ATLANTA'S SHRINERS TURN SAVANNAH INTO GAY CARNIVAL TOWN

Whole City Catches Joyous Spirit of Members of Yaarab Patrol and Atlanta Drum and Bugle Corps

POLICE CHIEF ARRESTED AND CARTED TO BARRACKS

Innumerable Other Mirth-Provoking Stunts Give Imperial Council Members Happy Closing Day to Conclave

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 15.—Savannah is Shriner mad and Shriner glad today. Since early morning, when the first of the special trains arrived from Atlanta bearing the 1,500 or 2,000 visitors, the whole town has been on a frolic. Everywhere, from the business sections of the city to the residence parts, see Shriners' fezes and patrol uniforms of bright hue. In the business section of the city there were scenes of revelry that have never been paralleled in the quiet old town.

The Shriners gathered in the vicinity of the Hotel Savannah during the morning and the Atlanta Drum and Bugle corps made the morning air tremble with its musical blasts. Everywhere are found Atlanta Shriners. They have held high havoc in the streets of the city. Staid old business men at home seem to have opened up in full blast in Savannah.

The visitors formed in flying wedges and charged down upon the retail store district capturing big business enterprises with a yell. Into the department stores on Broughton street they surged and turned the day into a holiday. Young women clerks and men clerks, too, were soon skipping ropes with the visitors and otherwise enjoying themselves. It was a long and continuous laugh for more than three hours on Broughton street.

On Liberty street, near the DeSoto hotel, were scenes equally as joyous. The visitors danced in the street and played "ring around a rosy" with pretty girls—on route to school—or stately dames who did not permit their dignity to get unduly ruffled in the proceeding. It has simply been a season of jollity.

ARREST POLICE CHIEF.

Hundreds of practical jokes have been played. The half of them will never be recorded in the public prints. Some one at the Savannah hotel sent in a hurry call for the patrol wagon and when it arrived at the door the police was unceremoniously arrested by the members of the Atlanta temple and the Atlanta Drum and Bugle corps and sent a prisoner in his own patrol wagon to his own barracks. This secured also was arrested and ridden to the barracks. The fire department was called out and the apparatus soon filled with red-coated and red-fezed men and used for joy rides.

In Johnson Square, between the Savannah hotel and the Pulaski house, two cancels from St. Joseph, Mo., were introduced in their cud chewing to make a round of the hotels and the banks. They were driven bodily into the lobby of the Hotel Pulaski and into the rotundas of some of the most prominent banks of the city.

Many of the Shriners went down to the Savannah river, across crowded streets and in the public bathing flies they paraded. Some of them wore grass-like Indian costumes. The girls, enjoying the fun, did the Indian War dance along with the men as they surged through the merry crowd.

Traffic was repeatedly stopped by them and the "cops" on the corners of street car "jervies" stood little chance of getting their cars through the crowd without first being held up, until one of the Shriners—a six-footer—gave permission for the car to pass. Guests in the hotel were given a noisy serenade while the line filed through.

ROSY-POSEY FOR COPS.

On crowd surged around a squad of police and soon all disarmed them. The guardians of the law indulged in the fun along with the Nobles. They danced rosy-posey around the officers to the amusement of a big crowd.

The fair sex furnished much amusement for the crowd at one stage of the game. A crowd of Shriners circled about them, corralling a dozen or more in the center. Closer and closer the lines were drawn while they danced to the grand march music. When the lines had been drawn as closely as possible a bevy of pretty girls as admissible, they were required to "jump through" over the clasped hands of two of the Shriners. The girls indulged in the fun and got a great deal of amusement out of it.

Among the Shriners who came to Savannah today are a number of the most imperial potentates, the most prominent Shriners in the country, William B. McIlah, G. C. T., thirty-

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF THE ELKS SOUGHT FOR ATLANTA IN 1916

Atlanta Convention Bureau Determines to Secure Meeting for This City Regardless of the Cost

SEATTLE IS CONCEDED SESSION FOR NEXT YEAR

Denver, Where Gathering Will Be Held This Year, Has Promised to Support Atlanta in Fight.

The national Elks' convention for 1916!

Such is the slogan of the Atlanta convention bureau after the successful handling of the grand convocation of the Shrine which came to a close here Wednesday night. Secretary Fred Houser has already thrown out his lines for the big meet and even at this early date has secured Denver, Col., where the Elks meet in 1914, as a willing ally.

While it has been known for some time that the local bureau had designs on the B. P. O. E. it was not until Friday morning that Mr. Houser felt at liberty to officially give out the information.

The convention for 1915 has practically been conceded to Seattle, Wash., winners over California for the Shrine, and Denver, in the meantime, expressed her willingness to help start the Atlanta boom, over two years ahead of time. Mr. Houser will be there to lead the fight, and likewise he will go to the state of Washington.

S. F. Dutton, manager of the New Albany hotel in Denver, is pledged to Atlanta, and the Denver convention bureau will lend its help in Atlanta's fight. The campaign is already actively on and Atlanta is out to win as usual, at any cost.

The national Elks' convention is second in number only to the Shrine, and should Atlanta win, will bring almost as many visitors to the city as the convention just brought to a close.

10 MEN KILLED IN RUBBER FACTORY EXPLOSION

Three Other Workers Badly Hurt by Blow-Up Which Wrecks Detroit Plant

(By Associated Press.)

DETROIT, May 15.—Ten men were killed and three injured early today in a explosion which wrecked the plant of the Mexican Crude Rubber company. About twenty-five were working in the plant.

Most of the victims were skilled mechanics. One body was blown through the building. Three others were buried beyond recognition. Three men were removed to a hospital and physicians said they did not expect they would survive. Dozens of windows in buildings near the rubber company's plant were shattered.

Several causes for the explosion were assigned, but survivors said a vat containing a large quantity of molten rubber exploded. Officials of the company declined to issue a statement until they investigate.

The plant, a one-story concrete building in West Detroit, was destroyed. Reinforcing rods ripped adjoining buildings and concrete blocks weighing several pounds were found more than two blocks from the scene of the explosion.

The factory of a motor car company, about 100 feet from the rubber concern, was badly damaged. Nobody in the building was seriously hurt.

The explosion was witnessed by scores of pedestrians and narrow escapes were many. One man said he heard a roar and the factory seemed to split into three huge pieces, two of which "melted away." The third, he said, shot high into the air and broke into fragments. None of the first five bodies removed from the debris was identified before being taken to the morgue.

AMERICAN-MADE BUNTING FOR UNITED STATES SHIPS

English Material Much Cheaper, but Will Not Be Used, Says Navy Official

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Assurance that the "lowest bidding" English manufacturers for the bunting used on American warships, none but American bunting could be used under any circumstances was given by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department to Representative Rogers of Massachusetts, according to an announcement by the latter today. The announcement was made following a conference Rogers had with Assistant Secretary Roosevelt in which the latter informed Rogers said that two concerns in Lowell manufacture all the bunting in this country and that under the 1913 tariff law the C. B. Brook company, of Bradford, England, bid $34,883 for the contract for furnishing the bunting to the navy, the New England Bunting company of Lowell, $44,635 and the Lowell Textile Bunting company, of Lowell, $42,895.

GEORGIA BOY KILLED IN CHATTANOOGA ACCIDENT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 15.—The festivities here today in honor of the visiting Shriners were marred, by the death of Tom Madden, twelve-year-old son of Dr. T. F. Madden, of Rossville, Ga., who was struck in Chickamauga park by an automobile in which a party of Canadian Shriners were touring the battlefields. Death was instantaneous.

ECHOES OF THE BIG DOINGS

REVOLT IS BREWING IN HUERTA'S CAPITAL; FOREIGNERS ARMED

British, German and Austrian Subjects Gather in Foreign Quarters to Protect Themselves When Outbreak Comes

MUTINOUS GENERAL IS FEARED BY THE DICTATOR

Velasco, Reported Deeply Involved in Military Plot, Is Ordered From Mexico City to San Luis Potosi

(By Associated Press.)

VERA CRUZ, May 15.—Information has reached here indicating the approach of a crisis in the affairs of Provisional President Huerta in Mexico City.

Apparently the feeling is general among all foreigners that the next few days will see a tumble of revolt in the capital like that which marked the fraic end of Madero's rule and the assumption of power of the present dictator.

British subjects from the interior, it is said, have been gathered in the foreign residential quarters in Mexico City where it was determined long ago they would protect themselves against whatever might arise. More British nationals are reported arriving on every train while others are hastening toward the coast.

The German and Austrian defence organization is also ready to stand a siege and those nationals, according to report, are being assembled.

This movement into the concentration districts was planned to occur only when the situation became critical and the adoption of a method of self protection was an absolute necessity.

REPORTS ARE CREDITED.

No official advice has been received here of the movement into the concentration districts but the report to that effect is generally accepted in Mexico City and the recent determination of Great Britain again to call on her nationals to get out of the danger zones supports the rumor.

General Velasco, who was defeated at Torreon with heavy loss and was himself wounded, has been ordered out of the capital to assume his military governorship of San Luis Potosi.

Many here regard the appointment as significant since rumors have been current that General Velasco is decidedly involved in a military plot against General Huerta.

General Huerta's order sending him north again appears to have eliminated General Velasco from any coup d'etat that might have been contemplated.

Credible private advices from Mexico City report that the federals at Tepiejo, eighteen miles south of the capital, have attacked rebels under Zapatistas. No details of the fighting were received but the incident is regarded as an important development by the authorities here.

Topiejo has been the scene of numerous clashes during the last few months and the engagements are usually indecisive, since the federals never attempted to follow the retreating Zapatistas. It is not considered that the new activity there indicates any intention on the Zapata attack on the capital, as the reported agreement between Zapata and Villa and Villa jointly against Mexico City is credited here.

The attack will serve, however, to compel Provisional President Huerta to strengthen his southern line at the expense of the northern front or perhaps of the contest toward Vera Cruz.

The reported departure of the federals gunboat Bravo, their armorage with the American ships off Tampico is believed to be the result of a desire on the part of the commanders to communicate with Mexico City from Puerto, Mexico, by the only telegraph wire open to them. They are probably seeking instructions as to what disposition to make of the ammunition-less gunboats which, virtually are useless since the fall of Tampico.

It is understood the two American destroyers are conveying the gunboats to see that the coastwise lights and other

ATLANTA RALLYING TO FORREST ADAIR FUND

That suggestion of a popular tribute to Forrest Adair, the chief executive of Atlanta's gloriously successful Shrine meeting, has caught.

"Forty thousand Shriners are singing Atlanta's praises everywhere," wrote the Lipscomb-Pattillo agency, sending its check. "Atlanta can't do too much for that lovable, warm-hearted prince of good fellows, Forrest Adair."

That's the spirit of it! The letter might better have said two hundred thousand Shriners, though, for that's the membership of the nobility; and, by pleasing those who came, Atlanta has pleased those others who had to stay at home. It has been one of the greatest things Atlanta ever did.

Said an out-of-town man recently: "You folks fool mighty good after winning that regional bank; and grand opera has put another feather in your cap. But wait till you have entertained those Shriners. If you do that, then you will have something to boast of."

We did it, but we're not going to brag. Let the Shriners spread that part of it, and we won't have to say a word. The benefits will be coming to us for years.

All we've got to do right now is to show the proper appreciation of the men who led us in what we achieved. We honor them all by honoring Forrest Adair, their chief. Therefore this movement.

It's growing faster and faster. Everybody has a good word to say about it. Hundreds will be giving. Any amount from 10 cents to $10 will belong in it.

Forrest Adair is in Savannah Friday with the imperial council caravan, putting the finishing touches on his work. He was the pagan on the "Yaarab special" that blazed the way Thursday night.

Monday morning he will go back to his office and renew his acquaintances there. They haven't caught more than passing glimpses of him in many days.

Let's finish this subscription before then.

Let's hit while the iron is hot.

ACTRESS HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN BIG FIRE

Several Persons Came Near Death in Flames on Garnett Street

Several women had narrow escapes Friday morning when a boarding house at 114 Garnett street caught fire. The roof was in flames when the fire was first seen and Miss Anna Barnett, a young actress who was asleep in one of the upstairs rooms, was overcome by smoke, and had to be carried from the house, while others also barely escaped injury.

The house, which is a two-story one, is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wallace, who take boarders.

After the fire, stated residents of the house, an unidentified man went through the house and ransacked the rooms, stealing a ticket to Boston and some money from Miss Ethel Green, another actress, and money and jewelry from Mrs. Wallace. Mrs. Wallace stated that she does not know exactly how much money she had in the house, but that it is gone.

Two Masked Men Detach Mail and Baggage Car and Rifle It

SPOKANE, Wash., May 15.—Great Northern passenger train No. 1, the Oriental limited, was held up by two masked men early today near Rexford, Mont. Mrs. Wallace. Mrs. Wallace stated that the mail and baggage car was detached from the train and run four miles west to Rondo, where the car was rifled.

SUBSCRIPTIONS POUR IN FROM MANY CITIZENS WHO WOULD HONOR ATLANTIAN

Patriotic Men in All Walks of Life Join in Movement to Recognize in Appropriate Way the Splendid Work and Genius of Man Who Made "Shrine Week" Possible for Atlanta — Here Is the List of Subscribers

FROM every line of business came Atlanta's response Friday morning to the movement started through The Journal Thursday to give a fit testimonial to Forrest Adair, potentate of Yaarab temple, Atlanta's first Shriner, the man who gave us Shriners' week, now at its close.

At 2 o'clock the subscriptions amounted to $1,115.50, as itemized in the list below. Others were pouring in Friday afternoon.

Ten dollars here, $5 there, $2.50 yonder, with other contributions of 50 cents and 25 cents—they piled in Friday.

Volunteers in every quarter arose with the spontaneity that has characterized the whole movement. Before the morning was half advanced a score of canvassers had left their business and were gathering the gifts of their acquaintances and friends. Lists were here, others there, awaiting the attention of Atlanta. The reminder was enough. Atlanta wants to show honor to those who made the success of Shrine week. Through Forrest Adair, their leader, the city expects to pay tribute to them all. Nothing was necessary but to receive what everybody was willing to give.

Dozens of ascriptions came to The Journal office in the morning's mail. Others were brought in personally by their contributors.

WHAT SOME SAY OF THE MOVEMENT:

"Everybody is obliged to appreciate the wonderful success of this great convention," wrote S. B. Turman, subscribing $10.

"I hope that the testimonial will be such as will show the deep appreciation of our city for what Mr. Adair has done," wrote A. L. Guthman, sending his check for $10.

"Here's my chip in on the testimonial for Forrest Adair," wrote W. D. Ellis, Jr., sending $5 cash. "He has pulled off the biggest stunt Atlanta ever has seen, and he deserves the plaudits of all her people."

"It is a pleasure to subscribe for the testimonial to a man so public spirited, liberal, high-minded, as Forrest Adair," wrote Oscar Pappenheimer, sending his check for $10.

"Mr. Adair is entitled to anything and everything he wants," wrote Leopold J. Haas, sending his check for $5.

"The Journal's suggestion is peculiarly timely and appropriate," wrote John D. Grant, sending his check for $10.

"I heartily endorse your movement" wrote F. A. Porgin, sending his check for $1, "only you ought to have made it a $1 maximum, so every man, woman and child in Atlanta could give."

"I think it's a fine thing, and I'm glad The Journal has gotten behind it," telephoned W. H. Kiser, listing his subscription.

"We can't do too much for Forrest Adair," said Isaac Schoen, bringing his check for $10 to The Journal.

Here's part of a letter from James Kempton: "No words of praise or tribute to Mr. Adair by the citizens of Atlanta would be too great. Inclosed find my check for $10."

Here's part of another, from A. S. Richbarg: "Forrest Adair has certainly earned Atlanta's lasting gratitude and should be awarded a big and lasting memorial."

And another from Charles T. Hopkins: "It will take us some time to appreciate fully the magnitude of Mr. Adair's work."

"Certainly, Mr. Adair should have a testimonial from all the people in appreciation of his many, many years of activity for Atlanta," wrote George H. Williams, the insurance man. "The scene has been reached in his leadership to the magnificent and far-reaching success of the Shrine meeting. I am not a Shriner, and have no axe to grind, but I heartily endorse the movement and contribute my small amount. I trust the results will exceed even your expectations."

MRS. CRAWFORD WINS ANOTHER DECISION IN FAMOUS WILL CASE

Superior Court Judge Sustains Findings of Auditor Anderson in $250,000 Estate of Joshua Crawford

Judge George L. Bell, of the superior court, has handed down his decision, sustaining the findings of Auditor James L. Anderson in the Crawford will case.

While this means that another important step in the long legal battle has been won by Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, attorneys for the forty or more claimants who are seeking to wrest from her the $250,000 estate left her by the late Joshua B. Crawford, announced some time ago that if the superior court's decision was adverse that the case would be appealed to the supreme court.

More than a year was required to complete the taking of testimony in the case before Auditor Anderson, who found for the defendant, Mrs. Crawford.

Attorneys for the claimants, J. S. James and Albert Kemper, then brought the case into the superior court again by bill excepting to the auditor's finding of fact and of law.

Judge Bell's order in the case was very brief. It said: "The exceptions to the auditor's findings of fact are disapproved. The same as to the findings of law are overruled."

The claimants made many sensational charges against Mrs. Crawford, the principal one being that "she produced the death" of her aged husband by giving him poison and narcotics. A bill charging murder was brought before the grand jury, but no bill was returned.

The claimants also charged that the marriage of Mrs. Crawford to the Atlantian was illegal, as he was not mentally competent to enter into a marriage contract at the time of the ceremony. They also charged that she had not been properly divorced from her two former husbands.

Mrs. Crawford has been represented in the litigation by Attorneys Burton Smith, Reuben R. Arnold and F. H. Brewster.

The bill is $914,551 over the act of 1913, but nearly $2,500,000 under the estimates.

The Indian appropriation bill carrying $12,949,576, an increase over the house of $2,402,530, also was reported.

Orders for Milliners

Of course the big millinery establishments in this month of May have all the orders that they can fill for the Summer season, but often the small milliner, who has a "little shop around the corner," is wondering why she does not get more trade at this time of the year.

The answer is simple—she is not a Want Ad Journal user.

Little Journal Want Ads, telling just what you have to offer in the line of Summer millinery, will bring you many customers, and you will find this method so successful that you will soon be enlarging your shop.

Journal Want Ads are indispensable to the small milliner, especially during May.

ACQUITTAL IS EXPECTED FOR BURNS AND LEHON

Detectives' Answer to Contempt Charge Probably Will Clear Them

The hearing of the charge of contempt of court against William J. Burns and Dan S. Lehon, his lieutenant in the Frank investigation, which was set for Friday was postponed until next week, with no definite date fixed.

Lehon and Burns, through their attorneys, Little, Powell, Hooper & Goldstein, have filed an answer to the contempt charge, which attorneys generally believe fully purges them of any contempt, even if there was a prima facie case against them. As a result it is expected the hearing will be extremely short and the charge in all probability dismissed.

The answer of Burns and Lehon develops the interesting fact that they were advised by Attorneys Luther Z. Rosser and Reuben R. Arnold that there was not the slightest impropriety or illegality in their conduct in sending the witness, Annie Maud Carter, out of the city., but that it was the appropriate and proper thing to do under the circumstances.

WAS AIDING THE COURT.

The answer says: "Deponent believes that in so doing (sending the witness out of town) he was serving the cause of right and justice, and was aiding the court in the ascertainment of truth, and was in no wise intending any contempt of court or of its processes, but was endeavoring to assist the court in basing its witnesses brought into court free from any improper influence being exerted upon them."

The answer set out that nothing beyond the expenses of the witness was paid her, and that it is well under the ethics of the situation that where a witness is being detained for the use of a party that it is proper that the party should pay the expenses actually incurred, and that if the defendant had not voluntarily paid the expenses that he would have been legally liable for them.

The defendant was acting in good faith and honestly endeavoring to assist rather than obstruct the court, the answer says.

Lehon sets out that when he first saw Annie Maud Carter she was in the office of Attorneys Herbert and Leonard Haas and that she had just made the affidavit in the Frank case, and was expressing fear that when the fact became known that she was a witness for Frank that she would be subjected to violence, or coercion or imprisonment by the city detectives, and they (Burns and Lehon) had to assure her that she would be protected before she signed the affidavit.

WOMAN WAS SCARED.

The woman was badly frightened, the answer sets out, and it was feared that if not kept under surveillance she would run away and not be present at the court if she was needed at any time to give oral testimony. With that in view two Burns operatives were ordered to guard her night and day.

The answer then sets out that because of this surveillance and protection, Lehon was enabled to get the woman back to the city and turn her over to the sheriff of the county, when the court ordered her brought back to its jurisdiction.

She was a witness for the defense, the paper sets out, and it was considered necessary to keep her whereabouts known to the defendant and his counsel, and to keep her where she was free from being tampered with by adverse interests.

Lehon is still in the city, ready to attend any hearing, but Burns, who is in New York, will probably not return unless his personal appearance in court is desired by Judge Hill.

APPLY SULPHUR IF SKIN BREAKS OUT

SULPHUR DRIES UP ECZEMA

USE LIKE COLD CREAM TO STOP ITCHING

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin. Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It is very unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.

FREIGHT RATE FIGHT COMPROMISED IN S. C.

Freight Association and Railroads Adjust Differences in Issue Before R. R. Board

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 15.—The South Carolina freight rate association and representatives of twenty-five railroads operating in this state reached a compromise today in the fight of the association before the railroad commission for an adjustment of alleged discriminatory rates. The complaint of the rate association was withdrawn upon the railroads agreeing to withdraw the increase in rates from the ports to interstate points in this state, which became effective in January.

Representatives of the freight rate association state that the carriers' decreases in rates made effective in January would stand.

"A stitch in time saves nine." "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Do you intend to call at Coursey & Munn's drug store? People telling about the power and merits of the wonderful Quaker Extract and Oil of Balm, it should be known by all that the Quaker Remedies are not cure-alls. If you suffer with lung or throat troubles, fever, private or contagious diseases, the attention of your family physician or specialist is necessary. Such cases will not be cured by Quaker Remedies; but if you are troubled with rheumatism, catarrh in any form, kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble, indigestion, constipation, try Quaker Extract at once—today. You will be most agreeably surprised at the astonishingly quick results. A great number of local people have already been cured, and every day more and more cures are reported," says the Health Teacher. Among others who have called was Mrs. L. Scott, who has suffered with catarrh of stomach and kidneys for years. She said: "I have taken a great many different kinds of treatment for my troubles. I would have such a full feeling after eating moderately—bloating, belching, shortness of breath, dizziness, my heart would jump and flutter at times, pains across my back, and my kidneys were a great annoyance to me, especially at night. A friend of mine advised me to try Quaker Extract. I called at the drug store and procured a treatment and in seven days I will tell you I feel better than I have in many years. My pains are all gone; I eat well, sleep like a babe and I feel at last I have found a permanent cure."

Another case is that of a well-known man, Mr. Pat Tucker, who is an engineer and who suffered for years with annoyances of his stomach; gases would arise and cause him to have a sleepy, tired and languid feeling. He got a bottle of Quaker Extract, took it according to directions and to his surprise the second day he expelled a large number of pin or seatworms, some dead, some alive. They caused him such an itching at the rectum that he would scratch until he would be very sore.

Now, these are a few more good reports of the good Quaker Remedies are doing. Why will you wait and suffer when you see your neighbors being cured all around you? Quaker Extract $1.00, or 3 for $2.50; Oil of Balm 25c or five for $1.00. At Coursey & Munn's drug store, 29 Marietta street. We pay express charges on all orders of $3 or over.—(Advt.)

PRAYERS ARE REQUESTED FOR SUCCESS OF REVIVAL

Baptists Urge Co-operation of All Christians, Regardless of Creed

In an appeal to every Christian in Atlanta to help in the religious campaign which will be begun in Atlanta Sunday in every Baptist church in the city, Rev. Dr. Weston Bruner, who is in charge of the services, has sent a letter to every Protestant evangelical minister in the city, asking their co-operation.

Although the campaign will be made under the direction of the evangelical department of the Baptist Home Mission board, it is intended to make its scope wider than that bounded by any denomination or any creed.

"Atlanta is great in commercial activity and her importance in this respect has never been questioned," says Dr. Bruner in the letter to the ministers of the city. "Will you not join us in the prayer that Atlanta may become great in righteousness?"

During the two weeks the services are being held in the churches of the city it has been requested that every Christian in Atlanta pause at noon each day and spend a few minutes in prayer for the success of the efforts which are being made.

An invitation to every person in Atlanta to attend each of the services at any church which may be most convenient to them, has been issued. The purpose of the campaign will be to reach every person in Atlanta without exception, and to inaugurate a religious awakening which will spread throughout the south, with Atlanta as its center.

VISITING SHRINER HONORED BY TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION

Former Mayor Clayton, of St. Joseph, Mo., Given Handsome Silver Service

"Fet" Clayton, former mayor of St. Joseph, Mo., and past potentate of Moila temple of that city, who came to Atlanta to the Shrine convention, was presented with a handsome silver service Thursday afternoon at the Ansley hotel by the Atlanta Typographical union No. 48, in appreciation of his courtesy and kindness to the delegates from this union to the International Typographical union's annual convention in St. Joseph, in 1908.

The Atlanta typos in 1909 went after the 1910 convention for this city. They sent a large delegation to St. Joseph and Atlanta's invitation was pressed in competition with Minneapolis, Salt Lake City and other large cities. The Atlanta delegates did not win, but they were the recipients of so many hospitable attentions from Mayor "Fet" Clayton that they came home singing his praises.

And so when he came as a noble to attend the Shrine convention in Atlanta, the typographical union remembered him and bought a handsome silver service for him.

Mayor James G. Woodward, a member of the Typographical union, delivered the presentation speech. Forrest Adair, potentate of Yaarab temple of Atlanta, accompanied the party to the Ansley hotel. Several members of the union were along. After the presentation the party adjourned to the rathskeller of the hotel and enjoyed a feast.

"They are the finest we ever had for a half-yearly sale," he said.

GEORGIA HIT FOR NEGLECT OF BIRTH REGISTRATIONS

Dr. Cesey L. Wilbur, of Bureau of Census, Deplores Present Status

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 15.—Dr. Cesey L. Wilbur, chief statistician of the bureau of the census at Washington, speaking today before the American Association of Societies for Organizing Charities, urged the need of birth registrations. Describing its present status as shamefully neglected, he declared adequate laws and thorough enforcement of such laws, compelling registration of births, were sorely needed in this country. He showed that the recording of deaths was much more complete in all states gathering vital statistics than the registration of births, the latter of which should mean the practical application of the most approved agencies for the protection of the infant's life and health.

He pointed that Georgia is now the only state in the union which has not passed a general vital statistics law, South Carolina having adopted such a measure this year.

U. S. SOLDIER IS LOSING MIND IN MEXICAN JAIL

Private in Fourth Cavalry Is Serving Eight Years for Killing Mexican

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 15.—An American soldier serving a sentence in the jail at Cananea, Sonora, is rapidly losing his mind, according to B. S. Pelzer, who passed through Douglas yesterday on the way from Cananea to El Paso, Texas.

Pelzer said the soldier, who was a private in the Fourth United States cavalry, was sentenced eighteen months ago to serve eight years for the alleged murder of a Mexican in a dance hall at Naco.

Pelzer recently was released from custody at Cananea where he was held 48 days awaiting a hearing on the charge of passing counterfeit money.

For Beautiful Hair, Nourish the Scalp

Dandruff must be removed and the hair roots nourished to stop falling hair and itching scalp. It is unnecessary to have thin, brittle, matted, stringy or faded hair. No matter how unsightly the hair, how badly it is falling, or how much dandruff, Parisian Sage rubbed into the scalp is all that is ever needed. The hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, even all dandruff is removed with one application, and itching scalp and falling hair cease; the hair becomes soft, fluffy, abundant and radiant with life and beauty.

Parisian Sage, a daintily perfumed liquid, is one of the most pleasant, invigorating and refreshing hair tonics known, yet perfectly harmless and inexpensive. After the first application you will be surprised and delighted with Parisian Sage, for there is nothing that will so help to double your present attractiveness as luxuriant, glorious hair, and this tonic treatment is all that can possibly be desired.

Be sure to get Parisian Sage from Jacobs' 10 stores or at any drug or toilet counter, as there is no other so effective.—(Advt.)

Purifies Blood With Telling Effect

Gives Conscious Evidence of Its Direct Action.

S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, almost talks as it sweeps its way through the circulation. Its action is so direct that very often in some forms of skin affliction the appearance of the eruptions changes over night, the itch and redness are gone and recovery begins immediately.

As a matter of fact, there is one ingredient in S. S. S. which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cellular part of the body to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. That is why it regenerates the blood supply; why it has such a tremendous influence in overcoming eczema, rash, pimples, and all skin afflictions.

And in regenerating the tissues S. S. S. has a rapid and positive antidotal effect upon all those irritating influences that cause rheumatism, sore throat, weak eyes, loss of weight, thin, pale cheeks, and that weariness of muscle and nerve that is generally experienced as spring fever. Get a bottle of S. S. S. at any drug store, and in a few days you will not only feel bright and energetic, but you will be the picture of new life. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 534 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who maintain a very efficient Medical Department, where all who have any blood disorder of a stubborn nature may write freely for advice and a special book of instruction. S. S. S. is sold everywhere by drug stores, department and general stores, but beware of all substitutes.

Pastor Is Unfrocked for Wedding Atlanta Divorcee

MRS. LLOYD B. FIELD.

The ban of excommunication from the Presbyterian church has been placed on Lloyd B. Field, formerly a minister of Macon, Ga., on the charge of alienating the affections of a wife from her husband, an Atlanta man, and for marrying the woman after she had obtained a divorce which the Presbyterian church does not recognize.

This news is contained in Arkansas Presbyterian church papers which have been received in Atlanta. They state that the presbytery of Pine Bluff, Ark., on April 14, of this year, deposed Rev. L. B. Field from the ministry and excommunicated him from the church. They state that Mr. Field gave notice of his intention to appeal to the synod of Arkansas.

The action of the church was taken, state the papers, because Mr. Field "knowingly and wilfully contributed to the alienation of the affections of a woman from her husband and is married and now living with a woman not Scripturally divorced from her husband, who is still living, and because the decree granted by the Texas court is null and void in the eyes of the church and contrary to the Scriptures and to our standards."

The action of the Pine Bluff church follows an episode of last fall, when Mrs. Field, then 20s, William Mull Yeaton, notified her husband, credit man of the International Agricultural corporation of Atlanta, with residence at 17 West Cain street, that she had entered suit for divorce.

Mr. Yeaton himself told the story of his wife's relations with Rev. Mr. Field. The Yeatons were living in Atlanta two years ago when Mrs. Yeaton met Mr. Field, then a young minister of Macon, at an Atlanta soda fount. In April, 1912, said Yeaton, his wife told him she was in love with Field and was going to Fort Worth, near where Fied had taken a church charge, to visit an uncle.

Mr. Yeaton said he was greatly shocked, but did not try to dissuade her from her purpose, believing she would come to her senses. Two or three months later, he learned she did not intend to come back to him, and in the fall of 1913 he received notice that she had entered suit for divorce.

At that time Mr. Field was suspended from the pastorate of Warren church, at Warren, Ark., an action which was followed by his deposition by the Pine Bluff presbytery.

Mrs. Field, before her marriage to Yeaton, was Miss Lillian Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. L. Phillips, of Warsaw, Richmond county, Virginia.

Field is a graduate of Princeton university and is well known in Georgia, where for many years he had small Presbyterian church charges over the state.

THICK HARD CRUST ON BABY'S HEAD

When Three Weeks Old. Pimples Would Run a Clear Water, Itched and Burned. Cross and Fretful. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Was Cured.

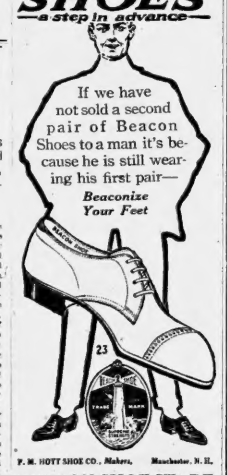

Smithville, Okla. — When my baby was three weeks old his head broke out in little pimples and these pimples would run a clear water. They itched and burned and he would scratch them and then they formed a thick hard crust. It seemed to annoy him terribly. He couldn't rest any way. When the scabs peeled off it would break out again and the scabs would get thicker till one side of his head looked to be an inch higher than the other. One side was a solid sore. He was so cross and fretful and I had to keep his hands fastened to keep him from scratching his head. They said it was scald head.

We had tried two treatments but they didn't do it any good. His head had been sore nine months when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I washed his head three or four times a day with the Cuticura Soap and then dried real dry and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. I used them and he was cured. (Signed) Mrs. Lillie Lester, June 19, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff and falling hair. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Baby Finds Comfort in the Oriole Go-Basket

THE most restful position you can assume in a chair is tipped back against the wall. The comfort of the Oriole is largely due to that same angle. The Oriole has three positions—upright, medium and extreme reclining. Any position can be assumed instantly—and baby is comfortable in them all. Go-basket and baby together weigh less than the average collapsible go-cart. The peculiar arrangement of the Oriole springs—the long, flexible steel rods that curve up from the ends of the axle prevent all shocks and jars to baby. Oriole go-baskets are $9, $11, $13 and $15.

DR. HOLDERBY TO HAND IN RESIGNATION SUNDAY

Pastor of Moore Memorial to Ask Charges to Aid Him to Get Relieved of Duties

Dr. A. R. Holderby, who for 25 years has been pastor of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian church, will present his resignation to his congregation Sunday morning and ask that they join with him in asking the Atlanta Presbytery to relieve him of his pastoral duties.

A special meeting of the congregation has been called to act upon the resignation, but it is believed that the congregation will refuse to ask for the withdrawal of their pastor.

Dr. Holderby says that he is resigning because he feels that perhaps his congregation may desire a change. He has completed a quarter of a century's service in that church, which is an institutional one, and has been active in all movements for social betterment.

He has the support of practically all of his congregation in his work, but wishes them to have the opportunity of expressing their wish as to whether he shall go or stay.

Wilson Speeds Envoys On Mission of Peace

Diplomats Pay Formal Visit to White House Before Leaving for Scene of Negotiations at Niagara Falls

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The three South American envoys, on whom rests the hope of a peaceful solution of the Mexican embroglio, today paid a formal visit of farewell to President Wilson before their departure for Niagara Falls, Ont., to begin their peace negotiations.

All the ceremony of formal diplomatic intercourse marked the call of the three envoys, Ambassador DaGama, of Brazil; Minister Naon, of Argentina, and Minister Suarez, of Chile, attired in the conventional frock coat and silk hat of formal dress and accompanied by Secretary of State Bryan, went to the White House in an automobile.

In the blue room the president, with his military and naval aides attired in full dress uniform, greeted the envoys. He wished them success on their mission of peace and expressed the hope that when they return to Washington they will have found the solution of the Mexican problem which has confronted the United States government for three years. Although it is customary for ambassadors and ministers on elaving the United States for long absences to say good-by to the president, there was more than the usual farewell in the little scene in the blue room today.

The opening of the negotiations at Niagara Falls was today postponed until Wednesday, May 20, the state department announced. The sessions were originally scheduled to begin Monday, May 18.

The delay was arranged at the request of the Brazilian ambassador, Mr. DaGama, that the Mexican delegates to the conference, who are speeding northward from Key West today, might not be unduly hurried in their trip to Niagara Falls. The Mexican delegation will reach Washington shortly after noon tomorrow, and they will given an opportunity, by the postponement, to spend some time in Washington, in touch with the situation here, before proceeding to the formal negotiations.

CHICAGO MAN DECLINES RESERVE BOARD POSITION

With Harry A. Wheeler's Refusal, President Has Two Vacancies to Fill

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, vice president of the Continental Trust company, has declined a membership upon the general reserve board. President Wilson has received a letter from Mr. Wheeler expressing his regret that he is unable to accept the appointment recently offered him because of business connections which he cannot sever.

The president now has two positions to fill on the board. Dr. Adolph C. Miller, of San Francisco; Paul M. Warburg, of New York City, and W. P. G. Harding, of Birmingham, Ala., have all accepted. Besides selecting two more men, the president must designate one of them as governor and another as vice governor. He is canvassing again the list of 150 names which was before him when he made his first choices.

He is anxious now to select some one from the middle west, Chicago or St. Louis, and some one from New England, to preserve a geographical balance on the board. One of the two to be selected will be a Republican. The president is not expected to decide finally for another week on the other two. It is unlikely that the first names will be sent to the senate until the list is completed.

TO HONOR MEMORY OF COMMODORE JOHN BARRY

Hundreds of Irish-Americans Go to Washington for Statue Unveiling

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Hundreds of patriotic Irish-Americans from all parts of the United States were pouring into Washington today to participate in the unveiling tomorrow in Franklin park of the statue to Commodore John Barry, by many called "the father of the American navy." The first event on the program was a pilgrimage today to Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon, Va., upon which was placed a wreath by Generael P. W. Meldrim, of Savannah, Ga.

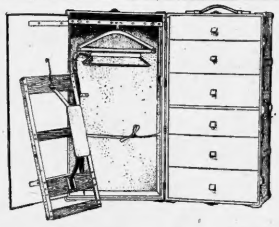

Two orations were delivered at the tomb, the north being represented by Supreme Court Justice Thomas Z. Lee, of Providence, R. I., and the south by General Meldrim.

CHIEF BEAVERS HIGHLY COMMENDED BY MANY

Efficient Work of Official and His Men During Shrine Week Greatly Praised

Chief of Police James L. Beavers is the recipient of much praise from both Shriners and visiting detectives for the efficient manner in which the police have handled the vast crowds in Atlanta during the Shriners' convention. Many Shriners, themselves officers of police departments in other cities, in paying their respects to Chief Beavers, have declared that the Atlanta convention has passed with the best order and less friction encountered than at any similar gathering of their knowledge.

Comparatively few cases of pickpockets have been reported and these have all been small. Negroes have been charged with practically all of these and two negro men have been bound over from the recorder's court for this offense.

During the past eight months seven pickpockets, known throughout the country have fallen into the toils of the Atlanta police. Three of these, Max Fine, alias Charles Cohen, Louis Gozzolla and William Hoffman, are now serving two-year terms in the Fulton county chaingang.

Harry Cramer was released upon a $2,000 cash bond and disappeared. His two partners, William Moffatt and J. L. Peterson, alias "Kansas City," caught with him, were released upon bonds of $1,000 each and have also skipped out, forfeiting these amounts. These three robbed a man in a downtown hotel. They were chased several blocks through the Union station and the railroad yards, where they were captured after a fight.

Willie Newman, alias half a dozen names, was returned to Chicago after failure to convict him here on a pickling pockets charge, and is there held for stealing.

The police attribute the smallness of the number of cases recently to the fact that these seven men, known as "high class" crooks, have passed through here and been severely 'ringed.' They in turn warned other crooks to beware of Atlanta.

Chief Beavers stressed the fact that so much was done in spite of the fact that the Atlanta police department is not a member of the national bureau of police identification, the great crook clearing house. This membership, enjoyed by many cities of only 3,000 or 4,000 population and by all the larger cities, costs but $50 a year. For the cleaning up of crooks and 'yeggmen, he stated, it is alone worth a thousand times that amount.

ORATORICAL CONTESTS ARE HELD AT OXFORD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

OXFORD, Ga., May 15.—Fully 2,500 people are attending the second annual Newton county fair and oratorical contests which begun at Oxford this morning. Every school in the county, numbering twenty-four, were represented by displays of their school work and had representatives in the recitation, declamation and music contests.

The fair and contests are under the supervision of Prof. J. O. Martin, county school commissioner, and Miss Clyde Willis, instructor of domestic science. The pupils and teachers of every county school are attending the exercises.

It is interesting that these events which were the first to be held in the state are going on in Oxford which has been known for over three-quarters of a century as the home of Emory college, one of the oldest educational institutions in the state.

ASKS $15,000 FOR FALL DOWN TERMINAL STEPS

Alleging serious injuries as a result of a fall down the steel steps leading to the trains in the Terminal station, Mrs. Laura C. Flanders has filed suit for $15,000 damages in superior court against the Atlanta Terminal company.

Mrs. Flanders alleges her fall was caused by the fact that the steps were slippery where the rubber tops had worn off.

SHRINE BRIGANDS STEAL DULUTH TEMPLE'S CANNON

Entice Artillerymen Away From It Into Hotel, and Gun Disappears

How on earth they got it, nobody knows. Where they hid it is equally a matter of profoundly weak conjecture. The fact remains, however, that Shrine brigands purloined one large full sized cannon from their brothers of Assad temple, of Duluth, Minn., and the Assad nobles went home without it Friday morning. They had reported their loss to the police, the fire department, the tax office, the state militia, the governor and everybody else with authority in Atlanta or the state of Georgia. Likewise the wires of the United States had flashed the message to sheriffs and chiefs of police.

You remember the cannon, of course. It was the one that trundled and rumbled through the streets for three days, behind half a dozen or more nobles of Assad. They would gallop up with it, whirl it round in a crowded street, swing it away while the crowds fled in panic, and pull the lanyard. One expected a roar that would shake the very buildings. Instead, a pop like that of a shotgun would startle the nerves, and away would go the cannon for another salute elsewhere.

There was rumor among the nobles of Assad, as they boarded their train Friday, that there may be a courtmartial in patrol when it gets back to Duluth, and that Chief Gunner Loewus may be the principal figure in the proceeding. Colonel Hi Van Brunt, commander of the patrol, was not blamed at all. The cannon had been delivered into the complete custody of Chief Gunner Loewus, said the Assad nobles; and he couldn't produce it, and that was all there was to it.

The capture of the cannon happened in a very unsensational manner. It just disappeared. Wednesday night, from in front of a certain hotel into which Chief Gunner Loewus and his gunners' squad had been enticed.

But the Assad nobels were happy, anyhow. They had recovered "Lil Arthur," the famous goat. Osman temple, of St. Paul, captured the goat months ago and took him to Panama. Then Houston's Shriners, of El Mina temple, got him; and from them the Duluth Shriners got him back during the Atlanta meeting.

MANY DIE FROM FEVERS AND ACCIDENTS ON CANAL

Nearly 2,200 Workers Succumb Between May 1, 1904, and March 31, 1914

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Nearly 2,200 workers on the Panama canal died from accidents and fevers between May 1, 1904, and March 31, 1914, according to statistics read by Representative Young, of North Dakota, in the house today. The total of 2,199 victims Mr. Young asserted was greater than the mortality from wounds and on the battlefield in the war of 1812 and the Mexican war combined; the revolution, or the Spanish-American war.

Figures which Mr. Young said he had been trying for months to obtain from the Panama canal commission stated 1,219 deaths occurred in the canal zone from accidents between May 1, 1904 and March 31, 1914; 743 deaths from malarial fever and 228 deaths from typhoid fever between January 1, 1907, and March 31. There were 98,785 cases of malaria and 1,162 typhoid patients.

SHRINER POPULATION IS RAPIDLY THINNING OUT

Majority of Visitors Leave for Their Respective Cities, Few Temples Remain

Atlanta's fez population had dwindled to an almost imperceptible minimum Friday morning. The visiting Shriners, save a comparative few, were gone. Salaam temple left during the morning for Chattanooga and home—Newark, N. J. Akdar temple, of Tulsa, Okla., still was taking its ease in Atlanta, its plan being to bid us goodby Saturday morning. In addition to these there remained individuals, some with their wives, of a score or more of temples. In common with Atlanta's own Shriners of Yaarab temple, they had resumed everyday headgear and were not distinguishable in the streets or the places where they could be found sight-seeing. They were here, though.

On a smaller scale, Wednesday night's scenes of departing caravans were repeated Thursday afternoon and night. The Canadian temples started their long journey homeward during the afternoon. Damascus temple, of Rochester, N. Y., home temple of the new imperial potentate, Frederic R. Smith, left in the afternoon. Others were going at later hours.

The special trains to Savannah, carrying members of the imperial council and their wives, nobles of Yaarab temple, and the Atlanta drum corps, took a large number of Shriners in that direction out of Atlanta. They will be back Saturday. By Saturday night the city will have said farewell to the last large group, and thereafter the individuals and couples will be leaving at intervals for a week.

That Atlanta was reluctant to let go the carnival spirit was manifested Thursday afternoon. C. L. Barnwell, Yaarab, one of the hard working sides, heard that some of the Calgary nobles of Al Azhar temple had been too busy to see anything of Atlanta.

They and their wives wanted to spend a couple of hours before train time in riding around with an escort. Noble Barnwell begged them to stand where they were in the Piedmont hotel lobby while he attended to the matter. He stood out in the middle of Peachtree street and hailed every home car as it passed, stating the situation and asking for automobiles. Within a few minutes he had put the Canadians into seven automobiles and sent them out into the city.

MEN AND RELIGION BULLETIN NO. 116

Seeking Happiness

"All things are yours:

"Whether the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours;

"And you are Christ's; and Christ is God's."

The Shrine has gone.

Its Nobles are speeding home.

Atlanta is in their debt.

They have left with us more than money, the proof that fun can be clean, wholesome and joyous.

Noteworthy is it that the next convention of the Shrine goes to Seattle, another city that believes in cleanliness of life and freedom from protected vice.

Noteworthy again---Seattle's invitation was voiced and pressed by a minister of the Church of God.

Cities have no need for the impure and the vile to attract men who know life and its meaning.

The day has passed for the speaking of the fallen woman as "la fille de joie---the daughter of joy". For men know her to be both the child and mother of sorrows. And her tolerated existence as the prey of men in any city disgraces and does not attract.

Again, the Shriners have taught that liquor, wine and beer are not needed to give joy to life.

Drinking by some there was---But so little in comparison with the efforts of the law breakers of Atlanta as to make it negligible among the Nobles of the Shrine. When next they come, that the city will be free from this is the hope and belief of many who love Georgia and her capital and would have her purged of this disgrace of disregarding law. These distinctly owe a debt to those who frolicked, laughed and played in our City's streets.

And did you note---a prize fight was greatly advertised with the news that six pairs of negroes would fight for the delectation of men not familiar with the South.

The fight did not occur.

It was called off: so few took the bait the promoters found it would not pay.

Men were living and enjoying life in Atlanta's streets. Brutality did not attract.

Atlanta is glad that the caravans came.

We acknowledge our debt to the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT

POWER COMPANY'S BOND ISSUE BEFORE COMMISSION

Minority Stockholder's Attack on Petition Is Being Considered Friday

The second round of the attack on the petitions of the Georgia Railway and Power company for authority to execute a substitute mortgage to secure the $30,000,000 bond issue created in 1912 and to issue $650,000 more of these bonds than were authorized in the commission's order of that year, is being fought before the commission Friday.

This attack is a double-barrelled affair. Attorneys Little, Powell, Hooper & Goldstein and Robert C. Alston, representing Lance M. Parsons, a minority stockholder, are resisting the power company's petition to the railroad commission and are also suing in Fulton superior court to have the power company's merger of 1912 declared void.

Judge Pendleton, before whom the superior court suit is being argued, Thursday afternoon declined to grant the plaintiff a permanent injunction to restrain the power company from proceeding with its petition before the railroad commission, but the hearing of the suit for Monday morning.

When the hearing before the commission was interrupted Thursday by the temporary injunction, was resumed Friday morning. Attorney Alston submitted three written questions which, in substance, were whether, in the consideration of the power company's petition for authority to execute a substitute mortgage and issue the $650,000 additional bonds, his client will be permitted to show that the $10,000,000 in bonds, originally approved by the commission to be issued by the Georgia Power company, had been diverted from the channels prescribed by the commission's order, and whether the power company could now increase its estimate of the amount of bonds required to cover certain expenditures.

PARSONS OVERRULED.

On Thursday the commission held Parsons could not go behind the action of the railroad commission in its order of 1913, but that he would be allowed to make a showing, if he could, why the additional bond issue of $650,000 should not be authorized.

The questions submitted Friday by Attorney Alston were taken under consideration by the commission which announced that it would render a decision on them Friday afternoon. Until these matters are disposed of the arguments and consideration of the power company's petition will be delayed.

It is contended by J. J. Spalding, attorney for the Georgia Railway and Power company, that the attack brought in the name of Parsons is simply an indirect effort on the part of Eugene L. Ashley to coerce the power company into a settlement of other litigation in which he is interested and which involves a suit over th building of a dam in the vicinity of the Tallulah Falls hydro-electric plant.

The power company, through its attorneys, further contends that the necessity for a substitute mortgage grew out of the litigation with the state over the Tallulah Falls property, which for more than a year kept a cloud over the company's title to this property and therefore prevented it from marketing any portion of the $12,460,000 of bonds authorized by the commission in 1912.

The petition for authority to issue $650,000 in additional bonds is said by the power company to have been based on the fact that since the original order was issued by the commission the company has been compelled to expend for new property and developments $650,000 over and above the amount originally anticipated.

In a skeleton answer to the Parsons suit, filed Thursday during the hearing before Judge Pendleton and signed by Preston S. Arkwright and H. M. Atkinson, they declare the suit was not brought in good faith by Parsons to protect any alleged interest, but was instituted by Eugene L. Ashley to coerce a settlement in another case.

Mr. Arkwright and Mr. Atkinson are individual defendants as well as representatives of the power company, and in the answer they characterize as wholly false every allegation of the petition which charges fraud, or misrepresentation, of misappropriation of stocks or bonds or money. The stocks and bonds have been used lawfully and in the manner contemplated by the railroad commission, they assert.

FIRE MENACES LIVES OF SEVERAL WOMEN

The lives of several women were threatened Friday morning when fire broke out at 114 Garnett street. The alarm was turned in at 12:25, and the fire had attained dangerous proportions when the firemen reached the scene. They went to work at once to aid those in the house to escape. No one was injured.

The house is a two-story one, in which E. W. Wallace and family lived. It is a boarding house. The flames were checked before the building was destroyed.

NEGRO STUDENTS HEAR TALK ON "HOME LIFE"

Mrs. J. D. Hammond, of Augusta, Gives Interesting Address at Clark University

At the morning session of the Negro Christian students' conference, at Clark university, Mrs. John D. Hammond, of Augusta, wife of the president of Paine college, addressed the students on "Home Life," stressing the fact that the influence of a good mother in the home would do more than anything else to better the conditions of the negro race.

Prof. A. M. Trawick, of Nashville, then addressed the students on "The Church and Home Life in Relation to the Negro."

Following this there was a general discussion among the leading speakers, after which Dr. John R. Mott conferred with the white and colored leaders in regard to plans for getting more men in the colored ministry. Miss Bertha Conde, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., also conferred with the women delegates.

Russia is being revolutionized and new epochs are being made in the histories of nations by the progress of the students' christian movement over the world, declared Dr. John R. Mott in an address Thursday night at the opening session.

Dr. Mott, who has traveled through nearly every continent on the globe in student missionary work, told the delegates the remarkable history of the student movement, from its inception several years ago in a band of 100 students of Princeton university.

"Russia has been the latest of the nations to join in the movement," said Dr. Mott. "And already the mighty influence is molding a new race and a new destiny for that great nation. A few years ago there were 100,000 students in Russia, as sheep without a shepherd—mostly agnostics and infidels. The Christian organization has swept through the universities in the order of try like fire, and is growing now faster than ever before.

"Wherever the students of any nation or race organize in t..e Christian movement," said Dr. Mott, "marvelous advance in civilization follows. Walls fall as students come together in prayer as here tonight, and the problems of crime and evil are to be solved by just such organizations as this student conference you are now inaugurating in Atlanta."

A gathering of nearly 500 students heard Dr. Mott's address at the opening session. Over ninety colleges were represented. The registration the first day was 477, 115 of whom were women, and 270 men. A good many more deleates are yet to arrive, the conference continuing until next Monday night.

Dr. E. M. Poteat, president of Furman university, delivered an address also at the opening session. He spoke on "The Cost of Discipleship," telling the students that they must give up worldly ambitions, family and friends if necessary to carry on the work of Christian progress among their own race. His address was heard with close attention by the students, who are evidently greatly in earnest, taking notes on everything said by the speakers. addresses were also made by C. H. Tobias, of Augusta, the international Young Men's Christian association secretary for colored students, and by Major R. R. Moton, commandant of Hampton institute, Virginia. Three sessions will be held daily through next Monday, at 9 a. m., 3 p. m. and 8 p. m.

OSTEOPATHS IN ANNUAL SESSION IN ATLANTA

Georgia Assn. and Gulf States Society Meet at Carnegie Library

Members of the Georgia Osteopathic association and the Gulf States Osteopathic society began their regular annual meeting at Carnegie library Friday morning. Upwards of fifty osteopaths from all portions of the state were in attendance.

The time of the opening session was consumed in a large measure with routine business, only one address being made, by C. N. Walker, of Athens, talked most interestingly on "Professional Prestige," handling his subject in a manner which held the interest of all present.

Friday afternoon the visitors will be given an automobile trip about the city as guests of the local members of the two organizations. Later they will be dined at Hotel Ansley, after which they will attend the Forsyth theater in a body.

The address by Dr. J. Deason, of Chicago, which will be delivered Saturday morning, is expected to be the feature of the sessions. Dr. Deason is looked on as one of the most eminent figures in his profession in the country today and his talk on "The Value of Osteopathic Treatment in Paranitis Infection" is being looked forward to with keen interest.

Saturday's session will bring the meetings to a close.

Mrs. Barton Files Answer to Her Atlanta Son-in-Law, Telamon C. Smith-Cuyler

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

NEW YORK, May 15.—"Other women" and large sums of money she says he owes her, are mentioned by Mrs. Isabella T. Barton, of Alameda, Cal., in her answer filed in the supreme court here today to the $500,000 suit brought against her by Telamon Cruger Smith-Cuyler, of Atlanta, who alleged that Mrs. Barton, his mother-in-law, alienated the affections of his wife, Mrs. Grace T. Cuyler, now resident of San Francisco, where she recently obtained a divorce from him on the grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Barton's answer alleges that Cuyler himself caused the separation from his wife by his conduct. She says he never lost his love to a woman he was engaged to before he married Mrs. Cuyler, that he spent money on a servant of Mrs. Cuyler's, Mollie Mergtha, and received letters from her and other women pretending to be Cuyler. One "Fluffy Ruffles" is mentioned and an Atlanta woman named Constance Brown.

Mrs. Barton declares that Cuyler spent money on women that was given to him by herself and her daughter. She alleges that she always paid the expenses of the household whenever she visited the Cuylers, that she paid the expenses of a trip to Europe she took with his wife and paid all the bills for a lavish entertainment he gave at the Piedmont Driving club in 1911. Most of this time, alleges Mrs. Barton, Cuyler had plenty of money, but it was she that footed the bills.

Mrs. Bredard Montgomery, of West End, has charge of drilling the girls in the dances, as well as teaching them the rites and ceremonies in crowning a queen of the May.

A rehearsal of this will take place Monday afternoon. Miss Louise Nichols, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Nichols, has been chosen as May queen.

The exercises to be held May 23 are part of a celebration by the Uncle Remus Memorial association, of which Mrs. A. McD. Wilson is president.

JAP STEAMSHIP OFFICER ACCUSED OF SMUGGLING

SEATTLE, May 15.—Noguchi Kamasukuki, an officer on the Japanese steamship Awa Maru, was arrested yesterday on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury charging him with smuggling three of his countrymen into the United States.

It is alleged the Japanese were taken aboard at Victoria, brought here as stowaways and on the night of April 8 were thrown overboard and left to swim ashore.

One of the stowaways is reported to have informed government officials that when he was taken on deck his hands were tied before he was thrown overboard and he would have drowned had not a dock employe assisted him.

Several bodies with hands tied had been found, floating in the vicinity of the dock at various times.

WOMAN IS INDICTED FOR MURDER OF HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Victor Hall, Widow of Merchant Shot to Death, Must Face Trial

LOUISA COURT HOUSE, Va., May 15.—Mrs. Victor Hall, widow of the young merchant shot to death in his home at Green Spring on April 15, was indicted this morning for murder by the special grand jury which has been investigating the crime for five days.

Mrs. Hall, who was in the court house, having been taken into custody on a bench warrant issued by Judge Shackleford following a second attempt to burn down her home and store, was at once arrested, protesting her innocence.

The indictment charges that Mrs. Hall shot her husband while he was in bed on the morning of April 15. The theory upon which Mrs. Hall will be prosecuted will be that she killed her husband because he threatened to expose her for setting fire to the store of Mr. R. Dunkum, a competitor, with whom she had quarreled. Her story was that a burglar shot her husband.

The grand jury will be called upon to investigate the burning of Dunkum's store on April 15, the destruction by fire of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad station at Green Spring, and the two attempts to burn down the Hall home.

Mrs. Hall was released on $5,000 bail to appear for trial in July.

Judge Shackleford granted bail on condition that Mrs. Hall leave Louisa county.

It is understood Mrs. Hall will leave here for Richmond this evening.

Of late the expansion of the Greek mercantile marine has been remarkable. Many of the vessels are worked on a co-operative basis, and, as maintenance expenses are low, they are competing successfully with the ships of other nations.

Request no Reception For Roosevelt on His Return From Brazil

(By Associated Press.)

COMBING WON'T RID HAIR OF DANDRUFF

The Easiest and Best Way is to Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

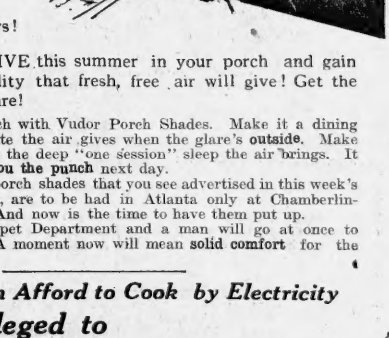

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—(Advertisement.)

Huerta's End at Hand.

Huerta's hour is at hand. The fall of Tampico gives the Constitutionalists unchallenged possession of more than half of Mexico from coast to coast, and virtually imprisons the dictator in a narrow zone about the capital. Beaten from every stronghold in the north, barred from every port on the Pacific and the Gulf, and threatened with a raid from Zapata's savage bands just sixty miles to the south, he is powerless to do more than make a last desperate bluff and go down in the fate his conscienceless acts have forged.

Weeks ago when Torreon crumbled under Villa's fierce blows, it became evident that the Mexican war, in so far as it concerned internal factions, would soon be settled. Up to that time the Constitutionalists had given no decisive proof of their capacity, though they had shown themselves by far the better fighters in the conflict. But with the capture of Torreon, they gained the key to certain fortune; and since then their victories have come swiftly, at Saltillo and Monterey and Tampico, so that the way is now clear for their march upon Mexico City.

Opinion as to what Huerta's course will be is divided. It was rumored some days ago that he was preparing for flight, and that would certainly be the simplest and safest solution of his problem. But later reports indicate that he intends to make a last stand at Puebla. Farcical though such a plan appears, it is in keeping with the adventurer's desperate character. He has only a tattered remnant of followers, and each resistance as he might offer would be that of an outlaw at bay rather than of a general in war.

Unless new complications develop, the Mexican situation will probably work itself upon the lines our Government has anticipated. Thus far there is no misunderstanding between the United States and the Constitutionalists. Our policy has looked to the elimination of Huerta as the first prerequisite of Mexican peace, and the Constitutionalists are swiftly bringing that end to pass. Sudden entanglements may arise. The present trend of events may be interrupted, and the hope of settling Mexico's troubles through the Mexicans themselves disappointed. But for the time being, there is substantial promise that the problem will be solved without the need of further aggressive action on the part of the United States.

Incidentally we have learned something of the art of decoration.

For our part we'd like to see Villa with all the arms he could use.

The New Haven inquiry shows that old New England can still perform the high finance act.

The Canal Is Open.

The world has awaited the opening of the Panama canal as a highly impressive event. A new era of commerce and international affairs, it was expected, would be ushered in with pomp and circumstance; and Americans to the manner born could scarcely imagine such an occasion free from the blare of bands and the flow of oratory.

As a matter of fact, however, the canal has opened and come into use in the most unpretentious, businesslike way conceivable. It seems, indeed, that it was in service nearly a week before anyone in the States knew what was going on.

The congestion in intercoeanic commerce, due to the suspension of service on the Tehuantepec railroad in southern Mexico, is said to have caused the rather premature opening of the great waterway. The dispatches relate that "several of the great freight liners, which, in conjunction with the similar service on the Pacific maintains trade lines between Europe and the far east via Tehuantepec, recently have appeared at Colon and Panama offering cargoes for transshipment overland far beyond the capacity of the Panama railroad.

"Finding that Colonel Gosthals was willing to assist them by clearing an adequate channel for barges, at least, through the Curacha slide, the company secured a lot of the barges that have been used for harbor purposes at Colon and Panama and established this service as an overflow to assist the railroad in meeting the trade demands."

Several weeks ago it was announced that the canal was prepared to put through the American fleet, should occasion require.

Colonel Goethals remarked, when he was asked how the canal's opening would be celebrated, that he supposed there would be celebration a-plenty but that for his own part, he hoped to be away while it was in progress. That is the temper of great builders. They are for work, not fine feathers.

Congress will probably remain in session long enough to celebrate the Fourth.

The Splendid Service Of Atlanta's Police.

Of all the congratulations that are being offered on the success of Shriners' week, none is more cordial or more richly deserved than that which goes out to Atlanta's police. Their task was especially important and arduous. They performed it perfectly. In handling the vast crowds that packed the city's streets, they were courteous and kindly as well as efficient. Always alert, always patient and tactful, they rendered service for which the entire community is grateful and proud.

The traffic problem alone has been one that would have taxed to the utmost the police departments of the greatest cities. In the continual crush of pedestrians and automobiles, there would doubtless have been many accidents had it not been for the cool-headed vigilance of the men who watched and directed. They measured up magnificently to the strenuous demands upon them, and made the week remarkable for its safety.

Particularly commendable was Chief Beavers' thoughtfulness for residence districts. Realizing that the parades and merry-making would take most families from home, he detailed special squads for duty in those sections, and thus assured protection at times and places where it was peculiarly needed.

Not only in guarding property and life but also in serving the city's guests, the police did admirable work. They were discriminating as well as dutiful. They kept necessary order without a suggestion of churlish restraint upon the spirit of natural jollity. Their insight into the psychology of the crowd enabled them to control without subduing and gave them ideal mastery of the situation.

Every man on the force, from Chief Beavors to the supernumeraries, has earned heartiest congratulations. The Chief has proved a thousandfold worthy of title, and all his men worthy of the important trust they hold.

We refuse to fall for any further announcements that Huerta has fallen.

Where is the old-fashioned man of independence who went fishing whenever things went wrong?

One must congratulate the weather man for having behaved beautifully toward the visitors during the past week.

Preserve the Shrine Illuminations.

Steps should be taken to preserve, as far as is feasible, the electric decorations which have added so much to the splendor of Shrine week. Atlanta is a mecca of conventions. Scarcely a month passes that she is not hostess to some important gathering. Nothing impresses a visitor more directly or deeply than a city's lights. Glowing streets and radiant buildings invoke a spirit of magic and give instant proof of the community's good cheer and hospitality.

The Shriners themselves declare that the illuminations Atlanta installed in their honor have never been surpassed, and when it is remembered that they have been entertained by the greatest cities on the continent, this tribute is, indeed, remarkable. By keeping intact those electric designs which are not purely temporary in character, Atlanta will be ready at all times to greet its visitors with a wonderland of light. Some of these designs to be sure, must be removed but there are many, such for instance as that on the capitol dome, that can easily be preserved and operated, as occasion may require, at slight expense.

The conventions scheduled to meet in Atlanta this year will bring tens of thousands of visitors. Let's give them the most brilliant welcome we can, and show them that Atlanta is a city of progress and light. There could be no surer investment, from a standpoint of municipal and business interests, than in preserving those beautiful electric decorations. It would require much money to reproduce them. Wherever it is possible, therefore, the wiring and fixtures should be held intact. By all means, those on the capitol dome should remain, and as many as can be should be kept in the business center. Atlanta will thus heighten her reputation as a city that is worth visiting and will come nearer her metropolitan ideal.

Leave the decorations and the illuminations where they are—we'll soon grow to them.

Mexico City dispatches indicate that the people there look with favor on Vera Cruz' new form of city government.

Editorials in Brief

Some of the Americans who fled from Mexico when the crisis following the Tampico incident stirred Mexican mobs to hostile demonstrations, in numerous cities, have already returned to the mines, ranches, railroads, oil fields and other places of employment which they abandoned. Many more will follow them soon if they think there is a fair prospect for peace between this country and Mexico. It is perfectly natural that these men should take such chances. They cannot justly be blamed as foolhardy or indifferent to the risks they create of international complications. They are drawn to Mexico by forces which often lead men to stake their lives on the outcome of doubtful ventures.

Some see the savings of many years of hard work in jeopardy. Others have been driven from their best and perhaps their only means of earning a living. Not a few see the comrades of long periods of toil and occasional peril going on with their tasks and feel that they ought to share the dangers braved by fellow Americans who have never quit their posts of duty.—Cleveland Leader.

GORGAS WILL MAKE MEXICO HEALTHY, TOO

BY HERBERT CORBY.

WASHINGTON.—They used to say that Dr. William Crawford Gorgas was—well, not' extravagant—but liberal in the way in which he spent the government's money on a clean-up proposition. Gorgas' theory is that when a condition threatening the public health exists, the next best thing to do is to get rid of that condition to the merry piping of a jig tune. After—after, mind you—it has been disposed of he will attend to look at the bills. O. K. them. That's need the formality. This disposition of Gorgas' sometimes rises people who have spent careful years in auditing other people's accounts.

"Doc," said one of these auditors, when Gorgas was engaged in getting the yellow fever and the plague and various other unhygienic nuisances out of Havana, "Doc, don't you think you're spending too much money? After all, you know, you're only saving a lot of nigger lives?"

Which was unpleasant and impolite, but undoubtedly reflected the attitude of a great many poorly informed people. Gorgas didn't get a bit rusty.

"How do you know whether the next life I save will be a nigger life?" he asked. "It may be your life, you know. Yellow fever is color blind."

So that the bookkeepers may occasionally find fault with Gorgas, but those who have sons or cousins or just Sunday evening callers in that American army that may go down to Mexico are apt to think he is about right. Because Gorgas is surgeon general of the United States army, and in that capacity is responsible for the health not only of the men of the army of invasion—if there is an army of invasion—but also for the health of the invaded. Because altruism is forced on Gorgas in time of war. He has been long enough simply to take precautions that the surgeon general's own men shall be healthy. He must see to it that, so far as possible, the countryside through which they move shall also be free of disease.

That is a job that is thoroughly to Gorgas' liking. These never was such a thoroughgoing, enthusiastic humanitarian as he. He fairly shares honors with Colonel Goethals for the successful digging of the Panama canal. It could not have been dug without the perfect sanitation he achieved. That was sufficiently demonstrated by the French, who could dig all right, but died too rapidly while they were at the digging. Gorgas and Goethals were fair counterbalances for each other. Therefore they quarrelled. It has been no secret for years that the two great men did not get along even a little bit on that canal work. Goethals was all for efficiency and low costs. Gorgas was all for efficiency and damn the expense. The combination was perhaps a more successful one than an inspired genius could have planned.

On the whole, the American soldiers are in a fairly satisfactory situation as regards the manner in which their health is to be looked after. Every company officer nowadays knows more about camp sanitation than Gorgas knew in his day. Smallpox doesn't exist any more. Major Russell for two years past has been putting into effect those measures of protection against typhoid fever that the Germans first discovered—and that Russell improved on—so that the thousands of men on the border haven't had even a drop-in visit from this most dreaded of camp diseases. And Gorgas himself is only a most eminent sanitarian, but he is the most eminent sanitarian in dealing with tropical conditions. He eats 'em alive. There isn't anything that he doesn't know about bad health south of Key West.

He is a glowing, jollying, back-slapping exhorter on his job. His first great work was in cleaning up Havana after the American occupation. The Cubans tried to resist at first. But by and by enough Cubans had shaken hands with Gorgas—and Gorgas had played "this-little-pig-goes-to-market" with enough infantile Cuban toes—and enough Cuban homeowners had bridled happily at the Gorgas conviction that never since pepper was invented had such ravishing and soul-deepening chili con carne been cooked—so that Uncle Samuel was allowed to have a hand in it all. He went to the Panama canal zone and instituted a similar work—and then some speaker in the cool and pleasant United States, in a moment of inspiration, almost ruined him.

"Now," said this speaker, "let the dirt fly."

And everyone began to yearn to see the dirt fly; and it was being done impossible to get money for any purpose that was not directly hooked up to the dirt-flying. Gorgas' sanitary measures were being starved. In a little while the experience of the French would have been repeated. Those ardent dirt flyers would all have been dead. Gorgas paid a visit to the United States and told the story in some one's influential ear. Whereupon the program was changed. The dirt flying was postponed until after Gorgas had made the isthmus into a place one could take one's sick baby to.

Everyone knows of how Gorgas demosquitoed the zone. It is a fact that if a zone dweller hears a buzz during the night he does not slap in futile wrath as do taxpayers in less protected places; he just goes to his telephone and sends in a fire-alarm for the sanitary department. And pretty soon a Jamaican negro, who is the outward and visible sign of the Gorgas shield against the stegomia, comes clattering down the street bearing cans full of dope. And eventually that mosquito ceases from troubling, and the zone dweller goes to sleep with his lips all pouted up, convinced that things have gone to pot now that Gorgas isn't directly on the job.

One of these days the United States will have to clean up the Central American ports near the canal mouths. Guayaquil, for example, is the plague headquarters of the habitable world. Gorgas has already cleaned up two or three such ports for the protection of the zone. Gorgas will undoubtedly be chosen for the job. Just the other day the Kaffir laborers in the South African diamond mines began dying with unprofitable rapidity. No one seemed to know how to handle the epidemic of pneumonia that sweeps them off. So that the De Beers people asked the United States government to loan them Gorgas—just long enough for him to tell them what was wrong and how to fix it. It did. He told.

Now he's on a continent-wide job again—the sort of job that he revels in. If there really is a war in Mexico he'll have our khaki soldiery lapping up liquid quinine out of a spoon held by the Gorgas hand—and swearing that they like it. He's that sort of doctor.

THE SEARCHLIGHT

Moan Man and the Mosquito.

Mosquitoes carry malarial germs. Admitted. Therefore man must be protected against the winged parcels post of the disease zone. So be it. But some doctors now say that man, in turn, is guilty of transmitting malaria to the abused mosquito. Hence, the mosquito must be protected against man. The spokesman of this group of medical scientists, through the medium of a recent address at Atlanta, Ga., is Graham E. Henson, M. D., of Jacksonville, Fla.

Dr. Henson and his associates contend that man, and not the Jersey stinger and his clan, is the principal etiological factor in the perpetuation of malaria. Charts by malaria experts, working in both temperate and tropical zones, have been assembled to show that a large proportion of the population carry malaria dormant in the blood. They are bitten by the mosquitoes, and they in turn pass it on to other human beings.

This, of course, is not a very new theory, but the remedy recommended is. The new plan simply is that more efforts should go to reducing the malaria in human beings, and less to the far more difficult work of trying to exterminate millions of mosquitoes.

In fact, this has been found to be almost impossible in large areas, whereas it is a comparatively easy task to make frequent blood tests of human beings en masse. This is being done in many schools, but it is believed that the country should be divided into zones, and all inhabitants examined periodically for malarial symptoms, with preventive treatment to follow. With less malaria to carry, the harmfulness of the mosquito as a carrier would be greatly minimized.

The Best Modern Speaking

PRESIDENT Wilson's address yesterday is admitted by everybody to have been in good taste. The occasion was not a great one, except as sentiment had temporarily made it so, but Mr. Wilson hit the right note at the beginning and held it to the end. As so many times before, he showed himself master of the just feeling and the fit word. Without a moment's straining after grandiloquence, in the simplest language, and with every appearance of spontaneous and unstudied utterance, he spoke the thing that was in all hearts. It would have been ill advised for the greatest orator in the world to attempt anything further.

A speech like this will not be set by teachers of rhetoric as a model of eloquence. It will not be pored over by youth with ambitions to make of themselves resounding speakers. Yet a little attention to it would not be misplaced, for it helps one to see how our standards of oratory have changed, and leads us into the attitude and spirit of the best modern speaking. Of this the chief notes are sincerity, simplicity, and restraint. The old fustian and the purple patches are hardly going out of fashion. "Eloquence" of the Jefferson Brick period is now regarded mainly as an affliction. It still has an occasional member of congress under its sway, and afterdinner speakers are now and then met with who are suffering from a bad case of it, but the swing is all away from it. There are still exceptions. We sometimes encounter a child of genius with a rich native gift of speech whom it is a pleasure to listen to while he is under the swell and glow of oratory. But even such sublime flights are always perilous; and present-day taste inclines to the Mark Antony type that speaks right on and tells us the things we all do know. If with this direstness we have the occasional phrase that lifts, the scenes for utterest beauty or power, and the feeling that shows itself most intense, when most kept under, we have the kind of speaking which best satisfies the best listeners. It is the intellectual without being labored; it is appealing rather than clamorous, and it pays the hearer the compliment of taking it for granted that he is able to hear more than meets the ear.

Speakers of rare felicity in this manner are not often found. In this country, after naming Woodrow Wilson, President Alderman, a clergyman or two, with here and there a man in the professions or in public life, the list would soon run out. Talent of the sort is probably more often met with among Frenchmen; and some Irishmen have it. At least one Englishman has it to a superlative degree. Arthur Balfour adds to his many titles to distinction that of being one of the best speakers of his time. This does not mean that he is a great orator. No one would rank him in possession of a divine afflatus, with Fox or Gladstone or even Lord Rosebery. But he has on so many occasions displayed his power to handle large themes with mental acuteness and moral elevation and a large and moving simplicity of style that he has come to have a place all his own. He meets the most exacting tests when he says: "Smallpox does not exist any more." Major Russell for two years past has been putting into effect those measures of protection against typhoid fever that the Germans first discovered—and that Russell improved on—so that the thousands of men on the border haven't had even a drop-in visit from this most dreaded of camp diseases." And George himself is only a most eminent sanitarian, but he is the most eminent sanitarian in dealing with tropical conditions. He eats 'em alive. Quips and Quiddities

"Oh, yes, Martha sings in the choir, and she has about the best voice of anyone in it," boasted Martha's aunt, who may not have known much about music, but who certainly knew all about choirs.

"Isn't that boasting just a little?" gently inquired her husband.

"No, it ain't," retorted Martha's aunt. "I know she's the best singer in the lot because no one else in the choir will speak to her!"—Lippincott's.

"Good," said Pat, taking off his hat and coat. "Send them out one by one."

THE BRITISH CRISIS

IV.—THE ECLIPSE OF THE LORDS.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

LONDON.—As long as the house of lords retained its status as a co-ordinate branch of the legislature the hereditary aristocracy of Britain had no particular fear of the masses. They were annoying, sometimes, when they got into power in the house of commons, but after all they couldn't pass any really harmful bills, because the lords would throw them out.

That was the situation down until 1910. As mentioned in the introductory article, the lords had been accustomed to pass many bills without revision, that being an ancient privilege of the house of commons. This tradition was reflected in the American constitution of 1787 by the provision that revenue bills must originate in the house of representatives, although from the beginning the senate asserted successfully its right to amend.

The budget of 1909, introduced by David Lloyd George, the chancellor of the exchequer, provided for the levy of a tax on land values. This was revolutionary, and the lords, who themselves own most of the land in the United Kingdom, decided to disregard tradition and reject the budget. They were sure that they would be supported by the country in an election, especially as they were also urging tariff reform for the benefit of the working man. Some of the wiser heads warned them that the rejection of the budget might lead to the abolition of the house of lords, but the majority were angry and headless.

The rejection accomplished, the Liberal cabinet at once dissolved parliament, and a general election was ordered. It was held in January, 1910. The direct issue, of course, was the budget, but the abolition of the veto power of the lords was also urged, while Irish home rule and the disestablishment of the Church of England in Wales was promised.

The Liberals won. That is to say, the Asquith cabinet, supported by the coalition of Liberals, Laborparty men and Irish Nationalists, was returned to power. The lords had promised they would abide by the decision of the voters on the budget, so they passed it.

This time the Liberals did not quit. They wanted to make their policies effective; they had great schemes for social reform, and they realized that the Irish question must be put out of the way before anything constructive could be accomplished. They also knew by the experience of nearly four score years that the lords would not permit any genuinely Liberal legislation.

So they proposed the parliament act. It provided that under certain circumstances and conditions bills might become a law without the consent of the upper house.

The lords, of course, protested, and again the cabinet agreed to leave the question to the country. There was another dissolution of parliament, another general election (held in December, 1910), and again the Asquith ministry was returned to power.

Then the slow, weary machinery was set into motion for passing the parliament act, which became law in 1911. This act is confessedly a temporary stop-gap. It recites this fact in its own preamble. To quote:

"Whereas, It is expedient that provision should be made for regulating the relations between the two houses of parliament; and, whereas, it is intended to substitute for the house of lords as it at present exists a second chamber constituted on a popular instead of hereditary basis, but such substitution cannot be immediately brought into operation; and, whereas, provision will be necessary to be made by parliament in a measure effecting such substitution for limiting and defining the powers of the new second chamber, but it is expedient to make such provision as in this act appears for securing the existing powers of the house of lords, be it therefore enacted by the king's most excellent majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:"

Then the act goes on to state that a money bill passed by the commons, if rejected by the lords, shall be presented to his majesty and becomes a law on the royal assent being signified, "notwithstanding that the house of lords have not consented to the bill."

It may be imagined that the house of lords hated to pass that bill. But they had no alternative, for if they had used the king would have appointed enough new lords, six or seven hundred of them, to pass it. And the king would have had no alternative but to agree to the wholesale creation of peers, for that issue was fought out in 1832, when King William IV was forced to give guarantee to create enough new lords to pass the reform bill. Mr. Asquith would have selected the men to be raised to the peerage.

This, of course, absolutely ended the lords' attempt to reassert power over money bills. But in the rest of the act there was some hope for them. The act goes on to provide that in the case of public bills, not money bills, bills may be enacted into law without the consent of the lords on certain conditions. These are that the bill must pass the house of commons three times in three successive sessions of parliament, though not necessarily of the same parliament, and that at least two years must elapse from the time of the second reading of the bill in the first house that passed it and the time it is passed in the house of commons in the third session. If this is done, a bill may be presented to the king for the royal assent without having passed the house of lords, in fact, after having been three times rejected by that body.

This act once on the statute books, the Liberal government immediately set into motion the machinery to pass three bills that they had promised to the country, but that they knew the lords would reject. The first was the Irish home rule bill, the second the bill to disestablish the Church of England in Wales, and the third was the bill to abolish plural voting, that system by which a man in Britain votes in as many places as he owns property. Under the two-year limit the earliest possible day the home rule bill might become law was May 9, 1914, while the limit for Welsh disestablishment and plural voting is this year, and on plural voting on May 1 of next year.

But if the Conservative party, by any means—the Ulster revolt or the army disaffection, or anything else—can bring on an election now, and they should win it, then the parliament act might be repealed, the house of lords would be restored, the two-year limit lifted and the lords practically restored to what it was before the Lloyd George budget of 1909 was heard of.

On the other hand, if the home rule bill does go through, the principle of the parliament act will be established as a part of the British constitution, and the hereditary principle will be eliminated from the British legislature. At the same time, should civil war break out in Ireland and spread to England, the Liberal government could be blamed for the whole trouble.

It is to be noticed that the royal assent is required before bills passed under the parliament act becomes a law. Not since Queen Anne has any British monarch exercised the right of veto, or withheld the royal assent from any measure that has passed through parliament. In fact, the king has nothing whatever to do with giving his assent, for this is one of the many things he does in a constitutional way; that is to say, on the advice of his ministers, and they always represent the dominant party in parliament and are chosen by that party.

LARGE OUTPUT OF MAIL HELPED BOOST ATLANTA

500,000 Souvenir Postcards and a Total of 457,000 Pieces of Mail Left City

One feature of the Shrine convention that has done its share towards placing Atlanta in the limelight throughout the entire continent of North America came to light Thursday morning through postal figures given out by Postmaster Rolling H. Jones covering the out-going mail handled here Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

On Tuesday 144,000 pieces of mail were handled and the following day 316,000 pieces were sent out. Of the total of 457,000 pieces Mr. Jones said that twothirds represented post cards and newspapers only. The local mail fell off considerably owing to an almost complete suspension of business for the two big days of the Shrine meet. Mail came in for the business houses, but records show that it was unanswered.

Taking the figures of Monday that were almost as large as those of Tuesday and approximating Thursday's business, it is conservatively estimated that fully 200,000 cards and papers were sent out from Atlanta during the four days mentioned.

Bank President Gets Thrill of Pride From 10c. Ham Sandwich

"I am one of the fifty-seven varieties of Georgians that feel proud of Atlanta's success in handling the Shrine convention," writes A. B. "Put me down for $25 toward the next convention, whether it is the Owls, the Moose, the Eagles or the National Democratic convention."

In these few words Mr. Cook has expressed the spirit which animated thousands of Georgians at the Shrine meeting. As he puts it, "The most cordial and unselfish spirit I ever witnessed. A thrill of pride ran through my veins when I bought that ham sandwich for 10 cents."

FIGHTS TWO POLICEMEN FOR SNIFF OF COCAINE

Fighting desperately with two officers, W. J. Myers, thirty-two years old, claiming to be a druggist of Lakewood Heights, was dragged into police court Friday morning, where he seized a box of powdered cocaine, lying on the recorder's desk, as evidence and sniffed some of the "dope" before it could be knocked from his hand.

Myers was arrested by Patrolman Pearson Thursday night, together with a negro named Emmanuel Ware. Pearson says Ware sold Myers dope.

Myers was bound over under $500 bond charged with vagrancy. Ware is being held pending investigations, as he said he bought the cocaine from a negro woman. The police are looking for the woman.

DON'T FORGET GREENFIELD, WIRES FORREST ADAIR

Tells Journal His Taking Care of Hotel Arrangements for Shriners Was Perfect

A telegram filed at Cochran, Ga., by Forrest Adair, Thursday night, brought this message to The Journal from the potentate of Yaarab temple, then on his way to Savannah:

"In thanks you forgot J. C. Greenfield, who handled hotels and all administrative details. He has never been equalled anywhere."

Carelessness was responsible for the complete omission of any mention of Noble Greenfield from the report, Thursday, of Potentate Adair's tribute to all who helped in the success of the Atlanta meeting of Shriners. That was typical. Mr. Greenfield had the hardest and most thankless job among the many that shaped the meeting. He was in charge of the hotel and other reservations; and his work began a year ago.

In speaking of him Thursday, Mr. Adair said his task had been incredibly difficulty and incredibly well performed.

"I do not believe a better man than Joe Greenfield could have been chosen for it," said he. "He has been patient, hard-working, thorough, diplomatic, and everything else that a man in his position would have to be to please everybody. He had to display the qualities of an expert mathematician with those of a diplomat, to get everybody housed comfortably. And that is exactly what he accomplished."

PLAYS DETECTIVE AND HELPS CAPTURE NEGRO

By playing the part of a detective, Maurice Miller, proprietor of a pawn shop on Mariotta street, caused the arrest Friday morning of Watson Reid, a negro, said to have burglarized Miller's place of $200 worth of goods.

Detective McKibben assisted in the man's arrest, and, when he was searched, two rings and two watches, identified by Miller as those stolen from him, were found.

Another negro, George Dobbs, was arrested early Friday by Call Officers Jones and Gorman, at 28 East Mitchell street, charged with stealing a pistol on Wednesday night from the home of Patrolman W. L. Payne, 213 Central avenue.

Payne's pistol was found on the negro, but he said another colored man, Alonzo Smith, had given it to him. So Smit was found and arrested, and both will be tried for burglarizing the patrolman's home.

The Davis Jewelry company, 280 Decatur street, reported a loss of many articles, taken by a burglar who broke into their store Thursday night.

TANGO

ROOTS OUT CORNS PAINLESSLY

Don't Pick and Gouge and Torture Your Toes—Use TANGO.

TANGO for Corns is the most marvelous remedy of the age. No wonder everybody is enthusiastic about it. One touch of TANGO on a corn ends your suffering. Applied in a second and it's done. No plaster or salve to fuss with; nothing to stick to the hose and be jerked from the sore toe with excruciating agony; no swelling and tenderness. Never use a point or blade, because the risk is too great. A slip of the instrument and a drop of blood have caused many cases of blood poison.

TANGO is the one safe remedy that roots out the core of the corn, painlessly. It softens this kernel and brings it out. The root, core and the corn is gone forever. No pain, no fuss, no sore, bandaged toes.

TANGO is the safest and surest remedy for corns and bunions; the one GUARANTEED remedy. Any druggist will return your money if TANGO fails to root out the CORE of the corn painlessly. 25c at All Druggists. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy, Atlanta.—(Advt.)

Georgia Paints Tech's Athletic Field Fence Despite Armed Guard

With the object of putting Georgia's colors all over Tech's property, a delegation of Georgia men Thursday night lavishly and most elaborately decorated the fence around Grant field with large quantities of red and black paint.

This was done in spite of a supposed armed guard of Tech students which waited around the fence nearly all night. This guard was formed because Georgia had announced they were going to paint the fence.

The Georgia men, elated over their recent baseball victories, and wanting to properly symbolize their many football and other victories from Tech during the past three years, not only painted the fence around Tech's athletic stronghold, but also decorated Peachtree street with red and black.

Two little statues, formerly white, on the lawn of Woodberry's school at the corner of Peachtree and Pine streets, are now coated with red and black, and other examples of the painters' art are plentiful along Atlanta's main thoroughfare.

SHRINER COP SUES CHIEF BEAVERS ET AL.

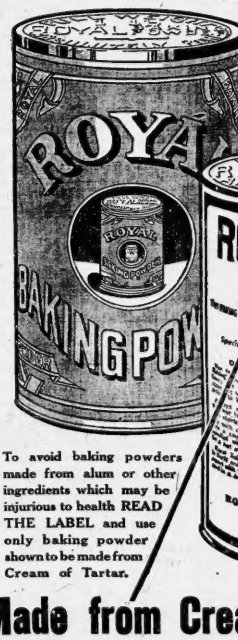

Houston Man Does Not Stay to Press Complaint Against Police and Others

E. G. Kepple, of Houston, Tex., who had his fun out of the Shrine convention by dressing up like a cop, arresting joy riders and in turn getting jailed for impersonating an officer, wound up his Atlanta appearance by filing suit for $50,000 in the superior court against J. F. Letton, manager of the Ansley hotel; J. Litchfield Beavers, as he calls him, chief of the Atlanta police force; Harry Sapphire, house detective of the Ansley, and Meigs O. Frost and Dave Lawrence, of Galveston, Tex., who he accuses of instigating his arrest.

The suit commands the defendants to appear in court next Monday. All charges will be dropped of course if the plaintiff is not on hand, and as Shriner Kepple is now speeding merrily toward Houston at the rate of some sixty miles an hour, it looks like said defendants should fret.

VANDERBILT QUESTION UP TO ANNUAL CONFERENCES

Various State Methodist Conferences May Carry Matter Into Courts

(By Associated Press.)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 15.—Methodist rights in Vanderbilt university, which until recently have been cared for by the general conference of the M. E. church, south, will be turned back to the eight annual conferences which deeded property to Vanderbilt, then known as Central university, according to the report completed by the special Vanderbilt committee of the conference early today. After a session which lasted until past midnight, the committee met again this morning to put the finishing touches to their reports.

In addition to the majority report making the above recommendations, a minority report was drawn recommending that the conference retain whatever rights it still may have in Vanderbilt after the decision of the Tennessee supreme court, which held that the conference did not control the university.

MAY GO TO COURTS.

After recommending that the general conference turn back the property of the eight original patronizing conferences, which are the Memphis, Mississippi, White, River, Little Rock, Alabama, North Alabama, Louisville and Tennessee, provision is made for the board of education to furnish money to these conferences to carry out their rights in the university, if they desire to do so.

The report provides for a commission of sixteen, composed of four bishops, four preachers and eight laymen, to take steps to establish a new theological school and lay the foundation for a new university, which does not rest in the general organization.

The minority report, recommending that the conference relinquish whatever rights it may have in Vanderbilt, places the matter in the hands of the board of education, with instructions to continue to exercise its prerogative of confirming or rejecting trustees elected by the board of trust and its 30-operate with the board of trust. It also provides that the board take steps toward establishing a new school of theology and university in the event it fails to re-establish harmonious relations with the university. The board is instructed to report back to the general conference four years hence.

Bishop W. B. Murray presided during the devotional exercises which were conducted by Dr. J. B. Countiss, of Fourth Mississippi conference.

At the conclusion of the devotion Bishop Murray yielded the chair to Bishop C. C. Kilgo, of Durham, N. C., the president of the day.

A number of memorials, resolutions and petitions, touching various phases of requests for laity rights were presented and referred.

An invitation for the next meeting place of the conference was received from Jacksonville, Fla.

DANIELS INDORSED.

Resolutions were adopted indorsing the Hobson-Sheppard national prohibition bill; expressing sympathetic interest in the Mexican missionaries, assuring them of the church's constant love and prayer, and urging them to remain steadfast in their work; and indorsing the action of Secretary Daniels in issuing an order banishing intoxicants from the navy.

J. M. Barnes, M. E. Lawson, T. D. Ellis, D. McCullough, J. D. Rampson, W. D. Lovejoy and Otis Starnes were announced as the members of the committee on appeals.

D. H. Linebaugh, chairman of the special committee on the Vanderbilt university case, at this point announced that the committee of fifteen desired to present reports one and two. He said there would be a majority report and suggested this be filed as soon as it was completed.

A motion was made that the reports be considered at once. A substitute was offered that the reports go to the calendar and be printed in the Daily Advocate. The substitute was adopted, having the affect of postponing the consideration of the Vanderbilt case over until tomorrow's session of the conference.

COMMEND BISHOPS.

Report No. 1 from the committee, which was unanimous, expresses full approval of the acts of the college of bishops in connection with the Vanderbilt dispute, during the past quadrennial.

The report No. 2 reviews the history of the Vanderbilt litgation, the address of the bishops and all documents, including the Tennessee supreme court opinion bearing on the subject. It cites extracts from the supreme court opinion and declares that "we believe the statements of the court in reference to th possibility of contumacy on the part of the church, in a needless and gratuitous reflection. We maintain that the charter of Vanderbilt university among other provisions what is known as the 'Memphis resolution,' secured to the founders—by patronizing conference, the ownership and control of the university."

That the control of the general conference over Vanderbilt is so small and remote as to be negligible under the court opinion and that the differences between the board of trustees and the

FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

John W. Skillen of Sidney, Ohio, Has Found a Remedy

Experts declare that the reason stomach disorders are so common in this country is due to hasty eating and bad habits of eating. Stomach troubles and run-down conditions usually go together.

John W. Skillen, of Sidney, Ohio, says: "I had a bad stomach trouble for years and became so weak that I could hardly walk or do any work. My appetite was poor, and it seemed impossible to get any relief. Since taking Vinol I find a remarkable improvement in my health, my digestion is much stronger, and I have gained in weight. I would not be without Vinol."

Vinol makes weak stomachs strong because it strengthens and tones up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs. Vinol is easily assimilated by the weakest stomachs, and is delicious to the taste.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Elkin Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

"SAVANNAH—1920."

Mr. Stevens had heard before reaching Savannah that the Tybee temple had started a boom for Savannah in 1920 with "That's the way to get it," he declared, "start early. I would like to see Savannah get it. Savannah knows how to entertain and we all like to come here."

Although the imperial potentate was unable to come to Savannah there were practically no other members of the imperial divan absent. The city of Savannah, they declare, is one of the most pleasing features of the meeting in Georgia.

Acca Temple Is Host To Returning Shriners

(By Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., May 15.—Hundreds of Shriners, on their way to and from their annual convention in Atlanta, are arriving here, some stopping only between trains, many remaining to see the sights.

Acca temple is keeping open house and a committee composed of D. C. O'Flaherty, George L. Street, Preston Belvin, Joseph Stokes and Addison Dunlop announced as the members of the committee on arrangements.

D. H. Linebaugh, chairman of the special committee on the Vanderbilt university case, at this point announced that the committee of fifteen desired to present reports one and two. He said there would be a majority report and suggested this be filed as soon as it was completed.

A motion was made that the reports be considered at once. A substitute was offered that the reports go to the calendar and be printed in the Daily Advocate. The substitute was adopted, having the affect of postponing the consideration of the Vanderbilt case over until tomorrow's session of the conference.

COMMEND BISHOPS.

Report No. 1 from the committee, which was unanimous, expresses full approval of the acts of the college of bishops in connection with the Vanderbilt dispute, during the past quadrennial.

The report No. 2 reviews the history of the Vanderbilt litgation, the address of the bishops and all documents, including the Tennessee supreme court opinion bearing on the subject. That the control of the general conference over Vanderbilt is so small and remote as to be negligible under the court opinion and that the differences between the board of trustees and the general conference are irrevocable, is the opinion of the committee.

In the reasons set forth in this opinion the committee cites that the board of trustees accepted a gift of $1,000,000 from Andrew Carnegie which conditions which declared the college of bishops to be in breach of trust. The report then declares that the general conference reconvey to the annual conferences intrested any interest or authority that may remain in Vanderbilt.

The committee also expressed the belief there should be one denominational institution east of Mississippi river and another west of the river. The college of bishops is asked to appoint five committee provided for as early as possible.

The majority report is signed by D. H. Linebaugh, chairman, and Frank M. Thomas, secretary. The minority report is signed by W. Asbury Christian, J. W. Perry, H. N. Snyder, J. S. McCormick, E. S. Garrison and Frank M. Thomas.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The bladder becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache disturbed stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. (Advt.)

BECKER TRIAL WITNESS SAYS HE TOLD UNTRUTHS

Harry Vallon, Under Cross-Examination in Rosenthal Case, Says He Lied

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 15.—Harry Vallon, alleged fellow conspirator with "Bald Jack" Rose and others in what the state declares was a plot to murder Herman Rosenthal, for which Charles Becker is being tried for the second time, underwent the ordeal of cross-examination today. He admitted he had not told the truth on many occasions in respect to the murder, declaring that his story of the events leading up to the crime was correct in its essential details.

Counsel for the defense endeavored to show that Vallon's testimony connecting Becker with the conspiracy was false in no important points, however, was the witness'story broken down.

Several eyewitnesses for the state were waiting today to be called to testify.

With the conclusion of the testimony of Vallon today it was expected that District Attorney Whitman would call several witnesses who did not testify at the first Becker trial.

In direct examination Vallon corroborated the main points of Jack Rose's story and was then turned over to the defense. He admitted under cross-examination that he and Rosenthal had a disagreement six months before Rosenthal was murdered.

The witness denied, however, that he had quarreled with the murdered man. It is a contention of the defense that Rosenthal was a victim of gamblers' war.

ATLANTA WAS NOT AFTER SHRINE COIN, MAYOR SAYS

Public Commended for Open-Hearted Hospitality Shown Guests

Discussing the great convention of Shriners in Atlanta, Mayor Woodward Friday morning said:

"The less money Atlanta got from the Shriners the better off she will be in their estimation and therefore the more she will be helped in every way from having had the convention here. Our program, when they arrived, was not to see how much money we could separate them from. The one thing everybody hoped was that there would be no increase in prices for any of the things the Shriners would need while they were here. And I am glad to say that so far as I have been able to ascertain, practically nobody charged more than normal prices.

"The great good Atlanta will derive from having entertained the Shriners is not the amount they spent here in dollars and cents, but the impression of our hospitality which they took home with them. I think instead of counting our money and bragging about the huge amount they left in our cash tills, we should congratulate ourselves that our hospitality was of the kind that money cannot buy and that we showed them the world knows best how we esteem them and wanted them to come to see us again.

THANKS GENERAL PUBLIC.

"And I wish you would quote me as thanking the people of Atlanta for the splendid way they rallied to the support of our local Shriners in entertaining the convention. I believe the visitors found an element in our hospitality over which they made fun everywhere, and that was a personal interest on the part of all our people in their guests and in their enjoyment. Everybody in Atlanta was a member of the reception committee.

"I want to congratulate the crowds on their good behavior. There was very little drunkenness and practically no disorder. Everybody had a good time, but nobody got rowdy. Atlanta had on her 'company manners,' as the old saying is, and I am glad she did.

"I want to congratulate the police department on the splendid manner in which they handled the situation. I understand less arrests have been made this week than in the normal average week. I want to thank the sanitary department for keeping the streets clean and for the hard work it did in keeping the parking tracks sanitary. I want to thank all departments of the city government for co-operating to make the convention a success.

RESPITES ARE ASKED FOR MEN SENTENCED TO DIE

Unless Governor Slaton Gives Order, Cantrell and Wilburn Will Hang May 29

Unless Governor Slaton grants them respites, Jim Cantrell, of Gainesville, Hall county, and Nick Wilburn, of Grayce, Jones county, will be hanged on May 29.

Both are asking the governor for a respite in order that their attorneys may have an opportunity to appear before the state prison commission at its June term and argue for commutations to life imprisonment.

Inasmuch as the prison commission does not hold another meeting until the second week in June the governor will probably grant the respites, although this is a general proposition he opposes respites. The prison commission has recommended that Cantrell be respited so that his petition for clemency may be argued at the same time as that of his brother, Earl, who is also under sentence of death.

The commission has not yet recommended a respite for Wilburn, nor will probably do so, as his appeal to the United States supreme court has just been advanced and he has not had an opportunity to petition for executive clemency through the commission.

An Easy Way to Get Fat and Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who seek to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; nothing on useless "fresh cream," or following some foolish physical culture stunt while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestant assimilates the food you eat.

Science has at last discovered a scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine this simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them put on solid, rich, fat-laden blood. This master stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed by eminent physicians as Sargol aims through its re-generative, revivifying principle to help the digestive organs to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and convert them into rich blood, where they are carried to every starved nook and cranny of the body. In this way you can readily picture the result when this assimilating transformation takes place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists of Atlanta and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, a 50 cent package or a dollar package.

Caution.—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who are not wish to gain ten pounds or more.—(Advt.)

Mrs. Brown Honored By Shriners

One of the very delightful incidents of Shrine week was the serenade given by Mecca temple, of New York, to Mrs. George Brown Thursday morning at her home on Peachtree street. The band accompanied by the potentate and the ladies of the Mecca party, reached the Brown residence at 10:15, and for an hour the band stationed on the lawn under the trees gave a beautiful concert. Among the many inspiring numbers were a group of the melodious southern songs which can never grow old. At the close of the serenade Potentate Williams presented Mrs. Brown a jeweled badge and the members of the patrol gave the military salute.

Mrs. Brown responded with a very gracious and charming little speech of thanks in which she expressed her appreciation of the honor.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Buster Bear had told Old Man Coyote and Reddy Fox and Granny Fox and Hooty the Owl that if they wanted to catch whoever was hiding under the pile of brush in the Green Forest which they had been watching so long he would putt it to pieces for them, but they would have to come up very close, so that whoever was hiding there couldn't get away. So, little by little, each watching the others sharply, Old Man Coyote, Reddy Fox, and Granny Fox had crept in nearer and nearer to the pile of brush until they were close to it. Reddy and Granny Peter were under there early in the day, so he must be there now, for there hadn't been one instant all that day that they hadn't kept sharp watch for him to come out, and not a sign had they seen of him.

Only Hooty the Owl did not come close. Hooty remained right where he was in a tall pine tree, where he could see all that went on and could swoop down when the time came. Buster kept chuckling to himself as he waited for the others to get close enough. Old Man Coyote looked at him suspiciously and Buster stopped laughing and urged the others to come just a little nearer.

"It's a lot of work to pull over that pile of brush," said he, "and I don't want to do it for nothing. You must be near enough so that when Peter Rabbit runs out he will have no time to dodge before one of you has him."

At last the others were near enough to suit Buster Bear. He looked up at Hooty the Owl and winked one eye. Hooty didn't know what it meant, but he began to suspect that there was some joke, and he leaned forward to watch more closely.

"Are you ready?" asked Buster Bear.

"Ready," replied Old Man Coyote, and set his feet to spring swiftly.

"Ready," replied Reddy Fox and Granny Fox, and they, too, prepared to jump at the first sign of Peter.

"Watch out, there!" cried Buster Bear, and straightway made the bush fly in every direction. The air was full of sticks.

"Oh!" yelped Reddy Fox, as one hit him sharply across the face.

"Hi!" yelled Old Man Coyote, as a big stick hit him in the ribs.

"Look out what you are doing!" cried Granny Fox, as she tried in vain to back away in time not to get hit.

But Buster Bear didn't seem to hear. And he didn't seem to notice how the flying sticks were making the others dance and duck and dodge. He just worked faster than ever and threw sticks this way and threw sticks that way until the air was so full of sticks that Old Man Coyote and Reddy Fox and Granny Fox just had to shut their eyes while they tried to get away, and Peter Rabbit might have run right under their very noses without them knowing it. Only Hooty the Owl, who, you know, kept his watch from high up in a tall pine tree, was able to see whether or not Peter ran out, and even Hooty had a hard time to make sure. You see, it was so funny to see Old Man Coyote and Reddy and Granny Fox jumping this way and leaping that way and dodging the other way to keep from being hit by those flying sticks that for the first time since any one could remember Hooty the Owl actually laughed. He laughed until he almost lost his breath. He understood now the sly wink Buster Bear had given him.

But though he laughed so hard he still kept a sharp watch for Peter Rabbit. To Hooty's way of thinking, there is no pleasure so great as the eating of a good dinner, and he is not one to let his enjoyment of a joke cheat him out of a good meal. So while he laughed and laughed and laughed he kept sharp watch, too, and he was sure that Peter had not run out.

At last Buster Bear sent flying the very last bit of brush under which Peter could possibly hide, and there was—nobody! Yes, sir, Buster Bear had scattered that whole pile of brush and there wasn't a sign of Peter Rabbit or of anybody else. Buster Bear looked up at Hooty the Owl and winked again, and then he sat up and laughed and laughed until he had to hold his sides.

Next story—What Had Become of Peter Rabbit.

Queen Mary Wears Costly Jewels—They Are Always Guarded

Queen Mary

BY MARY B. O'REILLY.

LONDON.—Queen Mary, "the economical," has just lost two of the most valuable pearls in her possession. After the last court, while the queen's dresser was assisting her majesty to disrobe, she had some difficulty in unfastening the queen's pearl necklace. Her majesty, making an effort to unfasten the clasp herself, broke the fastening and a half a dozen pearls fell to the floor. Stepping back to pick them up, the unfortunate dresser trod on two of the largest—pearls that were worth $500 apiece.

Queen Mary's everyday jewels are of such enormous value that English detectives are constantly present to protect them, quite apart from maintaining a watchful eye on their royal owner.

Dr. Schneider Is Hurt

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 15.—Dr. Francis A. Schneider, a Columbus specialist, was quite seriously injured in an automobile accident yesterday when his touring car collided with a belt line car of the Columbus Railroad company in Wynnton, a fashionable suburb of Columbus, smashing the car to pieces and hurling Dr. Schneider and his little boy to the ground. The child was not injured.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

There is a strong effort being made to bring into first fashion the highly colored blouse. Or rather, one should say that the effort is directed toward bringing it into popular fashion. It is well up in the scale of what is proper and smart.

The trouble is that women have worn either white blouses, or colored ones to match their suits, that they do not know exactly how to manage a gorgeous thing for instance. And yet, this should be easy for one who does not wish the costume for parading the streets of a large city. For such uses it is manifestly impossible, but for all other purposes, such as are offered by one's home, the country club, all forms of country life, in fact, the addition of a bright red linen blouse to white plque skirt, is good.

It is not absolutely necessary to have either of these materials, and one need not choose red. There are other forms through which one can express one's approval of the style.

The shops are making a feature of these new affairs, in a brilliant Poiret red that is very fetching. The fabric is thick linen with a glaze, the form is loose and very vague, with raglan sleeves that reach the wrists. There is no sign in the horizon for a reinstatement of the sheer sleeve of other days at least, not for blouses that are worn with separate skirts.

Of course, the collar of this red blouse opens wide at the neck, for no one has altered the course of the negligent neckline, which has ruled the fashion for a year. One is happy that no strenuous efforts have been made in this direction at the approach of the hot weather.

Usually, this rolling collar is white, which is a happy touch, for there are few faces that can permit the use of that Poiret red next to them. The material used for this collar is linen in the same grade of thickness, for there is no touch of transparency about this waist. It is intended for practical purposes.

Again Chinese Blue.

Next in fashion to the red blouse for separate white skirts is one of Chinese blue, that lovely shade which everyone seems to be able to wear. It also is made with a large white collar that often rolls to the waist. The cuffs are also white.

Whatever color you prefer is available for these colored blouses and if you wish to avoid linen because it crushes so easily, then adopt the new soft silks, which are cool, an excellent recommendation in this climate. There are many varieties of muslin also which serve the purpose well.

There is no denying that something about the heavy linen in a brilliant tone makes for a better waist than any substitute. But one must always reckon with the ease with which strong linen crushes.

With Colored Suits.

As far as fashion has gone this season, there is no hint that these brightly toned separate waists are to be used with suits of a different color. True the waist that matches the coat is a fashion that is past, but the preference is given to white muslin, not satin or chiffon. The most expensive suit carries with it a blouse of simple muslin, and by comparison to what has gone before, its simplicity is startling.

There is very little lace, if any, no embroidery, no stock, and a turn-over collar that is hemstitched at the edge. The sleeves are wrist length fastened with tiny buttons, or finished with a turn-over cuff. Down the front are two rows of small buttons, and that is all the garniture the modern waist allows.

THE REST HOUR.

When lying down for this rest, it is never wise to have the head too high, as the pillow, or a very small one, brings the most restful results to nerves, and in this position the deep, regular and conscious breathing required for soothing the nerves, developing the chest and aiding digestion is more possible. And regarding the breath that passes through the lungs, let me tell you that it is the most important thing connected with the human body. Correct breathing renews the blood, strengthens the heart, improves the complexion, induces sleep, grinds up food and lifts the spirits from despair to peace. physical well being depends upon it, as do beauty and orderly nerves. Do a little breathing exercising, then, with the rest hour, or half hour, of every day, seeing that there isn't a thread of clothing to bind anywhere and that the spine touches the bed. A hard mattress is better for this than a soft one, and, of course, there must be plenty of fresh air in the room, as rebreathing stale air does more harm than good with the deep lung exercises. In cases of overfatigue, deep breathing for ten minutes will bring the greatest relief.

For improving the throat, whitening and softening the skin and hardening the muscles, the lounging moment allowes many opportunities. Put on some sort of an old loose garment that won't be hurt if it is touched with a little grease, and then apply cold cream or almond oil to the throat, working it well into the skin with rotary movements and leaving it on during the rest. Lie down then without a pillow, the head a little lower than the should; ers so that the skin of the neck will be stretched tight. Do the deep breathing exercises, and on getting up wash the skin with a little hot water and pure soap, rinsing in the cold. A rapid water doctored with a little benzoin. If the throat is exposed when wearing collars or dress dyes, after taking off the grease rub it with the cut side of fresh cucumber rind, leaving the juice to some ten minutes. With all use of the head don't fail to remember that one thing will improve the health and another injure it—holding the chin high is the sovereign trick for preventing the rapid formation of the many chins that make all human troats after forty. So don't slouch your head over on the chest when you are doing nothing; keep the chin so much out that the drop will be at the back of jhe head. Along with the benefit to the throat from this some one simple trick gives, the poiser-is a becoming one for the head.—Copyright by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

OUR ASTROLOGER

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Saturday, May 16, 1914.

This is seen as a doubtful and uncertain day by the astrologers, who find that, although Venus and Saturn are in benefic aspect in the morning, Mercury and Sun bode ill.

Disappointments are foreshadowed in love affairs. The influences are held as auspicious for many matters concerning women, but girls should be cautious when men are concerned, especially those who appear to be desirable as husbands.

It is not an auspicious time for dealings with men who hold wide authority or who wield power. Negotiations concerning the welfare of nations are under an unfavorable rule.

Saturn is in a place said to be particularly lucky for mining operations. Great fortunes in Mexico and South America will be made by citizens of the United States who will co-operate with native mine owners, the seers declare.

The prognostications for women are encouraging where their political aspirations are concerned. Again the signs are read as indicating the spread of equal suffrage.

There is a prophecy that women will adopt sensational measures in supporting an ambitious party leader, who will begin a startling campaign destined to bring disappointment and political disaster.

The stars, which have presaged great loss of life in accidents and through violence, warn persistently against danger of deaths by drowning. So many of this year's predictions have been fulfilled that wise men and women should take precautions to safeguard themselves.

The passage of Mars through Leo is interpreted as likely to bring about troubles in France and Italy. Earthquakes are probable on the 24th and 28th.

A London astrologer sees in the horoscope of Theodore Roosevelt an omen which threatens "reversal of experience."

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will meet many anxieties in the coming year. In the family circle illness and change are indicated. Girls may be disappointed in their love affairs.

Children born on this day have the augury of success, if they open their eyes in the morning light, but if they begin their conscious life in the afternoon responsibilities and to meet many difficulties. They are subjects of Taurus and their principal ruling planet is Venus.

No wonder you can swing the stock
And soak the bally pill;
No wonder you can tear 'em up
And drive 'em from the hill;
No wonder you're a bear-cat
And a centipede and such,
With glamour in your batting eye
And terror in your clutch;
No wonder you're a clouter
And a mauler of renown,
With gory scalps athwart your belt
And olive in your crown;
No wonder you are out there
With the virus in your blood,
A mixture of volcano and a simoon
And a flood;
No wonder you're the captain
And the coxswain and the crew,
If my initials were T. R.,
W..ll—I could raise1, too.

Motto of the T. R. tribe (Tyrus Raymond and Teddy R.), "Batting .350 and having a perfectly corking time."

Only with Tyrus Raymond it is more of a cork-centered time.

OUTSIDE OF THAT—

After a short interview with Manager Stallings the only complaint he has to offer is about this: "I've got a good ball club, butthehellofitistheyain'twinning."

THE CORRECT DIAGNOSIS.

As we understand the intersectional situation now at hand, the correct diagnosis is about this:

If the Pirates, having subdued the west, can stamp the stuffing out of Giants, Dodgers, Phillies and Braves they should maintain their present lead. Otherwise, perhaps not.

If the Tigers can splash along victoriously through the east without losing too many games they will return home still in front. Ohterwise, it all depends.

At which point the professor will kindly tear off a few strips of that beautiful melody entitled "If you can get by with it, why there's nothing else that counts."

What has become of the old-fashioned Wagner who used to bat .340 and block base hits all around the yard? Answer: Just about where he was in 1896—only a trifle moreso.

According to an authentic report from Chicago, Brooklyn, Baltimore and St. Louis the early report that the Feds would blow up before May was greatly exaggerated.

A BELATED WARBLE.

When once I smote my bloomin' lyre
And rapped the pill upon the job,
The chicory rooters used to say:
"The old boy stands up like a Cobb."

And yet each time I smoke a hit
Deep anguish crowned my troubled face
To think no Crawford was around
To drive me home from second base.

When Jerry Travers shot that 69 at Sandwich the British lion is said to have suddenly lost its keen appetite for food of any sort. Travers was known to be a dangerous contender, but shooting a 69 over the Sandwich course is something beyond merely dangerous. It is more like murder.

Reports have come across that Travers is now at the crest of his game and that 69 is fair evidence that said reports were about correct. And equally fair evidence that the Citizen from Upper Montclair still knows something about the use of a wooden club.

THE BALM IN BOSTON'S GILEAD.

There's nothing like having one eternal institution around to erase a part of the indigo. Each time the Braves or Red Sox drop another battle the Boston populace focuses its attention upon next November and the 37-yard line.

THE POLO SITUATION.

If England was sending over what she considered to be one of her best polo delegations America could afford to rest easily. Last spring about this time the Big Four were all in and England had a merry pipe.

But now that England figures her chances well below par with the dope all against her, America might as well get set for a shock.

It's the same in polo as in baseball. A pitcher in there with everything is a soft mark. But the bloke who "hasn't got anything" or a pitcher with a sore arm is the one to watch.

"How about the Athletics now?" queries C. M. V. We'll bite. How about 'em?

Add spurious interviews: "No," replied Mr. Taft hotly, "under no circumstances would I sell the Cubs for any paltry $800,000."

Georgia Meets Jackets On Grant Field Today

There come some three or four regular events in the course of each year in which a portion of the citizenry of Atlanta and neighboring towns is vitally interested, regardless of conditions or circumstances. Today is one of these. Tomorrow will be another, and later on this fall, still another will roll around. Reference is made to the several annual athletic contests between the Yellowjackets of Tech and the Georgia boys of Athens. This afternoon the two teams play the first game of the second two-game series scheduled between them.

Last season the advance dope all favored the Athenians to win, but the Jackets reversed the form sheet by taking two at Athens, dropping the first here a week later, and then snagging the final fray. This year, with a narrow margin favoring the Georgia boys on advance stuff, they have run true to form thus far, by peeling off victories in both games played on their home soil. True enough the second was a thrilling affair, running much on the order of the kind that Nick Carter used to put over in the good old days. But all of that the Red and Black added to their string of winnings.

Now the two battle on Grant field, and regardless of what past returns show, unless weather conditions should by some means butt in to interfere, two hectic scraps may be expected. First and foremost in the minds of each is the idea of trimming the other, but in addition to this there is a further consideration at stake. On the outcome of the games depends largely the title of S. I. A. A. championship. If Georgia takes one of the two games they will have a clear claim to the honor. On the other hand, if the Jackets get both it will be necessary that the two teams play a fifth and deciding game at some later date. But championship or no, Georgia and Tech are mixing it in athletic combat, and whenever such a battle is on it means a battle from start to finish with both teams contesting stubbornly every inch of ground.

Coach Heisman will line up his Jackets as they were in the Athens games, and says that he will probably use Eubanks in the first game. Bean also will send his lineup in intact, and will probably use Hitchcock in the opener.

Tech Track Men Leave for Meet

Coach Alexander Carried Eight Men to Meridian for S. I. A. A. Meet

The Tech track squad, including eight men, and Coach Alexander, left Thursday night for the S. I. A. A. track meet which will be held at Meridian, Miss., Saturday. This is the second meet that the Jackets have entered this season, and to judge from their first performance they should make a good showing. A few weeks since they met Clemson in a dual battle, and trimmed the Carolinians for the first time in the history of track athletics at Tech.

Hugh Mauck, the giant center on the basketball team, will take a try at the weights events. Mauck has shown very well with the hammer and the discus and should prove a point winner for the Jackets. Churchill is also entered in the weights events. Logan and Hayes are expected to take care of the dashes, while Robinson is entered in the high jump and high hurdles. Street in the broad jump, Sparks in the quarter-mile run and low hurdles, and Jordan in the board jump and high hurdles.

Yankee Golfers Are Below Form

Travers Leads Our Entry With Score of 77—Ouimet Turns in An 80

SANDWICH, England, May 15.—Form displayed by the American entrants in the first round of competition for the St. George cup here Wednesday was hardly up to what had been expected. Many of the players, who will take part in the British amateur golf championship next week, were among the competitors in Wednesday's contest and will appear again today for the final eighteen holes.

Jerome D. Travers returned a score of 77 which tied him with two others for eighth place. He is now regarded by observers here as the only one among the Americans who stands a chance of winning the coveted trophy. In practice the other day he covered the same course in 69 and it is said if he repeats that performance tomorrow he may still come out on top.

D. Ransome, the English player, who heads the list with 72, was favored with extraordinary luck. He is not recorded in the first flight of golfers and it will be a great surprise if he does as well tomorrow.

Francis Ouimet, the open champion of the United States, in whose play great interest centered, turned in a card of 89.

Harold H. Hilton, the British amateur champion, gave a brilliant display of golf in the first half, reaching the turn in 33, but he took ten more than that coming in, making a total of 76 for the round.

H. D. Gillies, of London, the holder of the trophy, covered the course in 77 tying Travers.

Smith's Men Took Second Game From Billikens; Play Again Today

DIANA DILLPICKLES IN "HER NARROW ESCAPE" A 4-REEL "SCREECHER" FILM

Return of Men Ought to Help Turtles Climb

Red McDermott Goes to Join Club Following Absence of Three Weeks From Line-Up, Due to Illness—Pitcher Sage Is Also Added

MEMPHIS, May 15.—With the return to playing form of some of his cripples Manager Mike Finn should be able to offer a stiffer argument to the Turtles' opponents from now on, than he has to date. Red McDermott left a few days ago with Pitcher Sage to join the club.

Mobile McDermott stated before leaving that he was in shape to get into a game, and any time that he is, Finn can find a place for him on the Memphis club. Just where McDermott will play is problematical, but it is more than likely that he will be placed either at third base or shortstop.

McDermott is a thoroughly reliable infielder and should have a steadying influence on the inner works.

He has recently shown a disposition to get into the game and Finn is anxious to have him in the game, as McDermott is a valuable man when in condition.

McDermott has come to the conclusion that if he wants to play ball this season he will have to play with the Memphis club.

He reported to the Memphis club a satisfied player and showed more ginger than any player on the Memphis club until Jack Hendricks, the manager of the Indianapolis club, appeared in Memphis while the Chicago National league club was playing in Memphis.

Hendricks was after Herman Bronkie of the Cubs at the time and when Finn refused to consider a deal for Bronkie, Hendricks had a confidential talk with McDermott and since that time McDermott has been dissatisfied, but the Memphis management would not dispose of McDermott no matter what the financial considerations were.

McDERMOTT WILL NOT BE TRADED.

When McDermott realized that he could not be disposed of under any consideration he decided that the best thing he could do was to get into the game.

Hendricks, while manager of the Chicago club in the Western league, had a reputation of tampering with players and getting them dissatisfied.

A player cannot be blamed for getting the lucre he can, but after he has made a contract he should give a club his best services, and in 99 cases out of a hundred a player will play to win whatever inducements and associations may attract or repel.

Evident Coleman has done everything in McDermott's case that could be asked of him, and McDermott's desire to get into the game was the result of a talk with Coleman.

McDermott is too good a ball player to be on the bench, and a short time in the game will be of benefit to the Memphis club.

Pitcher Dunckel's injured arm is regaining its former strength and Dunckel is confident he will be in the game with the Memphis club shortly after his return.

The swelling and soreness caused by blood poison have been eradicated and Dunckel has been taking light practice. He is playing a great game at present and prior to the accident and one of the Memphis club was taking a keen interest in his work.

Pitcher Sage, who has been on the sick list with inflammatory rheumatism is getting better and may be able to get in a game within the next week or ten days.

Sage has been practicing at Red Elm Park and this arm is in good trim. Harrell started out with stuff to warrant the prediction that he would be due for a good season.

Nothing against the major league pitching he twirled excellent ball and was never hit hard.

With this addition Memphis club has presented lineup in most of the games they have played the opposing team a standstill, and with McDermott, Dunckel and Harrell get in the game the added strength may result in a few victories for Finn's club.

Directors Revamp League Schedule

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 15.—The directors of the Georgia-Alabama baseball league met here Wednesday night in special session to amend flaws in the schedule. A new schedule was adopted here Monday, that materially reduces the mileage of every club in the league and shortens the season about a week. In Gadsden's mileage a saving of 1,800 miles is made. Four extra July games are given to cities other than those in the original schedule.

BROWNIE HOLMES ONLY STAR BASEBALL PLAYER WHO DOESN'T PARTICIPATE IN ANY GAMES---HE WRITES IT

BY BOOK E. FULLERTON.

With mingled emotions we observe that the powers that (Mex) of organized baseball have ceased their objections to ball players writing for the papers by proxy.

At present Christy Mathewson, Frank Chance, John McGraw and several others are permitting a syndicate to write stories under their names. In contradiction to the custom of former years the fellows who are writing the stuff really ask the managers and players what they ought to say. Some of the information is real, and therefore worth while.

The national commission and the older leagues having dropped the matter, it is up to the baseball scribes to get busy and take their jobs away from the ball players.

There is only one writer of the present generation who can step out and make good as a player, so the athletes need not worry. That writer is "Brownie" Holmes, of the Cincinnati Post. Manager Herzog says that if "Brownie" was not a shortstop he would have him on the regular team.

"Brownie" is a slender, speedy fellow, who plays the game even better than he writes it, which is considerable boost. Down south in the spring I was watching the Reds in the sliding pit, and down came a fellow at top speed; he hit the dirt, slid a twister, hooked his toe on the bag, and just as I was getting ready to make a note that he was a promising recruit, he trotted over. It was "Brownie." He went with the Red recruits, played second, short, third and caught for them, and acted as assistant manager. Then he took off the clothes, climbed into the typewriter and wrote the story of the games, from the inside.

A great many readers imagine that the reporters who have won fame have merely an academic knowledge of baseball. As a matter of fact a great many have been ball players, either as professionals or at college.

Down through the minors you will find it the same way. Nearly every man who writes the game has played it and (ball players to the contrary in some cases) understands it.

Of the present day scribes only one—Holmes—could get out and make good as a player. But at that the players haven't much on us. Only three of them—Eddie Collins, Doc White and Steve Evans—could make good as reporters.

"Brownie" Holmes doing a neat and nifty slide to the bag.

TRIMMING THE BILLS

By Innis Brown

A battle of speed, strength and ambition on the one side, and craft, sagacity and strategy on the other was waged at Ponce de Leon Thursday between the Lions of Billy Smith and the cohorts of Bobby Gilks, and a swift kick in the shins was handed the time-honored adage that "youth must be served." Smith's clan won the verdict by a comfortable margin, the final count standing 7 to 3 in its favor.

To continue further the details of the triumph of experience over youth, it may be mentioned that a young Mr. East, formerly a pastimer in the Appalachian league, opposed Jack Doescher, who labored for the Jersey Skeeters in the International circuit, before taking up his abode in this city. This does not mean to imply that Jack is a has-been—too complete an argument in rebuttal is afforded by the score mentioned above. Yet it remains a fact that Smiling Jack has meandered down through the days and months when he could be referred to as a recruit, rookie, or by other opprobrious ordinarily applied to the ambitious youngster on the upward climb.

By sizing up the returns in the box score it may be observed that a very slight margin separates the records of the two in cold figures. As a matter of fact, Baker, Hollander, Gribbens et al. applied the slapstick successfully to Doescher's offerings on as many occasions as Cracker bats turned back young East's flinging to spots where Billiken infielders were not. It was only in the matter of free passes and a single batter hit by a pitched ball that Doescher had a poll in his favor. Jack issued free transportation to three Bills, whilst East saw him, and raised by an equal count to the Crackers. Also he fired one somewhere near the middle of Dutch Munch's shoulders, which allowed Julius to get on without giving the rest of the Billikens a chance to snuff him out.

But the whys and wherefores of winning ball games lies not so much in hitting 'em in quantities as it does in hitting 'em in bunches. Now, when it came to piling them up more than one deep, Doescher spread it over his young friend, even as a pleading look beamears the visage of a hungry dog in a meathouse. At no times did the Bills perforate the pitching of Doescher, and this octette of bingles ranged through no less than six rounds. In only one—the seventh—did they connect them up at all. In that frame a single by East, a force out by Daley at second, and another safe tap by Baker, followed by a stinging triple from Hollander's bat counted two runs. The other was scored on an accident. We say accident, because McConnell's error was responsible for it, and when Amby errs on one, it is an accident.

The Crackers never did any vast damage from actual hitting except in two frames, in one of which quality accounted largely for a slight lack of quantity. But East's liberality, or rather inability to locate the plate cost him dearly. In the first frame he spotted Doescher two runs. McConnell was issued free passage to first. Jennings sacrificed, and Tom Long shot a grounder past Knaupp that rolled clear to the scoreboard in centerfield. According to his custom, Tom lost no time in getting as far along as possible, which, in this case, happened to be home.

Then again in the seventh East failed to keep a trio of safe drives from coagulating. Jennings was first up, and he slammed a double up against the signboard in right field. Long hit a foul far down the right field foul line, which Baker caught, and Jennings hiked to third. Gribbins grabbed Welchonce's grounder without assistance, and choked the Captain off, but Flanagan fired a safe rap to center and Jennings counted. Hack Eibel hit a sizzling grounder at Knaupp, which struck his foot and bounded into center field. Jennings tallied and Hack raced to second.

While the game was hardly the brilliant affair from a fielding standpoint that Wednesday's contest was, it was a good game to watch, and a decided improvement over some of the Birmingham and Chattanooga battles. Manager Smith worked Dutch Munch behind the plate, it being the first time Dutch has started a game for the Crackers. He put up a very clever game all around. Not a base was stolen on him and he did some very clever work in other ways. He pulled a nice bit of work in the fourth when he ran well into the diamond for Baker's fly roller, and pegged him out to Eibel. A bit later in the same inning, after Hollander had singled, he took Elwert's foul almost against the stands back of the plate, holding the visiting shortstop on the bag after the catch. At bat he failed to get a hit, but he got on each time he came up. Twice he was passed, once he took one of East's shoots between the shoulders, and the fourth time he landed safe when Knaupp juggled his grounder.

Manager Gilks made a slight shift of his infield late in the fray. He exchanged places with Knaupp and Hollander both of these boys can play a good game at short, but neither has ever worked at second. Knaupp, who has been in this league for several seasons, has always worked on the far side of the bag, either at second or third, while Hollander has gained his diamond experience with the Georgetown university team and always played shortstop. According to Gilke, Baker who worked at second early in the season showed a weakness at putting the ball on a runner, and for that reason he was shifted to the outfield.

The two teams meet again this afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Manager Smith will probably work Efird or Browning, while the Bills will make a selection from Buscher or Black.

REALIZING SALES CHECKED THE ADVANCE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 2 to 6 Points Lower than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 15.—May cotton sold at the 13-cent level at the opening of the market here today on a renewal of yesterday's buying by local and foreign shorts. The general list opened steady at an advance of 7 points to a decline of 2 points with near months fully along to the strength of May, while later deliveries showed a tendency to sag, owing to favorable weather news and realizing during the week-end. May eased off 2 or 3 points from the best, while July and later deliveries eased off 3 to 5 points net lower during the early trading.

Trading was quiet after the close of Liverpool and there showed a tendency to sag off under realizing and scattered May liquidation. The market shortly after midday was 1 to 7 points net lower.

The week-end figures failed to stimulate the market and prices relied about 1 to 5 points net lower during the early afternoon.

To Freshen Laces.

To freshen fine old laces, dissolve a little gelatin in boiling water and while it is hot, dip the lace into it, then spread it between two pieces of blotting paper and place under a pile of books, leaving it there 10 or 12 hours or more. The gelatin not only makes it smooth, but gives it a slight stiffness most desirable. If material is stiffened by starch, no matter how much there would be a deposit left on the tiny spaces between the threads, but the gelatin leaves no trace. Dry it, pulls out shape

The Real Estate Field

Two West End Residences Figure in Exchange Involving Aggregate of $20,500 – Marietta Street and Peachtree Road Parcels Figure in Another Exchange – Woodland Hills Sale – Investment Demand Good – East Lake Notes.

Two exchanges of property were featured in real estate announcements of Friday.

One exchange affected two West End residence properties. A. C. McHan sold to George W. Seay his residence at 149 Gordon street, at the northwest corner of Oak. The price was $13,500.

The lot has a frontage of 106 feet on Lee and 200 feet on Oak street with a two-story frame residence on it. This is one of the best built houses in Atlanta, and the property is one of the show places of West End.

Mr. Seay gave as part payment, valued at $7,000, his residence at 238 Peeples street, a two-story frame house on a lot 50x140. The transaction was handled by George F. Moore and G. R. Moore.

ANOTHER EXCHANGE.

Stiles Hopkins and Deupree Hunnicutt sold to Miss A. K. Kelso three parcels on Marietta street, near Thurmond, of aggregate value of $13,252.50.

These parcels have an aggregate frontage of 56 feet and a depth of about 110 feet. They begin 129 feet from Thurmond street.

They took as part payment a large lot, 174x1,000 on Peachtree road north of Peachtree Heights, whose value was not disclosed in the transfer.

WOODLAND HILLS SALE.

W. E. Worley has sold four Woodland Hills to R. P. Manly, of New York, Lots 16, 11, 12 and 13, of block A in the Woodland Hills subdivision.

Each lot has a frontage of 100 feet, and the price was $12.50 a front foot, or an aggregate of $5,000. The lots front on Woodland road, an 80-foot graded street.

INVESTMENT DEMAND.

The investment demand continues good, with particular reference to improved property with some sort of speculative future.

Agents say they can't get hold of enough small properties well located and bringing a good rental to satisfy the demand.

ATHLETIC CLUB HOUSE.

Working plans for the new club house at East Lake will probably be ready in ten days or two weeks, when bids will be asked. The new building will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000 and will be one of the most attractive and best equipped club houses in the south.

Work should be started in June. It will require until early in the fall to complete the building, but the members hope to get into it for a Thanksgiving celebration.

Meanwhile players continue to use the golf course and tennis courts, and a great deal of improvement in the way of drives is being made in the East Lake section.

Up to the time that the East Lake road was laid out, the territory had no passable approach from Atlanta. Now two or three new drives are being worked out, making the distance to East Lake and that territory even shorter than the present route.

BAPTISTS SPEND DAY IN EDUCATIONAL DICUSSIONS

Another Year for Deliberation Asked by Committee to Plan for Education Board

(By Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 15.—Another year's time for deliberation today was asked by the committee appointed by the Southern Baptist convention to outline a plan for an education board. The committee submitted a brief report to the convention in which the need of such a department was recognized. It was stated, however, that the members of the committee had not much time in which to work out a feasible plan.

Dr. J. L. Barton, of Waco, Texas, discussed the educational problem at length. He declared that the permanency of evangelical success must depend finally on the Christian education work of the church, and that this branch of activity must be increased and magnified.

In addition to discussing the education board problem, several talks were made in regard to the Southern Baptist theological seminary. Among the speakers were Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the seminary, and Dr. C. S. Gardner, a member of the board of the institution. Both called attention to the fact that the seminary is in debt and declared that the church must awake and allay the situation."

In response to an appeal for contributions to meet a debt of $6,000 on the students' fund, members of the convention pledged more than that amount.

HOUSTON TO GET MEET.

The committee of the Southern Baptist Sunday school convention at Memphis decided this morning to recommend Houston, Tex., for the meeting place next year.

GEORGIA MUST BORROW MONEY TO PAY BILLS

A temporary loan of perhaps $250,000 to tide the state over until the corporation taxes fall due in November, will be negotiated within the next few days by Governor Slaton.

The paying several warrants for the maintenance of state institutions Friday Governor Slaton found that even by anticipating monthly revenue of $35,000 from the Western and Atlantic railroad the state would fall far short of being able to meet its obligations unless it executed a loan.

There is in sight now but about $150,000 in the state for two months, while the monthly expenses of the commonwealth approximate that sum.

MANY RAILROAD OFFICIALS HERE FOR SHRINE SESSION

Convention Marked by Largest Gathering of Passenger Men South Ever Saw

Among other records Atlanta set the past week is that of having seen a larger gathering of railway officials than ever before congregated in a southern city on any occasion.

During the five days the Shriners were here there were close to 250 passenger men in the city, more than twice as many as any other city in this section of the country has ever seen congregated. They came from all parts of the country, Boston, Seattle, New York and Los Angeles, and scores of cities in between having their representatives here.

Many of these came with special trains from the cities where they are located, looking after residents of those cities on the trips to and from Atlanta. But a far greater number were ordered here by railroads handling the business into Atlanta for the purpose of taking care of the enormous movements in and out of the city.

Of these lines, the Southern railway led with fifty-three out-of-town men on the job. In this number were General Passenger Agent M. F. Carey and five assistant passenger agents from all sections of the south.

The Louisville and Nashville had twenty-two extra passenger officials here, including Assistant General Passenger Agent Milton Smith and J. K. Ridgeley.

Twenty extra men helped to handle the business for the Seaboard, among them C. B. Ryan, general passenger agent and the road's general eastern agent and general traveling passenger agent.

The Central of Georgia had almost a score of out-of-town men on the job; the A. & W. P. had almost as many more, while those in the city representing the W. & A., the Georgia and the A. B. & A. helped to swell the gathering to greater proportions than any Atlanta has ever seen.

In Alleged Confession Boy Tells of Killing His School Teacher

(By Associated Press.)

HEEKIMER, N. Y., May 15.—A written confession alleged to have been made by Jean Gianini, telling how he murdered his young school teacher, Lida Beecher, was introduced at Gianini's trial yesterday.

"I went to school to Lida Beecher and had trouble with her and wanted to get revenge," said the statement.

"I met her above the hotel and walked up the street with her up beyond the stone quarry. She had been a coming to see folks about school and was coming up to see them last night, and I told her they lived up the hill. When we got up there I hit her with a monkey wrench that I got out of my father's barn.

"After I had hit her about three times with the wrench I hit her with a knife several times, then I took her over in the lot. I dragged her by the feet.

"I was not afraid when I got home. I was just happy, as I thought I had revenge."

Fancied grievances, the growth of a disordered mind, according to the contention of counsel for the defense in opening its case today was the motive that led Jianini to kill Lida Beecher, his school teacher, Attorney Hane, in opening for the defense, declared that the evidence introduced would show hereditary insanity.

PASSENGER HITS FREIGHT; ENGINEER T. J. WINN DEAD

LUDOWICI, Ga., May 15.—Engineer T. J. Winn is dead and Fireman Claude H. Nettles is dying as the result of a rear-end collision between a southbound Southern passenger and freight train on the Atlantic Coast Line tracks here yesterday afternoon. Both are from Savannah, and the passenger train crashed into the caboose of the freight, the engine overturning and pinning Engineer Winn beneath it. He was badly scalded by escaping steam from a burst pipe and could not be extricated from his position for more than an hour.

Engineer Winn and Fireman Nettles, who was badly scalded, were rushed to a Savannah hospital, where the former died last night at 10 o'clock.

Engineer Winn, who had been on a passenger run on the Southern for thirty-two years, is survived by his widow and one son, who were in Jacksonville at the time. They left immediately for Savannah.

The wreck is said to have been due to mistaken orders.

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD EDITION CREATES STIR

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Democratic economists of the house, including Representative Barnhart, of Indiana, chairman of the house printing committee, were stirred today over the appearance of a special edition of the congressional record containing information Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, desired published on the question of railroad rates.

The special edition contained 264 pages and was devoted to communications on the railroad freight rate question inserted as "remarks" by the Wisconsin senator.

Mr. Barnhart told the house that the publication meant a total cost to the tax payers of the country of $12,700. "If each of the 331 senators and members of congress were to pay 1dr2d cnfw shr rcycc," said Mr. Barnhart, "it would cost the country $7,307,01, and to this safely could be added several more thousand dollars as the cost of the wrapping and franking necessary to get this publication to the reading public—in all a colossal expense."

THEATERS

(Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managers.)

One of the best audiences of its season greeted the LaVerne Stock company at the Lyric Thursday night and laughed in riotous glee at the troubles of the folk in "Are You a Mason?" The farce comedy is brimming over with fun, and there isn't a shadow of gloom from curtain to curtain.

The company seems to be coming into its own as the Atlanta folk who have seen it tell their friends. Miss LaVerne has surrounded herself with a company of more than usually capable players and is making an earnest effort to give Atlanta the best plays possible. Next week, for instance, she will present "The Escape," a Paul Armstrong play released to a stock company for the first time, and under an extremely heavy royalty.

"The Three Musketeers," based upon the thrilling romantic novel by Alexander Dumas, is featured in a six-reel photo-drama at the Grand for the last three days of this week.

Thursday night the stirring drama of love, intrigue and fighting was greeted with tremendous success, the crowds applauding the "movie" actors frequently.

The epicturesque costumes of th French court in the days before the fall of the imperial monarchy, the dashing bravery and restless love-making of D'Artignan, the royal scandals of the French nobility, all are shown in the brilliant film.

Action and thrills from the duel in the beginning of the romances to the close of the drama are shown in this feature.

The theatrical and moving picture press has hailed the motion picture production, "Sealed Orders," which opens at the Grand theater on Monday afternoon as a revelation in what can be accomplished on the screen through skilful direction, good acting and mechanical perfection. This is the first time that theatrical press has shown enthusiasm over a motion picture—circumstance probably due to the fact that "Sealed Orders" is the first big production prepared especially for cinematograph presentation.

NILE NOBLES RECEIVE BOWL OF CHAMPAGNE

N. P. R. R. Official Presents Nobles With Beverage in Honor of Victory

The members of Nile temple, Seattle, Wash., were given a most pleasant surprise Thursday night in their Piedmont hotel headquarters when Steward Edward R. J. Fischel, acting for the Northern Pacific railroad, presented them with a massive bowl overflowing with champagne punch.

When the Northern Pacific officials learned that Seattle had been victorious over San Francisco for the 1915 convention of the Shrine, H. J. Titus, superintendent of the dining car service, wired Mr. Fischel to make the punch for the Nile people with the compliments and congratulations of the company. Present at the event were two officials of the road, H. N. Kennedy, general agent, and F. A. Donrey, traveling auditor, who came from Seattle with the northwestern caravan.

Surrounding the bowl which stood on a table in the center of Nile headquarters was a ring of massive Irish potatoes, weighing from two and a half to three pounds and furnished the hotel by the Northern Pacific. This made a striking contrast and was a reminder of home to the Seattle nobles.

Columbus Boy Gives Skin to Save Life of Man Hurt in Wreck

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

RICHMOND, Va., May 15.—Responding to an appeal for skin for John F. Trice locomotive engineer who was terribly scalded in an accident some weeks ago, W. P. McElroy, of Columbus, Ga., first year student at the Union Theological seminary, gave up sections of his skin and is today recovering from the operation, which was performed at Memorial hospital where Trice is a patient.

Together with G. E. Perry, student at Richmond college, McElroy went to the hospital the day the seminary closed, it develops. Several layers of cuticle about twelve inches in length and eight in width were removed from the upper sections of the legs of the two students and were then engrafted on Trice's legs.

Four other seminary students recently underwent similar operations.

Altogether more than a dozen persons have given skin and the doctors now believe that Trice will soon be on the road to recovery.
