

CITY ALDERMEN AND FIRE CHIEF ARE EXONERATED

Council Accepts the Report Declaring Maddox, Ragsdale and Sprattling Have Not Broken Rules of Office.

COMPETITIVE BID LAW FOR HOSE DISREGARDED

Committee Finds, However, That This Same Method Was Employed Before W. B. Cummings' Administration.

The city aldermen named by Alderman John E. McClelland in his "graft" charges to Mayor James G. Woodward and council were exonerated by the probe committee in its report submitted through Judge John S. Candler yesterday afternoon.

The accused in the McClelland charges were Aldermen F. J. Sprattling, of the Seventh ward; James W. Maddox, of the Fifth ward, and I. N. Ragsdale, of the Tenth ward.

The charges were that Alderman Sprattling borrowed money from James L. Lynch, Poole & McCullough, and Albert Steiner, near-beer dealers, on the assurance that he would be made chairman of the police committee by Mayor Candler in 1911.

Charges Against Aldermen. That Alderman Maddox used his influence to secure subcontracts from contractors on city work.

That Alderman Ragsdale formed a "dummy" partnership under the name of J. R. Lawson and company, and engaged in the barter and sale of live stock for the fire, sanitary and construction departments.

Chairman J. H. Harwell, of the fire department investigating committee, submitted a report on the charges made by Mayor Woodward of alleged irregularities in the purchase of hose and equipment for the fire department.

The committee absolved Chief C. R. Emings of the charge made by R. E. Davidson, agent of the Webb Fire Apparatus company, that he accepted a present of $400 after the sale of the DeKalb avenue fire engine.

The committee stated that it did not believe the testimony that a rebate of ten per cent was offered the board of fire masters when it was discussing the bids for an engine for station No. 13.

Stanley Woodward's Statement. The committee sustained the charges of Mayor Woodward that there was not a like about the engine deal in the city hall, but explains that the fire masters accepted the bid of the La France company for $9,000 and agreed to accept the engine only if it proved satisfactory.

As to the charge that the law requiring competitive bids in the purchase of hose was disregarded, the committee also sustained the mayor, but calls attention to the fact that the same method was employed prior to Chief Cummings' administration.

As to the rebates, the committee declares that the warrants and vouchers show that what rebates were received were paid into the treasury.

Both reports were adopted. Councilman Albert Thomson, immediately following the reading and adoption of the report on the charges against Sprattling, Maddox and Ragsdale, asked that the committee be allowed to stand.

"Since the investigation started charges against Alderman McClelland have been hinted at, and it might be well for the committee to stand," he said.

Councilman Smith said that the council could appoint another committee at the proper time if the charges are made.

The committee was discharged.

Findings of Committee. Following is the report in part on alleged graft against Aldermen Sprattling, Maddox and Ragsdale: "The committee finds that J. W. Maddox did, in 1911, take a subcontract under Chester A. Dady to do certain excavating under a contract with the city.

DEPUTY WARDEN SAYS FISHERMEN THREATENED LIFE

Jesse Mercer Confers With Governor Relative to Suspending Officials Said to Be in Sympathy With Them.

BIG POND AT MILLTOWN CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE

Many People in Berrien and Lowndes Counties Have Been Fishing Without Consent of Owners.

The clash between the officers of the law and some of the people of Berrien and Lowndes counties, who persist in fishing in the great pond at Milltown, came to a sorry climax last Saturday, according to a report made by Game and Fish Commissioner Jesse E. Mercer to the governor yesterday.

Commissioner Mercer's special warden, M. F. Boisclair, returned to Atlanta from Milltown Monday morning with the statement that his life had been threatened, that he had been cursed and abused and that he had been arrested and his motor car taken from him. He says that a mob of 200 or 300 people ordered him to leave the county.

Says Claim Has Been Reached. Commissioner Mercer says that either the law must be upheld or the authorities acknowledge themselves unable to cope with the situation.

"I am going to enforce the law," he stated, "if I have to camp on the bank of the pond all summer long every day in my department and call upon the governor for assistance."

"My wardens have been intimidated," says the commissioner, "their lives have been threatened and the local authorities have refused to give me any assistance. Certain lawless elements persist in fishing in the Berrien county pond, and the law directs me to put a stop to it, and I am going to do it."

He said he had conferred with the governor in regard to the suspension of certain county officials who had failed to help him enforce the law.

Greatest Fish Pond in Georgia. The great fish pond is located in the greatest fish pond in Georgia. It covers eight thousand acres and is filled with the finest of fish, including the large-mouth bass, the large-speckled perch, the blue and white crabs and every other kind of fish known to Georgia waters except the mountain and rainbow trout. The fish are plentiful and it is a great temptation to catch them.

In the large body of land covered by the pond there are numerous and conflicting land claims, but the pond itself, that is the water rights, have for almost a century been under the control of the Banks family. Those who claim water rights in the pond are believed to have right to fish in the pond. And there are many others who have no claim at all who believe they have the right to fish, because the fish are there and plentiful and are so easy to catch.

As a part of the great fish pond lies on the line between Berrien and Lowndes counties and at a point far remote from both county seats, and it has been a very difficult matter for the county wardens under the game and fish commission to enforce the law.

According to Commissioner Mercer, his local wardens were "unable to cope with the situation," and he adds that, perhaps, "they were influenced too much locally or did not care to take too much risk."

"About a month ago," states Commissioner Mercer, "I sent a warden to Milltown from an adjoining county, but he was so greatly intimidated that he accomplished nothing. Requested assistance have been made to me by R. T. Berryhill, who is in charge of the property for the Banks estate, and I decided that the time had at last come for something definite to be done. So I detailed M. F. Boisclair, one of my Atlanta assistants, to go to Milltown. Mr. Boisclair was formerly my warden in Whitfield county and I know him to be a most excellent official, and a brave and fearless man. The fishermen in Berrien and Lowndes counties had become defiant so long that they had access to the fish pond, and I instructed Mr. Boisclair to act carefully but to enforce the law. He is back in Atlanta after a most exciting experience. He swore out twenty-two warrants against persons for fishing in the pond. He says he was warned to leave Milltown just as quick as he could get away, and he found public sentiment so strong against him that he withdrew the warrants in Nashville, the county seat of Berrien, and again swore them out. While he was talking to the justice of the peace in Nashville, he states, he was surrounded by a mob of between 200 and 300 people, who made all sorts of threats. He says that Mayor Pafford shook a finger in his face and called him names. The mayor then ordered his arrest without a warrant, he says, and had him searched and his pistol taken. Two bonds were required, and only one, R. T. Berryhill, could be found. Just in the nick of time T. J. Luke, my Bon Hill warden, whom I had wired to go to Boisclair, and arrived on the scene in an auto and signed the bonds. He says that all that kept my men and an officer of the law out of jail."

Commissioner Mercer says the twenty-two warrants are still in force and the cases will be tried on May 19 at Nashville.

"And I am going there," concluded the commissioner, "and I intend to enforce the law and put a stop to the lawless fishing at Milltown if I have to camp out all summer and spend all the money at my disposal, and call on the governor of Georgia to sustain me."

Where the War Clouds Have Been Scattered

Keep the Greek boundary as far away as possible. The illustration indicates the several frontiers which the Balkan states and the great powers laid down for the new state of Albania, whose future is so gravely imperiled by the Montenegrin capture of Scutari. As drawn by the European powers Albania would include a territory a little smaller in area than Belgium and a little larger than the state of New Jersey, with a population of about a million, made up, except for a Greek influx in the south on the coast and hinterland facing Corfu, almost exclusively of Albanians, or Skipetars, as they call themselves. As modified by Greek and Montenegrin claims Albania would have somewhat less than 4,000 square miles and would constitute an almost geometrically regular block about 150 miles long by 50 wide, bounded on the west by the Adriatic, on the east by the main ridge of Pindus mountains, on the north by the Albanian Alps and the Drin river and on the south by the Daugli mountain ranges. It contains about 750,000 inhabitants. The southern portion of Albania has been arranged with regard for Italian wishes, precisely as Austrian claims were recognized in the north. The Italians look forward to an ultimate possession of Valona and then to the command of the strait of

VICE SEGREGATION DECLARED FAILURE

The Chicago Commission Urges Council to Order Police Campaign for Annihilation.

Chicago, May 5.—Segregation of commercialized vice was declared to have been proved a failure, and a police campaign aiming at ultimate annihilation of the social evil in Chicago was recommended in the preliminary report of a special commission of the city council here tonight.

Domestic infidelity and its consequent lack of responsibility of parentage were held by the commission to be the first and chief cause of commercialized vice, the report saying: "There is a large proportion of homes in which the knowledge of right and wrong is never inculcated, where the rule of the household is without the direction of parental authority or interest. Many young men came from such homes without a sense of chivalry, born of respect for the honor of women, and many girls come into the world of womanhood without single right idea of the mission or dangers incident to their sex."

U. S. SUPREME COURT DISMISSES CASE

Hitchcock's Venomous Attack on The Atlanta Journal Comes to Naught.

Washington, May 6.—The United States supreme court today dismissed the case of the government against The Atlanta Journal, which involved alleged violations of the postal regulations. The declaration was unanimous. The supreme court is of the opinion that it has no right, under the original act, to review a decision of a lower court in interpreting an indictment, and that its powers are limited exclusively to review of decisions of the lower court in which the federal statute is construed. The indictment against The Journal was quashed by Judge Newman because it charged no offense.

REPORTERS GO TO JAIL RATHER THAN "SQUEAL"

Three Fort Worth Newspapers Men Refuse to Divulge Source of Information.

Fort Worth, Texas, May 5.—Rather than divulge the source their information on which a newspaper item was based, J. C. Abernathy, Claude McCaleb, Joseph J. Fox and Charles F. Peor, newspaper reporters, each served an hour in the county jail here today. They were held in contempt of court by Judge E. E. Buck of the Forty-eighth district court.

The item in question related to the indictment of a man charged with attempting to bribe a former county judge. Judge Buck held that the publication of such information, before the indictment was returned in open court,

THIRD MAN BROUGHT INTO PHAGAN MYSTERY BY FRANK'S EVIDENCE

CLOUDS OF WAR ARE SCATTERED BY MONTENEGRO

Little Kingdom Puts Question of the Future of Scutari in the Hands of the European Powers.

TENSION IS RELIEVED IN EUROPE'S CAPITALS

Action of Montenegro Does Away With the Fear of a General War Over the Balkan Problem.

London, May 5.—King Nicholas, of Montenegro, having placed the future of Scutari in the hands of the European powers, the settlement of the Albanian trouble now depends upon whether Essad Pasha and Djavid Pasha will obey the orders sent by the sublime porte to withdraw their armies to the Turkish empire. It is believed that as Montenegro has abandoned Scutari Essad Pasha will recognize the futility of his aspirations to the kingship of Albania in the face of the threatened Austro-Italian expedition to expel him.

One of the ambassadors at the close of the ambassadorial conference here today said:

"The situation is saved and the crisis is past. The reported Austro-Italian action in Albania has no point now."

Another meeting of the ambassadors at the ambassadorial conference today was held Thursday, when arrangements with regard to the future of Scutari and Albania will be discussed.

Relieved the Tension.

The decision reached by King Nicholas at the last moment had the effect of relieving immediately the tension of European politics. It caused unbounded satisfaction to diplomats and the general public. The stock exchange responded at once.

At the close of the ambassadors' conference in London today an official communication was issued reading as follows:

"The fact that the king of Montenegro has placed the fate of Scutari in the hands of the powers is a matter of great satisfaction. The government of the powers will now consider what arrangements shall be made in the immediate future in regard to the town."

The telegram from King Nicholas to Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, announcing that he had surrendered the town to the powers, was as follows:

"My dignity and that of my people do not allow me to submit to isolated orders. I therefore place the destiny of Scutari in the hands of the great powers."

NO CONDITIONS MENTIONED BY THE RULER OF MONTENEGRO

Berlin, May 5.—No conditions were mentioned by Montenegro today when she informed the German foreign office that she had decided to place Scutari in the hands of the powers.

On the other hand, the foreign office says there is no evidence that any general step in this direction has been taken and doubt is expressed by officials as to the veracity of the reports that Montenegro has already evacuated the city.

No date for the evacuation of Scutari by the Montenegrin troops was mentioned in the communication received here from Cetinje, but there is reason to believe that the German minister in the Montenegrin capital received assurances from King Nicholas that the first steps would be taken within 24 hours.

Further details of the intentions of Montenegro may be forthcoming during the conference of ambassadors in London today.

Lemmie Quinn, Foreman of the Department in Which the Little Girl Worked, Was in His Office Just a Few Minutes After She Received Her Pay on the Day of the Murder, He Tells the Coroner's Jury at Inquest on Monday Afternoon.

LEO FRANK INNOCENT NEW WITNESS TELLS ATLANTA DETECTIVES

Quinn Declares That Officers Accused Him of Being Bribed to Come to the Aid of Superintendent—Frank Is on Stand for Four Hours Answering Coroner's Questions—Body of Mary Phagan Exhumed and Stomach Will Be Examined.

The Mary Phagan murder mystery assumed a new aspect yesterday afternoon, when Leo M. Frank, the suspected factory superintendent, introduced a third man in the baffling mystery, who, the witness stated, called to see him after the girl had drawn her pay and departed.

Frank was testifying before the coroner's inquest when he startled his audience with the declaration that he was visited by Lemmie Quinn, a pencil plant foreman, less than 10 minutes after the girl of the tragedy had entered the building Saturday.

Quinn immediately was summoned before Chief Lanford and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons. He corroborated Frank's story in detail. After being quizzed for an hour or more, Quinn was permitted to return to his home at 318 Palladium street.

Foreman of Girls' Department.

Quinn was foreman of the department in which the victim worked. He had known her ever since she first was employed with the concern. A stormy scene is said to have ensued during the interrogation to which he was subjected at headquarters. He last night declared that Scott and Solicitor Dorsey charged him with having accepted a bribe from Frank's counsel for the story he was telling outside the factory.

He says he retorted to the charge: "Show me the man that says I took a bribe, and I'll whip him on the spot."

Quinn was seen last night by a reporter for The Constitution when he returned to his home from police headquarters. When asked if Frank's statement were true, he said:

"Yes. It's true. I left my house Saturday morning about 11:45 o'clock."

On the way uptown, I stopped into Wolfbein's and bought an order of fancy groceries. I stopped at another place and bought a cigar.

"Then I went to the factory. I wanted to see Frank and tell him 'Howdy do.' I knew he would be in the place. He is always there on Saturdays. It was about 12:15 or 12:20 when I arrived at the building. I saw no one in front of it as I went upstairs to the office.

"Frank was at his desk. He appeared very busy. I stepped in and said: 'Well, I see you work even on holidays. You can't keep me from coming around the building on Saturdays, either. How do you feel?'

"He said he was feeling good. He didn't appear agitated or nervous. I didn't want to disturb him, so I left. I wasn't in the plant for more than 2 minutes. As I came downstairs on the way out, I saw someone in the rear of the first floor—a person whom I would have no grounds whatever to suspect."

Won't Tell Name Now.

"No! I won't divulge his name. I'll tell the detectives in time. I'm glad Frank told the coroner of my visit. It was he who refreshed his memory of the incident. He apparently had forgotten it. I have not been keeping it secret. I told the detective Saturday of the visit.

"I have known Mr. Frank for years, and I know he is not guilty."

Frank's story on the stand was to the effect that within ten minutes after Mary Phagan had departed with her pay envelope, Quinn, who is foreman of the tipping department, dropped into the superintendent's office to say "Howdy do."

"I do not think of it until reminded of the incident," he told the jury. "My memory was refreshed. I recollect it clearly. This is the first time I have made it known."

The foreman, Frank stated, came to the building about 12:30 noon during Memorial day. "How do you do?" he is quoted with having said. "I see you work even on holidays. Well, you can't keep me away from the factory on our days either." He remained less than two minutes, according to Frank. IN BUILDING ONLY 2 MINUTES.

Quinn declared to the Constitution that he was in the building about two minutes. He said that he did not see Mary Phagan.

He is outraged at the treatment he alleges was accorded him by the detectives.

"They were insulting and seemed to doubt my statement," he said. "In an insinuating manner Chief Lanford pined the question: 'So you put yourself there about the time the Phagan girl left the factory, eh?'

Quinn was an ardent admirer of the murdered child. He says she was one of his most industrious employees.

He is married and has one child. His connection with the National Pencil Company dates back to several years. The reporter met him at his home just as he was returning from the visit to police headquarters. He was fatigued, and admitted that he was almost exhausted.

Called on Frank in Jail.

Declaring that he had made his visit to Frank on Memorial day known earlier than Monday, Quinn told the reporter that it was he who refreshed Frank's memory of his presence in the building shortly after noon of the day on which the girl is supposed to have been slain.

"I called upon Frank at the jail," he said. "The moment I reminded him of my visit, he recollected it. He apparently had forgotten it."

The foreman's wife expressed dislike for her husband to be connected in the mystery. She seemed to regret that Quinn's name had been mentioned at the inquest, merely because of the sensation it would incur.

"Now our name will be mixed in it, too," she lamented.

Mother Thanked Foreman.

A day or so after her daughter's tragic end, Mrs. J. W. Coleman called Quinn to her home on Lindsay street. She expressed the gratitude felt over the kindness and favors extended the dead girl by her foreman. Mary, she said, had often told her of how she liked Quinn, and of how pleasant it was to work under him.

When Quinn saw Mary's step-father and her mother, he told the reporter, he expressed his belief in the superintendent's innocence.

"I told them," she said, "that with all the sympathy I felt for Mary and her relatives, I could not believe Frank guilty. I have worked for nearly four years under him, and I do not believe he was trying to shift the burden of suspicion by dragging my name into the case.

"He has told the truth. It is impossible for him to go against facts. He is purely a victim of circumstance. Time will tell the story. They may do me an injustice by bringing me into this scandal, but I am doing it in the defense of a guiltless man.

I believe the detectives are bungling this case. Lanford told me Monday that, inasmuch as I had not talked before, he guessed he would have to hold me. I retorted that would not be the only innocent man he would be holding in that event."

Body of Girl Is Exhumed.

Police headquarters and everyone concerned in the mystery were surprised Monday afternoon when it was learned that the body was exhumed in Marietta. The stomach has been placed in the charge of the state board of health and an analysis for evidence of drug or "dope," which it is suspected to contain, will be made.

The reinterment was witnessed by only the coroner, Dr. John W. Hurt, county physician, and Dr. H. E. Harris, of the state board. Dr. Harris will perform the examination.

The inquest began fifty minutes later and days. It is stated, however, it is also said that Dr. Harris' report will be prepared in time to submit it before the Thursday afternoon session of the coroner's inquest.

The inquest began fifty minutes later than the time for which it was scheduled. This was due to Coroner Donohoe's lateness in returning from the graves at Marietta. Police headquarters was thronged with a crowd of merely curious men, women and boys. Extra squads of police were necessary to handle the immense crowd.

FRANK FIRST WITNESS

Frank was the first witness. He was followed by his mother and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Sellig, with whom he lives at 68 East Georgia avenue.

Factory Employees Are Excused.

About midway of the inquest, Coroner Donohoe excused the pencil factory employees who were waiting to be examined. They were released, however, subject to summons, and will be called back next Thursday. More than 200 of these witnesses appeared at police headquarters. A large majority were women and girls.

Frank and the negro, New Lee, were brought together from the Tower in Chief Beavers' automobile. When they were ushered into the inquest room, the coroner ordered Lee returned to the Tower until he was called. Frank took the stand at 2:50. He was released at 3:15. No one but the coroner pilled questions.

Leo Frank On Stand.

The first questions to Frank were the customary formal queries relating to his occupation, age and address. His statement and the questions he answered are as follows:

"What is your connection with the pencil company?"

"General superintendent."

"How long have you occupied that position?"

"Since 1908."

"In what business were you prior to that time?"

"I was abroad, buying machinery for the National Pencil company."

"Have you lived in Atlanta all your life?"

"No."

"Where did you reside before moving here?"

"In Brooklyn, N. Y."

"Were you ever married before?"

"No—only once."

"What was your Brooklyn address?"

"152 Underhill avenue."

His Work In Brooklyn.

"What business were you in there?"

"I was with the National Meter company."

"When did you leave Brooklyn?"

"In 1907."

"What are your duties with the National Pencil company?"

"Look after the production and filling of orders and the purchase of machinery. In short, I have general supervision of the plant."

"What time of the morning did you get up on April 28?"

"About 7 o'clock."

"Was anyone with you beside your wife?"

"My mother and father-in-law."

"Have you any children?"

"No."

"Does anyone else live on the place at which you reside?"

"A negro washerwoman and servant."

"What time did you leave the house on the morning of April 28?"

"Eight o'clock."

"Who did you see?"

"Minnie, the servant girl, and my wife."

"Did you see Mr. and Mrs. Sellig, your parents-in-law?"

"I don't remember."

"When did you leave the house?"

"Caught a trolley car. Got to the factory about 8:20, I presume."

When He Reached Factory.

"Did you talk to anyone on the car?"

"I don't remember."

"Who was at the factory upon your arrival?"

"Hollway, the day watchman, and the office boy, Alouzo Mann."

"Was the door locked?"

"No."

"Who was in your office?"

"The office boy."

"Did you see anyone else?"

"No."

"How long was it before anyone came into your office?"

"About thirty minutes."

"Who was it?"

"Several men for their pay envelopes."

As Saturday, April 26, a whole or half holiday.

"Whole holiday."

"Were there others calling for their pay envelopes?"

"Yes. A girl named Mattie Smith came in shortly afterward."

Frank Waited On Girl.

"Did you personally wait on them?"

"Yes."

"Was there anyone else in the office?"

"Not that I knew of."

"Who occupies the office with you?"

"The chief clerk, Herbert Schiff."

"Was Schiff in the office at the time you paid Mattie Smith and those who preceded her?"

"No."

"Who occupies the outer office adjoining yours?"

"The stenographer and office boy."

"Was anyone in this office at the time?"

"Not that I knew of."

"Who is your stenographer?"

"Miss Bubanks."

"How long was it before anyone else came in?"

"Anywhere from a half hour to forty minutes. M. B. Darley, Wage Cameroun, and a Mr. Fullerton. They arrived about 9 o'clock."

How Frank Spent Morning.

"Tell what you did during that part of the morning which followed 9 o'clock."

"I went over the mail, business papers and later to the office of the manager, Mr. Sellig."

"What time did you go there?"

"About 10 o'clock."

"Did anyone go with you?"

"No. I went alone."

"What did you do prior to 10 o'clock. (This question was a repeater.)"

"Various office duties, as I have already told."

"Did you talk to anyone?"

"Yes. To Mr. Darley and Mr. Campbell."

"Anyone else?"

"Not that I remember."

"Did you touch the financial sheet of your concern?"

"No."

"Where did you say you went at 10 o'clock?"

"To the office of Sig Montag, the manager, at 20 Nelson street."

"Do you remember the particular papers you handled?"

"Not exactly. A note, though, I recollect, was one Tush Panama assortment boxes."

"What do you usually do in the morning?"

"Get up various papers over the desk and straighten out the work of my stenographer."

"Did you speak to Hollway, the watchman?"

"Yes. But I only said 'Good morning.'"

"Do you wear the same clothes at the factory which you wear at home?"

"Yes."

"Did you remove your clothes when you reached the factory?"

"Yes. I exchanged it for one I wear at the office."

No Personal Mail.

"Did you have any personal mail?"

"No."

"Do you keep papers of value in the safe?"

"Yes."

"In the outer office—the one adjoining my private office."

"Can you recall the first paper you looked over?"

"Who is your shipping clerk?"

"A Mr. Irby."

"How long did you sit at your desk after your arrival in the morning?"

"I don't know."

"Did you intend going to the ball game?"

"Yes; until Saturday morning."

"Did you work on the house order book?"

"Yes, but not until I got back from the office of the manager—No. I forgot. I did not work on it at all. Montag's stenographer did it."

"Who was in the office when you left Montag's?"

"Several persons—about six or eight in all."

"How long were you at Montag's?"

"Until 11 o'clock, I believe."

"Did you telephone Miss Hall, Montag's stenographer, that you wouldn't need her at the pencil factory, and that she needn't come?"

"No, she telephoned me. I told her she need not come, as I did not need her."

"When you departed from Montag's, you're sure you went alone?"

"Positive."

"Didn't Mr. Darley walk to Cruickshank's at Alabama and Forsyth, to get a drink with you?"

"No. He did not."

"Who was at the office when you returned?"

"Miss Hall, Montag's stenographer, and the office boy."

"How long was he in the office?"

"About 15 years, I presume."

"Does he wear long or short trousers?"

"Short trousers."

"What did you do upon returning?"

"Assorted papers and letters for about ten minutes."

"What did you do while Miss Hall entered the orders you had given her, as you say?"

"I don't remember, except that I was working at my desk."

"In your office work systematized?"

"Yes, excepting on times during which I have no special plans. Then I take up the most important and pressing business."

"What else did you do?"

"I don't remember precisely. I was at work all morning and afternoon."

"Were you out of the office at all while Miss Hall was in the building?"

"No."

"How long was she occupied with the orders?"

"About thirty minutes."

"What she finished the orders, what did you do with them?"

"I put them on my desk."

"What time did she finish and leave?"

"Miss Hall Leaves Factory."

"About 12 o'clock. I recollect the time, because I heard the noon whistle together. She and the office boy left together."

"Did you see any outsider in the building when you got back from Montag's?"

"No. I think not."

"What did you do when the stenographer and office boy left?"

"Started to work on the orders."

"Were you entirely alone?"

"So far as I knew."

"Do you know of anyone else who came in?"

"Yes. A little after 12 o'clock the little girl that was killed came into my office."

"Where were you?"

"I was in the inner office."

"How did she announce herself?"

"I looked up when I heard her footsteps. I think she said she wanted her pay envelope. I asked her number, and she gave it to me. I gave her the envelope with her number stamped on it."

"What was her number?"

"I don't remember."

"Have you ever looked up that number?"

"Yes, but I don't recollect it."

"When you gave her the pay envelope what did she do?"

Has the Metal Come Yet?

"Walked out into the outer office, stopped and called back: 'Mr. Frank, has the metal come yet?'

"Did you make entry of her payment?"

"No."

"Did she call back about the metal as though in after thought?"

"Yes. It was natural. She hadn't worked since Monday because of the lack of metal."

"What was the amount in her envelope?"

"One dollar and twenty cents."

"Do you remember in what denomination it was given her?"

"She disturbed you in your work, did she not?"

"Yes."

"How did you know she was gone?"

"As she went down stairs I heard her continually saying 'I also heard another voice. It was vague, but like a girl's or woman's. It seemed as though it came from the Forsyth street entrance."

"Did you know her name?"

"No."

"Do you remember how she was dressed?"

"No. I only looked at her from over the side of my desk."

"Was her dress dark or light?"

"What little I saw appeared light."

"How was her hair arranged?"

"I don't remember."

Did Not See Them.

"How about the color of her shoes and stockings?"

"I didn't see them."

"Did you see a parasol, purse or handkerchief?"

"No. I don't notice."

"How long did it take for you to give her the envelope?"

"Not about two minutes. Not longer."

"How did you identify the number on her envelope?"

"She called it out."

"Is that the only means of identification you employ?"

"Yes, except the name is written on the envelope, I think, I'm not sure."

"Did you hear anyone else in the building at the time Mary Phagan was in there?"

"Nothing but the voice downstairs as she went down the steps."

"How long were you at the office after she had departed?"

"I don't know."

"Did anything else happen?"

"Yes; within five to ten minutes after the Phagan girl had left an employee named Lemmie Quinn, foreman of the City tipping department, came into my office. He said, 'See you're busy; but you can't keep me away even on holidays.' He stayed only a short time. This is the first time I recollect of the incident."

"What were you doing then?"

Where Did Quinn Go?

"Copying orders. It was about 12:25 o'clock, ten minutes after Mary Phagan had left."

"What did Quinn go?"

"I don't know."

"Had the metal come when Mary Phagan was in your office?"

"No. I don't think it has come even yet."

"How does it come to the plant?"

"By drayman."

"Would you know if it had arrived?"

"Yes; I certainly would."

"Where is it put—in what part of the building?"

"In the rear of the office floor."

"Did you send Mary Phagan back to see if the metal had come?"

"I did not."

"Now, tell the jury once more of Mary Phagan's visit."

(The witness was required to repeat the story of the girl's appearance in his office at 12 o'clock to procure her pay envelope. The recital was without variance from the original statement.)

"How did you fix the time? You say it was about 5 minutes after 12?"

"It seemed that way."

"Were you out of the office from the time the noon whistles blew until Quinn came in?"

"No."

"How long had Mary Phagan worked at the pencil factory?"

"I don't know; I really don't."

"Was she in Quinn's department?"

"Yes."

"Was she under him—was he her boss?"

"Yes."

Was Not In Overall.

"How was Quinn dressed?"

"I think he wore a straw hat."

"Does he wear different clothes in the factory to what he wears at home and on the street?"

"I presume so. He was not in his overalls Saturday."

"Did he have access to the entire factory building?"

"Yes."

"How old is he?"

"About twenty-five years, I would judge."

"Is he married?"

"Yes."

"How long has he been with the pencil company?"

"About four years, I understand."

"What time did you finish work Saturday afternoon?"

"About 1 o'clock."

"You are sure, now that you had not left the office from the time Miss Hall, the stenographer, had departed until you started away for lunch?"

"Only time I left."

"I am positive. The only time I left was when I went upstairs to tell the two mechanics and the cuts of one who were on the top floor, that I was ready to go and would have to lock up the building. I came back downstairs and picked up my coat."

"How did you know they were upstairs?"

"The day watchman had told me."

"How long did you stay there?"

"No longer than two minutes."

"What time did you leave the place?"

"About 1 o'clock."

"Doesn't the day watchman usually stay at the plant until the arrival of the night watchman?"

"Yes, except on Saturday afternoons, when we close down for half holidays."

"Do you know Walter Fry?"

"Yes. He's a negro, the oldest employee in the factory."

"Who pays him off?"

"The chief clerk, Mr. Schiff."

"What did he do there Saturday?"

"I didn't see him."

Duties of Fry.

"Was Fry away from work upon your authority?"

"No."

"What are his duties?"

"He sweeps and cleans glue from the floors on the glue room."

"What time is he supposed to do this?"

"In the afternoons."

"When you left the building, where did you go?"

"I went up Forsyth street to Alabama, up Alabama to Broad, where I caught a street car for home."

"Where did you get off?"

"At Georgia avenue on Washington street. I went directly home, arriving there about 1:30 o'clock."

"How long were you at home?"

"Well, I ate dinner in about twenty minutes."

"Was there any interruption to the meal?"

"No."

"What did you do upon finishing?"

"I think I smoked a cigarette and lay down for a short nap."

"What time did you wake?"

"I didn't go to sleep."

"Have you been working strenuously?"

"I had been concentrating my mind on the work at the office. It was rather fatiguing, I'll admit."

"What time did you leave your home?"

"About 1:50 o'clock."

"Where did you go?"

"To Washington street and Georgia avenue. I met a cousin, Jerome Michael, and talked with him until the 2 o'clock car came."

"Did you meet anyone whom you knew on the car?"

"I met another cousin, Cohen Loeb."

"Where did you get off?"

"At the corner of Washington and Hunter street. The cars were blocked by the memorial parade."

"Did you see anyone you knew?"

"I met Part of Parade."

"No. I walked to Hunter and Whitehall streets and watched part of the parade. Then, I walked to Rich's store where I passed Miss Rebecca Carson, one of our foreladies. Then, I went to Brown & Allen's, at the corner of Whitehall and Alabama streets and across to Jacobs', where I bought four cigars and a pack of cigarettes."

"Do you customarily smoke cigars or cigarettes?"

"Cigars, usually."

"What did you do upon leaving Jacobs'?"

"Went straight to the pencil factory."

"What time was it that you arrived there?"

"About 2:50 o'clock."

"Did you unlock the door?"

"Yes. I unlocked the outer and inner doors, relocked the outer door and left the inner door open."

"When you passed the clock in front of your office what time was it?"

"I didn't notice. It must have been about 3 o'clock. I pulled off my coat and went upstairs to tell the mechanics that I had returned. They already were preparing to leave."

Then Mechanics Leave.

"How long was it before they came downstairs?"

"Only a few minutes. They entered my office about five minutes after 3 o'clock."

"How long before you went downstairs?"

"Three minutes, or four—maybe five. I went down to lock the door."

"You were left alone in the building?"

"So far as I knew."

"What did you do?"

"Worked on the books."

"When you went to lock the door, did you see a girl?"

"No."

"How long did you work on the books?"

"Until about 4 o'clock, or 4:15. I had gone to wash my hands when the

SAMUEL GOMPERS MUST GO TO JAIL

And Mitchell and Morrison Must Pay Fine of $500 Each—Labor Leaders Lose the Contempt Cases.

Washington, May 5.—Contempt of court judgments against Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, for their violation of a court's injunction in the noted Buck Stove and Range case were affirmed today by the district court of appeals, but the jail sentences imposed were held to have been too severe, so the court reduced Gompers' sentence from one year to thirty days, and decreed that Mitchell and Morrison should merely be fined $500 each. The lower court sentenced Mitchell to nine months and Morrison to six. The supreme court of the United States undoubtedly will be asked to again review the decision.

Chief Justice Dissatisfied.

Unlike previous decisions in this case which have been unanimously against the labor leaders in court of appeals was divided. Chief Justice Sheppard dissented held that the whole decision should be reversed that contempt of a federal court was a criminal offense and that the state of limitations had run in the case.

Justice Van Orsdel, who concurred in the majority opinion held that the refusal of Mitchell to assure the lower court of his intention to obey the mandate of inferior courts in the future was "important in measuring the intent and temper of the respondents." With that, the dissenting chief justice disagreed, saying in his opinion: "I am unable to see how the refusal to apologize for an act, the commission of which has been expressly denied shows a reprehensible intent of temper. On the contrary it seems to me the natural conduct of a self-respecting man. Having sworn that he neither disobeyed nor intended to disobey the mandate of the court, a confession that he had done so could be a solemn admission of the commission of willful perjury."

The Majority Decision.

The majority decision was largely devoted to setting out why the original sentences were held unreasonable. In part it was held: "To permit respondents to escape punishment would be a travesty upon justice, but we think that the penalty imposed is so unreasonably as to demand modification." "The differences which necessitated the injunction have been settled. The sole purpose of punishment, therefore, is to give reasonable assurance that respondents will in the future respect the authority of the courts. While the injunction was issued to restrain the

PEACE DELEGATES GREETED BY GOTHAM

Plans to Be Made for Celebrating Centenary of the Treaty of Ghent.

New York, May 5.—New York formally welcomed within its doors today delegates who have come from Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland and Australia to join American representatives in a five-day conference looking toward a centenary celebration of the treaty of Ghent—the compact of peace between the United States and Great Britain—to be held in Ghent and in English-speaking countries, beginning December 24, 1814.

In the room where the first United States congress convened—now the governor's room in the city hall—Mayor Gaynor welcomed the visitors to the municipality and Alton B. Farnham, chairman of the American delegation, Ghent was honored at this gathering through the selection of C. DeBruyne, alderman of that city, as chairman. Mr. DeBruyne, Lord Wardlaw, of England, and Sir Edmund Walker, of Canada, made addresses in promotion of continued peace.

The delegates then went to a hotel to become guests of honor at a luncheon given by the Pilgrims' society. Chauncey M. Depew welcomed the conferees in the presence of Walter H. Page, ambassador to Great Britain, former ambassador Joseph H. Choate and other distinguished citizens. Sir Arthur Lawley spoke for England, Sir George Houston Reid for Australia and Sir Edmund Walker for Canada. Mayor Gaynor made a brief address.

Later the delegates met in executive session at another hotel, Lord Wardlaw presiding. A general discussion of ways and means for celebrating the 100 years of peace took place. Mr. Depew, in welcoming the delegates at the luncheon, recalled crises that have arisen during the century of peace and their solution without resort to war.

"It is somewhat dramatic that we meet here at this particular time when the world was never so armed and in preparation for it," Mr. Depew said. "While all continental nations are burdening themselves beyond all precedent in order to be ready for a war which the prime minister of Great Britain stated the other day had just escaped and which the press says we are on the eve of now, we, representing Great Britain and the United States, meet for peace and peace alone."

Peace among the English-speaking peoples will continue forever "as an example for the civilization and the humanity of the whole world," he predicted.

Sir Arthur Lawley declared that not alone are the differences of the future to be settled amicably, but Americans and Britons must "frustrate those misunderstandings which begot mistrust and that can be done only by mutual knowledge and by mutual sympathy." The bonds of friendship and affection must be strengthened and vitalized by word and deed.

Sir George Reid spoke of the friendly relations existing between the United States and Canada. Enormous investments of Canadian money in this country, he declared, rest upon "Canadian" confidence that war between the two countries is impossible.

Sir George Reid said he came here with the warmest appreciation of the American government's invitation to the mother country. Australia feels the same degree of warmth and affection for the United States.

CITY HALL GOSSIP

Veto Is Overridden.

Council, by a vote of 16 against 5, voted to override Mayor Woodward's veto of the resolution adopted by council at the last meeting eliminating the block on Madison avenue from Hunter to Mitchell from the near-by zone. The resolution will go to the aldermanic board Thursday afternoon for approval.

Money for Concerts.

Councilman Ashley has a resolution before council to authorize the finance committee to appropriate $5,000 for summer concerts in Atlanta's parks. Councilman Ashley is a strong advocate of outdoor amusement for the masses of Atlanta. He claims strong support in his movement.

Probe Cost $115.

The fire investigation probe cost the taxpayers of Atlanta $115, according to a statement made by Councilman W. G. Humphreys, chairman of the finance committee, who must O. K. the bill. Just what the McClelland investigation will cost is to be determined later. Two hundred pages of testimony was taken down by Sig Tietbaum, the official stenographer of the committee.

Will Consider Lowering Track.

Councilman Claude Mason had council adopt a resolution appointing a committee composed of Councilman Haverty, Alderman Nutting and himself to take up the plans drawn by Captain R. M. Clayton for lowering the Columbia river neighborhood of the Union station from the street level. Councilman Mason caused the report to be tabled, and Captain Clayton and Chairman Hall, of the street committee, made it plain that they were not pleased over the action of council, chiefly because one of the best engineers in the department spent several months making estimates.

To Reduce Repair Cost.

To cut down the cost of storage and repairs of the city's autos, Councilman Orville H. Hall has suggested, through the street committee, that the city establish and maintain a garage of its own, put a competent sanitary department, construction department and the machines of the various officials to look after.

GREEN PLASTER CURES SOME LAWYERS THINK

Dr. Nicholson Tells Young Attorneys to Follow Closely to Ethics in General Practice.

"The corporation lawyer insists that a green plaster will cure spinal concussion, and that injured victims get well at the sight of the long green," said Dr. William Perrin Nicolson in an address before members of the Atlanta bar and students of the Atlanta Law school "if you think that your client is going to get well before the trial comes on, if he gets well too quick, do your duty, there are some cases to be settled."

"But the most outrageous practice of the personal injury lawyer is the frequency with which the claims of clients are sacrificed and compromised by lawyers who have no qualms of conscience at this shady practice," he added.

Dr. Nicolson was introduced by Dean Hamilton Douglas, who was given an enthusiastic ovation in appreciation of his recent victory over college fraternities in the supreme court, of Mississippi.

ANOTHER LIFE LEASE FOR DR. McNAUGHTON

Dr. W. J. McNaughton, who was to have been hanged in Emanuel county next Friday for the murder of Fred Flanders, was yesterday respite by Governor Brown and the death sentence postponed until Friday, September 5.

This is the third time that Dr. McNaughton has been respite and each time it was because the governor did not think the sentence should be carried out until after the trial of Mrs. Flanders, who is charged with being implicated in the murder.

The case against Mrs. Flanders was last called at Swainsboro a week ago and continued until next September. Flanders died under suspicious circumstances about four years ago, and Dr. McNaughton was convicted on the charge of having poisoned him. For a while the Flanders lived with Dr. McNaughton after the death of the wife of the latter. It was shortly after the Flanders had moved back into their home that the death of Flanders occurred.

Mrs. Flanders was arrested on the charge of assisting Dr. McNaughton in administering the poison. Dr. McNaughton was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

OLD MAN'S LOVE NOTES DON'T PROVE IMBECILITY

Kansas City, May 5.—When a man 77 years writes love letters, the fact he does not constitute evidence of mental incapacity.

Judge Ellison laid down that ruling in the Kansas City court of appeals today. The case was one in which a son sought to break his father's will. In the love letters the writer said he was 65 years of age. Judge Ellison held that this misrepresentation had nothing to do with the case. The fact that he was able to deceive, the judge said, argued that he was in possession of all his faculties.

Testimony Taken in Mary Phagan Case

"What time was that?"
 "Six-thirty o'clock."
 "What was your conversation with the watchman?"
 "I couldn't get him."
 "Why did you call?"
 "To see if Mr. Gantt had left the plant."
 "Have you and Mr. Gantt ever suffered personal differences?"
 "No. I discharged him for gross carelessness. I had heard that he said I had not treated him right."
 "How long before you called again?"
 "Seven-thirty o'clock—I mean?"
 "What did you do in the meantime?"
 "A supper."
 "What did you say over the phone to Lee?"
 "I asked if Gantt had gone and if everything was all right at the factory. He said, 'Yes.'"
 "Did you fear physical violence from Gantt?"
 "No."
 "Looked Big and Dangerous."
 "I can't say, exactly. He looked mighty big and dangerous when I saw him. He impresses me as a kind of like to have somebody with whenever I run up against him."
 "What did you do after supper?"
 "We discussed the opera, which my wife had attended Saturday afternoon, and I smoked and read until 9:30 o'clock. Later, about 10:30 to be exact, I went up and took a bath."
 "Did you leave the house?"
 "No."
 "How long were you in the bath?"
 "Until 11:30 o'clock."
 "When did you go to bed?"
 "Immediately after taking the bath."
 "When did you wake the next morning?"
 "About 7:30 o'clock."
 "What did you do?"
 "Answered the telephone. It was a woman."
 "How were you dressed?"
 "In my nightgown and bathrobe."
 "Was anyone else up at that time?"
 "No."
 "What was the message you received over the telephone?"
 "It was from Detective Starnes. He said he wanted me to identify someone at the pencil factory—that there had been a tragedy. I started to dress."
 "How long did it take you to dress?"
 "Then Detectives Come."
 "I don't know. I went at it hurriedly, though. I told my wife to meet Starnes at the door when he arrived. No. I went down myself. He came in an automobile with Detective Black and a man named Rogers—Boots Rogers. I had no more than got into my top shirt and sock when they arrived."
 "Who spoke first—you or they?"
 "I don't remember. I dressed and jumped into the machine. We went to Bloomfield's, the undertaker, and I went in and saw the 'poor little thing.' I said: 'That is the girl I paid off yesterday afternoon.'"
 "Describe her, will you?"
 "She was bruised and cut about the face—a horrible sight. I saw a piece of wrapping cord around her throat and a strip of cloth."
 "In what department in the pencil factory is used the cord that was around her throat?"
 "On the second floor for bundling pencils."
 "Is any used on the office floor?"
 "Yes. Some."
 "How long were you at the undertaker's?"
 "Only a few minutes."
 "What did you do upon leaving?"
 "Went immediately to the factory building."
 "To which part of the building did you first go?"
 "The basement with Mr. Darley, who arrived at the same time I did, and the detective."
 "What time did you remove the tape from the watchman's clock?"
 "I don't remember."
 "Did you examine the back door?"
 "Yes, upon being told that it had been open."
 "Was it a part of the night watchman's duty to go into the basement?"
 "Yes."
 "How far was he supposed to go?"
 "To the dust pan, which is situated only a few feet from the back door."
 "Were you aware that the building—or some parts of it—had been used for assignation?"
 "No."
 "How often have you been in the basement since your connection with the case?"
 "Not more than a dozen times."
 "How was the clock tape when you removed it?"
 "Clock Was in Error."
 "I thought at the time that it was correct but, upon further thought, I have concluded that it was punched inaccurately during Saturday night and Sunday morning."
 "How many misses did it contain?"
 "Three, I think."
 "Why was one tape stamped and the other penciled?"
 "It was a mere coincidence. I penciled one because it would have been impossible to apply the stamp."
 "Did you go over the factory premises on an inspection tour with the detectives?"
 "Yes."
 "Did you go to the dressing room used by Mary Phagan?"
 "Yes."
 "Did you see anything unusual in it?"
 "No, not that I noticed."
 "How long were you in the building at that time?"
 "I don't remember."
 "Where did you go upon leaving?"
 "Went to Police Station."
 "I went with the detectives in the automobile that carried the watchman to police headquarters. I talked with Chief Lanford and offered him all the assistance I could possibly give in running down the murderer. I told him I was naturally interested in the case, and that I would give most anything to find the girl's slayer. Then, I walked uptown with Mr. Darley."
 "What suit did you wear Sunday?"
 "A blue one."
 "What kind of suit on Saturday?"
 "A brown one—the one I am wearing at present."
 "Can you run the elevator in the plant?"
 "Yes, but I don't make a practice of operating it."
 "Have you ever called up the office at night before you telephoned last Saturday night?"
 "Yes several times."
 "Had you ever let Lee go away before as you let him go last Saturday?"
 "No. That happened to be the first whole holiday during the time he has been at work."
 "Were you nervous and agitated when you saw Gantt Saturday afternoon?"
 "No."
 "When did you first see the notes found beside the dead girl's body?"
 "About the Two Letters."
 "In Chief Lanford's office Tuesday, when Detective Starnes dictated them for me to copy."
 "When you began them, was the first letter a capital or small letter?"
 "I don't recollect."
 "Did you recognize the handwriting on the notes?"
 "No."
 "Could you make out their composition?"
 "No. Both were incoherent and illegible."
 "What was it in the dead girl's appearance which caused you to recognize her body?"
 "Her face."
 "How did you identify her as the girl to whom you gave the pay envelope last Saturday work?"
 "I saw her plainly that day."
 "Wasn't she badly bruised and cut about the face?"
 "She was, badly."
 "How long have you had this blue suit which you wore Sunday?"
 "Three or four months."
 "Did you ever wear it at the factory?"
 "No."
 "Didn't you tell Mr. Darley Sunday that you had on a new suit?"
 "No. I merely remarked, of the freshness of the suit I wore."
 "Did you change clothes Sunday morning?"
 "Yes. I always change on Sunday."
 "Conversation With Lee."
 "How about the private conversation you had with Lee in the cell at police headquarters?"
 "It was this way: The detectives asked me to talk to Lee. They said they wanted to find if he had ever let couples go in the factory building at night. Detective Black asked me to get all I could out of him. 'Get all you can,' he told me, 'for we think he knows more than he's told us or will tell. Tell him that the police have got you both and that you'll go to hell if he doesn't talk. I didn't use those exact words, although I did say something similar. Lee said to me: 'Fore God, Mr. Frank, I'm telling the truth.' I told him, Lee, they've got us both, and we'll swing if you don't tell the straight of it. I did not say anything about going to hell—I positively did not."
 "Are you accustomed to going to ball games?"
 "No."
 "What did you do with the underclothes you took off Saturday?"
 "I threw them into the washbasin. Detective Black saw them."
 "Who notified the employees that Friday would be pay day?"
 "It was posted in the plant."
 "Did Newt Lee accuse you of murdering Mary Phagan?"
 "No."
 "When you and Lee were talking in the cell, police station, didn't he describe the body and didn't you ask him not to talk about it?"
 "No."
 "Nakedly Notified Her."
 "Who notified Mary Phagan to come and draw her pay envelope Saturday at noon?"
 "No one of whom I know."
 "Do you ever tie bundles with the kind of cord with which she was strangled?"
 "No."
 "Do you ever use that kind of twine?"
 "Yes, occasionally."
 "Are you right or left-handed?"
 "Right-handed."
 "Were you the first to hear the telephone ring when Detective Starnes called you early Sunday morning?"
 "Yes. I thought at first that I was dreaming."
 "When was the first time that you were told the dead girl's name was Mary Phagan?"
 "When Mr. Starnes called me and asked me if I had paid Mary Phagan, a girl who worked in the tip plant."
 "Following this question Frank was excused. He probably will be put on the stand again before the inquest ends. He did not appear fatigued or agitated when the ordeal was finished. He was carried to the Tower in custody of Deputy Sheriff Plennie Miner, quest in the neighborhood of $100.

 "Did you talk to Frank that day?"
 "Yes."
 "Did you find out anything about the murder?"
 "No."
 "Didn't you get any information from him about it?"
 "No."
 "Did Mr. Frank say anything about it when he came back from the factory?"
 "No; not that I recollect."
 "All you knew was what your daughter had told you?"
 "Yes. She said, 'Papa, something terrible has happened at the pencil factory.'"
 "Mrs. Selig On Stand."
 "Mrs. Josephine Selig, wife of Emil Selig, and mother-in-law of Frank, was next called for examination."
 "Did you see Frank on Memorial day at supper?"
 "Yes. He was in the hall, reading a paper."
 "Did Frank know you were in the house when he went to bed Saturday night?"
 "Yes—he must have."
 "Did he talk to the guests in your home?"
 "Yes."
 "Do you remember any of the conversation?"
 "No."
 "How long did he talk with any of them?"
 "About twenty minutes, I suppose."
 "About what you go in to see Mrs. Frank Sunday morning?"
 "About 9 o'clock."
 "Did she tell you anything about Mr. Frank?"
 "No."
 "Did you ask her about him?"
 "Yes. She said he had gone to town."
 "When did she speak about the murder?"
 "When Mr. Frank came home that afternoon."
 "Did he speak of it?"
 "He said a little girl had been murdered at the plant."
 "Did you ask him anything about it?"
 "No. I didn't think it had any bearing on us."
 "How did he seem to take it?"
 "He seemed unconcerned."
 "Does he express any anxiety or curiosity about it?"
 "No."
 "Did he read the paper that afternoon?"
 "Yes."
 "Did he read it just as studiously as he read it the preceding night?"
 "Apparently so."
 "Did he seem to feel apprehensive?"
 "No."
 "When did Frank first mention the name of the slain girl?"
 "I don't think I remember."
 "The inquest was adjourned at 7:30 o'clock. It will be resumed at 9:30 Tuesday morning. The two-day postponement is to permit detectives to garner evidence they announce available.
 Following up a new theory advanced last night, detectives are said to have searched the roof of the National Pencil factory building in search of the victim's missing pocketbook and pay envelope, neither of which have ever been found.
 Police headquarters could not verify the report at midnight. Two men with lanterns, however, were seen walking over the roof about 10 o'clock. They were notified from The Constitution reportorial room. After remaining on the building for thirty minutes or longer, they disappeared through a scuttle hole.

Father-in-Law Goes on Stand.
 Emil Selig, of 88 East Georgia avenue, father-in-law of the suspected superintendent, took the stand when it was deserted by Frank.
 "How long has Leo Frank, your son-in-law, been married?"
 "Three years."
 "Do you live with him?"
 "No; he lives with me."
 "When did you first see him Saturday at dinner?"
 "How long did he stay at dinner?"
 "Quite a while."
 "When did you next see him?"
 "At supper."
 "What did he first do upon arriving for supper?"
 "Sat down at the table."
 "What did he do afterward?"
 "Read in the hallway."
 "How long did you see him?"
 "Until about 10 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Goldstein, my wife, Mrs. Ike Strause, Mrs. Wolfshelmer and my daughter, Mrs. A. Marcus, were playing cards until 11 o'clock. Leo returned about 10 o'clock. I think."
 "Did Frank see these people?"
 "I suppose he did."
 "How was he dressed?"
 "In a brownish suit."
 "What time did you wake Sunday morning?"
 "At 8 o'clock."

Miss Agnes Tinsley Harrison Pleases in Role at Atlanta

If Miss Agnes Tinsley Harrison's work and reception Monday night at the Atlanta theater, when she made her debut upon the stage in "The Girl From Out Yonder," may be taken as a preface, she is destined for greater things.

In "The Girl From Out Yonder," which is being presented this week by Miss Billy Long's stock company, Miss Harrison took the role of Clarice Stapleton, a young society girl. Her first appearance upon the stage in the first act was greeted with an enthusiastic round of applause, and at the end of the second act a small army of ushers marched to the front of the stage with so many flowers that little Miss Harrison could scarcely see over them. With her arms as she bowed her thanks to the audience.

The work required in Miss Harrison's role was for the most part simple and was done with a simplicity that appealed to the third act where it was necessary for her to change quickly from a portrayal of jealous dissatisfaction to the realization of love her powers were given their opportunity for full swing and she did a very clever piece of acting.

Miss Harrison has selected "Mad Mrs. Mason" as her stage name.

"My reception tonight," said Miss Harrison last night, "is far more than

I could have asked of the people of Atlanta. They are good to me and I am very happy. A reception such as this in one's home town makes effort to achieve greater things absolutely incumbent upon me. I love my work and hope I shall not disappoint those who have so encouraged me tonight."

Miss Harrison's debut was distinctly a society event. In the boxes and orchestra seats were a large number of her friends.

For the present Miss Harrison is under contract with Miss Long's company for this week only and has made no arrangements for further work with the company for the rest of the engagement.

"The Girl From Out Yonder" is a familiar story to Atlanta theatergoers having been made popular here in seasons past by Miss Adelaide Thurston.

Miss Long in the role of "Flotsam," who is "the girl from out yonder," portrayed the part of the attractive little keeper of the lighthouse with a naturalness that went well with the audience. She is supported by a good company. The play last night dragged a little by reason of the long time between acts.

"The Girl From Out Yonder" will be seen at the Atlanta theater and night during the remainder of this week.

That "SKUNKY" Taste in Some Beers

is caused by the action of Light.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable so-called 'light-taste,' and also a repulsive skunk-like odor. Beer so affected is offensive to the palate of most consumers, and there is probably nothing that will influence them more against any brand of bottled beer than to have once tasted beer possessing this 'light taste' to a marked degree. The presence of this defect, however, is not always the bottler's fault, as the consumer himself very often lets the beer stand in the light. But the consequences must usually be borne by the bottler."

Extract from "The Beer Bottler's Handy Book," published by the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentation.

LAWYER ENTERS JAIL AND SHOOTS PRISONER

Attorney Wanted to Avenge the Murder of His Brother-in-Law.

Montgomery, Ala., May 5.—W. J. Fuller, a local attorney, entered the county jail today and shot Bernard Tolliver, a negro prisoner, in what is understood to have been an endeavor to kill either Morris or Bud Hannon. The Hannon negroes are in jail charged with murdering Fuller's brother-in-law, David Thurman, some days ago. Long latent insanity is the plea advanced in Fuller's defense. He was refused admittance to the jail, but succeeded in getting in during the transfer of an insane patient.

Governor O'Neal became deeply incensed at the shooting and immediately made a personal investigation. He has requested Judge Brown, of the city criminal court, to reconvene the grand jury for the purpose of investigating the affair thoroughly. The governor also directed that Fuller be denied bail if the negro's condition develops a bad turn, although the negro who was shot in the leg is not dangerously hurt.

Negro Man Found Dead.

A gaping bullet wound in his head, an unidentified negro man was found in the Davis street plant lake at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by one of the machinists at the plant. The body had evidently been in the water for several days, and the features were almost entirely unrecognizable. No papers were found on him that might prove his identity. He was taken to the undertaking establishment of D. T. Howard & Son, where it will be held pending investigations by the police. Coroner Donohoe will hold an inquest over it at 9 o'clock this morning.

Bankruptcy Charged to Todd.

H. Todd, of Atlanta, doing business as the Todd Drug company at 106 North Forsyth street. The papers state that the alleged bankrupt has admitted in writing his inability to pay his debts. In the absence of Judge Newman from the city the papers were referred to Referee Adams, who has fixed the case for a hearing this morning at 11 o'clock.

ACCUSERS OF HETTER RELUCTANT TO TESTIFY

Pittsburg, May 5.—Investigation of a citizens' committee of charges of alleged immorality against S. L. Hetter, superintendent of public schools of Pittsburg, scheduled to begin today, was delayed indefinitely, owing to the refusal of Mr. Hetter, who is at the bedside of his mother at North Manchester, Ind., Hetter was acquitted several weeks ago by a jury in criminal court of two serious charges preferred by a female domestic employed at his home. Additional charges, however, and a strike of school children, resulted in the board of education appointing a committee of six prominent men to conduct another inquiry.

The citizens' committee charged that in almost every instance persons circulating accusations against the school superintendent have shown reluctance to testify, although assured that their names and testimony are to be kept secret.

The committee, composed of bishops, ministers and business men, says: "Can it be possible that the moral teaching of the law that there is no such thing as a free lunch, and that there are a large number—those responsible therefore will not come forward, even though protected from publicity. Are we a city of standers, or are these charges true?"

The meeting adjourned to meet in Chicago next November. Three degrees will be conferred upon those who participated in the organization and one thousand others whose standing is approved by the board of regents.

SMITH GETS MISTRIAL ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Springfield, Ohio, May 5.—After the jury that has been trying Dr. Arthur B. Smith, accused of the murder of his wife, reported this morning it could not agree, the presiding judge ordered a mistrial.

The jury had been out more than forty hours.

Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon no application had been made for bail for Dr. Smith. It was in the afternoon that such an application will not be made until after the state makes known its intention concerning a retrial.

Refused the luxury he has been enjoying in a private cell on the second floor of the jail, Dr. Smith has been thrown into prisoners' row in the county jail. Sheriff Funderburg says the giving of luxuries and unusual attentions to his prisoner disorganized his jail.

"OLD TIME SINGING" TO INTRODUCE SALES

An "old-time singin'" will introduce the legal sales before the courthouse door this morning at 10 o'clock. This apparent departure from all precedent comes about by the peculiar nature of certain property which will be offered at a sheriff's sale. Two dozen hymn books will be sold for the Southern Express company upon a lot, by Joe J. Jammet, in 15 days. The custom to describe the nature of real estate or other property offered at the legal sales so that a purchaser may be sure of what he is getting, but the problem of describing the nature of the song is something that the Fulton county sheriff's office has not heretofore been up against.

In view of the fact that two pianos will be offered for sale Tuesday morning the solution in the knotty problem was found. Deputy Sheriff John Chambers will "hist the tune" and the prospective purchasers will "j'in in the chorus."

Several parcels of realty and other property will also be offered.

"It is impossible," he replied.

Tupper Wanted Check From Detective Chief; Insane Says Physician

James E. Tupper, of 121 Plum street, who seems under the impression that Chief of Police Beavers has a $3,500 check belonging to Tupper, was adjudged insane by City Physician Martin to the office of Chief of Detectives Lantower. Monday morning Tupper went to the office of Chief of Detectives Lantower and demanded a pistol. When his request was refused, he got downstairs into Chief Beavers' office, and in a disjointed way demanded a $3,500 check "that the chief was keeping for him."

The chief managed to hold the man there long enough to summon a call officer, who took him into custody. Later in the day, Dr. Martin examined him.

"He is dangerously insane," declared Dr. Martin afterward. "He told me that the chief had a $3,500 check for him, and that he was going to get out of jail and get it."

Tupper is 27 years old. His father is G. H. Tupper.

DINNER TO MARSHALL MARKS HIS DEPARTURE

Soon after being made news editor of the southern division, Mr. Marshall was sent to Honduras as war correspondent for the Associated Press, and shortly afterward was hurried to Galveston when threatening conditions in Mexico necessitated the mobilization of United States troops upon the border.

The tattoo-man tells a tale of a Reno lady, a middle-weight "pug" and the fighting man's betrothed; and, speaking after the manner of the tattoo-man, "there is plenty doing," and you find in the bunch plenty of that nature whose one touch makes all bunches 'in.

This time the great detective, Nayland Smith, is pitted against the superhuman Fu Manchu in the matter of a stupendous robbery; the robber's bold ingenuity is only matched by the bold ingenuity of the chase. Which is victor, the yellow man or the detective?

The humorist is not the motorcycling enthusiast of his own article. He says so right away—in the very first paragraph. So he is able to go about the study of his specimen passionately and enjoyably. Fitch is a real fun-taster, and its good to taste along with him in this tale.

This story is a gem—now merry, now moving, and at all times a tip to parents who mistakenly call their human little boys bad little boys.

SETTLED EMPHATICALLY.

Whether or not the civil war settled the issue of paramount sovereignty as between state and nation is the subject of an interesting interchange of letters between Professor J. T. Derry and B. M. Zettler, published in another column.

The Constitution feels impelled to hold with Professor Derry. Regardless of whether the verdict was reached by force of arms or force of argument its nature and effect were unequivocal: the south's theory that any state could withdraw from the union was adversed and the supremacy of the nation was indubitably established.

The verdict may have been constitutionally or academically right or wrong; to this day there is a diversity of opinion on that score.

This, of course, is all threshing over old straw. But the communications we publish are interesting as shedding sidelights on a very turbulent era in our history.

AS TO WHOSE OX IS GORED.

Suppose that California had today a Jap population almost as large as her white population; suppose, further, that she was threatened not with the ownership by Japs of merely a few paltry acres of land, but by the proposition to put each one of these Japs upon an exact plane of equality with the white freeholders; to give them the ballot; to make them eligible to hold office; to make laws; to enforce laws; to sit as judges and jurors.

Fifty years is a long time in the past, but the journey is easy when memory holds so many tragic reminders. Fifty years ago the south had the hot end of the proposition—we have laid down—except that the negro is not, of course, comparable to the Jap in intelligence, heredity and respect of law and order—and the position California then assumed was exactly opposite to her present position.

on the bench trying his former masters. That's all! Except that California must have done a vast amount of thinking in the past half century. We simply confound old ghosts to justify the interesting query: If our California friends make such a vast ado over a few Japs and a few acres of ground, what peals might not go up to high heaven if the whole power of the federal government were turned on them, as it was on the south, to force their every iniquity under an alien and repugnant yoke? It makes a lot of difference as to whose ox is gored!

A JUST VERDICT.

By unanimous vote council has accepted the report of its investigating committee and acquitted its three members—Messrs. Sprattling, Maddox and Ragsdale—of the charges brought against them. The result accords with the testimony and is simple justice to the three men. The charges appear to have been materially exaggerated, founded on shreds of unconfirmed suspicion and of whispered rumors so ingeniously placed together as to give them the appearance of plausibility.

The men under fire are well-known citizens. While The Constitution has differed with them regarding public matters before them as councilmen, we have never doubted their honesty; the searching investigation from which they have emerged has certainly given us no reason to change that attitude. It is, perhaps, just as well that the investigation has been held. The air has been cleared of gossip and rumors and the accusations of criminal offense, gravely fashioned from hearsay and loose talk, have been resolved into nothingness.

END OF A FIASCO.

News dispatches report today that the supreme court of the United States yesterday dismissed the case of the government against The Atlanta Journal, involving alleged violation of the postal regulations. The verdict of the court was unanimous.

This is an end to the miserable effort of Hitchcock and his bureaucratic spies to involve The Journal in a manner which was overwhelmingly resented by the public, not only because the people knew that the management of The Journal was not involved in any petty swindle to save a few dollars in mail payments, but more particularly for the reason that the Hitchcock procedure against legitimate business was a departure entirely new in federal administrative methods in this country.

It will be recalled that when The Journal was first apprised of the fact that it was to be the victim of Hitchcock's animus the information came in the nature of an indictment for trial without having been given opportunity to make even a showing as to the accuracy of its figures, or of the fact that it was, at least in its own opinion, making an honest effort to comply with the law. That was considered an unimportant detail to Hitchcock and his spies.

Of course, the government lost in the lower United States court, and now the supreme court has put the stamp of its disapproval upon the whole proceeding by dismissing the case.

It is the end of the cheapest fiasco in which this government has ever been involved, and it is to be hoped that never, as long as this is a government, will there be a repetition of such a disgraceful and tyrannical proceeding from any of its departments.

EUROPE'S PEACEMAKER.

If the long-continued tension of the situation in the Balkans does not involve all Europe in war credit will be due Sir Edward Grey, British minister for foreign affairs. This is the claim made by Sydney Brooks in a recent issue of "Harper's Weekly" and the American who has followed the course of events in the old world will agree with him.

Sir Edward's success is due, first, to the fact that no European nation really wants war. None of them, even the richest, can really afford the drain. But if the continent is to be repartitioned as a result of the near eastern war, none of the powers could avoid being drawn into the conflict. This might well have been the situation and still war would have been forced, in the absence of a man able to weld all the dissenting elements. Sir Edward Grey has shown himself that sort of factor. Quiet, earnest, a king among diplomats, a deep student and a born conciliator, his is the personality that has framed most of the common grounds of meeting that thus far have insured peace. If he shall bring the nations through the entanglement now pressing the whole world will be under obligations to him.

Once again Mr. Andrew Carnegie is talking world-peace to beat all the war-bands.

There is a rumor that Holy Hiram Johnson is talking pretty much as directed.

Vice President Magrath should take the summer lecture platform, where he would have more excuse for talking.

New News of Yesterday

Way, Grover Cleveland, said a "sub-affair in the Civil War."

(Copyright 1913, for The Constitution.)

"I had many evidences during my close association with Grover Cleveland of his inherent and abiding sense of justice and also his willingness to submit to some humiliation and to a good deal of personal sacrifice rather than to be instrumental in injuring the feelings of the career of anyone," said George F. Parker, who was the biographer of Grover Cleveland, to me at a time when he was showing me a great mass of letters and documents which he had received as the ex-president's literary executor.

"I think, however, that the incident which most strongly impressed upon my mind this characteristic of Cleveland was one which is associated with the order which was issued for the return of the battle-flags to the southern states.

"I was chatting with Mr. Cleveland one day in his library when he said to me that he had been strangely, almost cruelly, misjudged with respect to what is called the 'battle-flags incident.'

"He was amazed, he said, at the violence of the attacks which were made upon him for issuing that order. The attack which hurt him most came from a distinguished politician of the northwest, who in his letter of public protest stated that this order had actually been issued through Adjutant General Drum, of the army.

"Having made this statement, Mr. Cleveland looked at me for some moments steadily and yet meditatively, as though he were wondering whether it was expedient to make me his confidant. Still keeping his eyes fixed upon me he opened a drawer and took from it a letter which he asked me to read. To my astonishment it was a letter from Adjutant General Drum to Mr. Cleveland, in which the adjutant general recommended that as an act of courtesy and amity towards the south it would be worth while to issue an order restoring the southern battle-flags.

"When I had read the letter I said to Mr. Cleveland: 'Why don't you, in defense of yourself, cause this letter to be published? It is a semi-official letter and not a confidential communication.'

"But Mr. Cleveland shook his head decisively. He said he would not make the letter public. He had issued the order and he would not for an instant do anything to divide the responsibility or pass it along to someone else.

"I have seen a great deal of political life and I have frequently observed with what alertly politicians who have done or said something which has proved to be unpopular have passed the responsibility over to someone else. But Cleveland endured in silence the attacks which were made upon him, although he could have made public the letter of Adjutant General Drum.

"Cleveland was especially hurt at the intimation that he had issued this order because he secretly had sympathized with the confederacy and was really one of those in the north who in war days were called 'Copperheads.' He told me that these accusations hurt him.

"He said that there were three brothers in his father's family. Two of them went to the war, two of them enlisted in union regiments and it was necessary for one to stay at home to care for their mother and sisters. He was the one chosen to stay at home. He was drafted and he was forced to borrow a thousand dollars to pay for a substitute, because if he, too, went those who were dependent upon him would have no means of support. He told me that it took four or five years of hard work and the most strenuous economy to save money enough to repay the loan of a thousand dollars, and then in the saddest tone he added, 'And yet they bring these accusations against me!'

SENIORS

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Swash"

At this time of the year the senior becomes an all-important institution in our colleges.

A senior is like a president in the last gasps of office. He is a great man, who is about to become a common citizen. After the senior has delivered his oration and has received his diploma, he takes off his cap and gown and becomes a humble struggler at the foot of the ladder, with everybody's feet in his face. But just before commencement he is so large that it takes a freshman or sophomore several minutes to walk entirely around him. Nothing is more interesting than to watch an underclassman looking up to a senior—unless it is to watch the same senior a few months later, looking up to an office boy, and asking him how he got his job.

A senior is a man who is completing his education in science, philosophy, languages, and arts, and is about to begin it in work, worry, and the earning of a living. Being a senior is more fun than almost anything else, because a senior has had all that is coming to him in college, and doesn't know what is coming to him in life.

A great many seniors are very wise, and have more knowledge than most men of fifty. A senior can sit down and instruct a captain of the industry in metaphysics and aesthetics, and can read Latin faster than a railroad president. Some seniors carry this knowledge away from the college with them, and try to peddle it in the wholesale district, while others take a check for it and leave it in a cool dry place, where it will not be disturbed. When you notice an ex-senior making very good in business, politics or journalism you can safely bet that he has taken off most of his goggles and has gotten down to his fighting clothes.

Seniors are very necessary, because we must have men with trained minds, even if they do leave the gymnasium on graduation. But clubs do not have to be taken seriously, except by those who are not yet seniors. One of the pathetic sights of life is a young graduate of Yale or Harvard trying to hook a football and debating club glory in the busy financial district.

The World's Mysteries

Mysteries of EUROPEAN POLITICS

THE CASE OF THOMAS GREEN

Captain Thomas Green, his mate, John Madder, and another of his crew, were taken to the sands at Leith on the second Wednesday in April, 1906, and were there hanged within the floodmark upon a gibbet until they were dead. The crime for which they were hanged was piracy, robbery and murder. They may have been guilty of all, but there was never any proof brought to that effect. Instead they seem to have suffered for policy's sake.

Green was condemned for a crime of which he was probably innocent. He died for a crime which was not even proved to have been committed. It may have been committed by persons with whom Green had no connection, while Green may have been guilty of other misdeeds as bad as that for which he was hanged.

Duncan Forbes, of Culloden, who later became president of the court of sessions, believed fully in the innocence of Captain Green. He wore mourning for Green, and attended his funeral at the risk of his own life. When the Porteous riot was discussed in parliament Forbes arose in his place and attested his conviction that the captain was wrongfully done to death.

Thomas Green, at the time the accusation was made against him, was in charge of the "Worcester," an East Indian. On his homeward voyage in 1793, he was forced, by stress of weather, to put in at the Port of the Scottish public was in a state of wild excitement over the still recent seizure of the Scotch East Indian "Annandale" in the Thames. When the "Worcester" was arrested by the way of reprisal, it was rumored that the vessel was not the harbor trader she professed to be, but while in the East Indies had been engaged in piracy. This rumor was strengthened by the talk of a drunken sailor and a mate who was at odds with Captain Smith. The mate said that a ship had been captured and the crew murdered.

Although it was shown that the mate did not join the crew until a considerable time after the incident about which he gave evidence, was supposed to have occurred, yet the public feeling ran so strong that Captain Green and his officers were found guilty of piracy and murder. The charge especially named Captain Robert Drummond and the crew of the "Speedy Return" as having been so robbed and killed.

There was not only no clear evidence of conspiracy or murder, but no one was able to affirm that Drummond had been murdered, or that he was even dead. The government was afraid of the riot which threatened to break out in case Green and the others were acquitted, and consequently, railroaded them to the scaffold.

Even before the men were executed a galley arrived in Scotland on which were two men who made affidavit to the effect that they belonged to the "Speedy Return." They said that while their vessel was lying in Port Maritan, Madagascar, Drummond and several of the crew being on shore, a large body of pirates came aboard and seized the ship. The pirates put to sea, in her, sailed to Rajapur and there they lay hidden. They said that they were never attacked by the "Worcester."

From another source this story was also confirmed, with the additional information that Drummond was killed in Tullia, seven leagues to the northward of Augustine Bay, by a Jamaica negro. It is therefore evident that no matter what may have been the character of Green, or what crime might be laid to his door, he was not guilty so far as the cases of the "Speedy Return" was concerned.

History has very many instances in which innocent persons were sacrificed to satisfy a mob who looked for vengeance in some direction. In fact, this case was very parallel to that of the Campden mystery, recently related in this series, in which three people were hanged for killing old Mr. Harlow, who later turned up in perfect health. In Green's case in the Campden case some of the accused confessed their guilt, and yet evidence later obtained tends to prove that Captain Drummond and his ship and crew were all quite safe at the date of the alleged piracy of Captain Green.

Did Civil War Decide State or National Power?

The following correspondence between Professor J. T. Derry and Mr. B. M. Zettler, of Atlanta, both well-known confederate veterans, grows out of a letter in The Constitution in which the former declared the civil war decided that "paramount sovereignty rested with the nation. Mr. Zettler disputes that view.

The correspondence follows: The Best Issue. Editor Constitution: Brother Zettler in the following personal letter takes exception to my statement that Appomattox settled the question of paramount sovereignty. Since he has given me permission to do so, I send his communication to you, together with my reply.

Professor J. T. Derry, Atlanta—Dear Professor: I read with interest your article in this morning's Constitution on the California situation. In one of the concluding comments it seems to me you are a bit inconsistent and yield a point that the south has never admitted.

You say: "As has been well said, the question of paramount sovereignty was decided against us at Appomattox." If we admit, as Lincoln claimed, that a state could not withdraw from the union, and if the states that constituted the southern confederacy were never out of the union, then they were, as you say, guilty of treason, and Lee and his followers were all traitors.

But as we leave the war the paramount sovereignty of the state or the general government? Was that the issue between the seceding states and those that remained in the union? Then the question decided by the war? We have always held differently. We had the right to withdraw; we did withdraw; and for four years we successfully resisted the effort of the other states to compel us to return to the union.

The only question decided at Appomattox was that it was useless to fight longer against the superior numbers and resources of the other states. We never submitted any question to the arbitration of the sword as some are fond of saying. We fought when we were invaded, and only because we were invaded. This is the teaching of your own admiral's and history of the United States and especially of your charming story of the confederate states. Hence, I do not understand your comment that the question of paramount sovereignty was decided at Appomattox.

I first thought of asking The Constitution to include me in a brief criticism of this point in your article, but declined to make the criticism directly to you, and if you see fit you can use it in some column with such reply as you may see fit to make.

I am reluctant to join issue with one whom I regard as the south's representative historian and my own personal friend. On all other points in your article on the California-Japan situation I agree with you.

Your friend confederate comrade, B. M. ZETTLER, Kirkwood, Ga.

Editor Constitution: In reply to Brother Zettler, I have at all times believed and taught that under the union established by the fathers, a state could resume its delegated powers, secede and set up, for itself, and that such acts involved neither rebellion nor treason.

While Appomattox could not settle the right of the wrong of secession, it did establish over the authority of the federal government.

In accepting the offer of citizenship, under the new order of things, we did not make the pledge ourselves to maintain the supremacy of the union.

There was nothing in that pledge to indicate that we had been guilty of rebellion or treason. But by taking it we pledged ourselves to the supremacy of the union. If we had not made the pledge at Appomattox, we would have founded a new republic on this continent.

Therefore, without any change of sentiment as to where the paramount authority rested in the old union, we can truthfully say that the result of Appomattox was to establish over the states the paramount authority of the government of the United States. It has been done, no matter how we may phrase it.

Atlanta's Water Supply.

(From Lawrenceville News-Herald.) Atlanta has got tired of drinking Chattahoochee river water. Of course, not all Atlantians drink Chattahoochee water nor any water at all, but most of them do, and for the benefit of those who are not members of clubs and still adhere to the good old custom Alderman Van Dyke has suggested that it would be a great idea to build an aqueduct from the mountains and give Atlanta pure mountain water instead of Chattahoochee river water, which has to be filtered and treated with alum before the mud is got out of it so it fit to drink. There is absolutely no question about the purity of Atlanta's present water supply, but purity it its only claim. There is nothing sparkling or palatable about it.

Keep Hammering, Brother.

(From Hawkinsville News and Dispatch.) Farmers have it in their power, by curtailing acreage, to secure 12 to 15 cents a pound for the next crop of cotton, or to drive the price to 11 or 10 cents, or possibly lower.

The world profits by cheap cotton; the farmer does not. Railroads, brokers and all agents of distribution receive as much toll for handling cheap cotton as for handling dear cotton; the bigger the crop the more they make. But with the farmer the bigger the crop the less the profit—and if the crop be big enough there will be no profit at all. The 15,000,000-bale crop of 1911 did not pay the producer for his labor; the 14,000,000-bale crop of 1912 hardly paid more than a fair wage to the actual producer.

Will the farmer plant cotton just to see how much he can raise, or will he plant it for profit? (From Hawkinsville News and Dispatch.) A dozen or more new county propositions will be before the legislature when it meets this summer. Most every place that is big enough to have one or two stores, a blacksmith shop and a horsecar wants to be a county seat.

FREE LIST FOUGHT BY REPUBLICANS

They Even Want a Tax on Bibles—All Amendments Were Voted Down by the House Democrats.

Washington, May 5.—The free list of the Underwood tariff bill, with its democratic provisions of reductions in the cost of living, furnished the grist for the legislative mills of the session today.

While the house dragged along through the bill, the senate finance committee made its plans for considering the bill when it shall have passed the house.

Republican opposition centered about the paragraph admitting free of duty coal, iron ore, cotton, wool, wheat, flour, corn, buckwheat, wood pulp and print paper meats, lumber, leather, potatoes, works of art, fish, steel rails, barbed wire and dairy products.

Bankers and Income Tax. A brief relating to the income tax provision of the Underwood bill was filed with the senate finance committee today by the investment bankers' association of America.

Frank Stanton's Song a Feature Of the Bill at Forsyth This Week

The song of Frank L. Stanton, of the Constitution, "You've Got to Stop a-Pickin' on My Little Pickaninny," is one of the features at the Forsyth this week.

It comes in the act of Gus Edwards, "The Kid Kabaret," which introduces a number of clever juveniles, who can sing and dance, as well as act cleverly the roles assigned to them.

ATLANTAN SETTLES BIG RALEIGH SUIT

Benjamin M. Hall Called Upon to Help Fix Price of Waterworks.

An interesting question was solved by arbitration at Raleigh, N. C., in which an Atlanta engineer took a large part. It was the settlement of a suit for the possession and operation of waterworks for the city of Raleigh, docketed as Wake Water company and bondholders v. Raleigh, N. C.

The arbitrators were Benjamin M. Hall, engineer of Atlanta; Gilbert C. White and Thomas J. Shaw, of North Carolina. The price decided upon by the arbitrators was $250,000, agreed upon as fair when the figures had before differed anywhere from $193,000 to $272,000.

Among other suggestions of the arbitrator was an impounding basin for the storage of water, the supply heretofore having been furnished by the normal flow of a stream, with nothing to spare for emergency and fire protection.

The Burklars' union, in which three clever actors take a part, is a number said to beat. The Musical Alxinos are good, and Eldora and company, in comedy juggling, please. Two other acts complete the bill.

A modern building with one of the most complete equipments in the country is promised with the increase, which is desired to be 50 cents per telephone for each subscriber, and which it is stated with amount to $12,000 per year added gross income to the company.

JAPAN TO MAKE FORMAL PROTEST

Against Anti-Alien Land Law Passed by California—Diplomats Think It Has Put U. S. in Delicate Position.

Washington, May 5.—The Japanese embassy was supplied by the state department today with a copy of the California anti-alien land law passed by the California legislature and the ambassador will employ the time between now and Secretary Ryan's return to Washington in preparing a formal protest against the measure.

The embassy will make known the ground of its protest in a diplomatic note to Secretary Bryan. It is well understood that except for the anti-alien matter what may be the point of objection will require the action of the United States courts, and much consideration must be given to the procedure to be followed in arranging for a jury trial of the case.

International lawyers hint that the administration is in an exceedingly delicate position for the reason that, while apparently a champion of the Japanese through the California legislature, probably from this point on it must defend the California law against Japan in the diplomatic struggle about to begin.

The department should adopt the California contention that the land law does not violate the existing treaty with Japan, then it might feel bound to refuse to submit the case to arbitration by the League tribunal.

It develops today that the American adverse to California, if the American courts found that the state acted within its constitutional powers of sovereignty, the United States government probably would be unable to enforce the decree of the tribunal in case it should be adverse to California.

Meanwhile the government's legal experts are studying the Webb bill in an effort to locate what may be the weak spot. Many officials here believe that the lawyers of the California legislature have succeeded in framing a bill that may successfully resist attack on the ground that it violates the provision of the treaty of 1911 between the United States and Japan.

BARACAS TO CONVENE

Phoenix, Ariz., May 5.—To take the place of the measure enacted a year ago, the lower house of the state legislature passed today an anti-alien land law which is far more drastic than the California legislation on the same subject. The Mary Phagan case calls for your immediate and vigorous attention. The power of the state is behind you. What appears to be an awful crime has been committed, and the welfare of the community, the good name of Atlanta, public justice and the majesty of the law demand at the hands of the grand jury and of all officers of the law the most searching investigation and the prompt bringing to trial of the guilty party.

The body of Mary Phagan was exhumed Monday morning by Coroner Donohoe. An examination of the contents of the stomach will be made in an endeavor to get some new clew that may throw light on the mystery.

ALABAMA COMMISSION UPHeld BY U. S. COURT

Judge Grubb Sustains Right of Commission to Fix Rates. No Injunction for Roads.

Birmingham, Ala., May 5.—Judge W. I. Grubb, of the United States court here today passing on the proceedings in which the state railroad commission fixed the passenger rates at 2 1/2 cents per mile, the commission had the right to fix rates and that the railroads had a way of going either into the state or federal courts for injunctions and trying the case on the merits. The state railroad commission was not in contempt when it fixed the rate of 2 1/2 cents after Judge Jones, of the federal court, had declared the legislative enactment to the same effect null and void in the decision, the state railroad commission having called a hearing and having fixed the new rate irrespective and regardless of the legislative enactment.

Philadelphia, May 5.—Philadelphia will have seven weeks of grand opera next winter by the Philadelphia-Chicago Grand Opera company, as a result of a conference of the Philadelphia company here this afternoon. Cleofon-Campbell will be the general manager of the company, succeeding Andreas Dippel, who recently resigned. The question of grand opera in Chicago, it is said, hinged on the situation in Philadelphia, and it is now believed the company will give performances in Chicago the same as last winter.

Gun Running is Barred.
Washington, May 5.—Persons exporting arms from the United States to promote revolution in Mexico may be arrested by American authorities for violating the neutrality proclamation of 1912 before the arms are actually left the United States, according to a decision today by the supreme court. The decision reversed the district federal court for western Texas, which annulled indictments against Arunite Chavez and Jose Masa.

Huerta's Troops Repulsed.
Nogales, Ariz., May 5.—Fighting continued throughout the afternoon between the advance of the Carranza troops and the Huerta forces below Ortiz. Indications were that the federal troops had been repulsed, although taking the aggressive in the fighting. The telegraph line has been cut below Ortiz and efforts to reach Professor Taft, were reported killed in yesterday's fighting.

NEW POLITICAL SCHOOL DISCUSSED BY TAFT
New Haven, Conn., May 5.—"If we are to have free trade lets have it," said President Taft at the University of Kent professor of law at Yale, in the second of his lectures on questions of modern government, at the university this afternoon. "Let the party that favors it vote for it. Let's try it in a discussion of 'the necessity of the political party to efficient legislation.'"

SHORTAGE OF YERGER WILL REACH $60,000
Jackson, Miss., May 5.—Investigation into the alleged loss of Ernest Yerger, former secretary of the state prison board, continued today. While it was intimated others are involved, nothing developed to bear out this. It is now declared by the investigators the amount of the alleged defalcation will reach $60,000.
Governor Brewer says Yerger admitted to him that he was short in his accounts, but told him no others besides Yerger are implicated. Further developments are expected. The board of prison trustees meets tomorrow.

FIGHT FOR SUFFRAGE BEGINS IN COMMONS

Measure That Would Enfranchise 6,000,000 Women Is Being Debated.
London, May 5.—The struggle for woman suffrage began again in the house of commons this afternoon when the second reading was moved of Willoughby Dickinson's bill which proposes to enfranchise 6,000,000 women.
Vital sections of the brief bill are as follows:

"(B)—if the wife of a man entitled to be registered in respect of a household qualification in the meaning of the qualifying premises during the period required by law to enable a person to be so registered, she shall be entitled to be registered and when registered to vote as a parliamentary elector in the constituency where in the qualifying premises are situate.
"2. A woman shall not be entitled to be registered unless she has attained the age of 25 years.
"3. A woman shall not be disqualified by reason of marriage from being registered and voting."

MAN IS FATALLY SHOT IN A SOCIALIST RIOT
Huntington, W. Va., May 5.—One man was shot in the head and seriously wounded and several others slightly injured during a riot here tonight in alleged attempt to break up a mass meeting of socialists which had been called to protest against martial law in the coal strike district of Kanawha county and the imprisonment of labor leaders.
William Taylor, an aged man, was shot through the head. He will die. Missiles were hurled on all sides. Speakers were hooted down and the resultant confusion made it impossible to ascertain who used firearms. Several squads of police rushed to the scene. The officers waded into the fighting factions, using their clubs freely. A number of arrests were made.

When he was rejected by Miss Ahlook the youth trapped enough Arctic foxes to pay for a year's schooling and worked his passage back to Barrow, permitted to enter one of the grammar schools because of the knowledge he had gained at the Point Barrow school. His summer vacations were spent with a fishing fleet. During the last year he has been busy with hunting and bookkeeping, in addition to his other studies.

OLD POE LANDMARK GIVES WAY TO PROGRESS
New York, May 5.—King's Bridge tavern, a landmark of 100 years' standing and a resort where Edgar Allan Poe used to wait for his manuscript to come back from unappreciative editors is about to give way to the march of progress. It is on the site of the old Poe house, the American league baseball park next summer at 23th street and Broadway, and today a gang of laborers took possession of the old tavern as a shelter for themselves and their shovels while the last guest walked out. Efforts of Poe's admirers to preserve the old tavern for its historical interest failed.

KERN TO PRESS PROBE OF STRIKE CONDITIONS
Washington, May 5.—After reading a statement by Governor Hatfield of West Virginia, denying allegations of peonage and a reign of terror in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek coal fields, Senator Kern today reiterated his intention to press his request for a federal inquiry into the West Virginia coal field situation.
"I have never pretended," declared Senator Kern, "to have had personal knowledge of conditions in West Virginia. I have stated facts as they have been presented to me. Opposition to investigation which has come from various quarters has done more than anything else to arouse my suspicions as to the conditions existing there."

Pope Pius Gives Audience.
Rome, May 5.—Pope Pius, for the first time since his illness, gave an audience today to the Italian ambassador, Cardinal Domenico Ferrata, who recently returned from Malta, where he had presided over the Eucharistic congress as papal legate. The pope expressed deep interest in the congress, inquiring minutely about the details of this great religious gathering.

ORDINANCE TO PREVENT WILDCAT CONTRACTORS
The ordinance prepared by Superintendent Turner, of the electrical department, proposing a bond of $1,500 to prevent "wildcat" contractors from being employed on public buildings, was introduced in council, yesterday, and on the suggestion of Councilman Claude Masor, it was referred to the city attorney.
The ordinance was advanced to its second reading, and stood a good chance of being passed.
The resolutions providing for $700 for an additional inspector for the electrical department, and $750 for an auto for Superintendent Turner, were introduced and sent to the finance committee.

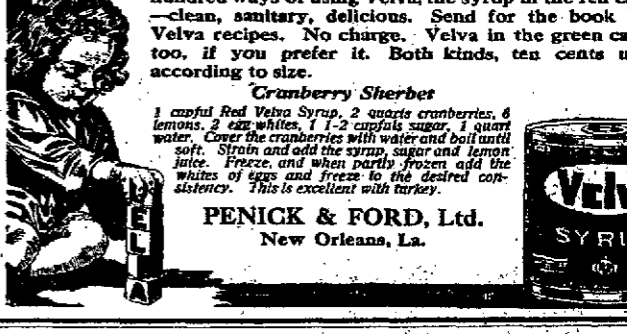

NEW "ANTI-DIRT" LAW PROPOSED BY ASHLEY
Councilman Claude L. Ashley is not satisfied with the present law which was passed to prevent hauling contractors from spilling dirt on the streets.
He has offered another ordinance, which not only makes a contractor liable to arrest and punishment by fine or imprisonment, but it also gives the police power to arrest the driver of the wagon.
Councilman Ashley believes that by making the driver liable along with the contractor they will be more careful.
Alderman Maddox has already declared war on the ordinance.

ITCHED AND BURNED BADLY
Pimples in Hair and on Face and Hands. Turned to Festers and Sores, Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Two Weeks.
Bladen, Georgia.—"I suffered ten months with itching of the skin. It began on my body in small red pimples, then all in my hair and on my face and hands. The pimples festered and then began to turn into sores. They itched and burned badly until I could not help scratching them. They began to disfigure my hands and face after turning to festers and sores. My hands would itch worse when I put them in water. My hair came out gradually. I could not sleep or do any of my work for the itching and burning of the sores. I tried three medicines and found very little ease. I suffered nine months with the red pimples festering and burning. Then I began the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I would bathe with the Cuticura Soap three times each day but only use the Cuticura Ointment on itching and retiring. After keeping this up two weeks all the sores and itching had disappeared. I was completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment in two weeks." (Signed) Miss Maggie D. Holmes, Apr. 16, 1912.
Why not have a clear skin, soft white hands, a clean scalp and good hair? It is your brightening Cuticura Soap with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will bring about those coveted conditions in most cases when all else fails. Sold throughout the world. City of Atlanta is the Latest Enterprise to Give Central Station Electric Current Complete Approval by Buying It for the New 10,000,000 Gallon Pump

THE RIVER PUMPING STATION

This plant is the home of the new 10,000,000-gallon capacity water pump for which the City of Atlanta has contracted with the Georgia Railway and Power Company to supply it with electric power, after carefully considering all other methods.

If any further proof were needed to demonstrate the economy and reliability of CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC CURRENT, after the owners and managers of half a dozen of Atlanta's big new enterprises had contracted for it upon careful investigation of ALL methods of supplying power, then that proof is clearly furnished in the action of the CITY OF ATLANTA last week in rejecting ALL OTHER POWER PROPOSITIONS and accepting CENTRAL STATION ELECTRIC CURRENT of this company for the city's new 10,000,000-gallon capacity water pump at the River Pumping Station.

Every possible effort was made by representatives of other power methods to induce the city to accept their propositions, including that of the Municipal Ownership advocates who wanted the city to buy machinery and make its own electricity. Along with these proposals this company submitted its STANDARD RATES AND ITS REPUTATION FOR RELIABLE SERVICE.

First, the Water Board, composed of practical business men whose sole purpose is to secure the best service at the lowest cost for the city, considered all propositions and ACCEPTED THIS COMPANY'S.

Then the CITY COUNCIL, also composed of business men actuated by the single motive of buying the best service at the lowest rates, rejected all other proposals and ACCEPTED THIS COMPANY'S.

Then the ALDERMANIC BOARD AND THE MAYOR, all looking solely for the city's best interests, followed the action of the water board and council, rejected all other methods for supplying power for the city's new pump and ACCEPTED THIS COMPANY'S.

It was literally the acid test of the economy and reliability of the Central Station service furnished by the Georgia Railway and Power Company, and the service and rates stood the test.

The most efficient, the most reliable, the most economical method of obtaining power and light for factory or building is to contract with this Company for such service.

CITY EFFECTS BIG SAVING ON PUMP

Centrifugal Pattern Is Bought for $7,000, as Against $60,-
000 for Old Type

Mayor Woodward's signing of the contract with the Georgia Railway and Power Company for electric current to operate a new 10,000,000-gallon capacity water pump at the river station probably marks a new epoch in the history of Atlanta's waterworks department, according to W. Z. Smith, general manager. A steam pump of the type in use by the city would have cost more than $60,000, but the contract for the centrifugal pump to be operated by electricity, provides for an expenditure of only a little more than $7,000. The objection of officials of the water department heretofore to electrically driven centrifugal pumps has been the cost of operation. The centrifugal pumps are cheaper and convenient to house and maintain, but until the bid of the electric company, based on the new water power rates, was submitted the officials did not believe the new plan would be economic. The rate is 6 1-2 mills per kilowatt hour. Work on the new pump will be rushed. General Manager Smith said the crippled condition of two of the pumps at the river station demanded that the new one be established as quickly as possible.—From The Atlanta Georgian, April 20.

WORLD PRESBYTERIAN ALLIANCE IS INVITED

Ministers to Seek Aid of the Chamber of Commerce to Get Convention.

When the World's Presbyterian Alliance meets in June in Dundee, Scotland, the invitation will be extended to that large and representative body to hold its 1914 convention in the city of Atlanta, Ga., "the gate city of the south, and the world famous host of conventions."

This was decided on Monday morning at the meeting of the Evangelical Ministers' association, which favorably upon the invitation and decided to confer with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies with a view to gaining general support for the invitation. Dr. G. A. Battle presented the invitation for the consideration of the body, and it contained the provision that the presiding officer of the association, Rev. W. C. Schaeffer, personally extend the invitation to the gathering in Dundee, Scotland.

It is probable, however, that the invitation will be carried to Scotland and delivered by W. H. Roberts, of Philadelphia, who is stated clerk of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., and who is also secretary for America of the World's Presbyterian Alliance. Dr. Roberts will be in Atlanta next week for the joint assemblies of the U. S. A., the U. S. and U. F. churches, and from here he will go to Scotland. There are no Atlanta men who are delegates to the Dundee convention, although it is likely that several Georgians will be going.

The World's Presbyterian Alliance which meets every year in June, is a conference of representatives of practically all the Presbyterian organizations of the world.

WARDEN M'CLAUGHRY QUILTS LEAVENWORTH

Leavenworth, Kan., May 5.—Major Robert Wilson McLaughry for fourteen years warden of the federal penitentiary here, today forwarded his resignation to the department of justice.

In making known this fact, the warden, who is 74 years old, said he thought he "had been on the job long enough."

Warden McLaughry is said to be one of the best informed men in the country on prison affairs. He served fourteen years as warden in the Illinois prison at Joliet, ending this service in 1888. Then he was appointed superintendent of the Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa. Three years later he became superintendent of the Chicago police department, and later was superintendent of the Illinois State reformatory at Pontiac.

Warden McLaughry was known as the "humane warden." His advice to his subordinates was "treat a prisoner like a man and make a man of him." Under these methods prisoners were put upon their honor to observe the rules.

Authorities who have visited Leavenworth here hailed it as "the perfectly disciplined prison."

CHARITIES REMEMBERED IN WILL OF MRS. DODD

The will of Mrs. Barbara C. Dodd, widow of Philip Dodd, was filed for probate with the ordinary of Fulton county Monday morning.

While the disposition of Mrs. Dodd's estate will not be made public through the will until it comes up for probate several weeks hence, The Constitution's story of Monday that Mercer university is named as the residuary legatee and will be entitled to a bequest in the neighborhood of $100,000 was verified.

The remainder of the estate is disposed of as follows: The Grady hospital for the maintenance of an infant ward the proceeds of a $2,000 fund, left in trust with the Central Bank and Trust corporation, with whom is also left a similar sum for the Georgia Baptist orphanage and a fund of $1,500 for the maintenance of Mrs. Dodd's grave. Any excess earnings of which will go to Mercer. A sum of $5,000 outright is left to her sister, Mrs. Fannie T. Ackerman, of New York. The earnings of a handsome mortgage set with C. Dibble, of Montgomery, Ala. All other jewelry is to be sold by the Central Bank and Trust corporation, the proceeds amounting to several thousand dollars, to go into the Home for Old Women, in Atlanta.

BRAZIL DEALS BLOW AT AMERICAN TRADE

Washington, May 5.—American manufacturers probably have lost a flour trade amounting to $3,000,000 a year as well as a lucrative business in cement, typewriters, machinery and other products as a result of the Brazilian government resentment at the breaking up of the Brazilian coffee valorization scheme by the department of justice. After several conferences with state department officials Brazilian Ambassador Dagama let it be known today that his country in future would not be a party to a 30 per cent differential in customs dues which until April 9 was allowed on their American products.

Without the differential, it is said, the American producers will not be able to compete with those in Argentina and Argentine millers are expected to control the Brazilian flour market.

There has been no commercial treaty between the United States and Brazil since 1841, but negotiations from time to time had resulted in the tariff differentials, under which manufacturers in this country had built up an extensive trade.

Brazil's claim is that this differential was allowed with the express understanding that America was not to impose any harassing or discriminatory tax upon her exports to the United States. The action of the department of justice recently in seizing $20,000 bags of coffee seized by the valorization committee in this country and compelling its sale contrary to the plans of the committee, is regarded as a violation of this understanding. The Brazilians not only are planning a new valorization project, but the committee is still holding 3,000,000 bags of coffee in Europe to market at its pleasure.

Casting about for means to continue the differential, Americans have urged the state department to retaliate by recommending to congress the imposition of duties on Brazilian coffee and rubber, imported to America in enormous quantities. It is understood, however, that the Brazilians confidently believe Americans must have these commodities at any cost, so that either the middle man or the ultimate consumer must pay any tariff tax that may be imposed.

MANUFACTURERS BACK WHITEHALL REGRADING

In Signed Statement They Declare They Wish Improvement Made as Soon as Possible.

The manufacturers and jobbers on Whitehall street have signed a very emphatic statement, in which they say that so far from having any objection to the regrading of Whitehall street, they wish the improvement made as soon as possible. They say they think the improvement the greatest that could be made in the city at this time. Their signed statement is as follows:

"We, the manufacturers and jobbers of Whitehall street, desire to correct the report that some opposition has been shown by the manufacturers to the regrading of Whitehall street. On the contrary, and without exception, we consider it the greatest street improvement that can be made in our entire city.

"The $25,000 which we would urge the city to furnish at once will be made and saved many times over to both the city and business interests of this street.

"The abolishment of the 5 per cent grade from Enochston to Mitchell street will enable every concern at the manufacturing end of Whitehall who hauls to depots on through the city to double their present hauling capacity.

MOTHER LIED IN VAIN TO SAVE SON'S LIFE

New York, May 5.—It is all over with "Happy Jack" Mulroney. He must die for the murder of "Paddy, the priest." His application for a new trial was denied today by Judge Rosalsky, who has been taking testimony to determine whether Mulroney could make good his claim that he was the victim of the underworld's code, which bans "squealing" on a pal.

"Happy Jack," who was granted a sixty-day respite by Governor Sulzer, changed his story time after time, and finally said he had been lying and he was ready to take his medicine. He yelled largely on his aged mother to establish an alibi. She swore he was at home in bed, helplessly drunk on the night of the murder.

Today the feeble old woman broke down and admitted to the district attorney that this story was untrue. She perjured herself, she said, to save her boy.

Mulroney will be executed during the week of May 18.

HE RUINED THE WIFE AND KILLED THE HUSBAND

Chicago, May 5.—Joseph A. Williams was recommended to be held to the grand jury without bail for the killing of Leon LaFayette LaCount at the end of the coroner's inquest today. Williams, an art student, shot LaCount when the latter attacked him with intentions to Mrs. LaCount.

The testimony developed that LaCount had spent only two days with his 17-year-old bride before he went to his duty as government inspector

Bellever, Cut Rates Beneficial. Railroad Commissioner C. M. Candler has taken issue with the railroads which have claimed that the cut of rates has decreased revenues. He says: "If the railroads want an increase in freight rates, if it be true, as they claim, that present rates do not permit of proper returns on their investment, they should base their demands square upon the plank of increased expenses and fight the thing out

TRUST METHODS USED IN OBSERVING SUN

Wellington, N. Z., May 5.—The mission of linking together solar observation throughout the world, undertaken by Miss Mary Proctor, of New York, the daughter of the great English astronomer, Richard A. Proctor, who died in New York in 1888, has been brought to a successful conclusion after five years' work.

The establishment of a solar physics observatory in New Zealand was assured today by the donation of $60,000 by Thomas Cawthron, of Nelson New Zealand.

New York, May 5.—"Carrying American trust methods into the heavens" was the definition given today by a well-known writer on scientific subjects to universal solar observation. The method is in every way admirable and desirable. He adds as much duplication by observatories will thereby be avoided.

There are, perhaps, a dozen great solar observatories scattered over the world. Each of these has been making independent observations of every phase of solar activity. Universal solar observation will restrict each observatory to a specific phase of observation, one observatory will be allotted the work of observing phenomena attendant upon sun spot, another will study protuberances from the rim of the sun, and so on. Each will adhere exclusively to its own phase and all will work as separate departments of a monopoly for sun observation.

The idea is about ten years old and was first credited to Professor Pickering, of Harvard.

Venue Law Being Tested. The supreme court was engaged Monday in hearing arguments in the case of Nick Wilburn, charged jointly with Mrs. King with the murder of James King in Jones county. The appeal was made on the ground that fear of mob violence was a ground for a change of venue.

The last legislature passed what is known as the Felker law, which makes fear of mob law a good ground for a case being transferred to another county. It was to test the constitutionality of the law that the case went to the supreme court. The attorney general desired a ruling from the court on the question.

Robertson's Big Stick 'Busy

Today's Batteries. Mobile, Ala., May 5.—(Special.)—Bausewein or Brady and Dunn, for Atlanta, and Hogg and Brown, for Mobile, are the batteries of Tuesday's game.

By G. J. Flournoy. Mobile, Ala., May 5.—(Special.)—Bausewein, who started the game for Atlanta today, which was won by Mobile by the score of 10 to 6, lasted just long enough for the first three men who faced him to be walked to first, when he was taken out and Musser sent in to relieve him.

Robertson's Great Work. Robertson's great right fielder for the Mobile club, who was sent to Manager Finn in time of need, secured two of the three home runs, two singles, stole one base, and made a great running catch.

Bausewein With. Bausewein, in Mobile's half of the first, walked Stock, Starr and O'Dell, and on a hit by Jacobson and a sacrifice fly by Clark scored two runs.

Mobile Tied the Score in Her Half of the third and went ahead of the visitors, Robertson driving on the right field fly out but scoring Jacobson and Clark ahead of him.

Two Batters to Right. In the fourth, Mobile put the game over the lot after two men were out, over the lot after two men were out, over the lot after two men were out.

Furchner, the former Sioux City pitcher, will be given a try-out, within the next few days.

Veteran George Rohe Joins Crackers at Mobile Today; Billy After Some Pitchers

By BILLY SMITH (Manager Atlanta Team). Mobile, Ala., May 5.—(Special.)—I purchased George Rohe from the New Orleans team this afternoon. He will play utility for my club for the rest of the season.

Rohe will report to me Tuesday morning and I will play him in right field until Bailey joins the team.

Where the report came from that Harry Bailey had joined the team I do not know. Evidently some telegraph operator mistook one of the other players for him.

Pitching Fierce. We have gone out and secured a lead for them in both of the games here, only to have them walk a dozen men. A few hits mixed in, and bang! goes the old ball game. When they are not walking men they are giving up plenty of hits.

I never saw such rotten pitching in all my life. The Atlanta pitchers have walked more men so far this season than they should walk in the entire season.

A report received from Chattanooga last night was to the effect that Manager Smith had made an offer to the Chattanooga club for Pitcher Bill Chappelle, but the acceptance had not been received there as yet.

The report was too late to confirm locally, though there may be something to it definitely today. Chappelle, pitching for a hard-hitting club like the Crackers, would win a lot more games than he would lose.

By Clark Howell, Jr. Athens, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Captain Bob McWhorter is leading the University of Georgia batsmen, including the games played with the University of Tennessee, with an average of .369. 300 hitters among the regulars on the team are Bowden, .357; Henderson, .354; Ginn, .348; Harrison, .333, and Clements, .328. Ginn is the leading run-getter, having cluttered across the pan-24 times. Captain Bob is best in line, with 19 tallies. The following figures show the statistical data of the individual members of the team that will stack up against Georgia Tech on Friday and Saturday in Athens.

JACKET LINE-UP UNCERTAIN ONE

Heisman Does Not Know Just Who He Will Use Against Georgia on Next Friday.

By Robert L. Hughes. With the Georgia-Tech baseball games only a few days off, every Tech fan is wondering what the jackets will do with her Red and Black rivals. Or they could better ask, what will the slugging Georgians do with the Yellow Jackets?

News from the Georgia camp states that the Red and Black fans look upon the Tech series as won and that to them it is only a question of how large the score will be. Several times in the past the Georgia supporters have counted their chickens before they were hatched and found that they were several shy. Without a doubt the Georgians are entitled to the championship, with or lose, and certainly even in case of victory Tech would be the last to dispute her claim. To the Tech fans it takes notice.

Coch Heisman stated Monday afternoon that if his men kept up the pace set in the Sewanee games he was not a question of championship, but whether or not the Jackets will defeat Georgia.

Although the Athens lads have a much stronger pitching staff and heavier hitting team than Tech, it is doubtful if they are as good in base running or fielding as the Jackets. Jackets Have Improved. The Jackets improved showing against the Sewanee Tigers in the two games Friday and Saturday has greatly added to the hopes of the Tech fans. The battle put up by the Jackets of nine in these two games would have made any college team sit up and satisfied that they would give Georgia a good argument for the series. It is hoped that the Jackets have at last struck their stride. Certainly they showed in these games marked improvement over their former playing. Coach Heisman's plan of sitting the really men on the bench and keeping them out of several of the regular games certainly worked wonders. He stated that several of the men were too cock sure of their places and were falling to put forth every effort; for this reason he scrubbed them until they picked up. Pick up they did in short order.

Line-up Uncertain. He stated Monday afternoon that he was not at all sure what the Tech line-up would be against the Red and Black, but it would depend entirely upon the showing the men made during the present week. Coach Heisman is looking out for heavy hitters this week and on this department of the game will largely depend the swinging of the Jackets line-up. At present there are only two men on the Jacket varsity who are hitting over .300. Pitts, who has been playing in the outfield when he has not been doing box work, leads the team with the stick, batting around the .250, while the others are under .200. Next with an average around .250, Amazon and Moore are batting below .250, while the others are under .200.

The game was featured by the terrific hitting of the locals, eight two-base hits being registered by them and a total of thirteen safeties. The work of both teams was superb, the left-hander allowing but five scattered hits, striking out seven and rapping out three two-base hits in four times at bat. A purse of $25 was handed him by enthusiastic fans. An error on both sides kept it from being an errorless game. Grand stand, bleachers and side lines were crowded to capacity long before the game was scheduled. STOVALL SUSPENDED FOR INDEFINITE TIME

Chicago, May 5.—George Stovall, deposed manager of the St. Louis American league team and indefinitely suspended as a player by E. B. Johnson, president of the league, as a result of Stovall's attack on Umpire Ferguson Saturday, may get permission to play again this season, and also may be reinstated in his managerial berth, according to Mr. Johnson tonight.

"The case is not closed," said Mr. Johnson tonight. "Stovall is relieved as manager indefinitely and is suspended indefinitely from playing. He may be allowed to play again and it is possible that he may manage the team again, but the two are separate propositions. If he is allowed to play it does not follow that he will be permitted to manage the team."

"The deposition of a manager by the president of the league is said to be the first action of the kind ever taken in a major league. "I cannot recall any precedent for this step," said Johnson. "I did this myself according to the powers given responsibility for the league. What further action may be taken in the case will wait until I have had time to think it over at more length. "There is not room in the American league for players who commit offenses against public decency," he declared. "I am astonished that any manager should create such a scene by losing his self-control in the presence of a large assemblage of patrons of the league's contests. What will not countenance such conduct for a minute."

Stovall was ordered out by Ferguson in the sixth inning of the game at Cleveland Saturday with the Cleveland team. In a rage Stovall pulled Ferguson's cap from his head and spat on the umpire's coat, according to the reports received here. Johnson suspended Stovall by telegraphing the league president, who declared, "I am astonished that any manager should create such a scene by losing his self-control in the presence of a large assemblage of patrons of the league's contests. What will not countenance such conduct for a minute."

Gulls 2, Foxes 1.

Charleston, S. C., May 5.—In one of the prettiest games of the season Charleston defeated Columbus here this afternoon in the opener of the series by the score of 2 to 1. Baker's wildness was responsible for the loss of the game, as he forced in the winning run in the seventh, when he walked three men after giving up a hit. Foster was in prime shape and held the Foxes at his mercy. He fanned nine, Moore's playing at short for the visitors was the feature. Score by innings: R. H. E. INDIANS 2, PEACHES 0

Macon, Ga., May 5.—Bops, Macon's first baseman, was hit on the head in practice today and is seriously hurt. Mann took first, Voss going to right field. Savannah shut out Macon by 2 to 0, winning her tenth straight game, Macon losing her seventh. Poole, the visiting pitcher, though giving up three doubles, two of them to Prysock, held his opponents at his mercy. Moses pitched excellent ball but the luck of the game was against him. NEWMAN 6, LaGrange 2

Newman, Ga., May 5.—(Special.)—Newman defeated LaGrange this afternoon by the score of 6 to 2. It was the opening of the Georgia-Alabama league and a record-breaking crowd of 2,000 fans were in attendance. Local manufacturers and merchants gave their employees a half holiday and the Carrollton band furnished music for the occasion. Mayor T. F. Rawls pitched the first ball, after which Umpire Burke called play. The game abounded in many sensational plays, chief among them being the feat of Hawkins, who struck out three LaGrange men in the ninth inning with the bases full and none out. Manager Lovett, playing left field for Newman, also made a wonderful snatching catch, doubling a runner at second. Summary: Hits, Newman 9, LaGrange 2; batteries, Newman, Lovett, Hawkins and Burden; LaGrange, Nelson and Hudson; struck out by Lovett 3, by Hawkins 4, by Nelson 1, Umpire, Burke. The two teams play again tomorrow.

REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON MADE RALLY AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Market Closed Near the Best of the Day—Spot Was Quiet.

New York, May 5.—Business was comparatively quiet in the cotton market today and fluctuations were more or less irregular, with the close steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 2 3/8 points and the market sold off to a net decline of some 8 to 10 points during the morning.

European political advices were considered rather more reassuring and it was rumored that the shutting down of some of the Fall River mills would be for the purpose of installing new machinery.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to scattering liquidation of the old crops, which supposed to be the result of a few additional notices.

Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands 11.85; do. gulf 12.10; sales 5,300 bales.

Dry Goods.

New York, May 5.—Cotton goods markets were steady, but quiet for the day. The announcement of another large carpet auction to begin Monday, May 12, had a marked effect on the woolen market.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 3 points, on account of the heavy rain in the market and the sentiment in Liverpool being bearish.
