CHARRED BODIES FOUND IN RUINS OF STEVENS HOME

Robert Bacon, Truman H. Newberry, Gifford Pinchot, Newspaper Men and Many Others Testify in Libel Suit

(By Associated Press.)

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 28.—Introduction of further testimony to show the abstemious habits of the plaintiff was resumed today in the libel suit of Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Newett, publisher of the "Iron Ore," of Ishpeming, Mich., who charged him with drunkenness.

John Callan O'Laughlin, a Washington correspondent, was the first witness.

Colonel Roosevelt entered the court room with George Shiras, his host here, and took his accustomed seat with a row of spectators inside the railing. His gaze turned upon the jury and then upon O'Laughlin as the latter was sworn.

During court proceedings the former president sits quietly caressing his heavy watch chain. He does it slowly and reflectively rather than nervously.

Mr. Newett, the defendant, came into court with his counsel. He is very ill but his ruddy countenance hid this from all but those who knew him well.

He sat looking straight in front of him and not at any one in particular, utterly motionless as he has sat thus far in the proceedings.

O'LAUGHLIN'S TESTIMONY.

Although Colonel Roosevelt, on returning to Europe from his African hunt, was obliged to attend banquets and receptions, he never indulged in champagne to an immoderate degree, was the testimony of O'Laughlin, who said he had been associated with Colonel Roosevelt for twenty years.

The witness said he met the former president on the night after the African hunt and accompanied him as far as Paris, acting as his secretary. O'Laughlin also accompanied the colonel on various campaign trips.

"During your twenty years' experience with Colonel Roosevelt, have you ever seen him in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor?"

"I not only never saw him under the influence of liquor but it seems absolutely silly to me to have any one suggest the fact that he ever was," replied O'Laughlin.

"At banquets have you ever seen him drink any liquor?"

"At banquets he sometimes took a glass of white wine. I never saw him drink more than one glass of champagne."

O'Laughlin described the various dinners, official and otherwise, given at Washington.

"Will you tell this jury whether Mr. Roosevelt mixed his drinks or not."

NO MIXED DRINKS.

"If he took champagne he never took anything else."

A question involving the custom of former presidents in regard to liquors at banquets caused objection by counsel for the defense. The court held it was competent for the plaintiff to show whether Colonel Roosevelt followed custom in the use of liquor in the White House.

O'Laughlin said his first experience with presidents began with the second Cleveland administration, and Colonel Roosevelt followed the precedent of Presidents Cleveland and McKinley in serving wines at public dinners.

"Are you not in charge of some work of the Progressive party?" O'Laughlin was asked on cross-examination.

"I am not," he answered.

O'Laughlin said Colonel Roosevelt had appointed him assistant secretary of state, and he had gone on a mission to Japan for the Roosevelt administration. He said he went to Japan the same year that Colonel Roosevelt ordered the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific.

"Now, you mention that Colonel Roosevelt sent the fleet to the Pacific. Was that measure taken because of the relations between this country and Japan? Was it to prevent war?

"Well, yes, it was perfectly evident that Japan would not go to war with this country if it was apparent that this country was more powerful. It was one of the measures taken by Colonel Roosevelt to prevent war. It was a measure of peace."

WHAT REPORTERS THOUGHT.

"I will ask you if in 1912 and for some time prior, there was not a general report among newspaper men that Colonel Roosevelt drank to excess?" asked Attorney Belden.

O'Laughlin, shaking his finger at the lawyer, replied:

"There was not a reputable correspondent in Washington but who thought the report was silly; too absurd to be regarded or repeated."

Counsel on both sides were on their feet with regard to this reply and the jury was excluded.

Attorney Pound said he found the answer "embarrassing," and Beldin explained that he proposed to show what other newspapers had to say on the subject.

Former members of his cabinet, his intimate friends and men who were associated with him in his travels were to testify today on behalf of Theodore Roosevelt in his libel suit against George A. Newett, owner of an Ishpeming newspaper, which published an editorial accusing Colonel Roosevelt of being drunk.

Today, it was expected, would be devoted entirely to the oral testimony of Colonel Roosevelt's witnesses. These

MYSTERY SEEMS TO SHROUD FOUL PLAY ON M'DONOUGH ROAD

Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens and Her Adopted Daughter, Nellie, Identified in Two Bodies Nearly Incinerated

CORONER SAYS MURDER; SON'S ARREST ORDERED

William Stevens, Head of the Ruined Household, Attending U. C. V. Reunion—Neighbors Tell of Quarrel on Tuesday

The coroner's jury Wednesday afternoon decided that Mrs. Sarah Stevens and her adopted daughter, Nellie, whose charred bodies were found in the ashes of their burned home on McDonough road, were murdered. Without charging any one with the crime the jury ordered Wade Stevens, the son who is missing, to be arrested and held pending an investigation.

Justice of the Peace C. C. Crabill presided over the inquest in the absence of the coroner. Dr. E. F. Fincher, county physician, examined the bodies.

It was the opinion of those who examined a knife found under the body of Mrs. Stevens that it would not have corroded like it had unless it had been most before the fire touched it.

No trace has yet been found of Wade Stevens, 19 years old, whose mother and foster sister were cremated in the burning of the Stevens home early Wednesday morning.

His disappearance is a mystery.

He is said to have told a boy friend named Red Merchant, on Tuesday, that he was going to leave home and go to Chattanooga. His father, William Stevens, 70 years old, is now in Chattanooga attending the Confederate veterans' reunion.

He told Merchant, it is said, that his mother had stopped giving him money and made him work all the time, and was saving her money and putting it

That he saw Wade Stevens, the missing son of the woman burned to death in her own home with her adopted daughter, on the McDonough road, Tuesday night, early Tuesday evening, down town, was the statement to the police Wednesday afternoon by Charles B. McWilliams, a playmate of the missing youth.

Wade told him and other boys, said Charley McWilliams, that he had left home and was going to "beat his way" north. He left them, said Charley, to catch a train for Chattanooga and Nashville, and steal a ride on it.

The McWilliams boy said that Wade Stevens was dressed then in overalls, with an overall jumper, and was wearing also a soft shirt with a soft collar and a necktie and cap.

On a secluded hillside two miles beyond the federal prison on the McDonough road, the nearly incinerated and totally unrecognizable body of Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens, forty years old, was found among the ashes of her house early Wednesday morning. Beside it lay the body, equally as charred, of her adopted daughter, fourteen-year-old Nellie Stevens. Her son, Wade Stevens, aged nineteen, was nowhere to be found. A quarrel is alleged to have occurred between him and his mother Tuesday afternoon.

The home was burned completely at some unknown time during Tuesday night. William Stevens, the father of the household and a Confederate veteran seventy years old, was in Chattanooga at the U. C. V. reunion.

The son, Wade, has not been seen since 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and only two bodies have been found among the blackened ruins, both of which have been identified satisfactorily as those of the mother and the daughter by the coroner and by the former county physician of DeKalb county, Dr. Frank Eskridge.

Beside the bodies were found the metal pieces of a single-barreled shotgun. It had been discharged. It lay between the two bodies with its butt pointing toward the side of the ruins where the door had stood.

DAIRYMAN DISCOVERED IT.

The burning of the Stevens home was not discovered until 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. At that hour T. H. Morgan, a dairyman, who lives in the neighborhood, was driving along the McDonough road toward Atlanta. He saw smoke ascending from the trees on his right. He dismounted, climbed the hill, and found that the site of the Stevens home was strewn with embers.

Morgan drove on to the store of Kitchens & Phillips, just across the line in Fulton county, and a half mile from the Federal prison, and from there notified the authorities by telephone.

MEMPHIS POSTMASTER INDICTED WEDNESDAY

Lee W. Dutro Charged With Soliciting Campaign Funds From Clerks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 28.—Lee W. Dutro, postmaster at Memphis, for the past twelve years, today was indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of soliciting campaign funds in 1910.

It is stated similar charges against Newell Sanders, of Chattanooga, former Uniter States senator, and Henry O. True, leader of Republicans in West Tennessee, were ignored.

The specific charge against Postmaster Dutro is that he violated postal code No. 18, when he obtained a $10 contribution from W. F. Roberts, clerk in the postoffice on Oct. 1, 1910.

The chargee against Postmaster Dutra were first made last year, but at that time no action was taken by the grand jury. Similar charges also were made against government officials at Nashville and Knoxville, but the men indicted were acquitted when placed on trial.

Friction between factions of the Republican party in this state is said to be at the bottom of the charges.

MORSE GAINS CONTROL OF BIG SHIP COMPANY

Financier Who Spent Term in Atlanta Penitentiary Heads Hudson Navigation Co,

NEW YORK, May 28.—Charles W. Morse was elected today president of the Hudson Navigation company, owners of a line of steamers operating on the Hudson river. Morse was head of the company in 1909, but was deposed a year later. John W. McKinnon, who succeeded him, sold his interest in the line to a syndicate of bankers, who placed it in Morse's hands, thus giving him control.

VANZANDT LOOMS UP AS NEXT PROBABLE U. C. V. COMMANDER

Denver, Jacksonville, Baltimore, San Antonio and Tulsa Are in Race for Next Meeting of Conference Veterans

(By Associated Press.)

CHATTANOOGA, May 28.—Importance of proceedings at the morning session of the United Confederate Veterans today was largely overshadowed by the imminent election of a commander-in-chief and the selection of the next reunion city.

The selection of the 1914 reunion city was scheduled for the morning session, but owing to the absence of many Florida and Alabama veterans it was decided to postpone action until this afternoon, when the commander also will be elected.

The Alabama and Florida veterans attended the unveiling and presentation of monuments in Chickamauga Park, erected in honor of the Confederate soldiers who were killed in the battle of Chickamauga fifty years ago.

Speculation was rife today as to the selection of the commander. A strong sentiment favoring the re-election of the present commander-in-chief, Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, was in evidence.

Friends of General K. M. Vanzandt, of Fort Worth, Tex., present commander of the trans-Mississippi department, also persistently mentioned the probability of his election to the office. There was some talk of a possible "dark horse" coming to the front.

NEXT REUNION CITY.

Delegates from Richmond, Va., Memphis, Tenn., Jacksonville, Fla., Tulsa, Okla., Baltimore, Md., Nashville, Tenn., Denver, Colo., and San Antonio, Tex., expressed the firm conviction that their respective cities would be chosen as the 1914 meeting place of the reunion.

The most interesting feature of the morning session was the presentation of the report of the Confederate committee appointed at the Macon reunion to co-operate with a similar committee from the G. A. R. in regard to participation in the semi-centennial joint celebration of the two organizations, July 1 to 4, 1913.

General C. Irvine Walker, of South Carolina, honorary commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, was the chairman of this committee which urged that at least 10,000 Confederate veterans attend the celebration.

Cheers greeted the formal announcement in the committee report that the Confederate veterans would be welcomed "in their gray uniforms and with their battle-scarred flags."

Applause also followed the statement that all the chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy were rais-

CREMATORY CONTRACT RULED AS ILLEGAL

State Supreme Court Holds Against It. Victory for Mayor Woodward

The city of Atlanta's crematory contract is illegal, according to a decision handed down by the state supreme court Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

The court holds that the contract is illegal because it violates that clause of the state constitution which forbids a city to carry over a debt from one year to another, and likewise violates the section of the city charter to the same effect.

The only way in which the contract can be rendered legal, says the court, is to submit it to the voters like a bond issue is submitted, and if two-thirds of the total number of registered voters approve it, then the contract will be legal.

The decision is rendered in the case of an injunction suit against the contract which was brought several months ago. Judge Pendleton, of the Fulton superior court, and formerly city attorney of Atlanta, upheld the contract without even hearing the arguments in its favor by City Attorney Mayson. The supreme court reverses Judge Pendleton.

This decision may mean that Mayor Woodward has won his fight. He has contended since last fall, shortly following his primary nomination, that the crematory contract is illegal. He made every effort to stop the commencement of work on the crematory and to prevent the putting of $75,000 in the January budget to meet the first payment. But council overrode him every time the issue came up, and accordingly work was started and the plant is now almost completed.

The contract price is $276,000, of which the city is to pay $50,000 cash and $75,000 per year until the balance is retired. This means that $125,000 is due by the city in the year 1913. The amount has been set aside, ready to be paid when the plant is finished.

Some weeks ago the Destructor company, which is building the plant, filed an estimate for $50,000. It was approved by the chief of construction according to the terms of the contract, and a check was drawn. Mayor Woodward refused to sign the check, saying he would await the supreme court's decision.

Thus the company has been paid no money whatever, although the plant, as said above, is nearly completed. The company has been working day and night in a desperate effort to have the plant ready for operation by June 15, and one unit (there are three units in all) will probably be in shape to burn garbage on that date.

Mayor Woodward was overjoyed when informed by The Journal hay5Mlp-m of the decision by The Journal.

CONLEY TELLS IN DETAIL OF WRITING NOTES ON SATURDAY AT DICTATION OF MR. FRANK

Negro Declares He Met Mr. Frank on the Street and Accompanied Him Back to the Factory, Where He Was Told to Wait and Watch—He Was Concealed in Wardrobe in Office When Voices Were Heard on Outside, It Is Claimed

NEGRO LOOKED UPON AS A TOOL NOT PRINCIPAL DECLARE DETECTIVES WHO HAVE QUESTIONED HIM

Chief Beavers Confers With Judge Roan in Reference to Taking Conley to Tower to Confront Frank but Is Told That It Is a Question for Sheriff to Decide—No Effort in This Direction Likely Until Mr. Rosser Returns to City

"Write 'night-watchman,'" the city detectives are said to have commanded James Conley, negro sweeper at the pencil factory, in jail Wednesday.

The result is said to have been "night-wich."

So also the note found beside the dead body of Mary Phagan spelled it.

The detectives regard this strongly corroborative of Conley's admission that he himself wrote the notes found beside the dead girl. Conley declares that he wrote them, however, at the dictation of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the pencil factory, under indictment for the murder. The detectives are disposed to place full credence in his story now, it is said, since he has declared that he did the writing on Saturday afternoon instead of on Friday afternoon as he first swore, and has gone into details.

A new and lengthy affidavit, going into detail in sequence throughout the day of the fatal Saturday, was sworn to by the negro in the detective headquarters Wednesday morning.

In it the negro recited as minutely as he could remember them, his actions and movements upon that day.

Shortly after 10 o'clock he was standing at the corner of Forsyth and Nelson street, he now swears, when Leo M. Frank, superintendent at the factory, his employer, came past, going toward Montag Brothers. Mr. Frank told him to wait there until he came back, swears the negro. Some minutes afterward Mr. Frank returned and took him, the negro, to the factory. Mr. Frank sat him down on a box besides the stairs, said the negro, and told him (the negro) to wait there and "see what he could see." He would call with a whistle, said Mr. Frank, when he wanted the negro.

"Be careful not to let Mr. Darley see you," the negro swears Mr. Frank told him.

Conley continued in detail in his affidavit, it is said, describing several people who entered and left and whose presence at the factory already has been established clearly. After about an hour, the negro swears, he grew sleepy. He had had a beer, and he was in a comfortable position and everything was quiet; so he dozed off to sleep, he said, and didn't remember anything more until he heard somebody histle sharply close at hand and looked up and saw Mr. Frank standing in the doorway at the head of the stairs.

SAID MR. FRANK WAS SHAKING.

He aroused himself and responded to Mr. Frank's call. At the head of the stairs Mr. Frank, caught him under the arm, swears the negro. Mr. Frank was shaking and trembling violently.

It gave him the impression, swears the negro, that Mr. Frank wanted to keep him from looking towards the back.

Mr. Frank led him, the negro, thus into his (Mr. Frank's) office.

As they passed the time clock, the negro swears, he happened to notice that it was 4 minutes to 1 o'clock.

According to Mr. Frank's sworn testimony to the coroner's jury before he himself was accused formally, Mary Phagan, the murdered girl, had received her pay and gone before that hour.

They went clear back into the inner office, swear the negro, Mr. Frank saying nothing, but holding tightly to his arm. Hardly had they entered there and gotten ready to sit down when people were heard approaching in the outer part of the factory. Mr. Frank put him into a big wardrobe in the office, swears the negro and shut the doors of it and then went out and met the visitors or received them in the inner office, but dismissed them soon and let the negro out when all was quiet again.

DICTATED WHAT NEGRO WROTE.

Then, swears the negro, Mr. Frank told him he wanted to get a sample of his handwriting. He dectated what the negro wrote. Mr. Frank was trembling, swears the negro. His hands shook, and he ran his fingers through his hair. He said in an undertone as he walked up and down, swears the negro, addressing not him but seemingly talking to himself: "There's no reason why I should hang." The negro said when he had finished writing what Mr. Frank dictated, Mr. Frank thanked him warmly, and said he wouldn't forget him (the negro), and called him a good negro, good boy, etc., and gave him $2.50, and even led him to the door at the head of the stairs. After that, the negro swears, he didn't see Mr. Frank until Tuesday morning.

The negro swears that he remembers that one of the notes began "Dear Mother."

The negro reiterates steadfastly, it is said, that he did not see Mary Phagan at all on the day of the murder.

He left the factory about ten minutes after 1 o'clock swears the negro.

CONFERS WITH JUDGE ROAN.

Chief Beavers has not made application to Judge L. S. Roan for a formal order on the sheriff to permit him to take Conley to the jail for the purpose of confronting Frank with the negro.

The chief did confer with Judge Roan Wednesday afternoon and was advised by the latter that the matter was one for the sheriff to decide. Judge Roan, it is understood, informed the chief that under the law Frank would be entitled to consult his attorney and have him present should a meeting between the negro and Frank be arranged.

Attorney Rosser, Frank's counsel, is at present at Clayton, Rabun county, engaged in the trial of the Tallulah Falls suit.

It is not known whether the chief will make any further efforts to get the negro face to face with Frank.

The fear that he would hang if he had admitted writing the notes after Mary Phagan went to the factory, is given by the negro as his reason for first saying that he wrote the notes on the day before the crime.

Conley still claims that he had no knowledge that a crime had been committed in the building. The detectives do not regard Conley in the light of an accomplice, but simply as an unwitting tool.

Just after his arrest it is said that Conley told many different stories to the police and they caught him in a number of lies.

For the first two weeks of his incarceration, it is said, he maintained that he could not write.

The detectives, however, found where he had bought two watches on the installment plan, and had filled out "deeds" for them.

They compared this writing, they say, with the writing on the notes found by the slain girl's body and found it identical. Then they secured other specimens of his handwriting, and confronted him with them. It was a short time after this that he called for Detective John Black and admitted writing the two notes.

Then Chief of Detectives N. A. Lanford, Chief J. L. Beavers, and Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, took the negro from police headquarters to the Tower in order that he might make his statements before Superintendent Frank.

Sheriff Wheeler Mangum sent word to Frank, and he stated that he did not wish to see the officers or Conley unless his attorney, Luther Z. Rosser, was present. Without Frank's agreement the sheriff would not allow the officials to visit the accused man's cell, and the attempt was given up.

DO NOT SUSPECT CONLEY.

Contrary to published reports, the detectives and others interested in the investigation of the Phagan murder have never for a moment entertained the suggestion that James Conley, the negro sweeper, was guilty of the crime or that he had any further hand in it than to write the notes, which he says he wrote at the dictation of Frank.

The officers regard Conley as their most material witness. They declare that he connects up all the circumstantial evidence gathered by them. They do not believe that he had any hand in the actual murder or that he knew one had been committed until after the girl's body was found.

GENTRY IN HIDING.

George W. Gentry, the young stenographer who took the dictograph conversations in the Williams house last week, has been reported to the police as missing.

According to members of his family, the young man left his home to avoid the many people who came to question him about the dictograph conversations, and members of his family do not fear for his safety and are now in communication with him.

Young Gentry left home early Monday morning and neither his mother nor other members of his family at 32 East Alexander street have seen him since that time.

He left following an interview with a man, who posed as a newspaper reporter, and who told young Gentry that he was in danger of being arrested on a trumped up charge.

Members of his family do not think, however, that this threat was as much responsible for his risappearance as the general annoyance of repeated questions about the famous dictograph records.

Young Gentry has telephoned his home each day since he left and his

WILSON THROWS TARIFF LOBBY INTO A PANIC

President's Warning to Country Brings Confusion in Camp of Interests

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The small army of "tariff lobbyists," which has been occupying Washington since the Underwood bill passed the house, was in confusion today because of President Wilson's vigorous attack on the "numerous, industrious and insidious lobby."

Many assumed the president's statement referred to them, although he called none by name, and they began issuing statements to justify their position.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, reiterated that the lobbyists were not getting very far, adding that never in his legislative experience had he seen so determined and so expensive a lobby.

President Wilson's lobby charge that was brought to the formal notice of the senate yesterday through a resolution by Senator Cummins demanding an immediate investigation by a committee of five senators, to determine the identity of all persons who had made efforts to present arguments or bring influence to bear in favor of changes in the tariff law. A similar resolution was introduced in the house by Representative Tavenner, of Illinois.

Senator Cummins attempted to get immediate action on his resolution, which would authorize the greatest investigation or so-called lobbying" ever undertaken by congress.

Senator Gallinger at first objected to the resolution as "absurd." Later, he withdrew his objection, but on demand of Senator Owen, the Cummins resolution finally went over for one day without action.

The proposed investigation would require all senators to give names of persons who had approached or written them in the interest of tariff changes; would request President Wilson to furnish names of persons referred to in his statement yesterday that a great and powerful lobby was at work and would authorize the senatorial committee to determine whether the action of any lobbyist who might be discovered was proper or improper.

"It is absurd to demand that the names be given of men who have talked with senators about the tariff bill," declared Senator Gallinger.

"Men are here who have a right to be here, because they represent the great interests of the country that are imperiled by proposed changes in the tariff. To call them lobbyists is absurd," said Mr. Gallinger.

Senator Cummins declared he had presented the demand for an investigation because members of the senate had been put in a very "unenviable position."

"I recognize the right of any interest affected by pending legislation to appear and offer argument," he said. "I do not know that any lobbyists are here. None have approached me. But we have a tariff bill before us. A great many men are here, I suppose, for the purpose of putting legitimate arguments before the senate and its committee affecting that legislation.

"Now, it is said by the highest authority, that a lobby of great proportions, employing means of the most insidious and illegitimate character, is engaged in the effort to secure changes to the bill as now proposed. The public has been led to believe and will believe that if any changes are made they will have been due to their influence.

"I don't know what a lobbyist is. If it is the man who appears to make legitimate arguments, I am for him. But the country has a right to know what influences are surrounding the senate of the United States, to know who is here and who is attempting by argument, by influence or by persuasion, to change the tariff rates.",

SYRIAN PARDONED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Wilson today pardoned Jamell George Abou Tabeek, a Syrian, who is serving a sentence in the federal prison at Atlanta. He was convicted in Hoboken, N. J., for sending an obscene letter to a young woman, and sentenced to one year and six months. His term would have expired August 21, this year.

Attorney General McReynolds was overridden by the president in granting the pardon. McReynolds recommended it adversely, but Mr. Wilson, after studying the evidence, decided that the Syrian had been punished sufficiently.

Did This Man Leave Five Widows and Two Fiancees to Mourn?

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 28.—At least two widows and a fiancee are mourning the death of Homer E. Morrison, and the police are working in clews which may lead them to three other women who can claim the man as their late husband.

Morrison died last Thursday of what may have been poisoning.

Two of his wives have complained that he took $17,000 of their money, and a widow, who says he promised to marry her, admits she gave him $1,600.

Mrs. Homer E. Morrison says she married Morrison three years ago; Mrs. R. W. Thompson says she married the same man under the name of Thompson, seven years ago; Mrs. Pearl McDivitt asserts Morrison promised to marry her next month.

These three women lived on the same car line without knowing the existence of each other. Sometimes Morrison visited all three on the same day.

Under the name of Thompson, the man posed as a claim adjuster, but for seven years kept Mrs. Thompson in the dark regarding his place of business. To Mrs. Morrison he was a real estate dealer, but she never knew where his office was. By day he was manager of a rooming house on Chicago avenue, where he never was seen at night.

From what Mrs. Thompson has said, the police suspect that Morrison took poison, and they are gathering evidence to present to the coroner.

AMERICUS HEALTH BOARD INVESTIGATES DAIRIES

AMERICUS, Ga., May 28.—Americus marketmen and dairymen have just been officially investigated by representatives of the state veterinary and pure food departments, and the result has created considerable comment locally. Drs. P. H. Bahnsen, S. E. Hutchins and P. A. Methvin, with Chairman Chambliss, of the Americus board of health, inspected all butcher pens, meat markets and dairies with the result that there is going to be an immediate and wonderful improvement in many of these places, which failed to measure to requirements.

AMERICUS, Ga., May 28.—The divorce mill has ground steadily in the local courts for two days, with the result that a dozen matrimonial knots have been severed, three or four of these being white couples. The divorce proceedings have been the principal business before court, as the civil dockets were cleared in two days, the lightest business in many years.

SHORTER ALUMNAE NAME MISS HINE PRESIDENT

Local Associations to Be Organized in Various Cities Throughout South

ROME, Ga., May 28.—The alumnae association of Shorter college, at its annual meeting, held yesterday, elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Miss Jessie Hine; first vice preident, Miss Cordelia Veal; second vice president, Miss Alida Printup; recording secretary, Miss Elizabeth Harris; corresponding secretary, Miss Joy Harper; treasurer, Mrs. F. G. Merriam. It was decided to organize local associations in Atlanta, Chattanooga and other southern cities.

RAISE MONUMENT FUND.

The alumnae are raising a fund for the erection of a monument over the grave of the late Rev. Dr. Luther R. Gwaltney, who was for many years president of the college. Judson college, at Marion, Ala., at its commencement, unveiled a handsome portrait of Dr. Gwaltney. There is already a painting of Dr. Gwaltney at Shorter college, and the memorial to be dedicated to his memory by the alumnae of the Rome institution will take the form of a monument.

The annual champion debate at Shorter college was won by Miss Eva Phillips and Miss Madeline Trotter, who were representing the negative of the question, "Resolved, That the president should be restricted to one term of six years."

The Eunomian society was represented by Miss Moselle Eubanks and Miss Annie Goetchius, both of Rome.

The victorious society, the Polymnian, gains possession of a loving cup that has been the property of the rival society for the past two years. The cup becomes the permanent property of the society that wins it three times.

WILSON FAVORS DIRECT PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Representative Britten, of Illinois, today sought President Wilson's opinion on his measures to provide a six-year single term for the president and vice president, the abolition of nominating conventions, the choice of the president and vice president by presidential preference primaries and direct elections without the use of electors.

Mr. Britten said that the president favored abolition of national conventions for nominating purposes, but thought them necessary to draft party platforms, and declared that Mr. Wilson approved presidential primaries and direct election, which would shorten the ballot.

White House officials said the president had not arrived at any conclusion as to the practicability of abolishing national conventions.

INDIGESTION FIVE YEARS

Relieved by Vinol

Strength and even life itself depends upon the nourishment and proper assimilation of food, and unless digestion is good the whole body suffers.

Mrs. L. D. Cook, Vineland, N. J., says: "I was sick five years with indigestion. My stomach seemed to have a heavy load in it and at other times it seemed to be tied in knots. Nobody knows how I suffered.

"I tried a great many doctors and a great many kinds of medicine but nothing did me any good until I took Vinol. It has helped me wonderfully. I am improving fast, feel better and am getting my flesh back again. Vinol has done me a world of good."

We know the great power of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, in curing chronic stomach trouble and building up all weakened run-down persons, and that is why we guarantee to return your money if it does not help you. Elkin Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt.)

White House Mint Bed Becomes Place Of Much Interest

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The White House mint patch referred to by Colonel Roosevelt in his testimony in the libel suit he is pressing at Marquette, Mich., promises to become as much an object of interest to capitol visitors as the Washington monument, or the library of congress. Already tourists are asking the White House police to point out the bed which gave up its fragrant leaves for Colonel Roosevelt's occasional juleps.

The bed, fifteen feet long by four feet wide, is situated alongside a lattice work house used by the White House laundries in which to dry clothes.

Although mint always has been within easy reach of the White House porch, the present patch was established by President McKinley. President Taft seldom used it, although it furnished its part to many a refreshing julep served to Mr. Taft's callers.

President Wilson also uses it—for garnishing spring lamb.

IMMEDIATE FREEDOM OF PHILIPPINES ASKED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Representative Francis Burton Harrison today appeal to President Wilson to grant immediate independence to the Philippine Islands. He declartd that not only were the Philippines an easy point of attack for an enemy of the United States, but that the people were capable of self-government and deserved promised independence.

Protest Against Choctaws

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Representatives of the Mississippi Choctaw Indians have filed a protest with the senate Indian affairs committee against the proposal in the tentative Indian appropriation bill before the committee to give $100 to each Choctaw Indian on the present enrollment. It was urged this would interfere with the claim of the Mississippi Indian.

WOMAN SLAYS DOCTOR THEN SHOOTS HERSELF

State Veterinarian of South Dakota Slain in Sioux Falls Boarding House

(By Associated Press.)

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 28.—Dr. E. L. Moore, aged thirty-five, state veterinary and instructor in the veterinary department of the state agriculture college at Brookings, was shot and killed by Mrs. Mae Allen, twenty-two years old, of Aberdeen, last night in a boarding holuse here.

The woman then fired two shots into her own body and lies dying in a hospital. A quarrel between the two half an hour before the tragedy led up to the shooting. The woman left a note which read:

"Take care of my remains. Take care of us both. MAE."

The story of a secret love affair was revealed by quantities of correspondence found in the woman's room. Dr. Moore has a wife and three children living at Brookings. Mrs. Allen and her husband separated several months ago.

A CONTESTANT TELLS WHY YOU NEED AN ANSWER BOOK

Editor Booklovers' Campaign. OAK HILL, Ga., May 20, 1913.

Dear Sir: Enclosed please find 90c for which please send me the Answer Book. There is more need of the Answer Book in this campaign than there was in last year's. Nearly all your pictures are made—we will suppose not intentionally—so that there are from 6 to 10 interpretations, one as good as the other. For example, No. 14 I found first thing in your catalogue "The Alien," and laid the picture away among those I knew are solved correctly. Now here comes "Racial Contrasts," "John Chinaman and a few others," and many more.

How can any one do without an Answer Book?

I am late in ordering, but there is lots of time to study and little extra cost with your liberal 35 pictures free.

I do not expect to win a prize, but shall have MORE pleasure than I could from any other small investment.

Please publish this for the benefit of new contestants.

Yours truly, E. T.

TARIFF HAS CLEAR WAY THROUGH SENATE NOW

Senators Elected by People Now and Have Ears to the Ground—Few Changes Made

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The tariff prospect is clearer today than it was ten days ago. This, despite the presence in Washington of what the president of the United States has just described as the most powerful and insidious lobby force ever concentrated at the capital.

The statement that the prospect of getting the Underwood bill passed without succumbing to the wool and sugar interests is based upon the opinions expressed this morning by members of the senate, among them men who are serving on the subcommittees which are considering the various schedules of the measure.

The crystallization of sentiment in favor of free sugar and free wool is regarded as the best evidence that the administration's influence is tightening. Wool and sugar are the schedules in which Mr. Wilson has exhibited the keenest interest, and it is believed that the free-listing of these commodities, as proposed in the Underwood bill, will go materially toward reducing the burden of living expenses.

A statement by Senator Hoke Smith in reference to the sugar schedule is believed to reflect the views of other influential Democrats in the senate. Mr. Smith states that a careful analysis of the bill and a painstaking study of the sugar schedule has strengthened him in the belief that free sugar is entirely justified.

SMITH'S PREDICTION.

It is known that Mr. Smith has some misgivings about the political wisdom of so radical a cut in the sugar duties, but his study of the schedule in detail has removed his doubt. The senator gives it as his opinion that the bill will pass the senate as it is finally perfected by the finance committee, of which he is a member. He believes that the Democratic caucus will sustain the committee and that the bill will pass in a form substantially acceptable to the White House.

A number of factors have intervened to bring about a rise in optimism. The least of these has not been the uncompromising stand of the president himself and the persuasive force of his arguments. It is true also that the senate—and this includes some of the Republicans—has become pretty well convinced that Mr. Wilson has the country behind him in his tariff program.

Then, too, the senators, who must now go before the people for election, have had their ears to the ground, and the echoes they have heard from their home states, has strengthened in their belief that the people are with the administration. They have had more opportunity to digest the bill and reflect upon its effect on industry. They have weighed their own and the president's convictions against the contentions of the protected interests and the lobbyists. Their decision favors the administration program.

Two weeks ago there was talk on the senate side of eliminating from the omnibus bill the sugar and wool provisions and asking the house to send over separate measures dealing with each of these commodities. The improvement in conditions has been such, however, that this talk is no longer heard.

"IRONING OUT" PROCESS

The effort now is to equalize and symmetrize the Underwood bill. The necessity for this procedure is admitted on all sides. There are incongruities in all the schedules and by the time the finance committee finishes the "ironing out" process, the measure will be in pretty good shape. Perhaps, the most radical action will be the placing of pig iron on the free list, as has been foretold in these dispatches.

It is the common observation of the administration forces that the howl against the proposed revision is local to Washington and it is their belief that most of the noise they hear is the chorus of the paid lobby. There are, of course, present in the city, a great number of importers and manufacturers whose mission is legitimate, but these are not the persons from whom the loudest wails are coming.

They are prosecuting their affairs in an orderly, business-like manner, seeking to carry their points by arguments before the several sub-committees.

Very few, if any of the administration senators believe that the people back home are clamoring for or against the bill, but it is their firm conviction that what the country asks and expects, is a speedy settlement of the question. It wants action so that the business interests may adjust themselves to the new economic conditions.

SUBCOMMITTEES MEET.

Members of the senate finance subcommittees met behind closed doors today and plunged into the mass of briefs and testimony relating to the Underwood tariff schedules, preparatory to making their reports to the entire committee some time next week. Many items some senators have declared, probably will be changed.

While the subcommittees were at work, Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, sought counsel with Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counselor of the state department, regarding foreign protests against administrative features of the Underwood bill. The committee is considering eliminating the clause which would extend a 5 per cent tariff discount on imports in American owned or controlled ships. Many nations have protested that it is a violation of treaty rights.

Preserve Natural Colors

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—After years of experimenting scientists of the national museum have devised a preservative for keeping specimens of fish and a variety of reptiles in their natural colors. The scheme provides for coloring the specimens while alive with an alcohol resisting paint so that a bright colored fish can be mounted in clear alcohol and remain lifelike indefinitely.

The experiment has been tried on several specimens and has proved a success. The same experiment will be used with snakes, lizards and other reptiles.

The preservation of fish and reptiles has always proved a problem for museums. Preserved in alcohol they quickly lose all their distinctive coloring and are uninteresting for display purposes.

POLICY IN CONSULAR SERVICE TO COME SOON

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Secretary Bryan expects soon to announce the general policy of the new administration in consular service appointments and promotions. The failure of the senate last session to act upon a large list of promotions has resulted in much embarrassment and since that time this has become greater through many additional vacancies caused by deaths, resignations and otherwise.

One young consul, nominated for promotion in recognition of extra hazardous work, has been obliged to remain at his old post through suffering from trophical fever. At other posts the consular business is in the hands of vice consuls and junior officers, not ordinarily permitted in charge for any length of time.

Secretary Bryan has been unable to discuss the question of consular service policies with President Wilson, except in a perliminary manner. He expects soon, however, to be able to make an announcement on the subject.

BUILDING OWNERS AND MANAGERS FORM ASSN.

Office Buildings and Apartments Represented—To Invite National Body

Owners and managers of office buildings and apartment houses in the city met in the chamber of commerce hall Tuesday afternoon and effected the formal organization of what will be known as the Association of Building Owners and Managers of Atlanta. A membership of fully forty is expected within the next few days.

It was through the activities of the convention bureau that this movement was launched. At the meeting Ivan E. Allen, president of the bureau, was elected temporary chairman and Fred Houser, secretary of the bureau, was chosen temporary secretary of the association.

The following permanent officers of the association were elected:

Charles F. Wilkinson, manager of the Candler building, president; A. W. Martin, manager of the Atlanta National Bank building, vice president; Fred Shaefer, manager of the Empire Life building, secretary and treasurer.

The committee on the constitution and by-laws consists of J. B. Pendleton, manager of the Equitable building, and J. M. Barclay, manager of the Atlanta Trust Company building.

The committee on membership follows: J. M. Shearer, custodian of the city hall, chairman; W. B. Stovall, manager of the Empire building; J. L. Fincher, manager of the Peters building.

A majority of the buildings in Atlanta were represented and letters from other representatives unable to attend pledged their support to the new organization.

It was decided by the association to send delegates to Cincinnati, O., to attend the sixth annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, which meets in the Hotel Sinton, June 10 to 12.

With the assistance of the convention bureau the Atlanta delegation will put in a bid for the 1914 convention of the national association.

"GEORGIA" CONDUCTOR IS STRANGELY MISSING

Relatives and Friends Search the City for W. S. Culpepper, of Augusta

Friends and relatives of W. S. Culpepper, a railroad conductor from Augusta, Ga., are now searching for him in Atlanta, where he was last seen on Monday.

On Monday afternoon Mr. Culpepper told some of his railroad friends in the railroad yards that he would be on hand to take out his freight, No. 210, that night. He was not there at train time, and someone had to take his place.

His family was notified in Augusta, but they had not heard from him since he left there for Atlanta. His father came directly to this city, and has made a futile search in all of the hospitals here for some trace of his son. And on Tuesday afternoon he called at police headquarters and reported the disappearance to the police.

The young man has a wife and child in Augusta. He was a man of exemplary habits, and his family and friends cannot account for his strange disappearance unless he has met with foul play. He is described as being twenty-four years of age, medium height, slim, with sandy hair and sparkling eyes. He has made an excellent record with the Georgia road.

JOURNAL THANKED FOR PRESBYTERIAN REPORTS

The Journal has received a letter from George Ernest Raitt, secretary of the Brotherhood department of the board of home missions, United Presbyterian church of North America, thanking this paper for its part in the recent convention of the assembly in Atlanta and its service in reporting the various meetings held here.

The letter in part reads as follows:

"I have just returned home to Pittsburg from the meeting of the assembly at Atlanta, and wish to express my heartiest appreciation of the great service rendered by your paper in publishing such excellent reports of the meetings. I have attended many assemblies, but none so well reported in the daily papers.

"Your interpretation of the spirit of the assemblies, as well as descriptions of the meetings, was splendid. We feel that you have rendered a great service in the cause of Presbyterianism and wish you to know that we appreciate your efforts. I can assure that I speak not only for myself but for all of the United Presbyterian commissioners."

THEATERS

ATLANTA—"St. Elmo."
FORSYTH—Vandeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville and pictures.

Aside from the fact that the famous Irish comedienne, Maggie Cline, is the headline attraction at the Forsyth this week; there are other numbers on the bill that assist in making the show one of the excellent vaudeville attractions of the season. Miss Cline is showing just what the old-timers can do, and despite her years she is superior as an entertainer to many of the comediennes of present day prominence.

"The Great Howard," who is conceded to be one of the best ventriloquists in the profession, presents an act that is good, and the balancing act of the Equill Brothers is one of the events of the season. Billy Forarty and Ethel Kirk have a vaudeville idea that is new and pleasing; and the opening number, Carl Rosin and company, do some magic that is a refreshing relief from some of the opening acts that come along in vaudeville.

Perhaps the hit of the bill belongs to the "Young Caruso," Caesar Nesi, an Italian who possesses a beautiful voice and who uses it to advantage. He has not been able to escape without an extra encore at any performance, and has proven to be a great drawing card, along with Maggie Cline, "The Irish Queen."

The bill for the coming week is ready. The headliner will be Lillian Shaw, who needs little introduction here. Miss Shaw is a popular comedienne. She is the creator of song hits, and her success in Atlanta always has been a drawing card. Seldom's "Poems in Marble" will be another of the features.

The growth of the motion picture play, from the crude sketches of a few years past to the wonderfully staged dramas of today, has never been more forcefully demonstrated than in the newest production of the camera, Count Tolstoy's "The Resurrection," with Blanche Walsh in the role of Katusha, the peasant girl. It will be presented at the Grand this week, beginning Thursday and closing Saturday night.

One by one the great stars of the drama are turning to the motion pictures. The prices paid them for a few weeks of posing may be an incentive, but the opportunity to have their work recorded for future generations, and perhaps the curiosity to see themselves as others have seen them may have something to do with it. Certain it is that many of the foremost players of today, from Sarah Bernhardt down to the minstrels, are posing for the picture plays. Blanche Walsh is the latest of the prominent women of the stage to appear in the photo plays.

"The Resurrection" will be remembered by those Atlantians who saw Miss Walsh in the play several years ago. It is the most powerful drama from the pen of the noted Russian, Count Tolstoy, and it depicts the life of a peasant girl who, more sinned against than sinning, falls into the life of the underworld, is sent to prison, driven out on the long march to Siberia and finds her life work in serving the unfortuantes in the frozen steppes. Its action, its settings in the hovels of Moscow and the wilds of Siberia, and the strange surroundings of a prison camp, make it especially fitted for a picture play. Indeed, the camera found opportunity for stage effects which it would have been impossible to produce in an actual theater. Miss Walsh is surrounded by a company of which many members played their same roles in the original stage production.

Soule, president of the State Agricultural college, will speak on the opportunities in DeKalb county for truck farming, dairying and poultry raising. R. F. Smith will speak on securing the Fifth District Agricultural school for DeKalb and C. Murphy Candler will speak on Jefferson Davis.

In the afternoon the cornerstone of Decatur's new $25,000 school building will be laid by the Masons, the principal address being made by George M. Napier. Five minute talks will be made by Mayor Montgomery and J. Howell Greene and Hooper Alexander.

The Decatur troop of the Boy Scouts won the shield in the recent field day. This shield will be presented to the boys Tuesday. All the Atlanta troops will be present with their drum corps.

MR. BRYAN TO BE GUEST AT GRAPE JUICE DINNER

W. P. Andrews, of Atlanta, to Be Host at the Capital City Club

A grape juice dinner will be given Monday evening at the Capital City club by Col. Walter P. Andrews, in honor of Secretary of State William Jenning Bryan, who arrives here Monday afternoon to deliver the principal address in connection with the quarter-centennial celebration of Georgia Tech.

Details of the dinner have not yet been completed. Colonel Andrews went north with the gate city guard, and is expected to return to Atlanta Thursday morning.

Nothing stronger than grape juice will be served in the way of liquid refreshments at the dinner, out of consideration for Mr. Bryan's well known views on the subject. So far as Atlantians can remember this will be the first absolutely "dry" banquet given at any local club in honor of a high state official.

Mr. Bryan will arrive Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and will be taken directly to the club by Colonel Andrews. The dinner will be at 6 o'clock, and at 8:15, Mr. Bryan will make his speech at the Grand opera house.

Tech alumni from all over the country will be in Atlanta Monday to make up a part of the audience to hear Mr. Bryan's address.

Instant Postum

Is in thousands of homes where health is valued.

Former coffee users who have felt the pinch of indigestion, headache, heart disturbance, nervous irritation, etc., have written by the score, telling of remarkable benefits following the change from coffee to Instant Postum.

A level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"Thanks for the sample of Instant Postum sent me. I had been drinking coffee for a long time and thought it would be difficult to give it up, but I was mistaken.

"While I was drinking coffee I always felt exhausted and I weighed but 112 lbs. After using Postum I soon recovered and now am as healthy as any person can be. I now weigh 120 lbs. and am steadily gaining in weight." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

ly occurred, arrived on the scene at 11 o'clock, closely followed by Coroner Thompson. At noon Chief of Police Beavers, of Atlanta, drove out to the spot in an automobile, accompanied by Police Sergeant J. W. Whitley, who is a brother of Mrs. Stevens.

Both the chief and Sheriff McCurdy ordered a search for Wade Stevens. The chief sent a telegram to the boy's father in Chattanooga, telling him to look out for his son. He will conduct a close search throughout he city. He wired the following to the chief of police of Chattanooga:

"Please locate William Stevens, care U. C. V. Advise that his house destroyed by fire and wife and daughter burned to death."

IDENTIFIED BY TEETH.

The Stevens homestead was a five-room house, situated on a high hill among a grove of oaks just on the other side of South river in DeKalb county on the east side of the McDonough road.

The house was burned entirely down, save for a tall chimney rising skyward. The ruins still were smoking at noon Wednesday. Among them were broken bits of crockery, a ruined stove, and three beds, one situated on the north side of the chimney, where the son is said to have slept.

The two other beds were in the southwest corner of the house. Just beside them lay the two bodies. Dr. Eskridge identified one as that of Mrs. Stevens by the false teeth which still clung to the roof of her mouth.

The small size of the other body led him to believe that it was the girl. The flesh had been burned almost entirely from both, and only a minute examination of the bones can ascertain whether the two were dealt with violently before the house was burned. This will be attempted at the coroner's inquest, which probably will be held Wednesday afternoon.

The gun was split into two parts, the single barrel and the breech. In the end of the barrel could be seen the top part of the shell, which evidently had been exploded.

Both the bodies were lying flat on their backs, with their feet toward the spot where the door formerly was.

Just [illegible] of the ruins were several [illegible] with chickens unconcernedly cluck[illegible] way about them. A little [illegible] dog, the property of [illegible] Stevens, snooped around the ruins [illegible] his tail between his legs, the [illegible] savor of the family.

LIVED THERE SIX MONTHS.

The Stevens family have lived on the McDonough road but six months. They lived before that in East Atlanta, where Mrs. Steevns is said to own a great deal of property. They lived also at 390 South Boulevard, near Grant park, for a time.

Wade is the only child of the couple. Nellie having been adopted by them five years ago from the Decatur Orphans' home.

The past record of Wade Stevens is not described as a bright one. He was once in the reformatory and was accustomed to leading a roving sort of life, it is said by those who know him. The husband of Mrs. Stevens' sister, Mrs. Goldine, of Lucile avenue, West End, declared that he was not surprised at what had happened.

"Wade was a bad boy," he stated to a Journal reporter. "I am not surprised at what happened. The gun lying in the position that it is tells its own story to me. Wade was accustomed to roving around the country, too."

SISTER HID HIS CLOTHES.

The fact that Wade Stephens had a quarrel with his mother and adopted sister Tuesday evening, and that he was determined to leave home without his mother's consent, was brought out by the nearest neighbor of the Stevens, T. G. Self, whose house is about 300 yards from the Stevens home.

About 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, says Mr. Self, Nellie Stevens came to his home with a bundle of clothes. They belonged to her brother, she said.

"He wants to leave home," she is reported to have told Mrs. Self, "and my mother doesn't want him to. If he should come after his clothes, don't give them to him."

Wade Stevens did not come after the clothes. When the cardboard box was opened Wednesday, it was found to contain a suit of checked material and a check cloth cap.

Mr. Self also told the sheriff that Wade and the two women had quarreled Tuesday. They wanted the boy to harvest a field of oats, which he refused to do, says Mr. Self. The women had to do the work, Self declared.

Another friend o fthe family, who lives in East Atlanta, says that Wade was planning a trip in the near future, the nature of which he did not know, but which Mrs. Stevens did not want the boy to take. It was also stated by friends that Wade was much accustomed to being away from home, having returned to the house on McDonough road a little over a week ago from a job he had in the navy.

BOY IS DESCRIBED

Officers have been notified to be on the lookout for Wade Stevens. When last seen he wore a pair of blue overalls and blue shirt, and a pair of shoes. He is said to have been a tall slim boy, with medium brown hair.

There was some talk in the community around the Federal Prison Wednesday morning of setting blood-hounds on young Steven's track, but nothing was done Wednesday morning in this direction.

Neighbors say that there was none at work on the SEtevens place other than the family. The father left home last Monday.

Some time ago, said Mr. Self, the Stevens had a negro doing some work for them, but Mr. Self says that he has not seen the negro for several weeks and thinks that he quit about a month ago.

A peculiar circumstance in connection with Mrs. Stevens is told by her brother-in-law, L. G. Golden, who says that she was accustomed to carrying a all her money on her own person, concealed in her stocking. As the limbs were burned almost entirely off the woman's body it could not be told whether the money was in her stocking or not at the time of the tragedy.

Bryan Goes Marketing

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Secretary Bryan is not too busy with affairs of state to do the marketing for the Bryan household. Almost any morning the secretary of state may be seen in a local market place with a large basket swinging from his left arm. Colonel Bryan seems to enjoy the marketing to the full. He elbows the crowd and apparently does not mind it any more than he did when making his political campaign tours.

His fondness for the radish of the white variety is now generally known among market men, and they try to keep on hand the kind he likes. The other day, however, much to the secretary's disappointment, his favorite vegetable was not to be had.

"You know I must have white radishes," said the secretary to a woman shopping beside him. "No other kind will do." And he continued his march among the stands.

Avalanche Duel

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 27.—The romantic story of "a duel by avalanche" between two rivals for the hand of an Italian girl, is told by travelers from Mount Blanc. The two lovers, who lived at Cour Mayeur, at the base of the mountain, decided to settle their claims by standing for several hours every day in the patch usually followed by avalanches on the mountain side, until one or the other of the men was swept to death. One was finally struck yesterday by an avalanche, but he received only slight injuries. Chafing under the delay of a fatal termination, the rivals are now looking for some other method of settling their dispute.

AGNES SCOTT AWARDS DIPLOMAS WEDNESDAY

Sixteen Young Ladies Receive Degrees, and Scholarships and Prizes Announced

The closing exercises of the commencement of Agnes Scott college took place Wednesday morning in the college auditorium beginning at 10 o'clock.

Graduate degrees were awarded to sixteen young ladies, and a number of scholarships and prizes were awarded. The exercises were attended by a large audience consisting of students, their parents and friends.

One of the most interesting feature of the whole commencement was a debate Tuesday evening between representatives of the Mnemosynean and Propylean literary societies on the question of Panama canal tolls.

As formally stated, the question was: "Resolved, That no toll should be paid by United States coastwise vessels through the Panama canal."

The affirmative was upheld by Misses Charlotte Jackson and Sarah Hansell, of the Mnemosynean society, and the negative by Misses Emma Jones and Emma Pope Moss, of the Propylean society.

The decision was rendered in favor of the negative.

St. Elmo Massengale, of Atlanta, and Colonel Evans and Mr. Hollister, of Decatur, were the judges. Mr. Massengale announced the decision.

A TRIP TO "JOYVILLE" AT BIJOU THIS WEEK

The second week of Tabloid at the Bijou is drawing even larger audiences than those which crowded the popular theater for the "Trip to Joyville," the first week's attraction. "A District Leader," in addition to its catchy songs, dainty costumes and pretty dances, has the advantage of a well defined and interesting plot, dealing with an attempt to win an election by fraudulent means. The company is made up of clever people, especially selected for their parts, and there are some splendid voices amongst the principals as well as the chorus. Matinees every afternoon at 3 o'clock, except on Saturday, when there are two matinees at 2:30 and 4. Night shows 7:30 and 9.

PEACOCK SCHOOL TERM WILL END THURSDAY

The closing exercises of the Peacock-Flut school will take place in the auditorium of the building on West Fourteenth street, Thursday evening at 8:15. Awards of the school athletic emblem will be granted to members of the different teams that have represented the school.

The annual declamatory contest will also be held. The following boys will take part: D. B. Osborne, A. W. Powell, Frank Weldon, J. M. Coleman, J. A. Wayt and Lewis Sams. A gold medal will be awarded the winner.

All patrons and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present.

include Robert Bacon, former secretary of state; Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy; Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield, Regis H. Post, former governor of Porto Rico; Lawrence Abbott, W. Emlen Roosevelt, William Loeb, Jr., and newspaper correspondents who have accompanied the colonel on many of his campaign trips.

All of these witnesses are to testify as to Colonel Roosevelt's habits with reference to liquor in his official and private life.

James H. Pound, chief counsel for the plaintiff, made it known that many depositions are to be read after the hearing of oral testimony, which precluded the possibility of completing the case on behalf of Colonel Roosevelt before tomorrow.

Court will take a recess over Friday. Many of the lawyers believe the case cannot go to the jury before the middle of next week.

Attorney Belden stated it was the intention of the defense to ask future witnesses in an attempt to show the position of the defense, that there was in existence a general report amounting to a general reputation that Colonel Roosevelt does use liquors and sometimes to excess, that these reports were published in newspapers and that Colonel Roosevelt read these reports and this charge had never been contradicted by him; that the defendant published the report of the former president's reputed excessive use of intoxicants, believing it to be true and not with any malice.

OTHERS TALKED OF HABITS

Mr. Belden maintained that such testimony was required to show the good faith and absence of malice in the publication of the defendant's editorial. It could not be, in the presence of widespread comment by the public and in important newspapers, stated the lawyer, that Mr. Roosevelt had been greatly damaged by the repetition of charges of intoxication in a remote weekly with a circulation of about 3,000 copies.

"We propose to show," continued the lawyer, "that such charges as were made in the Iron Ore were by no means confined to this region. The plaintiff during 1912 was the most talked of man in the United States and we expect to introduce testimony to show that adverse comment as to his habits were made in many other parts of the country. This point bears strongly in showing the absence of malice on the part of the defendant."

LIKE KING GEORGE.

Various libel suit decisions were cited by Attorney Pound. In one case a man merely had said "he stole my horse." Another was that of a woman who sued for libel because an editor had said she stole a pocketbook which she found on the sthreet.

"The defense has said this case is unprecedented," shouted Mr. Pound. "It is true that there has been a revulsion on the part of presidents to come into court, but I can cite you a recent case where the King of England prosecuted a newspaper for charging him with being a bigamist in marrying the present queen. Would it have been a defense for the editor to have come into court and say, 'oh, I only knew what I heard and I publish what I hear?'"

C. O. D. AND INSURANCE FOR PARCEL POST JULY 1

Local Postoffice Now Making Plans for Installation of New Service

Local postal officials are working out the details of the C. O. D. and insurance feature of the parcels post, which will go into effect on July 1, and which is one of the most far-reaching departures ever taken by the service.

Under the new plan, parcels may be sent C. O. D. up to a value of $100, and may be insured for a value not greater than $50. Ten cents extra in stamps will give the sender this service—that is, the privilege of sending the package C. O. D. and of insuring it.

The government will remit collections to the sender. Packages of this kind will be accepted only at money order stations. The person receiving the package is not allowed to examine it before receiving iti nor can the package be returned after it is received and paid for.

This system means a lot of additional work, and the postoffice is making preparations to put on an extra force.

Local officials of the postoffice declare that the new system means a lot to mail order houses, and they stress the importance of these houses going out for mail order business, and advertising extensively for it.

One department store which began the mail order business has had to enlarge its facilities, and the parcel post handles everything now from cork legs to manicure sets.

The officials say that Atlanta is the best distributing point from a postal standpoint in the country, and it gets quick connection with postoffices from the Potomac river to the Rio Grande.

SUFFRAGETTES AFTER GRAND-FATHER CLAUSE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 28.—In an effort to pass a resolution calling for an amendment to the Florida constitution to give women the ballot, suffrage leaders this afternoon offered in the senate the measure recently defeated in the house with an amendment inserting the "grandfather clause."

This clause would give the right of suffrage to white men and women only. A hard fight is in progress with the issue in doubt, although the amendment has won many friends for the resolution.

For Bright Eyes and Clear Nose

Remarkable Catarrh Cure That Gets Right into the Affected Parts and Stops Gatherings.

It is definitely known that catarrh can be cured by the simple process of inoculating the blood with antidotal remedies that stop inflammatory conditions throughout the mucous linings of all the organs of the body. This is done with the famous Swift's Sure Specific, or, as it is widely known, S. S. S. It is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, through all the veins and arteries, and enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. For special advice on any blood disease write in confidence to The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. of your druggist.

MONUMENTS UNVEILED.

Clear skies and bright sunshine smiled upon the second dal of the U. C. V.'s reunion. The favorable weather induced CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 28.—Clear skies and bright sunshine smiled upon the second day of the U. C. V.'s reunion. The favorable weather conditions induced thousands to visit Chickamauga park, the scene of one of the most historic battles in the war between the states, where handsome monuments were unveiled by the representatives from the states of Florida and Alabama.

More than 200 monuments previously had been erected here by both northern and southern states in memory of the thirty-odd thousand solwdiers who perished in the fierce conflict waged where the national park now is located.

Special trains from Florida and Alabama arrived early in the day bringing visitors from these states who came especially to witness the impressive ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling.

Mrs. Townes Randolph Leigh, of Montgomery, formally presented the Alabama monument to the Chickamauga park commission and ex-United States Senator Samuel Pasco, chairman of the Florida commission, made the presentation speech turning over the Florida monument to the government.

PROMINENT MEN PRESENT.

Among the prominent Alabama citizens who participated in the ceremony were Governor Emmett O'Neall and staff, Captain Raphael Simms and escort, from Camps Lomax and Faulkner, of Montgomery; Colonel S. H. Dent, of Eufaula, Ala.; General George P. Harrison, commander of the army of Tennessee department U. C. V.; Alabama's four brigade commanders, Brigadier Generals Fowler, Hooper, Weathers and Lumpkin.

Major W. W. Crews, editor of the Montgomery Advertiser, delivered the principal address of the occasion, taking for his subject "Women of the Confederacy."

The Florida monument was unveiled by Mrs. R. R. Turnbull, of Monticella, Fla., sponsor of the Florida division U. C. V. Members of the Florida commission were introduced by Colonel Baxter Smith, of the Chickamauga Park commission. General E. M. Law, of the Florida commission, responded, and Senator Pasco delivered the dedication speech. Both Senator Pasco and General Law took part in the battle of Chickamauga. The latter belonged to General Longstreet's corps, while the former was a private in the Third Florida regiment.

HAIR CAME OUT IN HANDFULS

Pimples and Scales All Over Body and Scalp. Burned and Itched. Hair Just Full of Dandruff. Completely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment.

27 N. Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga.—"I broke out in little pimples and scales all over my body and the scalp of my head. They spread and finally began to burn and itch and I scratched and they turned into little bleeding sores. If I scratched it would cause an awful burning sensation producing heat all over my body. I just could not rest at night. My clothing would stick to my body when it was awfully warm. Whenever I would comb my hair it would just come out in handfuls and leave large and uneven parts in my hair and it was just full of dandruff. It would scale up and be in spots all over my head. When I parted my hair there would be wide spaces. The eruption became worse and was as little scars or sores. It was dreadful at night; I could not rest or sleep.

"It was pronounced eczema and I used all kinds of salves and ointment. Finally a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment on my body and head every day, first bathing with Cuticura Soap and then applying the Cuticura Ointment. I continued this for three months and after a year of suffering I was completely cured." (Signed) Miss Novella B. Daniels, June 25, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard, "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

A Hidden Danger

It is the duty of the kidneys to rid the blood of uric acid, an irritating poison that is constantly forming inside.

When the kidneys fail, uric acid causes rheumatic attacks, headache, dizziness, gravel, urinary troubles, weak eyes, dropsy or heart disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys fight off uric acid—bringing new strength to weak kidneys and relief from backache and urinary ills.

Looking at the matter of buying an Answer Book to submit your answers in The Journal's Booklovers' Campaign from a business standpoint, you cannot fairly decide against getting one.

You are certainly in this great home game to submit the full result of your skill and not one-fifth of it. As the rules allow you the right to ten answers with a picture and coupon for every answer, or only one of each picture, and the Answer Book only costing you 80c at the office or 90c by mail, it is certainly to your interest to get one of them before it is too late.

As The Journal is giving $7,000 worth of prizes in this delightful campaign there is no good reason why you cannot come in a winner. Don't forget that The Journal does not ask you to solicit or beg your friends to vote for you in order to win in this campaign. Just select the most correct titles to the 75 prize pictures that The Journal is publishing and you will receive $1,000 in gold. EDITOR HOWELL AND CHIEF EXCHANGE LETTERS

Chief Beavers' Interview in Reference to Constitution Is Explained

Below appear a letter from Chief of Police Beavers to Clark Howell, editor of the Constitution, and a statement frfom Mr. Howell commenting on the letter.

The two communications are the outcome of an interview which Chief Beavers gave the Sunday papers, in which mention was made by him of Mr. Howell. The letter from Chief Beavers to Mr. Howell, and the latter's comment, which are self-explanatory, follow:

CHIEF BEAVER'S LETTER.

Atlanta, Ga., May 27, 1913.

My attention has been called to an article in the Sunday papers in which an interview with me makes it appear that I was attacking Mr. Clark Howell personally and his policy with the Constitution.

I only repeated the conversation I had with him on the next day after he returned from Panama on about March 1, this year.

I meant no reflection on Mr. Howell, but only had reference to certain local reports in his paper, and he now assures me that there was no intention on his part to discredit the work that I have been trying to do in this city, and that the article that appeared in the reportorial columns of the Constitution was without his knowledge and consent, and that it was not his intention nor does he approve of anything that would in the least hinder or discredit the work that the police department has been trying to carry out.

I would regret very much indeed to have any utterance of mine construed into an attack upon Mr. Howell, whom I have always regarded, and now esteem, as an exemplary citizen and journalist who holds the merited confidence of the public, as he does of my department and of myself.

(Signed) J. L. BEAVERS,
Chief Police.

MR. HOWELL'S COMMENT

In reference to Chief Beavers' statement, Mr. Howell said:

"During my absence in Panama in January a police raid was made on a certain down town rooming hotel. The Constitution next morning locally reported the affair and the fact that a man and his wife were subjected to undue treatment, with comment from the inadvertent victims and the manager of the hotel.

"When I returned from Panama, the chief complained of the local report referred to. I explained to him that nothing was further from our intention than to discredit his work, and that following the Constitution's oft repeated commendation of his high sense of duty in endeavoring to enforce the law, he would have our cordial support to that end. He thanked me, recalling the fact that two days after the houses were closed I had sent for him to tell him that his attitude would have the Constitution's support. Next morning—September 26, the Constitution's leading editorial, 'A Wholesome Example,' unqualifiedly approved the chief as an official with the nerve and the courage to enforce the law,' stating that 'he has set a singularly wholesome example of a blunt interpretation of duty.'

"I am still of the opinion that no good citizen would invite the return of the segregated district, nor the spread of its attendant evil in other directions. In my talk with the chief I expressed my doubt as to his ability to absolutely eliminate the evil, and while the segregated district has been closed, we are still wrestling with other phases of the problem.

Sale of Chinaware

The Quantities Involved and the Halved Prices Make It Such

That housekeeper who right now finds that she needs another or a new set of china is indeed fortunate, and she who needs but an extra plate or so, or a platter or a few cups and saucers, is indeed fortunate.

TOMORROW SHE WILL PAY BUT HALF (in an instance or so possibly a little more, in a greater number of instances less than half) of what she had expected.

And she will have such fine choice at the same time! Here are fine Limoges china—including a pattern from the Haviland potteries—Japanese china, Austrian china and German and English porcelains—china to grace elegant dining rooms, and china that is best for summer homes.

It is the righting of stocks with us, and is done in the characteristic Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. fashion, let prices fall where they will.

You will notice below that in many instances former prices are for the dozen pieces and that present prices are for single pieces—this means that now you may buy one or as many pieces of any of the china as you may want.

Arrowhead Hosiery Is Fully Guaranteed

We devote a special section to Arrowhead Guaranteed Hosiery, separate from our regular Hosiery Department.

We found that Arrowhead Hosiery did not need a guarantee (perhaps that is why the guarantee is such a strong one), that the Hosiery is so well made and of such splendid yarns of pure dye that it must wear to one's entire satisfaction. We saw that the makers did not depend upon the guarantee to sell their product, but rather that the product was so fine that the guarantee was tacked on as the pledge of the makers to assume all responsibility for a pair that might happen to go wrong.

All of which seems a very open and aboveboard way for a maker to look on his product.

But the guarantee is there! And it says a new pair for every pair of Arrowhead Hosiery that breaks in the sole, toe or heel within three, four or six months, according as you buy three, four or six pairs.

Such assurance is worth while, especially when you may have Arrowhead Hosiery in about every weight and color you may want.

Tech's Notable Anniversary.

The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Georgia School of Technology promises to be one of the most memorable incidents of the year not only for Atlanta but also for Georgia and the entire South. Indeed, this happy occasion is invested with national interest, for it has enlisted the service of some of the foremost educators and publicists of America, notably that of William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state. Mr. Bryan will open the nine-days celebration and commencement exercises with an address at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, June the second. It is a rare circumstance that the chief member of the President's cabinet should honor a school event with his presence and participation. Mr. Bryan's masterly part in the great era of history now being made in this country renders him more than ever interesting. The public is invited freely and cordially to hear him speak.

The celebration of the founding of the Georgia Tech is well worthy the interest of such leaders and especially does it merit the enthusiasm of all Georgians. No institution has done more and few have done so much for the material progress and upbuilding of this State. It stands pre-eminently as a seat of that kind of education which is continually translating itself into practical service for the community's good. The growth of the Tech during its five and twenty years of existence has been nothing less than marvelous. Indeed, it has come to mean more to the State and the South than even Atlantians, in whose midst it has developed, fully realize.

The series of interesting exercises which begin next Monday to continue through June the ninth will serve to reveal the Georgia Tech in its true proportions and significance. Its alumni will foregather from every quarter of the Union and hundreds of its friends throughout the State will be present to join in the celebration and to witness the commencement events.

Now for a sane Fourth, let the fireworks fall where they may.

In the Balkans they don't believe in long intervals between fights.

These cool mornings leave no doubt about the superiority of Atlanta as a summer resort.

Georgia's Rivals in Road Building.

Georgia must bestir herself, if she is to maintain her leadership as a builder of good roads. So warns the Southern Press Clipping Bureau in a recent statement showing the wonderful energy and progress of neighboring States in highway development. North Carolina, we are told, is issuing more bonds than any other commonwealth of this section for the extension and upkeep of roads in the various counties. Florida follows as a close second and is now considering a fifty-million dollar bond issue for this and related purposes.

A government report issued a few years ago credited Georgia with having constructed more miles of good roads during the period under review than any other State in the South and with coming second among all the States of the Union, her record being excelled by New York alone. That was the time of the Journal-Herald National Highway tours, followed by various local tours which served to arouse and to concentrate public sentiment in behalf of good roads endeavors.

It is always easier to launch a great enterprise than to carry it patiently forward from year to year. The people of Georgia must see to it that their first fine enthusiasm in this important cause does not lessen or lag. We are today reaping the benefits of roads built seasons ago—benefits to the farmer, the merchant, to town and country and to educational and social as well as material interests.

The vital thing now is to follow up these goodly results with continued and still more earnest efforts. This State has stood as an example and a stimulus to its neighbors in highway improvement. Let it take care that it does rest upon things already achieved but press steadily forward to still larger and better results.

After a careful study of the colonel's testimony, one is convinced that he never mixed the drinks.

These lobbyists probably think President Wilson has an embarrassing habit of throwing the searchlight.

Paramount Claims Before The Finance Committee

In filling out the June apportionment sheet, the finance committee of Council faces the old, old problem of making a limited amount of money meet a seemingly unlimited number of needs.

Each of the particular claims has its merit and it is to be regretted that all of them cannot be granted. The best that the committee can do, however, is to choose for present appropriations those needs that are most imperative and that are of most importance to the greatest number of people.

Measured by this fair standard it would seem that particular consideration should be given to the request for a fund to widen Peachtree street between those points where it is so narrow as to impede traffic and to regrade Whitehall street. These are needs which should not be longer neglected. Had Peachtree been widened and Whitehall regraded ten years ago, the work would have cost comparatively little; if it is put off another five or ten years, it will become almost a physical impossibility. The property owners and the county will bear the major portion of the expense now involved. It is good business for the city to meet its share of this responsibility now.

Another imperative need is that of providing an adequate building for the Girls' English-Commercial High school.

That historic personage, the Kentucky colonel, probably wonders what Colonel Roosevelt is making such a fuss about, anyhow.

Trade Excursions To South America.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Baltimore is promoting a South American Trade Excursion by means of which it expects to establish direct business connections between its own city and those fruitful countries beyond the Gulf and the Caribbean. A party representing all the mercantile and manufacturing interests of the community will leave for Panama within the next few months and make a thoroughgoing tour of the principal ports and cities of Central and South America, taking observations as they go and, through personal contact, cultivating the good will of prospective customers.

The Baltimore Sun in commending this enterprise truly remarks that the day for getting trade away from active rivals "by merely sending out catalogues and letters has passed;" and adds, "If we are to get next to South America, our merchants and our manufacturers must go down there in person and study the situation and the people with whom we want to trade."

The importance, the necessity of such efforts cannot be overgauged. For, it must be remembered that we are to deal not with markets which are comparatively virgin but with markets which the foresight and energy of Europeans have long been exploiting and eighty per cent of whose trade is now in the hands of European competitors.

Whether the opening of the Panama canal proves a commercial advantage to the United States depends on whether the merchants and manufacturers of this country turn their opportunities to account. The natural circumstances of the contest are all in their favor. But they must show South America that they have the goods before they can expect to get South America's patronage.

The merchants of England, France, Holland, Germany and other nations across the Atlantic have been studying the commercial needs and tastes of these Latin republics. They have sent embassies into each of them; they are building ships and planning transport lines for the particular purpose of serving South American trade; they have got into direct and intimate touch with the people of these lands and, being already well established there, they will continue to hold the ascendancy unless our own business interests exert equal energy and skill.

The completion of the Panama canal is now only a matter of months. The city that hopes to share in its advantages must bestir itself without further delay, must begin definite plans like those now being inaugurated in Baltimore. And that is what most of the progressive cities in the United States are doing, by one way or another. The competition will henceforth grow keener and keener among the mercantile and manufacturing centers of the United States itself as well as between this and foreign countries.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce did a splendid and timely piece of work when it called the Southern Panama Canal Cenference which met here last autumn. Many Atlanta business men have already visited the Canal country and outlying lands. It is to be hoped that our merchants and manufacturers will continue their efforts in this direction. If they do Atlanta will derive immediate and far-reaching benefits from the opening of the Canal.

PUBLIC SCHOOL COMMENCEMENTS

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Each year brings with it innovations regarding the commencement exercises which are the crowning event of the year to millions of young people scattered over the cities and towns of the country. Formerly commencement exercises were confined only to towns. Now they take place in rural schools as well, and the extension of graduation privileges to the children of the country schools has been one of the important developments of public education in recent years. While such privileges do not as yet cover the entire country they are increasing each year as the rural school system progresses.

Graduation exercises are not entirely confined to high schools as is commonly supposed. Many educators feel that the large number of children who never reach high school deserve some sort of recognition of the work they have accomplished in the elementary schools, so that grammar school graduations obtain in some localities. Under this system a boy or girl who has completed the work of the grammar grades is presented with a certificate to that effect and the presentation is usually accompanied by pleasing exercises similar in character to those connected with the awarding of the high school diploma.

In Philadelphia two of the oldest schools of the city have had graduating exercises at the completion of the eighth grade for nearly half a century. These schools were located in what was once the industrial part of the city and were attended chiefly by children whose circumstances necessitated their beginning their life work at an early age. A number of men who have achieved unusual prominence in city or state affairs have come back at various times to award the certificates to a new class and to testify in their addresses to the inspiration and benefit they derived from a grammar school certificate when a high school diploma was beyond their reach. In many cases the grammar school certificate is an incentive also to secure the diploma, as the child who has obtained this is apt to desire the higher document if he can spare the time to secure it by attendance at the high school.

In some of the western states commencement exercises for an entire county are held in the county seat. In one county in Missouri this year over 250 children were graduated and received certificates for the completion of advanced grammar grade work. The exercises were held in the court house and were attended by the parents and friends of most of the children, some of whom lived a considerable distance from the schools. These county graduation exercises are becoming more common in a number of states, although they present many difficulties which the school authorities would like to see overcome. It frequently happens that the students who are best entitled to a certificate are unable to make the journey to the county seat to receive it. Some of these commencement exercises were attended with more elaboration and expense than is considered desirable or suitable for children of grammar grade age so that some modification of this condition is being attempted this year in a number of communities.

It is generally felt that even for high school students the county commencement or graduation exercises is too cumbersome an affair although the schools themselves are usually not large enough to accommodate such services. For this reason the township division which exists in a number of states is a boon to the school authorities having this matter in charge. Where there is a township high school it is usually possible to arrange to hold in it not only the commencement exercises of its own pupils but also graduation exercises for the children who have completed the grammar grades if such a recognition is deemed desirable.

The grammar school commencement, however, is regarded with disapproval by many educators who feel that the line of demarcation between the grammar grade and the high school should not be emphasized. The tendency to begin high school work during the last year or two in the grammar school will tend to do away with the grammar school commencement, and it is, therefore, a much discussed question. The educators in a town in Ohio who had it in operation several years discontinued it last year upon the ground that students who received a certificate from the grammar school were not apt to go on to high school. This theory has been contradicted by those who favor the division between the schools.

The tendency upon the part of educators in charge of all public school commencements is towards increased simplicity. They claim that the public school is a democratic institution in which every pupil should have the same privilege. Therefore, no innovation should be permitted which would involve any undue financial strain upon any student. Simple dressing for the girls, the prohibition of white kid gloves and slippers and similar extravagances are being insisted upon more strongly each year. This is especially true of the public schools in the larger cities. Some of the rural schools are now struggling with customs which the city schools have already disregarded but the pendulum is swinging backward for these also.

The work in vocational training and domestic science which is being added in more and more schools each year has given a new turn to what might be called commencements in many of the rural schools, especially in the southern states. The schools where the parents and friends assemble in the morning to examine the specimens of hand work wrought by the children during the year, and remain to eat a luncheon or country dinner cooked by the senior girls before assembling for the formal graduation exercises in the afternoon seem to have reached the maximum of practical suitability in the way closing exercises. Each boy and girl who completed the course received a certificate and the branches include matters which will fit them for practical work in life, aside from the knowledge gained from the study of books. In some schools, these exercises are becoming known most appropriately as "closing festivals" and seem more in keeping with the true spirit of public education than do the more formal exercises. They seem a natural outgrowth of the boys' corn clubs and the girls' tomato clubs which have carried such a beneficent influence into many communities.

The feeling exists that the commencement exercises, which really mark the completion of several years' systematic work, should in some way demonstrate what has been learned or accomplished in that time. The commencements most in vogue now fail to do this in many cases because they are taken out of the school itself. Educators are now beginning to object to the hiring of a hall or theater and sending out a large number of invitations to friends of the students to attend a ceremony which frequently seems most remote from the real work of the school. Instead of this, when by any means possible, the school commencement should be held in the assembly room of the school building in which the graduates have done their work. All of the rooms of this building should be thrown open for a considerable period in order that the friends of the students may have an opportunity to see the environment under which the studies have been pursued. Then the commencement exercises should consist of music used in the school rather than that of a hired orchestra, and short addresses made either by the teachers or persons closely in touch with the work of the school.

Vindicating the Vindicated

(New York World.)

The newspaper which Mr. Roosevelt is prosecuting for libellous reflections upon his relations with the demon rum is a Republican organ of small circulation, published once a week in a northern Michigan town of about 12,500 population. To support his civil action in $10,000 damages and his later criminal action, there have gone with him into that distant quarter a small army of notable divines, family physicians, eminent blood relatives, ex-governors of states, collectors of ports, ex-ambassadors, distinguished sociologists and real editors. Over the fate of this mighty expedition sent out to crush a country editor the nation sits in anxious interest.

We notice that Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott is to be among the witnesses for the prosecution, and this at a time when reports are current that his contributing editor is dissatisfied with a salary said to be around $50,000 a year and is demanding more wages as a measure of bare social justice.

What the two matters have to do with each other cannot be guessed, nor is it clear why Dr. Abbott should go to Ishpeming unless it be to seek a vindication also for himself. Mr. Roosevelt said last summer that he was a drinker only as Dr. Abbott was, and Dr. Abbott accepted the analogy with the single qualification in effect that he was not usually reaching for a third cup of coffee while also drinking "milk or iced tea."

That was vindication enough for both, and the country so accepted it. Why this costly effort on the part of either to establish the fact in superfluous measure?

An Advantage

An aeroplane is a beautiful thing
When you wish to go up to a star;
It sails through the air like a bird on the wing
With never a jolt or a jar.

That is, if constructed securely the ship,
The air currents friendly and kind;
If nothing blows up and the thing does not tip
And tumble us over behind.

An automobile is a lovelier thing
When you wish to go somewhere on earth;
It hasn't a thing you could take for a wing
But it hustles for all it is worth.

An aeroplane beats an automobile
When you wish to go up to a star,
But in riding these days it is worth a good deal
If you don't have to tumble too far.
—LURANA SHELDON, in the New York Times.

Out of the Mouths of Babes

Little Lulu was watching her mother making a buttonhole.

"Mamma," she asked, "why do you put eyewinkers all around that hole?"

• • •

"Thomas," queried the neighbor, "is the new baby a boy or girl?"

"'Tain't neither one," replied the little fellow, knowingly. "It's twins."

Small Sadie was walking along the street with her mother when a ferocious looking but friendly bulldog approached. With a little scream she clung to her mother, crying: "Oh, mamma, look at the dog with the tangled face!"

Elinor, aged seven, was anxious to bring home a cat from the country last summer, but her mother objected. "If you will say no more about the cat," she said, "I'll give you a dollar to spend when we get home."

"But, mamma," protested Elinor, "just think how much longer a cat would last than a dollar."

A Batch of Smiles

A young man in Washington who many months ago hung up his shingle as "attorney at law" has not yet been overwhelmed with clients. A friend, entering the office one day, observed on the desk a cheap alarm clock.

"Taking it home, eh?" he observed. "Good thing at this time of the year. Everyone is liable to oversleep these mornings." The lawyer smiled.

"I have not purchased that clock for the reasons you mentioned. I keep it here to wake me when it's time to go home."

An old negro in a South Carolina town was arrested for stealing chickens and as he bore a rather bad reputation it was hard to secure counsel for him. At last a young lawyer, who had known Rastus for a long time, took his case, to the great joy of the old fellow. At his trial the judge asked him:

"Are you the defendant?"

The old fellow was perplexed for a moment and then replied

"No, sah, dat's de defendant, sah," pointing proudly to his counsel. "Ise de man wot stole de chickens."

While visiting a friend the other day a Washington woman was admiring some fine bits of china that were displayed on a buffet table, and of these her attention was particularly drawn to a big Japanese cup. Taking it up to examine the details of design, the caller was startled to see that the piece had been broken and awkwardly glued. She called her hostess's attention to the fracture, whereupon the latter immediately summoned her maid.

"Margaret," said the lady of the house, "this cup is broken."

"Yes, mum; I had an accident."

"But it has been glued together," continued the mistress. "It is unpardonable of you to conceal your fault in this way—to glue the piece without saying a word to me. Now, if you had come to me openly and said you had broken it, I would have forgiven you and—"

"Excuse me, 'mum," interposed the maid eagerly, "the other one like it is broke, too."—Harper's Bazar.

The Journal's Letter Box

Atlanta, Ga., May 26, 1913.

Editor The Journal:

Between 6 and 7 p. m. Sunday I undertook to transfer at Five Points for home in Inman Park. The first Inman Park car was jammed with negroes except four or five seats to the front, and I was in a hurry. Thought walking three blocks I would use an Inwin street car; got on it at Five Points; the conductor informed me it was solid black except one white lady. I hopped off and waited for another Inman Park car. When it came I got two feet from the steps. Even this car left white ladies and children behind because there was no room. I heard the conductor say there was already 117 fares rung up. How long will this last? My immediate family pays the street car company on an average of 75 cents per day, and I think we are entitled to better service. Why not put on trailers in rush hours for negroes?

THE POLICEMAN'S CLUB

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The policeman's club is a symbol of barbarism. It is a mistake, a hold-over of iniquitous economic ignorance and altogether a disgrace to civilization.

A policeman ought to be strong, lively, courageous, adept at jui-jitsu and able to whip the obstreperous "bad man." He should also carry a revolver, know how to shoot straight, and, when the time comes, shoot to kill. But club—no.

The very possession of the club tends to brutalize the officer. Human nature is human nature. There is something in our blood that makes us enjoy pummelling one who resists us. The teamster likes to kick his horse when no one is watching. The mean parent and the old-fashioned teacher take pleasure in slapping the little boy. That is, of course, some do. Policemen are human beings. To put a club into their hands, when behind them is the whole authority of law, and when the offender is doubly afraid to resist, is too much temptation.

The club instils a wrong notion into the policeman's head—namely, that it is his business to punish. That is not his business at all. His business is to bring men before the court of justice; it is for the court to punish.

It is the policeman's duty to preserve order. For this a club is unnecessary. Clubbing in the streets by bluecoats is of a piece with flogging in the school room by a strong armed teacher. We have abolished the latter; we ought to abolish the former along with it.

The policeman who needs a club in order to enforce his commands ought to resign and go to punching steers.

The sight of clubs on policemen tends to make the criminal class still more bitter, cruel and poison of heart than it is by nature. The club means brutality and every display of brutality goes to increasing brutality. Lynching increases the class of crimes it is supposed to decrease; hanging promotes murder; penitentiaries promote forgery, burglary and theft. Even so the club promotes vicious violence.

We can conceive of cases where a policeman is justified in killing the man who resists; there is no law without a background of life and death power; but we can conceive of no case in which he is justified in pounding a man over the head with a heavy stick.

The club ought to go. Kid gloves would be more effective. Besides, the no club idea has been tried and found to work.

Twinkling Tales

Gertrude, aged three, sat in her high chair at the dinner table turning about in her fingers a small ear of corn from which she had been nibbling a row at a time. Suddenly she burst into tears.

"What is the matter, dear?" asked her mother.

"I've lost my place!" sobbed the little one.—The Delineator.

For four entire hours had the lady remained in the shop. She had visited every department and worried the majority of the salesmen without spending a penny.

Toward the close of the afternoon one of the salesmen, feeling somewhat exasperated, ventured to make a mild protest.

"Madam," he asked sweetly, "are you shopping here?"

The lady looked surprised, but not by any means annoyed.

"Certainly," she replied. "But what else should I be doing?"

For a moment the salesman hesitated, then blurted out:

"Well, madam, I thought perhaps you might be taking an inventory."

Then the lady melted away among the shadows by the door.—National Food Magazine.

A certain haunted house down in Georgia was held in terror by all the negroes in the vicinity except Sam, who bravely declared that for $2 he would sleep there all night. A purse was raised and Sam was sold to carry out his end of the bargain and to call in the morning for the money. When morning came no trace could be found of Sam; the house contained nothing but evidences of a hurried departure. A search party was organized, but without result.

Finally, four days later, Sam, covered with mud, came slowly walking down the road.

"Hi, here, nigger!" yelled a bystander, "where's you been de las' fo' days"

EXPERIMENT IN EFFICIENCY.

Fair priestess of the kitchen fane,
Sweet tender of the household flame,
Thy tinted ear I seek to gain
In modern science's dread name.
This—well—this book that I have here
On "Kitchen Wastes" if you would read—
'Tis by a "human engineer"—
Yes, yes, he is a fool, indeed!

But here is one by an M. D.
On "Scientific Bills of Fare"!
Of calories, as you will see—
"He's just a bonehead! You should care?"
Yes, as you say, the proteid
Is always tenderer when stewed;
I always like fried units; did
One ever know more dainty food?

However, here's another book
On "Model Kitchens and Their Cost."
It says, you see, that any cook
Should never be disturbed or crossed—
A noble work! Yes, I'll read that.
Although it does my plans deface,
And—yes, we'll get a bigger flat
If you will only keep the place!

Who's just blown into Washington from London, don'cherknow, all loaded down with kind regards from Johnny Bull & Co.? Who bears King George's proxy and will represent His Nobs at White House luncheons, teas, and balls and other thingumbobs? Who'll guard the British lion and its every tooth and nail and see that Uncle Sam'l ties no bowknots in its tail? Whose job 'twill be to keep an eye on Mr. Beauchamp Clark lest he annex yon Canada some evening when it's dark? Who'll do it if he can play the game like little Jamie Bryce, whose shoes he undertakes to fill. All hail, Sir Cecil Rice.

SOLONS NEAR FIGHT OVER BILL'S PASSAGE

All of the Temperance Measures Were Passed Up in Florida House

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 28.—Just before adjournment, Light, of Marion, who moved for reconsideration of committee substitute for good roads bill, renewed the motion. Farris, in urging reconsideration, said he had several amendments and presented strong argument why some legislation of this nature should be passed, but adjournment was taken before the vote was taken. Light, of Marion, and Taylor, of Madison, came near ea personal encounter over the bill. It is still pending.

The house passed the McWilliams bill relative to regulation of savings banks, also passed senate bill relating to the appointment of pilot commissioners. A bill by Bussey, of Palm Beach, making it unlawful to circulate false statements rerogatory to banking institutions, passed.

Farris' joint resolution proposing amendment to the constitution that only white persons shall holf office, was mended by Acosta that the word "male" be added. The resolution was defeated by a tie vote, though a motion was made to reconsider tomorrow.

The governor has signed all the temperance measures passed, including the act regulating the hours and times of delivery by common carriers, the anti-shipping bill, an act to prohibit the selling of orders in dry territory.

mother heard from him Wednesday afternoon.

Members of the family expect the young man to return when the excitement over the publication of the dictograph records has subsided.

The detectives working on the case manifestly were pleased with the negro's new statements. They declare their firm belief that he is telling the truth, and point to the corroborative effect of numerous details already established—regarding, for instance, those who entered and left the factory, etc.

Alabama Police Have New Phagan Suspect

A. E. Williams, chief of police of Alabama City, Ala., Wednesday telephoned to Chief of Police James L. Beavers that there was a man named Bryant in that town who was acting in a very suspicious manner and it was intimated that he might know a great deal about the Phagan case.

This message was referred to Detective Chief Lanford, who said that he had never heard of anyone named Bryant in connection with the Phagan case, but that he would look into the matter. He does not, however, lay any stress on the message from Alabama City.

Lanford and Felder Exchange New Thrust

Satire has been emphasized in the controversy between Colonel Thomas B. Felder and the police department by the issuance by Chief of Detectives N. A. Lanford of the following statement:

"I will make this proposition to Colonel Felder: That I will handcuff A. S. Colyar and send him back to Knoxville, Tenn., without requisition papers, if he (Colonel Felder) will accompany one of my men to Columbia, S. C., waiving requisition papers. Thereby I would get rid of two nuisances.

(Signed) "N. A. LANFORD."

To the detective's proposition, Colonel Felder has made this reply:

"There is only one difference between those crooks, Lanford and Colyar—one has been caught and the other has not."

Case Is Near Complete, Declares Lanford

Late Wednesday afternoon Chief of Detectives Neport Lanford stated that the mystery of Mary Phagan's death has been solved.

The confession of James Conley, the negro sweeper, according to the chief, clears up all points of which the detectives have been in doubt and clinches the conviction of the guilty party. The chief adds that the detectives' theory of the crime has not been changed by the negro's new statements.

"There is no doubt that Conley was in the factory on Saturday," says the head of the detective department, "and we now believe that he was telling the truth."

Conley says that he remembers, while sitting on the box by the elevator, seeing Foreman M. B. Darley come down the steps with a Miss Mattie Smith, who looked like she was weeping.

The negro says that he heard aDrley say, "Don't worry we will fix that up next week."

Detectives interview Darley and the foreman corroborated the negro's statement.

Darley says, according to the officers, that he came down the steps with Miss Smith, who was talking of her father, who was about to die. She told him that she would probably need more money next weep and wiped tears from her eyes.

Then Darley says that he told her not to worry that he would px the money matter up next week.

In addition to Darley's statement is that of Mrs. Arthur White, who says she saw the negro lurking near the elevator, when she came down the steps about 1 o'clock. She says that Conley looks like the negro she saw there. These corroborating circumstances, Chief Lanford says have convinced him that Conley is now telling the truth; that he (Conley) wrote the letters on Saurday at Superintendent Frank's dictation.

Quickest Relief Known For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine, but is an ethical preparation.—(Advt.)

J. E. MEREDITH
World's Champion Runner

A NEW STAR was fixed in the athletic firmament when J. E. Meredith, a sturdy school boy from Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy, established a new world's record at Stockholm, Sweden, July, 1912. In the 800 meter race (874.9 yards) he covered the distance in 1:51 9-10. It was a magnificent run with Braun, the German, setting a terrific pace and apparently an easy winner. Tiring in the stretch, three Americans passed Braun—Meredith, Mel Sheppard and I. N. Davenport—all three smashers of the old world's record. It was a race that will live in athletic history.

COTTON MARKET DECLINED ON FAVORABLE CROP NEWS

Market in New York Closed 5 to 10 Points Down From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points on disappointing cables. There seemed to be a pretty good demand for new crop positions, but offerings of near months were relatively heavy, giving the entire list a nervous appearance. As Friday and Saturday are holidays, trading in May contracts will be ended at noon tomorrow and that position was influenced by scattering liquidation, while local and foreign spot interests seemed to be selling July.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—Cotton futres opened steady at a decline of 5 to 6 points on poor cables and good weather in the cotton region. The map was dry except for rains along the Atlantic coast, where bears said moisture would be of benefit. Bulls called attention to the fact that temperatures were low in portions of the central belt. Rather bullish reports from private bureas on Texas served to check selling and first prices were in the lowest in the early trading. At the end of the first half hour of balness prices were unchanged to 1 point down compared with yesterday's close.

Towards the middle of the morning selling increased to a small extent on a private bureau report of 85 for condition and 4.7 per cent as the increase in acreage. The forecast of dry weather for the entire belt was also considered most favorable and brought out some short selling. On the whole, it was a waiting market with both sides willing to wait until the holidays.

At noon the most active months were 4 to 5 points under the close of yesterday.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: Tuesday's weather was good enough, but the day's quota of crop reports lacked the favorable tone enthusiastic short sellers of Monday expected. The trade continued to buy contracts, and the underlying strength generated thereby and by coverings by small shorts, wase made acute by the change of position by one or more extensive operators who had been working on the short side of the account. The result was an advance which just about wiped out Monday's decline. Business is in very small volume, fluctuations are narrow, and constitutional partisans adhere to old belief with the simplicity of ingrained faith. Consumption is running on a heavier scale than is absorption of the raw material by spinners, consequently reserves are being reduced. Bulls believe an average of about 15,000,000 bales a year is needed, and that the probability is against average crops of 15,000,000 yet awhile. For this reason friends of the market can see no reason to fear the possibility of serious declines in the value of the raw material. On the other hand, low price people know that the weather is good, that the demand is limited and the world's visible supply of cotton is larger than it was at this time last year. Consequently they cannot understand how anybody can anticipate any other than a downward price movement.

Journal of Commerce reports acreage increases in Texas and Oklahoma, where the cotton crop is good. Season very late in Texas, cotton not all up and some still planting, some replanting, season cold and stands somewhat spotted. Percentage condition in Texas will be approximately the same as last year, when it was 81.8. Rain has generally been plentiful and ground in good shape of preparation. Oklahoma condition will probably show considerably higher than a year ago, when it was 78.7. Rains somewhat excessive in some localities and grass making headway. Some correspondents consider prospects best in years.

Weather map very favorable, cloudy Atlantics, fair elsewhere. General rains in North Georgia and Carolinas. Some good rains in Carolinas, where they will be of great benefit. Indications for fair, warmer entire belt except possibly some showers on Atlantic coast.

Dispatch wires: Texas generally clear; Oklahoma light shower Oklahoma City, north portion cloudy, rest clear.

T. H. Price presents a bearish view of the cotton market in this week's issue of Cotton and Finance.

The federal grand jury has postponed the inquiry into the cotton pool case indefinitely.

Forecast:

Louisiana: Tonight and Thursday fair, not much change in temperature; light easterly winds on the coast.

Arkansas: Tonight and Thursday, generally cloudy, warmer tonight in northwest portion.

Oklahoma: Tonight and Thursday increasing cloudiness.

East Texas: Tonight and Thursday generally fair; light easterly to southerly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Tonight and Thursday generally fair.

Georgia: Fair tonight, warmer north and central portion; Thursday fair.

Alabama: Fair tonight and Thursday, warmer Thursday.

Kentucky: Generally fair and warmer tonight and Thursday.

Tennessee: Fair tonight, warmer in west portion; Thursday fair and warmer.

Mississippi: Fair tonight and Thursday.

Liverpool said to have been a seller of July on and after call, but after call McFadden, Wilson, Riordan and Hubbard were the buyers of July. The selling was scattered, crowd seemed inclined to sell on the favorable map, Schill and Mitchell leading sellers.

Wilson and Waters have been leading buyers, Schill and Mitchell about best sellers buying of July scattered and those buying seem to be selling new crop. Schill and Mitchell have been fair sellers of July as well as new crop.

Henckian and Vogelsong, Liverpool, cable easy undertone looks lower, unless crop news worse.

Theo Price says: American short interest about covered and obtained its cotton from visible and invisible supply. Says if July prices forced to extreme there is enough tenderable low grade cotton to liquidate that position. He refers to present large excess of interior stocks, says crop has improved since rains fell. Think people expect bureau of 83.5. Believes acreage will be increased about 5 per cent.

Norden condition 85; acreage increase 4.7.

Official Norden report 85.3. Increase in acreage 4.7 per cent.

Hentz issued notices today for 10,000 May said to be for Liverpool account.

Notices issued by Hentz were stopped by Hopkins Dwight & Co., Robt. Moore & Co. and Rich.

STOCK GOSSIP.

Dow Jones' summary: B. L. Winchell and Thomas H. West appointed receivers for Frisco. Edwin W. Winthrop and W. J. Jackson appointed receivers for Chicago and Eastern Illinois. Receiver of West Side Belt and Wabash-Pittsburg terminal asks authority to issue $2,350,000 of receivers certificates. London cable says labor demands and reassembling of parliament are disturbing influences in London market. London settlement began today. Twelve industrials declined .50. Twenty active rails declined .86.

It would not be surprising if market worked little lower temporarily, but do not look for any serious decline. Public opinion seems to favor an increase in freight rates and expect the interstate commission will grant it.—Potter.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: Hot winds were reported in southwest last night and the Kansas City curb on wheat was up ⅝c. Chicago was the weakest market yesterday, which bulls attributed to the break in corn. With unfavorable crop reports and a few days of dry, hot weather bulls are looking for higher prices and said wheat should be bought on breaks. It was the theory of the bears that the crop scare has been worked for all it was worth for the time being and wheat should be sold on all bulges. Corn traders believe that there will be little in its for the bulls in May corn the balance of the month. The trade has been largely evened up as indicated by the bulge Monday and the break of yesterday. It would not be surprising to see fireworks in May cats in the two and half trading days remaining of the month, including today. Those who have watched the market say that the open interest is larger than it is possible for the shorts to deliver and they will have to go into the pit and cover.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat—General trend of crop advices indicate that no improvement is taking place in the winter wheat situation and while the volume of new bying is not large, the pressure from short sales is light. We continue to prefer the long side on weak spots. Corn—Speculative sentiment swung to the selling side, being more or less influenced by the sharp break in the May delivery and the probability of larger receipts. Some further recession in prices seems probably, but we would not press the short side on weak spots. Oats—Local professionals seem to favor the selling side. An easier corn market would probably affect oats to some extent. On sharp depressions we think the long side preferable. Provisions—We are apt to get a somewhat easier market today, but on weak spots there seems to be a continued good class of buying.

Captain Phillips estimates the crop of Kansas at 85,000,000. Harvesting commences June 20 to July 1.

Inglis writes from Liberal, Kan.: "Wheat throughout southwestern counties going back rapidly. Still a large acreage in Pratt and Clark showing good stands and color. Rain within a week would make a wonderful change. About 25 per cent a failure. Oats gone."

Snow wires from Cincinnati: Wheat in central and southern Indiana is not making good its early promise. In Wabash and White River valleys on overflow lands the water killed stools, leaving only seed stalk to mature. Stalks are well headed, but necessarily the stand is thin, on high lands particularly. From Seymour and Greensburg to Indianapolis, prospects much better, but even here straw is short and stand not good. State, as a whole, will hardly get an average yield. Harvest about June 16 to 20, a week earlier than normal. Oats very spotted. Some early fields good, but prospect, as a whole, is very poor. A little corn still to plant, but great amount up with god stand and good color.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 28.—Liverpool shows decided weakness this morning with futures 2 to 4 lower than due. Spots unchanged, sales 10,000. Political news is not good. London says that the powers practically extended an ultimatum to the Allies to force the signing of the peace pact with Turkey. Forced peace of this character is hardly satisfactory.

Weather developments continue favorable. General and some good rains have fallen over the Carolinas; light rains in the northern half of Georgia, while dry and warm weather prevailed over the remainder of the belt. Indications are for fair and warmer over the entire bit, except a little cloudiness in west Texas and the Atlantic coast where further showers may occur.

The Journal of Commerce on Texas attracted much criticism as it is entirely out of line with information received from the best private sources. It appears strange indeed that Texas should be three weeks late on account of cold weather and the Oklahoma crop early, when as a matter of fact, government records show that Oklahoma temperatures have all along been on an average of 6 to 18 degrees colder than in Texas.

New York reported Norden's condition 85.3; increase in acreage 4.7. The market opened about 2 lower, but sellers were scarce owing to anticipation of further professional support in New York which in fact made its appearance soon after the opening and caused a rally of 5 points. According to New York advices, this support is furnished with the intention of benefiting from short coverings before the holidays. New York will be closed Friday and Saturday. The bureau report to May 25 will be issued Monday, June 2, at 11 a. m., our time. We compare with a belt average of 78.9 last year; 87.8 in 1911; 82 in 1910 and ten-year average of 79.9. The trade looks for a report between 81 and 84.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER

NEW YORK, May 28.—There have been several bearish influences in the market today, but with it all the market has held remarkably well and the offerings have been absorbed by good peopleZ= First we had the bearish report issued by Thomas H. Price and Norden report giving a condition of 85.3 and increased acreage 4.7 per cent. Also the issuing of ten thousand May notices said to be for Liverpool. These notices were said to be cotton taken up on first notice day, and is now being redelivered, as it was found not to be desirable cotton for shipment. These notices were promptly stepped by spot people. There has been pressure on July. Liverpool sold and the local operators here seemed to have bought July and sold new crop. Volume of trading, however, has not been large, as every one seems to be awaiting the government figures on JPune 2, and as there is only one more trading day this week we may expect very narrow fluctuations.—Anderson.

COTTON SEED OIL MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28.—Cotton seed oil market was easy under scattered liquidation on decline in lard professionals attempted to support the market, but offerings were liberal and served to check any advancing tendency. Cotton houses sold Augst.—Pearsall.

Saving and Investing

The Meaning of Investment.

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

I own a big dictionary which tells me that an investment is the productive use of capital in some permanent form.

There is no authority in the world which would justify me in defining an investment as the promise of large returns on the capital employed. Capital for productive use is offered by the millions in every money center of the world on every day of the year, and the rate of return is fixed within narrow limits by certain well known factors.

Used in investment, money is not supposed to take much risk—it is implied in the definition of the word that invested money shall not be wasted, and that it will be returned to the owner, either at his pleasure or at some fixed time.

When any one comes to me and offers to pay me a return of from 7 to 9 or 10 per cent on my money and tells me that the investment is a safe one, I know that he is either deliberately lying to me or has been so thoroughly deceived himself that he is not fit to handle money.

For—

A safe investment returning as much as 4 1-2 per cent is always in big demand in all of the money centers of the world, and it would amount to insanity to offer as high a return as 7 per cent where the safety of the money invested is assured.

Good investments are to be distinguished from safe investments. Money put into a good investment will certainly be used productively—you can be certain of that much. That it will continue to pay you a return in the whole period of its use is reasonably certain. In the end money put into good investments will come back to the investor in eight cases out of ten.

And—

Good investments do not pay large returns, for the market is as wide and as thoroughly regulated as that for the safe items.

The word investment is widely and shamefully misused.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS IRREGULAR ALL DAY

Canadian Pacific, Beet Sugar, Smelters and Copper Off, S. P. and U. P. Up

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Further liquidation in the various issues of St. Louis and San Francisco constituted the chief feature at the opening of today's stock market. Losses ranging from a point and a half in the common stock to over four points in the 5 per cent bonds were recorded. All of the active stocks showed nominal declines with the exception of Reading.

Standard stocks shook off the depression caused by the decline in St. Louis and San Francisco securities and other low priced issues, Union Pacific rising a point. St. Louis and San Francisco first preferred extended its loss to 7 points and the general 5s to 6¾. Distillery securities fell 4¼ and the 5 per cent bonds 4 points.

The market became quite active at midday when at the expense of quoted values more leading issue scored lower prices with especial pressure in Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Reading, Steel and Amalgamated stocks.

Liquidation was again distinctly in evidence during today's early stock market. Initial prices reflected relative steadiness in the more representative shares, despite further severe decline in St. Louis and San Francisco issues. Improvement was not long sustained, however, all the market leaders losing their early advantage. Distillers' Securities fell over 4 and the 5 per cent bonds 9 points.

Bonds were heavy.

Activity abated somewhat in the later trading, but prices evinced little tendency to recover more than mere fractions.

Liquidation in minor stocks stopped and shorts covered in the active shares, forcing rallies of a point in Reading and the Pacifics.

Closed steady.

In the Nemo corset, the designer has built on the two strong fundamentals of correct corseting: support where it is needed; and freedom of diaphragm, permitting deep, natural breathing. In addition are Nemo features exclusive to this corset. One of the most important is

The Lasticurve-Back Self Reducing

The five inches of elastic at the back of the corset seems like a little thing in itself.

But it means that the corset curves with the figure in a sitting position. The line of the back is smooth and unbroken and the corset is in its proper position and not forced up on the figure. Not only that, the elastic insert is of a specially woven patented webbing that will outlast the corset.

WHAT ANNE RITTENHOUSE SAYS

HAVE you happened to see any of the fashionably dressed women in the afternoon wearing the new low necked frock? There never has been a time in our generation when so much of the neck was shown in the daytime.

In the generation preceding this one gowns were much lower than now, for our modest ancestors, whom we were so fond of referring to as exemplars in dress and manners, appears in the open with petticoatless skirts cut off above the ankles and short bodices cut down to show the shoulders!

Brazen as we are said to be, we have not yet arrived at the "modesty" shown by our immediate ancestors. Our style of undress is not so marked and not so flagrant, despite what the critics say. It was a natural consequence of the revival of the fashions of the time of George IV. that skirts should become clinging and that the long open V should be used in front of the bodice.

When the collar became high at the back and low in front, the majority of people thought that it was a passing fancy, which would soon disappear, but it gained in power until today one sees fashionable afternoon gowns cut as low in front as theater gowns were once cut. It is something of a shock when one comes upon this gown unawares, and the shock is first mitigated by the memory of the fashion in other days, when the fichu and folded tulle were worn by the older women in a graceful way.

There is no doubt that the high back of the neck is the one feature that makes this exceedingly low front permissible and artistic. In some gowns the back is built up with a high turnover collar, but the usual method is merely to stiffen the lace or tulle in a tight line to its finish-it will stand up well above the base of the neck and give a good line to the bust.

When amateurs have tried this kind of opening, they have often failed for one reason: they do not begin correctly at the back and they do not draw the lace or tulle i na tight line to its finishing point at the bust. They loop it too much by carelessly packing it along the edge of the gown and bunching it where it finishes. To do the thing well requires skill and observation, or experience. It must be securely handled, not as though it were cobweb lace, but as though it were satin that could stand pulling into place.

The Collarless Gown.

WOMEN who do not care to expose so much of their necks in the street or at any kind of public place in the afternoon, wear guimpes with their deep V-necked bodices, and while they cover their necks the gowns give the impression of being built along the fashionable lines. As the weather grows warmer and people live the majority of the time in the country and not i nthe city, it is probable that the guimpe will be dropped and the new fashion taken up in an extreme degree. No one can deny that it is a comfortable fashion, and if a woman looks cool on a hot day, few there are, who are so unkind as to criticise the means by which the effect is obtained.

At least the deep V is not nearly so unattractive a fashion as the short sleeves that became so popular four years ago for street year. At the noon hour in a large city one was quite able to judge of the structure and texture of almost every woman's arm who walked the streets unless she belonged to the fastidious set who never appear in the open on the hottest day without gloves.

Those were the days when even the 98-cent shirtwaist was made with sleeves above the elbow and a Dutch neck cut down back and front for three inches. Happily the fashion passed whether by reason of ridicule or a desire for change no one can tell. It matters not. The Robespierre blouse which took its place was more decently made with its long sleeves and,its collar that covered the back of the neck, even though it exposed the front.

This wide and deep V is not used in shirt waists. It is kept for one-piece frocks, which have become so excessively fashionable that one wonders how the coat and skirt trade likes it. These frocks are often made to resemble coat suits because of the peplum or short tunic which covers the hips and was borrowed from the peasantry of Russia and the Balkan states.

Such an arrangement gives to the one-piece frock all the dignity of a suit, and the high girdle which is now replacing the low one gives one a good chance to open up the front of the gown in a graceful way. The two combined make a good finishing spot just below the bust where the girdle meets the folded neck drapery and is finished with a bow, a buckle or a rose.

Lace and Tulle Mixed.

IN the majority of gowns the neck arrangement is built from layers of thin lace laid over wash tulle—which is only another name for fine net. Heavy lace it not used, and lace without net is unattractive. The effect must be transparent, and therefore one wishes to manipulate the folds in a deft way so that they will not become thick and hide the skin. The collar band at the back comes well over the nape of the neck and the flattened lace is boned above it. When one does not like this arrangement, or if it is not becoming, then a small turnover collar is used which reaches only to the ears, so that it will not interfere with the shapely flat line over the collarbone.

Frocks of White Hop Sacking.

FOR everyday wear, morning and afternoon, the shops are exploiting a clever little frock of this white hop sacking, which goes by many other names. The skirt has a shaped plait set in the back and is fastened in the front with bullet buttons of white bone. At the foot line is a broken design of Chinese blue cotton chinchilla cloth, and this is repeated as a belt, cuffs and epaulets on the shoulders.

There is no yoke in back or front, but the cloth is cut so that it will hang loosely and broadly from shoulders to waist and is held in by the belting of blue cloth, which is somewhat below the normal waist line. There is a straight turnover sailor collar of the blue and a bow of sapphire velvet ribbon with the ends run through tabs of the material, which are used to fasten the front.

This model is also made up like the amethyst one, with the open front and the elbow sleeves to show thin shirtwaist beneath; and it is also copied in polka dot foulard, which has come back into fashion for all manner of cool frocks that can be easily tucked into a suit case when traveling.

THE EVENING STORY — HIS WAY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

"The last day! The last day!" These three words formed themselves into a refrain that throbbed in Mrs. Tyner's brain like the roll of an endless chain. The last day for their home—hers and Ralph's. That was their meaning, but she had realized it slowly. The shock of the unexpected knowledge had been too great.

The morning's work was finished without thought, even to the giving of extra little touches here and there. Then, because there was nothing more to do, she went and sat on the porch,

"Isn't it beautiful, Nannie?"

her hearing strained for Ralph's first footfall.

"Something must be done!" she kept telling herself. "If Ralph would only come!"

If Ralph would only come! Suddenly she caught her breath and a chill went to her heart. Ralph, her husband, the man without an ambition, he who from the year's beginning to its end earned not so much as a single dollar. What could come of his knowing?

What indeed! Mrs. Tyner knew that her call for help was vain and for the first time since her wedding day she frankly faced the ugly situation. Her marriage had been a bitter disappointment, her husband a reproach and a handicap. Farming the land which had been hers, his first business venture had not been a failure. It was worse, a disaster.

But even so she had refused to be discouraged. She sold the encumbered land and invested in a mercantile business, happy in the hope that that would appeal to him. And it seemed to. He threw himself, body and brain, into it, but somehow there were all sorts of unexpected inroads on the capital. Everybody had something to sell and the reasons why he should buy were so plausible that he could not resist, and presently there was on hand a big, unsalable stock. Leaks, at first a mere nothing, changed to rivulets and then to rivers, and one day the inevitable red flag floated over the entrance.

It was then that the last remnant of her wealth went to the purchase of a small home. And still she did not reproach him. The two failures seemed punishment enough.

Mrs. Tyner's face flamed crimson at the thought of it, but if his failings were punishment he showed it in an unusual way. Often he would unthinkingly burst into snatches of song or whistling, and his countenance stoutly belied anything in the way of low spirts.

"Ralph," she said to him one day when the mercantile venture was finally settled, "the money is all gone. What are you going to do now?"

He had been tilted back in his chair gazing at nothing, but he dropped down and sat without speaking. After a while he had looked at her. "Why anything?" he asked.

"We're so comfortable, Nannie," he went on, pleadingly. "Why hurry? Let's take a little time. There's no hurry. We're young yet."

Sheer inability kept her from replying, a horrible suspicion that had sometimes crossed her mind began to weave a hideous fabric in her brain, the warp and woof of which were her husband's indolence and lack of ambition. He was a riddle easily read, and for days and weeks she grieved over faded hopes and watched him do nothing.

It had been early autumn when the red flag gave its message to the public; it was spring when Ralph, with great cheerfulness, began to improve their property. He mended fences and buildings and dug the grounds from end to end into grooves and trenches and beds, singing, whistling, calling cheerily to passersby, and apparently in high spirits.

"We'll have something here, Nannie, that will be worth while by and by," he would say, but it was not till the bills for rare seeds and bulbs and plants, to say nothing of pots and shelves and drains all over the house, came in that she was wholly convinced of his utter recklessness and lack of judgment.

There had been absolutely no way to raise the amount except to mortgage, and she had done it. Even then she said nothing, but there was no need. Her face and manner said it for her. Ralph, if he saw, was not disturbed. He continued his work in the garden, cultivating, watering, ministering to his plants as though they were ailing babies.

From dawn till dark he slaved, scarcely taking time to glance at Nannie. At first she had racked her brain for ways to make money herself, and had tried desperately to save something for the mortgage, but after a while the specter of homeless old age dimmed. The necessity of providing for the present obscured everything else. Only her management of the poultry yard and butter and milk stood between them and positive want.

And Ralph still played happily at gardening. With each season his space increased, till at last the vegetables and poultry were almost crowded out. There were times when she wondered, with a small ray of hope, whether it was really all play, but the hope was crushed when he came to her one day and asked her to write and paste labels for him.

"Are you selling?" she said, and he had briefly replied: "Exchanging. I want other varieties."

The gardening had gone on now for three years. She and Ralph seldom spoke to each other, and every inch of available space was given to plants. Once, when the place was a mass of color, he had called to her to come and see the effect. "Isn't it beautiful, Nannie?" he said, wistfully, and she, exasperated beyond control, replied: "Yes, it is beautiful. The pity of it is that 'beauty' and 'eatables' are not synonymous."

For days afterward the look in his eyes haunted her. She told herself heartbreakingly that he was just a child; that she must make the best of it and be reconciled; but day after day her disgust and hatred grew fiercer and fiercer.

Then a chance came that brought the climax. New people began coming into the village and vicinity, and values increased. A man from the city bought the property adjoining theirs and also their mortgage, planning to add their place to his and enlarge for a country residence. Only that morning had his agent notified her of the fact, and that the mortgage was due and must be paid or they must give possession.

And Ralph was away. She supposed he had gone to the village. He never spoke of his errands, and she couldn't remember when she had asked a question. The clock was striking, but she missed the count and got up to see. It was 12, and she flew to the gate in a frenzy. Ralph must rouse and assert himself. He must, he should, save their home and give her back respect for him.

Then the hopelessness of it all came over her, and she crept back to the porch and sat down shivering. She felt sick and faint. "The last day! The last day!" began ringing again in her brain, and she wandered about the house, touching things and telling herself she was seeing them in their places for the last time.

Then, somehow, her eyes were drawn to the clock, and she seemed to stop breathing. Ralph had not come, and it was 6.

Wild with fear, she ran to the gate again, the mortgage, everything, forgotten. Ralph's safety was her one thought. He was not in sight, and with the impulse of going to find him she stepped out, almost treading on a little figure, a neighbor's child, huddled against the fence.

"My Tyner told me, and I played and forgot," he whimpered. "And mother says should she punish me? Mr. Tyner went—to—the—city."

In that moment of relief Mrs. Tyner felt herself reel. She clung to the gate sobbing, and the child, frightened, caught at her dress and wailed:

"I played and forgot," he began again, but she suddenly stooped and caught his in her arms.

"Child! child!" she cried, "can you understand? I'll love you as long as I have life. Now run home. Tell your mother what I said. I have to go now. The train is coming and Ralph will be hungry."

Smiling, she watched him scamper off and gazed long after he was out of sight. The calamity that had threatened, and the clouds, so big, of her married life had passed. The future, with Ralph, had no terrors. Young, strong, and faced in a new direction she would somewhere find something to do. Ralph, just as he was, was all she wanted.

There was whistling suddenly among the trees at the turn of the road, and in a moment Ralph was in sight. When he saw her he quickened his pace and came on laughing.

"Nanno," he cried, and the old pet name seemed to fall easily from his lipe—"Nanno, I've brought you a present. It's the mortgage, due only today. I'm so glad you didn't have to worry about it."

"The—the—mortgage," she stammered. "Ralph, how—"

"Well, you see, Nanno," he laughed deepishly, "I just couldn't work to your plans. I had to do things my own way. It was the garden that did it, but I couldn't tell you till I knew I'd not failed again. And here's a lease for the pasture ten acres. I'm going to plant it, too. The business warrants it."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

One step, two steps, three steps so!
Four steps, five steps, six steps go!
Keep right on and do your best,
Mayhap you'll win while others rest.

Spotty the Turtle said this over to himself every time he felt a little downhearted as he plodded along the bed of the Laughing Brook. And every time he said it he felt better. "One step; two steps," he kept saying over and over, and each time he said it he took a step and then another. They were very short steps, very short steps indeed, for Spotty's legs are very short. But each one carried him forward just so much and he knew that he was just so much nearer the thing he was seeking. Anyway, he hoped he was.

You see the Laughing Brook was almost dry. There was only a little thread of water left in it. And because the Smiling Pool gets all its water from the Laughing Brook why of course the Smiling Pool was almost dry, too, and that was a dreadful state of affairs for those who lived there. So Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter and Grandfather Frog and Spotty the Turtle had started up the Laughing Brook to try to find out what the trouble was. You see, if the Laughing Brook would never laugh any more and the Smiling Pool would never smile any more there was nothing for them to do but to go down to the Big River to live, and they didn't want to do that, especially Grandfather Frog and Spotty the Turtle.

So they started out together to hunt for the cause of the trouble in the Laughing Brook, but they didn't stay together, because Billy Mink could go faster than Little Joe Otter, and Little Joe Otter could go faster than Grandfather Frog, and Grandfather Frog could go faster than Spotty the Turtle, and because each one wanted to be the first to find the trouble no one would wait for the one behind him. And so Spotty the Turtle, who has to carry his house with him, was a long, long way behind the others. But he kept right on going—

One step, two steps, three steps, so!

—and he didn't stop for anything. He crawled over sticks and around big stones, and sometimes when he found a little pool of water he swam. He always felt better then, because he can swim faster than he can walk.

After a long, long time Spotty the Turtle came to a little pool, where the sunshine lay warm and inviting. There in the middle of it, on a mossy stone, sat Grandfather Frog, fast asleep. He had thought that he was so far ahead of Spotty that he could safely rest his tired legs. Spotty wanted to climb right up beside him and take a nap, too, but he didn't. He just grinned and kept right on going—

One step, two steps, three steps, so!

—while Grandfather Frog slept on.

By and by after a long, long time Spotty came to another little pool, and who should he see but Jerry Muskrat busily opening and eating some fresh water clams which he had found there. He was so busy enjoying himself that he didn't see Spotty and Spotty didn't say a word, but kept right on going, although the sight of Jerry's feast had made him dreadfully hungry.

By and by after a long, long time he came to a third little pool with a high, smooth bank, and who should he see there but Little Joe Otter, who had made a slippery slide down the smooth bank, and was having a glorious time sliding down into the little pool. Spotty would have liked to have taken just one slide, but he didn't. He didn't even let Little Joe Otter see him, but kept right on going.

One step, two steps, three steps, so!

By and by, after a long, long time he came to a hollow log, and just happening to peep in he saw some one curled up fast asleep. Who was it? Why, Billy Mink, to be sure! You see Billy thought that he was so far ahead that he might just as well take it easy, and that was what he was doing. Spotty the Turtle didn't waken him. He just kept right on going the same slow way he had come all day, and so just as jolly round red Mr. Sun was going to bed behind the Purple Hills Spotty the Turtle found the cause of the trouble in the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool.

Diamonds

Their Advance In Value

Very Attractive To Investors

What other investment paid the dividend they did last year? Their value increased in the bettter grades on an average of 20 per cent. Not only was this the case last year, but previously their value has increased until today they are worth double what they were only a few years ago. Even after the different crises of the past, when we would naturally look for a decrease in their value, we find, upon referring to their record, that this not only has not occurred, but their price has steadily advanced. Can we wonder, therefore, at the regard in which diamonds are held as a profitable and sound investment?

To those who wish to invest their surplus earnings in this splendnd property, and wish to do so in a manner that will be of little inconvenience, we will be glad to extend our partial payment plan of a small amount cash and the remainder divided over a period of months most convenient to them.

Upon receipt of references we will be glad to send selection package from which it is possible to choose as satisfactorily as if you had visited our esttablishment.

Motorcycle Riders Clip Off Ninety Miles an Hour on Local Track

NINETY MILES AN HOUR AT PRINCE MOTORDROME

Several Accidents Narrowly Avoided in Workouts During Tuesday—Faster Laps Possible on Local Track

Reeling off laps on the Atlanta motordrome at speeds of from eighty-five to ninety miles an hour the ten daredevil motorcycle drivers gathered for the opening meet here, June 6, are beginning to tune up their machines in earnest.

Though the top part of the track is not completed and though any rider who opens up too wide and is forced up will inevitably go over to his death, the ten death-dodgers are making rounds in 10 4-5 seconds, 10 2-5, 10 1-5 and even down to 10 seconds flat. And a lap in ten seconds means a speed of ninety miles an hour.

In these days of big figures and loose talk, anybody can say "ninety miles an hour." But put a man in a big automobile "let out" to that rate on a perfect road and the average man would get down in the bottom of the car and beg to be allowed to get off. At ninety miles an hour the wind beats against you like a club, breathing is almost an impossibility, the world becomes a joggling blurr. To strike a pin means a ten-foot jump. To hit a rut bump means destruction.

Yet out at the motordrome yesterday, with the top of the track unfinished, the motorcycles were popping around there right around ninety miles an hour. They were not doing this on a fine, smooth road either, but on a board track, stood on edge, as it were—one side of the track on the ground, the other sticking out in midair. At the high speeds these men do not, of course, ride in anything like a normal position, but are absolutely parallel with the ground.

Jock McNeil, the Scotch marvel, showed the only lap in 10 seconds flat yesterday, but "Tex" Richards, George Lockner, Billy Shields and Fred Luther were all doing miles around 41 and 42 seconds—which is at a rate of slightly below ninety miles an hour.

Yesterday's record at the motordrome was a chapter of near accidents and marvellous escapes. Henry Lewis, as brave a man as ever risked his massive neck in vaudeville, in circus, in police duty, or on dirt tracks, made his first attempt at riding the boards. And be it known, riding on a track "set on edge" is an art. If you go too slowly you fall off. If you go too slowly you up to the top and jump to death. Only in keeping the right speed and keeping straight lies safety.

Lewis knew all this and the drivers cautioned him to be careful. But having about as much caution in his makeup as the average buzz saw he made a slow start and opened right up. As he did his machine shot at eighty miles an hour or so for the top of the track. How he ever kept it from going over nobody knows. To the little crowd who watched the Texan grazing death it seemed a miracle of miracles. But he did stop it, straightened out, went to the bottom of the track, dashed to the top again, straightened it out and rode grinning to the paddock.

In addition to this rough riding, McNeil, after going ninety miles an hour on his Jap machine, rode it to the paddock a mass of flames and was pretty badly singed before the fire was extinguished. In the afternoon a front tire went down while he was doing high speed work, but, thanks to the fact that it went down slowly, he was not thrown. Ordinarily a blowout on a front tire means sudden death. In this case the opening in the tire was extremely minute and the tire went down without the usual annihilation of the casing as well as the rider.

REINSTATE O. JORDAN

THOMASVILLE, Ga., May 27.—The action of President Oscar Groover, of the Empire league, in first temporarily suspending and then reinstating Manager Otto Jordon of the Valdosta team was the result of a careful investigation by Mr. Groover into the charges against Jordan. It was charged by Umpire Bennett that in the last game played by Valdosta in Brunswick this week Manager Jordan grew very angry over a decision of the umpire and was fined and then ordered from the game, this incensed him so that according to the report he used vile language before the ladies in the grand stand.

After suspending Jordan President Groover received advices signed by ladies on the grandstand during the game that they had heard no improper language from Jordan and he also received reports from private parties in regard to the matter which decided him to reinstate Jordan. President Groover regretted the occurrence very much and fined Jordan for his action in resisting the umpire. He will also put it up to all managers and older players to be careful of the language used by them, especially in view of the fact that many of the players are quite young and liable to be influenced by the older ones and it is desired to keep all of the teams as clean in that respect as possible.

Accidents in Auto Trials

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28.—Two accidents occurred Tuesday at the speedway, where elimination trials for the 500-mile automobile race, to be held Memorial day, were being run. Both were due to tire trouble, while the cars were going at a high rate of speed. Harry Endicott was struck on the elbow, partially paralyzing his arm for a time, by a valve when his machine threw a tire. He managed to keep his car on the track and brought it to a stop without damage. Paul Seuccarelli, driver of a French car, had practically the same experience a little earlier in the day.

A large crowd was at the speedway, and the two accidents brought hundreds to their feet, while the sight of the men, fighting desperately to hold their machines to the track, held them breathless.

At Chicago—In the third inning Archer dropped a Texas leaguer in right for a double. Pierc beat out a bunt, Miller out. Griner to Konetchy. Evers flied to Oakes and Archer scored after catch. Mitchell tripled and Pierce scored. Zimmerman out, Huggins to Knetchy. Two runs.

JOBS HARD TO SECURE

Ball players, no matter whether they are fair performers or not, are experiencing much trouble in finding places. Right now there are strolling around the Southern league cities some six or eight players who are trying hard to get good places but to date they have failed miserably.

It is getting to be a habit with Southern league managers to refuse to sign players released by other clubs in this circuit. It seems to be the general belief that when they are disposed of by rival clubs there is something wrong with them and fear over the ability to deliver is entertained. In many cases the players are O. K. but are released owing to the failure of the clubs to pay them the salaries required and at the same time keep within the salary limits.

The case of Paul Sentell is a good example. Paul was hanging around the circuit for some days before he finally hooked up with Mike Finn. Paul is a good ball player but to get a place with a club he was forced to sign at a salary just about half that which he received when he was shortstopping for the Atlanta Crackers some two years ago. They are all willing to cut their prices to land a job, it being better to be on a payroll for a small salary than to be loafing.

Standardization Urged For Track Athletics

NEW YORK, May 28.—The standardization of international athletics will be the object of the International congress in Berlin in August and it is believed that the recommendations of the congress will have great weight with the International Olympic committee, which meets in Berlin in June 19th, to prepare the program for the meet of 1916.

While the congress has no authority to interfere with the International Olympic committee, it is expected that its chief suggestions will be for a standard sets of track and field events for all future Olympic meets.

New Orleans Did Not Have a Chance to Win from Crackers in Final Batter Between the Rival Bunches

The Smithies grabbed the odd of the series yesterday, blanking the ePlicans in a 4 to 0 game, with Paul Musser to work from the pit for the Crackers and Finis Wilson to oppose him from the mound.

Yesterday's fray marked the debut of Catcher Chapman, the new receiver secured from the Cincinnati Reds. He caught a good game and the opposition were only able sto pilfer one bag of his peg. The Crackers were there with their old time batting eyes, Bailey and Welchonce being the particular stars of the day with the stick, Welchonce coming in for a couple of two base hits one of which counted two runs that went to the credit of the locals in the fifth round, while Bailey also pushed one past third for two cushions.

This was the last fray with the Pels on the local field, the Montgomery Billikens coming for the remaining three days of the week, the first contest of the series to start today.

Good Playing By Americans

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 28.—H. Heinrich Schmidt, of Worcester, Mass., beat A. V. Hambro, of the Royal St. George's club, by one up. Hambro last year defeated H. H. Hilton in the championship tournament at Westward Ho.

Going out Schmidt was irresistible, but coming in his play fell off badly. He is now America's only hope, as Weber lost his match on the last green to Worthington.

Schmidt beat Breig, of the New club, St. Andrews, by 8 up and 6 to play.

Schmidt has been drawn to play in the sixth round tomorrow against H. H. Hilton, of the Royal Liverpool Golf club. Hilton has held the world's championship title three times.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 28.—The American players did well in the second and third rounds of the amateur golf championship tournament. Harold Weber, of Toledo, first beat Shepherd, of the Henley club, by 3 up and 1 to play, and in the third round defeated J. F. Myles, of the Royal and Ancient club, by 3 up and 2 to play.

W. Heinrich Schmidt, of Worcester, Mass., beat Captain Brune, of the Royal North Devon club, by 6 up and 5 to play, and later defeated Lassen, of Lytham, and St. Annes, one of the strongest players in the north of England, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Weber and Schmidt are now regarded as championship possibilities. Weber's opponent in the third round is one of the best players in the country and the contest aroused keen interest. Both showed splendid form. The end came at the sixteenth hole, which Weber won in a perfect five.

Young Schmidt's inperturbability caused admiring comment. Nothing ruffled him and he easily disposed of Captain Brune, a retired English cavalry officer. He encountered a tougher customer, however, in Lassen.

Started As Caddy Boy; Now He Is Near Champion

WORCESTER, Mass., May 28.—Henry Schmidt, who will meet former British and American golf champion, H. H. Hilton, in the sixth round of the world's amateur championship match ot St. Andrews, Scotland, is a senior at the Worcester Holy institute. He is twenty-three years old and learned golf as a caddy at the Worcester club. He entered his first national game at Apawamis in 1911, but did not qualify last year.

He was eliminated at Wheaton by "Chick" Evans, of Chicago, but later won the Massachusetts championship.

Atlanta Star Holding Own

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 28.—Tuesday's play in the tournament of the Women's Southern Golf association narrowed the contenders for southern championship honors to eight and, with several exceptions, the survivors of the first round of match play won with comparative ease. Mrs. F. G. Jones, of Memphis, the present title holder, won her match 9 up and 8 to play, while Mrs. E. W. Daley, of Nashville, who was Mrs. Jones' opponent in the finals last year, defeated Mrs. A. B. Newell, of Nashville, 5 up and 4 to play.

The others still in the championship flight are Miss Jeanette Acklen and Mrs. T. H. Seymour, of Nashville; Mrs. T. B. Paine, of Atlanta; Miss Anne Watkins, Chattanooga; Mrs. J. D. Varnell, Knoxville, and Mrs. S. H. Phillips, of Memphis.

LOSSES MAKE EVERS SORE

CHICAGO, May 28.—Manager John Evers, of the Chicago Nationals, Tuesday accused Pitcher Howard Camnitz of deliberately hitting Pitcher Larry Cheney and Catcher Archer during the game at Pittsburg last Saturday and of trying to hit Heine Zimmerman.

Evers declared he would begin a crusade to do away with the practice of certain pitchers, who aim at batters' heads. Evers said he did not permit his pitchers to aim at batters and believed that if President Lynch would take up the question other managers would issue similar orders to their men.

At St. Louis—In seventh Vitt flied out. Crawford singled. Cobb hit by a pitched ball. Crawford scored on Veach's single. High struck out and Cobb was caught trying to steal third. One run.

FACING COBB TAKES NERVE

NEW YORK, May 28.—Ray Collins, pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, world's champions, addressed a class of boys on baseball at the Greenwich settlement house last night. In response to his request for questions, one youngster's query was:

"How does it feel to pitch against Ty Cobb wit' de bases jammed?" Collins declared that it was a trifle unpleasant. There followed a fusillade of questions ranging from "Is it true that Germany Schaefer was a drummer boy in the Revolutioary War," to "How much moisture does Ed Walsh use on his spitter?"

The boys asked who was the better, Ty Cobb or Henus Wagner, and they appeared incredulous when Collins said he had never seen the Flying Dutchman.

Leave Pulpit for Diamond

NEW YORK, May 31.—Ten of the leading ministers of Watertown, N. Y., have organized a baseball team, and will journey about northern and central New York this summer playing teams composed of ministers, doctors or lawyers, and turning over the gate receipts to charitable organizations.

A challenge has been sent to the Syracuse ministers in the hope that the opening game may be played in that city. The Rev. James Larson, pastor of the Emmanuel Congregational church, will captain the team. Mr. Larson is a relative of Arthur Curtis James, of New York, and during his college days was a star on the diamond. The Rev. Harry Westbrooke Reed, of All Souls church, and the Rev. C. W. Clark, of the Church of Christ, will do the twirling for the ministers. Both have college reputations as players.

Mr. Henley also admits that he has "never winced nor cried aloud." In which Mr. Henley shows that he has an edge upon Colonel C. W. Murphy is one way—if no other.

"ONE WAY OUT."

If we ever hook up with Jerry Travers in a golf match we have our system already mapped out. It is, in the main, about this— 1. Hole out tee shots, 2, failing in this, hole out our approach shots; 3, failing in the latter, pick up and concede the hole.

After watching him crack the course record in two consecutive rounds with something to spare each time we appreciate at last just what Chick Evans was up against at Wheaton last September. Chick merely forgot to follow the system outlined above, which at its best was but a purely technical mistake.

The Yanks reached home on the 24th of May—not with any intent of winning a pennant but with a feverish and purely proper desire of achieving their first home conquest. They set one world's record at least in waiting seven weeks to win their first home game—but it isn't a record that is likely to bring on intense rivalry from opposing clubs.

PLAYING TRADITION.

In exchanging three Giants for one Red, McGraw played to tradition in all its historic aspects.

Donlin from the Reds made the Giants pennant winners in 1905; Overall and Steinfeldt from the Reds made the Cubs pennant winners for several years; Paskert and Lobert from the Reds have helped push the Phillies far in front of the 1913 fold.

You may recall the gentleman who traveled under the monicker of "Warwick, the king maker." Over the same course Cincinnati should be known as "Redland, the pennant maker."

There is only one draw back to this plan now. It is being overplayed. The Cubs got Mitchell and Phelan from the Reds; the Phillies have Paskert and Lobert from the Reds; the Cardinals have Huggins and Mowry from the Reds—and now the Giants have Art Fromme from the Reds. The law of gravity is against all four of these clubs winning the same year—and this may upset the dope. If it wasn't for Ike Newton's proven theory it might work out—but Isaac has evidently established his point.

In the meanwhile, having produced these years of golden harvest and remembered glories for other clubs, where have the ever liberal Reds gotten off? Kindly follow direction of index finger pointing towards the standing of the clubs.

The heights by pennant winners kept
Were not won by a Walsh or Matty;
But they, while their dull rivals slept,
Were making trades with Cincinnati.

One of Dickens' masterpieces was "A Tale of Two Cities," but the present Big League masterpiece involves only one—showing the economy of advanced civilization.

THEN AGAIN, PROBABLY NOT—

If Kipling had been called upon to indite a tribute to the Chance-Tinker situation he would probably have kicked in wtih this—

"Ear called, our ball clubs melt away—
They're standing us upon our heads;
Lo—all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Yankees and with Reds;
O raging critics—spare us yet—
Let us forget—let us forget."

HURLERS IN BIG BATTLE

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 27.—In the best game probably ever played on the home grounds, neither Americus nor Valdosta could get a man across. It was a magnificent pitcher's duel between Werner and Zellars, each giving up six hits in the thirteen innings.

Zellars fanned fourteen men and Werner fanned seven. Each walked two men. Americus got only three men to second and none to third. Valdosta had several chances to score, but could not do so. In the ninth Hurley, first up for Valdosta hit to left for three bags. Morz was purposely walked and the next three batters could not deliver. The game was called on account of darkness.

Americus Named

NEW YORK, May 28.—James E. Sullivan, Barlow S. Weeks, John B. McCabe and Colonel Robert M. Thompson were appointed by President Gustavus T. Kirkby, of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, to serve with himself as representatives of the Amateur Athletic union at the International Athletic congress to be held in Berlin, August 20 to 24.

Mr. Kirkby made the appointments in conformity with a resolution adopted at the last annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic union, held last November.

Yale Finally Loses; Williams Did Trick

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 28.—Williams broke Yale's record of seventeen consecutive victories by shutting out the Blue on Yale field, 2 to 0. The game, played on a water-soaked diamond, with a drizzling rain falling at intervals, was a pitchers' battle between Gile and Hodge, with the odds slightly favoring the Yale man. Each team fielded brilliantly.

$30,000 LEFT BY M'CARTY

CHICAGO, May 28.—Luther McCarty, the heavyweight boxer, killed in the fight with Arthur Pelkey at Calgary, on Saturday, left an estate worth $30,000, according to the estimate yesterday of Attorney V. P. Lovell, of Fargo, N. D., who came here in the interest of the fighter's widow. The lawyer believes McCarty made $100,000 from his fights on the Pacific coast and in the east and in his stage appearances the last eighteen months.

He understands that McCarty was under contract with Billy McCarney, his manager, who received in the neighborhood of one-third of the fighter's earnings.

"McCarty spent considerable money traveling and living and I don't think there is much more than $30,000 left," said the lawyer. "This belongs to the widow and the daughter she has been caring for in Fargo for the last two years. Mrs. McCarty still works in a restaurant there. So far as we know McCarty did not leave a will."

Pennsy Crews Move Quarters Near Track

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—The University of Pennsylvania varsity and freshmen crews moved their training quarters to Torresdale yesterday and will practice on the Delaware river until they leave for Poughkeepsie.

The varsity now has an opportunity to row four miles, the distance to be covered in the contests with Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Wisconsin and the University of Washington, June 21.

The freshmen, too, will be able to secure better training on the Delaware, in preparation for their two-mile race on the Hudson. The second eight will continue to train on the Schuylkill until after the Henley races on Saturday. Owing to the decision of the naval academy not to send a plebe crew here to compete in the Henley regatta and as that crew and the Pennsylvania freshmen were the only ones entered, this event has been cancelled.

EMPLOYED TWO SIGNALS IN WINNING A PENNANT

Manager Molesworth, of Barons, Says Secret of Success Is in Simple Methods He Employs

Carleton Molesworth, the cherubic manager of the Birmingham Barons, believes in a set system in running his ball club. He drills his men in certain lines and in certain plays, and minimizes the number of signals; in fact, he has reduced the use of signals to the point where he need use but two during the entire game in order to direct his men on the field.

On the last visit of the Barons to this city, Manager Molesworth let loose a long talk to a Times-Democrat representative, in which he said: "I can direct the plays of my club with but two signals. I have systematized the play so that I could sit in the grand stand and give my orders to the players."

The reporter looked incredulous and exclaimed: "How is it possible to direct the great number of plays that are used in a game of baseball by simply using two signals?"

"That is my secret," said the Baron maanger. "If I gave it away it would be of no value to my team, and every manager in the league would be on my back. But, just the same, I do it. Why, last year, in the last game of the season at Montgomery, I sat in the grand stand and gave all my directions to my players from my seat, using only my two signals."

"Don't teh players get things mixed up?" was asked.

"No ,indeed. I drill them into knowing just what play I disire to be pulled off. Of course, it is necessary to have intelligent ball players to 'get hep' to teh business. Boneheads would get the game in a fearful tangle, but I make it a point to have only men who can think as well as play ball on my team. If a man can no treason, and quickly, he can get no berth o nthe Baron team."

Manager Molesworth declared that the winning of the pennant last season by teh Barons was fully 50 per cent due to the signal and team work carried out under his directions by the players. He affirmed that during the final two months of the season hardly one play out of twenty went wrong. "I do not mean to say that the plays all worked; indeed to is seldom that one play out of ten works to perfection in any game, but I mean that with only two signals the play is executed almost perfectly nineteen times out of twenty.—New Orleans Exchange.

Police Making Investigation

CALGARY, Alta, May 28.—Representatives of the crown who have been conducting the investigation into the death of Luther McCarty today are gathering a mass of evidence which will be presented when the cases of Arthur Pelkey and Tommy Burns are called.

That Burns, promoter of the fight in which McCarty met his death, and Pelkey, whose blow in the first few minutes' of the initial round resulted in the fatality, will have to face trial on the charge of manslaughter, was the principal development that followed the re-arrest of Pelkey yesterday after the coroner's jury had failed to make any charges against him. Meanwhile, William McCarney and Referee Ed Smith were out on $5,000 bail and ordered to appear as witnesses.

STRONG ATHLETIC UNION PLANNED FOR THE SCHOOLS

NEW YORK, May 28.—The formation of a national inter-scholastic Athletic association will be attempted in connection with the National schoolboy track meet under the auspieces of the New York Athletic club at Travers island, Saturday June 7.

Principal among the spensors of the new organization are James E. Sullivan, U. S. Olympic games commissioner and Matthew Halpin, manager of the American team at Stockholm last summer.

The proposition to form such an organization has been under discussion for several years and leading athletic authorities believe that the time has come to put school boy athletics on a firm basis. It is proposed to work with all intercollegiate athletic associations, giving the colleges of the country an important part in the work of the new body.

A national set of eligibility rules will be adopted; a standard set of track and field events prescribed and an age limit set on school boy competitors.

A record committee will be appointed to pass upon applications for new records by school boys in formally sanctioned games.

It is expected that the age limit will be set at 20 years and six months or 21 years at the outside and strict eligibility rules regarding both scholarship and enrollment will be enforced. The rules to govern sets and the events for competition will be modelled from the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic association of American standards with such alterations as will conform to the physical ability of the youthful competitors.

A national interscholastic athletic association existed in the early nineties, but was abandoned because of the frequent disputes and protests regarding the age and eligibility of the entrants. The last meeting of the association was held under the auspieces of the Knickerbocker Athletic club at Berkeley Oval New York in 1906.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Now Is the Best Time to Buy Chickens

USUALLY at this season of the year is the best time for any one who expects to enter the poultry business to buy any new blood or secure what they want at a low price, and at this season of the year usually a great many people are going off for the summer or contemplate making a change and often they need room or are overstocked with their young growing chickens, and usually fine breeding birds can be had during the months of June and July at a more reasonable price than at any other time during the year. It will pay any one to look around during these months and secure what birds they need either for show purposes or for breeding purposes for another season. By keeping these birds and giving them the best of attention you can usually moult them out quickly, and the difference in price that they will cost now and later is far greater than the small amount of food they will consume.

It is a big mistake in many breeders to sell off their best birds too close during the summer months, but nevertheless many usually do so and a person by keeping up with the different breeders can usually secure some big bargains during the summer months and often get birds that could not be bought later on ten times the price. It is a good idea to select what you need, separate it and give it the best of attention and have it in fine shape for early fall breeding. The man who has made a success out of poultry and who has gotten the most money for his work is the one who looks out for these things and who keeps just the number f birds they can well care for at little expense and those that are valuable and pay best to keep. A majority of the money that is made out of the poultry business is made by the ones who keep a limited number and get results from them. It is almost impossible to care for properly extra large flocks unless a person is fixed to do so, and many people are keeping too many birds or a lot that do not pay when it would be policy to dispose of these and give the room and care to only the very best. It is surprising the number of letters I have received this year from people who have gotten large egg yields from their fowls and almost in every case they are people who have given their birds the best of care and have the right kind of birds to bestow this care upon.

As many breeders are now offering their breeders for sale this is undoubtedly the time for people to do their buying as they usually have a larger numer to select from and a better quality. One cannot be too careful about keeping their birds up to the highest standard requirements and the best specimens that can be had are never too good.

It is also a good idea for a person to arrange their buildings during the next few months. Get them in proper condition for housing their birds during the early winter months. Cull your fowls and select only the ones you wish to keep as breeders another season. During the next few months old birds will need the very best attention that can possibly be given them, and the young growing chickens will require the same. The sooner they are matured, moult and get their new plumage the quicker you can make your selection and get out the best specimens that you wish to keep and dispose of the others. Therefore, it is policy not only to feed well but house well your birds during June, July and August. They should have an abundance of green food, boiled oats and plenty dry mash feed, before them at all times as it helps to keep their system in good condition, and the new coat of plumage in color depends largely on the condition the birds are in while they are growing this coat of feathers. Usually in selecting from the different flocks at this season of the year the birds that you wish for next year's use you can only judge largely by the shape and constitution just what you desire as the plumage is usually faded and rough, but at this season of the year a person has a better idea than most any other time to select their next year's breeders as the birds that have come through this spring in good strong condition can be depended on to moult out quickly this summer and be useful another year. It is well to visit the different flocks and select anything you wish for next season's use during the summer months when they can usually be had reasonable. Too many people make a mistake in disposing of their birds during the summer months and take the chances on getting others in early fall or winter. This is a big mistake and if you have something good and know how it is bred you should by all means keep it and care for it good during the summer as it will pay you well to do so.

Yours very truly,

A. C. WOOLLEY & CO.

TERMINAL DISTRICT

ONE of the best opportunities in Atlanta real estate today is in the large section lying in between the Southern and A., B. & A. railroad. This section is about four blocks wide and it extends from Magnolia street out as far as Bellwood avenue.

IN THIS QUARTER you can buy good street pieces of land, improved with renting houses, property that yields a fair income and has speculative possibilities.

AS AN ILLUSTRATION, we can sell the southeast corner of Magnolia and Mangum streets, fronting 198 feet on Mangum street, for $7,500. This lot contains six buildings, five residences, and a store, bringing in $60 a month. It is one of those good corners that in time will be necessary in assembling a block of land, and will bring a fancy price.

ON SIMPSON STREET we can sell an entire block of frontage for $5,000. It lies in between Davis and Edwards streets, fronting 214 feet on Simpson street and extending back 130 feet. All three streets are paved and have all improvements down. This is the block with the old stone house on it.

HERE is a choice little factory site bordering directly on A., B. & A. railroad; the southwest coner of Fox and Wilson streets. It fronts 220 feet on the railroad and has three renting homes. Price $2,500.

WEST SIDE values are low in comparison with other sections, and they are sure to go up in the process of equalization. All forward-looking men should lay in a few west side investments for future use.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Transfers of Brady and Tenth Street Corner for $50,000, Whitehall Street Parcel for $12,000, and Gordon Street Residence Property for $9,000, Filed for Record—Would Widen Roswell Road—Auction Thursday Afternoon

Several transfers of property went to record Wednesday, the transactions representing sales with considerations a little above the average.

One transfer was from Henry S. Harper to the J. W. Patterson Commission company, of the southwest corner of Brady and West Tenth streets, at the stock yards. The consideration was $50,000.

The lot is 205x300, and is improved with buildings.

WHITEHALL STREET SALE.

Another transfer was from Mrs. Ellen Goldsmith to W. M. Cook and others of No. 309 Whitehall street, for an aggregate of $12,000, or $240 a front foot. The lot is 50x156.

GORDON STREET SALE.

A third transfer was from Minnie M. Cartner to J. E. McRae, of No. 403 Gordon street, in West End, a residence property, lot 60x200, for $9,000.

ROSWELL ROAD WIDENING.

Property owners on the Roswell road between Buckhead and the Plaster's Bridge road have signed a petition asking the county to widen that road ten feet on each side.

The owners, with possibly one exception, have agreed to give the strip off their land. The additional width would give the road fifty feet between curbs.

This would also put the road in good shape for the proposed car line to Roswell, giving plenty of room for the track and the passage of vehicles on each side.

The following owners have signed the petition: John W. Grant, L. W. Rodgers, George M. Hope, J. L. Riley, A. C. Walters, C. S. Honour, J. H. Karwisch, J. M. Karwisch, George Powell, F. M. Brownell and E. T. Luckie.

AUCTION ON THURSDAY.

On Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock the Ralph O. Cochran company will offer at auction the property at No. 101 West Tenth street.

The property is owned by W. C. Harper and is a nine-room colonial house on a lot 100x200. It is on the north side of the street just west of Spring street. The sale will be on the premises.

HARDWARE MEN ASKED TO WORK AGAINST GUN TOTER

President Moore Promised Co-operation in Legislation by Georgia Retailers

In his welcoming address in behalf of the Atlanta chamber of commerce before two hundred delegates in attendance at the eighth annual convention of the Georgia Retail Hardware association, which convened in Taft hall Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, President Wilmer L. Moore pleaded for their co-operation in securing legislation looking toward an anti-firearm "toting" law and was assured of the association's help in the answering address delivered by P. S. Twitty, a leading merchant of Dublin, Ga.

The remarks of Mr. Moore were in accordance with the expressed desire of the public safety committee of the chamber of commerce, to secure such legislation and by so doing succeed in decreasing to a minimum crime in the state which ranks fifth in the southern states.

The speaker called attention to crime in the south as compared to the north, east and west and also in foreign countries and substantiated his assertion with figures. In the United States the percentage of crime to every 100,000 inhabitants taken as an average from the last ten years, shows 4.3 while that of England and Wales for the same period is but one-ninth of 1 per cent. His table showing the ranking of the five leading southern states follows: Memphis, 63.4; Charleston, 42.3; Savannah, 37.8; Nashville, 35.3, and Atlanta, 28.8. In comparison he showed also figures from the parts of the country as follows: Spokane, 2.7; Pittsburg, 5.3; Boston, 4.8; Philadelphia, 4.2; Baltimore, 4.8; Newark, 4.7; and New York City, 6.9 per 100,000 population.

WHERE ATLANTA DOESN'T LEAD

"I am glad to say," declared Mr. Moore, "that Atlanta does not lead the south in this as she does in better things, but the ratio is far too great and will never be minimized until we secure legislation toward restricting the sale of firearms. In this matter the hardware men of Georgia can be incalculable value in the crusade and I appeal to you to assist us in the work."

The remarks of Mr. Moore were received with hearty applause, and as had been stated the support of the association was pledged in the address of Mr. Twitty who complimented Atlanta on her crusade against vice and in the interest of morality. "The rest of the country, said Mr. Twitty, "takes off its hat to this city for ridding itself of vice and setting an example for others to follow."

Mr. Twitty followed the welcoming address of Mayor James G. Woodward in behalf of the city. The executive turned the keys over to the visitors, assuring them that Atlanta was as glad to have them as they were to be guests of the city.

The convention was called to order by the president, T. G. Greene, Eatonton, Ga., and the entire morning session was taken up in addresses and a visit to the numerous hardware exhibits that filled the main auditorium. These exhibits of the thirty leading manufacturers of the south are an innovation. An extensive show of hardware products is on exhibition with representatives to show the visitors through their booths.

On Wednesday night the delegates will be tendered a theater party at the Forsyth, and on Thursday noon special cars, parked along Gilmer, street, will take them to a barbecue at the plant of the Atlanta Steel works, at which J. T. Rose, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be the host. Friday at 12 o'clock the visitors will be tendered a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club, and from there will attend the baseball game at Ponce de Leon park. Special street cars will serve them also on this occasion.

The annual address of President Greene closed the first session of the convention and opened the way for the members of the association to get down to active business during the two remaining days. As Mr. Greene expressed it, the organization was formed for the pupose of full co-operation of all hardware dealers in the state and in an effort to get the members together that they might profit by the experience of each other. "It is for the betterment of our interests in the state," said the speaker, "and to correct tht mistakes of yesterday by guarding against them in the future."

DEATH BLOW IN SIGHT FOR PRODUCE FUTURES

Cummins Amendment Would Knock Out All Cotton and Grain Exchanges

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Speculating in farm products by means of future contracts is to receive a stiff wallop on the point of the jaw from the Democratic congress, unless all signs fail. The income tax provision of the tariff bill will be the means by which this end will be accomplished.

It was learned today by The Journal that a majority of the senate is committed to legislation to place a prohibitive tax on speculation in futures on the products of the soil. A considerable number of Republicans, probably a majority of them also, are understood to favor such legislation.

Senator Cummins, of Iowa, has offered an amendment to the income tax section placing a tax of 10 per cent on this form of stock and produce speculation, but some of the Democrats think the tax should be even higher. This rate, however, would suffice to suppress not only the cotton and grain exchanges in the country, but would also knock out the New York stock exchange.

The Farmers' union and allied organizations of farmers in all sections of the country have demanded, in season and out, that congress put an end to speculation in farm products. It has been their contention that the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges and the Chicago board of trade have controlled the price of farm products through manipulation of the markets.

A bill to prohibit futures in cotton has passed the house twice, but the legislation has been obstructed in the senate. Now, however, the initiative toward the suppression of supeculation in cotton, wheat, corn, sugar, etc., comes from the senate, and the prospects for the death of the business is exceedingly bright.

The democratic national platform declares for this sort of legislation. "President Wilson is committed to it, and, as stated, a majority of the senate is squarely in line. The dealers in cotton, grain and sugar are reported to be in panic over the situation.

"We believe in the development of a modern system of agriculture and a systematic effort to improve conditions of trade in farm products, so as to benefit the consumer and producer," declares the Democratic platform. "And, as an efficient means to this end we favor the enactment by congress of legislation that will suppress the pernicious practice of gambling in agricultural products by organized exchanges or others."

While the ten per cent tax that the senate is expected to place on this form of business is aimed to knock out the produce speculator, it will eventually reach the so-called legitimate contracts in cotton, wheat, etc., and will act as an effective barrier against mill men in insuring the output of their mills against fluctuations in the price of cotton, etc.

It is the custom of cotton manufacturers, sugar refiners, millers, etc., to protect themselves against fluctuations in the prices of their raw material, by dealing in futures. Thus if it is feared that the price is going down, the manufacturers will sell "short" a large quantity of imaginary cotton, and in this way insure themselves against loss.

STATE READY TO CLOSE CASE AGAINST WOOD

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, May 28.—Prosecuting attorneys in the dynamite conspiracy trial hoped to conclude presentation of their evidence by the close of the day's court session.

As on the seven previous days of the trial, the effort of the prosecution centered about an attempt to show that President William M. Wood, of the American Woolen company; Frederick E. Atteaux, a Boston dye manufacturer, and Dennis J. Collins, a Cambridge dog fancier, conspired with John J. Breen, a Lawrence undertaker, and Ernest W. Pittman, an Andover contractor, to prejudice public opinion against the mill operatives in the Lawrence textile strike in January, 1912, by hiding dynamite on premises occupied by strikers.

Three Men Who Have Made a Wonderful Success

Their Store Has Been Remodeled and Enlarged Twice Since Commencing Business Eight Months Ago

J. L. SATTERWHITE.

MAX NEY.

M. COMMINS.

These gentlemen are responsible for the wonderful success of the Empire Furniture company, at 129 and 131 Whitehall street.

Starting in business just eight months ago, they adopted a policy of small profits to induce quick sales. And this policy, backed up to the letter with honest values and dependable goods, won for them the confidence of the public and the accounts of 2,000 purchasers. Nor is this list confined to Atlanta purchases. The reputation of this store has spread far beyond the bounds of Atlanta and Fulton county, as is attested by the tremendous out-of-town business done every month.

And even though this concern is yet in its infancy, the increase in trade and, necessarily, in its stocks, has necessitated twice remodelling and enlarging its quarters. The store is clean and inviting, and the tremendous display of elegant, highgrade furniture makes it a genuine pleasure to visit there.—(Adv.)

WAR BETWEEN BULGARIA AND SERVIA EXPECTED

Greeks Also on an Edge With Bulgarians and More Fighting Is Looked for

(By Associated Press.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 28.—Military circles of the Bulgarian capital expect an almost immediate outbreak of hostilities between Bulgaria and Servia.

Bulgaria Agrees to Europe's Future Saloniki

VIENNA, May 28.—Bulgaria has addressed a note to the powers offering to submit to their decision the question of the future of Saloniki, according to the Reichspost.

Bulgarians and Greeks Exchange Shots Often

SALONIKI, May 28.—Severe tension continues between the Greek and Bulgarian armies facing each other north of Saloniki. Shots were exchanged yesterday and today. The Greeks accuse the Bulgarians as aggressors.

In spite of the declaration made at Sofia that the Bulgarian troops have been ordered to observe a moderate attitude and to avoid conflicts with the Greeks, the Bulgarian commanders apparently are prepared to attack Elefthria with a view to gaining complete occupation of the dominant position of Mount Panghaion. They have already placed guns on the hill crests southeast of Prava, commanding Elefthería. The Bulgarian troops have also occupied the heights commanding Bujuktu, south of Lake Doiran and the town of the same name occupied by the Greeks.

The Greek generals believe the Bulgarians are systematically creating incidents and endeavoring the Greeks toward the sea and seize the positions vacated by them.

NO COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC HEALTH YET

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—There will be no house committee on public health under the present plan of the house leader, it was declared today. The creation of such a committee has been vigorously advocated. It was presumed that if the committee was named it would be headed by Representative Foster, of Illinois, a physician himself, who as a member of the rules committee has been active in health matters.

The decision of the leaders was forecasted yesterday on the floor of the house when Representative Payne, of New York, asked if there was any intention to appoint committees on new subjects such as public health.

Mr. Underwood replied that the ways and means committee was not prepared yet to submit its committee recommendations.

It was doubted today if a health committee would be created any time soon. Leaders feel the subject is amply provided for in the itnerstate commerce committee, where such legislation has been considered in the past.

Benefited Many Who Had Lung Trouble

Those who suffer from Lung Trouble are generally troubled with night sweats, fever, loss of strength and little or no appetite. Eckman's Alterative is a medicine which has been most successful in stopping night sweats, reducing fever and promoting appetite, and many who have used it declare it saved their lives. Investigate what it did in this case:

"Dear Sir: For four years I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and pains in my chest. I was losing my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced by disease Consumption. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Polyclinic Hospital. They also confirmed my trouble and I was ordered away for treatment. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alterative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks, I had marked relief, night sweats ceased, pain in the breast relieved, cough became loose and easy, fever left me and I commenced getting well. My health became normal. I am in excellent health now and have been for twelve years. I strongly recommend it."

GROCERS AND BUTCHERS TO GIVE MONSTER PARADE HERE JUNE 4

Wednesday Closing Movement to Be Launched With a Great Procession—Plans Completed at Smoker in Taft Hall Tuesday Evening

Plans for the monster parade of the retail grocers and butchers of Atlanta on June 4 were mapped Tuesday night at a smoker in Taft hall attended by upwards of 400 grocers, butchers, jobbers, merchants, salesmen, clerks and others.

The primary object of the parade is to focus attention on the proposition of closing for a half holiday every Wednesday afternoon during the months of June, July and August.

The grocers and butchers have determined to make the Wednesday closing a city-wide proposition, including all lines of retail business. The large attendance at the smoker and the enthusiasm which was manifest on all sides augur well for the success of their undertaking.

Already more than 800 grocers, butchers and retail merchants have signed an agreement to close their doors at noon every Wednesday. The movement has reached even to East Point, wnere the merchants say they will not be outdone by their Atlanta brethren, and are joining in.

F. E. Kamper, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the parade, announced plans of surprising magnitude. He said the parade will be three miles long, consisting of wagons decorated specially for the day. There will be three brass bands, a detail of mounted police, and aides and marshals.

The latter are as follows: F. E. Kamper, H. Winberg, C. J. McCoy, R. H. Comer, W. J. Burton, J. H. Merritt, J. F. McNair, W. A. Byers. Each aide will appoint five assistants to ride with him.

The parade will form on the streets adjacent to the state capitol and will march through the principal thoroughfares of the city. In addition to the grocers and butchers, there will be auto trucks representing the wholesale grocers, and wagons from the packers, commision merchants, bakers, ice manufacturers, jobbers, etc.

The merchants and clerks will march afoot in a conspicuous place in the parade, and some of them plan special costumes.

WHY GIRLS LEAVE SCHOOL IS BEING INVESTIGATED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—"Why girls leave school" is the title of a bulletin issued today by the United States bureau of education, based on an inquiry made by its experts into trade and labor conditions among girls in Worcester, Mass.

The claim that children are forced to leave school to work because their parents need the money is repudiated by the officials of the bureau. They found that from one-half to three-fourths of the girls at work in the factories could have had further schooling if they had desired or if their parents had insisted upon it.

Various reasons were assigned by the girls for their refusal to attend school longer, according to the bureau. Some said "they did not like school," others "could not get along with the teacher and were not promoted," while many simply "wanted to go to work." Only 17 per cent of the girls questioned had finished the grammar schools while most of them had left sixth and seventh grades.

"Conditions such as were found," says the bulletin, "emphasized the imperative need of school training in a practical school for girls between the ages of thirteen and fifteen. Not getting the kind of training they might have liked and would have profited by they joined the army of shifting discontent girls that go from one monotonous factory job to another and because of their lack of training, rarely rise above the class of low paid, unskilled workers."

MERRIT TAYLOR NAMED DIRECTOR OF TRANSIT

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—A. Merrit Taylor was appointed yesterday by Mayor Blankenburg as director of the new department of transit, recently created for this city by the legislature. His salary will be $10,000 a year, and he will assume office on July 1.

Mr. Taylor has been serving for the past year without pay as the head of a commission, engaged in studying transit needs of the city, and in a recent report to the mayor he outlined a comprehensive plan for the construction o fan additional subway and elevated systems. The mayor, in announcing Mr. Taylor's appointment, stated that if pending legislation is passed by the general assembly the city will be enabled in a large measure to finance extensions to its transportation facilities as suggested by Mr. Taylor.

BRIBERY SENATOR GETS LONG SING SING TERM

State Senator Stilwell, of New York, Sentenced to From Four to Eight Years

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Former State Senator Stephen K. Stilwell, convicted of bribery by a jury last week, after he had been exonerated by the New York state senate, was sentenced today to serve not les than four years nor more than eight in Sing Sing prison.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury granted a stay of execution so Stilwell's lawyers might apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Stilwell, state senator from the Bronx, was convicted of attempting to obtain $3,500 from George H. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note company for favorable consideration by the senate and assembly codes committees of a bill to make illegal descrimination against bank note companies by stock exchanges.

Kendall refused to pay. Governor Sulzer called on Stilwell to resign. Stilwell declined. The senate investigated the charged and exonorated Stilwell by a vote of 28 to 21. Thereafter the case was placed in the hands of District Attorney Whitman.

Stilwell is 47-years-old and had been long in politics.
