Chief Expects Arrests In Vice Probe

Chief Beavers Declares Now and Startling Arrests Are Near. Alleged Procuress Held

With the principle in the sensational vice case, Hattie Smith, a 17-year-old girl victim, Mrs. Lena Barnhart, a flashy-dressed woman, alleged white slave procurer, Liza Murray, and Clyde Cox, the youth who was arrested in the hotel raid, all bound over to the higher courts, the police Thursday turned the full fare of a searching investigation directly on the hotels and alleged immoral resorts, with the result that new arrests and startling developments were expected during the day.

Chief Beavers Thursday morning declared that he craved would include the main principals in the vice system as well as the women.

A number of names were given him by Hattie Smith. He will use these as a start along in his investigation, and sensational results are expected.

Chief Tells Story in Court. The remarkable case came to a close Wednesday afternoon when the Birmingham court heard the story. She did not utter a word.

It was in a soda fountain on Cross Street, near James, that she first saw the Barnhart woman, she said. Often she stopped in the soda fountain and usually the woman was there, talking with men or preparing to ride with them in an automobile, she said.

"One day about two weeks ago I said who she was. She seemed so popular, was dressed so nicely and had so many friends that I just wanted to know who she was. It was the same day one of the men asked me to go for an automobile ride with him, I said I would.

"When we returned to Atlanta the woman asked me to go with her to the Carnegie library. That night I went with her to the Carnegie library. She said she was going with her to the Cumberland Hotel and there she said she would like to have a partner and I said I would go with her. She suggested that she go to the hotel first and arrange for me a room. I followed and found the room 48 had been assigned Lucile Evans, my new name.

"Later I went out on the streets and was picked up by an automobile party that carried me to my home on Sixteenth Street. Thursday night I went back to the woman at the Cumberland Hotel and made an engagement with Clyde Cox, who was arrested with me Sunday night.

"The following night, Friday night, I met a man named Brewer, who said he was from Washington. I went with him to the British Hotel. He registered as Mr. and Mrs. Brewer. The next morning I received a telephone call from Mr. Barnhart, to meet her at the Empire Life Building I rode over in a taxi, so as to be there on time. We went from there to the Cumberland. Mrs. Barnhart offered to pay for my room at the Cumberland until I could get something to do."

Judge Jiroves severely scolded Mrs. Barnhart. He ordered the officers to take her child away and have it provided for in the home for the friendless. Her bond was fixed at $100. The other bonds were $100.

PRICE FACES GULLS IN OPEER

Mobile Cashes Two Runs in First Inning When Locals Play Bush League Ball

PONCE DE LEON PARK, July 10.—The Crackers opened here this afternoon with the Gulls in a series that is likely to decide for all time the leadership of the league. Price and Covert were the pitchers selected to do the work.

THE GAME. Stock was thrown out by Smith. McCall was safe at the opening leg when he bled three runs with the grounder. D. Robertson died on an easy roller to Ayer. McCall moving up to the midway. Price's hand was all better for O'Dell's grounder and on the error the former Cracker landed safely at the opening cushion, while McCall trotted to third. O'Dell pluffed bad to the city. Baskin pitched to Chapman. No hits, two runs.

LONG LOCK TO O'DELL. Velasquez leaped against the pill for a double to third. Algerman peppered a one-throw to first. Baskin pulled up at third. Baskin pulled up at third. Baskin pulled up at third. Baskin pulled up at third.

CLARK JAMMED A SINGLE over Smith's head. Campbell's best was a joint that Hildand was called. Cavel sent a roller to Price, who relayed to Hildand, forcing the Clark at second. Stock raised a single pop to Smith. ONE HIT, NO RUNS.

HILAND DID A GROUNDER over the O'Dell-Hobson route. Ayer grounded the hearts with a single to right. Cavel and Robertson did all that was possible with the bats. Stock raised a roller after hustled to second on the out. Price dropped a pretty hunt down to the city. While the bats were out, the committee continued to try into the sewer of the wood lobby, the Garrett committee of the House, appointed by Speaker Clark yesterday, made plans for an inquiry into the Mullhall charges.

THIRD INNING. McCall had a good eye and waited until four had gone. Long pulled down Robertson's good-looking walk. O'Dell took the easy road to first on four batted balls. McCall pitched to the pitcher. TWO HITS, NO RUNS.

NEGRO MADE BOAST OF KILLING A GIRL, AGENT DECLARES

Attorneys for Frank Will Put Main Reliance of Defense on the Startling Affidavit Made by W. H. Mincey and Now in Their Possession.

That Jim Conley, negro sweeper at the National Pencil Factory, made a virtual confession to him that he attacked and killed Mary Phagan is the startling allegation made in an affidavit by William H. Mincey, until recently a solicitor for the American Insurance Company, of 115 1/2 North Pryor Street.

It became known Thursday that this affidavit, which is in the hands of the defense, is in the principal reliance, aside from the alibi which has been established for Frank, in bringing an acquittal of the accused man and obtaining a conviction against the negro.

No other evidence, in all of the more than two months' investigation of the mystery, has been so damning and so direct. The defense has practically only to establish the credibility of Mincey to assure itself of victory.

Gold Had Killed Girl. This sensational information is the first hint that the public has had that the negro was alleged to have made a confession of the crime. Up to this time the detectives have said that Conley had denied all connection with the killing itself.

"I've killed a girl to-day; I don't want to kill nobody else," are the words that Mincey swore Conley spoke to him the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered in the pencil factory.

Mincey at the time of which his affidavit related was selling life insurance in the negro district. He knew Conley and had been after him several times to take out life insurance, according to the story he told in the office of Attorney Rosser.

Conley Was Drunk. On the afternoon of the murder of Mary Phagan he was drunk near Electric and Carter Streets. Conley was sitting down with his head in his hands, apparently intoxicated.

"How about that insurance?" Mincey says he asked Conley. "Get away from here. I don't want no insurance," Conley is said to have replied.

Mincey says in his affidavit that he urged Conley further and that the negro appeared to be angry. "I tell you I don't want no insurance," Conley said. "I'm in trouble. I don't want you to bother me," Mincey swears Conley replied.

Mincey asserts that he stayed to argue with Conley and that the negro finally said: "Go to hell."

Negro Was Enraged. His startling confession of murder is alleged to have come when he became enraged at Mincey's continued importunities.

The negro jumped to his feet and advanced toward Mincey menacingly, according to the affidavit. "He killed a girl to-day; I don't want to kill nobody else," Mincey declared Conley shouted at him. Mincey thought little of the remark at the time, regarding Conley as an exaggeration of some negro fight in which he had been involved. When the fact about the murder was revealed the remarks of Conley.

On the Tuesday following the arranging of the little girl he went to the pencil factory. He talked to E. F. Holloway, the day watchman, and asked him how many negroes were employed there. Holloway replied that there were seven or eight. He thought about the matter, and one of these arrested on Oct. 10, 1912, was the year's low record was 16,000.

him. And then he told of his meeting with Conley. Holloway replied that Conley had not been in the factory that day, no one knowing at the time that the negro had hidden himself in the boxes to the right of the stairway on the first floor.

The shock of the tragedy had not yet worn off, and all was confusion in the building. Because no one suspected that Conley had been in the factory on the Saturday of the Leo Frank trial, a fact which Conley later admitted when under the degree of the detectives, little attention was paid to Mincey's affidavit.

Days Police Wouldn't Listen.
He states that he went to the police station and was told that they did not want his affidavit. He saw Conley and identified him as the negro with whom he talked on the afternoon that Mary Phagan was murdered.

When Conley finally broke down and admitted that he had been hiding on the first floor, Mincey's resignation at short took on the highest significance. He returned to the factory and repeated the details of his former statement. An interview was arranged with a lawyer acquaintance not connected with the case in any way. This attorney heard his story and took him to Attorney Lowery, where the statement was taken in sworn form.

"We do not want your statement unless you can swear to the truth of every word of it," he was told. "If there dictated the affidavit which is now in possession of the defense."

Mincey was a solicitor for the American Insurance Company until about two weeks ago. He left his firm to teach school. He is said to be employed in Chattanooga, but will return to teach at the trial of Leo Frank July 25. He lived at 128 Duval Street until last October and then moved to another part of the city.

Defense Has Faith in It.
Covering for the first time the details of the defense, Frank's lawyers have built up around him, as well as containing the first report of a confession from Conley, the affidavit signed by Mincey, a new twist to the case.

"Yes, we have the affidavit," admitted one of the lawyers for the defense Thursday afternoon. "We have had it for some time. We place the utmost reliance in it. We believe this man is telling the truth. It forms one of the strongest foundations for our belief in the guilt of Leo Frank."

C. J. Graham, of the law firm of Graham & Chipman, announced on Thursday that the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus for Leo Frank had been set by Judge Ellis for Saturday forenoon at 11 o'clock. He said that he would subpoena 25 witnesses to appear at the hearing among them Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley.

Frank's attorneys will fight his appearance at the hearing and the writ is expected to try to prevent Conley from testifying. Solicitor Dancy is strongly opposed to the freeing of Leo until after the trial of Frank, and has declared that he will use every effort to thwart the movement of Leo's attorneys.

BARROW COUNTY INSURANCE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Measure Approved 136 to 35 Despite the Hardman Opposition. Crowded Galleries Cheer.

The bill creating the new county of Barrow, to be made up of sections of Walton, Gwinnett and Jackson, and Winder as the county seat, passed the House today by a vote of 136 to 35.

The measure came from the Constitutional Amendments Committee with a unanimous recommendation for its passage, but it was not put through the House until after a gasoline display had been introduced in the hall.

The fight against Barrow was led by Hardman, of Jefferson, who attacked it by moving to postpone action upon it until next session. Had that motion prevailed, the bill would have been killed, beyond hope of resurrection.

Barrow County has been looked upon generally as not to win out. It has been before the Legislature before, and many members who voted for it today explained their vote by saying that they voted upon the merits of the proposition entirely, but were not convinced enough to vote for it.

The impression is that Barrow will pass the Senate and go to the people for ratification in the next general election.

During the voting on the bill, the galleries were packed with citizens from the territory affected, and when the vote was announced the result brought great applause.

GARRISON PLANS TO ABANDON 100 ARMY POSTS

War Secretary Calls Them Useless, Demoralizing, Wasteful. Ready to Fight Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The most radical and dramatic move in army administration since 1818 has been determined by Secretary of War Garrison. He intends to bring before Congress the question of maintaining 100 or more "absolutely useless" army posts in the interior.

He intends to withdraw troops from at least 75 per cent of them in the interest of economy and efficiency, and next Wednesday will start on a five weeks' tour of the posts to crystallize the details of the policy he announced today.

Secretary Garrison is dissatisfied with the "wasteful and extravagant way in which the army is being conducted," and lays it all to the account of maintaining army posts as part of the "pork barrel" into which every member of Congress dips his fingers.

There are at present 157 posts in the country, an average of one post to every 250 soldiers in the army. Every State is represented.

The Secretary of War has made a preliminary investigation, which has proved to him that the maintenance of all these posts, of which he believes that 100 are unnecessary, is not only demoralizing to the army, but the most extravagant way of wasting Government money ever devised.

Plans to Block Congress.
Congress obstructs his policy of unifying the post, the Secretary of War intends to use his executive powers of withdrawing troops from those posts which he believes are unnecessary.

Mr. Garrison will be accompanied by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, and Quartermaster General Aldrich.

The plan of centralizing the army has been under consideration for several years. General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, on his last visit to Atlanta, stated that the plan would be put into effect.

Mr. Garrison will be accompanied by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, and Quartermaster General Aldrich.

New York Dressmaker Describes Petteicoated Mode and Harum Skirt From Paris.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The "prudes can not stop them—they are here. That is, they are in Paris, which means that American women of fashion will bring them home with them this fall and winter," said Mrs. Bernard, Fifth Avenue model, who has just arrived from abroad with the first harvest skirt and the silhouette gown.

The former resembles Turkish trousers, which have succeeded the silk skirt, and the latter is a new French creation of lace and pleated tulle worn with light silk of white or flesh pink, with no suggestion of a petticoat unless it be of filmy material.

The silk skirt has been the most graceful and attractive made for women which has been worn in many years, as all of the great fashion leaders of Paris declare, said Mrs. Bernard.

"The silhouette gown, which is built on Greek lines, is an adaptation of the Greek dress, which is a combination of the figure is graceful. It is like looking at a Greek statue."

The gown is so arranged that it is built by means of a slit up the front to the knees, and is fastened across at the ankles a sort of trouser effect is obtained, which only shows when the wearer moves about.

Society Leaders, in Masks, See Risque Paris Play 'I Love It'

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, July 10.—Wearing of masks by society women who attend risky theatrical productions, but who are ashamed to let their relatives and friends know of it, has come into vogue here.

A large number of women from court circles are daily attending the risque French show, "I Love It," but all wear masks for fear of the censure of their husbands and of Queen Mary, who has forbidden any of her ladies to enter from entering the Middlesex Theater, where the production is on.

Clergymen are beseeching the censor to stop up the theater, declaring it will debauch all who see it because of its gross immorality.

CRAWFORD WILL FIGHT HANGS ON EXPERTS

Attorneys for Widow of Capitalist Declare Poison Evidence Will Be Shattered.

A positive statement from Dr. F. H. Harris, of the State Board of Health, that Joshua Crawford died of morphine poisoning instead of pneumonia, the announced cause of his death by the attending physician, Dr. J. W. Hurt, was the sensational development in the Crawford $450,000 will case Thursday.

Dr. Harris was called to the stand at noon. Attorney Reuben Arnold, for Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, the widow, to whom all the estate was left, pleaded him to the assertion.

For the first time in his career, he said, he doubted from his own observation of the evidence that he merely mentioning possibilities or probabilities.

"There was absolutely no trace of pneumonia or any disease of the lungs," said Dr. Harris. "Morphine poisoning very likely produced death."

Statement Unshaken.
Dr. Harris was on the stand for very nearly an hour, but his statement was unshaken.

No announcement would be made by the attorney for the heirs-at-law, who number more than thirty, but it was confidently understood they would not rest the case until the introduction of Dr. Harris, but would have other experts, and probably members of the family to take the stand in an effort to substantiate the evidence of Dr. Harris.

Attorney Arnold stated he would be torn to pieces when he put Dr. J. W. Hurt on the stand to tell of administering morphine and opium to Crawford in an effort to stop the violent fits of coughing and near congestion of the lungs, with which he suffered in the last month of his life.

Widow Not in Court.
His intimated also that he would introduce experts to prove that the quantities of opium and morphine found in Crawford's stomach, which Dr. Harris was not sufficient to produce death, nor more than a normal dose administered by the average physician.

Mrs. Crawford, the widow, was not in the courtroom Wednesday, when the motion theory was advanced by Dr. Harris, and it was doubtful whether she would attend the hearing Thursday.

Hears-at-law to the estate and their friends attended in large numbers, and despite the fact it is a strictly civil procedure and no court official is presiding, it had all the appearance and interest of a sensational criminal trial.

When FARRIS got up, he was accompanied by Attorney A. D. Garrison, who is representing the heirs-at-law.

him. And then he told of his meeting with Conley. Following replied that Conley had not been in the factory that day, no one knowing at the time that the negro had hidden himself in the boxes to the rear of the stairway on the first floor.

The shock of the tragedy had not yet worn off and all were confident in the building. Because no one suspected that Conley had hidden in the factory on the Saturday of the crime, it is felt that the negro must have been under the third degree of the detectives, little more than a week to Mincey's story at the time.

Days before the trial, Mincey stated that he went to the police station and was told by the chief of police that Conley had been identified by the negro with whom he talked on the afternoon that Mary Flanagan was murdered.

When Conley himself broke down and admitted that he had been hiding on the first floor, Mincey's sensational story took on the biggest significance. He returned to the factory and repeated the details of his former statement. An interview was arranged with a lawyer acquaintance not connected with the case in any way.

This attorney heard the story and took him to Attorney Hoover, where the statement was taken in sworn form. We do not want your statement unless you can swear to the truth of every word of it," he was told. He then dictated the affidavit, which is now in possession of the defense.

Mincey was a auditor for the American Insurance Company until about two weeks ago. He left this position to teach school. He is said to be employed in Chattanooga, but will return to testify at the trial of Leo Frank July 27. He lives at 228 Davis Street until late October and then moved to another part of the city.

Conveying for the first time the substance of his sworn affidavit, Frank's lawyers have built up around him, as well as containing the first report of a confession from Conley, the affidavit signed by Mincey at once later in place as the most important document in the case.

"We have the affidavit," admitted one of the lawyers for the defense Thursday afternoon. "We have had it for some time. We place it in the most reliable place. We believe that man is telling the truth. It forms one of the strongest evidences in the case."

C. J. Graham, of the law firm of Graham & Chappell, announced on Thursday that the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus for Leo Frank had been set by Judge Little for Saturday afternoon at 10 o'clock. He said that he would subpoena all witnesses to appear at the hearing among them Leo M. Frank and Jim Conley.

Frank's attorneys will fight his appearance at the hearing and the State is expected to try to prevent Conley from testifying. Solicitor Burgin is strongly opposed to the freeing of Leo until after the trial of Frank and has declared that he will use every effort to thwart the movement of Leo's attorneys.

BARROW COUNTY INSURANCE BILL PASSED BY HOUSE FIRST GENERAL ACT PASSED

Measure Approved 136 to 35 Despite the Hardeman Opposition. Lower House Adopts Wohlwendner Measure After Half an Hour of Debate.

The bill creating the new county of Barrow, to be made up of sections of Walton, Clinch and Jackson, with Winder as the county seat, passed the House to-day by a vote of 136 to 35.

The measure came from the Constitutional Amendments Committee with a unanimous recommendation for its passage, but it was not put through the House until after a genuine display had been indulged in.

The fight against Barrow was led by Hardeman, Jefferson, who attacked it by moving to postpone action on it until next session. Had that motion prevailed, the bill would have been killed, beyond hope of resurrection.

Barrow County has been looked upon generally as apt to win out. It has been before the Legislature before, and many members who voted for it to-day explained their votes by saying that they voted upon the merits of the proposition entirely, which were evident enough to the Constitutional Amendments Committee to get a unanimous favorable report therefrom.

BEAVERS' WAR ON VICE IS LAUDED BY WOMEN

Georgia Suffragists Adopt Resolution Indorsing Chief's Course in Atlanta.

Chief of Police Beavers' fight against vice was enthusiastically indorsed at the Thursday morning session of the convention of the Georgia Woman Suffrage Association. The following resolution, introduced by Mrs. Margaret T. McWhorter, was adopted:

"The Georgia Woman Suffrage Association realizes the high civic ideals which actuate Chief of Police James L. Beavers, of Atlanta, and wishes to place on record as indorsing every move which he has taken for good government and the betterment of the city especially do we commend his action in the matter of recommending the appointment of women probation officers for Atlanta; therefore:

Resolved, That we convey to him our hearty congratulations and pledge to him the support and cooperation of the association in securing the appointment of these women officers, and also pledge our cooperation in any movement toward bettering civic conditions of Atlanta, which mean better civic conditions for the whole State, and be it further:

Resolved, That the Atlanta Georgian, The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal be requested to publish these resolutions.

Mrs. McWhorter's resolution invoked tremendous enthusiasm among the delegates to the convention, and the indorsement of the association was given to Chief Beavers without a dissenting vote.

The association also paid its unconditional indorsement to an editorial appearing in the Georgian Thursday, July 17, which was read from the platform by Mrs. Susan Cunningham, secretary, formerly of the Alabama Equal Suffrage Association. The editorial commended the action of the Georgia Senate in refusing to allow a bill to be introduced in the Senate chamber, and congratulates the House for allowing the bill to pass.

Cunningham referred to the editorial as inspiring and wonderful, and she also congratulated the members of the association.

The recommendation of the committee that the association work for a constitutional amendment striking out the word "male" from the State Constitution was adopted.

Contrary to expectations, no member of the League was present to oppose to fight for the control of the State organization. Mrs. Mary L. McWhorter, president, made a brief reference to the trouble with the league members, headed by Mrs. Phoebe Whiteside.

She declared that the members of the Civic League had outwitted themselves from the Civic League Association because of non-payment of dues.

She declared that the contention of the league that the State constitution had ceased to exist because no convention was held in 1912 was not borne out by the provisions of the constitution, which declare that the holding of a convention shall be at the discretion of the executive committee.
