OLD ST. AUGUSTINE IS SWEPT BY FIRE; LANDMARKS BURNED

Florida, Munson, Clairmont, Atlantic and Central Tourist Hotels Destroyed – Two Guests Are Injured

MANY TOURISTS LOSE PERSONAL BELONGINGS

Occupants of Buildings Barely Had Time to Flee—Property Damage Is Between $500,000 and $750,000

(By Associated Press.)

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., April 2.—Fire early today destroyed five tourist hotels, the St. Johns county courthouse and a number of residences here. So far as is known, no lives were lost, though many guests at the Florida, Munson, Clairmont, Atlantic and Central hotels, which were destroyed, escaped scantily clad and had no time to save their personal belongings. The flames were checked late this forenoon. Property damage is estimated at between $500,000 and $750,000.

Two persons were injured, one of them probably fatally by jumping. Mrs. Alice M. Smith, of Amherst, Nova Scotia sustained a broken back when she plunged from the second story of a residence. A. Libby, a guest at the Florida, broke a leg in leaping from the second floor of the hotel. He will recover.

LANDMARK BURNS.

The Vedder house, a famous landmark containing valuable curios collected by the St. Augustine Historical society, was among the buildings destroyed.

A company of militia today guarded the devastated section to prevent looting.

Nearly two blocks near the water front were destroyed. For a time the entire business section of the city was endangered, the flames were checked after heroic work by local fireman and a section of the Jacksonville fire department, which arrived on a special train shortly before daylight.

GUESTS CARRIED OUT.

The fire originated in the kitchen of the Florida, a large wooden structure, and spread rapidly. The first alarm was turned in at 1 o'clock. Firemen were unable to check the conflagration, however, until it had reached the Atlantic hotel, a block away. Guests at the Florida, many of whom were carried down ladders. Occupants of the other hostelries were warned of the danger, many of them fled into the streets without any attempt to save their personal belongings.

The burned section was bounded by Charlotte, Treasury, Hypolita, and St. George streets.

BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

The buildings destroyed, follow: Florida house, Atlantic house, Clairmont hotel, Central hotel, Power boat house on the bay front, Lynn two story brick building, Charcoal Rogero residence, court house, Mrs. Lida Smith residence, Genova theater, Nook cottage, J. L. blacksmith shop, Nook cottage, J. L. Fuller residence, Gould T. Butler residence and cottage, Atlantic house, George W. Corbett residence, Dr. G. W. Potter residence, Old Vedder building, which contained the historical collection of the Historical society, all of which were lost; Joseph Peck building, Vedder building, Masonic building, Monson cottage and several smaller cottages.

Buildings damaged by flames: Lynn frame building; Magnolia hotel, Nourey paint shop, Deardoff residence and other smaller structures.

Valuable records which were stored in the court house were saved and it is not believed the records in the fireproof vaults of the county clerk will in any way be damaged.

When the fire attacked and finally destroyed the home of the power boat speed queen, Dixie Belle, the boat house he ran here, and there cutting the moorings of the valuable boats and pushing them away, they sailed majestically harmored to a safe harbor in the bay.

PRICELESS LOST.

Priceless treasures were reduced to smouldering bits of wood and charred paper when the flames swept the old Vedder building where the historical curios of the Historical society were stored. Records of the old Spanish days, whose value could not be expressed in terms of money, and which had long been viewed with interest and instruction by thousands of winter visitors, were among the lost. St. Augustine feels the destruction of these curios even more keenly than the fine structures destroyed, but which can be replaced.

With the city crowded with winter visitors, hundreds ran excitedly through the streets. Families became separated and personal belongings scattered everywhere. Adjutant General Foster established an information bureau in the plaza to which the public was directed for aid, and every effort made, through the assistance of the militia, to locate friends and relatives of the inquirers.

DEEDS OF HEROISM.

Many deeds of heroism are being reported at the Florida house, where the fire started. Dense volumes of black smoke were pouring out of the second floor windows when the alarm was given. The firemen were quickly at work with ladders and about twenty-five persons were carried from the building and while the ladders to the ground. Only were prevented a great panic. The hotel men drilled daily for fires quickly emptied the houses.

While the Florida house was being consumed the other hotels got their guests out. At the Florida the frantic gongs clanging awoke the sleeping guests and the bell men saw that every one got out before they left.

Only two persons jumped from the upper floors. Others were carried down the ladders and five escapes in an orderly manner. When all the guests were accounted for, the manager gave the signal and the employes left the building carrying such valuables as could be snatched ahead of the roaring flames.

170 LIVES ARE LOST AS SEALING VESSEL SINKS IN SEA OF ICE

Newfoundland Goes Down Off Cape Race as Result of Being Crushed by Huge Cakes of Ice

FIFTY SAILORS PICKED UP IN FROZEN CONDITION

Steamer Adrift Among Ice Floes for Forty-Eight Hours in a Furious Blizzard—Men Suffer Untold Agonies

CURLING, N. F., April 2.—Reports received here today stated that the sealing steamer New Foundland was lost off Cape Race and the greater part of her crew of 170 men perished. No word has been received of the sealer Southern Cross, reported in trouble in the same vicinity Tuesday. Rescue ships have picked up fifty bodies of the crew of the New Foundland.

The exact loss of life is not known but it is believed that practically the whole crew perished after the Newfoundland had been crushed and sunk in the ice off Cape Race.

The rescue ships picked up fifty of the crew, the greater number already dead and others dying, from the towing ice floes to which they escaped when their craft went down.

Those who survived were able in their weakened condition to tell but little of the wreck and the probable fate of their fellows. Ships were at once dispatched in the hope of finding other survivors or recovering more bodies.

SEALSKINS IN HOLD.

The sufferings of those found by the rescuers began description. For forty-eight hours they were adrift on ice floes while a furious blizzard swept them.

The Newfoundland had completed an unusually large catch in the gulf of St. Lawrence. Her holds were filled with sealskins and her decks were piled high with trophies of the cruise.

The steamer also carried a crew greater by one-third than she had signed for in ordinary times, as the sealing men reported to be unusually good and a large bonus had been offered by the owners. This unusual load added to her difficulty when she encountered the storm and ice.

PLATES CRUSHED.

The Newfoundland was reported off the southern coast on Sunday and ought to have reached here last Tuesday.

As near as can be learned she was rounding Cape Race when she ran into a terrific storm and drift ice from the Labrador coast and about the same time the blizzard enveloped the ship, shutting off observation.

Not long after, the sealer was caught between two ice floes, which crushed her plates like boards. The crew had just time to tumble over the side onto the slippery ice cakes when the steamer disappeared.

Nine-Toed Lue With Chair Busts Meeting Of Colored Deacons

"Boss, it all started w'en Nine-toed Lue picked up er cherr en throwed it at one er de deacons."

Thus did Palmer Pease explain to Officers Evans and Palmer exactly why Wednesday evening meeting at the Mount Zion Baptist church, colored, corner of Baker and Piedmont avenues, broke up in a free-for-all fight.

Palmer, who has spent half his life in jail and was recently released so he could spend his few remaining years in the church, is one of the recent converts to the church and was present at Wednesday evening's meeting for the selection of a pastor.

At 11:16 o'clock Officers Evans and Palmer were called to the church by horrified neighbors who declared that the noise from within resembled a Pop-Lunn convention. The fight was in full swing running.

Palmer told the officers how it was.

"Reverend Tuggle bein' daid, you see, we wus to call er pastor tonight. De nimmon reasons dey wanted er man f'um Griffin. De men deacons, dey was set on er nigger f'um Rome. Dey got ter arguin' an so fuss'd 'eall som 'un er nur pick up a cheer an hit er yaller gal over de head wid it. Den dey went ter throwin' lights 'cross de chu'ch an' cussin' one er nur, an' ah grabs de Bible out de pupit and 'bout dat time yo'll come."

Officers Evans and Palmer sat as a board of arbitration and decided that it would be better for all concerned if argournment was taken without any argument, and the election of a new pastor postponed until a more favorable time.

Says Husband Would Hire "Jack the Ripper" In Order to Kill Her

Alleging that her husband threatened to hire "Jack the Ripper" to kill her if he couldn't get rid of her any other way, Mrs. Gertrude Barrow Freeman entered suit for divorce against George Anderson Freeman through her attorney, Judge A. L. Boykin, in the superior court Thursday.

The suit sets out that they were married in October 16, 1907, and separated June 1, 1912. In the interim, claims Mrs. Freeman, her husband went on frequent sprees, locking her out of the house whenever he got drunk, beat her across the face with a poker and threatened to kill her.

She prays a total divorce and the restoration of her maiden name.

14 MONEY LENDERS MUST FACE COURT ON USURY CHARGE

Judge Bell Grants Temporary Injunction Restraining Concerns From Trying to Collect Funds Loaned Petitioners

HEARINGS ARE SET FOR APRIL 18 AND APRIL 25

Two Complainants Allege Rate of Interest Charged by Companies Violates Laws of the State of Georgia

With the granting of fourteen temporary injunctions by Judge Bell, of superior court, against money lenders, a strong fight against loan companies that charge an alleged illegal rate of interest was begun Thursday by R. E. Church, attorney.

Mr. Church represents J. R. Fudge, a rate clerk for the Louisville and Nashville railroad and the Atlantic Coast Line, lessees of the Georgia railway. He also represents J. H. Banks, a traveling freight agent for the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad.

The two plaintiffs have filed the fourteen injunctions against the loan companies and one against the A. B. & A railroad, to restrain the latter from accepting records of assignments of the salary of J. R. Banks.

Banks, who says he gets $100 a month salary, states that on March 2, 1914, he borrowed $30 from the Atlanta Finance company and gave an assignment for $25 of his March salary, which was not then due.

He alleges this was contrary to the laws of Georgia, which prevent more than 5 per cent a month be charged on loans, and that a salary not due cannot be assigned, while the Atlanta Finance company was charging him 10 per cent.

He states this is usury, and that under the law, he is relieved from paying back one cent of the loan. He says he does not ask to have the burden of such interest and asks the court to restrain the companies from filing the assignment or notice of it with the railroad company, as this would cost him his job.

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED.

The court granted the injunction restraining the loan company from filing this assignment and from future trying to collect the money until a hearing before Judge Bell on April 18.

An injunction was also granted restraining the A. B. & A. railroad from receiving any assignment of Banks' salary or wages of the same.

On April 18 the court will be called on to decide whether the assignment of salary shall be permanently declared null and void, and whether a permanent injunction shall issue to prevent the companies from ever trying to collect the money.

If this injunction is granted permanently, it will mean that the loan companies named in the fourteen injunction suits will not only lose the amounts named as illegal loans in these suits, which are considerable, but will sustain great losses of amounts loaned to other people under similar terms and similar alleged illegal rates of interest.

Representatives of nearly every one of the loan companies named in the fourteen injunctions called at the superior court Thursday morning to try to get these injunctions set aside, so they could collect their money, but these efforts were fruitless, Judge Bell holding that the hearings should tak eplace as originally set—April 18 and April 25.

All of the fourteen are similar in form, differing in their allegations to the one outlined. The cases brought by J. R. Fudge are set for April 25.

ALL OF THE CASES.

All of the cases in which temporary injunctions against making any attempt to collect are granted, for the assignments with the employers of the plaintiffs are to follow. In each case the amount loaned is for $10 per cent per month, double the legal rate. The cases are:

J. H. Banks against the Atlanta Finance company, $30 borrowed; against Stephen A. Ryan company, $15 borrowed; against A. R. Ring, $30 and $5, against Fulton Brokerage company, $10; against Greenway & Co. $20; against A. B. & A. Railroad company, an order restraining it from receiving assignments of salary in any of the these cases; against Atlanta Discount company—amount not known.

The cases of J. R. Fudge are: against Smith and O'Brian, $20; against Atlanta Finance company, $10; against Fulton Brokerage company, $40; against S. B. LaSalle, $25; against A. R. King, $70; against F. W. Greenway & Co. $20; against Patterson & Broom, $80; against A. R. King, $70.

In each of the above cases the amounts given are the sums borrowed; in each case, however, the assignment on salary was given included, for the first month, an addition of 10 per cent of the amount borrowed, this being the interest.

TO PAY LARGEST INCOME TAX IN CITY OF CHICAGO

Returns of President of Mail Order House Shows Income of $1,100,000

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, April 2.—Julius Rosenwald, president of a mail order house, will pay the largest federal income tax of anyone in Chicago. His return, which was filed during the thirty days' extension of time, which ended yesterday, showed an income of $1,100,000 for the ten months ending December 31, 1913. This would be a basis of $1,320,000 for twelve months.

More than 1,000 returns, including those of several millionaires, were filed during the extension period. Nearly 20,000 individual schedules have been filed here.

Officials in the offices of the collector of internal revenue estimated that the total government revenue from the tax in the Chicago district will be about $3,000,000.

TRAIN MESSENGER THWARTS HOLD-UP

ROUTS HOLD-UP MAN

R. C. FLETCHER.

BANDIT ROUTED BY FLETCHER IN GUN DUEL ON SEABOARD

Atlanta Boy, Express Messenger on Train No. 11, Wounded in Fight With Robber Near Comer, Ga.

TRAINMAN'S CLOTHES FIRED BY PISTOL FLASH

One Masked Man Attempts to Rob Mail Train but Is Foiled by Nerve of the Young Atlantian

While Express Messenger R. C. Fletcher and a masked train robber fought a duel with revolvers in the express car of Seaboard train No. 11, at 5 o'clock Thursday morning, the passengers slept and the conductor and engineer, briefly to what he thought were exploding torpedoes and the engineer brought the train to a gradual stop.

Just before it stopped, the robber escaped through the door of the express car and disappeared in the woods beside the track. As Conductor W. E. Cason, of Monroe, N. C., ran toward the engine along the track, Messenger Fletcher jumped to the ground beside the express car. The messenger's shirt was afire from the robber's parting shot, fired so close that it ignited the cloth of Fletcher's coat.

Fletcher was wounded through the fleshy part of this right arm by that shot.

Two special agents of the Seaboard who happened to be among the passengers on the train started immediately on the trail of the robber, and the train left them, bringing its travelers into Atlanta at 8:30 o'clock, twenty minutes behind schedule.

BANDIT CHASED.

BY DETECTIVES.

W. G. Slaughter, special agent, took up the pursuit of the criminal from the point where the fight occurred. Special Agent J. W. Neufer, dressing hurriedly as soon as he learned what had happened went into Atlanta on the next stop made by the train after it resumed its way.

The robber got nothing from his attempt. The express safe was defended so successfully by the messenger that his contents were not exposed at any time. The value of those contents has not been stated.

It is said at the office of the general manager of the express company however, that there was no money in the safe, the practice of carrying cash on night trains, having been discontinued, following the recent holding up and the fact that it was on a through train they did not know the value of the merchandise, which was in the safe and the car.

Whether three men were concerned in the attempted robbery is open to conjecture, on the report of the flagman, J. M. Bunby. Bunby jumped off the rear platform as soon as the train stopped, and without waiting to inquire what had happened, he ran back a quarter of a mile to place a torpedo and flag any train that might be following. He reported later, when the locomotive signaled him to return, that three rough looking white men had passed him on the track. They were walking rapidly away from the train, he said. One was on one side of the track, and two were on the other side, he said.

AGGRESSIVE TACTICS USED BY ROBBER.

The aggressive tactics of the robber in his attack on the express car made the attempted-robbery remarkable.

The train, southbound from New York, passed Comer and stopped two miles beyond at the Comer water tank.

SPECTACULAR FIGHT PROMISED IN SENATE ON TOLLS MEASURE

Both Sides Prepare for Battle While Awaiting Meeting of Committee to Take Up Bill Next Tuesday

FRIENDS OF REPEAL WILL PROTEST DELAY

Any Effort to Block Consideration Will Be Vigorously Resisted—Administration Forces Appear in Majority

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Informal discussions of the Panama tolls controversy, centering on the various bills awaiting action in the senate, continued today pending consideration next Tuesday by the interoceanic canals committee on the administration's repeal bill.

Senators characterized the situation as the lull that precedes the storm and declared that once the actual opening of the fight on the floor is reached a spectacular scene would be staged.

It was apparent today among both the administration and anti-repeal contingents that there would not be permitted to be affected by the lull. Persistent efforts will be made, it was said by friends of the bill, to prevent unnecessary delay.

Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the interoceanic canals committee, has called a meeting of the committee on Tuesday, and Senator Owen, leading the administration forces, asserted that public hearings on the bill were unnecessary and would serve only to prolong the controversy.

NORRIS TO DEMAND ACTION.

Senator Norris was prepared today to demand immediate consideration of his resolution providing for arbitration of the treaty disputes between the two countries.

Senator Poindexter was ready to take advantage of the first opportunity to bring up his measure calling for a postponement of the exemption until President Wilson submits the details of the foreign relations existing between the United States and other countries affected by the repeal.

Senator Jones furnished another possibility for consideration. He declared his intention to press his resolution providing that the president furnish the senate with the names of all nations which have protested against the tolls exemption clause and was resolved to force it into early action.

Estimates carefully compiled by leaders of the two factions show the administration forces have the requisite votes to pass the repeal bill by a narrow margin only.

CRISIS APPROACHES IN JIMMY GRANT'S CONDITION

Physicians Will Know in a Few Hours Whether Fighter Will Live or Die

Within the next few hours physicians attending Jimmy Grant, the prize fighter, will know whether or not the blow Knockout Eggers Tuesday night and has been in an unconscious condition at the Grady hospital ever since, whether or the game little scrapper will live or die.

Dr. W. S. Goldsmith, attending Grant, gave out the following bulletin at 9 o'clock Thursday:

"Grant is suffering from a desperate attack of pneumonia, contracted probably before the fight and brought to a head by the shock of the battle. He was probably overtrained and in no condition to fight when he entered the ring. There are no marks of punishment on his body, and I cannot tell whether he has brain concussion or not.

"He has a small chance for life. If his condition should mend Thursday afternoon and he lives for two or three days longer, he will probably recover."

ASKS CERTIFICATES FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

Dr. F. H. The meeting of the board was, in the main, given over to routine matters, such as those brought before the auditor's report and reports of the supervisors.

The police were notified, and started at once for the scene to drag the pond, which is about 100 feet long and ten feet deep, to make certain whether or not the clothes had been left by a suicide.

DECISION ON REGIONAL BANK EXPECTED TODAY

Announcement Looked for After Meeting of Reserve Board This Afternoon

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The final meeting of the organization committee of the federal reserve board will be held this afternoon, following which it is believed an announcement will be made as to the number and geographical description of the federal reserve districts and the location of the regional banks.

At the treasury department this morning no intimation would be given concerning the character of the announcement, and again it was said that any statement as to the location of the several banks was a guess, pure and simple.

"The committee itself has not finally determined all the questions involved," it was stated, "and no final decision will be made until the meeting this afternoon."

It is understood, however, that the members of the committee have reached a tentative agreement as to the number of districts, their geographical description and the location of the banks. No call will be issued, however, before has given the slightest intimation as to the nature of this agreement. Senators and members of congress are as much in doubt as others.

FEARING BLINDNESS MAN KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Police Break In House and Find Children Crying Over Parents' Bodies

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—Hearing four revolver shots in quick succession early today, a policeman and a night watchman broke into a house in West Philadelphia, and found Alexander Glaser, thirty years old, and his wife, Julia, twenty-eight, dead from bullet wounds. In the house they also found crying the couple's two sons, six and eight, unharmed.

Neighbors said the husband feared he was going blind, and the police believe that this deranged his mind, and led him to kill his wife and himself.

CALHOUN CITIZENS ASK PARDON FOR STRIPLING

Journal Story Prompts Move to Free State Farm Prisoner

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CALHOUN, Ga., April 2.—A petition is being circulated here asking for the granting of a full pardon to Edgar Stripling now confined on a life term sentence at the state farm. The article on Stripling's condition which appeared in last Sudays Journal has revived interest in his case and aroused widespread sympathy. The petition reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Georgia, respectfully beg to ask that executive clemency be extended to Edgar Stripling now serving a life sentence at the state farm at Milledgeville. We believe that justice has been satisfied, society protected, and due punishment administered in his case, and that his further detention in the toils of the law is bringing unnecessary suffering upon the prisoner himself, upon his invalid wife and large family of small children.

"We shall not endeavor to call fully to your mind the extenuating circumstances in his case, his exemplary conduct as a prisoner, or his present serious physical disabilities which we believe are sufficient grounds for the granting of clemency, but we respectfully urge that you consider these facts and grant to this unfortunate man the mercy which he alone now wants, which is so clearly due in his case. We believe further that public sentiment in the state at large will approve this act as one of the worthiest of your administration."

The petition is meeting with wide approval and in a few hours from its first appearance in Calhoun, scores of names had been affixed, including the leading business and professional men of the town.

The petition is being circulated by Dr. D. F. White who states that he is not personally acquainted with Stripling, but is moved to inaugurate this movement from a conviction that something should be done to assist the unfortunate man and his family. Dr. White believes that similar petitions will be started throughout the state and hopes that to the end in view will be reached and Stripling restored to his family before it is too late.

HEAD-ON COLLISION AT RESACA ON W. & A .ROAD

Passengers Badly Shaken Up and News Butcher Seriously Injured

CALHOUN, Ga., April 2.—A head-on collision occurred at 9:30 o'clock this morning at Resaca, five miles above here between the southbound W. & A. train from Chattanooga to Atlanta and the newly installed Kingston to Chattanooga accommodation. Passengers on both trains were badly frightened and those on the southbound train were badly shaken up.

In the excitement that followed the collision it was thought that there were many passengers seriously injured and physicians were hastily summoned from Calhoun. It was later found that the news butcher on the down train was the only one who had received painful injuries.

Fireman J. T. Miller jumped to safety as the trains came together, the engine of the southbound train was demolished and was replaced by a freight engine which happened to be available. After some delay both trains proceeded on their way.

TECH'S BAND TO DRESS AS COWBOYS FOR SHRINERS

Plenty of Musical Talent and Many Special Features Are Promised for Parade

With Tech's band dressed in cowboy costumes and mounted, the Georgia Military academy cadet band somewhere else in line, and the cadet band from Riverside Military academy and perhaps other cadet bands in place in the long procession, the Shriners' parades in Atlanta next month will not be lacking in local musical talent.

Johnny Peel's organization of Yarrab's fife and drum corps of 150 members is complete, and the big corps is practicing regularly.

These at least will augment the great number of bands and other musical aggregations that the visiting Shriners will bring with them. It is very probable that others will apply for places in the parade and that before the list is closed it will include bands from several different parts of Georgia and surrounding states.

The university band is planning to come if the trustees grant the holiday that has been asked for its members. Frank Hardeman, a member of the board and a Shriner has informed Forrest Adair of these plans. Colonel J. C. Woodward has tendered the services of the G. M. A. cadet band of 30 pieces the same number of pieces are in the Tech band. Riverside cadet band, tendered by Sandy Beavers, who is a member of Yaarab Temple, also is made up of 30 players.

The cowboy costumes for the Tech boys will be furnished by Algeria Temple, of Helena, Mont., the temple which will bring the band of Blackfeet Indians.

"We've got the costumes if you can supply the musicians," wrote Algeria's potentate to Potentate Forrest Adair.

Mr. Adair alread ysad Tech's offer on file.

"All right, we've got the band," he wired back. "Send the clothes along."

Alcazar tribe, of Montgomery, Ala., expect to bring not less than 500 members to the Atlanta meeting. The tribe will be an applicant to the imperial council for a temple charter. Alcazar will arrive in Atlanta Monday afternoon, May 11, and will have quarters at the Princeton hotel. Headquarters of the tribe will be at the Ansley hotel.

Antioch temple, Dayton, O., will spend a day with Almenah temple, Nashville, on its way down. Almena, like Alhambra temple in Chattanooga and other temples around Atlanta, has arranged for the reception of all passing caravans by its stay-at-home members. Antioch will be a part of the personal escort of Imperial Potentate W. W. Ford of Wheeling, W. Va., to Cincinnati on to Atlanta. The Dayton temple will travel in a special train of steel cars, and will arrive in Atlanta Monday morning, May 11.

Murat Temple, Indianapolis, will spend a day in Chattanooga and on the surrounding battlefields and Lookout mountain on its way to Atlanta. Murat will be quartered at the Ansley hotel. It will arrive in Atlanta Monday morning, May 11.

Al Koran temple, Cleveland, O., will travel to Atlanta in a special train, and will make several stops for entertainment along the way.

Damascus temple, Rochester, N. Y., will have its own special train for the pilgrimage. It will arrive in Atlanta on the morning of May 11.

Al Azhar Temple, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, will lead the Shriners of that province on their pilgrimage to Atlanta. These Canadians will travel in an all-Alberta train—coaches made in Alberta, hauled by an Alberta locomotive, loaded with Alberta coal and lubricated with Alberta oil, manned by an Alberta-born crew, illuminated by Alberta natural gas, and stocked and provisioned with Alberta-grown products or Alberta-made manufactures.

El Jebel temple, Denver will come full force to the Atlanta meeting, to present the name of James C. Burger, one of its representatives, as candidate for the office of imperial outer guard.

Paul P. Reese of Atlanta, has purchased from the committee the exclusive right to manufacture the official pennant of the Atlanta meeting. This is designed as one of the handsomest pennants ever offered as souvenirs of special occasions. The design will be protected by copyright. The word "Official" will be stamped on the pennant.

PRIZES FOR ESSAYS ON CHILD WELFARE EXHIBIT

Katherine Hackett, Charles Henry and Sarah Alston Win $25 Each

Miss Katherine Hackett, of the Girls' High school; Charles Henry, of the Boys' High school; and Miss Sarah Alston, of the eighth grade at the Ira Street school, won the $25 cash prizes offered by Walter Rich for the best three essays on the Child Welfare exhibit which was held in Atlanta during November and December of last ypar.

The prizes were awarded by Mrs. Charles J. Haden, Mrs. Hugh Willett and Mrs. A. P. Coles, who were selected as the judges. They had the essays which were numbered, but which had no names on them; and corresponding numbers with the names were kept by the superintendent of schools.

Mr. Rich offered the prises because he was so deeply impressed with the welfare exhibit and thought every school child should see it. He decided that the contest would stimulate interest and announced the prizes. The essays were unusually good.

YOU FEEL POORLY IN THE SPRING

In the spring your blood needs cleansing and enriching, largely because your diet has been chiefly heavy and your life mostly indoors during the winter. There is some eruption on your face and body, your appetite is poor, your sleep is broken, and you are tired all the time.

You need to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Ask your druggist for it. It makes the pure red blood that will make you feel better, look better, eat and sleep better. Get it today.—(Advt.)

OLD FORT WINFIELD SCOTT TO BE MILITARY PRISON

War Department Will Transform Old Structure Into Correctional Barracks

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—Old Fort Winfield Scott, the red brick and stone gate post at the southern edge of the golden gate, has been selected by the war department to house a new correctional barracks—a part of a disciplinary system replacing one found to be an obsolete as the fort itself. When the walls, built under the engineering supervision of Custis Lee, son of General Robert E. Lee, house human beings again, the interior will be as different from the gun platforms and magazines of Civil war days as is the correctional theory of army discipline from the outgrown one of punishment for punishment's sake.

Eighty military prisoners from Alcatraz island went to work today rejuvenating the building and actually constructing their own future homes under the direction of Colonel George McK. Williamson, construction quartermaster of the army. When, about June 1, the work is completed, the interior, once considered a masterpiece of defense work, will be a light, pleasant and comfortable living place for military offenders.

The men will be nominally prisoners. They will be organized into companies, each with its own non-commissioned officers. They will wear army uniforms, minus insignia, and whenever they show themselves desirous of fulfilling the duties they swore to perform, they will be assigned to regiments in the regular military establishments to serve out their enlistments and receive honorable discharge.

COL. HOWARD THOMPSON IS IMPROVING RAPIDLY

Friends throughout the state of Colonel Howard Thompson, United States marshal, will be gratified to learn he is steadily on the way to complete recovery from his recent illness and will be back at his desk in the federal building here within a month.

Advices from Gainesville, Ga., home of Colonel Thompson, state he has been out of doors recently and is taking a lively interest in his garden.

BIDS ARE RECEIVED FOR MILLION FERTILIZER TAGS

Bids for the supply of several million fertilizer tags for the 1914-15 season are being taken by Commissioner of Agriculture Price. The state will invest between $3,000 and $5,000 in these tags, which will be sold to the fertilizer manufacturers and dealers.

UNDER our newly inaugurated Profit-Sharing Plan, our salespeople—in addition to regular salary—get a bonus on their sales.

This week of special sales illustrate the workings of the Profit-Sharing Plan. In its operation customers observe a quickened, more intelligent service as the salespeople increase their weeky pay check.

Every department in the house contributes to this sale. The page advertisements earlier in the week told the story only in part. Here is an additional page of rare values for tomorrow:

(Sale Ends Saturday at 6 P. M.)

BECAUSE additional sales mean a bonus to the salesperson, we have been asked if the Profit-Sharing Plan will not cause the salesperson to importune the customer to buy. It will not.

The salesperson has the same interest in the customer that the store has; neither can afford to displease her. Even should a patron buy something under impulse, she need not keep it. For no transaction is complete here until the customer is satisfied. The motive of the Profit-Sharing Plan is to satisfy the customer. It calls for good salesmanship, and

"Good Salesmanship is Selling Goods That Won't Come Back, to Customers That Will."

Boy or Girl? Great Question!

This brings to many minds an old and tried family remedy—an external application known as "Mother's Friend." During the period of expectancy it is applied to the abdominal muscles and is designed to soothe the intricate network of nerves involved. In this manner it has such a splendid influence as to justify its use in all cases of coming mother-hood. It has been generally recommended for years and years and those who use it speak in highest praise of the immense relief it affords. Particularly do these knowing mothers speak of the absence of morning sickness, absence of strain on the ligaments and freedom from those many other distresses usually looked forward to with such concern.

There is no question but what "Mother's Friend" has a marked tendency to relieve the mind and this of itself is a million to one it spells relief but it has very wide popularity among women.

You can obtain "Mother's Friend" at almost any drug store. It has helped a host of mothers to a complete recovery.

It is prepared only by Bradfield Regulator Co., 201 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Avoid the many worthless substitutes.

BURNS MAN LEAVES CITY; MISSION IS KEPT SECRET

Biddinger May Have Gone to Meet Chief, Believed to Be in New York

Guy B. Biddinger, of New York City, righthand man of William J. Burns, the detective investigating the Frank case, quietly left Atlanta Wednesday night after having been here under an assumed name since March 20. His whereabouts are not known.

Dan S. Lehon, of New Orleans, La., southern superintendent of the Burns agency, when seen in his apartments at the Georgian-Terrace Thursday morning, declined to say where Mr. Biddinger had gone. He merely admitted his co-worker had found it necessary to leave the city, presumably in the interest of the case.

Mr. Lehon said he did not know when Mr. Biddinger would get back but expressed the belief that he would return to the city with his chief who is believed to be in New York working on certain phases of the case. He said further that Mr. Burns would not reach Atlanta Thursday, which lends color to the supposition that Mr. Biddinger has either gone to New York to meet him or with the intention of joining the great sleuth en route to Atlanta.

Mr. Lehon would not discuss the matter. "There will be nothing to give out," he said, "until Mr. Burns returns."

MANY SIGN PETITION FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Representative Wright to Take Up Women's Cause at Next Legislative Session

Representative Barry Wright, of Rome, will introduce a bill for woman's suffrage in Georgia at the summer session of the legislature, according to an announcement at a meeting of the Georgia Woman Suffrage association Wednesday evening at the Hotel Ansley.

At the meeting a petition already signed by 1,500 advocates of the suffrage was introduced and signed by the 810 members of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association. This petition will be circulated throughout the state so that the support of thousands will be given Mr. Wright when he introduces the suffrage bill.

Many interesting speeches marked Wednesday's meeting, including talks by J. C. Logan, secretary of the Associated Charities; Miss Kate Jolly and Attorney Leonard J. Grossman.

Mrs. Karl Carston, of the Woman's Labor league, asked the endorsement of the suffrage association for the candidates of organized labor at the coming election. After a hot discussion as to whether the association should make an exception in the case in its non-partisan politics attitude, the members voted a hearty endorsement of the labor candidates.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS TO BE HELD NEXT MONTH

Applicants for Positions Will Be Examined First Friday and Saturday in May

Teachers' examinations for applicants for positions in the Atlanta public schools will be held on the first Friday and Saturday in May. Also, teachers who are reinforcing their standing, will be required to take examinations at the same time, and applicants from far and near are invited to enter. The examination room will open at 8:30 o'clock a. m.

Superintendent Slaton draws attention to the fact that the examinations must be taken in Atlanta and that no applicant will be permitted to stand the examinations in distant cities and states as that is positively against the rules of the board of education.

No teachers will be accepted from agencies on the strength of the agency's recommendation only, as all prospective teachers in the Atlanta schools are required to stand the examinations.

There will be several vacancies in the schools, as many of the teachers resign in June to get married, and also the rapid growth of the school system increases the demand for teachers.

By recent action of the mayor and council, the first year's salary of a grade teacher, beginning in September, will be $55 a month, grading thereafter up to $85 a month within five years. The assistant principal's salary begins at $75 a month and grades up to $95 in the same length of time. Correspondence in regard to the examinations will be welcomed by Superintendent Slaton.

NEGRO IS FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING WATCHMAN

Burett Hickman Convicted of Shooting H. G. Bennett in Inman Yards

Burett Hickman, colored, was found guilty of murder in superior court Thursday morning and will be sentenced by Judge Hill. Hickman was charged with having shot H. G. Bennett, Inman Yards night watchman for the Seaboard Air Line railway, the night of February 22.

Bennett died the next day in the hospital. He said he found a negro stealing brass in a Pullman, chased him to a box car and there had a pistol duel with him. Hickman was wounded and traced to a house near the yards. He was identified by Bennett.

Hickman's trial was postponed for some weeks on account of his wounds. The negro claimed on the stand that two men jumped out of a box car and shot both Bennett and himself.

The jury was only twenty minutes in reaching a verdict.

RISINGS, ITCHING HUMORS

Smith's Blood Syrup Best for Weak or Thin Blood, or if Blood Is All Upset—Best for All Blood Humors

High living or hard work weakens the blood and we have pimples, itching humors, eczema, risings, rotting sores, boils, ulcers, bone pains, swellings and we feel all played out and worried. We have bad breath and spots before the eyes, hands and legs tremble and we feel weak; can't stand hard work. The moment you feel so above or have aching bones or any blood humors, get a bottle of Smith's Blood and Liver Syrup from any reliable druggist. Take a spoonful in a glass of water after meals and at retiring. Also eat plenty of nourishing food. Soon your blood will become pure and rich, and your skin take on the rich, red glow of perfect health and your body is changed into a clean, healthy condition. Aches and pains and itching stop. All sores are healed. Smith's Blood and Liver Syrup has been used for generations in purifying the blood. It is made from an old Indian formula and is dispensed by most druggists in big half quart bottles for only $1. or will be sent express prepaid by John E. Daniel, 4 Wall St., Atlanta, Ga. (Advt.)

Trolley Time Is Quickest to

Peachtree Heights Park

STUDY THIS MAP---It will show you how Peachtree Heights Park is the most quickly reached of any of Atlanta's new resident sections.

Read these figures furnished by the Georgia Railway & Power Co.:

TIME FROM FIVE POINTS TO	MINUTES
Peachtree Heights Park (Buckhead Line)	24
Brookwood (Peachtree Line)	25
Buckhead	30
Brookhaven	40
Druid Hills (Schedule 30 min. with layover)	27½
Highland Avenue (End of Line)	25
West End (Gordon Street Line)	25

THEN THINK ABOUT THESE FACTS:

With your home in Peachtree Heights Park you are only 24 minutes from your office in the heart of the city, with a ten-minute schedule and scarcely a minute more by the Buckhead Line than the time on Peachtree to Fourteenth street.

You are living in the direct line of progress of Atlanta's home-building---North. The trend of residence development in most of the country's large cities is always North. Atlanta homes are moving unerringly in that direction. Already many of Atlanta's handsomest homes have been built beyond Peachtree Heights Park.

Atlanta's favorite automobile highways run through and beyond Peachtree Heights Park. It is where the people go because it is where there is most to see.

Your home built in Peachtree Heights Park will not only be a delight and joy to yourself and family while you occupy it, but an asset of rapidly increasing and quickly convertible value whenever you have occasion to dispose of it.

Come in and let us tell you more about it, or we will be glad to show you Peachtree Heights Park. Or, if you prefer, see your own agent.

PIEDMONT LAKE OPENS ABOUT MAY THE 15TH

Shower Baths and Bathing at Night for Men and Boys Will Be New Feature

Piedmont park lake will be open to bathers as soon as it runs full of water.

It will run full of water in about six weeks, which would put it full by the middle of May.

Last year it was opened on May 22, which means, if the water keeps running without a hitch, that it will open about one week earlier this season than last.

A pipe several inches in diameter is now pouring water into the lake as fast as the city waterworks can pump it (through that particular pipe), and the stream will not be shut off until the lake is full, barring accidents.

A big feature of the lake this season will be night bathing for men and boys. Electric lights are now being installed along the bath house front and along the terrace to right and left of the bath house, and across the lake where the diving towers are located. These lights will furnish illumination for the enclosure and for that part of the lake between the enclosure fence and the line of the diving towers, which will be plenty of room—as a starter at least. The park department intends next year, if it can get the money, to install lights all around the north end of the lake and throw it open for night bathers.

Another new feature this year will be the shower baths. Every person going into the lake will be required to use the shower baths. The showers will be open also to persons who want them and nothing more, which will be very handy for players on the tennis courts.

INJUNCTION PETITION TO RESTRAIN U. P. DENIED

Wants to Prevent Issue of Special Dividends to Holders of Common Stock

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 2.—Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum today denied the petition of the Equitable Life Assurance society for an injunction to restrain the Union Pacific Railroad company from distributing as a special dividend to holders of common stock $80,000,000 in cash and stock of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The Equitable sued to restrain the railroad company on the ground that the holders of preferred stock in the Union Pacific were entitled to share in the dividend or else have the $80,000,000 regarded as an asset and held by the road.

The Baltimore and Ohio stock was acquired by the Union Pacific from the Pennsylvania railroad in a deal whereby the Union Pacific released its Southern Pacific holdings as required by supreme court decree dissolving the Harriman system.

It is understood that the Equitable will appeal from today's decision.

Savings Talks

Thrift is an economical virtue greatly lacking in the South.

Savings bank holdings of this great Dixie Land are little more than those of Rhode Island, the wee commonwealth of the Union.

Georgia Savings Banks hold only $12,397,318, while Connecticut has $306,428,726.

These figures prove the value of Thrift.

MEMBERS OF SHIP'S CREW RISK LIVES FOR COMRADES

Readiness of Navy Men to Face Death for Shipmates Shown by Accident

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2—Readiness of officers and enlisted men of the navy to risk their own lives at all times to save their shipmates is strikingly illustrated in a report to the navy department from the commanding officer of the collier Jupiter which was made public today.

"On March 16 last," the report says, "Ordinary Seamen Curtis, Fritz and Anding went down in No 13 hold of the Jupiter to coal the galley. About 500 tons of coal were stored in this hold and subsequent developments showed poisonous gases had collected. Fritz, finding himself getting faint, started to go back up the ladder, but fell unconscious.

"Anding at once placed the hoisting line around Fritz and Curtis went up for help. Seaman Stanley then went below to bring up Fritz. As soon as the latter had been removed Anding himself dropped back unconscious. Boatswain's Mate Leitner then went down to put the line around Andin, but found he had fallen so far from the ladder the line would not reach. He then tried to drag Anding, but was himself overcome and fell back into the hatch.

"Boatswain W. T. Shaw arrived at this time, went below, and endeavored to drag the unconscious men to the ladder, but found that he could not move them. Chief Carpenter Kempton and Ordinary Seaman Ferguson then went into the hold to render assistance and Ordinary Seaman Curtis went back into the hold a second time.

"When the executive officer arrived he had a line thrown into the hold from the coal boom, and Boatswain Shaw placed this around Anding and he was then hauled out. He then started to bend the line around Leitner, but was overcome before he could finish his task. Kempton, Curtis and Ferguson finished it and Leitner was hoisted out. The three men then started for the ladder, but Kempton and Curtis were overcome and fell back. Ordinary Seamen Sales and Simpson then went to the rescue and all were hauled to safety."

ROOT OUT YOUR CORNS WITH PAINLESS TANGO

Don't Fuss and Worry, and Pick and Gouge and Torture Your Toes With Caustics.

TANGO for Corns is the most marvelous remedy of the age. No wonder everybody is enthusiastic about it. One touch of TANGO on a corn ends your suffering. Applied in a second, and it's done. No plaster or salve to fuss with; nothing to stick to the stocking and be jerked from the sore toe with excruciating agony; no swelling and tenderness, no blood. NOMINATION FOR I. C. C. CAUSES FIGHT IN SENATE

W. M. Daniels, of New Jersey, Opposed Because of Views on Valuation

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Wilson's nomination of Winthrop M. Daniels, of New Jersey, to be interstate commerce commissioner tied up the senate today in a prolonged executive session that threatented to delay the railroad rate speeches of Senators Cummins and LaFollette.

Both senators are opposing Mr. Daniels, whose nomination has been pending nearly three months. There is no personal fight on him, but he is charged with holding unsound economic views as to railway valuation.

It is urged by several senators that time when the interestate commerce time when the interestate commerce commission is just undertaking a valuation of the railway properties of the United States and should be of the highest importance in a few years when the commission is called on to apply the various elements of valuation to rate making.

The objections are understood to be based on Mr. Daniels' record as a member of the New Jersey public service commission.

CONVENTION FOR SAFETY AT SEA IS DISAPPROVED

Ratification Means Discrimination Against American Ships Is Charge

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Ratification of the international convention for safety at sea, framed at London, means perpetuation of discrimination against American vessels, Andrew Furuseth, of the Seamen's International Union, today told the senate foreign relations committee.

The pending LaFollette seamen's bill, he said, was intended to apply to all shipping entering American ports and the new treaty, he argued, precluded the possibility of enforcing such regulations except against American ships. Eighteen steamships in trans-oceanic service now fly the American flag, six in the Atlantic and twelve in the Pacific, he declared.

ROME JUDGE HOLDS UP FIRE ENGINE PURCHASE

ROME, Ga., April 2.—Holding that a rental contract, payments on which would be applied to the cost of a fire engine was but "whipping the devil around a stump," judge Moses Wright permanently enjoined the city council of Rome from signing contract with the American LaFrance company.

tk13:gHHol eta. olemfsbrdiCMFW CMF

The contract called for payments in the form of rent at the rate of $2,000 per annum until $8,000 should have been paid. Certain citizens secured a temporary restraining order prohibiting council from executing the contract on the ground that no council could incur debts to be paid after its term of office expired with the exception of bond issues.

BOY HELD FOR SKIPPING BOARD BILLS AT HOTELS

Says Father Drove Him From Home Because He Wished to Wed

M. H. Cunningham, alias J. R. Stovall, a 17-year-old boy held at police headquarters and charged with skipping board bills at two hotels, tells Detectives Black and Rosser, who arrested him, that he has been wandering aimlessly about the country since his father, a wealthy citizen of Elkin, W. Va., drove him from home because he wished to marry.

Young Cunningham declares that as he was leaving his home his irate parent hurled a shoe at him.

The police are investigating the story and if time has cooled the father's temper sufficiently for him to foot the bills made by the boy at the Piedmont and the Ansley he may be released because of his youth.

BAD DIZZY SPELLS CURED BY BLACK-DRAUGHT

An Old Man, Nearing the Century Mark, Tells How His Wife and Self Conquered Their Troubles

Fontella, Va.—Mr. W. H. Ogden, of this town, says: "I am in my eighty-third year, and sometimes have bad dizzy spells, but a dose of Thedford's Black-Draught will relieve me in twenty minutes.

My wife suffered with cramp colic, sick headache and catarrh. She took Black-Draught, which cured her of all three troubles. She also suffered terribly, for years, with neuralgia in her side, and could get nothing to do her any good until she tried Thedford's Black-Draught, which has relieved her almost entirely.

We can also recommend Black-Draught for kidney trouble. In fact, we find Black-Draught all that is claimed for it, and more, and are never without it in the house."

Thedford's Black-Draught, the old reliable, vegetable liver medicine, has been on the market for over 70 years. Since then, many imitations of this remedy have come and gone, but the sales of the only genuine, Thedford's, has steadily increased through all these years. It is, today, the medicine from which its users say you will get the quickest, safest and most reliable results in disorders of the liver, stomach and bowels.

Good for old people, and good for their children and grandchildren, as well. Only costs one cent a dose. Try it, today.—(Advt.)

LEVER WANTS REFORM OF COTTON EXCHANGES

Presents Bill in House on Methods of Dealing in Futures

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A bill for the regulation and reform of cotton exchanges that is expected to furnish the basis of a compromise between the senate and house was introduced today by Congressman Lever of South Carolina, chairman of the house committee on agriculture. The taxing power of the federal government is the underlying idea on which the Lever compromise is constructed. He believes this furnishes the most effective method of dealing with the question of cotton futures.

"The bill I have introduced as a compromise will be considered by the agriculture committee along with the senate measure," said Lever today. "The committee will decide as between the measures, and whatever the decision I feel certain that there will be legislation within the next three weeks or month. I spent most of yesterday conferring with the secretary of agriculture about the question, and the bill I have offered confirms to his ideas."

The Lever bill provides a prohibitive tax of 10 cents a bale as a penalty on all contracts that do not measure up to the standard of requirements enumerated in the measure, as follows:

First—The contracts must be in writing, showing the quantity, the names of the parties to the contract and must be duly signed by each.

Second—The contract must specify the basis grade of the cotton, the price per pound, the date of the trade and the month in which the contract is to be fulfilled.

Third—The cotton dealt in and deliverable upon contracts shall be within the grades standardized by the secretary of agriculture and no other grade shall be deliverable.

Fourth—The differences above or below the contract price which the receiver shall pay for such grades, other than the basis grade, shall be the actual commercial differences determined by secretary of the agriculture by taking the average of the differences in spot cotton from eight bona fide spot markets.

Fifth—That repacked, false or mispacked cotton containing an excessive amount of seed, sand, dirt or dust, or containing any pickings or linters, or cotton that is a grade lower than low middling, or lower than strict low middling stained, or cotton that is less than seven-eighths of an inch or more than one and one-eighth inches in length of staple, shall not be delivered on, or in settlement of such contract.

Sixth—Five days shall be given to the buyer which notice shall state the grade of each bale to be delivered with adequate indentification thereof.

When the contract dealt in meets the requirements of the law, as enumerated above, the tax shall be only 25 cents per hundred bales.

The justice of the demand for legislation with "teeth in it" for the regulation of the cotton exchange is well recognized generally in Washington. The very fact that bear operators in New York have sought to have certified for May deliveries many thousand bales of cotton that was rejected by the classification committee on March contracts is accepted as a justification for immediate legislation. It is regarded as certain in Washington that the New York exchange will not sanction such jugglery of its rules, and that the southern and Canadian spinners who have decided to accept delivery in May contracts they have purchased as hedges against sales of goods will be protected to the extent.

The spinners' acceptance of deliveries on their May contracts will, it is understood, more than exhaust the available supply of cotton in New York, and the result will be eventually to bring about a partly between May futures and spot cotton in the south, as the New York shorts will have to go south to get cotton to deliver on the contracts they have sold short.

COLUMBUS WELCOMES GEORGIA TRAVELERS

J. M. Giddens Said to Be Slated for Election as President of T. P. A.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 2.—Headed by State Secretary J. H. Andrews, the Atlanta delegation to the Georgia T. P. A. convention was the first big body of men of the grip to reach Columbus for the annual meeting here, which was formally called to order by President Jesse W. Bates, of Macon, in the Harmony hall on Eleventh street this morning at 10 o'clock. The Atlanta representatives reached the city in a special over the Central of Georgia last night, and they were met by a large delegation from the local post and escorted to headquarters, where a rousing reception awaited the first travelers to the big meet.

The next delegation to arrive in Columbus was headed by President Bates, of the organization, who came from Macon in a special, arriving at 6 o'clock this morning. This party was also met and accorded a genuine welcome by the locals. Following the arrival of the Maconites, every incoming train brought large delegations and by 10 o'clock, the hour of assembly for the convention, the city was filled with lodge workers who came from every section of the state, the attendance being even larger than had been expected by the state post.

The city is gaily decorated for the occasion, and the visitors are having a great time on the banks of the Chattahoochee.

CONVENTION ASSEMBLES.

When the convention was formally called to order this morning by the president of Post C, J. M. Giddens, invocation was offered by Dr. L. R. Christie, pastor of the First Baptist church. John C. Cook, mayor of Columbus, and Judge S. Price Gilbert, head of the board of trade, delivered addresses of welcome to the visiting delegates, representing the city and the commercial body, and J. W. Bates, head of the state organization, responded. Another interesting address of the morning was that of J. R. B. Belk, chaplain of the Georgia division.

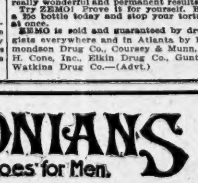

Routine business was taken up for a short time following the address of Dr. Belk and at 1 o'clock the convention adjourned for luncheon. In the afternoon a short business session was held after which the visitors were entertained by the wives of the local members and their friends.

Smart Crepe de Chine Blouses $4.95 Instead of $5.75

The saving is remarkable in view of the style of the blouses and the demand for these soft crepes de chine

But they were bought at a lower-than-worth price and so they will go to you.

Several styles: here's one with a cut-in collar of embroidered batiste, a little vestee of batiste, the sleeves and the front panel show a row of hemstitching.

Another style has a small, flat sailor collar, of embroidered batiste, and the big mandarin sleeves that give the blousy effect that is so desirable.

Another style has a V-neck of ruffled Swiss, drop shoulder sleeves and front trimmed with bullet pearl buttons.

Choose from white, peach, mais and tango.

And this is but one of the interesting bits of news of the waist section.

Other late arrivals are: A white crepe de chine blouse with Dresden flowers spread over it. It has a lily collar of white Swiss and long black moire tie. It is $5.75.

Many smart blouses of Georgette crepe are shown in colors to match suits in the high colors. Lacy waists by the score---we mean waists of silk allover laces over sheer chiffons and crepes---often the lace is of a shade contrasting with the chiffon or crepe.

The woman seeking the smartest Easter blouse will find it here.

The Frolaset Is the Ideal Front Laced Corset

And the ideal front laced corset in this day and time is, indeed, an ideal corset.

The great unattained and unattainable of most corsets and the great essential to the modish figure is the smooth, natural back and waist line.

If there is one feature of the Frolaset that recommends it to the women of today, it is just that---it imparts that smooth back, the natural waist line.

That it does is the result of smart corset designing.

The Frolaset people hit upon the scheme of putting an elastic back in their corsets that pulls the corset well down under the figure and imparts a grace that the average long corset of today never does. And this, together with the fact that it laces in front, makes it an ideal corset for the present styles.

There are models for every figure---the slender, the medium, the large. They are developed in coutils, batistes and, as prices mount, in exquisite brocaded fabrics.

Prices go from $3.50 to $18.50.

One of the most favored models for the slight figure is "The Frolaset Tango." It is of batiste and elastic; it has no bust at all, in fact, were it fashioned for the full figure it might be called a hip confiner. It is priced at $8.00.

The Most Serviceable Dress Form We Know Is

PneuForm

The Pneumatic Dress Form

This is the most remarkable invention and the greatest saver of woman's time, nerves and energy, since the introduction of the sewing machine. It is the invention of a woman---a mother, who years ago saw the necessity of a dress form which should be both easy to handle and instantly available, not only for the making of her own dresses, but also for the making and repairing of the dresses of her daughters and neighbors.

When inflated inside your fitted waist-and-hip lining, Pneu Form reproduces your exact figure with the perfection of nature.

Pneu Form is made to include the largest part of the hips, so that skirts and entire gowns may be correctly draped.

The Standard Rod regulates to any desirable height.

Every woman owes it to herself to own one of these remarkable Pneu Forms. And remember, the same form can be used for reproducing any figure of any proportions by simply inflating it inside of the proper waist lining.

Material and workmanship absolutely guaranteed.

Encourage the Fifth Regiment.

In urging the business men of Atlanta to encourage the Fifth regiment, National Guard, the Chamber of Commerce has taken a wise and patriotic stand. The regiment is a distinction and a safeguard to the community. It gives Atlanta peculiar prestige throughout the South and the Union, and stands ready in time of danger to protect the public's vital interests. It is, moreover, a part of the common country's defense, a sinew of true steel in the nation's armor, and, as such, it should ring response from our Americanism.

The Fifth regiment is distinctively an Atlanta institution. Its men and officers are drawn entirely from our own citizenship. They are our business and professional associates, our neighbors and friends, men who are serving day after day in a great civic army for the community's welfare and development. Their interest in the National Guard is purely unselfish. They give their time and energy and thought, often at heavy personal sacrifice, in order that this city may have a military organization worthy of its name in other spheres of activity. There have been crucial moments when Atlanta would have despaired of order and security, had it not been for the Fifth regiment. It was recognition of the regiment's value and importance that led to the building of the auditorium-armory. Surely, we will not now deal grudgingly with an organization that has been of such service and that is so deeply devoted to the city's well-being.

Business interests in general and employers in particular should lend every reasonable encouragement to the men who make the Fifth regiment. Such leaves of absence as enlistment requires should be willingly granted; they amount to less than a fortnight in a year; they are days well spent for the community's good. It is to be hoped that the timely appeal of the Chamber of Commerce will meet cordial response, and that Atlanta's own regiment will be accorded the full measure of co-operation it deserves.

Anybody who tries to get rid of his faults by advertising them makes a mistake.

General Villa will probably complete operations in time to invade the summer chautauqua field.

Wilson as a Word Chooser.

Woodrow Wilson's keen sense for the color and rhythm of language is happily illustrated in his recasting of certain lines written by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, as inscriptions for the new postoffice building at Washington. Dr. Eliot himself, formerly president of Harvard, is distinguished for clarity and grace of style. He suggested as an appropriate legend for the east entrance to the building:

> Carrier of news and knowledge,
> Instrument of trade and commerce,
> Promoter of mutual acquaintance
> Among men and nations, and hence
> Of peace and good will.

These lines are true enough in sentiment, and rather pleasing in phrase; but when the President scanned them, the story goes, he smiled quizzically, leaned forward a moment, and then rewrote them in this wise:

> Carrier of news and knowledge,
> Instrument of trade and industry,
> Promoter of mutual acquaintance,
> Of peace and good will
> Among men and nations.

There is a change of only one word and a rearrangement of only two lines, but what a difference in effect! For "commerce" is substituted "industry" whereby the meaning is broadened and enriched, while a repetition of ideas is spared. By dropping the awkward and unnecessary "hence," and transposing the last two lines, Mr. Wilson heightens the whole expression.

Dr. Eliot suggested for the west entrance the following inscription:

> Carrier of love and sympathy,
> Messenger of friendship,
> Consoler of the lonely
> Bond of the scattered family,
> Enlarger of the public life.

Mr. Wilson's revision is:

> "Messenger of sympathy and love,
> Servant of parted friends,
> Consoler of the lonely,
> Bond of the scattered family,
> Enlarger of the common life."

These improving touches are to be felt rather than explained. It is clear, however, that the connotation of "messenger" is more intimate and human than that of "carrier" and that by placing "sympathy" before "love" the line is made stronger and more fluent. Again, "servant of parted friends" is distinctly more concrete and picture-like than "messenger of friendship," while the substitution of "common" life for "public" life is more suggestive of the people's daily, homely relationships.

Choice and arrangement of words, far from being a mere craftsman's trick, is an artist's gift. It is largely the essence of what we call style; it marks the difference between the sentence that is pondered and is remembered and the one that is hurried over and soon forgotten. Mr. Wilson's gift of style adds much to his gifts of mind and character.

There is this difference between rents and tears: If a man goes on a tear he may not be able to pay his rent.

Even Wall street has awakened to the fact that it takes more than a disgruntled politician to stop this country.

According to Colonel Roosevelt, there is nothing in the Monroe doctrine to prevent invasion of Latin America by lecture tours.

An Epochal Battle.

The battle at Torreon has been the most remarkable in the history of Mexican revolutions, and it may prove to be the most far-reaching in its consequence. It has been truly a struggle of blood and iron, as different from the petty warfare to which Mexico is accustomed as an April shower from a winter storm. Two armies, carefully mustered and modernly equipped, have strained in a death grapple day ter day within the city's walls. The forces of Villa seem to have had some advantage in numbers at the outset, but this was more balanced by Huerta's superior artillery. The Federals were strongly entrenched; a mountain side towered against their gateway, and beyond this stretched a series of cunningly devised fortifications. But the rebels overswept all these barriers, and poured into the city itself. Then the real conflict began. Neither army could retreat. They were like enemies locked in a room. They fought hand-to-hand, from door to door, fought until they staggered from loss of blood, and then after a short breathing space, grappled again.

Villa's victory has been dearly purchased, but it is worth the cost, for, it gives the revolutionists the key to central Mexico and clears their way to the capital, if, indeed, it does not bring them control of the entire country without another serious encounter. The battle of Torreon is decisive so far as Huerta's regime is concerned. For months past, the Dictator's treasury has been virtually bankrupt. He can secure no loans abroad, and neither by threat nor coaxing can he get money at home. The effect of Torreon on his army will be deeply dispiriting, while it will inspire new faith in the revolution's cause among thousands of wavering citizens. It is logically to be expected that Huerta will retire in the immediate future. It may be that his desperate condition will spur him on to resist the inevitable, but henceforth he will be a minor figure in Mexico affairs.

The question of the hour is, "After Huerta, what? Will Villa and Carranza break their alliance and precipitate a new revolution?" That may be. Will it be possible for the factions to agree upon a provisional president until an orderly election can be held. That will be difficult, but there is reason to believe that it can be done. Of this much we are certain: a decisive battle has been fought, the Huerta forces are done for, a new regime with which the United States can effectively deal will be established, and a Mexican government to which the United States lends its moral and diplomatic support will have a fair chance to restore the country's peace.

It's a poor rule that hangs fire when its maker tries to apply it.

Tell the average man that any woman is in love with him and he'll not be surprised.

One way to get to heaven—or the other place—buy an aeroplane ticket and use it.

"Postoffice receipts show great increase. March building record ahead." And yet some people profess to see no good news.

Editorials in Brief

President Wilson was well advised in consenting to publication of the informal talk which he gave the Washington Press club. The country will read with interest and a new understanding Mr. Wilson's account of the very human embarrassments of his office. Compelled to wreak himself upon his work, to order his day rigidly, and to shut out as many haphazard interrupters as possible, the President has been acquiring the reputation of one austere and aloof, merely a thinking machine, a man of mystery. But in Mr. Wilson's frank disclosure of his inmost thought about all this, we perceive that he is throughout keeping his genial interest in everything that is human, though obliged to hold it, as it were, under cover. His humorous description of his own feelings about it all, his explanation of his frequent desire to cease to be a dignified official and to become a mere man again, and his unbosoming himself of his constant fear of making blunders, constitute delightful reading. The whole is a touch of nature which will make his countrymen feel more kin with President Wilson.—New York Evening Post.

Eleonora Duse, the greatest actress in Italy, has contributed $2,000 toward the foundation of an artists' home or club in Rome. Signora Duse says that Italian actors and actresses in Italy are relegated to a sort of ghetto, and it is high time that they should have a home or club of their own in which to meet and live, with a library, a reading room, a lecture hall, and other comforts. Very likely Signora Duse will give her villa in Rome for the artists' home which she hopes to have inaugurated next May.—Chicago Tribune.

THE SEARCHLIGHT

Water Coolers for Journals.

An invention designed to overcome much of the unnecessary train delay is the water cooler for journals. The hours lost on railway schedules owing to overheated, blazing journal boxes mount into startlingly high figures of wasted time. Today, when a life's work depends for its successful completion upon the conservation of these hours, often even of minutes, any invention which tends toward the diminishing of useless delays strengthens the attack of each individual worker.

The cooler consists of a tank which is clamped upon the journal box, a nozzle for the spraying of the cooling stream of water and a thermostatic valve for the spray control. The nozzle is inserted on the trailing side of the journal so that the water will tend to be carried up under the brass. When the journal becomes hot, the thermostatic bar expands in the direction of its length, forcing a feed valve open and allowing a flow of water to the spray pipe. The water stream brings about a gradual uniform cooling of the journal and the brass. With the accomplishment of the cooling the thermostatic bar contracts, diminishing the flow of water until, when the box is at normal temperature, the flow stops.

Illustrative recently of the efficiency of this cooler was demonstrated. After a run of ninety-one miles a cooler was applied to a journal in which the oil was boiling and splashing. The cooler consumed three gallons of water. At a stop forty-one miles further on the journal was shown to be cooling, while at the next stop, twenty-two miles further, the box had been cooled to almost normal temperature. Nine quarts of water were used in a run of 281 miles.

House of Representatives to Vote Electronically.

As a spoke in the wheel of filibustering minorities the rules committee of the house of representatives is considering the installation of an electric device for the automatic recording of the votes of its members. The apparatus would be a valuable time saver. Roll call in the house is now an arduous task, consuming something like forty-five minutes every time taken. Besides being an efficiency appliance, moreover, the electric voting machine would do away with all chance for inaccuracy in the count.

The device would be employed to record attendance and votes of absentees. There would be no loopholes as to prevent all unauthorized manipulation. Each member of the house would be assigned a numbered seat at which a set of push buttons would be provided for the registration of "yea," "nay," "present" or "paired." The recording part of the apparatus would operate on the principle of an adding machine. This would be installed at the speaker's desk and would automatically register on cards bearing the names of all members the vote given.

In order that the members might see how a vote is progressing it is proposed to install indicating devices at several points in the house. These would be equipped with bulletin boards bearing the names of the representatives and votes would be indicated as soon as cast by the illumination of different colored lenses, probably, red for "yea" and blue for "nay." This feature would not be unlike the modern baseball scoreboard. Representative Walsh, of New Jersey, devised the plan.

Cross-examinations are sometimes too restricted. For instance: One of our railroads was sued for injuries which occurred at a highway crossing one dark night. The watchman was a darky and testified on the trial of the case that he heard the train coming and also heard a wagon approaching the highway crossing the railroad at right anles. He testified that he grabbed two lanterns, one a red and the other a white lantern, and rushed out on the highway and waved the lanterns frantically, but the driver of the wagon paid no attention and drove upon the railroad track right in front of the engine. His testimony was clear and positive and the cross-examination perfunctory. The railroad got a verdict, something unusual, but all based on the darky's testimony. After the trial the attorney of the railroad company commended the darky for his satisfactory testimony, but the darky evidently had something on his mind and the lawyer inquired. "Oh," says the darky, "that gemman on the oder side had me in a powerful hard place once." The lawyer expressed surprise at the statement and asserted the darky he had told a plain, true narrative, and he did not see how the attorney for the plaintiff could have put him in any tight place, and wanted the darky to explain. "I tell you," said the darky, "I was awful scared when he axed me 'bout dem lanterns. "Why," the lawyer asked, 'what on earth could there be in that? You had the lanterns and waved them and the man paid no attention, but came right along upon the crossing. How could his question scare you? What could he have asked you that you were afraid of?' "Why, sir," the darky said, "'spose, just 'spose, he had axed me if dem lanterns was lit?"—The Docket.

Mark Twain's Unlucky Watch

My beautiful new watch had run eighteen months without breaking any part of its machinery or losing or gaining. I had come to believe it infallible in its judgments about the time of day and to consider its constitution and anatomy imperishable. But at last one night I let it run down. I grieved about it as if it were a recognized messenger and forerunner of calamity. But by and by I cheered up and set it by guess. Next day I stepped into the chief jeweler's to get by exact time and the head of the establishment took it out, examined it with interest, and said to me. Then he said, "She is four minutes slow—regulator wants pushing up." I tried to stop him, tried to make him understand that the watch kept perfect time. But no; all this human cabbage could see was that the watch was four minutes slow and the regulator must be pushed up a little: and so while I danced around him in anguish and implord him to leave the watch alone, he calmly and cruelly did the shameful deed.

My watch began to gain. It gained faster and faster every day. Within the week it ascended to a raging fever and its pulse went up to 150 in the shade. At the end of a month it had left all the timepieces in town far in the rear and was a fraction over thirteen days ahead of the almanac. It was now the November enjoying the snow, while the October leaves were still turning. It hurried up house rent, bills payable and such things in such a ruinous way that I could not abide it. I took it to the watchmaker to be regulated. He asked me if it had ever been repaired. I said no, that it had never needed any repairing. He looked a look of vicious happiness and eagerly pried the watch open and then put a small dice box in his eye and peered the machinery. He said it wanted cleaning and oiling besides regulating —some in fact, for a week. After being cleaned and oiled and regulated my watch slowed down to that degree that it ticked like a tolling bell. I began to be left by trains, I failed all appointments. I got to missing dinner, my watch bringing on the four o'clock tea hour and let me go to protest; I gradually drifted back into yesterday, then day before, last week and by and by the comprehension came upon me that all solitary and alone I was lingering along in week before last and the world was out of sight. I seemed to detect a sneaking fellow feeling for the mummy in the museum and a desire to swap news with him. I went to a watchmaker again. He took the watch all to pieces while I waited and then said that the barrel was swelled—he could reduce it in three days. After this it averaged well but nothing more. For half a day it would go like the very mischief and keep up such a sneezing and snorting and whooping and barking and coughing and wheezing as to make myself think for the disturbance and as long as that held out there wasn't a watch in the land that stood a chance with it. But the rest of the day it would keep on slowing down and driving the clocks it had left behind further and further behind caught up again. So at last it would trot up to the judge's stand all right and just in time. It would show a fair and square average, and no man could say it had done more or less than its duty. But a correct average is only a mild virtue in a watch, and I took it to another watchmaker. He said the kingbolt was broken. I said I was glad it was nothing more serious. To tell the plain truth I had no idea what the kingbolt was, but I didn't want to appear ignorant before a stranger. He repaired the kingbolt, but what the watch gained in one way it lost in another. It would run awhile and stop awhile, using its own discretion about the intervals. And every time it ticked it shook like a musket. I padded my breast for a few days, but finally took the watch to another watchmaker. He said there seemed to be something the matter with the hair trigger; he fixed it and gave it a fresh start.

It did well now, except that always at 10 minutes of 10 the hands would shut together like scissors and from that time forth they would travel backward. The oldest man in the world could not make head or tail of the time by such a watch, and so I went again to have the thing repaired. This person said that the crystal had got bent and the mainspring was not straight. He also remarked that part of the works needed half-soling. He made these things all right and then my timepiece performed exceptionably well but now and then after working along quietly for eight hours everything inside would let go all of a sudden and begin to buzz like a bee and the hands straighten out, begin to spin around and around so fast that their individuality would be lost completely, and they seemed simply a delicate spider web over the face of the watch. She would reel off the next twenty-four hours in six or seven minutes and stop with a bang.

I went with heavy heart to one more watchmaker and looked on while he took her to pieces. Then I prepared to cross-question him rigidly, for this thing was getting serious. The watch had cost $200 originally, and I estimated no less than two or three thousand in repairs. While I waited and looked on I presently recognized in this watchmaker an old acquaintance—a steamboat engineer of other days, and not a good engineer, either. He examined all the parts carefully just as the other watchmakers had done, and then delivered his verdict with the same confidence of manner.

He said.

"She makes too much steam—you want to hang a monkey wrench on the safety valve."

I brained him on the spot and had him buried at my own expense.

My uncle William (now deceased, alas) used to say that a good horse was a good horse until he had run away once, and that a good watch was a good watch until the repairers got a chance at it. And he used to wonder what became of all the unsuccessful tinkers and gunsmiths and shoemakers and engineers and blacksmiths; but nobody could ever tell him.—From "Sketches Old and New," reproduced in the Kansas City Times.

During a snowstorm in the canton of Appenzell black snow fell in patches on the mountains. The odd snow was due to myriads of microscopic insects. It is a rare phenomenon, but it is not unknown in the Alps when atmospheric changes occur suddenly. The insects make the snow look as if its surface were covered with soot. Four avalanches have lately fallen in the vicinity of Brigue, among which was the dreaded "red" avalanche, so-called because of the peculiar reddish tinge of the snow. Many persons are reported killed by this avalanche, which occurs in January nearly every year. Arctic weather prevails in the Alps regions, as well as over most parts of Europe, in contrast to the open winter in America. —The Pathfinder.

There are now fifteen candidates for governor formally in the preliminary race in Oregon. Among them are nine Republicans, four Democrats, each of whom has drafted his own platform. In compiling promises of executive policy there has been no party council, no consideration of what the party as a party desires in State government, no consultation by anybody with anybody except in small personal gatherings or locked-room consultations with individual followers. Some of these platforms, we fear, are what President Wilson terms "molasses to catch flies."—Portland Oregonian.

A carrier pigeon clearing its way through the empty sky, a Crusoe rounding out his forlorn years on a lonely isle, a castaway straining aching eyes to a vacant sea line, a derelict washing its slow way to the port of missing ships, a palm tree brooding over its shadow in the desert—all of these strike in different tones the same key of sentiment that is touched by the sight of the first open car when no other sign of spring has appeared.—New York World.

EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH

By Frederic J. Haskin

Education formerly meant an ability to write polished Latin verse, to think in terms incomprehensible to the mob, and to feel a proper disdain for all things material; today it is being given the meaning of an ability to take one's part in industry, in business and in the operation of the farm. One of the most significant and definite formulations yet attempted of this newer education and its scope will be made at the Conference for Education in the South, which is to be held in Louisville, Ky., next week, April 7 to 10. The object of the conference is the promotion of the physical well-being of all southern farmers, and upon this basis the development of a higher, fuller culture.

The best educated man of yesterday was the most helpless where business was concerned. He knew much about the personal habits of the triobite, could give accurate information concerning the sources of the drama and poetry of the ancient Greeks and was able to transmute facts of life into a metaphysics of the universe. But he knew less than nothing of making and selling things. What his knowledge of the farm came of memorized bits of pastoral and rustic poetry. The oldest note in education was that of rearing up a race of men above manual, acquisitive labor. The newest note seeks to identify the educated man with productive labor, rather than to divorce him from the practical. Instead of the unbuilding of a class, its object is primarily co-operative, the most leadership in co-operative effort. The new education is an interesting experiment for the making of culture democratic.

While the results to be accomplished through education have always been more or less hazy as far as the non-professional public has been concerned, the plans to be evolved at Louisville are unique in that they are so simple and so definite. They aim to be educated, according to the outline for the work of the conference, is the community. This unit is subdivided into four principal sections—the men, women, boys and girls. The agencies to be employed in the practical and cultural education of each unit are the country school, the country church and community organizations, such as co-operative farmers' associations, farmers' clubs, boys' corn clubs, girls' canning clubs, and women's clubs for home-making and social development. The objects are improved methods of cultivation, conservation of natural resources, co-operative marketing, capital and manufacture, more nutritious food, sanitary homes, development of community facilities, promotion of community moral and cultural progress and the bringing about of the land-owning in place of the tenant farmer.

Thus, the project of the conference goes beyond the public schools, colleges, universities, university extensions and the correspondence schools. It plans the increase of the happiness, independence, usefulness and culture of every normal member in every rural community in the south. It plans the careful training of every individual, not only along school, special and rudimentary lines, but in everything for the strengthening of the effectiveness of his endeavors and the enrichment of his and his community's life. To add, if possible, to the interest and novelty of the project, it is proposed to accomplish the entire work of education and material advancement of a nation of people through themselves. The educational method will be co-operation. The pedagogic means of the community will be all of its members. The courses will be on material welfare, health, recreation and general culture. In short, the conference will propose for its task the most inclusive, yet definite, practical program of historic times. Nevertheless, the machinery by which the task is to be realized is simple and immediate.

• • •

As explained, the community, and not the school, is to be the educational unit. Results are to be accomplished through the larger unit as they are through the school, by scientific organization. The conference, at Louisville will be devoted to study and discussion of the model community organization. Members who will come from every section of the south will have place in this model unit, and will be made acquainted with its workings as a whole. After the conference they will propagate its lessons each as leader in his home community.

• • •

The work of teaching the farmers of the south the advantages of the model community will be done in two ways. There will be demonstrations and conferences of members. As the foundation of the community, the first demonstration will be that of the home. This will fall into several divisions. The best arrangement and equipment of the home will be demonstrated. Housing needs, cost, site, plans and construction will be handled. Installation of plumbing to the best sanitary advantage and the greatest convenience will be shown; also the appliances and arrangement for the best lighting, heating, laundry and kitchen will be explained. Much attention will be given to a thorough treatment of labor-saving devices in the home.

The conference leaders confidently expect to convince the members that the overworked farmer's wife, the drudge whom rough and unremitting labor robs of comeliness and wider interests while still young in years, is inexcusable both to herself and to her husband in this late age. The members will be shown how special training and proper equipment shall enable the housewife to perform all her many duties well and still have plenty of time for recreation and for mental growth. This aim forms part also of the second demonstration, that on household management. Under this head, daily program of work, meal serving and related things will be explained.

• • •

These demonstrations will come under the woman's club for home-making and social development. A model woman's club will be organized at the conference. Its members will work out a clear idea of all the duties of such an organization toward the bringing about of sanitary and well-equipped homes in a community; the general bettering of family standards of cooking, development of home industries, such as sewing and weaving; and the guidance of the social development of the community. The women attending the conference will take the details of this woman's club back to their homes for development.

• • •

The men in attendance upon the conference will be organized into a farmers' club for production, marketing, co-operative credit, manufacture and human culture. There will be several demonstrations for their study. A co-operative egg and poultry association will be organized. They will be shown how to administer its business, find its markets, grade and ship their products, and the best appliances and methods for their individual guidance in poultry farming. In this way co-operative associations for the growth and sale of vegetables and orchard products, and for stock raising, breeding and marketing; a co-operative creamery to manufacture and sell dairy products, and a co-operative credit association will be organized. Co-operation in the supplies of seeds, fertilizers and machinery, and the co-operative prosecution of such community enterprises as the telephone and electric power will be explained. Farmers will be demonstrations of scientific farm management and of the possibilities of the parcel post in aiding the farmer to participate direct in city markets.

• • •

For the organization of the boy and girl sections of the community there will be a number of model clubs. The boys will have a corn club, with its objects of promoting the study of plant life, teaching methods of cultivation, the uses of corn, and methods of marketing. They will also have, pig and sccial clubs. The girls will be organized into canning, poultry and home arts clubs. As with the boys, the first two clubs will serve for the instruction of the girls in natural science and in practical economy.

These four divisions of the model community are to be builded around the country school and the country church, both of which are planned to serve as centers of stimulation, of mutual interchange of ideas for the direction of extension work, and as nuclei for the blending of all the varied interests of the community together. Such as organized community is to be a guarantee of all for each of an independent, sufficient existence, set among pleasant surroundings.

PLANS ACTIVE CAMPAIGN FOR BONDS FOR HOSPITAL

Grady Committee Will Urge Voters to Support Issue of $750,000

The general council Wednesday afternoon passed an ordinance submitting to the voters of Atlanta on May 5 a $750,000 bond issue to enlarge and improve Grady hospital.

This action was taken at the request of the general committee in charge of the hospital movement. Only two members of the general council voted against the ordinance, Councilman Orville Hall, of the Third ward, voted against it in the common council, and Alderman John S. Owens, of the Eighth ward, voted against it in the aldermanic board.

The needs of Grady hospital and the question whether $750,000 is necessary to supply these needs were thoroughly discussed before council acted. Several members of council spoke and several of the committee in charge of the hospital movement spoke. Dr. W. B. Summerall, superintendent of Grady hospital, delivered a talk that was particularly interesting and informing. He gave the council facts about the hospital and answered a great many questions.

The hospital committee—which comprises doctors, bankers, business men and working men—will immediately launch a whirlwind campaign to educate the voters on the needs of the hospital. They expect to utilize the space given them by the newspapers in systematic publicity work and expect to hold meetings in every section of the city to get in direct touch with the voters. They confidently believe the voters will authorize the bond issue provided they can be thoroughly informed in the comparatively short time between now and May 5.

TO CONSIDER PLAZA BONDS.

This is the date of the county primary and was selected because the primary will serve to bring out a large vote, which is always the most difficult undertaking in a bond campaign.

Mayor Woodward has investigated the needs of Grady hospital and favors the issuance of $750,000 bonds, by virtue of the fact that a pay ward, which it is proposed to build with $150,000 of the money, will yield a sufficient net revenue to pay the interest and sinking fund on the whole issue. The mayor probably will deliver speeches recommending to the voters that they authorize the issue.

No action was taken by council Wednesday on the plaza bonds. The county executive committee will hold a special meeting Friday morning to determine the question of postponing the primary from May 5 to May 26 in order to submit the plaza bonds on that date with the Grady hospital bonds. The postponement being for the purpose of allowing more time for the campaign of education.

Some members of the committee consider it advisable to submit the plaza bonds on May 26 and others think it would be better to wait, possibly until after the legislature has passed on the proposition, before submitting plaza bonds. This question will be settled by the committee Friday morning.

ASK BETTER CAR SERVICE FOR SOUTH DECATUR LINE

Patrons Declare Increased Traffic Warrants New Schedule for Rush Hours

Declaring improved trolley service is demanded by the enormous increase of traffic, patrons of the South Decatur car line have appealed to the Georgia Railway and Power company for more cars during the rush hours, morning and evening.

Through a committee headed by George Tumlin, citizens who patronize the line have presented the situation to officials of the company and have been assured the question will be taken up at once and that efforts will be made to relieve the congestion complained of.

Mr. Tumlin suggested that instead of the present thirty-minute schedule, cars be operated on a fifteen-minute schedule during the rush hours, or that during the heavy periods Moreland avenue be designated as the first stop of outgoing South Decatur cars. Either proposition, it is stated, would greatly relieve congestion and would be satisfactory to patrons of the line.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

"Adele," presented at the Atlanta Wednesday night is the brightest bit of light music of this season. It is tuneful, merry, entertaining. It has sparkling comedy, pretty girls, haunting airs and several excellent singers and players, and is well worth the attention of Atlanta folk who long for the operettas of former days.

"Adele" is something more than a musical comedy. It really is operetta for there actually is a plot, and the songs are written to fit it.

Of course there is one "big song." Messrs. Paul Herve and Jean Briquet, who, with Karl Hoschna, built "Mlle. Modiste," "The Three Twins," "Mamselle Sherry" and "Alma, Where Do You Live?" are responsible for the work, and they follow their ever-successful plan of "forcing" their favorite number by using it several times in every act. This year it is the waltz song, "Adele," a lilting air which sticks in one's memory, even though it may not haunt one's dreams as did "Every Little Movement" and "Alma."

The daintiest little woman who has sung in Atlanta in many moons is Carolyn Thomson, who has the title role. She is young, fresh, thoroughly charming, and her voice, though by no means "big," is sufficient to give to the waltz song its full measure of beauty.

John Park, the leading man, shared honors with Miss Thomson, their duet "Strawberries and Cream," brought recalls until both singers were tired. Mr. Park's voice is clear and his acting unusually good for a musical comedy singer. Miss Nanette Flack as Myrienne is equally worthy of praise.

Something out of the ordinary is the character comedy of Jules Epailly as Friebur, a choleric French tradesman whose temper brings him to the verge of apoplexy several times in each act. George O'Donnell, who plays the other character role, seems a little gross in his work. Excellent playing is that of Ralph Nairn as the valet and Alfred Kappeler as the juvenile, and the whole company is adequate. The costuming is exquisite, the scenery elaborate and harmonious, and the music unusually brilliant. "Adele" is a succession of charming duets and trios, interspersed with sparkling bits of comedy. It is here for the remainder of the week.

DUDLEY GLASS.

The Forsyth presents "The System" by Taylor Granville and company, as its headline attraction. This thrilling sketch deals with police and those associated therewith, and the plot of a man connected with the department to railroad an innocent man to prison. The story is well acted by a capable company headed by Taylor Granville and Miss Laura Hiersat.

The very best comedy act of its sort ever seen in this city is Stan Stanley and company, who bunch themselves in and company, who bunch themselves in plause. There are five other comic numbers, going to make up a standard Forsyth entertainment.

Next week promises well—Ray Cox, the singing comedienne, George Rolland and company in "Fixing the Furnace," the Verigraph, a surprise, Arthur Deregon, the Alexander Kids and then still some more clever features.

COUNTY OFFICERS GIVEN INCREASE IN SALARIES

Several Persons Profit by Action of Board of County Commissioners

At the meeting of the county commissioners Wednesday the salaries of several county officials were raised.

Newt Garner, special deputy to the solicitor general, received the first increase granted—from $100 to $125 a month.

A. A. Mitchell, warden for female convicts asked that his pay be increased from $60 to $75 a month. This request was granted.

C. M. Holland, urchasing agent for the convict camps, was allowed $2,400 a year, an increase of $400, and J. M. Wood, clerk for the commissioners, drew a $500 raise.

The salaries of the county policemen were also increased $5 a month, while that of Chief George Mathieson was raised from $125 to $150 a month.

REINFORCEMENTS REACH FEDERALS AT TORREON

Message Says There Is Little Danger of Villa Capturing the City

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Federal reinforcements from Saltillo have reached Torreon, according to a telegram to the Mexican embassy here today from the Mexican consul at El Paso. The message advised that there seemed to be little danger of the city being taken by Villa, the number of federal troops was not given.

Luis Terranzas, Jr., Held by Villa for Ransom, Escapes

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—Luis Terranza, Jr., the wealthy Mexican held a prisoner for ransom at Chihuahua by General Francisco Villa for the past three months, has escaped and made his way south toward Mexico City, according to unconfirmed reports received here today. Through the assistance of an old family servant and a traitor in Villa's camp, the political prisoner is said to have secured his liberty, and to have reached Saltillo in safety beyond the zone of constitutionalist control.

In making his escape from the prison in Chihuahua, Terrazas is reported to have taken advantage of an opportunity afforded by a drunken carousal of the guard of constitutionalist soldiers who had him in custody. As soon as he was in the street he is said to have gone to the house of a former servant in the magnificent home of his father, where he was disguised and taken to Hipolito station by the servant. At Hippolito station he is said to have boarded a train for Hipolito. It is reported he found a friendly conductor on the train who trusted Terrazas for the amount of his railroad fare, the fugitive being without funds.

Young Terrazas is said to have been primarily aided in his escape by a constitutionalist, who, for a sum agreed on in El Paso between himself and the family of the prisoner, is reported to have arranged for the intoxication of the guards of Terrazas in Chihuahua.

POSTERS TO HELP MAKE ATLANTA SPOTLESS TOWN

Mayor and Leaders of Organizations Urge Display of Clean-Up Signs

Atlanta's "clean-up" campaign, begun several days ago to have the city spotless for the thousands of visitors expected here for grand opera and the convocation of the Shriners, is being pushed to the limit while there is yet plenty of time.

Aside from the big posters which are to be placed on fifty different bill boards in all parts of the city, impressing the importance of the clean-up, the committee in charge of the work has urged every merchant in Atlanta to put a similar poster in his window for at least one day, Friday, April 3.

The following is the circular being mailed out Thursday:

Realizing the importance of the "Clean-up" campaign to the city of Atlanta, we urge the cooperation of all our citizens to this work. This is to request that every merchant display in his show window a poster to remain up at least one day—Friday, April 3, and longer if possible.

RENEWED BULL SUPPORT CAUSED RISE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 11 to 18 Points Higher Than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 2.—The somewhat unsettled feeling which prevailed in the cotton market yesterday afternoon was in evidence again today. Opening was steady, 1 point higher to 5 points lower, later advancing 4 points and 9 to 6 points net higher on renewed covering and spot house buying. The government reporting a good spot demand in Liverpool owing to a continued good business at Manchester probably encouraged support.

Favorable weather forecasts failed to inspire increased offerings and the market sold 10 to 15 points net higher before midday. Trading then tapered off and prices reacted 6 or 8 points under realizing.

The report from spot houses seemed to increase on every slight reaction and the market continued very steady during the early afternoon with active months about 12 to 18 points net higher.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS

Logan & Bryan: We do not feel inclined to favor the selling side during the coming period. However, reactionary sentiment in conservative circles is more pronounced than for some time past.

Hayden, Stone & Co.: After a normal reaction more buying is to be expected.

M. H. Rothschild & Co.: We prefer purchases of next year on any differences between summer and winter positions.

Miller & Co.: The outlook from a legislative and trade view still promises to be satisfactory while maintaining the present attitude of protecting sales of new crop positions as long as much confidence does not develop a positive menace to growing.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Souvenirs are to be sent by the government to George Washington's heirs as the only compensation for the land that once belonged to the first president's estate in Ohio, it was announced today. The souvenirs consist of copies of hearings before the house public lands committee on the claims of descendants of George Washington for the land. The land was acquired by military script. The committee's report did not find on any other way of compensating the heirs except to authorize publication of additional copies of the hearings as souvenirs.

Mrs. Scott in Augusta

The Augusta Chronicle says:

Mrs. Scott has the pleasure of entertaining at present one of the prominent and distinguished women in this country, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, who, until last April, was the president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution of America.

Mrs. Scott has been suffering from a heavy cold, and has been drawn to The Hill by "the fame of its climate, and is at the "Three Oaks," where she will remain until she is feeling restored to health. Mrs. Scott is not only well known, by reputation of course, to the women of Augusta, but many especially among the local Daughters of the American Revolution have had the pleasure of meeting her personally at the conventions in Washington City. She is a brilliant, charming woman, and one who possesses a magnetism that attracts both old and young. That her stay in Augusta may be pleasant, and may result in her entire restoration to health will be the sincere wish of her many friends.

When first I met the word in speech,
A lady called it the maxixe.

The next—I never smoke hasheesh—
I heard it plainly, the maxixe.

And then a man from down in Dixie
Insisted it should be maxixe.

And so it goes. The ways increase
Of uttering this word, maxixe.

Can no one tell me (help! police!)
The proper way to say maxixe?

It puts me in a frightful fix,
I dance, but can't pronounce, maxixe.

—Ellis O. Jones.

The Nemo Kop-Service Corset

New--and Only $5

The natural figure has been the decree of Paris and the entire world of fashion for at least two years. Supple Corsets of every description have been created for the purpose, but they have all missed the mark because they were merely capable of giving a woman her natural figure.

Horrors! that was not what she wanted. She had visions of having the shapeliness of Venus de Milo.

Now she may have those idealized lines if she adopts this new Corset, which is a perfect model for the purpose.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When Sammy Jay came flying out of the Green Forest, screaming at the top of his lungs and so excited that he couldn't talk straight, everybody said that he had gone crazy. You see, he was too excited to tell what the trouble was. At last his cousin, Blacky the Crow, managed to get him calmed down so that he could tell him all about it. When he had heard the story which Sammy had to tell of the stranger he had seen deep in the Green Forest, he looked very much as the other little people did when they heard Sammy screaming foolishly.

You see, it was very hard for Blacky to really believe that Sammy had seen what he said he had. Not that he thought Sammy was telling a wrong story. Oh, my, no. Sammy was too much in earnest. What Blacky thought was that Sammy had been mistaken in what he had seen, or imagined that he had seen a lot more than he really had. You see, Blacky had lived a long time in the Green Forest and he never had seen or heard of such a stranger as Sammy told about.

He asked Sammy just where he had seen the stranger, and Sammy told him that it was way deep in the Green Forest, beyond the pond built by Paddy the Beaver. Now, Blacky believes that the only way to make sure of things is to see them, and not be content with the word of some one else. So he suddenly made up his mind that he would visit he place where Sammy Jay had seen the stranger. He invited Sammy to go along with him, but Sammy refused. It was very plain to see that Sammy was afraid of the stranger. Blacky chuckled to himself as he flew over the pond of Paddy the Beaver and on deep into the Green Forest.

"The idea," said Blacky, "of there being a stranger as big as Farmer Brown's boy and wearing a black fur coat. Nobody like that ever has lived in the Green Forest. I guess I'd know if they had. Sammy must have eaten something and had a very bad dream, or else there is something the matter with his eyes."

He was talking to himself in this way as he flew along, all the time keeping a sharp watch for the stranger, when, without warning, the stranger himself stepped out from behind a tree almost under Blacky. It startled Blacky so that he let out a frightened "Caw Caw!" and nearly turned a somersault in the air. He caught himself just in time and flew to the top of the nearest pine tree, where he could look down and see all that was going on.

Everything was just as Sammy Jay had said. The stranger did wear a black fur coat, he was as big as Farmer Brown's boy, and he did have great feet and the biggest claws Blacky had ever seen. Blacky felt just as if he ought to peck himself to make sure that he was awake. Of course, he knew he was, but he just couldn't make it seem so.

Now Blacky sometimes gets as excited as Sammy Jay, and this was one of the times. He started back for the Green Meadows as fast as he could fly, and all the way he was cawing at the top of his lungs. Sammy Jay heard him long before he saw him and Sammy grinned. "He found him!" thought Sammy. "Now he knows that I told the truth. My, but he sounds just as crazy as ever I did."

And then as Blacky came in sight Sammy once more grew excited, too, and began to scream questions at the top of his lungs, until it was hard to say who was screaming loudest, Sammy or his big cousin, Blacky the Crow.

He caught himself just in time and flew to the top of the nearest tree.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

When Is a Horsehair Sofa a Lace Veil? Now!

PARIS.—Horsehair has played many parts in decorative line from covering sofas to making hats, and now there is an edition de luxe of it.

Somebody thought of the idea of converting it into lace, and we are confronted with this amiable material taking on a new lease of life. It must be rather fascinating to leap from the best parlor sofa in a country home to the dark auburn locks of a Parisian mondaine, and this is what horsehair has succeeded in doing with the aid of a skillful manufacturer.

This new lace is quite the fashion in Paris. Talbot shows it; also Lewis and Georgette, to say nothing of a host of others. It is twisted into turbans; it is built into Watteau plateaus, which are usually called Louis XV hats, and it is made to serve as a half veil when attached to the brims of plain horsehair hats.

The lace pattern is very open and simple. It might be torchon or guipure, and therefore it should not be put near the face, although some of the French women, the exceptions who have youth and perfect skins, and unwearied eyes, use it as a shade to the eyes in the way described, as a half veil.

The Veil that Is a Mask.

So many Italian fashions are being brought into play in Paris this season, as they were under Napoleon and Louis XV, that it is not surprising to see the adoption by the milliners of that ruffle of lace attached to the brim of a hat and that serves to shadow the eyes and which was originally intended to serve as a mask.

One cannot attach this mask to turbans, but it goes very well on brims that project over the eyes. As this type of hat is usually an Italian plateau built after the Watteau manner, drooping down in front and lifting high at the back, the little half veil dips only over the eyes, and then rises well up on the hair.

It takes a coquettish face beneath it. It is not a fashion for everyone. As a caprice, it is charming, and the woman who has been endowed with witchery can make the best of it with this little veil that is a mask. It should only be used on a hat that lifts high at the back. It does not go with any one of the new sailors or high round turbans with narrow brims, such as Virot is making.

Hats Worn on One Ear.

There is no getting away from the fact that millinery is again rakish. There is nothing demure about it. A Watteau hat may sound pastoral, but it belongs today to the most turban atmosphere, and it must be worn by a woman who knows how to take unto herself every detail of modern style.

Unfortunately, this very kind of hat will appeal to women who never think of tilting their millinery into fantastic angles. They will put the hat flatly on the head, and far too many of them will not even take a good look in the hand mirror at the back of their heads. And yet, half the effect of the Watteau hat lies in its pose at the back and to one side.

The same is true of all the spring turbans. They are nothing but heightened skull caps with sometimes a tiny brim to keep them from slipping off. The unsophisticated woman will buy one of these turbans because it looks so straight and regular, and when she places it in the straight regular fashion on her head she will look queer indeed. It is not built to be worn in that way.

It, in common with all other millinery this sprinf, must be tilted just as far over one ear as is safe. It must remain on the head while it gives the effect of falling off. No Beau Brummel ever wore his top hat at such a rakish angle as the woman of 1914 will wear her hat.

Boy Kills Infant

(By Associated Press.)

INDEPENDENCE, La., April 2.—While playing with a loaded revolver, Norman Trudeau, four years old, shot and killed Michael Plicia, the sixteen-months-old son of an Italian farmer, near here, according to reports which reached here today. The coroner declined to hold an inquest, the report said, owing to the extreme youth of the participants in the tragedy.

THE BLOOD TEST

THE JOURNAL'S PICTURE STORY

A Thrilling Drama of a Plot and Clever Scientific Work to Be Shown at the Savoy Friday

"It looks bad for the young man," observed Dr. Graham thoughtfully. He leaned back in the creaking swivel chair and regarded his retty niece with a puzzled frown.

"Aw, I understand it, Walter was in your home between 8 and 10 o'clock the evening of the fourteenth. He came unannounced and unobserved presumably by a side or rear entrance, and a maid testified she saw him leave the house about 10. You remember she told the coroner's jury he acted queerly, as if he did not wish anyone to see him."

"But you don't understand," retorted the girl. "Walter—"

"I understand perfectly, child. But if we are to help your young friend we must appreciate the difficulties. I was merely pointing out that his actions were rather peculiar; certainly strange enough to arouse suspicions. And when we remember that your father was found dead—murdered on the parlor floor a few minutes after Walter had left the house; that he had discharged Walter from his service, and that ill feeling had been known to exist between your father and the young man, you can see that there is a pretty strong case of circumstantial evidence."

"You don't think for a moment that Walter could have done it?" cried the girl. "All of you seem to think he is guilty," she sobbed bitterly. "Walter couldn't have done it—he wouldn't hurt a fly. I don't care if everybody turns against him—I'll believe in him in spite of all your silly circumstantial evidence!"

"I know, I know," Dr. Graham caressed her hand soothingly. "It looks bad, but things will work out all right. They always do somehow. I was only trying to state the case so we will know what we have to work against. And let me tell you something, child. I am an old cranky scientist, but I am sentimental enough to believe that any fellow who is lucky enough to win you must be all right. There, now. Just wipe away those tears, and unless your old uncle is very much mistaken we shall soon hear the wedding bells."

THE CLUE IS FOUND

Grace Williams smiled through her tears. The doctor had taken a fragment of window pane from his desk drawer. In the center of it was a small purplish clot.

"I think the whole trouble was caused by the invention," began the girl. "Walter was working in father's factory and in spare time he had perfected an automobile attachment that father believed would revolutionize the trade. He said it would make Walter famous and wealthy, and he strongly advised me to have patience with the eccentricities of an inventor.

"Poor daddy! He meant to do right, but Slawry, the factory superintendent had gained some strange power over him. I can't understand it, but father followed his advice blindly. I happened to be in the outer office one day when daddy told Slawry about the invention and his plan to purchase it from Walter.

"'You would be a fool to pay good money for a blueprint,' Slawry told him. 'Aren't you paying Walter for his brains, and isn't the blueprints yours? Just leave it to me.'

"I was tempted to rush in and denounce Slawry as a coward and a thief. I wish now I had—it might have prevented the awful things that followed. I waited till the superintendent had gone and then asked daddy how he could listen for a moment to such a scoundrel as Slawry. He told me a woman could never understand a man's affairs and advised me to dismiss it from my mind. From that time his attitude toward Walter was changed, he discharged him and would no longer permit him to come to the house.

"I told Walter of the plot to steal the blueprints. He could scarcely believe father would stoop to anything like that. We continued to meet, but we had to be careful. Walter called evenings when father was absent or occupied in his library, and he always entered and left through the servants' quarters. One evening he told me his apartment had been robbed and the blueprint stolen, and then I knew father had again yielded to Slawry's importunities."

THE DOCTOR SEES THE TRUTH

The doctor's eyes had been fixed on the fragment of glass in his hand, but he had listened intently to the girl's story. "And the night of the—— the night of the fourteenth, I assume Walter called as usual?"

The girl nodded.

"You did not happen to notice a scratch or wound on his hand?"

Grace shook her head in bewilderment.

"I was asking because whoever it was that killed your father found it necessary to break a window when he escaped from the house. In doing so he cut himself. And on the ragged glass I found this piece of glass in the room a short time after the crime had been discovered. You notice the clot. It is a drop of the slayer's blood. I scarcely know why I picked it up. Blood analysis is a hobby of mine. This may not mean anything, but— Did Walter have any suspicion as to who had stolen the blueprint?"

"None. The landlady had seen a sailor loafing aboutthe corner. In the afternoon he called and asked if she had any rooms to let. She did not like his appearance and told him she had none. He looked as if he had recently recovered from a severe illness—some sort of fever, she thought."

"Well, that's interesting," exclaimed the doctor, and suddenly the piece of glass he held seemed to possess greater interest. "Now you go home, child, and forget your troubles for a few days. I think we can do something. Good night, my dear."

Grace smiled as she stepped from the office. The doctor had almost convinced her that her troubles would soon be over. But her fresh happiness was all but shattered when she read in the evening paper a statement in which the public prosecutor declared the evidence against Walter was complete and that conviction was inevitable. The next afternoon the doctor telephoned her that he wished to see her at his office at once.

She thought she detected a triumphant gleam in his eyes as she entered. "I want you to do me a little favor," he said, handing her a sheet of paper. "Take this to the newspapers and have it inserted as an advertisement. You may read it if you wish."

Her uncle smiled queerly while Grace read. In the advertisement her uncle offered to accept for demonstration purpose a limited number of cases of the strange oriental malady known as Kala Asur and previously regarded as incurable. Applicants were requested to call at the office of Dr. Frank W. Graham at 4 o'clock the following afternoon.

"But I don't understand," Grace murmured, looking perplexedly at the doctor.

"Never mind. Now run along. And if you will be here at 4 tomorrow afternoon maybe I can tell you something interesting. I am not sure—but I have an idea that there is only one person in this town who is afflicted with Kala Asur, and he is a man we both are anxious to see."

Grace pondered the mystery in vain as she visited the newspaper offices, and she experienced a vague, tremulous hope when she called at her uncle's office the following afternoon.

"There are a couple of plain clothes men waiting in the next room," he explained to her. "They may be needed. Do you know that for a while I was almost convinced that old rascal Slawry was our man? He had a hand in it, of course, but —— I almost hate to do this. It's too much like a chapter from a detective novel."

Grace could not understand. It was evident the doctor was struggling to suppress his excitement and his manner gave her a strange sense of comfort. Presently steps were heard in the corridor, there was a rap at the door and a man in sailor's uniform lurched into the room. The doctor pointed to a chair.

"Now, my advertisement, I suppose? A little touch of the Kala Asur, ah? You must have been on the east coast of China. Let's see where it comes from. Let's see."The doctor was examining the man's eyes and skin. "I must make a thorough diagnosis—but first I want you to tell me where you received that scratch on the left hand."

Deathly pallor crept into the sailor's bronzed face. He wriggled desperately, but the doctor held his arms in a vicelike grip.

"You got that the night you murdered Williams. No use denying it. I know all about it, you see. You were first bribed to steal that blueprint, and during a quarrel over the money you murdered old Williams."

The sailor groaned. The door leading to the inner office was opened and a detective stepped in. Seeing the hopelessness of further resistance, the sailor abandoned the struggle and sank limply into the chair.

"I think I shall make a demonstration ferment of this case," said the doctor, "but I suggest you take him to jail first. He will be safer there." Under the relentless questioning of Dr. Graham the man blurted out a confession. While walking penniless and hungry in the bowery he had been found by Slawry, who bribed him to steal the blue print. He had not been paid so well as he had expected, and he proceeded to blackmail Slawry in order to extort more money. Failing in this attempt he had gone to the Williams residence to regain possession of the blue print, had been caught by the inanufacturer in the act of tampering with the safe, and in the struggle Williams had been slain.

Tears of gratitude and happiness sprinkled the girls face as she pressed her uncle's hand. "But I don't understand how you knew?" she said.

"I didn't know a thing about it," protested the doctor. "That's where I differ from most detectives. It was largely bluff. I had the piece of glass with the drop of blood. I analyzed the blood and found it infected. I was not sure, but it looked pretty much like Kala Asur. I decided to take a chance and had that advertisement inserted. It just happened that this fellow was the only sufferer from that disease who chanced to see the advertisement. Lucky that's all."

Physician Gives Recipe For Gray Hair

A Well-Known Physician and Author Gives Simple Home Recipe That Will Darken Gray Hair.

Dr. Stanton Burroughs, the well-known physician and author, recently made the following statement: "Gray hair can be easily darkened by the following simple recipe which you can mix at home: To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. bay rum and 1-4 oz. glycerine. Apply it to the hair every other day until the desired shade is obtained. It not only is an excellent hair darkenner but at the same time removes dandruff and other ills of the scalp. I use it myself and have no hesitancy in recommending it to my patients. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost.—(Advt.)

Georgia Boys Get Both Games

Red and Black Won Double-Header From West Virginia Wesleyan Nine--Corley Fanned Fourteen

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ATHENS, Ga., April 2.—Georgia defeated West Virginia Wesleyan university here yesterday in a double-header. The final scores being 10-9 and 7-0.

In the first game Harrison made a peach of a one-handed stab of a line ball, and Ginn caught a long fly to left and threw Neal out at home, completing a double play.

For the visitors Neal made two beautiful one-handed catches in deep center. Corley struck out fourteen men, while Stansbury for the visitors fanned out five.

In batting McWhorter carried away two three-base hits, while Clements took one three-base and one two-base hit. Curtis, for Wesleyan, got three hits out of five times up, one being a two-bagger.

Wesleyan . . . 000 230 211— 9 6 5

Batteries—Corley and Torbet; Stansbury and Singleton.

In the second game Fox pitched a good game, giving up only two hits in eight innings, and struck out five men. Clements got three hits out of four times up, one being a two-bagger. Ginn got away with a three-bagger and a single out of four times up. The game was slow and long drawn out because of wet grounds.

FAMOUS SOUTHPAW RUBE WADDELL DIED WEDNESDAY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 2.—George Edward Waddell, the famous "Rube," as he was known wherever baseball is played, died at a sanitarium here late Wednesday a victim of tuberculosis, after a long fight for his life, characterized by the same spirit and optimism that had marked his brilliant career in the world of sport.

Waddell, until several years ago, one of the greatest of baseball pitchers, came to west Texas four months ago already weakened by pulmonary trouble, but buoyant and hopeful that a few months would see him restored to health and "back in the game." He located on a ranch near Boerne, but instead of improving his strength diminished from day to day until his condition became so serious last month that he was brought to a sanitarium here.

John Waddell, "Rube's" father, and his mother arrived from Boerne two hours after their son died. A sister who lives here is the only other surviving relative. Interment will be here tomorrow.

George Edward Waddell, one of the greatest of pitchers, was noted nearly as much for his eccentricities as for his ability as a ball player. In the seventeen years he spent in professional baseball he held positions with twelve teams and including "return engagements" had fourteen jobs. His longest term of service was with the Philadelphia Americans where, under the watchful eye of Connie Mack, he pitched winning ball for a half dozen seasons.

Waddell's inability to keep in condition discouraged most other managers and was indirectly responsible for his contracting tuberculosis, which caused his death. There was no better pitcher than he when he was in form, but he, as well as managers and club owners, was aware of his powerlessness to resist temptation. As a result of his weakness, the largest salary he ever received was $3,000 a year. That he got from the Athletics—with the stipulation, it is said, that he keep in condition.

Waddell shared with Robert Glade the strikeout record of the American league. On July 29, 1908, while pitching for the St. Louis Americans, to whom he had just been released by Mack, he fanned sixteen of the Athletics, his former teammates.

Waddell was born in Butler, Pa., October 13, 1876. When 20 years old, he pitched his first professional ball with the Oil City (Pa.) team, and the next year, after a brief career with the Volant college (Pa.) nine, entered "big league" baseball as a member of the Louisville National league team. The pace was a bit too fast for him, however, and after a few weeks' engagement with Detroit he returned to his native state and joined the Homestead team.

In 1899, a scout for the Columbus team recommended him and he was drafted by that organization. The next year he was attached to the Louisville club, but when the Louisville players were transferred to Pittsburg, he went along. The American league war, signal for a general period of "jumping," gave Waddell the opportunity for another change and he became a member of the Milwaukee club in 1900.

Waddell joined the Chicago Nationals in 1901 and pitched a few great games for the team under Jack Doyle. In 1902 he jumped the Chicago club to the Los Angeles "outlaws" but returned to organized ball, joining the Athletics.

From 1902 to 1906 he was a star of Mack's team and then, showing indications of a return of his old habits, Waddell was sold to the St. Louis Americans. A flash of his famous skill helped Jack Bronwn in the great battle they made for the American league pennant in 1908, but at the end of the next season he was released to Newark.

The Minneapolis club bought Waddell in 1910, and he was two years with that club. Illness began to get the better of him and last spring he was added to the roster of the Minneapolis Northern league club.

M. E. Cantillon, of the Minneapolis club, sent Waddell to Texas last fall in an effort to prolong his life. Waddell at the time told friends he was soon to die.

Tribute From Mack

RALEIGH, N. C., April 2.—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, who is now in this city with his recruit club, when informed of the death of "Rube" Waddell, said he was deeply grieved to hear of his death.

"While 'Rube' may have had some faults," he said, "he certainly had a big heart. He would always be the first to offer help to an injured or ill player and was always the last to leave him. He was one of the first players who put our club in good standing with the Philadelphia public and as a pitcher he ranked with the leading twirlers of the country."

Two New Clubs For City League

Wednesday night a very interesting meeting was held by the recently organized City league, at which several matters of importance to this league were discussed.

The new teams were admitted to this league to make it a six-team organization. They were the Western Electric company and the Texas company. Both of the representatives of the new members stated that their teams were ready to enter the game at once and that their outlook was very good.

After considerable discussion it was decided to increase the league to a twelve-team organization, and to divide it into two sections. Winners in the two sections of the league will play a post season series to determine the champions at the close of the playing schedule of both sections.

The six teams that were in the city league originally are to be known as the "A" section, while the newly admitted teams will form the "B" section.

A tentative schedule was proposed and accepted by the league and grounds secured. A meeting of the twelve teams will be held next Wednesday night.

BALTIMORE TEAM SHOULD COP THE FEDERAL LEAGUE PENNANT

Knabe Appears to Have Best Balanced and Most Consistent Club--Chicago Sacrificed Much for Benefit of League Generally

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON.

In my judgment the Federal league teams do not at present quite class with the major league teams. Yet the teams I have seen in training are so much better than anyone thought could be put together in so short a time they are of major league caliber. Now that the war is on in earnest and contracts are to be disregarded one must admit that the Federal league teams are in position to pick and choose players that they need to strengthen their teams.

The Federal league will draw wonderfully well in Chicago St. Louis, Kansas City and Indianapolis at the start. What they will do in the east I cannot tell, not having had a chance to sound the temper of the fans. I heard one wager made that the Feds, in St. Louis, will outdraw the American and National leagues combined up to June 16, and I immediately offered to make the same wager as to Chicago.

What they will draw after June 16 depends entirely upon the kind of baseball they deliver. If they furnish first-class baseball they will continue to draw well.

But to the teams. Knabe, of Baltimore, appears to have the most consistent and best constructed team in the circuit, although not as strong in the pitching department as some others. Brooklyn is still in the making, having only the frame work of the real team. Pittsburg, hampered by lack of funds at first, was delayed and lost the chance to strengthen, so it appears the weakest team on the list at present. Gessler has two major league stars promised him.

Weeghman and Tinker deserve a lot of praise. They had the chance to pick the best of the league and clinch the pennant. They played fair with the other clubs, sacrificed some of their own strength to aid others, and hooked up a lot of weak players where they might have had stars. It was good for the league, but not for the club. The club is spotty, strong in some places weak in others. Its strong asset is a pair of great pitchers—Brennan, Santon and Hendrix, who ought to keep the club right up with the leaders, regardless of the weaknesses in other places.

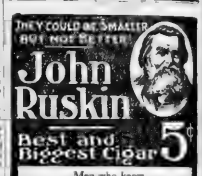

Mordecai Brown proved the wisest of the managers. He picked only men he can use to advantage. He can use every player on his team, even if he fails to get added strength. He has promise of two major leaguers, one of whom would come as soon as asked. Brown's team is rather aged, but useful for one year at least. Kansas City looks fairly well, needing outfielders, and Buffalo is a problem.

The Wichita club of the Western league announces that it has purchased from the Boston Red Sox Pitcher Fred Anderson, who was secured by the Boston club from the New England league. Anderson, however, is with the Federals without any prospect of returning to organized ball unless he hurries.

Crackers And Naps Meet For Final Game Of Season Today

DIANA DILLPICKLES IN "GOOD-BYE TO THE VIVID TRESSES" A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM

Last Game With Naps Today at Ponce de Leon

Crackers Will Get Final Opportunity to Trim Clevelanders This Afternoon—Team Will Line Up the Same as in Wednesday's Game With Possibly One or Two Exceptions

The Naps wind up their local exhibition games this afternoon, when they line up for the third time this season at Ponce de Leon park. Following this game they leave for Chattanooga, where they play Friday and Saturday and leave for points further north on their way home before the opening of the American league season.

This afternoon, therefore, offers local fans the last chance of looking over Manager Birmingham's entry before the Johnson circuit throws open its door about the middle of the month. The squad which appears at Ponce de Leon today will be somewhat different to the personnel from that which reported at Athens several weeks ago, to iron out the kinks preparatory to matching wits and prowess with the Cuban Nationals, Tigers and others. The first change in the crew was made when Ray Chapman, the brilliant young short stop of the visitors, was sent home with a broken leg, sustained in sliding to a base in practice.

Following the injury to Chapman, Leibold, the regular guardian of center field wrenched a knee in a series of games with Pittsburg last year. He was sent home Monday, for medical attention. While these two players have left the squad an addition is expected today in Terry Turner, the veteran shortfielder of the club. Turner has been spending all of the training period at Hot Springs and joins the squad before it leaves for home.

In all probability Manager Birmingham will use the same line-up today as played in Wednesday's game with no possible exception that Leibvelt will play in center. He will of course use different hurlers and will doubtless work one of his other three catchers. Birmy has not yet permitted Atlanta fans to see Abe Bowman, Bill Hamm, or Bill Steen in action, and as may use two of this trio in today's game. Neither Basler nor Carisch have appeared behind the willow.

Manager Billy Smith will probably be either Bent or Elfrd and possibly both. While Reynolds crippled digit has about recovered from its collision with a swift shoot encountered in the training camp of a Florida college several weeks ago, and J. Ham may be used behind the platter, in the event Carisch does not work. Joe Dunn will be the choice Holland or Schwind will be worked at short, with a chance that George Kircher may be shoved into the game at one of the outfielders. Following is the probable line-up:

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE SCRIBE'S INVICTUS.

Out of the blight that covers me,
To grab a spring from Henley's brow—
I thank whatever gods there be
The season opens shortly now.

In the fell clutch of winter dope
Long have I winced and cried aloud;
From toiling up this four months' slope
My brain is scrambled—and I'm cowed.

The Feds have been badly jolted in Torreon, but they still have quite a clutch in Chicago, St. Louis and Baltimore. And Gen. Gilmour announces that he will defend those cities with his last drop of kale.

GREAT SAYINGS BY GREAT MEN.

Larry McLean—"Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink."

However, in justice to Larry it should be suggested that he is taking better care of himself than he has ever done since his rise to stardom under the Red banner of Cincinnati. The big fellow has apparently cut out the suds that pass in the night and is in first-class shape for the new campaign.

UMPIRE BAITING.

The argument has been advanced by certain managers and players that it is necessary to keep after the umpires in order to develop a hustling, fighting team.

This is evidently true. For an example take the Athletics. This bunch never has a word to say to an arbitrator, and see what a punk, second-rate ball club it is. They are no good, at all, yet if they started wasting a lot of time and energy bawling out the blighted ump they might win a game here and there. For some queer, foolish reason Connie Mack has always believed it to be a better policy to put in an afternoon fighting the other club rather than the judge of play. And look what it's done for him! It's all he can do to have the flag sewed up by the 17th of July.

THE BONE INCARNATE.

The amount of bone supposed to be displayed by the athlete is widely overplayed. Most ball players are quick thinkers—and above the average profession in this respect.

But as long as a big percent of them keep after the umpires the charge of "boneheadism" can't be refuted. A ball player thrown out of a game should be subjected to a fine heavy enough to make him ponder a bit before indulging in any further oratory. The ball club might pay this fine, but if it were lifted to about $200 for each offense there would soon be a plaintive, bird-like cry from the magnate, who would soon lose his enthusiam in regard to temperament.

It takes no eminent prophet to announce the main trouble with the British army. It is badly over-golfed.

Jerry Travers was trimmed in his first practice match in England, but Matty was also beaten by a Texas league club. Travers, like Matty, is willing to pike along until the pinch arises. He's a tough entry to handle when it means something to win.

THE REVISED VERSION.

'Twas ever thus from childhood's hour
I've seen each whitest Hope decay;
I never lamped one, extra sour,
But what I swore I'd stay away.

"What are you sore against White Hopes for if the public is willing to stand for them?" queries F. R. L. Because we have to go and see 'em and the public doesn't.

We might continue in this same light-hearted strain for an indefinite length. Butt in the meanwhile we have a cold that is batting .482 in our bush leaguedom and if it's just the same to you—that makes it unanimous.

CLEVELAND TEAM, A REAL CREDIT TO DIAMOND GAME

BY INNIS BROWN.

Time changes all things, and the old order gives way to the new. The man who first made this solemn observation did not necessarily have in mind baseball, but baseball certainly comes under the subject of famous headgear nor yet the cut of fan fancy vests. It applies as well to baseball clubs. Time was when a ball club was considered, collectively, as a brawny, robust bunch of he-hes manity, which spent a small portion of each day frollicking around on a ball field, with the remainder, including a goodly part of the night, given over to barroom revelling and general hilarity of a rather coarse nature. Not that the players did, but the species conformed generally to the above.

That was in the old days, and all traces of the same have not been removed in certain quarters. However, it is a matter of genuine satisfaction to note that there are some clubs now the personnel of which is as orderly and as well behaved as any collection of humanity selected from any other profession. Indeed aside from the fact that they excel in the gentle art of smashing Spalding's best with the ash or making said article perform unbelievable gyrations on its course from the pitcher's box to the plate these fellows are about the same as the average everyday citizen that you meet in general conduct.

Of this latter type is the Cleveland club which winds up a series of exhibition games with the Crackers today. The Naps have made one short visit here before this spring, after which they returned to their spring camp at Athens. On their present stay they have been here since Saturday night. Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, they have been able to play only two of the five games scheduled to date. However, in these games they have played baseball, and have been able to draw a distinction between the article of said game played largely through raucous manipulations of the under jaw, directed chiefly at the luckless umpire, and that produced through scientific wielding of a bat, or the accurate throwing of the ball.

In other words, they have put up a clean, sportsmanlike exhibition, utterly devoid of any umpire baiting or other rough stunts. They are a big league team and they recognize the fact that members of the local club are brothers of the same professions. Also that some of the youngsters who are now laboring in a lower circuit may be playing in the big show when others of their own number have been relegated to the brush. Hence none of the bullying, sarcastic stuff that characterizes the appearance of some clubs in exhibition games.

The best testimonial of the behavior of the Naps can be gated than the attributo paid them by Manager Letton, of the Ansley hotel, where the club is stopping. He states that he has never entertained a more orderly, quiet, gentlemanly set of guests than the Naps, regardless of their vocational proclivity that particular institution of the hotel, located at the extreme corner of Forsyth and James streets, has not drawn its full quota of patronage from the ball players, but otherwise the hotel manager marks the athletes A1.

The chances of the Naps to win the American league flag are problematic. Admittedly the Athletics are a formidable array to down. Then, too, the Naps are at present handicapped by the loss of two players through injuries. But these may get back into the game before the race is well under way, and

Jackets Meet Miss. College

The Tech baseball team will tackle its second collegiate series of games, when the Mississippi college nine arrives for a two-game series beginning Friday afternoon at Grant field. The Mississippians have never played here before, and little is known definitely of their team. However, they trimmed the strong Alabama team decisively Wednesday afternoon, shutting the Tuscaloosans out by a score of 10 to 0. Since the Alabama team is generally a strong one, it may be taken that the Mississippi boys are formidable both with the ash, and in the field.

Coach Heisman has not selected his pitcher for the first game, but it is likely that Bryant will start in the opener. He worked in one game with Auburn, and his performance was very satisfactory. He appears to be the making of a good hurler, and he will doubtless have further opportunity to prove his worth against the Mississippi team.

Miss. Hurler Fanned Twenty

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., April 3.—Mississippi college Wednesday afternoon defeated Alabama by the one-sided score of 10 to 0. The visitors outclassed the locals in every department of play. Brooks, the Mississippi hurler, was the main show of the contest, striking out twenty men, giving up only two hits, and issuing but two free passes. Besides he hit safe four times, rapping out two singles, a double and a triple.

Two Alabama pitchers were hammered from the hill. Vandegraaf, who began the game, was forced to retire in the fifth, while Smith who succeeded him, was relieved at the end of the eighth by Johnston. Score by innings:

Travers Beaten At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., April 2.—Walter J. Travers, former international amateur golf champion, met defeat Wednesday in the first round of match play in the fourteenth annual United North and South Men's Amateur Golf championship, being by C. T. Durham, formerly of Boston, but now of Charlotte, N. C., by one up after eighteen holes play.

Other survivors of the day's play in the first division were Dr. C. H. Gardner, of Providence, R. I.; W. N. Paul, of Mecklenburg, N. C.; M. F. O'Connell, of Pittsburg; Dr. Robert Gardner, of Stamford, Conn.; Paul R. Gardner, of Chicago; R. S. Worthington, of Delaware, and C. L. Bacher, of Auburndale, Massachusetts.

Technological School Will Teach Aeronautics

NEW YORK, April 2.—Plans for a course in aeronautics in connection with the Sheffield Scientific school have been made by the faculty of Yale university, according to Prof. Lester Page Breckinridge, who is in New York.

Prof. Breckinridge announced the decision of Yale university to open the new course after a conference with Alan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America.

For this course Prof. Breckinridge said it was planned to use airmen and aeroplanes and to study every feature connected with the scientific problems of flying.

Manager Joe Birmingham expects to have his bunch in there fighting from the jump. If they can draw a favorable nod from the fickle Goddess of Fortune they may this year hurl back tradition and bring a pennant to the Flower City after thirty years of patient waiting.

At any rate, the Naps are deserving of the hearty support of every fan who appreciates clean, hard play. Atlanta fans have seen them in action and have entertained a more orderly, quiet, gentlemanly set of guests than the Naps, regardless of their vocational proclivity that particular institution of the hotel, located at the extreme corner of Forsyth and James streets, has not drawn its full quota of patronage from the ball players, but otherwise the hotel manager marks the athletes A1.

The chances of the Naps to win the American league flag are problematic. Admittedly the Athletics are a formidable array to down. Then, too, the Naps are at present handicapped by the loss of two players through injuries. But these may get back into the game before the race is well under way, and

HERE AND THERE

By Innis Brown

Local fans who let other matters interfere with their going out to see the exhibition put up by the Naps and Crackers in the first of the two-game series at Ponce de Leon Wednesday afternoon, missed an opportunity of seeing the grand old game pretty much as it should be played. But few things happened to cause black marks against the exhibition, if the game were scored on a percentage scale.

Just three bobbles were registered during the fray that could be shown in the error column. The visitors were guilty of one, and the homefolk of a couple. Neither of the trio figured in the run getting, which is to say that runs scored in the innings duringwhich the miscues took place, would have been shoved over the platter any way. In the third inning Harry Welchonce's slip in letting Gregg's single slip past him, thereby enabling O'Neill to go to third, was erased when Joe Jackson came up and poled one to deep center for three bases, scoring all hands on at the time. Rube Kissinger fumbled Manager Birmingham's tap in the fourth, but Birmy was thrown out trying to steal. Willis Mitchell contributed the lone bobble by the Naps, when he let Munch's slow roller dribble through his underpinning, but Dutch was left when Doescher fanned.

The chief offense other than the above perfect work was a tendency toward w'dness on part of the two Nap southpaws. Both Gregg and Doescher gave the hit column of the Crackers in the box scores, you will stop to wonder just where the offerings served to Cracker batsmen were seedy. As a matter of fact the slabbing of the visiting hurlers was a bit lumpy in spots, but in the aggregate it was well nigh airtight. Besides, what profited it to fill the bags, whether by passes, hit batsmen or bonks, when the following artilleryman closes down like a clam, and denies the attack even a semblance of a safe poke?

Vean Gregg worked the first four innings for the visitors, and showed no disposition to encourage the local stickers at any time during his tenure of the box. In fact, just one safe smash did the Crackers nab while the lanky boxman was on the job. Hack Elbel shot a fast one over second in the fourth, which composed the total of safeties garnered from the westerner's delivery. Only once did the home boys threaten during Gregg's reign. He walked Munch in the third, but Kissinger fanned. Long forced Munch at second a moment later. Gregg then walked Veichmeyer, but Flanagan also walked Holland. Welchonce could not solve Vean's offerings, and the three runners died on the bags, Willis Mitchell was tossing Captain Harry out to Johnston.

Manager Smith's boys got their lone run off the delivery of Mississippi Bill Mitchell, who followed Gregg. It came in the seventh as a result of Tommy Long's double down the first base line for two bags, followed by McConnell's safe drive to left, and Holland's scorching drive to the same territory, which uraney nabbed by a nice catch, but Jack was unable to shut Tom off at the plate. The play made to second instead and McConnell was shooed back to first.

Come to think of it, that earned run was what interference leagues batters round just about a day's work all last season. Or at any rate, Cobb, Baker, Speak, Collins and confreres were able to amass only slightly better than an average of one run to the game, of an earned vintage, off the Mississippian. Possibly a majority of the fans do not know it, but Bill was tied with Death Valley Jim Scott, of the White Sox, for third place among American league hurlers during last season in the matter of smallest number of earned runs allowed per game. This pair followed closely in the wake of Walter Johnson and Eddie Cicotte, and neither of the four allowed as much as an average of two earned runs per contest.

Also William had a strikout record of a little better than six men to each ten innings that he worked. His average per inning for the season was .64, while the peerless Walter Johnson whiffed just .70 per inning. Little wonder, therefore that he fooled five of the Crackers during the five innings that he worked. In fact, taking it by and large, the home guard did a fair day's work in earning the single run off of William. Mitchell was going in great form in the last round, and when Ham Reynolds was sent in to club for Jack Doescher he found the clubbing exceedingly rough, and went out on strike, as did Tommy Long a minute later.

But good hurler that he is, Mitchell was not the whole bill, curtain-raiser, headliner and all. Other athletes of more or less distinction played their parts very acceptably. Among which may be mentioned Joseph Jackson, Carolinian by birth, ball player by profession, and slugger extraordinary. Joseph had no desire to appear hoggish and wear out his welcome among his near-home folk. Hence he did nothing flukey about any of these. Those three-ply waits were the genuine morocco-bound-deckle-edged article, and if Joe had been really serious about the afternoon's work, he might easily have made a homer of one, which chased Harry Welchonce clear to the bank in center field.

We might also call attention to Mr. J. Graney, who attends to any transaction taking place in the left garden. Mr. Graney collared a couple of drives by Harry Long, which might have raised Harry's stock considerably had it been any young man been on the job, near the left field bleachers. One of these was nailed in the first round, and the other in the seventh, when two were on. The last in particular looked like it would be good for three bases or possibly the circuit until Granet shot through the air and grabbed onto it, clear of the ground.

There were at least two gratifying features from the standpoint of the locals' work. The whole bunch played good ball, but the pitching of Hack Elbel was especially praiseworthy. To begin with Hack was the first and only local warrior to push through V. Gregg's guard for a safe tap. This took place in the fourth frame, and then Hack repeated with another smash that tore past Mitchell too rapidly for interference by Southpaw Bill. Tommy Long, Amby McConnell and Dutch Munch were the others to rake a safety from Mitchell's service.

From a defensive standpoint, Jack Doescher's hurling was pleasing. Jack worked the last four innings, and held the opposition to two safe raps, including the one registered by Olson. No runs were assessed off Jack. In two innings the opposing force got to the Kissinger, on this time for a brace of counters. Joe Jackson's clubbing turned the trick on at the last. The latter made two of the triples with two men on each time.

The Naps bid farewell to the local colony of fans, this afternoon. They are ending their stay here and will begin their trek north, playing several games en route home before they open the season proper. Fans who enjoy a good game of baseball played in a sportsmanlike manner, without the disgusting spectacle of umpire baiting, and rough tactics on the field, will do well to turn out, and wish Birmingham and his men a successful season in their last appearance here this year.

Vaughn's Wildness Lost for Macon

MACON, Ga., April 2.—Although Macon's South Atlantic league team outhit the Boston National's Wednesday afternoon, the Boston team won by a score of 6 to 1. In the second inning with one out, Vaughan, Macon pitcher, walked three men and then Gowdy, Boston's heaviest hitter, struck out, and Coreheam was forced at first. Vaughan's wildness again in the third and fourth innings, however, saved his downfall. Score played at third base for Boston during part of the game.

Jennings Will Join Crackers

Shortstop Candidate Wants to Report About April 20—He Is Coaching College Team at Present

Morley Jennings has just notified Manager Billy Smith by wire that he will report to the Crackers at an early date. Jennings is the young shortstop, secured from the Eastern association through the Washington club, and is at present engaged as coach of the Ouachita college team at Arkadelphia, Ark. Jennings declined to report when the other men were notified to put in an appearance, but informs Manager Smith that he is anxious to come now, and that he would like to show up here about the 20th. It is likely that the local club will request the college authorities to allow Jennings to leave at least a week earlier, in order that he may reach here before the season opens.

The addition of Jennings will enliven competition at the shortstop field position. At present Harry Holland and Art Schwind are battling it out for the stand left vacant by the departure of Riv. Bisland. Jennings hit above .300 in the Eastern association last season, and also fielded among the best. He should therefore make a lively bid for the local job.

Nixon Goes to Beaumont Club

Manager Billy Smith has just announced his first cut in trimming down the squad of ball tossers, who were finally figured to have a chance for the team when they reported for spring practice. Outfielder Nixon has been released to Beaumont in the Texas league. He leaves tonight to join his new club.

It will be a matter for regret with a host of Atlanta fans that Nixon had to be let out. Al has given his best efforts to the local club, and has made many friends. However, his hitting this spring has been weak, and owing to the fact that he throws left-handed, he is not available as a utility man, in spite of the fact that he is one of the best outfielders on the club, has a corking good throwing arm, and can also play well on the infield. But a left-hander has small chance on the inner works, except at the first bag. Local fans wish for him a profitable season in his new berth.

Ladies' Season Tickets on Sale

The Atlanta Baseball association has just gotten from the printer a supply of season tickets for the coming season. Secretary Parker states that a large number of inquiries have been received for these which the past ten days, and they may be obtained now either at the box office at Ponce de Leon, at the headquarters of the association in the Third National Bank building, or at Tumlin's cigar stores.

As explained sometime since, the local club will continue the arrangement whereby ladies will be admitted free on certain days of the week. However, on other days a half rate of twenty-five cents will be charged, in cases where the purchasers have season books. To those who do not have these season books regular prices of fifty cents will be charged. Other clubs in the league have made a similar offer to fans, and have found the move a popular one.

Two Teams Play Morning Game

The Naps and the Crackers threw a little surprise party Thursday morning by playing an eight-inning game as Forest park, being by way of getting things warmed up for the afternoon fray. The visitors got the decision by a score of 4 to 0, Manager Smith used Gene Weston, the Tech High twirler, and the youngster made a very creditable showing, allowing the Nap batsmen but three safeties. Fred Blanding did the hurling for the Naps, and held the off local sluggers with three safe tops.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Atlanta . . . . 000 000 00— 0 3 4
Cleveland . . . . 001 210 0x— 4 3 1

Batteries—Atlanta, Weston and Reynolds; Cleveland, Blanding and Billings. Umpire, Bill Smith.

Otto McIver, formerly manager of the Austin team of the Texas league, and at one time with the St. Louis Cardinals, has been given his unconditional release by Austin.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Operating An Incubator

PROBABLY there is no one thing connected with the poultry business of so much importance as an incubator, and it is one thing that means success depends largely on the person who operates it. Nearly all incubators are made little different from each other, and a person should always operate an incubator according to the instructions sent with the machine as the manufacturer generally knows best what suits his machine. There are no rules positively by which all kinds of incubators can be operated. But, after a man has operated different makes of incubators for some length of time there are certain rules that if he will follow he can most always get a good batch from an incubator that can be regulated and its temperature kept near 105 degrees.

The most important time is the first five and the last two days of a batch. The temperature should be kept even and uniform especially at this time. The first five days the germs are just starting and the temperature should be kept as uniform as possible. The last two days of the batch the animal heat in the eggs will make the temperature in the machine run up, so it is necessary to know best what suits his machine. To keep it from running up, or become discouraged on account of a hen being off of the nest a night or something that happened to the incubator. This is a big mistake and one that will come from such causes unless the increased heat from the little chickens. Many people make a mistake by changing the regulator of their machine during the last few days, and often will ruin a batch after it is practically completed.

After the animal heat forms in an egg, which is after the fifth day they will stand lots of changes, and if the lamp goes out for twenty-four hours or the hen stays off of the nest for a day and night unless the weather is very cold it will not injure the eggs. The animal heat will keep them alive and going. Many people throw away a setting of eggs through a test in the machine, or because they think the animal heat in the eggs will keep them alive and going often for thirty-six to forty-eight hours without any heat at all.

One of the main things that has to be governed about it is to watch the air cells in the eggs. They should be aired regular and the air cells dried out sufficiently so that the little chickens can turn its head in the big end of the egg at hatching time. Our atmosphere is so full of moisture that it is almost impossible to dry the air cells on the eggs, but it must be done if a person gets a good hatch. By examining an egg through a tester a person can keep track of this and it can be regulated either by the ventilator in the incubator or by airing the eggs on the outside either at shorter or longer intervals as such is required.

Another very important thing is moisture. However, more chickens are drowned by using too much moisture, especially at the wrong time than are ever hatched by the use of it. Often a person will add moisture to a machine during the last days, and if too much is given the chicken in the egg will absorb this moisture. They will swell up in the egg and so completely fill the egg that they do not have room to turn their heads and get out their way out. This is a big mistake. Eggs as a rule should have moisture from the beginning to the end of the batch. It is bad policy to give moisture some times and then none at all at others. They will usually only absorb a certain amount if placed where they can utilize it, and it is far better to keep continually around the incubator damp or no use any moisture at all. It should be used all the time or not at all, unless one is very familiar with the conditions. A nice large hose from moth machines a hose is used every day or so and tepid warm water turned on the eggs two or three times a week from the beginning to the end of the batch. This makes the membrane let go to the egg and the tender, and the little chickens can get out of the shell much easier than if they are run continually in a very hot, dry atmosphere.

This one question alone has been the hardest thing to solve in connection with artificial hatching in our section of country. Our conditions are so different from the sections where the incubators are manufactured and the conditions studied as they are in the sections where the machines are made.

One can not get a fine batch on account of ideal weather conditions, and with the same machine under different weather conditions often makes almost a complete failure during the next batch. It is simply a matter of study and to what success a person will attain. The writer has found there is no set rule that can be used and a person has to use more or less judgment and figure or himself just how much moisture to give his eggs and just how much to air them. The weather conditions and temperature depends largely on the success and failure of the average incubator that is operated in this section of country. It is easy after a person has learned how and understands these conditions to get a good batch every time. If he watches closely the temperature and the air cells and moisture in the machine, but when one attempts to imitate nature he cannot do so and neglect his incubator. Certain things must be looked after closely and certain details followed to the letter. Otherwise you can not get a good batch.

But without incubators it is almost impossible for one to raise as many chickens as they desire. It is a pleasure to operate and manage them when you know how, and they can be depended upon with more certainty than a hen. They are very important, and we simply have to study out our conditions and do the best we possibly can with them as we must use incubators if we expect to get out early hatched chickens.

Yours very truly,

The Real Estate Field

Seven-Story Office Building, to Cost $30,000, Will Replace Old City Hall Building—Three Parcels on Washington and Collins Streets Bring $45,500 All Cash—Highland Avenue and Other Sales—New Building Plans

New building announcements, including a seven-story office building on the south side, and some important all cash sales, featured an unusually strong assortment of real estate news Thursday.

Robert R. Arnold and Harvey Hill, who own the former city hall property at Pryor and Hunter streets, will tear down the old building about June 1, and erect in its stead a seven-story office building to cost $130,000.

The building will be of steel, fireproof construction and so built as to foundation and walls as to permit the addition of three more stories. The present building is five stories and is occupied by the county until June 1.

It was also planned at one time to remodel the building, but it has decided to raze it and erect a new one instead. Walker & Chase are now drawing the plans.

The new building will occupy a lot 52 1-2x120, and will contain stores on the first floor and offices above. It will be for county offices to the floor. Because of its proximity to the court house, the offices will be particularly available for lawyers.

Recently Mr. Arnold bought an adjoining lot on Pryor street, but this, for the present at least, will not figure in the improvements.

IMPORTANT CASH SALES.

Three important all cash sales were announced on Thursday.

Formed to George Adair sold for G. W. and W. N. Tumlin to R. R. Wood, the southeast corner of Washington street and Trinity avenue, known as 98 Washington street, and also as the former Neal and the F. I. Stone home. The price was $22,500, all cash.

The property has a frontage of 68 feet on Washington street and a depth of 140 feet on Trinity avenue, with a two-story brick dwelling on it now occupied by a boarding house.

The same agency sold for Miss Anne K. Kelso to Mr. Wood the adjoining property on Washington street for $15,000 cash. This lot is 55x140, containing a two-story brick dwelling, formerly the home of George S. Lowndes.

COLLINS STREET SALE.

A. F. Liebman sold to Tumlin Brothers for W. S. Herren No. 19 Collins street, for a consideration of $10,000 cash.

This consists of a dwelling on a lot 49x189 between Decatur street and the Georgia railroad.

HIGHLAND AVENUE SALE.

McLendon Brothers have sold for F. S. Mackie to Crawford the southwest corner of Highland and St. Charles avenues. The consideration was $18,500.

This is a two-story brick residence on a lot 40x180, and Dr. Crawford will occupy it about May 1.

OTHER SALES.

The Charles P. Glover Realty company has sold for Harris G. White to the Brookhaven estates No. 1020 Highland avenue, a residence on a lot 50x200 for $5,250.

E. W. Clapp, of the Smith & Ewing agency, sold for Arthur C. and R. W. Keely to B. Clein two parcels, one on Fraser street near Glenn, consisting of three houses on a lot 48x202, and the other on Grady street near Glenn, consisting of three houses on a lot 151x84, for $3,300.

WEST PEACHTREE BUILDING.

James L. Wright is having plans drawn for a store and apartment building he will erect on his property at the northwest corner of West Peachtree and Parker streets. Work will be started as soon as the new grade is completed.

The building will be two stories, containing three stores and thirty rooms in suites of two rooms and bath. The cost will be about $30,000.

EAST LAKE CLUB PLANS.

Hal Hentz is now at work on plans for the new club house at East Lake, and preparations for the new building are being rushed as rapidly as consistent with careful work.

The new building will be more expensive and a better arranged one than the old. It is estimated that it will take all summer to complete it.

It is understood, however, that the plans will be ready for acceptance in about two weeks, and that work of construction will be started in thirty days.

PLOW COMPANY LEASE.

The John Deere Plow company, a big industrial concern, has leased from E. L. Duncan, secretary of the company behind the Walker street development, a five-story building, with a lot front of on 178 feet of frontage on Nelson street, extending back to the railroad. The lease is for twenty years.

Plans are being drawn by the lessee's architect in conjunction with John C. Battle, the Atlanta architect. A. V. Gude has the contract. The building will be erected to meet the special requirements of the lessee.

FREIGHT RATE HEARING NEAR CLOSE THURSDAY

La Follette to Speak In Senate on Bill to Prevent "Influence"

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The interstate commerce commission again today heard arguments by representatives of the eastern railroads urging an increase in freight rates. It was planned to conclude the hearings today if possible. The commission purposes, however, to expedite the final disposition of the case in every way and to that end has determined to hold continuous hearings until all the evidence is submitted.

Interest in the question was heightened today because of the possibility of an early decision by the commission on the proposal of the carriers that they be permitted to make a horizontal increase in their rates and by the announcement of Senator LaFollette that he would speak in the senate today on his bill to make unlawful any attempt to influence proceedings before the commission except in accordance with the body's regulations.

A decision may be handed down within a month. Senator LaFollette was ready to speak on his bill when the senate met today. He was prepared to present evidence of the attempts to influence the interstate commerce commission in connection with the pending rate case. Senator Cummins was also expected to speak on the rate question, as at the opening of the commission today representatives of the carriers continued their arguments to show that the railroads are confronted with a critical situation which might be prevented if allowed an increase in freight rates.

BIG GAME IN ALASKA TO HAVE BETTER PROTECTION

Shooting of Moose and Mountain Sheep Prohibited in Southeastern Section

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2—Alaska's big game, which yearly furnishes excellent sport, has been placed under rules laid over the world, is to receive greater protection at the hands of regulations made public today by the department of agriculture. Effective immediately and for a period of five years, the shooting of moose in southeastern Alaska, and of mountain sheep in the eastern part of Kenai peninsula, is prohibited. The districts affected by the new regulations are among the most readily accessible to sportsmen.

Hitherto Alaskan game has been protected only by a short season and the system of fees for shooting and shipping licenses. The Alaskan mooshead is regarded as the finest trophy of the kind in the world.

U. S. SUPREME COURT SETS RECORD FOR WORK

Cases Are Disposed of So Rapidly Lawyers Are Kept on the Jump

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Unprecedented progress by the supreme court in its years work has brought embarrassment to lawyers all over the country. They have been caught unprepared to present their cases to the court and have been compelled to ask the tribunal to pass over case after case until next year.

Chief Justice White is said to possess an ambition to clear the docket of all cases awaiting argument except current business. When he became head of the court, a case waited almost three years before being heard. When the court adjourns the last of May for the summer it promises to be considering cases filed only a year before.

The work during the year has been handicapped by the absence of Justice Lurton on account of illness. He has returned to Washington and intends to resume work when the court convenes Monday.

RESULTS of COLDS

To Neglect a Cold in the Beginning is to Run a Pretty Big Risk.

When the Liver Gets Lazy the Blood Thickens and the System Becomes Easily Susceptible to Cold and Disease.

A cold is directly traceable to an inactive liver. The liver finds its efforts overcome and food remains in the stomach or bowels. The head gets hot, the feet cold and the bowels constipated. Right then and there is the danger point. The bowels must be kept open. The system must be relieved of congestion.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known relief. It is better than calomel. It will rejuvenate the liver, send the blood racing through the veins, dispel the congestion and make you feel as if life is worth living.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT acts quickly and mildly, and never gripes or nauseates. Don't take an inferior substitute. Some stores may offer other preparations upon which they make larger profits, often similar in name, but very different in action. JACOBS' LIVER SALT is 25c for a large jar at druggists, or sent by mail (postpaid). Jacobs' Pharmacy.—(Advt.)

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get a four ounce bottle of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidney and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—(Advt.)

BANDIT ROUTED BY FLETCHER IN GUN DUEL ON SEABOARD

When it got under way again, said Fletcher, he heard some one hammering on the steel door of the express car.

A man's voice demanded that it be opened. He refused, and almost immediately a little barred glass window beside the door was shattered. A hand reached through, unlocked the door and slid it back. Through the opening jumped a man with a red handkerchief tied across the lower part of his face. A revolver was in his hand.

Fletcher was entrenched behind the safe. He was the target immediately for a shot. The robber advanced on him, firing a second time. Fletcher pulled a revolver, which in the excitement he had forgotten until the moment, from his trousers pocket and fired. The man were together, and the robber pushed his pistol against the messenger's breast and pulled the trigger. Fletcher says that he shoved his finger between the hammer and the pluner, preventing a shot, which would have ended his life. Fletcher fired again, but evidently the barrel of his revolver had been shoved beyond the body of the man with whom he was grappling.

The robber jerked his gun loose and fired another time, and this bullet plunged through the fleshy part of Fletcher's right arm. Then the robber shoved his revolver up against the breast of the messenger and pulled the trigger again. The cartridge failed to explode, and his life was saved a second time, Fletcher says.

The bandit ran to the door and jumped out of the moving train. Fletcher says that he pulled the bell cord twice and this caused the engineer to stop the train. Whether he pulled the cord when the robber first entered the car or immediately after the struggle, he says he does not remember, as he was very excited.

He is certain, however, that the train was moving when the robber jumped off. When the train came to a standstill Fletcher jumped out of the car himself, and then, according to the conductor, the messenger's shirt was blazing, having been ignited by the flash from the pistol as the robber fired the bullet into his arm.

One of the robber's bullets went through Fletcher's suitcase on top of the safe. Another flattened against the safe. The third went through Fletcher's arm. Fletcher was not able to say whether he wounded his assailant.

It was several minutes, possibly five minutes, Fletcher says, after the train stopped at the water tank that the robber first demanded admittance to the car. By the step of the steel express car there is a little railing, and evidently the bandit had been holding on this rail during the ride from the tank.

Engineer A. L. Garrison said he heard the shots and thought they sounded like torpedoes, though he couldn't locate them under the wheels. Conductor Cason, in the first passenger coach, also heard them and thought they were torpedoes.

The robbery was attempted when the train was within eighty-nine miles of Atlanta. Several of the passengers did not know anything had happened until they had arrived in the city.

Immediately after his arrival in Atlanta, Fletcher was called into a conference of the local express officials to give them a detailed account of the entire matter.

Fletcher rooms and boards at 480 Whitehall street. Mrs. T. J. Turner, who conducts the boarding house, said he came last December from Richmond. She said he is a small young man, but game, and that he is liked well by his fellow boarders.

The place of the attempted robbery is adapted to such deeds as this. The recent freight wreck, last Saturday, has caused trains to go slowly along the stretch of track for several miles. It is in an isolated section of the country.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WANTS MUNICIPAL BONDS MADE EASIER TO ISSUE

Alderman Thomson Asks an Amendment to Constitution of State

A resolution asking Fulton county's representatives in the legislature to introduce at the next session a bill providing for an amendment to the state constitution whereby two-thirds of those voting in a municipal bond election may authorize an issuance of bonds will be introduced in the Fulton county democratic executive committee at its called meeting Friday morning by Albert D. Thomson.

Mr. Thomson, who is alderman from the Fourth ward of the city, is convinced that the present constitutional provision requiring two-thirds of the entire registration to vote in favor of bonds before the can be issued is such a handicap on the cities and towns of the state that it mitigates against progress.

"That provision was put in the constitution for a particular purpose—to wit, to prevent the carpet baggers from stealing the state," says he. "It has now served its purpose and should be removed. It is such a strict provision that the issuance of bonds by municipalities is almost an impossibility. In order for bonds to be issued, the voters must be practically unanimous with reference to any given condition of affairs which it is desired to remedy. In order for the voters to be unanimous, a condition of a flairs must become intolerable. For a municipality to allow any condition of affairs to become intolerable means that it is standing still. Atlanta is not that sort of a city. Neither are the other municipalities of Georgia.

"I believe a constitutional amendment allowing two-thirds of those voting in a bond election to authorize an issuance of bonds would be supported by the cities and larger towns throughout the state. I think the people in the rural communities would vote for it.

"It is too much to require two-thirds of the entire registration to authorize the issuance of bonds. Such a requirement means that the dead voters and the indifferent voters, who never vote, make a combination almost sufficient to defeat bands.

"The issuance of bonds at least should be left to the determination of those who are alive, who are at home and who take a sufficient interest in municipal affairs to vote."

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN TO HELP FIFTH REGIMENT

Newspapers and Commerce Chamber Will Aid Georgia's Crack Organization

An active campaign of publicity and other methods in behalf of the Fifth regiment of infantry, national gaurd of Georgia, which has been about to disintegrate because some employers have discouraged young men in their service from enlisting, is to be undertaken by the Atlanta chamber of commerce with the aid of the local newspapers.

"Atlanta needs the Fifth," is the slogan of the campaign. The propaganda will be carried to all quarters in a determined effort (for which success is foreseen already) to secure not only the passive acquiescence of Atlanta's business interests in the work of the regiment, but their active co-operation in that work.

The military committee of the chamberof commerce will direct the campaign. The chairman of that committee is Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, until recently in command of the Fifth. He is qualified admirably to interpret the regiment's efficiency as partof of the civic organization that makes Atlanta great. His co-workers are interested no less than Colonel Pomeroy in the task they have in hand.

A conference among the leading merchants of the city, called by the military committee to meet in the office of Colonel Freeric J. Paxon, was attended by about thirty members of the larger business firms. That conference developed unanimous sentiment that the Fifth must not be allowed to go to pieces. It went further than that, for a sub-committee named to wait upon the heads of the three local dailies discovered that each of the newspapers is emphatically in favor of the movement.

"W did not have to argue," the subcommittee reported. "They were with us already."

The need there is for the Fifth grows no less real in times of peace, for it is the sold foundation on which rests the good order of Atlanta. It is the power of the state behind the sheriff's office and the municipal police force. Without it, Atlanta would not stand upon the cetrain ground of peaceful progress where she stands today.

Letters will be addressed by the chamber of commerce to all its members, asking their co-operation in the matter. These letters will stress the regiment's importance to Atlanta. Another phase of the campaign will be directed toward making enlistment in the Fifth not only more permissible among the young men of the city, but even more attractive.

The military committee of the chamber held a session Wednesday afternoon, which Colonel Orville H. Hall, commanding the regiment, was invited to attend. Plans for the campaign were discussed then. Another meeting for the same purpose was called for Thursday afternoon.

WELTNER DECLARES FEES SMOOTH GRAFTER'S PATH

Secretary of Prison Association Delivers Address in Montgomery

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 3.—That the fee system is the most expensive way of paying persons for work they do, and that it is fundamentally wrong, because it makes the grafter's pathway smooth were the declarations of Philip Weltner, of Atlanta, secretary of the Prison Association of Georgia, who was in Montgomery yesterday.

Mr. Weltner delivered an address at the Sidney Lanier High school, under the auspices of the Women's Federation of Clubs. In addition to his talk in opposition to the fee system, Mr. Weltner said the time had come for the abolition of the convict lease system and that all state convicts be worked on roads. He said Georgia had awakened and that Alabama should do likewise.

Referring to the fee system Mr. Weltner declared that it exposes to slander officials who want to do their duty and gives the dishonest man an opportunity to practice the art of grafting without fear of detection. "It brings down the whole system to disgrace, whether it is the solicitor general or prosecuting attorney, the man who keeps an almshouse or the sheriff who feeds the prisoners in jail," said Mr. Weltner.

"How can it be cheaper for the state to farm out at a price fixed which the state itself could perform at cost? Why open to the greed of others, people who are absolutely defenseless such as the prisoners in a jail or the paupers on a poor farm?"

P. R. R. ANNULS 118 TRAINS ON MANY OF ITS LINES

Retrenchment Plan Estimated to Save $2,000,000 Yearly

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—In pursuance of the retrenchment plans made public last week the Pennsylvania railway annulled 118 passenger trains on the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie and a large number on the western lines.

The financial saving on the eastern lines, it is estimated, will run close to $2,000,000 per year, should the curtailment be in force that long.

On the western lines it is roughly calculated that the economies will effect a saving not greatly dissimilar. About 500 employes in this city were furloughed yesterday for various periods, and it was said the number of men already under suspension and those to be laid off within the next month would total 26,000 on the lines east and 15,000 west of Pittsburg.
