of the state department's contention will be carried out.

Another view of the expressed declaration in the Webb law that it was not to be contrued as abrogating may treaty provision, which thereby appeared to assure the Japanese against unlawful escheatment of their property, it was felt that the national government could do nothing less than admit that the framers of the Webb act seemed to have succeeded in their purpose to make it proof against attacks

Officials gather from the Tokio dispotches that the negotiations are drifting into the stage of pure disputation, where the international lawyers on both sides will have ample opportunity to exercise the full resources in determining the exact relation between the California law and the treaty of 1911. Some expect that the result will be an invocation by the Japanese government of the right of arbitration guaranteed by the special treaty of 1908

The throngs o nthe streets were good naturedly enthuisastic in their demonstrations and there was an almost constant roll of cheering throughout the day. The weather was again fine. The police handled the crowds with suavity and skill.

None of the ladies of the imperial and royal families participated in the welcome to Emperor Nicholas at the station, since he was not accompanied by the Russian empress. The scene, however, gained in magnificence, owing to the presence of King George and his suite with the striking white wool caps of the Russian emperor's attendants and the vari-colored robes of several Russian priests.

The great terminus had been cleared of people an hour before the arrival of the Russian emperor's train, and

> CUT ALONG THIS LINE. WHAT THE ANSWER BOOK IS

We are in receipt of a letter from a gentleman in St. Petersburg, Fla., asking us to tell him just what the Answer Book is, saying that if it is a book containing the correct answers to the 75 prize pictures be cannot see any use of the Campaign

We hope there are not many of our readers who do not understand just what the Answer Book is and what it means to them to have the Answer Book. For the benefit of those who do not understand we will try to make the matter clear The Answer Book was arranged to supply the contestants with a convenient method of submitting their answers at the close of the Campaign. There are 150 pages in it, 75 for the prize pictures to be pasted in it and 75 pages for the answers to the prize pictures. The answers to the pictures you will get from The Journal's Official Book catalogue, containing 4,000 book titles, including the 75 used Another advantage in baving an Answer Book is that you need only one of each picture to submit ten Answers to the picture. If you wanted to submit ten answers to each picture under the old plan it would be necessary to have a picture and coupon for every answer you submitted. To submit 750 Answers on that plan would cost you $15.00. With the Answer Book it will only cost Journal readers 80c to submit the full ten Answers to each picture.

If those who do not thoroughly understand the plan will come in or send a request to The Journal we will mail them a four-page circular giving all the necessary information in regard to this wonderful Booklovers' Game.

A lady who had been trading at one of the many credit groceries scattered throughout the city, attracted by our advertising, stepped into one of the Rogers Stores a few days ago and made purchases to the amount of $7.55. The prices on several of the articles she bought were so noticeably much lower that she decided to compare them all when she arrived home. Upon comparing them, she found that, from the grocer with whom she had been trading, these same groceries cost her $9.48, or $1.93 more. She had saved almost 30 per cent by buying from one of the Rogers Stores.

Once Perhaps in a Season Such

A Lace Sale

As This At Nine o'Clock Tomorrow

Smyrna, Torchorn, Cluny, Irish and Valenciennes Laces At Wonderfully Low Prices

We would not pose as prophets, but we do predict eager, happy crowds here for laces tomorrow, when the covers are lifted at nine o'clock and this sale gets under way! It will be but the logical sequence of events-given such a cause at this season-wanted laces at fractional prices-and the result is—well, consider your own wants.

You would ordinarily buy, for a hundred and one purposes, many, many yards of just such laces within a sixmonth. You need them; you must have them; no denying that. This sale is calculated to make it very evident that now is the time to supply yourself against all the emergencies of a sixmonth. Prices are fractioned—and the laces are all of that quality that you are accustomed to associate with Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co., and therein lies the completed merit of the sale—quality priced.

Here is the schedule of the savings:

GRAND JURY TO PROTECT FISH IN LAKEWOOD LAKE

True Bill Found Against Southern Wood Preserving Co. for Spoiling Waters

A true bill for a misdemeanor charge was found by the grand jury Wednesday against the Southern Wood Preserving company on a bill prepared by Deputy Game Warden Binder of this county, who charged the company with polluting the waters of Lakewood lake and killing fish there.

The Southern Wood Preserving company's plant is located just meyond Fort McPherson, and is situated near a creek which empties into the lake at Lakewood. It was this small stream that carried some preparation, presumably a composition made up of a large part of creosote, that made the waters of the lake almost uninhabitable by the finny tribe, according to people who live in the vicinity of Lakewood and who complained to the county game warden.

Middletown, Pa.-"I had headache, backache and such awful bearing down pains that I could not be on my feet at times and I had organic inflammation so badly that I was not able to do my work. I could not get a good meal for my husband and one child. My neighbors said they thought my suffering was terrible.

"My husband got tired of seeing me suffer and one night went to the drug store and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me I must take it. I can't tell you all I suffered and I can't tell you all that your medicine has done for me. I was greatly benefited from the first and it has made me a well woman. I can do all my housework and even helped some of my friends as well. I think it is a wonderful help to all suffering women. I have got several to take it after seeing what it has done for me."-Mrs. EMMA ESPENSHADE, 219 East Main St. Middletown, Pa.

The Pinkham record is a proud and honorable one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman -ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

The Georgia Prison Association---Its Constructive Purpose.

Georgia is fortunate in having a Prison Assoplation that stands for practical and specific improvements in the State's penal system without going to those extremes of method of speech which too often retard or dissipate reform movements, however meritorious within themselves they may be. The most effective means for removing an Evil is to show the people just wherein it is harmful to their interests and unworthy of their ideals and then to point out a definite, feasible remedy. Beldom is a straightforward appeal to the public's frommon sense and conscience in vain.

The Prison Association of Georgia is composed of good citizens in various parts of the commonwealth who believe that for economic a well as Jumanitarian reasons there should be certain constructive changes in the present methods of dealing with prisoners. They recognize the great forlward stride that was taken when the Legislature abolished the old system of leasing convicts to private interests. They fully recognize the value of The new and more generous order to the cause of good roads and the development of the counties. But they are also convinced that through certain well considered changes this system can be still further improved and made far more productive of good on both the humane and practical side.

Hence, the association has tendered its aid to the Legislature in the working out of remedial measures for such evils and weaknesses as now exist. Questions of this kind will naturally arise at the forthcoming session of the General Assembly; for clear-headed business men in various counties realize that improvements in the present penal system are needed, and probably every member of the House and the Senate who has given serious thought to such matters is of like opinion.

The Prison Association, having Jone much thor-Tough and conservative work in studying questions Tike this in other States as well as in Georgia, should be of invaluable service to the Legislature; and its counsel will be particularly worth while for The reason that it deals with facts and in seeking to make things as they ought to be never loses weight of things as they are.

The Spirit of Modern Education.

The fact that the mayor of Philadelphia, accompanied by a large body of officials and citizens. is going to the University of Wisconsin to take a week's course of lectures on municipal management is, in two respects, highly interesting. It sighifies, for one thing, that progressive public officials are realizing the need of wide and accurate knowledge in the administration of a community's affairs and are eager to learn all they can.

But in addition to this, it signifies the closer relationships that are springing up between our "educational institutions and the country's practical interests. It is a noteworthy fact that the University of Wisconsin should offer a course of lectures on city government. A few decades ago Such enterprise was almost unknown in our schools and colleges. A college was regarded as a place where one could learn languages and certain sciences and acquire a kind of personal "finish," but not as an institution in close, sympathetic touch with the world's daily work.

How different it is today! One of the motfoes of the University of Wisconsin is this: "Reach all the people all the time," and that in effect is The motto of scores of other influential schools Sothroughout the country. What is the secret of the * wonderful progress of the Georgia State College of *Agriculture and of the Georgia Normal and Industrial College, of Tech and the University and other such institutions? It is the fact that they are striving continually to be of practical service to the people.

Well, it begins to look as if we wouldn't fight Japan after all, despite a warlike governor and a Yew editors.

Supervising the Milk Supply.

Nothing is more characteristic of the present time, when the principles of conservation are being so liberally applied to human as well as economic and agricultural interests, than the various laws which are being enacted as guarantees of pure food and the public's health. In reactionary quarters such measures are naturally challenged and are described as the city's or State's or nation's interference with private business rights. But it is a significant fact that well framed laws of this character are almost invariably upheld by the

A particularly notable instance in point is the recent decision of the United States supreme court affirming the constitutionality of the Milwaukee milk ordinance which empowers the health officials of that city to exercise the closest supervision over the public's milk supply. They are authorized, among other things, to confiscate milk that does not meet the requirements of the tuberculin test, and to destroy infected cattle.

The supreme court holds that such a law is not at variance with the constitution, and in doing so it coincides with the view previously taken by a number of State courts, notably those of Kentucky, Minnesota, Wisconsin and New Jersey. The Chicago Tribune, in commenting on the decision, aptly remarks:

Opponents of this ordinance will, of course, continue to characterize it as drastic in the extreme. Persons, however, who have the health and welfare of the community at heart will readily agree that no measure can be too drastic where lives of infants are in question. The authorities in charge of the milk situation should proceed to make the most of this decision.

The campaign for pure milk is nation-wide. In the entire Union there is scarcely a city of importance that is not making diligent effort to safeguard consumers in general and families with infants in particular against adulterated and unclean milk. In the more progressive communities this movement has been carried still further through well_organized endeavors to improve the quality and increase the nutriment of the milk that is sold. Physicians and women's clubs have joined in this work with the health authorities, and, not infrequently, the dairymen themselves are cooperating, much to their own welfare and profit.

Atlanta has particular cause to be interested in such enterprises. It has earned the foremost rank among all American cities in the percentage of the reduction of its infant death rate during the past nine years. That valuable record must be maintained through the same means by which it was established, namely, a continued and extended campaign in behalf of public health, and especially children's health.

Much has been done in recent seasons to assure the purity of the city's milk supply; but much more can and should be done; for, there is perhaps no more prolific source of infantile disease and death than milk which is produced or dispensed under insanitary conditions. The municipal authorities and the Fulton County Medical Association, generously supported by the local branch of the Child's Welfare movement, are now considering still more inclusive and effective plans in this regard. It is to be hoped that their worthy efforts will materialize and that Atlanta may soon be known as a model city for the supervision of its milk supply.

The Southward Trend.

The Southward trend of settlers and investors is witnessed in a recently formed plan to colonize large tracts of land in Texas with Canadian farmers. This is but one among scores of instances which show that the South is fast becoming the Mecca of those who are looking for free and fertile opportuities. "Texas is big enough" comments the Boston Transcript, "to stand a vast volume of immigration without being crowded. Its resources are so varied that within its boundaries can be raised cotton, wheat, corn, grapes, melons fruits and politicians in unlimited quantities." In so far as the natural resources mentioned are concerned, this description is equally applicable to Georgia and, andeed, to the entire South.

THE INCOME TAX

XV .- Japan's Remarkable Rates. BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Nowhere else in the world can a people be found who are more heavily taxed than are the Japanese. Certain it is that if the people of the United States.

who habitually complain of their high taxes, had been educated up to the Japanese standard of tax paying they would regard our present taxes as feather light. In the first place we must remember that Japan is not as big as California, and that its arable land, if placed in one body, would not make a greater amount of territory than the state of West Virginia. Then it must be borne in mind that Japan has a population sc dense that a similar density in the United States would give us more than a billion inhabitants With this in mind, it is interesting to reflect that the 50,-000,000 people who inhabit this small territory must not only make their own living, but must contribute annually a quarter of a billion dollars to the national treasury. Five dollars per capita where wages are less per day, as a rule, than they are per hour in the United States! Small wonder that Japan greans under the burden, and little surprise that its government levies the highest income tax in the world! . . .

There are some striking things about the Japanese income tax law, and none of them more so than the provision that corporations and stock companies shall be taxed at a lower rate than individuals. The tax on an income of $50,000 in the hands of an individual is 20.35 per cent; in the hands of a corporation or company having more than twenty-one shareholders it is 6.25 per cent. The exemptions in Japan also are low. Any one who has an income or more than $75 a year must face the income tax conjector. And he who has an income of as much as $100,000 must pay one-third of it all in taxes each year.

The Japanese income tax law dates from 1899. The rate was then fixed at 2 1-2 per cent on all incomes above the exemption of 150 yen, or $75. The rates of taxation were increased during the war with Russia, in 1904, and again after its close in 1905. The promise was made that as soon as the exigencies of the war were passed the tax would be reduced to its former status, but Japan still groans under its war taxes, and as long as it maintains its ambitions -v be - world power there is little chance of any reduction. The rate is graduated from 4 per cent to 33 per cent.

The general scheme of exemptions is not a liberal one by any means. The salaries of officers and privates while engaged in war are exempt, allowances to widows, orphans and sick and wounded soldiers come in the same category, as do monies received for traveling and school expenses and the incomes of corporations not conducted for profit. Double taxation in the case of corporations and companies is avoided by the provision that the income of an individual derived from these sources may not be taxed. In the matter of differentiation between earned and unearned income the usual practice is almost reversed. In order to encourage the formation of corporations the tax on the incomes derived from their bonds is only 2 per cent. It is probable that this same desire is responsible for the provision that the general tax on the incomes of corporations is lower than that on individuals.

The Japanese adopt the general idea that incomes should be taxed in proportion to their size, and follow this idea partly with reference to artificial persons and fully with reference to natural persons. After the income reaches a point where the creature wants of men are met, the tax begins to advance by leaps and bounds, and the very rich are taxed until they feel it, just as the people of small incomes are. The Japanese idea of giving to the government seems to be that of the preacher who declared to his members that it was the duty of every man to give to the church until he felt it, and that what costs no selfdenial is not enough to give. . . .

In assessing the tax in Japan each individual is required to furnish the government with a statement of his income. In the case of incomes of corporations having more than twenty-one shareholders the law permits, in addition to the deduction of actual expenses from the gross income, the deduction of losses for the business year, the balance brought forward from the previous year, and the amount reserved to meet liabilities for insurance. . . .

In assessing individual incomes, the individual is allowed to deduct the expenses of conducting his business, but is not permittted to take off his household expenses. In the cases of income derived from interest, dividends, salaries, wages, allowances, annuities and pensions, no deductions on account of expenses are permitted. Incomes derived from lands are calculated on the basis of a three-year period average.

The assessment and collection of the income tax in Japan is under the direct supervision of the national financial department, and the work is done simply as a part of the regular internal revenue service. In the assessment of the incomes of individuals the government is aided by assessment commissions, made up of members who are elected for each district by the taxpayers themselves, and who serve for four years, with half of them retiring every two years. These commissions receive no pay for the services, but are reimbursed for their traveling and other expenses. Where these commissions are careless in completing their work the tax office may go ahead independent of them, or where it has reason to believe that the commission has failed to protect the interests of the government it may order a reinvestigation. . . .

appeals are permitted only by individuals, since the incomes of corporations are calculated from their own annual reports, and since interest incomes permit of no dispute. If an individual decides to appeal he must, within twenty days after receipt of a statement of his assessment, bring it to the attention of the taxation office of his district. That office, in turn, takes the matter up with the revenue superintending bureau which has oversight of a number of taxation offices. The revenue superintending bureau has a permanent committee of inquiry, which is made up of three tax collectors appointed by the minister of finance and four members of the local investigation committee. However, the aggrieved taxpayer must go on paying the tax fixed by the taxation office. A person still unsatisfied with his assessment may petition the local authorities or have the matter tested in the courts. . . .

A person who evades the tax by concealing the true amount of his income is liable to a fine amounting to three times the tax evaded. Where such a tax dodger gets some compunction of conscience after he had dodged the tax and voluntarily confesses to what he has done, he is completely absolved from punishment, and required to pay only the tax that is due. There are no other penalties attached to the law, and there are no special provisions made for the detection of fraudulent returns.

. . . About 10 per cent of all the taxes of Japan are collected through its income tax law. There are appreximately a million income taxpayers in the empire, so that it appears that only two in each hundred persons enjoy an annual income of as much as $75. Assuming that each of these taxpayers is the head of an average family of five, it will be seen that about 10 per cent of the people are directly or indirectly assesssed with the tax.

THE COMMONPLACE

BY DR. PRANK CRANE. (Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The people of the world may be divided into two classes, those who find their happiness in the usual, and those who find their happiness in the unusual.

The first are as a rule healthy, contented, helpful and optimistic.

The second are as a rule morbid, restless, pessimistic, and nuisances to all around them.

The most important thing for a human being to learn, is it not how to live his life with a maximum of contentment and care of body and mind, and the minimum of friction?

Those have discovered what is perhaps the greatest secret of existence, who have come to realize that it is in the commonplace that one is to find permanent satisfaction; and that the extraordinary, strange and occasional sources of pleasure are to be regarded as'a matter by the way, not to be taken account of in their program.

Yet the majority of silly mortals never learn this. Consequently, most people are more or less soured, peevish and discontented.

It is the duty of our teachers to lead us to the enjoyment of life's everydayness.

The sum of culture, of wisdom and of intelligent experience consists in an appreciation of the ordinary events and circumstances, and in a proper discounting of the occasional.

The happiest wife and mother is the one whose delight is in the daily round of the home, the companicuship of her husband, the care and guidance of her children. The unhappiest is the wife who is longing to escape this, who calls it drudgery, and whose pleasures are found only in the occasional excursion, theater or social diversion.

The happiest business man is the man to whom business is fun. The unhappiest is the man who looks upon his occupation as a grind, and whose pleasure is in breaking away.

The happiest workman is the one who enjoys his work; the unhappiest is the one whose work worries him and who is alway: looking forward to getting away from it.

The great sources of human joy are all common-They are Nature, Love and Self-expression (work and play). Anybody can have these. They are as common as dirt. They are as near to the reach of the section hand as to the reach of the railway president. They lie as close to the grocer as to the college professor. Any one can learn how to get the honey of joy from Nature, from her sun and wave and field. Any one can love and be loved, and fully as gloriously in a tenement as in a mansion. Any one can find work to do and games to play thereby. Two clerks playing seven-up on a soap box in a back room can get precisely as much fun out of the game as two dress-suited Charlies in a plush-lined club house, The cheaper and commoner a thing, the more joy juice in it. For there is more exhilaration, take it by and large, in water, than in all varieties or booze, more good feelings produced by bread and butter than by cake and bar le duc, more comfort in loving your wife and playing with your children than in loving other men's wives and regarding children I call a man truly converted, or enlightened, or born again, or emancipated, or whatever expression suits you, when he has weeded out of his soul the lust for the exceptional, and when he has learned that the greatest fun in the world is TO LIVE and to enjoy those pleasures of life that are COMMON TO ALL THE RACE. In time past people could see religion only in extraordinary things, in miracles, abnormal saints, and esoteric tommyrot; now the world is awakening to see that it is the daily existence that is made free and joyous by faith.

Happiness is a fruit that grows low along the ground; little children and wise men pick it. Fools are looking up at the trees.

Near the close of the first act one of the young women timidly whispered to a heavy, middle aged man at her side, who had been sitting stiffly and looking straight ahead:

> PLEASANT PARTY IS RIGHT. (From the Charleston News and Courier.)

About twenty guests left the palatial Pine Forest Inn yesterday morning in comfortable conveyances for the far-famed Magnolia Gardens, and the day was delightfully passed, for the companionable and the almost unrivalled attractions of the scenery, the flowers and the foliage proved to be entrancing. The pleasant party had an orchestra along, and the woods resounded with the melody of favorite airs. It was a day dream, and the Gardens, with their wealth of azaleas, japonicas, camellias; their avenues of green and glowing shrubbery, fringed with rare flowers; the romantic walks and lovely lakes, seemed a veritable fairyland. Music added to the charm; so did the fair, bright women, the impersonation of grace and sweetness. Lingering by the side of the picturesque lake, which mirrored the branches of grand old trees and of beautiful blossoms, admiringly gazing at the symbolic cypress, the majestic magnolia, the clinging ivy and high hedges studded with the fair, white Cherokee roses, every one thought of the glory and grandeur of this earthly paradise, and it was with regret that they left the Gardens. NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS STRONG AND HIGHER

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Northern Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Sugar Led

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, May 22.—There was active selling of the leading stocks at the opening but offerings were absorbed readily and the list beld near yesterday's close. National Railways of Mexico second preferred and Canadian Pacific declined a point and Baltimore and Ohio convertibles reached a new low price at 92. Reading was unchanged on large sales and slight fractional losses were recorded for the other traders. The first sale of the New York City 41/2's was a block of $400,000 at Brisk buying of ind'vidual stocks infused a petter tone into the general market, but the demand for recognized leaders was rather light. anadian Pacific rallied considerabl. Speculative sentiment improved today, although further weakness was exhibited by a few minor railroad and industrial shares. The representative stocks, after an initial period of heaviness, ruled slightly higher on the day. The fact that a good market existed for the new city bonds at par or better was regarded as reassuring. Bonds irregular.

The market gave a good exhibition of strength the early afternoon and became more active on the rise. All of the well known stocks were bid up a half point or more. Reading, Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific and Southern Parific were strongest. Low priced copper shares were bought heavoily on dividend rumors. Shorts were much perturbed over the agcressive rise in prices without apparent change n speculative conditions to explain it. Stocks were in scant supply except at steadily rising figures and the ease with which Union Pacific jumped 216 and Reading 2 points testified to the overextended short position in these properties. Advances of between 1 and 2 points were scatered pretty liberally all through the list. The upward movement was cheked when the Harriman stocks weakened on profit taking. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific reacted a point and other issues half as much. Offerings were not advanced on the market extensively and final dealings were characterized by dullness and a return to stead ness.

ALDERMAN J. B. EVERETT IS SUED FOR ALIMONY

Suit aWs Filed by Mrs, Clara Everett in Superior Court Thursday

Alderman James B. Everett on Thursday was made a defendant in a suit filed in the superior conurt by his wife Mrs. Clara E. Everett, for temporary and permanent alimony. The petitioner asks also that the court requnire the defendant to pay all court costs and at-

The petitioner alleges that she and her husband have been for some time living separately, and says further that self and in consequence is now living with friends. The defendant, the petition claims, is now employed with the Theatrical club at a good salary.

The petitioner states also that she owns an equity in a house and lot at 659 North Boulevard, which the defendant 'persuaded her to encumber" with a mortgage for $3,100, which funds were "dissipated by the defendant," the peti-

Will your town be void of attractiveness--cheer. comfort, health, and sanitation? Will it have improper sewerage, inadequate light and water systems, poor streets, and unsightly pavements?

To increase and hold your town's populationto make it grow -- it is absolutely necessary to have modern municipal improvements.

Three hundred towns have prospered by our methods. Let us tell you how we planned, estimated, financed, constructed and operated their sewerage, light and water power systems.

AMERICAN FASHIONS

By Lillian Young.

Taken as a whole, the evening gowns of the season show the corsage of fine lace or chiffon, or both, one over the other. A charming eccentricity, which is found in many of these, is the bringing up to the sides of the neck and covering the shoulders, so that the decolletage is of Mrs. a. E. Wheeler on Third street. only seen directly in front and back in the form of a U-shaped opening that drops low, revealing the neck. The blouse portion of the evening gown here shown is made on this plan, with ivory white chiffon forming the side sections and the small tucker over the bust. Both are finished with hemstitched edges. The rest of the gown is made of Nile green brocaded charmeuse. Sleeves of it are set in dropped armholes of the chiffon blouse, and in back and front there are two oddly shaped bib sections that cross each other above the belt and give the appearance of a continuation of the skirt material. These are outlined with a cordsorge Forrester will be hostess at a ing of self material.

The trained skirt opens down one side and is slashed at the feet. In front some draping laid in foils falls' away along either side, and the rest of the skirt is gathered a little around the waist. There atternoon bridge party Friday in is a crushed girdle with a single sash, one of Mrs. George Varden and Mrs. and partly covering the front opening of gard King, whose marriages were black satin through tulle or chiffon would look softer and more transparent. It is an exceptionally good design, to be developed in a solid white evening gown. In fact, any of the wide range of beautiful evening colors should prove adaptable to it. There was a time when the sash was essentially a feature of the fluffy thin dress, and even then it belonged to the wardrobe of the young girl. JUNE The MONTH OF WEDDINGS

The pleasure of giving as well as the joy of receiving depends greatly upon the amount of thought and personality used in selecting a gift. In presenting an appropriate, wellchosen gift the idea of dollars and cents value is secondary, as it properly should be.

Now that June, the season of many weddings, is approaching it is well for those contemplating the purchase of gifts to bestir themselves and decide upon what they will give.

THE JOURNAL'S advertising columns offer many suggestions that are timely and valuable. A careful reading will doubtless solve the perplexing question of "what to give."

Using THE JOURNAL'S advertisements as a guide, one not only makes sure of covering a wide variety of possible gifts, but also greatly simplifies the actual purchasing and sending of presents.

The lining is negligible and is usually made up of coarse net or very thin China silk; the former is preferred because it makes the gown cooler and one must wear a thin silk slip, or one of batiste, under the gown, whether or not it is lined.

This Bohemian net is a filet weave and is called shadow net as well. It came into fashion a year ago as a means of draping gowns and also for suits; this year it is made up into entime gowns and it is said to wash as well as the wash tulle which was formerly used under the name of net.

There has also been a revival of white cotton point d'esprit for whole costumes, and this also is taken up from days when women chose gowns of these fabrics in preference to those of'emboridered muslin or printed chitfon. The fashion has come about through the desire for fabrics that were worn in the second empire and were again worn during the civil war. Matelasse is one of these, so is grenadine, marquisette, flowered voile, printed taffeta and blue and yellow

It was only natural to bring in point these other fabrics had been revived. It is also natural that the dressmakers should put a neat touch to it by using a enough to withstand many months of wearing and has enough novelty to

BEYOND THE GAME. We may not see beyond the Game-What waits across the Final Score: Nor know what phantom dreams acclaim. The future league that lies in store;

No football comes-no given sign-No beckoning-no backward glance Where Fame's dead roses guard the line Beyond which Life may not advance.

We may not look into the sleep Where lilies lean across the day-How broken there-how long or deep Where life's lost winds kneel down to pray;

For knowing-we might find the sting To take all heart from valiant strife; Or, death's Gray League too dear a thing To give one other day to Life.

THE TRUST-BUSTERS. We understand the bill against the baseball trust has been buried waist deep in committee. If it is ever revived again one glance at a certain name in both Standings of the Clubs will show said committee exactly where to impart the first official blow.

Frank Chance, batting for two men in one inning, tore off a victory. But some fans are never satisfied. One writes in to know just why the P. L. can't bat for all nine of his men and blow himself to another pennant. But Mr. Murphy still insists thart he intends to dig up a cluster of new slabmen at once.

TECHNICAL IS PROPER.

In other words the Cub magnate is now in a highly technical position -highly technical being the only proper phrase. He has two of the greatest receivers in baseball-with little or nothing to receive. What does it profit a mogul to have the greatest catcher in the world where only one per cent of thrown balls manages to reach the catcher's waiting love.

Back in March Mr. Murphy deftly opined that "pitching strength wasn't everything to a ball club, anyway." Probably not. But just the same he can now appreciate the logic of the old Pickwickian melody-viz .-

> Bah-what tommyrot: They may not make the prison

"Stone walls do not a prison make?

But they help an auful lot."

"Why all this talk about Johnson being the greatest pitcher of the game, writes in J. K. F. "What else has he got besides speed?" What else has A. Carnegie got besides $400,000,000? Not a cent in the world.

THE CLEVELAND UPLIFT. The order must have changed in Cleveland after all, despite the recent Charley Somers, proprietor of the Naps, dropped into town a day or two ago. Despite the fact that Lajoie had a brace of cracked fingers and Birmingham was hobbling on a shattered leg the Cleveland mogul could harly be restrained from giving three cheers.

"We have a regular ball club now," he announced, "and that means a ball club that isn't to be stopped by one or two losses. In the old days we curled up under the first mishap. Now the bunch is out there fighting harder than ever. Birmingham has not only made good but several doubtful propositions have come through far beyond our hopes. Whether we win this season or not the old days of Cleveland baseball are gone and this means a start at least."

In so far as world series ambitions are concerned we have but one or two left. One is to see Nap Lajoie in one at least-after seventeen years' service. The other is to see Walter Johnson turned loose in a sevengame series, keyed up to the exact angle. Cobb, Walsh, Wagner, Mathewson, Baker, etc., have had their splash, the other two haven't-and both are due.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

some Breeders Who Have Made Poultry Raising Profitable

FIMBALLVILLE FARM is another splendidly equipped poultry, pigeon, and dairy, as well as floral establishment near Atlanta, and while this place was principally started for recreation and pleasure in connection with the Kimball House a large and growing business has been built up from a small start of pigeons on the roof of the Kimball House a few years ago, and today Kimballville Farm has a flock of White Orpingtons, White Leghorns, Indian Runner ducks, squab breeding pigeons; a herd of Jersey cattle, a herd of Berksire hogs, and a floral establishment that any one should feel proud of. It is one of the show places around Atlanta, and an afternoon can be profitably and pleasantly spent inspecting the sights of this place.

To a certain extent these different establishments and the interest that has gradually grown in this work all over Georgia has been the direct cause of being establishin Atlanta possibly the largest and best equipped poultry plant in the world, now owned by Mr. Asa G. Candler, Jr., in Druid Hills, near Kimballville Farm. This plant possibly represents an outlay of some $200,000, and I doubt if there is a better equipped place in the world. With a hatching capacity of 26,000 eggs, and breeding pens that will accommodate 15,000 grown birds and 10,000 to 25,000 young ones makes this one of the most complete poultry plants in the entire country. Fresh eggs and fat, plump broilers are made a specialty of at this plant. In addition to this possibly the best collections of Orpingtons ever brought to gether in the United States can be found on this farm. It is a revelation to any one to visit this plant, and few people in this country who realize what a big thing it is and what it is worth to Atlanta to have established in its suburbs such a object lesson and a school of education where any one in a few days see and get knowledge and information from visiting this plant that it would take a life time to gain otherwise. Mr. Candler has secured Mr. May to anage and have done the detail work connected with this great establishment. He is a live, wide-awake, energetic man and everything shows that e knows his business and keeps things moving day and night around this

In addition to these there are many successful breeders' establishments over the state and the work that they are doing in distributing good blood and creating an interest that will eventually help others is tremendous. There is not one of these places but that has so attracted the teention of different ones that they have brought the section in which they are located to the notice of the public, and to a large extent the rapid development and the upbuilding, especially in Druid Hills in the adjoining seighborhood of Kimballville Farm, the interest in real estate and improvements and increase value of property in this section can be traced to a certain extent to the notoriety given this section by the many visitors that have been attracted by this place that probably would have never been done if they had not been located in this section. This same thing can be said of the large plant that is established at Lackawanna Springs, near Jacksonville, Fla. It was and is today a revelation to the people of that section. It attracts the attention of hundreds of people who visit this plant. Every feet of land in the adjoining-neighborhood has been cut up in city lots and sold, although it is sixteen miles from Jacksonville and handsome residences are now being constructed throughout this territory. Things of this kind, while they look little to many they have an influence that in dollars and cents can never be estimated, and the poultry industry from a business standpoint is doing its share towards developed and upbuilding the entire United States probably faster than any other one line of work. It is yet in its infancy and thre is no tening eventually what the American hen will bring forth in dollars and cents to the nation in more ways

SIX NEW BUNGALOWS AND

SIXTEEN BUILDING LOTS AT AUCTION

Saturday, May 24th, 3 P. M.

IN THE Tenth ward on Warner street, and Allene and Woodrow avenues. Just two blocks from the splendid car service to East Point, College Park, and Hape-Also convenient to the Stewart avenue car line.

THIS property is in a rapidly growing section, close to the new $40,000 "Adair" Public school, and only two blocks from Adair Park.

ONE of Atlanta's best citizens, Mr. I. N. Ragsdale has developed this property, sparing neither time nor money to bring this property to a point of desirablity that would make it acceptable to the better class of citizens for homes.

WITH this purpose uppermost in mind, he has built six very attractive bungalows. Built them of good material and with day labor, exercising good taste and rare good judgment in all the details of arrangement, and construction. These are not the usual "built to sell" affairs.

EACH house has a small loan, which the purchaser assumes as part of the price. The balance will be paid in small monthly payments without interest. A small eash payment will be required, ranging from $100 to $250. This is an unusually easy arrangement that should appeal to every buyer of a home.

THE lots will be sold on very easy terms, with 6 per cent simple interest.

THE lots lie particularly well, many of them having nice shade. They will make desirable and valuable home sites. Several of them have the added value of two street fronts.

Take East Point or College Park cars. Get off at Gammages. A big sign will direct you to the property. Get plats from

WE HAVE FOR TRADE FOR ATLANTA PROPERTY a 400-aere farm in Bartow county. two miles from Kingston. This farm fronts on the W. & A. road and is well improved. and is a fine cotton and grain farm. It has a beautiful 16-room coloniel house that cost something like $7,500 or more to build it. Has barn and tenant houses. Outside of this being one of the best farms in that section, it is full of minerals, consisting of cement rock, in a large quantity. It has been tested and is of the very best quality of cement. Has beauxite, pyrites, fine brown iron ore and manganese iron ore. This being right on the rallroad makes it a very valuable piece of property. We have a party now wanting to lease this on a royalty of 65 cents a ton for bauxite and 15 cents for the cement and iron ore.
