UNDERWOOD BRANDS MULHALL LIAR AND DENIES ALL CHARGES

Majority Leader Faces "Lobbyist" and Declares He Never Saw Him Before–Calls Mulhall "Blackmailer"

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Martin M. Mulhall, self-styled lobbyist and chief witness before the senate lobby committee, heard himself denounced by Democratic Leader Underwood, of the house as a "liar and a blackmailer" today and then himself contributed a mild sensation by testifying that Secretary of Labor Wilson, Speaker Clark and Republican Leader Mann and President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, all had refused his proposals for an investigation of his lobbying activities for the National Association of Manufacturers. Clark and Mann, he said, would not have the matter "come up." Representative Underwood hotly denied Mulhall's claim of having had "an interview" but the lobby witness insisted on his story.

"I never saw him before in my life."

Senator Reed expressed the belief that Mr. Underwood should wait until the committee had finished with Mulhall.

"I think," said the majority leader, "that it is in the interest of the public that a man who has taken liberties with public men, as this man has, should be contradicted. I regard a man of this kind as a blackmailer.

"Mulhall has never been in the ways and means committee room since I have been chairman of the committee. When he says he had an interview, I want to say that statement is a lie."

Mr. Underwood appeared unexpectedly and made a brief statement before he was sworn. He denounced as false a statement sworn to previously by Mulhall that an employe of the ways and means committee had been in his employ.

According to Mulhall's earlier testimony the man was paid $20 a month.

"You make a statement that this man was a blackmailer; that means he used threats to extort money," said Senator Reed.

"I think he was just trying to get money out of his own people," returned Mr. Underwood.

Chairman Underwood read Mulhall's letter about the alleged interview, in which Mulhall wrote that Mr. Underwood had told him that he could not do

MEXICAN CITIZENS HOPE TO PERSUADE HUERTA TO RESIGN

As Next Step They Plan to Select a Successor Who Will Be Acceptable to Both Factions

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson resumed his conference today with Secretary Bryan on the Mexican situation. Mr. Wilson had expected to quit Washington today but remained at the request of the secretary to continue his extended report of conditions in the southern republic.

The senate foreign relations committee had a special meeting at which Secretary Bryan appeared, to continue conferences on the proposed Nicaraguan protectorate. Early today it had not been decided whether Ambassador Wilson would confer with the committee on Mexico.

PRESIDENT SILENT.

President Wilson had no announcement to make today about the policy the United States would pursue toward Mexico. But there is every reason to believe no steps will be taken by this country pending the outcome of plans which leading Mexicans are making to bring about peace.

The fact that some of the mediators now interested in adjusting differences between followers of Huerta and Carranza were instrumental in persuading Porfirio Diaz to abdicate, is encouraging American officials to believe their efforts may bring about Huerta's resignation.

MEXICANS' NAMES WITHHELD.

While the Mexicans who are taking an active part in the plans decline to permit the use of their names at this time, they have proceeded to the point of informing Secretary Bryan what they have in mind. No developments are expected for at least a fortnight, during which the administration here will keep in close touch with the negotiations.

The argument the Mexicans are said to be planning to place before Huerta is that the United States, under no circumstances, would recognize his regime, and that to extricate Mexico from its financial straits it is necessary to establish a new administration and obtain the recognition of the American government. If President Huerta were willing to abdicate, men acceptable to him as well as to the constitutionalists have been tentatively selected from whom a successor would be named.

Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson had nothing to say today about the developments on the situation generally. He

After Rosser's Fierce Grilling All Negro, Newt Lee, Asked for Was Chew of "'Bacca-Any Kind"

He Looks Like a Negro, He Talks Like a Negro, and He Has the Wit and the Manner of Darkies in Old-Time Slavery Days–Was on the Stand Three Hours Tuesday Morning

"All I wanted was a chew of 'bacca. Yes, sir, dat was all," said Newt Lee after he had testified for three hours Tuesday morning at the Frank trial, had answered question upon question, had experienced all the exquisite delights of a real cross-examination.

"I can't say I was tired. Naw, sir, not 'zactly, that I jes needed the 'bacca. Soon as I left the stand, the first thing I did was to ask for a chew, and then I felt all right.

"Mr. Rosser was putty terrible, wasn't he? Sorter wants you to say things jes his way. But I was there to tell the truf and I told it.

"LAWYERS AND DETECTIVES."

"Lawyers and detectives are sorter alike when they comes to askin' questions. I'd 'bout as soon be talked to by one as another. Lawyers, though, don't 'buse youn like detectives, that's a fact.

"But when folks doh't do you right, you jes know they hurtin' they souls and ain't doin' you any real harm. That's the way to look at things.

"Naw, sir, I didn't get mad when Mr. Rosser kept tryin' to make me say what he wanted said. Court's a place where you 'spect to be questioned, and there ain't nothin' to do but jes answer the best you kin. They certainly worked on me, but all I needed was a little bit of 'bacca.

"I'M PUTTY STOUT."

"I'm what you'd call putty stout. I used to trim two carloads of lumber every day, one oak 'nother poplar, when I was workin' at a coffin factory. Took two men to clean up after me. So, course I didn't mind sittin' there answerin' questions a few hours. I would have liked a little 'bacca, but course I couldn't chew there before all them white folks. But it certainly did taste sweet when I was finished. All I asked was a big chew and a spittoon.

"I guess they had me up there an hour and a half yesterday, and 'bout

FACTORY GIRLS EAGER TO TESTIFY FOR FRANK

"Every girl employed at the factory believes that Mr. Frank is innocent," said Miss Rebekah Carson Monday afternoon. "He was as kind as an employer could be. There never was a time when he wasn't considerate of every one employed at the factory. But at the same time, he was a man with two ideas. And they were his wife and his business.

"If he hadn't been so intent upon his work, he would have taken a half holiday on that Saturday and he wouldn't now be accused as he is. It was his faithfulness to his work which caused him to be accused of this murder.

"He's not guilty. I'd still believe in his innocence even though he was convicted ten times over.

"Everyone employed at the factory believes as I do. Everyone knows that Mr. Frank was kind and gentle, and that he was honest and straight in everything that he did. You won't find an employe of the factory who doesn't really believe that and who isn't ready to testify to it before a jury."

GIRL, TAKEN FOR BURGLAR, KILLED BY HER BROTHER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ELBERTON, Ga., July 29.—Mack Guest shot and killed his seventeen-year-old sister, Nellie, last night. She was his guest and occupied an adjoining room. She was standing at an open window when Mrs. Guest awoke her husband and told him burglars were in the house. He fired through the connecting doorway, the load taking effect under the girl's left shoulder blade. She staggered into Guest's room, exclaimed that lightning had struck her, and died in a few minutes.

TEMPERANCE BILL WON'T BE PASSED AT THIS SESSION

Measure to Strengthen Law Against Liquor Shipments Into Dry Territory Will Lie Over at Least One Year

The measure of Senator Searcy which was intended to strengthen the Webb law against shipments of liquor into dry territory, will not be passed on by the house at this session of the legislature, although it had been passed by the senate.

The measure came before the house committee on temperance on Monday afternoon. It was referred to a subcommittee of three, composed of Representatives Ennis, of Baldwin; Whatley, of Sumter, and McWhorter, of Greene.

This reference was made because Representative Ennis was not satisfied with the legality of the bill. As a test will be made in the supreme court over the Webb bill, he thought that it would be best to have this point investigated by a subcommittee.

The report of this subcommittee will go to the next session of the legislature.

The Hixon-Searcy bill was the one on which the prohibition forces of both senate and house had concentrated their efforts. As the only measure of liquor legislation with any prospect of success, its failure before the house committee is a source of great regret to the temperance people.

The bill provided that no spirituous liquor should be shipped into Georgia for illegal purposes, and that in cases where the legality of a shipment was called into question the burden of proof should be upon the shipper if the shipment was over three gallons and upon the state if the shipment was three gallons or less.

JUROR W. F. MEDCALF NOT WITH JOURNAL.

In describing the personnel of the Frank jury Monday it was erroneously stated that W. F. Medcalf, one of the jurors, was employed in the circulation department of The Journal. Mr. Medcalf left the employ of The Journal eight months ago to enter the employ in the circulation department of another Atlanta afternoon newspaper.

QUESTIONS DIRECTED AT NEGRO INDICATED AN EFFORT TO THROW SUSPICION UPON WATCHMAN

"We Might as Well Begin to Show the Negro a Criminal Now as Later," Declared Attorney Rosser, in Arguing for Admissability of His Questions–Negro Was Taken Over His Testimony Many Times in Effort to Break Him Down

INDICATIONS TUESDAY ARE THAT TRIAL WILL LAST MANY DAYS, PROBABLY AS LONG AS TWO WEEKS

Morning Session Enlivened by Clashes Between Attorneys. Every Point Is Bitterly Contested–Frank Keeps Serene and Untroubled Throughout Session–Full Story of Testimony Given by Witnesses During the Morning

After a luncheon recess of an hour and a half Tuesday the trial of Leo M. Frank was resumed at 2 p. m. with Police Sergeant L. S. Dobbs still on the witness stand. The morning session was given over to the continued examination of Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, and the direct and cross examination of Sergeant Dobbs.

There were frequent clashes between the attorneys for the defense and the solicitor during the morning. Every point was bitterly contested, and once the jury was sent from the room while the lawyers argued the fine points of the law. It was evident that the case was to be fought at every point.

The most significant feature of the morning session was an intimation by Attorneys Rosser and Arnold, counsel for Frank, that they might seek to connect the negro night watchman with the murder. It was during a colloquy between the lawyers for the defense and the state relative to the admissibility of the negro's testimony as to what was said to him by the police officers about the contents of the notes found beside Mary Phagan's body.

Solicitor Dorsey made the point that the notes had not yet been introduced as evidence and unless the defense was seeking to impeach the witness or to connect him with the crime it was not proper for him to be questioned concerning the contents of the notes.

Then Attorney Rosser declared: "We've got to commence somewhere and at some time to show the negro is a criminal and we might as well begin here as anywhere else."

Attorney Arnold made the point that the negro's comment on the contents of the notes immediately after they were read to him indicated a previous knowledge of them.

No further effort, however, was made to connect Lee with the murder. The negro was on the stand altogether just four hours and forty-five minutes. The tedious and detailed examination of this witness indicated that every point in the case would be hard fought by both sides. He was led back and forth over the same ground, it being the evident intention of the defense to discredit his statements rela-

BOY CHARGES BROTHER FORCED HIM TO KILL

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 29.—Argument began this morning in the case of Jim Cantrell, charged with having conspired with Mrs. Sylvia Hawkins for the murder of her husband, Arthur Hawkins.

Sixteen-year-old Bartow Cantrell, brother of the accused, has been the principal witness in the case. The young man has admitted the actual killing of Hawkins, but charged yesterday afternoon that it was done at threats of his brother, and because he feared injury, and possibly death, should he fail to obey.

Alleged relations between Mrs. Hawkins and the elder Cantrell were told of by witnesses yesterday.

Mrs. Hawkins will be placed on trial immediately following the disposition of the Cantrell case.

OLDEST RESIDENT OF ILLINOIS IS DEAD

(By Associated Press.)

PANA, Ill., July 29.—Dr. W. T. Linn, aged 109 years, the oldest man in Illinois, died at his home near here last night. His death came suddenly. He celebrated his 108th anniversary on May 28 last. Dr. Linn was born in Ohio and had practiced medicine for more than seventy-five years. He leaves sixty-two grandchildren and fifty-three great-grandchildren.

Policemen Score Big Success in Role of Employment Agents

(By Associated Press.)

MINNEAPOLIS, July 29.—Mayor Wallace G. Nye's plan to transform the police force of this city into temporary employment agents, has proved an unqualified success.

Last Thursday morning, when the plan went into effect there were more than 1,000 idle men loitering about the streets, the authorities declared.

Today Chief of Police Martinson estimated that there are less than 100 who have not either obtained employment or fled the city to escape a term in the workhouse.

STONE MOUNTAIN CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., July 29.—Quick work of citizens prevented the destruction of the Stone Mountain Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon when it was set fire by lightning.

The damage to the building was about $300.

WOMEN WILL PATROL CHICAGO DANCE HALLS

CHICAGO, July 29.—Women police for Chicago were assured last night, when the council passed an ordinance creating places for them on the force. Mayor Harrison immediately will name ten patrolwomen for duty at the beaches, dance halls and other places, where it is believed they will be more efficient than men.

PROF. C. F. MARVIN WILL SUCCEED WILLIS MOORE

Chief of Instrument Division Will Be Named New Head of Weather Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Prof. Charles F. Marvin has been selected for chief of the weather bureau to succeed Willis L. Moore, recently removed.

Prof. Marvin is now chief of the instrument division. He was appointed to the old signal service in 1884 from Ohio.

WIFE'S LIBERTY HINGES ON HUSBAND'S RECOVERY

Mrs. Joe Dare to Be Held in Savannah Jail Until Wounded Husband Has Recovered

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 29.—Joe Dare, who was shot by his wife a week ago and who has been in the hospital since, is not yet out of danger. It was thought at one time that Dare was about to recover, but within the past forty-eight hours his condition has become less satisfactory. He had a hemorrhage a day or so ago that left him very weak and he has never fully regained his strength.

Mrs. Dare still is detained at the barracks and will not be permitted to give bond until her husband gets well. If he dies she will be committed to jail to await trial before a jury in the superior court.

Secretary Bryan Is Chased by Accident Insurance Agents

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Secretary Bryan today faced a problem even more complicated and subtle than the Japanese and Mexican questions, when he discovered he was the quarry sought by accident insurance solicitors, as the result of two narrow escapes from disaster yesterday. Driving to the department of state, the secretary's carriage was narrowly missed by a street car, and a moment later a heavy electric bus came close to ramming it midships.

The carriage was turning into Pennsylvania avenue when the car rounding a curve started full speed ahead. A crossing policeman saw the danger of a collision.

"Here, you!" he yelled to the motorman. "Stop that car, quick!"

The motorman, clapping on the air brakes, halted the car within a few inches of the hind wheels of the vehicle. Mr. Bryan's driver whipped up the horses, only to get directly in the path of an electric bus, which also stopped so suddenly that the passengers were tossed about.

Throughout the experience the secretary's well known smile did not fail him. His placidity was in striking contrast to the agitation of the driver and the nervous prostration from which the policeman, motorman and bus driver seemed to be suffering.

The secretary now is bringing his diplomacy and subtlety to bear in outwitting insurance solicitors.

ARGENTINA TO HAVE AN ANTI-TRUST LAW

BUENOS AYRES, July 29.—The government of Argentina today introduced a bill in parliament on the lines of the Sherman law declaring unlawful all trusts in restraint of trade or production.

NO TRUTH IN REPORT OF CATASTROPHE IN PERU

Direct Communication With Lima Established–Conditions in City Normal

LIMA, Peru, July 29.—There is no truth in the reports curent in Europe and America of a catastrophe in this city.

There has been no extraordinary occurrence of any kind. The rumors probably arose from the fact that telegraph communication between here and Santiago, Chile, is interrupted.

FIVE ARE DROWNED IN WRECK OF LIGHTSHIP

Steamer "City of Atlanta" Crashes Into Little Lightship Carrying Mail

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—The tender of the government lightship off Cape Lookout, N. C., was cut in two by the Savannah line steamer City of Atlanta and three of its five occupants were drowned last Friday afternoon, according to statements made here today by passengers aboard the steamer.

The accident, they said, occurred about 1 o'clock in the afternoon in clear weather and a calm sea. Two men were rescued by a boat from the steamer and put back aboard the lightship.

The little tender crossed the liner's bows to deliver mail and papers on the leeward side. The distance was misjudged and the liner crashed into the boat.

ASTYPTODYNE HEALING OIL

Midland City, Ala., May 15th, 1912.

I have used Astyptodyne for a number of years and find it one of the best antiseptics I have ever used, both for a dressing for cuts, bruises, old sores or ulcers, and as a spray in throat or nasal afflictions. Respectfully, S. M. C. HOWELL, M. D.

Council, N. C., May 25th, 1909.

Astyptodyne Chemical Co., Wilmington, N. C.

Gentlemen:—This is to certify that I have used Astyptodyne in the treatment of ulcers and chronic sores with pleasing results both to myself and patients.

Being a harmless preparation, a disinfectant and deodorant, its field of usefulness is worthy of much consideration.

Newton, Baker Co., Ga., August 1st, 1910.

Gentlemen:—My little child walked into the fire with bare feet and was burned very badly. The physician dressed the wound, but the child continued to suffer very much and after applying Astyptodyne according to directions, it gave him relief in less than thirty minutes and has healed his feet entirely.

Very truly yours, W. C. LIVINGSTON.

Union Springs, Ala.

This is to certify that I have used Astyptodyne almost as a routine in certain classes of surgical cases, such as injuries, dirty wounds, etc., and regard it as a preparation of much merit. I find it a good thing to have along in cases of emergency as a surgical dressing. T. JOS. DEAN, M. D.

DAILY CAMPAIGN STORY
The Lady With the Catalogue Talks Titles

Of the several hundred Booklovers who called at The Journal office yesterday for a catalogue there was one dear old lady with gray hair and a good face, who attracted the Campaign Editor's attention by her enthusiasm in regard to the plan.

"You know," she said, "I was in your last Booklovers' Campaign, and while I did not get one of the Grand Prizes, I did get a prize and learned, too, that if I took your advice all the way through, I would surely get a better prize. Let me explain to you how I so after the correct titles in your catalogue, and if I am not right in my plan, I know you will set me right. Here is yesterday's picture, No. No. 1, of the series, and you see it is a devoted old couple, evidently discussing other days, and from the words, evidently good days. I would take this catalogue and go through it alphabetically to get at the right title to that picture. In the 'G' column I find 'Good Old Times,' in the 'H' column 'Happy Days and Happy Hours,' 'I' column, 'In Perfect Peace,' in the 'L' column, 'Left to Themselves,' as I notice they are all alone, the same as myself and my dear old husband. In the 'M' column, 'The Meadows of Our Youth,' and the 'O' column, 'Our Old Home'; 'P' column, 'Peace and Happiness,' 'W' column, 'We Two.' These may be others that apply to that particular picture and when I get home I will go through it carefully and if there are any I will surely find them. Now, Mr. Editor, have I the right idea, or have you any better plan?"

No, we have no better plan at present and commend the dear old lady's plan to all our old and young booklovers. It means to you a little more work, but it is work that will count big for you in the wind up of this delightful campaign. So let us all take off our hats to the dear old Georgia lady who is going to win and is willing to help all other contestants to win.

ISAAC STEINHEIMER'S LONG LIFE IS ENDED

Was Pioneer Atlantian and Second Oldest Mason in the City

Isaac Steinheimer, pioneer citizen of Atlanta and one of the two oldest Masons in the city, died at his home, 779 West Peachtree street, Monday night at 8:30 o'clock after an illness of one week. He was seventy-seven years old.

He is survived by his wife and six children. They are Mrs. Herman Benjaman, Miss Clara May Steinheimer, Edgar A. I. and A. G. Steinheimer, of Atlanta; Mrs. Monroe Mayer, of Columbia, S. C. Four brothers also survive him. They are Jacob, David, Alexander and Emanuel Steinheimer, all residents of Atlanta.

Mr. Steinheimer had been a resident of Atlanta for fifty-three years, having come here from Macon, Ga., in 1860. He was born in Ichenhauser, Bavaria, Germany, and came to the United States in 1854, settling in Griffin, Ga. Upon his arrival in Atlanta he established a store on Whitehall street in partnership with his brothers.

In 1876 the partnership was dissolved and he went into business alone at 39 Whitehall street, where he stayed for years. Twelve years ago he retired and since that time has been living quietly at his home.

He took a great interest in Masonic life and was proud of the fact that he was one of the oldest in point of years of membership in Atlanta. He became a Mason in 1860 and was a past master in the Atlanta lodge. He was also a devoted member of the Hebrew congregation on Pryor street.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but the service will be held Wednesday morning.

Atlanta Lodge No. 59, F. & A. M., will have charge of the funeral which will take place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence, 779 West Peachtree street. Rabbi David Marx will preside. The interment will be at West View.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR ARRIVES IN ATLANTA

Rev. Arnold Hall Takes Charge of Gordon Street Church

Rev. Arnold Hall, of Maysville, S. C., will reach Atlanta Tuesday afternoon and will at once take charge of the Gordon street Presbyterian church. He and his wife will be given a reception by the church Wednesday evning.

This reception will be given on the lawn in front of the homes of Messrs. S. D. Warren and G. F. Lange at 11 and 13 Racine street. The entire congregation and several Atlanta ministers and a number of other friends will give Mr. and Mrs. Hall a glad welcome to Atlanta.

Mr. Hall held a long patsorate in Norfolk, Va., his native state, before going to South Carolina. He comes here after a very successful pastorate in South Carolina and in this new growing section at West End Park, there is promise of a great work. The people at West End Park are just now building a beautiful new church at a cost of a little less than $10,000.

MAN 74 YEARS OLD TO START NEW LIFE

Tells Chicago Police Court Judge He Is Harvard Graduate

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 29.—L. W. Bowen, seventy-four years old, who says he is a graduate of Harvard, stood before Municipal Judge Newcomer yesterday and asked to be sent to the house of correction to serve his sixty days so he could begin soon a new life. He had been in jail a month, awaiting trial for habitual drunkenness. In one hand he carried a thumb-worn pencil-marked copy of the Epistles of St. John.

"A woman gave me this book the first Sunday I was in jail and I know it is better than all the booze cures," Bowen told the court. "I read it at first because I had nothing else to do, but I now believe every word of it. I want to get out to the house of correction and begin my time so that I can get out and start over again."

The judge paroled Bowen to Rev. F. E. J. Lloyd, member of the legislature, who happened to be in court.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION REPORTED IN PORTUGAL

Said That Vast Movement May Break Out at Any Moment

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, July 29.—Dispatches from Portugal received by way of the Spanish frontier today indicate that great revolutionary activity prevails in Portugal. It is reported that a vast movement, planned in Lisbon and Oporto, may break out at any moment. From the same source it is learned that serious street fighting occurred last night in various places.

The censor in Lisbon refused to allow the cabling of an Associated Press dispatch stating that a band of revolutionaries had attempted to rush barracks of the Tenth infantry regiment in order to rescue political prisoners detained there.

The civilians were repulsed by the troops after an exchange of shots with the guard.

THEATRES

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
GRAND—Motion Pictures.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

In a farcial sketch entitled, "Our Bob," Robert L. Daily & Co., get away with the big laugh at the Forsyth this week. Running this act a close second, however, is the work of Joe Welch, character comedian who is quite well known to Atlanta theatergoers.

While the bill this week is not by any means the best ever seen at the local theater it is well balanced and affords plenty of laughs, good music, some excellent acrobatic work and a clever satire on the old time mind reading act. All of the acts are high class in their several classes and many a laugh was enjoyed by all who were present at the Monday evening performance.

The sketch, "Our Bob," is utterly without plot, but made up of a lot of clever and laughable work. Robert Daily gets away with his part in great shape. He makes every one in the audience utterly forget their troubles and join him in the many good laughs. In his work Daily is ably assisted by a man and woman.

Joe Welch in his usual droleful manner brings forth laugh after laugh with the old story of his large family. While this line of talk has been handed Atlantians in the past Welch tells it in such an unusual manner that it will get a laugh every time. Anyway the audience thought he was funny and he had to answer two encores.

It remained for Elsa Ward to take the singing honors. Pretty, with a good voice and elaborate gowns this young miss made a distinct hit with the first nighters. Her imitation of the violin was most excellent, few in the audience realizing that she wasn't playing.

Cunningham and Marion are billed as comedy-gymnasts and they got away with an entirely new act. The Dolan-Lenharr company first amuse with a satire on mind reading and then perform some rather remarkable stunts in mental telepathy. The Leffel trio, gymnasts, and Karl Kress, the lightning artist, serve to fill out a good bill.

Lifelike pictures of birds and animals of the frozen and uninhabited north in their natural environment can be seen at the Grand theater this week where the Alaska-Siberian hunt pictures are being shown.

WHICH SHOULD SUSPEND, COURT OR STEAM SHOVEL?

Judge Decides Against Shovel; Sends Foreman to Jail

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 29.—When a steam shovel interferes with the Allegheny county courts, the steam shovel must cease operations; and when the superintendent in charge indicates that in his mind the removal of Pittsburg's "hump" is of more importance than the dispensation of justice, the superintendent must go to jail.

These principles were laid down in common pleas court yesterday by Judge R. A. Kennedy, who was annoyed by the puffing of a steam shovel engaged in excavation on a street near the court house. He ordered the shovel stopped and when the noise continued he issued a warrant and had the crew brought into court.

The superintendent in charge was asked by the judge whether it would be better to stop the shovel or stop the court. The superintendent is said to have replied that if they interfered the court would stop, and was promptly sentenced to jail for contempt. The remainder of the crew were released on their promise to do no work while the court was in session.

DR. SOULE DEFENDED FROM CONNER ATTACK

Went to Canada Before Attack Was Made, Is Statement

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ATHENS, Ga., July 29.—Referring to statements made by Representative Conner concerning President Andrew M. Soule, of the State College of Agriculture, a representative of the institution stated today that President Soule had not gone to Canada after Mr. Conner had made an attack upon him, but had gone several days before, and had gone, as is his custom, to spend his vacation at his old home.

"The Soule is not a subject of Canada," stated the representative.

Concerning the claim that the college had spent a large sum on twenty-five chickens, it was stated that Mr. Conner had failed to see 500 chicken buildings and considerable equipment for which the money has been spent by authority of the trustees.

STATE HOME FOR GIRLS MAY BE BUILT THIS YEAR

It Is Favorably Recommended by Committee of the House

The Georgia Industrial Home for Girls will be established by the state during the ensuing year if the recommendation of a sub-committee of the appropriations committee of the house is approved by the general assembly.

The sub-committee was given full power to act, and it was decided to ask for an appropriation of $30,000 for the home. Of this sum $20,000 was designated as the proper amount to be expended on a building, and it is proposed to use the remaining $10,000 as a maintenance fund.

The resolution expressly states that the home must be built either on property already owned by the state, or on property donated for this purpose. In this way, the committeemen felt, much of the expense would be obviated.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Georgia Papers Praise Address of Senator Smith.

The following paragraph from the Early County News is a sample of the editorial comment of Georgia newspapers on the masterful address of Senator Hoke Smith recently delivered before the general assembly:

"Senator Smith's speech delivered before the Georgia legislature is said to be the most complete resume thus far compiled by any Democrat of what the United States senate has accomplished since the Democrats came into power. It was a thrilling review, from the senate standpoint, of all that has taken place in Washington since March."

Nearly every paper in the state has had something to say in praise of the senator's account of his stewardship. Numbers of them carried extracts from the speech, others a summary, while a few, where space permitted, carried the speech in full.

Vital Statistics Bill is Favored by House Committee.

Another step toward the enactment of legislation for the keeping of vital statistics records in Georgia was accomplished Monday afternoon when the house committee on hygiene and sanitation reported favorably such a bill for passage.

Since the introduction of the measure some time ago there has been an almost general demand from all over the state for its passage. Georgia papers have taken up the cry and almost daily editorials have appeared appealing for the enactment of the law.

The bill, as it will go to the house, is drafted in such a manner as to coincide with the national law and thereby facilitate the manner of recording births and deaths correctly, not only in the state but in the country at large.

It is not believed that the bill will meet with any opposition in the house.

What "the Usual Course" Means in the Appropriations Committee.

"Mr. Chairman, I move that bill take the usual course!"

Sounds rather indefinite, but to any one who has attended a recent meeting of the appropriations committee of the house, this terse quotation has but one meaning. And that meaning may be expressed in the three following words: "Do not pass," under which is signed the name of Crawford Wheatley, chairman.

Long ago the appropriations committee let it be known that its policy would be a saving one and since the passage of the general appropriations bill it has demonstrated the determination to keep down expenses until the house finds means to meet the expenditures of the state.

A few days ago the committee room was filled with advocates of measures asking for money. One after another they were recommended unfavorably and killed for the time, until a member tiring of the stereoptyed form of "do not pass," simply moved that the bill "take the usual course." Since then the use of the term has become general.

A Cruel One

(Wisconsin Sphinx.)

"What's the most unusual sight you ever saw?"

House Bills

By Mr. Cooper of Ware—To amend section 129 of the code so as to provide for early primaries to take place not later than June 15.

By Mr. Clark of Dougherty—To repeal that section of the prohibition law placing restrictions on physicians in prescribing alcohol for patients.

By Mr. Tootle of Tattnall—To require semi-annual inspections of the state sanitarium.

By Mr. Gower of Crisp—To prevent the executor of a deceased executor from becoming the representative of the original estate.

By Mr. Collins of Grady—To amend the road law so as not to require more than five days service nor more than $1 tax per day.

By Mr. Melson of Clayton—To prohibit detectives and all other officers from giving out evidence on criminals or supposed criminals except under oath.

By Mr. Green of Houston—To establish a school of agriculture for colored youths.

By Mr. Slater of Bryan—To provide for a limited number of convicts upon a trunk line of public roads.

By Mr. Borough of Franklin—To amend an act incorporating the city of Lavonia.

BILLS PASSED.

The following local bills were passed in the house Tuesday morning:

By Mr. Johnson of Montgomery—To create a board of commissioners of roads and revenues for Wheeler county.

By the Bibb Delegation—To increase the salary of the judge of the superior court of the Macon circuit to $5,000.

By Mr. Taylor of Washington—To incorporate the Davisboro school district.

BIRMINGHAM YOUNG MAN SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF

Henry J. Naff May Die; His Wife Dies En Route to Hospital

(By Associated Press.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 29.—At 8 o'clock this morning Henry J. Nag, son of an old and respectable family of Birmingham, shot and killed his former wife, Marie Naff, and then turned the revolver on himself and inflicted a fatal wound.

Six months ago the pair were divorced but have been living next door to each other. Mrs. Naff was sitting on the front porch when her former husband came along and shot her, then turning the weapon on himself.

The woman died on the way to the hospital. Naff was hurried to an infirmary, where an operation was performed but his condition is very dangerous.

Sergeant Dobbs' testimony concerned the finding of the girl's body, and the two notes which were picked up near it. Also the condition of the body when found.

During Tuesday afternoon other officers will probably be introduced to give similar evidence, and it is believed the undertaker, who prepared the body for burial, will also be put on the stand.

Court officials believe now that the trial will run well into a second week and that James Conley, the negro sweeper, will be on the stand for two or three days. It is not known when the state will call Conley, but he will doubtless be the climax witness, and all the energies of the defense will be directed toward breaking him down.

Frank followed the progress of his trial Tuesday with great interest and apparent satisfaction. He listened intently to everything said in the court room and frequently he conferred with his attorneys. He often smiled while conversing with his wife and mother who sat beside him.

About fifty spectators retained their seats in the court room throughout the recess, foregoing lunch and fresh air in order to insure for themselves good seats at the afternoon session. Mrs. Frank and her husband lunched together in an ante-room of the court. The jury returned form lunch and a short walk at 1:50 o'clock.

Court reconvened three minutes early, at 1:57. Sergeant Dobbs continued on the stand. He was asked a few questions in cross-examination by Attorney Brasel and then Solicitor Dorsey took up the re-direct examination. The solicitor brought out additional points about the finding of the body. He stressed the fact that the trimming of the girl's hat never has been found so far as the sergeant knows. Sergeant Dobbs identified some blue ribbon as the same that was on Mary Phagan's hair when her body was found.

DOBBS' TESTIMONY.

The solicitor read a transcript of the testimony given by Sergeant Dobbs before the coroner's jury relating to the indications that Mary Phagan's body had been dragged.

The transcript was right, said the sergeant. The dragging seemed to have started at the corner of the elevator shaft. Using Mary Phagan's umbrella as a pointer, the solicitor had the sergeant trace the line of the dragging marks.

It showed that the body had been taken out of the elevator and pulled around the corner of the elevator shaft under the ladder. By this testimony the solicitor evidently expected to lay his plan for combatting the possible theory that the defnse might advance, that the body was taken down the ladder itself.

The solicitor asked the sergeant if it would be possible for a man to carry the body down the ladder. He said that for a man to go down by himself, said the sergeant, and no ordinary man could have carried the body down.

The solicitor then asked the sergeant about a photograph of the rear door of the basement. The photograph appeared in the same affidavit with the diagram. The photograph showed the hasp in place and the bar across the back of the door.

Sergeant Dobbs said that the bar was in that position when he saw the door, but that the hasp was pulled out and the lock was lying on a platform immediately at the right. The bar evidently did not interfere with the opening of the door, for the door slides and does not swing.

Sergeant Dobbs said that the hasp was not bent and evidently had been pulled straight out. He identified the lock and hasp themselves, the solicitor handing them to him.

The sergeant stated that the body was cold when he found it. He identified the low-quarter shoes. One of them, said he, was on one foot of the body and the other was found on the trash pile near the boiler.

The dead girl's hands were folded across her breast (beneath her body.) The body was rather stiff, bue he could work the fingers at the joints.

Leo M. Frank, the accused, was reported to have been sleeping soundly when the deputies went up to awake him in the jail Tuesday morning to come to court for the second day of his trial.

Frank arrived at court, under charge of Sheriff Mangum, very shortly after 7 o'clock, and his breakfast was brought to him there from his home.

A crowd of several hundred people was gathered around the doors of the court house at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Leo M. Frank, the wife of the accused, and his mother, Mrs. Rae Frank, of Brooklyn, appeared together in the court room about fifteen minutes before the trial was due to resume. Judge Roan, presiding, arrived shortly after them and went into the seclusion of his chambers. Lawyers for both sides arrived at five minutes to 9 o'clock.

LEE RESUMES TESTIMONY.

Judge Roan went upon the bench at 9 o'clock and convened court. The jury brought in and Newt Lee, the negro night watchman on the stand at adjournment Monday afternoon, was recalled to the witness chair.

Just before court was convened, the doors were opened for a few moments and the crowd surged in until the 250 seats in the room were filled, leaving a hundred or more disappointed people outside the doors, which then were shut.

For the first half hour of this interrogation Mr. Rosser sought to develop from the negro just how close he got to the dead girl before he saw the body. He wanted the negro to estimate in feet, which the negro was reluctant to do, referring to measure distances by objects or persons in the court room. The negro did estimate distances in feet, however, qualifying his estimates by "about."

Mr. Rosser evidently was endeavoring to make the negro admit that he could not see into the dust bin from the toilet; that he would have to go closer in order to see into the bin. As a result of the cross-questioning, the witness said that after he left the toilet he raised the lantern above his head and walked four or five feet toward the dust bin. He was then a good way from the body.

WITNESS BECOMES NETTLED.

When he first saw the feet of the body, the negro declared, he did not believe it was a body lying there. He then was scanning the dust bin to see if there was any fire there.

Mr. Rosser asked him a number of questions as to why he did not look into the dust bin on his former trips to the basement that night, and questioned him also at considerable length as to the relative location of the dust bin and the toilet, asking if it was not true that the dust bin was not considerably at his right at the end of a partition. The negro became nettled at Mr. Rosser's insistent questioning on this point, and rising to his feet and clapping his hands he declared, "I'm going to tell you just like it is!"

He then explained that the dust bin was diagonally opposite where he stood and in plain view.

Mr. Rosser asked him how far it was from the trap door to the dust bin.

"Isn't it about 125 feet?"

The negro said he didn't know, but it was a long way.

Mr. Rosser asked the negro why on his preceding trips into the basement that night he did not go farther back than the ladder. He had gone farther back, said the negro—twenty-five feet or so.

"On this particular trip you went back beyond the toilet, didn't you?"

The negro said yes, that he would have gone farther than he did if he hadn't seen the body. He walked up close to the body with his lantern over his head. He wanted to see, he said, if it was an "natural" body. He didn't know but what it might have been an "unnatural" body.

He didn't know how long he looked at it, he said, before he went to call the police. He didn't stand there ten minutes, or five.

"I LIT ER RAG."

"Two minutes?" "I don't know, sir." "Two seconds?" "I don't know, sir, but I'll tell you the truth. I held up my lantern and looked good and just as quick as I found out it was a natural body I lit er rat!" The bailiffs rapped for order in court.

"The face of the body was "all dirty," said the negro. Several white spots showed through the dirt, however, and the body's hair was "frizzly." He realized at once that it was a white person, said he, and hurried away. He led the police to the basement and showed them the body by their electric searchlights, said he.

He didn't know how long it was until the police decided it was a white girl. They arrested him right away, said he, and sent him upstairs. Before that, however, he heard one of the officers say, "This is just a child. She must have been killed two or three days."

He didn't understand whether they carried him back to the basement any more that morning. Some days later the officers took him from police station to the basemnt. The only thing he didn't notice whether the rear basement door was open when the officers came. He was positive that it was not open earlier in the night.

The negro, describing the position of the body, stated that the girl was lying on her back with her head turned over so that the left side of her face was up. He saw blood, he said, on the left side of her head.

The attorney cross-examined the negro on his statements made at the coroner's inquest and examined the negro for half an hour or more with the evident purpose of discrediting Lee's testimony of Monday afternoon relative to Frank being agitated on the afternoon of April 26.

ARGUMENT IN COUNSEL.

This examination led to a lively tilt of the opposing attorneys. Attorney Rosser was reading from the record of the coroner's inquest upon Lee's testimony regarding Frank's actions when he first saw J. M. Gantt at the door of the factory that afternoon, according to the record as read by Mr. Rosser. Lee did not say at the coroner's inquest that Frank jumped back but did say that he looked frightened, as I said in request, according to Mr. Rosser's reading. Lee did say that he supposed Frank was frightened because he had fired Gantt from the position of bookkeeper.

Mr. Rosser wanted the witness to repeat that remark. Solicitor Dorsey was objecting immediately. It was a matter of opinion, said the solicitor, and when the negro expressed that opinion he did not know what he, Dorsey, now knows, and what the jury will know. After about fifteen minutes of argument, some fifteen minutes over the point, Attorney Rosser turning to the counsel for the state said:

"I want to accommodate my young friends whenever I can."

Attorney Hooper, who was sitting down, retorted: "Well, you've got to accommodate me on this."

"No, I haven't," said Mr. Rosser.

"Yes you have," returned Mr. Hooper.

"The man hasn't been born that I've got to accommodate," retorted Mr. Rosser. After registering a strenuous objection that Mr. Dorsey had tried to lecture him, Mr. Rosser proceeded. Judge Roan ruled that the negro's opinion was inadmissible. Mr. Rosser read the opinion, however, without getting an answer from the negro upon it.

LEE DENIES RECORD.

"Boss, I can't help what they write there." "I'm telling all I know about this."

Mr. Rosser then went back to the finding of the body and read the record on that, wherein it appeared that when Lee realized it was a body he leaped from where he stood and went up the ladder. The negro demurred at that way of putting it, prefering to say that he "lit out."

Mr. Rosser called the negro's attention to the fact as he stated it that nowhere in the record of the coroner's inquest did the state find it took Frank twice as long on Saturday to put the tape on the time clock as it had on a previous occasion. Lee contended that he had told the coroner's jury that it took "longer," but Mr. Rosser couldn't find that in the record. The negro said nobody asked him at the inquest to make a comparative statement.

The negro appeared to be holding his own remarkably well under the rigid cross-examination by Mr. Rosser. He argued with the attorney without hesitancy, and took keen issue with the inquest record whenever the attorney contended that it conflicted in minor ways with his testimony in court.

THE NOTES.

Mr. Rosser asked Lee if he was in the basement when the police found some notes beside Mary Phagan. Before Lee could reply to the question Solicitor Dorsey objected. The notes themselves would be the best evidence on that point, he said.

Attorney Rosser argued that he wanted to show Lee's ready interpretation of these notes. What Lee said is not admissable, returned Mr. Dorsey, because Lee himself was not on trial.

Attorney Reuben Arnold for the first time since the trial began spoke up in court. If Lee had made damaging admissions, he argued to the court, they would be relevant and admissable.

Before the court could rule, the solicitor asked that the jury be taken out of court so the question could be argued. If evidence tending to involve Lee had to come before the jury, said he, he wanted it to come in the shape of admissible evidence and not from the argument of opposing attorneys and "in the right way." The jury was taken out. This was the first time the jury had left court.

Attorney Arnold addressing the court, contended that any substance or fact connected with the witness Newt Lee, which would show that he had something to do with the killing, is admissible. Although the night watchman admits having discovered the body, and late at night at that, he denies all previous knowledge of the crime and says that two notes were found by the body. The meaning of these notes, said Mr. Arnold, is obscure and doubtful.

ARNOLD READS NOTE.

"We expect to show that the witness testified that two notes were found," said he. "That the officers endeavored to read them to him and that then were obscure in meaning. One of them read this way: 'He said he would love me. Laid down. Play like the night witch did it, but that long tall black negro did it by his self.'

"The man who wrote that note was trying to lay the crime on a long tall black negro. It was a clumsy effort to exculpate some other man. As soon as the words 'night witch' were read to the witness, he spoke and said 'That means me. I'm the nightwatchman.' This shows that the negro had knowledge of these notes. On the stand here he has appealed to go into the contents of them. Rosser has been compelled to question him at great length to bring out the slightest facts in this instance, however, he interprets this note in a second and a half."

Solicitor Dorsey was asked by the judge to restate his objection to this.

"This conversation, your honor," said the solicitor, "occurred between this witness and somebody else. Even had it been with Frank, the defendant, it would not be admissible. He is asked it a man did not read a note to him. After that conversation he may have not. They have got this note in their hands at this moment. I contend that it is not admissible to go into the contents of any paper, as the paper itself is the highest and best evidence, and no such paper has been introduced at this trial.

"It is not proper for the defense to attempt to go into the contents of this note by this witness. Such a course would not be proper except for the purpose of impeaching the witness and even then it is necessary to have the highest and best evidence—which is the note itself."

HOOPER SPEAKS.

Attorney Hooper, for the state, cited a case to show that the question would be inadmissible.

"If they undertake as they have indicated here," said he, "to put the crime on somebody else, that would put a different aspect on the matter. But until they do train their guns on some third party, no such evidence can be admitted."

Attorney Rosser replied by saying:

"Your honor, we've got to commence somewhere to show him as a criminal. We can commence here as well as anywhere else."

Solicitor Dorsey insisted that the defense, through the line of questions put to the negro, was seeking to put the notes in evidence. This was denied by Attorney Rosser. The defense simply is using the notes to refresh its memory, said he, and to suggest questions for the witness.

JUDGE ROAN'S RULE.

Judge Roan ruled that anything was admissible which tended to show that this witness expressed anxiety or trepidation. While ruling that the cross-examination would proceed as begun by the defense, he announced that he would not permit the defense to go into the contents of the notes. The judge went further that it is for the jury to interpret the conduct of the witness. The jury was brought back and the cross-examination was resumed.

Mr. Rosser, reading from the note, asked Lee:

"Didn't one of the police begin to read this from the note: 'The tall black slim negro did this. He will try to lay it on the night—and when he got that far didn't you say, 'Boss, that's me?'"

Solicitor Dorsey again objected, but Judge Roan held against him.

Lee asserted emphatically that he did not exclaim, "Boss, that's me." He said that he did say, "Somebody must have been trying to put it off on me."

This concluded the cross-examination of the negro.

On redirect examination, Solicitor General Dorsey asked:

"Did you ever know Jim Conley?"

"I met him the first time in jail the other day."

"Did anybody try to put this off on you?"

"No, sir."

"Did Mr. Frank ever try to put it off on you?"

The question was objected to by the defense, and the judge ruled for the defense.

"Whom have you talked to about this crime?" continued Mr. Dorsey.

"I talked to you and to some of the officers."

"Did you ever talk to Mr. Arnold here?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you know that he was an attorney for Mr. Frank?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you ever decline to talk to anybody about this?"

"No."

"Have you ever tried to conceal anything?"

"No."

Mr. Dorsey then brought from the negro the statement that Frank had remarked on the length of time it took him to put the tape on the clock the second time and that was the reason the negro claimed to remember the incident.

About twenty minutes were consumed in the examination of a diagram of the building which the solicitor offered, the negro identifying parts of the picture.

THAT 'THIRD DEGREE.'

Resuming the cross examination of Lee, Attorney Rosser brought out from him that Frank had complained about the machines, etc., in the rear of the second floor of the factory. The attorney questioned Lee also about the basement and its lighting conditions. Mr. Rosser questioned him about his treatment since arrest—who questioned him, how he dealt with Mr. Frank, etc.

Lee denied vehemently that the police had discharged a pistol close to his head to frighten him. Mr. Rosser asked him if the police hadn't cursed and abused him, and even prayed for him.

"Well, they never prayed much," answered the negro. Attorney Rosser then asked him if the detectives didn't question him continuously, one after another, and drive him almost crazy. "They didn't drive me crazy, but I didn't get much sleep for a few days after I was arrested," answered the negro. "As soon as I would lay down, somebody would call me and start in to questioning me."

Mr. Rosser asked him about interviews with detectives, singly and in pairs or greater numbers, particularly about one said to have taken place in the jail recently when he was present with Jim Conley, Attorney Hooper, Solicitor Dorsey and Detectives Campbell and Starnes. Lee said that for the first two days in jail he was bothered all the time with questions, but after that he was left alone, and after the inquest he was willing to stay in jail because he wasn't molested much.

"No, sir."

THROUGH WITH LEE.

Lee was excused then by both sides. A deputy sheriff started with him back to the county jail, but he never want to get up there again," said the negro, referring to the witness stand.

SERGEANT DOBBS ON STAND.

Police Sergeant J. S. Dobbs followed Newt Lee to the stand. He related how on Sunday morning, April 27, about 3:20 o'clock a call was received at police headquarters about the murder at the pencil factory.

He, in company with Sergeant Brown, Call Officer Anderson, Britt Craig, a newspaper reporter, and W. W. Rogers, rushed to the factory in Rogers' automobile.

Arriving at the factory, they found the front door locked. About two minutes after they knocked, the negro, Newt Lee, came down and opened it. The negro told them a dead woman was in the basement and led them down through the scuttle hole and down a ladder into the basement. There was a gas light burning dimly at the ladder.

The negro led the officers about 150 feet back toward the rear of the basement. Just in the rear of a board partition on the left, the negro pointed out a body lying on the ground. The body was that of a girl, lying on its face with the left side on the ground and the right side raised slightly.

The sergeant couldn't tell at first glance whether the body was that of a negro girl or a white girl. He noticed the dark hair on the head. He turned the body over. The face was covered with dirt and dust. With a clean piece of paper he wiped the dirt from the one side of the face and saw that the body evidently was that of a white girl.

DESCRIBES WOUNDS.

To satisfy himself further as to the color of the body, the sergeant said he raised the skirt just above the left knee and saw that the skin was white. He noticed on the face where he had wiped it several slight wounds such as might have been made by the "picking" of a pocket knife.

A large cord was around the neck. The end of the cord trailed from the right side of the throat. This cord was drawn tight and had sunk deep into the flesh. A ruffle torn evidently from some underclothing was tied also around the neck but not quite tightly as the cord.

There was a bruise on the right side of the head. Apparently it had been made by a blow. The hair was matted with blood. Sergeant Dobbs continued that after examining the body he called Lee, the night watchman, and questioned him about the matter, accusing him of having committed the crime or of knowing something about it.

He asked the negro how he happened to find the body in the dark basement. Solicitor Dorsey stopped the witness at this point and stated that he did not give any hearsay evidence—to tell only what he saw himself.

"I looked around to see what I could find," said the witness, "and discovered a couple of notes."

Picking up some documents from his table, the solicitor started to hand them to him but changed his mind. He picked up a cord and some other articles which had been placed on the witness stand and asked Sergeant Dobbs:

"Have you ever seen this cord before?"

IDENTIFIES CORD.

The witness identified it as the cord which he found around the dead girl's neck.

The solicitor held out his arm and had the witness loop the cord around his wrist and explain to the jury just how it was tied around the girl's neck. The witness called attention to the extra knot in the cord. He also identified the strip of ruffle which was found around her neck.

There was not a great deal of blood on the head and hair, said he. The blood on the outside of the hair was dry, but when close to the scalp it was moist. The place where the body was found was damp.

The solicitor handed to him some documents which were identified by Sergeant Dobbs as the two notes and the tablet he had found near the body. The notes were enclosed in a cellulid covers, front and back, with tape holding the covers together at the edges.

Sergeant Dobbs said that he did not know who the dead girl was, when first he saw the body. Later, said he, he learned that it was Mary Phagan. He described the position of the body, saying that the head was pointing toward the front of the building and was close to the partition.

The notes, said he, both were found under the partition near the head. Scratching around with his stick, he uncovered them. The tablet was just a few inches from the notes. He ordered that Lee be taken to the station house and locked up, said the sergeant.

He said that Newt Lee was cool and calm when he saw him first and that at no time did the negro seem to be excited. His attention was called to the discovery of the factory interior, produced Monday by the solicitor, and he pointed out the position of the body when he found it.

After Sergeant Dobbs had identified the diagram, Attorney Rosser took up the cross-examination. For the defense, Mr. Rosser questioned the closely as to the demeanor of Newt Lee when the police arrived, and Sergeant Dobbs repeated that the negro was calm.

SCRATCHED FOR NOTES.

He did not remember saying at the inquest that the negro seemed to be very excited, he said. Mr. Rosser stressed the point that the sergeant had found the notes only after raking his stick through the sawdust.

He also brought out the fact that there was considerable trash, a number of pieces of paper, and several pencils, lying around in the basement. One of the girl's shoes and her hat had been found, said the sergeant, on a trash pile in front of the boiler.

In reply to questions Sergeant Dobbs declared that it looked to him as if the body had been dragged on its face. There was a trail in the dirt leading from the elevator to the point where the body was found, he said; and in addition the face looked as if someone had dragged the body, holding its feet.

Mr. Rosser asked the witness if he was certain that this trail led from the elevator, and when the witness answered "yes," he read the record of the coroner's inquest wherein the sergeant had testified, he said, that the trail led from the corner near the ladder.

Mr. Rosser questioned him regarding the police test of Lee's ability to see the body from the point at which he claimed to have been standing when he first spied it. Sergeant Dobbs said that it was possible to see the "bulk" of the body, but would have been difficult if the person had not been looking directly for some object.

Attorney Rosser brought out the fact that there was blood on the girl's underclothing and that this blood was dry; also that the blood on her face was dry, but moist at the roots of the hair on the scalp.

The sergeant admitted that he found the finger joints of the body movable. The staple on the back door looked as if it recently had been pulled out.

COURT TAKES RECESS.

Attorney Rosser developed from the witness the statement that when he reached the word "night" in reading one of the notes, Newt Lee exclaimed, "That means the night watchman." The witness declared that the strip of underclothing around the girl's neck was over, not under, the cord. At this point Attorney Rosser completed his cross-examination, and at 12:30 o'clock the court recessed until 2 o'clock.

"Are you from Newnan? Thought may be you was from Atlanta. I know folks there, don't you chew? Naw, sir? Little bit of 'bacca, boss, and you don't even mind hawvers."

Newt is a negro who talks like a negro, who looks like a negro, and who, as he says, can chew more 'bacca than any other man in Georgia.

This negro, who has the wit and the manner of an "old timey darky," has been the most interesting and the most important figure so far in the Frank trial. Attention has centered in him. His naturalness, his wit, has given life and color to the hearing.

ASK MAYOR TO REVOKE PAWNBROKER'S LICENSE

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 29.—Two Savannah pawnbrokers called upon Mayor Davant yesterday and also paid a visit to the chief of police in an effort to get the license of another pawnbroker revoked.

They claimed that the other man had been convicted in the superior court of a lawless transaction and that he shouldn't be permitted to do business any more.

MINCEY IN ATLANTA, BUT HAS NOT BEEN TO TRIAL

Agent Who Said That Conley Told Him of Killing "a Girl" May Testify

W. H. Mincey, who has made affidavit that James Conley, the negro sweeper, practically confessed to him as being the murderer of Mary Phagan, is in Atlanta but has not yet gone to the courthouse where Frank is being tried.

At the time of the murder, Mincey was employed here as an insurance solicitor. On the day of the murder, he says that he met Conley at the corner of Carter and Electric streets.

The negro, according to the affidavit, was drinking, and when the solicitor mentioned insurance the negri flared into anger.

"I've killed a girl today," the affidavit charges Conley, the negro sweeper, with having said. "I don't want to hurt anybody else."

Several weeks ago Mincey left Atlanta to take a position as school teacher. But attorneys for the defense say that he has returned, and is now here.

Ambassador Wilson talked for an will appear before the senate foreign relations committee tomorrow to give his views of conditions in Mexico. Secretary Bryan was prevented from attending the committee's special meeting today on account of conferences at the state department with the ambassador.

AMBASSADOR'S REMOVAL.

Ambassador Wilson talked for an hour with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan yesterday, submitting chiefly a recommendation that the United States use its influence to stabilize the Huerta regime.

No policy was evolved—at least none was announced—but it became known that the president's ideas and those of Ambassador Wilson's as to the course to be pursued are so radically different that administration officials interpreted the day's developments as forecasting the acceptance of Ambassador Wilson' resignation.

President Wilson and the ambassador regard the future of the Mexican situation, it was learned, from opposite viewpoints. The president is concerned over the morality of any policy adopted by the United States and its effect on other Latin-American countries, and is disinclined to strengthen a government that came into power through the questionable events incident to Madero's assassination.

THE AMBASSADOR'S VIEWS.

Ambassador Wilson, on the other hand, as disposed to look at the situation, not from past events, but with the president that the embassy in Mexbelieves it is the business of governments to look to the future and his suggestions have been in the direction of extending recognition to the Huerta government if it did certain things to conserve American interests.

The understanding at the diplomatic standpoint of maintaining in Mexico City a representative who would not be sympathetic with the purpose of the Wilson administration. Washington is said to have practically convinced the president that the embassy in Mexico City had been conducted for the present by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, its first secretary, reputed here as efficient and capable, and that the appointment of a new ambassador would be contingent upon the establishment of a satisfactory government in Mexico City. Meanwhile, the president advised Ambassador Wilson to take a rest for a few days, as he has been laboring under a great nervous strain.

MINE MANAGERS RELEASED.

Charles Bissel and Bernard McDonald, the two American managers of Mexican federals under sentence of death at Chihuahua, have been ordered released by Provisional President Victoriano Huerta, a messenger here, so informed Secretary Bryan today.

Bryan said Mr. Bryan expressed gratification at the prompt action the Huerta government had given to American representations in the cases as well as that of Dixon, the immigration inspector drowned at Juarez.

McDonald is an Englishman. Bissel's chauffeur, an American, has also been ordered released. The three men were captured by General Orozco while attempting to take American refugees out of Mexico.

CONGRESS PROBE PROPOSED.

Investigation of conditions in Mexico by a joint congressional committee was proposed in a resolution today by Representative Stephens, of Texas. Five senators and five representatives would examine all correspondence, consular and other documents relating to the situation.

Lawyers Hammer Lee for Two Hours at Monday Afternoon Session

Negro Nightwatchman Who Found Mary Phagan's Body in National Pencil Factory on Stand—Girl's Mother and Newsboy Examined

Newt Lee, the negro nightwatchman who found Mary Phagan's body in the pencil factory basement, was hammered by the defense for over two hours, on the witness stand Monday afternoon.

Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of the murdered child, and George W. Epps, a playmate who came to town with her on the fatal day, testified in that order, Mrs. Coleman being the first witness called to the stand when the trial started.

Newt Lee was the third witness. The testimony of the others had been brief, under direct and cross-examination. Newt Lee's direct testimony was not extensive, but his evidence under cross-examination by Attorney Luther Rosser filled out the rest of the afternoon, and he still was on the stand under cross-examination when court recessed for the night.

At 5 o'clock court re-convened.

The jury, which had lunched in a downtown restaurant under guard of two deputy sheriffs, and then had been locked in its room, entered court.

Leo M. Frank, the accused, re-entered court and resumed his seat between his wife and his mother.

Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan, the murdered girl, was called as the first witness. She took the stand at 2:05 o'clock.

Attorney Arnold had announced that the defense might call a number of newspaper men. He might call every man at the press table, he said. Solicitor Dorsey agreed to suspend the rule and to allow them to remain in court.

Mrs. Coleman was attired entirely in black, with a black veil.

Solicitor Dorsey asked Mrs. Coleman what relation she was to Mary Phagan.

"Her mother," said Mrs. Coleman.

"When did you see her alive last?"

"April 26, Memorial day."

"What time?"

"At a quarter to 12 o'clock."

"Where?"

DESCRIBES HER DAUGHTER.

Continuing her testimony, Mrs. Coleman stated that Mary had helped her to do the morning's work; that she left home to go to the National Pencil factory on Forsyth street for her pay, that Mary had eaten her lunch of cake and bread before she left. Mrs. Coleman testified that her daughter would not have been fourteen years old until June 1 of this year; that she was unusually large fore her age. Describing Mary, the mother said:

"She was fair, heavy set, very pretty, and with dimples in each cheek."

Mary was dressed that day in a lavender dress, trimmed in lace, said the mother.

The solicitor handed a suit case to Newt Garner, special deputy in his office, Garner extracting the clothing in which Mary Phagan's body was found and began arranging it on the witness stand at the feet of Mrs. Coleman.

At her first glance upon the blood-stained dress Mrs. Coleman put a fan before her face and began sob audibly. Many spectators in the court were affected. Mrs. Frank, mother of the accused, put her own hand before her own face and bowed her head. Deputy Fleenie Minor offered a glass of ice water to Mrs. Coleman. She sipped it and continued sobbing.

Solicitor Dorsey cut his examination short immediately.

"The witness is with you," said he, turning to the defense.

SHE IS CROSS-EXAMINED.

Attorney Luther Z. Rosser cross-examined Mrs. Coleman for the defense.

"Is that her hat?"

"Yes."

"Well, didn't it have something else on it when you saw it last?"

"Yes, a blue ribbon and some pink flowers."

Mrs. Coleman said she lives two blocks from the point where Mary boarded a trolley car that day. There is a store at the corner run by Mrs. Smith, she said. The witness admitted she had no way of knowing how long it was before Mary caught a car. Mrs. Coleman said she knows a little boy named G. W. Epps. He was a friend of Mary's, but not a special friend, she said.

Attorney Rosser said: "You talked to a gentleman on May 2 and isn't this what you said——?"

Solicitor Dorsey objected. The question would be admissible only in case the defense was seeking to impeach the witness, said he. The defense contested that view. After argument, the question was admitted by Judge Roan.

"Did you on May 2 say to L. D. Whitfield that Mary detested Epps?"

Mrs. Coleman di dnot remember. She was excused, and G. W. Epps was called. He is a fifteen-year-old boy, employed as a newsboy.

GEORGE EPPES ON STAND.

He had known Mary Phagan for a year before the murder. He met her coming to town on the street car on the morning of April 26. He said that he rode with her to Forsyth and Marietta streets, leaving her there about 12:10 o'clock. She went toward the pencil factory, said he, to get her money.

The boy continued that he had an appointment to meet her at Elkin-Watson's drug store at 2 o'clock. After leaving her, he sold papers until just before 2 o'clock, then went to the drug store, continuing to sell papers there. He waited for her until 4 o'clock, said he, and when she hadn't appeared by that time he went to the baseball park, selling more papers there.

Epps created a ripple of merriment by some of his answers. Attorney Rosser, cross questioning him, asked how he knew what time it was when he got on the car at Olive and Bellwood to come to town. The boy said he looked at a clock and the clock said it was 10 minutes to 12 then. Attorney Rosser attempted to shake this statement by asking why he hadn't related this incident at the coroner's inquest. Young Epps said, "Maybe I didn't tell about it, but it was there." Attorney Rosser asked: "How did you know what time it was when you got off the car?" The boy said: "I looked at the sun."

The boy was excused from the stand after having been there perhaps ten minutes.

Newt Lee, the negro night watchman at the pencil factory, who found the body of Mary Phagan, was called as the next witness.

The negro was examined in detail by the solicitor. He stated that he had been night watchman at the factory about three weeks before the murder. Before that he was night watchman for several months at the other factory of the company in East Point.

He said he knew Leo M. Frank as the superintendent of the Atlanta factory. When he came to work as night watchman at the Forsyth street factory, Frank carried him over the building, showed him everything, and told him he must report during the week days at 6 o'clock in the evening and on Saturday afternoons at 5 o'clock. On Friday night, April 25, Frank told him that the next day was to be a holiday, and directed him to report for work at 4 o'clock as he, Frank, desired to get off himself a little earlier than usual. The negro said he arrived at the factory about three or four minutes before 4 o'clock; that the front doors of the factory were closed and appeared to be locked; that he took the key from his pocket and inserted it in the lock, discovering then that the door was not locked. He entered, and half way up the stairs he found the inside double doors of the steps were locked. He had to use his key to get through them.

The solicitor inquired how he happened to have the keys, where he got them, etc.

The negro said he was accustomed to get the keys to the doors every Saturday at noon when he came to get his pay so that he could lock them Sunday morning and get in again Sunday night. On this particular week he got his pay Friday evening about 6 o'clock, he and the other employes having been advised that they would pay off at that time on account of Saturday being a holiday. He did not know whether the other employes were paid off then.

A battery of half a dozen cameras flashed in the court, startling every one and the negro in particular.

MR. FRANK MEETS HIM.

About the keys again, the solicitor caused him to repeat how he found the doors. It was the first time he ever had found the inside doors on the stairs locked, he said. He went on upstairs to a little desk in the hall where he was accustomed to stop and call to Mr. Frank, "All right" as he took charge. On this occasion he put some bananas that he had down on the table, and as usual he called to Mr. Frank. Almost immediately Mr. Frank "came bustin' out" of the office, rubbing his hands.

"'Newt,' he says to me,'" testified the negro, 'I'm sorry you've come so soon. You could have been home asleep.' I said, 'Yes, sir, Mr. Frank, I sure do need some sleep.' Mr. Frank says to me, 'Go out in town, Newt, and have a good time.' I said, 'I'd rather sleep, Mr. Frank.' And he said, 'No, go out and have a good time.'"

The negro said that was the first time Mr. Frank ever had told him to go out and have a good time. There was a place in the factory, said he, where he could have slept. The negro said that Mr. Frank insisted that he needed to have a good time, however. Mr. Frank told him to stay about an hour and a half, and to come back not later than 6 o'clock; that he himself would be in the factory until then.

"I offered him some bananas," said the negro, "but he wouldn't take any. Then I went on out."

The solicitor wanted to know from the witness if Mr. Frank appeared to be nervous.

The negro answered that he did not "look at Mr. Frank's face," but Mr. Frank was rubbing his hands. He stayed out until about four minutes to 6 o'clock, said the negro, and returning found the doors unlocked just like he left them.

"As I reached the desk upstairs, I called out, 'All right, Mr. Frank.' He came out of the office and asked me what time it was. I told him it was a few minutes to 6 o'clock. It took him about twice as long as usual to fix the slip. He fumbled with it and said something about not being used to putting them in."

MEETING WITH GANTT.

Solicitor Dorsey again asked if Frank appeared to be nervous. The negro replied that he had never noticed to see if he was nervous Lee said he did not know how to put the time slips in the clock, for he never had put one in.

Solicitor Dorsey asked the negro if Frank had mentioned Gantt to him. The negro said he saw Mr. Gantt at a little after 6 o'clock at the front door of the factory. After Mr. Frank fixed the slip, Frank went into the office to get his coat and the negro, he said, punched the clock and went on down to the front door. When he opened the door, said the negro, he noticed Mr. Gantt coming across the street from a beer saloon. Gantt told him he wanted to get inside to get a pair of shoes. He told Gantt that Mr. Frank was upstairs, that he would ask him about it. Gantt replied, "No, I'll wait till Monday." About that time Mr. Frank came out of the front door, said the negro, and when he saw Gantt he jumped back like he was frightened.

The negro got up from the witness chair and illustrated how Frank jumped back. Then Gantt spoke to Mr. Frank, saying, "How do you do, Mr. Frank?" and Mr. Frank returned the salutation. Gantt asked Frank's permission to go upstairs after the old shoes. "I don't know about that," the negro said Frank replied. "I think I saw the boy sweep them up in the trash the other day." Gantt asked what sort of shoes he saw, and Frank said, "Oh, tan;" then Gantt said, "I had a pair of black ones, too. Can I go up and get them?"

For a moment, said the witness, Frank did not answer. He dropped his head and seemed to be thinking. Then he looked up and said, "Yes," and turned to the negro.

"He says 'You go with him, Newt, stay with him and help him find the shoes. We found them, both pairs, the tan and black ones. In the shopping room where Mr. Gantt said they were."

FRANK PHONES HIM.

"No, sir," replied the negro. The negro said Frank went on up Forsyth street toward the viaduct when he and Gantt went on into the factory. He didn't know where Frank went, and he didn't see him any more that night. Frank telephoned to him just a little before 7 o'clock, and just after he, the negro, had made his round of the building. On this round, the negro stated, he had gone into the basement.

LIGHT VERY DIM.

The negro was questioned about the lights. There was a light on the street floor which he usually lit when he went on duty Saturday afternoons at 5 o'clock. On regular working days when he reported for work at 6 o'clock, said he, it was always lit. That afternoon when he came in at 6 o'clock, the second time, it was burning. The solicitor asked him about the light in the basement. It was a rule, said the negro, that this light in the basement should be kept burning all the time. When he left there early Saturday morning it was burning brightly, said he. When he went down there the first time Saturday evening the light was burning dimly, said he. The solicitor asked the negro to explain the distinction he drew.

"You've seen a lightning bug flying around and then knocked down to the ground, ain't you?" asked the negro. The solicitor admitted that he had. "That's the difference," said the negro. He further said there were two little chains on the light. By pulling one, the light was turned on full blast. By pulling the other, it would become very dim and finally go out. The light was just as low as it possibly could be, said the negro.

Lee said he made his rounds regularly every thirty minutes. He said that never during his connection with the factory had he failed to punch the clock every thirty minutes except when the pump or the engine had gone wrong.

"Were the street doors open or closed when you came at 4 o'clock?"

"They were closed, said the negro.

"Up to 3 o'clock Monday morning, did anything go wrong?"

HE FINDS THE BODY.

No, said the negro, everything was all right until then. At 3 o'clock, he said, he went down into the basement. As he left, he said, "I looked around and saw something over by the bend. I thought, it being a holiday, some of those boys had put something there to scare us. I went over a little farther and looked, and then I left."

"Tell us all about it," said the solicitor. How did you get up the ladder? Tell us everything."

"I don't know, boss. The next thing I remember I was calling the police over the telephone. I told them what I'd found. After I got the police, I tried to call Mr. Frank, but I couldn't get him, and I kept on calling until the officers came. I gues it was about eight minutes."

"When did you next see Mr. Frank?" asked the solicitor.

"It was that Sunday morning, after I'd yeen locked up and then brought back to the factory. I was sitting in the office when Mr. Frank and Mr. Darley came in. Mr. Frank looked at me and dropped his head and didn't say anything. Mr. Darley said, 'Good morning, Newt. I don't believe you did it, but you must know something about it.'"

The solicitor asked the negro about the time clock and the tape. The negro said he and Mr. Frank and Mr. Darley and Officer Rogers and Newport Lanford, chief of detetcives, were present when the time slip was taken out of the clock. Mr. Frank, said the negro, said that the time slip was all right.

Solicitor Dorsey asked Lee what Mr. Frank meant by the statement. Attorney Rosser objected to the question. The question finally was put in amended shape, and the negro answered that in order to be "all right" the time slip must be punched every thirty minutes from 6 o'clock on.

He explained, on the solicitor's question, that he had put his pencil in the time clock to prevent his punch putting one mark directly on top of another. The pencil had been there for some time, said the negro. Lee said he did not know what had become of the slip.

He explained that he had been locked up since the body of Mary Phagan was found.

TALK WITH FRANK.

"When I went down there with the officers," he said, "one of them put the handcuffs on me and said 'You done this!' Then I stayed a while at the station house, and I've been in jail ever since."

"When did you next see Mr. Frank?" the solicitor asked.

"That morning I rode down to the station house in the same automobile with him, but we didn't speak."

Lee was asked if he had talked with Frank on Tuesday night. He said he didn't know what night it was, but while he was held at police station one of the officers came down to his cell at night and unlocking it said, "Let's let Newt Lee and Mr. Frank have it out."

"They carried me up to another room," said Lee, "and sat me down and handcuffed me to a chair. Then they brought Mr. Frank in. Mr. Frank, he dropped his head. We was all alone.

"It's mighty hard to be handcuffed here for something I don't know nothing about," I said to Mr. Frank. 'What's the difference?' said Mr. Frank. 'They're guarding me, Newt. I believe you know something about it.' 'No, sir, I don't. I had to go back twice where they say it was done, and I didn't see anything.'

"'Well, let's don't talk about it,' said Mr. Frank. 'If you keep that talk up, we'll both go to hell.'"

About this time, Lee said, the officers came back in and got him.

After Solicitor Dorsey closed the direct examination of Newt Lee, Solicitor Dorsey produced a large diagram of the pencil factory. It was framed behind glass, and measured about three feet by four. It appeared to be completed in detail, with a table containing the key to various marks on it. Also three photographs were produced by Solicitor Dorsey of locks and doors which figured in the testimony.

Attorney Rosser conducted the cross-examination of Newt Lee. He referred to a stenographic record of testimony by Lee at the coroner's inquest.

"Did you tell everything you knew at the coroner's inquest?" When Lee replied: "Yes," Mr. Rosser asked him how many times he had repeated the story of the crime up to the time when he took the witness chair at the trial.

Lee said he didn't know. Everybody had been asking him questions since he was arrested, it looked like, he said.

Mr. Rosser asked Lee if he had ever told before about Mr. Frank dropping his head when he came out of the factory on the day of the murder and met Gantt at the door. Lee said that he had told about it.

Mr. Rosser asked him: "Did you tell this to the coroner's jury?" Lee replied, "Yes, sir." Attorney Rosser then asked him about the shoes which Gantt came after. Mr. Rosser asked the negro if he didn't tell the coroner's jury that Frank said he had give nthem away to some one. Lee said "No, sir, I didn't."

He said he had told the coroner's jury that he objected when Mr. Frank told him to return to the factory at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Mr. Rosser produced a transcript of the testimony given by Lee before the coroner's jury. He said he failed to find any of these points in it. "I can't help what you've got there," returned the negro.

Mr. Rosser asked the negro about his habits on previous Saturdays. On the three Saturdays prior to the day of the murder, said the witness, he had reported at noon to get his pay and the keys and then had returned at 5 o'clock. Mr. Rosser asked him why he complained at coming just one hour earlier.

ANYONE COULD ENTER.

The defense then attempted to make the negro admit that anybody could have entered the factory through the front door, if it were unlocked, and roam around at will on the second floor unknown to Frank. The negro admitted that this could happen.

Mr. Rosser also sought to show that anybody could have entered the basement, even if the doors on the stairway leading to the second floor were locked. It would have been possible for anybody to do that, said Lee.

The negro testified that the shutters on the windows on the second, third and fourth floors were nearly all closed. On the second floor, he said, only a few at the front were open. This made it dark, he said. A light burned constantly close to a clock on the first floor, he said.

Mr. Rosser wanted to know how many time clocks there were in the factory. Two, said the negro—one running from 1 to 100 and the other from 101 to 200. Mr. Rosser wanted to know which clock he punched.

"Either," said the negro, "whichever has got the slip on it."

ORDERED TO WATCH GANTT.

Mr. Rosser asked Lee if he didn't know that Mr. Frank didn't want Gantt in the factory. Frank had told him he had discharged Gantt, said the negro, and for him not to let Gantt in the factory. He said 'when you see him hanging around here, watch him.'"

Mr. Rosser asked him ifthat wasn't the reason why Mr. Frank was startled when he found Gantt at the door that evening.

"That's what went through my mind," said the negro. "Mr. Gantt is a big man about seven feet tall."

Lee then related how he had let Gantt out of the factory after he had obtained his shoes. After Gantt left, said he, he put his lantern down behind him and watched Gantt until he went into a beer saloon across the street. Then he went upstairs and punched the clock.

Mr. Rosser wanted to know if he knew where the officers claim Mary Phagan's body was "found,"—probably meaning to ask where she was killed, for the negro answered "back in the machine room."

"Didn't you have to go by that place every half hour when you made your rounds?"

"Yes, sir." He went by there every half hour up to 3 o'clock in the morning, said the negro.

Mr. Rosser questioned him for almost an hour regarding his trips to the basement—as to how frequently he made them, what his instructions were from Mr. Frank about inspecting the basement, and why it was that he just came down to the foot of the ladder on each trip except the one on which he discovered the body.

LEE'S INSTRUCTIONS.

Lee stated that while Frank had instructed him to go over the building every half hour, he had told him to go down to the basement "every now and then," to see if there was any fire down there and to see if the back door was closed. He testified taht Frank had told him to stay away from the dust bin in the rear with his lantern, as it was dangerous and might catch fire.

Mr. Rosser wanted to know if Mr. Frank had given him any special instructions that night about making his rounds and going to the basement, and the negro replied in the negative. He admitted that if he had gone back to the rear door of the basement to see if it was locked, he would have had to pass the body. He insisted that if the door had been open, even slightly, he could have noticed it from the front part of the basement.

He said there was a big electric light burning outside the factory at the back, and that if the door had been open he could have seen it at once. He did not notice it open at all that night, not even when he found the girl's body.

Mr. Rosser iterrupted the witness at this point to know how soon the police arrived at the factory after he called them. Lee didn't know, but he thought it was about ten minutes. He was still at the phone trying to get Mr. Frank's phone to answer, when the police got there.

Mr. Rosser asked Lee if he went any closer to the back door than the point at which he found the body of Mary Phagan. The negro said no, and admitted that body was about sixty feet from the rear door. He insisted, however, that the door was closed, but would not say whether it was fastened.

Lee stated that he made his first trip to the basement on Saturday night about 7 o'clock, and that he made several other trips there, but that he didn't go any further back than the light which burns at the elevator, until the trip when he found the body. He had been told to use that particular toilet, said the negro.

Lee said that he did not see Mary Phagan's hat, shoes or umbrella as he went to the toilet. His lanterns was rather dim and dirty, he said.

Frank's Undistured Face Wonder of the Court Room

His Brow Does Not Wrinkle, His Eyes Do Not Quail or Even Flicker—He Is Cool and Quiet

Leo M. Frank's expression of quiet confidence has surprised every visitor to the court room where he is being tried for murder.

He sits for the most part with his hands crossed, paying attention only to the testimony or to the argument of attorneys.

Not since the trial began has he seemed the least perturbed. His manner has been quiet and contained, like that of one who is sure of himself and sure of his cause.

Yet he has not seemed indifferent. He has been attentive at all times, but his attention has been marked by as little excitement or distrdes as that of any spectator.

"Nerves" play no part in his attitude. He seldom changes his position, his expression is always cool and calm, his gaze is steady and attentive.

Every visitor to the court room has felt surprise at Frank's confident manner. The thought occurring to each is that he seems very different from a man on trial for his life.

His imprisonment has made him the least bit pale, but otherwise it seems to have had little effect. Evidently he endured his confinement with the same quietness, the same confidence which now makes his manner so surprising in the court room.

As he sits not far from the witness stand and directly in front of the jury, he seems the smallest man in the long wide room. The jurymen in the box elevated above the floor, almost tower above him. He can just see the judge, and he must raise his head to look at the witnesses as they testify.

He is almost boyish in appearance. But his manner has a firmness and a determination which is very unlike that of a boy. He sat back with his wife and his mother. The three speak, but not very often. Like casual spectators, they attend to what the witness is saying, or to the question that the lawyer is putting.

Occasionally Frank looks at the jury and seems to scan their faces as though in an effort to discover what they are thinking. Then, and at all other times, his most distinctive feature are his eyes.

The impression which he leaves is that of a quiet, confident little man, with rather large eyes, partly hidden by spectacles.

AGRICULTURISTS WILL MEET IN CUTHBERT, GA.

Many Prominent Georgians Will Be on List of Speakers August 13 and 14

The annual convention of the Georgia State Agricultural society celebrating the sixty-seventh anniversary, will be held in Cuthbert on August 13 and 14. Many of the leading men of the state will be speakers during the sessions and the city has prepared for a large number of visitors.

Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia, will deliver an address on "The Negro;" and among other speakers will be J. Pope Brown, of Pulaski; W. L. Casey, of Alabama; Dr. Wightman F. Melton, of Emory College; Miss Mary E. Creswell, of the Girls' Canning clubs; George M. Napier, of DeKalb; and S. Guyt McLendon, of Fulton.

Mother's Sorrow and Newsie's Wit Play on Emotions at Frank Trial

Each of First Three Witnesses in Case Shows Distinct Personality and Entirely Different Side of Human Nature. Some Character Studies

Three of the witnesses who testified Monday afternoon at the Frank trial were more distinct as personalities than the characters you could see portrayed in any theater, except that very tragic one of a criminal court room.

Such testimony and such individuality as that of these witnesses, has kept the court room crowded by at least 200 people during every minute of the Frank trial—crowded with well dressed men who lean forward in their seats, intent on every detail of the trial, every question that the attorneys ask, every answer that the witnesses give.

They are first attracted to the court room by different reasons for curiosity; but they remain because of their common interest in "character," in having a glimpse of distinct personalities, in seeing the stubbornness with which Newt Lee adheres to his testimony while lawyers try to confound him.

SORROW OF MOTHER.

Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan, was first of the three witnesses who testified Monday afternoon. She spoke in a low voice, telling of how her daughter had left home on the day of the murder, and she seemed to have finished her testimony, when a court officer drew forth a suitcase which had been hidden behind several chairs.

Before the mother, he undid the satchel, and took up in his hands the dress and the shoes that Mary Phagan had worn when her mother last saw her. The officer first laid the dress upon the witness stand, almost under the mother's feet and placed the shoes beside it. Everyone had leaned forward when the satchel had been brought from behind the chairs; everyone, the lawyers, the audience, the jury, waited as the torn clothing and shoes were placed by the mother for her identification.

After the most hurried glance at the clothing almost touching the hem of her dress, she covered her eyes with a fan and began to sob. The solicitor general asked her no further questions, and, after a moment she left the stand and the audience leaned back. This was how the mother, without speaking, identified the clothing of her murdered daughter.

IMPUDENCE OF YOUTH.

A witness next testified who was like Samuel Weller in the freshness of youth. He was George Epps, a bare-footed, tow-headed newsboy, whose impudence made the audience turn from seriousness to chuckles, and caused many to lean forward and rub his knees with the palms of his hands.

"It was seven minutes after 12 o'clock when Mary and me got off the car that Saturday morning," he said.

"Have you a watch?" asked Attorney Luther Rosser.

"Nope."

"How'd you know?"

"Tell by the sun."

"Tell to the minute, eh?"

"Sure. Tell now, if the sun was shinin' in here."

"Couldn't have been mistaken, could you?" suggested Mr. Rosser.

"Well, I guess not."

UNWAVERING TESTIMONY.

The last witness to testify in the afternoon was Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, who discovered Mary Phagan's body. He speaks with the tongue of a negro but with a wit, and a doggedness that was invincible to all cross-examinations by Attorneys.

This untaught negro remained upon the witness stand for an hour or more Monday afternoon, answering question after question, but never wavering in his story of how he discovered the body of Mary Phagan.

When he was pressed hard about the truthfulness of his story, he sometimes became argumentative and proved his questioners to be wrong.

"You all don't mind if I get up?" he would ask casually of the jury. "I can show you better standin' up."

At times he thought that attorneys were interfering with his story by their questions.

"Now, Newt," asked Solicitor Dorsey, "what did he say?"

"Well, if you'll just wait a minute," answered Newt. "I'll tell you."

Later on, when Solicitor Dorsey had summed up the answers that Newt had given in discussing one incident, and drew his conclusion from them, Newt sighed and leaned back.

"Yes, sir," he said, with humor which he may or may not have meant, "now you got it right."

At another time he was trying to describe to Attorney Rosser the appearance of a light in the cellar at the pencil factory.

"Wait a minute, boss," he said. "Have you ever seen a lightning bug? Have you ever knocked it down with your hat when you tried to catch it? You know how it looks then. That's the way it was."

He Will Be Freed, Says Mrs. Frank of Husband; Few Women Hear Trial

Mrs. Leo M. Frank says of the trial of her husband:

"I'm sure that he will be acquitted. I look for nothing less than an acquittal. I know that he is innocent, and I believe that the jury also will be convinced."

"I would rather not talk about it," says Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan. "I don't want to express an opinion."

"I'm like my mother in not wanting to talk about the trial," says Miss Ollie Phagan, sister of Mary Phagan. "The trial is almost more than my mother can bear. She was the youngest of us —Mary. I mean—she was the life of our home. Now everything is different."

Few women, except those interested by relationship with parties to the case, have attended the trial. The number of men in the court room is always about 200. The number of women has never been more than seven. And the few who came out of curiosity lingered but a short while.

No one is admitted to the court room unless there is room for him to be seated. By this restriction, overcrowding has been prevented.

Frank Trial Will Last One Week And Probably Two, Attorneys Say

Indications Are That Trial Will Be Longest Over Which Judge Roan Has Presided. To Hold Two Sessions Daily

Attorneys both for the defense and for the prosecution of Leo M. Frank believe that his trial will last at least one week, perhaps, two weeks.

If the trial continues through more than one week it will be the longest over which Judge L. S. Roan has ever presided.

But, while he will expedite the trial as fast as possible, he intends to give attorneys all the time needed for the introduction of testimony and for argument.

He will hasten the proceedings chiefly by holding afternoon as well as morning sessions. The exact time at which the court will take recess for luncheon, and will adjourn in the afternoon has not been fixed. But the morning session will begin at 9 o'clock, and recess will be taken about 12:30. Court will reconvene again at 2 and will continue in session until about 5:30.

By this arrangement about seven hours a day will be spent in taking testimony, in argument or in other details of the trial.

In giving their opinion of the length of the trial, attorneys for the defense and for the prosecution said:

Attorney Reuben Arnold—"One week at least."

The longest trial in the experience of Judge L. S. Roan, the presiding judge, was the Mitchell case at Thomasville, which continued one week. But at that hearing, one witness was kept on the stand during a day and a half.

FOUR NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH BY ELECTRICITY

Three Men and Small Boy Shocked at Washington

WASHINGTON, Ga., July 29.—Three men and a small boy narrowly escaped death by electrocution on a prominent business street of this city Monday afternoon, when telephone linemen allowed wires they were stringing to come in contact with a city light wire.

The young son of A. T. Taylor, a merchant, grasped the wire and was instantly knocked down. Two negro men seeing the boy's plight, ran to his rescue and instantly they were rolling in the dust, unable to let loose.

Then Mr. Traylor himself joined in, and managed to hold to the wire until he could wrench loose the hands of his son.

Fortunately the light wire carried only 110 volts, otherwise all four must have been killed.

otherwise than appoint William B. Wilson, now secretary of labor, chairman of the house labor committee, because there was no other candidate before the ways and means committee.

NOT A WORD OF TRUTH.

"That whole statement is a lie out of whole cloth—not a word of truth in it," declared Mr. Underwood. "There never was a question but Wilson's selection as head of that committee, solely because of his capacity and qualifications.

"It is clear to me this man was down here writing these things to his people, trying to make out that he was doing great things. He never had any conference with me.

"The statement in his letter can be disproved by every member of the ways and means committee.

"I am sure I never met this man. He has a face I could not forget.

"There is nothing here that reflects on me," continued Mr. Underwood, "but I want it set right before the country."

COURTED INVESTIGATION.

Martin M. Mulhall told the senate lobby committee that at one time he proposed an investigation of his activities as a lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers' to former Chairman Wilson, of the labor committee; Speaker Clark and Republican Leader Mann and that all turned down his proposal.

Mulhall reiterated he had talked with Underwood briefly in the corridor and had written to his employes "about conditions just as I found them in Washington at that time."

"I have no desire to contradict Mr. Underwood," he said, "but I am convinced that after he has heard my other witnesses and this examination has been ended, he will take back part of what he has said."

"Statements you made in your letter were not true and can be proved not true by other members of the ways and means committee," retorted Underwood.

"Therefore, it is self-evident I did not make them to you.

"I will stand as clean before the country as you will," returned Mulhall.

Chaingangs in Georgia

You Will Write "HOPE" Into Our Laws

---Proverbs 30:19

What have we done to her?

You said in your laws:

"She can sell herself if she is ten years old."

But she must be twenty-one before she can trade a cow or hog.

Thousands to make hog cholera serum—

Georgia has no place for them.

For want of it, seventy-five known to us—they are only children—they are being lost today.

Only God knows how many more!

Forty-four other states have reformatories for such as these.

The Prison Commission approves it.

The Penitentiary Committee has unanimously recommended that it pass.

The Committee on Appropriations referred it to a subcommittee of Judge W. H. Griffin, chairman; S. E. Berry, C. F. Holberg, A. B. Greene and J. L. Lane.

They have recommended that thirty thousand dollars be appropriated and the bill be made the law.

Father, grant that this be done.

No man in Georgia values a cow or hog more than he does a girl.

We had not seen the bitter need.

You can and will provide for these.

"Judge righteously and plead the cause of the poor."

---Proverbs 31:9

You arrested him for this.

He did not have the money to pay his fine.

For this lack of funds we clothed him in stripes and put him in our chaingang for eight months.

If our laws had provided for probation, our Judge could have released the boy on good behavior.

He could have given the boy a chance.

By writing Probation into our laws you would not compel—

But you would give your Judge the right to save a boy or girl.

A bill, introduced by Senator Tarver and Representatives Myrick and Gower, making this the law, is pending in the Legislature.

Judges and the Prison Commission—

And the Judiciary Committees of both Houses have approved it.

You will.

"For we are saved by hope."

---Romans 8:24

If the Indeterminate Sentence were the law in Georgia, a Judge, in sentencing a man, would say:

"Not less than ——, not more than —— years."

Within the limits named, the man's stay in the penitentiary would depend upon himself.

Hope of liberty, instead of fear of the lash, would make him obey.

He would win release by showing himself fit to be free.

His incentive for not committing crime again would be this: caught a second time, he might be sentenced as an habitual criminal for the greatest number of years prescribed for that particular crime.

In Illinois, in the twelve years before the indeterminate sentence became the law, one Judge sentenced either three or four different times the same one hundred criminals.

In the twelve years since it was made the law only four have had to be resentenced by him.

Commitments to the penitentiary have been forty per cent less, despite the great increase in population, in that state in the ten years since the indeterminate sentence became part of its law.

Twenty-two states have adopted it.

The Prison Commission and the Penitentiary Committees of the House and Senate approve the bill of Senator Foster and Representative Loyd that will make it the law of Georgia.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT

TAX EQUALIZING FIGHT IS STARTED IN HOUSE

Ways and Means Committee Divided on Creation of State Board

What promises to be the hottest fight staged so far on the floor of the house, or that will be waged during this session of the general assembly, began at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, when the tax equalization bill of Representative Frank A. Lipscomb, of Clarke, came up for passage.

The measure, comprising twenty-two sections, came to the house with a favorable recommendation from the ways and means committee, although nine members of the committee submitted a minority report protesting against the creation of a state board of equalizers.

REDUCE SECRETARY'S PAY.

There was smooth sailing for the bill as it was read by sections until No. 12 was reached. It was here that the first real opposition manifested itself. The bill provided in this section for a secretary to the state board of equalizers at an annual compensation of $2,000. The majority thought it too much for the service involved and accordingly amended it to read $1,500. Another storm of protest arose at that portion of the bill making the comptroller general a member of the board with the power to vote. It was finally amended so as to make him an ex-officio member of the board with no vote, but a voice in the proceedings.

Other sections of the measure up to No. 16 were quickly disposed of. Here the real fight came and it was at this juncture, with the fight at its height, that the hour of adjournment was reached.

HOW SECTION READS.

This section, relative to the power of the state board over the county boards, is as follows:

"Sec. 16. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the state board shall have a supervisory relation over the county boards, and it shall be the duty of the comptroller general to lay before said state board the tax digests from the several counties of this state as said board may desire at any time in the performance of its duties and it shall be the duty of said state board to compare the tax digests of the different counties in the state for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is a uniform valuation of the property of the state for the purpose of taxation, and to ascertain whether the valuations shown in said digests are reasonably uniform as compared with the actual market value of the property of said county for the year in which said returns are made. Said board shall have authority, after making a full and careful comparison of the valuations of the several counties, to add to the tax valuations of any class of property of any county or deduct therefrom such a per centum thereof as may appear to be just and right between the counties, such additions or deductions by said board to apply uniformly to all property returned in the digest under consideration. The county board shall be informed as to the deductions or additions provided by the state board and shall follow the same as far as is practicable in their respective counties.

As was the case in the committee room, the question of the state board and the county board, against the county boards alone, brought on the clash of the majority leaders. As a matter of fact practically the only objection to the bill lies in the effort to strike out the state board and leave the matter of taxation entirely in the hands of the county boards. From the time that this section was read until adjournment, the house was in an uproar and the majority members of the committee were kept busy answering the rapid fire of questions that were shot at them.

With the argument at its height the house adjourned until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Representatives Sheppard, of Sumter and Stovall, of Elbert, leaders of the fight against the creation of the state board of equalizers, are confident of getting in the Sheppard substitute, which carries only the county board feature, while on the other hand Representatives Akin, of Glynn, Swift, of Muscogee, and Wheatley, of Sumter, already claim a majority in the house for the bill as it stands and are confidently predicting its passage.

Woman Faints in Theater and Later Dies at Hospital

Mrs. W. T. Walton, of 38 English avenue, was taken sick in the Alcazar theater on Peachtree street Tuesday afternoon. She fainted and was rushed in an ambulance to the Grady hospital, where she died a few minutes later, despite the physicians' attentions.

Mrs. Walton together with her sister, Miss Ruby Orr, and a friend, Mr. I. H. Echols, dropped in the theater to watch a few pictures. Mrs. Walton had been enjoying good health and her death was very sudden and unexpected.

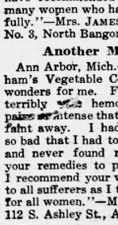

WOULD RATHER PAY FINE THAN TELL WOMAN'S NAME

Dr. Frank Bird was fined $25 and costs by Recorder Broyles Tuesday morning. Dr. Bird's car struck C. H. Phillips of Red Oak, Ga., while he was riding a bicycle near Lee street and Murphy avenue Monday afternoon. Dr. Bird told the recorder that a woman was driving his car at the time of the accident but he refused to give her name, saying that he would rather pay the fine.

WOMAN'S ILLS DISAPPEARED

Like Magic after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

North Bangor, N. Y. — "As I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with great benefit I feel it my duty to write and tell you about it. I was ailing from female weakness and had headache and backache nearly all the time. I was later every month than I should have been and so sick that I had to go to bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and these troubles have disappeared like magic. I have recommended the Compound to many women who have used it successfully."—Mrs. JAMES J. STACY, R.F.D. No. 3, North Bangor, N. Y.

Another Made Well.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me. For years I suffered terribly from hemorrhages and had pains so intense that sometimes I would faint away. I had female weakness so bad that I had to doctor all the time and never found relief until I took your remedies to please my husband. I recommend your wonderful medicine to all sufferers as I think it is a blessing for all women."—Mrs. L. E. WYCKOFF, 112 S. Ashley St., Ann Arbor, Mich.

There need be no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to remedy woman's diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical. Why don't you try it?

Everybody's a "Reporter," Now, Else an "Old Time Friend," Says Guardian of Court House Door

"They Been 15 Reporters Here in the Last Five Minutes," He Says, "and What's Not Reporters Is Boyhood Friends I Don't Remember"

"You are?" said the man who guards the foot of the steps. "Well, son, they been fifteen reporters here in the last five minutes. They represented everything from 'Nova Scotia Times" to the "Saskatchewan Gazette." Who do you report for?"

And it took a letter of identification from the whole press table to gain admittance to the frank trial for this unoffending and rather retiring reporter who merely wished to glance over the court room and fill his brain with "genre" impressions, as one might say, local color, features, pathos, smiles, and a few trifles.

"Why," said the guardian of the steps, "folks will be anything to get in here. Look at them fifteen that came right out and said they was reporters. They was some anxious, wasn't they?

"And everybody is my friend. Honest, I never was thought of so much in my life. People I can't remember at all come up and say how we used to be boys together, and how they've had an undying affection for me ever since.

"You know," they begin, "there isn't anything I wouldn't do for you. Have a cigarette. No? Cigar. No? Well, old man, if there's ever anything you want, take it from me, I'm the guy for you to come to. Say, how about a little peep inside. Just a glimpse, you know?

"I didn't know how popular I was. Here I've been holdin' down a job, and if I'd only known it I might be president, or something of that sort. A man as popular as I am could be anything."

This guardian of the steps is the first sentry to be passed in reaching the court room where Frank is being tried. The second stands within the door of the room. Their instructions are to let no one pass after the room has been filled to its seating capacity—not even those old boyhood friends whom they can't remember ever to have seen before.

Spectators at Frank Trial Make an Absorbing Study

They Come From Every Station in Life—From the Ragged Newsboy to the Business Man With the Diamond Scarf Pin and the Georgia Lawmaker

The personnel of the spectators at the average murder trial is one of the most interesting phases of it, and the trial of Leo Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan is no exception to the general rule.

One glance about the court room as the case proceeded Monday afternoon showed an ever-changing kaleidoscope of ever changing faces, holding a single characteristic common to all, a look of intense interest that kept every face turned continually in the direction of the prisoner and the opposing attorneys.

EVERY CLASS THERE.

And the class of spectators. They were of every walk and station of life, from a ragged newsboy who hudded against the window to members of the state legislature and leading business men of Atlanta.

There are the leading officials of the city and county—Sheriff Wheeler Mangum, Chief of Police James L. Beavers in citizens' clothes, Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford, next to him a city alderman, two seats away a member of the senate, here a prominent Atlanta attorney who has no direct interest in the case, and the groups of lawyers gathered inside the railed inclosure.

THE VARIOUS FACES.

Glance over the upturned faces. You see a man straining forward with both hands to his ears, so as not to miss a single word that falls from the lips of attorney or witnesses. He is an old man perhaps, his saffron face lined and wrinkled, his hair snow-white. And next to him is a young fellow that cannot be over twenty years of age. Thin cheeks splashed with the hectic flush, nervous hands resting on the cane, proclaim his cross. Perhaps he has one more month to live, yet he comes here to this court room to spend his last days in greedily lapping up the sordid details of a sensational murder trial.

ALSO THE SOLONS.

Who are those distinguished looking men on the back row? One is a representative and the other a senator in the state legislature. Talk to them, ask them why they are here. They smile and tell you that they just dropped by on the way from a committee meeting at the capitol.

But why?

They will laugh in an embarrassed manner and say that they wanted to have one look at the accused, to see that little brown-cheeked man almost hidden down there, in front of the attorney and his wife and mother.

That is the reason nearly every one of those people will give you for coming to the trial. "They just came to see Frank." Some of them enjoy a murder trial, they like to see the battle of the attorneys, the twisting of testimony. It is a detective story of absorbing interest to them.

THE IDLY CURIOUS.

But the majority are there out of mere idle curiosity. They are anxious to hear every word of the proceedings. They will climb up on the back of the seats and hover there until ordered by the deputies to sit down. They laugh when the others laugh—that the lawyer for the prosecution made a point, they do not know, but they softly tap the backs of the benches in glee because someone is getting ahead.

If you look long at the crowd you are puzzled over one thing, the lack of women. They say that there were but seven women who came all day Monday to the trial as mere spectators. True Frank's wife and Frank's mother are sitting beside him, there is the sister of Mary Phagan standing with a friend over by the window, but the spectacle of fluttering gowns and beautiful excited faces that characterized the Grace trial is conspicuously absent.

Outside are so many people in the side. The sheds that border the lot where the new court house is in process of construction are swarming with men and boys. They cannot see much, only the backs of those spectators nearest the windows, but hour after hour they will cling to the top of the low roof and stare at the red bricks opposite.

DALTON POLICE FEAR MOB WHEN POOLE IS CAUGHT

Coroner's Verdict Charges Murder—Case Goes to Grand Jury at Once

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., July 29.—Fearing that a mob would form to take their prisoner from them, local officers decided, upon receipt of a telegram from Police Chief Hill, of Chattanooga, notifying them of the capture of Clem Poole, to wait until today to bring him back to Dalton.

The grand jury, summoned by Judge Fite Monday, will convene today. While the jury was called for the purpose of investigating the killing of Will Parrish by Dan Hatfield in north Dalton, the death of Policeman Cook, killed by Clem Poole, will also be a part of their investigations. The coroner's verdict charged Poole with murder.

That the officers have acted wisely in refusing to bring Poole back here Monday night is the consensus of opinion, for throughout Monday posses scoured the surrounding section, and doubt was expressed of his being brought safely back to Dalton in the event of his apprehension.

It is said that Poole's action in shooting at his wife, which caused Policeman Cook to go to arrest him, grew out of anger at his wife joining the church, being baptized Sunday afternoon.

From the evidence introduced at the coroner's inquest, it is thought that little time will be consumed in the grand jury's investigation, and if the indictment is returned, the trial will come before superior court toward the last of this week, less than one week from the actual commission of the crime.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, July 29.—General Abraham Perdomo, well known throughout Central America as a military leader was shot dead today in the principal square of this city, the Parque Duenas, by a journalist named Arturo Gomez.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood one body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

Hundreds of New Suits Have Arrived, That the Women of Atlanta May See and Know the Fashions for Fall.

The woman whose vacation will take her to the cool mountains or northern resorts, will find in these new fall models the weight and style of suit that will serve her best. They are not too heavy and yet they are, in line in material, in trimmings, the style that will be best for fall.

There are literally hundreds of new suits now lined up in the big crystal cases, bringing their message of new styles, new fabrics, new colors, new fashion-turns.

We emphasize the quantity merely to impress that the announcement is based upon the fact that the display is worthy of the attention of every woman who would off with the old and on with the new.

The suits are ready!

And they are novel and interesting.

Novel and interesting from many viewpoints. There are draped cutaway coats, there are cutaway coats that button close up to the neck, and there are others that have the semblance of a blouse---all different from styles we have known. And coats are to be longer this fall; they measure 38 to 42 inches.

Many of the skirts are slashed, many are draped in one way and another.

Materials show the new scheme of things. Soft finished fabrics are prominent, velour cloths self-striped, crepons, ratine striped fabrics and bayadere poplins, trimmings often take a contrasting shade and again the use of embroidered velvet is pronounced on collars, cuffs and skirts.

What are the colors?

See with your own eyes! Naming the mahogany, cinnamon prune, amethyst, Copenhagen and navy shades is but poor apology for their richness and beauty.

This is a worthy display of the new suit fashions, one that a woman may approach with the confidence that the suit she selects will be an authentic style.

Crowded Out.

The City Board of Education faces the very difficult, if not hopeless, task of providing room for all the girls who wish to enter the English-Commercial High school in September. It now seems that unless a miracle can be wrought one hundred or more applicants must be turned away. Approximately three hundred students are already enrolled for the autumn term, and scores of others are waiting anxiously to hear whether they shall be granted or denied the education which it is the city's duty to give them.

The trouble, as every one knows, arises from the fact that the present quarters of the school are inadequate both in respect to space and equipment. The school building consists of two houses constructed many years ago as dwellings for families of the average size. They are of wood; they are without modern conveniences; they are without the safeguards which every public institution should have; they are no more suited for a school than a nutshell would be for a kingdom. Yet, so efficient and inspiring has been the school's administration on the educational side that it has grown by leaps and bounds and has rendered service that is truly magnificent.

Is it not a shame that such an institution should be denied the bare necessities of its material existence? There is even less excuse for the present situation in view of the fact that this condition of affairs is in no wise new, but has been developing for several years past. Time and again Council has been reminded that the English-Commercial High school had outgrown its quarters, and has been urged to appropriate funds for a new building. But because of one circumstance, no relief has been granted. The city owns a suitable site for such a building, but not a penny for the building itself has been provided.

It would be fruitless to go into the whys and wherefores of this lamentable situation, and fruitless to try to fix the responsibility. The fact is, under our present manner of government, nobody can be held responsible for anything that happens. All that Council can do, all that the public can do, is to admit that this good city, despite all its wealth, its native vigor and its prestige, is caught in a dilemma that even a Muggleton or a Dingley Dell could have escaped under a businesslike plan of government.

The Longevity of Animals.

A charming front-porch philosopher recently advanced the distinctive theory that the biggest creatures are the longest lived and, by way of proof, witnessed on the one hand the elephant, which attains two hundred years, and, on the other, the garden moth, which is born and aged and lightly sepulchered all in a summer's afternoon. Other front-porch philosophers hastened to challenge this suggestion with examples of frogs that have been found imbedded, but blinking, in strata which geologists declared could be not less than a hundred thousand years old; and there were also learned citations of wizened cats that would outlive generations of corpulent, greasy cooks.

Now comes a savant in the Farm and Home Magazine who contends that the relationships between size and longevity are singularly variable. Two such opposites as the crocodile and the carp, we are told, each live three hundred years. The rhinoceros is lucky to reach sixty, but many a goose celebrates her fiftieth birthday. A bull is considered venerable at thirty, yet a lobster will sometimes live to be twenty. Among birds, it seems, the falcon leads with an age limit of one hundred and fifty years; the parrot and the eagle have each an expectancy of a hundred years. The lion's span is sixty, the camel's thirty, the horse's twenty-five, the ass' thirty, that of the peacock from twenty-three to twenty-five, the lion, bear, cow, pigeon, dog, deer and wolf about twenty. A rabbit lives eight years; a cricket ten.

It remains for some other scientist to discover the secret of these strangely varying ages. We can easily understand why most pullets die young and also why there are so many Methusalehs among the frogs of the earth's hidden caverns, but why, prithee, should a goose live longer than an ass?

"Mexican gunboat blown up." Too bad to lose the navy so suddenly.

Sylvia Pankhurst is arrested again, and yet we had been told that the suffragettes were quiet in London.

Chauncey Depew thinks President Wilson has too much power, but then Chauncey ought to be so far out of the race that it shouldn't concern him one way or the other.

Peachtree Creek.

A little well-planned work would transform Peachtree creek from its unsightly and unwholesome condition into a stream of beauty and service. The bed of the creek is now clogged with fallen trees and rubbish, so that after a slight rainfall it overflows its banks, leaving pools that soon grow stagnant and breed swarms of mosquitoes. The creek is also used as a dumping trough for the refuse of manufacturing plants, with the result that it frequently gives off offensive odors as it flows near residence districts. These two evils can easily be remedied, the one by dredging the creek's channel and the other simply by enforcing existing statutes. This is a matter that merits the prompt attention of the Fulton County commissioners, for it concerns the vital interests of thousands of citizens and the welfare of the entire community.

It is important, as Captain Clayton, chief of the city's construction department, has pointed out, that this work be undertaken with the least possible delay. Overflows such as now often occur will hinder the efficient operation of the city's new Peachtree sewage disposal plant. The bed of the creek should be cleared before that plant is ready for use. Furthermore, since much of this work will have to be done in the water, it should be carried forward during the summer months. The part of the creek requiring attention is that between Peachtree bridge and a point just below Howell Mill road, a distance of only about two and a half miles. A force of county laborers could perform this task in comparatively a short time and with little expense, while the benefit to the public would be beyond reckoning.

Peachtree creek is naturally a beautiful stream, just such a stream, indeed, as Burns' "bonnie Doon," or Wordsworth's "sylvan Wye," that "wanderer through the woods." It needs only to be cleansed and relieved of its encumbrances to become an element of value and charm instead of an eyesore and a menace to health.

No Recognition for Huerta.

Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, summoned to Washington for a conference on conditions in Mexico, has failed to convince the President that the United States should exert its influence to strengthen and sustain the Huerta regime. Ambassador Wilson, viewing the situation from a "purely practical standpoint" and with an eye to the immediate future, thinks our Government would do well to overlook the crooked steps by which Huerta rose to his precarious power and drive the best political bargain we can with him and his supporters.

The President, on the contrary, perceives a distinctly moral element in the situation, an element which the United States may not ignore and remain consistent with its own standards of rightful government and its policy toward Latin-America. The fact that Huerta became provisional president through the betrayal of Madero, who had been chosen president by constitutional means, and that his dishonestly won position was fortified by the murder of innocent officials cannot be winked at. Should our nation establish a precedent of recognizing governments thus set up, it would forfeit the confidence of its neighboring republics.

Besides this, it is evident that the Huerta regime has no moral and little physical support among the rank and file of the Mexican people. Its military influence extends but a little way beyond the environs of the capital. It has made no headway in suppressing the revolutionists. The recognition of the United States would not suffice to establish a government which even now is tottering to its fall.

The wisest course the United States can pursue is to remain unentangled with the existing factions in Mexico.

Dispatches indicate that a movement looking to the peaceful retirement of Huerta is now hopefully under way. Prominent Mexicans are said to be interested in the plan and to have informed Secretary Bryan "that if the United States will refrain from any decisive action, at least for the present, they will be able to bring about an understanding between the warring forces and reach a quiet solution of the political differences." Provisional President Huerta, it is thought, may be induced to resign in favor of a successor acceptable to all factions. That accomplished, an election will be held as soon as practicable, and a new president chosen by constitutional means. A government established in this manner would merit and would undoubtedly receive the recognition of the United States.

American Sulphur Interests

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Sulphur has been added to the long list of things in which America leads the world in production. Last year, for the first time, the United States exported more sulphur than it imported.

The trade balance in favor of this country amounted to a value of $492,840, but its greater importance was that it placed the United States in the lead among the sulphur producing countries of the world. Instead of depending upon Sicily and other foreign countries for the supply of sulphur needed in the great industries of this nation, the country is not only able to provide for its own needs but soon will be able to materially add to the sulphur supply of the world. The great bulk of American sulphur is now produced from the mines in Louisiana where it is secured by a process the results of which are as marvelous as a fairy tale. This process was discovered by Herman Frasch, the president of the company operating the mine. Mr. Frasch has recently been presented with the Perkin medal by the Associated Chemical and Electrochemical societies of America for the distinguished service he has rendered to the world by this discovery.

The great mine is located near the town of Sulphur in Calcasieu parish. The sulphur deposit was discovered nearly half a century ago while borings were being made for oil. As it was covered with quicksands the sulphur was not available for use until the Frasch process made the mining of it possible. This process consists of melting the sulphur by the introduction of heat. Wells are sunk through the quicksands and superheated water introduced. The sulphur is melted and pumped out in liquid form and run out into great bins about 150 by 250 feet in size. These bins are first formed by driving stakes into the ground at the four corners and connecting them with planks. The melted sulphur is run out into the center of the bin and allowed to cool in layers about an inch thick. A separate bin is kept for each well in order that an accurate daily record may be kept of the output.

• • •

As the bed of sulphur in the bin grows in thickness, by additional layers being poured in, the sides of the bins are raised by additional planks until they sometimes reach a height of sixty feet. When one bin is filled another is built alongside of it so that continuous blocks of sulphur may be formed several hundred feet in length, 150 feet in width and 50 or 60 feet in height. Blocks of sulphur have thus been formed which contain as much as 150,000 tons.

• • •

The liquid sulphur, as it flows into the bins like a golden stream, is so pure that the company in charge of it is able to guarantee a sulphur content of 99 1-2 per cent, while the average purity is considerably above that figure. For this reason the American sulphur is now recognized as the highest grade ever produced in the world. For the shipmentare of this sulphur a spur of track is run along one side of a sulphur bin. The boards from this side are removed and the sulphur broken by blasts so that it can be loaded on to cars standing upon the track. Shipments from this mine have, within the past two years, frequently averaged 1,000 tons a day for thirty consective days.

• • •

The most elaborate and intricate machinery is required for this high grade mining efficiency. To superheat the water used for melting the sulphur requires the operation of 150 boilers ranging from 150 to 300 horsepower. These boilers are arranged in eight batteries containing from fifteen to twenty boilers each. Each battery is capable of operating a well and usually two are placed in a group so that one foreman can operate both. Three men, two firemen and a water tender, are required upon each shift to care for each battery. In consideration of the enormous quantity of sulphur being produced under this arrangement, the small amount of labor required seems unbelievable.

• • •

The consumption of fuel oil in this great sulphur mining plant amounts to 700 barrels a day for each battery. When all are operating to their full capacity the oil consumption amounts to more than a million barrels annually. The water consumption amounts to 7,000,000 gallons daily. The problem of heating this enormous quantity of water to a sufficiently high temperature was one of the greatest difficulties encountered in the development of the Frasch process and one that required the greatest ingenuity to surmount. It is now arranged, the pipes and superheaters are placed in the rear of each battery. The superheaters are cylindrical receptacles about four feet in diameter and sixteen high, containing a series of shallow trays over which the water pours. It is thus brought into direct contact with the live steam from the great boilers. The total boiler capacity is more than 25,000 horsepower.

To supply the enormous quantity of water required for operating the mining plant a pumping station has been erected on the Houston river about six miles away. This station contains a centrifugal pump having a capacity of 12,000,000 gallons a day. This water is carried to the mine by a private canal. To provide against a possible breakdown in the pumping station, as well as to supplement its output, an enormous reservoir covering 150 acres has been built.

It seems rather strange that so enormous an industry as this great sulphur plant can operate and attract so little attention in the community in which it is located. Less is known about it by the people living in the community than about any other industry. In the opinion of many of the residents of the parish, the lumber trade is far more important. One reason is that the sulphur mining is carried on almost secretly. The number of people employed is comparatively small and they are kept, under more or less stringent rules, closely upon the grounds of the sulphur plant. All of the supplies are brought in from New York and the sulphur workers have little occasion to go outside of their own little colony.

• • •

The location of this plant is most romantic, being only a few miles removed from the place where Evangeline died and was buried. When driven from Grand Pre the Arcadians settled in this part of Louisiana and that territory was then under French rule. Many of the descendants of these settlers still live here. A few of them are employed in the sulphur industry, although most of the laborers are imported Italians with a few skilled men as foremen. Jean LaFitte, the famous pirate and smuggler, whose adventures rivalled those of Morgan on the Spanish Main, also had his headquarters in this region, and the hulk of one of LaFitte's old vessels is still visible in Contraband bay, near the town of Sulphur.

WHY SHOULD IT?

O why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Returning to town, one observes to the crowd:
'I'm glad to be back in the city today,'
And somebody punctures with: "Oh, been away?"

"What is laughter? What is its source? Whence flow those rich manifestations of wit, the comic, the joke, the jest, irony, sarcasm, that, like ethereal light, keeps on playing on the surface of human life?" Thus Prof. Boris Sidis, in "The Psychology of Laughter." It is but pudency that inhibits us from telling him the truth. Besides, some of the rich manifestations come from contribs.

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

July 23.—All the morning at my desk, labouring and rejoiced to think of the fine weather that is in town and Mistress Zoe Beckley to call upon me bearing a great beaker of buttermilk, cold and fine. To the court where G. Hunter did beat me and Will Beebe and I did divide 2 setts, but I had not my racquet, which is being repaired. All to the apothecary's where we have a new drink, as counseled by Will's physician, lime-water and lemon, and very good, too. Thence home for dinner and worked all the evening at reading some London papers, dull for the most part, and so to-bed.

24.—The great noise made by the new building of the telegraph company will drive me frenzied, I do fear. Like a wooopecker, a million times multiplied. It goeth all morning till that I can scarce think of aught. Very warm and sultry this day, which causeth me to regret I have spoken so favorably of the weather aforetime. In the evening to Mistress Edith Thompson's to dinner, where I found Al Jennings of Oklahoma, that is now a barrister but erst did plunder trains and hath killed, as the song saith, a-many a man. A mild and gentle man and not given to vaunting his deeds vaingloriously. As Will Beebe hath said to me, I find it to be sooth: that the nature of a man may be told from what he deemeth it worth while to boast of. Read this day "Hagar Revelly," by Daniel Carson Goodman, which I deemed ill-wrote and without any felicity of expression, and not a very good tayle, neither.

ELDORADO SPRINGS, MO.

People come to Eldorado Springs
They come from far and near,
To drink of this medical water,
That runs so cold and clear.

Trees are growing around the springs,
Where tons of water is drank
Hewn stones lead down to the spring
But the walks are made of plank.

Many maidens fair gather there,
To hear the Eldorado band,
But the boys are up in the stand.

Many an Indian bold drank of the water so cold,
While the deer was hiding shy.
Why not come to Eldorado Springs, why not, Oh, why,
Where the spring never runs dry.

The streets are wide and the streets are long
And the buildings tower high.
Why not come to Eldorado Springs, why not, Oh, why,
And drink of the medical water.

While the springs never run dry,
One thing do not forget,
If you drink of this water you are sure to sweat.
If you are not going to die,

THE HOME

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

Of course a bachelor or a bachelor maid can have a home, and a childless couple can have a home.

But it is a home only in an accommodated and borrowed sense of the word. It is not a home in the full meaning of the term.

To make a complete home you need a complete set of human relations, as per the following list prepared by Nature and indorsed by the best traditions:

Husband and father,
Wife and mother,
Children, including babies and adolescents;
Sisters and brothers,
Grandfather,
Grandmother,
Guests,
And a dash of Neighbors and Friends.

If you lack any one of these items you miss something, the home is not perfect.

If there is one of these relationships you have never known, your life is by so much maimed.

It is the fashion to speak disparagingly of relatives, but they are a part of the environment of Nature, and if you get nothing but annoyance from them something ails you. You might as well curse the sun and stars as hate relatives.

There be hot loves and wayward loves, and they have their place; but blessed is the man, and thrice blessed the woman, that loves the people that ought to be loved.

There are grandmother and grandfather, for instance. The child that has them not has missed one of the sweetest elements that maqs memory happy. They understand children better than parents, for they have learned that so many things that worry parents are not much matter.

And plenty of brothers and sisters. A solitary child in a house is a lame soul. He can never get that round view of the world that comes to the member of a full family.

As for babies, it's only a sort of imitation family where there are none. The nerves best ingredients of our character come from dealing with babies.

And I love a houseful of young folks, courting age. The only wholesome, delightful, and cheering disease in or out of the medicine books is lovesickness. When we grow past its agonizing stages we still ought to see it in others around us.

Most cranks and dried-up folks and pessimists and disagreeable people are victims of small families. They have been deprived of that wholesome flow of the humanities that comes from a full set of relations.

I want to go back to Arthur Dixon's and eat at the table where there are thirteen children and a small army of grandchildren, and all about and everywhere —love.

The High Cost of Intervention

(The Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.)

Cost of intervention in Mexico is something that American statesmen need to consider now. That was a consideration with the Taft administration and it is no less so with the present one. "Intervention means a terrible toll of American lives." That statement which appears in a current news report is followed with another sentence saying that "there is no question of this in the minds of President Wilson and his advisers." Neither was there any question of it in the minds of President Taft and his advisers. The cost in money would be tremendous. As Senator Bacon, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations said one day recently in debate with Senator Fall, of New Mexico, it would be immeasurably cheaper for the United States to pay all the losses of Americans in Mexico than to intervene for protection of their property rights. But the larger and more important consideration is the toll of lives.

It is not merely the loss of lives of an army of intervention that must be taken account of. There are yet in Mexico thousands of Americans whose lives might pay. That prospect more than any other halted American troops on this side of the Rio Grande when the so-called manoeuvre army was assembled in Texas by order of President Taft. There has been a considerable exodus of Americans since then, under urgent advice of our government, but large numbers did not leave, many because unable to do so. The present administration like its predecessor must have regard for them. That it is regardful there is abundant evidence. It is considering what might happen to them in coming the cost of intervention. And it sees that "intervention means a terrible toll of American lives."

Schools of Citizenship

(The Springfield (O.) Daily News.)

Some day we are going to see what a great opportunity we have missed in not utilizing the public school system of the country to make good and honorable men and women.

There has been too much made out of the bugaboo of "religion" in the public schools. We have confounded it with morality—and we have used the word "religion" when we meant sectarianism. Nobody objects to simple religion, except a few atheists, and everybody in his right mind and not degenerate is in favor of morality, even though he may have his own shortcomings.

The teaching of morals is held up as a high pedagogical ideal, but it is usually followed afar off. We are too busy training faith and hand, and now trying to build up good physical conditions as well to give much attention to character. The result is that a vast number of perfectly good boys and girls are being worse than wasted every year, and a lot of excellent citizens of both sexes utterly spoiled in the making because nobody has been responsible for their characters.

It is a long time off, but it is possible to have the schools so organized and manned with conscientious and able teachers that every pupil will have individual attention and will be brought up to be good and decent. There are teachers here and there who take this broad and sympathetic view of their work but they are comparatively few and they have little encouragement. It takes all their time to keep the youngsters up to passing grades while morals go glimmering.

It used to be regarded as the duty of the parents to train up children in the way they should go. There is a greater laxity here every year. Some day it will be recognized that the State must in self-protection undertake the moral training of its children, or its citizenship will deteriorate below the line of safety. It is more important to make citizens than scholars and artisans.

Quips and Quiddities

Not long ago I gave an Irishman a box of pills and cautioned him carefully with regard to adhering to the instructions on the box cover. These instructions read: "Take one pill three times a day."

Next day the man came in and placed the pills on my desk, and when I asked him what was the matter he said:

"I couldn't carry out the instructions."

"What's the reason?" I asked.

"I took the first pill all right," was his reply, "but I couldn't get it up to take it the other two times."

ONE ENGINEER SLAYS ANOTHER ON MONDAY

W. D. Partee, Who Killed Sam Jackson, Retains Attorney John W. Moore

W. D. Partee, aged forty years, who shot and killed Sam Jackson, aged thirty-eight, Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock in the Georgia railway roundhouse, of which road both men were freight engineers, has retained Attorney John W. Moore for his defense.

Bad blood had existed between the two men for several weeks, it is said, and an open clash had been expected. The trouble is said to have arisen from remarks imputed to Jackson concerning the wife of a friend of Partee.

Monday afternoon the men met face to face at the west entrance of the roundhouse, Partee having just come in off his run to Camak, while Jackson was going after his engine. Partee was accompanied by another engineer, J. A. Axell, of Augusta, and several other railroad employes were nearby.

A few heated words were passed between the two men, it is said, when Partee drew his revolver and fired once, Jackson falling instantly. The wounded man was carried to Grady hospital, but died immediately upon being placed upon the operating table, having never regained consciousness.

Instantly Partee was seized and held awaiting the arrival of the police. At the police headquarters Partee declared he acted in self-defense. He says he believed Jackson had a gun under a coat thrown over his arm and was going to use it. Partee says Jackson had made threats against his life, and he believed Jackson intended to execute them unless he acted first.

Both men formerly boarded at 896 DeKalb avenue with Mrs. J. R. Murdon, but Jackson left about a month ago, it is said, because of trouble with Partee.

Jackson has relatives living in Augusta, where his remains will be shipped for burial. Partee lives at Guthrie. Neither man is married.

Partee was given a preliminary hearing before Recorder Broyles Tuesday morning. He was held to the superior court under the charge of murder for which bail is not grantable.

JACKSON'S WAS ADVANCING.

No effort was made to find out the cause of the shooting, the only important point being brought out and in which all witnesses concurred, was that Jackson continued to advance on Partee after Partee told him to halt. Jackson was unarmed so the evidence showed.

Partee refuses to make any statement Tuesday beyond the fact that his plea will be self defense. At the preliminary hearing he was represented by Attorney John W. Moore.

CLAIMS HIS DAUGHTER DID NOT DISAPPEAR

Orlando Awtrey Says She Was Simply Visiting in the West

The Burns' detectives' search for Miss Lynette Awtrey, daughter of Orlando Awtrey, wealthy manufacturer, of Acworth, Ga., was useless, according to her father, who last night declared that she had been visiting friends in the west and had simply failed to inform her parents of her intention. Miss Awtrey is now on her way home from Ogden, Utah.

In the statement issued by Mr. Awtrey it was said that the daughter had been touring Europe but decided to return home. On her arrival in New York she changed her plans and went west for a few days instead of coming home at once. The arrival of her baggage with no word from her caused fears as to her safety and for this reason the investigation was made.

Mr. Awtrey declared that his daughter has made several former visits to the west and has friends there.

"UNCLE LUKE" WOOD TO HAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY

"Uncle Luke" Wood will celebrate his seventy-seventh birthday on August 1, and the occasion is looked forward to with pleasure by all of his many friends around Riverside, where "Uncle Luke" lives.

The celebrating of "Uncle Luke's" birthday has been an annual event in the Wood family for a number of years. For the last few times it has been held at Grant park, but this year it was decided to hold it at the family residence at Riverside. His friends and relatives will come early with baskets of lunch and spend the day. A jolly time is anticipated by all.

The following of "Uncle Luke's" children, well known Atlanta matrons, will be present: Mrs. E. L. Jett, Mrs. Lizzie Davis, Mrs. Brown Carroll and Mrs. E. L. Smith.

Effective Home Remedy For Lung Trouble

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is not only expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are benefited, but few can safely return. Eckman's Alterative is effective for home treatment. For examples:

221 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J.

Gentlemen: In the fall of 1905 I contracted a very severe cold, which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum, and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alterative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now seven years since my recovery has been effected, and I praise Eckman's Alterative too highly. have recommended it with excellent results."

(Signed) W. H. TATEM.

Also advertised; more on request. Eckman's Alterative has been proved by many years' test to be the most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.—(ADVT.).

YOUNG MAN BOUND OVER ON CHARGE OF FORGERY

John James Walker Charged With Fleecing Rogers' Grocery Stores

John James Walker, of neat appearance and about twenty years of age, was bound over under $1,000 bond in Recorder Broyles' court Tuesday morning, charged with forgery and obtaining goods under false pretenses.

The prosecuting witness was J. B. Shields, of the Rogers Grocery, at 464 Pryor. Shields says Walker had a scheme by which he had often fleeced one of the Rogers chain of stores and that on last Thursday he was detected.

Shields outlined Walker's scheme as follows: The young man would go to a vacant house, he said, tear off the "to let" sign and telephone for groceries and change for a $10 bill. Upon arrival of the porter Walker would be found busy at work, says Shields, but would stop long enough to accept the goods and give a worthless check for $10, also receiving the difference in change. Then he would disappear.

Shields says Walker attempted the scheme on his store last Thursday. He produced a check which corresponded with Walker's handwriting, and the grocery porter also identified Walker.

YOUNG WOMAN'S ARM IS CUT IN PRINTING PRESS

While operating a press in the printing department of the Merchants' Printing and Label company, where she was employed, Miss Alice Little got her hand entangled in the machinery and her arm was dreadfully cut up to the elbow.

She was taken to the Grady hospital and Tuesday morning was resting easily. The doctors there have hopes of saving her arm if not her hand.

RABBI MARX ASSERTS HIS BELIEF IN FRANK

Can't Build Case on Pack of Lies Any More Than House on Cards, Rabbi Says

In the room directly above the one where Leo M. Frank was on trial for the murder of Mary Phagan Monday afternoon were gathered a score of friends of the accused who eagerly discussed his chances for and against acquittal.

Prominent among them was Dr. David I. Marx, rabbi of the Jewish synagogue to which Frank belonged. With other friends of the prisoner he declared emphatically his belief in Frank's innocence.

"There is no man in Atlanta," said Dr. Marx, "more eager to see justice done or to find the guilty man in this case than am I, and the very fact of this and of my presence here shows my deep belief in the innocence of Mr. Frank. The truth is obliged to come out at last. You no more can build a case on a pack of lies than you can build a house on a pack of cards without a downfall."

Had Quiet Wedding But They Got Rice In Spite of Dodges

When D. L. Echols, a well known young groceryman of Atlanta and Miss Ruth T. Gresham, whose home has been on Fourteenth street, decided many days ago that they would be married on Sunday, July 27, they made up their minds right then and there that they would have a wedding without such "frills" as old shoes and rice.

They told one friend so— quite confidentially—and never breathed another word about their plans except to tell this friend on just what train Mr. and Mrs. Echols would leave Atlanta to catch their steamer for New York.

Then, when Sunday rolled around, they were married at the residence of Dr. C. M. Daniels, married very quietly, without even the friend who was "on" being present.

"Won't everybody be surprised, though" they said on their way to the train; "when they find we're gone, and won't it be nice to get away without everybody in the station saying 'Look at the Newlyweds."

It would have been, possibly, but it wasn't.

Mr. and Mrs. Echols got almost to the gate that leads to the tracks before they were "discovered." Then an old shoe whizzed by the groom's ear and several handfuls of rice showered upon them.

There was no use to flee. Mr. and Mrs. Echols stopped and took it all good naturedly. But they got in their train just as soon as they possibly could and left for New York and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Echols will be at home on Moreland avenue in about three weeks.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSN.'S MEETING AT CLIFTON

Will Last Two Days, With Dinner on the Ground

The DeKalb county Sunday school convention and the Mills District association convened jointly at Clifton church in DeKalb county Tuesday morning. The convention will last two days, the usual contest singing will take place Wednesday afternoon.

Arrangements have been made to carry all who desire to attend from the junction of the East Lake and South Decatur car lines for 10 cents each way per person. Conveyances will leave the junction from 7:45 to 8:15 and from 9:45 to 10 o'clock in the morning, and returning will leave the grounds at a time to suit the crowd. Dinner will be for sale on the grounds for those who do not desire to bring their baskets.

BURGLARS TRY TO LOOT HOME OF FRANK JUROR

Two negro burglars attempted to raid the home of F. V. L. Smith, a juror in the Frank trial, at 481 Cherokee avenue, last night when no one was at home except Mrs. Smith and her four-weeks-old child. The men were frightened away on their first appearance when Mrs. Smith discovered them on her porch, but returned soon afterward.

Upon discovering them the second time Mrs. Smith telephoned the police, and in four minutes Call Officers Shumate and Cochran were on the scene. The negroes escaped.

Stewards' Meeting

The Atlanta District Stewards' association will meet Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at Wesley Memorial church. An interesting program has been prepared and every Methodist steward in the Atlanta district is urged to attend.

Negro Blind Tiger Kept Plying Trade Even After Arrest

His desire to make an "honest" dollar, even though in the hall leading into county police headquarters, got Sam Jolly, negro bootlegger, into serious trouble Monday.

When County Policeman R. E. Jackson first saw Jolly he was walking on one of the business thoroughfares almost ment over by the weight of his suit case. The weight of the suit case excited Officer Jackson's suspicion and he arrested the negro taking him to headquarters.

Upon their arrival the suit case was examined and found to contain twenty-three pints of whisky. For having this much liquor in his possession Jolly was liable to arrest under a city ordinance, but no state law.

No sooner had the officer disappeared than the negro spied a farmer, "Bud" Smith, who has several friends on the police force and hangs around the office a great deal.

Here Jolly saw a chance to ply his trade, and "peached" Smith. The farmer told him all right, but to wait until he borrowed a dollar to pay for the pint.

Then Smith went to Jackson, told him about Jolly's offer and Jackson gave him a marked dollar bill. Smith then went to the negro and Jackson followed in a few minutes.

Upon counting the whisky it was found to be one pint short and a search of Jolly's person revealed the marked dollar bill.

The negro was held over to the state on the charge of bootlegging.

PROF. H. A. SCOMP DIES IN KENTUCKY

Former Professor of Greek at Emory College Leaves Many Friends

Prof. H. A. Scomp, for eighteen years professor of Greek at Emory college, died recently at his home in Parksville, Ky., according to advices received by M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools.

Prof. Scomp's death will be mourned by scores of his friends and former pupils in Georgia. In addition to his distinguished scholarly attainments, he was one of the pioneer leaders of the temperance cause in Georgia. His book, "King Alcohol in the Realm of King Cotton," has a wide circulation.

He was born in Parksville, Ky., December 20, 1843, being nearly seventy years old at the time of his death. He was a graduate of Center college, Kentucky, and afterward studied in Germany and in Athens, Greece. He married Miss Margaret Weedin in 1869. They had two children, both girls.

Of late Prof. Scomp was engaged in research work for the Smithsonian institute, compiling a dictionary of the Indian tongues. He was buried at Danville, Ky.

WORKED WITH BURGLARS TO SECURE CONVICTION

J. A. Harris, former railroad retective, worked side by side with T. W. Reeves and T. W. Miller, men who are accused of leading a band of burglars that has been robbing stores and freight cars for many months, in order to get evidence to secure their conviction, according to Harris and Chief Newport Lanford, of the city detectives.

Harris declared he ingratiated himself with the accused burglars and aided them in their work because he believed he could get evidence which would rid society of two menaces.

BICYCLIST COLLIDES WITH AN AUTOMOBILE

While attempting to dodge a street car C. H. Phillips, of Red Oak, Ga., steered his bicycle directly in the path of an automobile and was badly bruised in the collision that followed. Dr. Frank Bird was driving the car and he carried Mr. Phillips immediately to the Elkin-Goldsmith santtarium, where his wounds were treated.

The accident happened about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon near the corner of Lee street and Murphy avenue and was said to be unavoidable.

HOWARD THOMPSON NOW UNITED STATES MARSHAL

Howard Thompson, of Gainesville, will on Friday morning formally assume his duties as United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia, succeeding Colonel Walter H. Johnston.

He and Colonel Johnston had a conference Tuesday, when they went over the routine of the office and Mr. Thompson was acquainted with his new duties.

Convict Escapes

Tom Ellis, negro convict, escaped early Monday from the Minor camp, under command of Captain Collier. He is clad in blue overalls and black shirt. Despite a vigorous effort to locate him he had not been captured at noon.

MEDICAL PRACTICE BILL IS PASSED BY THE SENATE

Measure Is to Create Board of Examiners for All Applicants for License

The medical practice bill introduced by Senator Longino, of the Thirty-sixth district, to create a state board of medical examiners to examine all applicants to practice medicine, consumed a large part of the morning session of the senate, and after some debate, was passed by the vote of 36 to 34.

The bill passed in its original form, with the exception of an amendment by Senator Stark, of the Thirty-third, requiring all examinations to be in writing, and two amendments by Senator McNeil, one merely putting the word registered in addition to licensed, and one provided that any physician whose right to practice had been revoked by the state board might appeal to the jury of the superior court of his county.

The two points that drew fire from the opposition were the fact that power is placed in the hands of the regular physicians, or allopaths, since five members of the board are alopaths, while only two are eclectics and one homeopathic can be members thereof.

President Anderson descended to the floor of the senate to speak in favor of the bill, stating that it would be one of the greatest things the senate could do for the state of Georgia.

REV. CRAWFORD JACKSON GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Says He Did Not Authorize Publication Concerning Trustees

Atlanta, Ga., July 29, 1913.

In view of the fact that there is a statement in the morning paper concerning an informal action of the board of trustees of the Juvenile Protective association, I wish to say in justice to myself as well as my colleagues, that I issued no statements whatever for publication and stated to two press representatives, and repeatedly to one of them, that we had absolutely nothing to give out for publication, and he could not quote me as making any statement whatever.

This action of absolute secrecy for the present concerning our action as a board was agreed upon unanimously, and I remember to have given to the board my reasons why I though at this time nothing should be published.

I am in no wise responsible for the statement in the morning paper.

DONALD FRASER SCHOOL REOPENS IN SEPTEMBER

Donald Fraser, the well known boys' school that was operated in Decatur for many years, but which was suspended last year, will reopen in September.

Prof. Paul J. King, who for the past four years has been at the University school in Stone Mountain, will be the principal. He will have associated with him a strong faculty, men will known in educational circles, and, best of all, they will be men who know and understand boys.

Donald Fraser will take a leading place in prep athletics, as Mr. King believes in athletics. He is now negotiating with the best athletic director in southern prep circles. The limit of the school will be about sixty boys the first year. Announcement of the personnel of the faculty will be made at an early date.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR MR. R. R. GRESHAM

The body of Mr. Russell R. Gresham, who died Monday morning from the injuries he received in the street car accident on the South Decatur line earlier in the morning were sent to Gloucester, Ga., Tuesday morning for funeral and interment.

Mr. Gresham was fifty-three years old and had spent practically all his life around Kirkwood. He was a truck and dairyman. He is survived by his mother, his wife and nine children.

"Uncomfortable Towns"

THE Traveling Man is sore on the town that's on the bum.

He may be genial on the outside, but in his mind he has unspeakable feelings for the town that has back-woodsy arrangements and lack of comforts.

His feelings are unspeakable only until he hits the trail again. Then he tells the other fellow and presently the word has passed all along the line.

That town isn't long getting itself on the traveling man's blacklist.

Is your town that kind?

If you haven't got the nerve and the spunk and the foresight to fix things up, its the greased plank for Yourville.

Our specialty is the Physical Improvement of Towns. We put in Sanitary Systems of Sewerage, Light and Water Plants, Paving, and so on.

We do the whole thing from start to finish---plan, construct, finance, operate ---everything.

We've done it for scores of towns that we'd like to tell you about. Write us. Do it today.

Are you ashamed of your hands?

How to make them soft and smooth

The reason your hands do not look like you want them to look is because you have neglected them. Proper care will soon restore the natural beauty of their skin.

At night, just before retiring, soak your hands for at least five minutes in hot water and a lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Then rub them vigorously for a few minutes with a rough wash cloth or soft brush and rinse in very cold water.

This treatment, continued regularly, softens the rough dead skin and soon causes it to disappear. In its place will be a new skin of delicate texture, soft, smooth and white, formed with the aid of the stimulating and tonic properties of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Get a cake and start tonight.

Five o'Clock Tea

An event of the afternoon was the 5 o'clock tea given by Mrs. J. P. B. Allan at her home on Howard street, in compliment to her guests, Miss Margaret Bransford, of Nashville, Miss Dorothy Robbins, of Birmingham, and to Miss Margaret Buckner, of Roanoke, Va., who is visiting Miss Helen Jones.

The rooms where the guests were received were attractively decorated with palms and many handsome growing plants.

Punch was served in the library by Miss Leonora Maddox, Miss Janet Lowndes and Miss Louise Riley.

Mrs. Allan received her guests wearing a draped gown of white crepe de chine. Miss Robbins was costumed in pale blue brocade with appointments of embroidered chiffon and Miss Bransford's lovely dress was fashioned of pink charmeuse draped with embroidered chiffon.

Assisting Mrs. Allan and her guests of honor in the entertainment of her guests were Miss Helen Jones, Miss Nellie Kiser Stewart, Miss Clifford West, Miss Margaret Ashford, Miss Fannie Neal Anderson, of Athens, Miss Louise Riley, Miss Jeannette Lowndes, Miss Leonora Maddox, Mrs. W. England's Queen A Golf Enthusiast

Queen Mary has intimated that while stopping at Balmoral for her summer vacation she will devote attention to golf, and a well known professional is to be engaged to "coach" her in the pastime. Hitherto the Queen has taken little interest in any outdoor sport; but she has largely been influenced in favor of golf, it is said, by he two elde sons and Princess Mary. Indeed, it was the Prince of Wales who gave his mother her first lesson, when the court was in the Highlands last autumn. The Duchess of Connaught took to golf a few years ago in the Great Park at Windsor, when she found the result very beneficial. She speedily showed some amount of aptitide for the game, at which she is now proficient, though naturally it is some time since she had a club in her hands.

Who Gives You the Poorest Service?

Is it the merchant who has the brightest store, the most attractive things to sell you, a polite and intelligent sales force to serve you and an all-round, genial, home-like, welcome atmosphere awaiting you in his shop—and then tells you about it in his advertising?

Is it from that kind of merchant that you receive poor service? It is not probable.

The chances are ten to one that the poorest service and the least satisfaction come from the shops where business is done under antiquated conditions; where the merchandise is badly chosen and badly displayed; where salespeople are not well informed and courteous and obliging, and where the merchant either has nothing much of interest to advertise or else "doesn't believe in advertising."

There MAY be exceptions, but, if so, they indicate the rule. The best service comes from the business that has so much confidence in its methods and its merchandise that it is a part of its splendid service to tell you about it.

Table Manners in Old France

(Kansas City Star.)

An amusing example of table etiquette, quoted in Humbert de Romans's "Usages et Moeurs d' Autrefois," is typical of the elaborate but artificial rules of politeness that French society observed in the early nineteenth century.

Talleyrand, the famous diplomatist, was one of the most conspicuous figures in social affairs as well as in affairs of state. He attempted constantly to curb the rude vanity of the magnificence and elegance that it had known before the revolution. Talleyrand is said to have invented an elaborate code of table etiquette.

Even a simple offer to serve a guest with a morsel of beef had to be carefully phrased according to the rank of the guest.

In addressing a prince the host said: "My prince, may I have the honor of serving you with some beef?"

To a marquis, "Marquis, grant me the honor of offering you some beef?"

In the case of a count, the question, "Count, may I have the pleasure of passing you some beef?" was sufficient.

To a baron he merely said, "Baron, do you care for some beef?"

But if the guest happened to be a simple citizen, it was only necessary to look the guest squarely in the eye and remark sharply: "Beef!"

The Order

(Minnesota Minne-Ha-Ha.)

The object of his affections held up her hand. "Wait a minute," she said. "I want to get this straight. Did you say that you were all afire with love for me?"

"Ah, yes," he sighed dolefully.

PREMATURE GRAYNESS CAN BE AVERTED

THE hair turns gray because it has lost vitality, due to sickness, nervous strain, deficient nutrition and sometimes hereditary causes. To pull out the hairs when they begin to turn white is simply to enlarge the cells, coarsen the hair and cause it to whiten more quickly than if left alone.

The best and only satisfactory treatment for premature grayness is a pure, reliable hair restorative, such as Robinsaire Hair Dye. This resorative is prepared in our own laboratory, a scientific formula, and we guarantee it to be non-injurious. It is not to bleach or change the original color, but is to restore faded or gray hairs to its natural color and lost vitality. Its tonic effect makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful, and keeps it in a healthy condition. Does not stain the scalp and its use cannot be detected.

Don't let gray hair stand in your way either in the social or business world, for thousands of others are using this splendid restorative with best results. We have sold it for over a quarter of a century without even one complaint against it. It is a pure, beneficial restorative and cannot harm you. For light, medium and dark brown and black hair. At druggists and toilet goods departments, 75c; by parcel post, 80c.

Send us the name of your druggist if he cannot supply you, and we will send you FREE samples of Robinsaire Face Powder and Cold Cream of Roses. Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt.)

The Evening Story — Little Mrs. Second

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

Mrs. Griffin had just begun on her fifth pair of stockings when the door opened and her next door neighbor and crony, Mrs. Ensign, fairly plunged into the room.

"I didn't stop to fix my hair or anything," panted Mrs. Ensign. "I came just as I was, for I couldn't wait another moment to tell you, unless you know already?" she paused interrogatively.

"Know what? For mercy's sake, Tryphena, sit down and catch your breath," Mrs. Griffin calmly answered.

Mrs. Ensign sank down upon a chair. "Why, Jack Bolivar's brought home a new wife!" she said. Mrs. Griffin dropped the stocking and her mouth opened. "I was over in Mrs. Allen's front yard when I saw the hack coming. It stopped before Jack Bolivar's house and Jack got out dressed for fits. Turning, he helped out a lady. 'Welcome home, my dear wife,' he said. And they went in. So there, you see! He's been getting a wife while he's been away and his first not gone over and above a year.

"Well said!" Mrs. Griffin exclaimed. "How did she look, Tryphena?"

"Well—Mrs. Ensign was not clever at desription, but this occasion warranted her best attempt—"let me see. She was dark to begin with—real dark. You could expect that, seeing Mame Bolivar was light. She was smart looking and real stylish. She had on a blue suit and a white waist with a jabbit and a blue hat. She looked very smiling. And she wasn't bigger than a pint of cider. When I saw her I said to myself: 'How do you expect to hold your own with Jack Bolivar, when a big, stout woman like Mame just gave up and died.' Why, he could pick her up with one hand. And he'll do it, too. It won't be three weeks before he'll have her scared into the corner, the brute."

"My land, my land," murmured Mrs. Griffin. "She couldn't have known what we know around here or she'd never have married him. A little woman to marry Jack Bolivar! She'd have to be a six-footer to hold her own with him. Mame was pretty near that, and just see how she had to knuckle down to him. This one won't have any show at all. I tell you, Tryphena, I'm awfully sorry for her. She's got a hard row to hoe. We neighbors must all be good to the poor little creeter."

"That's what Mrs. Allen said and what I think. Dear, dear, I'd just as leave give Sid Bailey's bulldog our kitten to play with. Well, we'll have something to watch from now on. Goodness, the clock's striking 11 and I must go home. My man is no kind of Jack Bolivar, but he gets dreffel tetchy if his meals ain't on time. By, Maria Come over."

Mrs. Griffin did not rise to see her friend to the door, but set about finishing her stocking.

Mrs. Griffin had always known Jack Bolivar. She had known his first wife, Mame Bolivar had been a beautiful woman, big blonde, and gentle. She had married Jack because she loved him, and her love had endured to her dying day. No one ever knew how much she had suffered. She had acknowledged him as her master and as such obeyed him. At first in the confidence of her bridehood she had made a few ineffectual attempts at rebellion. Latterly it had needed bit a glance from his eyes to paralyze her into submission. Other women had pitied her. And she died. Pneumonia the doctors called it, but the women who knew her best said to each other that it was heart break.

"She won't get along with him as well as poor Mame did," Mrs. Griffin said with a sigh. "Mame was big enough to show him her fist if she had even dared. I suppose she thought if she did he'd kill her, violent tempered as he is. I don't know, but I've always thought I'd have risked the killing if I had been in her place. One good blow ain't nothing like so bad as dying by inches. Mame just stood by and watched him trample on her heart till it was torn to shreds. This poor little body will do even worse. The first time he blasts out at her she'll crumple up like burnt paper. That'll please him. I've heard him say he wouldn't have a wife he couldn't rule. He wants her to jump every time he sets his foot down, and she will, I guess."

Two days later Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Ensign went to call on the new Mrs. Bolivar.

"I think," Mrs. Griffin said, "that we neighbors better not wait too long before calling. We better let the poor thing know she's got friends even if she is among strangers."

Mrs. Bolivar received them gladly. Jack was at work and she was alone in the house. She looked very dainty in her blue foulard dress and tiny apron. She was not pretty, but she was bright and sweet looking, and she seemed happy.

"If you knew how good it seems to have a home of my own," she said. "I've never had a home before. My mother was an invalid, and we always boarded. When she died and I was left alone I kept right on boarding. I was forewoman in a big factory ,and I earned good wages. Of course, I had to work my way up to the job, but I held it for eleven years —till Jack came. Oh, I'm not so young as I look! I'm thirty-six. When Jack came I—I liked him." She smiled and colored a little. "He was the first man I ever had liked. I'd never had time for such nonsense before. When you're alone in the world you've got to keep hustling every moment. I hustled. And when I got a chance to rest I rested. Those two things made up my life—hustling and resting —till Jack came. I made up my mind I wanted to marry Jack, and I did. He had a friend at the boarding house where I was, and the friend introduced us. It wasn't very romantic, but then I'd never been used to romance, and it suited me. And then to have a house—a home!" She drew her breath quickly. "To be able to sweep off my own front steps and to grow all the geraniums I wanted and raise a kitten! It seemed just like heaven!"

"You dear little thing," Mrs. Griffin said tenderly. "I hope it will go on seeming just like heaven to you."

But after they had left the house she said to Tryphena, "I felt like bustin' to cry and hear her talk! The innocent heaven with Jack Bolivar! My soul and body, Tryphena, some things in this world make me so mad I can't hardly hold in."

Within two weeks Mrs. Bolivar had been properly welcomed by all the women in the neighborhood and some out of it. She was liked instinctively. She was a busy little thing, but never too busy to stop for a chat when she had a visitor. She was a gay little woman, too; but not too gay. The gayety would vanish presently, Mrs. Griffin knew. Whenever she saw Mrs. Bolivar she looked anxiously for the first signs of tears and heart sickness. And presently she found them.

She ran in one evening and interrupted Jack in the midst of a harangue. There had arisen some little misunderstanding and he was giving his wife her first lesson. When Mrs. Griffin knocked at the door she could hear him tramping about and laying down the law. Mrs. Griffin walked in just in time to hear Mrs. Bolivar plead, "Don't, Jack, somebody will hear you." Jack strode out of the room in his ugliest mood and his wife wiped the tears off her pale, astonished face. She said not a word about what had happened, nor did she apologize for Jack's behavior.

That night Mrs. Griffin could not sleep for apprehension. The next day was Sunday and Mrs. Bolivar came to church alone. She was still pale and she appeared to be deep in thought.

"She never heard a word of the sermon," Mrs. Griffin whispered miserably to Thyphena Ensign. He's begun. And he's started in good and heavy. Oh, Tryphena, he'll kill her, he'll break her heart, the dear critter."

Two more weeks passed and several times the sounds of Jack Bolivar's lordly voice floated out on the quiet air. Mrs. Bolivar always looked afterward as if she had been crying. The sight of her wrung Mrs. Griffin's heart.

Then one evening the neighbors who sat upon their porches heard the sounds of dire conduct in the Bolivar house. There was a roar of Jack's heavy voice, and there presently was a crash so deafening that Mrs. Griffin screamed. Tryphena Ensign was running across the yard, her white apron fluttering.

"Did you hear that? Something awful's happend, Maria. We ought to go to see. And then he hain't a man in the neighborhood. They've all gone to lodge. Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"

"Tryphena Ensign, shut up on that oh dearing and come along. Maybe she'll be dead before we get there. I'm afraid, but I ain't so afraid that I shan't try to get her out from under his clutches. And if he touches me Job Griffin will settle with him, big as he is."

Grimly they marched forth, but at the steps Tryphena faltered. Mrs. Griffin went alone to the front door and rang the bell. Mrs. Bolivar answered. She was almost as white as her dress, but her voice was steady. "Why, it's Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Ensign!" she exclaimed.

Mrs. Griffin clutched her arm. "Thank the Lord you're safe and sound. I didn't would he," she gasped.

Mrs. Bolivar put her arm about the old woman's shoulders. "I'm sorry you had to hear," she said quietly, though she panted. "Jack jumped back rather quickly and a table went over, that's all. He's gone to bed now, I think. He seemed to be having these little tantrums oftener and oftener, and I thought it was time to stop them. I'm used to handling people, you know. That's why they kept me so long as forewoman in the factory. I had all sorts of folks to deal with—Slovaks and Huns and Poles. And an angry Hun is pretty bad—a good deal worse even than any angry husband. Jack's temper is worse for him. I don't see what his mother was thinking of to let him go that way; I can cure him. I'm not afraid but what I can. When you've stood up before a mob of crazy strikers one unreasonable husband doesn't scare you much. I've told you this because I see you've been worried. You're good friends to me, and I thank you, my two old dears. But you needn't worry. I can take care of myself. And now good-night."

She kissed them each and went back into the house. As she closed the door they heard her call.

"Jack, did you lay the fire for morning?" And Jack answered, "I did."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Floyd.)

Peter Rabbit was feeling better and certainly he was looking better. You see just as soon as Old Mother Nature saw that Peter was trying to look as well as he could and was keeping himself as neat and tidy as he knew how, she was ready to help, as she always is. So she did her best with the rents in his coat, made by the claws of Hooty the Owl and the teeth of old Jed Thumper, the big gray Rabbit who thought he owned the Old Pasture, and so it wasn't long before Peter's coat looked nearly as good as new. Then, too, Peter was getting enough to eat these days. It was days and days since he had seen old Jed Thumper, and this had given him time to eat and sleep.

Peter wondered what had become of old Jed Thumper. "Perhaps something has happened to him," thought Peter. "I almost hope something has." Then, being ashamed of such a wish, he added, "Something not very dreadful, but which will keep him from hunting me for a while and trying to drive me out of the Old Pasture."

Now, all this time Peter had been trying to find little Miss Fuzzytail. He was already in love with her, although all he had seen of her were her two soft, gentle eyes shyly peeping at him from behind a big fern. He had wandered here and wandered there looking for her, but although he found her footprints very often she always managed to keep out of his sight. You see she knew the Old Pasture so much better than he did, and all the little paths in it, that she had very little trouble in keeping out of his way. Then, too, she was very busy. You see it was she who was keeping her cross old father, old Jed Thumper, away from Peter because she was so sorry for him. But Peter didn't know that. If he had I am afraid that he would have been more in love than ever.

The harder she was to find the more Peter wanted to find her. He spent a great deal of time each day brushing his coat and making himself look as fine as he could, and while he was doing it he kept wishing over and over again that something would happen so that he could show little Miss Fuzzytail what a smart, brave fellow he really was. But one day followed another and Peter seemed no nearer to meeting little Miss Fuzzytail than ever. He was thinking of this and was really growing very down-hearted one morning as he sat under a friendly bramble bush, when suddenly there was a sharp little scream of fright from behind a little juniper tree.

Somehow Peter knew whose voice that was, although he never had heard it before. He sprag around the little juniper tree and what he saw filled Peter with such rage that he didn't stop once to think of himself. There was little Miss Fuzzytail in the clutches of Black Pussy, one of Farmer Brown's cats, who often stole away from home to hunt in the Old Pasture. Like a flash Peter sprang over Black Pussy, and as he did so he kicked with all his might. The cat hadn't seen him coming and the kick knocked her right into the prickly juniper tree. Of course she lost her grip on little Miss Fuzzytail, who hadn't been hurt so much as frightened. By the time the cat could get out of the juniper tree, Peter and little Miss Fuzzytail were sitting side by side safe in the middle of a bullbriar patch.

To Kill Weeds Without the Hoe

Always at this season there is a demand for weed killers—something to clean out weeds without the exertion of using a hoe. The following advice is from the Colorado Agricultural college:

Salt: Take one pound of salt to one gallon of water, boil and apply while still hot, or dry salt may be used and then watered in but this will color the walk more or less and is not quite so effective.

Crude carbolic acid, half ounce of the liquid to one gallon of water, will also destroy ants.

Take one pound of powdered arsenic to three gallons of cold water, boil and stir well. Then add seven gallons of cold water with two pounds of sal soda.

Lime and sulphur: Ten gallons of water, 20 pounds of unslaked lime and two pounds of flowers of sulphur are boiled in an iron vessel. After settling, the clear part is dipped off and used when needed.

There are a number of commercial weed killers on the market. Applications of weed destroyers should be made on a hot day or right after a rain, with a sprinkler. One good application is usually sufficient for the season. As the most of them contain poison, either arsenic or acids, great care should be exercised in handling them.

Another "Miracle" Cure

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON.—Greatly to the astonishment of herfriends, Mrs. Jordan, wife of a mechanic at Silverton (Devon), got up and walked after having lain in bed helpless for more than five years.

She declared that a miracle had been wrought in her. She received a message, she says, that she would be cured.

Mrs. Thomas, a visitor from Liverpool, interested in faith cure, prophesied that before she returned to the north Mrs. Jordan would walk again, and brought her a new pair of slippers and placed them at the bedside.

Mrs. Jordan states that a few mornings later her legs began to pulsate. She rose, put on the slippers, and walked into the cottage.

Her aged father and sister who has cared for her for the last five years had not risen, and she lit the fire and prepared breakfast for them.

Herh usband was sent for from work, and visitors have flocked to see her.

A Parliamentary Cockfight

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON.—The men who shape the destines of the British empire are not thinking much about the empire, or about civil war in Ulster, or the curates who will be reduced to selling mechanical jumping mice in the Strand when the miners of the church in Wales are utilized for building museums and public washhouses. The great, overwhelming, and absorbing problem is when this session is going to end. Mr. Asquith, rosy and debonair, wants it to end on August 15. The quidnuncs say it cannot be done.

Leicester has received as much advertisement during the last week as a fashionable spa. A doctor has only to write that the waters of Leicester are a cure for lumbago, sciatica, dizziness and general debility for its fortune to be made.

Horses That Think

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON.—To what extent are horses able to think? This complicated problem has just been investigated by Mr. Edward Bullough, Fellow of Gonville and Caius college, Cambridge, and Mr. V. J. Woolley, M. D., who have just reported to the Psychical Research society on their visit to Elberfeld, in Germany, to inquire into the "thinking horse" of Mr. K. Krall.

Mr. Krall explained to his horses all the rudimentary procedure of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, as he would to a child, and was greatly astonished at the ease and quickness of their understanding—for instance in grasping the difference between 3x2 and 32.

"Money Talks"

(Judge.)

Yes, "money talks."

When it "makes the mare go," it says, "Giddap!"

Money spent at a green-house talks the language of flowers.

As "the love of money is the root of all evil," so the love of talk has tethered many a man.

To the millionaire money says, "Do you get me?"

And the millionaire replies, "I got you, Steve."

To most other people money says, "Goodbye!" or "Why should you speak to me—a perfect stranger?" or "Leave me, or I'll call an officer!"

He Was a Plain Man

(Answers, London.)

"Now, sir," said the architect, consulting the elaborate plans and diagrams before him, "I want to consult you about the position and so forth of the drawing room. Don't you think—"

Mr. Streckol obviously didn't. Suddenly leaping to his feet he struck the table fiercely with his fist.

Then:

"Look here, young man," he roared, "I've had enough of your silly nonsense! I want a house I can live in—not a museum! Drawing room, indeed! Hang it all, I've let you put up a smoking room, when I don't smoke; a music room, when I can't even play a mouth organ; a nursery, when I ain't got no nurse, and a pantry, when I'm never short of breath! And now you suggest a drawing room! I can't draw; I never want to draw. What, then, do I want a drawing room for—eh?"

CHATTANOOGA DEBUTANTES

An interesting topic socially is that of the debutantes. Each year bright and beautiful girls enter society, and each year it would seem that no handsomer group could possibly appear. Several brilliant entertainments are planned for the 1913 buds in Chattanooga and society is eagerly looking forward to these affairs.

Miss Elizabeth White, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl White, will be a charming member of the debutante set. She has just returned from a year's stay abroad and is already popular. She will be introduced at brilliant parties.

Miss Maude Whiteside is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Whiteside and the sister of Mr. Edward Whiteside. Her debut will be attended by a series of affairs and she bids fair to be one of the belles of the young set.

Miss Frances Sholar is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sholar and one of the handsomest young girls in Chattanooga. She finished her education in the spring at Washington schools and was one of the most admired young women at the Confederate reunion.

Miss Josephine Colyar, already a belle in the younger crowd, has also finished her school work in Washington, and will be at home this winter. Miss Colyar is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Colyar, and is petite and pretty and of charming manners. The magnificent Colyar home will be the mecca of society and the debut of the young daughter of the house is eagerly anticipated.

Miss Mary Louise Spurlock, a beautiful girl of unusual type, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spurlock, and is the only representative of the Riverview colony in the debutante group.

Miss Louise Llewellyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Llewellyn, has graduated, but will spend a year in travel before making her formal debut. She is handsome and very fair and will be a belle.

Miss Ruth Payne is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Payne, her attractive sisters being Mrs. Charles Howell and Mrs. Theodore LeBosquet. Miss Payne is tall and graceful and of a pronounced brunette type.

Miss Ruth Richmond, the only daughter of Mrs. E. G. Richmond, will enjoy the early fall affairs in Chattanooga and the Yuletide events, but will not make her formal debut until next year. Miss Richmond is a great beauty.

Miss Charlotte Patten is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Patten, and it is understood that she will be at home this winter after several years in school. Miss Patten is beautiful and possesses charming manners, and she will enjoy an enviable social life. The handsome home which Mr. and Mrs. Patten are now building on their country estate will not be complete for this winter's galeties, but it may possibly be ready by another season.

Miss Annie May Jones, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jones, will be at home this winter, and her presence at the various social affairs will be enjoyed. She is a charming young girl and already very popular.—The Lookout.

New Russian Opera

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

LONDON.—After "Boris Godunov," a later stormy epoch of Russia's story was impressively sketched for us in Mussorsky's second opera, "The Khovanstchina," wonderfully performed at Drury Lane under Sir Joseph Beecham's negis. It is rather another epical national music drama, ignoring operatic conventions, differing in design a good deal from "Boris" yet a worthy companion piece. And a triumphant success has to be recorded, a success that, on the night's applause, seemed considerably the greatest achieved at one stroke by a new opera in London.

"The Khovanstchina" depicts the distraught Russia of Peter the Great's childhood—the exile of the mediaeval Miscovy on whose ruins the emperor was to build his modern state. Old Russia is represented by its two elements of war and piety—by the fierce "Streltsy" militia and by the sect of "Old Believers," fanatical Puritans. Both are doomed: the Streltsy are demoralized and dispersed through the assasination of their truculent old chief, Prince Khovansky; and the Old Believers, with their prophet Dositheus, immolate themselves on flaming pyres in a state of mystic frenzy.

DRY WEATHER IN TEXAS CAUSED SHORT COVERING

Market in New York Closed 3 to 10 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—Confronted with a dry map and an equally dry forecast for Texas tonight and tomorrow, cotton opened steady with prices 4 to 6 points net higher. Later new crops sold 6 to 7 points over last night and 13 to 17 points above yesterday's low with shorts good buyers and sentiment more bullish on the idea that without rain in Texas damage reports would increase.

Liverpool was firm and a couple of points better than due.

Later in the forenoon the market continued steady with July up 15 points on covering by belated shorts and new crops 2 to 4 points net higher with Texas news tsill an important factor of strength.

The weekly weather report confirmed the need of rain in Texas but said conditions in eastern states had been ideal. Old crops sold up 13 to 15 points on belated covering by western shorts.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 29.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points on good cables and the continued absence of rains in the western half of the cotton belt. After the call the rise was increased to 6 to 8 points on the forecast of generally fair weather for the western belt. Bulls were not aggressive and did not try to push their advantage. The nearness of the August condition report appeared to restrict business. At the end of the first half hour of trading prices were 1 to 2 points over yesterday's close.

Market eased off on reports of large receipts of new cotton at Texas points, Houston reporting 32 bales thus far, against only 3 a year ago at this time, and prices fell off to the level of yesterday's close. The weekly weather reports at 11 o'clock were considered as favorable, as they were unfavorable, ideal conditions in the eastern belt being balanced by claims of the urgent need of rains in the western belt, and they had little influence on the market. Moderate buying followed them and at noon prices were 3 to 5 points over yesterday's final figures.

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE REPORT.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Journal of Commerce report says:

Tennessee: Prospects for cotton are better than for many years. The plant is strong and well fruited, with a good stand and free from insects. Fields are clean and well cultivated. A few localities are needing rain, but as rule precipitation has been ample. Percentage condition is considerably higher than a month ago, when it was 82.7. The season is about normal, though some correspondents report it earlier than usual.

Louisiana: Owing to drouth and the almost universal presence of the boll weevil, percentage conditions appear to have lost a few points from last month, when it was 80.6, when condition was 74.7. Otherwise, prospects for a large crop are excellent and the outturn depends largely upon the success of the fight against the boll weevil. The plant is strong and healthy with a fair stand and a good fruitage.

Arkansas: Cotton has maintained its rather high percentage condition of a month ago when it was 85.4 and 77.7 a year ago. The plant is of good size with fair stands and fruiting rather heavily. Cultivation and condition of the fields are unusually fine and a number of correspondents look for the biggest crop in years. The only drawback has been hot, dry weather, which has checked growth and fruiting. Damage from boll weevil is very slight and the crop is very free from other insect pests.

NEW ORLEANS EXCHANGE PROTESTS CLARK "RIDER"

NEW ORLEANS, July 29.—Declaring that if the Clark "rider" to the proposed tariff bill becomes a law, the effect of changed conditions because of the absence of hedging "may cost on the coming crop anywhere from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000 or possibly $400,000,000," the New Orleans cotton exchange today issued an official statement protesting against the Clark "rider," which provides a tax of 1-10 of 1 per cent per pound on cotton futures or an average of 50 cents per bale. The statement is signed by W. P. Stewart, vice and acting president, and H. G. Hester, secretary.

"In order to correct any misunderstanding," says the statement, "this exchange asserts positively that the cotton future contract business and the system of hedging through future contracts which have saved many hundred millions of dollars in the marketing of the south's cotton crop will be completely destroyed if the Clark rider to the tariff bill becomes a law."

The statement adds that competition will be lessened because under the rider buyers will be forced to require a heavy margin between buying and selling prices and the necessity for increased capital and credit will drive out nearly all of the small buyers, "and consequent competition therefrom."

It is also pointed out that this tax of 50 cents per bale will be paid by the producer because the "buyer will see to it that the tax comes out of the price he pays to the farmer, thus making the latter bear the burden."

It is also pointed out that nine-tenths of the crop is moved through the means of hedging agreements, and that every sale of spot cotton on any terms will be affected by the tax.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says:

Monday's cotton market had digested reports showing continued dry weather in central Texas which produces the bulk of the crop of the Lone Star state. It also had to discount the market effect of probable higher temperatures in that secton; hence the steady tone and higher range in values. The talent is fully aware of the fact that rain relief di dnot reach north and west Texas in time to figure in the date gathered on July 25 for the government crop condition report, which will be promulgated on August 1. It is also convinced that the official instructions to government agents to watch out for weevil damage will result in some bureau utterance that will aid the bulls rather than the bears.

Under the circumstances the rings were inclined to think the decline had gone far enough for the present, and that a moderate upward reaction was in order. Meanwhile, optimistic opinions as to the crop promise reach the rings in numbers every day. On the other hand Texas is not ofering new crop cotton in anything like the volume usual at this time of year and exporters are beginning to believe that Texas contribution of new coton during August will be comparatively small, probably very much smaller than that of last year, according to one of them. In normal seasons this is the time when consumers and importers abroad are busiest in contracting for supplies ahead and when exporters in America sell specific grades and weights in volume for delivery in October, December, January and March. Such business, of course, generally trading in contracts, with the speculator supplying the difference between the long and the short hedges required by the trade.

Neill Bros., London, in their latest circular, maintain their estimate of 14,750,000 bales as the actual consumption of American cotton for the present season.

Special reports to the Journal of Commerce state that cotton condition is good in Arkansas and Tennessee. Boll weevil in Louisiana. Plant small, but strong and healthy. Stands fairly good and fruitage normal. Condition of fields generally excellent. Boll weevil menacing the crop in Louisiana and Arkansas. Condition about the same as last month when it was 85.4. Louisiana probably several points under last month, when it was 80.6. Tennessee condition considerably higher than last monht, when it was 82.7.

Dallas wires: "Texas and Oklahoma clear and hot."

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows. July 11.76, August 11.64, October 11.19, January 11.10.

10 a. m. bids in New Orleans were: January 11.25, August 11.64, October 11.26.

Forecast:

Louisiana: Tonight and Wednesday generally cloudy, showers in southeast portion tonight or Wednesday; light variable winds on the coast.

Arkansas, Oklahoma and West Texas: Tonight and Wednesday generally fair.

East Texas: Tonight and Wednesday generally fair; light southerly winds on the coast.

Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Alabama: Local showers tonight and Wednesday.

Kentucky: Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

Tennessee: Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

Mississippi: Fair north, local showers south portion tonight or Wednesday.

New York wires: "Mitchell bought 10,000 October. Sellers scattered; this only feature. Ring selling led by Wilson, Cohill and Shearson.

Sentiment is more bullish and higher market is expected, until further developments. Uptown and Wall street brokers best sellers. Brokers representing spot houses principal buyers.—Anderson.

Mitchell is bidding 22 for 10,000 December.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow Jones summary: Secretary of Treasury McAdoo charges depreciation of federal 2 per cent bonds to New York bank efforts to discredit proposed currency bill. American Wooten company reduced fabric prices from 10 per cent to 12½ per cent. Railway managers picked their aribtrators and will make announcement at meeting today. St. Louis clearing house association urges government to retire $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 2 per cent bonds at par. Currency bill will be reported to house caucus August 11th. C. C. Dawes, president Central Trust Company of Chicago, says reforms proposed by currency bill will bring national calamity. Public service commission sent to board of estimate approved of Steinway Tunnel contract with Interborough. Eastern carriers will file tariffs 5 per cent higher than now effective, September 15. Consolidated Gas directors plan to declare regular dividend at Thursday's meeting. Twelve industrials advanced .58. Twenty rails advanced .28.

The Market has every appearance of going higher and stocks like Union Pacific, Reading, Steel and Copper should be bought on every recession. Believe another effort to secure highr freight rates will be successful. Steel earnings for quartr published today will probably show $30,250,000. This will be bullish and should have a stimulating effect on prices.—Potter.

A dull market in stocks generally indicate an advancing trend. Would buy average and keep long of stocks. Expect to see better market with higher prices for several weeks to come.—Clark.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: The situation in wheat as viewed by most traders was regarded as discouraging to holders, the movement being large and the speculative and export demand yesterday light. Corn specialists say that the next three weeks will tell the story of the crop. It is the general belief that the brilliant prospects of 30 days ago have disappeared. A large part of the crop is at the critical stage and it depends entirely upon the weather as to ho wthe crop will come through.

Wheat: Weather in northwest generally clear with seasonable temperatures. The tone of the market is heavy and looks lower.

Corn: Map shows no rain in corn belt and very high temperatures prevailed yesterday in all territories west of the river. As long as present weather conditions prevail higher prices seem inevitable.

Oats: We believe market will gradually work higher.

Provisional department of agriculture of Manitoba estimates wheat crop of 65,000,000 bushels, against 58,000,000 last year.

Snow says: My returns to date, covering almost one-half of corn producing counties, are showing some sensational losses in corn prospects. Kansas returns as far as tabulated, and covering nearly half the state, show a drop approaching 30 per cent since July 1, and working lower as later reports come in. Nebraska is off nearly 20 points and Oklahoma 40 points. Missouri to date shows 10 points off and both Illinois and Indiana have lost ground. Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky are also showing heavy losses. If the later reports prove in line with those already received, the general average condition will fall several points under 80 and the official indication on August 1st may not be for a crop over 2,700,000 bushels.

Omaha reports no rain in Nebraska. Generally clear over the state. Winnipeg, clear, 60; Duluth, clear, 40; Glenwood clear; Bismark, clear, 70; Kansas City says corn and wheat bulletin shows no rain.

Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnessota—Probably showers; warmer. Rest fair; not much change in temperatures.

Selling in corn very scattered and sellers really scarce. That's why market goes up so easy as nobody dares take the short side.

Snow has the following from Edgar county, Ill.: From April 10 we had nine weeks of dry weather, which ruined oats and hay, then we had some rain which gave corn a fair start, but for the last five weeks we had hot weather and no rain. Unless we get rain in a few days, corn will be the worst failure we have had in the 60 years that I have been in this section.

Weekly Iowa weather and crop report says: In some localities in the southeastern counties where there has been only .05 inch rain during last 30 days, corn is firing and is at a standstill. Pastures are brown.

COTTON SEED OIL MARKET

NEW YORK STOCK LETTER

NEW YORK, July 29.—The reactionary tendency of the market is due to some reports of damage in sections of Kansas to the corn crop. We are likely to have reports of this character at this season, but damage is usually exaggerated. We have not changed our opinion of the stock market, and believe the upward trend will continue.—Potter.

COTTON MARKET OPINION

A. Norden & Co.: In such a weather market it seems useless to express any opinion.

Logan & Bryan: We do not think that present conditions are of a nature to promote bullish activity at this time.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 29.—Apart from the absence of rain in the southern half of Texas, the map shows favorable conditions. The most favorable developments were the let-up in the heavy rainfall in the central and eastern states, where a spell of comparatively dry weather is desired in order to produce the best results. There were only a few light showers overnight in Oklahoma and the Atlantics, generally fair weather is shown in Texas and Oklahoma. Northwest Texas and Amarillo had .72 inch rain.

Indications are for generally fair weather in the west, except possibly some cloudiness over northwest Texas and western Oklahoma. Part cloudy in the central and eastern states with a few scattered showers.

Houston, Tex., today officially recorded the receipt of six new bales, making receipts to date 31 new, against 13 last year. This supports the contention that, owing to the uniformity of crop development, the movement of new cotton will increase much more rapidly this year when once started.

Liverpool was firmer than due by 2 points and quoted spots 2 points higher; sales 8,000 bales. Our market showed indecision, opinions varying as to wether to act on the bullish weather conditions in the west or to expect a bearish effect from the increase in the new movement reflected by the Houston recipts. First trades were at an advance of 3 to 5 points, which was soon lost.

Dick Rudolph, who seemed doomed to dwell indefinitely in the International league until rescued by George Stallings, has proved a consistent winner for the Braves, thus proving that "many a Gusher is left to blush unseen and waste his ability on minor league air."

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS QUIET AND LOWER

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Canadian Pacific and St. Paul Slightly Lower

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, 29.—Gains and losses were quite evenly distributed at the opening of today's stock market. Reading, Steel and Northern Pacific showed slight advances, while Copper, Union Pacific and Can were down half a point each. Wells-Fargo Express rose 9 points.

The market became reactionary in the first hour, such prominent issues as Union Pacific, Reading, Lebigh Valley, Canadian Pacific and Can declining a point or more. The few gains were confined to specialties or stocks of little speculative importance.

For the first time in over a week today's early stock market bore signs of having reached the limits of its rise, temporary at least. After an irregular opening the list soon manifested a heavy tendency. The decline was accelerated by renewal of bearish operations in several of the leaders. There were gains extending to 2 poins in the inactive class but that movement excited little interest. Crop news was not altogether reassuring and the statement of the treasury department relative to the decline in government 2's was depreciated in banking circles.

Bonds firm.

Some of the forenoon's decline was retrieved when selling orders were withdrawn. The recovery was not of much importance.

Fluctuations in stocks were unusually narrow most of the afternoon. Traders seemed to be waiting for some new impulse.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The following were the open, high, low, last sale and previous close quotations on the stock exchange today:

Buying of Erie stocks and bonds furnished the only interesting feature of the later dealings. Some of the favorites recovered to about yestrday's clos but towards the end there was some further price shading.

LONDON, July 29.—The stock market was quiet today with a generally good undertone, except in the Kaffir section which remained dull. Home rails gained fractionally and Mexican rails and consols were firm, but copper, oil and rubber shares weakened in the afternoon.

American securities opened steady and about unchanged. Light buying advanced prices from ⅛ to ⅞ during the forenoon but the market receded later and closed easier.

Good to choice steers, 1000 to 1,200 pounds, $5.50 to $6.50.

Good steers, 800 to 1,000 pounds, $5.25 to $6.00.

Medium to good steers, 700 to 850 pounds, $5.00 to $5.50.

Good to choice beef cows, 800 to 900 pounds, $4.50 to $5.00.

Medium to good heifers, 650 to 750 pounds, $4.00 to $4.50.

Medium to common steers, if fat, 800 to 900 pounds, $4.00 to $5.00.

Medium to common cows, if fat, 700 to 800 pounds, $3.75 to $4.25.

Mixed common, 600 to 800 pounds, $3.25 to $3.75.

Good butcher bulls, $3.50 to $4.00.

Prime hogs, 160 to 200 pounds, $8.85 to $9.00.

Good butcher hogs, 140 to 160 pounds, $8.70 to $8.90.

Good butcher pigs, 100 to 140 pounds, $8.50 to $8.60.

Light pigs, 80 to 100 pounds, $8.30 to $8.50.

Above quotations apply to corn-fed hogs: mast and peanut fattened, 1 to 1¼ cents under.

Yards fairly well supplied with cattle this week. Aside from two loads of choice Tennessee heifers, the run was badly mixed in quality and condition. These two loads were bought at the top figure of the week by the Atlanta packer. The market has ranged reasonably strong on the better kinds, which were scarce. Plain cattle were more plentiful, and prices varied, owing to quality and condition. A big percentage of the cattle were grassy and only about half fat; they were, therefore, mean and undesirable as killers. Prices ranged irregular and lower.

Tennessee lambs continue to come freely.

Barely enough hogs coming to supply demand. Market strong and higher.

THE WEATHER.

Atlanta and Vicinity: Fair tonight and Wednesday.

Georgia and Alabama: Local showers tonight or Wednesday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

A few local showers occurred during the past twenty-four hours in the eastern part of the cotton belt, but in diminishing quantities, only Jacksonville reporting over an inch. The atmospheric pressure is now moderately high over the southern states, including the Ohio valley, and conditions are generally not so favorable for showers.

Cloudy weather with showers, prevails in the New England and lake districts, and in the northwest.

Temperatures are higher in the central valley and east, reaching 80 degrees at 7 a. m., at St. Louis, Louisville and Memphis. An increasing number of stations reported over 90 degrees on Monday, the highest being 98 degrees at Abilene, 96 at Kansas City, Louisville and Phoenix, and 94 at Baltimore, Des Moines and Shreveport.

Conditions are favorable for fair weather tonight and Wednesday.

C. von HERRMANN,
Section Director.

WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Mean temperatures ranged from 1 to 3 degrees below normal, except in the central and southern portions of Texas and middle and east Tennessee, where there was an excess ranging from 1 to 3 degrees. Weekly mean temperatures ranged from 72 to 84 degrees over the eastern, from 78 to 82 over the central, and from 82 to 86 over the western portion of the cotton region. The lowest weekly mean temperautre, 72 degrees, occurred at Asheville, N. C., and the highest, 86, occurred at San Antonio and Taylor, Tex. Precipitation occurred generally over the cotton region except that there was none in parts of central and southern Texas and at a few stations in northwestern Oklahoma. More than two inches of rain fell during the week over the greater portion of the east gulf and south Atlantic states. In south Louisiana, at a few stations in Arkansas, north central Texas and south central Oklahoma. The greatest weekly amount, 8.20 inches, occurred at Donaldsonville, La., and there was more than 4 inches in a few other widely scattered localities.

LOWER CROP ESTIMATES CAUSED ADVANCE IN CORN

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 29.—Big receipts, fine weather and weak cables eased wheat. Prices, however, were steadied by the strength of coarse grain. Opened unchanged to ¼ lower. September, which started at 85¾@86 to 86@86⅛, the same at last night to ⅛ down, sagged to 85⅝c.

Wheat went up on short covering because of corn's rise. Closed easy, with September ½@⅝c higher at 86⅝c.

Corn ran up quickly on a general rush to buy owing to prospects of enlarged damage from heat and drouth. September opened ¼ to ½ higher at 63⅝ to 64⅛ and held near the top level.

Corn bulged on predictions of dry, hot weather being unabated tomorrow. Closed nervous at 65¼c for September, a gain of 1¾@1⅞c.

Improved eastern demand helped to lift oats. September started at 40½@40⅝, an advance of ¼ to ½, and ascended to 40¾@40⅞.

Provisions developed strength with corn. First sales were unchanged 7½c, higher including September options as follows. Pork $21.42½; lard $11.80; ribs $11.82½@11.85.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER

NEW YORK, July 29.—The market has ruled very steady all day on buying from the same sources as yesterday. Brokers representing spot interests have been principal buyers. Selling has come from the up-town crowd and wall street, apparently. The market is narrow, with transactions small. Until further weather developments a narrow market is looked for, with an upward tendency.—Anderson.

Saving and Investing

YOUR MONEY.

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

Perhaps one cent out of every dollar which investors send to Wall street to buy securities with is spent in trying to "get a line on" forthcoming legislation at Washington and (sometimes) at Albany.

Go on a tour of brokers' offices and intimate that you are looking for a chance to make an investment which will yield quick profits, and in about half of the offices you will hear something like this, spoken "in strictest confidence:"

"Our Mr. Blank has just come back from Washington, and he tells us that congress is certain to start an investigation of the A. B. & C. company. He has it from a man very close to the administration that the attorney general has an air-tight case against the company, and that suit is sure to be brought. You can see for yourself what effect that is going to have on the A. B. & C. company's common stock!"

And, as a matter of fact, their Mr. Blank has actually spent considerable time, and a lot of money, in Washington getting what he thinks is advance information as to what the government is going to do in that particular case.

Dave Lamar, when he recklessly promised to secure the support of Speaker Clark, of Senator Stone, of Representative Palmer, and others to any program which he and his friend Edward Lauterbach said was satisfactory to the big financial interests of New York, was only exaggerating a fairly common attitude of mind.

There is a deep-seated belief in Wall street that all legislation concerning finance can be directed if only enough money is used and if the right people are "seen."

Lobbyists and agents of the Lamar sort deceive both the wise men of Wall street and those representatives of the government at Washington who consent to listen to them, and the result is a mutual distrust and misunderstanding.

Legitimate investments are hurt, constructive legislation is hard to get, and genuine financial and currency reforms are vastly delayed because of the activities of the whispering tribe who pretend to know what is going on 'inside.'

With Alperman Out of Game Cracker Club Is Greatly Crippled

Ten Teams to Wage Hot Race For Big Prize

For Thirty Minutes Five Motor Teams Will Grind Around Quarter-Mile Saucer – Other Events Booked

Another long race is scheduled at the motordrome on Tuesday night, but just how long it will be depends entirely on the speed of the riders. The boys will race in teams of two for thirty minutes, neither rider being allowed to stay on the track for over twenty minutes.

This race will probably be something like forty miles as the marathon race of 26 1-4 miles was made in 19 minutes, 17 seconds.

The rules of the contest are as follows: A rider can call his partner as often as he pleases, provided that neither of the partners stay on the track over twenty minutes.

He must, however, descend into the paddock and touch his partner on the shoulder, which requires some time, and which will probably involve the lapping of some of the riders once or twice by the fast flying field.

No ladies need to stay away on account of fear that some one will be killed, as the riders are all skillful way, and it is not likely that anything in the nature of a serious calamity will occur. The nearest to an accident which has happened was the bursting of Tex Richard's tire in the marathon, which did not even throw him off his machine.

FIRST EVENT.

SECOND RACE.

FOURTH EVENT.

FIFTH EVENT.

SIXTH EVENT.

SEVENTH EVENT.

Hit in Ninth Won for Gulls

MOBILE, Ala., July 29.—The hospital corps of Crackers made things warm for the Gulls on Monday but ended by dropping the game in the last half of the ninth by the score of 6 to 5.

The Cracker aggregation looked altogether different from what it did on its last appearance in Mobile, as Harry Bailey was out of the game with a broken slat and Whitey Alperman was in the hospital under the surgeon's knife.

This combination, however, put up an errorless article of ball but could not find Culver with the exception of one inning, the eighth, when the Crackers scored three, tying the game up. In all the Atlanta team got only ten hits off Culver.

Mobile then took things in hand and scored four in her half of the inning and so things rocked along until the eighth when Long reached first on Stock's error, stole second, and remained there while Agler and Welchonce went out. Then Cap Smith blasted the pill over the right boundary for the circumference of the paths. Bisland then singled, advanced on Mahush's single and came all the way when Clark let the hit get by him.

The Crackers quit two on with no hands down in the ninth, but airtight fielding held them safe, while in Mobile's half of the ninth by Stock and Paulet and sacrifices by Starr and O'Dell netted the winning tally.

How to Swat The Horsehide

NEVER allow a pitcher to strike you out, or force you to knock it in the air.

Treat all pitchers alike. Hit any kind of a ball they serve, and hit it SQUARELY.

In case any one should follow these directions CLOSELY and fail to hit safely, he agrees to forfeit to that person the sum total of my fines for one month ($2,222,222.22). (Signed) Zinie Himmerman. "TANTO."

President Hedges, of the St. Louis Browns, threatens to sell out his interest in the club unless his team improves its standing by the end of the present season. We'd advise him to sell now if he can find a buyer.

"SCARE 'EM AND YOU WIN" IS ADVICE BY P. TEBEAU

"Hand-Shaking" Baseball Decried by Scrappy Leader of Old Cleveland Spider Baseball Club

BY PATSY TEBEAU.

Manager of Famous Cleveland Spiders.

Show me a ball club out there fighting every inch of the way and I'll show

We never thought of greeting our opponents. Our idea was to get out there and lick 'em, and lick 'em good and quick. I can see some guy sliding back to first with me playing the bag and getting his head bumped with the ball.

I haven't seen many games this year, but those I have seen were a lot different from the ones we played. The tactics were different. About a year ago I saw a fellow steal second. He came up all dust, and what do you think happened? Why, the second baseman helped him dust his uniform.

From what I've heard from Cleveland friends, Joe Birmingham is playing the same system the old "Spiders" used. That's why the Naps are winning. That's the real stuff! Rush the other guys off their feet. Make 'em think you're tough. Scare 'em to death and you got them licked.

We used to sit on the bench and file our spikes. They had to be sharp to give when they cut into the ground and at the same time the other team knew we wouldn't give an inch in a pinch.

One day I was sharpening my spikes when I heard a guy on the other team say, "When Tebeau slides into me you bet I'm going to get out of the way." I had him bluffed, see?

They're trying to tone down baseball and they are killing the interest. You don't have to poke any one in the jaw, step on, or kick a player to win, but you don't have to wear kid gloves, either.

Pretty soon some of these league presidents will be fining a man for sliding and soiling his uniform.

There's a difference between rowdyism and aggressiveness. The aggressive player will be on top when the parlor boy is at the bottom. Off the field, oh, well, that's different. On the field fight 'em to the last.

WEST FINDS COURT STARS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Developing tennis champions is the favorite pastime of Sidney Wurf, of this city, a man of wealth, who devotes his spare hours to the promotion of juvenile athletics. His success is measured by the progress of Maurice E. McLoughlin, United States champion; William M. Johnston, now in the finals for the Longwood cup at Boston, and John Strachan, winner of the National Clay court championship at Omaha.

This trio was graduated from the club which Mr. Marvin founded ten years ago and has directed since. It was Marvin's idea that, if through constant tournament play great accuracy could be combined with the speed developed on the asphalt courts of California, a series of champions would be produced.

Austrian Can't Throw Bothner

GEORGE BOTHNER.
HENRY IRSLINGER.

Although Henry Irslinger holds the Lord Lonsdsale belt, which is as heavy as a horse collar, with gold and silver ornaments and is emblematic of the middleweight wrestling championship of Europe, he failed dismally in his efforts to grind George Bothner, the peerless American, into the canvas. Irslinger, by the terms of the match, which was held in New York recently, was to throw Bothner three times within an hour. Instead of carrying this nifty idea to a finish, he came near losing all of his laurels to Bothner, who had the Austrian's shoulders almost to the mat four times. In the last five minutes of the match, Bothner opened up a big box of tricks, and when the final gong rang, Irslinger was very glad that school had let out, and it was time to go home.

Irslinger has enjoyed a rapid rise to the topmost position in his class abroad. He is twenty-four years old, is five feet eight inches in height, and weighs 161 pounds, although when necessary he can do the middleweight limit. He began wrestling six years ago as an amateur and disposed of all the champs in his home country, France and Germany. He won the big international amateur title in London in 1908, and a year later entered the professional ranks. As a pro he had never been near defeat until he met Bothner. The wonderful American grappler is well past the age when champions slip into the discard, and has practically retired from wrestling, but came out of his shell long enough to show the heavy Austrian that wrestling is not all beer and skittles.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

The Montgomery team was idle Monday on account of rain, while Mobile won from Atlanta. This pushes Atlanta in fourth place behind the Barons, who trimmed the hickless Pels twice. Atlanta is now seven games behind the leading team.

SOUTHERNERS WHO STARRED

Zach Wheat: Hit safely twice in four times up.

Gadsden Takes First From LaGrange Team

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 29.—In the first game of the series Gadsden shut out LaGrange by the score of 6 to 0. Beasley was not in good form. Frentz pitched fairly good ball and was the hitter of the day, getting two over the fence for home runs.

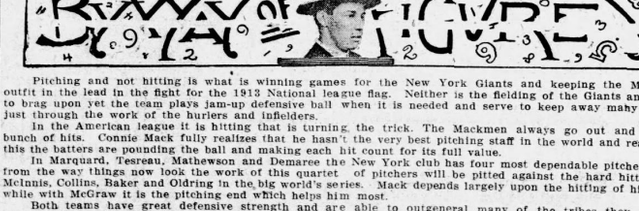

Brannen and Robinson made star plays, Brannen getting a swift one near the ground, and Robinson getting one some two feet over his head. Time of game 1 hour and 55 minutes. Umpire, White.

Clarke Works For Crackers

MOBILE, Ala., July 29.—In the third game of their series with Mobile the Atlanta club will use George Clarke in an effort to stop the fast flying Gulls. The southpaw's battery mate will be Joe Dunn.

For the locals Heinie Berger will fling, while Schmidt or Brown will work behind the guns, the latter having received an injury in the game on Monday.

Pitching and not hitting is what is winning games for the New York Giants and keeping the McGraw outfit in the lead in the fight for the 1913 National league flag. Neither is the fielding of the Giants anything to brag upon yet the team plays jam-up defensive ball when it is needed and serve to keep away mahy a run while with McGraw it is the pitching end which helps him most.

Both teams have great defensive strength and are able to outgeneral many of the tribes they go up against. During the past week, when five games were played, the Giants made 20 runs on 35 hits, winning 4 games and losing but 1. On the other hand in 6 games the Phillies made 62 hits and 35 runs and yet won but 4 of 6 games. This right here shows that the Giants are getting good pitching and the opposing clubs are making but few tallies. McGraw's bunch rarely makes many tallies and it takes good hurling to keep the club ahead in the run line.

Washington and St. Louis each scored 65 hits but played seven games and Washington only was able to score more than 33 runs, getting away with 39. New York scored fewest hits but the world's champion Boston club got away with the fewest number of runs.

ALL KICKING C. FRANK; TURN ABOUT FAIR PLAY

In Years Gone by, Frank Aided All Weak Teams–Now His Team Is in Bad, but He Gets Not a Bit of Help

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," is a saying which Charley Frank wishes would be adhered to by the seven other Southern league managers.

Time was when different Southern league clubs were in trouble and Frank came to their aid, but now that the Frank team is in a bad way, not one mogul offers to send him a player or so to aid in pulling through a most trying period. Many were willing enough in past seasons to accept aid from the genial Dutchman, but now they have forgotten these good turns and when Frank is in trouble they do not offer to help him in the least.

Until the present campaign Cholly Frank has always been right in the running for high honors, but this season he is somewhat down and out, his New Orflans club appearing hopelessly out of the running. When he was turning out crack clubs for the Pels he usually had two or three good players he was not using and was always willing to let a rival team have them as a loan. He saw there was no use in paying them fat salaries to sit on the bench when he did not need them and did a good turn for the rival club and league and let them go where they would be useful.

HELPED THE LEAGUE.

These many transfers were a great help in making the race closer and more exciting, which in the long run befitted the league. At that time everybody was a friend to the Dutchman and promised a good turn in return for his charity.

Now the worm has turned. Frank this season is somewhat all in, down and out. His team is playing bad ball. His players are suffering accident and accident, and yet but one rival mogul—Bill Schwartz, of Nashville—has offered to help the Dutchman. The boss of the Pels seems to be in bad and the rumor that he is to leave the league with the end of the present season is daily gaining strength. The other managers seem to have it in for him. But Cholly is not asking any quarter from any one of the bunch. He is going merrily ahead and buying new players that he hopes will put him in the running. And maybe he will get out of last place before the end of the season.

They are all willing to kick you when down and out, but when you are up in the running and can give out a little aid here and there you are the candy kid.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 29.—A double bill will be played by the Chattanooga and Montgomery baseball clubs this afternoon. Kroh and Bentley are billed to be on the points for the visitors in the first and Howell and Graham in the second. Case and Gribbens will be the local battery in the first game and Elmer Brown and Donahue in the last.

NEW ORLEANS, July 29.—New Orleans will wind up its long stay on home grounds this afternoon by playing Birmingham in a double-header. Foxen and Evans will work on the mound for the visitors and Walker and Gudger, the latter a Cotton States league recruit, will pitch for New Orleans. Mayer, for the visitors, and Angermier, for the locals, will do the catching. Because of Birmingham having to catch a train for home tonight, both contests will be limited to seven innings. The weather is threatening.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 29.—For the concluding series of games between the two teams for the season on the local grounds, Nashville will today probably select Williams and Gibson as their battery, while Memphis has scheduled Newton and Snell for like positions. The weather is clear and warm.

Chance Gets Player

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—It was announced last night that Manager Chance, of New York Americans, had purchased Outfielder Cook, of the Austin club of the Texas league, and Pitcher Cooney, of the Butte, Mon., club of the Union association. Cooney will join the New Yorks at once, but Cook will not report until fall.

YOUTH WILL SURELY WIN

LONDON, July 29.—Commenting on the outcome on the Davis cup tennis matches, the morning newspapers give the fullest credit to the Americans for thoroughly deserved victory and to Maurice E. McLoughlin for his splendid play. They then draw the moral that if Great Britain desires to hold her own in sports she must look south to her aid.

"Athletic contests are symptoms of national health and grit and the monotony of British defeat becomes depressing. We do not, however, grudge the victory."

The Daily Chronicle says McLoughlin's sudden advent into tennis has been as sensational as anything in the history of sport and that if he maintains his form it may be hara to dislodge the United Sttes from the championship for years.

Western Stars Rule Favorite

CHICAGO, July 29.—Playing for the first time on grass courts, California's new pair of tennis stars, John Strachan and Clarence Griffin fought their way through two rounds each in the western championship at Onwentsia. Neither experienced serious opposition, though Strachan found more capable opponents than did his fellow-townsman.

In Jerry Webber, of the Wanderer's club of Chicago, Strachan almost caught a tartar, but the opening games of each set he was returned victor, 6-2 and 6-3. Webber made a gallant fight in the second set and won the first three games, but, playing the aggressive style characteristic of coast players, Strachan came back with the next three games, all "love," and then took the next three.

Griffin defeated D. F. Wiley, of Evanston, in the opening match with practically no opposition on the part of the local man. The scores were 6-2, 6-4. Half an hour later Griffin's businesslike style had disposed of W. U. Knight, of Minneapolis, nearly as easily, 6-2, 6-1.

Kent McNeal, of Berwin, was Strachan's second victim, and in the second set he gave the San Francisco hard battler only to lose. The scores were 6-1 and 6-3.

A. Lindauer, Chicago, defeated J. D. Adoue, Dallas, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Youngsters Support Family by Boxing

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A spartan mother, Mrs. Catherine Shrier, appeared before Commissioner Newman today to obtain a permit for a public boxing match between her two sons, Don and Quincy. The commissioner asked their ages.

"Sure they've been boxing for six years. The boys are clever with their fists and they've earned their own keep, and that of their sister, too."

Much to Mrs. Shrier's surprise Commissioner Newman declined to issue the permit. He also made a few remarks about the tenderness of the ages of the two budding pugilists.

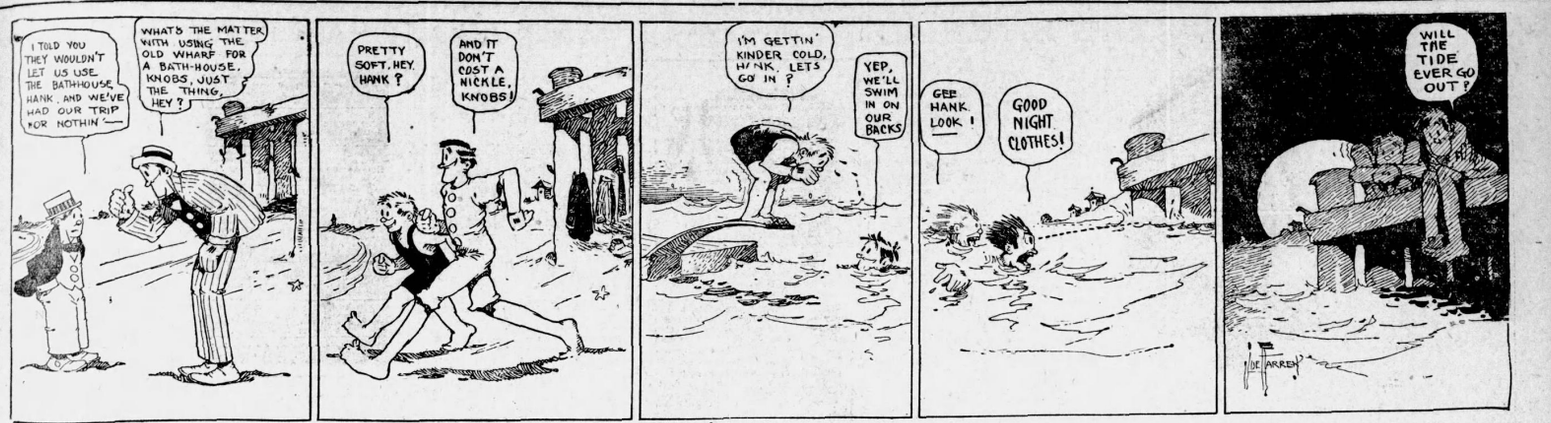

Brickley Is Signed For Mack's Outfit

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 29.—George Brickley, the nineteen-year-old brother of Charles Brickley, the Harvard football star, reported to the Philadelphia American league team here Monday. It is likely that Brickley will be given a chance to play in the outfield, as Rube Oldring may be out of the game for several days. Oldring was obliged to report to the club's physician day after eating soft shell crabs.

Perhaps it is because he never yet has heard of a star that Arthur Irwin is sometimes dubbed the king of scouts.

Come on, you Grand Old Winter League;
These clammy days of deep fatigue
Are enough to sap a fellow's reason,
Beyond the borders of the Rose
O, bring again the Old Stove's inning,
When valiantly across the snows
Our gallant ball club starts to winning.

Come on, famed season the dope;
Of "slagging find" and "all-star flinger";
Where once again eternal hope
Springs in the baseball breast to linger,
To linger through the days of chill,
Where every player is a hummer,
Through March and April, on until
We hit the chutes again next summer.

Come on, O merry Winter Time;
When "Mogul Jones predicts a pennant"—
When from the cellarette we climb
A tenant on the topmost hill,
Where every club becomes a hummer,
Through autumn, winter, spring—until
We hit the cuhtes again next summer.

Latin, they say, is a dead language. It isn't any deader than some sections of the English verbiage. As for example, that once popular phrase "Crucial Series," as applied to the two big leagues.

If any one cares to start an argument with Jack Miller, of Pittsburg, he can begin quickly by suggesting that Hans Wagner is all in. Jack and Hans are old time pals, and the younger player has seen the veteran kick in with too much stuff to believe that he will ever finish. "Honus will be all in," says Miller, "when he can't drag his glove into the diamond or when he is unable to push one of his hands in the general direction of the ball. You can play it for a pipe bet that he will be one of Pittsburg's stars for 1914 unless he loses both mitts in a sawmill."

THE ULTIMATE FRENZY.

We refuse to become keyed up over the White Hope situation or the world series this far ahead. But one must have one's thrill, so the only remaining frenzy in sight is whether or not the British golfing pros' will clean up the American contingent. Otherwise what is one to do unless Giants or Athletics decide to subsist exclusively upon a bichloride of mercury diet for the next ten days?

The Davis cup is all in—the pennant races are all in—and the white hopes have never been out. So those who don't care whether Harry Vardon uses a niblick or a toothpick are in for quite a yawn before the decision is finally made as to whether Bender will start against Mathewson or Marquard will open against Plank.

On the other hand there's the case of Gunboat Smith vs. J. Flynn and Jess Willard vs. A. Pelkey. This should lead to something, but for the life of us we don't see mto be able to put enough energy into the research to find out what it is.

We are sorry to disappoint the fanatic who requests us to mail him all box scores of big league games played for the last two years. We only hope that he will take it for granted there is nothing personal in our final decision to dmur.

The Yanks pick the Athletics to win the October series. We don't blame 'em. If some one had beaten us 15 out of 16 starts any shreds or vestige of our pride would be inclined toward the same forecast.

"Young Boehling lucky," states an exchange So war Caesar, but you've got to admit the guy had talent along certain lines.

RACING GAME MORE POPULAR

NEW YORK, July 29.—Insurance on thoroughbred race horses reaches into the millions every year. The action of August Belmont taking out a policy of $125,000 on his prize winner Tracery brings to light the enormous business that now exists on both sides of the Atlantic of insuring horses, many of them for big fortunes, against sickness or death.

Mr. Belmont's step in taking out a policy of $125,000 on his English thoroughbred Tracery is in line with other American owners, who in the past have protected themselves against loss with big insurance on their valued thoroughbreds.

The insurance rating of a horse is determined by his worth, and in the days when racing was at its zenith how many prize winners were insured for a king's ransom. The immortal Sysonby was underwritten for $100,000, and the late James R. Keene never hesitated to take out heavy policies on all his horses. Colin, Commando and other home thoroughbreds were all insured in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Shortly before racing died in this state in 1910 horse insurance was at its height. The business reached the tremendous total of about $2,000,000 a year. Brokers were as busy as beach 25¢ sawers on a hot day, for every horse had a value in those days, and owners and trainers lost little time in taking out policies. With the cessation of the sport three years ago the bottom fell out of the insurance business in this country. Like magic the values of thoroughbred horses dropped to nothing. High-priced animals were a rarity, and the insurance brokers practically shut up shop.

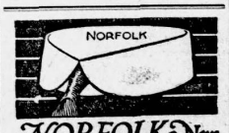

The insuring of horseflesh is a true barometer of the popularity of racing, and with the reasumption of the sport this spring the business quickly became active. In the opinion of Dan M. Quirk, a veteran horse insurance broker, policies are now taken out by American owners at the rate of about $1,000,000 a year.

According to Mr. Quirk, owners underwrite policies on their prize winners as a protection against mortality risks, but, judging by the recent suffragette outrages in England at the tracks, the foreign owners will be forced to insert accident clauses in the near future.

The usual rate of premiums charged on policies is from 5 to 5 1-4 per cent, but owners deem it a sound business transaction as a protection against sickness and death of their star horses while in racing condition.

Villa Rica Wins

VILLA RICA, Ga., July 29.—Bremen and Villa Rica baseball teams crossed bats Thursday afternoon on the local diamond. The game was very exciting up to the fifth inning, as the Bremen boys had the lead 1 to 0. Then Braswell, Villa Rica's star twirler, pulled together and held the Bremen boys scoreless, while his teammates piled up seven runs. The score stood 7 to 1 in favor of Villa Rica.

M'GRAW'S IDEAL BALL PLAYER IS A SENSATIONAL YOUNGSTER

GEORGE BURNS.

M'GRAW'S OPINION GEORGE BURNS.

"Burns has more natural playing strength than any outfielder I've seen in years. He may never be a Cobb or Speaker. By 'playing strength' I mean he is more proficient in all the things required of an outfielder. He is as clean a fielder as you ever saw, a great thrower, a good hitter and wonderful base runner."

When Manager Join McGraw praises a ball player, it is the unusual. The leader of the Giants is taciturn regarding his men, but he enthuses over George Burns, the recruit secured from Utica, of the New York State league team last fall.

Burns is a product of St. Johnsville, N. Y., which is at Utica's side door. He played ball for his native town, then for Utica, where "Sadie" McMahon, Giant scout, assigned by McGraw to find the best outfielder in the minors, saw him. McMahon claims he also saw Eddie Murphy at Baltimore, and could have had him for $1,500, but preferred Burns at $6,000, and McGraw says Burns is worth the difference. What Connie Mack, who has Murphy, says remains to be seen, but every time he looks at Murphy he grins.

Burns has won the New York fans by his hitting in the pinches. He has been an important cog in the making of runs. In addition, his wonderful throwing has saved games. He threatens to crowd "Red" Murray and Mike Mitchell for the honor of being the best thrower in the league.

Also, Burns is pretty certain to be left alone by the league bullies. He is the best boxer in the National, with the possible exception of Al Bridwell. He is also a pool shark. To a man the Giants will back Burns against any pool player in the league.

Players say Burns is a base-running marvel. He does both th e"hook" and "fall-away" to either side of the bag, something very few players are able to duplicate.

West Point Wins

WEST POINT, Ga., July 29.—The West Point Red Sox met and defeated the fast Hogansville team on the home grounds by the score of 7 to 3.

Jack Scheussler, crack pitcher of Georgia-Alabama league, was on the mound for the visitors, and was hit at will, the Red Sox scoring six runs in two innings.

West Point has the fastest team in this part of the country, and will defend their title in any part of the country.

MACKMEN HAVE YET TO DROP MORE THAN THREE STRAIGHTS

When a team can go through a complete season, the 154 games, and play a steady performance, day in and day out, without any slumps or sensational spurts, then it is going to be a pennant winner. That's why the Athletics are making such a runaway in the American league race this summer.

A little story in figures tells just why the Philadelphia club is so far out in front of the nearest contender. Connie Mack's team has not lost more than three games in a row so far this season. That happened only once. Detroit took three straights but dropped the fourth one recently when Eddie Plank buried a shutout game. Previous to this slump the most games the Athletics had lost in a row was two at a time, and what makes the record all the more marvelous is that this happened but once.

The recovery of championship form for Connie Mack and his Athletics really is the surprise of the 1913 campaign. They won in 1910 and 1911, and were the double world's champions, too. Then something happened a year back, and they exploded, with the Boston Red Sox succeeding the residents of Penn as the high rulers in the American league and as world's champions.

Last winter a majority of the dopesters picked the Red Sox to repeat. In analyzing the Athletics the "IF" was too prominent to predict a flag for Connie Mack again.

Eddie Plank had to keep going; Chief Bender had to come back; Mack had to get two outfielders to help along Oldring; a catcher had to arrive to take the places of Thomas and Lapp, who were slipping, and some young star flingers were needed to help out the veterans.

Well, all this happened, much to the surprise of baseball dope. And it has been this steady, consistent playing that has landed the Athletics on top with a percentage of .737.

Right off the reel on April 10, the Mackites started to claw and devour the Boston Red Sox. And it was this first blow, a record of six victories out of the first seven games with the 1912 monarchs, that started the Athletics on the path to this 1913 pennant.

The two clubs staged a seven-game series and the Red Sox won but one. The Sox never could recover, while the Athletics have never faltered a bit. And to play seventy-six games as the Athletics have and suffer but two losing streaks of two defeats in a row, is the secret of the Athletics' high place.

Until May 19-20 the coming champs had not lost two straight games. Then on May 19, Detroit won, 9 to 3, with young Wyckoff pitching for Mack. The next day the Tigers again triumphed, 8 to 7, in ten innings, with Stouck on the hill. But Eddie Plank came back with a 7 to 0 victory on the following day, so the Athletics pulled themselves together again.

The record of fifteen straight victories was put on shortly after that. On May 26 Walter Johnson tamed the Athletics 9 to 2, and the next defeat didn't arrive until the Browns licked the Pennsylvanians on June 11, 5 to 2. And during that period fifteen straight games were won.

Slump No. 2 was June 20-21 with the Boston Red Sox turning the trick. June 20 the Red Sox won 6 to 1, with Bush leaving against them. The next day the score was 5 to 4. On June 23, though, the Athletics routed their rivals 13 to 4.

Then there was nothing doing in the slump line until July 13, when the Mackmen lost a pair to the Tigers, with Bush and Bender pitching the first game and Houck dropping the second. On July 14 the Tigers repeated, with Bender and Bush doing the box work.

MAJOR CLUBS ARE SEEKING SERVICES OF KID WILLIAMS

Several major league scouts, who have seen the work of Claude Williams, Nashville's abbreviated left-hander, have been deeply impressed with his hurling and indications are that the youngster will sell for a rather nifty price in the next two or three weeks. Already two clubs—Cleveland and Cincinnati—have made bids for him, the highest offer listed at $2,500. It is probable that he will eventually fetch around $3,000.

Williams has but one drawback and that, his size. But in spite of the fact that he is something under five feet nine inches, the kid is built along powerful lines. He has a deep chest and his back and arm muscles are unusually well developed. His chief attraction to critics is his "form," which is nearly perfect, when working in the box, and during the past few weeks he has demonstrated the ability and nerve to make a winner. Getting off to a bad start, the kid is now the only consistent winner on the team and it is his work that is doing much to keep the locals off the bottom.

Williams is hardly "ripe" yet to stick in the majors, and if bought, will more than likely be farmed back to Nashville for another year.—Nashville Tennessean.

Gamblers in League With Ball Players

CHICAGO, July 29.—President Murphy, of the Chicago Nationals, has asked for a special meeting of the National commission to consider charges that local gamblers receive inside information on the line-up of the Cubs. He wrote today to President Garry Herrmann, of the commission, stating that an immediate investigation should be made.

"I do not understand how any one connected with the team could be in league with the gamblers, because even I do not know who is going to pitch until the game is about to start," said Murphy, "but it seems there is a leak somewhere."

Golfers Will Enter Tourney

Members Capital City Country Club Taking Up the Game Rapidly

Since the announcement that a golfing tournament over the well kept links of the Capital City Country club would be held beginning Saturday, scores of golfers have played each afternoon and are getting in shape to make good scores. The tournament is for the president's trophy and it is expected that half a hundred will qualify.

The tournament which starts Saturday is the first held over the Brookhaven course since the Capital City club took charge. The course is now in fair condition and a record score is likely to be hung up. J. McKenzie, the club professional, has worked diligently for the past four months and has succeeded in getting the putting greens in as good shape as possible, while the fair greens are being improved each week.

On Saturday ten qualify round is to be played; the net scores counting in the arrangements of the flights. Handicaps will apply in the play for the trophies, the winner of the tournament getting a handsome cup, while the winner in each flight will be awarded a trophy. The entry book is now open and all should enter as early as posible.

JOURNAL WANT AD Horoscope

JULY 30.

This is the birthdate of Thomas Grey, the poet, who was born July 30, 1771, and his fine poetic nature shows the best characteristics of the Leo born.

The governing planet of this birthdate is the Sun. The sign of the Zodiac of this birthdate is Leo, meaning lion, and giving courage and endurance. Many of the most noted philosophers, poets, novelists and musicians were born on this date.

It is one of the best signs of the Zodiac to be born in, because it is surrounded by solar fluids which will draw great success vibrations and which make orators of this birthdate glow with inspiration, wielding great power over multitudes of people.

When favorably placed in a nativity the Sun promotes a fortunate and honored life. Women of this birthdate make excellent wives and mothers, and men of this birthdate are generous providers.

Another famous writer and lecturer who was born on this date, was Jones Burdette, humorist and lecturer, who was born July 30, 1844.

Teachers will find The Journal Want Ads helpful in getting new positions. Nurses will be desirably located through The Journal Want Ads, and all that relates to the home will be under the beneficient planetary conditions for the coming week.

Some Want Ads are inserted free in The Journal—see first Want Page. For charge ads, ask that they be sent for, or telephone them to Main 2000 or Atlanta 423.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

THE COUNTY FAIR

As special efforts are being made by every fair association in the country to encourage the growing of more poultry and live stock, they have been liberal in offering large premiums and making splendid provision in the shape of good barns and poultry buildings for these departments. The management of the different fair associations are beginning to realize that our people must diversify their farming operations, and through no other channel or line of work can the farmer be gotten at in a better way to see these things han through the exhibits at differen fairs. With the liberal premiums that are offered, and nearly every fair having secured experienced men to place the awards, the educational work that will be done this season at the different fairs over the south in this line will be worth millions of dollars to the south. The effects of the past few years is now being seen in nearly every community. There are probably more good colts in the state of Georgia today than ever was known before. The cause of this is largely the agitation of the raising of these colts, offering small premiums to induce people to take more interest than ever, and it certainly is bearing fruit. Georgia can produce as good colts and horses as anywhere in the world, and when this is done, millions of dollars will be kept in Georgia that have gone out of the state heretofore.

This same thing can be said of hogs. Of course, the hog industry got a bad backset last year on account of so much hog cholera, but, as this dreaded disease is so easily avoided, and nothing but laziness being the excuse for a man having this trouble hereafter the hog business in the south will boom from now on. There will be many exhibits of hogs at the different fairs this fall, and it certainly is the place to distribute this class of thoroughbred stock. Cattle is one thing that should be paid more attention to, but that will gradually come. Poultry has already been on the boom for the past two years, but not one-half as much interest is worked up as there will eventually be.

The distribution of good cotton, corn and other seed is being made by the work that is being done at the fairs. The farmers can see the difference in this work with their own eyes, and, naturally, year by year, by encouraging and showing them things that they thought before were never possible, it is getting them to study and pay more attention to the selection of good seed, live stock and poultry than ever before, and the work that is being done in each of the southern states through the little county fairs and the state fairs is of untold value. No estimation in dollars and cents can be placed on this work as it grows from year to year, and when the right men are behind these fairs they have a telling effect on every community for years to come.

Nearly every little town of any size in the state of Georgia this year will hold its county fair, and it brings together the people in a more friendly way than any other work that can be done; and the beauty of it all is that thousands of dollars' worth of live stock and poultry and seed are exchanged and much money put in circulation that would never be circulated if it were not for these fairs. And those who are encouraged to want to learn and be benefited by these public exhibitions certainly have an opportunity to better their financial condition for a small investment and a small amount of time through the sudy and knowledge that they gain at these fairs than can be had by any other method. It is surprising the good they are doing. Many good farm implements are exhibited and put in use in different parts of the country that are saving lots of labor that would never be used or known of if the implement concerns did not exhibit them and let the farmer see of how much value they are. On every western fair ground can be seen acres of farming implements—engines, machinery, etc., of all kinds—and the farmers who are compelled by scarcity of labor in these sections to use these implements have an opportunity to select just what they want from these public exhibitions. This same thing can be said of all kinds of poultry and live stock, and it is gradually coming in all parts of the south. Strong competition and scarcity of labor are forcing the southern planters to see things, and they are being benefited through the work of the little county fairs today probably to a greater extent than any other line of work that is being done.

Every farmer and all of his employes should by all means exhibit something off their farms at the fairs this fall, or spend a day inspecting the exhibits that others are making. You can certainly learn something, and it would be the best time and money you could possibly spend. No one realizes the importance of this more than I, as I have, during the past thirty years, visited hundreds of fairs in different parts of the country, and have seen the good they are doing; but it is certainly discouraging to visit our small county fairs and see how far we are behind compared to the eastern and western fairs, that have been forced from necessity to take up this work many years ahead of us. However, we have so many advantages over them that we will eventually take these things into consideration, and I hope some day to see the value of this work as much as our eastern and western people have seen many years a[illegible]is.

Yours very truly,

OUR North and South Side deliveries leave the store at 9 o'clock. Inman Park and West End deliveries at 2 p. m. Orders placed before these hours will be delivered same day.

IT'S TIME to feed Pratt's Poultry Regulator. It hastens laying maturity, insures quick and complete moult. That means fall and winter eggs, which bring the big prices. Your money back if it fails. 25c, 50c and $1 package.

12 CENTS PER HEN per year is all it costs to keep your hens in profit-paying condition on Pratt's Poultry Regulator. Worth trying, don't you think.

WON'T hurt hen or chicks or even taint eggs in nests, but it does get the ice. That's our money back guarantee on every package of Conkey's Lice Powder. 25c, 50c and $1 package.

THERE'S profit in poultry when you keep them free from lice and disease. Conkey's Knoxicide is an all-round dip, disinfectant, spray and lice liquid; easy to use and cheap, as it mixes with 50 to 100 parts of water. 35c pt., 60c qt., 90c ½-gal., $1.50 gal.

SOREHEAD is about the worst disease that Southern chickens are heir to, and it is just about time for it to appear. Get a box of Conkey's or Pratt's Sorehead Remedy; it is guaranteed to cure this dread disease.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Peachtree Heights Residence Brings Around $10,000—Ponce de Leon Avenue Residence Sale—Growth of Country Colonies Around Atlanta—Canada Would "Show" American Agents—Business Changes Forecast—Building Note

The main activity just now is in residences or residence lots. Two more sales of residences were announced on Tuesday.

The Robert A. Ryder Realty company has sold for L. B. Rhodes to Mrs. Victoria MacArthur a residence property in Peachtree Heights for about $10,000.

This is on the north side of Peachtree road. There is a two-story, nine-room house on a lot 80x425.

PONCE DE LEON SALE.

R. C. Taylor has sold to Dr. William T. Asher No. 532 Ponce de Leon avenue for $9,500.

This is on the north side of the street 223 feet east of Bonaventure street, and consists of a residence on a lot 55x223.

GROWTH OF RESIDENCES.

In speaking of the growth of Atlanta, one generally refers to its skyscrapers and other busines buildings, forgetting for the moment that the residence development of the city has been equally as remarkable.

Far out on Peachtree road, on the Plaster's Bridge road (now Piedmont avenue), on the Howell Mill and Pace's Ferry roads, the automobile passes houses costing from $10,000 to $25,000 on estates that once consisted of a cotton field and a lone cabin.

The automobile and the development of a fine system of county roads are responsible for this change.

Another feature is the establishment of country clubs. There is a lot of residence development around Brookhaven, the Capital City club's country club, just as there is a flourishing colony of expensive houses around East Lake.

The old idea, before the automobile annihilated distance and when water and sewer systems were confined to the city limits, was for the well to do citizen to build a shack in the country for summer use only—as a vacation camp.

Now he builds a mansion several miles out and lives there the year round, keeping within walking distance of the golf course and the tennis court and depending on his automobile or long distance trolley to get to his office.

This explains the enhancement of country acreage.

CONVENTION PROGRESS.

The Canadian government and the railroads are interested in this meeting as well as the real estate agents themselves. Recently there has been an intimation in some American newspapers that Canada was overdoing the real estate boom, and that the pace up there was too swift to be safe.

By having American agents on the spot and taking them on excursions through the Canadian northwest, Canada wants to show that there is some basis for the real estate activity of that section.

RENTING NOTES.

On the first of September there will be a good many changes in business locations, and a good many agencies are now closing for new leases, some of these calling for new buildings or else additions or improvements on present structures.

BUILDING NOTES.

Work has started on the new building of the D. Greenfield estate on South Forsyth street.

This building is on the east side ot the street north of Mitchell street. It will be one-story and basement and consist of stores, occupying a frontage of over 100 feet.

The United Cigar Stores company has leased a store at the northeast corner of Mitchell and Forsyth streets, the first lease this company has made on the south side.

This corner was formerly owned by Martin Amorous. He sold it to Asa G. Candler for $5,000 a front foot, a new record for Mitchell street.

CHINESE REPUBLIC LOSES PROVINCE OF HU NAN

Cities in Loyal Provinces Are Rebellious, and Vice Versa

(By Associated Press.)

PEKING, China, July 29, 5:30 p. m.—The province of Hu Nan seceded from the Peking government on July 25, according to a consular report just received here. The strength of the Hu Nan forces on the border of the province of Hu Peh is variously reported at from 1,500 to 8,000 men.

General Li Yuen Heng, vice president of the republic, who is conducting operations in central China from Wu Chang, declared recently that his forces were capable of dealing with the revolt in both Kiang Si and Hu Nan, but today's reports announce the defection of a small body of troops on the Han river above Wu Chang.

It is impossible to draw a border line between the rebellious and the loyal provinces, for many cities in the rebel provinces declare themselves loyal and some of the cities in the loyal provinces have gone over to the rebels. It is known, however, that important rebel forces are operating in the provinces of Kiang Su, Siang Si, Ngan Hwei, Hu Nan, Fo Kien and Kwang Tung.

Four of the southern provinces, Kwei Chow, Kwang Si, Yun Nan and Che Kiang, although surrounded by seceders, remain loyal, but Ho Nan in the north is believed to be loyal only because of its geographical position.

In the meantime active hostilities continue on the borders of Mongolia and Tibet and in the westermost province of Sin Kiang, or Chinese Turkestan.

COLUMBUS TO PENSACOLA, IS PROPOSED RAIL LINE

Boards of Trade Co-operating and Early Success Is Predicted

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 29.—A direct rail line between Columbus and Pensacola, Fla., is to be established at an early date, that will mean much for the shipping interests of both cities and points intervening, according to transportation committees of the Columbus board of trade and the trade body of Pensacola, who have been in correspondence on the subject for some time. The idea is to extend the present line of the Central of Georgia railroad from Andalusia to Pensacola, which would give the road a deep water outlet, and greatly increase the volume of its business all along the route.

It is stated by Secretary Powell, of the board of trade, that surveyors have already gone over the proposed route, and that the management of the road is being given every encouragement by both the business interests of Columbus and Pensacola. In the opinion of Secretary Powell, it will be only a question of time, for preliminaries, before the proposed extension will be made.

ORDER 21-2-CENT RATES ON TWO ALABAMA ROADS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 29.—The Western Railway of Alabama and the Central of Georgia railroad must establish a two and one-half cent passenger rate on their lines in Alabama. Following the victory when the federal judges refused to garnt the Louisville and Nashville railroad a permanent injunction last Thursday, the railroad commission held a meeting Monday afternoon and ordered the lower passenger rate on the two lines.

The lower rate will have to be established in twenty days or before August 17 unless the railroads appeal to the federal court, which is considered improbable.

GENERAL MILLS REPLIES TO ANDREW CARNEGIE

Says Kaiser Has Enforced Peace by Warlike Preparations

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—General A. L. Mills, U. S. A., head of the militia department of the war department, today issued a statement taking sharp exception to the praise awarded by Andrew Carnegie to Emperor William as the greatest exponent of world peace. The officer declares the German ruler has enforced peace largely by constantly preparing for war. Thus, he contends, the arguments of those preaching disarmament are completely answered.

ZACHRY STARTS FIGHT TO RECOVER DAUGHTER

Augusta Lawyer Will Bring Action in South Carolina Courts

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 29.—Julian J. Zachry, of Augusta, will institute proceedings in the South Carolina courts for the possession of his daughter, Mildred, three years of age, who was brought here by her mother, Mrs. Mary W. Zachry, when she fled from Augusta with the two little girls, upon the court awarding them to Zachry.

The latter declares he is not going to ask only for thecustody of his oldest child and is willing to leave the younger in the custody of the mother. He has engaged attorneys and will begin court proceedings at once.

JOURNAL WANTS are quick in action and cost but a minimum. Bell phone Main 2000 or Atlanta phone 423.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten it.

There is some dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of child-birth. But, thanks to a remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, the period is one of joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is a penetrating, external application. It makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and homes.

Thousands of women know from experience Mother's Friend is one of our greatest contributions to happy motherhood. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Especially recommended as a preventive of caking breast.

LEGAL NOTICES.

GEORGIA, Fulton County.—To the Superior Court of said County.

The petition of E. H. Davis, of Spalding county, Georgia, and J. D. Belser, of Fulton county, state of Georgia, respectfully shows:

That they desire for themselves, their associates and successors, to be incorporated and made a body politic under the name and style of "DAVIS & BELSER COMPANY," for the period of twenty years.

(2.)

The principal office of said company shall be in the city of Atlanta, state and county aforesaid, but petitioners desire the right to establish branch offices within this state or elsewhere, whenever the holders of a majority of the stock may so determine.

(3.)

The object of said corporation is pecuniary gain to itself and its shareholders.

(4.)

(5.)

The capital stock of said corporation shall be One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) with the privilege of increasing same to the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) by a majority vote of the stockholders, said stock to be divided into shares of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each. Ten per cent of the amount of capital to be employed by them has been actually paid in.

Petitioners desire the right to have the subscriptions to said capital stock paid in money or property taken at a fair valuation.

Petitioners further desire to issue common and preferred stock in such proportions as the stockholders may determine.

Petitioners desire the right to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, to have and use a common seal, to make all necessary by-laws and regulations, and to do all other things that may be necessary for the successful carrying on of said business, including the right to buy, hold and sell real estate and personal property suitable to the purposes of the corporation, and to execute notes and bonds as evidence of indebtedness incurred, or which may be incurred, in the conduct of the affairs of the corporation and to secure the same by mortgage, security deed, or other form of lien, under existing laws.

(7.)

They desire for said incorporation the power and authority to apply for and accept amendments to its charter of either form or substance by a vote of a majority of its stock outstanding at the time. They also ask authority for said incorporation to wind up its affairs, liquidate and discontinue its business at any time it may determine to do so by a vote of two-thirds of its stock outstanding at the time.

(8.)

They desire for said incorporation the right of renewal when and as provided by the laws of Georgia, and that it have all such other rights, powers, privileges, and immunities, as are incident to like incorporations or permissible under the laws of Georgia.

Wherefore, petitioners pray to be incorporated under the name and style aforesaid with the powers, privileges and immunities herein set forth, and as are now, or may hereafter be, allowed a corporation of similar character under the laws of Georgia.

DAUGHTER OF HARRIMAN IS ROBBED OF JEWELS

Mrs. C. C. Rumsey Loses Gems Worth $75,000—One Necklace Worth $60,000

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—Gems valued at $75,000 including a rope of pearls worth $60,000 were stolen from the home of C. C. Rumsey at Narragansett Pier during the twenty four hours ending Sunday night. Mrs. Rumsey was a daughter of the late E. H. Harriman. The theft was made known today.

The rope of pearls was given to Mrs. Rumsey by her mother and had a sentimental value far in excess of its intrinsic worth. Other jewels stolen include the following:

Diamond brooch.

Gold watch fob.

Mrs. Rumsey's home was entered some time between 8 o'clock Saturday night and the same hour Sunday. How the thief entered the house, whether Mrs. Rumsey was at home at the time and other details of the robbery were known at the office of the Harriman estate in New York.

The theft had not been reported to the police this afternoon and Mr. Tegetoff, secretary to the late E. H. Harriman, who made the announcement, said that private detectives were working on the case and probably would handle it independently of the police.

"Seventy thousand dollars is a conservative estimate of the value of the jewels which were stolen," Tegetoff said.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ADEL, Ga., July 29.—Henry Castellaw, a negro brakeman, was killed and H. P. Wrigley, conductor; Engineer S. S. Mann and Jim Fruitticher were slightly injured in a head-on collision of two heavy freight trains near here this morning at 4:45 oclock.

The wreck is said to have been due to the failure of the southbound train to get orders at Adel.

ROME CHURCH CALLS ATLANTA MINISTER

Rev. J. R. Harris Offered Pastorate of First Christian Church

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., July 29.—Dr. J. R. Farris, of Atlanta, Sunday school evangelist of the Christian church, has been called to the pastorate of the First Christian church of Rome. Dr. Farris has the call under consideration, but has not yet announced his decision.

The pulpit of the First Christian church is now vacant, owing to the resignation of Rev. Dr. George P. Guthrell, who will leave on August 14 for Brownwood, Texas, where he has accepted the pastorate of the First Christian church. He has been in Rome for the past five years, and leaves because the health of Mrs. Guthrell demands a western residence.

CHINATOWN FIRE CLAIMS LIFE OF WHITE WOMAN

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—One of the ramshackle tenements of the Chinatown district proved to be a trap in which the white wife of a Chinaman was burned to death and from which several other persons were taken, seriously burned during a fire early this morning.

Nearly fifty persons were asleep in the house when the fire broke out and, knew nothing of their peril, until aroused by the police and firemen. Mrs. Steven Lee, twenty-five years old, was found fatally burned and her Chinese husband and a white girl named Fannie Miller, in the same room with Mrs. Lee, may also die from burns received before the firemen reached them.

There were several spectacular rescues which a large crowd of Chinese sightseers witnessed.

Stovall, Diplomat, Is Still Stovall The Newspaper Man

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 29.—Colonel Pleasant A. Stovall, editor of the Savannah Press, and ambassador to Switzerland, remained the newspaper man to the last on his trip up the coast on the steamship City of Atlanta.

While a passenger on that vessel bound to New York he ran into one of the best news stories the coastwise steamship service has "turned" in in a long time. On Friday while off the coast of North Carolina the City of Atlanta ran into a small boat sent out with five men from Cape Lookout to get some mail. Three of the men were drowned.

The editor saw it all from the deck of the ship and as soon as he got to New York he sat down and wrote a graphic description of the whole scene and sent it special delivery to his paper in Savannah. It appeared here yesterday afternoon. President Wilson has not added a good newspaper man by turning him into a diplomat.

THOUSANDS OF FARMERS ATTEND THE INSTITUTE

Estimated That 36,000 Have Been Reached by Farm College Propaganda

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ATHENS, Ga., July 29.—At the sixty farmers' institutes conducted by the State College of Agriculture and the other extension workers operating in connection from the government department there have been about twice as many mature farmers attending than at this stage of the itinerary last summer.

Up to this stage of the circuit of the state in the summer of 1912 according to the report of the secretary of the extension work, Mr. G. E. Firor, there had been 18,000 farmers attending the institutes.

This year up to and including yesterday's institute there have been more than twice that number, 36,000 farmers in actual attendance.

The largest attendance was at Donaldsonville, where 2,000 were present at the rally institute. Fort Gaines had 1,500, Talbotton furnished 1,200 and Duluth in an entirely different part of the state had the same number.

Other towns where there were from 150 to 1,000 in attendance were Dalton, Jesup, Kingsland, Statesboro, Wadley, Tifton, Moultrie, Pidcock, Perry, Danielsville, Cairo, Meigs, Ellaville, Douglasville, Summerville, LaFayette, Carrollton, Clarkesville, and others.

At the other places there was an average attendance for each of about 100—except at Eastman where there was the only failure in the entire summer trip, and this failure was due to lack of local advertising of the event in the local papers or otherwise.

DEMANDS INVESTIGATION OF NEW YORK BANKERS

Congressman Wants McAdoo's Charge, in Regard to Bonds, Sifted

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—An investigation of the charges of Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department, that New York bankers had organized a campaign to depreciate the price of government 2 per cent bonds on which the present currency is based, was demanded in a statement issued today by Chairman Henry, of the house rules committee.

Chairman Glass, of the house banking committee, declared that the committee was fully occupied considering the administration currency bill and that it did not propose to be diverted from its purpose.

Mr. Glass and other members of the committee, however, declare they shared the opinion of Secretary McAdoo as to the reasons for the depression in the price of the 2 per cent bonds.

The statement issued by Representative Henry was in part as follows:

"The secretary of the treasury should be summoned before the committee on banking and currency instanter and reveal the facts to the American people, as their agent, and the head of every great bank in New York should be sent for at the earliest possible moment, placed upon the stand before the banking and currency committee and grilled most thoroughly in order that the American people may know the exact facts about this controversy.

"The secretary can and doubtless will demonstrate exactly how these gentlemen manipulate the market, put up and down prices of United States bonds and control the financial destinies of the American people."

INDUSTRIAL INDEX BOOSTS LAGRANGE

Will Have 32-Page Supplement Showing City's Progress

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 29.—This week's issue of the Industrial Index will have a thirty-two-page magazine supplement, the entire supplement being deovted to a portrayal of the remarkable progress of the city of LaGrange in the six or eight months.

A short time ago the editor of the Index sent a representative to LaGrange to write an article for the regular edition descriptive of the progress of the town. He was so amazed at the remarkable work in progress, that he went back to the home office and told them the progress of LaGrange was so wonderful as to be well worthy a special magazine section.

The supplement will be profusely illustrated with the finest kind of copper faced half-tone cuts, and will give LaGrange the largest boost she has yet received. The Index covers thoroughly the commercial south, and this kind of recognition of LaGrange by such a publication will mean much for the town.

NEW HOTEL IS PLANNED BY ROME STOCK COMPANY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., July 29.—A stock subscription of $60,000 has been raised in Rome by local capital entirely for the purpose of erecting a new and modern fireproof hotel at the corner of Broad street and Fifth avenue.

The hotel will occupy the site of the historic old Choice house, one of the oldest buildings in Rome, which will on September 1 be torn down to make room for the new structure.

Clock Winder Got Greetings Intended For State Official

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The nomination of Charles S. Hamlin, of Boston, to be assistant secretary of the treasury, recalled to old treasury employes today a humorous incident that occurred when Mr. Hamlin occupied the same position during the Cleveland administration. This is the reminiscent story:

The minister of finance of Canada came to Washington to discuss custom matters and Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle notified Mr. Hamlin, who had charge of customs questions, that the minister was in the treasury department and would call upon him. In a few minutes a man of distinguished bearing with flowing side whiskers, and trimly dressed in a frock coat, entered the assistant secretary's office. Mr. Hamlin greeted him effusively in a manner becoming the dignity of a foreign cabinet officer. They clasped hands and each bowed in courtly fashion. The greeting continued at the bowing stage until the official discovered his visitor was deaf. He then yelled his words of welcome and the stranger, who seemed nonplused, suddenly swung his free hand from behind the back and presented a salad fork with the exclamation:

"Don't you think I made a good job of it?"

The visitor of the artistocratic mien was found to be the official clock winder of the treasury department, who had repaired the fork for Mr. Hamlin's private secretary.

FIGHT IN CONGRESS OVER PENSION BUREAU

Republicans Charge Democrats With Political Favoritism

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A sharp fight in congress is threatened as the result of alleged wholesale changes and demotions in the pension bureau, in which many old soldiers are said to have been the sufferers. Representative Austin, of Tennessee, a Republican, already has offered a resolution in the house calling on Secretary Lane of the interior department, for information concerning the alleged shake-up, especially as to whether civil service rules are being violated.

The activity of the Republicans is said to be based on the report that when Pension Commissioner Saltzabey returns to his post there will be further and more sweeping changes. Acting Commissioner Tieman is reported as saying that employes with Democratic affiliations and beliefs will be given preference on the ground that a force in sympathy with the administration is necessary to satisfactory work. Denial was made by Mr. Tieman, however, that political faith would be the prime requisite. Personal worth and official record of service he said, would likewise carry weight.

CHURCH FUNDS INVOLVED IN TRIAL OF CLERGYMAN

Rev. C. S. Davidson Said to Have Raised Large Sums for Missions

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BUCHANAN, Va., July 29.—Charges against Rev. Charles Steele Davidson, former rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Atlanta, Ga., and of Holy Apostles, Brooklyn, N. Y., who recently created a sensation by burning his vestments and prayer books at the gate to Monticello, Jefferson's home, near Charlottesville, and then making an attack on the Episcopal church in a public statement in which he renounced his allegiance to the church, have reference, it was learned here today, to the use of funds which the clergyman procured through appeals made to members of the church in various parts of the country to further mission work which he conducted in this section for a year or two before he was transferred to the assistant rectorship of Christ church, Charlottesville.

It is said the minister obtained several thousand dollars by this means, most of the funds reaching him in "coin" cards which he mailed with circular letters asking for financial aid.

It is also said that when the postal authorities got to work on the case the church officials asked to be allowed to conduct the investigation privately and this was agreed to.

The charges, it is stated, on good authority, will be prosecuted at an early date, by the committee named by Bishop Randolph, of the southern Virginia diocese, despite reports to the contrary.

Mr. Davidson's friends express confidence that he will be able to duly exonerate himself. It develops that he was transferred to Charlottesville on his month's parole and this expired July 1, the date on which he is reported to have resigned.

Y. W. C. A. Girls Revolt When Ordered to Ban Bloomers for Skirts

(By Associated Press.)

LA CROSSE, Wis., July 29.—Bloomers, which twenty-five girls in the Young Women's Christian association camp at Riversview, just north of here, have worn as their preferred camp attire, have been ordered suppressed by the matron, Miss Bertha Hoefke. Because of the constantly passing stream of motorboats and steamers this dress is declared immodest and the girls were ordered to wear skirts.

The young women, who find the bloomers more convenient than hobble skirts for hill climbing and rambling through the woods, are in revolt against the order, but have been told they will have to wear skirts or leave the camp.
