Major James G. Woodward issued a final call to arms to his supporters Monday, urging that they nominate W. A. Hancock, Amos Braselton and C. C. McDonald to the Aldermanic Board in the white primary Tuesday.

"I've got no ticket," he said, "but if the people will elect these men it will be an assurance that the Aldermanic Board will have a majority that will be conservative and that will work in harmony with the administration."

"I am very anxious to see them elected. With the recall we can get the others into the right line, which is to handle the people's business in a businesslike way."

"We would have saved $100,000 if the city's business had been conducted properly during the past year."

"A battle of wits is being fought just as vigorously as Mayor Woodard and the men he is supporting. Report of a stormy winter has been given the Mayor and Councilman Claude L. Ashley at a committee meeting in the City Hall the other day illustrates the intensity of the feeling on both sides. Mr. Ashley is said to have received the support of many supporters in Council."

"Amos Braselton will overwhelm Thomson for Alderman of the Fourth Ward," Mayor Woodard is reported to have said.

"It will be a reflection on the Fourth Ward," Councilman Ashley is said to have replied.

"I don't see why you are for Thomson," the Mayor retorted.

"Mr. Mayor, Mr. Braselton hasn't lived in the Fourth Ward long enough to be called a Fourth Ward citizen," replied Councilman Ashley.

"He is not even a registered voter in that ward," the Mayor replied.

"He'd represent the ward better than I has been represented," continued the Mayor, according to the account of the argument.

"He won't have a chance to represent it all so far as this election is concerned," John B. Owens is contending the nomination of W. A. Hancock for Alderman from the Eighth Ward with a well-organized campaign, and Alderman James E. Warren, of the Third Ward, is confident he will defeat C. C. McDonald for the place he now holds.

WOODWARD BRIEF BILL 'WASTE' 'ACCEPTED SEATE'

Issues Summons to Polls, Asking Support in Effort to Cut Down Expenditure.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The House managers in the conference on the Underwood tariff bill today reported to the House the results of the conference.

A large part of the bill was accepted by the Senate as they were not in conference. The Senate went out on 417 of its amendments, recorded from 131, compromised on 17 and the conference disagreed on one subject only, cotton futures taxation.

The reductions in the present tariff duties on more than two-thirds of the articles in everyday use are given below. The rates given are ad valorem, the specific duties of the Payne law having been reduced to an ad valorem basis.

In free listing wheat, flour, potatoes, cattle and swine, a conventional duty is provided for the evening up of discrimination by any country against imports from the United States of the articles.

THE LAYERS GAGGED BY RIGOR

The Rev. Hugh Wallace Candler, pastor of the Jones Avenue Baptist Church, Monday gave out a caustic statement criticizing the church for its failure to tackle and remedy what he terms "deplorable labor conditions" in Atlanta, particularly as affecting working women and girls.

The Rev. Mr. Wallace made the direct charge that the mouths of some preachers are "padded" by the poor people who labor for them. He said in church on Sunday, and then got out Monday to express and rebuke labor conditions and engage in a fight for their betterment, the rich factory owners would advise him to look for another job, said Mr. Wallace.

Here is his statement: "The church of God is sleeping. 'The church of God' has so completely slept on its job that the struggle for betterment has been forgotten to organize to preserve their existence. If this church had done its duty in preaching the great truths of God's Word on this burning question there would have been no need for the present agitation taking up the word. But there are reasons why the church has not taken up this question."

"If the preacher dared to tell and do a regular week day business was made to Chief Beavers Monday by Mrs. E. Panofsky, of No. 105 Mills street, herself proprietor of a store."

Chief Beavers declared that a great injustice was being done other merchants who obeyed the Sunday laws.

Chief Beavers has given instructions to the police to make cases whenever a Sunday law violation is found.

"I pastor to continue attack. I intend to preach on this same question again, and I invite all those who are interested in this great question to come out and hear the facts that I shall present."

From statistics he had obtained, the steamer Mohawk of the Manhattan Navigation Company, bound from New York to Albany with 300 passengers on board, went aground six miles north of here today. Chief S. Kelly, of New York, was thrown from his berth and sustained internal injuries which may prove fatal.

A panic followed the accident and in the excitement another passenger drowned a life belt and leaped overboard. He was rescued with difficulty.

Mayor Attacks Waste in Aldermanic Campaign

SAVES WOMEN'S SEEP IN FIRE

WOODWARD FIGHTS TO WIN CITY BOARD

Issues Summons to Polls, Asking Support in Effort to Cut Down Extravagance.

Mayor James G. Woodward issued a final call to arms to his supporters Monday, urging that they nominate W. A. Hancock, Amos Braselton and C. C. McDonald to the Aldermanic Board in the white primary Tuesday.

"I've got no ticket," he said, "but if the people will elect these men it will be an assurance that the Aldermanic Board will have a majority that will be conservative and that will work in harmony with the administration.

"I am very anxious to see them elected. With the recall we can get the others into the right line, which is to handle the people's business in a businesslike way.

"We would have saved $100,000 if the city's business had been conducted properly during the past year."

The opposing faction is fighting just as vigorously as Mayor Woodward and the men he is supporting. Reports of a stormy word battle between the Mayor and Councilman Claude L. Ashley at a committee meeting in the City Hall the other day illustrates the intensity of the feeling on both sides. Mr. Ashley is one of Mayor Woodward's strongest supporters in Council. Amos Braselton will overwhelm Thompson for Alderman from the Fourth Ward. Mayor Woodward is reported to have said:

"It will be a reflection on the Fourth Ward" Councilman Ashley is said to have replied.

"I don't see why you are for Thompson," the Mayor retorted.

What Ashley replied:

"Mr. Mayor, Mr. Braselton hasn't lived in the Fourth Ward long enough to be called a Fourth Ward citizen," replied Councilman Ashley. "He is not even a registered voter in that ward. That's why I say his election would be a reflection on the ward."

"He'd represent the ward better than it has been represented," continued the Mayor, according to the account of the argument.

"He won't have a chance to represent it at all so far as this election is concerned."

John S. Owens is contesting the nomination of W. A. Hancock for Alderman from the Eighth Ward with a well-organized campaign, and Alderman James E. Warren, of the Third Ward, is confident he will defeat C. C. McDonald for the place he now holds.

Tuesday's Complete Ticket.

Here is the complete ticket to be voted upon Tuesday:

To be voted upon by the whole city: C. H. Kelley, for Alderman from the Second Ward; James Albert Thomson and Amos Braselton, for Alderman from the Fourth Ward; Jesse Armstrong, for Alderman from the Fifth Ward; W. A. Hancock, Smith, for general manager of Waterworks.

To be voted upon by wards:

Charles A. Alexander and J. M. Renfro, for Council from the First Ward; C. D. Klinger and J. M. Smith, for Council from the Second Ward; Orville H. Hall and R. R. Jackson, for Council from the Third Ward; R. E. George and A. W. Farlinger, for Council from the Fourth Ward; J. M. Wood, for Council from the Sixth Ward; J. M. Wood, for Council from the Seventh Ward; Frank H. Reynolds, for Council from the Eighth Ward; Charles W. Smith, for Council from the Ninth Ward; and Claude L. Mason, for Council from the Tenth Ward.

Panic Follows as Big Steamer Grounds

PHILADELPHIA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The steamer Mohock, of the Manhattan Navigation Company, bound from New York to Albany with 200 passengers on board, went aground six miles north of here to-day. Charles S. Kelly, of New York, was thrown from his berth and sustained internal injuries which may prove fatal.

A panic followed the accident and in the excitement another passenger boarded a life belt and leaped overboard. He was rescued with difficulty.

Agriculture Class At Athens Slumps

ATHENS, Sept. 28.—The registration at the university is about 25 students less than at the same time last year. Nearly the entire shortage is in the one-year agricultural class. Heretofore but few units and no farming experience was necessary to gain entrance to this department and its roll was swelled considerably, but now either the required units must be shown or a certain amount of farm experience. This is keeping the registration down.

Pope Pius, Ill, to Forego Audiences

Rome, Sept. 28.—Pope Pius X was advised to-day by his physicians to cease holding audiences on account of the delicate condition of his health. It is explained that his Holiness is not suffering from any specific malady, but that he is showing signs of general weakness, which, it is feared, may prove the forerunner of a nervous collapse.

The Pontiff promised his doctors to forego many of his clerical duties.

Two More Counties Rid of Cattle Tick

Dr. Peter F. Bahnen has announced that Oconee and Newton counties have been pronounced free from the cattle tick and have been released from quarantine.

This makes 14 counties out of 116 in Georgia immune from the cattle tick. When eradication was begun a year ago there were only three counties free of the pest. There are three more counties likely to be freed of the tick by April.

Beef for Half Price May Follow Canal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Hope for a reduction of the price of beef to less than one-half of what it costs today has been brought to the attention of people by Augusto B. Leguia, former President of Peru. He says that with the opening of the Panama Canal beef could be delivered in New York for 10 cents a pound from Peru.

Designs and Builds Houses for Husband

SAVANNAH, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Ellen Gaultie, young wife of a prominent merchant, is architect, contractor, foreman and builder for the investment she makes in the real estate.

She is to-day supervising the work on three houses which she designed and bought the material for.

Woman Whips 'Foe' Revealed by Seer

SAVANNAH, Sept. 28.—Because a fortune teller told Mrs. E. Hunter that Mrs. Minnie Stigant, her neighbor, had been circulating stories about her, Mrs. Hunter took the matter and administered a severe drubbing to Mrs. Stigant, according to her story told in the Police Court to-day. She was fined $15.

THE WEATHER.

FIGHT BEGINS FOR SEAT IN CONGRESS

Colonel E. E. Cox, a lawyer of Camilla, is the first to announce. He has been active in politics for a number of years, and has been mentioned as congressional timber before. It is certain that others will enter the race in a short time. The special election for the full term will take place next year.

E. E. Cox, of Camilla, First to Announce to Succeed the Late S. A. Roddenberry.

Following the funeral at Thomaston of Congressman S. A. Roddenberry, of the Second Georgia District, the fight for the seat in Congress made vacant by his death began Monday.

Colonel E. E. Cox, a lawyer of Camilla, is the first to announce. He has been active in politics for a number of years, and has been mentioned as congressional timber before. It is certain that others will enter the race in a short time. The special election for the full term will take place next year.

W. W. Banks, Mayor of Tifton, is Strong Probable Candidate for Congress

W. W. Banks, Mayor of Tifton, is strong probable, his friends are urging him to enter the contest. Mr. Banks has also been active in politics for many years.

Another probability is J. L. Hand, of Pelham, ex-State Senator and a man well qualified in every particular to fill the place. He is one of the richest men in Southwest Georgia.

Rosewood, Mayor of Thomasville, is being urged to enter the race, and has the matter under advisement. He will know throughout the district. He will probably enter.

Judge J. R. Battle of Milledgeville, who may enter the race. The race he will know throughout the district. He will probably enter.

Mystery in Burning Of Industrial School

The St. Paul's Parish and Industrial School, No. 247 Auburn avenue, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin Sunday afternoon, entailing a loss of about $150,000.

The institution has been supported by the board of trustees of the Episcopal Church and by popular subscriptions.

Monument Planned For Roddenberry

GAO, Sept. 28.—The executive officers of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Gao has decided to erect a monument here to the memory of Congressman Roddenberry. This place was his homestead home. Immediate steps will be taken to secure funds for this purpose and the matter will be presented to all the unions in the other districts, as well as other organizations and individuals.

Mr. Roddenberry's stand for prohibition was well known, not only in the Second District, but in the State and Nation.

Read Evelyn Thaw's Amazing Life Story

Because of the widened interest in the fight of Harry K. Thaw to escape recrimination to the insane asylum at Matteawan, his wife Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has become a figure of international prominence.

Her life story is an amazing document. Doubtless no more enthralling personal narrative has ever been written.

The opening chapters of this story are reprinted in this issue of the Georgian.

The story will be continued in next Sunday's American.

Laughter Lured Her To Death in Darkness

WHEATON, ILL., Sept. 28.—The pretty, handsomely gowned woman whose mangled body was found on a railroad track near Wayne, Ill., was lured to her death with humorous stories and the light laugh of the man who took her into the darkness, shot her and left her body to be ground beneath the wheels of a train.

Witnesses were found who saw the pair leave a trolley car laughing over a funny story the man told. A block away, one said, the laughter ended abruptly and a single shot rang out.

Invention Lessens Cost of Wireless

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 28.—William Burr Gibson, who recently announced that he had perfected an apparatus with which it would be possible to destroy the largest dreadnought by use of ultra-violet rays, announced to-day that he had perfected a transmitter which will allow the use of ultra-violet rays in wireless telegraphy.

Gibson claims the ultra-violet rays can be produced at a much lower cost than the electric power now used in the transmission of wireless messages.

Jane Addams Favors Fashion's Scant Garb

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28.—"The styles today are more sensible than ever," said Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago, in an address here at the Social Hygiene Conference.

"I do not believe that women are being degraded by the fashion. The less clothes we can wear with modesty the better it is. It is better for the health and allows more freedom of movement."

Pickled Duck Is Used as Evidence

The youth was fined $50, which he paid.

Manuel's Bride Said To Have Tried Suicide

Princess Augusta Victoria of Hohenzollern, ex-King Manuel's bride, who is seriously ill.

Unknown Rescuer Vanishes After Braving Smoke and Flame to Warn Boarders

Fifteen persons, many of whom were women and children, were forced to flee in their night clothes early Monday morning when fire, breaking out in the residence of John W. Dean, No. 107 Piedmont avenue, practically destroyed the building.

A street car man, who was passing along Piedmont avenue, discovered the flames after they had gained considerable headway and aroused the sleeping occupants of the building, probably prevented a loss of life.

"Upon seeing the roof of the house a mass of fire, the passerby burst through the front door shouting the alarm. The flames ate down into the framework of the dwelling. The stranger was forced to carry two of the frightened women out of the burning building to save them.

Several fire companies responded to the alarm Company A arriving first. Difficulty was experienced by the firemen in entering the house on account of the smoke. Entrance was finally made through a window, and in a remarkably short time the flames were subdued. The fire had gained such headway and burned so rapidly that the house was almost totally destroyed, although the firemen were on the scene in less than five minutes after the alarm was given.

After seeing that all of the occupants of the house were safe, the unknown man left hurriedly, saying he was afraid of being late at his work.

Horse Guard Edward.

The fire occurred at the corner of Piedmont and Edgewood avenues, and is the property of the Governor's Horse Guard. John W. Dean has operated a boarding house there for some time. It was here that Mrs. L. R. Dean, wife of the Atlanta contractor who eloped with Mrs. Iona Pickens, wife of the Monticello (Ga.) millionaire, remained while her husband was confined in the county jail after being brought back from Texas, where he was arrested with Mrs. Pickens.

The fire apparently started in a closet on the second floor of the house, but the cause is unknown. It is a frame house, erected many years ago.

Fifteen persons were asleep in the house at the time of the fire. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sherman, and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Humes, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cook, H. C. Fisher, L. N. Handolph, and A. P. Balfour. Practically all of the men are railroad employees, with the exception of Fisher, who is in the jewelry business.

The horse was insured for $3,000 and it is believed the damage may be held for a little more than $1,000, according to Captain O. L. Russell, commander of the Governor's Horse Guard.

The cavalry company came into possession of the property fifteen years ago, purchasing it from Mrs. G. Lovington. The troop used the basement as a storage room for many years and rented out the upper stories for a boarding house. The property has increased greatly in value since purchased by the troop and an offer of $50,000 was recently refused for it.

OCONEE COUNTY FAIR

ATHENS, Sept. 28.—Plans are being made for a big Oconee County fair, but whether or not the fair will be held is not stated. Considerable business was transacted here on Monday and the fair is expected to be a success.

Princess Augusta Victoria of Hohenzollern, ex-King Manuel's bride, who is seriously ill.

Friend Says Governor Will Honor Requisition—Case Stated for Highest Courts.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 28.—A man very close to Governor Felker said to-day the New Hampshire Executive's indiscretion would honor the requisition of New York authorities for Harry K. Thaw, the escaped Matteawan fugitive.

Governor Felker, the informant said, after exhaustive study of all statutes and precedents having any possible bearing on the subject, would concede the contention of William Travers Jerome that the extradition papers, being in regular form, should be honored.

FRAUD IS LAID TO BIRMINGHAM JEWELERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Joseph Rich, proprietor of a jewelry store in Birmingham, but a resident of this city, was charged, with obtaining thousands of dollars worth of diamonds on false pretenses in a petition in bankruptcy filed against him to-day in the United States District Court.

Rich and his son Abraham, who acts as buyer for the Southern store, bought diamonds on credit from prominent dealers in this city, according to the petition, and instead of shipping them to Birmingham remitted the stones to New York dealers at prices 25 per cent less than their real value.

Attorneys for the petitioning creditors say practically every dealer in Birmingham extended the credit to the firm and a $1,000,000 failure was only averted by the accidental discovery of its illegal dealings.

Judge Charles M. Hough appointed Matthew A. Henkel receiver for the Rich firm and the latter left Birmingham to take charge of the assets there.

Ball Players Knew Of Rich's Bargains.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 28.—A V. Abbott, as resident receiver, in a charge of the business of Joseph Rich, of New York, operating here under the name of the Colorado Loan Company, the business being managed by the Birmingham players, knew of bargains at the time of the bankruptcy proceedings here and Abbott was placed in charge. Efforts have been made to bring about a settlement of the indebtedness, but so far the creditors have refused to accept the amount offered.

It is said that the diamonds purchased by the Birmingham players at Birmingham were known of bargains at the time of the bankruptcy proceedings here and Abbott was placed in charge. Efforts have been made to bring about a settlement of the indebtedness, but so far the creditors have refused to accept the amount offered.

Rumor Denied, Although She Is Under Physicians' Care—Poison Plot Also Suspected.

Special Cable To The Atlanta Georgian.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—Mystery surrounding the illness of Princess Victoria of Hohenzollern, the three weeks' bride of former King Manuel of Portugal, was dispelled to-day by a telegram from Munich in which it was rumored that she had tried to end her life. This was closely followed by another message containing an emphatic denial. The Princess is still under the care of physicians at Munich.

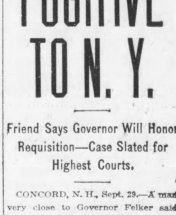

It was first reported that she was ill of influenza, then came a report that an operation of serious character was necessary, next it was reported that she had died, and since both of these reports had proved to be untrue, it was rumored that she had attempted suicide.

CHATTANOOGA PIONEER DEAD.

Friend Says Governor Will Honor Requisition—Case Stated for Highest Courts.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 28.—A man very close to Governor Felker said to-day the New Hampshire Executive's indiscretion would honor the requisition of New York authorities for Harry K. Thaw, the escaped Matteawan fugitive.

Governor Felker, the informant said, after exhaustive study of all statutes and precedents having any possible bearing on the subject, would concede the contention of William Travers Jerome that the extradition papers, being in regular form, should be honored.

FRAUD IS LAID TO BIRMINGHAM JEWELERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Joseph Rich, proprietor of a jewelry store in Birmingham, but a resident of this city, was charged, with obtaining thousands of dollars worth of diamonds on false pretenses in a petition in bankruptcy filed against him to-day in the United States District Court.

Rich and his son Abraham, who acts as buyer for the Southern store, bought diamonds on credit from prominent dealers in this city, according to the petition, and instead of shipping them to Birmingham remitted the stones to New York dealers at prices 25 per cent less than their real value.

Attorneys for the petitioning creditors say practically every dealer in Birmingham extended the credit to the firm and a $1,000,000 failure was only averted by the accidental discovery of its illegal dealings.

Judge Charles M. Hough appointed Matthew A. Henkel receiver for the Rich firm and the latter left Birmingham to take charge of the assets there.

Ball Players Knew Of Rich's Bargains.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 28.—A V. Abbott, as resident receiver, in a charge of the business of Joseph Rich, of New York, operating here under the name of the Colorado Loan Company, the business being managed by the Birmingham players, knew of bargains at the time of the bankruptcy proceedings here and Abbott was placed in charge. Efforts have been made to bring about a settlement of the indebtedness, but so far the creditors have refused to accept the amount offered.

It is said that the diamonds purchased by the Birmingham players at Birmingham were known of bargains at the time of the bankruptcy proceedings here and Abbott was placed in charge. Efforts have been made to bring about a settlement of the indebtedness, but so far the creditors have refused to accept the amount offered.

Rumor Denied, Although She Is Under Physicians' Care—Poison Plot Also Suspected.

Special Cable To The Atlanta Georgian.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—Mystery surrounding the illness of Princess Victoria of Hohenzollern, the three weeks' bride of former King Manuel of Portugal, was dispelled to-day by a telegram from Munich in which it was rumored that she had tried to end her life. This was closely followed by another message containing an emphatic denial. The Princess is still under the care of physicians at Munich.

It was first reported that she was ill of influenza, then came a report that an operation of serious character was necessary, next it was reported that she had died, and since both of these reports had proved to be untrue, it was rumored that she had attempted suicide.

THOMSON RAPS BRASELTON

Says Braselton Talking About a Business Administration and Is Not Even a Registered Voter

To The People of Atlanta: Up to this time, as a candidate for Alderman from the Fourth Ward, I have refrained from personalities with reference to my opponent, Mr. Amos W. Braselton.

It is not now my intention to criticize him personally. But inasmuch as he saw fit to make the remark in this morning's Constitution that my supporters are the "ring politicians" and "petty politicians," or words to that effect, I feel justified in calling the public's attention to two facts.

First—Mr. Braselton has not paid his City taxes for 1912, there being now a fi-fa against him in the City Marshal's office.

Second—His name is not on the registration list for the City Primary to be held tomorrow, September 30th. In other words, he can not even vote in the Primary in which he is a candidate.

In view of these facts, isn't it rather poor taste for him to make disparaging remarks about the citizens who are supporting my candidacy?

Isn't it rather remarkable for Mr. Braselton to appeal for votes on the platform of a business administration," when, as a citizen and a business man, his interest in the City Government is not sufficient to induce him to pay his City taxes?

Isn't it rather "nervy" for Mr. Braselton to ask for the votes of citizens who PAID for the privilege of voting when he did not think enough of that privilege to pay himself?

Mr. Braselton advocates raising the pay of policemen—which is not a bad idea. But if other citizens refused to contribute to the support of the City Government as he has done, there wouldn't be enough money in the City Treasury to pay their present salaries, or any other expenses of the City Government.

ALBERT D. THOMSON

Mrs. Paul Donehoo, bride in suit, prize wedding just announced.

Hand's partnership had been somewhat on the wretched order. "I met Paul just 30 days ago," she explained, "at the home of Miss Mae Karrigan, and (blushing) I fell in love with him soon. No joy except that in the paper, because I know Paul wouldn't want me to say that it was a case of mutual attraction from the beginning, and I know we are going to be very happy."

Spirits Unchanged.

The rates have been increased over those provided by the House on brooms, hats packed in oil and ground spices. A rate of 20 per cent ad valorem is placed on ground spices in addition to the specific rate provided by the House on spices, ground or unground. The Senate received from its amendment placing a duty on bananas.

Corresponding reduced.

Just barley had been placed on the free list and the rate on barley has been reduced to 10 per cent. The Senate received from its amendment decreasing the rate on straw matting and accepted the House classification for woven fabrics and articles made of flax hemp or ramie with a slight reduction in the rates of duty.

Schedule K—Wool and Manufacture of.

Reductions have been made from the House rates on tops and yarns made of wool or hair of Angora goats and like animals on fleeces valued at, over 50 cents per pound, on pluck, vevers and other pile fabrics.

STATE PROGRESSIVELY ON COON FUTURE TAX TRAFFIC CONFERENCE

Continued from Page 1. rock asphalt, asphaltum and bitumen have been transferred to the free list. Senate Recedes Again. The House rates have been reduced on lenses, surveying instruments, telescopes, microscopes, photographic and projection lenses, and increased on strips of glass for lenses and camera, opera and field glasses. A new classification has been made for unmanufactured mica and a rate of 4 cents per pound placed on all mica valued at not more than 15 cents per pound, and 25 per cent on that valued at more than 15 cents. This results in an increase over the House rate of 30 per cent on the cheap class mica, mica costing more than 14 cents and a reduction of all that is valued at more than 15 cents per pound by three-eighths of an inch thick. The House classification for pottery, earthenware and chinaware is retained. Schedule C, Metals and Manufactures of Metals—In pig, iron, best quality, speckled, ferro-manganese, scrap iron and steel, iron in slabs, blooms, bars and other forms less finished and iron in bars and more advanced than pig iron, except castings, steel ingots, blooms and slabs, die blocks or blanks and similar products and not containing alloy, engraved steel plates for printing bonds and other securities, ingots for railway wheels and castings, iron are placed upon the free list. Other Iron Rates Cut. The rates on other forms of iron and steel have been reduced to conform with the reduction in the steel forms transferred to the free list. Irons have been made over the House rate on lead-bearing iron and zinc in blocks, tubes or other forms. The Senate recedes from its amendment decreasing the rates on wire ropes and increasing the rates on woven wire cloth. The House rate on steel ingots, billets and bars and other forms of steel made by the open-hearth electric or cementation process, or containing alloy, has been increased. Also on steel wire, grill, shot and sand made from iron ore. A new classification has been made for automobiles valued at $2,000 or less, and a rate of 30 per cent fixed in lieu of the House rate of 45 per cent. Schedule D, Woods and Manufactures of—No changes in these rates have been made in the schedule. The 10th wood comprising the pine and bottom and sides of fruit boxes exported as shooks and returned filled with fruit are transferred to the free list in lieu of the House rate of 7-1/2 per cent. The Sugar Question. Schedule E, Sugar, Molasses and Manufacture of—The only change of importance in Schedule E is the postponing of the time of the taking effect of the rate provided for by the House on sugar and molasses and the abolition of the Dutch standard immediately. This will result in a reduction of rates in sugar above 16 Dutch standard, which now has a different 1-1/2 cent per 100 pounds on sugar testing 88 degrees, and an addition of 1-1/2 cent per 100 pounds for each degree less than 88 degrees. Schedule F, Tobacco and Manufactures of—No changes were made in this schedule. Schedule G, Agricultural Products and Provisions—Cattle, sheep and other domestic animals, suitable for use as food, when slaughtered, and skins and eggs have been transferred to the free list. Reductions have been made on raisin butter, beef, frozen eggs, peas, green beans, corn, currants, chocolate and cocoa sweetened and extracts and vanilla from the rates provided by the House. Spirits Unchanged. The rates have been increased over those provided by the House on broken rice, fish packed in oil and ground coffee. A rate of 25 per cent on valuations is placed on ground coffee in addition to the specific rates provided by the House on spices, ground or unground. The Senate recedes from its reduced rate placed on flaxseed and its amendment placing a duty on bananas. The House classification on beans and other citrus fruits is accepted. Schedule H, Spirits, Wines and Cereals or Beverages—No changes of importance are made in this schedule. The rates on ginger ale and similar beverages are slightly decreased on bottles containing not more than one-half pint each. The Senate recedes from its amendment placing an internal revenue on grape brandy used in fortifying sweet wine. Schedule I, Cotton Manufactures and Provisions—The House rate on cotton cloth, according to the average number of the yards contained therein, has been accepted instead of the House provision for the highest number. This will slightly decrease the rate of some fancy weaves and novelty cloth, but on the greatest bulk of cotton cloth the rate will not be affected. New Stocking Classification. The rates on bleached and dyed cotton yarns and cloth made of yarn from Nos. 7 to 29. The rates on handkerchiefs or mufflers, not hemmed, have been reduced from 30 per cent, as provided by the House, to 25 per cent. A new classification has been provided on stockings. The rate on stockings valued at not more than 10 cents per dozen is reduced 30 per cent, and on those valued at between 10 cents and 15 cents per dozen the rate is reduced to 40 per cent instead of 50 per cent, and on stockings valued at more than 15 cents per dozen the rate is reduced to 40 per cent. CHILD-REARING COST DOUBLED IN 10 YEARS

Head of Deatur Orphan's Home Gives Figures and Explains Situation.

The cost of rearing children in Atlanta has increased 100 per cent in the last ten years, according to the Rev. J. M. Hawkins, superintendent of the Deatur Orphan Home. Mr. Hawkins based his statement on a comparison of the average cost of the support of the children in the home ten years ago, as shown by the records of the institution, with the present cost. "Ten years ago," said Mr. Hawkins, "five dollars a month, or 60 a year, was adequate to support one of my children, today it requires just twice that much, $120." "These figures include all expenses incident to the support of the child—food, clothing and education—and incidentally many of our larger girls and boys are in college, their expenses being paid by the home. Better Standard of Living. "This enormous increase is due not only to the increased cost of all the necessities of life, but also to the increased standard of living. Today we regard as indispensable many conveniences, such as water, sewerage, electric lights, telephones and so forth, which ten years ago we did without." Mr. Hawkins said also that it costs more to bring up and educate a girl than it does to rear a boy, and that, in many better divided, a greater percentage of the girls "turn out well" than do the boys, although the number of boys who are successful is by no means small. There are at present 230 children in the home from all parts of Georgia, the institution having taken care of over 2,000 children in the last ten years. In the figures given, Mr. Hawkins includes the pro rata cost of providing a home for the children, which should properly be charged against the child if the actual cost of shelter is considered. Many of the children in the home are supported by Sunday school classes remaining in the home and being supported by contributions of the class, and in every case the amount necessary for the support of the child reaches $120. These figures show that the cost of rearing children in Atlanta has increased just twice as fast as in New York, although even now the cost in Atlanta is some 36 per cent less than in New York, and 10 per cent lower than in Chicago. The Hebrew Orphan Home in New York City says it costs about $100 a year apiece to raise its children, fully 50 per cent higher than the cost ten years ago. Mr. Lowenstein, in preference to the Associated Charities, declared that persons who are need and distress are allowed to remain starve to death while the Associated Charities baffle their hands in investigating them," he said. "This organization should start out and devote its energies to the great and good for which we are founded."

PASTOR ATTACKS EMPLOYERS OF GIRLS HERE

The shirts and was paid 75 cents. An other woman made seven dozen garments and had to do the work all over again because the seam was a bit too wide. She received $150, one woman worked two days in one week and then quit because she could not bear herself. When she called back on Saturday for her wages she was informed there was nothing due her. The moral welfare of working girls is being lived in their hands when they go to work because of the lack of an escape and other protection from Scores Lack of Moral Guards. The minister also declared that moral conditions in some of the work shops are alarming, and that the moral welfare of working girls is being woefully neglected. In some of the shops and stores I find that girls are forced to work directly under immoral foremen and forewomen," he said. "Anonymous denunciations are thrown about the girls. It is any wonder then, that some of these girls, toiling their lives out for a starvation wage, yield to the lure of the tempter?" Mr. Wallace quoted different passages from the Bible to show that it is the duty of the church to interpose itself in the betterment of these conditions. "The church must not sit idly by and allow the working classes to be oppressed and see the very life and character of these girls ground out in this heartless manner," he declared. "It is time the churches should unite in a great systematic warfare against these forces that are throttling labor, and come to the rescue of the downtrodden working women and girls."

Two More Counties Rid of Cattle Tick

Dr. Peter F. Halahan has announced that Oconee and Newton Counties have been pronounced free from the cattle tick and have been released from quarantine. This makes 14 counties out of 147 in Georgia immune from the cattle tick. When eradication was begun a year ago, there were only three counties free of the pest. There are three more counties likely to be freed of the tick by April.

$288,199,907 Gain in Gross R. R. Earnings

Gross earnings of the railroads of the United States for the six months ended Sept. 30, according to statistics announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission, were $288,199,907 in excess of those for the previous year. Gross aggregated $2,057,711,000. Operating expenses expended $203,425,446, while operating income showed an increase of $77,541,312. Operating income per mile was $3.67, against $3.39 for the previous twelve months. Missouri operated increased 1182.

New Synagogue Is Formally Opened

Members of the new congregation, Beth Hamidrigh, Hugel Sfard, which formally was dedicated Sunday in the Red Men's hall on Capitol avenue with impressive services, marked by the presentation of the "Scroll of Law" written on tanned deer hide brought directly from Jerusalem, were enthusiastic Monday concerning the future of the latest addition to Atlanta's orthodox Jewish synagogues. The new congregation was realized through the efforts of Rabbi J. M. Levine, under whose direction the work of gathering together the members progressed. Speaking in the pure Hebrew tongue, Rabbi Levine lectured on the "Book of the Bible." A handsome Bible covering, the gift of the members, was placed on the Sacred Book by Rabbi Levine at the conclusion of his address.

Pope Pius, III, to Forego Audiences

Rome, Sept. 29.—Pope Pius X. was advised today by his physicians to cease holding audiences on account of the delicate condition of his health. It is explained that His Holiness is not suffering from any specific malady, but that he is showing signs of general weakness, which, it is feared, may prove the forerunner of a nervous collapse. The Pontiff promised his doctors to forego his audiences.

500 Slain in Mexican Battle, Say Refugees

EAGLE PASS, TEXAS, Sept. 29.—Refugees pouring into Eagle Pass today from Sabina and other towns from 15 to 20 miles south of here reported that fighting had been in progress between Mexican Federalists and rebels for the last three days. The rebels, they said, were fleeing toward the Texas border. More than 500 were killed on both sides, the refugees said, and several towns were sacked and burned by the retreating rebels.

Increase in Exports Shown in Past Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—At the rate of more than $1,000,000 every business day in the past fiscal year have been the exports from the United States to Latin America, according to a statement issued by the Department of Commerce. These amounted to $211,000,000, as compared with $183,000,000 last year. The most rapid gains have been with Argentina and Brazil.

THOMSON RAPS BRASELTON

Says Braselton Talking About a Business Administration and Is Not Even a Registered Voter

To The People of Atlanta:

Up to this time, as a candidate for Alderman from the Fourth Ward, I have refrained from personalities with reference to my opponent, Mr. Amos W. Braselton.

It is not now my intention to criticize him personally. But inasmuch as he saw fit to make the remark in this morning's Constitution that my supporters are the "ring politicians" and "petty politicians," or words to that effect, I feel justified in calling the public's attention to two facts.

First—Mr. Braselton has not paid his City taxes for 1912, there being now a fi-fa against him in the City Marshal's office.

Second—His name is not on the registration list for the City Primary to be held tomorrow, September 30th. In other words, he can not even vote in the Primary in which he is a candidate.

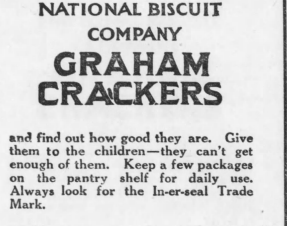

In view of these facts, isn't it rather poor taste for him to make disparaging remarks about the citizens who are supporting my candidacy? Isn't it rather remarkable for Mr. Braselton to appeal for votes on the platform of a business administration," when, as a citizen and a business man, his interest in the City Government is not sufficient to induce him to pay his City taxes?

Isn't it rather "nervy" for Mr. Braselton to ask for the votes of citizens who PAID for the privilege of voting when he did not think enough of that privilege to pay himself? Mr. Braselton advocates raising the pay of policemen—which is not a bad idea.

But if other citizens refused to contribute to the support of the City Government as he has done, there wouldn't be enough money in the City Treasury to pay their present salaries, or any other expenses of the City Government.

DELAY ON FRANK HEARING SEEMS UNAVOIDABLE

Dorsey Can Not Tell if He Will Be Ready by Saturday, and Rosser Says Nothing.

Postponement of the hearing of the motion next Saturday for a new trial for Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, appeared certain Monday, according to information from various authorities.

The probabilities of the motion being heard before Judge Roan, the trial judge, were as much in doubt as ever, despite the fact that Judge Roan has expressed a desire to see the case disposed of before he retires from the bench, as well as the views of Solicitor General Dorsey.

However, the unexpected may happen. Judge Hill may not relinquish his seat on the Criminal Appeals bench until the Frank motion has been heard.

It is also a possibility that the motion for a new trial in a case which, from a strictly legal standpoint, he is entirely unqualified to entertain, will be argued in the court.

THAT LIKELY TO LOSE FIGHT ON EXTRADITION

Friend Says Governor Will Honor Request—Case Slated for Highest Courts.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 29.—A man very close to Governor Polk said today the New Hampshire Executive Council would honor the request of New York authorities for Harry K. Thaw, the escaped Massachusetts convict, the informant said after exhaustive study of all statutes and precedents having any possible bearing on the subject, would concede the contention of William Travers Jerome that the extradition papers being in regular form should be honored irrespective of other aspects of the case.

Both Sides Plan Appeal. This means that Harry Thaw's fight for liberty, which already has been fought in the courts of New York, New Hampshire and Canada, will now go to the United States courts. In anticipation of possible defeat in the extradition and New Hampshire court proceedings, Harry Thaw's counsel had the foresight to sue out a writ of habeas corpus in the United States courts.

The hearing, which was delayed at the request of Thaw's counsel, now will proceed, and since both sides have expressed their intention to appeal in the event of defeat, it is almost assured that the famous case will be fought out through the highest courts in the United States.

Scene to Shift to Boston. "Governor Polk will extradite by October 4, but this depends entirely on the length and character of the matter presented to me by the defense," said the informant.

"I am going to do all I can," said Mr. Dorsey. "I will have the case ready by October 4, but this depends entirely on the length and character of the matter presented to me by the defense."

"Should the papers, for instance, contain matter attacking Judge Roan, which would require the summoning of witnesses perhaps from various parts of the State, then the possibility of getting ready on schedule are not so certain."

"All I can say is that if simply can be read by Saturday or not," said the informant, adding that Mr. Frank declared Monday he had nothing to say regarding the matter.

OWENS' EIGHTH WARD MEETING DISCUSSED BY HANCOCK

A letter has been handed me signed by Mr. John S. Owens in which was enclosed a letter in circular form giving the proceedings of an Owens Meeting held in the Eighth Ward on the 12th day of last August. Permit me to say that I did not receive a notice of said meeting, although I am a taxpayer and reside in said ward.

However, I was represented at the meeting. There are 900 registered voters in the Eighth Ward. In Mr. Owens' circular letter it appears there were 56 of his friends present at a meeting, 11 of whom are not registered. A resolution prepared by someone, prior to the meeting, was introduced by Dr. Mayson, and after the virtues of Mr. Owens were extolled by General A. J. West (who is not registered) said resolutions were adopted by a viva-voce vote. The meeting lasted just eight minutes and was participated in by such friends as Mr. Owens saw fit to invite. I beg to call your attention to the following petition handed me, which was responsible for my becoming a candidate for Alderman:

"Inasmuch as our present representative from the Eighth Ward in the Aldermanic Board will not stand for re-election, and recognizing the sterling worth and ability of former Alderman W. A. Hancock, we the undersigned, earnestly request that he become a candidate for this office at the coming Municipal election. Dr. A. H. VanDyke, Alex W. Smith, Sr., Alex W. Smith, Jr., Victor L.

The population of Los Angeles is 319,198. It has grown by leaps and bounds.

One of that city's newspapers under date of July 6th, 1913, said: "March, 1909, Alexander became Mayor and has held the office continuously since that date.

"Since that day the city has had clean, honest government—" "It is probable that in this period of law enforcement the population of the city has doubled.

"Never has there been such uninterrupted activity in building. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, 7,644 building permits were issued calling for construction valued at $1,187,684. In the fiscal year that ended last Monday (July, 1913), 17,568 permits were issued and the value of construction called for by them was $34,662,511.

"DECENCY IN GOVERNMENT PAYS—" "The lugubrious prophecies of the apologists and defenders of vice, who fought for the continuance of the old immoralities, for protection, for a wide open town, for toleration of debauchery because it was good for business were proved to be false prophecies.

"Never in all the history of the city has business made such strides as during these four years of law enforcement.

"Never have the banks made greater gains in strength—" "A local savings bank presented a biennial comparative statement—" "In 1909 it had resources amounting to $23,980,670. After four years of honest, clean municipal administration, of enforcement of the law, of repression of those vices for which toleration has been demanded by apologists for vice, the resources of that same bank total $46,638,811."

On the wall of the office of Mayor Alexander hung this motto: "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain."

"The same Los Angeles newspaper added: "The city should remember the beginning of the industry—" "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

SEATTLE HAS 237,194 INHABITANTS. Like Los Angeles, it is another city whose name means business, growth, progress and prosperity.

Gill was elected its Mayor on the wide-open-town ticket. Soon it was rumored that the very Chief of Police had an interest in a gambling hell. One enterprising citizen started building a two-hundred-room house in the segregated district.

GILL WAS RECALLED and thrown out of office. The pimps and panderers were driven out of the city. Gill tried to come back. He was again defeated.

Seattle is still growing. Three years ago her people recognized that decency meant progress. Filth and foul odors always mean decay and death.

Let us have none in Atlanta. As one who loves your city and your Maker, you should vote to-morrow without fail.

Ask no candidate, "How do you stand?" But vote for no one until you know who is supporting him. Find this out.

THEN VOTE AS YOUR CONSCIENCE BIDS YOU. If you believe that God wishes to re-establish and maintain in Atlanta brotherhood which depend for their existence upon the betrayal of girls, vote for those supported by the men who have tried to hamper and hamstring your Chief of Police in doing his duty.

If you believe that God wishes to destroy an honest official and enthroned Judas, vote for the crowd that is camping on the trail of Chief Beavers.

But, if you believe that God would reward fidelity to duty; if you believe that He would have you and your children live in a city that is clean and with foundations not built upon the suffering of others; vote for those who are opposed by the men who believe in the licensed brothel and seek a Chief of Police who would be false to his oath of office.

YOUR DUTY DEMANDS THAT YOU VOTE. To-morrow is a critical day in your city and in your life. "Choose you whom you will serve."

"Never has there been such uninterrupted activity in building. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, 7,644 building permits were issued calling for construction valued at $1,187,684. In the fiscal year that ended last Monday (July, 1913), 17,568 permits were issued and the value of construction called for by them was $34,662,511.

"DECENCY IN GOVERNMENT PAYS—" "The lugubrious prophecies of the apologists and defenders of vice, who fought for the continuance of the old immoralities, for protection, for a wide open town, for toleration of debauchery because it was good for business were proved to be false prophecies.

"Never in all the history of the city has business made such strides as during these four years of law enforcement.

"Never have the banks made greater gains in strength—" "A local savings bank presented a biennial comparative statement—" "In 1909 it had resources amounting to $23,980,670. After four years of honest, clean municipal administration, of enforcement of the law, of repression of those vices for which toleration has been demanded by apologists for vice, the resources of that same bank total $46,638,811."

On the wall of the office of Mayor Alexander hung this motto: "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain."

"The same Los Angeles newspaper added: "The city should remember the beginning of the industry—" "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

SEATTLE HAS 237,194 INHABITANTS. Like Los Angeles, it is another city whose name means business, growth, progress and prosperity.

Gill was elected its Mayor on the wide-open-town ticket. Soon it was rumored that the very Chief of Police had an interest in a gambling hell. One enterprising citizen started building a two-hundred-room house in the segregated district.

GILL WAS RECALLED and thrown out of office. The pimps and panderers were driven out of the city. Gill tried to come back. He was again defeated.

Seattle is still growing. Three years ago her people recognized that decency meant progress. Filth and foul odors always mean decay and death.

Let us have none in Atlanta. As one who loves your city and your Maker, you should vote to-morrow without fail.

Ask no candidate, "How do you stand?" But vote for no one until you know who is supporting him. Find this out.

THEN VOTE AS YOUR CONSCIENCE BIDS YOU. If you believe that God wishes to re-establish and maintain in Atlanta brotherhood which depend for their existence upon the betrayal of girls, vote for those supported by the men who have tried to hamper and hamstring your Chief of Police in doing his duty.

If you believe that God wishes to destroy an honest official and enthroned Judas, vote for the crowd that is camping on the trail of Chief Beavers.

But, if you believe that God would reward fidelity to duty; if you believe that He would have you and your children live in a city that is clean and with foundations not built upon the suffering of others; vote for those who are opposed by the men who believe in the licensed brothel and seek a Chief of Police who would be false to his oath of office.

YOUR DUTY DEMANDS THAT YOU VOTE. To-morrow is a critical day in your city and in your life. "Choose you whom you will serve."

IRISH WAR CLOUD STIRS BRITISH LEADERS

Conference of Government Heads On in Effort to Unite Home Rulers and Ulsterites.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. GLASGOW, Sept. 23.—A historic conference of far-reaching political effect began to-day among members of the British Government and David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer. First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill is expected to join the party to-night.

The question under discussion is home rule for Ireland and the attitude of Ulster provinces, which threaten to reject home rule if it is granted and set up an independent government.

How civil war can be averted in Ireland over home rule is the biggest question now confronting the Government.

The suggestion seriously considered is the appointment of a royal commission, some of the members to be chosen by Parliament and others by King George, to arbitrate the difference between the north and south of Ireland.

The Protestants in the north refuse to accept home rule, which has been brought about through the activities of the British Nationalists, the great majority of whom are Catholics. Thus the religious question permeates the heart of the difference.

The Ulster Presbyterians declare a Dublin parliament would be a Catholic government, and they refuse to be ruled by such. On the other hand, the Catholics in Ulster will rebel against a Protestant Government in that district.

The central Government is trying to reach a common ground upon which both sides can be united.

China Buys Less U. S. Cotton by $24,304,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—A decrease of $24,304,000 in the value of American cotton goods sold in China in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, compared with the goods sold in 1916, which led the United States to undertake an investigation, has resulted in the discovery that the Chinese are making so much of their own cloth that his nation will have to find some substitute for cotton, if it wishes to stimulate a new trade. There are many cotton mills in Japan, which used $25,000,000 worth of American cotton last year. These facts are contained in a statement issued to-day by the Department of Commerce.

GOWNS COST $20,000; NEEDS MORE ALIMONY

MRS. ALBERT GALLATIN WHEELER
The wife of the Wall Street millionaire, from whom she is separated, is one of the light opera stars of the London stage, and is coming to New York to collect some back alimony which she declares her husband has not sent her. She says she needs it, for she has just spent $20,000 for gowns and all that goes with them.

If you happened to be a light opera singer who every now and then had to go down to the shops and drop some $20,000 or so for gowns and hats and shoes and things, and your alimony of $4,000 a year began to arrive irregularly, what would you do? Go after the alimony, says Mrs. Albert Gallatin Wheeler, who is presently in the condition stated in the first paragraph.

Mrs. Wheeler, who is known on the stage as Gladys Carstedt, is the wife of the son of the man who helped Charles F. Yerkes build the tuppenny tube in London. Wheeler is a millionaire in his own right, and after he and the actress married things went as they sometimes do with millionaires and actresses who wed—that is to say things didn't go well, and they separated.

Suits for Alimony.
Mrs. Wheeler, according to dispatches from London, where she is at the present time, has just run into one of those times when it becomes necessary to furnish up her wardrobe and the furnishing has cost her the accustomed $20,000. So she is a little short of pin money, and today she determined to come back to New York to hunt up her husband and ask him to pay some of the alimony which, she declares, he has not been as prompt with as she might be.

Mr. Hancock's Record in the City Council

Voted Several Times Against Electing City Officials by the People

A letter has been sent to the Voters of the City by Mr. W. A. Hancock, candidate for Alderman from the Eighth Ward, in which he takes credit for many things done by the General Council during his extended service in that body.

The record of a public official is always a legitimate subject of discussion when the official offers for re-election. Therefore, we call attention to some specific votes by Mr. Hancock which are not mentioned in his letter.

The City Executive Committee ordered a vote on the question of electing the Recorder, General Manager, Waterworks, City Comptroller, City Marshal, City Electrician, City Clerk, City Building Inspector, City Warden by the people. Mr. John S. Owens was a member of this Committee and voted FOR it.

In this election the people voted over 6,000 to 900 that these officials should be elected by popular vote.

A resolution was introduced in Council to amend the Charter and carry out the decision of the people. A motion was made to lay it on the table. Mr. Hancock voted YES. (Minutes of Council No. 21, Page 708.)

Throughout the whole fight Mr. Hancock was 'Johnnie on the Spot' and hand in glove with the 'City Ring' to defeat the will of the people and voted in favor of all motions to delay or to defeat the expressed decision of the people in the election held on the subject. (Minutes of Council No. 22, Pages 65 and 67.)

The people finally won their fight, and these officials are now elected by popular vote, but it was OVER the vote of Mr. Hancock.

Now, Mr. Voter, if Mr. Hancock, when last in Council, refused to carry out your will, as expressed at the ballot-box, can you expect him to carry out your will, if he is put back in Council, whether you hold an election on the subject or simply express it to him in person? He has shown a contempt for the people, even when they acted and voted together almost unanimously. How can he now ask the same people to re-elect him as their REPRESENTATIVE? A representative is a man who represents. He did not do it. You can not now expect him to do it. 'By their fruits ye shall know them.'

Mr. John S. Owens has never been in politics. He is not lined up with any faction. He will put some 'new blood' into our City Government. He is an active, successful business man. He is the kind of man the people are always saying they want in Council. Now is the chance to get SUCH A MAN!

He published in Sunday's papers the record of my vote on the election of officials by the people which is misleading. I do not consider it necessary to go into details to explain my vote except to say that the matter of the election of certain officials by the people had been considered at different meetings of the General Council for more than two months.

After the resolution had been amended as the people desired that it should be I voted for it. I expect my record in the General Council, as well as in Atlanta, will stand inspection about as well as Mr. Owens' record as a citizen. I am told on good authority that Mr. Owens is the president of the Cement Tile Co. and has a contract with the city this year and has had for the past two years for laying all the tile sidewalks.

Mr. Owens claims he does not belong to any ring; the ring who "framed up" the Charter which was overwhelmingly defeated last Tuesday, ARE FOR J. S. THE KING OF DIAMONDS

A Thrilling Story of a Modern Monte Cristo

By LOUIS TRACY

(Copyright, 1918, by Edward J. Child.)

TO-DAY'S INSTALLMENT.

But the great crowd intervened. "You're a sharp lad," he snarled. "Dye want a job?"

quity might be made in all quarters where meteoric diamonds were obtainable as to whether or not such a stone was missing.

What Has Gone Before PHILIP ANSON is a boy of fifteen, the son of a well-to-do family.

combined to lead effect to Isaacstein's will when he said: "Is this a joke?"

Philip, with lips tensely set, was desperately cool again. He moved his arm, and the constable's grasp tightened.

"You are hurting me," said the boy. "I merely wish to put my hand in my pocket. Are you afraid of me, that you hold me as fast?"

"Take good care of them, constable," he said. "Judging from results, they would not be safe in this man's hands."

"I have told you, sir, I wish to have a few minutes' conversation with you with regard to business of an important nature."

Isaacstein yielded to amused curiosity. "Enter in here," he said, and led the way to his private office.

Philip's indignation at the restaurant keeper's sarcasm yielded to his wish to see him annihilated later in the day.

"The Recre. "Mr. Isaacstein?" said Philip. "What, yes?" grinned the other.

"I had better warn you that Mr. Wilson, Hill, sent me here to see Mr. Isaacstein. He'll go back to Mr. Wilson and say that the office boy refuses to admit him."

"What the deuce?" he began, but checked himself. "What does Mr. Wilson want?" he went on.

"He wants nothing," said Philip. "He sent me to you on a matter of business. It is of a private nature."

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

His Plans. After crossing Hudson Vaguet Philip stood for a little while gazing into the showroom of a motor agency.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

"I'll be glad to see you," said Philip. "I'll be glad to see you," said Philip.

Philip resolved to adhere to the simple statement that it was his own property, and that any reasonable inquity might be made in all quarters where meteoric diamonds were obtainable as to whether or not such a stone was missing.

OUR POLITICAL MEETINGS COMPARED BY PATRICK HENDER

CONDEMNED SLAYER SAID TO HAVE PREPARED EVIDENCE DOOMING POLITICAL EXISTENCE OF MAY.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Sling Sing's shabby death scene today contributed an amazing chapter to the story of the impeachment of Governor William Sulzer, in which it appears that Lieutenant Charles Becker has prepared evidence striking at the political life of not at the personal freedom of a dozen men high in the official life of the state...

TEXAS BOOSTERS VOTE BONDS TO ASSURE PASSAGE OF HIGHWAY THROUGH THEIR COUNTIES.

That the Texas good roads and highway boosters think nothing of driving 100 miles to meet the path-finding car, was the feature of a telegraph received Monday morning from E. L. Ferguson, official pathfinder for the all-Southern transcontinental trail. The touring car left San Antonio Monday morning for El Paso.

2 Stamped Pillow Cases

Firm quality, heavy bleached muslin pillow cases, 42x36 inches, stamped for French, elegant and punch work broderie. The price is not for a single case, but for a pair.

Great Sale of Stamped Goods at 10c

Discontinued patterns of Royal Society package goods, including phone pads, laundry lists, blank broom holders, and fancy work bags. Complete with threads for embroidery. Formerly 25c, 35c and 40c.

Women's Stockings at About Half-Price

100 per cent perfect stockings are hard to make. A defect means a perfect score. Though these slight "bursts" in no wise affect the wear of the stockings, high grade manufacturers class perfect stockings as "seconds."

Log Cabin Rags at Halved Prices

"Log Cabin" rags are made of clean, sanitary rags obtained from mills. They're the best of the modern rag rags; always sell at an established fixed price.

Cretonnes at Half Price

15 pieces of cretonnes in choice patterns will be sacrificed for the End-of-the-Month Sale. Were 20c to 35c a yard. Now 10c to 17 1/2c a yard.

HERO BEARS TWO WOMEN FROM FIRE PERIL

Unknown Rescuer Vanishes After Braving Smoke and Flame to Warn Boarders.

Fifteen persons, many of them women and children, were forced to flee in their night clothes early Monday morning when fire breaking out in the residence of John W. Dean, No. 197 Piedmont avenue, practically destroyed the building.

A street car man, who was passing along Piedmont avenue, discovered the flames after they had gained considerable headway and aroused the sleeping occupants of the building, probably preventing a loss of life.

Upon seeing the roof of the house a mass of fire, the passerby ran through the front door shouting the alarm. The flames rushed to the door into the framework of the dwelling.

The stranger was forced to carry two of the frightened women out of the burning building to safety.

Several fire companies responded to the alarm, Company No. 4 arriving first. Difficultly was experienced by the firemen in entering the house on account of the smoke. Entrance was finally made through a window, and in a remarkably short time the flames were subdued. The fire had reached such headway and burned so rapidly that the house was almost entirely destroyed, although the firemen were on the scene in less than five minutes after the alarm was given.

After seeing that all of the occupants of the house were safe, the unknown man left hurriedly, saying he was afraid of being laid at his work.

House Guard Overrun. The house is located at the corner of Piedmont and Edgewood avenues, and is the property of the governor's horse guard. John W. Dean has operated a boarding house there for some time. It was here that Mrs. R. Glenn, wife of the Atlanta contractor who slipped with Mrs. Lina Paddock, wife of the Missouri coal millionaire, remained with her husband when he was confined in the county jail after being brought back from Texas, where he was arrested with Mrs. Paddock.

The fire apparently started in a chest on the second floor of the house, but the cause is unknown. It is a frame house, erected many years ago.

Fifteen persons were asleep in the house at the time of the fire. Among them were Mrs. M. W. Dean and Mrs. W. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sherman and two children, Mrs. M. W. Peter Humes, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cook, H. C. Fisher, and A. P. Bulter. Practically all of the men and children fled to the rear of the house, where they were rescued by the firemen.

The cavalry company came into possession of the property of the house, purchasing it from Mrs. O. Lovell. The troop used the house as a storage room for many years and repaired it at a cost of $10,000. The boarding house. The property has increased greatly in value since it was chased by the troop and an offer of $55,000 was recently refused for it.

Edison Says People Eat Too Much Beef

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Thomas A. Edison believes the country measure should be supervised by capable bankers and there should be four centers at New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

He said he would take no more vacations without work, as "vacationing" had caused his illness, and he would see that his health was maintained.

He declared Americans were eating twice too much beef for their own good.

Bull Moose Leader Defies Old Parties

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Bull Moose party is far from dead-in fact, it is very much alive and will be found kicking strenuously when the proper time comes.

Fresh from a conference of the Progressive party leaders, the New York Representative Hinebaugh, of Illinois, treated the defiance to Republicans and Democrats. According to Hinebaugh's estimate, the Progressives will poll at least two and a half million votes.

White and Hinebaugh shot Brandenburg and his wife. White was shot by Brandenburg.

Blackbird's Crew Run Down at Last; Girl Pet of Pirates

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

HONOLULU, Sept. 29.—The crew for the "blackbirders," a pirate crew that has been terrorizing the islands of the South Sea, has ended, according to a wireless message received here today from Captain Topham, of the revenue cutter Kookoo.

Every man of the pirates' band was captured, Captain Topham said after a hard fight. The prisoners were sent to San Francisco, where the revenue cutter's captain will recommend that every one be hanged.

Among the pirates, Captain Topham found a beautiful young Spanish girl, Estrella D'Arce, who is adored by the pirates as their most precious treasure. She has been among the pirates for ten years, and was 5 years old when she fell into their hands.

The chief of the pirates confessed that his hand sunk her father's boat and saved only the beautiful child.

President Wilson Sees Polaire Dance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—President Wilson witnessed the "Triple Alliance Review" of Lady Constance de Saxe-Mecklenburg, Mrs. Richard and Gertrude Hoffman at the Bolshoi Theater.

Stewart Richardson gave a number of dances which included one representing the work of the world at the house of dawn. In this the dancers in evening gowns and white and green several of the veils were destroyed. The fire had reached such headway and burned so rapidly that the house was almost entirely destroyed, although the firemen were on the scene in less than five minutes after the alarm was given.

After seeing that all of the occupants of the house were safe, the unknown man left hurriedly, saying he was afraid of being laid at his work.

'Barbary Coast' to Defy Closing Order

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—The Thumbs of Chief of Police White was turned down here on a plan of recent owners to continue the "Barbary Coast" on a soft drink basis.

Hard drinks or soft drinks, dandy balls or soft balls, said the Chief today in an announcement that would not be permitted in the reports after to-morrow evening, even if liquor was not served.

Notwithstanding the announcement by the Chief, the street owners were preparing for Tuesday night's "grape and orange" party.

Garros Says He Can Fly Across Atlantic

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Roland G. Garros, who made an aeroplane flight across the Mediterranean sea, said today that he would divide the journey into three stages: from England to Iceland, from Iceland to Newfoundland, from Newfoundland to the United States.

Two of these stages would be shorter than his France to Tunis flight, and the third very little longer.

Princess Olga to Wed German Noble

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

BREITENBURG, Sept. 29.—Princess Olga, third daughter of the Duke of Cumberland, is engaged to wed Prince Boris of Schaumburg-Lippe, according to announcements from Vienna.

Princess Olga is a sister of Prince Ernest, who married Princess Victoria, daughter of Emperor Wilhelm.

WOMAN HELD AS $30,000 THEFT IS PROBED

New York Officers Arrest Wilmington, N. C., Matron Accused of Stealing Friend's Fortune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Elizabeth Van Nicholas, a leading Wilmington (N. C.) society, was arrested at the Hotel Endicott charged with embezzling $30,000 from her life-long friend, Mrs. Helen P. Lemassena, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Nicholas, who is a tall, well-dressed woman of striking appearance, was disarmed when placed under arrest. She requested to be allowed to remain at the hotel until granted until the matter was cleared up, but she was taken to the station.

The arrest was made at the instigation of Mrs. Lemassena, a widow of $100,000, who has followed Mrs. Nicholas through seven States during the past six months. He told the police at his mother and instructed Mrs. Nicholas with $20,000 to invest and not to return to Wilmington, N. C.

The papers will be forwarded to Raleigh for Governor Craig's signature. Sheriff F. Cowan of this county will have for New York immediately upon receipt of them.

Sheriff Cowan was notified from New York of the arrest of Mrs. Nicholas, and it was indicated in the telegram that she would refuse to return to North Carolina without arrival of an officer from this county.

Mrs. Nicholas is an elderly woman, remarkably well preserved, of handsome appearance and charming personality. She moved to exclusive residential circles in Wilmington and entertained lavishly. She was widely known and was prominent in several charitable organizations.

There are three separate indictments against the woman, in the aggregate charging the embezzlement of $10,000. Civil suit also has been started by the complainant in this case, charging the embezzlement of $20,000.

The money at issue was in possession of Mrs. Nicholas, to be invested in stocks and bonds for Mrs. Lemassena, who had been her close friend and confidante for many years.

Mrs. Nicholas' ability as a manager of Mrs. Lemassena's affairs is said to have been the cause of the embezzlement. The indictment and arrest of Mrs. Nicholas has caused a big sensation here and elsewhere.

Plan Injunction to Forestall Road Tax

CALHOUN, Sept. 29.—Citizens of Gordon County who oppose the special tax levied by the road commissioners for building Gordon County's part of the proposed Johnson-Sherman highway from Chattanooga have employed Attorneys Hutchins & Banks, of Rome, to enter the county court to collect the special tax. This tax is $5.00 per $1,000.

Harry K. Thaw's Recent Declaration of Love for Evelyn---

"I have lost all that is dear to me in this world. I feel I have lost the love of the woman for whom I was prepared to do anything. That is Evelyn.

"I think I have answered the question of why I made my flight from Matteawan when I have said that I have lost the dearest girl in the world."

Introductory Remarks by Evelyn Thaw

If there are women or men in the world who do not believe that their lives would make an entrancing story they are either very humble or very clever. "Commencement" is a word which is expunged from the lexicon of those who write about themselves. In our arrogance--let me include myself--we imagine that our lives are so far removed from the run of lives, in respect of interest and character, as to be apart. And we are right, even the most humdrum of us. Who can read Flaubert's "Simple Soul" without realizing this fact? There is no life that is not a fascinating story--always providing that its lines can "carry it across the finish line." The less humdrum the life has been, the less skill does the autobiographer require, and it is because my own life has been out of the ordinary that I dare essay the task of putting in plain words a rough and, I fear, an amateur chronicle.

I have many friends in the newspaper world, both in America and England; unemotional men, whose friendship I value, not so much because they have been able, at times, to turn the sharp edge of criticism from my unhappy self, but because in many of them I have found a sane judgment, a larger humanity and broader views than in any other class of men I have met. And this has been an astounding thing for me. For your newspaper man, on the surface, is a man of lost a man pitiless in his analysis, and remorseless in his search of facts. Stories which would appal and shock the average person leave him unmoved. He will go right away from a millionaire's luxurious dinner party to the market, cover a horse show and an illustration in one day; interview princes and criminals in rotation, and give no indication that he is impressed by either experience.

Yet, for all his seeming callousness, when tossed upon a "story," the newspaper man is very human in his sympathies, and I have to pay a grateful tribute to some of the journalists of America for the help and encouragement they gave me in the darkest hour of my need. It follows that among my friends of the press I have found many who are willing and anxious to assist me in preparing such a book as this, but, although with such assistance, the value of the book, as a literary production, might well be materially enhanced, I have preferred to wait the time when I might be able to write, with my own hand and for my own pleasure, the story as I wish to tell it.

I am satisfied that there will be critics who will demur at the necessity of writing the book at all. They will say, "Why rake up the past--a past which can not be of interest to anybody save the actors, who are fairly unimportant people?" My own view, strengthened by a continuous study of other lives, is that there are no unimportant people in the world. The right to write is almost as inalienable as the right to live, and there will be something in the exaggerated tragedy of the existence which was mine--a lesson for somebody or other.

I hate the cant of the writer who professes to write only for the uplifting of the race; who prepares moral nastiness that the vague "they" shall be benefited, and I dissociate myself from the suggestion that this is a book with an object--yet, as I say, there will be a lesson in this, as in every other autobiography. It would be a colorless life, indeed, which did not contain this lesson.

Here, then, is the life of Evelyn Thaw--a life without an apology; without even vain regret.

Chapter I.--My Early Poverty; as Artist's Model; as Chorus Girl

OWEVER anxious one may be to record one's childhood, that period of life is the most elusive.

I lived at Tarentum, on the Allegheny River, just outside Pittsburgh. My father was a lawyer. "Wirt" Nesbit was respected from one end of the country to the other, and had a reputation which extended beyond the lines of local celebrity. A charming, genial man, I have only the most tender memories of him, for he died when I was 10, and that is an age when a child begins to form the most rosy impressions of those who have marked down for hero worship.

My childhood was the happiest time of my life. That is the impression I have now. I know that I was a tomboy, very keen on prize fights of all things in the world, and delighted in promoting combats in secluded spots between children who were very beautiful to see, but who, in the eyes of my outraged parents, were the most impossible playmates.

My mother is one of the sweetest women I have ever met. Artistic to her finger tips, her home has ever been a harmonious and beautiful thing.

I have said she was a beautiful character. She was one of those women who had her home ordered artistically and charmingly. Whether she understood me or my nature I do not know. I doubt very much whether my father is ever entirely in sympathy with her domestic aspirations. It has been my experience that she has had a remarkably good mother's first care, just as the daughter invariably has the father's.

My Tribute to My Mother, The Best of Women.

I have a brother with whose characteristics I do not doubt my mother is much better acquainted than with mine. I do not suggest for one moment that there was any violent antagonism between her and myself, but do say that she had a deeper knowledge of me.

ter my life would have run on different lines. And, if I express the opinion that my brother was the first consideration, I do not do so in an irritated or an aggrieved frame of mind. I believe that it is how nature orders things, and I am quite content to accept such order without complaint, realizing that, had my father lived, my brother would probably have enjoyed the same experience in relation to myself.

I have the fullest admiration for my mother's character. She is altogether a wonderful woman. She is one of those sweet characters who could not plant a dry stick in the earth but it would blossom; who can make the most trifling things; is eminently efficient in all her household duties; the most perfect and salutary of housewives; the most trusting and believing of creatures.

But she did not understand me. To-day I am probably the greatest enigma that the world offers her. I am outside and beyond the range of her understanding. She is one of those women who are always willing to believe the best, and quite ready to fear the worst.

I can not take a convenient and lazy course and put all the blame of the friction, which at various periods, undoubtedly existed, upon my ancestry. My mother and I were temperamentally different. I made matters more impossible because I was young, headstrong and untrusting. My mother was a woman of youth, and opposed by one whose nature was so sweet and so simple that I could without any effort circumvent her most convincing argument.

I was, as I have said, born in Tarentum, in Pennsylvania, on the Allegheny River. There is a Tarentum in Italy, a corruption of the ancient Tarentum, but the town names of the United States were never puppets. When I was eight years old we moved across the river to Allegheny, and we were there two years.

The Poverty That Followed Fast Upon Father's Death.

It was while we were there that my father died. I have only the dimmest recollection of the period that followed. I realized then, with a vague sense of childish discomfort, that it was a period of trouble for my mother.

I do not know exactly in what position my father left her, but my recollection is that my mother had to pay frequent visits to court on account of my father's affairs.

At first, as far as I remember, we seemed to be in some prosperity, but afterward there was a great deal of worry. Whatever money my mother had was gone, and it was necessary for us to rent a few rooms in the house to outsiders.

That seemed a fairly easy method of keeping the wolf from the door, but, somehow, it never worked smoothly. Mother was always worried about the rent she had to pay, and still more worried about the rent she did not always get. And there were times when we felt the pinch very acutely; moments, indeed, when we did not get enough to eat.

The next move, I remember, was to my grandmother's. We went and lived with her. We were sent to an aunt, and afterward to a family which my mother had known in Pittsburgh.

It is curious what shape memory takes of events which are of such paramount importance, and which are destined to play so great a part in one's career.

I remember that rail journey, which my brother and I took alone. How we were put in charge of the conductor, and the trouble we had with the family cat, which I instated upon taking with me to our new home. Every conductor that came aboard wanted to put poor pussy off. It was a weedy journey for me. Finally we got to Philadelphia, and mother and another lady met us at the depot.

I was between thirteen and fourteen at the time, just old enough to take an intelligent interest in my parent's affairs. I do not remember exactly what idea I had as to our future when I went to Philadelphia. It probably was that my mother had already secured an appointment, but I found that she was living in one room in a small boarding house, and that the position of designer, the security of which was to retrieve the family fortune, had not yet materialized.

Clever as she was in the making and planning of clothes, the people who employed designers wanted one who had practical experience on the commercial side of the business. They wanted somebody who had been Paris, who had studied and had at their finger tips the latest mode, and poor mother, with all the best intentions in the world, could not lay claim to so large and varied an experience.

The Problem of the Girl Alone With an Artist.

What little money we had began to go straight. My brother was sent back to a convent

Hundreds of Answers to the Suit Question

Choosing the suit this Fall is a very pleasant task—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co's.

It is pleasant because so much has been done for you before you ever see the suits we offer.

The bare fact that here are hundreds of answers to the suit question is of little importance in itself.

We have been more scrupulous than you could ever be—we have not admitted a style that is doubtful.

Suits had to be right!

We did what we are now advising you to do.

We went to the makers who are closest to Paris, those who seem to have the knack of doing things a bit better than the average, of adding the touch, of watching the details that distinguish the suit you will like from the ordinary kind.

Any reason why a woman with a suit to select should deny herself the privilege of such a suit store as this?

Women's Blanket Robes

They are rich affairs this season—following the tendencies that dominate the styles.

Great swirling patterns, neat patterns. Materials full of warmth and comfort. Indian effects seem to lead.

Right now the display is very interesting. Then there are others for men—such that keep a man at home o' nights.

They were priced at $3, $3.95, $5 to $7.50

Blouses That Bloomed in Paris—First

Their vogue is pronounced—that is the vogue for such skirts as you will see here—in New York it amounts to a rage.

They are smart—the "Stotchiest" of Scotch plaids are used, but soft toned colors, showing dark green, navy, purple and dark red in wonderfully effective combinations. The models are draped, and some are very wide in the hips, all with raised waist line.

See them! They are priced at $6.50, $7.98, $8.75 and $11.98

MY LIFE--By Evelyn Nesbit

A recent photograph of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, showing that she still retains her love of posing with animals.

In a sense, this was the most momentous of our moves, from my point of view. The boarding house in Arch street marked the beginning of my independent career. Until now I had been a follower—a being whose life was directed by the whim or the circumstances of another.

Hitherto I and the rest of the world had revolved about my mother. She was in my eyes the central attraction around which animated creation gravitated. Arch street represented the period of transition; the "living" which the center of attraction slowly but surely shifted.

It was there I met a Mrs. Darach, who was an artist. She was attracted by my face, and asked me if I would sit as a model for her. The idea attracted me. It seemed to me at that time to be a wonderful thing that anybody would want to paint a picture of me. It was really a wonderful joke and I was as proud as though I myself combined all the genius of Michael Angelo and Rosa Bonheur.

I learned in that time the supreme value of patience. Enthusiasm for being painted died with an aching neck, with the yearning desire to get right away from the position in which the artist put me, to move my head exactly in the direction she did not wish me to look, and to fidget at moments when it was essential that I should keep quite still.

Here, then, began the great education, an education the fruit of which was to serve me in such good stead in later years. Other artists would drop into the studio on Chestnut street, and one woman who came was very anxious that I should sit for her. Mrs. Darach, however, pointed out that I was not a professional model, but the other lady artist was very modest.

"But," she said, "I know lots of girls who are earning quite good money by posing for illustrators of magazines."

I had never thought of the possibility of making an income in this way. It seemed to me absurd that people should take money for being painted. I spoke to mother about it, but she did not offer any objection, and thus it came about from Mrs. Darach I went to other artists, and slowly but surely began to form ond street—a little back room on the second floor, here we lived and again felt the pinch of poverty. There were days when my sole meal consisted of a biscuit and a cup of coffee.

Try as she would, my mother did not succeed in securing even a minor position with a firm of dress designers. Everywhere she answered was returned. The same question asked: "Had she been to Paris recently? Had she similar experience with other stores?"

It was in desperation that mother remembered the letter of introduction to Mr. Carroll Beck with in Philadelphia my artist friends had sent me to a photographer's to secure a number of studies of my head. Arrived with one of these women called upon by Mr. Beckwith. This was in December, 1906. The artist was pleased with the picture. He told her she could bring me up to the studio, because he felt pretty sure that he would be able to give me a personal inspection on satisfied him, and he offered me posing for two mornings every week.

"You are not the sort of girl," he said kindly, "that should go knocking at studio doors. I will give you some letters of introduction to representative artists in New York."

This he did. I remember one was to Mr. F. S. O'Brook, and Mr. Church gave me letters to Herbert Morgan and Mr. and Mrs. Hyneman and Carl Blumberg. For all these artists posed. This poses were not particularly difficult. In the main they wanted me for my head. I never posed for the figure, in the sense that I posed for the nude. Sometimes I would be painted as a Turkish woman, all vivid coloring, with ropes and bangles of jade about my neck and arms.

And here I would like to say something about the artist's model, because there is so much in this conception.

The question of the artist's model, the "formal business" of course, like that of the stage, is a question in which many people seem to take considerable and, indeed, at times uncalled for interest.

In the case of the artist's model, it is perhaps not to be wondered at that when a girl as a model must so completely ignore all the safeguards with which society and convention have fenced in womanhood, the world should be considered guilty of rash judgment if it is inclined to reckon such girls as mere or less objects of interest.

Now let us look at the girl alone with the artist. The law can not help her, society, convention, custom are shut outside the walls of this great room, powerless to aid or shield from the elemental passions of two human beings.

made in those early days to master such classics as came my way had been a sort of meagre sense of proportion, the one sense which would have salvaged to a girl upon whom is lavished the public attention and adulation. This, and my own taste for a healthy open-air life, enabled me to take a normal view of things. There are no phenomena of nature which are not beautiful to me.

So when I am asked in what spirit I approached the stage and the career it offered me, I say I approached the stage as I would a virgin forest, with a bubbling sense of happiness in the revelations which it would open to me. I was not stage-struck in the accepted sense. I never thought of the audience and what charm might exert over them, I did not anticipate huge triumphs in floral tributes handed across the footlights nor did I dream of dreams of laudatory newspaper notices.

I was supremely indifferent as to the position I might occupy in the profession; it was enough to me that I should be one with the people of the new world, privy to their thoughts, their habits of thought and speech. I should be "in it."

There came offers to me from all manner of people, promising me this and that, success, dazzling prospects of distant fame were held before my eyes. With the advertisement given me by newspapers I should command high salaries, I should be a success. I should be a talked-of woman in America—all these promises, however, I was not impressed. I was only interested in the actual "getting there."

One letter from a manager asking for my services at $20 a week would have eclipsed all other communications. I was a man among men, I realize that a freakish notoriety was not desirable at any point of view.

The greatest advancement apart from an unborn desire for enlargement of his, lay in the very material fact that the stage would enable me to make a double income. I could pose by day and appear on the stage by night. The dollars counted horribly, for I had had no previous income, and I was anxious to put myself as far distant from a repetition of I could not do that. I do not think that my mother was over-anxious stage as I was, but fate was moving me inexorably in the direction of the stage.

Every day the new life became more tangible possibility, and when at length I entered the mysterious stage door and found myself a new experience than an "actor" to a life with which I was well acquainted.

I had a letter from Mr. Marks, who was a theatrical manager. He was very anxious that I should go on the stage and promised me that he would do all he could to make me famous. These letters were all very kind, but we said little attention to them, but afterward we would find that they could get me a position in "Floradora," and some time later, through the kindness of Mr. Marks, I received a letter of introduction to the manager of the "Floradora." I was very much interested in the offer, because a practical issue. I overruled mother's objections and went with her to see Mr. Marks. He had a long look at me. He was a man of humor, and he burst out at me with a laugh.

"So you want to be an actress?" he said, with mock solemnity. "I am running a theater, not a hall of fame. If you are to be in 'Floradora' I should have the Glee Society on my back. No, my child, I can not rub the candle."

When I got back to the office Mr. Fihbell asked me if I could dance. I said I could. He came to the piano and put on a record. The state manager was keen on my coming into the theater. Mr. Fihbell was so enthusiastic and said he would let me know.

"The fact is," he said, "the only chance of your coming on the stage is for you to be a little retarded as to what your age is. If you like to do this I am willing to give you a trial; like you come to-morrow and rehearse."

They Left Me Still My Veil of Innocence.

I went home in the seventh heaven of delight.

And here let me deal with an aspect of stage life which forever excites the moralist. Has it a corrupting influence on the young? It speaks to me of the fact that I did not corrupt, but the being brought into contact with people who are loose in language or who have no regard for the sanctity of morals, is corruption, then the streets of New York, Paris, London, of any great city, are unfit for the young girl.

There is a camaraderie on the stage which entails a certain freedom of speech and a certain frankness in dealing with the relationships which exist between people, but there is also the protection which comes from the destruction of illusion.

And there is, too, a very real appreciation of duty toward the innocent. There is a code which protects the child and stands between her and the happenings of evil, and in no other branch of life have I seen such anxiety displayed to hide ugly truths from the novice.

Here is an example of how a girl can live in the very midst of things without fully understanding their significance.

I remember that in those early days I used to envy a sister of beautiful girls who had a chorus number of their own. I used to stand in the wings and watch them dancing gracefully the slow movements of the number, and wonder a little ruefully whether I should ever be tall enough or skilful enough to do the work they were doing. For, in my innocence, I regarded them as the most wonderful part of the show and certainly the best paid. "For," I argued, "could they were such lovely creatures, they would have been such lovely models of the stage, and such beautiful pearls on the stage, and they would have been paid in proportion to their charms."

I must have mentioned my view to several people, but not one of them attempted to lift the veil which hid from my eyes the truth. The stage was indeed a wonderful world to a young girl. I looked at life from a new angle, and saw men and women from another plane. I was impressed by the frankness of the girls, a quality which is neither to be despised nor condemned, for they merely put into words all that their eyes of the other world had seen. They had gotten the trick of thinking aloud, and found speech an excellent way of getting rid of their thoughts, and one of the reasons why actresses are apparently so incoherent in their practice.

I found it took years of study before I could disentangle the real meaning of a girl from her expressions and observations expressed in view. I have heard people and men especially, who have been completely deceived by the consistency and deceptive powers of girls engaged on the stage.

Next Sunday Evelyn Thaw will give the history of her acquaintance with Stanford White.

Judged by the ordinary standards and conditions of life, the thing is catalytic. Yet she looks and talks as lightly and unconcernedly as she takes off her hat and goes to the glass to arrange her hair as if they were about to engage in a game of tennis. She then retires behind a screen, or into another room, to emerge presently appearing only in her youth and beauty. I am speaking, of course, of the artist's model who poses for the figure.

This picture doubtless will appeal to different people in a very different manner. Not a few will regard it as "horrible," "disgraceful," "outrageous," the law should prevent her, and so on.

Of course, it is a big risk for any woman thus to challenge the conventions and even the instincts of her sex; and yet it is the majority of those who have risked it. A girl with a character can keep the narrow road with much less difficulty than her sister in other than the safe of life.

It stands to reason that such exacting work as drawing and painting the figure can not be combined with philandering to any great extent, and the artist, even though flesh and blood, and he can not be much of an artist unless he is very much so, quickly gets away from the figure.

For the girl of parts, indeed, there are few means of livelihood which offer greater possibilities than the career of posing. It requires neither money nor influence. She speaks, she may know small Latin and less Greek. The only capital necessary is that with which Nature has endowed her—a pretty face, a shapely form and a plastic, sympathetic temperament.

It is not content to do all the time, of course, for, of the rank and file, but few fall to have some good times. But even for the luckiest there is the inevitable pay, pay—the girl pro quo.

Being his name, sitting very often takes great muscular effort and fatigues in a common incident, especially in the long stints required in schools and classes, and the work is at all times a great strain on the nerves.

A girl taking up posing professionally and seriously must be prepared to make pleasure, amusement and other interests subordinate to her work.

In a sense it was my work as an artist's model that first brought me into the public eye. I do not know that to be brought into the public eye is the happiest of experiences. Wilda has said that a woman, like a country, is happiest when she has no history; for my part, I am free to confess that while the reminiscences of the past may be painful, there is a peculiar fascination and happiness in framing up the experiences.

I Marvel at the Mysteries of the Stage.

I remember in New York a reporter came down to the house to see me. It was a novel experience to those days, and one which considerably flattered me. It was the first of it do not know how many interviews which were to be my lot. Mother showed him a photograph which had been taken in Philadelphia. It is a curious fact that I have not a single one of these pictures left, though it is not such a long time ago since they were taken. A photograph of a pose I had made was printed in an evening paper in New York, with a complimentary caption underneath, and I therefore saw many reporters, all of whom were anxious to see a photograph of their partner.

The Sunday American published several of them, two big pages, and it was only natural that this should be followed by a succession of offers to go on the stage.

I suppose such an experience, falling to a young girl, would be publicity and with little knowledge of the world, would be sufficient to turn her head. But I was immensely naive in those days. I attribute this to the fact that I had read more than most girls of my age. My father had an excellent library, and I had been a most voracious reader. I laugh to myself when I think of the literary puzzles I tackled. I am sure that as a young girl, I had read more than most girls of my age. I posed mostly for heads, particularly for children's heads, and at first for the lady artists. There were four in that building who used me as a model for the pictures which they illustrated stories in the best-known magazines.

I grew in patience and the work came easy.

The golf displayed by the British golfers was of a very high class. They showed to very good advantage throughout the tournament, with the possible exception of the last few holes in the Saturday play-off.

They showed a great knowledge of the various shots, such as a slice, put, pitch shot with run, and the cut shot. This latter shot is very effective, and is used mostly to keep the ball near the hole, especially on a keen green.

When played properly, it leaves little to do on the putting green.

His play is very sound for all of that, and he might be considered a very dangerous man on the putting greens, as he puts boldly and for the back of the cup, being exceptionally accurate on his approach putting.

KLAUS BATTLES MCGOORTY FOR 'MIDDLE' TITLE

The clash won't mean the bringing out of a new champion, but might mean such a thing, for though Jack Dillon and Jimmy Clabby have a right to dispute any one claiming such honors, McGoorty and Klaus today hold the highest rank in the middleweight division.

There will be no decision at the close of ten rounds, should the battle go the full distance, for referees' decisions are barred by the laws that govern the game, but the newspaper boys will be at the ringside to tell the merits of the game.

To-night's clash carries with it important interest. Not that either of the lads had from foreign shores, but because of their bettered records.

Both McGoorty and Klaus have fought in the far-off lands and such a knock-out for the world. Klaus is famed abroad for his doctors who have given Georges Carpentier, the French champion, and for his victory over Billy Papke, another battle fought on foreign grounds.

Other minor bouts have been waged in France by Klaus, but those make him known to the foreign ring. His record, however, has been of considerable merit for handling him the best in the 155-pound division.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—I met Mr. Baxter, of the Ridge Country Club, on the spot the other day and was horrified to see that he had suffered a severe injury to his right eye. It was badly swollen and blackened and the eyeball itself was brilliant red.

It is a peculiar coincidence that two years ago Mr. Baxter was struck on the forehead by a golf ball. Baxter has had much more than his share of injuries, because it is a well-known fact that the golfer is less liable to accident than any other sportsman.

THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN

Published by THE GEORGIAN COMPANY... Entered as second-class matter...

Why Is Thaw Made a Hero in New Hampshire--as He Was in Canada?

The Answer Is Simple: People Do Not Like White Slavers and Vice Debauches of the Stanford White Type...

A newspaper filled with sympathy for the late Stanford White asks the following question:

"Is Thaw a hero in New Hampshire as he was in Canada because he is notorious, or because he is rich, or because there is genuine popular sympathy for him..."

Here is the answer: Thaw is made a hero in New Hampshire, he is applauded by good citizens, not so much because of his own qualities...

The citizens of the country know that he has been kept in the insane asylum--although he is not insane--through the efforts of the friends of Stanford White...

The people know that Thaw was declared insane by a jury for the simple reason that the jury would not condemn him for having killed such a creature as Stanford White...

The people know that Thaw, now, at least, is not insane. They know that so far from being helped by his millions--or rather by the millions of his mother--the money actually hinders him...

In every State in the Union. That is why in every State, if the matter were left to a public vote, Thaw would be set free.

This newspaper considers the case AS IT STANDS TO DAY. Thaw was declared insane by a jury that would not vote to execute him for having killed Stanford White.

The law says that a man who commits a crime and is declared insane shall be kept locked up unless his sanity returns. As soon as he is sane he is to be set free.

Only the friends of Stanford White, a few newspapers that sympathize with White, and some specialists, especially paid, declare that Thaw is insane.

He is at least as sane as 75 per cent of the population. And he is not only sane, but has shown remarkable intelligence in his determined efforts to obtain freedom...

Inasmuch as Thaw is, or was, detained by New York State as an insane man, and inasmuch as his conduct during his incarceration and since he fled from the asylum would clearly indicate that he is sane, justice demands that he be set free--as the law provides.

Justice does NOT demand that he be returned to life imprisonment TO OBLIGE THE FRIENDS, JOURNALISTIC AND OTHERWISE, OF THE DEGRADED BRUTE WHOM HE KILLED.

Fortunately, Thaw is in the hands of a Federal judge. He is not at the mercy of any court especially chosen to send him back to the insane asylum...

He will have his day in court, and will probably not be sent back to life imprisonment in an insane asylum for having killed Stanford White, whose death certainly saved from shame, degradation and horror many helpless girls.

No civilized human being would plead the unwritten law, or put the right of an individual taking justice into his own hands above the law.

And any justice man who commits a murder for whatever reason should be punished for murder. Yet, if ever there was a killing that was justified, it was the killing of Stanford White, AND HIS MOST INTIMATE FRIENDS KNOW THAT THAT IS SO.

They know that his pastime was the pursuit and the destruction of unfortunate women. They know that he spent his money and his time in the committing of crime compared with which murder committed in anger is as nothing.

It is not a good, healthy or wise thing to have a man who has committed murder, such as Thaw, lionized, applauded and made much of. But the fault is with the degenerate associates and admirers of Stanford White who viciously pursue Thaw and create public sympathy for him.

And the fault is with the machinery of justice that in one or two instances at least has seemed afraid to deal justly with Thaw.

Far better let the man go in a proper and orderly manner, taking with him the sympathy and the thanks of those who best understood the character and the crimes of Stanford White.

Lock him up again in Mattawan, and you will not settle the question or dispose of it. The people in New Hampshire, as in Canada, make a hero of Thaw because they do not like Stanford White, and because they do not like the idea that the associates, friends and defenders of that vile degenerate have influence enough to deprive a man of his liberty when the law says that being sane he should be set free.

Dr. Parkhurst Writes on Immortality

Many Hope Death Is End of All, but Deep Thinkers Believe This Is Only the Beginning of a Future and Better Life.

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

HOWEVER occupied people may be with the affairs of this life, there are few, if any, who do not sometimes throw their thoughts forward toward a possible life to come. It is safe to say that there is more of this forecasting of another world than has outward expression given to it.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Misfortunes

Are You Not Better for Them? If Not, You Have Failed to Learn Life's Lesson in Self-Development.

Written for The Atlanta Georgian By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

YOU who complain bitterly of your troubles and sorrows turn your gaze inward for a time and see what these experiences have done for you.

If you are not a deeper understanding of human nature, and a larger sympathy for your fellow-men through having known trouble...

Sorrows Will Come Until You Learn Sympathy and Compassion.

Just as the scholar who has not learned his lessons at school is given the same lessons over and over again, so will you be given sorrow after sorrow and trouble after trouble...

First of all in thinking of your misfortunes, remember you have brought them on yourself. Not in this life, perhaps, but in former lives. We have all lived many lives...

If in other lives you were wealthy and selfish and imprudent and idle, you come into this life poor and without friends or influence.

It is simply your life lesson of self-development given you again to learn. Industry, self-control, economy, are the next lessons.

By patient persistence you will learn them all; and then independence and usefulness and happiness will be yours.

If you did not appreciate love and affection in your last incarnation you will be deprived of these blessings for a time in this life; but if you give freely, even though you do not receive, and if you develop every loving impulse, and ask for no return, and if you refuse to think of your misfortunes, and persist in thinking of your great privilege in being allowed to do for others, then love firm believer in the great invisible world and in the God who is enthroned in it, as is evidenced by the two subjoined quotations from his superb address:

"It is my function to remind you and myself that our studies do not exhaust the universe, and that if we dogmatize in a negative direction, and say that we can reduce everything to physics and chemistry, we gibbet ourselves as ludicrously narrow pedants, and are falling far short of the richness and fullness of our human birthright."

"How far preferable is the reverent attitude of the Eastern poet: 'The world with eyes bent upon Thy feet stands in awe with all its silent stars.'"

"We are deaf and blind, therefore, to the imminent grandeur around us unless we have insight enough to appreciate the whole, and to recognize in the woven fabric of existence, flowing steadily from the loom in an infinite progress toward perfection, the ever-growing garment of a transcendental God."

The Wail of the Freaks

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

As an expression of opinion given after learning that Secretary of State Bryan was going out for two weeks with a test show, the news being furnished by the press agent:

"THE Armless Wonder smashed his teeth and clonched his feet in rage. 'I'm through with art for good,' he yelled, 'I'm gonna quit the stage! I used to headline every bill, and have my name of nights Spelt out above the theater in big electric lights. The Yodling Gator, the Thinking Pig, the Jangling Japanese, And even the Eight-Legged Cow all stood aside for me. But look at this here note! It--it makes me fairly ill-- 'This week the Old Doc's Talking Act will lead you on the bill!'"

"'OW ain't that just the dearest stuff?' the Fair Christiana cried. 'When I was told that date was killed I nearly like to die. I've been in his every show from Congo to Fort Lee; Not even the Three-Headed Man had anything on me. But that is always just the way: You think you're gold' strong. And spend your money free an' then some new freak comes along. I never seen the Old Doc work, but he has put me wise To one best bet in his peckish; He pays to advertise--'"

"'STOMP!' said the Contortionist, with a despairing sob. 'It's all because the President has gave this guy a job. Then Socialists has got it right; It's unfair competition For us poor freaks to play against a Cabinet position. But still this faw has got some act. Of course, it has its' faults. But he's a wonder when he comes to throwing somersaults. And on the stage he's worked on most, when he has got in trouble, And has to get out good and quick, he always does 'em double.' 'T'out the knockers,' the Fat Man said; 'shove off the hammer song. An' let a guy that's got the goods turn in where he belongs. When t'ryin' to be President he couldn't land his staff. But in this circus-around game he's got it on us all. I've seen him give three shows a day an' turn up fresh and bright. To sit in with the treasurer and count the house at night. If Kipling still was on his job I'd bet the ink he'd fling In writin' out a song like this that you mutts ought to sing: 'Oh, the Doc! Doc! Doc! He has chased us off the block. We've got to give it to him, an' let's put our jools in hook; All he does is stands and bawlers. But he gathers in the dollars. He's a wiser guy than we are, is the Doc.'"

Stars and Stripes

Some wives are getting hinky. One says because her husband wanted to bring his "soulmate" into the family. "Last said is best meant" is not applicable when money is the topic. Huerta's self-elimination needs to be backed by a little trunk-packing. What's the use of silk gowns if the women are going to wear boots? Daniels is becoming a gallant scout cruiser for a big navy.
