BRYAN DIES IN CLARKSTON

For Many Years She Was Contributor to Sunny South and Uncle Remus.

Mrs. Mary E. Bryan, the highest salaried woman of her day, and author of forty-seven different books, died at her residence in Clarkston, Ga., at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night. Her death will be widely mourned by thousands who have read her books and grown to love her, as well as by the many personal friends all over the country who were privileged to know her.

As editor of The Fireside Companion, it is stated she earned a salary of $25,000 a year. For twelve years she was actively connected with The Sunny South, which was afterwards taken over by the Uncle Remus company. She is survived by three children, Mrs. C. P. Byrd, of Clarkston, Ga.; Mrs. C. A. Wilson, of St. Louis, Mo., and Fred Bryan, of Clarkston, Ga.

"Mama" was one of her best-known works, and was widely popular at that time. Some of her first stories were published by Scott's Magazine, a magazine published in Atlanta shortly after the war.

After the establishment of The Sunny South she became a regular contributor, and was the editor of a department, and afterwards she conducted a department on Uncle Remus. She was one of the best-known literary women in the south.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

For Public Printer

Cornelius J. Ford, of Hoboken, N. J., appointed public printer at $5,500 a year, was an original Wilson man in New Jersey. He will have charge of 4,500 men. He is 46 years old and has been a printer since boyhood. There has been a keen contest for this position, and at one time there was an intimation from an authoritative source that President Lynch, of the International Typographical union, had been selected. As a member of the New Jersey legislature Mr. Ford was a staunch supporter of the policies advocated by Woodrow Wilson when governor. Mr. Ford was born in Hoboken February 27, 1867, and has lived there all his life. Last year he ran for congress at the primary, but was defeated and was then appointed sergeant-at-arms of the house at Trenton, N. J. For ten years Mr. Ford has been New Jersey state president of the American Federation of Labor.

COL. THOMAS FELDER GOES TO CINCINNATI

Says Trip Has Nothing to Do With That of Solicitor Dorsey

Following the departure of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey for Atlantic City Saturday afternoon, Col. Thomas F. Felder left Sunday afternoon at 6:10 o'clock for Cincinnati.

He said that his trip had no connection whatever with that of the solicitor general. He would not disclose his object in going to Cincinnati, however, and said only that he would be in the city for several days. Enthusiasm was his motive in leaving, he declared, although he would not tell what business he intended to transact.

Colonel Felder declares that the affidavit which an Atlanta paper, on Sunday morning, accredits George Gentry with having made, verifies his own contention. It is intimated that "it supports me in every particular," he said. "It corroborates my statement that Gentry is willing to return to Atlanta at any time the grand jury or any other investigating committee needed him; that he is passing under an assumed name in Washington, and that he was striving to keep out of the reach of certain Atlantans who are endeavoring to find him."

"He even admits in this last affidavit that the dictagraph reports were padded, although it is intimated that they were immaterial. He acknowledges having signed Miles' affidavit, and says that it was correct throughout. This, in itself, is all the support I would ask of Gentry. The affidavit obtained by Detective Miles is proof positive that the reports were padded—that is an established fact."

"Another thing: Gentry says again that his note book—the original transcription of the Williams House conversations—is in the vault of a prominent and reliable Atlanta attorney; and that they will be produced at time of any investigation. Even though Gentry testified otherwise, we have the notes—they are all that is needed to prove our contention that the published reports were altered."

Colonel Felder would not talk regarding his trip to Cincinnati. "I am going there on a matter of business," was all he would say. "It wouldn't interest the public in general. The minimum temperature at which I disclosed my mission, I will return within the next few days."

FIRST REAL HOT WAVE STRIKES THE COUNTRY

Washington, June 15.—Practically the entire country attempted today under the first real hot wave of the season, and tonight the weather bureau experts held out no hope for cooler weather within the next forty-eight hours.

Omaha, Neb., and St. Joseph, Mo., were the hottest cities in the United States today, with the mercury rising around 96 degrees. Chicago ran a close second, with the thermometer registering 94.

Washington suffered its hottest day of the season and one heat stroke occurred. The maximum temperature at the weather bureau today was 92, but the government's thermometer registered 100 degrees.

Steamer Damaged Canal

St. Catharines, Ontario, June 15.—Four gates of the well and canal lock No. 1, at Port Dalhousie, were carried away by a freight steamer today, allowing all the water in the three-mile level to flood. No. 2 is to fly out, and completely trying up navigation between Lakes Erie and Ontario. The engineer of the steamer, Lloyd Corbett, reported that the vessel was damaged.

DEMOCRATS BALK AT WILSON'S PLAN FOR MONEY REFORM

It Is Evident That the Leaders Have Resolved Not to Undertake Currency Legislation at Present.

ONLY TARIFF REVISION WILL BE CONSIDERED

Little Enthusiasm in Either House for Currency Legislation—To Push Tariff Through and Adjourn.

Washington, June 15.—Developments of the last week at both ends of the capitol have indicated a growing determination on the part of democratic leaders of congress to pass a tariff bill and wind up the work of the extra session without action upon currency reform or any other important subject.

The tariff revision bill is to be pushed to completion and laid before the democrats of the senate, in caucus, before the end of this week. In the meantime, notwithstanding President Wilson's repeatedly expressed desire to see some positive action taken toward a reform of the nation's financial system, the controlling forces of the party in both houses are showing a disposition to defer action on monetary reform until the regular session opening next December.

Wilson Is Opposed

A session of the senate currency committee last week, and the open antagonism voiced by Representative Henry of Texas against present action, have served to emphasize the opposition that has developed within the party ranks, against the president's program of immediate action. While the tariff revision bill is a definite action measure, many influential democratic members, including influential democrats, openly expressed the opinion that no currency law would be enacted at this session.

The tariff is to come into the senate for a second stage of revision within ten days.

The senate finance committee will complete work upon it early this week and an immediate call will be issued for a democratic caucus. It is expected that the bill will be formally presented to the senate, ready for debate in that body, by Wednesday, June 25.

The Arbitration Treaties

The arbitration treaties sent in some time ago, extending to Great Britain and several other countries, have not been touched in the senate for nearly ten days. In the meantime the president and Secretary Bryan announced their intention to have the Chamberlain and O'Grady man to withdraw their opposition to the British treaty and allow its ratification.

Both senators have stated openly within the last few days, however, that they do not propose to withdraw opposition, or permit the extension of the British arbitration pact, unless it is forced upon them by a two-third's vote of the senate. Their opposition is based on the belief that the United States should not again bind itself to a treaty that Great Britain construes as forcing this country to submit the Panama canal dispute to arbitration.

If the British treaty is to be passed, both senators expressly exempting the Panama canal tolls question as a subject of arbitration.

This will be a busy week among the democrats of the senate, in connection with the tariff bill. Tomorrow morning Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, will apply the prod to his colleagues and insist upon results. The majority members of the finance committee will meet all day and late into the night putting up sub-committee reports. Last week in four days the committee approved about half of the bill with the changes made by the sub-committees, and Senator Simmons proposes that the committee complete the rest of the measure by Wednesday night. Then will come the caucus of the democratic senators.

Administrative Tariff Clauses

Today Senator Williams' sub-committee, the hardest worked of them all, is finishing touches to the administrative provisions of the bill, and the income tax. They will report tomorrow. The Underwood bill administrative reforms, it is known, have been greatly altered by Wednesday night. The clause granting a five per cent tariff discount on imports in American-owned or controlled ships has been stricken out; the anti-dumping clause which would have exacted penalty duties on imported foreign goods in American markets has been stricken out because of its alleged impracticability and a challenge to retaliation; the inquisitorial clause, objected to by foreign nations has been greatly modified and may be eliminated, and the features de-

COTTON AND THE BANKER

How the bankers of the south may aid the section in throwing off the yoke of the single crop system, and that crop cotton, was described in a recent issue of The Constitution by W. H. White, Jr., of Atlanta. Mr. White is president of the White Provision company. That company has constructed and operates on the outskirts of Atlanta the most modern packing house in the southern states. Mr. White declares that the plant was built upon the encouragement of The Constitution, but in the face of pessimistic prophecies from many other sources. It has, he says, paid good yearly dividends and is consuming five times as much Georgia-raised cattle as at its inauguration three years ago.

Mr. White's contention is that the banker is at the apex of the south's agricultural system. His decree controls what is and is not planted. Ever since the war, Mr. White declares, the banker has stipulated that cotton be the collateral for farm credits. His word has gone on down to the country bank, and by it been passed on to the small country merchant, who requires that in exchange for credit for mules, implements, food and what not, the farmer must plant in cotton.

"Where is the justice," asks Mr. White, "of blaming the farmer for the indebtedness we are piling up through exclusive devotion to cotton, and for the loss of fortune in ignoring diversification, when he is powerless to correct the situation? It is the banker who is at fault, and matters will remain as they are until reform comes from this direction." Mr. White's theory is that the introduction of the cattle and sheep industry, the latter in the Blue Ridge section of Georgia, would solve this problem. He points out that Georgia is ideally adapted to these industries. And, he says, cattle and sheep could be raised without diminishing the supply of cotton, but by positively increasing the ease and lessening the cost under which it is now produced. Cattle and sheep command as good a cash market as cotton, he claims. The smallest farmer could, within three years, have a herd large enough to permit the sale annually of enough cattle to finance his farming operations without going into debt.

Whether Georgia shall or shall not develop these industries and this emancipation from the one-crop bog is depends, according to Mr. White, on the bankers. If they will broaden the basis of credit, and if the country banker and merchant will require the farmer to devote at least a part of his energies to cattle-raising, we will soon leave the present conditions behind. It will be remembered that Benjamin W. Hunt, ex-president of the Georgia State Bankers' association, and Joseph A. McCord, vice president of the Third National Bank of Atlanta, have advanced very similar reasoning in their contributions to The Constitution. Georgia bankers generally will do well to ponder the words of these gentlemen.

THE MAXIMUM HIGHWAY.

In his recent European letter to The Constitution, Harvie Jordan, of Atlanta, gives the following significant description of the highways of Italy:
The roadways of Italy are very fine and kept by the government in splendid condition. I traveled for fifteen miles over one of these public highways which was originally built as a military road and used by the Roman legions a thousand years ago. Over these roads a yoke of oxen will pull a two-wheeled cart loaded with five tons of produce from the farm to the market; this is equal to twenty bales of cotton, or four-fifths of an ordinary cartload of cotton.

The European road thus flourished by Mr. Jordan is entirely typical of the old world.

They believe in building maximum highways on the other side of the ocean; that is, highways that will permit the carrying of maximum loads. Highways of this class have been a big factor in the civilization of Europe. Indeed, from the days of the Roman conquerors, and before, it was the good road that meant the joining of a people to the then existing civilization. Its absence meant that the people thus afflicted remained indefinitely in the status of barbarity. Caesar gridironed Europe with splendid boulevards. Napoleon performed the same service for France. These mighty thoroughfares were constructed originally for military use. But serving for the rapid transportation of great bodies of troops, they also served for transporting raw products and manufactured commodities, thus accelerating development in every channel.

The highway system which Europe has gradually built up on this foundation helps materially to make the cost of living cheaper there than in this country. Suppose that in Georgia we had such a road as this road Harvie Jordan encountered in Italy. That would mean that a single team of mules could haul to market at one time twenty bales of cotton. The maximum load of cotton now, on the very best of roads, averages five bales. In other words, over an European road the Georgia farmer could haul his cotton, and other produce, and save the wear and tear and time of four loads. The aggregate saving at the end of the year would mount into the hundreds of millions of dollars for the United States. The first cost of the road and the cost of maintenance would soon be absorbed.

This little object lesson serves to show at a glance the ultimate profit in decent highways. We are as yet a long way from the maximum road, according to the standards of the old world, but if expressed sentiment counts for anything we are making rapid progress.

WANTED--A POET LAUREATE.

Will Alfred Austin have a successor as poet laureate of England, or will the office lapse with his death? A good many Britishers as well as men of letters throughout the world are now asking that question. Many of the Bourbon element in England are insisting that tradition be preserved and a laureate be appointed in the place of Austin. If it were left to a vote of men who follow literature it is probable there would be an almost unanimous verdict in favor of abolishing a distinction that in our day has become meaningless.

At best, the laureatehip has been ornamental. It accounted for little when the occupant came into contact with other poets, and notably it was a source of embarrassment if he were a "mere jiggling rhymster" instead of a singer of the highest order. The business of being crowned official poet, charged assuamly with celebrating any great national event to order, was a strain under which all but the most mechanical order of genius would break down.

In the case of Austin, for example, the poet is likely to have been more a trial than of honor. He would probably himself have admitted that he did not possess the "divine afflatus" in marked measure, and that the criticisms heaped upon his efforts were a constant source of humiliation.

The idea, for instance, of comparing his meager verse with the robust and ringing lines of Kipling is absurd on the face of it. And as far as comparisons go there was as great a gulf between the genius of Swinburne, audacious and iconoclastic as it was, as between noon and midnight. The stolid British government, which, for reasons of policy, did not choose to lean toward either Swinburne or Kipling, may not have been cognizant of these incongruities; but the intelligent student of literature was, and the result by no means added to the dignity of the empire.

The sensible procedure seems to be to let the office of laureate lapse through disuse, and depend upon poetical genius driven by the inspiration of the moment to serve the country's needs and glories. We should like to see the American government propose the insulation of a poet laureate. That unhappy individual would be submerged by a chorus of barbed humor before he could get in the trolley to ride to the treasury and cash his first check.

SIDNEY H. PHELAN.

The death of Sidney H. Phelan will be universally regretted by all those who knew the man.

Few men of his time possessed to a greater degree the faculty of drawing others to him, and he did it by never letting anyone else do for him more than he was ever ready to do for them. No task was too hard for him to undertake for a friend and no length was too great for him to go when duty called. Few will ever know of the many good things done by him for the cause of charity or to alleviate the distress of suffering humanity. The Constitution knows--because it knew the man, and it recalls the blizzard Christmas of nearly a quarter of a century ago when in response to the call for help for the suffering he manned a two-horse wagon and with the reins in his own hands drove until long after midnight through the beating snow to the doors of the poor with his substantial greeting of comfort in the guarantee of food and fire to many a cheerless home. And that was Sid Phelan then--and thereafter: Always the same.

No warmer heart than his ever beat in a man's bosom--no more loyal nor earnest crusader ever followed the banner of a friend's cause.

Such a man will be missed!

Out west a woman is suing for divorce because her husband has cold feet. He probably regrets that he didn't get 'em before marriage.

The confident graduate thinks that he can steer the Ship of State, with a diploma for a sail.

In Love With Life.
When the peach, in orchards wide
Shows the world its rosy side;
When the melon's heart is red,
Then Joy's last, sweet word is said
When these rare delights I see Summertime's the time for me.

When the harvest gives its gold--
All your open arms can hold--
When the cotton fields have spread
For the world a snowy bed;
Then I tell 'em, far and free:
'Falltime's 'just the time for me.'

She Knew It All Beforehand.
'Now that your three days' absence from home is ended,' she said, 'don't distress the household by telling the length of the fish that got away, and how it pulled you into the river, until you had to turn the rod loose to save yourself from drowning, and how you tripped and broke the gallon jug, spilling all its contents before you reached the river and--'

Here he interrupted her.
'I didn't catch even a minnow,' he said.
'So I wasn't pulled into the river; and you ought to know that I'm too blamed careful ever to smash a jug with a gallon in it!'
'Why didn't you tell me that at first,' she said, 'instead of waiting all this time?'
And 'the brute' made no answer.

The Cool Resorts of Billville.
If we can't be at the seaside where the angry billows foam
We may still wear diamonds from the diamond mines at home;
The cool resorts of Billville are callin' clear to you,

With all the big resorts, you bet we're goin' to hold our ground--
The 'zator is our seashore, an' we're ridin' him around.

A Different Process.

A correspondent of The Dalton Citizen tells this one:
'A big colored Baptist revival was in progress near Valdosta. Mourners were going up by the score to be prayed for. The parson was loudly calling for sinners to come up and be washed as white as snow. One apparently stubborn old darkey refused the invitation persistently. Being prominent in colored circles the parson was anxious to 'fix him up.' 'Brudder Smith,' exclaimed the parson, 'won't you come up and have your sins washed white as snow?' Brother Smith slowly rose to his feet and replied that his 'sins had recently been washed as white as snow at a Methodist revival.' The parson was stumped for a moment, but quickly rejoined: 'Brudder Smith, you've not been washed white as snow; you've less been dry cleaned.'

And when she asked of the Darkness of him the answer came:
'He is brother to the Light.'

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON
The Famous Prose Poet

Winning Ways.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)
'I think Grimshaw carries the gloomiest face I ever saw,' remarked the assessor.
'As a consequence he has few friends. You never see anybody walking with him on the street. He's always alone. They say he's an excellent citizen, and so it seems a pity he's such a frost. He'd have more friends if he cultivated a cheerful expression.'
'This man's an encounter with a bore,' said the village patriarch. 'I always have championed the sunny smile, and have tried to wear one right along, and now that I am old I often wonder whether it wasn't a mistaken policy. As a result of the benign expression on my face, I have suffered unspeakable agonies in the past, for every man with a funny story to tell always wanted to spring it on me the first thing.
I detest funny stories, largely because they are not funny, and also because the people who narrate them never know how to tell funny stories. The people who really could tell such yarns as they should be told, have more important things to attend to.'
'I can't imagine a bore, approaching Grimshaw with a funny story. I don't suppose he ever listened to one in his life.
So you see how much suffering he has been spared because he looks like a killing frost on the 32d of November. Then he is spared all those cheap familiarities which annoy so many of us who wear glad smiles. Nobody slaps him on the back, or takes cigars out of his vest pocket or pushes his hat down over his ears. One look at his somber countenance would discourage the freshest aleek in town. The aleeks always have pestered me abominably, taking such liberties as I have mentioned, and the fact is no doubt due to the angelic smile I wear.'
'When a man gets into the habit of looking pleased and optimistic he can't break away from it. His smile becomes a permanent fixture, as much as the redness in the end of his nose. This is bad enough at home, where it is a standing invitation to fresh people and story tellers and all manner of bores, but it is much worse among strangers.
Every time I go to another town I begin to wish I could have my face remodeled, and equipped with a forbidding scowl. For people take it for granted as soon as they see me that I am trying to sell something that nobody wants.'
'The last time I was over to Squashville
I walked out to the suburbs to see an old friend and couldn't locate his house. So I stepped up to a lady who was tinkering around in her front yard, intending to ask her where Emanuel Tinklehoff lived, but before I could utter a word she was shaking her fist in my face, and telling me to make myself scarce before she sent for the police, for she absolutely refused to be annoyed by agents any more. I don't care whether you're selling a duplex washing machine or a patent electric churn,' said she, 'I won't spend a cent with you, and I don't want to hear a word out of your mouth. I've been bothered and hounded and hullygagged by agents,' said she, 'until flesh and blood can endure it no longer.' Then she went for me with a hoe and I vaulted over the front gate with an agility surprising in one of my years.

'I walked about a block and then I met a clergyman, and I stopped him and began to ask him where Emanuel Tinklehoff lived, but he stopped me before I had uttered three words. 'Go and mend your ways, you son of Beller,' said that reverend man.
'If I am not mistaken you are the same hoary malefactor who sold me an encyclopaedia in 18 months for the price of at the rate of 32 cents for twenty-seven years, and when the books came they were so badly printed that I couldn't read a line.
I am a meek and humble laborer in the vineyard,' said he, 'and cannot well imbue my hands in blood, but you'd better flee before I lose control of my temper.'

'Every man I stopped thought I was an agent or a candidate for office, and nobody would listen to me. They all said the police should be rebuked for permitting me to pry upon the community. Now, my friends, such things never would happen to Grimshaw. If he went up to a stranger with that frozen face of his, the stranger would take off his hat and bow to him. So I am inclined to think that Grimshaw's frontpiece is an asset rather than a liability.'

Before the Rain.

The blackcaps pipe among the reeds,
And there'll be rain to follow;
There is a murmur as of wind
In every coign and hollow;
The wrens do chatter of their fears
While swinging on the barley ears.

Come, hurry, while there yet is time.

Come, hurry, while there yet is time,
Fill up thy scurried bonnet.
Now, sweetheart, as my love is thine,
There is a drop upon it.
So trip it ere the storm-bag waird
Doth pluck the barley by the beard!

Lo! not a whit too soon we're housed;

Lo! not a whit too soon we're housed;
The storm-witch yells above us;
The branches rapping on the panes
Seem not in truth to love us.
And look where through the clover bush
The nimble-footed rain doth rush!
—Amele Troubetzkoy.

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES OF CRIME

CZAR NICHOLAS' SILVER CHAIR

There are two striking mysteries connected with the life of Czar Nicholas I of Russia, which have never been solved. One is as to the cause of his death. It is noted in history that he died as the result of a slow fever, but there is considerable doubt as to this, and it is affirmed upon pretly good authority that he was poisoned, or that the administering of poison brought on the fever that finally killed him.

But of still more interest is the incident in connection with the silver armchair. In the days of Nicholas, the Russian ruler in the first half of the last century, it was customary, upon the anniversary of his coronation, to present to him a silver armchair. This was usually delivered at the palace on the morning of the coronation, and he always used it for the first time to receive the address of congratulations from the deputation.
The year previous to his death, which occurred in March, 1855, the usual silver chair was delivered to the palace. The Emperor entered the reception room, followed by his court, and took up his position beside the silver chair.

He remained standing until the court chamberlain announced the approach of the deputies, and as they advanced toward him he made a move to be seated, but as he did so an aide-de-camp stepped forward and with his sword struck the seat of the chair a heavy blow. The Czar was amazed at his presumption only for a moment, for no sooner

THE MICROSCOPE.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of 'At Good Old Sitwah.'

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)
The microscope is the Columbus of the microbe world.

It is an instrument for making small things visible, a high powered annex to the human eye which has enabled man to pry into the secrets of Nature and ramble in vast fields of learning which could at one time have been successfully concealed under a fly's back.

Before the microscope was invented man could detect a pin point without sitting upon it, but that was all. With the aid of the microscope he can may a pin point off into hills and valleys and can pursue bacilli over its rugged surface, counting their ribs and toes and investigating the parasites which feed upon them.

Before the microscope became all-powerful, the house fly was a harmless insect which was allowed to coast down the baby's nose with innocent abandon. Nowadays, however, whenever a microscopist catches a fly he takes a census of the microbes on its toes and usually discovers enough of them to stock a large orphan asylum with all the popular diseases of the day.

The microscope has introduced us to the staphylococci, the pneumococci, the ring-tailed and thousands of other breeds of microbes, all of whom were entirely unknown to fame a hundred years ago. With the aid of the microscope men are now spending their lives in vast fields of exploration on a grain of dust and getting hopelessly lost in the wastes of a drop of polluted well water.

The field of microscopy is being constantly enlarged and many wonderful feats will be performed in the next few years. An effort is now being made to detach the atoms from the molecule and to count its corners.
When this has been accomplished the page of school teachers in the rural districts will be investigated and the republican electoral vote in the last election will be subjected to a searching analysis. The chance of

Was a Marvel.

The Ella White Memorial edition of The Atlanta Constitution was a marvel for magnitude and quality. The paper contained 126 pages and weighed a pound and a half more than the regular issue. It was gotten up by the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs and a part of the proceeds from the sale of advertising will be used as a foundation of a memorial fund in Georgia. The edition stands as a monumental task and will be preserved by many for future reference.

Peril of the Tight Skirt.

(Washington dispatch Philadelphia Record.)
The crowd that frequents the soda fountain at the drug store at F and Fifteenth streets, just across from the treasury building, where women in their new gowns leave the street cars to begin the parade up (usually) F street, had a grand time for two hours Saturday. A barrel of sirup dropped from the tail end of a transfer wagon, the head of the barrel came out, and 50 gallons of juice covered 200 square feet of sidewalk.
Five women, wearing tight-fitting skirts, went down almost in a heap when they struck the sirup. The tight skirts kept them from skating through as the men did.
Soon an army of drug clerks were out 'shooting' the people around the slick spot and escorting those who fell into the store and having their clothes cleaned. Women lost their feet and went down with them. Twenty-six skirts and fourteen men's suits suffered.

You marble minstrel's voiceful stoned
In deathless song shall tell.
When many a vanished age has flown,
The story how fell;
Nor wreck, nor change, nor winter's blight,
Nor time's remorseless doom,
Can dim one ray of holy light
That glids your gleaming orb.
—THEODORE O'HARA.

After the Storm.

The golden sun had gone to rest;
The birds had ceased their song;
The colors faded from the west;
And dark clouds rolled along.
The thunder gave its threatening call,
And lightning stroaked the sky;
Softly the rain began to fall;
Then torrents from on high.

But ere the morning broke anew,
The storm had gone its way;
The sun blazed through the walls of blue,
To make the perfect day.

SCIENCE ALIGNED WITH CHRISTIANITY

Two Truths Never Conflict, Rev W N Ainsworth Tells Graduates in Baccalaureate Sermon at Georgia

Athens Ga June 15.—(Special)—Commencement Sunday at Georgia was marked with the usual Georgia sermons the governor and a former gov in the chapel where Rev W N Ainsworth of Macon preached the baccalaureate sermon. The old stage was filled with gowned doctors and professors the governor and a former governor while numerous other distinguished guests were seated on either side of the platform. About sixty reverend seniors had seats of honor to the fore and the chapel was filled with visitors.

Prove all things hold fast that which is good was the text of the able sermon delivered by the former president of Wesleyan college. The preacher stated that in the age of confusion many new inventions and discoveries novel hypotheses and new interpretations and theories there is bewilderment in many minds. The confusion has crept into religion he said. Some believe that religion is not what it was once. The Bible is not the old book and the spirit has changed. Some have preached of conflict between science and Christianity.

True Christianity and true science are in league with each other declared the preacher and only some hypotheses of a science and some theories of religion are in opposition. Truth runs in parallel lines never conflicting and truth is the only authority.

In the conflict which we are to arrive at the truth is to be held fast that which is good. The allusion is to the ancient traders test of money said to him the last test being that of the crucible of the rector.

The preacher declared that Christianity in all the apostolic writings appeared to the reason insisted in the use of the intellect and taught that there is no faculty of mind or reason which is not to be the province of the king. Every Christian should be a rationalist in the sense that he should employ his reasoning powers in the testing of all things—even his own faith.

The convention is to be made up of representatives from four southern states the convention being known as that of the southeastern section of the organization. Georgia South Carolina North Carolina and Florida comprise the southeastern section of the organization and the indications are that the Jacksonville convention will be splendidly attended.

UNCLE SAM SEEKING OWNERS OF GOLD AND SILVER BULLION

Washington June 15.—More than a half century ago Uncle Sam was handed three bags of gold worth about $600 and he is still holding them some thirty years ago he was handed a bag of valuable silver bullion and the owner has left it with him ever since. The gold and silver has been a great nuisance to the accounting office of the federal government.

Comptroller of the Treasury Downey has just deeded it is a problem for congress.

In an effort to clear the accounts George L Roberts director of the mint appealed to the comptroller to know if he could convert it into fine silver bars and has not been seen since.

LABOR DAY PARADE PLANS DISCUSSED

Committee Will Hold Another Meeting Next Sunday at Labor Temple

At it from providing for standing committees on finance badges amusements line of march speakers and program floats and prizes little was done. The committee will meet again Sunday afternoon next at the Labor temple.

THOUSANDS AT GRAVE OF MILITANT "MARTYR"

London June 15.—A flock of thousands of militants and thousands of spectators witnessed the funeral today of the body of Emily White Davidson in St. Mary's Parish church Northumberland. Miss Davidson was killed in an attempt to stop the King's horse on Tuesday night her funeral at London yesterday was one of the occasions of a great demonstration by suffragettes.

Emily White, a lad woman led four black horses attached to the hearse wagon in which the coffin rested. Another wagon loaded with wreaths and flags and then a street with relatives.

Before the coffin was lowered it was covered with a pall from Mrs. Davidson's mother inscribed "Wilson the Northumberland Hunger Striker."

ENGLISH POLO PLAYERS WANT ANOTHER MATCH

Hempstead N Y June 15.—As the challenging English polo team defeated by a close margin in yesterday's exciting match for the International trophy will leave for home on Thursday a week earlier than had been intended plans for a third match between the British players and the substitute American team have been cancelled. Captains Risson and Lockett will go to India to retrain their men after a brief visit to England. Lord Woodhouse the substitute British player will remain in this country for some weeks hunting game in the Rockies and in the Canadian north west.

The English players took part in a practice game today on the John S. Phipps field at Westbury and this will probably be their last appearance in the United States. Their homes will be shipped next Saturday to England and sent to the estate of the Duke of Westminster.

William A Hazard secretary of the National Polo association said today he would not be at all surprised to see another challenge come from Great Britain within the next two years and possibly within a year.

Owing to the close contest said Mr. Herbert president of the association the English players will not be satisfied until they have another game. Belmont another devotee of polo will give a farewell dinner to the departing Britishers tomorrow night at the Meadowbrook Hunt club.

DR WHITE SUGGESTS USE OF DICTAGRAPH IN LOBBYIST PROBE

Upon the subject The Infallible Dictagraph Dr John E White compared the instrument which has of late created much sensation locally to the all seeing eye of God last night at the First Baptist church.

Dr White pointed out that there would be a marked and wholesome change in the life of every man if every word he uttered were recorded by a dictagraph and published to the world.

The only direct reference he made to the practical use of the machine was to suggest its use in Washington as an aid to President Wilson in his investigation of the lobbyists.

MEIGS MAYOR RETIRES AFTER 18 YEARS' SERVICE

Thomasville Ga June 15.—(Special)—Mayor E E Meigs of Meigs has decided to go back to the farm and has therefore sent in to council his formal resignation from the office of mayor. DECLARES BITTER WAR ON TURKEY BUZZARDS

Representative Pickett Charges Bird With Spreading Hog Cholera.

That the turkey buzzard is not the great public benefactor and friend of man that he has been credited with for a long time past is the conclusion reached by Representative D C Pickett of Terrell county who will introduce a bill into the house this summer looking to Mr Buzzard's annihilation.

White war on hog cholera and not on the turkey buzzard will be the primary object of Mr Pickett's measure as the buzzard is in his opinion the greatest promoter of hog cholera in the world that scavenger bird must go too.

"It is a great mistake to pass laws for the protection of buzzards," said Mr Pickett, "while passing through the city Sunday on his return from a northern trip to his home in Dawson. I hardly know of a greater curse than farmers have to contend with than hog cholera and your much lauded turkey buzzard is the most active purveyor of that disease that there is."

"I am going to introduce a bill this summer to require the burning or burying of the carcasses of all hogs dying with cholera so that they may not be taken up by buzzards to scatter the disease to other localities. I believe that cholera may be eliminated in time by such a measure as that with the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to the farmers of the state."

Take Protection From Buzzards. Incidentally I am going to ask to have whatever protection the law places on buzzards removed and the destruction of that filthy bird encouraged. Medical authorities say that he is more responsible for the spread of other diseases both to men and animals than the one I have mentioned. I have not made an investigation of the bird's activities in other directions but I am certain that it is he and no other that is responsible for the spread of hog cholera and the consequent enormous losses to the farmers of the country."

Advertising drives the wheels of trade

In the Orient they bargain in the bazaars. They haggle and quarrel before they buy. They lose time, temper and energy and depart with their purchases feeling they've been cheated.

Here we know what we want and what it costs before we start. We read the ads and learn. Thus shopping is a pleasure and we buy intelligently, always getting full value for our money.

When A. T. Stewart instituted the one-price-to-all system in his store he advanced buying and selling from a confidence game to an honest transaction. Advertising the fact carried it still further along the road of progress.

Today the merchant whose prices are not plain to all and who does not advertise is regarded with suspicion. There must be something wrong, the people argue, and pass his door.

Come out of the dark and into the light through The Constitution. Let folks know your excuse for renting a store. If it's a good one, they'll help you pay the rent.

YALE MEETS HARVARD ON WATER THIS WEEK

Sixty-First Annual Race on the Thames This Friday—The Crews Evenly Matched

New York, June 14—(Special)—When the Yale and Harvard variety eight, paddled to the starting line at New London next Friday the flash of the starter's pistol will mark the sixty-first anniversary of the initial boat race between these collegiate rivals.

Next to the annual Oxford-Cambridge regatta it is the oldest and most famous event of university aquatic sports. Viewing the picturesque scene on the Thames river at New London, it is hard to conjecture a comparison with the first race rowed way back in 1829.

Although there had been more or less rowing by student boat clubs at both Harvard and Yale, beginning about 1844 it was not until eight years later that a direct challenge was sent from the New Haven oarsmen to those at Cambridge. The cry was accepted by the Onondaga club, for Harvard, and the date set for August 3, the race to be rowed on Lake Winnebagoes Center Harbor, N. H.

According to one version Yale sent two eight oared barges named Lentine and Shamwin to compete against Harvard's Oneida. Another account of that day says the Yale entry was Halcyon. The story in detail however for the race resulted in a Harvard victory, the Onondaga finishing first in a two mile pull by about two lengths and the judges stated that the time "was about ten minutes." From this small beginning came the annual regatta which in Yale Harvard sports is a wide popularity only with the yearly football game.

FRENCH DERBY WON BY BLANC'S DAGOR

Paris, June 15—The Prix Du Jockey Club, the French derby, was run at the Chantilly course today and won by Edmond Blanc's dagger, a bay colt by Flying Fox an outsider in the again finished second with M. T. De Belling. M. L. J. J. Koderer's Bald Salt, Alary's Brule and C. T. G. were a fair day and prospects of an especially interesting race brought to center one of the most brilliant assemblages of years which included many prominent Americans. There were, in starters, an unusually fine set of colts with no special choices among them. M. A. Augustin's Nimble and L'ouan were favorites but they were unplaced. Dagor winning easily in two lengths.

Soon after the start W. K. Vanderbilt, Pierrelot and Madame G. Churmetoff's Albion fell. H. B. Durie's Blarney and Belmont's Valcain VI and J. F. Widener's Red D. also ran. Tal. Prix Du Jockey Club is a stake for three year olds of both sexes and is worth $25,000.

KAISER IS CELEBRATING ASCENSION TO THRONE

Berlin, June 15—The twenty fifth anniversary of the ascension to the throne of William II was quietly observed today as this marked the date also of the death of the emperor's father, Frederick III. The emperor and empress attended a memorial service in the morning in the memorial church at Potsdam. Later in the evening a wreath on his father's tomb. He then received in the new palace the members of the first infantry regiment of which he was captain in 1880.

At the numbers of the Imperial family took luncheon at the new palace with the exception of the crown prince. Their majesties and guests proceeded to the royal palace at Berlin for the evening.

The real jubilee will be in tomorrow evening with fete in the Schloss yard.

Great crowds have gathered in Berlin and the conversation in the streets is beyond description. The police in the heart of traffic find it impossible to keep the crowds of people and vehicles moving in the city.

Lincoln which has been brilliantly decorated was so crowded throughout Sunday that the Brandenburg gate and from the Schloss were closed to ingress.

Probably never before in the history of the world in Berlin. The weather is perfect and promises to continue so.

"QUO VADIS" DRAWING LARGE CROWDS ON ROAD

Meliet test is being shown in the presentation of the masterpiece of the Quo Vadis, which will be at the top and of this week. Hundreds of Atlantians are familiar with the story, many having seen it played on the stage. However a treat is in store for them as it has been possible to produce in photo play form scenes which no stage setting could depict.

With an Oklahoma, the well known Atlanta moving picture impresario says it is one of the greatest pictures he has ever seen and Jake Wells, the street musician, made a special trip to New York to see the rights to the picture. At the moment it is being shown in the city.

Story of a Big Maine Willow

(From The Lewiston Journal.)
One of the biggest willows in Maine may be seen on the Emery Estates farm in Durham. This farm is on the river road leading from the bridge at Lisbon Falls toward Southwest Bend. The base of the enormous growth here is between 12 and 15 feet. The top is luxuriant and affords fine shade for the front yard. Durham people relate the curious story that this great willow grew from a slender willow which was used by one of the pioneer settlers to make a path through the forest by horseback. His companion who got stuck on an adjoining farm also stuck a switch into the ground by way of a memorial of their journey. His companions' switch did not survive this transplanting. But the big tree in

GOVERNMENT PLANS NEW ATTACK ON COAL TRUST

It has become known that the government had prepared plans to proceed against the coal combination existing between the Reading railroad and the Central railroad of New Jersey. This action will revive a disturbing feature of the government suit against the so-called anthracite trust which was disposed of by the United States supreme court's decision. It will be the continuation of the steps in a series of efforts on the part of the federal government to smash the so-called trust in the anthracite division of last December the supreme court held that the government failed to establish the general combination charged against the coal carrying roads for apportioning the total tonnage to the seaboard by agreement between them. On the questions of the greatest concern to the business world the supreme court failed to pass these were charges involving alleged violations of the Sherman law through the control by the Reading of the Central of New Jersey and by the Erie of New York Susquehanna and Western.

"DOLLAR DIPLOMACY" DISCUSSED BY BRYAN

Secretary Tells Brazilian Minister Why It Was Abandoned by the United States

Washington, D. C., June 15—Secretary Bryan today discussed with Dr. Fauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, on special mission here, the reason for the abandonment of the so-called dollar diplomacy policy. Dr. Muller had called at the home of Mr. Bryan to pay his farewell respects.

There is no lack of desire to encourage increase of commercial relations between the United States and Brazil and other nations, Mr. Bryan told the visitor.

This is to be done however he said without having the government back enterprise of American capital in foreign countries. The administration he added desires to see American business and industry abroad through the establishment of friendly relations with these countries and their people and by the use of absolutely honorable commercial methods. Dr. Muller agreed that this was the wisest policy and he asserted that he would do what he could to encourage Brazilian investment in the United States.

Mr. Bryan suggested that the state department of the two governments could do much to prevent improper business from gaining a foothold by reporting promptly any cases they discovered. Dr. Muller promised to do this.

He fought shortly before the Brazilian minister and his party left their hotel for the train. Secretary Bryan called to say farewell.

Dr. Muller's friendly reception last afternoon, secretary Bryan's cordiality in the reception by the senate in his honor Friday afternoon were the three features which Dr. Muller said pleased him most in his five days here. Today the Brazilian embassy staff gave him a luncheon at the Chevy Chase club.

On his departure the Muller party accompanied by Dudley Field Malone, third assistant secretary of state and others left at midnight for South Bethlehem where tomorrow will be spent inspecting the great steel plant there. They will reach New York tomorrow night to spend Tuesday Wednesday they go to West Point on a torpedo boat destroyer Thursday to Boston and Friday to Niagara Falls.

The party will reach San Francisco June 27 and will be back in New York June 30. They will take the battleship Minas Gerous for Brazil.

CONGRESS OF WOMEN OPENS AT BUDAPEST

Budapest, June 15—The Women's Suffrage congress was formally opened in the academy of music this afternoon. The minister of education in behalf of the government, the burgomaster of Budapest and Countess Issa Teleki president of the Hungarian republican committee delivered addresses of welcome.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York in her presidential address devoted her attention to the phenomenal growth of womanhood in the present century. She said that there are only a few countries now without an organized movement when China is enrolled tomorrow the standard of the alliance will have been raised in five continents and more than twenty five nations.

During the past winter woman's suffrage bills had been introduced in seventeen national parliaments and thirty three states and other legislatures. The greatest gains had been in America and she was confident of ultimate women's suffrage on the whole North American continent.

Mrs. Catt denounced the white state bondages of women and urged woman to be a stimulant in living in the east as one of the richest and most cultured of all western influences where the thousands of eastern girls are scattered by the sea.

The women of the Orient however she added are awakening to new and higher standards of womanhood and she appealed to their western sisters to come to their aid.

The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw preached in the Protestant church in the morning, before a large congregation. She spoke from the text "Some of the church preachers objecting to her occupying the pulpit."

Loving Tributes Are Paid Memory of S. H. Phelan, Sr.

The last tributes of love were paid yesterday by hundreds of Atlantians to the memory of S. H. Phelan, Sr., formerly one of Atlanta's best-known citizens, who died on Friday at his plantation in Crawford county.

The body was brought to Atlanta on Saturday and was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dallas 18 West Fourteenth street, where a large number of friends called that night and filled the home all Sunday morning.

St. Luke's was crowded when the funeral services began at 3 o'clock with the Rev. C. B. Wilmer, rector of the church officiating. The many and beautiful floral offerings showed the love and the esteem in which Mr. Phelan was held by all. In the great congregation were many of the most prominent men in the city who in former years had been his business associates and personal friends.

Organizations Represented.
There were representatives present from the many organizations with which Mr. Phelan had been connected during his long residence in Atlanta. Cover de Lion commandery of the Knights Templars acted as the honorary escort. There were also in attendance many members of the Burns club with which Mr. Phelan had been connected for years.

Mr. Phelan had always been an enthusiastic and popular member of the Atlanta camp No. 59 United Confederate veterans. An escort from this camp paid last honor to an old comrade.

Mr. Phelan was also a member of the Knights of Pythias and of the Shriners, and members of both organizations were in attendance.

The pallbearers were as follows: Henry H. Cantalus, John E. Murphy, Dr. Joseph Jacobs, George W. Parrott, Frank Ellis, Donald Bain, Frank Callaway and Clark Howell.

A beautiful service was held at the grave in West View during which Mrs. Frank Pearson sang "Some Day." When the religious rites were ended the knights Templars took charge to pay the last tribute to a member of their organization.

During his long residence in Atlanta Mr. Phelan was one of the best known and most prominent citizens. He was active in one of her business and social life. In his office the Capital City club was organized and he was one of the charter members. He served as one of the directors of the Cotton States exposition.

Delegate to Baltimore.
He took an active interest in politics and at the last democratic convention in Baltimore served as a delegate from the sixth congressional district of Georgia.

Much of his time however was devoted to his property in Crawford county which he had developed into one of the most successful plantations in the state.

Mr. Phelan's chief interest however was in his family. It was noted for his "absolute" love of his children and for his generosity to his friends.

He is survived by the following children: Mrs. U. S. Atkinson, Mrs. F. I. Dallas, Mrs. A. W. Goldsmith, Jr. all of Atlanta, Mrs. Barry Wright, Mrs. E. B. Phelan and S. H. Phelan Jr. of Atlanta and Leman Phelan of Crawford county.

Mountain Lovers Marry in Auto And Drive Here on Wedding Trip

In the heart of the north Georgia mountain country Nella Huntington 16 years old and pretty decided to marry Gordon Cannon, a prosperous young farmer.

As her parents objected on account of her age, Saturday afternoon they determined to wed anyhow and to spend their honeymoon in an automobile. A friend of the bride's owned a car with which she operated a stage line from Creighton the girls home in Cherokee county to the near as best man a girl friend of the posed bride Maud Pierson agreed to accompany her on the trip as bridesmaid.

Early Saturday night the quartet with stephens at the wheel set out for Canton Ga. in which township was the nearest justice of the peace and the license was obtained. A night from the ordinary of Cherokee county and New White the district J. P. performed the ceremony in the automobile.

The remainder of the night was spent en route to Atlanta. They arrived in this city early Sunday morning. The day was occupied in visits to Grant park, Piedmont park and White City and sight seeing trips over the city. At nightfall the bride and groom and their attendants left for their home to break the news to the bride's parents who so far as Mr. and Mrs. Cannon know are unaware of the marriage.

The bride talked with a Constitution reporter Sunday morning. She was at White City park watching the merry-go-round and having the time of her life. She was nervous and apprehensive of the reception from her parents in Cherokee.

Anyway she said whenever they begin talking of weddings at home or how exciting they were they won't have a thing on me. We married in an automobile took our honeymoon in it and would keep house in it if it was big enough and had a kitchen.

CHRISTIAN MESSAGE TO THE MODERN MAN

Philadelphia Pa., June 15—Commencement week exercises at the University of Pennsylvania began today with the Rev. Alexander MacColl preaching the baccalaureate sermon on "The Christian Message to the Modern Man."

"It is a great thing to be coming to the maturity of ones powers in this age," said Dr. McColl. "For there are many evidences that we are passing into a new era in our American history."

The emphasis of thought in the last fifty years he said has been upon the development of material resources. Among earnest men the emphasis of thought in the next fifty years is to be upon the development and distribution of human wealth.

MACHINE GUN TALE STIRS MINE OWNERS

West Virginia Operators Line Up Witnesses to Refute the Charge of Armored Train Fired on Camp of Strikers.

Charleston, W. Va., June 15.—The case of the coal mine operators of the state of West Virginia will be presented, beginning tomorrow, before the senate mine strike investigating committee. Today the attorneys for the operators lined up the scores of witnesses they will produce to show that they are not to be blamed for the conditions which threw the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek mining districts into a state of civil war.

Much of the activity of the mine operators' lawyers will be directed toward breaking down the story of Lee Calvin, an ex-mine guard, the star witness for the miners, who on Saturday told the committee of his experience on the train carrying machine guns which shot up the camp of the miners at Holly Grove, on Paint Creek, West Virginia, the last declaration of martial law. Calvin accused Quinn Morton, a mine operator, of urging that the train return and fire again on the tented camp, after the little village and after Cisco Estep had been killed beside his home.

Quinn Morton himself, Sheriff Bonner Hill and others who were on the train will be recalled for cross-examination.

Conditions Causing Strike. The discussion of the general conditions leading up to the strike is the only branch of the inquiry which the committee has left to dispose of during its stay in Charleston.

On this point the operators desire to present many witnesses. When the inquiry here is concluded the committee will return to Washington to conclude its hearing. What the outcome of the inquiry will be is a matter which the big galaxy of state engaged by both sides is discussing eagerly. The committee, under the resolution of the senate authorizing the investigation has solely the power to "hear and report."

Whether the senate itself has jurisdiction over any of the matters involved in the controversy between the miners and the operators is a grave question. It is probable that as a matter of interstate commerce the senate may initiate remedial legislation as to any "combination" against such mine operators as "Virginia," such mine operators as the resolution. But beyond that even the members of the committee themselves doubt their authority to take any real action.

The state of West Virginia is not on trial here," is the way Senator Swanson, the chairman of the committee, states the question. "This committee has no power to try any one to determine the facts and report them to the full committee on education and labor to be formed."

Senator Swanson also declared that the senate for "information."

Today the committee took a holiday. The various members were entertained by several of the leading citizens of the city at breakfast, dinner and luncheon. Senator Martine, of New Jersey, occupied the pulpit of the First Methodist church of Charleston, at the morning service. He was introduced as a member of the American House of Lords, and when he took the platform he objected strenuously to the designation.

"I am a member of the senate of the United States," he said, "and I am proud to be, but I cannot accept the designation, in a republican form of government, of any such cognomen as the 'House of Lords.'"

Senator Martine discussed the physical resources of the state, declaring them to be inexhaustible.

"But the silver mines and your state," he declared, "have been stricken with the mauling blight of insatiable greed. The wealth of the state has been taken from the many by the few."

The senator's address caused considerable discussion, but he was warmly greeted by the members of the congregation, one of the most aristocratic in the city.

Both sides heat on arms. Both sides of the controversy rested on their arms today in preparation for the struggle which their rebuttal testimony this week. The representatives of the miners have gathered together a large amount of documents and photographs which will be presented to the committee and made a part of the record. In addition, Senator Kenyon contemplates sending into the operators on Paint and Cabin Creeks, who lease the land they mine, and the ownership of the mineral lands.

RAILWAY WRECK IS BEING PROBED

HOW NEW YORK and NEW HAVEN ENGINE CRASHED INTO PULLMAN

The recent wreck on the New York and New Haven railroad, in which many were killed and injured, will be thoroughly probed by the interstate commerce commission. The frequency of wrecks on the system controlled by Charles S. Mellen has stirred the people of New England and has caused bitter attacks on the management.

BALKAN ALLIES URGED TO STACK THEIR ARMS

Bulgaria Apparently Not Enthusiastic Over Plan for Demobilization.

Sofia, June 15.—The Bulgarian government has replied to the Servian invitation for demobilization, urging that the allies sincerely adopt the Bulgarian demobilization proposal.

Bulgaria, the note adds, is ready for simultaneous demobilization, but suggests that in order to prevent further attempts at pressure it is necessary that the contested districts should be occupied by mixed garrisons.

The British government has appended a King Ferdinand in favor of demobilization.

Greece For Demobilization. Sofia, June 15.—The Greek government has submitted to Bulgaria a proposal for demobilization similar to that proposed by Servia.

Servian Cabinet Resigns. Belgrade, June 15.—The Servian cabinet, of which M. Tashich was premier and minister of foreign affairs, resigned today.

Skyscraper Cities.

Opposite the postoffice, on lower Broadway, New York City, there has just been completed a building, 780 feet high, which will provide working quarters for 10,000 people. If all the men and women employed in this one skyscraper should attempt to go to work by the subway it would take the ten-car express trains, running at the intervals now established, fifteen minutes to haul them away. Though this happens to be the highest structure in the city, there are others nearly as large; it is one of dozens that accommodate four or five thousand people each and one of hundreds that accommodate more than a thousand people each. The number of these great buildings is steadily growing.—The World's Work for June.

Thief Laughed at Her.

(From The New York World.) And there loomed a screen in the rear of her husband's fruit store in Main street, Patchogue, Long Island, Mrs. Samuel Gordon had to stand yesterday and watch a thief run the cash register in front. To be sure, she did shout "Stop, thief!" but the thief apparently was aware of conditions back of the screen, for as he departed he laughed and said, "I care you to chase me."

Mrs. Gordon did not chase. Back of the screen she was taking a bath when the thief entered the store. It was in the slack afternoon hour, and she expected no customers.

"I thought," she said afterward, "of wrapping myself in two Turkish towels, but I could find any pins and there he was, emptying the money drawer! And there I was! It was only $3 he got, but dear me, it would have been the same if it were $300. Indeed, he wouldn't have taken out of each bill if it had been $3,000,000!"

The Difference.

(From The Chicago Daily News.) Mrs. Ovie Blank advertised for a maid and got many answers. From the cloud of applicants she chose one. Before long there was trouble in the place. The maid had been employed elsewhere and she knew the difference. Mrs. Blank became acrimonious: "Do you call yourself a lady's maid?" "I used to maintain a household," the servant, "before I worked for you."

A Prisoner's Hobby.

(From The Indianapolis News.) A great cruelty has been perpetrated on a prisoner by the British government. He was removed from one prison to another, and at his second abode was not allowed to keep his pet mice. When he parted with them, strong men turned away their heads, so affecting was the scene. And the prison commissioner who witnessed it promised him that he would see that the mice were taken care of, and he is said to have been as good as his word.

The Devil's Graveyard.

(From The Indianapolis News.) A cemetery known as the Devil's Graveyard, on top of a rocky hill overlooking Sim, Switzerland, where for centuries were buried sorcerers and sorceresses, is being blasted away to make room for public improvements. From the tenth century to the seventeenth those supposed to be in traffic with the evil one were tortured, executed and buried there. The excavators have found bones of persons.

Now that the Chicago physicians have decided in favor of the light shirt there is of course to be no further change in the fashion. Let the car steps be lowered accordingly and other changes be made.

Rucolto Reyes, minister of justice, is slated for retirement. He is the son of General Bernardo Reyes, a Diaz man who was killed in the battle at the palace at the time of the uprising against Madero. General Felix Diaz insists that the cabinet changes do not presage trouble for the administration as is believed in some quarters.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE IS HIGH IN THE CITY OF MEXICO

Mexico City, June 15.—Poreign exchange, for which a month ago banking firms demanded as high as 240 pesos for gold, but which dropped to nearly normal—two pesos for one dollar gold—with the announcement of the placing of the 200,000,000 peso loan by the government, rose again yesterday to approximately 220, several banks declining to sell at any price.

The flurry started with the refusal of the Banco Nacional de Mexico, through which it is understood the French loan funds are to be paid, to sell exchange, giving as a reason that its balance will be exhausted abroad. The real reason is said to be that the loan funds are being delivered in installments instead of in a lump sum, as apparently was expected. The first 50,000,000 pesos paid in have been exhausted by pressing government obligations and the second installment to the same amount is not yet available.

CHECKED BY THE REBELS

Nogales, Ariz., June 15.—General Gueda's federalists north of Guaymas was checked in fighting yesterday, said today's advance from official insurgent forces. It was said that General Gueda's advance was a flank movement, encountering the federalists below Ortiz and capturing 150 men. There was a full in the fighting today.

REBELS TRYING TO STARVE

Brownsville, Texas, June 15.—That "constitutionalists" are endeavoring to starve the city of Monterrey, Mexico, and force the federal garrison there to withdraw, is the declaration of two Mexicans who arrived here today after traveling the greater part of the journey from Monterrey aboard a hand car.

All avenues of supplies have been cut off, according to the men, and even carts, carrying corn, are not permitted to enter the city. Industries within Monterrey have suspended operations, they say, and many of the poorer classes are already suffering from hunger.

It is reported that 400 rebel troops will be started overland from Matamoras tomorrow to reinforce the constitutionalist forces in control of Nuevo Laredo.

The Lost Leader Writer.

(From The London Daily Sketch.) The story is told that when the new proprietor of The Times first went over the building in Printing House Square he saw a door covered with cobwebs which wouldn't open. After they had waited a long time an aged caretaker was found burdened with enormous keys, one of which fitted the rusty lock and after great straining turned it. Inside were dust and ashes and a copy not printed from a $15 prize on a long over a table with a pen in his bone fingers.

"What on earth is this?" they asked. "Oh, I remember hearing that in my great-grandfather's days they lost one of their leader writers," said the old key bearer. "He must have got locked in."

Wheeling Chickens to a Fair.

(From The World's Work for June.) The Oregon State fair in 1912, spent $3,500 in prizes for school industrial work. The railroads and electric lines gave free transportation to all displays that were made by the children. One little girl, who lived off the railroad, wheeled her prize-winning chickens 2 miles in a baby buggy to the fair. Another little girl, 7 years old, got $30 in the bank after the fair was over—her net profit from a $15 prize on a trained cat, a $5 prize for the biggest watermelon, and other cash prizes for vegetable displays. Her best cake was baked by a 12-year-old boy.

MAYOR WILL APPROVE FINANCE SHEET TODAY

Segregation Ordinance Will, in All Probability, Be Passed by Council.

The June finance sheet will be approved by Mayor James G. Woodward today, and just as soon as the new agreement between council and the Destructor company is signed up the $280,000 crematory plant will pass into the possession of the city.

Mayor Woodward will send the sheet back in time for council to adopt it at the afternoon session. He will also send council a message declaring that the approval of the sheet is conditional in that some of the items pending the decision of the supreme court on the crematory injunction.

"I want to be on the safe side," the mayor said, last night. "The interests of the city must be looked after."

The conditional approval of the sheet by Mayor Woodward throws the burden on council, and a majority of the members of that body are willing to pass it and write fine to the crematory wrangle.

Aside from the adoption of the finance sheet, council has a number of important matters up for discussion. Chiefly, this is the segregation ordinance which is slated to go to the session. The ordinance was thrashed out once before the ordinance committee, and recently the police committee invited a hearing and adopted the measure. It will go to council with a favorable committee report, which almost assures its passage in council. The ordinance is not drastic, nevertheless it has a strong moral force. Arguments against the law before the courts and tested as to its constitutionality.

Alderman Harwell is reported to be ready to introduce in council a resolution urging the appointment of a committee of citizens and council members to investigate needed improvements and report back to council the advisability of imposing an additional twenty-five cents tax. Alderman Harwell has not discussed his plan, but it is understood that he is in favor of abolishing the sanitary tax of $3 and letting the tax increase make up for the deficiency, which has been estimated to be in the neighborhood of $120,000.

No Car Line On Ivy.

Council will have an opportunity, possibly today, to pass on another big improvement on Ivy street. Councilman George H. Boynton is working out a plan whereby the Georgia Railroad and Power company may be induced to abandon the street and open it to its cars on Courtland street and Piedmont avenue. President Preston S. Arkwright favors the project, and with the assistance of the property owners and citizens living in the neighborhood, he hopes to make a favorable report.

A spirited contest is looked for in the selection of a park board member. The second ward is expected to succeed Frank Wilby, resigned. Oscar Wainwright, well-known real estate promoter, and A. N. Thom, a capitalist, have been mentioned, although no second ward nomination in council has not yet taken a choice. Both are well qualified to serve because they are enthusiastic park advocates.

Several appointments in the sanitary department will be passed on today. The police committee report will include a batch of recommendations on near-beer saloons, the largest number in some time. A majority of the licenses are renewals.

Day of Rest for Oarsmen.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 15.—This was day of rest for the 141 oarsmen who are assembled in practice for the intercollegiate rowing regatta to take place here on Saturday. Many of the oarsmen are suffering from sore throats. Cornell, Washington, Columbia, Wisconsin, Syracuse and Pennsylvania will be represented in the races.

Funeral of T. J. Sheron.

Augusta, Ga., June 15.—(Special.)—The funeral of Terence J. Sheron, half owner of the Augusta Herald, and correspondent of this city, at 4 o'clock, at the Church of the Sacred Heart. Mr. Sheron, after an illness since December 5, died yesterday afternoon. Prior to going into the newspaper business he was in the shoe business in Augusta and Macon.

213th Yale Commencement.

New Haven, Conn., June 15.—The commencement exercises of the 213th year of Yale university were formally begun this morning with the baccalaureate address by President Arthur Hadley. His address was an earnest plea for more courageous thought in this "age of reform movements." He urged the members of the graduating class "not to let our knowledge crowd out our faith."

Strike Vote Ordered.

Baltimore, June 15.—Arrangements for a vote of trainmen in the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad upon the question of calling a strike to enforce their demands for increased pay and improved working conditions will be made at a joint meeting here tomorrow of the grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railroad Conductors. Whether there shall be a strike or the case submitted to arbitration will be voted upon.

Gomez Sails for France.

Havana, June 15.—Ex-President Gomez and his family sailed for France today on board the steamer Epagagne. General Gomez intends to remain in Europe for several months.

YOUNG MEN ADVISED TO GO TO THE ORIENT

Providence, R. I., June 15.—The needs of the Orient that can be supplied by this country were outlined today by President W. E. France, in a baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Brown university. President France recently returned from a trip around the world, and said that the college graduates "who go west today may well consider whether he should not keep on going until he comes to the farther east."

"Engineers," he said, "are needed to build the railways of the east, bankers to devise monetary systems, doctors to deal with the plague of blindness in China and pollutions of soul and body consecrated by religion in India."

"But the greatest need of the eastern world is still to be named—the spirit of disinterested service to humanity. No material improvements will meet the Oriental needs. Nothing but the vision of God in Christ, a vision which came to us from the Orient, can uplift and engraft the Oriental lands today."

Another Peace Argument.

The Weather and Cotton.

"The weather" is a never-failing topic for conversation, speculation and I might say, for exaggeration, and I presume has been so since Adam and Eve were expelled from the Garden of Eden. For the last four or five days it has caused more talk and more apprehension than for any similar period in June since away back in the past. Let's sum it up in a few dates, inches and degrees: At Griffin, according to my thermometer and rain-gauge, the salient points of the record are here shown: June 1 and 2, rainfall, 1.56 inches; June 1, rain, 1.84 inches; rain, 8 and 9, 1.37 inches, making a total of rainfall for the first ten days of the month 4.77 inches. This is not, of itself an extraordinary rainfall, and yet it is something more than the normal or average precipitation for the whole month; not every section of the south or even of the state has had more and some have had much less. But let us note the temperatures: On the 19th the minimum was 51 degrees; on the 11th, 51; on the 12th, 51. The weather bureau compares the first drop to 54 degrees on the 10th with that of previous years, being dates in the past. Why it should compare the 10th of June, 1913, with previous tenths of June back in the past does not appear, for the weather has not fixed definite relative humidity, being dates in the month, nor for particular days of the week. A larger section of the month, it would seem reasonable—say the first ten days of June, or first third—giving the lowest daily minimum and the actual maximum, even on today the ten days. However, there is no one to dispute the statement that it has been at least many, many years since we have had three successive daily minimum temperatures during the first and third of June as low as 51 degrees.

What about the effect on crops of this low temperature? Some report even frost—visible frost—on the 11th. No issue is made on this statement of an observer, being dates in the month, but it is remarkable that frost should occur with no lower observed temperature at or about sunrise than 50 or 51. It is a fact, however, that may be verified by actual inspection, even on today (13th) and for some days to come, that many stalks of cotton and okra (some family) have been scorched as if by frost or fire and some cotton has been killed outright. I am writing from actual observation, and not from observation, having closely inspected the half acre of my pot cotton growing in my garden annex.

Has Cotton Been Damaged?

If cotton generally had been planted at the usual time, had come up promptly and been normal as to size and development of plants, there would be no ground for apprehension. A backward, not amounting to actual death of the plants, received in April or May, would not cause real apprehension, as the crop ordinarily has plenty of time to recover from such a casualty. But the late-planted cotton has very little time, indeed none at all, to spare under the condition at present existing. Of course, no exact conclusion is possible as to the effect of the late cold snap. The injurious is manifest to the most casual observer, and will have its effect on the final outcome at the close of the season. I think it safe to say that the crop has been injured by loss of time to the extent of not less than one week—possibly longer—and it may affect the final yield by half million bales to the bad.

Other Crops.

Actual injury has been confined, ac-ording to my limited field of observation, to okra and cotton. Even so tender plants as tomatoes, snap beans, and peppers seem not to have been seriously affected, showing no signs of scorching or freezing. I should have remarked in the preceding paragraph that the injury to cotton was partly due to the wind and rain slapping the stalks about, blowing them down, etc. Corn was somewhat injured by the winds and rain, many stalks blown or broken down, but the damage—not including exceptional cases—probably amounts to but little.

RABBIT-FOOT CLOVER.

W. N. Acid, Edenton, Ga.—Please advise me what this is. "Catt" like it. It is a very common name. Seems to be harmless.

Answer—The plant sent is a specimen of Trifolium arvense, a species of clover, the common name of which is rabbit-foot, or stone clover. It is an introduced plant but has been in this country so long as to become naturalized and is found in most sections north of the piney woods region. It is a very hardy plant, and is not killed by winter frosts. It is a very nutritious plant and is used as a feed for cattle and sheep. It is a very common plant in the south and is found in most sections of the state. It is a very hardy plant, and is not killed by winter frosts. HORSE SLOBBERS.

W. E. Moore, Andalusia, Ala.—My horse, 12 years old, bought first in March, has had bad slobber, and was in a poor condition. Now I want to know what makes him slobber. He slobbers all the time when he is at work. His bowels roll and tumble all the time. I have given him castor oil and he has slobbered freely. He eats hearty. I feed him on corn and fodder and green food.

I suggest that you carefully examine his mouth, especially the teeth and the gums. If the teeth are not in good condition, they will have to be pulled. If the gums are inflamed, they will have to be treated. Give him a dose of 1 quart of linseed oil and when purging is over, give him a dose of 1 quart of castor oil. Give him a dose of 1 quart of linseed oil and when purging is over, give him a dose of 1 quart of castor oil. STAGGERS (1) OF COW.

Jan. O'Connell, Gabbettville, Ga.—I have a fine cow with young calf. She has drunken spells, or something like that. She will be walking around all right, stagger and fall, get up in a short time. Eats anything you give her. I have given stock powder, salts and all the dry food, bran and corn meal.

Answer—I have little doubt that the staggers are in the brain and it may develop into a case of staggers, which usually terminates fatally, unless promptly and properly treated. If she is a valuable cow I would suggest that you have a competent veterinary surgeon see her and try to make a diagnosis. If she is not a valuable cow, it is better to let her die than to waste money on her. If she is a valuable cow, it is better to let her die than to waste money on her.

HELL DASH FOR TOP OF THE WORLD

DONALD B. MACMILLAN WHO WILL SEEK NEW CONTINENT IN ARCTIC

Donald B. MacMillan is getting ready for his drill into the icy fastnesses of the Arctic. He wants to solve the only remaining mystery of old mother earth's top crust. He will endeavor to explore Crocker Land, the supposed continent sighted by Peary from Cape Thomas Hubbard in 1906. When the expedition party sails from Sydney, New South Wales, on the whaler Diana in July, under the leadership of MacMillan, the explorers will include a seismograph and a complete wireless outfit in their equipment, which will be thoroughly up to date. Electricity will also be utilized for lighting, cooking the meals and heating in the remote regions of the far north. The object of the expedition is to discover and explore the unknown area north of the present map of the Arctic region, and if conditions are favorable, to penetrate the Greenland ice cap. MacMillan was with Peary on his dash to the North Pole.

CROWDED AUTO STRUCK BY A SOUTHERN TRAIN

Finis Plumlee, of Chattanooga, Killed—Three Others Injured.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 15.—When a Southern Railway passenger train struck an automobile near Ooltewah, sixteen miles from this city today, Finis Plumlee, 43, well-known Chattanooga, was killed. His wife received serious cuts and bruises about the face and head. Miss Willie Newton and Leo Chamberlain, the chauffeur, also were badly hurt. The dead and wounded were brought to this city.

BROWN BADLY INJURED SWINGING A TRAIN

While trying to swing a passenger train which was speeding toward his home in Stone Mountain, K. C. Brown, a merchant, was badly hurt, his head being injured, and his leg broken. Though still alive when he arrived at the St. Louis hospital, he is now in a critical condition. His automobile was struck by the train, and he was thrown from it. He was found 100 feet from the track.

RETAINED AFTERBIRTH OF COW.

D. M. Mumford, Osborne, N. C.—I have a Jersey cow that was in good health, but she has retained her afterbirth. She has been in this condition for several days. I have given her a dose of 1 quart of linseed oil and she has slobbered freely. He eats hearty. I feed him on corn and fodder and green food.

SPILT HOOF OF COW.

"R. E." X, Ga.—My cow is fat and healthy and grazes all day on a Bermuda plot (my back yard), but her hoof is spilt. I have a piece of land, 100 acres, and I want to know how to inoculate for cowpeas.

THE BRIGHT DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

(From The Washington Post.)
Sixteen years from now the democrats will still be in control of the national government, in my opinion, remarked Archie Miller, of Salt Lake City, Utah, at the Willard. "Up until a few years ago I was a republican and always voted the republican ticket, but like a great many others, I got tired of having the republican party pose and act as absolute monarchs. It is a good thing to have a change once in a while. The republicans have been in power so long that they had come to believe they could not be displaced. In the recent campaign I supported Mr. Wilson and I am glad he won, of course. If the democrats do as they have declared they will do, they ought to continue in power for sixteen years or more, certainly as long as the republicans did."

Austria Orders Airships.

Vienna, June 15.—The visit to Vienna of Count Zeppelin in the dirigible airship Sachsen a few days ago, according to the report here, has impelled the Austrian government to order six Zeppelins for delivery after 1914. They are to be armed with machine guns.

Olinda Leaves for Cuba.

Savannah, Ga., June 15.—The Minion line steamship Olinda, which reached Savannah Thursday afternoon after an exciting voyage from New York with fire in her hold, will leave for Cuban ports today.

NEW CROP CONDITIONS AND THE JULY DEAL

They Will Be the Main Influences in Cotton Market This Week.

New Orleans, June 15—The July deal and new crop conditions will be the main influences in the cotton market this week. It will be interesting to observe whether the July position contains its promise. For some time past it has dominated the entire situation, bears have almost openly acknowledged their fear of the operations under way, and have allowed them to wholly offset favorable reports from the cotton belt. It remains to be seen whether this state of affairs can prevail much longer especially if crop accounts continue to improve.

While the entire cotton belt has recently experienced abnormally cold weather for June crop accounts have not reflected any great damage although the trade believes that the growth of the young plant has been considerably retarded by the cold. Some complaint of too much rain is coming in from the northern counties of Alabama and Georgia. What will be most favorable this week will be bright warm weather. The crop can get along without any moisture at all and would make quick growth under forcing temperatures. Such conditions would undoubtedly lead to renewed strong short selling of the new crop months although it might not have any effect at all on the old crop options.

WEATHER TO BE HOT DURING PRESENT WEEK

Washington June 15—Warm weather with clear skies over the greater part of the country is predicted for the coming week by the weather bureau.

There will be scattered thunder showers the first part of the week along the northern border the weekly bulletin says and by the middle of the week showers will set in along the east Gulf and south Atlantic coast.

No important storm is expected to cross the country during the ensuing week although a disturbance of minor intensity will form Tuesday or Wednesday in the western plateau region and advance thence in a northerly direction attended by local thunder showers and reach the region of the great lakes Thursday or Friday.

Stimson Speaks in New York

New York June 15—Rev R D Stimson head of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial college spoke today in the Abyssinian church. Rev Dr A Clayton Powell pastor. A thousand persons gave close attention to his plea for his school and industrial training for masses of negro race. He told how the people of the south were willing to help and encourage those of the race who showed a disposition to be honest and true. He asked the audience to help the school to build a girls' dormitory and a place to teach trades. A contribution was taken by Dr Powell.

CONSTITUTION PICTURE WILL FIGURE IN TRIAL

Solicitor Wants Photograph of Spot Where Mary Phagan's Body Was Found

A flashlight picture, made by The Constitution's staff photographer is to be used as evidence by the prosecution in the trial of Leo M Frank. This was made evident Sunday afternoon when Detective John Starnes applied to a Constitution reporter for the photograph of the spot in the pencil factory basement, where Mary Phagan's body was discovered.

Starnes would not state why he wanted the picture, saying only that it would be used by the prosecution. He was extremely desirous of getting it, and it will be put in his possession this morning. It is rumored that by the picture an effort will be made to corroborate certain statements of James Conley, the negro sweeper when he is placed on the witness stand.

LANE DECLARES POLICY AS TO U S WATER RIGHTS

Washington, June 15—The lower the rate charged to consumers by electric power companies, the lower will be the tax, which such power companies must pay to the government.

Secretary Lane of the interior department today announced this as the heart of the policy adopted as to the disposition of water rights of the government.

Mr Lane has pending before him several applications for rights to use the public lands and the waters of navigable streams for the development of electrical power. He is opposed to making use of these waters as a source of revenues to the government, but is in favor of requiring the fullest use of them for the benefit of the people and has laid down five conditions as an ideal standard.

1 The greater the development of horsepower to be made on the part of the government. This is intended to secure the full use of the stream.

2 The lower the rate to consumers the lower the charge on the part of the government.

3 No charge whatever for a period of five or ten years, during which the power company is finding its market.

4 Acceptance as public utility of the states jurisdiction over intrastate rates and service and of federal jurisdiction over interstate rates and service.

5 Absolute prohibition of combination or monopoly and the right of revocation on the part of the government in the event that it is established to the satisfaction of the secretary of the interior or the courts, that such combination has been made or that prices have been fixed by agreement with competing plants.

AUCTION

NEXT THURSDAY IS THE DAY

Ex-Secretary Wilson---

Hon. James Wilson, former Secretary of Agriculture in Washington during several administrations, said not long ago in a speech before the people of Augusta, Ga.:

"You are going to find your lands getting away from you and prices advancing. The people from the North and West are coming South. This is the realm of future prosperity. The soil, climate and the people of the South have heretofore been greatly misunderstood. A new epoch in its history is now beginning. Opportunity for development in the South is unrivaled, and is here for both capitalist and home-seeker."

Mr. Wilson is well fitted to speak about the South. And these words coming from a man who knows every section of the country are very significant. He has been here many times and has studied the land question in the South closely. For that reason he is well qualified to speak.

What he says is reason why real estate is an excellent investment, and particularly Atlanta real estate. And past history shows that no section of Atlanta is better for investment in real estate than Ansley Park. That's why the twenty-five lots which will be auctioned off next Thursday in Ansley Park Annex will be excellent investments. Somebody is going to make some money. Will it be you?

Andrew Carnegie Says---

"Young woman or young man, buy some suburban property and hold on to it. It is the surest investment since civilization."

The famous ironmaster knows what he is talking about. He has practiced what he preaches, for he is a large landowner.

Everybody knows what happened after every other auction of Ansley Park lots. Those who keep posted say the same thing will happen regarding the Ansley Park Annex lots which will be auctioned off next Thursday afternoon.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars have been made for Ansley Park investors. The name of Ansley Park has been synonymous with increased values and steady enhancement. Ansley Park Annex has been given the same care and attention which characterized the development of Ansley Park. The lots are high and overlook Ansley Park.

Ansley Park Annex lots present a good opportunity to Atlanta investors to follow the advice of the millionaire ironmaster.

Russell Sage---

During his lifetime, the advice of Russell Sage was sought by the greatest financiers in the world. He was an authority on the accumulation of money and that he was a good authority was demonstrated by the many millions which he left when he died. This is what he thought about real estate investments:

"Buy lots in outlying districts, paying a small sum each week; await developments, follow your vocation and in the end other people have made money for you."

That this was good advice has been shown time and again in Atlanta, and with Ansley Park lots in particular. The enhancement in this property has been phenomenal. It is pointed out by enthusiastic Atlantans as an illustration of Atlanta's wonderful growth. The whole South knows about it.

That's why Ansley Park Annex lots which will be auctioned off next Thursday will present an excellent opportunity for following the advice of the late financier.

Grover Cleveland---

Not only successful business men and financiers point to enhancement in realty values as good illustrations of the accumulation of wealth, but the same advice is given by statesmen. Among those who made a close study of this was the late ex President Grover Cleveland. This is what he said:

"More wealth has been gathered from the suburban realty than all other methods combined."

Isn't the advice of such authorities worth following? Just think of the Atlanta men you know about who have made fortunes by the enhancement of Atlanta real estate values. You can count lots of them. Even among your friends you will find some who have made money by simply buying Atlanta real estate, and then, as Russell Sage said: "Let other people make money for you."

Remember the day of the auction—NEXT THURSDAY, JUNE 19. If you go out there and buy a lot, it will probably be an eventful day for you. It may be that your fortune will date from that day. There are twenty-five lots out there waiting to make money for some folks. Be one of the folks.
