

CLEANER ADVERTISING IS SLOGAN OF AD MEN

Present Petition to State Legislature Asking Protec- tion From Fake Publicity

The Ad Men's Club of Atlanta will have introduced before the next session of the Georgia legislature a bill to prohibit untrue and misleading advertisements. Representative-elect John T. Smith of Fulton county, will father the bill and Ad Men propose to get behind the legislators and see to it that their proposed bill becomes a law.

Work to get this bill before the legislature was begun in 1911 and since that time the Ad Men have been busy upon it. The committee now active in this matter, which is known as the legislative committee, is composed of William F. Parkhurst, southern advertising manager Orange Judd company, chairman, Ben Lee Crew, vice president Phillips & Crew Piano company, B. I. Fahy, advertising manager Chamberlin-Johnson-Dufosse company, I. H. Cassett, advertising manager M. Rich & Bros., secretary of the Ad Men's club, and a prominent insurance agent.

Following is a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Ad Men's club, and also a copy of the proposed bill:

RESOLUTIONS.
Believing firmly in the principle of honesty in advertising and desiring to rid this city and state of the faker and grafter in advertising; be it
Resolved, by the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, in regular meeting assembled, That it is the sense of this organization that the general assembly of the state of Georgia at its next regular session be importuned to pass the bill we present herewith, for the good of the public at large, and be it
Resolved, further, That the secretary of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta be instructed to transmit a copy of this proposed bill to a member of the general assembly of the state of Georgia, from Fulton county, with the request that said member introduce said bill at the next session of the general assembly of the state of Georgia.

AN ACT Prohibiting Untrue and Misleading Advertisements, and to Punish Violations Thereof.
Be it enacted by the General Assembly, State of Georgia:

Section 1. That any person, firm, corporation or association, or any employee thereof who, in advertising, knowingly makes or disseminates any statement or assertion of fact, concerning the quality, the quantity, the value, the method of production or manufacture, the reason of the price of his, theirs or its merchandise, or the motive or purpose of the sale intended to give the appearance of an offer advantageous to the purchaser, which is untrue or calculated to mislead, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Through Pullman Has Been Secured and Party Will Leave June 7—Those Who Will Make the Trip and Advertise Atlanta at Convention

The Ad Men's club expects to have its full quota of delegates to the ninth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America when that association convenes in Baltimore June 13, as well as carrying with them a number of representative business men. A through Pullman train has been secured and the party will leave Atlanta Saturday, June 7, over the Southern railway direct to Baltimore. A number of ladies will accompany the party. Arriving at Baltimore, a committee from the Baltimore Ad club will meet the Atlanta train and escort the visitors to their hotel. The entire Atlanta delegation will be quartered at Hotel Remont. Reservations have already been made for the entire party, and room numbers at Hotel Remont can be secured, together with full information, by communicating with Fred Houser, secretary Atlanta convention bureau, 817 Empire building. The general chairman of the Atlanta delegation is Albert S. Adams, 269 Grant building.

Several Atlantians are on the program during the several days of the Baltimore convention sessions, and all the party is preparing to let everyone know that Atlanta is decidedly on the map. Various publicity stunts will be pulled off, plans for which are being carefully made.

The On-To-Baltimore committees are as follows:

PARKHURST TO ADDRESS BALTIMORE CONVENTION

District Compliment Given Local Ad Club by Selection of Mr. Parkhurst as Speaker

William F. Parkhurst, ex-president of the Atlanta Ad Men's club, and now a member of the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, has been assigned a speaker's place on the program of the national convention which meets in Baltimore June 8 to 13.

Mr. Parkhurst will, on Tuesday, June 11, address that convention at the afternoon session on the subject of "Opportunity and Duty of Each Club." His remarks will be largely along the line of the importance of each club co-operating in the vigilance movement, not only for its local good, but for the good of the cause nationally.

The Ad Men's Club of America considers the selection of Mr. Parkhurst as one of the speakers to address this national convention of over 4,000 advertising men, as a distinct compliment to the local club, and a recognition of his services in working for honest advertising and fighting the faker. Mr. Parkhurst is southern advertising manager of the Orange Judd company, of New York, the largest publishers of agricultural papers in the United States.

MESSAGE FROM AD MEN'S HEAD CONCERNING WORK OF LOCAL CLUB

George W. Coleman, of Boston, Tells of the Great Work of the Advertising Organizations

BY GEORGE W. COLEMAN,
Of Boston, President Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

It is only eighteen years since the first advertising club was formed. It was the Agate club of Chicago, and it is still at work on its original lines, being made up exclusively of men who sell magazine advertising space. The Kansas City Advertising club was perhaps the first organization of advertising men that opened its membership to men interested in all phases of advertising. Even as recent as seven or eight years ago there were not more than thirty-odd advertising clubs throughout the country. Now there are more than 150; in fact, there are about that many officially enrolled in the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which now has an individual dues-paying membership of nearly 3,000.

This rather sudden rise and development of the advertising club movement has been most remarkable. A national organization itself is less than two years old, and it is only within the last two or three years that the subject of assumed national proportion has been taken up as well as in name. The conventions were held in Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City and Louisville. Up to that time, the advertising clubs were not related to the organization.

ATLANTA MAN'S SPIRIT.
A new day was ushered in at Louisville in the summer of 1909, when S. C. Dobbs, of Atlanta, was made national president. Although at that time Mr. Dobbs was untrained in public life, he brought to the position exceptional gifts and a spirit of rare devotion. He traveled all over the country in the interest of the work, and when he finished his second year as the head of the organization he had made it a mighty instrument for the advancement of the advertising interests of the country. The Boston convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America impressed the whole country with the strength, the dignity and the serious purposes of the men engaged in the advertising business. Two thousand three hundred delegates were present, representing every section of this country, Canada and Great Britain. The best men in the business were glad to be identified with it.

Notwithstanding Dallas was a town, small miles or more beyond the advertising centers of the country, the con-

EAT APPLES IN PUBLIC, DECREE ATLANTA AD MEN

It's the National Fruit, They Resolve, at Instance of Portland Ad Club

If you feel like munching an apple hereafter, no matter where you be, go to it—if you've got the apple. The Ad Men's Club of Atlanta will stand by you that it's perfect form and the best of etiquette and quite de trop (whatever that is) to eat apples in public or private till you just plain out-and-out bust.

Here's the documentary evidence below. The Portland, Ore., Ad Men's club, being imbued with the zeal and fervor that prevails in all great apple-growing regions, put it up to the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta to amend their social code by decreeing that whereas the apple is the national fruit of the United States like baseball is its national game, therefore apples may be eaten in public at any and all times.

Read this, and be convinced:
"Mr. Howard Geldert, Secretary Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, Atlanta, Ga.

"Dear Mr. Geldert: I beg to acknowledge your communication of April 4 to which is attached a communication from the Portland Ad Men's club of Portland, Ore., containing the suggestion and request that the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta adopt a certain resolution to amend the social code of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, to wit:

"RESOLUTION.

"Whereas, the apple is pre-eminent by the national fruit of America, and
"Whereas, it is good on all occasions; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, other clubs concurring, hereby amends the social code to permit of the eating of apples in public at any time or place."

"I also note from your letter that the communication from the Portland Ad Men's Club of Oregon was read at a meeting of the club, April 3, and that the president was good enough to appoint me chairman of the apple committee, which I accept with pleasure and ask you to be good enough to convey my thanks for this appointment to the president of your club.

"In behalf of the apple committee I recommend that the above quoted resolution be adopted.

"If the resolution is adopted, as chairman of the apple committee, I announce to the members of our club and ask them in turn to inform the public at large that it is the proper thing and in keeping with the social code of good ethics to eat apples in public at any time or at any place.

"I further recommend to the unmarried members in good standing of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta to have in their possession at all times a few big red apples, especially of the varieties grown in northeast Georgia, when they take their lady love to some public place of amusement and to eat the same at the said public place of amusement. (I mean eat the apples, not the lady.)

"At any time when a member of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta is in trouble it is well to remember the wise words of King Solomon, who said, 'Comfort me with apple.'

"To the membership committee I respectfully suggest that in the consideration of new applicants for membership in the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, that they ascertain from said applicant if he is fond of apples. If not, it is well to remember the words of Charles Lamb, who said, 'a man cannot have a pure mind who refuses apple dumplings.' as there must be something radically wrong with a man who doesn't like a good apple and such a person is not fit for membership in the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta.

"In conclusion, I beg to suggest in behalf of the apple committee that the following motto be adopted by the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta:

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

"Respectfully yours,

(Signed) "LOUIS B. MAGID,
"Chairman of the Apple Committee, Ad Men's Club of Atlanta."

The above report by the apple committee was unanimously passed upon favorably at the last meeting of the Ad Men, held at the Kimball house on the evening of May 13.

vention held there May 19-23, 1912, made a record in attendance and in engaged in the advertising business. Two thousand three hundred delegates were present, representing every section of this country, Canada and Great Britain. The best men in the business were glad to be identified with it.

Sixteen of the leading pulpits of Dallas were occupied on Sunday morning by as many representative and worthy advertising men selected from all parts of the country, each of whom preached a lay sermon on advertising.

This same plan will be followed at the Baltimore convention. On Sunday, June 8, thirty of the leading church pulpits will be filled by prominent advertising men of the United States each of whom will bring out the strong points of honesty in advertising statements and plans.

The discussion at Baltimore of advertising topics and the planning of definite lines of work for the advancement of advertising will go beyond anything which has heretofore been attempted.

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED AGAINST COMMISSION

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 17.—Information received last night by the state railroad commission from Huntsville, Ala., says that Judge Grubb, of the federal bench, last night granted an eight-day temporary restraining order against the state commission in the application of the Louisville and Nashville railroad against the enforcement of the two and one-half cent passenger fare.

A night session was held in Huntsville to hear the arguments of the attorneys. It is understood here that the restraining order only postpones from May 29 the enforcement of the lower rate, and that, unless the temporary order is then made permanent, on May 28 Judge Grubb will hear arguments to make the order permanent, and if he refuses the request, no appeal will be taken.

BASEBALL ATTENDANCE CUP WAS WON BY THE AD CLUB

To the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta:

Whenever the directors of the Atlanta Baseball association desire to boost anything connected with baseball, which is a highclass, clean sport, their first thought is to turn to the Ad Men's club of Atlanta. The members of this organization are among the very best people in this progressive city. My experience is that they can do more to boost a game than any organization of a similar character I have ever seen. A few days previous to the opening day of baseball for the season of 1913 in Atlanta I went to a luncheon given by the members of the Ad Men's club and told them that Atlanta wanted to show the other cities in the Southern league what they could do on opening day in the matter of attendance, and wanted to get the trophy offered for the largest attendance, and that it would be a big advertisement for Atlanta, and that was all that was necessary. Immediately they entered into the spirit of the thing, and I knew from that minute that Atlanta had the trophy. They didn't stop a minute, and they saw everybody and did everything that was necessary to accomplish the purpose. They did it with an enthusiasm that was irresistible, and that is the way they do everything that makes for the good of this

 The members are thoroughly clean cut, up-to-date, smart business men, men from all walks and all professions, and they are a unit in boosting Atlanta and anything in Atlanta that is beneficial. The Pianola Piano Makes Music an Intimate Part of Your Home Life

The World Has Outgrown Silent Pianos

IS the Piano in your home a musical instrument; and do you use it as such? Or is it like so many others, merely an article of furniture—a costly ornament? The piano is meant to be played. Actually no other such superb musical instrument exists.

Its presence in the home should mean entertainment without measure, culture, education. Its influence should be constantly apparent, brightening and enlivening the home atmosphere.

If your piano is not providing you with music—if you and the members of your family cannot play it—then it is not the piano you should have. You are losing more than you can estimate by not replacing it at once with the piano of the present day.

The Pianola Piano

The Pianola Piano can be played in either of two ways—by hand—with a Pianola music-roll.

For hand-playing it is a superb piano with tone and action of the very highest quality.

Played with music-roll, the Pianola Piano gives a performance as artistic and correct as the playing of the best pianists.

Anyone Can Play The Pianola Piano

No previous knowledge of music is necessary to play the Pianola Piano. The notes of a composition are played by the music-roll. The expression, you put in.

In the matter of expression, the Pianola Piano stands on a different plane from all other player-pianos.

Is exclusive devices—The Thermoid, Graduated Accompaniment and Sustaining Pedal Device afford the means of reproducing every expression element of hand-playing.

And the wonderful Metrosyle—the Pianola Piano's crowning feature—furnishes the performer with a musical understanding, that enables even the novice to play with true musical effect.

If you do not play—if you play a little—even if you play very well—the Pianola Piano is the most logical, most satisfying piano you can buy.

LONDON PREPARES BIG TIME FOR POINCARÉ

President of France Will Visit English Capital During June

BY OLIVER GWYNNE.

LONDON, May 17.—Owing to the coming visit of the French president in June, we are going to have an even better season than was expected. M. Poincaré will be in mourning for his mother almost up to the time of his arrival here, but it will not interfere with his stay. I was told at the French embassy that he had accepted an invitation to the city, and I think that his reception during his progress in the Guild hall will fill all Frenchmen with wild delight. The city, like Toulon, can do it when it likes.

M. Poincaré will be entertained at such and already the civic chiefs are looking forward to decorations as a reward for their hospitality. Honors have not come much in the way of the city magistrates lately. King George does not exactly throw knighthoods and the Victorian Order about, and lord mayors have gone out of office without being made baronets. There have been tears shed over this, for it is not a cheap business, figuring highly in city affairs. The French president is, therefore, regarded as a welcome guest.

The chief of the republic will stay with the king and queen at Buckingham palace, and will be feted at a state dinner at which will be gathered the principal representatives of politics, the navy and the army. The president will return the compliment by giving a dinner at the embassy at Albertgate, where the guests will include the more prominent men of the French colony in London. The man M. Poincaré is probably most looking forward to meeting is Sir Edward Grey. They know each other, of course, but in June they will have many more things to discuss than is quite obvious at this moment.

Wealth in Canada

LONDON, May 17.—The Duke of Connaught at the dinner of the Canada club the other evening, said that he did not know a prouder position than any Englishman could hold than the governor generalship of Canada. His year and a half in the dominion had been as happy as any in his life.

He was astonished at the progress he saw everywhere during his tour of the dominion. To those Englishmen who had not been to Canada he could only say that the sooner they went there, the better. With British justice and British freedom a great dominion was being built up. Many of the people were of alien races, but they were gradually and surely being moulded into good Canadians, and he hoped they would be able to see them made into good British citizens.

There was a great future before Canada. The dominion was progressing by leaps and bounds, and was a great aid for Englishmen who had a little money and who were prepared to put their shoulder to the wheel.

My advice to every Englishman," the duke said, "is that if they are prepared to work and prepared to wait for the result of their labors in Canada they will get on splendidly." If the duchess' health permitted they might go back to spend another year among the Canadian people. He felt so much interested in the progress and advancement of Canada that it would be a great regret to him were he to sever just now his connection with the great dominion, for he felt himself from his association with her from a boy, half a Canadian.

AD MEN HELPED SECURE HOME FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

President Wilmer L. Moore Praises Work of Ad Men for His Organization on Several Occasions

To the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta:

It would give me pleasure to write any kind of a statement that you may require relative to the valuable assistance given to the Atlanta chamber of commerce by the Ad Men's club. The chamber owes them a debt of gratitude, first for coming to their assistance and in making a success of the campaign which will give to the chamber a permanent home. The recently remarkable successful membership campaign is an evidence that the aid and co-operation of the ad men is a valuable acquisition not only to the chamber, but to any other organization which is fortunate enough to have their support and indorsement.

As president of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, I feel that any activity which the chamber might wish to undertake, if they can bring to bear the co-operation and support of the ad men, that it will be an assured success.

Cordially yours,

WILMER L. MOORE,
President Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Sea Urchins

LONDON, May 10.—Two little sea urchins—marine animals covered with prickles like a hedgehog—that have never been seen before, have been born in the zoological laboratory of the Imperial College of Science, South Kensington, and are being reared by Prof. MacBride.

Their parents were brought from Plymouth some months ago, said Prof. MacBride yesterday for the purpose of studying hybridization. The eggs when they appeared were no bigger than the point of a pin. They were put into four large glass tanks filled with sea water and containing a species of seaweed as food. In a few months the sea urchins made their appearance.

To give the sea urchins the impression that they were actually living in the sea, a glass plate connected with a rod, which in its turn is connected with a little hydraulic pump, was fixed in each tank. When the glass plate moves up and down a gentle motion is given to the water. The sea urchins imagine it is their first experience of the swell of the sea. This is the first time any sea urchin has been born under such conditions and so far from the sea.

ATLANTIC BEACH

THE NEW CITY BY THE SEA

This most remarkable Real Estate development, on Florida's east coast, appeals to every portion of the Great South-east.

It offers in the wonderfully beautiful lands surrounding the Atlantic Beach Hotel, formerly The Continental, which is known everywhere, the choicest home sites, either on the finest ocean beach in the world, or back a few hundred feet in the no less attractive palm and oak forests.

It offers homes already built and ready for occupancy, or lots where you may build your own home and surround yourself with your own belongings. You may live here one month or twelve, and rent your home when you do not occupy it yourself.

Atlantic Beach was equipped with an electric lighting plant and an abundant supply of artesian water before the foundations of a single residence was laid.

Where, on the first of March, was an almost impenetrable jungle, there are now a score of beautiful bungalows and houses under roof, and most of them will be ready for occupancy early in June. The materials for forty more are on the ground, waiting for the masons and carpenters. Some of them have been sold in advance of their completion and the new owners are impatient for possession. Streets have been laid out, ready for top dressing of hard surface, sidewalks and sewer lines have been run and the ornamental light posts are ready for the electric wiring.

Atlantic Beach appeals also as an investment proposition.

Since March 1 the sales here have amounted to EIGHTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS. Less than one-fifth of the property has been prepared for this season's sales. At the present rate, most of this, perhaps all, will be under contract to bona-fide purchasers by July 15.

It is exclusively high-class property. It will be kept so. The demand for it is strong, and growing stronger. It will increase, probably double, its value within two years. You cannot lose. You must make money if you buy here merely as an investment, and without intending to build a home. With a lot improved your profit would be even greater, and surer.

Here is the finest suburb of Florida's most rapidly growing city. There is no more desirable location, nor one with more natural beauties and advantages anywhere in the country. You need only to see to be convinced that this is no over-statement. It will become one of the great resorts, and one of the most beautiful cities on the entire Atlantic coast.

The prices of lots here range upward from six hundred and twenty-five dollars. While it is not a ten-dollar-down-and-ten-a-month proposition, it is within the reach of any desirable citizen who can afford to pay twenty dollars or more a month for house rental.

The way to be convinced is to see it, and when you know what you can find out by writing for the information, you will at least want to come. It costs very little, after all, to write.

MEMBERSHIP OF CLUB
GROWS FROM 50 TO 200

Many National Honors Have Come to Atlanta Body as Result of Notable Achievements

BY WM. F. PARKHURST.

The Ad Men's club of Atlanta is one of the liveliest organizations this city has known. Organized March 4, 1909, with less than 50 members, the organization has grown to a membership of nearly 200. It has worked for the best in advertising and from the start has been a booster in all undertakings for the good of Atlanta. The following well known young Atlanta business men have served the Ad Men's club as president: T. H. Brannen, George M. Chapin, William F. Parkhurst, Paul Reese and Albert S. Adams. The present officers are: T. H. Goodhart, of the Southern Photo Material company, president; Jack H. Lewis, manager Joseph Dixon Crucible company, vice president; W. Joseph Hubbard, of Foote & Davis company, second vice president; W. S. Lounsbury vice president; Travelers' Bank and Trust company treasurer; Howard Geldert with Coke Davis Insurance Agency secretary; executive committee Jack H. Lewis, Albert S. Adams, Ivan E. Allen, E. H. Cone and L. D. Hicks.

The membership is composed not only of men in the advertising profession but of progressive business men who are interested in the upbuilding of Atlanta. Thousands of dollars' worth of advertising for Atlanta have been secured by the club at various conventions notably in Omaha and Boston and at Dallas.

The purpose of the organization is stated as follows: "For the development of the best in advertising to assist each other by the interchange of ideas; for the purpose of producing better copy; and more profitable results; to correct existing abuses in the advertising business; to discharge every honest and misrepresentation of duty from the advertising profession; to bring up to the full measure of usefulness the members of the association; to promote social fellowship and co-operate in every possible way with the civic organizations of Atlanta in their efforts to advertise the advantages of Atlanta as a good place to live and do business.

The Ad Men's club has ever been a booster for any cause which would contribute to the good of Atlanta and its efforts have accomplished noticeable results.

AD MEN OPEN WHITE WAY.

When the initial installation of Atlanta's Great White Way was planned, it was at once decided to have the Ad Men take charge of the parade and exercises. This was in December, 1910. One of the longest parades ever held in Atlanta was pulled off and the floats, decorated automobiles and costumed Ad Men made a hit. The streets were thronged, everybody had horns, confetti and various instruments for noise making and, under the auspices of the Ad Men, Atlanta enjoyed its first real carnival night. The procession was headed by Mayor Robert F. Maddox and President William F. Parkhurst, of the Ad Men's club, and the lights were turned on block by block as the procession marched down Peachtree street from the Aragon hotel, across Whitehall street and into Mitchell street to the Terminal station. The parade was under the direction of Clarence Haverly, who had been appointed chairman of the Ad Men's White Way committee. It was estimated that over 80,000 people thronged the streets to enjoy the festivities.

Then the Ad Men got busy to extend the White Way along other central business streets, with the result that Pryor street from the Union depot to the Grand opera house was soon lighted up.

and connecting streets between Pryor and Peachtree were also given the lights. The Ad Men freely gave their time and energy to this municipal improvement.

AD MEN FIGHT THE FAKIR.
One of the primary objects of the Ad Men's club is to discourage misrepresentation of any kind in advertisements and to fight the dishonest advertiser and the fakir. Working to this end, the organization has saved thousands of dollars to the buying public of Atlanta by running out several so-called "fire sales" and "fallen down building sales," which attempted to unload a lot of practically worthless stocks in this city. This work has also been appreciated by the Atlanta merchants, who have worked with the club in running out the fakir. The club also succeeded in holding up the payments in certain publications for alleged "special Atlanta write-ups" which, upon investigation, were found not to be as represented.

That the work of the Ad Men's club along these lines is appreciated not only here, but also around the south, is shown by the numerous letters and telegrams received from time to time from other cities, asking reports on supposed fake "fire sales" and similar schemes to get the public's money.

NATIONAL HONORS FOR LOCAL MEN

Probably greater honors have come to members of the Atlanta club from the national organization than to any other club in the United States. At the present time several important offices in the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, are held by members of the local organization.

Samuel C. Dobbs, general sales and advertising manager of the Coca Cola company, was twice elected to the presidency of the national organization and held that high office with credit to himself and to the Atlanta club. He succeeded in nearly doubling the number of the clubs affiliated with the national organization, and traveled from coast to coast preaching the gospel of honest advertising and the value of advertising clubs to a town or city. So great was the appreciation of Mr. Dobbs' efforts that, when he retired from the presidency at the Boston convention, he was presented by the Ad Men with a five-passenger auto car, fully equipped and various presents of silver. Mr. Dobbs is now chairman of the executive committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, and is one of the available speakers to make addresses before local clubs selected by the national organization.

Mr. Dobbs is now chairman of the executive committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, and is one of the available speakers to make addresses before local clubs selected by the national organization.

William F. Parkhurst, who was the third president of the Atlanta club, now holds one of the places appointed from the several sections of the United States by the president of the associated clubs, George W. Coleman, of Boston, to serve as a national vigilance committee. The object of this committee is to formulate plans to fight the fakir and to discourage misrepresentation in advertising, and their work is being felt all over the United States.

L. D. Hicks is now the president of the southeastern division of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, having been unanimously elected to this high office at the annual convention held in Atlanta. The southeastern division is composed of the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. William F. Parkhurst is a former president of the southeastern division, having been succeeded by L. D. Hicks.

The Atlanta club had the honor at the annual convention, which was held in Boston, of placing in nomination George W. Coleman, of Boston, who was elected national president to succeed S. C. Dobbs, and also in placing before the convention as the place for holding the annual convention the name of Dallas, Texas.

The local club has on a number of occasions had as guests some of the foremost men known to the advertising world, most of whom came here for the purpose of making addresses to the Atlanta club. These occasions have been filled with valuable information not only to advertising men, but to business men generally. Many of the dinners and banquets held on these occasions have been unusually elaborate and have done much to spread Atlanta's fame as a delightful place of entertainment and as an up-to-date and progressive city.

WORK FOR CHAMBER COMMERCE.
The Ad Men's club has constantly shown a willingness to work with all other local organizations for the good of the city. Last year good work was done by the Ad Men in assisting the clean-up committee in making Atlanta a cleaner and healthier city—a city beautiful.

When the chamber of commerce was at work raising funds with which to purchase the old Y. M. C. A. building and make of it a splendid home for the Atlanta chamber, the ad men worked shoulder to shoulder with the older and it really is "tip-top." Before I discovered Tip-Top Bread, I thought I could bake—and I could bake too, but my bread always seemed to lack "something." The flavor was absent, the crust was not right, or it was not baked through. One trial of Tip-Top proved it better than my own baking. "Why is it better? Because in the first place, it is always uniform in flavor and quality, and again, it is light, snow white, close grained, of fine texture, easily digested and wonderfully appetizing."

ATLANTA AD MEN BOOST CITY

organization and put a splendid stimulus to its efforts. The ad men raised a substantial part of the necessary funds. In commenting upon the work done by the ad men, "Progress," official organ of the Atlanta chamber of commerce, stated in the April issue:

"Among the many committees it would be invidious to discriminate, except in the case of the committee from the Ad Men's club, whose energetic, enthusiastic and brilliantly successful campaign brought in the largest total and enlivened the campaign from start to finish."

A list of the committee engaged in the work here follows:

Ad men's committee on chamber of commerce building fund: Fred H. Houser, chairman; Holmes Frederick, R. R. McDowell, Ivan E. Allen, A. S. Adams, St. Elmo Massengale, G. H. Perry, F. H. Goodhart, William P. Parkhurst, W. S. Lounsbury, C. A. Dean, Paul P. Reese, J. W. Davis, Joseph W. Hill.

In the recent membership campaign of the chamber of commerce, of which Ivan E. Allen was general chairman, to which over 500 members were added to that body, the Ad Men's committee, under the leadership of Fred Houser, led all other committees in the work of soliciting and securing new members.

This Ad Men's committee was awarded a silver loving cup by the directors of the chamber of commerce.

RAISED $11,000 FOR ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

The week previous to last Thanksgiving, the Ad Men were called upon by the directors of the Atlanta Associated Charities organization to raise funds with which to pay off some old debts and to carry on the work during 1912-1913. "The Ad Men promptly got busy. Committees were appointed and headquarters were opened in a vacant store on Peachtree street. The newspapers were filled with reading notices and statistics concerning the needs and the work of the Associated Charities, and on the Monday preceding Thanksgiving day all space in the Atlanta dailies was donated by the various advertisers to the Ad Men's club, and these boosters filled the spaces with talks concerning the Associated Charities. A slogan was adopted reading "Help the Ad Men Help the Associated Charities Help Others to Help Themselves," and this slogan was freely exploited. The result of this publicity and the personal solicitation of the Ad Men's committee was the raising of a fund on Thanksgiving day of over $11,000 to carry on the work of the Associated Charities.

SECURED $100,000 FREE ADVERTISING.

When the delegation from the Atlanta Ad Men's club went to the annual convention in Boston these live wires determined to pull of a stunt which would set all New England to talking, and focus the eyes of the country on Georgia. That they succeeded admirably is well known. On the evening of August 2, 1911, the Atlanta club acted as hosts to nearly 5,000 invited guests at a Georgia watermelon cutting in historic Coppley square (opposite Boston public library). The local club had shipped over 1,000 genuine rattle-snake melons to Boston, and kept them on ice three days, serving them to their guests sweet and cold, and the New Englanders and all delegates were enthusiastic in praising their hospitality. It was really an event in Boston, many persons tasting good watermelon for the first time. It was generally acknowledged that the Atlanta delegation pulled off the greatest publicity stunt of the convention and gave Georgia and all of the south a vast amount of advertising when they held this great feast of the week. The newspapers of Boston, New York and other eastern cities were unusually generous with news articles, photographs and editorials on Atlanta's enterprise and hospitality. It is estimated that if the space used by the papers in describing the watermelon cutting had been charged for at regular rates, the Atlanta Ad Men secured over $100,000 value in advertising for this city and the state.

NOTABLE ENTERTAINMENTS GIVEN.

In addition to the weekly luncheons and the monthly dinners given to members and friends by the Ad Men, this club has pulled off a number of banquets and affairs which have attracted nationwide attention. One of the most elaborate banquets ever given in the south was the one tendered S. C. Dobbs, sales and advertising manager of the Coca-Cola company, Atlanta, when he was elected national president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. This was held at the Piedmont hotel, and in addition to the members of the local Ad Men's club, many advertising men famous in their various lines from different sections of the United States were the guests. The president of the club, Thomas H. Branen, was assisted as toastmaster, by the then governor of Georgia, Joseph M. Brown.

The dinner at the Kimball house on February 22, under the auspices of the Gridiron club, which is an inner circle of the Ad Men's club, many advertising men famous in their various lines from different sections of the United States were the guests. The president of the club, Thomas H. Branen, was assisted as toastmaster, by the then governor of Georgia, Joseph M. Brown.

Visiting publicity men from Birmingham, Macon and Augusta were featured in the "gridironing," and many local celebrities were started good-naturally by the Ad Men when they tried to speak. The guest list was limited on this occasion to 100. The more recent "gigantic jag of joy" pulled off at the Cafe Denechaud on the evening of May 6, was attended by 150 and was an occasion of fun and frolic from start to finish. Cabaret performers added to the festivities, and some clever sleight-of-hand work and caricaturing was done by some of the members.

DELEGATES TO GO TO BALTIMORE.

The Atlanta delegation which went to the last annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America at Dallas, Tex., last year, covered themselves with glory and secured valuable advertising for Atlanta on that occasion. This year the convention will be held in Baltimore, and the Atlanta delegates will leave via the Southern railway in special sleepers on the afternoon of June 7. The Ad Men propose to this year even exceed the honors they won at the previous conventions at Louisville, Omaha, Boston and Dallas. They have various committees laid at work framing up publicity stunts which will open the eyes not only of the Baltimore delegates, but also the delegates from every state in the union, and those from Canada and England. And this is why the Ad Men's club of Atlanta is producing today's edition of The Atlanta Journal. They will use the profits thus secured to advertise Atlanta and Georgia at the Baltimore convention, and from the way these hustlers usually go at it, it is safe to predict that the money will be spent judiciously, and will open the eyes of most of the other delegates.

FACE WOULD BURN AND ITCH

With Pimples and Blackheads. Obligated to Scratch. Would Fester and Come to Head. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Buchanan, Va.—"For years and years I had been troubled with pimples and blackheads. The first sign of the pimples would be a little red swollen place about the size of a pin-head. It would stay this way for a day or two, then the pimples would begin to burn and itch so that I would be obliged to scratch them with my fingers all the while, making them worse. In a day or two they would fester and come to a head, causing me so much trouble that I could not do any hard work that caused perspiration. My whole face was like a perforated tin pan, caused by my pinching the pimples with my finger nails. My face would burn and itch so that I would have to get up nights and walk about in the open air."

"I saw that my face was getting in a serious condition, so I bought some blood medicine and began using it, but after a while I did not notice any improvement. I had become discouraged owing to the condition of my face. I happened to see the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I at once got a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and began using them. After a very few applications my face began to improve and I kept on using them every day for two weeks until I was completely cured." (Signed) Charlie O. McCormick, July 10, '12. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. B, Boston."

*Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

The Vital Need of Physical Culture in Girls' High School.

There was never a time, except in the fair and fruitful days of old Greece, when medical science stressed so earnestly as it does today the importance of wholesome exercise and recreation. These have come to be the favorite and really potent prescriptions for the prevention and cure of disease.
Walking, golfing and other sports of field or gymnasium are commended not simply for the pleasure they afford but also for the efficiency, mental and moral as well as physical, which they develop.

Especially significant is the part which intelligently directed physical culture has come to play in our modern school systems. Every plan of education worthy the name recognizes and applies
the truth that boys and girls should be trained not simply for books but for life and that the chief end of the school should be to promote their power and happiness and usefulness to themselves and others. There appears elsewhere in today's Journal a timely and interesting article by Dr.
Theodore Toepel on the importance of physical culture to Atlanta's public schools in general and to the Girls' High school in particular. It seems almost incredible that no provision has yet been made for physical training in the Girls' High school, a place where it is more vitally needed than in any other school of the entire system. We commend Dr. Toepel's discussion of this subject to every citizen who is interested in the welfare of Atlanta's schools and particularly to parents who are directly concerned.

The period of a girl's life which is spent in the High school is crucial. It is a period of profound biologic change. Her first year at the High school, as Dr. Toepel declares, demands close application and hard mental work, just when she is least able to meet this demand. Home duties call for much of her time and outside studies in music or painting "add to the already heavy burden."

"Often the young woman of twenty or thirty pays the penalty of the lack of proper physical care or training at ten or sixteen."

Furthermore, as Dr. Toepel points out, between these years the average girl has, for each pound of weight, scarcely more than three-fourths of the lung capacity of boys of the same age.
"Experiments prove," he says, "that rational and regular physical training will give the girl of this age lung capacity at least thirty per cent above that of girls who lack such training. The exercise increases and improves the appetite and stimulates all the vital organs by flooding them with pure and healthful blood. The nervous system is toned up, the tissues are properly nourished and disorders already started on their course are corrected."

It is a mistaken idea that all girls or any considerable portion of them in cities can get, or will get, a due amount and the right kind of exercise without competent supervision. Dr. Toepel
well says in this connection:

"The ideal system of physical training for young girls comes only from long and careful experiment. Otherwise we may increase the fatigue and disorder which we should remove.
The girl is anything but strong and mature;
hence the exercise must be light. She has little endurance; therefore active exercises and rest periods must alternate as in any good game. . .
The main purpose is to give refreshment and recreation from the nervous strain and long sitting of school hours. If we want healthy school girls and women, we must have a wise and well directed system of physical training in
the Girls' High School."

It is to be hoped that the board of education will be vigorously supported by the public sentiment and the public judgment of Atlanta in an appeal to council for funds sufficient to perfect
the system of physical culture in all the schools and, particularly, to provide such a system for
the Girls' High school.

No greater need is evident; no better service
could be rendered.

Too many relatives spoil the legacy.

It takes an expert to impress us with how little
we know.

They may yet reform the currency to the extent

The high cost of living isn't discussed so much

out an indication of the cost of high living.

Calling a Bluff.

The Democratic administration is not to be bulldozed by the threats of special interests to close their factories or cut their employees' pay
when the Underwood tariff bill becomes a law.
It is an old trick of the trusts to cry "panic!"
whenever an honest tariff revision is proposed.
Interests that have fattened on special privilege dolefully exclaim that they cannot continue to exist without the government's patronage in the form of exorbitant tariff duties. And now, they have grown so bold as to intimate that if they are deprived of these favors they will take revenge against the party and against the public by suspending their industries or by cutting their scale of wages.

A more impudent or malicious attitude could scarcely be conceived. Here are pampered monopolies that have been taxing the consumer as they pleased, monopolies that have grown so arrogant in their privileges that they defy a Democratic administration, representing the people of the United States, to carry out the people's mandate. They do not propose to await a fair and practical test of the new tariff schedules but to retaliate forthwith, simply because their old favors from the government have been cut off. But the present administration will not be bluffed
by such threats. Mr. Underwood, voicing the purpose of the President and the sentiment of Democracy, declared just before the final passage of the new bill through the house:

"I give you notice now that if any manufacturer attempts in the interest of the Republican party to threaten labor, there is a bureau in this government, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, created by the Democratic party, that will go into the factory, make a thorough investigation and report the reason why."

That is to say, if a plant shuts down or cuts wages on the pretext that it cannot continue to operate profitably because of the Democratic law,
its claim will be scrupulously sifted, will be subjected to the test of facts and figures gathered by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and, if its action is shown to be one of ill temper or spite and not of good reason or necessity, it will be placed before the public in its true light. In short, the people in whose behalf the new tariff bill is designed, will be told the full truth in all such cases in order that they themselves may pass judgment on men and interests that seek to intimidate the government. Mr. Underwood further explained the administration's purpose when he said:

"When a manufacturer says he is cutting wages because of tariff reductions, we want to know if he is telling the truth. If he is not and he is simply punishing labor, then the fact shall be made public. If he is telling the truth, we want to know it. If we have made a mistake in any particular instance, we are not afraid to acknowledge it and correct it."

The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce is empowered to ascertain the cost of producing durable articles in the United States and in foreign countries and the different elements of cost in the production of such articles. "Including the wages paid in such industries, the hours employed
a day, the profits of manufacturers and producers, the comparative cost of living and the kind of living, what articles are controlled by trusts
or other combinations of capital and what effect
the trusts or other combinations of capital have upon production and prices." It will thus be possible to determine the sincerity or the trickery of those interests that seek to play politics with the welfare of their employees and with the rights of the American people.

This would in no wise mean government interference with business rights. But it would mean that big business should not interfere with the government's rights and the public's rights. It would simply mean that a group of men who conspired to alarm the country or to bring on a panic from selfish or political motives would be exhibited in their true character. And we may be sure that if would-be mischief-makers know that they must either justify their claims or stand condemned by the nation, they will be very slow
to make uncalled for trouble.

The truth is high protective duties do not benefit the wage earner. Statistics show that employees in highly protected industries receive lower wages than those in unprotected industries. It has been conservatively reckoned that only about one-seventh of the total number of persons engaged in manufacturing of all kinds in the United States are helped to the slightest degree by protective duties. But the remaining six-sevenths are compelled to pay an enormous tax in the form of a high and steadily rising cost of living. The total tariff tax for the average American family is approximately one hundred and sixteen dollars a year, of which amount only sixteen dollars goes to the government as revenue and ninety-nine dollars to the protected trust. Thus it is evident that the high tariff is simply a device for maintaining exorbitant prices and for protecting particular interests against natural competition.

When we find American trusts successfully competing in foreign markets and selling their products more cheaply abroad than at home, we can see no reason why they cannot continue to operate prosperously when tariff duties have been reduced. The cry that they are being ruined is a shallow political bluff that will deceive no one familiar with the facts.

The country has demanded tariff reduction;
it expects tariff reduction and competent business is already making such readjustments as the change in duties may require. The Underwood bill, far from discouraging wholesome industry or chilling prosperity, will in reality release fresh forces of enterprise and send new currents of warmth and cheer through the great body of American business.

A Park for the West Side.

The petition signed by more than a thousand residents of the west side urging the city to purchase a now available tract of land, known as the Moseley estate, for use as a public park merits the earnest consideration of council and the finance committee. No enterprise means more to the upbuilding of Atlanta's interests and the happiness of her people than the extension and improvement of the park system. Every dollar wisely spent in this cause is a wondrously fruitful investment for good citizenship.

The tract now suggested for purchase is reputed to be especially desirable. It consists of thirty-eight acres of rare natural beauty and of rich historic association. Situated on the famous battlefield of Ezra church, it still preserves
the old fortifications and other interesting relics.
In its midst stands a colonial mansion, as another reminder of times bygone. It contains two lake basins which could easily be filled and turned to pleasurable and picturesque account. The land is abundantly wooded and is also provided with flowers, shrubbery and driveways so that the cost of improvements would be almost negligible.

The fact that a thousand or more citizens of the west side have joined in urging council to consider this proposition is within itself significant. They feel that their section of the city is entitled to a park comparable to those already provided for the south and the north sides. It is noteworthy, too, that the president of the park board and the general manager of the park system are enthusiastic in their indorsement of the suggestion. It is to be hoped that means will be found for carrying this enterprise into effect.

Here's hoping the rainy season will continue a little while.

Still, the amateur detective is in our midst with his theories.

A New Pilgrimage of the Old Guard

The approaching pilgrimage of Atlanta's "Old Guard" to the cities of the north and the east to renew the friendships made in their historic peace mission more than thirty years ago is an event of national interest. Their first journey, it will be recalled, fell in the darksome aftermath of the Civil war when old wounds were just beginning to heal and when the country's heart was still divided. The visit of these southern soldiers to the homes of their one-time foes did more perhaps than any other incident of the decade to reunite the north and the south and to warm the way to a new and deeper fraternalism. They went in a spirit of true brotherhood and in that same gracious spirit
they were universally received.

It is a pleasing circumstance that many of the men who took part in the peace mission of 1879 are among those who will be the guests and the hosts of this later journey. Colonel Joseph F. Burke is still commander of the "Old Guard," a number of his early comrades are still in the ranks and they will be entertained at Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other cities by the same famous military organizations that welcomed them in the seventies.

At the unveiling of the "Old Guard" peace memorial some seasons ago it was Atlanta's pleasure to have as its guests many of these organizations.
They are now to repeat on their own part the hospitalities of that delightful occasion. "The Old Guard" will bear the friendly greetings of its city and of the entire south to our fellow Americans of the north and east.

Where is the old fashioned man who called a long dry spell a "drou?"

The next thing on the controversial program will be a discussion of the sane Fourth.

It is extremely probable that the tariff will go through as per schedule—sugar, wool and everything.

That Long Dry Spell.

This is a season when that Methusalem of conversion, "the Long Dry Spell," grows sprightly and permissible. Men talk of the need of showers not because their wits are dull or their stock of gossip is out but because that is a matter of really vital interest. Gardens show signs of languishing and the larger crops are backward for lack of a drink.

It is a noteworthy fact, however, that weather problems nearly always settle themselves. Reports from the farm demonstration agents of the State College of Agriculture are, on the whole, optimistic, despite the rather untoward conditions in certain groups of counties. The long-delayed rains are at length falling in many parts of the state and, what is a particularly cheering circumstance, food crops are for the most part thriving. Agricultural conditions of the country are good and in Georgia, where scientific methods of farming are more widely applied this year than ever before, we may hope for plentiful harvests.

"The engagement of Prince Arsene is denied in Persia." Which is an indication of why it costs money to run a newspaper.

Some people think the world is growing less romantic, and yet only yesterday appeared the account of a man who eloped with a whole family.

Between Oxford and Covington they are doing away with the horse car. Still, there are enough left in New York City to keep the species from becoming quite extinct.

THE INCOME TAX

XI—THE SUPREME COURT DECISION.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Perhaps no decision ever rendered by a federal court in the United States tended to shake the faith of the people in the courts more than the decision of the supreme court that the law of 1894 was unconstitutional. Having the misfortune to reverse
the construction and practice of a hundred years, coupled with a practical reversal of its own first decision, the court, however righteous its aim or high its purpose, might have brought down upon itself a storm of adverse and distrustful criticism.

As soon as the law of 1894
went into effect all of the big interests of the country got ready to fight it on the ground that it was unconstitutional.
Many suits were brought contesting it, but the one which finally had the honor of being the test case was that of Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. Some of the ablest lawyers at the American bar were brought in to attack the constitutionality of the law.
Few cases in that court ever have been more thoroughly argued or expounded than was this one, the arguments and briefs filling several volumes. There were two principal grounds upon which the opponents of the tax declared it unconstitutional—that it was not a uniform tax, and that it was a direct tax. They laid more emphasis on the former than on the latter assertion. They attempted to persuade the supreme court that it should pronounce the tax unconstitutional
without reversing the former decisions of that body.
The court paid little attention to the argument that the tax was not a uniform one within the meaning of the constitution, and, indeed, in a later decision
the government's contention in this particular was upheld.

The court had declared by a unanimous vote in 1870, in the case of Springer against the United States, in which Springer resisted the payment of a tax upon his professional income, that "it does not appear that any tax like the one here in question was ever regarded or treated by congress as a direct tax.
This uniform practical construction of the constitution touching so important a point is a consideration of great weight." It further added that "our conclusions are that direct taxes, within the meaning of the constitution, are only capitation taxes as expressed in that instrument, and taxes on real estate." It further declared that the tax upon Springer's income was in the nature of an excise or duty, and, therefore, not a direct tax.

Unfortunately the income of Springer was not derived from lands, but rather from United States bonds and professional earnings. When the law of 1894 came before the supreme court counsel argued that income from land cannot be distinguished from land itself, and, therefore, if a tax on land is a direct tax, as every one concedes, it follows that a tax on an income derived from land is also a direct tax. Upon this argument the court decided in the first case that a tax upon income derived from lands was a direct tax,
and, therefore, prohibited by the constitution except under apportionment. There was an even division of the court upon the question of whether the remainder of the law should be declared unconstitutional because this part of it was so held. There was one phase of the controversy, however, upon which the court was unanimous, and that was in declaring that the part of the law which put a tax upon incomes derived from state bonds was unconstitutional, not because it was a direct tax, but because the federal government had no right to tax the instrumentalities of a state.

Of course such a decision tore the income tax law
to pieces, and there seemed no other way out of the difficulty than to reopen the whole matter and to argue it all over again. Counsel opposed to the law built their arguments upon the opinions of the court in the first case, and declared that if, as the court had held, a tax upon income derived from land were a direct tax, then also a tax upon the income from personal property would be a direct tax. Justice Jackson had not participated in the hearing of the first case, and arose from what proved to be his death bed to hear the arguments on the rehearing. He voted in favor of the constitutionality of the law, and since the vote had stood four to four on the first hearing, his vote in favor of the law must have made it constitutional, had not one of the justices affirming the constitutionality of the law in the first case changed his vote and resisted himself in it. What that justice was is not known. For a long time it was claimed that it was Justice Shiras, but more recently claims were made that it was not he, but Justice Brown. Others assert that it was Justice Field.
Probably it will never be known. But, at any rate,
one man who, on the first hearing, had voted to uphold the law, changed his mind and voted against it on the rehearing.

Many careful authorities assert that the court did not take time to make its own investigations, and,
therefore, relying upon the representations of counsel,
it was gravely misled, and that this fact is disclosed
by an examination of the affirmative opinions. For instance, it was argued that a Frenchman by the name of Turgot had written a pamphlet on the taxation in which he pronounced an income tax a direct tax, and that this work was in the hands of the framers of the constitution. Chief Justice Fuller accepted this and used it as an argument in his opinion. Prof.
Seigman, of Columbia university, shows that no such work ever was published in France, much less translated in the United States. Turgot did write a little memoir, in which he contended that the only direct taxes were poll taxes and land taxes.

Again, it was contended by counsel and adopted in the opinions of the court that the clause in the constitution forbidding the levying of direct taxes except by apportionment was inserted to protect the small states against the large ones, whereas, such authorities as Prof. Seigman produce the words of the constitution framers themselves to show it was put there as a compromise to protect the slave states in the three-fifths rule, whereby, in determining the ratio of representation in the house of representatives and direct taxation three white people should count as much as five negroes.

OUR PRECISE ARTIST

Jim planted his feet firmly.

FUTURISTS

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

"If," writes Sir Francis Younghusband, "we strain
a two-foot rule on end and take it to represent the period which has elapsed since man first appeared, it will be only the top inch that will represent the distance of time since the dawn of civilization, and only the last eighth of an inch that will denote the period of European civilization."

As far as scientists are able to judge, the earth is still in its infancy. In all probability the human race is to continue for a million years or so. Before us, therefore, stretches out a vast future, inconceivably
more influential than the past.

There are two classes of minds. One is dominated by the past and the other by the future. Wherever you find two or more men gathered together you may witness the clash of these two types. There are conservatives and progressives, liberals and standpatters,
orthodox and heretics, the adventurous and the safe,
all of which amounts to saying that there are souls gripped by what is to be and souls gripped by what has been.

Both tendencies need the moderation of common sense. A certain conservatism is needed, because whatever good there is in the future must grow out of the past; civilization is a growing unit. And a certain progressiveness is needed, because without it the past would paralyze us with its dead head. Too much conservatism means stagnation; too much progressiveness means anarchy.

But it is the future-feeling that most needs to be developed. The past is but too strong entrenched already in the consciousness of the world. It is from those million years to come that we should draw our inspiration.

Law is now, and always has been, but the accumulated wisdom of the past. It ought to grasp the future; there should be more legislation for what will be than from what has been.

Education is past-tension. It should turn more toward taking as its normal the man yet to be than the man as he has been or is.

Morals that aim to make us conform to present
bygone social standards are irritating, but a morality
drawn from what society will be can impassion us,
and so develop us.

The cities of ancient times are imposing in their ruins, but I like best to wander the streets of those magnificent cities of the days to come, those dream-cities, where democracy expresses itself in beauty and the majesty of work is beyond all that war and king-craft ever devised.

Even so with life itself. The greatest contribution of religion to human life is the gift of a sense of the future, of another life beyond this. Whether this be provable or no, the very presence of the notion of it in men's minds lends them a dignity and a power nothing else could induce. If, as old age comes on, we have amassed only a past, a pile of memories and failures, then life moves slowly on to tragedy; but if there looms in the consciousness a feeling of a possible future the mind finds in it a veritable fountain of youth.

I make no bones of saying that I am, or want to be, a "futurist."

Ballade of Anxious Inquiry

If you were wedded true and tight
Unto a dame who seemed to know
Each season by its fashion right,
Its changing style, its costly show;
If she with longing all aglow
Asked for each season garments new—Outfits complete from head to toe—
What would you do? What would you do?

If she possessed a motor bright,
A little car that, just to go,
Of gasoline must drink at night
And morn and in a constant flow.
If all too often "blowouts" so
Blew in the cash it left you blue,
If "fixing" charges were not low,
What would you do? What would you do?

If grocers' bills, in black and white,
To you on each ill wind would blow;
If butlers told their cashiers plight,
And forthwith did insist on grow;
If thrift sustained an overthrow,
"Expenses running" seemed too true,
While income only followed slow,
What would you do? What would you do?

LE'NVOI.

Good friend, I' fate should bestow
Upon, we'll say, a man like you,
The problems I have mentioned, oh!
What would you do? What would you do?

Captain Barnacle's Travelogues

BY JOHN H.
WISHAR

"Popcorn," said Captain Barnacle, meditatively,
"was what caused the wreck of the schooner Mary Ann, although it was this same popcorn that saved us all from death. I didn't know it was popcorn or I never would have taken it on board, as the Mary Ann was an iron ship. We had loaded the stuff in San Diego, and were to carry it to Newcastle, Australia.
The corn was loose, and was run into the ship's hold in big chutes. I didn't pay much attention to the loading during the time we were lying in the harbor of San Diego. Of course, my mates attended to all that."

"Well, we got started on our voyage in good shape.
We had fine weather down to the equator, but there we were becalmed. It was so hot I swung my hammock on deck in hope of getting a breeze of fresh air. I was just dozing off when I heard what sounded like a volley of rifle shots. I sat up like a whole noise grew louder until it sounded like a whole regiment of infantry firing at another regiment.
Finally it became a regular roar. The sailors came rushing aft panic stricken. Suddenly the port quarter seemed to lift when an unusually heavy discharge came and the whole side of the ship blew out with a great crash and there came a perfect deluge of popcorn! Yes, sir; that was what it was. The heat in that iron hold was so intense that it had popped
the entire load of corn and the increased pressure had blown out the side of the ship."

"I saw that we were sinking and that quick action was necessary. I ordered the men below to throw up a big barrel of molasses. Quickly I had this molasses poured on the great pile of popcorn
which spouted from the ship and floated alongside.
The molasses dried in the extreme heat and cemented
the whole mass of popped popcorn into one mammoth heap, which rode the waves just as light as a bird. Of course we all clambered on this novel raft, first securing a few barrels of water. Then we watched the poor old Mary Ann go down, and she was soon out of sight. Of course we were safe for the time being, but it was a dreary prospect. The first day we made a meal on the popcorn. It was awfully good and the molasses gave it a nice flavor.
You know you can eat an enormous quantity when you're out that way with nothing to do but lay in the sun all day. Pretty soon I saw that if we didn't stop eating we'd have no raft left."

It was hard to choose between the alternatives.
On the one hand we faced starving to death if we didn't eat the popcorn, and if we did we faced drowning. To add to our troubles there came a whole school of sharks, and they started eating the lower side of the raft. The only thing that saved us was the fact that a whale ran against our popcorn raft and his head stuck in it. He couldn't see where he was going, so he ran ashore on one of the Friendly Islands and shoved our popcorn raft way up on the beach. When the natives came rushing down I promptly made a bargain with them and sold them both what was left of the raft and the whale for three loads of copra for which I got nearly $2,000.
So it wasn't such a bad wreck after all."

Y. M. C. A. NOW IN ITS MOST CRITICAL MEETING

Cincinnati Convention a Cross-Roads for International Organization

BY THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER.
The "news behind the news" of the international convention of the Young Men's Christian association, now in session in Cincinnati, is the struggle between the "liberal" and "conservative" elements, respecting the association's creed, and the tendency toward decentralization of control.

Cries in religious belief may not figure largely in the dispatches, but they are of profound and far-reaching importance. The Y. M. C. A. is facing such a crisis. In this it but shares the experience of most of the denominations, where the battle for and against "orthodoxy" is almost as great as that which went the churches of America nearly a century ago, and eventuated in the formation of the Unitarian denomination. Broadly stated, the issue is the same now as then, namely, what conception shall be held of the deity of Jesus Christ and of the inspiration of the Bible.

At Cincinnati the subject takes the form of the reaffirmation of the "Paris basis" and the "Portland test," two previous deliverances of the association, setting forth its completely evangelical character. The committee which reports to the present convention favors an indorsement of these historic documents. They put the Young Men's Christian association again squarely on record as standing for the most orthodox type of Christianity.

WHY THE STRUGGLE RAGES.

Many men who scarcely know how to behave in church give the Young Men's Christian association their hearty support. They say it is "practical religion." The fact that the membership numbers more than half a million men speaks volumes concerning the association's popularity. Every city of importance in all the land has its Y. M. C. A. building which is looked upon as a civic institution. The work of the association is really world-wide. The value of its property, as reported at this convention, is $74,614,293, and its annual budget is more than $11,000,000. Size, property, public confidence and success the Y. M. C. A. assuredly has. The report of the international committee is an extraordinary document, a luminous statement of an unparalleled work.

The very fact that the association is such a degree a public institution has led many men to show impatience over any theological limitations. They frankly are not interested in doctrinal matters. On the other hand, the leaders of the churches and all active members of the Y. M. C. A. are members of evangelical churches—declaring that the association's faith is its life, and if it loses its distinctively religious and evangelical character it will mentally decline and die. So, in all seriousness, the struggle may be called a life and death one.

WIDENING THE DOORS.

Because of the growth of student associations—no college is completely equipped nowadays without its Y. M. C. A.—there has been difficulty in maintaining the "evangelical test." The student associations and their members are often unwilling to subscribe to the statement of evangelical belief. The natural tendency of the student is to take the most "advanced" view of all subjects, religion included. It is from the student secretaries that the principal objections to the present doctrinal basis have come.

Of quite another sort is the objection against the test which would make all active members of the association, and all officers, members of evangelical Protestant churches, for in the railroad and industrial branches of the association there are a great many members of the Roman Catholic church, and these feel that they should be entitled to representation on the governing boards. If the recommendation of the committee is followed, the old rules will still remain in force.

Even more delicate is the problem of the standing of the local association which does not conform to these tests. It is reported that this subject of standardizing the association will be acutely up at Cincinnati.

STANDING BY THE OLD BASIS.
The fact that the association has resisted the "liberalizing" movements of the day, and what is regarded as the despiritualizing tendency in the association, will be acclaimed by many churches with delight, and will assuredly draw the association closer to the churches as well as silence a great deal of criticism. The strictly religious side of the many-sided work of the association will receive renewed attention now.

The oversight of the training schools will be strengthened by this convention. This movement, too, looks back to the theological question. By greater control of the schools, the type of teaching can be better regulated. The schools are of three kinds—the training schools at Chicago and Springfield, the summer schools, and the local "empowerment" classes, in connection with local associations. The convention is recommending that a college training, or its equivalent, be required of all young men entering the ranks of the secretariat.

PENSIONS FOR THE VETERANS.
This matter of securing recruits for association work is a serious one. Directly bearing on it is the fact that no provision has been made for the aged or worn-out workers. At Cincinnati a "retirement fund" is to be started. This is a radical step, but inevitable. The fund will be not less than a million dollars.

JOHN R. MOTT'S RETURN.
Always the outstanding personality at a Y. M. C. A. convention, Mr. John R. Mott, who has been offered the general secretaryship of the international committee, to succeed Richard C. Morse, is more than ever the central figure at the Cincinnati convention, because of the national discussion of his name as minister to China. The president offered Mr. Mott this post, but he declined it, in favor of his religious work. It has been freely said that Mr. Mott has diplomatic gifts fitting him for the highest post at the disposal of the president.

That he has chosen to stand by his chosen life work is not strange. Hundreds of his fellow-secretaries have likewise resisted flattering offers, in order to give their lives to the welfare of young men.

JUDGE NEWMAN DENIES PETITION OF SEABOARD

Judge W. T. Newman, of the United States district court for the northern district of Georgia, has declined to grant an order enjoining the state railroad commission from enforcing its order to require the Seaboard Air Line railroad and the Lawrenceville branch railroad to make a physical connection at Lawrenceville and also to interchange business. The Seaboard resisted the commission's order and applied for an injunction against it.

GEORGE MATHIESON GETS NEW COUNTY JOB

Officer of County Force Is Named Assistant Chief by Commissioners

George Mathieson, who has been a member of the county police force since its organization, was named assistant chief at a recent meeting of the Fulton county board of commissioners. The position of assistant chief was created at the meeting at which Officer Mathieson was named to fill the place. The assistant chief will probably be in complete charge of the county force for some time, as Chief G. C. Rowan is still seriously ill at a local sanitarium. Assistant Chief Mathieson lives near Buckhead and is widely known over the county.

BEER DEALERS INDICTED FOR NOT PAYING TAXES

Bonds of $750 Each Asked of Five Dealers, Who Paid City and Not County

The state's fight to force near-beer dealers to pay the special tax of $300 a year was resumed Friday, when indictments against five dealers were returned by the Fulton county grand jury.

All of the five men indicted had paid their city license, it is said, but failed to pay the state tax. The true bills charging misdemeanors were returned after the grand jury had heard from the city license inspector and officials of the ordinary's office, who collect the state tax. Deputy Sheriff Plennie Minor, who makes the arrests on the grand jury warrant, was instructed accept only gilt-edge bonds for $750 in each case. Julius Cohen, a Whitehall street dealer, was indicted on three counts, while one bill was brought against each of the following: G. C. Carey, Ike Morris, J. M. Carroll and E. M. Casey.

Best Efforts

Backbone of Growth

Search the world over and you'll scarcely discover anything going forward under a power pressure less than the very best effort---whether its an ad club or clothing store. It's just good old fashioned "backbone" that puts the power in and pushes on to the point---each to his own endeavor. It's only natural and logical that he should reach it---keeping up his own confidence on the way.

When you think of Atlanta you get a thrill, for it's here that enthusiasm thrives, as the Atlanta Ad Men's Club has had a special injection of the well known "spirit."

When you think of good clothes, you think of Muse's, and tis only natural and logical that you should.

We possess the spirit of the specialist---we have concentrated on clothing. The specialist in any branch of human endeavor is today the man doing the big things, and the tendency grows.

We specialize on Men's Clothing---devoting all time, thought and best effort toward the goal that places this clothing store at the top in America.

You are our patrons because you feel the force of our "best effort" pressure. You feel it in the great rarity of a really good clothing stock to select from; you feel it in the power of the professional clothing experts who serve you, you feel it in the legitimate values offered, and you feel it in the well known, well defined Muse policy.

Such is the going forward power that makes for success in every undertaking.

WALSH LEAVES SICK BED TO CHASE HOUSEBREAKERS

Getting up from a sick bed, J. J. Walsh, of 76 Johnson avenue, chased three negroes for a block in the rain about 3 o'clock Saturday morning, and then fell when his strength gave out.

He fired one shot at the men, who attempted to break into the front of the house.

His wife was aroused by some one trying the blinds and then the door. She went to the front of the house, and asked what was wanted. A negro's voice mumbled something about wanting to get in. Mrs. Walsh then returned to the bedroom, found her husband's pistol and helped the sick man dress.

Mr. Walsh found the negroes up the street and commanded them to halt. They broke and ran, and he attempted to arrest one who was running toward him. He fell exhausted.

Is Your Town Backsliding?

UNLESS it is making the right kind of progress, it's going backward, sure as you live.

And your town isn't making the right kind of progress unless the health conditions, the sanitation, the lighting, the paving, and other physical aspects are what they ought to be.

Has your town correct sewerage?

Is the water supply pure and plentiful?

Is fever liable to break out and take toll of the little children? Are there disease-breeding places to menace the homes of your people?

Is the lighting system adequate to the needs of a wide-awake American town?

Are the paving conditions the kind you ought to have?

The best paying investment any town can make is to spend money enough to make itself a good place to live in.

IMPROVEMENTS that make for the health and comfort of the people are the biggest dividend-producers on earth.

Efficient work, efficient citizenship, efficient service to the community are possible only when the physical conditions are what they should be.

Our business is to bring about correct physical conditions for towns that need them.

We are Municipal Engineers and we can do for YOUR town what we have done for more than 300 other towns and cities. We plan, design, estimate, finance and construct sanitary systems, water and power plants and paving.

What does your town want? Write to us and let us know what's on your mind. We'd like to tell you what we have accomplished in other places, never a fall-down or a break in carrying out our contracts. We believe we can demonstrate that we are the people you need.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION MEETS IN MACON

Elaborate Preparations Going Forward for Convention
June 17-19

MACON, Ga., June 17.—With the appointment of special committees some weeks ago and the hearty response of the Macon people are giving to the solicitations for help to entertain the delegates, the local Baptist Young People's union is making elaborate preparations and arranging an extensive program for the convention of the Georgia State convention of the B. Y. P. U., which meets in Macon, June 17-19.

The local workers assisted by the state officers are planning to make this one of the largest and most successful annual gatherings of this Baptist convention. Arrangements are being made to entertain over 300 young people from the various unions in this state.

At the convention which was held in Augusta last year this time the constitution was so altered that each union of a Baptist church may have ten delegates, whereas, the previous clause allowed only two. This change should bring an unusually large number to the convention. Every Baptist church in the state, regardless of her affiliations with the convention, should have at least two delegates if not the full quota present.

A recent meeting of the Macon B. Y. P. U. reports from the various churches showed that the social side of the convention is to be well cared for. A big social is to be given the visitors following the opening session.

The chamber of commerce, through General Secretary Hyman, is lending great aid in trying to make this convention the banner one of the organization. The office of the chamber of commerce will be at the disposal of the delegates at all times.

THE HOUSE WE BUILD

By Rev.
Loy Warwick

A Little Sermon for Character Carpenters.

IN our town some men are building houses and some are pulling houses down. Any common laborer can wreck a building, but it takes art and skill to construct—that will please the eye and furnish a suitable dwelling place for men and women. In anything it is easier to destroy than it is to build, but in all things it is better to be a builder.

We have in our town some men and some institutions that tear down and destroy. And we have other men and other institutions that save and build up.

The saloon, the gambling place, the places that encourage loafing and laziness and idleness—these are wreckers of homes and character. The men who own or operate such places, and all who encourage or wink at them are helping to destroy the world.

The church, the school house, the Y. M. C. A., the hospital, the orphanage, the S. A. hall, the mission room—these are constructive in their work. To help these to be a blessing and builder in the world. The man is to be envied who can edit a paper, or write a book, or lecture a class, or heal a sick body, or preach a sermon. Such work helps to bring in the kingdom of God.

Are you trying to be builders and saviors as the days go by?

Who Lives for Self Only? Some people are selfish when they build their homes. They do not like company. They are not hospitable. They say, "Let us build just room enough for our own. If we have a large house we may see far ahead because we do not try. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof and also the good. Eternity is not in all our thoughts, which means that God is not in them."

Others build more than they need, because they want room for the wayfarer man. They do not forget to entertain strangers, knowing that some have thereby entertained angels unaware. Welcome is wide large on all the doorposts and the latch-string is on the outside.

There are people who seem to build a wall about themselves. They shut themselves up and shut their fellows out. They do not seem to need or to desire help and love. They feel able to care for themselves, and they do not care for the people about them.

Who Lives to Do Good. But we see other men who live to do good. The cup of their life runs over. They have more than they need and rejoice to dispense the good things of their life to their fellow-travelers. These are the Great Hearts of our pilgrimage who help us to find the King's country and bring us to our desired haven.

There seems to be no limit to their hospitality. There is always room for one more. No one is ever turned away empty from their gate, and they have no ramble at home. The more they give the more they have. Their scattering abroad seems to make them rich. They seem to give all away one day; but the next day when we see them they appear to have as much as ever.

Some Just for a Day. Some houses are just built for a day, and others are meant to last for many years. One man says, "I am building this house to be torn down a bit later, so it does not matter how I build it." But another builds for his children and grandchildren.

Some of us are content to live in and for the present day. We do not see far ahead because we do not try. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof and also the good. Eternity is not in all our thoughts, which means that God is not in them."

But the wise man builds for the days to come. He not only dips into the future as far as human eyes can see, but he walks by faith, and with the eye of faith sees things that are invisible. He builds for the long run—the only run worth making.

I passed an orchard one day and saw a gray-haired veteran of the Confederacy and of the Cross at work. He was setting out trees and caring for those he had planted years before. Soon he was to pass away, and he knew it. He could hardly hope to eat of the fruit of those trees. But he thought of and lived for others and for the future. The world would go on and men and women would want fruit when he was far away. So he built and planted for his children and their children and for the years to come. And he built for eternity. Men today are enjoying the fruit of that orchard, and the good man who planted it is eating fruit from the tree of life.

If We Build Well.

If we build well, if we build broad enough and strong enough for ourselves and our friends we must have a good foundation. If we build so that the storms and floods will not destroy our house we must take heed where we build and what we build. The wise man built his house on the rock. The foolish man did not look for the rock, but built on the sand.

The rock on which you and I must build is the Rock of Ages. Jesus said, "In my Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you." The Builder is God. But in a sense we build the house we are to occupy when this earthly house shall fail.

To hear Jesus as He points the way of life and to obey Him is to build on the sand. To heed what He says and do what He wills is to build on the rock, and to so build that our house will stand in every evil day and stand forever.

SLOGAN "ATLANTA ALWAYS AHEAD" MAKES A BIG HIT FOR AD MEN

$10 Prize by Club Brings Out
Many Suggestions From All Over Country

When staid old Boston awakened one morning in the summer of 1911 the residents of the fashionable Back Bay district were amazed to find that the "Keep Off the Grass" signs on sacred Conroy Square, upon which the foot of a Bostonian is permitted to tread, had been changed to read "Atlanta Always Ahead." This beautiful grass plot was literally dotted with these signs, and the amazement of the bean eaters increased ten-fold when it was found that the Atlanta advertising men had obtained the privilege of having a Georgia watermelon cutting on this very sacred spot in the shadow of Philip Brooks' monument. However, a large number of the Boston people were invited to participate in the festivities and entered into it in good spirits, strolling around over Conroy Square, wending their way through the rows of signs bearing "Atlanta Always Ahead," and it goes without saying that this slogan made a lasting impression upon those who attended the famous watermelon feast.

EDWIN F. JOHNSON.
Well known among the advertising agents of the south. A live booster for the Atlanta Ad Men.

"Atlanta Always Ahead" was also very prominent at the convention held at Dallas last summer. It was displayed by big signs all around the city and the special trains left Dallas to take the delegates on a tour of the state. This big sign was placed across the front of the engine of the first train, and was thus seen all over Texas.

AD CLUB IS LIVEST BODY IN CITY, SAYS HOPKINS

I have been asked for my opinion of the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta, its past usefulness and future possibilities in connection with the Associated Charities.

The Ad Men's club I consider the liveliest organization of intelligent and aggressive young men with which I ever came in contact.

I first became acquainted with it when it undertook last year a campaign to increase the number of subscribers of the charities. The members of the club realized at the outset there was no one in it for them personally except several days of the hardest kind of work, and that their only reward would be the knowledge of the assistance they had rendered to a valuable institution.

They knew that the particular individuals most active would not necessarily be brought forward prominently, and the advertisement and notoriety gained would be inappreciable. They therefore could not possibly have undertaken the campaign on anything but a purely unselfish, philanthropic basis. Just such a campaign I have rarely seen. The indomitable energy and perseverance in the face of all obstacles was remarkable. The success was overwhelming.

So interested had many of the Ad Men become in the work of the Associated Charities, that when a little later, there were some vacancies on the board of directors, we found no trouble in getting five of them to accept positions with that body. One of them, Mr. Van Allen, is now the chairman of our finance committee, and has recently completed and installed a new set of books in the office of the association, which I consider probably as valuable a single contribution as has ever been made to the society. Our numerous accounts and almost innumerable cases require a highly complicated bookkeeping system, but Mr. Allen has reduced this to comparative simplicity, and arranged it so it can be handled and kept up with a convenience that is remarkable.

Mr. Albert Adams is now a member of the executive committee which meets once a week, and has also accepted the chairmanship of a new publicity committee which is going to be of the greatest value, and which shows no disposition whatever to shy off at the large amount of work it is facing. Mr. W. S. Lounsbury and Mr. E. H. Goodhart are also on the board of directors, and are giving splendid service. Mr. Goodhart has accepted the chairmanship of

HICKS TO HAVE SPEAKER'S PLACE ON THE PROGRAM AT BALTIMORE

Well-Known Agricultural Advertising Man to Address Convention—He Has Filled Many Places of Honor in Advertising World

L. D. Hicks, who is now president of the southeastern division of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, and an enthusiastic worker for the Atlanta Ad Men's club, has been honored with an important place on the program at the national convention in Baltimore.

In the general discussion along the lines of "Equalizing the Advertising Season in the Agricultural Press" Mr. Hicks has been assigned a place to lead in the discussion. He is recognized as one of the leading men now engaged in farm paper publication and is advertising manager of the Southern Ruralist, of Atlanta. He has attended all of the advertising conventions held in recent years, at Omaha, Boston and Dallas.

ICE IN PUBLIC DRINKING PLACES MUST BE PURE

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Ice used in chilling water on passenger cars and in inland steamers must be pure, according to a ruling handed down today by the federal health service. Having issued its ultimatum against the general drinking cup and insisted that the drinking water in train tanks must be pure, the service has gone one step further.

Hereafter ice that comes in contact with the drinking water must be certified as free from impurities. State or municipalities must examine all such water and see that its purity is unquestioned. Inspection is required at least once every six months, unless there are contagious diseases in the district from which the water is drawn.

The recently created new membership committee, which will be an immense help to the association. Taking it all in all, the Associated Charities has never received from any single organization as much unselfish good work, faithful service and efficient energy as it has gotten from the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta.

LINTON C. HOPKINS,
President Associated Charities.

PASS SOON UPON STATUS OF ATTORNEY B. EVANS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
CHARLESTON, S. C., May 17.—The federal court is expected to pass soon upon the status of Bernard Evans, who was disbarred last week by the state supreme court in proceedings brought by former Attorney General Fraser.

WILCOX WEST.
Chairman of the baseball game June 21 for the Ad Men's club. He is manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

IMPORTANT NOTICE AS TO MAIL AT THE CONVENTION

To insure the prompt delivery of all your mail while you are in Baltimore, and to avoid annoying inconvenience to guests and delegates, we have arranged with the postal authorities to establish at the convention headquarters, Fifth regiment armory, a branch postoffice.

Therefore it is very important that you instruct all those who will be sending mail to you while in Baltimore to have it addressed "care of Ad club convention." Use no other address but the above, as the postal authorities will give special attention to this mail, so that no delays in delivery will occur.

A great many visiting previous conventions found that hotel clerks were exceedingly busy and, in fact, overworked to such an extent that frequently serious delays occurred in the delivery of mail, and on the last days of the convention many had left the city without leaving forwarding addresses, and the hotels were at a loss to know where to send such mail that had accumulated.

With the arrangement of this sub-postoffice at the headquarters of the registration committee, the address, both local and permanent, will be on file, thereby showing you that mail addressed as above will be sure to reach you.

ADVERTISING CLUB OF BALTIMORE.
CHARLES E. ELLIS,
Chairman Registration Committee.

Lyon, following the charges and counter charges of the campaign of last summer. Evans appeared this week before Judge Smith in a bankruptcy case, but the papers were not in proper shape and the hearing went over, with the court taking no action which would define the standing of the disbarred attorney of Columbia, in the federal court.

When Senator James drew evidence of approval from the galleries by pointed remarks about the Republicans, Senator Gallinger demanded that order be restored.

"The shoe was on the other foot the other day, and the vice president cautioned the galleries," responded Mr. Marshall, "and he will do so today."

Mr. Gallinger noted an exception. At the conclusion of the debate, Mr. Marshall announced that he had been out of order in his remark and Senator Gallinger at once accepted what he considered an apology.

Keep Your Papers Safe

THE OFFICE DESK OR TABLE IS certainly not a safe place for such valuable papers as stocks, bonds, insurance policies, mortgages, deeds, notes, etc.; and yet many a so-called "good" business man has sacrificed some such paper upon this altar of carelessness.

If you have been a victim, you know the price of your carelessness. If you have not yet suffered such a loss, don't take any more chances, but come in and let us assign you a Box in our fire-proof and burglar-proof Vault. The cost is very nominal and the protection absolute.

Cleans Blood Through Kidneys

A Most Important Function and One to be Carefully Guarded.

S. S. S. is a Wonder. It Makes You Look and Feel the Picture of Real Health.

The purpose of the kidneys being to filter the blood the question of treating supposed kidney weakness should be considered carefully. Instead of drugs and alleged kidney stimulants the better plan is to purify the blood with an antiodic effect such as you get from S. S. S.

It should be remembered that the kidneys are made up of a fine net work of blood vessels, and it is to stimulate the functional activity of kidney tissue through this capillary net work that S. S. S. shows one of its most remarkable effects.

The medicinal value of the components of S. S. S. is relatively just as vital to healthy kidney action as the nutriment obtained from grain, meat, fats, sugars, or any other part of our daily food is to the natural reconstructive requirements of the tissues. And there is one component of S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating the cellular tissues of the kidneys to a healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. Thus, in cases of rheumatism, cystitis, chronic sore throat, huskiness of voice, bronchitis, asthma, and the myriad of other reflex indications of weak kidney action, first purify your blood with S. S. S. so it will enable the tissues to rebuild their cellular strength and regain their normal health.

S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep-seated or obstinate blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice. It will be worth your while to do so. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores.

The Pictures for This Booklovers' Campaign Are Made in This Way

Three members of The Journal's staff, one of whom is the Booklovers' Campaign Editor, are charged with the responsible duty of selecting the titles to be presented.

None of the three men know what titles the others have selected. Each knows only his own titles. Only the General Manager knows all of them, for he must review the titles and the pictures, see that there is no duplication of the titles selected, and make sure that the pictures clearly and plainly and fairly represent the titles.

Now the descriptions of the pictures to be drawn to represent the titles are turned over to The Journal's Art Department. Each description is numbered to correspond with the number of the title filed away with the General Manager.

For Example: The artist is told to draw a picture of a crowded street at noonday at Five Points. An officer is directing the streams of people and vehicles.

The title is not given the artist. Just a word description of the man's idea of what the picture should be to represent the book he has in mind.

The description above applies to the book entitled "Traffic," by E. Temple Thurston.

The artist does not know what title he is representing in his drawing. He draws to order, according to the written instructions given him. The Picture is then passed upon by the man who selected the title to be represented. If the picture does not quite fit the title, or if it is faulty in any way, it is changed until it fits the title perfectly.

So that's the way the pictures are drawn. Remember that the correct title is not selected to fit the picture. The picture, in every case, is drawn to fit the title.

HOKE SMITH'S EFFORTS FOR FARMERS BEAR FRUIT

Charles J. Brand Appointed
Market Commissioner, Place
Fostered by Ga. Senator

By RALPH SMITH.
WASHINGTON, May 17.—With the appointment today by secretary of agriculture of Charles J. Brand, of Illinois, as chief of the division of markets, the federal government put into operation a great constructive work for the benefit of the farmers that was initiated and pressed to a successful culmination by Senator Hoke Smith.

It was due to the initiative of the Georgian and largely to his individual efforts that congress at its last session provided an appropriation of $50,000 with which to inaugurate a market division in the department of agriculture.

"I am highly gratified that the department of agriculture has taken preliminary steps to the general work of the rural organization service with a view to helping the farmers market their crops," said Senator Smith tonight. "I have introduced at this session of congress a bill to broaden the scope and make permanent the work of the market division, but after a private hearing by the committee I have decided not to press the measure at this session. We are anxious to profit by the experiences of the experiment, the success of which is already assured."

SENATOR SMITH'S SUGGESTION.
Senator Smith first became interested in the question of a market division through his observation of the practical difficulties and the waste and unnecessary losses that the farmers shoulder in selling their crops. His suggestion of a market division in the agriculture department struck a responsive chord with the farmers' associations of the country. The Farmers' union and its officers got in behind the movement, and were a great help to Senator Smith in getting the original appropriation for this work.

Secretary Houston gave the following statement to The Journal tonight: "Mr. Brand is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and has been in the service of the department nearly ten years, coming from Chicago, where for several years he had charge of the section of plant economies of the field museum of natural history. He has been engaged in several important lines of work during his connection with the department and for the last year had charge of the farmers' cooperative cotton handling and marketing and paper plant investigation into the bureau of plant industry."

There has been an insistent and growing demand that the government take steps to help in the establishment of economic systems of distribution and marketing of farm products. Congress at the last regular session, made an appropriation of $50,000 to begin the work. We recognized that the business of farming is an important part of the market business structure of the country.

EFFECT ON PRICES.
"Somewhat better prices for the producer and lower costs or better products for the consumer and manufacturer are the aim of the work. It is a difficult one, but much good is expected. Saving in selling and handling expense and reduction of loss through waste and improper business organization will be important features of the department's activity."

While farm credits will be one of the ultimate objectives of the new service, the officials of the department say it will not be possible to do anything material in that line just now for lack of money. There is a commission abroad studying the problem. Senator Fletcher of Florida originated the idea of sending the commission. Seven members of the commission were appointed by the president, and an appropriation for their expenses was made by congress. The remainder and the larger number of the commissioners were appointed by the several states.

It is expected that the first installment of this commission's report will be ready in November, and then the government will be in position to take up the work in line with the best practice prevailing abroad.

Nearly all of the European countries have extensive rural credit systems so arranged that their credit is kept in the hands of the communities they serve. These organizations make loans smaller than would be considered by a bank and at a reasonable rate of interest.

They have done a great deal. It is claimed, to foster agricultural development abroad. David Lubin, of California, who was responsible for the founding by King Humbert of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, has been much interested in the formation of this rural bank system, and took it up at the meeting of the southern commercial congress at Louisville last summer. This congress endorsed it and furthered the appointment of the commission that now is studying the subject.

PUBLIC TARIFF HEARINGS ARRANGED BY HOKE SMITH

He and His Colleagues Reiterated Today That Hearings Are Open to Press

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 17.—Announcement today by Chairman Simmons of the finance committee that sub-committees considering the Underwood tariff bill had determined to grant more time to protesting manufacturers than at first was intended, aroused considerable interest at the capitol.

Although the effort of senate Republicans to force public hearings was defeated, minority leaders see in the changed tactics of the Democrats a concession which they claim resulted in the denunciation of secret consideration of the bill. Another interesting development was the determination of Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, a member of the sub-committee considering the cotton and chemical schedules, to have the private hearings conducted by him reported by a senate stenographer.

This is an innovation which the Republicans assert was brought about through the insistence of Senators LaFollette and Hoke Smith, who urged that the private hearings be published for the benefit of senators not on the finance committee. It also has been agreed that the finance committee will send to manufacturers the list of questions on costs and production proposed by Senator LaFollette.

Still another liberalizing feature resulting from the debate from the Penrose-LaFollette public hearing amendment, was the reiteration by Senator Hoke Smith and some of his colleagues that members of the press could attend the private hearings. Today Senator Smith conferred with other members of the committee and found they were agreeable to admitting newspaper representatives.

None of the tariff bill sub-committees held hearings today, except Senator Williams' committee which gave a brief hearing to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis and Assistant Attorney General Denison on the administration features of the bill.

"We will try to have the bill ready for the senate by June," said Senator Simmons today. "But it probably will be a little later than that owing to the fact that the sub-committees have agreed to give a little more time to the manufacturers who are protesting against the rates in the Underwood bill. They have decided to do this owing to the insistence and persistence of some of the interests affected by the bill. We already have lost a whole week because of the prolonged debate on the reference motions but the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible."

to his appeal to the public to raise a fund to bring William J. Burns here to work on the murder mystery. Subscriptions are pouring into his office, he says, and while many of them are for small amounts they show that the people generally favor the venture. Many checks have been received from persons out of the city, he says, and the total fund is now approximately $2,000.

One of the subscriptions received by Mr. Felder Saturday afternoon was from the Greek vice consulate in Atlanta, which sent him a check for $25. Mr. Felder is confident of the ability of Burns, one of whose men is now on the job, to solve the mystery within a short time.

RIOTING IS CONTINUOUS IN CINCINNATI STRIKE

Governor Refuses to Send Troops, and City Begins Re-ceivership Proceedings

CINCINNATI, O., May 17.—The refusal of Governor Cox to send troops to this city to control the strike of the employees of the Cincinnati Traction company, after spectacular riots in the early part of the day had influenced Mayor Hunt to ask for militia, was followed late today by the filing of a petition by the city of Cincinnati for a receiver for the company. Judge Georgehegan of the common pleas court before whom the action was brought, heeding pleas of attorneys for the traction company for more time in which to answer, adjourned court until Monday when he is expected to pass judgment.

Rioting was almost continuous today from the time the company attempted to operate cars until they withdrew all cars from the streets at noon. When the rioting occurred at the Brighton barns this morning probably proved the most serious, one a little later at Fourth and Vine streets was the most spectacular. Small steel beams, barrels of plaster and bags of cement were hurled upon a passing car from the upper floors of a 34 story building. The car was wrecked but no person was seriously hurt.

Members of the crew and other company employees riding on the first car out of the Brighton barns were assaulted and beaten almost into insensibility. Three of them are at a hospital in precarious conditions. Various other small riots occurred in which the crews of the cars were beaten or forced to flee.

Mayor Hunt asked Governor Cox for troops after the riot at Fourth and Vine streets. Receiving a negative answer he appealed to adjutant General Wood. When he had received no reply from the adjutant general, he directed city Solicitor Bettman to file suit for a receiver.

Governor Cox in refusing to send the militia said he had information that the police had exhausted their resources to prevent rioting. Mayor Hunt told the governor rioting was prevalent in this city and that the police were powerless to cope with the situation in case anything like a regular schedule was attempted by the traction company.

Tonight the system is completely tied up and the strikers appear content.

No Advance Made in Negotiations Over Bill
WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Japanese negotiations over the California alien land bill have not advanced during the last twenty-four hours, and there is no expectation at the state department or at the Japanese embassy that there will be any developments in the immediate future.

Governor Johnson has not signed the bill, so far as official Washington is advised, and that appears to be the necessary condition precedent to the resumption of the negotiations.

The officials are doing everything they can to disclose sensational stories of strained relations between the two countries, and Secretary Bryan again today admonished newspaper callers against speculating as to the government's policies. Mr. Bryan had a long conference with President Wilson, but it was said the relations between the United States and Japan were not discussed, although it was presumed at first that the conference was for this purpose.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a splendid medicine for catarrh diseases, as it is a remedial agent for all the mucous membranes of the body. Read what it did for Mrs. Susie E. Hall:

"I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past six months for catarrh of the nose and throat, and the result is fine. My brother said it was the best and purest medicine on the market, not only for catarrh, but for consumption (for which he was using it) and a great many other diseases. After trying it I know it to be a great strength restorer and nerve tonic. It gives me a fine appetite, restores and nerve tonic. It gives me a fine appetite, restores and nerve tonic.

I shall always keep a bottle in the house in case of emergencies such as grip, spasmodic croup, cholera infantum and other diseases which appear in a hurry. I recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and to any one who writes me I will be only too glad to tell them the good I have obtained through its medicinal properties." Mrs. Susie E. Hall, 2546 W. 25th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

To restore health, to get strength, vigor, energy, to be able to resist disease, you should take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It is a wonderfully effective aid to digestion.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY, by druggists, grocers and dealers. eastern division came as a surprise to the members of congress. "The faithful, fearless and able service rendered your state and country has attracted attention far and wide," reads the resolution of the eastern division grand jury, which resolution of course was directed to Judge Speer. It continues:

"No judge has rendered nobler service, no one has striven harder to do his full duty without respect to persons. We have noted with pleasure the manner in which even-handed justice is administered by this court."

The grand jury of the western division was not less laudatory in its praise of Judge Speer, as instance the following extract:

"We remember with appreciation the reform of court and jury body following your accession to the office."

The grand jurors of the northeastern division declared that "we feel indeed fortunate in having a judge of so much ability and learning to preside over its courts, and view with alarm the rumor that an attempt will be made to divide the district."

by Thaw and Dr. Russell, and had acted honestly as Thaw's counsel. In charging the jury, however, the court said Thaw's testimony should be given careful consideration. Thaw said on the stand that he sent Anhut $25,000 when the defendant told him he had talked with Dr. Russell, and that the physician had promised to see that Thaw was released. Dr. Russell said that Anhut tried to bribe him with a $20,000 offer.

BAPTISTS WILL GIVE 17 MILLIONS FOR MISSIONS

Committee So Recommends.
Georgia Baptists to Give Ninety Thousand

BY REV. ALEX W. BEALER.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 17.—The committee on apportionment has recommended that the Baptists of the south shall contribute for missions during the coming year the sum of $17,078,250. Of this sum $446,500 is to be raised for foreign missions and $13,578,750 is to be raised for home missions.

Georgia Baptists will be asked to give $9,000 of this for foreign missions and $60,000 for home missions. The convention will have submitted to it the proposition to appoint an educational board with a secretary for propagating denominational education. A committee will be appointed to examine into the minutes of the report next year. The proposition is meeting with disfavor. It will hardly be carried out, as many of the brethren are opposed to the establishment of any other boards at this time.

The convention on motion of Dr. John P. White, of Atlanta, adopted a resolution to appoint a committee of seven to look into the methods of the convention and see if they are in keeping with the times in which we live. Dr. Burrows objected to the resolution because he thought it was not fair to the secretaries of the convention. It was beyond the grasp of his mental calibre, he said. Dr. White explained that the resolution only looked to making more effective the convention in its work. This resolution was only to make the machinery of the convention more in keeping with the age in which we live than that of the age in which our fathers lived. It looked only to the enlargement of the convention which was running under the rules that were in force forty years ago.

The morning session of the convention was spent in considering the interest of the Sunday school board at Nashville. The chief interest of the session was centered about the proposition to do away with the international Sunday school lessons.

For the last fifty years the evangelist denominations have been using a uniform Sunday school lesson. For a number of years there has been a growing sentiment that the Baptists should prepare an independent series of lessons for themselves.

A committee was appointed last year to consider the matter. Dr. E. G. Dargan, of Macon, Ga., read the report of the committee. Its findings were that the convention was not yet ready to take action. There is a strong possibility that the lessons may be reconstructed as to permit the Baptists to accept certain portions of them to meet the needs which they all feel.

The committee is aware that other methods for solving the question have been suggested, in view of the progress already made and advances already in sight, and the present uncertainty as to how they may gain the great end all are seeking.

The committee urges that nothing radical be done, but that all shall seek the best way of teaching the Scriptures of the living God.

S. E. Tulle, of Kentucky, presented a memorial from the general association of Kentucky asking that the convention take steps to prepare its own Sunday school lessons. Dr. Tulle made a striking speech, in which he urged that the convention should see that lessons to be taught to children of Baptist parents by Baptist teachers should be approved and prepared by orthodox Baptists.

He was followed by Dr. K. R. Samuels, of the Baptist members of the international lesson committee. He gave a history of the movement and expressed it as his firm conviction that we should not alienate others who loved the Lord Jesus Christ, but that we should affiliate with them as far as possible. Some were asked why there was a lesson of Christmas and Easter. The reply that many Baptists demanded this, but the Baptists had arranged for a different lesson on those occasions.

Dr. J. B. Gambrell, of Texas, was called for by the convention. He said some of the best friends he ever had were Catholics.

"All of them were not Catholics," he said. "We ought to be Baptists but nice Baptists." He declared that the day of the reformation of the uniform lesson was over.

"They would not go away at once but would gradually disappear like the wrinkles on the horns of a yearling." He believed that no child ought to reach the age of seven years without knowing about God, Christ, Baptism and church membership.

"The graded lessons in the international series were moving in our direction and we ought to be patient. We ought to co-operate as far as possible with other Christian denominations."

Dr. H. W. Virgin, of Tennessee, declared that Baptists were not as strong as they used to be, their orthodoxy was being sapped and it was due largely to the international uniform series of lessons, he said.

Mr. George W. Truett, of Texas, asked the brethren not to be hasty. It was best for the Baptists to co-operate as far as possible with other religious bodies. In all the other denominations there were Baptists, but it had never occurred to them that they were. We should not drive them off but we should work with them just as far as possible and in this way many of them may be brought where they belong. We are brethren with all who love Jesus Christ.

Dr. I. J. Vanness, of the Sunday school board, said that the board would adopt the graded lessons for the intermediate department to the Baptist needs thus seeking to put doctrinal emphasis where it was needed. The report of the committee was adopted, leaving the question to be brought up again next year. The delegates and their visitors were given a ride over the city this afternoon in twenty street cars and eighty-five automobiles.

NO FREE CONCERT AT AUDITORIUM TODAY

There will be no free concert at the auditorium-armory this afternoon, owing to the fact that the building is occupied by the Presbyterian assembly. It is expected that the free concert will be resumed next Sunday, and due notice will be given the public.

Important concerts by the Atlanta Music Festival chorus are also being planned for the summer.

"SKY-PILOT TO THE LUMBER-JACKS"

FRANK E. HIGGINS.
Famous missionary, who is attending the U. S. A. assembly sessions.

One of the most picturesque figures at the assemblies of the Presbyterian church, also one of the most earnest and convincing, is Rev. F. E. Higgins, who is superintendent of a logging camp in Mississippi as well as a minister of the Gospel.

He is really the "sky pilot of the Lumber Jacks." Mr. Higgins roughs it with the lumbermen, lives their out-of-door life, works with them shoulder to shoulder, and preaches to them the religion of the golden rule.

He is a stalwart preacher, a man who is used to snow shoes, to tack-laws, and to camp life, as well as to the pulpit; but he is also one of the most eloquent ministers of the Presbyterian church.

He has a heartiness and a force that he has brought with him from the lumber camps, and a picturesque manner that makes him interesting and distinctive, even among such an unusual gathering as that of the Presbyterian assemblies.

Other delegates are earnest and well known ministers. He is the "Lumber Jack's Sky Pilot."

Mr. Higgins will preach this morning at 11 o'clock at North Avenue Presby-

Five-Year-Old Tot Plants His Mother's Pearls For Beans

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Charles Fredrick Von Glahn, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Von Glahn, of Berlin, Germany, has original ideas in horticulture. The young disciple of Luther Burbanks was caught by his nurse on the roof garden of a prominent Broadway hotel yesterday planting his mother's $8,000 string of pearls in one of the flower boxes.

Young Charles had seen workmen on the roof planting some large round seeds. He stole to his mother's room and obtained her string of forty pearls from her jewel box. He had several of them planted when the nurse found him. They were all recovered.

MINERS WILLING TO TESTIFY TO SENATE

Senator Kern Has Many Letters Alleging Peonage in West Virginia Mines

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—More than a thousand letters, petitions and telegrams have been placed on Senator Kern's office desk urging the passage of his resolution for inquiry into the condition in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek coal mine region of West Virginia.

Today the senator received a letter from a man in New York, who wrote that he had been induced to go into the West Virginia mines under false representations, compelled to pay his own expenses and to get away, was forced to steal his way out to avoid the mine guards. The man offered to testify.

Action on the Kern resolution is expected Monday after Senator Goff completes his argument against it.

OAKLAND, Cal., May 17.—Harold E. Magill, city clerk committed suicide today by leaping 200 feet from the fourteenth story of the new city hall to the roof of a lower part of the same building.

Magill obtained a permit to go to the roof and while the permit was being prepared asked the clerk if he thought a man could drop 200 feet and be conscious on striking. He told one of his associates yesterday that he had not slept for three weeks and had walked miles in an attempt to tire himself out that he might gain some rest.

Man Dies in Cell As Jury Votes to Hang For Murder

ALMA, Kan., May 17.—Paul Roberts, on trial for the murder of Anthony King, a restaurant keeper, was found dead in his cell today.

The case went to the jury last night, and the judge instructed that if a verdict was reached it should be delivered this morning. The jury room was directly over Roberts' cell, and it is thought Roberts heard the jury proclaim him guilty of first degree murder and drank poison. The verdict was read in court today.

GOV. BROWN OFFERS REWARDS FOR LYNCHERS

Acts on His Own Initiative in Heard and Columbia County Cases

Governor Brown Saturday afternoon offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of every person who participated in the recent lynchings of negroes in Heard and Columbia counties. The governor acted on his own initiative in offering these rewards, the sheriffs of the two counties named not having requested him to do so.

On May 5, John Henry Moore was taken from jail at Appling, Columbia county, and lynched by a mob. He had been arrested near Martinez, in that county, for marauding, and it was charged that he tried to kill the sheriff when he was taken in custody.

The other lynching occurred on May 13 at Franklin, Heard county, and Sam Owens was the victim. He had been killed for the murder of Brooks Lane, a prominent white man.

These are said to be the only lynchings which have occurred in Georgia this year. Following each Governor Brown communicated with the sheriff of each county and inquired if he desired him to offer rewards for the lynchings. He also requested them to furnish him with official statements concerning the lynchings. Both of the sheriffs supplied detailed information, but neither recommended that rewards be offered.

It was then that the governor, acting on his own motion, offered the rewards. If the proclamations Governor Brown takes occasion to remark:

"The state's process for enforcing her laws is definite and complete. She has not abdicated the power to apply that process nor does she permit her power to be usurped by any person or combination of persons. She does not concede that anarchy in any form nor to any degree shall supplant her statutes."

GOV. BROWN APPOINTS BOARDS OF VISITORS

Governor Brown Saturday morning announced the appointment of new boards of visitors to the state university at Athens, school for the deaf at Cave Spring, and Georgia academy for the blind, at Macon. They are as follows:

Dr. Strickler, who has come to the city to attend the assembly, is a professor of systematic theology in Union Theological seminary, Richmond, Va.

Dr. R. M. Russell, moderator of the U. P. assembly, will preach in Dr. Ogden's pulpit Sunday morning. Before the young women's Bible class in the Sunday school an address will be made by Rev. A. J. Phillips, general superintendent of the Sunday schools of the Southern Presbyterian church.

COMMISSION HAS POWER OVER GAS COMPANIES

Judge James K. Hines, special attorney to the state railroad commission, has rendered an opinion to the commission which he holds that it has the authority to compel a gas company to enlarge its plant and extend its lines, provided the contemplated improvements are justified by reasonable conditions.

During the past few months a number of complaints have been filed with the commission from Georgia cities, notably Atlanta and Savannah, in which the complainants sought an order from the commission to compel the gas companies to extend their mains into streets hitherto unserved.

AGENT RECEIVES NOTE ON DAY MISSING MAN DIED

On Thursday morning A. M. Conway, of the Royal Casualty company, received a note from Florida, near Smyrna, signed F. A. Garrity, in which the writer stated that his mother had been heard from her son, John E. Garrity, for six years, stating further that she held a policy issued to him, No. 279,322.

That night J. E. Garrity, an engineer on the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, died in a local hospital. Mr. Conway at once notified the family, as soon as he read the Friday papers of the man's death.

An Editorial to Your and Our Friends---The Doctors

Atlanta has every right to be proud of the physicians who attend her health.

It is largely due to their watchfulness that Atlanta is as healthy a city as it is. It is directly due to their skill and knowledge and enterprise that Atlanta is now considered the medical center of the South, that patients travel from the borders of the South to consult with her specialists; that she has such splendid, well equipped hospitals and sanitariums.

But it is to the family physician to whom we would speak directly.

There are hundreds of you in Fulton county engaged in the conservation of the health of 200,000 or more people.

Your responsibility is very great.

And the responsibility that the filling of your prescriptions entails is great.

We speak as prescription druggists, who are keenly alive to all this. In proof whereof we might submit---that our Prescription Departments are in the hands of men of intelligence, experience, judgment and ability---that these men are in hearty sympathy with the policies that rule our stores. They know that between right and wrong there is no twilight, there is only one way to fill a prescription, and that is to make it exactly as the doctor has written it. Nothing "just as good" will do; it must be just what is asked for even to the minutest portion of a grain.

We do not mean that we have "cornered" honesty, that is impossible with all the fine drug stores in Atlanta. We domean the prescriptions left with us are sure to be right, and that prices will be as low as is consistent with the use of only pure, fresh drugs.

It is this kind of stationery that we have gathered here for your choosing—good taste stationery—nothing bizarre or flashy rather, neat; and still many novelties, but novelties that have come to stay—because they are a little more attractive and distinctive than the stationery generally shown.

DECATUR, County Seat of DeKalb County, Is

Decatur

The town of Decatur and the county seat of DeKalb are attracting more attention than any section in Georgia outside of Atlanta.

The reasons for this are many. Atlanta is growing rapidly, and land is growing dear, and the question is, where can a man of moderate means live, and at the same time be conveniently located for his business, and raise his family where they will have the social life they desire; and above all, where his children may be educated.

In this respect Decatur is ideal. It is one of the oldest towns in North Georgia, and its ideal life and traditions are the best.

Its schools are famous. Agnes Scott College—founded by a Decatur citizen—now ranks among the first colleges in America. The Public School System provides for four high school grades, preparing boys and girls for the best colleges in the country. There are approximately 600 children in the public schools, and by Fall the new $25,000 school building will be completed. This will make three buildings, thereby providing the best facilities for educating the young of any town in the South twice its size.

In other respects Decatur has more than kept abreast of the times. To put it briefly, read this, and while you read, THINK!

Population, 3,600.

5 miles cherted streets.

$40,000 new street work now under way.

18 miles tile sidewalks.

11 miles water mains.

14 miles sewers.

2 street car lines.

1 railroad.

Electric lights.

Gas in the near future.

$100,000 hotel contemplated.

2 banks and a dozen or more stores.

And

Atlanta only 25 minutes away!

All of these go to make Decatur the ideal residence town.

Decatur also offers inducements to the investor. Conditions have made it logical. It is the county seat of one of the richest counties in the state. It is the center of a splendid system of paved roads. You can reach Atlanta by three automobile routes.

Atlanta itself is partly in DeKalb, and its best development is positively right toward Decatur.

That Decatur is being gradually filled with beautiful homes is manifest, but few realize that one of the most splendid approaches is being provided by the Druid Hills Company, right up to the corporate limits of Decatur, and that the town of Decatur is completing it to the courthouse.

Decatur and DeKalb county real estate is enhancing in value because of the rapid growth of Atlanta. It has the added advantage of being in the center of an interesting and important civic movement. Write—

WHY HOMESEEKERS ARE GOING TO DECATUR

Conditions as Seen by a Non-Resident of That Popular Suburb—Points That Attract

By S. S. HOWLE.

Does Decatur as a town and as a residential suburb of Atlanta, prove equal to all the good things that have been said in the advertising campaign of the board of trade of that place? So strong have been the claims made in these advertisements, during the past few weeks, that hundreds of Journal readers have been asking the above questions. The writer has been doing some personal investigation that is, he has been getting first-hand facts on Decatur. It is his opinion that there has been no exaggeration made in the copy that has been running in The Journal for the board of trade. If I may offer criticism it would be to say that the copy has not been strong enough and that there are many things about Decatur that have been left untold. There are really so many attractive features about the place that words fail to imply their meaning and one, to really appreciate the place, must do as I did, go see for themselves.

Only an Imaginary Line Separates Decatur From Atlanta.

Every town and community lays strong claim to "ideal location." It matters not what the attitude and climatic conditions are they all make this time worn claim. So I am not going to say that Decatur is an ideal residence section, but will prove it by bold facts.

In the first place Decatur is really a part of Atlanta, even if the citizens will not admit it. There is really a good reason why they will not claim themselves a part of the Gate City. It is this. They are proud of Decatur. They like Atlanta, her citizens, her commercial enterprises and the Atlanta spirit, but like the name of Decatur better than that of Atlanta. But I am digressing. After all there is only an imaginary line between Atlanta and Decatur, from a territorial standpoint. To be convinced of this fact board a trolley car on Edgewood avenue at Five Points, ride for twenty-five minutes and you will land in the very heart of Decatur. Unless you know exactly where the inconceivable line is you will not know when you are outside Atlanta and when in Decatur. I mean by this that there is a solid row of residences from the time you strike Inman Park until you are in Decatur.

Another way of convincing yourself of the closeness of Decatur to Atlanta is to go in an automobile from the center of Atlanta out Peachtree street, then into Ponce de Leon avenue out through Druid Hills. It is the same story here as by car line. Unless you know or some one points out the lines to you there will be no knowledge of passing out of the one into the other.

Closeness to Atlanta Makes Decatur Desirable.

The point that I wish to make by pointing out the above fact is this, Decatur, while not an acknowledged part of the city, is so close that it has every advantage of a city and still is void of the many disadvantages. Many of the citizens are found among Atlanta's best-known business men. They live in Decatur for its educational and social advantages and do business in Atlanta because of its commercial advantages.

Decatur is uniquely located from a geographical standpoint. It is the county seat of DeKalb county, but with this, the splendid court house there stands just six miles from that of Fulton county and the same distance from the state capitol building.

But with its nearness to the center of Atlanta, the town of Decatur needs no smoke chimneys. Why should they have such laws? There are no factories. It is a community of residences and pretty homes. A place of quietude and rest for the weary man who desires to get away from the busy affairs of the great commercial centers of Atlanta.

Vital Questions Answered.

Where shall I make my home? Where bring up the children? Where can I best educate my children? Each of these are vital questions to every father and mother. These very questions should be correctly answered before the permanent home is purchased.

Where can I find a community enjoying all of these advantages, yet subject to none of the disadvantages of a large city? As I have already said, sooner or later these questions arise in the minds of men who desire to live in comfort; to bring up and educate their children to the best advantage and under healthful conditions; to enjoy the best of social conditions along with modern conveniences usually found in large cities, and at the same time live near the open country and in clean country air, while being close enough to a city to enable them to carry on their business or professional duties without inconvenience.

Can and does Decatur fill every one of these requirements? Here are the facts, answer for yourself. Decatur is only six miles from Atlanta. Reached by two splendid electric lines. Connected with Atlanta by a network of splendid highways and automobile drives. Located on an elevation higher by fifty feet than Atlanta. One modern $20,000 high school building, completed a year ago, and another that will cost a like amount to be finished by September 1, and that great southern college, Agnes Scott, almost in the center of town, offer unexcelled advantages. Churches of every denomination. A citizenship of refined and cultured people. Paved and cherted streets. The citizens enjoy to the fullest extent the best of municipal improvements, such as an abundant supply of pure water, a modern and ample sewerage system, electric lights, tile sidewalks, etc. Beautiful trees, flowers and rose gardens, the gifts of Nature, add to the beautiful freshness and picturesqueness and the perfect environment.

Such are some of the advantages that are offered in Decatur. Is it your ideal location? Is it your ideal for a home?

Standard of Citizenship. I was impressed with the splendid citizenship of Decatur. While it is the home of many wealthy people, my impression was that they do not measure the worth of a citizen there by the amount of money he has—not by the dollar unit—but by his character. Decatur is a community of splendid moral environment. Manhood counts there, and if a man measures up to their high moral standard, such person is cordially received and given the proper place in the social affairs of his community.

Why Decatur Is Well Known. The citizens of Decatur have not been slow to realize the natural advantages of their town for a residence.

section. That outsiders might know of this, the board of trade was organized. This organization is composed of some 150 representative citizens who are interested solely in the work of making Decatur an ideal home or residence section. Unlike similar organizations in the majority of communities, it is not seeking to locate in its midst business enterprises or manufacturing plants. As an organization, it works constantly with a surprising amount of energy and progressive spirit for the extension of municipal improvements and the location of desirable "home builders." It is this cooperation that is building Decatur. It is an example of thrift and enterprise that might well be followed by other towns and even large cities.

Agnes Scott College.
Today Decatur is known all over the union as the seat of Agnes Scott college, an institution ranking among the very best colleges for young women in the United States.

This institution is splendidly equipped for the great work it has undertaken for the higher education of the women, both in the excellent dormitories, laboratories, library, and other buildings that have been erected upon its spacious campus, but especially in the highly trained men and women who compose its faculty. This institution draws its patronage not only from every state of the south, but from many northern and western states as well, and the presence of the college in Decatur has induced many of the most desirable families to make their homes in the town.

Educational Advantages.
To the family in which there are children the importance of living where there are good and ample school facilities cannot be overestimated; and in this particular Decatur is ahead of almost any community that can be mentioned. The people of Decatur have always laid great emphasis upon the importance of education, and even in the early history of the town, it was famous for its schools.

Donald Fraser School.
The Donald Fraser high school, for boys, plays an important part in the educational facilities of Decatur, preparing, as it does, students for the best colleges and universities of the country, and supplementing in a most admirable manner the public school system of Decatur.

Public Schools.
More than three hundred white boys and girls attend the public school, where they are taught by a faculty of nine or ten in a modern school building, recently erected from the proceeds of a bond issue for that purpose.

Kindergarten.
The Woman's club of Decatur supports in connection with the public schools a free kindergarten, which is highly appreciated by the people of the town.

In addition to these school facilities, consisting of a free kindergarten, a modern public school system, the Donald Fraser high school for boys, and Agnes Scott college for girls, the boys and girls of Decatur enjoy the advantages offered by the many educational institutions of Atlanta, such as the Georgia School of Technology, and the various professional and business colleges of this city. These institutions, on account of Decatur's excellent street car service, are as accessible to the people of Decatur as they are to the people of the resident sections of Atlanta itself, so it can be fairly claimed that the residents of Decatur enjoy the advantages not only of its own educational institutions, but of the educational advantages of the great city of Atlanta, with its many schools, colleges, lecture courses, musical associations, and other refining and uplifting influences characterizing any modern city.

A Review of Real Estate Conditions.
Decatur real estate offers some remarkable opportunities. While the development in and surrounding the town has been phenomenal it has not brought about "boom" prices. The growth might be termed steady but rapid. Property valuations have increased considerably over that of two or three years ago, but considering the location and advantages of the town, the prices asked for lots and homes there are perhaps lower than that of any other section within a radius of ten miles around Atlanta.

It seems that there are unusual opportunities for home buyers as well as for the investment seeker. Perhaps one reason for the lowness in prices is the fact that the entire surroundings were not controlled by one large estate. Those who owned the lands were willing to sell for moderate prices, realizing that with each sale made their other holdings would increase in value. The growth and development of Decatur has attracted the best of Atlanta's real estate men, as will be observed from the advertisers on these pages. The list includes E. P. Ansley, Foster & Robson, J. M. Worsham, manager of the Decatur department of W. E. Treadwell & Co.; L. P. Bottenfield, Chalton Barrett and E. Rivers Realty company.

Stone Mountain Car Line Opens Up Valuable Territory.

One of the latest developments along the route of the Stone Mountain car line is Altoloma, situated about two miles beyond Decatur on the Georgia railroad. The new car line is expected to be operating cars by September 1, and Altoloma has a double frontage on the new line. This entire property contains about 155 acres, and is being subdivided into one-quarter acre to five acre tracts, and is being promoted by W. P. Cole, of 1408 Candler building, who has made subdivisions a specialty for the past ten years. Unusually attractive terms have been arranged for the accommodation of purchasers, and the property's transportation facilities, together with its large lots and attractive terms should meet with the ready approval of the investing public.

Electric Lights and Power.
In the development of Decatur as a residential and commercial center, no influence is more potent than that of the electric light and power company now serving the territory with these vital elements of growth and progress. The Decatur Electric Light, Power and Water company is an adjunct of the Georgia Railway and Power company, of Atlanta, and the same high character of service and the same reasonableness of rates as those prevailing in the Capital City are to be found in Decatur.

MAYOR REITERATES HIS CHARGES ARE TRUE ONES

Explains Veto of Cummings Report—Grand Jury Welcome to Evidence

Mayor Woodward on yesterday made public the text of a message he has prepared to send to the city council, in which he throws further light on his action in vetoing the report of the council committee which exonerated Chief Cummings from charges made against him.

Mayor Woodward reiterates that his accusations are true. In one message the mayor says:

"Because one man or department has gone along and conducted its business contrary to the city charter, does not justify the other in doing the same thing. It would be the justification for a band of burglars to burglarize a bank because another band had burglarized the same bank the week before."

The mayor then reviewed his charges. He says the evidence can be had by the grand jury if it wants it. His message follows:

TEXT OF MESSAGE.
Atlanta, Ga., May 17, 1913.
To the General Council, City of Atlanta.

Gentlemen: I have declined to put my seal of approval upon the actions of the committee appointed to investigate charges or statements that I had made in a veto message to your honorable body, because of the fact that I am more thoroughly convinced, since attending some of the meetings of that committee and hearing the evidence given, that I was entirely correct in every statement made therein.

All the accusations made by me were absolutely correct and are borne out by the records of the city, and if the investigation had been conducted upon lines with a desire to ferret out and get good results, the city would have been the beneficiary. But the report of the committee shows that it was the intention of that body to excuse and palliate.

There can be no excuse for violating a city law. Because one man, or one department, has gone along and conducted its business contrary to the city charter, does not justify another in doing the same thing. It would be no justification for a band of burglars to burglarize a bank because another band had burglarized the same bank the week before. While this may be a strong comparison, I have no desire to appear offensive or harsh.

BIDS ON ENGINE.

As to the matter of bidding on a fire engine last October, I stated that the city could have gotten a good or better engine for less money. There was a letter resented at that meeting of the board of fire masters offering a 10 per cent discount on one of the engines and the only excuse that was offered was that no member of the board read the letter making the 10 per cent discount. That being true, it is evident that the board of fire masters of last year were not as thorough in their work as they should have been. Your committee, in an apologetic way, admits the truth of the accusation of this part of my message.

As to the question of buying fire hose for the past twelve years, as plainly by the records of the city, that for the first six years, in Chief Joyner's administration, that he received a rebate of 10 per cent on every foot of 2 1/2 inch standard hose that he bought. This was a special rebate made to him, but he turned it into the city treasury. During the past six years, under Chief Cummings' administration, with the same quality of hose being bought, there has not been a rebate of any amount. The statement of the city treasurer that during the last six years there was less hose bought than there was during the Joyner administration, does not prove that the city should not have received the same discount. If the committee had desired, it could have satisfied itself by the records of the city treasurer. The projected tariff, which seems intended to subsidize American ship and American shipping, violates twenty treaties, yet I still hope that France and the United States will be able to arrange a practical agreement.

M. Lebon, former commerce commissioner, regretted that the United States, although professing the desire to live on good terms with all the world, does not give any practical proofs of this to France.

Former Foreign Minister Hanotaux and former Commerce Minister Delombré were at the meeting.

to pay that voucher, that the $9,000 warrant was deposited in the bank on April 24, 1912, and that Mr. Davidson drew his personal check for $400 on April 25, 1912. This is borne out by the check that was presented in evidence and by the stub book from which the check was drawn and both appearing on the 25th day of April, 1912. It will be seen by this that there were only three days in which the financial part of the transaction was consummated. This certainly bears the earmarks of a transaction that was to be settled up as soon as the engine was paid for.

TWO WOODWARD

In conclusion, it further appears, from reading the report of the committee, that they are inclined to discredit nearly all of the evidence that was given at their hearings that tended to cast reflection upon the manner in which the business of the city had been carried on in the fire department, both by the board of fire masters and the chief of that department, when in fact, absolute perjury can be proven on one witness, if not more, that appeared on that side of the case. All of the statements that are made in this communication can be verified by evidence and records, and if it should be the desire of the grand jury to handle this matter, the same shall be furnished them.

I desire to emphatically state that there is not one word of this whole transaction intended to offend any one, but I consider it my duty in the transaction of the business of my office to let the people know how their business is being carried on, and I further regard any man that would allow his personal feelings to enter into his public work, an unsafe man to serve the public.

Respectfully,
J. G. WOODWARD, Mayor.

FRENCH DEPUTY DISLIKES UNDERWOOD TARIFF BILL

Gerald Expresses Objections to Administrative Clauses. His Reasons

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, May 17.—The Underwood tariff bill, as far as it relates to French industry, was energetically condemned today at a meeting of the National Association of Industry and Commerce.

Deputy Georges Gerald expressed his objection to the bill's administrative clauses, which instead of relieving the great hindrances which he declared exist in trading in the United States, increased them arbitrarily.

"When Mr. Underwood and his friends say they are only applicable to professional defrauders," said Gerald, "this affirmation is not sufficient for French exporters, who already know too much about the administration of the American tariff."

"The world has seen how the United States by its Panama canal act has violated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and how the state of California has violated the United States treaty with Japan," said Deputy Gerald. "The projected tariff, which seems intended to subsidize American ship and American shipping, violates twenty treaties, yet I still hope that France and the United States will be able to arrange a practical agreement."

THE GENEALOGIST

By Mrs. Minnie E. Hogan

(The Origin of the Presbyterian Church.)

The people of Georgia, and especially of Atlanta, can never fully realize the great blessing that has been conferred upon them in the assembly of this great Presbyterian gathering of Christian men and women. The influence of this association will be felt for many years to come. How well I recall the fiftieth anniversary of the Southern Presbyterian church, celebrated in the auditorium, and the day that great throng of ten thousand people gathered to praise God in prayer and song. It was one of the most impressive gatherings ever held in Atlanta. There were many I recall who have since made their last journey, to receive "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Now we have this great Presbyterian convention, the largest that has ever been held in the whole world, a union of strength. You people of Atlanta and Georgia have received a blessing indeed. Among this noble throng there is none other more beloved and appreciated by his southern and national friends than Rev. Richard Clark Reed, D. D., LL. D.

"The Rev. Dr. Reed was born at Harrison, Tenn., January 1, 1851. He graduated at King college, Bristol, Tenn. (A. B., 1873), and at Union Theological Seminary, Hampton-Sidney, Va., 1876. He became pastor at Charlotte Court House, Va., 1877; Franklin, Tenn., 1885; of the Second Presbyterian church, Charlotte, N. C., 1892. Since 1898 he has been professor of church history in the Presbyterian Theological seminary at Columbia, S. C. In theology he is conservative, loyal to the Calvinistic system as contained in the Westminster standard." Dr. Reed missed being elected moderator of the southern assembly by only a single vote, and his friends feel he would have possibly tied with Dr. Stone had they all been present to cast their votes for him.

In Dr. Reed's "History of the Presbyterian Church of the World," he has given the clearest and most instructive view of the origin of this great denomination, showing his conservative loyalty to John Calvin's teachings. It begins with the year 1536 in Geneva, Switzerland, when "William Farel, a Frenchman of robust and resolute character, was the first to preach Reform doctrine in Geneva." He wrote: "The Romanist priest on learning the presence of Farel, took immediate steps to rid the city of his pestiferous influence. Honoring him with the title of Devil, they very soon had their emissaries handling him with violence and defiance with spite. The brave preacher escaped, to return again in two years, and defend the truth of God against all comers. He held his ground this time and was permitted to see the citizens, assemble in general council, in the cathedral of St. Peter, lift up their hands and swear that they wished to live in accordance with the Holy Scriptures." This oath was taken on the 24th of May, 1536, and marks the first decisive victory for the reform faith.

"Later on, in that same year of 1536, Calvin essayed to pass through Geneva. He was on his way to seek refuge for a second time in the city of Massel. He had planned a quiet life of literary labor, a life congenial to his taste, and suited to his reserved and shrinking disposition. Farel heard of his being in the city. He believed that Calvin was just the man to aid him in his arduous and perilous task of making the reformation thorough and permanent in Geneva. He hastened to see him and lay the matter before him. Calvin was not at all inclined to such a sphere of labor. Farel, growing more and more earnest, finally invoked a curse on him if he persisted in his refusal. Calvin's conscience was aroused and took sides with Farel, and then, as ever, he put inclination aside, and yielded to that sterner monitor."

"From the first he and Farel set before themselves, as the aim of their efforts, practical righteousness. They sought reformation of doctrine in order to reformation of life. Taking the people at their word, they began, not only to teach them that law of God, by which they had sworn to order their lives, but also to constrain them to keep their oath. Calvin prepared a confession of faith. The Calvin council demanded that all the citizens should swear allegiance to it. The magistrates were first required to take the oath. Those who refused were dismissed. Each magistrate was required to administer the oath to all the people in his district. Those who resisted were excommunicated, and banished. The effort to carry this severe measure into effect was a practical failure. Opposition to the zealous reformers grew. The civil council changed sides, and favored those who advocated lax discipline. It enjoined the preachers to administer the communion to all, irrespective of character. This the preachers positively refused to do. The result was their banishment when they had labored together only two years."

"After a short while the people repented. They preferred Calvin and his rigid discipline to the wild disorder that sprang up and developed in his absence. At length he consented, but only on condition that the people should submit to the exercise of discipline. He entered the city again in September, 1541, amidst general rejoicing. Of once he took refuge in Geneva, where he remained over a wide area, and in 1796 founding the General Presbytery of America at Philadelphia, of which he was chosen the first moderator. What history has been written by Presbyterians between the meeting of the little assembly of 1796 and the three great gatherings in Atlanta in 1913!

Certain distinctive Presbyterian qualities gave Makemie his pre-eminence. He was not the first Presbyterian clergyman to land on these American shores. Others had been before him; and other congregations, of a semi-independent or semi-Episcopal character, had been formed. But it remained for this young Irishman, who had been ordained by the light of the fires of persecution and at a time when Presbyterians in Ireland and Scotland were being harried and hunted like wild beasts, to erect a church after the strict manner of Scotland; and then to gather Presbyterians from all the scattered members and groups of the same order into one body, and subject to the law of the Presbyterian church. The old Presbyterian passion for civil and religious liberty flamed brightly in young Makemie's breast, and he stoutly contended, by tongue and pen, for the principles which have since become peculiarly American, as they then were Presbyterian."

What a lot of unlicked kicks the average man has coming to him. After a woman makes up her mind she does something else.

THIEVES ROB TOWNS AND SELL GOODS TO FENCES

Three Kansas and One Missouri Town Robbed by Experts—One Under Arrest

PARSONS, Kas., May 17.—Thieves have robbed stores in a half dozen Oklahoma towns of thousands of dollars worth of goods and disposed of their loot to "fences" in Parsons, Wichita, Kansas, and Joplin, Mo., in the last six weeks, according to the Parsons police.

The finding of a great quantity of the stolen Oklahoma goods in the second hand store of Joseph Mermelstein here yesterday led to his arrest and arraignment on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

A negro arrested at Claremore, Okla., was said to have confessed selling the goods to Mermelstein and to have given the names of several of his confederates.

J. H. Jimer, secretary of the Merchants Association of Vinita, Okla., and S. R. Briscoe, manager of a store recently robbed at Welch, Okla., identified apart of the Mermelstein goods as stolen from Vinita and Welch.

name which abides in brightest luster, so that even the unlettered natives know it. It is that of Francis Makemie, the young Irish Presbyterian minister who landed on the peninsula in 1683, and straightway set up at Rehoboth the first thoroughly organized Presbyterian church, later extending his labors over a wide area, and in 1796 founding the General Presbytery of America at Philadelphia, of which he was chosen the first moderator. What history has been written by Presbyterians between the meeting of the little assembly of 1796 and the three great gatherings in Atlanta in 1913!

RECEPTION FOR VISITING VETERANS MONDAY NIGHT

Atlanta Camp 159, U. C. V., Will Entertain at State Capitol

Northern and southern veterans of the civil war who are in Atlanta to attend the four big Presbyterian assemblies have accepted the invitation of Atlanta camp 159, U. C. V., to meet with it Monday evening in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol.

In addition to a number of informal speeches a musical program will be rendered. Mrs. Albert Spaulding will lead the veterans in singing old-time songs. Members of the various other Atlanta camps will also participate in the meeting.

PROBATION BILL SLATED FOR THE LEGISLATURE

Is Measure Giving Criminal Court Judges Power to Suspend Sentence

The bill giving all criminal court judges in Georgia legal authority to suspend sentence, and giving counties the right there they deem it wise to appoint probation officers, which lacked only 13 votes of becoming a law last year, will be re-introduced this June in the legislature.

The measure has the sanction of the private association of Georgia, and the changes which it provides for have been endorsed by practically all the superior court judges in the state. The object of the bill is, of course, to eliminate initial injustice in the case of the individual offender at the time he comes up for trial.

It is contended that no matter how upright the judges and officials may be, a certain proportion of injustice is bound to creep in, due to the system under which people accused of a crime, or misdemeanor, particularly minor offenders, are hurried through the courts to the chair.

The section of the bill which relates to the appointment of probation officers has reference to the probation of adults, and will in no way affect the laws already in force with relation to the handling of delinquent and wayward children.

The necessary safeguards are contained in the measure. For instance, no person convicted of a crime, the maximum penalty of which is more than ten years' imprisonment, shall have the right to benefit by the act. Under this law, shall be the duties of the county probation officer to investigate the case of any person about to be brought before a court, to ascertain the history and previous conduct of the person arrested, and such other facts as may show whether he or she may be properly and safely released on probation under the provision of this act.

The measure has been given the careful consideration of judges, solicitors and criminal court lawyers throughout this state and they are practically unanimous in commending it.

SECY OF STATE BRYAN TO SPEAK HERE JUNE 2

Member of Cabinet Will Start Tech's Great Quarter-Centennial Commencement

William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state, will visit Atlanta on June 2 and will speak in the first program of Tech's great quarter centennial commencement celebration.

Announcement of this was made last night. It was stated that the whole of commencement week will be one of the biggest that Tech ever has known, and that in college affairs it will wake Atlanta to the bigness of one institution that is here. Some 200 alumni already have signified their intention of returning to attend the celebration during commencement week, and it is anticipated that numbers of others will make their plans to be here.

Mr. Bryan's speech Monday night, June 2, will be the first word in the great week. Mr. Bryan will come directly from Washington, and will go from Atlanta next day to Auburn, Ala., being on the program of Alabama Tech also for a commencement speech.

Commissioner of Education Clayton will be another of the speakers on Tech's commencement week program.

WILL REVISIT HOME FOR FIRST TIME IN 26 YEARS

J. Fred Zimmer, one of Atlanta's best known and best liked barbers, leaves Atlanta Tuesday for New York. He will remain in the metropolis until May 25, when he sails direct to Hamilton, on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria. Mr. Zimmer will revisit the town of his birth, Barre, which place he has not seen since he left there for America in June, 1887.

Mr. Zimmer stands high in Masonic circles in Atlanta, and has for nearly four years been proprietor of the barber shop on the top floor of the Grant building. About two years ago, he created considerable favorable comment by placing in his shop a sign reading: "The barbers in the shop are well paid, and do not accept tips." His shop is said to have been one of the first in the United States to take this stand to do away with the tip evil. He is anticipating with much pleasure his return visit to his kinpeople and the town of his birth for the first time in twenty-six years.

MADAM PEVNER LECTURES TWICE THIS SUNDAY

The Jewish Educational Alliance will celebrate Peace day this Sunday afternoon with an entertaining program which will begin at 4 o'clock. The principal speaker to be Madam Bella Pevner, of Palestine, who during the past week has delivered three lectures in different parts of the city. At 8 o'clock in the evening Madam Pevner will again deliver a lecture to the Jewish Educational Alliance, choosing for her subject "Can the Problems of Nations Be Solved by Economic Freedom?" This topic is one of special interest, and an open discussion and debate will follow her remarks.

DATE FOR SEED CRUSHERS' CONVENTION IS FIXED

The annual convention of the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Georgia will meet at the Atlanta Beach hotel, Atlantic Beach, Fla., June 2 and 3. Secretary F. D. McCarley, of Atlanta, has sent out this announcement to the members.

SECRETARY OF STATE TO TESTIFY IN LAND CASE

Secretary of State Philip Cook leaves Saturday afternoon for St. Charles, La., where next week he will appear as a witness in the federal court in a big land fraud case. The man to be tried is charged by the government with using the mails to defraud. He was offering vast tracts of land in Georgia at ridiculously low prices and claimed that his title to the property was based upon grants made by the state in 1794. These old land grants were declared fraudulent and void by the legislature of Georgia more than a hundred years ago. Secretary Cook will testify concerning them.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN TO DELIVER ADDRESS

Hon. W. S. Bennett, of New York city, and one of the visiting Presbyterian commissioners, will speak on the subject of the "Rural Church and the Country Life," at the First Methodist church Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

CHIEF BEAVERS SEEKS WIFE OF CHARLESTON SUICIDE

Chief of Police Beavers has been requested to make a careful search for the wife of Joe Green, who committed suicide in Charleston, S. C., during the early part of April.

A communication addressed to the head of the department here carries the intimation that the man's name was not really Green, but is believed to be Joe Miller.

Interior of the "Old South" church, the First Presbyterian church of Newburyport, Mass., which was founded by Whitfield in 1749. Whitfield's burial place is just beneath the pulpit. On the extreme left stands Whitfield's cenotaph, and the Bible used by him still rests on the pulpit.

WHY SHOULD WE HAVE PHYSICAL TRAINING IN GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL?

BY DR. THEODORE TOEFEL.

The goal of education in our public schools is not merely learning or mental discipline, but power and efficiency. A century ago, when farming was almost universal, the home could furnish physical and manual training and could educate to efficiency, industry and responsibility. The disappearance of farm life has crippled the educational efficiency of the home, and the whole burden of education is thrown upon the school.

City life means work in hot, ill-ventilated rooms, and the use of brains almost to the exclusion of the heavier muscles. This necessarily means increase of disease and weakness. The strain falls heaviest not on the tough muscles, but on the delicate nerves. We must train our boys and girls to meet and endure under unfavorable conditions a strain vastly greater and more severe than fell to the lot of our ancestors. Hence our system of education must make it its first business to train young men and women of overbearing vitality, of sturdy and abounding health, of toughness and endurance, of élan and power and efficiency.

Physical training, properly directed, does directly or indirectly reach and mold every organ in the body from the digestive system to the highest centers and powers of the brain. "Health"—whether physical, mental, moral, or religious—"comes in through the muscles and flies out through the nerves."

The size and power of man depends primarily upon how fast and far he can grow. A half-grown or stunted organ cannot possibly develop fully and normally, and remains a source of weakness and probable center of disease. Hence, in the lower grades we need mainly play and games to stimulate physical growth, and just enough work to stimulate the development of the sensory organs and the higher centers of the brain. Intellectual fatigue during this period is a sin. Any output of energy which does not result in physical growth, especially if it demands the combustion of food and material which might be added to the growing tissues, is a permanent loss and injury to the organism. Hence, during this period the playground is a better means of education than the schoolroom; the game than desk and book.

The girl enters a period of physical change during her stay in the grammar school. At about ten her increase in height and weight falls to a minimum. Nature has begun to save and economize. Then some three or four years of very rapid increase in height, followed later, but partially overlapped, by a similar period of increase in girth. She enters the high school long, lank and awkward, as if she had been violently stretched; she may leave it a few years later rounded and graceful as a woman with full height and weight, but with tissues still immature.

The growth in height has been an expensive process and has necessitated changes in the form of all muscles, arteries, veins and nerves. Nearly all the organs of the body are remodeled at the same time. Very large amounts of waste products are poured into the blood. This threatens to clog and poison every organ. Hence, the pubertal period, while one of very low death rate, is one of maximum morbidity; one of a very large amount of disorder, if we do not wish to call it sickness. Anemia or poverty of blood and pallor are very often apparent. The appetite for healthy foods sinks. The clogged brain may become so dull that even a bright girl may temporarily be almost stupid. She suffers from cold, and is disinclined to the active exercise which she sadly needs. Constipation, headaches and other disorders are altogether too prevalent. The weakness of the muscles and bad habits of posture may have started spinal curvature.

The first year of the high school demands close application and hard mental work just when she is least able to meet this demand. Frequently home duties occupy more or less of her time, or lessons in music or painting add to the already heavy burden. Often the young woman of twenty or thirty pays the penalty of mistakes made ignorantly at ten or sixteen.

The seat of the difficulty in the girl entering the high school is that the waste is not rapidly and completely removed from the blood, the appetite is poor, or disordered; hence the tissues of the body are not properly nourished at the very time when the most nourishment is needed to enable the organism to successfully complete the metamorphosis. The waste can be removed only when it is completely oxidized; therefore lung capacity is of fundamental importance. The average girl at this period has for each pound of weight hardly more than three-fourths of the lung capacity of the boy of the same age, and he certainly has none too much. Experiments prove that rational and regular physical training will give the girl at this age lung capacity at least 50 per cent above that of the average girl of this age.

The exercise increases and improves the appetite and stimulates all the vital organs by flooding them with pure and healthful blood. The nervous system is "toned up," the tissues are nourished properly, disorders already started on their course are corrected.

The ideal system of physical training for young girls comes only from long and careful experiment. Otherwise we

PLAYERS' CLUB APPEARS AT GRAND ON MAY 30

"Importance of Being in Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, to Be Presented

Friday evening, May 30, has been selected by the executive committee of the Players' club as the date for the next play, "The Importance of Being in Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. The production will be given in the Grand opera house, and the price of tickets will range from box seats, $2; lower floor, $1.50 and $1, and so on.

The executive committee held a meeting Saturday night, immediately before the rehearsal, with the following members present: Robert L. Cooney, president; Mrs. Frank Ellis, vice president; Mrs. Thomas B. Felder, Dr. William S. Owens, Mrs. John M. Slaton, Mrs. Thaddeus Horton, Lamar Hill and Hamilton Douglas, Jr.

The following is the cast of the play:
John Worthing—E. Marsh Adair.
Algernon Moncrief—Lamar Hill.
Rev. Canon Chasuble—Hamilton Douglas, Jr.
Lane W. Frank Taylor.
Hon. Gwendolin Fairfax—Miss Hil-dreth Burton-Smith.
Ladyly Brocknell—Mrs. John Marshall Slaton.
Cecily Cardew—Mrs. William S. Owens.
Miss Prism—Mrs. Henry B. Scott.

may increase the fatigue and disorder which we should remove. The aim is largely hygienic; therefore the large muscles must be used. To stimulate the lungs the exercise must be vigorous. The girl is anything but strong and mature; hence, the exercise must be light. The girl has little endurance; therefore active exercises and rest periods must alternate rapidly as in any good game. If inexperienced supervision allows exhaustion or even fatigue then probably more harm is done than good. The light dose of exercise should be more like play so that she will repeat it at home. The main idea is to give refreshment and recreation from the nervous strain and long sitting of school hours. If we want healthy school girls and women we must have a wise and well directed system of physical training in the girls' high school.

JACOBS' PHARMACY

As a Business Serves, So It Grows

THIRTY years ago, the druggist was about as poor a specimen of business man as you could find. He never advertised; he sold his pills when people came after them, and kept the policy of his store in the back room with his pestle and mortar.

As the older residents know, Jacobs' Pharmacy has led the retail drug business up to its present high commercial standard. We put prices on a fair and equitable basis, we established a standard of quality and eliminated unreliable and habit forming drugs, we bought direct from manufacturers and gave the public the benefit instead of middlemen, and we gave the public our personal guarantee of good faith by offering to return his money whenever a customer was dissatisfied with a purchase.

No business continues to grow faster than its competitors without giving superior service. 29 years ago we had but one store. Today our ten stores make Jacobs' Pharmacy accessible to every resident of the city, and our mail order department carries us all over the world. Our ten stores fill more prescriptions a day than any other ten drug stores in the South. And the name, Jacobs' Pharmacy, represents to the public the strongest possible guarantee of superior quality, honest price and fair treatment.

As a strengthening tonic physicians have used and endorsed this prescription for generations. Probably nothing gives better results, but the intensely bitter taste has made it very objectionable, and many sensitive stomachs reject it.

TEMPERANCE MEETING OF PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLIES

Great Gathering on Sunday Evening at 8 o'clock at Wesley Memorial

The union temperance meeting of the Presbyterian bodies now holding their assemblies in Atlanta will be held at the Wesley Memorial church, corner Auburn avenue and Ivy street, Sunday evening, May 18, at 8 o'clock. Ex-congressman W. S. Bennett, of New York City, will preside. Addresses will be made by Rev. J. C. Galloway, D. D., Gastonia, N. C.; Dr. T. S. Glyce, Sherman, Texas; Rev. J. F. McCrory, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Prof. Charles Scanlon, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The fact that the church in which the mass meeting is to be held is so accessible to the center of the city, that the topic of the meeting is of general interest and that the speakers are men of national reputation, makes it probable that a large crowd will gather in the splendid auditorium in which the meeting is to be held. This meeting will be under the auspices of the temperance committee of one of the assemblies.

Dr. Galloway is chairman of the commission of the Associate Reform synod, now in session in Atlanta, and is also chairman of the home mission board of his church. He is a leader in all lines of work of the associate reform of his Presbyterian church.

Dr. Glyce is the retiring moderator of the Presbyterian Church of the United States in the anti-alcoholic congress held in London, and for the second time at the meeting of the same congress at The Hague.

Prof. Scanlon is the general secretary of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America and is one of the leading prohibitionists of the country. His name has been proposed several times as candidate of the prohibition party for the presidency. He was appointed to represent the United States in the anti-alcoholic congress held in London, and for the second time at the meeting of the same congress at The Hague.

CHRIST'S SOCIALISM MUST GUIDE CHURCH, SAYS MR. McDONALD

tion of the intellectual and the well-to-do."

The genius of Presbyterianism, he said, is its democracy, and "where is the John Knox who will stand forth and demand the will of God and the rights of man?"

As in the words of Lloyd George to a prosperous Presbyterian congregation, "the splendor of the sunshine of our lives has blinded us to humanity's suffering."

And, said Mr. McDonald: "What shall we say to these things? The answer is that the Christian church, if it is to be Christian, must go back to Christ. It must take up his attitude toward the social and industrial problems of the day. What does this involve? It involves a revision of the church's program toward those beyond its pale. Too much of the church's effort is to get men into the church. Christ's effort was to go among men and implant the Christ idea. The business of the church is not to estimate the four walls of Presbyterianism or any other 'ism' these United States, but to get out of the church and into men the redemptive power of the gospel. The church must be a power for that primal motive for humanity, that impulse of the Christ ideal of socialism. There must be in the church more power, more light and more uplift."

Though Mr. McDonald read from a manuscript, which is contrary to the methods of most orators, he lost nothing thereby, but on the contrary seemed to add emphasis to his utterances by using the sheets in his left hand gesture. He rose often to heights of superlative eloquence. The vast audience drank in his words, and as he unfolded his magnificent conception of the Saviour they broke forth in wave after wave of applause.

TWO STRONG APPEALS

The two other speakers were Marion M. Jackson, of Atlanta, and Rev. Charles Steile, superintendent of the Presbyterian bureau of social service in New York, who made a very forceful twenty-minute appeal to the duty toward the social problems of the day. Mr. Steile said the great unrest prevailing throughout the civilized nations, and beginning to manifest itself among the people where Christian missionaries have been at work, is the outcome of Christianity, and that the Christian church must not now step aside for unscrupulous agitators, but must stand up for the name of Christ and decide what it will do.

Mr. Jackson spoke on "Christian Citizenship and the Social Evil." He told something of the vice crusade in Atlanta, its difficulties and its final success, and in conclusion declared that Christian men and women cannot undertake to deal with the social evil until they have cleared their own skirts.

The audience was one of the largest that has attended a meeting in the auditorium. It was an earnest, enthusiastic audience, which listened with close attention to all the speakers, joined heartily in the singing, and kept their places, almost to a man, until the final word of the benediction.

Today's program will supply the various pulpits of Atlanta, and the activities of the assemblies and special meetings will be held at 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon and at 8 o'clock tonight.

The afternoon mass meetings will consist of a meeting of Sunday school workers in the Central Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock; a mass meeting for women at the Central Presbyterian church at the same hour; a mass meeting on church and country life at the Baptist Tabernacle under the auspices of the home mission boards, also at 3 o'clock; and a mass meeting for men at the auditorium at 4 o'clock.

Interesting programs have been arranged and noted speakers will be heard. At 8 o'clock tonight there will be a meeting to discuss ministerial relief, at the Harris street Presbyterian church and at the same hour colleges of the churches will be discussed at a meeting to be held at the Baptist Tabernacle.

Routine work of the various assemblies will be resumed tomorrow morning.

CARTOONIST BREWERTON SKETCHES SOME OF THE BIG PRESBYTERIANS

COMMISSIONERS AND LADIES ARE GUESTS AT RECEPTION BY AGNES SCOTT STUDENTS

About two hundred daintily attired college girls out on the campus of Agnes Scott yesterday afternoon made about two thousand commissioners and "Mrs. Commissioners" glad they'd come to the Presbyterian assemblies in Atlanta.

They served to them fruit punch. They led their visitors through the shaded campus walks and the college buildings and then served to them salad and ice cream. They had an orchestra play for the northern guests "Yankee Doodle" and "Dixie" as only a southern orchestra can play those tunes.

And then the young ladies grouped themselves on the steps of the main building and while "Mrs. Commissioners" cheered for the sheer joy of being alive, they sang:

"I'm a Hotter 'n' Agnes Scott,
A player of basketball;
I jump so high I scrape the sky,
And never, never fall."

"So now three cheers and each who hears
Will raise it with a vim—"
(And they did, too—)

"Hi, rickety, hickety, hoopety, hee—
E-E-E—
What's the matter with A. S. C.?
SHE'S ALL RIGHT!"

It was a glorious afternoon for the Presbyterians. The announcements of the affair proclaimed it a reception given in honor of the visiting commissioners and their wives by the Presbyterians of Atlanta. But in the memories of the events those "Hotshots" from Agnes Scott will occupy a great big niche.

The receptions lasted from 4 until 6 o'clock. About half of the guests went out on a special train, the rest on street cars and in automobiles.

The entertainment committee from the Presbyterians of Atlanta included the names of 250. There was a receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Dr. E. H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott; Mrs. Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Inman, Mr. J. K. Ottley, Mr. and Mrs. Marion McNeill, and Miss Nannette Hopkins, of the college faculty.

The receiving committee members estimate that they shook about half a million hands.

There were guests from practically every state in the union, from China, Japan, India and one from Alaska, who forgot that the temperature was a bit higher than he had been used to.

Everybody met everybody else, and the girls were kept buzzing like bees. They made everybody feel at home. They went about it by taking in tow every long-necked-looking commissioner they saw.

"This," a blue-eyed young lady would say, "is our main building. And this is Lowry Science hall, and this is the library, and this is the Jeanie D. Inman hall, and—oh! did you ever hear how Agnes Scott college was founded?"

"Why, you see, it was this way—" She would trill alongside the smiling commissioner, prattling like a child telling a fairy story.

"You see, Mrs. Agnes Scott had two sons, and one fought in the northern army, and the other would pause for breath—and she founded this college in honor of the one in the southern army and endowed it and started it off, and here it is. And it's the best college in the world, too," she would conclude triumphantly.

Too much praise cannot be given to the officials of the college and to the young ladies for the splendid manner in which they entertained the visitors. Not a guest but was glad he or she was there.

Practically all of the leading commissioners and their wives were present, and the "mosses" would pause there, and everybody else who could find an excuse for being there.

They all enjoyed it from the minute they entered the campus green until the young ladies assured them over and over again that "we're so glad to have had you" and cheered them good-bye with their "Hotshots" yell.

Paint Battle Waged On Woodbury Campus By Tech and Georgia

The Woodberry school campus on Peachtree street, with the stately popular known as the "Orphans," was the scene of an exciting battle Friday night in college circles.

The Tech boys are as violently opposed to any hue but their yellow in these decorations, as are the "Georgia" boys to an eclipsing of red and black on the Lucy Cobb "goat" foundation.

Since the great Tech victory in Athens, the Orphans have been resplendent in white and gold, albeit bearing evidences of hasty application, under local pressure. This last night they set a guard to keep them in the same mind.

About the midnight hour the Georgia boys stealthily approached and executed an impressionist effect on the Orphans, when a shrill Tech whistle brought a battalion to the scene, and red and black paint pot and brush were left in their precipitate flight.

Segregated dancers wondered at the sudden disappearance of Tech partners, and their as mysterious reappearance, somewhat disheveled from the chase.

Meanwhile the Woodberry Orphans in their blended yellow and red and black, look as if they had not quite made up their mind and are suffering from a case of mistaken identity.

ACUTE SITUATION GROWS OUT OF HOUSTON STRIKE

HOUSTON, Tex., May 17.—An acute situation has grown out of the strike of 600 union carpenters declared here several days ago. Master builders have refused their demands for increased wages and announced today 300 strike-breakers are en route to take the place of strikers. The builders issued a statement declaring they would not again employ union men. The strikers say they are confident of securing their demands.

Page Got Sweet on Jessie Wilson But Lost Brazen Nerve

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Secret service men, after a five weeks' hunt for the origin of a mysterious midnight telephone call to Miss Jessie Wilson, one of the president's daughters, discovered today that it was only a mischievous page boy of the house of representatives bent on a lark in a dull moment and that he was now safe at home in Texas, where he could not even be officially spanked.

The White House telephone tinkled one night and a voice said:

"I want to talk to Jessie."

Then, it developed, the little chap lost his nerve and hung up, while the secret service men began a weary chase finally tracing the call to the Republican cloak room of the house to find that everybody on the house side of the Capitol knew who did it.

SENATE HAS NOT YET RATIFIED CANAL TREATY

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The canal treaty with Nicaragua, accepted by the Panama government, but yet unratified by the United States senate, would give the United States the exclusive right to build an interoceanic canal by what is known as the Nicaragua route, since considered a competitor to the Panama canal.

The treaty was negotiated about the time the American marines and blue jackets landed in Nicaragua and aided in maintaining the government against the revolution. Negotiations have been at a standstill for some time.

PRESBYTERIANS HEAR OF CANNIBALISM

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 17.—Cannibalism in its worst form exists among natives of the New Hebrides islands, in the South Pacific, according to a statement today by Rev. Thomas Gillan, at the Presbyterian assembly of New South Wales. Human flesh is looked upon as a luxury and tribal wars invariably end with a "banquet," uncheked by the authorities, he declared.

EPITAPHS FOR PREJUDICES BEING WRITTEN IN ATLANTA, DECLARES ELLIS

for the "down and outs." He can tell stories by the hour of men from the gutter who have been lifted into newness of life and usefulness of citizenship by the old gospel. In fact, Trotter himself is a "graduate of the gutter, and his speech is the most picturesque that will be heard at the assembly, with the probable exception of the utterances of Higgins, "The Sky Pilot of the Lumberjacks," a commissioner who has figured often in the magazines.

About as big as a half peck of potatoes is Rev. Frank W. Bible, of Hancock, China, whose home is in Philadelphia, but who is known to the commissioners of the U. S. A. church as the most brilliant speaker on China in this country. At present he is inconspicuous and always in the background, but before the assembly is over his will be one of the names written in red.

Another young man from China who has been a great factor in shipping the thinking of the south upon that country, is Rev. Lacey Moffat, of the U. S. church, a forerunner of the present fashion's movement.

HIS NAME IN HISTORY. Apropos of China, another man in the city, whose name already is fixed in history in connection with the largest of nations, is Hon. John W. Foster, secretary of state under President Harrison, former adviser to the Chinese government and China's representative in the peace negotiations after the China-Japanese war. General Foster is a member of the permanent judicial commission of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.

Of the younger crop of laymen who are making over the churches of America, there are several in Atlanta this week. None are more enterprising than Mr. George Innes, of Philadelphia, the leader of the laymen of the United Presbyterian church. Mr. Innes found himself making money so rapidly that his fortune was getting the better of him. He quit long enough to go around the world, and to think things over. He returned and offered himself without salary for the promotion of foreign missions. After a year he found that he was losing his identity as a business man and being classed as a missionary official, so he now gives one month in the year to large business enterprises, and eleven months to Christian work. He is executive secretary of the United Mission campaign. One of the curious by-products of his interesting career is that there is a flourishing town in the northwest named after him.

Simultaneously with the meetings of the men, the missionary women are holding sessions, and these are of real importance. Many women who are prominent figures in society are also heart and soul in foreign mission work. A large delegation is here from Philadelphia, another from New York, and another from Chicago. The women have their own boards and send out women missionaries and maintain mission schools.

Sunday's services will not be sessions of the assemblies, but regular church meetings, with popular sessions in the afternoon and evening. All of church-going Atlanta will have chance to hear the visitors, while the commissioners themselves will seek out the famous preachers of their churches.

COMMISSIONERS ARE INVITED TO TUSKEGEE

Booker T. Washington, through Rev. A. F. Owens, has extended a cordial invitation to the Presbyterian commissioners and their friends to visit the industrial plant where 1,500 students are taught daily in forty-two different industries under 200 instructors.

The distance from Atlanta to Tuskegee, near the location of the school, on the Western Railway is 135 miles and the round trip can be made in a day.

Special rates will be explained by Rev. Owens to the commissioners. Those returning home by way of Montgomery can stop over between trains at Tuskegee.

MACON, Ga., May 17.—The Georgia Bankers Association met this morning at 10:30 o'clock for their final session the terminating committee reported the following officers who were unanimously elected.

L. P. Hilyer, Macon, president; L. D. Council, Americus, first vice-president; R. O. Barksdale, Washington, second vice-president; C. H. Shelton, Brunswick, third vice-president; L. C. Millidgeville, fourth vice-president; J. S. Calkoun, Calhoun, fifth vice-president; Haynes McFadden, Atlanta, secretary; E. C. Smith, Griffin, treasurer.

The meeting of next session was referred to the executive session but only one city has asked for this honor and that was Augusta.

Orville A. Park was unanimously elected attorney for the Georgia Bankers' association after he had been bitterly opposed by several members of the association. A. P. Coles and Carl H. Lewis, of Atlanta, were two of the most bitter opponents to the election of Mr. Park as attorney for the association the ensuing year.

Motions for adjournment were offered and other filibustering tactics made in the determination to prevent the Macon attorney from being re-elected, but he was victorious. The controversy between the two Atlanta men and the other members of the association was one of the most lively personal disputes that has been witnessed since the association was formed. Frequently a member of the association would interrupt the Atlanta bankers and appeal to the chair to rule them out of order.

J. G. Crafts, a young banker from Hartwell, Ga., declared that Mr. Coles was not acting with decency in taking up the time of the association in denouncing Mr. Park as a convention attorney. A score or more of bankers interposed and finally Mr. Crafts withdrew his remarks and Mr. Coles expressed regret of having spoken so hastily. Both Mr. Coles and Mr. Lewis are members of the executive council. Frequently the delegates broke forth with mad remarks that so upset the chair that the convention was in a tumult. After spicy talks were heard from the two Atlanta men especially adjournment was taken.

BAXTER, OF KNOXVILLE, MAY BE COMMISSIONER

He is Suggested for Office Declined by Fuller E. Callaway

BY RALEPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—George W. Baxter, of Knoxville, Tenn., may be appointed Indian commissioner by President Wilson. The office was offered recently to Fuller E. Callaway, of LaGrange, Ga., but he declined it. Baxter's chances of appointment are considered exceedingly bright.

Today, Secretary of Interior Lane, declared that he had chosen three men, any one of whom would be acceptable, as an Indian commissioner. The names of those men, their record and qualifications, have been forwarded by the secretary to President Wilson, and it is regarded as certain that one of them will be named. George W. Baxter's name was among the three.

Senator Lea, who presented Baxter to Secretary Lane yesterday, is encouraged over the success he has encountered, and will take up the matter of Baxter's appointment with the president next week.

COLONEL HUFF WILL BE TRIED FOR CONTEMPT

Case Is Postponed From Monday Until Tuesday Morning

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 17.—Colonel W. A. Huff will be tried in the federal court for contempt next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge W. L. Gribb, of the northern district of Alabama, will preside and Oliver D. Street, United States district attorney, will conduct the prosecution.

The case was formerly set for trial on Monday, May 19, but Attorney General T. S. Felder has a case before that state court of appeals on Monday and will be unable to appear in court here as attorney for Colonel Huff. The contempt charges against Colonel Huff were brought after he had sent two abusive letters to Judge Emory Speer about the rulings of the federal jurist in his bankruptcy case. Judge Speer will have the following witness subpoenaed:

Emory Speer, Alexander Akerman, Cooper Moorehead, E. Y. Mallory, John E. Cone, A. J. Cobb, of Athens, L. M. Erwin and Cecil George. Colonel Huff will go to trial without witnesses.

STRAIN OF LONG HOURS IS TELLING ON WILSON

President Puts in Fourteen Hours a Day—Is the Hardest Worked Man in America

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
WASHINGTON, May 17.—"The hardest worked man in America," is the title given to President Wilson by his private secretary.

Executive decisions that direct the affairs of the nation are made at night
by the president.

The central control station of the great machinery of government is a seconded room on the second floor of the white house, where Mr. Wilson works alone in silence while the world sleeps.

A black leather-covered notebook, which nobody but himself reads, is the time-saver book on America, for it contains the secrets of state and the thoughts of the president written by his own hand.

This book has loose leaves that can be detached and fresh ones put in.
The sheets are the size of business letter paper. Most of the entries are made in shorthand "not books," a system of writing which Mr. Wilson has practiced for many years.

JEALOUSY OF FILING CABINET.
The private secretary contains a flat top desk and a filing cabinet. The president is more devoted to his black leather notebook and his filing cabinet than to any other possession. No secretary or clerk may touch them. He works over the filing case with the precision and skill of a system expert.
He has his own plan of indexing and can instantly turn to any paper which he has put away.

At 5 o'clock this morning the president leaves the main part of the White house, after having breakfasted with his family, and goes to the west wing of the building, a long extension, one story in height, devoted to executive offices. He carries with him the precious black notebook. Private Secretary Tumulty and a stenographer join him. The notes written the night before in the study are dictated and the plans thought out are outlined for the private secretary to put into operation.

After an hour of this work, the rest of the president's day is taken up by appointments, previously arranged.
Cabinet officers, senators, representatives, prominent men from many cities,
delegations of organizations and citizens of every class endeavor to get audiences with the president. It is not difficult either, if they have some business or subject of general welfare to present.

NO TIME FOR STUDY.
This day is completely absorbed.
There is no opportunity to keep to study, to think, to plan. The important papers of the day are picked out by Mr. Wilson and taken to his private study for night consideration. After dinner he seeks the president's study,
his black notebook and his filing cabinet.

At first he set 10:30 p. m. as the hour to edit work and go to bed. But he has not been able to keep to schedule. For the past few weeks the president has not been able to get out of his study before 11:30 o'clock. The night work is beginning to tell on him.
To conserve his strength and to avoid a physical breakdown, Mr. Wilson is endeavoring to take a Saturday holiday each week, so far he has not been able to carry out the plan. Although he tries to run away from the White house and the tremendous pressure that permeates its atmosphere, he is dragged back each time. Two weeks ago he escaped a week-end outing afloat in the Potomac. He had been away for three days. He had been away from the White house into Chesapeake bay, but a storm drove him back early with an unpleasant and unfinished holiday. On Saturday morning last he ran away early for an automobile trip to Mount Vernon,
but the all-weather rain drove him back him back to Washington early in the afternoon for conference with the secretary of state. The result was a Saturday night and Sunday of serious thinking and work in his study.

DOES NOT BETRAY FATIGUE.
It is difficult to tell from mere observation when the president is tired.
His normal actions are so methodical and measured in pace that they betray no variation from day to day, regardless of strain. His face is so bony, with skin so tightly drawn over angles and high spots, that there is no deepening of lines or the tense-ness of features observable in most men under pressure. Color or countenance he has not, so pallor of cheek
is a normal condition.

Perhaps the only indications of the strain which the president is under evening are to be found in his manner rather than in his appearance. He is even more measured and reserved in speech and action than he was when he entered the White House. He is attempting to conserve his mental forces with scientific care and precision.

Underneath the calm exterior there is an active nervous system, although people say that Mr. Wilson has no nerves. It is beginning to show itself now and then. Standing behind a chair with his hands on the back of it a few days ago, his fingers unconsciously drummed a tattoo. When reading a message personally to congress a few weeks ago there was a nervous note in his voice for a few moments.

The general manager of the United States government has a big job merely directing the ordinary duties of administration. But when there is added the casualty pressure of politicians for office and the attempt to institute many reforms has more than one man can physically accomplish.

Private Secretary Tumulty is watching his chief and trying to shield him from as many troubles as possible, for some time the president has been more than two months in the White House and during that time he has scored two long credit marks:

1. He has not uttered a complaint about anything or anybody.
2. He has not spoken a cross word.

BROTHERLY AGREEMENT IS BASIS OF SUIT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 17.— Alleging that a mutual agreement between two brothers amounted to a contract to leave their property to each other, and that it took precedence over a will made later, Columbus Pierce, of Memphis, Tenn., filed a contest in federal court for the western district of Oklahoma yesterday on the disposal of properties belonging to W. W. Pierce.
W. W. Pierce, a cotton buyer, died here December 2, 1911. Mrs. Ellen Pierce, his widow and principal legatee
under the will which already has been probated, is the principal defendant. It is alleged the contract between the brothers was made by letter.

OFFICIALS READY FOR HILL CLIMB WHICH WAS "RAINED OUT"

Here are a few of the officials who were out on Stewart avenue ready to start the hill climbing contests Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock when the rain came along and caused a postponement of this big event in Atlanta's automobile world to next Saturday afternoon. Reading from left to right the gentlemen are: R. S. Abbott, one of the judges; J. R. Ransbury, time; R. N. Reid, umpire; George Hanson, president of the Atlanta Automobile association; E. K. Ellerbe, clerk of the course, and Wylie West, ce president of the A. A. A.

ATLANTA PRINCIPAL IS AGAINST STATE BOOKS

Miss Mamie Pitts, of State Street School, Answers Representative McCrory

Atlanta, Ga., April 23, 1913.
Editor The Journal:
In a recent issue of your paper you
published a letter under the caption,
"Representative McCrory Argues for Bill He Will Offer." I get from the letter that the representative "intends to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature for the state to have printed by competitive bids the books
used in the public schools of the state."

In the "arguments" that follow, the representative makes such erroneous statements that I feel assured he did not have the proper data for his reference. He says: "I wish every parent in Georgia would look through the readers that are taught in the common schools in Georgia and find one little piece written by a Georgia author."
I have before me a set of Lee readers,
the books used in the state schools.
Book Three has a contribution from Joel Chandler Harris. Book Four has Georgia representation in Frank L. Stanton, Sidney Lanier and Henry W. Grady.
While Book Five has no less than twelve southern writers, including three selections from Sidney Lanier, one from
W. D. Howells, and one from Henry W. Grady, not to mention "The Conquered Banner," by Father Ryan, who,
as is well known, lived and worked in Georgia during a part of his rather brief life.

Surely we are not so narrow as to wish to eliminate the other selections
taken from Shakespeare, Bunyan, Scott, Milton, Burns and the rest, all of the highest literary quality.
He asks: "What histories are taught in the common schools written by Georgians?" I reply that the common schools of Georgia are now using Field's "United States History," "The History of Georgia," by Miss Field was a Georgian, and for many years a teacher in the Atlanta public schools. Mr. Lawton B. Evans, son of General Clement A. Evans, and superintendent of the Augusta public schools, needs no introduction to Georgia people.

I might add that Hunnicutt's "Agriculture" and Brainerd's "Speller" are written by Georgia men. Both of these books are used in the state schools.
Referring to the situation in Ontario,
about which Mr. McCrory goes into detail, the Saturday Evening Post of a recent date points out clearly that if the comparison of the American and the Canadian books is pursued, the more the apparent price-discrepancy, disinclines.

Ontario, doubtless, gets what she pays for, and we are yet to learn how to obtain something for nothing. I should deplore the passage of any law in Georgia that would sacrifice quality for cheapness in textbooks. These are not to be bought by the page. We should inquire into the content, and leave the number of pages to adjust itself.

Representative McCrory says that the state is already in the publishing business, but adds with commendable frankness that certain published records, though offered at cost, are bought by not one person in a thousand, which proves it to be barely possible that the state, as a book publisher, might not meet the requirements of a fastidious public.

Mr. McClure, who is considered one
of the most competent and successful
drug store managers in the city, began
his connection with Jacobs' Pharmacy
and his main store in February, 1909,
and was then in the prescription department. A few months later he was transferred to Peters street as an assistant and took the management of the prescription department which he built up wonderfully by his careful attention to business and knowledge of the delicate work.

In August, 1910, he was made manager of the Marietta street store when his direction the store has progressed wonderfully and a splendid business has been built up. His showing has been remarkable despite the torn up condition of the street and now that the work is finished there is a big future
before him.

An important feature of suburban
drug stores is the prescription business.
This he has increased fully 50 per cent
and bids fair to carry his success still further.

Mr. McClure's personality has gained for him scores of friends and his strict attention to business is an asset valued highly by his employers.—(Adv.)

GOVERNOR TRAMMELL HAS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 17.—
"Governor Trammell is certainly an accommodating person; more so than most governors," said one of the cowboy crew of four from the state of Washington, when Thursday the governor stood for a picture with the cowboys.

The governor was busy, very busy,
and disturbed too with the way things have been going of late—not exactly to please the chief executive. But all the same the cowboys who are making a 20,000-mile ride to include every state in the country and get photographs of themselves with the governors were solicitous and the governor consented. Other governors have done
the same thing, but they haven't done
it so graciously. Go Governor Trammell can give many people lessons in the art of politeness; if you are going to do a thing—do it graciously, and thereby win praise, even if it be from a cowboy; if you have to decline—do it courteously—there's the stuff!

The cowboys are typical of the west—

they are from the ranches, and have been talking for a long time of taking a sure enough horseback ride. The longest ever made so far of record has been of 2,500 miles; they are going to beat it by 17,500; they have covered 6,500 miles of the distance, having started from Olympia, Wash., May 1, 1912; they had been out a year and fifteen days when they were in Tallahassee. They expect to reach San Francisco by June 1, 1915, where they will have an exhibition, and a part of the show will be an Arabian horse that they are carrying with them. If the horse makes the entire 20,000 miles
he will be a wonder; their other horses, which are of the finest types, are not expected to hold out. In fact, they have had to change more than once already.

The party is composed of George W.
Beck, R. G. Payne, J. B. Ranson and
C. C. Beck. Beck says he is done with the cowboy work after this. "The open range is a thing of the past," he said,
"and the old cowboy days will soon be a memory."

MILTON H. MCCLURE
BACK ON THE JOB
Manager of Jacobs' Marietta Street Store Fully Recovered

MILTON H. MCCLURE.

It will be of interest to the scores of friends of Milton H. McClure, manager of Jacobs' Marietta street store,
to learn that he is again back on duty after an illness that has incapacitated him for a year. He has only recently recovered from a serious operation and recu-peration was slow.

Mr. McClure, who is considered one
of the most competent and successful
drug store managers in the city, began
his connection with Jacobs' Pharmacy

GUYTON FARMERS ARE NOW REAPING PROFITS

GUYTON, Ga., May 17.—The farmers of this community who were fortunate enough to get in their seed on reaping their anticipated rewards.
Only about one out of every five truck farmers succeeded in getting their seed up from the early planting of potatoes and string beans, which are considered an early crop for this part of Georgia, and are bringing good prices. Mr. P. P. Perdue, one of the early truckers, will be the largest shipper of potatoes as well as onions
this season. The latter crop is an experiment crop here, but bids fair to be one of the most profitable.

Mr. Perdue will get about 1,000 crates of onions that will class with the finest on the market to each acre,
for which he has been offered an average of 75 cents per crate. His potato crop will average equally as well,
and he expects to ship 15,000 barrels
during this season. Colonel R. W.
Sheppard, who is among the largest growers of beans in this county, has about 135 acres that he has planted in beans and potatoes, and are among the finest prospects for the season.

FAKE SMALLPOX PATIENT
CAUSE OF CONSTERNATION

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Consternation was caused in the Union station
today when an unidentified Syrian immigrant awaiting a train for the south was believed to be suffering from smallpox. A policeman, seeing the unfortunate to a local hospital, declining to permit him to board his train.
It was found that he was afflicted with measles.

A number of departing and incoming
members of congress and government officials were carefully herded away from the suspect. Several hurried to be vaccinated. An effort will be made today to learn the man's name and his address.

Rain Hurts Manchester

MANCHESTER, Ga., May 17.—The streets and sidewalks of Manchester are considerably damaged by recent heavy rains. Estimates place the loss at from $2,000 to $5,000. Chief Pike, of the street forces, has abandoned construction work temporarily and is busily engaged with his road machine and other apparatus in getting the streets and sidewalks back in their former excellent conditions.

Old Cruiser for Sale

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The old
cruiser Newark will be offered for sale by the navy department. It was built in Philadelphia in 1888 at a cost of $1284,000, and until recently was on duty as station ship at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Good Crops at Buckhead

BUCKHEAD, Ga., May 17.—Many farmers in this section are rejoiced to see the rain, which is falling steadily here today, the first rain in more than five weeks.

The stands of cotton and corn is the poorest for many years and many cotton pest for several years.

CHATTANOOGA AN OASIS
FOR SHRINERS' CARAVANS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 17.— Chattanooga today was an oasis in the route of the caravans of mystic Shriner, returning from their pilgrimage to Dallas, Tex., and fully five hundred wearing of the fez halted their camels
in the shade beneath the date palms to partake of the semzem, to refresh themselves from the spring of Chattanooga's royal welcome and let the mountain breezes blow the dust of the desert from their garments.

The first of the pilgrims to arrive were those of Damascus temple, of Rochester, N. Y., the largest caravan

BY RALPH SMITH.
WASHINGTON, May 17.—The parcel post records of the postoffice for the month of April show that Atlanta continues to hold its own as a mail order
center and general distributing point.
The city ranks twenty-fourth, outstripping half a dozen other cities that have a much larger population. Among this number may be mentioned Indianapolis, Louisville, Denver, Seattle, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Portland and Columbus, Ohio.

The most wholesome feature of Atlanta's parcel post record, however, is the fact that the merchants of the city dispatched 184,000 parcels during the month, and that the postoffice received for distributing in the city only 50,790. The balance of the trade was largely in favor of Atlanta, and if this fact were considered in fixing the relative rating of the postoffices of the nation, Atlanta would take even a higher stand than is given her. For instance, both Rochester and Washington, D. C., outrank Atlanta in the general classification, but in each of the cities the number of parcels received were larger than the number of parcels sent out.

The relative rating of the cities,
however, is computed from the total number of the parcels handled by the postoffice, and in this respect it is not a fair index of business conditions.

Considered in connection with her would-be commercial rivals in the southern territory, Atlanta is in a class by herself. Birmingham, Ala., even accorded a place among the first fifty postoffices of the country. New Orleans ranks thirty-first, Richmond
thirty-seventh, Memphis thirty-ninth,
and Nashville forty-fifth, the total parcel post business of each falling far short of the 200,000 mark. Indeed, Louisville did not touch the 200,000
mark for the month.

J. A. M'CORD WILL SPEAK TO EMORY BOYS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
OXFORD, Ga., May 17.—Hon. J. A.
McCord, vice president of the Third National bank, Atlanta, will deliver a lecture at Emory college this week on the "Proposed National Currency Changes."
This lecture will be delivered under the auspices of the department of political economy, Dr. E. H. Johnson being in charge.

Mr. McCord has been in Washington, D. C., appearing before the congressional committee which will recommend changes in our banking and money laws.
Several courses in banking are offered at Emory by Dr. Johnson, but he desires to secure the services of a practical banker to talk to his class.

The old car line with the mules for motive power that have been a fixture
for many years between the Covington
depot and Oxford will soon be replaced by a substantial roadbed and electric cars. This change was announced when the owners of the present system applied to Secretary of State Cook for an amendment to their present charter to increase the capital stock, which would permit them to make the much needed improvements.

Scores of Emory alumni will be greeted by these changes in a few months when they return to their alma-mater and when the fall term opens next September it is hoped that the trip will be made to Oxford in an entirely new fashion.

When You Think of Those Departed

Does it occur to you in what condition are the bodies of these loved ones? Has the earth with its water and vermin penetrated the unprotected remains and destroyed it? Remember: Steel vaults RUST AND DECAY. Brick or slate vaults LACK ADHESIVENESS AND CRUMBLE. A few short years and nothing remains of either vault, casket or corpse.

With Our Method Permanent Preservation Is Assured

Absolutely air, water, vermin and ghoulish proof. Indorsed by undertakers, physicians, health officers and cemetery sextons.

Use the Egyptian Burial Vault

Shown by cut above built with our patented molds and special waterproofing compound and formula. The longer the EGYPTIAN BURIAL VAULT is in the earth the harder it becomes. As time passes it solidifies and becomes a compact stone thus preventing the penetration of tree roots, water or worms and keeps the remains dry and permanently preserving the body. The cost is small, usually less than that asked for an inferior vault. Remember the EGYPTIAN BURIAL VAULT is the vault that positively protects, accepts no substitute. By insisting on it you remove any cause or worry or doubt in the future as to the permanent preservation of those you cherished. When an undertaker suggests this vault it indicates the excellent service and high quality of the articles he handles. If your undertaker does not have the EGYPTIAN BURIAL VAULT, wire or phone our Atlanta office and we will fill your order without delay through our nearest representative.

1913 APPROPRIATIONS TO EXCEED REVENUES

Comptroller Wright Estimates Revenues at $5,673,005, and Appropriations $5,904,567

In his annual report, just written, which covers the condition of the state's finances during 1912 and contains a number of recommendations, Comptroller General William A. Wright estimates the state's revenue from all sources during 1913 at $5,673,005 and its appropriations for the same period at $5,904,567, the latter exceeding the former by $231,562.

Of the total estimated revenue $2,958,984 is raised by ad valorem taxes and $1,714,021 from special taxes and other sources. The comptroller recommends—

That appropriations be held down in future until the revenue is increased from other than present sources.

That the laws be amended so that small co-operative telephone companies, operated solely for convenience and without regard to profit, be returned for taxation to the county tax collectors instead of the comptroller general as at present.

That the near-beer license tax law be amended so as to put the collection of near-beer taxes into the hands of tax collectors instead of ordinaries, and that the tax collectors be allowed the same compensation for their collection as was formerly allowed them for the collection of taxes on liquor dealers.

That the law imposing a tax of one-fourth of 1 per cent on the gross receipts of soft drink manufacturers and wholesale dealers be amended so as to require them to make their returns to the county tax collectors and pay their taxes to the county tax collectors instead of to the comptroller general.

That the legislature provide for a thorough revision of the state's revenue system so that there shall be a uniform system of assessment on all kinds of property.

That the terms of tax receivers and tax collectors be increased from two to four years in order that these officials may be better fitted to discharge the duties of their offices.

That a law be enacted which will give the comptroller general department the power to investigate the affairs of investment companies before they are granted licenses and which will permit that official to exercise a general supervision over the business of such companies.

That the law authorizing the commissioner of agriculture to draw warrants on the state treasurer for certain expenses of his office be repealed and that the authority to draw these and all other warrants be left with the governor.

CONDITION OF TREASURY.

The comptroller general's report shows the condition of the treasury on January 1, 1913, to have been as follows:

ATLANTA SHRINERS HAD A BIG BACON FRY YESTERDAY

The upper picture shows the nobles of Yaarab temple in a parade of jubilation and welcome to Potentate Forrest Adair when he got home from Dallas yesterday, after directing there the campaign that won for Atlanta the 1914 gathering of the Shriners of North America. The lower picture caught Mr. Adair just as he was about to whisper in to the ear of Yaarab camel some plans for that occasion.

POTENTATE FORREST ADAIR SAYS "I WON'T FORGET THE JOURNAL"

Editor The Journal:

From the very beginning I have felt confident that Atlanta would get the next meeting of the Imperial Council of Shriners, but I knew we would have to put up a hard fight as Memphis had been in the field for several weeks before we entered.

On last Monday, the day before the convention met, I told our boys in a caucus to look out for some surprise as I had some intuitive suspicion that silent work was being done against us in another direction.

This surprise was sprung at the last moment on Wednesday morning just as the committee met, but we were ready for it and had our forces well in hand and succeeded in keeping them so and avoiding any stampede.

When the committee's report was read favoring Buffalo, the "dark horse," I immediately addressed the chair and offered as a substitute that Atlanta's name be substituted for Buffalo. I then addressed the meeting and when I laid stress upon the fact that the citizens of Atlanta had raised over $75,000.00 in one day for their entertainment the applause was deafening and I knew we had "the bacon."

Only one city has heretofore raised that amount, and it took Los Angeles two months to do it.

The Imperial Council could not help showing due appreciation and admiration for a city with that kind of spirit.

I have not forgotten the fact that The Journal's editorial "COME ON ATLANTA" and its front page story the day before our canvass began, so stirred the people of Atlanta that the one-day result was wired all over America as a unique accomplishment that could be pulled off only in Atlanta.

I shall never forget this appeal The Journal made and the hearty response of our citizens.

FORREST ADAIR.

PASSENGERS MUST FOREGO THOSE APPETIZING MEALS SERVED BY W. F. WEAVER AT BOWERSVILLE

Judge J. K. Hines, Special Attorney for the State Railroad Commission, Renders an Interesting Opinion on the Unusual Petition of Proprietor of a Wayside Eating House

A unique opinion, one which is both humorous and serious, has been furnished the state railroad commission by its special attorney, Judge J. K. Hines, on the question of whether the commission has authority to require trains to stop at certain stations in order that their passengers may obtain meals.

The question was raised by W. F. Weaver, proprietor of an eating house at Bowersville, Ga. He petitioned the commission for an order compelling the passenger trains of the Elberton Air Line railroad to stop at that place sufficiently long for passengers to eat.

Mr. Weaver's petition was submitted to Judge Hines with a request for an opinion on the authority of the commission in such cases. The opinion follows:

"Mr. Weaver wants the commission to require the Elberton Air Line railroad to stop its morning train at Bowersville for breakfast. This train leaves Elberton at 6:40 a. m. and reaches Bowersville at 7:45 a. m. and reaches Toccoa at 8:55 a. m. where it connects with the Southern train which passes Toccoa at 9 a. m. for Atlanta.

"Mr. Weaver stands ready to furnish the eating house and the breakfast, if the railroad company would be or commission has authority to grant. He is a public, who are inclined to eat, to get breakfast there. This train leaves Elberton at 6:40 a. m. and reaches Toccoa at 8:55 a. m. where it connects with the Southern train which passes Toccoa at 9 a. m. for Atlanta.

"The situation is comic and tragic. Here are the enticing breakfasts, for which Bowersville is famous; and here are the drummers, those early birds of trade, who are ready to do justice to these feasts; and yet the Elberton Air Line railroad rushes them through Bowersville, empty, and with aching voids in the regions of their abdomens.

"I note that you wish my opinion upon the question whether the commission has authority to grant Mr. Weaver's request, and to require this company to stop its morning train long enough at Bowersville for travelers to breakfast there. Is there any remedy for Mr. Weaver, the drummer and the traveling public at large?

HAS AUTHORITY, BUT—

"I would not be rash enough to say that the commission could not in any case require a railroad company to stop its trains long enough to permit the traveling public to breakfast, dine or sup. You have general supervision of the years from 1880 up to and including 1912. In the former year the property on the digest was $238,934,126, railroad, telephone, telegraph and similar corporate property, $12,490,525—total, $251,424,651. In 1912 the property on the digest was $704,337,225, railroad, telephone, telegraph and similar corporate property, $138,021,114—total, $842,358,342.

The following statement shows increases in valuations in some of the chief items of property in Georgia for 1880, 1911 and 1912:

The Frog Tried Hard To Get Arrested But "It Wasn't Any Use"

Will Bailey, a Decatur street "shine" known as "the Frog," tried for three hours Saturday afternoon to get somebody at police headquarters to arrest him, but without success. They just wouldn't do it without the warrant.

"It's come to get arrested," he announced.

The sergeant couldn't find the warrant. Neither could the detectives, the chief, the policemen, the matron, or anyone else.

"The Frog" turned disconsolately away and sought Officer Bailey again. "It's no use, boss," he told him. "Nobody else 'll rest me. Ah reckon you'll have to do it."

The officer went back to the station with "the Frog" and after a long chase the warrant was discovered. Bailey was locked up for ten minutes, when he was released on a promise to Judge Powers to come to court at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

"The Frog's a good nigger," the judge said. "And I guess any man that tries to get arrested as hard as he did, will be at court all right when the time comes."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. SHERAM

Mrs. Mary M. Sherram died at her home on Ponce de Leon Place, Friday afternoon, May the 9, 1913, after many long months of pain and suffering. She has gone to be with her Maker, whom she loved and served throughout her life.

She was born July 3, 1850, at Johnstonville, Ga., and was the only daughter of John Johnston, of Johnstonville, who will be remembered by many of the first settlers of Monroe county, as a prominent and successful planter.

Mrs. Sherram lived at Johnstonville until 1886, when with her family, she moved to Atlanta to make her home. She is survived by five daughters: Mrs. Thomas E. Fagan, of College Park; Mrs. Walter L. Merritt, of Stone Mountain; Mrs. Harry B. Ferguson, Mrs. Lena S. Matthews and Miss Sallie Sherram, of this city, and one son, John D. Sherram, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Also two brothers, J. M. Johnston, of Macon, Ga., and W. F. Johnston, of Johnstonville, Ga. Her life was one of love and gentle kindness, and in the lives of hundreds of friends and loved ones, long will live her sweet memory. To know her was to love her, for she combined all the beautiful qualities of mind and heart with a life of perfect consistency.

The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon May 11, from the residence, by Rev. N. B. O'Kelly, and the interment was in West View.

GLADYS HANSON COMES HOME AFTER ANOTHER SEASON'S SUCCESS

Charming Atlanta Girl, Who Has Won New Laurels in Belasco's Production, "The Governor's Lady," Is Happy to Be With Her Family and Her Friends

Miss Gladys Hanson Snook, the Atlanta girl who has put her city on the theatrical map by obtaining a widely recognized success, returned home Saturday afternoon and will be with her family at their residence on Cleburne avenue for a month or more.

On July 1 she plans to sail for Europe to spend the remainder of the summer, returning in the fall to play in David Belasco's latest production, "The Governor's Lady," in which she takes one of the leading roles. Later in the season she will probably be starred in another Belasco play.

Miss Hanson is glad to be here, and her delight in coming home is more than matched by that of her many Atlanta friends, who welcome her return. They have watched her rapid rise in dramatic circles with interest and pride, heightened by the knowledge that deserved success in the north, east and west has not lessened her love for Dixie and the people who claim her as their own.

She comes back to us this year with new laurels. In "The Governor's Lady" her work helped not a little to make the play a winner. It had a long run in New York last winter and in other large eastern cities, winding up the season in Gotham by appearing before crowded houses in the leading theaters of the city. Miss Hanson's reputation for beauty and charm and for histrionic ability advanced considerably in the course of the season's run.

Her career is one without parallel in later day stage annals. True, she has had her disappointments, but it is seldom that a young actress gains the heights reached by Miss Hanson with more rapidity. Since she "broke into" the theatrical game several seasons ago in Daniel Frohman's adaptation of "The Spoilers" she has played under the management of the foremost theatrical men in the United States and with actors who are recognized stars. She was with E. H. Sothern; was with Kyrle Bellew's leading lady; played with Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske, acknowledged to be America's best actress, and now, in Belasco's company, her star of fortune has never been so brilliant.

"I would not give up my work," declares Miss Hanson, "for anything in the world. What success I may have

YAARAB PATROL IS ARRESTED IN MEMPHIS

Victorious Atlanta Shriners Sentenced to Take Three Drinks

Atlanta's victorious Shrine patrol and drum corps will roll into the Terminal station this morning at 10 o'clock over the Southern railway from Dallas, Tex., where they stormed the annual convention of the Shriners and secured the next great meeting of 1914 for this city.

The patrol and drum corps are taking their time to get back by spending a day at Hot Springs, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn. The members took a day off at the famous bath resort on Friday and took in the sights of the town. They departed that evening arriving in Memphis yesterday morning.

There they were met by the Memphis Shriners and placed under arrest charged with having beaten Memphis out of the next annual convention. The prisoners were marched into court presided over by the imperial potentate and given the limit of the law for their success in bucking Memphis at Dallas.

"I will sentence all of you," said the judge, "to three drinks each and twelve months in Atlanta. That is the most severe form of punishment that I can think of."

The criminals were then released on their own recognizance and carried for an automobile ride over the city.

The welcome accorded them was as rousing as it was sincere. The Memphis Shriners proved good losers and even better entertainers. There was nothing too good for the Atlantians. When the victors left for home they had the promise of every arresting officer to attend the grand convocation here in 1914.
