

FIND GUILTY MAN, FRANK'S LAWYER TOLD PINKERTONS

"You Are Employed to Hunt Down Murderer, It Matters Not Who He Is," Luther Rosser Informs Detectives.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE MYSTERY NEXT WEEK

Solicitor Dorsey States That He Wants All the Evidence Ready to Submit to Jurors Before Opening Hearing.

Officials of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, who were brought into the Phagan case through Leo M. rank, recently went to authorities of the Natick and Pencil company, it is stated, and in the presence of Leo M. Frank's counsel, Luther Z. Rosser, said:

"We want to make our position clear. The Pinkertons have been employed to apprehend the murderer of Mary Phagan. That is our intention, and if anybody can find her slayer we can. Shall we continue on the case?"

Mr. Rosser, who has been retained as Frank's attorney since the superintendent was first arrested, spoke up: "Find the murderer of Mary Phagan. Work in co-operation with the police—work with anyone, work any way which might lead you to success. Let your chips fall where they may. You are employed to hunt the murderer until he is found and convicted. It matters not who is guilty."

Five Men on Case.

Five picked men, under command of Assistant Superintendent Harry Scott, are working on the mystery. Scott, through Detective John Black, of headquarters, is working in co-operation with the police.

For several years Attorney Rosser has represented the National Pencil company in civil cases. When Frank, the plant superintendent, was first detained by the police, Mr. Rosser, in capacity of the concern's counsel, was chosen to represent him. It has been reported that the well-known lawyer was retained personally by the suspected man, and was engaged when Frank was first detained.

The prisoner was visited in his cell at the Tower Sunday by Mr. Rosser. They were together only a short while. To a Constitution reporter, Mr. Rosser stated that he had only inquired about Frank's health, and had not discussed the case. Among the large number of visitors in Frank's cell Sunday were several classmates of Cornell, of which college he is a graduate.

The Girl in Red.

The rumor that the "mysterious girl in red," who is said to have appeared in a Marietta grocery store and announced that she had accompanied Mary Phagan to the pencil factory, had again shown up and told of her alleged visit with the victim to the plant. Inspected renewed energy into the widespread search for her.

A squad of detectives and members of the solicitor's staff are scouring the community in and around Smyrna, Marietta, Mapleton and the neighboring section.

Because of their inability to find further clues of the mysterious girl's identity, the sleuths are beginning to doubt her reality, and believe she is a product of some mad brain.

Grand Jury Will Act.

The mystery of Mary Phagan's murder Sunday morning was fourteen days old. No progress was made through-out the day by either the solicitor's staff or the detective department. It remains in precisely the same status as was reported by the Sunday newspapers.

Solicitor Dorsey stated last night, however, that he was undecided as to whether or not he would submit the case to the grand jury when it met next week. It would probably be next week, he said, before such action would be taken. This report will surprise the hundreds of persons who placed credence in the rumor that the Phagan case would go before the jury Monday morning.

Wants Substantial Case.

The solicitor's plan in delaying, he said to a reporter for The Constitution, is to place his case upon a firm foundation before submitting it to the jurors.

He was asked if he did not think that the case against the superintendent and negro watchman, in its present state, was sufficient to merit indictments.

"No, I do not mean that," he answered. "I will not commit myself in that respect. What I do mean, however, is that I desire to consider the case more carefully, sifting out the unimportant and building up the important details so as to expedite the work of the jury."

The efforts of the solicitor on Sunday were confined to examining a num-

ATLANTA TO WIN, DECLARES ADAIR

Yaarab Temple Given Great Reception Upon Arrival in Dallas to Bid for the Next Meeting of Imperial Shrine.

By Fred Houser. Dallas, Tex., May 11.—(Special).—Yaarab temple reached Dallas this morning, and the magnificent body was received with acclamation and escorted to headquarters through streets decorated with shrine colors and lined by cheering crowds.

The campaign to land the next meeting at Atlanta was already under way when the delegation arrived, and the members went into the work of getting support with enthusiasm.

Potestate Forrest Adair said tonight: "There is nothing to it but Atlanta. I have so many assurances of support that it is merely a matter of taking the vote. There is no doubt about the spirit of the nobles, and we are going to win in a walk."

Out of the great number of temples scheduled to attend the convention, there are but a few already here, but all are expected in tonight and tomorrow.

Formal sessions of the gathering will open Tuesday. There is ample hotel accommodations, but every available foot of space will be headed for. Imperial Potestate William J. Cunningham, of Baltimore, expressed the opinion that the gathering will be the most enjoyable and most largely attended in the history of the order.

The convention will be in session for three days.

Infuriated Negroes Attempt to Lynch Young Boy's Slayer

Thwarted by Officers at Scene of Crime, Crowd Tries to Get Prisoner in Front of Tower.

Three members of the county police force, Lieutenant J. M. Carroll and Officers J. W. Williams and L. W. Allen, fought off a mob of 200 negroes, infuriated at the killing of Charlie Simon, a 16-year-old colored boy, when they arrested the slayer, Doc Burnett, another negro, on Marietta road at Fishers avenue at 5:30 o'clock yesterday evening.

The madened blacks declared that it had been a cold-blooded murder, and demanded that the officers turn Burnett over to them, saying that they would "string him up."

The policemen were obliged to draw their revolvers and stand off the mob for nearly half an hour while they waited for a car to bring them to town.

Attacked at the Tower.

When they reached the Tower another attempt was made to take their prisoner away from them. A score of blacks who had rushed to town immediately after the killing, attacked them just as they reached the jail. They did not attempt violence to the officers, merely trying to wrest Burnett away from them.

The police were dispersed only after the leader had been beaten into unconsciousness by the officers.

The killing occurred shortly after 6 o'clock on Marietta road. Burnett declared after he had been captured that the trouble had been caused by an argument over a girl.

Officers Hurry to Scene.

Eye witnesses say that the slayer drew a knife and stabbed Simon in the heart without giving him a chance to put up a fight. The county policemen were nearby when it happened, and hurried to the scene when they saw a crowd congregating. Pushing their way through the throng that had already surrounded Burnett, they caught and handcuffed him.

In a few minutes they were obliged to draw their revolvers to keep back the negroes, who first tried to cajole and then to frighten them into turning their prisoner over to them.

"We're going to get that nigger," declared one, who seemed to be a leader to Lieutenant Carroll, "even if we have to kill you."

The police fought them back, however, and were finally able to get away without even firing a shot. In the meantime headquarters were notified and Acting Chief Leitch ordered an auto full of men to the scene, getting there in 19 minutes. Burnett had already been brought to the Tower, where he is held for murder.

Emory Boys Are Here Today To Gather and to Edit News For Tuesday's Constitution

At last the day has come for the invasion of The Constitution office by a score of Emory college boys who have been studying journalism under Dr. W. F. Melton, and the news of Tuesday morning will be gathered by these embryonic reporters.

Dr. Melton has long had the idea that he would like to give his class newspaperman calls "local color," and cried work of the class room and text book and his first plan was to have lectures given the students by active newspaper men who made a success in the principal cities of the state.

Later he determined to show his class a real newspaper office where they could get some of what the newspapermen call "local color," and find out for themselves how the work is carried on. He took the matter up with The Constitution and was given a cordial invitation to bring the "college men to Atlanta and let

WILSON CIRCLES AROUND CAPITOL IN AUTOMOBILE

Frequent Dashes of the President Have Been Keeping Members of Congress in a Flutter.

WHITE HOUSE KEEPS CLOSE TO CONGRESS

President Even Takes Hand in Organization of the House Committees—The Currency Question Is Considered.

Washington, May 11.—Members of congress were chatting near window of the house lobby the other day, when one of them suddenly exclaimed: "There goes the president; wonder if he's coming in."

Half a dozen representatives, followed by messengers and messengers, rushed toward the windows while several ran to the balcony and watched the president's automobile as it whizzed across the capitol esplanade, passed the east main entrance and disappeared toward the senate wing.

Satisfied that the president was not coming to the house, the members returned to the tariff debate, while messengers hurriedly telephoned to the senate side that the president had just called and might be headed for the senate. Employees and newspaper men in the senate wing then scrambled toward the windows just in time to see the president's car rolling down the hill toward Pennsylvania avenue. He merely had circled the capitol on his afternoon ride.

Wilson's Car in Evidence.

Three times this occurred last week several times the week before, and on every occasion the president's car was noticed and the legislative branch of the government got the bill. One day the president actually did go to the senate, his third visit to the president's room since his inauguration. On this occasion he went to consult with senators about appointments, and several resolutions were sent to the senate before the visit was concluded.

These frequent trips President Wilson makes up Capitol Hill while congress is in session and his visits to the senate to confer will not cause much comment in the future because the president is getting used to Mr. Wilson's habits since he brushed aside the precedents of a century and personally delivered his tariff message in the house. The president's known purpose to keep in active touch with legislative and political affairs, first evidenced when he virtually dictated the free wool and the sugar schedules, was further emphasized last week when he, by personal endeavor, delayed re-organization of the democratic congressional campaign committee and again when he summoned house leaders to talk over the organization of standing committees.

Caused Considerable Comment.

His participation in the congressional committee plans caused considerable comment, it has been pointed out, to reorganize the congressional committee and to elect Representative Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, chairman. Johnson was the candidate championed by the friends of Speaker Clark, and had also spoken by endorsement at the president's request the election did not take place, old officers holding over temporarily until the president could be consulted further.

The president's policy of maintaining close relations with congress will continue this week when he will seek to sound the sentiment of the senate with regard to plans for currency legislation and watch the work of the ways and means committee in reorganizing the house. He has particular interest in the make-up of the banking and currency committee, having conferred with Majority Leader Underwood about it last night. He expects to see Mr. Underwood again before this committee, which Representative Carter Glass is to head, is announced.

It has been made known to the president that many senators and representatives don't wish to pass a currency bill in the special session after the tariff is disposed of. All are willing to have currency reform started, to prepare for hearings and a study of the question that a bill may be ready when congress meets in December. This is Majority Leader Underwood's view and that of many industrial senators.

Currency Question to Fore.

ATLANTIC FLEET AT THE MAINE DEDICATION.

The navy department has ordered the entire Atlantic fleet, with the exception of two battleships, to New York to take part in the dedication of the Maine monument on Memorial day. The fleet will come to New York with a new commander-in-chief, a new fleet flagship and a new fourth division commander. The number of vessels that will steam into the Hudson several days in advance of Memorial day will be about ninety battleships, twenty destroyers and a dozen admiral auxiliaries. The flag of Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, the new commander-in-chief, will fly from the super-Dreadnaught, Wyoming, and the Connecticut, the famous round-the-world flagship, will be seen as the second vessel of the fourth division under command of Rear Admiral Frank B. Beatty, another newcomer among the Atlantic fleet flag officers. The coming battleships also include the Arkansas, Florida, Utah, North Dakota and Delaware, the dreadnaughts South Carolina and Michigan and the first line battleships Vermont, Louisiana, New Hampshire, Virginia, Georgia, Nebraska, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Kansas and Ohio. The Minnesota and Idaho will be missing, being on duty in Mexican waters. The monument will be unveiled with elaborate ceremonies.

STRIKE AT CINCINNATI PROVES TO BE DEADLY

Three Men Fatally Injured in Clash—Street Car System Tied Up.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 11.—One man was probably fatally injured and three others were hurt today when the first clash between the employees of the local traction company and strikers and their sympathizers occurred. When the company attempted to move several cars, a Chicagoan was pulled off his car and injured internally. He is not expected to live. The injuries to the other three, all strike sympathizers, were from thrown missiles and are not serious.

Two other fatal injuries due incidentally to the strike occurred. John Cochran, who attended a meeting of the Coopers' union, which passed resolutions favoring the strikers, fell down a flight of stairs in leaving the hall and broke his neck. William Goode, a negro, was fatally shot by another negro after an argument about the strike.

The strike, which began Friday night, again today completely tied up the street car transportation system of the city. After the futile effort in the morning to move a few cars, the street car company officials confined their activities to securing men for tomorrow when a determined effort, it is said, will be made to resume service.

Two hundred men to be used as motormen and conductors came in this morning and were escorted by police to a street car barn. Some of these volunteered for work immediately and six cars were started. Mobs which had gathered in the streets obstructed the passage of the cars, and it was in one of these clashes that Weber received his injuries.

One of the cars was partially destroyed by fire after being overturned. The others returned to their barns.

PACKAGE OF DIAMONDS SHIPPED FROM MACON IS STOLEN IN TRANSIT

Macon, Ga., May 11.—(Special).—Superintendent Smith, of the Southern Express company and Pinkerton detectives are here today conducting an investigation into the mysterious disappearance of a package shipped by Riebs & Armstrong, a local jewelry firm, to H. W. White & Co., jewelry brokers of New York, containing three large diamonds, the wholesale value of which is estimated at $2,500.

The package is thought to have disappeared at Norfolk, where, it is said, certain irregularities occurred in the handling.

Today a large number of employees of the Southern Express company from various points between here and New York were examined by the detectives. A package resembling the one sent by the local jewelry firm reached the White company in New York but it contained it was one which had been substituted for the one containing the diamonds.

WILSON CALLS ON CALIFORNIA TO DELAY ACTION

Telegram Sent to Gov. Johnson Urging That He Refuse to Sign the Anti-Japanese Measure.

JOHNSON IS INFORMED OF JAPANESE PROTEST

President Tells Governor if Bill Is Vetoed Questions at Issue Can Be Settled by Diplomatic Methods.

Washington, May 11.—The federal government's final effort to delay alien land owning legislation in California was made tonight, when Secretary Bryan, in the name of President Wilson, telegraphed Governor Johnson, notifying him that the Japanese ambassador had earnestly protested against the bill passed by the California assembly, and urging that the governor postpone action by withholding his signature.

The Message to Johnson.

Secretary Bryan's telegram, which was framed after a conference with the president yesterday, was dispatched tonight and made public at the white house a few minutes later. It was as follows:

"The president directs me to express his appreciation of your courtesy in delaying action on the land bill now before you, until its provisions could be communicated to the Japanese government and considered by it.

"His Excellency, Baron Chinda, has on behalf of his government, presented an earnest protest against the measure. As you have before you but two alternatives, viz: to approve or to veto, it will avail nothing to recall the bill from the attention of the legislature; and as the president has already laid before you his views upon the subject, it is unnecessary to reiterate them.

Questions of Treaty Rights.

"He passes over the questions affecting treaty rights for two reasons; first, because the bill passed by the legislature is avowedly intended to conform to treaty obligations, and second, because any conflict complained of would be a matter for the courts, but the president feels justified in expressing again his desire that action on the subject be deferred for this session, and he expresses the desire the more freely, because the legislation can be reconvened at any time if the welfare of the state requires it."

"He is fully alive to the importance of removing any root of discord which may create antagonism between American citizens and the subjects of Oriental nations residing here, but he is impelled by a sense of duty to express the hope that you will see fit to allow time for diplomatic effort. The nation's affected by the proposed law are friendly nations—nations that have shown themselves willing to cooperate in the establishment of harmonious relations between their people and ours."

"If a postponement commends itself to your judgment the president will be pleased to co-operate in a systematic effort to discover and correct any and frequent errors in connection with land ownership by aliens."

Many Conferences Held.

The decision of the administration to urge Governor Johnson to use his power of veto to postpone any land legislation was reached after a series of conferences between the president, Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counselor of the state department, and frequent calls to the department by Ambassador Chinda. It was realized that any further attempt to have the bill enacted by the California legislature amended would be fruitless, since Secretary Bryan's trip to Sacramento was awaiting and the legislature is to adjourn next Tuesday.

Until Governor Johnson's reply is received the government probably will make no reply to the protest of Japan further than to acquaint the ambassador with the fact that every possible effort may exist in connection with action in California delayed, pending a settlement of the problems involved by diplomacy.

Whether or not the governor complies with the administration's request there probably will be important diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Japan immediately. If the land bill is vetoed the president and Secretary Bryan will have to undertake to carry out their promise to accomplish through diplomacy the ends sought by the Californians.

There has been no intimation of what may be expected in the event the governor gives the bill his signature. However, a test in the courts is regarded as a certainty if the law becomes effective, and in spite of the silence at the white house and state department, there is still talk outside of the possibility of employing the referendum as a means for delaying the effectiveness of the proposed law for at least nearly two years.

It has been agreed by the majority leaders in the legislature that a bill introduced by Senator A. Caminetti, providing for a new census of the Japanese population of the state and the collection of certain other statistics concerning resident aliens of that nationality, shall be referred to a committee.

Senator Caminetti's resolution providing for the appointment of a commission of five to present California's case before the president and congress is likewise expected to be referred to a committee.

Gov. Johnson will reply to Washington message Sacramento, Cal., May 11.—Governor Johnson received the communication from Secretary of state Bryan at a few minutes before 10 o'clock tonight, but declined to make any comment upon it other than to say he would formulate his reply as soon as possible.

"Will you telegraph your reply tonight?" he was asked.

"No, not until tomorrow morning at the earliest," replied the governor.

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS TO MEET IN ST. LOUIS

Convention Proposes to Raise Million-Dollar Memorial Fund to Judson.

St. Louis, Mo., May 11.—The Southern Baptist convention, which represents 28,000 churches throughout the southern states and a membership of two and a half million, will meet here next Wednesday and continue in session until the following Monday. Four thousand delegates and visitors are expected.

The principal question to come before the convention is the raising of a million-dollar fund to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of missionary work in India by Adoniram Judson.

Monument to Carl Schurz

The unveiling of the monument in New York erected in honor of Carl Schurz was planned with elaborate ceremonies, including a big parade, consisting mainly of German-American societies, and addresses extolling the many virtues of the famous humanitarian. Joseph H. Choate was chairman of the committee which arranged the unveiling, and Representative Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, was selected as one of the principal orators. The monument was designed by Karl Bitter, a New York sculptor, and was erected by popular subscription. There was interest among German-Americans in the country over in the event.

THE PHAGAN CASE DAY BY DAY

The history of the baffling Phagan mystery, daily recorded, is briefly as follows: Sunday, April 26—Girl's body found in basement of pencil factory. Newt Lee, negro night watchman, who made discovery, arrested. Arthur Mullinax, street car employee, also arrested. Both held on suspicion. Monday—Leo M. Frank, factory superintendent, detained, but later released. J. M. Gantt, former bookkeeper of pencil concern and friend of dead girl, arrested in Marietta. Negro elevator boy also taken into custody. Pinkertons enter case. Tuesday—Bloody shirt found at negro watchman's home. Planted evidence theory advanced. Mary Phagan's body buried. Sleuths announce they have evidence to convict. Frank confers with negro suspect. Wednesday—Inquest begins. Newt Lee testifies. One hundred and fifty pencil factory employees summoned before coroner. George Epps, newsboy, tells of ride to uptown with Mary Phagan on her last trip. Thursday—Frank and Lee ordered to Fulton tower on warrants issued by Coroner Donebo. Trip made without incident. Friday—Both prisoners tell reporter for The Constitution at 1 a. m. that they are not guilty and will prove their innocence. Saturday—Evidence is unearthed that impostors, pretending to be Pinkerton detectives, are questioning leading witnesses. No arrests made. Sunday, May 4—Detectives again announce their belief that they can convict murderer, whoever he is. Monday—Paul P. Bowen, former Atlanta youth, arrested in Houston under suspicion of complicity in slaying. Is released at night. Tuesday—Detectives obtain affidavit from woman who alleges she heard screams from basement of factory building at 4:30 p. m. on Memorial day. Wednesday—Testimony is secured from Monteen Stover that she visited pencil plant at 12:05 noon on Memorial day and that offices were deserted. Thursday—Inquest resumed. Character witnesses are examined. Frank and Lee ordered by jury to be held under suspicion of murder for grand jury investigation. Friday—Mrs. Nancy Caldwell, of 10 Gray street, is examined by detectives under belief that she was the "mysterious girl in red" who was supposed to have visited factory with Mary Phagan. She establishes alibi. Saturday—Three more Pinkerton detectives put to work on investigation. No developments at police headquarters. Solicitor general examines 100 witnesses. Sunday, May 11—Solicitor Dorsey announces that grand jury will probably not take action until early next week.

DELEGATES BEGIN TO ARRIVE TODAY

Hundreds of Presbyterians Reach Atlanta on Monday and Tuesday—Conferences to Precede Opening.

With the opening of the pre-assembly conference only one day ahead, and the great gathering of the Presbyterians of America due to begin next Thursday, the eyes of the nation are turning toward Atlanta—the host on this history-making occasion.

Several dozen prominent Presbyterians will arrive in the city Monday, while hundreds will be here by Tuesday for the pre-assembly conferences which will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday. GREAT MOB HECKLES SUFFRAGE SPEAKERS

The Usual Sunday Riot Caused by the Women in Hyde Park.

London, May 11.—Another suffrage riot took place in Hyde park this afternoon. The Men's League for Women's Suffrage had been given permission to hold a meeting. Several prominent workers addressed a crowd of several thousand from a truck, but the crowd kept up a running fire of interruptions, shouting "go home and make bombs," and remarks about the burning of churches and the attempt to blow up St. Paul's.

After a half hour's endeavor to get a hearing the league gave up and the speakers were about to withdraw when the crowd broke through the police ranks. The wagon was overturned and partly wrecked. The police had difficulty in protecting the speakers and eventually had to escort them to the station for safety.

In the meantime a suffragette planted a flag on the park Lane side of the park where fashionable people promenade and started speaking. Men destroyed the flag and jostled the woman until the police rescued her.

The Rev. Howard J. H. Truscott, vicar of St. Catherine's, at Hatcham, which was destroyed by fire recently, held services in the public hall today and spoke at length regarding the riot.

"There is no use to talk to me about flashes of lightning or gas. Some person did this with malicious intent," he said.

He said that he had received hundreds of letters, some of them from suffragettes, who repudiated such statements.

Another suffragette outrage is reported from Preston, Lancashire, where a man in a motor car, in the fourteenth Earl of Derby, in Miller park, has been covered with liquid tar.

Proof of Incendiarism. Dundee, Scotland, May 11.—An examination of the ruins of Farlington hall, which was destroyed by fire yesterday, has revealed ample proofs of incendiarism. The chief constable of the city has received by mail a copy of the paper. The Suffragette, inscribed "Farlington Hall—a protest against British tyranny. Blame Asquith and company."

The mansion, which was the property of Henry McGrady, a former lord provost of Dundee, will require $100,000 to rebuild.

Dillon's Home is Stoned. Dublin, May 11.—John Dillon, member of parliament for East Mayo, surrounded by a band of suffragettes opposite his mansion home in Dublin, told them he would vote against them every time. Early Sunday morning Mr. Dillon's residence was bombarded with stones. Many windows were smashed.

The women were arrested on the charge of breaking the fan lights on the premises of the United Irish league about the same time.

Public Kept Well Informed. Mr. Dorsey, in surveying the significant evidence now at hand, stated that the public, through the newspapers, had been kept well informed of progress made by the detectives and members of his staff.

"The newspapers," he said, "have kept admirably abreast of our investigations. There is nothing to disclose in the line of new developments."

Harry Scott, in command of the staff of Pinkerton men at work on the case, offered the same opinion as said by the solicitor general.

"The press has informed the public of all the headway made in the Phagan mystery."

BULGARIA AND GREECE ARE AT LOGGERHEADS. London, May 11.—The Turkish delegates arrived in London today for the peace conference.

Dispatches from Sofia indicate that the Greek government is trying to delay the conclusion of peace by refusing to accept the draft of the treaty drawn up by the ambassadorial conference.

The Bulgarian government, however, has notified Greece of its determination to permit no further delay in signing the peace treaty.

Friction between Bulgaria and Greece still menaces the situation. The mixed commission appointed by the two governments to reconcile the rival claims over disputed towns and territories in Macedonia, have failed to reach an agreement.

Two Boys Drowned. Knoxville, Tenn., May 11.—John Ben Rose, aged 11, and Joe Perkins, aged 12, were drowned today in Clear Fork river at Saxton, Ky. A boat containing young Rose and Silar Perkins, aged 14, capsized, Perkins swimming ashore. Joe Perkins hearing his brother's friend, plunged in to save him but could not save him and they sank together. The bodies were recovered. Both of the drowned boys attended the Jacksonville high school and were members of prominent families.

BIEDERWOLF COMING

One of the most famous evangelists of the country, whose union revival services have attracted wide attention. He was in Atlanta with Dr. Chapman at the union revival of several years ago. Dr. Biederwolf is coming to Atlanta for the assemblies and will make an address at the pre-assembly evangelistic conference, which will be held here on May 14, the day before the opening of the assembly.

Dr. Biederwolf will conduct revival services on the steamer on route to Panama after the assembly, and also in the city of Colon in the canal zone.

ONLY A FEW GERMANS AT THE PEACE MEETING

Berne, Switzerland, May 11.—Under the presidency of Baron D'Estournelles de Constant, French and German parliamentarians to the number of 218 met tonight with the object of improving Franco-German relations. A resolution was unanimously adopted repudiating "patriotic excitability" and demanding a decrease of armaments. The resolution continued: "The conference warmly supports the proposal of the American secretary of state, Mr. Bryan, relating to arbitration treaties and demands that disputes between France and Germany shall be submitted to the Hague."

The fact that only thirty-three Germans were present, compared with 185 French deputies and senators, caused comment.

Advertising Drives the Wheels of Trade

but it cannot keep them going unless properly supported. There is a type of man who thinks that when he puts an ad in the paper that is all he should do. He gives it no support. Then he wonders why customers do not crowd his store night and day.

He blames the lack of business on the paper and loses faith in the power of printer's ink. Yet he is at fault. The ad gets the people to his store, but what do they see?

Unkempt windows jammed full of goods so jumbled that the eye has no place to rest. If they enter they find unclean floors, listless and discourteous clerks, errors in change, vexing delays and other disappointments. Naturally they never return.

First impressions count. You must support your advertising. Not only with the goods, but with an inviting store in which can be felt a spirit of service. It must show in the arrangement of your goods, in the faces and clothes of your clerks, in their prompt and courteous attention to customers, and in a dozen other ways.

You may have only a small shop. But you can instill into it a personality that will be magnetic in its effect on all who enter. A spirit that shows from the smallest employee to the most important. Then people will return again and again.

The Constitution is with you in your endeavors to build a bigger business. But you must not put all the burden on your advertising. You must support it to the smallest detail.

FOR THIRD DISTRICT

Savannah Lawyers Insist That New Judge Should Come From That City.

(By John Corrigan, Jr.)
Washington, May 11.—(Special.)—Active steps have been taken by the members of the Georgia congressional delegation following the recent conference with members of the Savannah bar, to secure a third judicial district and another United States district judge for the state.

Representative Adamson, of Georgia, is strongly in favor of having the new district made in southwest Georgia. Several years ago he introduced a bill putting forty counties in that section in a new circuit. The bill was supported by Representatives Griggs and Brantley, but never became a law. President McKinley was favorable to the project and would have signed the bill.

That another judge will not only expedite the handling of business, but create new business, was contended by the Savannah lawyers. In insisting that the new judge should be appointed from Savannah, they said much admirably business now goes to Charleston and New York, which could more easily be handled in Savannah. If there was a federal judge at that port, a suggestion made by representative Hardwick looks to dividing the state into three districts by lines between north and south. This would put Atlanta in the western district, Macon in the central and Savannah in the eastern.

Many expressions from lawyers in all parts of the state have already been received in approval of the change and giving their views of how the division should be made.

Several members of the Georgia delegation have decided to run home for a few days' rest, now that the tariff bill is out of the house. Representative Edwards, of the first, has already gone; Representative Walker, of the eleventh, will leave tomorrow for Valdosta, and Representative Tribble, of the eighth, goes early in the week.

Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, who has been selected by Secretary of State Bryan as arbitrator in the Guayaquil and Quito railroad tangle, is in Washington conferring with Mr. Bryan and Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee. The date of his departure for Ecuador has not yet been settled. He says there is much work to be done here on the case first.

FRENCH AIRMAN FLIES ACROSS THE CHANNEL

London, May 11.—The French aviator, Marcel G. Blandino des Moulins, arrived at Hendon this afternoon after a flight from Bremen. The aviator left Bremen at 8:10 o'clock Friday morning in a monoplane. He made a stop at Brussels and resumed his flight at 10:30 this morning. At Calais he took on a fresh supply of petrol and crossed the channel at great speed and at a high altitude.

Passing Dover and Canterbury he struck the Thames near Gravesend, and followed the river to London. He flew over the city at an altitude of 2,000 feet and arrived at Hendon at 3 p. m.

Flying over London is unlawful, but the aviator apparently was ignorant of this and probably the offense will be overlooked. People in the streets could plainly see the airship overhead. The passage across the channel occupied twenty minutes, which is a new record.

FEDERATION OF ARTS MEETS IN WASHINGTON

Washington, May 11.—The American Federation of Arts will assemble here May 15 and 16 for its fourth annual convention.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, herself an artist, will entertain the delegates at a garden party at the white house on May 16. Both the president and Mrs. Wilson are enthusiastic supporters of the federation.

Leaders in the movement to increase a better knowledge concerning art will take part in the convention. One or more delegates from each of the 179 chapters of the federation are expected to attend. Two of the general topics to be discussed will be art museums and industrial art.

CENTRAL TRAIN WRECK; PASSENGERS UNINJURED

Columbus, Ga., May 11.—(Special.)—The Central of Georgia passenger train due here at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon from Macon, was wrecked three miles east of Columbus while traveling at an average speed. The engine and all of the cars were derailed, but none was turned over. The cause of the derailment has not been ascertained. A few passengers were slightly bruised, but nobody was seriously hurt. Passengers were transferred at that point. The track will be cleared by morning.

ARE TO BE ARBITRATED

United States and Great Britain Will Begin to Clean Diplomatic Slate This Week.

Washington, May 11.—Great Britain and the United States will begin to clean the diplomatic slate Tuesday when the international tribunal for the arbitration of outstanding pecuniary claims between the two nations will hold its first meeting here under the presidency of Henri A. Fromageot, of France.

This tribunal, created by a special agreement negotiated by former Ambassador James Bryce and former Secretary of State P. C. Knox, in 1910, will judicially settle claims of private persons of the two nations, some of them dating back to the war of 1812.

There has been some judicial settlement of any such claim since 1853. The settlement of the large number of accumulated cases will relieve the American state department and the British foreign office of the necessity of presenting the demands which each is constantly being urged to press upon the other in behalf of its nationals. The claims listed for hearing at the opening session of the tribunal are chiefly those in favor of, or against, Canada. They relate to seizure of American fishing vessels and Canadian sealers, collisions, contracts in the Yukon territory, South Africa and India, and other subjects.

The tribunal consists of, besides President Fromageot, the two national arbitrators, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, chief justice of Canada, and Chandler P. Anderson, formerly counselor of the department of state. The two governments are represented by C. J. E. Hurst, agent for Great Britain, and Robert Lansing, agent for the United States. The claims will be argued on behalf of the United States by J. Reuben Clark, Jr., former solicitor of the state department; Arthur P. McKinstry, H. H. D. Pierce and Charles F. Wilson, and on behalf of Great Britain by E. L. Newcomb, Canadian deputy minister of justice, and other British counsel. The joint secretary of the tribunal are Robert A. Young, for the United States, and A. C. Kerr, of the British embassy.

By the special agreement of 1910 which created the tribunal, all claims to be heard must be included in schedules to which both governments consent. In this, it differs from the customary agreement as to the arbitration of claims, which permits any outstanding claim to be submitted to the arbitrators. In June 1911, the two governments agreed upon a first schedule, containing some three hundred claims. But in addition to those in the first schedule there are a large number of other claims which each government desires to have settled so that negotiations are in progress for a second schedule. If no agreement on this can be reached there will be practically no outstanding claims between the two governments and a constant source of diplomatic friction and annoyance will finally be removed. The American claims aggregate $4,330,000; the British, $2,968,000.

AMERICAN DELEGATES GREETED BY ROYALTY

Rome, May 11.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena are taking a keen interest in the visit of the American commission which is to study in Rome and other European capitals the question of agricultural co-operation and farmers' credits. The sovereigns and many members of the diplomatic corps went to the International Institute of Agriculture today to meet the American delegates who had just arrived from Naples.

Marquis Raffaele Cappelli, president of the institute, in an address, said that one of the most significant results achieved by the institute was the sending of an official commission from the United States to Rome.

After the minister of agriculture, Signor Nitti, had welcomed the delegates, Representative E. W. Ross, chairman of the commission, said: "We have come from the new world to the old world in search of useful information. Our nation is paying the tribute of respect which youth with respect properly can always accord to age.

"Even in our distant country we have heard of your majesty's deep and abiding interest in agriculture and in the International Institute of Agriculture, made possible by your generosity. Therefore, it seems fitting that this commission should begin its official labor here during the session of the institute.

Joseph N. Francolini, of New York, who was presented to the king as "one of Italy's sons adopted by America," handed to his majesty a set of resolutions which the American commission had prepared. All the delegates and the ladies of the party were presented to the sovereigns.

RISING TEMPERATURES FOR PRESENT WEEK

Washington, May 11.—Unseasonably high temperatures are not expected to prevail during the coming week over any portion of the country, according to the weekly weather bureau bulletin issued today. "The temperature will rise on Monday, however," the bulletin said, "over the eastern half of the country and also on Tuesday from the lake region and Ohio valley eastward, but probably not generally above normal conditions. In the plateau region and the extreme northwest it will be cooler by Monday night, with frost in the latter section and by the middle of the week start will be cooler in the plains states, the upper Mississippi valley and the upper lake region. In the south normal temperatures will prevail.

"No precipitation of consequence is indicated over the eastern portion of the country. Showers will occur early in the week over the northwest and central west and probably by the middle of the week in the central valley and the greater portion of the lake region, followed by generally fair weather during the second half of the week. In the South Atlantic and east gulf states there will be local thunderstorms during the first half of the week, followed by generally fair weather during the latter part. In the west gulf states generally fair weather is indicated."

TWO BIRDMEN TO FLY KEY WEST TO HAVANA

Key West, Fla., May 11.—Augustine Paria, the aviator, will enter the contest for the $10,000 prize offered by the city of Havana, Cuba, for the first successful flight from Key West to that place. Paria will fly in a biplane, which is already here. Domingo Rosillo, the other contestant, expects to have his machine repaired tomorrow, and both aviators will probably attempt the flight Tuesday. There is a second prize of $5,000.

One Hundred of the Charmingest of Silk Dresses in a Sale

The greater part of them are just out of their boxes, as fresh and bright and attractive in as many different ways as there are dresses.

They come from a maker who has a right to be proud of his work—his styles seem to have more and smarter little individual touches than the usual—and without any added premiums to his prices.

But the prices—these are—

$21.75, $25 and $29.75 Dresses
At $13.85

And dresses this maker intends for selling at $21.75, $25 and $29.75 leave little to be wanted!

Too many styles to start describing any one or few—but know that you may choose from crepe mefeor, crepe de chine, charmeuse, foulard, poplin (silk) and you may have any color you may like—navy, Copenhagen, wistaria, rose, Nell rose, gray, tan and black.

There are styles you will like for mornings, for street, for little afternoon affair.

And we warrant you will change your opinion as to how pretty a dress can be bought for $13.85.

In the Hey-Day of Their Popularity A Sale of Crepe de Chine and Shadow Lace Waists

No need of telling women how good White Crepe de Chine Waists and Shadow Lace Waists are right now.

They who have searched for them know that they are good, and in most stores scarce.

Our waist buyer is just back from New York where he captured a most likable lot of these—and at a price.

The selling begins this morning!

Some of the styles you have seen here before and have chosen very eagerly at regular prices now!

$5.75 to $6.50 Crepe de Chine Waists $6.50 Shadow Lace Waists
At $4.75 At $4.95

Take time, please, to feel and judge the quality of the Crepe de Chine.

That weight and that softness are a guarantee that it is all pure silk, the kind that washes without hurt.

There are possibly a dozen styles! All white—often touched with a colored bow or a colored head worked around the edges of the collar and cuffs.

Some show embroidered collars, pocket and front panel. The picturesque Byron collar is prominent—the low turn-back collar—these usually on the rather plain shirt.

Among them certainly a style you will like.

Allover Cream Shadow Lace.

One particularly attractive model has a wide band, some 4 inches wide, of colored chiffon just above the waist line, that is veiled and softened by the shadow lace; the chiffon also shows in little bows on the sleeve and at the neck. It may be rose, pink or shades of blue. Another dainty model is very frilly and lacy. The low surplice neck is frilled, the sleeves are frilled. It has rows of tucks down the front.

Odd that such waists should be so underpriced right now.

Those most eager to own them should be here soon after store-opening time.

Sheer and Exquisite Dress Fabrics—Priced

These are the fabrics that women want for their summer dresses—for street, for afternoon, for evening wear.

There are voiles so light and airy that it hardly seems possible that they were woven, and yet across these surfaces are dots and spots and great colorful floral patterns.

You will exclaim over them! And here they are in a sale!

Priced at the very time their appeal is strongest—priced very vigorously.

If there is any way of judging what will attract eager buyers, we record the prediction that there will be a crowd for these!

- At 49c French Crepes that were 75c and $1.00 a yard. A fabric in high favor, 32 inches wide. White ground with dots over it in colors—many colors.
- At 49c French Piques that were 60c and 85c a yard. 32 inches wide. Plain white and with embroidered dots. Splendid for dresses and skirts.
- At 59c French Voiles that were 85c a yard. 48 inches wide. White with a border made up of silk stripes in blue, lavender and pink.
- At 89c French Voiles and Crepes that were $1.50 a yard. 38 and 40 inches wide. White, blue, lavender and black grounds embroidered with colored dots.
- At 89c Voiles that were $1.50 a yard. Among these are white voiles, 45 inches wide, showing a border of embroidered designs in colors, and 40-inch voiles, as dainty as can be, in lavender, pink and light blue, embroidered over in self-colored dots.
- At 98c Voiles that were $1.50, $2.00, $2.25 and $2.50 a yard. There will be many dresses chosen from among these. The pricing is remarkable, the variety is great—checked voiles, striped voiles in black and white, great floral patterns in rich colors on white grounds—and with these an odd few French crepes that, too, were priced from $1.50 to $2.50 a yard. All 38 inches wide.

Quick Thinking Wins

Is your thinker fed right for prompt action?

At a dinner not long ago Thomas W. Lawson was talking on the subject of success. "Success in finance," said Mr. Lawson, "is due in a great measure to prompt action. The doubting, hesitating, Hamlet type of man had best keep out of finance. He is quite sure to be swamped."

It doesn't matter much whether it's finance, a baseball game, or winning promotion;

Keen Brains Count

Keep on with your "bacon and soggy pancake breakfast" if you choose, and stay in the Hamlet class, but if you really want to get ahead, just begin to live right.

A good start is to cut out the heavy, indigestible breakfast and have a dish of

Grape-Nuts

and Cream

Analysis shows that Albumen, Water and Phosphate of Potash are the three principal essentials for building up one's thinking outfit—the Brain. You get the first two in everyday food, but the third, the vital organic Phosphate of Potash, is often lacking.

Grape-Nuts Food made of whole wheat and malted barley is rich in this vital, brain-building element.

A good, healthy working brain can be built up on right food. That's why Tens of Thousands of get-ahead Americans eat their regular morning dish of this distinctively American food.

WHITEHALL STREET.

The proposal to remove the "hump," fill the hollow, and to make other radical changes in the profile of Whitehall street, contemplates undoubtedly the farthest-reaching city improvement ever inaugurated on the southern side of Atlanta.

Few thoroughfares in the city, in the south, for that matter, are so uniquely adapted as is Whitehall to the creation of a great commercial district. It possesses the first requisite in its direct access to the heart of the city.

As the matter now stands, this phase of the street's development is arrested by almost prohibitive grades and contours for much of its length. These obstacles can be removed by the proposed change of grade.

A HISTORIC REMINDER.

Historic light is shed on California's revival of the issue of state rights by Captain John A. Cobb, a Confederate veteran and ordinary of Sumter county and son of Howell Cobb, the great Georgian who figured so decisively in those events of the sixties.

It is interesting to watch the turn of the wheel of time. Fifty years ago California's attitude on the race question was far different from its position of today.

Howell Cobb would characterize this ironic inconsistency were he today alive, and how he would view an attempt to revive the adjudicated issue of state rights to the embarrassment of the entire nation.

TAG DAY.

Surrender quickly and generously today to the attacks of the taggers. They will be abroad through the city as the representatives of the Sheltering Arms, one of the worthiest and most practical philanthropies of the city.

Only once a year does the Sheltering Arms make an appeal to the people of Atlanta and then through the medium of the tags. From the proceeds of sales they depend on upkeep for the year, supplementing sums from this source with money they raise from private sources.

The sum you invest today for one of the little tags is money well spent. The expansion of the institution's activity in response to the city's growth makes liberal contributions imperative.

FOR INDUSTRIAL ATLANTA.

Among the most important movements yet made toward the development of Atlanta is contained in the report of a committee of the chamber of commerce looking toward the establishment of an industrial bureau by that organization.

One of the causes of lost motion in the progress of the city has heretofore been the absence of a bureau of this nature. The city has attracted a great many manufacturing enterprises, it is true, but those in a position to know are convinced that it has also overlooked a great many opportunities because it was not equipped to go out after them in a scientific manner.

Atlanta should be the leading manufacturing city of the south and one of the foremost ones in the nation. We have here, without an exception, all the qualities required by a great manufacturing center. Our location is unsurpassed.

The fortunes and the cities that will, tomorrow, make the south internationally notable will both find their growths in the expansion of manufacturing. Agriculture in its scientific and intensified phases will of course be an important factor, but manufacturing industries will be the determining factor in greatness, considered from the standpoint of volume of export trade.

CONGOS—HOME AND ABROAD.

The general mission board of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in session at Dallas, has just decided to send three missionaries to the Congo, in Africa.

The enterprise is an excellent one. Revelations of conditions in the Congo, following exposure of the atrocities practiced under Leopold of Belgium, indicate an appealing field for missionary labor.

But—what about the Congos of the southern states? We make the statement advisedly—there are conditions more appalling, need more clamorous in the Congos of the south than in Africa's darkest Congo. It is needless to tear one's self from home and people or to go into voluntary exile in a distant land to reach our own Congos.

A Hot Mouthful.

W. A. Brooks, who resides above Monroe some 5 or 6 miles, was on last Thursday, the victim of an unusual and very painful accident. He was endeavoring to give some bees, two swarms, that had settled on his premises, and while so engaged, he was making the attempt to sweep them into the hive, he happened to cough, and as he did so, a bee went down his throat stinging him severely as he passed down, and for some time he was in most excruciating pain.

Moral—Have Something to Sell.

A farmer living in Franklin county brought eight chickens to Lavonia last Saturday morning. They were not as big as your fat and he carried back $7.50 for them, and they were sold for eating purposes. This high cost of living is helping some folks. It is mighty good on the fellow that has something to sell, but woe unto the fellow who buys.

When Some People Sing Best.

Next Sunday is the singing convention. This occasion used to be one of pleasure and interest, but it has become such a gala day for those who indulge in it that the interest is considerably retarded.

A Pessimist.

The supply stores are selling more feed stuff to farmers this year than they have ever sold before. This is to be regretted, but it is not likely any change will be made in our methods of farming with high-priced cotton. Times are already hard, but we might as well look for worse.

An Expert Opinion.

Many a poor devil poured his money into the hands of the music festival association of Atlanta to be dished out to those dagoes, when, in fact, the music he heard at the opera was to him no more elevating than the baying of just so many lack asses.

Riding a Hobby.

"I'm afraid the new grocer, Mr. Singletree, isn't doing much business," remarked the school superintendent. "It's rather surprising too, for he appears to be an agreeable man, and he certainly has a fine store."

"The new grocer is a fine man, without a doubt," agreed the village patriarch, "and he's probably loaded down with redeeming qualities, but he is more or less dippy on the subject of horse racing. He knows the record of every palfrey that ever trotted, loped or paced a mile in less than a quarter of an hour, and he wants to talk about such things all the time. The people who are interested in racehorses are comparatively few, and such people go to a livery stable when they want to hold a conference. This Mr. Singletree uses no discretion. He doesn't select his victims with propriety. He talks racehorses to the preacher, to the mother of a family, to babes and sucklings, to everybody who enters his store. People who buy groceries are easily bored, and always are looking for excuses to transfer their trade to some other store, so the grocer who has such a foolish hobby can't expect to hold them."

"The man who is in business can't afford to have a hobby, however innocent it may be. He may have deep seated convictions touching the groundhog or the signs of the zodiac, but if he is wise he will keep them in his bosom and let his maker practice on them. He will wear his customers and probably make them sore, so they'll quit patronizing him, and refuse to pay their bills. A grocer has firm faith in the groundhog as a weather prophet, let us say. He broods over the matter until he comes to the conclusion that the groundhog is the only issue of any consequence in this country. He wants to do missionary work, and he talks groundhog to everybody who enters his store. His customers naturally come to the conclusion that he should be in the violent ward at booby headquarters, the groundhog doesn't appeal to them. The few who are interested in the groundhog hold opposite views and they get mad at the intimated grocer for championing the beast. So the unfortunate merchant finds himself shunned by all his fellow citizens and finally the sheriff closes his store and he goes to the woods and crawls into a groundhog's hole and dies."

"When I was first in the feed business I was young and giddy and deeply interested in politics. I felt sure that the grand old party of Rutherford B. Hayes and Charles J. Guiteau was the only hope of the country, and I never missed an opportunity to explain my views. When I bought the store I fell heir to a big trade, and soon I found I was losing the best part of it. So I went into executive session and concluded that I had the disease which afflicted the historic parrot—I talked too much. I had offended several grand old wheelhorses of the democratic party who always paid cash for the hay and shorts, by welding my jaw too violently. I had offended several wealthy republicans also, because my views were too radical. I had offended an opulent widow who had always patronized the store, by pointing the finger of scorn at Boiva Lockwood, who was then a living issue. I had caused general discontent and nearly ruined my business by riding a political hobby when I should have been explaining the charms and graces of my bale of corn."

"So I rebuked myself with great bitterness and decided to turn over a new leaf. From that day forth I had no political views for public display. I made it a point to agree with every man who came into the store talking politics, instead of arguing with him. I admitted that the country should have a high protective tariff, and that it should have no tariff at all; I agreed with one customer that women should have the right to vote, and with another that they should not. I endorsed the theories of the few greenbackers in town, and said nothing things to the chairman of the prohibition central committee, and applauded the logic of both democratic and republican wheelhorses."

"As a consequence of this wise and conservative policy, I soon had back all the trade I had lost, and many new customers, and in a few years I controlled the feed business of the town. And now, Mr. Storekeeper, let us have the checkerboard."

ALONE.

Learn to Be Alone. To be Healthily Alone is to be Morally safe. In such solitude are the Ideas of Centuries hatched. Big minds Think, Decide, Stand—conquer, while Alone. They self-examine and self-construct.

Learn to Think Alone. Lined up Alone with his pine knots and borrowed books, Hiram was Alone with his meat garret and pen; Cromwell was Alone at St. Ives behind his plow handle. Wherever great problems or vital decisions have had to be met, men have calmly withdrawn that they might the better weigh everything.

Learn to Decide Alone. Emerson says—"Trust thyself: every heart vibrates to that iron string." Can a man trust himself away from himself? Where the Man Was Greater Than the Office.

By E. J. Edwards. (Copyright, 1913, for "The Constitution.") The late Nehemiah D. Sperry, who represented the New Haven, Conn., district in the house of representatives at Washington for five terms, ending in 1895, and who was the father of the house in the last two terms, was esteemed the most ardent politician in the state of Connecticut, from the time, as a young man, just before the civil war, he was elected secretary of state, until his retirement from public life in 1895.

He was, always spoken of, even by his most earnest political opponents, as a man of personal integrity and also as a politician, a perfectly fair fighter. He never struck below the belt, nor would he ever countenance corruption. He made many warm personal friendships among members of the democratic party, and this explains the reason why in five successive campaigns for election to congress he carried the New Haven district, which was normally democratic, by very large majorities.

I was chatting with Mr. Sperry a few weeks before the presidential campaign of 1884, a canvass in which he was extremely interested. Something in the course of our conversation brought up the name of James B. English.

"I never think of Governor English," said Mr. Sperry, "without recalling the real personal sadness I felt in 1871 because, by reason of what I did, he was deprived of reelection as governor of Connecticut."

"This sadness was due wholly to my profound admiration of the noble and honorable manner in which Governor English had acted at the time of this contested election. English had already served as governor, having defeated Joseph R. Hawley in 1867. Earlier he was a member of congress in the New Haven district. He was a staunch democrat and knew why he was a democrat, yet he voted for the legislation by congress which exterminated slavery in the District of Columbia. I remember that at the time of the assassination of President Lincoln English presided at a mass meeting at New Haven and was so visibly affected that the tears ran down his cheeks and he completely broke down as he tried to address the meeting."

"He was some years afterward a member of the United States senate for a brief term. The result of the gubernatorial election of 1871 was very close. On the face of the returns English was elected by a plurality of less than a hundred. When the legislature met strongly supported charges of fraud in the fourth ward of New Haven were made. Governor English at once stated that he could not take the oath of office or enter upon his duties until it was made clear that he was lawfully entitled to every vote reported in the official count. That in itself was an act showing nobility of character. I felt at the time that my state would be honored if a man of Governor English's character were found to have been lawfully chosen governor, although we differed strongly upon political questions. I had several conversations with Governor English, and I told him that there were the best of reasons for believing that something like 200 votes in the fourth ward of New Haven were counted for him when they were really cast for Marshall Jewell."

"Governor English instantly said that he would advise his democratic friends to unite with the republicans in making a thorough investigation of these charges. I told him that I believed the only way in which facts could be easily established would be by summoning every person who voted in the fourth ward and getting in that way a statement under oath of how each vote voted. Governor English agreed with me. He offered to give me every assistance needed to reach all the voters, some of whom had gone away from New Haven shortly after the election. He said that he would not enter upon the office of governor unless his title to it were established beyond any doubt. We did summon every man who voted in the fourth ward. We got his testimony under oath. The result showed that fraud had been committed. With the vote of the fourth ward properly counted, Marshall Jewell received a plurality of a little less than a hundred. Governor English said to me afterward that it was of more consequence a thousand times over that right should prevail than that he should serve as governor or that his party should be triumphant. "I had a prominent part in the investigation proceedings, and it was with real sorrow that I found it necessary to say to Governor English, 'You are less than a hundred votes short for Marshall Jewell.' My sorrow was occasioned by my admiration for the spirit with which Governor English faced this crisis."

WASTE.

By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At God Old Stewak". (Copyright, 1913, for "The Constitution.") Waste is a surplus of anything which can't be used profitably. The world is full of waste in many forms. Waste money is one of our most serious troubles. After a man has spent all the money he can sensibly and still has more, he often pours it down his throat to get rid of it, with terrible results. Food is so plentiful in the United States that we are very wasteful in its use. After an American family has finished a dinner, a French family can live high off the remains. The garbage barrel is the best fed institution in the country. Time is scandalously wasted. Many a man wastes so much time in business that he hasn't any left in which to make himself worth talking to or to insure his being buried with regret. Government is full of waste. Our cities usually elect two or three aldermen with brains and a lot more for which it cannot find the slightest use. However, no city is wasted by its aldermen. They get everything they can out of it.

Religion is extremely wasteful. Many a small town supports five ministers' families on hope and potatoes and keeps up five churches with five bells, whereas one bell would make enough disturbance to call the people to one church, which could be presided over by one minister with a well-fed appearance and no doubts.

There is an appalling waste of conversation in the world. Three-quarters of the conversation about the abolition and the output of thought would still be the same if the man who wastes a half hour each for 1,000 American citizens by leading up a few burning thoughts with frayed adjectives, brains and a lot more for which it cannot find the slightest use. However, no city is wasted by its aldermen. They get everything they can out of it.

MYSTERIES OF ROYALTY.

WHERE WAS ANNE BOLEYNE BURIED? This question has brought out no end of argument for several centuries in England. Everyone is familiar with the picturesque scenes in the tower when Henry VIII executed his second wife. How the queen nerved herself to go through the awful scene, "had the queen looked so beautiful before." She was attended by four maids of honor, including Mary Wyatt. One of her ladies covered her eyes with a handkerchief, and without more to say or do, was her head struck off; she making no confession of her fault, but saying, "O, Lord God, have pity on my soul!"

The mangled remains of the hapless Anne, having been covered with a sheet by the attendant ladies, were placed by them in an elm chest, which had been used for storing arrows; they were conveyed to the church within the Tower, and hastily buried within the trench beside the coffins of her brother and friends. No funeral rites were performed over the grave, except doubtless, a hurried prayer whispered by the trembling lips of gentle Mary Wyatt.

During the following night, according to a tradition now for three centuries uncontradicted, the old elm chest was secretly conveyed to Salle church, in Norfolk, where it was committed to consecrated ground. A marble slab, devoid of inscription or date, is pointed out to this day as the funeral monument of Anne Boleyn.

Are these facts true, and do the remains of Anne Boleyn rest in Salle church, the ancient burial place of the Boleyns? The black marble slab underneath which the body is supposed to be buried, is nearly opposite to the pulpit. Some years ago, it is said, the slab was removed, and the grave examined, but nothing could be discovered of the body of the queen, but instead, a skeleton was found with the head, attached to the corpse. Agnes Strickland, author of the famous book, "The Queens of England," mentions that there exists another tradition which points out the resting place of the queen's remains to be in the ancient church of Thorndon, on the hill in Essex, and that in this church a marble monument is pointed out by the village antiquaries as the veritable monument kindly sent her by Lady Petre, who remarks: "That the monument has rather the appearance of a shrine which has been broken open. It may have contained her heart or her head, for it is too short to contain a body; and, indeed, it seems to be of an older date than the sixteenth century. The oldest people in the neighborhood all declare that they have never examined it, their youth from a previous generation of aged people, who all affirm it to be Anne Boleyn's monument."

Lord Herbert of Cheshbury, in his "History of King Henry VIII," does not state how or where Anne Boleyn was buried. Hollingshead, Stow and Speed, as well as other historians, say that her body, with the head, was buried in the choir of the chapel in the Tower, and Sanford, that she was buried in the chapel of St. Peter in the Tower. Another historian, writing several centuries after her death, says "But the headless remains of the departed queen were made to deposit in an arrow chest and buried in the Tower chapel before the high altar. Where that stood the most sagacious antiquary, after a lapse of less than three hundred years, cannot now determine; nor in the circumstances, though related by eminent writers, clearly certain. In a cellar the body of a person of short stature, without a head, not many years since was found, and supposed to be the remains of poor Anne, but soon after reinterred in the same place and covered with earth."

It would appear, therefore, that the ill-fated queen was first buried at some place in the Tower, but that her remains did not rest there for any great period. The following passage would hardly have been written by the poet Wyatt, in his pathetic account of the queen's death, had not her remains been honored by other ceremonies than those which immediately followed her execution: "God," he says, "provided for her corpse's sacred burial, even in a place, as it were, consecrated to innocence." But where that place was found no one seems to know.

STATE RIGHTS EXPOUNDED BY HOWELL COBB'S SON.

An interesting contribution to the California-Japan controversy is that of Captain John A. Cobb, of America, a confederate veteran and son of Howell Cobb, the great Georgian, who was one of the staunchest advocates of state rights when that issue provoked the civil war. Captain Cobb publishes an article in a recent edition of "The American Times-Recorder," in which he declares that Appomattox settled permanently the power of state over nation, and in which by inference he rebukes California. Part of the Nation. Captain Cobb's article is, in part, as follows: "We of the south treasure in our hearts the proud memories of the past, but have fully realized that forty-eight years ago, when we again became an integral part of the American union—not by choice, but as the result of an armed conflict with the general government, what our condition was, and we have stood by our parole, granted to us, and have true and loyal citizens to our great government. We are proud of it, and it gives us the right at this time to say to our brothers of the north, 'Tally, boys, this—this is the result of the union!'"

ALLEGED ASSAILANT CAUGHT IN LAURENS

Mobs Chased Negro Reported to Have Attempted to Assault a White Woman.

Dublin, Ga., May 11.—(Special.)—Reports of an attempted assault on a white woman by a negro named Delaware Powell in Wheeler county Saturday night reached here today, and it was also reported that the negro had been lynched. This latter report is untrue, as the negro was put in jail by Sheriff Nat Miller, where he was this afternoon. It is now claimed by the sheriff that there is very little in the charge, and that it may prove to be nothing after all.

Powell is said to have committed the crime during Saturday afternoon, and upon after the alarm had been given by the sheriff gave chase, using the bloodhounds of Wheeler county and becoming those of Laurens county. The negro was run several miles, and finally crossed the line into Laurens county and was captured in a negro house, in what is known as Jordan's quarter. The entire country was filled with men searching for the negro, and the hunt was swift and fierce from the first.

Several persons went down from Dublin, including City Court Sheriff D. M. Grier. In the confusion of the telephone message received from here the impression was given that relatives of Mr. Grier were concerned in the trouble, and this caused him and several others to go to the scene at once. However, this proved to be untrue, and none of his family was connected with the trouble in any way.

DR. PROCTOR PREACHES SERMON ON "MOTHER"

"Mother the Uncrowned Queen of the World; the Home Her Throne, the World her Realm, her Children her Jewels," was the subject of the "Mother's Day" sermon by Rev. H. H. Proctor at the First Congregational church, colored, last night.

After discussing this subject in its various phases, Dr. Proctor concluded his discourse by giving his subject a practical application, as follows: "Whether your mother be with you still or gone on before, you can honor her by cultivating the mother spirit toward all woman-kind. Throughout our land today there is a great revival of the mother spirit. Men and women are devising plans to protect the working girl. When Ruth went to glean in the fields of Bethlehem it was the hour of her peril. Boaz played the hero, and bade her stay close by his maidens. The safety of the working girl today lies in having a cordon of good women thrown around her. On you hill they are opening a home for the protection of the white working girl. That is good, and I am glad that many of this church you have opened a home for the protection of the colored working girl, where for fifteen cents a day you give her all the facilities of a modern home."

LEANDER B. HUTCHESON DIES FROM APOPLEXY

Following an attack of apoplexy which occurred three days ago, Leander B. Hutcheson, aged 67, of 145 Summit avenue, died last night at a local hospital where he had been taken in the hope of saving his life.

Mr. Hutcheson's body was taken to Greenberg & Bond's chapel and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

During the many years of his life in Atlanta, Mr. Hutcheson, who was a prominent Old Fellow, had made hundreds of friends here, to whom news of his death will come as a decided shock.

He is survived by his wife and the following children: Fred H. and Carl Hutcheson, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Thomas Beck, of Chattanooga.

GIDEONS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CAMP IN ATHENS

Local members of the Gideons, or Christian commercial travelers, are enthusiastic today over the organization in Athens Sunday of a camp of Gideons with twelve charter members.

The newly organized camp chose as its principal officers, F. C. Thornton, president; Sam H. Woods, secretary; H. J. Hancock, treasurer, and G. W. Burgey, chaplain. The men who went from Atlanta to form the new camp are A. F. Todd, trustee; C. W. Hatcher, chairman of the trustees, and C. H. Burge, president of the Atlanta camp.

White Flowers in Buttonholes Show Atlanta's Love for Mother

Among the crowds that strolled down-town Sunday morning was a man who came out of a hotel entrance, quick steps and a certain manner of energy bespoke his ability and success, but despite his prosperous appearance there was something harsh in his expression. Life with him had degenerated into a scramble for the almighty dollar. Someone brushed against him as his feet touched the sidewalk, and reaction showed plainly on his features. He looked back to give the other fellow a frown, and caught a glimpse of a white flower.

His forehead wrinkled for a moment, and he dug back in his brain a subconscious thought was striving to reach the outer surface. Then it came. "Mother's Day," he exclaimed.

Words Have Magic Effect.

Hismanner of saying the words could only be called an exclamation, but in the old days was something tender, something almost holy, and they seemed to work a magic charm on his features.

The hard lines melted away as though his mother's hand had smoothed away the pain as he used to do when as a lad some petty trouble seemed big enough to break his heart. Back to boyhood days his thoughts flew. But this time there were no memories of a little maid in calico dress, no recollections of days when he and the fellows stole off from school and went headlong into the old drinking hole.

It was just the picture of a tender face he seemed to conjure up with the words, "Mother's Day." The face was wrinkled and bore lines of suffering and of trouble, but around it there was a halo of dark hair, just turning gray around the edges, and from the eyes that lighted up the countenance something seemed to leap forth to him and warm his hardened heart and melt away the lines of toil and perhaps disapproval.

Those mother's eyes, as reflected in the man's face, could only have been painted by some Raphael and then with divine guidance. A wonderful love shone in the man's eyes, and it was but a reflection of the most wonderful thing in the world—the mother's love that had sprung into life when he was merely a little tot, just opening his

DR. BELK PREACHES TO NORMAL STUDENTS

Dr. S. R. Belk, of Park Street Methodist church, south, preached a strong and pointed sermon to the faculty, students and friends of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute in the Cosmopolitan A. M. E. church, corner Vine and Foundry streets, yesterday afternoon.

His subject was "Godliness with Contentment is Great Gain." The speaker, addressed with a large and intelligent audience to first lay a foundation of permanence which, he claimed, had not been successfully done if the world's history is to be believed, with God left out. Said he: "Money is not the greatest thing in the world, but character and a definite and an honest purpose that meant to be useful in the uplift of humanity and making the world better for having come into it."

He laid down three propositions: honesty of purpose; keeping one's self pure; and doing one's duty—three essentials that would bring life to a safe and happy end. Representatives from the different negro colleges, public schools, and leading churches were present.

From the "amens" from different parts of the house, Dr. Belk moved his big audience to tears. Rev. S. B. Sims, pastor, and S. F. Andrews, of St. Paul, were loud in their praise of the sermon, and took part in the service. Principal Stinson said the school would hold its closing exercises at the same place Friday night. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, North Avenue Presbyterian church, delivers the annual address.

Imports Are Heavy.

Washington, May 11.—Imports of manufacturers' materials this year into the United States will exceed those of any previous fiscal year, if the figures of the first nine months, ending March 31, can be taken as a criterion. Statistics by the department of commerce show that eight of the ten important articles forming the bulk of such imports are in excess of previous high water marks.

COTTON CROP FACING CRITICAL SITUATION

Dry Weather and Cool Nights Do Damage—Much Replanting Is Necessary.

New Orleans, La., May 11.—The interest of the cotton trade this week will probably be the most widely centered on the new crop situation. The old crop did not attract much attention last week, and it promises to attract less this week. Old crop holdings are gradually being liquidated and transferred to the new crop months, and from now on October and December promise to become more active than July.

The new crop is in a more or less critical condition because of the drouthy conditions in the eastern belt and the continued low night temperatures. Probably this latter feature is of more importance than the first, although market writers are giving it less prominence. If temperatures do not warm up this week and if rains do not fall in the Atlantic the bulls will be given a decided advantage. Already much replanting has been necessary, some growers are even the third replanting, and continued unfavorable conditions will have a tendency to increase the necessity of it. This may lead to some abandonment of the crop, and it would mean a late start for a part of the crop which, in some measure, would offset the large area originally broken for cotton this year. Principally it will be the smaller growers who are likely to be affected. The increased exports of late have been surprising to nearly every one, but there have been few signs of a good forward business in the spot department. How spinners are going to meet a late start for a part of the crop which all traders are anxious to solve. Any signs that exporters are selling spinners cotton for fall and winter delivery will probably be the signal for bull activity in futures this week, while continued holding off will encourage the short side.

All Honor Mother.

He was gone! no one knew where and few thought about him again, for it chanced that he was a stranger here, a traveling man spending Sunday in a hotel. But to those who watched him unconsciously show his tender flood of thoughts at the sight of the white flower on another stranger's coat, there came back something of the sweet and good mother who re-hearts the world over and not a man who saw but took on a kindlier and tenderer look.

So it was wherever men and women gathered on Sunday the day was spent in honor to the mother living and to pay respects to the mother departed. The grinding rush of business that seems to wear of the finer susceptibilities, and the fierce heat of competition that appears to melt the softer forces of nature, were forgotten and all Atlanta took on something of the tenderness and reverent thoughts of the day when the children bow on their lips bespoken gentle words to come from their mouths and kind deeds from their actions.

The day sacred to mother, the sweetest on earth, was generally observed in Atlanta Sunday. Pastors spoke of it in their pulpits and took occasion to dwell on the sacredness of home and the duty of children to their parents. In many a heart where the longing for mother's kindness and affection had never died out there arose an altar to mother and each year fresh garlands will be placed there. The year the memory of mother seems tenderer to her children.

In other ways, too, the day was observed in Atlanta. In the hotel lobbies and in public places many subscription boxes were placed where donations might be given to the Home for Old Women, and many took occasion to show their respect to their own mothers by aiding the old mothers out of the home.

RAILWAY CONDUCTORS GATHER IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—The order of railway conductors, comprising 49,000 members in the states and territories, the Dominion of Canada and Mexico, will meet in biennial convention here tomorrow to discuss the enactment of new laws and amendments to the old ones.

The order was organized by the committee on arrangements that were questions are not known to come up for any official action.

It has been predicted that one of the matters that will come up will be whether to move the headquarters of the organization from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to some other city. The headquarters have been established in Cedar Rapids for nearly 20 years. The convention is scheduled to last from ten days to two weeks.

CHARGES OF TORTURE ARE DENIED BY ADAMS

Anderson, S. C., May 11.—W. V. Adams, a magistrate's deputy of Anderson county, who was arrested in Asheville, N. C., on the statement of a negro named John Huff, says that Adams, assisted by two white men, hung him up by his thumbs and otherwise tortured him in this county to make him promise to give false testimony against John Huff, the negro charged with the murder of Policeman E. C. McConnell, arrived here this afternoon and vehemently denies the charge. Adams demanded immediately on his arrest, and an Asheville magistrate dismissed the proceedings when Walker refused to come into the court room and testify against him. Adams bears a good reputation, and his denial is accepted as the truth here where he is known.

Adams arrested in Atlanta last fall, hoping to take down the reward of $850. After the arrest Adams learned that John Walker, of Anderson, had made a statement to the effect that he knew Huff, and that Huff had admitted to him that he got into trouble in North Carolina and was wanted by the authorities. Walker was arrested on a subpoena sent out from Asheville, and was taken by Adams to Asheville, where he says there is not one word of truth in the charge. Adams believes the friends of Huff are at the bottom of his charges, which have been dismissed.

U. S. "MONEY LAUNDRY" GETS INTO FULL SWING

Washington, May 11.—The federal government's "money laundry" will be in full swing this week, when the treasury department will begin the operation of four currency washing machines, turning out daily 100,000 washed and ironed notes which otherwise would be destroyed.

The department has been conducting the question of forbidding the washing of money because of the alleged danger of counterfeiting is being agitated in congress. Secretary McAdoo and treasurer Burk, however, have announced their intention to give the machines a fair trial.

The one machine installed in the treasury several months ago has been reinforced by three improved models. The sub-treasurer at New York already has four machines, and those at Boston and Philadelphia one each. It is claimed the laundry will save the government a half-million dollars or more.

The department has made arrangements to reduce the working force of the bureau of engraving and printing, although it is said that probably not eight or ninety printers will lose their jobs.

Advocates of the washing machine claim it will reduce the output of the big printery by 20,000,000 notes annually.

ALL NATIONS JOINING IN WAR AGAINST OPIUM

Washington, May 11.—The international opium conference was assembled at The Hague next month, the exact date to be announced as soon as responses to the invitation have been received from the governments of Peru, Turkey, Greece and Switzerland. Working in conjunction with the government of the Netherlands, the state department here has now managed to secure assent to the conference not only from the twelve signatory powers, participants in the original conference, but from a majority of the other thirty-four nations of the world, regarded as essential to a successful covenant to finally abolish the opium traffic in all but medicinal preparations.

The result has been brought about only by constant and prolonged pressure, and one of the successful features of the campaign has been the agreement of the British government to suspend permanently all further exportations of Indian opium into China.

The moving spirit in the conference in this country is the Chinese, who have been the British government of the $50,000,000 worth of opium now held in Shanghai and its return for consumption to India, in view of the final determination of the Chinese government not to allow this drug to be sold to its own people.

TWO AUTOS DESTROYED WHEN GARAGE BURNS

Two automobiles, valued at about $5,000, were completely destroyed about 9:30 o'clock last night, when the private garage in the rear of the Mendhall apartments, 521 Peachtree street, burned down. A third car, belonging to G. C. Rogers, was saved by the owner, who was painfully burned on his right arm and neck.

The entire damage done was in the neighborhood of $8,000. Once started, the fire spread with such rapidity that, although the engine house is less than three blocks away, the garage was destroyed by the time that the fire department arrived.

No one was able to explain how the fire started. It is thought, however, that someone dropped a lit cigarette on the floor near some waste without stamping it out.

Carl Witt and Arthur Reed owned the two cars destroyed. Mr. Reed's automobile was a Chalmers and Mr. Witt's an Everet.

FIGHT FOR PURE FLOUR
TO THE SUPREME COURT

Washington, May 11.—The fight for "pure" flour has been carried to the supreme court by the department of justice. Attorney General McKelvey and Assistant Attorney General Adkins have filed with the court an application for a review of the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals which condemns flour bleached by electricity by the Aisop process. The controversy turns upon the interpretation of that section of the pure food and drug act which declares that any flour which may be deemed adulterated if it contains any added poisonous ingredient which may render such article injurious to health. The government claims that the law forbids the addition of any ingredients not in the original flour, even though the quantity be minute and the resulting injury to health from the particular article incapable of measurement. The circuit court of appeals held that the poisonous ingredients must be added in such quantity that there is a possibility of injury to health.

The construction put upon the law by the circuit court of appeals will render the statute difficult, if not impossible of enforcement, according to the attorney general.

AERONAUTIC COURSES
IN TECHNICAL COLLEGES

Washington, May 11.—Interest in aeronautics, particularly among technical universities and colleges, has greatly increased following the reopening recently of the Langley laboratory at the Smithsonian institution as the nucleus for a national aerodynamic laboratory. With a view to establishing courses in aeronautics in technical colleges have applied to both the army and navy for detail of officers versed in aeronautics to help them to outline courses of study, lectures and laboratory work to supplement that of the national laboratory.

The first officer to be detailed on this work is Lieutenant J. C. Hunsacker, naval constructor, who has been asked for by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The application for his detail has been approved, and probably will be made within a few days.

DANIELS ENTERTAINED BY COL. P. A. STOVALL

Savannah, Ga., May 11.—Secretary of the Navy Joseph Daniels and party arrived in Savannah at 5:30 p. m., on the torpedo-boat destroyer Reid, and went at once to the home of Colonel P. A. Stovall, editor of the Savannah Press, where they spent a quiet evening, the secretary being the guest of honor at a dinner given by North Carolinians residing in Savannah. Mr. Daniels entertained informally, expressing his pleasure at meeting his Savannah friends, but no formal addresses were delivered and the affair was thoroughly informal.

The Daniels party left on a late train for Raleigh, N. C., whence the secretary will go direct to Washington.

FAIR WEATHER TODAY, SAYS THE FORECASTER

Fair and cooler weather on Sunday carried by the weatherman's forecast to perfection and gave delight to hundreds of city people who desired a clear and cool day upon which to rest.

Without any change taking place in the atmosphere as the sun set, a clear day turned into a clear night, and the prospect for today is continued fair weather and a normal temperature.

MOTHERS HONORED AT NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, May 11.—"Mother's Day" was generally observed in the national capital today. President Wilson, cabinet officers, members of congress and thousands of Washingtonians joined in paying homage by wearing white carnations and attending church services where "Motherhood" was the theme of the sermons. The president and members of his family attended services at the Central Presbyterian church this morning.

ILLS OF THE G. O. P. ARE CONSIDERED

Republicans Meet in Chicago to Discuss Reorganization. Convention May Be Held During Year.

Chicago Ill. May 11.—Proposals to reorganize the republican party were discussed at a conference here today between six republican United States senators and 32 other republican leaders representing nine states.

The immediate subject before the conference was as to what action shall be sought at the meeting of the republican national committee at Washington on May 24 looking toward re-organizing the party along progressive lines and as to whether there shall be a republican national convention this year.

The conference lasted for more than four hours and was held in a hotel overlooking the lake in a room where the seven governors last year drafted the letter urging Colonel Roosevelt to be a candidate for the presidency.

Although the public was not admitted Senator Albert B. Cummins stated "it was merely an informal talk of a sort of round table discussion of what may be done for the best interests of the party by reorganizing it along progressive lines."

Presided over by Senator Sherman of Illinois the discussion was participated in by Senators Charles McNary, William E. Borah of Idaho Crawford of South Dakota, Green of North Dakota, Kenyon, of Iowa, Congressman Hayes of California, Congressman Goodie of Iowa, and many members of state legislatures.

Convention is Necessary "Did you come to a decision whether there ought to be a national convention this year?" Senator Cummins was asked.

"We did not decide on that but every one seems to feel that the condition of the party seems to necessitate a convention this year. Our informal talk today will be followed by a more formal conference tomorrow when former Governor Hadley of Missouri will be here. We then will issue a statement telling just what we think ought to be done in the half of the party."

Sombody asked Senator Kenyon whether there was to be an effort made to get a new national committee. The subject did not come up but most of us would have no objection if the present committee were reorganized," replied Senator Kenyon.

What did come up was a proposition to have the next committee take office soon after its election so that it might pass upon the credentials of the delegates to the 1916 convention.

The conference brought together the largest assemblage of republican leaders in Chicago since last year's convention. When Senator Kenyon noticed that the room assigned for the conference was also the one used as the progressive party headquarters.

"What is that? Are we going to reorganize the republican party in the very room where the progressive party was born?"

Statement by Sherman When the meeting adjourned to the day Senator Sherman gave out what he said was a synopsis of the discussion.

"I considered he said whether the national committee should be as inflexible in character as it has been. The opinion was that the committee would be amenable to public opinion and keep pace with what is going on. There was to take up the details of the question of calling a national convention this year. A call of course would have to come from the national committee. The question then arose as to whether the committee would issue a call and we felt that the committee would yield to the sentiment of republicans generally on that point as last year's election was a pretty positive indicator that radical changes should be made."

We agreed that southern representation in the convention should be put down according to the strength of the party in each southern state. We did not take up the details of how this should be done, but left that to be worked out later.

Presidential primaries were not considered but I think we are all agreed as being in favor of them. Our whole conference was merely in formal permitting us a free and easy interchange of views as to ways and means of reorganizing the party as some of us progressive republicans see it.

Senator Cummins who has been here since yesterday arranging for

DUKE SUES DUCHESS FOR DIVORCE

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER

A sensation is promised when the suit for divorce brought by the Duke of Westminster comes to trial. Following the filing of the papers in the case which named the Duke of Alba as correspondent, society looked for the filing of a counter suit by the duchess. The domestic troubles of Hugh Richard Arthur Grosvenor, second duke of Westminster, and his duchess have for some time been public property, and divorce proceedings have been freely predicted. Their marriage took place in 1901 and they have two children, Lady Mary, aged 3, and the daughter of Colonel Cornwallis West, and her only brother is George Cornwallis West, the second husband of the former Lady Randolph Churchill.

"Paradise Lost" Enacted Today In Struggles of Man With Sin

Milton's immortal tragedy of heaven and earth—"Paradise Lost"—is enacted over and over again in the lives of men today. Says Dr. Dunbar Ogden pastor of the Central Presbyterian church and moderator of the Atlanta Presbytery Sunday he delivered his sermons on the theme "speaking in the morning on Paradise Lost—the Tragedy of Sin and in the evening on Paradise Regained—the Triumph of Salvation."

Just as in that marvelous poem in which sin was driven from the face of God and found banishment and his appointment as the result of sin. Dr. Ogden said "so is it today with every man who has the opportunity to live right before God. But who sins and thus enacts again the tragedy of Paradise Lost."

But with his wonderful insight in human and divine nature, the third poet in that marvelous story of Paradise Regained showing how the love of Almighty God could come down and lift up the fallen and this too is lived over again many times in the lives we see around us revealing the triumph of salvation through all the ages.

KEY TO THE MYSTERY OF THE SIEGEL MURDER

San Francisco Cal. May 11.—A key to the mystery of the murder of Elsie Siegel granddaughter of General Franz Siegel a civil war hero in New York Chinatown June 18, 1909 is believed to have been found in the city of Oakland in searching the rooms of Lee Dor a Chinese arrested recently by the federal authorities charged with having opium in his possession. The officers found a complete set of press clippings describing the death of the Siegel girl and a number of photographs of beautiful white women.

Prior to his discovery the prisoner had been released under $10,000 bond. His whereabouts now is unknown. The Siegel was suspected of strangling Elsie Siegel as Leon Ling. His description does not tally with that of Lee Dor.

GREAT DREADNAUGHT FOR THE UNITED STATES

Congress Will Be Asked to Appropriate $20,000,000 for One Warship

Washington, May 11.—Congress will be asked next year to appropriate for one battleship a mammoth dreadnaught displacing 40,000 tons and costing about twenty million dollars according to tentative plans of the navy general board, made public today. This year the navy department asked for three battleships and got one as it did last year when two were asked for.

During the debate on the naval bill this year members of congress particularly interested in the navy became so satisfied that while there were two extreme factions one advocating appropriations for two or three first-class battleships a year and the other with no battleships as a slogan an overwhelming majority in both houses could be counted upon to vote for a single dreadnaught. This situation has been impressed upon the general board and as a result the permanent building program may be revised to a one dreadnaught basis with provision for adequate colliers, destroyers and other auxiliary craft.

This one battleship however will be a monster of the ocean's plans made in 1912 by a displacement of 40,000 tons she would be just about one-fourth larger than any ship yet authorized by congress and would easily rank as the largest and most formidable ship of war in the world. The plans contemplate giving the dreadnaught engines that would drive her through the water at the rate of twenty five knots an hour—faster than the unarmored Greyhound of the navy which last year was authorized without sacrificing anything in more powerful batteries or seaworthiness. Just what the armament would be has not been announced but it certainly would be equal to that of the last ship authorized which is to carry a main battery of twelve 14 inch rifles mounted in four turrets three guns to a turret.

Wilson to get well under way at least and to be completed if possible. It is the subject to the fore among the senators and before he sends a message to congress on the subject with a definite plan in view the president will negotiate further. Leaders close to the president it is said will take the matter up during the week. Senators will be informed and advised of the president's wish. It will be pointed out that tariff and currency reform should come at the same time that the country is entitled to the changes simultaneously in order to adjust itself to the amendment to the tariff legislation will be asked to pass if possible their personal convenience for public welfare.

CONSCIENCE MONEY PAID WHEN HE GETS RELIGION

Dalton Ga. May 11.—Religion of the holy rollers brand caused a man whose name the first National bank won't divulge to pay that institution $1 in conscience money which he stated he fraudulently obtained from the bank five years ago after having a check for $10 cashed. He returned to the bank shortly after cashing the check with a counterfeit dollar which he claimed the bank had given him. On his making affidavit to that effect he received another dollar. In paying his conscience money he stated he had placed the $10 in a clock and was confident some one substituted the counterfeit while his money was there.

Newport Lanford Nearly Run Down by Negro Coachman

Chief of Detectives Lanford narrowly escaped death last night under the wheels of a heavy two-horse carriage driven by Charlie Smith a negro coachman.

JAKE WELLS WILL AID ELKS' NEW ORGAN FUND

Jake Wells the head of the Wells circuit and one of the most prominent southern men in theatricals spent Sunday in Atlanta traveling from a tour over the southern end of the circuit back to his New York headquarters with a stopover in Richmond.

had no idea at present of releasing the hold he has on that theater. The magnate would not say whether the vaudeville of the Keith sort would be continued at the Forsyth indefinitely except that the people seemed to be thoroughly pleased with the change and that he believed a good deal in letting well enough alone.

POLITICIAN ARRESTED IN SPECTACULAR RAID

Chicago May 11.—Barney Bertache politician and former convict, accused by State Attorney Hoyne of having engaged protection to a ring of pickpockets and blowers and wire tappers was arrested in a spectacular raid early this morning and was released on bonds tonight.

The charge of conspiracy arose in the case of Mrs Hope L. McElowney of Milwaukee who alleged she had been swindled out of $15,500 by Frank Ryan charged with being a member of the so-called clairvoyant trust Bertache's name appeared as indorser of the draft given Ryan by the Milwaukee woman.
