

FIGHT OVER FALLS WILL BEGIN TODAY

Hundreds Gather in Clayton in Preparation for Important Legal Battle Between Power Company and State.

By J. WALTER McCRAW.
(Staff Correspondent.)
Clayton, Ga., May 25.—(Special.)—Hundreds of people including many of the eminent legal and business heads of Georgia are gathering today in this interesting little town in expectation of the hearing of the famous Tallulah Falls suit which goes on trial tomorrow morning.

Here, in the Rabun county court house, is to be staged one of the most significant legal battles of Georgia's history. The stake is a little strip of land only a mile long located in the Tallulah gorge, a magnificent place, on which a plant $5,000,000 water power electric plant has almost been completed by the Georgia Railway and Power company.

On one side the trained corporation lawyers will defend the power company's title to the land and argue the wonderful industrial development that will follow the completion of the plant. On the other side Attorney General Thomas S. Felner, Attorney General of the State, and the Tallulah Falls Conservation association and its attorneys will try to prove that the land still belongs to the people of Georgia, who should keep the power plant from generation even at this late date and preserve untouched the virgin beauty of the Niagara of the south.

Many eminent Atlantans, among the people who arrived from Atlanta today are the leading counsel on both sides to the hearing. Attorney General Thomas S. Felner has arrived with Edgar Watkins and together they will conduct the case for the state of Georgia.

The eminent Atlanta lawyers arrived on the same train as counsel for the power company—Alex C. King, Luther Z. Rosser and Charles T. Hopkins. Mr. Dean of Gainesville is here also to be a witness in the suit. Among those retained by the Tallulah Falls Conservation association who arrived on the same train are R. C. Ellis of Tifton, Ga., several other lawyers from different parts of the state will be here by the time the court opens Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Since the hearing will probably take at least a week the visitors are settling down in the summer hotels that dot Clayton to enjoy the pure mountain air and splendid climate for which the Blue Ridge section is noted.

HE TOOK WIFE'S ROUTE AND DEATH FOLLOWED

Arnhem Changes Auto's Course to Please Wife—Two Killed and One Injured.

Tarboro, N. C., May 25.—W. M. Arnhem, a prominent business man of this place and Mrs. Edna Morris, socially well known here were killed and Mrs. Arnhem dangerously hurt this evening about 7 o'clock near Tarboro, when an automobile in which a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Arnhem, Mr. and Mrs. Morris and a Mr. Matthews were riding plunged into a ditch half filled with water.

Mrs. Morris was dead when taken from under the car and it is believed that she was drowned. Mrs. Arnhem lived for almost an hour. Mr. Arnhem was thrown from the car when it plunged into the ditch and in some manner received a terrific blow on the head while several teeth were knocked out. Mr. Matthews and Mr. Morris jumped and saved themselves.

It is said that the party was proceeding down along the road when Mr. Arnhem who was driving, was asked by his wife to turn and take another route to town. Mr. Arnhem turned the car when suddenly it shot forward with terrific speed and plunged into a ditch along the side of the road.

The generally accepted theory of the accident is that Mr. Arnhem, as he turned the car toward the other road, intended to apply the brakes but that his feet struck the accelerator instead.

BRITISH MOB ATTACKS WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS

Rioting in West End of London. Police Protect Sylvia Pankhurst.

London, May 25.—Victoria Park, in the west end and was the scene of rioting today when trades unionists and socialists attempted to hold a demonstration in support of votes for working women. Fifteen platforms had been erected, elaborately decorated with flags. The crowd stormed a truck which was Sylvia Pankhurst and other militant suffragettes and dragged it outside the park.

Mounted and foot police, by repeated charges finally drove the crowd away. Women and men fainted in the crush and children were trampled upon in many instances the women's clothing was nearly torn off. There were innumerable free fights and ambulance corps were kept busy.

Suffragists paraded with their colors the standard bearers wearing red liberty caps. This was the cause of more disorder. The mob tore the decorations from the platform and carried away the flags as souvenirs.

British suffragettes attempted to blow up Westley Hall at Doncaster owned by Sir William Cooke. The place was unoccupied. An unexploded bomb and suffragette literature were found under a stair case.

Does Theodore Roosevelt Get Drunk?

Colonel Roosevelt canceled all other engagements to go to Marquette, Mich., to press his suit for libel against George Newett, editor of The Ishpeming Iron Ore, a trade paper. In an article published in the heat of the last presidential campaign, Mr. Newett's publication charged that Colonel Roosevelt "gets drunk and gets drunk frequently, and all his friends know this." The former president denied that he drank, and stated he would press the suit against the Michigan publisher. Editor Newett spoke to his charges and said he was prepared with affidavits to prove his case when the suit came to trial on May 26.

NATIONAL BANKS TO LOAN ON FARMS
That Is a Feature of Currency Bill Being Prepared by President Wilson and the Democratic Leaders.

Washington, May 25.—(Special.)—The administration currency bill which is being worked out by Representative Carter Glass of Virginia, chairman of the house banking currency committee, in accordance with the views of President Wilson will contain a provision that will permit a great help to farming communities. It will permit national banks to make loans on farm mortgages. The details have not been perfected but some method of this kind which will reduce the farmer's interest charges will be drawn. At present only state and private banks can make loans on real estate.

Another important section relates to the keeping of reserves. Banks are now required to keep 15 per cent of their deposit liabilities in lawful money, but 9 per cent may be kept in reserve and central reserve cities. If regional currency associations are provided for in the bill the amount of lawful money in the association to which the bank belongs Mr. Adams, secretary of the treasury is opposed to this provision, taking the viewpoint of the New York and Chicago bankers who believe the change would be unwise and would not help the banks in the interior.

1,000 ITALIANS FALL
IN FIGHT WITH ARABS
Italian Forces Lured Into Carefully Set Trap and Then Shot Down.

Chasso Switzerland, May 25.—The strict censorship which the Italian government has imposed on all news relating to the state of affairs in Tripoli and particularly with regard to the defeat of the Italian forces at Sidi Garba on May 14 has made it difficult to obtain exact information on the recent reverses in that territory. It has been learned however that the disaster at Sidi Garba was due to the strength of Machellita's report. An Italian workman named Machellita who had been taken prisoner by the Arabs was allowed to escape after being carefully primed with false information which he carried to General Gambretti. Instead of waiting to carry out a scheme of cooperation with General Tassoni, who was on his way from Benghazi with a strong force, General Gambretti, on the strength of Machellita's report that the number of the enemy was small, decided to attack alone.

Accordingly he divided his 5,000 men in three columns which were supported by four guns and a battery of howitzers. After the first flush of victory the Italian soldiers were resting when suddenly each column was set upon from front and rear and out of the others. At the same time they were subjected to a heavy shell fire.

The Italians showed admirable courage and endurance. Some of the companies lost all their officers. One advance detachment lost thirty-six out of forty men, and it was soon apparent that retreat alone would save the forces from annihilation. Colonel Magdalena was shot and as he lay dying wrote a report praising his major who, although twice wounded, took command. General Gambretti, on his return to Deina said: "I noted the bloodiest day of the whole Italo-Turkish war." The Italian losses are estimated at 1,000.

Rowers & Secor, of 21 Nassau street, counsel for Colonel Roosevelt in New York, have been collecting affidavits signed by friends of the colonel in the east, who are unable to make the trip to Marquette. James R. Pound, of Marquette, said that there would be evidence also will represent the colonel in court. The defense, it was said, would make an attempt to show that Colonel Roosevelt was intoxicated when he made a speech in Duluth, Mich., last summer, and that there would be evidence also about a dinner given at Washington by ex-Congressman Cannon.

GRAY AND GRIZZLED VETS OF LOST CAUSE
Gathering at Chattanooga for Annual Reunion—Formal Opening Tuesday—Scenes of Activity at Camp Stewart.

Chattanooga Tenn. May 25.—Incoming trains today and tonight brought hundreds of veterans and visitors to the twenty-third annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans which will be formally opened here Tuesday morning. Many of those who arrived today came to attend preliminary meetings scheduled for tomorrow. These sessions included a welcome meeting of the Confederate Memorial association tomorrow afternoon and the opening meeting of the Sons of Confederate Veterans tomorrow evening.

Chattanooga is in gala attire in honor of the momentous occasion. Bunting and flags both federal and confederate, adorn the buildings on the principal streets. Tonight a myriad of vari-colored electric lights glittered and sparkled throughout the business section of the city.

Interest of those arriving early centers largely in visits to the scenes of some of the most important battles during the war between the states. The government has established a national park where the famous battle of Chickamauga was fought. In this struggle more than 100,000 confederate and federal soldiers are said to have been engaged. More than 15,000 perished on each side before the engagement ceased.

General Sherman also started from Chattanooga on his march to the sea and it was in this vicinity that the battle of Missionary Ridge and the celebrated battle above the clouds was waged. The scenes of Andrews road, the battle of Ringgold Gap and other noted engagements are within a short distance of this city.

NEW WITNESSES IN PHAGAN CASE FOUND BY POLICE

Reported Two Telephone Operators Will Swear to Conversations Held Over the Pencil Factory's Line.

GAVE THEIR TESTIMONY BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

A. S. Colyar Confers With Chief Beavers on Bribery Allegations—Case Now in Its Infancy, Says Chief.

With the entire city aroused over the recent sensational Felder bribery charges and counter charges of graft and corruption in the police department, investigation of the Mary Phagan mystery continues. Police headquarters was elated Sunday over the progress and over new developments which have arisen.

New testimony has been given by girl telephone operators relative to conversations which were held over the pencil factory's line on the night of the tragedy. Chief Lanford says Secretary Shrouds the nature of the alleged conversations. No one acquainted with the evidence will talk. It is hinted to be the strongest yet secured.

No one acquainted with the evidence will talk. It is hinted to be the strongest yet unearthed. Coupled with this development comes the rumor of a telephone call reported to have been made on the Friday morning preceding the murder, in which Mary Phagan is said to have been instructed to come to the pencil factory Friday afternoon to obtain her pay envelope. Detectives will neither deny nor admit that the rumor has been confirmed.

Phone Message to Pope. J. B. Pope, of Bellwood avenue, a county policeman and neighbor of the slain girl, to whom the rumored telephone message was made, could not be reached here. The Constitution Mrs. Pope says she knows nothing of the report, but says numerous calls came to her home for Mary Phagan and members of her family and acknowledged investigator of the bribery trap, came to police headquarters Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock and held an hour's conference with Chief Beavers. They were closeted in the latter's office and upon emerging, neither would disclose the nature of their consultation.

It is freely reported, however, that the adventure has something new up his sleeve and that he will play a leading role in the case. It is made in alleged new bribery attempts. He stated that on Monday he would expose others than Colonel Felder and the men he has already attacked. Chief Beavers, it is said, is to be included in his attack today. He stated that on Monday he would expose others than Colonel Felder and the men he has already attacked.

Chief Beavers, in talking with a reporter for The Constitution, echoed Colyar's expression regarding the exact nature of the probe charged into alleged bribery practices in the Phagan murder.

This thing is only in its infancy. It first began as an individual exposure. Now that it has become a political inquest we are going to reveal the plaything of others. It won't take long to do it either. Some folks are going to be driven to disgrace. They'd do.

FRANK IS GUILTY, SAYS PINKERTON

Sufficient Evidence Found to Convict Him, Declares Man Hired by the National Pencil Company.

Announcing that he had secured evidence sufficient to convict his employer Harry Scott, assistant superintendent of the Pinkertons, who has been retained by the National Pencil company since the second day of the Piagan tragedy, said to a reporter for The Constitution Sunday night that it was his intention to help prosecute the suspected superintendent.

Scott has been in command of the Pinkerton forces working on the investigation. His employment came about in answer to a telephone call from Frank on Monday morning following the murder. He was engaged by the firm for the sole purpose of finding the murderer.

Scott's Connection With Case. His connection with the case was explained once before when he was called to the stand at the coroner's inquest. The Constitution Sunday morning published an exclusive story explaining that although Scott was employed by Frank's defense, and although reports of the Pinkertons' daily progress were submitted to the prisoners' counsel, he was working on the theory that Frank was guilty.

Scott declared to The Constitution over the telephone Sunday night that he was convinced of the suspects' guilt, and that he had evidence to that effect, which would be submitted before the courts. The Pinkerton investigation, however, will not cease, he says but will continue as relentlessly as heretofore. Because of strict jail regulations Frank could not be reached last night for a statement regarding the detective's announcement.

As the assistant superintendent stated on the witness stand during the inquest he was summoned to Frank's office on Monday afternoon April 25, to confer with Frank. Frank, he asserted, said that it was due the pencil factory to investigate the murder.

Pinkertons Start Work. Scott and his men immediately set to work. The following day the plant superintendent referred to the Pinkerton investigation proceeded on the theory that Frank was guilty, it is stated by Scott. Later, authorities of the pencil factory were consulted. The Pinkertons it is said asked if they would continue their investigation as originally outlined—to find the murderer or would they be expected to assist Frank? In the latter case it is said, the detective officials declared, they would cease connection.

According to Luther Z. Rosser, counsel for Frank and Superintendent Scott, the Pinkertons were instructed to proceed as in the past and to find the slayer. Scott says he has evidence not yet made public and that it will not be revealed until time of trial.

Animal Morality. Now listen little Nancy to my highly moral tale. Though man declares himself creator of a king. There are many gentle animals could make his boastings fall. That no creature wild oafs nor have their fins.

This tall bird has no dealings with the wicked railroad folk. Has naught to do with jail-birds or with their freed. A shot may take it off a noble elm tree or an oak. But it never got a rake off on a deal.

WOOL TRUST CHIEF IS ON TRIAL

WILLIAM M. WOOD, manufacturer and labor chief, all over the country watched the trial of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, Frederick E. Atteaux, a Boston manufacturer, and Dennis J. Collins, a Cambridge dock fender charged with conspiracy in planting dynamite during the Lawrence textile strike in January, 1912, to discredit the strikers. Collins turned state's evidence and other evidence was produced which was damaging to the defense. Wood and Atteaux entered a general denial. Coming on top of the McNamara exposures in Los Angeles, the finding of the dynamite at Lawrence created great excitement at the time and the strikers were at first condemned in public estimation. The fact that it was alleged that the explosive was deliberately planted to discredit the strikers created a greater sensation. The trial of the defendants first for a long time, but the public awaited the outcome with renewed interest when the three defendants faced the court.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN VICTIMS OF HORROR

Long Beach, Cal., May 25.—Prospective damage suits aggregating probably $1,000,000 or more and a grand jury investigation engaged the attention of city officials today as the most imminent outcome of the disaster yesterday when 35 persons lost their lives in the collapse of a portion of the municipal pier just after the close of the British Empire day pageant.

The death list which numbered 33 last night was added to by the death of Mrs. L. C. Bush, 70 years old of Long Beach this afternoon and that of Mrs. McDonald, an aged woman late today.

The list is expected to be further increased by tomorrow by the death of Marguerite Reed aged 12 of Long Beach whose back was broken and of William Cooper of Pasadena, one of the two veterans of the Crimean war, who were in the van of the Empire day parade.

Only One Man Killed. Rectification of errors made yesterday in the list of dead brought out the following names: MISS FRANCES HARRIET NEWELL, Kenosha Wis. MRS. MOLLIE CATES, Oakpark, Ill. MISS LILLIAN M. HOLME, Denver Colo. ERNEST G. BALLE, Los Angeles. MRS. EALLS LIE, Mrs. M. P. McDONALD, Compton Cal.

Enables was the only man killed and his body remained unidentified until late today as well as that of his wife. Public officers conferred today with District Attorney John D. Frederick with reference to the grand jury's duty to be started either on or just before the coroner's inquest Tuesday. The object of the inquiry is to fix responsibility for the condition of the pier, a section of which went down under a weight of human beings estimated at least 750 tons.

On the order of the district attorney officers were placed on guard this morning over the ruined section of the pier. Instructed to keep watch constantly in two-hour shifts until repairs are made, they were to allow no tampering with any part of the structure. Several broken timbers which are expected to show the general condition of the pier were taken out of the pier today and locked up under official seal.

Weakness of the Pier. The weakness of the pier, which was built eight years ago, and never repaired in that particular portion is believed to have been due to decay caused by the action of salt atmosphere on wood and its iron fasteners and supports. However, it was declared that a much stronger structure might have been wrecked in the same circumstances as the participants in the big parade marched upon the pier in step. Military men pointed out that the rhythmic vibration created by the measured tread of thousands of feet caused a tremendous strain upon the supports which already had been heavily burdened by the crowd and the auditorium doors awaiting admittance.

The grand jury investigation was demanded by the officers of the United Societies of British Born Residents and visitors, whose celebration of Queen Victoria's birthday anniversary was interrupted by the accident. City Attorney Long answered reports of the prospective damage suits with the statement that in his opinion the city could not be held responsible for the deaths and injuries because no charge had been made by the city for the use of the municipal amusement property. Use of the pier and auditorium had been given without cost and the celebrators, he said, had used it at their own risk.

All but the most seriously injured were removed to their homes in Los Angeles and neighboring cities today.

The total number of injured probably never will be known accurately. About 85, however, were seriously hurt.

Affection. Talk not of wasted affection. Affection never was wasted. If it enriches the heart of another, its waters returning. Back to their spring, like the rain, measured vibration created by the shall fill them full of refreshment. That which the fountain sends forth returns again to the fountain. —LONGFELLOW.

PROBE IS DEMANDED FOR WEST VIRGINIA

Debs and Berger Declare That the Mob Rules Under Guise of Law.

Charleston, W. Va., May 25.—The committee of socialists sent here by the national committee of the party to investigate conditions in the coal regions tonight sent a telegram to Senator Kern urging the passage of a federal probe into the West Virginia situation. The message to Senator Kern follows.

"It is imperative that the Kern resolution do pass. Conditions have improved considerably under Governor Hatfield's administration, but there is no doubt that the federal constitution was set aside in the coal regions. The fundamental rights of citizenship were denied, papers were suppressed, and postal laws ignored.

"Under the guise of law the military and civil authorities substituted mob law for constitutional government. Armored trains with machine guns poured deadly fire into defenseless homes. The senate over the nation a searching investigation of the long reign of lawlessness in the mining region of West Virginia.

"EUGENE V. DEBS, "ADOLPH BERGER, "VICTOR L. BERGER." The committee will leave here tomorrow for Chicago where it will probably make a report to the national committee of the socialist party.

Pateroson, N. J., May 25.—At the usual Sunday meeting of the silk mill strikers today just outside of the city limits a large gathering of strikers and sympathizers listened to speeches by the Industrial Workers of the World leaders. A meeting of broad silk weavers is scheduled for tomorrow to determine whether they shall return to work Tuesday.

TURKEY CEDES CYPRUS TO GREAT BRITAIN

London, May 25.—Turkey has definitely ceded the island of Cyprus to Great Britain, according to the Constantinople correspondent of the Express who claims to have received a formal statement to that effect from the best informed source. The cession of the island is said to have been due to clauses in the Anglo-Turkish entente.

The allies informed Osman Nizami Pasha at a joint meeting of the Balkan and Ottoman peace delegates today that they had no intention of asking for further modifications of the peace terms already put forward. This is regarded as an important step in the direction of peace.

Today Is the Day.

Good days and bad days exist only in your own head. The weather has nothing to do with it. Each day is what you make it for yourself. Bad weather is only an unfortunate opinion.

Suppose it is raining pitchforks. You got word that your salary has been doubled or that a forgotten uncle has left you $100,000. What do you care about the weather time? Or suppose the person you love is dying. Unexpectedly a turn for the better comes. The doctor says your dear one will live. What if it is hotter than Tophet? It is a good day, a great day, a happy day.

What you do think and feel about it that makes each day what it is. You, within yourself can make each day every day a good day. Put down in the note book of your soul the poet, Rumi's thought. Each day is a life. When you get up in the morning throw back your shoulders take a deep breath. Meet the new day like a man. Say to yourself: Another day—another life! For all we know it may be the only day we'll ever have. Let's make it the best. Let's get up and strive to see that it is a day worth while. Let's move a step forward in our work. Let's do all the good we can. Let's get all the happiness we can—today.

Right now is the only time you can control. Yesterday is a record. Tomorrow is a secret. Today is yours. Mine!

Dry Cleaning Fabrics.

While the so-called dry cleaning methods usually require special machinery and some technical skill the following formula according to The Pharmacist will produce a dry cleaning soap which can be worked by anyone. Oleic acid 5 parts (by weight) caustic potash 1 part, dissolve in methylated spirit, 4 parts (by weight). These proportions produce a slightly supersaturated soap. Dissolve in gasoline. A brush dipped in gasoline and rubbed on this soap dissolves enough to produce a plentiful lather when brushing the goods. This is the general type of most of the so-called dry cleaners on the market, such soaps being used for the dual purpose of assisting the cleaning process and to minimize the risk of fire.

ROBERTS PROPHECIES

PRESBYTERIAN UNITY

Stated Clerk of Northern Assembly Speaks at Harris Street Church.

Rev. William H. Roberts, D.D., LL.D., of Philadelphia, spoke Sunday morning at the Harris Street Presbyterian church. Dr. Roberts is one of the most distinguished leaders of the northern Presbyterian church, having been for thirty years stated secretary of the general assembly, and for 25 years American secretary of the World's Presbyterian alliance. His fourth annual conference of which he will attend in Aberdeen, Scotland, June 18.

Dr. Roberts' sermon Sunday morning was upon "The Characteristics of the Presbyterian Church As They Are Related to the Welfare of the American Nation."

Work of Church of Scotland. In his introductory remarks Dr. Roberts showed how the church of Scotland by its fidelity to Presbyterian ideas of faith and conduct had been a potent power in the development of the Scotch nation and how that nation also had imparted to the Scotch church much of its own rugged strength, forceful integrity, and vigorous life. In an historical sketch of the Presbyterian church in America, Dr. Roberts pointed out that in the organization of the general assembly in Philadelphia in 1706, the Presbyterian church, in the establishment of the principles upon which the national government is founded had antedated by three centuries of a century the continental congress.

In indicating the influence of the spirituality of the church upon the welfare of the nation, Dr. Roberts said: "Salvation is from sin to righteousness, righteousness first in the individual, and then through the individual in society. This is not the way of the world. Man in the work of securing human welfare. He prefers to begin on the outside, to deal solely with things external. His methods are chiefly those of legislation and his weapons are those of compulsion. Spiritually as a quality of the mind, he understands dollars, and laws, and the use of force, but not souls. How

FORESEES UNITY

Dr. Roberts foresaw the day when the Presbyterian branches will be united into one church. "Divisions there have been in the church," he said, "but they sooner or later have been, or will be, healed. The spirit of our church is the spirit of unity, and today this spirit is widely disseminated in our land."

Dr. Roberts told of the aggressive and missionary spirit of the church, and urged a more zealous cultivation of this spirit. In concluding his sermon he said: "Not the least of things characteristic of our church has been its defense and dissemination of the truth of God as the supreme standard of human conduct and the stabilizing power of the republic. This nation owes an incalculable debt to the Presbyterian and some other churches for the tenacity and vigor with which they have maintained the fundamentals of the Christian system of truth."

Foresees Unity. Dr. Roberts foresaw the day when the Presbyterian branches will be united into one church. "Divisions there have been in the church," he said, "but they sooner or later have been, or will be, healed. The spirit of our church is the spirit of unity, and today this spirit is widely disseminated in our land."

A BANKER SOUNDS WARNING.

One of the most incisive warnings to the farmers and business men of Georgia against the suicidal folly of the all-cotton fetich yet issued comes from Benjamin W. Hunt, former president of the Georgia State Bankers' association, and a recognized authority on finance and farm economics.

Mr. Hunt is not an alarmist, a pessimist or a visionary. He is one of the most conservative, prosperous and far-seeing business men in Georgia. He simply sees beneath the surface of things, as he is in position to do, and points the dangers if Georgia continues to single-shot on cotton.

Mr. Hunt cites statistics from the department of agriculture to show that last year Georgia, next to Florida, produced a smaller volume of cotton to the acre than any other cotton-producing state—and since Florida grows mainly sea-land cotton, even that comparison gives Georgia none of the advantage.

MENDING THE CURRENCY.

The past week has been one of conferences between President Wilson and important congressmen of both parties, with currency legislation as the topic.

had best be postponed until the regular session next December. But the main thing is that continuous activity on part of the president and the house and senate leaders indicate that the long-continued agitation for action is approaching a crisis, and that the democratic party may soon be expected to relieve a condition that has for years been the cause of non-partisan complaint.

Secretaries of the treasury and unbiased economic experts have been telling us for the past twenty years or more that our present currency system is a constant menace. There is no doubt that the inflexibility of the system aggravated the penalties of the panic of 1907, and as it exists now it would embarrass and not facilitate any measures looking toward relief that might be taken in future emergencies.

WHO PAYS FOR PORK?

Who pays for the millions of dollars' worth of political "pork" that congress distributes annually to each of its members? If the people who elect congress could answer that question intelligently there would be less pork.

It is the American people that pay for pork. The money thus expended is taken from them in indirect taxes that include tariff taxes and the tax on tobacco and whisky. Pretty soon the income tax and those who pay it will be added to the lot that are ministering to the fetich of political pork.

Aside from its features of graft and grab, the chief objection to the pork-barrel is its intrinsic injustice. It is standing in the way of more honest and imperative improvements.

A NEW TUBERCULOSIS CURE.

Dr. Carl Von Ruck, of Asheville, N. C., may not have discovered the serum that will eventually cure tuberculosis, but his methods inspire much more confidence than those of Dr. F. F. Friedmann.

Dr. Stitt has just made public the results of his investigation and they are at least worthy of attention. The only difficulty is that any serum treatment for the next year or two must suffer public distrust by reason of Friedmann's strange performances.

All reputable doctors are agreed that no definite verdict can be handed down on any vaccine or serum treatment of tuberculosis now before the public. With long-suffering tolerance they are even suspending judgment on Friedmann's cure, whatever they may think privately.

JUST from GEORGIA

"Dixie" Far From Home. 'Way up in the Northland, under skies of gray, Heard the band a-playin' "Dixie," and they all cried "Hooraay!"

Old times in Georgia—they came back again— Meadows of the Maytime—roses in the rain; O'er the dreary distance far I seemed to roam, I heard, in dreamy twilight the songs of love and home.

'Way up in the Northland, but "Dixie" sent a thrill, And one said, as it echoed: "We're friends and brothers still!"

Return of the Prodigals.

They all lost out in Washington—no plums were on the bough; The office-seekers are comin' home, an' we'll put 'em to the plow; We'll make 'em earn their livin'—follow the furrows fine; They'll help build up the country when they're in the plowin' line.

A Billville Critic. Our old friend, Dr. James W. Lee, was in our midst the other day. We were mighty glad to see him, for we had just read his latest book, "The Religion of Science."

An In a Dream. Time is with us, but will not stay; We drift in a dream to the far away; But the light of God shines in Love's eyes, And Love is a dream that never dies.

The Afflicted One. Suffering from the almost-fatal spring fever the poet of The Cedartown Standard sings:

"Only wish the rent would stop Till the big blackberry crop Comes along so sweet and thick (Only we're too tired to pick)!"

The July Season. Even in Maryland the watermelon season has its influence. The Bentztown Bard sings:

"I've heard from the watermelons, And the cantaloupes and the pears; And I tell you the world's all hunky, And it's not all troubles and cares. There's going to be some few cherries, And apples and peaches, too. And, Lord, but the sweet strawberries Are smilin' so in the dew!"

A Daily Text. Sometimes, when Joy comes to see us, We mistake his knock for that of Trouble, and fail to open the door.

By the Wayside. Singin' on the way In the beauty of the day— Thank the Lord we're livin' in the meadows of the May.

It will indeed be real reform if President Wilson can keep congressmen from making speeches at the wrong time.

New News of Yesterday

General Spinner's Account of the Back-Pay Agitation.

By E. J. Edwards.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.) The late David E. Hill was elected in 1891 United States senator by the New York state legislature. At that time Mr. Hill was governor of New York. His term as United States senator began on March 4, succeeding his election. He, however, retained the office of governor during the entire year, only leaving it a few hours prior to the inauguration of his successor, the late Roswell Pettibone Flower.

There was then nine months when Governor Hill was entitled to receive salary as United States senator, while, at the same time, he was receiving salary as governor of New York. Some criticism was publicly expressed and a good deal circulated in private, for it was feared that Governor Hill contemplated accepting both salaries, there being nothing in the law to prevent his doing that.

He silenced all criticism, however, when he took his seat in the United States senate by instructing the secretary of the senate, or whoever the proper authority was, to return to the United States treasury department all of the salary which had accumulated between March 4, and the first of January following, which amounted approximately to $3,000.

At that time it was the opinion of some lawyers that although Mr. Hill had covered this money in the treasury, yet either he or his heirs could draw it out if so disposed, for it still stood as a credit to him.

While this discussion was in progress, I asked the late Noah Davis, who was for many years chief justice of one branch of the supreme court of New York state, what his opinion was respecting the ability of Mr. Hill or his heirs to withdraw that money from the treasury.

Instead of answering me directly, Judge Davis narrated to me an anecdote which he said was told to him by General Francis Spinner, who was treasurer of the United States for nearly fifteen years, beginning with President Lincoln's administration.

"General Spinner told me," said Judge Davis, "that while he was treasurer of the United States there were innumerable attempts to get money out of the treasury, but only one voluntarily to get money into it. He said, 'Judge, you remember what a row was stirred up because congress, about 1871, adopted a resolution by which the pay of members of congress was increased from $3,000 to $5,000 a year.'"

"In addition to this increase the resolution made the increase retroactive. Therefore, congress not only got the increase of $5,000, but the increase dated back to the beginning of that congress. That gave to each member about $2,000.

"Well, a great cry went up through the country. Congressmen were called salary grabbers and backpay cobblers. A good many of the members of congress got frightened, they were afraid their names would cause their defeat for re-election. They did not know at first what to do. At last somebody suggested that this back pay be returned to the treasury department.

"I remember that Senator John Sherman was especially worked up about this. He came to see me, to find out how he could turn into the treasury department the back pay, about $3,000.

"I looked up the law and I told him that there was nothing to prevent his turning the money in, but it would be his money just the same, and the treasury department would be no more than its custodian.

"He asked me if at any time he could draw it out or if his heirs could. I told him it could unquestionably be done. The treasury department would have to honor his draft for the three thousand dollars. He told me that he should return the money, and he was certain that neither he nor any of his heirs would ever ask for it.

"Well, members of congress made my life miserable, for many of them came to see me about the matter and I could not tell them anything different from what I had told John Sherman.

"A good many of them did return their back pay into the treasury department, and it was there when I resigned. Unless congress finds some way to cover it absolutely and permanently in the treasury department, there his back pay will stay until doomsday or as long as the treasury department lasts, unless by and by, when the storm blows over, congressmen venture to draw it out."

"I never knew," continued Judge Davis, "whether legislation was obtained of any ruling by which this back pay or by which the salary which Governor Hill returned to the treasury department passed absolutely into the treasury department."

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES of EUROPEAN POLITICS

WHO WAS RICHARD PLANTAGENET?

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

On December 21, 1560, there died in England a poor working man, whose name was Richard Plantagenet, about whom there was much mystery. He was believed to be a son of Richard III, king of England. There seems to be very much more evidence to substantiate his identity than in the cases of most pretenders.

No less an authority than Dr. Thomas Brett, who saw the entry of the man's death in the parish register of Eastwell, tells the following story, many of the particulars of which he obtained from the Earl of Winchelsea at Eastwell house:

"Sir Thomas Moyle having, about 1545, purchased the estate of Eastwell, began to build the Eastwell house. He was surprised to observe that one of the bricklayers, a man well advanced in years, was accustomed, on leaving off work, to take out a book and begin to read. Sir Thomas' curiosity was excited to know what book occupied the man's attention, but the extreme shyness of the student for some time baffled his desires.

At length, taking him by surprise, he found, to his increased astonishment, that the man perused a Latin book. He then inquired how he came to be able to read a book in that language, and after some conversation, obtained from him a series of particulars which he said had hitherto been told to none.

"He was, in his earliest years, boarding with a schoolmaster and there was occasionally visited by a gentleman who paid regularly for his maintenance and education, but he did not let him know his parentage. At length, when he was about 16, this gentleman took him on a journey, and introduced him to a stately house, where another person of distinguished appearance and wearing a star and the Order of the Garter, came to see him, conversed kindly with him, and then dismissed him.

"Some time after he was conducted into Leicestershire and brought before the king in his tent, in the midst of an army, and was surprised to find that the king was the same distinguished person whom he had lately seen. Richard embraced him, acknowledged him as his son and said that if he should, as he hoped, survive the battle about to be fought the son should be duly provided for. The boy was told to take a position at some distance till the end of the conflict. The king also warned him, in the event of his defeat and death, to conceal the relationship now acknowledged, as it would be sure to be fatal to him."

"This is the story told by Richard Plantagenet. He did as the king desired and when he saw that the battle was going against the royal troops he made his way from the field. As he was entering the town of Leicester he saw a dead man brought in naked, lying across a horse, whom he recognized as the monarch with whom he had spoken the previous day.

Plantagenet was entirely unfamiliar with the town generally, and recognizing that it was best to follow the king's advice, particularly as he had no proof to offer if he told his story, and being out of money, he engaged himself to a bricklayer and he spent the remainder of his life in contented obscurity.

When Sir Thomas Moyle heard the remarkable story of the old man he built a small house for him on his grounds and requested that he should take what food he required henceforth from his kitchen. The old bricklayer only lived between three and four years to enjoy the ease at last accorded him.

This story is of such a romantic character that it might well be doubted. Mr. Jessa, however, in his "Memoirs of King Richard III" expresses a general faith in it, and shows several reasons for thinking it true, most striking of which is that formerly when any person of noble family was interred at Eastwell, it was the custom to affix a special mark against the name of the deceased in the register of burials, and this aristocratic symbol is prefixed to the name of Richard Plantagenet.

Was this humble bricklayer the son of Richard III?

GEORGIA BANKER SOUNDS WARNING AGAINST ALL-COTTON FETICH

(Benjamin W. Hunt, of Eatonton, is former president of the Georgia State Bankers' association. He is a recognized authority on finance and farm economics.)

Editor Constitution: The report of the department of agriculture exhibits the following yields of cotton per acre by the different cotton states in 1912:

Table with columns: State, Acre, Lbs. Cotton, Yield Per Acre. Includes Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, etc.

Lowest in yield per acre of all the states that cultivate upland cotton stands the record of Georgia.

Florida, it is true, made less cotton per acre, but the cotton of Florida is largely long staple, which yields less, and the best energies of that state are devoted to the cultivation of the citrus fruits and to market gardening.

It is our duty to scan the records with the utmost care and analysis that we may correct the faults of the past. No citizen of Georgia can feel other than a sense of shame at such an exhibit, as the summing up of last year's experience in cotton raising shows.

Those Georgia cotton planters who exercised the best judgment in their farm management made much more than the average recorded of 159 pounds per acre, hence there must have been millions of acres that made less than the pitiful 153 pounds, or the department of agriculture dividing the total yield by the acres picked would not have struck the 159-pound average. That the average yield in 1912 sold at the average price produced a net income below the American standard of living, I believe every political economist will grant.

The hope of this country lies, not in pauperizing the farmer to a level of the unfortunate Asiatic peasant, but in elevating the standard of living of the American of whatsoever section.

I would not call attention to this shameful condition, resulting from all cotton culture in Georgia, if I did not believe that the only way to reform is to first acknowledge our sins and then repent, and when converted to stand firmly for better things.

Native Georgians are of old colonial stock, and must not be pauperized to a bare peasant's subsistence.

A comparison of the acres planted, and the census of the different states' income from other husbandry than cotton, shows those states excelling in raising the most cotton per acre are states that practice more diversification than do we.

Hence, diversification increases the yield and net income of the farmer. If cotton were an all sufficient income producing crop, Georgia should rank as leader instead of lowest of all in the production per acre.

The statisticians tell us that no people following agriculture ever yet succeeded financially who depended on raising but one single variety of farm produce for sale.

One ticks has revolutionized the conditions. Any one who will, may, after the extermination of this pest, follow a profitable diversification of farm crops.

Possibilities not to be named in a short article are open and inviting that were closed heretofore.

With an annual manure in abundance almost any desired crop may be raised on our lands, for the stable, for the cattle or for market.

The farmer who diversifies may produce 500 pounds of cotton per acre, as dairy farmers are now doing, and this is as practicable as the 159 pounds per acre which now carries the additional cost of $1.23 worth of guano.

The additional 341 pounds of cotton does not state all the financial benefit, for the beef or dairy cattle are in themselves a source of net income as well as the foundation for a truly profitable yield of cotton per acre. The most reprehensible of facts follows from a study of the government report—that is, that we Georgians are robbing future generations of a means of agricultural progress by using imperially the land with an all-cotton system. Our capital surplus and undivided profits, represented in land, are diminishing yearly, as this report exhibits.

That we may realize Georgia's condition having reached the degradation of ranking the poorest of all the states in cotton production per acre and profit by an earnest endeavor to correct the method that has caused the facts to appear tabulated in print is my reason for this communication. To diagnose our condition is but the first step to prescribe a medicine that will cure before the disease becomes chronic, is the second; and to see that the cure is applied, is all that the most skilled may be called upon to do, in medicine or in morals. If the farmer for the penny accompanying a yield of 159 pounds per acre, neglects such diversification, then, follow-bankers, or other physician is as well prepared as are we to prescribe for the disease and furnish the medicine.

Indeed, where tick eradication is opposed by ignorance, a campaign of education has to proceed even the palliation of assistance on the part of the banker.

The field of finance we have chosen for our avocation, having elected it as our calling, our duty is to guide the people away from the penny toward which they are headed, and whose possible assist them toward financial independence through a better system of agriculture.

After tick extermination in a country, the way is open for banks to loan money to deserving farmers to buy cattle at our minimum rate of interest. If the more conservative of our directors object to such loans, then many of us, impelled by a desire to serve our citizens, may assist the farmers out of our individual funds.

After tick eradication has removed the ever-constant loss to live stock, cattle appreciate and become a safe, sure collateral asset.

There are other roads to agricultural prosperity. I point out the one I have helped to turnpike that progress may be made easier to those who feel the humiliation of the lesson to be drawn from the recent bulletin by the United States department of agriculture. BENJAMIN W. HUNT, Eatonton, Ga.

HOW DANGER LURKS IN GERMAN MEASLES

It Often Serves as Deadly Disguise for Real Measles and Scarlet Fever.

If an innocent-looking and apparently harmless little ailment comes tapping at your door this spring, and you say, "I am German Measles," don't you take anybody's word for it except that of your physician.

Of course nobody wants to have German measles. It can help it, and when the disease breaks out in the community, the state board of health urges that all the regular precautions against the epidemic be taken, but the principal danger lies in the fact that true measles or scarlet fever may be mistaken for it.

It is Highly Contagious. While not a dangerous disease as compared with the two latter mentioned, German measles is highly contagious and persons attacked with it suffer from many of the unpleasant symptoms that accompany true measles.

The first thing to do in a case of German measles is to make sure that it is really German measles. A simple method of diagnosis, after the rash appears, is to see if the glands at the back of the neck are enlarged. If they are, it is probably German measles.

Course of the Disease. After one has been exposed to the disease, it usually takes ten to twenty days for it to develop. The appearance of the rash is usually the only first symptom, though it may be accompanied by catarrhal symptoms and a general "sick" feeling.

Noted Methodist Divine in Wesleyan Commencement Sermon Says Jesus Is Reorganizer of Society.

Macon, Ga., May 25.—(Special).—Dr. James W. Lee, pastor of St. John's Methodist Episcopal church, south of St. Louis, Mo., delivered today before a large audience the commencement sermon for Wesleyan college.

Taking as his subject "Inspired Millenarism," he took an optimistic view of American life by stressing the number of wealthy men who have become imbued with the Christian spirit and used their money to aid their fellow men.

Dr. Lee, who is well known throughout the South, received a warm reception from his many friends in Macon on the occasion of his arrival here for the address Sunday morning.

His text was from I. Corinthians, III, 21-23: "All things are yours, whether Paul or Apollos or Cephas or the world or life or death, or things present or things to come, all are yours, and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's."

POSTAL CLERKS' HEAD DEFENDS 8-HOUR LAW

Jacob Ungar Answers Attack on Eight-Hour Law and Says It Is All Right.

Jacob Ungar, president of Atlanta branch No. 42, United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, makes an interesting statement in reference to the attitude of Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart, who holds that a large part of the delays in the handling of mail is incident to the operation of the eight-hour law.

This statement from the second assistant postmaster general has been generally published from Washington. President Ungar says: "The news articles appearing in The Constitution for May 22nd, entitled 'Eight-hour Law Blamed for Postoffice Delays,' may be misunderstood as being a statement from the postoffice department.

worked, most faithful, but least appreciated, public servant. He is required to be a person of high mentality, proven by a civil service test before entering the service.

"It cannot be possible that the honorable second assistant postmaster general interprets the eight-hour law in the language of your correspondent to-wit: Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart, who has charge of the transportation service of the department, regarded as one of the most efficient men of the service, blames a large part of the delays on the operation of the eight-hour law in the form it is now, but he favored overtime pay for the employees. His reason for this is that the postoffice officials have no recourse from the operations of this law under any circumstances—the willingness of the employees themselves to help out in a pinch makes no difference. If there comes an unexpected flood of mail matter into one of the postoffices, as there frequently does, its delivery must wait upon the observance of this restrictive regulation of the service. On the other hand, if the employees willing to work extra hours, on occasions when necessary, were permitted to do so, receiving extra compensation therefor, much of the delay and congestion now experienced could have been avoided."

Investigation of the systems of banking rural credits, as it was considered that, so narrow a subject would tend against the usefulness of the commission. The scope of the work was therefore enlarged to embrace the whole subject of co-operative effort as it touches agriculture and rural life.

The members divided into four sub-committees dealing with the subjects of finance, production, distribution and organization of agriculture and country life.

The first subcommittee has started an investigation into all forms of banking and credit affecting the agriculturists whether co-operative or non-co-operative, but is paying especial attention to the former as it is desired to disseminate into the North American continent some practical principle of self-help. All the bankers and financiers accompanying the commission are on this subcommittee.

Practical farming is being investigated by the second subcommittee, and it is inquiring into the Luronian associations formed for the purpose of increasing the fertility of the soil or the quality of crop and methods employed in raising and maintaining farmer's unions. It is studying in the first place of traveling government commissions of Italy which work for the benefit of the rural population but is also investigating semi-official and voluntary organizations.

The work of the commission really falls into three main channels—first observation in Europe of what has been done second observation in the British Isles (chiefly in Ireland) of the way in which it is being done and third and perhaps most important, the working out of a scheme by which the results of this observation may be made applicable to the widely differing conditions of the various American states and of the provinces of Canada.

Dr. Butterfield of Massachusetts has been nominated president of the commission, Colonel Harvey Jordan, of Georgia, secretary and Dr. Owsen of Washington, D. C. managing director. All of them are members of the federal commission appointed by President Wilson which is accompanying and co-operating with the American commission.

THOMASVILLE CLUB PROPERTY IS SOLD

Thomasville, Ga., May 25.—(Special)—The Country club property just out of Thomasville has been sold to Crawford Livingston, of St. Paul, Minn., for a price paid for it being $25,000. There are 235 acres comprised in this property, which for location and beauty of scenery is hard to surpass. There is a pretty club house on the property which was a popular resort for northern visitors in the days when Thomasville entertained numbers of winter tourists from all over the country.

Since the resort hotels here have been discontinued the club feature has been to a great extent given up and the golf links little used. The company owning the property has been anxious for some time to sell it, but preferred to dispose of it to some one who could keep it in a measure as it is instead of having it cut up into small lots. It is understood that Mr. Livingston will build a handsome winter home at an early date and no more beautiful situation for one could be found in the south. Mr. Livingston is well-known here having, with his family, spent several winters here. He is a man of wealth and will add another to the list of millionaire winter residents of Thomasville.

POPE GIVES WELCOME TO MANY PILGRIMS

Rome, May 25.—The pope received this morning in audience in consistorial hall, 299 persons, including 20 or more Americans. The pontiff appeared in excellent health in delivering a short address his voice was resonant. He thanked them for the visit and expressed the wish that for this act of filial piety, God would bless them beneficially.

In the afternoon the pope received in audience a great number of Venetian pilgrims who were accompanied by the Austrian ambassador. This reception took place also in consistorial hall, although it had been arranged to have the pilgrims gather in the court of San Damaso.

The Symbolic Key.

(From American Tailor and Cutter) Art, music and poetry have in all ages been considered the polite arts, but what is art without the proper portrayal of the dress of the age that it seeks to represent? What is music that does not bring inspiration from the masters of the past who were clothed in the power to give us glimpses of men and ideals of whom the only lasting impression can be gained by the form our imaginations give to them? And our imaginations clothe them in robes in which their creators sent them out on their errands of giving the world higher ideals. Then what is poetry but thought clothed in words? No matter from what side viewed, the figure of speech of clothing is the symbolic key that gives entrance to these higher realms and therefore why should not clothes themselves touch the hem of the garments of the arts, with which they are so closely in touch?

Remembering the Prisoners in the Fulton Tower

FLOWERS DISTRIBUTED BY CHURCH MEMBERS

Jails, Hospitals and Charitable Institutions Visited by Ladies and Children.

With wreaths of roses and floral garlands of many hues members of the First Christian church visited the jails, hospitals and charitable institutions of Atlanta Sunday afternoon, distributing over 1,000 bouquets of flowers, which the 150 members of the church and children of the Sunday school had gathered.

Since the innovation was introduced one year ago, Flower Day has been established as an annual event at the First Christian church, and this year even surpassed the success of one year ago, when the city's poor and unfortunate were showered with the floral offerings.

All the flowers, which later were distributed by committees of church workers, were placed in the front of the church and decorated the choir loft throughout the floral service. Dr. Bricker's sermon was based on the text, "The Lilies, How They Grow."

Why We Are Growing Fat.

(From The American Magazine) There are so many lost arts nowadays that one hesitates to add any more. We are told that letter-writing is a lost art, and conversation. We are sure that doing nothing must be because so many women develop neurasthenia when they attempt to practice it. The critics of the drama assure us that acting is, and the critics of literature that poetry is.

Yet, at the danger of overcrowding the mortuary chapel of the arts, a long observation of our highways, byways and the mountain trails has persuaded us that the art of walking has now perished also, and must be assigned to the same mournful resting place. Nobody walks any more except the Appalachian club, the Boy Scouts and President John Finley, of the College of the City of New York—really walks, that is. Walking is still practiced (as little as possible) utilitarianly. Many New York women, for example, totter on dizzy heels from their motors at the curb all the way across the sidewalk. But as an art it is no longer practiced. The secret has been forgotten by all save a chosen few—of whom of course we are one. We hold no brief against motors.

What's the use? Besides, they are very useful things in getting you to a convenient starting point for a walk. The only trouble with motors is that people stay in them. The yankee type used to be lank and snappy. Pioneers and pedestrians are always more or less lank and snappy. But the motors are altering our type. We are growing fat and soft-footed. The man who takes a 21-mile walk for the fun of it is looked upon as a mild sort of lunatic. Why walk when a motor will get you there so much quicker?

Best For Frying

The goodness and delicacy of fried foods depends upon the fat used for frying.

Swift's Silver-Leaf Lard

may be heated to a high degree without scorching or discoloring. This puts a delicate brown crust on the food so quickly that it prevents its becoming grease soaked, and it enables you to use Swift's Silver-Leaf Lard many times for frying before clarifying.

It is economical, pure, efficient and does not flavor the food cooked in it or absorb odors from the food. Government inspected and passed; put up always in tight covered new tin pails, 3 sizes.

Enthusiastic support was pledged to the circulation part of the work. The district meeting next year will be at Canton. The Toccoa News was named official organ of the ninth district.

MEMMINGER TO ADDRESS LUCY COBB GRADUATES

Athens, Ga., May 25.—(Special)—Rev. Hugh K. Walker, D. D., preached the baccalaureate sermon today at 11 o'clock in Seney-Stovall chapel on the occasion of the fifty-fifth commencement of Lucy Cobb institute. The sermon was one of beauty of thought and finish in expression and delivery. Dr. Walker this evening led the vesper service at the chapel.

Last night the commencement season at this historic old school, one of the graduates of which this year is the daughter of the governor, opened with the presentation of Percy Mackaye's beautiful Jeanne d'Arc, presented by the pupils of the oratory department, under the direction of Miss Carolyn Cobb.

The graduating exercises will be held at 8:30 tomorrow evening, the address to be delivered by Dr. W. W. Memminger, of Atlanta. Dr. Memminger is a scholar of rare culture and his address will be one of the most enjoyable features of Athens' commencement season.

The annual concert will be given tomorrow evening at 8:15 in Seney-Stovall chapel, and all who will attend the reception to the graduating class are cordially invited to be present. The program, which is a delightful one, will be given by the most advanced pupils in the music department, though the selections given will be light enough to be enjoyed by all persons who love good music but who are not themselves musicians.

GRADUATING EXERCISES AT STATE NORMAL TODAY

Athens, Ga., May 25.—(Special)—One of the shortest and best commencement sermons delivered in this city of commencement was that this morning of Dr. A. J. Moncrief, of Barnesville, before the students of the State Normal school. He spoke on "As a Man Thinketh in His Heart So Is He," and preached a direct, unembellished sermon on the inspiration of right thinking, the ideals of thought that are to be expressed in lives and character and achievement.

The annual concert last night at the state normal was one of the best ever given there. The baccalaureate address will be delivered Monday morning at 11:15 by President S. C. Mitchell, of the University of South Carolina. The graduating exercises are to occur Monday with graduates representing 121 counties of the state.

FOR SALE BY ALEXANDER-SEEWALD CO. AND KING HARDWARE CO.

WE believe more merchants that should advertise would do so if they could be made to understand that advertising isn't a one-day proposition.

With the exception of offers of goods at special prices for one or two days, the great value of continuous advertising lies in its cumulative effect.

You may not buy a safety razor today, tomorrow or next week. When you do buy, you are quite likely to buy a certain make that you have seen advertised everywhere—frequently in your morning paper. The advertising has impressed on you the merits and name of this safety razor and prepared you for the purchase.

Isn't it logical to suppose that you, too, can use advertising to the same end? to not only make sales today, but to impress on the memory of the readers the desirability of your goods, and your name? prepare them to buy from you when they do need goods like you offer?

And, how can you reach them to better advantage than from the columns of The Constitution, their morning newspaper, read at the beginning of each day, when new needs are known?

WHIFFS

Only Broke Even

THE CRACKERS only succeeded in breaking even during the past week at home winning two out of three from the Turtles and losing two out of three to the Gulls. It is to be hoped that during the coming week Billy Smith's boys pull themselves together and make a clean sweep.

Analyzing Gulls

AFTER SLEEKING Mike Sinn's Gulls in action for three days we are free to admit that he has a mighty nice-looking ball club. It is fairly well-balanced and for a team that has not been in the field a team that with a poor bunch of pitchers can go out and bang in enough runs to win just the same. If their pitchers falter they are likely to slip and slip fast. If the hitters come through they are going to be hard to head.

Team Play Counts

THE GULLS have been winning on team play. With a few particular stars, barring possibly their hurling staff and the hard hitting Robertson they have been winning games a plenty. It is because of this that they have been able to get out of the league. They have not been in the field a team that with a poor bunch of pitchers can go out and bang in enough runs to win just the same. If their pitchers falter they are likely to slip and slip fast. If the hitters come through they are going to be hard to head.

Deserving of Better

KING BRADY has been working like a track horse all season. Yet he has not been winning the number of games that he should with the class of ball that he has been twirling. It is to be hoped that the next time he hits the Cracker's and get over their better hitting habits and will regain their hitting class. They have won with a record over 900 per cent of his games with the form that he has shown this season. He has yet to pitch a bad game. Let look at the games he has lost.

The Winning Mood

THE LOCALS need a little self confidence. It is a belief that they are better than any team in the league. They have a winning mood. They have won with a record over 900 per cent of his games with the form that he has shown this season. He has yet to pitch a bad game. Let look at the games he has lost.

Let the Hints

THE TEAM has not recovered completely from the slump that it hit on the road trip due mostly to bad pitching. But a few games won in a few weeks will give the team the confidence when a team gets the winning habit keep your eyes on them. If the Cracker's ever get it there will be a new leader before another month has rolled by. The club is formidable a little of that college spirit would help. Let the boys were right with you. Now together for that long delayed winning streak.

Cost Dinner Through

JOHN PAUL JONES, the great Cornell mile runner, has announced his intention of returning from the college path after the intercollegiate track meet at Cambridge next Saturday. He has an engagement in position in Pittsburgh that he will accept. Pittsburgh friends however will persuade him to continue his athletic activities under the colors of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Has Lost Out

MARY CALHOUN, former Tech first baseman has lost out in his fight for a position at first base on the Boston Braves. The former jacket has been sold to the White Sox club of the New York State League by Manager Stallons.

Stovall Sorry

THE BROWNS manager is glad to be reinstated again. He makes the following statement concerning his reinstatement and the penalty attached. "Why certainly I will apologize. I have done so by mail and will do so when I see the umpire. You understand my position was on the impulse of the moment and I realize better than anybody else that it was not a gentlemanly act. Having committed a breach I am glad of the chance to set it right. If a person makes a mistake and does not acknowledge it I don't consider him much of a man."

Good Suggestions

WIKO LOUGHLIN, the veteran American League umpire blames the dragging of baseball games on the manager. It is his opinion that to some extent it is the fault of the manager. He says that a manager should have a pitcher take more than a usual length of time to pitch a ball. He is acting under instructions from his manager. If this was eliminated the pitcher would be able to get in and out of the game and the games would be shortened.

Cleveland and Brooklyn Are Outslugging Teams In Majors This Season

The Cleveland American and the Brooklyn National League have the best slugging teams in the major leagues this season. The former having a slugging average of .325 and the latter .320. Cleveland and Brooklyn made the most doubles. Cleveland has 10 and Brooklyn 9. The Red Sox and the Cubs the fewest. Cleveland and Pittsburgh the most home runs.

Gulls 4, Pelicans 3

Mobile Ala May 25—Mobile won 4 to 3 from the Pelicans before a large Sunday crowd. A score of 4 to 3, Clancy's error in the eighth giving the locals the winning run. Clancy was hit by the Pelicans in the first two innings, but settled down and pitched good ball. Cavet was wild and unsteady, although he kept his hits well scattered. The work of Robertson and Spencer at bat, each with three hits, featured.

Southern League Trailers At Ponce de Leon Today; Dent Will Probably Hurl

Charley Frank and his trailing Pelicans will arrive here shortly before noon this morning from Mobile, where they went to play a Sunday game and where they took the attraction at Ponce de Leon this afternoon and on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The poor showing of the Birds has been the surprise of the Southern League season. Practically every critic around the circuit picked them to be right among the leaders and to see New Orleans trailing the bunch is something unusual.

Just why such a condition exists has not been clearly explained. To the casual observer their main fault is that they lack pitchers. A fault that seems to be the main trouble with most of the Southern League teams. Add to this the fact that the Pelicans have proven themselves the poorest fielders in the league this year and the middle is good.

Dent May Pitch. Elliott Dent or Bill C. Appleby with the chances favoring the former will probably be the selection of Manager Smith to face the Gulls in the opener this afternoon.

Dent should win his game if he twirls the kind of ball that he showed against the Turtles for the first six innings and provided he does not get any glaringly bad support.

Dent has the stuff and he has confidence in his ability to deliver it. He is not disheartened over his first defeat. Just the opposite. He proposes to hurl even better against the Pelicans this afternoon.

Just who will oppose Dent is not known, but the chances are that John Swindell will draw the assignment.

Familiar Faces. Some familiar faces will be seen in the Pelican line up faces that are well known to the fans of the city in former seasons. Among them are Jake Atz at second, Frank Manning at third, Rebel Williams, former Cracker at short, Harry McIntyre in the box, Tim Hendrix in center, Spencer in left, Jack Adams behind the bat and Josh Swindell on the hill.

The new faces will be Snedcor, the former University of Alabama first baseman, Braen who has been playing in the outfield for Montgomery this season and is now in right for the Pelicans behind the bat and Brenton Wilson and Evans in the box.

Fast Practice Laps Made On Indianapolis Speedway; Big Race Comes Off Friday

Indianapolis, Ind., May 25—(Special)—Ten thousand speed fans who have had their interest in the third annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race, which will be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30, awakened by the arrival of the first race cars and drivers and the fast time made by the majority of the speeders in practice during the last week, gathered at the speedway this afternoon to see the cars work out.

The big grandstand near the start was well filled, but many of the spectators seemed to prefer places near the turns where there is always a chance for a spill when the drivers take the curve at too great a speed. The race car, carried off the honors of the day when he came down the stretch at a speed of 109 miles an hour. Nikrent and Endicot also were out with their cars and did some fast laps as did the Stutz and Henderson cars. The Frenchmen, Goux and Zucarrelli, are having some trouble caused by their reckless manner in taking the turns. Goux rides high on the curves and Ralph Delaney and Calib Bragg took two of the Mercers out for an airing and as they dashed down the straightaway they resembled yellow streaks.

Charles P. Root of Chicago, who will be the starter together with other officials was at the speedway in a consultation with the management. Many points of importance concerning the conducting of the race were taken up and plans figured out whereby the event will be handled with the precision of clockwork. The race officials were deeply interested in the preparations which are being made for the event and carefully planned every detail.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Under this head the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Dick Jensen Sporting Editor The Constitution. In a game here Thursday Opelika and Lawrence won 3 to 3 in the seventh inning. Opelika had the lead of the eighth inning. Lawrence scored a run in the eighth and with only one out retained. Does Lawrence win or was the game favor to the seventh inning? P. R. K.

Lawrence won. It is the same proposition as would come up with the score tied in the eighth of the ninth and Lawrence would score one run with only one out. One run was all that was needed to win the game. The home team, Lawrence had the last at bat. Whatever was the result in that part of the inning stands in the records. Op had the better score of the one run and Lawrence not completed her inning. The score would have reversed. This is the advantage of using a home team.

HUERTA STRIVING TO CRUSH ENEMIES

Predicted Capital of Sonora Will Be Taken From Rebels This Week—The Situation at Tampico Is Alarming.

Mexico City, May 25.—The war department expresses the belief that before the close of the week the government will be in possession of Hermosillo, capital of the state of Sonora, that much will be accomplished toward penetrating the Mexican railway between Toluca and Toluca, and that final progress will be made in the campaign now being directed from Monterrey. Rebel sympathizers, however, would not be surprised when the week closes the advantage would be on the side of the enemies of the government.

The attack on Morelia, capital of Michoacan, by the rebels, who are still occupying positions near the town, but the forwarding of federal reinforcements makes their success improbable. It is not considered that the government will fall into the hands of the rebels, who seem content to occupy the small towns in the rural districts. It is expected that their tactics of weakening the government by crippling the railroads, and there is reason to believe their plans include isolation of the Mexican capital, and by cutting the two trunk lines just to the north and the two lines to Vera Cruz, one of which is owned by British capitalists.

Concerns About Tampico. No dispatch has been received today from Monterrey or Tampico. Much concern is felt regarding the situation at Tampico, which is the center of a district quite thickly populated by American oil interests and farmers. It is believed that the garrison at Tampico is not able to do more than guard the city. Eight hundred troops were dispatched from here today to that district, but they may not penetrate farther than Tampico.

Reports from rebel districts say the rebel ranks are rapidly being filled. The government, however, is also building up its army, many of the recruits being former prisoners, until there are now more men under arms in Mexico than ever before. The character of these recruits and their lack of discipline makes operations with small bodies almost impossible. The rebels are moving in small mobile bands, which, for the past week, have been active in the states of Jalisco and Hidalgo, where they have been reported to have penetrated the federal district. A small government force was reported to have been in the capital and rebels raided a ranch near San Angel.

No Attack on Matamoros. Brownsville, Texas, May 25.—Up to a late hour tonight no attempt had been made to take Matamoros, across the boundary from Brownsville, by 200 federal troops, though it is said more rebels are reported within striking distance of the city. One band, 700 strong, is encamped 15 miles to the west, while smaller forces have been taken up to the city. It is believed the insurgents plan to harass the federalists into surrender, avoiding a general engagement, if possible. Wire fences built around Matamoros were charged with electricity today, and the greater number of the federal garrison spent the day in the trenches, awaiting an attack. Several Americans were detained by Mexican troops in Matamoros for a short time today. It is presumed they were suspected of being rebel sympathizers.

Mexicans Lack Food. Laredo, Texas, May 25.—Lack of food supplies is causing considerable suffering among Mexicans in the small towns between Monterrey and the American border, according to C. L. Black, representative of a Los Angeles lumber firm which reached this point tonight after an overland trip from the interior. Mr. Black said federal forces have concentrated at Villahermosa, 80 miles north of Monterrey, and are rebuilding the railroads.

Mexican Soldiers Executed. El Paso, Texas, May 25.—At daybreak in Juarez this morning Antonio Rodriguez and Inocencio Hernandez, privates of the Mexican army, were convicted of plotting to instill sedition among the federal garrison, were executed. Rodriguez accepted a handkerchief over his eyes and cringed at the command. An officer's pistol was necessary to end his life. Hernandez met his death stoically.

PEARL MICRECOCCUS KILLS TUBERCULOSIS. Paris, May 25.—The eminent physiologist, Professor Robert Dubois of the University of Lyons, has concluded a series of experiments, demonstrating the formation of pearls which causes the formation of pearls in oysters is fatal to the tubercle bacillus. Twelve guinea pigs were infected with tuberculous and then inoculated with a culture of the micrococci. Ten months later all had recovered except one.

Professor Dubois does not wish either to draw conclusions or to make predictions as a result of his experiments, which he is continuing, but hopes the discovery may aid in the extermination of tuberculosis. DESPERATE NEGRO, AT LAST SURROUNDED. Charleston, S. C., May 25.—A telephone message to The News and Courier from Barnwell says Sheriff Morris has wired that Austin, Hampton county fugitive, is positively located and surrounded in Screven county, Georgia, by the troops of the 10th and 11th regiments of the 8th and 9th divisions, and capture certain. The report is confirmed by the Allendale chief, who returned from the scene today. The fugitive and his wife have gone to the assistance of the posse.

CONTINENTAL CLUB RAIDED BY POLICE

Wagon Loads of Members Given Ride to Station in Police Patrol.

A man walking down South Broad street last night at 11:30 o'clock stopped another pedestrian, and asked: "Could you lend me carefare to get home on? I've just lost a little up at the Continental club, and I live a good distance from here."

The first speaker was a club member, and the second, in plain clothes, was Sergeant Maddox, of the police department. The sergeant, instead of lending the requested sum, gave the first-mentioned gentleman, with forty-six others, a free joy ride in the finest motorcade that the city could muster for the occasion.

Calling Officers L. B. Milan, R. A. Wood, Carter, Pittman, Loyd, Kilpatrick and Welch, the Continental club was duly raided and all within its confines placed under arrest, charged with disorderly conduct.

Wagon load after wagon load was brought from the club house to the police station. Men of every nationality and of none were rounded up, and treated to a free ride in a crowded, ride in the city's joy wagons.

After the first wagon load was emptied into the police station, the desk sergeant had his hands full, as most of the names were Greek and Sergeant Holcomb is distinctly American. A number of the men under arrest, who they were not gambling at all, simply drinking coffee, and were arrested as being in the place.

GREEKS AND BULGARS ARE STILL FIGHTING

London, May 25.—The strained relations between the Balkan allies show little improvement. A Times dispatch from Athens says that the Greek fleet, while passing Kavala, was fired upon by Bulgarian shore batteries.

This new incident, following the severe fighting at Saloniki, has created a painful impression at Athens, and the Greek government is making urgent representations to Bulgaria. The danger of a war between the allies distracts attention from the momentary success of the peace negotiations with Turkey.

A Constantinople dispatch to the Times says that Italy and Germany are disposed, no longer to oppose the cessation of practically all the Aegean islands to Greece.

Dayton Raises $2,000,000

Dayton, Ohio, May 25.—After a week's campaign to raise $2,000,000 to make the city safe against future attacks, the city fathers have decided the work was greeted tonight with wild demonstrations of rejoicing. Many instances are known of workmen contributing their homes in order to contribute to the fund.

A houseboat in the city of Dayton was the work of the day's campaign at a mass meeting tonight, when it was announced that the National Cash Register company, which had previously contributed $250,000, would double its gift.

Why Not Have a Houseboat?

(Home Crox, in Leslie's.) The word houseboat has a million-dollar sound. But that's wrong; dead wrong. You don't have to have a million dollars to exchange to own a houseboat. They run up and down in price about the same as automobiles. Goodness knows, if you want to stick a fortune in one you can—there's always a hole for the money; but if you want to keep your eye on the money bag, as most of us do, you can own a houseboat and still not worry about when the next meal is coming from a houseboat floating home on the water; it's queezing up the kitchen, folding up the sitting room, compressing the bathroom and putting a hull under them. Then you can knock around anywhere you want to float. You'll hear about bought a houseboat for $300. She picked up an old hull from a fishing man, caulked up the holes, built a cabin, named the craft and it was home.

A houseboat doesn't cost so much until you do one thing; as soon as you put power into one then it begins to demand money. By power, is meant, of course, an engine to run it. The natural houseboat floats. There are three kinds of these craft; the floater, the one that you sail and the one that has an engine. The one without any power at all you have to tow around with another boat. It does with the current and that is all. The second kind gets around under spread of sail. When you put an engine in you don't give a whoop about the weather. Whim and not wind runs it then.

A houseboat has it over a yacht in a lot of ways; it's not so expensive and it has more room. If you have $1,200 tucked away in an old woolen sock under a stone in front of the fireplace you can have a perfectly corking time this summer on a houseboat.

Did Not Fool the King.

(Countess Marie Larisch.) King Ludwig II, of Bavaria, had a wonderful winter garden at Munich, which was built on the roof of the palace. The king had a picture of a lake with a painted panoramic background of the Himalaya mountains, and when the king sat in the garden a "property" moon shed its gaseous light above the snow-capped peaks. The kind used often to command artists from the theater to perform in the winter gardens, and I remember the fate which befell Josephina Schatzky a large tall woman whose one wish in life was to attract Ludwig's notice. As all singers sang hidden behind screens, Josephina's chances of meeting the king face to face were exceedingly small; but what woman is ever at a loss for an expedient? She knew how chivalrously romantic Ludwig could be on occasions, so she decided she would fall into the lake, and entreat him to rescue her.

The eventful evening arrived, Josephina warbled her sweetest for the benefit of the listening monarch, and when the song was over plunged heavily into the lake. There was a tremendous noise, and the water splashed to the topmost summit of the Himalayas, but the lady remained chin-deep in the lake, whose still waters were not so deep as they looked. "Save me, save me, Lohengrin," cried the agitated singer. The king rang the bell. "Get that woman out of the lake and send her home," he commanded, and the dipping Josephina, sadder and wiser, walked out of the water and out of the residence forever.

The robbery was discovered when the servants found themselves locked in. Police seek former servants.

"CATCH MY PAL" FIGHT TO STOP DRINKING

New York, May 25.—Here to spread the gospel of the "Catch my Pal" crusade, a temperance movement which he originated, Robert J. Patterson, of county Armagh, Ireland, arrived today on the steamer Cameronia. He declared that 150,000 persons in Ireland have joined the movement. Each person who joins the cause writes a clergyman advocate and pledges himself not to use intoxicants in under obligation to secure another adherent.

The crusader's individual appeals to passengers on the way across resulted in one of the "driest" trips the Cameronia ever made. The highball output of the Scotch liner was limited and a few connections of the kind ordered were for the most part served by stewards, who wore the "catch my pal" buttons.

ASHES OF POET MILLER GIVEN TO THE FLAMES

Oakland, Cal., May 25.—The ashes of the late Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras, were scattered today among the flames of a funeral pyre that had been built by the poet's own hands. The ceremony was held at the Miller home, the Heights, the Bohemian club, of San Francisco, was in charge of the rites, which were witnessed by more than 500 persons, including the poet's widow and daughter, Juana, and many old-time friends. The services were in accordance with Miller's dying wishes.

No Tunnel Under Canal.

Panama, May 25.—A plan for the construction of a tunnel under the canal which was recently forwarded to Washington with a favorable recommendation now has been abandoned. It is understood, by Colonel George W. Goethals, chief engineer. This is due to the excessive cost, as shown by the final estimate. The construction of a bridge or the establishment of a ferryboat service will be taken under consideration.

APATHY OF PUBLIC CRYING EVIL OF DAY

Robt Alston Criticizes Tendency of Some Corporations to Meddle in the Political Field.

Likening these corporations which rally political power about them to feudal barons gathering their military underloads, Robert Alston, general counsel for the Southern Express company, denounced the crying evil of the day as a general apathy which enables those holding adverse interests to possess themselves of the spoils.

"The public is enraged by a despotism of a few corporations, and in an address to students of the Atlanta Law school, and members of the local bar, "There is an irrespressible tendency on the part of some corporations to meddle in politics, and most voters are too busy with their private business to resent the gradual aggression of self-seeking corporations."

"The rapid and continued accumulation of wealth by corporate power is the next great evil we will have to combat," said Dean Hamilton Douglas in introducing Robert Alston as one of the first graduates of the Atlanta Law school and now of the leading corporation lawyers of the south.

"Our constitution is nearly all commercial," said Mr. Alston. "The bill of human rights is embodied in the amendments. How great is the power conferred by less than a dozen words: 'The people shall have the power to regulate commerce between the several states.' That clause is like an inverted cone. Volumes upon volumes of laws are based on those few words: 'The people shall have the power to regulate commerce between the several states.'"

Commenting upon how the Webb bill can be sustained, Mr. Alston said: "While congress has no power to prohibit all commerce, it has the power to prohibit all things in commerce which poison the whole. This may mean liquor, it may mean interstate traffic in women."

"White slavery is an evil which exists in waves and today the public is either more aroused, or there is more than ever of white slavery. To bring a woman from one state to another for immoral purposes is unconstitutional, and Jack Johnson was convicted on seven counts for white slavery because he did this."

commercialized vice is now on its earnest, another phase of interstate commerce has a big commercial significance. Corporations operating in restraint of trade have been declared illegal, but the smaller of the great manufacturers do not really know if they are in a twilight zone.

"The idea of state's rights was knocked into a cocked hat by the employers' liability act. The federal government can now dictate to trains running between points in different states as to how they shall be run, and they shall charge, if there is a million dollars of interstate merchandise in a train, and but one dollar of interstate goods, the national government has the right to intervene."

After his address on interstate commerce, Dean Hamilton Douglas announced that Mr. Alston had offered a prize in the form of a gold medal to be awarded every year to that member of the senior class of the Atlanta Law school, who writes the best thesis on some phase of interstate commerce. This year the subject for the Alston prize is "The Civil Rights Cases."

Bill's Importation.

(From Judge.) We all was married—all of us. What owned the Skookum mine—But Bill, the city bachelor. Who never did incline. To splice with any local girls. Though they all liked him fine. The women folks got after Bill. For putting on of airs. And 'lowin' her great freedom was. From conjugal cares. They proved how man ain't worth a cuss. Not travellin' in pairs.

So Bill he writ a letter to. A weddin' cheerier. Or bureau—I don't just recall. 'Spout 'tis a thing to recall. Through claimin' it gives hungry hearts. The proper kind of steer. They caught a female wife fer Bill. And shipped her in by freight. The women folks was some dejected. But Bill seemed pleased first rate. And says the importation scheme is fine to get a mate.

The days wore on and almost out. And soon they bring a change. The joysome Bill became a grouch. The worst on Cascade Range. He wasn't no more welcome home. Than pup hounds with the maids. So Bill concludes, with womankind. All signs and omens fall. He sells his shares and says, "Good-by!" 'Tis gone to hit the trail. For the female of her species is. Most deadly got by mail. —C. R. Moore.

Hope Does Not Enter Here.

(Charles Wellington Furlong, in Harper's Magazine.) Cayenne red pepper to the world at large, hell to the few thousand of convicts transported to this isolated, northeastern corner of equatorial South America. Here, it was rumored, existed one of the world's most antiquated and revolting penal systems, where and revolting penal systems, where and thousands of men are exiled and doomed to a living death. Men from French Guiana had intimated conditions which vied with the cruelties of the old convict ships.

Groups of convicts lounged about or lay slack and unoccupied on the verandas. At night the barred front door of each dormitory is locked, and outside paces a guard, revolver in hand. Sometimes under cover of darkness the inmates settle funds. Occasionally a convict leader, rival gang fight with cudgels, knives and even paving stones. Some disabled, others dead, the most indomitable are reconciled and form a transient secret society. Many a poor wretch dreads the night hours, and one suspected of informing may be set upon by an enraged pack. Occasionally murder is committed in profound silence, and daylight finds a dead man lying in the passageway or entrance. "No, no home here!" was the echoed murmur of his comrades.
