HOW THEY VOTED. The fate of the woman's suffrage bill was sealed by the votes of more than fifty Irish nationalists, .who voted against it. The bill, whereby it was sought to enfranchise 6,000,000 women, was rejected by a majority of 47; the vote stood 266 to 219. Whether there is any chance that the present parliament will pass a bill of more limited character may be doubted. Pessibly the nationalists fear that if they allow a woman's franchise bill to pass the second reading it will lead to a parliamentary struggle, which would not unlikely end in dissolution of parliament before the home rule bill becomes a law. Furthermore, the debate today proved that the militant policy of the suffragists has done the cause great harm as far as parliament is concerned. The conciliation bill of last session was rejected by only a small majority com-Pared with the Dickinson bill under discussion today. A Bright Young Lady Hits on a Plan to Get Her Friends to Help Her Out on Titles.

Among the visitors to Campaign Headquarters yesterday, there was one young lady who has a bright plan and the nerve to carry it through. Calling the obliging young clerk in charge of supplies to one side she outlined her plan and, of course readily secured his consent to carry out her wishes. "Here, Mr. Clerk," said she I have a list of pictures that I want you to get me four of each. Now, I want four f your catalogues and wish you would mail them out with a set of these pictures to each one of these addresses. Oh, surely, I will pay the postage. But listen, will you slip one of these notes into each of these catalogues for me? Oh, yes, know that makes firstclass postage, but I will gladly pay it. Here is the note. Do

Rheumatic Blood is Whole Story

You Will Feel Like an Acrobat After Using S. S. S.

There is a host of pills, powders, tablets and what-not for rheumatism, but they all lack the first essential to being a natural medicine. To begin with, rheumatism is simply a name given to designate a variety of pains, and can only be reached by irrigating the entire blood supply with a naturally assimilative antidote. True, the pains may be eased with narcotics or the acids may be neutralized for the time being. But such methods merely temporize and do not even lead to a cure. There is but one standard rheumatism remedy, and is sold in all drug stores under the name of S. S. It contains only pure vegetable elements and is absolutely free of mercury, iodide of potash or arsenic, and has proved a wonder for every form of rheumatism.

The recoveries of all types of rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. is a fine tribute to the natural efficacy of this remarkable medicine, for it is assimilated just as naturally, just as specifically, and just as well ordained as the most acceptable, most palatable and most readily digested food. Do not fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day. You will be astonished at the results. If your rheumatism is of such a nature that you would like to consult a great specialist confidentially, write to The Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

The Magic of Montenegro.

No circumstance of the Balkan war has appealed so widely or so keenly to the world's imagination and sympathies as the hardihood of little Montenegro in defying the commands of the great Powers. We of America read the foreign dispatches, with their allusions to strange places and people, as though they were intimate letters on events in which we were personally concerned. King Nicholas became a familiar character to be talked of at the breakfast table and his sturdy soldiers, though they camped almost at the other end of the world, were clothed with a vividness like that of the home team. Such is the magic of bravery matched against overwhelming odds.

And when the tidings finally came that Montenegro had yielded, most of us felt a twinge of disappointment and regret. It seemed contrary to all our conceptions of the square deal that the little nation, after fighting gallantly for six months and and after remaining calm and immovable under the threats of combined Europe, should renounce the prize she had so splendidly won. Men on street corners and trolley cars debated as to what would have happened had Montenegro persisted to the end; popular opinion was that she would certainly have come forth with colors flying, and that in any event, the sorry upshot of it all was a shame.

Yet, for the sake of European peace, Montenegro's agreement to evacuate Scutari is perhaps the best thing that could have happened. Had Austrian troops moved into Albania, far-reaching entanglements among the great nations might have followed. Certain it is that the eleventh-hour concession from King Nicholas has served to relieve the high tension of European politics and has restored confidence to financial circles. The gravest crisis to which the entire course of the Balkan gave rise has been passed.

Another meeting of the ambassadorial conference at London will be held Thursday, at which time further plans for the future of Scutari and Albania will be discussed. It has frequently been suggested that Montenegro would be compensated for her surrender of the city. The declaration by King Nicholas, however, held no such conditions. His simple statement was: "My dignity and that of my people do not allow me to submit to isolated orders. I, therefore, place the destiny of Scutari in the hands of the great Powers." By "isolated orders" he alluded, of course, to the policy of Austria; and he seems to have calculated with true discernment that it was more graceful to bow to the will of all the Powers than to yield to a single nation.

Whatever boundaries may finally be established for Albania, whatever disposition may be made of Scutari, whether or not a portion of that territory is allotted to Montenegro, the little mountain kingdom has earned a high and enduring place in the world's admiration.

Don't Weaken the Fly Screen Ordinance.

In behalf of the public's health, it is earnestly to be hoped that the proposal to amend the fly screen ordinance so that restaurants would be exempt from this wise and essential measure will be promptly rejected by Council.

The screen ordinance was passed about two years ago as a sorely needed protection to the purchasers of foodstuffs. It was stoutly resisted by particular interests but the judgment as well as the sentiment of the public was unmistakably behind it. In 1912, fruit dealers were made an exception and were re-Heved of the requirement to screen their places of business. The result has been distinctly contrary to the consumer's interests. The pending effort to emasculate the ordinance still further should not be given a moment's consideration. Instead, the ordinance should be restored to its original scope and purpose.

Similar laws have long been in force in other progressive communities. Atlanta cannot afford to move backward in any thing that concerns the people's health.

Our old friend Gifford Pinchot continues to make noise for the Moose crowd.

Good Work in the House.

The loyalty with which the Democrats of the House have stood together on the tariff bill establishes a new record for prompt and thoroughgoing legislation. Despite the great pressure that was brought to bear by particular interests, the bill has been sustained at all its vital points; it has undergone only a few minor changes and these were made by its friends. The reduction of duties on many necessaries of life and the removal of duties on others, as in the case of wool and meats, have been supported almost unitedly by the Democrats.

Only the income tax and the administrative features of the measure remain to be considered and these will doubtless be adopted today or tomorrow. The Democracy of the House has kept its faith with the people and has unswervingly lived up to the party's pledges. It is to be hoped that the Democrats of the Senate will do as well and will act as promptly.

Playgrounds In Small Towns.

It is an interesting and significant fact that the Recreation Congress, which is in session this week at Richmond, Va., will give special attention to the subject of playgrounds in towns of fewer than ten thousand inhabitants. Until recent years, playgrounds were considered necessary for only the congested districts of big cities. But as the social value of play has come to be more thoroughly appreciated, the need of well planned and well conducted playgrounds has impressed itself upon a larger and larger number of communities.

The officials of the national Playground and Recreation Association say they are continually receiving inquiries from comparatively small cities throughout the country as to the best means for establishing and supervising public places of play. This indicates an interest far more inclusive than that which has developed in the larger municipalities. The fact is American towns ranging in population from five to twenty thousand are becoming more and more progressive. They are developing parks and are promoting many other enterprises for their people's health and pleasure.

Children reared in homes that have spacious back-yards or lawns are fortunate but even in such instances there is need for what may be called "organized" play; for, it is only when a child plays with other children under intelligent and sympathetic direction that he gets the full educational and civic value of play.

Nothing adds more to the desirability of a town than a well kept park or a recreation center. It is cheering to know that many Georgia communities are now interested in this field of municipal enterprise. Those that undertake and carry forward such work will be well repaid by an increased population and a quickened progress.

More Music for Atlanta Parks.

The movement to provide Atlanta parks with more music during the summer months deserves Council's hearty support. It is reckoned that an appropriation of five thousand dollars would secure concerts at Grant and at Piedmont parks at least four times a week. The pleasure and the general enrichment of the community's life that would thus be afforded would be an ample return for the outlay of this comparatively small sum.

In seasons past concerts have been given at Grant park once a week; and last year they were extended to Piedmont park. The public's response was invariably enthusiastic. The music attracted great crowds and its civic influence was manifestly Atlantians have shown themselves to be a musicloving people. Wherever a band or an orchestra plays, wherever a chorus or a soloist sings, a large audience is assured. Open-air music is particularly appropriate and, indeed, necessary, to the summer season. The parks should provide wholesome recreation as well as grateful shade and coolness; and whatever recreation finer or more widely appealing than music could be devised? It is the breath and the very soul of all amusements and, within itself is sufficient to make a long summer afternoon or evening seem short.

Atlanta cannot deal too generously with its publie parks, for they are one of its great assets as a city of homes and home-seekers. They touch the life of the people as a whole, and give a distinction to the community's natural resources and advantages. The parks will be far more valuable and far more attractive, if provided with frequent programs of music throughout the summer. It is to be hoped that the effort to this end recently begun in Council will be pressed speedily forward to success.

American Federation of Art By Frederic J. Haskin

The American Federation of Art, which will hold its fourth annual convention in Washington on May 14 and 15, has, during its brief existence, accomplished much in the development of publie sentiment regarding the art ideals of this nation. As an organization it is broad in its scope, including many matters usually regarded as practical rather than artistic, but the federation shows how these two qualities should be combined. Its stated objects are "To unite in closer fellowship all those who are striving for the development of art in America, either through production or the cultivation of appreciation; to encourage and foster endeavor; to prevent duplication as far as possible, and to furnish a channel through which public opinion, instrumental in securing better legislation, may find expression." To accomplish these objects it sends out traveling exhibitions, circulates illustrated lectures, maintains a bureau of information in the national capital upon all art subjects, holds an annual convention and publishes "Art and Progress," an illustrated magazine devoted entirely to the development of art sentiment in this country. . . .

In a sense the Federation of Art is a philanthropic organization, since it is supported by the annual dues of its 176 chapters which are supplemented at times of special need by the contributions and subscriptions of private individuals. The officers who represent the leading artists of the nation are unsalaried, but give of their time and service for the love of art. All the receipts are expended directly to promote and increase the diffusion of knowledge and appreciation of true art in whatever form it may be found.

. . . One of the most direct efforts of the federation, and one which has given pleasure and profit to thousands of people each year, is the establishment of traveling art exhibits which have visited many towns remote from the art centers and thus given to the people an opportunity to see fine art which otherwise could not have come to them.

Twenty of these exhibitions have been in circulation this year, including demonstrations of a number of forms of art. Two collections of fine oil paintings were sent upon northwestern and southern circuits. Two water color exhibits, each of which contained pictures by artists of recognized standing, were almost equally popular because of the recent increased interest in water color work. The pictures in all these exhibits were suitably framed and their advent to any town was a matter of general interest.

. . . Another exhibit consisted of architectural designs of many different kinds of buildings. This was furnished to the federation through the courtesy of the Architects' league, of New York. The designs are calculated to be especially helpful to those towns which are considering the erection of new public buildings. Through the co-operation of the Society of American Illustrators, a collection of over 200 original drawings selected from the works of the leading American illustrators also has been arranged for exhibition. Through the agency of the federation this exhibit of illustrative art reached thousands of people during the past six months.

A collection of photographs showing the leading mural paintings in the country accompanied by a number of prints showing the coloring of the designs has given pleasure to those interested in mural art in many towns where little if any of it was to be found. The library of congress co-operates with the Federation of Art by providing a collection of mezzo-tint engravings of the great English portrait painters. This exhibit has been especially popular with college towns. An exhibit comprising specimens of the art work done in the public schools, selected from twenty states, has been arranged with much consideration in the belief that it will be of great practical value in developing the school art work in towns remote from the art centers.

As the federation is anxious to promote interest in all kinds of hand craft, an exhibit has been provided which includes over 300 specimens of arts and craft work. Among these are pieces of wood-carving, basketry, metal work, hand-made jewelry and textile weaving. This exhibition also includes designs for articles of various kinds made by students in Pratt institute, New York; the Philadelphia School of Industrial Art, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Rhode Island School of Design, and several other well known art schools.

These exhibitions hav- circulated among nearly fifty towns, including New Orleans, Savannah, Atlanta, Memphis, Nashville, Austin, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio upon the southern route; Denver, Colorado Springs, Omaha, Kansas City, Lincoln, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Dayton, Ann Arbor, Saginaw, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Lawrence among the western towns; and Rochester, Syracuse, Waterbury, New Bedford, Wilkes-Barre and Pittsburg among the towns of the eastern circuit. Some of these towns had only one of the exhibitions during the season and othershad several. It is expected that the circuits will include many new towns this year as the knowledge becomes circulated that the exhibitions are provided by the American Federation of Art, and may be enjoyed by the people of any town without cost, other than providing a hall or room for exhibiting them. . . .

The long talked of Federal Art commissioner was authorized by congress chiefly through the influence of the Federation of Art, so that now, for the first time in its history, the naion is giving recognition to the importance of developing a true artistic sense as a characteristic of its people. This commission consists of seven members, including architects, painters and sculptors who are appointed by the president of the United States. They serve for a term of four years without pay. The advice of this commission is called for regarding the purchase of art objects and the erection of buildings and memorials by the United States government. The membership now includes Daniel Chester French, chairman; F. L. Olmsted, Thomas Hastings, Edwin H. Blashfield, Cass Gilbert, Charles Moore and B. S. Anderson. There have been two deaths since the commission was appointed by President Taft, that of Francis D. Millet, who was lost in the Titanic disaster, and that of Daniel H. Burnham.

If He Is in Earnest

(Baltimore Sun.)

Tammany was in the saddle in the New York legislature until its adjournment Saturday night, and its representatives snapped their fingers in the governor's face, not merely with regard to certain leading appointments, but on his direct statewide primary bill which they threw down hard and gleefully. It was a fine, suggestive exhibition of oldfashioned autocratic machine power and insolent defiance of the popular will. There is scarcely any other state in the country in which such an exhibition could be given nowadays. Most of the bosses have become too discreet, if not too virtuous, to flout public sentiment with such open

This is Murphy's challenge to the people of New York. If Governor Sulzer is in earnest in his announced intention to call an extra session of the legislature for the passage of an honest direct primary bill and to stump the state on that issue, he can make himself a leader such as the New York Democracy has not had for years, and can put Murphy down and out. But if he doesn't do it, somebody else will. The direct primary is an issue which nobody can kick around, as Murphy has done, without heaping up wrath to come. The only question is, who will give the people of New York this right? If Sulzer falters, a dozen others will rush to the front to carry the flag.

Captain Barnacle's Travelogues

BY JOHN H WISHAR

"Only once have I ever commanded a land ship, remarked Captain Barnacle, "and that was enough, for we were wrecked far from salt water, and had to hike about a thousand miles before we struck the sea coast. This adventure befell me in South America, to the southward of the Amazon river. I had been in command of the brig Cromwell, which had carried an old German professor from Liverpool to New York. On the way over he told me about an ancient city in the heart of South America which was full of gold and silver and possibly jewels, and which had never been visited by white men save once, and this man had later died, but had first left a chart of the country and town. The professor wanted me to command an expedition to find this old city and get all the valuables.

"The first thing I decided on was a land ship. This was a regular ship, but placed on wheels. You know these vast plains in South America extend for hundreds of miles without even a mole hill to interfere. Well, at Montevidio we set up the land ship and started out. I had a crew of four men to work the vessel, and we made splendid time. The vessel shot over the vast wastes like lightning. It was easy nagivating, and at the end of three weeks' sailing we came in sight of the old town, which was built on the side of a mountain. I sailed right up to the outer walls, and then we disembarked.

"Well, sir, there was gold and jewels a-plenty. We hopped about like mad. All of us were to be millionaires. We started loading the vessel at once, and soon had the ship full of gold with several chests of jewels. We cleaned up the place and we figured that we must have something like thirty or forty million dollars worth of stuff, and it was all ours. But about this time we spotted a band of Indians coming. We saw at once that they were hostile and prepared to leave at once. Sure enough, as soon as they saw us they came after us on the dead run. But I don't care much, for there was a good breeze and I knew w cold soon sail away from them.

"When the savages-and they were all enormous big men-got within about half a mile I gave the word to up anchor and get unday way. But here is the tragic part ' We had no sooner started than the forward axle broke and the ship's bow plunged into the side of the hill. Then the after axle broke also and the stern went down with a crash. There was a stiff breeze blowing and the masts went over the side. The savages were coming fast and the only thing to do was to cut and run for it. We grabbed some food and a few canteens of water, and away we went, leaving the ship and her precious cargo.

"The natives didn't follow us, and we didn't stop to argue. We were all heartbroken. It took us three months to walk back to the coast, and we arrived there nearly čead. We had lost everything, including the gold and jewels, and had even lost the map showing where the city was, so it was useless to try to find it again. What caused our wreck? Why, nothing but the leak of axle grease! Yes, sir, that was the trouble. We had forgotten to take any along, and the axles had worn out. That's how the lack of a can of axle grease--worth 50 cents-caused us to lose at least thirty millions."

FRANTIC FABLES BY HENRY HORSECOLLAR.

Where the average man would go forth to the theater of a Saturday evening, I was in the habit of paying a visit to my friend, Nigel Pigeonhead.

faddist and his fads were far more interesting than a comic opera, because they somewhat original - and no music went with them. On one occasion he told me that he proposed to buy a barrel of apples and eat the skins. He said he'd discovcovered that the skins contained a lot of anhydrates and phosphorescence and all that sort of thing. On another occasion he explained a new theory he had devised for storing up energy in his system. He intended, he said, to put glass casters on his bed and to place the bed in a direct line with the magnetic currents of the earth. He told me that this would make sort of a Leyden jar out of his body. At another time he told me how he had just bought a silk hat and had punched it full of holes in order to ventilate his head.

But somehow or other, it always seemed to me that Nigel rather enjoyed telling about his schemes more than he enjoyed executing them. One Saturday evening I replenished my cigarette case and set out for Pigeonhead's apartment. I arrived at 8:45 and found him wrapped up as usual in a brand new theory.

"Instead of taking breakfast any more," said Nigel, after we had lighted our cigarettes, "I take an ice bath. It's great. You get in the cold water and rub a piece of ice all over yourself until your skin looks the color of a wild rose." And he took me in the bathroom to explain more thoroughly. "You get out," he went on, "feeling fit as blazes; why don't

I replied that I didn't have to rub ice on myself -that my landlady kept my room at a temperature that made it unnecessary.

It was from that date that Nigel began to lose interest for me. He kept harping on that ice bath idea until I got tired listening to him, and I didn't go near him for weeks.

When I judged that the fad had worn off I ventured in to have an evening's chat with him. But we had no sooner settled ourselves when my heart sank. "Say, Henry," he blurted, "I've got an addition to that ice bath"-and he dragged me in to see it. When we returned to the library he noted a thoughtful expression on my face. "I see," he cried enthusiastically, "I've got you interested at last! Isn't it so?"

"I admit that you have, Nigel," I said. "Im going to have another look at that tub if you don't mind." "Sure thing; go right ahead," he said. When I returned he could hardly contain himself.

"I knew,' he said, "that you'd come around in time! What do you think of it now?" I settled myself in an easy chair and puffed my cigarette for some moments.

"Why, it's this, Nigel," I said slowly. "The first time you showed me that tub, several weeks ago, accidentally dropped some cigarette ashes in it, and I have just observed that they are there yet."

At Last the Old Astor Goes

(New York World.)

April 18, 1906, a few days more than seven years ago, New York, society put on the gowns of its grandmothers and the brass-buttoned swallow-tails of its grandfathers and went to dance in the old Astor House. It was a famous time for memories, and a great night for the ghosts in Barclay street and in St. Paul's churchyard. But in yesterday's news we read that the fine old hostelry is in the last month of its existence. It yields after a long and by no means cheerless struggle to the progress, which brings a new subway perilously under one of its ancient corners.

For sentimental reasons the passing of the Astor House is to be regretted. In its seventy-seven years of active life it has been a wonderful and wonderfully changing center of affairs. Its old register bore the names of half a dozen presidents of the United States, besides those of Webster, Calhoun, Seward, Clay, Douglas, Sewmour and other statesmen, and Hawwthorne, Dickens and Irving among authors. When the hotel was opened the districts now forming Greater New York had a total population of less than 400,. 000. In Manhattan the Astor was declared by its critics to be "too far uptown." As it passes away, the nearest of the modern great hotels is at least three miles further north.

The Astor House took three years in building and cost $350,000. The Hotel Astor, in Long Acre square, is a $7,000,000 structure, and the new Plaza, at Fiftyninth street and Fifth avenue, cost $12,000,000. Gone with the old memories are what seem to the eyes of twentieth century extravagance the old modesties of New York hotel keeping. But in 1836, beyond a doubt, a $350,000 hostelry on Broadway plumed itself quite as proudly as if it had known the glitter of a fullfledged Peacoc alley,

Lyrics of Spring

Oh, well the world is dreaming Under the April moon. Her soul in love with beauty, Her senses all a-swoon.

Pure hangs the silver crescent Above the twilight wood, And pure the silver music Wakes from the marshy flood.

O earth, with all thy transport How comes it life should seem A shadow in the moonlight A murmur in a dream?

Over the wintry threshold Who comes with joy today, So frail, yet so enduring, To triumph o'er dismay?

And quickly they are dried, For sorrow walks before her, But gladness walks beside. She comes with guests of laughter,-

The music as of rills;

Ah, quick her tears are springing.

The wisdom of the hills, Her hands are strong to comfort, Her heart is quick to heed; She knows the signs of sadness,

With tenderness and sweetness,

There is no living creature However poor or small, But she will know its trouble, And harken to its call.

She knows the voice of need;

Oh, well they fare forever, By mighty dreams possest, Whose hearts have lain a moment On that eternal breast.

"Green Fields and Running Brooks"

When the weather warms up, the little fellow gets more of the out-of-doors; and he gets more out of the out-of-doors when he's dressed for it.

If he had half a hundred comfortable playat-ease wash suits, he'd get the last one gloriously dirty and be ready for more. A visit to the wash suit section of Muse's Boys' Shop solves easily the problem of supply.

Small Boys' Wash Suits are made in sizes from 2 to 6 years, in Military, Eton and Sailor Russian styles.

Older boys' Wash Suits, 6 to 10 years, are Sailor, Military and Eton Blouse styles. All white, colored stripes and pretty white and colored combinations.

$1.00 to $5.00

Beach Suits-$1.00, $1.50 and $2.00. Rompers-50c, 75c and $1.00.

Tag Day Next Monday: Pretty Girls Will Be Sole Official Venders

Atlanta's spring calendar has "Tag Day" written in red letters above the date Monday, May 12.

As everybody knows that means Atlanta is going to turn the small change of a day over to the Sheltering Arms. Pretty girls will be venders of tags that can be had for only 10 cents each, but some of which will bring $10.

Everybody must be in a happy mood for such is the spirit of the day. The young ladies plan to make a canvass of all the office buildings, hotels and stores in Atlanta and they will, of course, be on all the principal street corners. Everybody will be given a chance, so be sure to have some

Of course, when a man is "tagged" it relieves him of further responsibility in the game. But because a man is 'tagged," it doesn't rule him out of the game at all. He is at perfect liberty to keep on playing until sunset if he wants to. "The more the merrier" is the motto of the game. The various "Tag Day" committees will be announced in a few days.

Saving and Investing One Thrift Census. BY JOHN M. OSKISON

Oats-July and September 34%c.

The other day I heard about a census of the employes of a big office who were making over $1,000 a year. The man who made it wanted to find out about their thrift habits. Here is the result: One of fifty-one only fifteen were fol-

PRICE CURRENT ON GRAIN CINCINNATI, May 7 .- Price Curent says: Not since 1993 has there been so brilliant a prospect for the winter wheat as this season,

The government report this week should show as high, if not higher, condition than on the first of April and the abandoned acreage will be at the minimum percentage. Even a decline of 10 or 15 points to barvest would place yield above that of last year. The gain will be largely in the central states, where the red winter variety was killed last year and a good cally bare and with mill stocks nil. Sunday's rains assure good crops in Texas and Oklahoma. There is still some uncertainty about extent of the spring wheat acreage and with the hesitancy in the northern end of the area a decrease in acreage is probable. The northwestern states have less reserve moisture than the winter region and have had barely enough rains thus far to give wheat a good headway. The planting will be about completed this week over the spring area.

That "Low Cost of Living."

It would be interesting to know how much less it costs one family to live than another of like means and requirements. It is quite certain that all households do not possess equal intelligence and economy in their buying.

A finely organized business house, through its trained purchasing department, knows with exactness where to buy and what to buy and when to buy. THE JOUR-NAL knows the last word about the vast quantities of paper and ink and everything else it buys. We would close up shop pretty quickly if we bought without exact information to guide us.

THE JOURNAL, through its advertising columns, offers every individual and every family the opportunity to practice the same exactness and efficiency in making their disbursements. JOURNAL advertising is the very pulse of human activity. Study it. Be informed by it. And you will learn the secret of economy and the low cost of living.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.) Reddy Fox was Happy. There was no doubt about it. He chuckled as he lay taking a sun bath and thinking over his plans. It was those very plans that made him chuckle. And if you could have heard that chuckle you would have known by the very sound of it that it meant something unpleasant for some one else. And so it did. It meant something unpleasant for several if Reddy could carry out his plans.

Some folks are never quite so glad As when they're making others sad.

Reddy Fox is that kind. The more trouble he can bring to others the happier he seems to be. He was extra happy just now, because he thought he had a chance to bring trouble to several all at the same time, and they were the very ones he wanted to bring trouble to more than to any others of whom he could think. The more he thought over his plans the better they seemed, and the more he chuckled.

You see, it was this way: Reddy Fox had no love for Unc' Billy Possum, because when Unc' Billy first came to the Green Forest to live he had shamed Reddy before all the other little meadow and forest people. And Reddy had no love for Prickly Porky, the Porcupine, because when Prickly Porky first came to the Green Forest he had proven Reddy Fox a boaster and a coward. And Reddy had no love for Jimmy Skunk, because only a little while ago Jimmy had prevented Reddy catching Peter Rabbit. Now here was a chance to get even with all three. To Reddy it seemed almost too good to be true.

Unc' Billy Possum was in trouble already. Reddy had to smile every time he thought of it. He was a prisoner in a box in Farmer Brown's door-yard. He couldn't get away without help. Last night there had been a meeting of all the little meadow and forest people to plan some way of helping Unc' Billy Possum. Reddy had not been invited to that meeting, but he had been there just the same, and so he knew all about the plan to help Unc' Billy get

It was a very nice plan. Everybody said so. Reddy chuckled as he thought of how he would upset it. He would wait until Prickly Porky had made the hole almost big enough to let Unc' Billy Possum out, and then he (Reddy Fox) would waken Farmer Brown's boy and was the matter. How would he do it

(By Assonisted Press.) NEW ORLEANS, May 7 .- The Mississippi river continues to rise slowly from Red river landing south, but the one brother, Roy D. Hutchins, and two stages today are approximately two feet below the high record of last year. Light rain fell yesterday in Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, and this morning rain and hail fell in New Orleans and lower Louisiana. The engineers are still hopeful of > holding intact the remaining levees, but in some sections north of Baton Rouge sand boils and crawfish are giving considerable trouble. Danger of crevasses will not have passed for another two weeks at least, but the chances of controlling the swollen stream from the mouth of the Red river south are considered extremely favorable. Another Fan Gets a Ticket

H. B. Brown, of Smyrna, Ga., is the latest baseball fan to identify his picture in The Journal and receive a ticket to the next game at Ponce de Leon, which happens to be on May 19. The picture in which the arrows pointed to Mr. Brown was taken the last day the team was here. He identified it a day or so ago and at once received the pass. He was pleased at the easy manner in which he received the ticket, stating that the picture was as plain as day and that every fan has a chance to come in for just as (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) MOBILE, Ala., May 7 .- George Bausewein was sent against the Gulls vesterday in his second trial of the series. For eight innings George pitched good ball; for two innings George was percolated with base hits, wherefore George lost his game, 6 to 3.

Incidentally the game made it three straight from the Crackers, for the local tribe and their eighth straight win of the season. Also Bradley Hogg, former star slabber of the Mercer Baptists, rang up his sixth straight win of the

It was a day of straights. Straight nitting by the Gulls in innnings one and two did the work, and hard straight fielding all through the battle prevented the Crackers from scoring more than they did, as Hogg gave up ten hits to ten slapped off Bausewein's benders. In the initial chapter Bausewein

New Pitcher For Atlanta, Says Report

Al Furchner Picked Up by Billy Smith Says Report From Mobile - Directors Know Nothing of Any Such Move

MOBILE, Ala., May 7.-Robertson and Schmidt and Brady and Dunn will be the batteries in the final Atlanta. Mobile game here Wednesday, Mana. ger Finn has won three in a row and is out to take the fourth and make a clean sweep, and he believes his big hurler is just the man to do the work. It was announced here Tuesday night that Manager Smith had signed Pitcher Al Furchner, recently picked up by Manager Finn. He did not pitch bait last season, but two years ago was a star in the Western league, and in expected to make a good man for the Crackers.

Jack Kernan, released and resigned as utility, has again been released by Manager Smith, and George Rohe, the veteran, has taken his place.

At baseball headquarters President Frank Callaway did not know anything at all regarding the signing of the new pitcher. He said he had heard nothing from Manager Smith regarding any such move, and if it had been made he did not know just who had been re leased.

The talk of signing Bill Chappelle, the Chattanooga hurler, is also above the knowledge of the local directors. In the first place, no move to purchase the Lookout right-hander has been made, and Chattanooga has not yet announced that Chappelle will be en

FAME AND THE BREAK. When one lamps the queer shifts which fortune takes, and pips from time to time the unexpected cracks in the dope, the mystery of it all is

There's Chance, for example, at the foot; Evers at the top and Giants and Pirates, rated the class of their circuit, struggling along behind. A year ago today Hank O'Day, afterwards cut adrift, had the Reds out in front of the field. With better material, Joe Tinker, rated as the best new leader that has broken in for a decade, has the Reds in the rut. After grappling with this upheaval one is reminded again of the late Hek's pointed verses-viz .:

"When just the merest accident a reputation makes; When just the merest accident a reputation breaks: When destinies are often shaped upon a drunken guess. As some one happens to say 'no' when what he means is 'yes;' When back to a blind chance you trace the most successful guy-Then why ask whatinel is who and whatinel is why?

"Dame fortune is a cock-eyed wench who shoots not where she aims; What is called worth is worthless and mere luck decides the games; It is not what you do yourself but what they do to you. Or fail to do, that aids you in the trick of getting through: When top or bottom is declared by simple cast of die. Then why ask whatinel is who and whatinel is why?"

WHY, INDEED?

To continue further, who can explain such freaks as this-Clark Opidith was almost helpless at New York and Cincinnati, yet with Washington, a confirmed seventh-placer, Griff leaped to the front again. Jimmy McAleer, trailing in St. Louis and Washington, moved out in one season as head advisor of the Red Sox champions. Ned Hanlon ruled at Baltimore and Brocklyn, but toppled with a thud in Cincinnati. There are more kinks than one to this fame of the game-whatever

As, for example our old Heidelberg side-kick, Lute McCarty. Lute is posing as a top-liner today and is slipping by with it. Yet a few years ago when Jeff, Corbett and Fitz and one or two more were around, the McCarty type couldn't have slipped in as bootblack to a champ. There merely happened to be a vacancy at the moment Lute stuck his mug into the frame.

THE OLD TRIANGLE.

"Evers," states an exchange, "seems to be getting along much better without Chance and Tinker than Chance and Tinker are getting along without Evers.

Which is true to this extent, not panning the Trojan from any viewpoint: 'Neither Chance nor Tinker happens to have an Archer, Bresnahan, Zimmerman, Schulte, Mitchell, Cheney, etc., to assist in There's something in having the necessary momentum to officiate

That loud, incessant cheering you now gather from the west is the uproarious merriment being exhibited by western batsmen in the thought that Walter Johnson is due in that section for a three weeks'

Here's another harassing query of considerable complexity: If the Tigers lose nine or ten straight with Cobb in the line-up, what would have happened to the Navin assemblage minus the well known Peach?

The Tiger owner probably feels that if he is to have a tail-end club he might as well have paid $15,000 less for the privilege and permitted Tyrus to rest his exuberant temperament for a year.

The Boston Braves, who have held all losing and tail-end records for a generation, are about to retire in confusion and rout. They are beginning to see in the Yanks a rival that has them trimmed from every, direction known to the compass. Their past glory as derelicts is upon the verge of fading from the fickle memory of mankind, ever ready to turn towards the latest record holder.

Connie Mack is unwilling to forecast any pennant, but when ressed further he finally admitted that he was in doubt whether Bender or Plank would be picked to work the first world series contest.

JOURNAL WANT AD HOROSCOPE MAY 8.

Every astrological sign of the Zodiac is the symbol of a great truth. The sun, stars and planets are the visible centers of marvelous invisible forces. which, it is claimed by astrology. can be explained only through a knowledge of this science.

Venus, the governing planet of this birthdate, represents life and is called the star of existence.

One of the principles of earliest known astrology was that "every hour and every day is under the direct rule and influence of a planet and this is what makes one time more advantageous than another for certain activities." For instance, astrologists declare that there are influences which make a person of this birthdate peculiarly susceptible to flattery. Also that these persons are subject to violent temper and, while loyal to their friends, desire to rule absolutely. If you have friends with this birthdate study their characteristics. This day and the first of the coming week will be an advantageous time for metal workers to seek positions through The Journal Want Ads, also jewelers, silversmiths and diamond cuttors will be advanced through a

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

A Good Foundation of Much Importance

HERE is nothing that these words apply to, but that means much, from the building of a house, the beginning of a farm, the starting of a herd of cattle or a flock of chickens, or in the beginning of any other undertaking. If a person builds a house that will last indefinitely, there is nothing more important than building a solid, firm foundation. How many times have you seen buildings set upon rocks, ordinary pillars or even pegs, and at a future time a better foundation expected to be put under same? In nine cases out of ten the weight in settling of such a building will get it all out of plumb, and when once uneven the entire building is crooked or all wrong. This same thing applies to the starting out in life of any young couple, and in every line of work. More especially does this apply in selecting a home or a farm where one expects to live or spend their future life. Above all things, every one should be very careful and give much thought and study to the founding or beginning in every walk of life, or in all of cause of many unsuccessful attempts in nearly everything, especially so in selecting a home or a farm. How often do you see people who use judgment in this

One of the greatest mistakes that most people make, especially they will choose a large place or a number of acres in preference to a small place suited just exactly for their wants. How little consideration is paid by many in this beginning. A proper location in a good neighborhood or close to railroad facilities, especially if the line of work you undertake requires the shipping of your products, how many future years? The quality of land and what can be built or grown on same is another thing that is often overlooked. A person should first decide just what they want and what is required to produce these wants, just the same as you would lay a foundation for a certain kind of house after the architect had drawn the plans. If one desires a cotton farm, of course certain surroundings and conditions should be well considered. If a dairy farm, a poultry farm, a truck garden or an orchard, the first of all such things as shipping facilities, the quality of land that is best suited to the growing of these products, the location of market, and the natural fertility or adaptable conditions suited for your purpose should be well considered in selecting just what you

At the present time there are hundreds of immigrants or land settlers going to certain sections right now, attracted there by land agents and the energetic work of the railroads in certain sections that are suited to growing hay. 'In this section there are hundreds of tons of hav now of last year's crop with absolutely no market within easy reach and no stock to convert this hay into cash. It is useless for thesc people to do such, but nevertheless it is being done today. The same thing can be said of hundreds of people who are buying farms and buying homes and are starting many operations under unfavorable conditions that cannot possibly succeed or earn them a profit, simply because they do not take into consideraton other things that are of far more importance that should be considered in their beginning. This mistake appears so many times in the life of many people, especially so in the founding of what your future prospects will be at the end of

It is far better to have a small farm, well tilled, well kept, and that is suitable for growing the products that can be sold at the largest per cent of profit, and suited to the growing of products that are naturally adapted to these particular localities and it is a great mistake for any one to continue to grow or produce anything at a loss when this time can be converted to some-

Mrs. P. T. Callaway, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds,

Wasington, Ga., April 14, 1913.

Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed Co., Memphis, Tenn. Gentlemen:-Please ship me thirty 100-pound bags Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed, the egg producer, and ten bags Aunt Patsy Scratch Feed. As summer is coming on I am decreasing the quantity of grain I feed to my chickens and increasing the quantity of Aunt Patsy Mash. I find that by feeding Aunt Patsy Mash regularly through the spring and summer, my hens do not go on the long annual strike in the early fall, but keep laying

And when it comes to baby chicks, there is nothing I have ever used that baby chicks like better or that produce thriftier youngsters than Aunt Patsy Mash. If you will keep up the quality fresh and sweet as you have always sent me, I could not ask for better feed for young or old stock. Respectfully,
