RAILROAD MONOPOLY UNDER REGULATIONS FAVORED BY MELLEN

Former New Haven Head Says It Would Benefit Public If Controlled by the Government

DREAM OF CONSOLIDATION INSPIRED BY MORGAN

Heaven Probably Would Have Been Its Boundary Line, He Says, If Financier Had Not Died

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven railroad, told the interstate commerce commission today he favored railroad monopoly, controlled and regulated by the government, and that such a monopoly would be beneficial to the public.

Questioned by Mr. Folk as to his present business relations, Mr. Mellen said:

"I have not a dollar's interest today in the New Haven. I disposed of all my stock. I retain a little interest in the Boston and Maine and in the Ontario and Western."

"Why did you personally favor the consolidation of the trolleys with the New Haven?"

"Because consolidation would result in better service, lower rates and greater satisfaction to the public. I believe the public is better served by a monopoly of transportation than in any other way. I think, however, that the monopoly should be controlled and regulated by the government."

"What do you think railroads generally are doing about the matter?"

"I know of nothing a railroad can do now except take off its hat to some government official."

"If Mr. Morgan had not died, how far would you have gone in this dream of consolidation?"

"To heaven, I suppose."

"Didn't Morgan have more power than any state government under which you operated?"

"He never tried to exercise any such power."

"He was in control of the New England situation?"

"I can best answer that by quoting the old saying, 'where McGregor sits there is the head of the table.'"

"What would the meetings of the directors of the New Haven have been like without Mr. Morgan?"

"About as tame as a lot of cows without a bull."

Mr. Mellen said he was opposed to the New Haven holding and operating steamship lines.

"I always was against the plan. I was afraid of disasters on those tinder boxes."

Mr. Mellen, after testifying regarding an offer of $20,000,000 made by Charles W. Morse for the purchase of steamships owned by the New Haven, said he came to Washington and consulted President Roosevelt in regard to the matter.

"Mr. Morse," he said, "had acquired practical control of nearly all the steamlines of the Atlantic coast. He wanted our holdings and I thought it a matter of that kind ought to be laid before the president of the United States. I saw him and he was anxious, apparently, that Morse should be checked in his acquisition of control of steamer lines. Morse urged me to sell.

"I told Mr. Roosevelt that as it was expected the bill being prepared by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, would contain a clause preventing railroads from owning steamships, it would be to our advantage to accept the Morse offer. I told him I felt it was doubtful that we ought to turn down the proposition when by it we could turn our property into cash.

"William J. Burns, the detective, will return to Atlanta Saturday to face his accusers, according to the statement of officials of the agency now in Atlanta.

It is stated by these officials that Mr. Burns is prepared to face any investigation the grand jury may make, and any cases that the police board orders made in recorder's court. He will also be prepared to answer in person the charge of contempt on which he is cited to appear in the criminal court tomorrow, Judge Hill.

"When was the bill put in by Attorney General Bonaparte?" "I think in 1907."

Why was the provision preventing the railroads from owning steamers left out?" "I imagine it was because Mr. Roosevelt kept faith with us."

Mellen declared the Rhode Island transaction he was assisted by various members of the board of directors.

"Was there influence exerted to induce you to acquire these trolley lines?" asked Mr. Folk.

"I never have known," responded Mr. Mellen, "a large transportation line that was not backed by influence. The fact is that in the acquisition of these electric lines, I was working on a great principle. Sooner or later, I felt, transportation was to be electricity. I still contended my decision was right."

BOSSES WERE NUMEROUS.

"Do you think control of that kind fair to the public?" "The control must be such as was contemplated in New Haven or it must be in the hands of the government," answered Mr. Mellen with emphasis.

"Was regard control by one man as a good thing?" "That is a misnomer. No one man could control it. I had more bosses when I was president of the New Haven at a salary of $50,000 than when I was a clerk at $50 a month."

"The main force was Mr. Morgan, was it not?" "The great force in the world is brains, and Mr. Morgan had them," replied Mr. Mellen.

"Then the control would have gone to one man?" If his brains control the situation he had a right to that control."

"Have you, in the light of late events, changed your views?"

"Mr. Morgan's death changed the situation. I would not have the control that

CARNIVAL WEEK AS ANNUAL CELEBRATION PROPOSED FOR CITY

Julian Boehm Makes Suggestion at Ad Men's Dinner, Wants Forrest Adair to Be in Charge

LATTER IS PRESENT AS GUEST OF HONOR

Man Who Made Shriners' Week a Success Modestly Gives Praise to Everybody Except Himself

Forrest Adair, as the guest of honor at the weekly dinner of the Atlanta Ad Men's club in the Ansley hotel Thursday afternoon, praised enthusiastically every person and every factor that helped to make Shriners' week the success that it was.

His talk was on "How we did it," and, as one of the ad men put it, "Forrest Adair gave as much credit to other people that to listen to him, you would think he had hardly anything to do with the Shriners' coming to Atlanta, instead of being the one person who made the great convention an accomplished fact."

Before Mr. Adair spoke, Julian Boehm, one of the ad men sprung the suggestion that Atlanta profit by the lesson of fun frolic of Shriners' week, and make an annual carnival week a permanent event in this city.

"People must have play; once a year a city ought to take a vacation and frolic, just as any individual does," said Mr. Boehm.

He said this week ought to be called "Atlanta's Carnival Week," and should be made as great as the New Orleans Mardi Gras, but should not be patterned after it. "This week must be something characteristic of Atlanta, something that expresses this city's individuality," said Mr. Boehm.

WANTS ADAIR IN CHARGE.

"And there is only one man in the city of Atlanta who could take charge of this as an annual proposition, and make this week what it should be. That man is Forrest Adair."

Mr. Boehm stated he had broached this subject to members of the Ad Men's club and to many merchants, all of whom, he said, agreed that it would be a good thing.

Forrest Adair in his talk, sketched the manner in which Shriners' week was brought about from the time of the original subscription of $60,000 by the people of this city a year ago down to the day the last Shriner left. And Mr. Adair had nothing but praise for other people.

"The success of the whole thing was stupendous," he said, "and can be attributed to nothing but the wonderful co-operation of all Atlantians, and also to the fact that every move in the plans and arrangements seemed to come at exactly the psychological moment."

Especially Mr. Adair praised the local baggage company for its work during the week. He said they handled over 30,000 pieces of baggage coming in and going out of the city, and that, contrary to the reputation of baggage companies in other cities that have had Shrine conventions, they did not rates their autos but lowered them. The service was so efficient as to cause expressions of wonder from visiting Shriners, said Mr. Adair.

REFUSED TO RAISE RATES.

"P. S. Rowe, imperial recorder of the imperial council, arriving in the city late, wanted to rush to his hotel with the trunks and packets of important papers. He offered extra money to the baggage men to outstrip these other things for him. One of the officers of the company happened to be standing near, and said to Rowe: 'Not a cent extra.' He doesn't that the company would not take extra money for doing its duty—that was the time to work extra, and in a jiffy to the hotel. Such acts as these brought out the praise for the company," said Mr. Adair.

Rabbi David Marx, like Mr. Adair, a thirty-third degree Mason, introduced the speaker of the day.

Mr. F. G. Calloway, of the Atlanta Baseball association, told of the news that the proceeds of next Wednesday's game would go to the "On to Toronto" fund, which is being raised to take a delegation to the Ad Men's convention in the Canadian city.

Dr. Elmo Mascongale, chairman of the "On to Toronto" committee, responded with thanks.

He said that at the Ansley was specially decorated in Shriners' colors—orange, red and green—in honor of Mr. Adair, and the tables were arranged in the form of a large A.

Right in front of Mr. Adair's seat was a table covered with desert sand, on which rested a small stuffed camel, with streamers leading to Mr. Adair's place, so that he could drive the camel to an oasis whenever occasion demanded.

Sleuth's Agents Announce That Chief Will Be Here Saturday

"Herbert Knox Smith and Commissioners Prouty and Knapp were present, having been called in by Mr. Roosevelt. Suffragists in Attempt to Present Petition to King in Buckingham Palace Meet With Strenuous Resistance

MANY WOMEN TAKEN AWAY ON STRETCHERS

Mrs. Pankhurst, With Bodyguard of Several Hundred, Join in Attack on Guards About Palace Grounds

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 21.—Suffragettes, armed with sticks, attempted to cut their way through lines of patrolmen guarding Buckingham palace early today, and fought with such vigor that the police were compelled to charge. Several women were injured during the struggle and a number of officers were battered, while the ground was littered with garments torn from the women in the hand-to-hand fighting.

The women desired to present a petition to King George. They came in a long column, but before they reached the grounds of the palace were stopped by mounted officers. Suddenly Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, surrounded by a body guard of several hundred suffragettes, appeared from the porch of a residence opposite the palace grounds, crossed the road to the gates and attempted to march down the drive. When the officers attempted to check their progress they fought vigorously and the police were compelled to charge into the crowd. The women finally were driven back, but left Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter, Miss Sylvia, and forty of her lieutenants in the clutches of the police.

The ambulance corps was kept busy in attending to a number of injured women and removing on stretchers several who had fainted.

King George was an interested spectator of the earlier movements for the protection, viewing it from a window of the palace.

LOSES HER WARDROBE, BUT WINS A HUSBAND

Miss Tempie Barnett's Sister Locks Up Bride's Clothes as Punishment

A year's courtship that began in Covington, Ga., came to a culmination in Forsyth, Ga., but not without its troubles.

Francis Hopp, night telegraph operator at the Terminal, was once employed in the Covington office. There he met Miss Tempie Barnett. She was young and accordingly parental objection walked hand in hand with the quiet courtship. Mr. Hopp was later transferred to Atlanta.

Last week Miss Barnett went to Forsyth to pay a visit to her sister. Here was the one chance Mr. Hopp caught the first train in that direction and they were married. It was then that the trouble began.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopp went to the sister's home to tell her all about it, but sister failed to see the romantic side and taking the part of her parents in Covington forthwith locked all of the brides' effects, delivering an ultimatum, as it were, that the clothes should remain locked up as a fitting punishment.

And now bride and groom are in Atlanta at the home of Mr. Hopp, the bride minus the better part of her wardrobe, but plus a husband.

Social Reforms Advocated by Federal Council of Churches Are Endorsed

(By Associated Press.)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 21.—Bishop H. C. Morrison presided at today's session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, here.

Immediately after the opening exercises a resolution was adopted indorsing the declaration of the federal council of the Church of Christ in America for equal rights and complete justice for all men, uniform divorce laws, proper regulation of marriage and other social reforms.

Another resolution was adopted instructing all boards to withhold any money in their hands for Vanderbilt university until the Vanderbilt commission, authorized under the report adopted yesterday, shall authorize such payments.

Among the recommendations presented by the committee on episcopacy was one providing the time limit on preachers be retained, except where three-fourths of the college of bishops shall decide to retain a man in a particular charge for more than four years, if advisable. Majority and minority reports were presented on this report.

The special order for the day, the election of conventional officers, was then taken up, the conference proceeding to take a ballot for publishing agents.

The vote showed D. M. Smith and Rev. A. J. Lamar elected as publishing agents and a ballot was ordered for book editor.

Pending the counting of the votes, the conference took up the call of the calendar. The committee on laymen's movement reported, suggesting a number of disciplinary changes in, order to enlarge the activities of laymen. It recommended an increase of about seventy laymen from each annual conference to the general conference, as well as an increase in the representation of laymen in the annual conferences. A committee on laymen activities also was recommended, to do evangelistic as well as missionary work.

The vote for book editor resulted in the election of Rev. Gross Alexander, of the Sumsville conference.

Rev. T. N. Ivey was named as the editor of the Christian Advocate and Rev. E. B. Chappell as Sunday school editor.

Cumberland Presbyterian Convention Is Opened

WAGONER, Okla., May 21.—The sermon of retiring Moderator Rev. J. H. Mitchelland, of Masterton, Ill., this morning, the election of a new moderator this afternoon and addresses of welcome and responses tonight, formed the program for the first day of the eighty-fourth general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, which convened here today.

More than 200 commissioners or delegates are registered, together with 150 women, representing the board of women's foreign missions. The delegates are from the states of Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Colorado, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

Because of the congestion caused by the arrival of so many visitors in this little town, scores of delegates were forced to spend the night in hotel lobbies and railroad stations. Today the situation was relieved when the tired strangers were assigned to private homes.

BECKER TRIAL EVIDENCE IS READY TO GO TO JURY

Prosecution Only Called One Witness—Ex-official May Know Fate Tomorrow

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—Both prosecution and defense in the case of Charles Becker, on trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, rested before noon today. The case probably will be in the hands of the jury before noon tomorrow, and Becker's fate may be decided by night.

After both sides rested, court was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when it was announced Martin F. Manton, Becker's chief counsel, would begin his address to the jury.

District Attorney Whitman will make his closing address tonight, and tomorrow morning, Justice Eabury will deliver his charge. The jury will then retire to determine whether Becker conceived the plot that resulted in the murder of the tenderloin gambler and for which four men have paid the death penalty.

Counsel for Becker said they believed their witnesses had so far proved an alibi for Becker on the night Rosenthal was killed, but it was not necessary for him to personally deny that he attended the so-called murder conference.

Among the twenty witnesses heard yesterday were Jack Rose and Lefty Louie, the latter of the "strong arm" squad who testified that he was with them on raids when the alleged conferences were held.

KING LEOPOLD'S WIDOW WINS FIGHT FOR CHILD

Woman's Divorced Husband Forced to Abide by Terms of Separation

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 21.—At the instance of Baroness Vaughan, who was the romantic wife of the late King Leopold of Belgium, the public prosecutor today dispatched a large force of police to the residence of Emmanuel Durieux, her divorced husband, who she charged with assault and abduction. Durieux had refused to give up their child, who according to the terms of the divorce, was allowed to spend one day with him each week. The baroness was ejected from the house and promptly preferred charges.

The police surrounded Durieux's residence, but he offered no resistance, and the child was restored to the baroness.

DALLAS WANTS THE CITY CHARTER TO BE AMENDED

Will Present Resolution Asking That Many City Appointments Be Elected by People

A resolution asking the legislature for an amendment to Atlanta's city charter whereby the three tax assessors, the chief of police, the chief of the fire department, the chief of the sanitary department, the superintendent of public schools and the general manager of the park department shall be elected by the people, has been prepared by Councilman S. L. Dallas, of the Seventh ward, and will be introduced by him in the general council.

The general council some weeks ago created a special committee to consider all charter amendments which might be introduced. This committee will meet Thursday afternoon. Councilman Dallas may take his resolution direct to this committee instead of waiting for the next council meeting to go through the formality of having it referred. But as council is scheduled to meet in special session next Monday for the purpose of acting on charter amendments which have been introduced, action will not long be delayed on the Dallas resolution.

The three tax assessors are now elected by council, the chief of police by the board of police commissioners, the chief of the fire department by council, the chief of the sanitary department by the board of health, the superintendent of schools by the board of education and the general manager of parks by the board of park commissioners.

A few years ago a number of ministerial offices of the city government, such as the city clerk, city electrician, city building inspector, city marshal, chief of construction, general manager of waterworks, etc., were put before the people for election by a special charter amendment. Previously all these were elected by council except the waterworks manager who was elected by the water board.

If it be proper for the people to elect these officials, contends Councilman Dallas, then why not let the people elect all the officials named in his resolution?

WOMAN MUST ANSWER CHARGES OF CONTEMPT

Mrs. L. J. Putnam Refused to Reply to Questions on Advice of Attorney

For refusing to answer questions under the advice of her attorney, T. B. Felder, Mrs. L. J. Putnam, of Bainbridge, Ga., has been cited to appear in the superior court on May 30 before Judge Hill to show cause and answer a charge of contempt of court.

The Cole Motor Car company is the plaintiff in the suit. Some time ago it brought suit against Mrs. Putnam and her husband, L. J. Putnam, on account of a business transaction.

A commissioner was appointed to take testimony in the case, and Mrs. Putnam is alleged to have refused to answer a number of questions, replying that she refused on advice of her counsel, Mr. Felder.

Accordingly Attorneys J. L. & C. N. Anderson, representing the motor car company, brought a rule for contempt on Thursday, and Judge Pendleton issued an order requiring the defendant to answer the charge on May 30.

SALTILLO REPORTED ABANDONED TO FATE BY FEDERAL TROOPS

Huerta's Garrison Said to Have Fled From City on Approach of Rebel Forces Under General Villa

REBELS ARE AIDED BY SQUADRON OF CAVALRY

Mounted Troops Are Working Destruction on Lines of Communication — Federals Routed From Tepic

(By Associated Press.)

JUAREZ, May 21.—A telegram was received today from General Filipe Angeles by H. Perez Abreu, head of the constitutionalist information bureau here, stating that Saltillo was evacuated last night by the federals.

The garrison of Saltillo is said to number 12,000 men under General Jesquin Maas. The town was believed to contain large stores of ammunition and supplies, and if the report of the evacuation is true, it is probable a large quantity of munitions of war will fall into the constitutionalists' hands.

The only road of retreat open to the federals is said to be south to San Luis Potosi. The 250 miles separating the two towns is an arid desert, and it is believed here but a small part of the federal garrison will be able to win their way through.

A strong rebel force under command of General Carrera Torres is besieging San Luis Potosi and between the towns a large force under General Luis Gutierres, called the "Tiger of Concepcion del Oro," is waiting to cut off the federal retreat.

Villa Is Fighting Way To Central in Mexico

(By Associated Press.)

NIAGARA FALLS, Ontario, May 21.—There is a feeling on the part of the principals in the mediation conference here that the savage advance of the constitutionalist army under General Villa inevitably must have a bearing on the settlement of the difficulties between the United States and Huerta's party.

When the South American mediators withdrew the invitation which had been extended to General Carranza to send delegates to the Niagara Falls conference because of the refusal of the constitutionalist leader to agree to an armistice, it was stated the conference would proceed to a consideration of questions growing out of the Tampico incident and subsequent causes of friction between the Mexican federal army and the American military forces.

Official reports yesterday from constitutionalist sources, reciting the victories of Villa and his army in the Saltillo-Monterey district of northern Mexico, can representatives here that Huerta's fate cannot be stopped.

Moreover, the execution of a federal general and his entire staff by Villa has impressed upon them the fact that leaders of the federal army cannot hope for mercy if they fall into the hands of the constitutionalists.

FEDERALS WEAKENING.

That the weakening situation of the federal forces favor Huerta's hand is recognized here.

The Mexican delegates came here believing that the announcements of Huerta's attitude toward the proposal looking to a settlement of the Mexican trouble would be left to them to announce and their strongest card was believed to be authority given by Huerta to agree to his effective resignation upon the selection of a temporary government acceptable to the interests represented by him.

HUERTA CAN'T STOP HIM.

If Villa and his forces are kept out of Mexico City, according to belief here, it would not be because Huerta is strong enough to deny entrance to his enemies. Such an event can only be avoided, it is said, by speedy solution of the problem confronting the A. B. C. mediators. believe this to be possible except through the prompt

WABASH RAILROAD MAY UNDERGO REORGANIZATION

Plans Now in Hands of Federal Receiver to Be Laid Before Public Commission

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—Plans for the reorganization of the Wabash railroad, now in the hands of the federal receiver, were held before a joint meeting of the public service commissioners of Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan here today. The plans provide for a new stock issue of $86,000,000. These shares are to be exchanged for the present preferred stock at par and for the present common stock at 85. Owners of outstanding stock exchanged for the new are to be assessed at $10 each. This assessment is expected to yield $18,480,000 cash which with $11,900,000 expected to be obtained by the sale of $14,000,000 in refunding bonds at 85, is expected to supply the cash requirements of the road.

Among the cash requirements are receivers' certificates aggregating more than $14,000,000; protection of treasury securities pledged for 4-1-2 per cent. gold notes already matured; equipment obligations sinking fund on underlying bonds and $5,000,000 for new equipment and working capital.

It is proposed to organize a new company to take over the Wabash properties, either at foreclosure sale or otherwise. The new securities are to aggregate $145,000,000 including commonstock, adjustment bonds and refunding bonds. The present securities undisturbed are to exceed $64,000,000 making the total outstanding securities of the reorganized company $209,600,000—more than $100,000,000 less than the securities of the present company.

The reorganization committee plans an extension of double track, the reduction of grade, the elimination of grade crossings, an extension of the automatic block signal system and the purchase annually for five years of fifty freight locomotives, six passenger locomotives and two thousand freight cars.

DRAMA LEAGUE BACKS THE LaVERNE PLAYERS

Committee of Fifty to Canvass City—Dr. Memminger Heads Movement to Build Up a "Home Theater"

Believing Atlanta needs an all-the-year-round theatrical company which ultimately will carry out the idea of a "municipal theater," the Drama League of Atlanta Wednesday afternoon gave its indorsement to the Lucille LaVerne Stock company, now in its sixth week at the Lyric, and will at once inaugurate a campaign for the support of the company, both morally and financially.

Mrs. William Clair Spiker, president, and Dr. W. W. Memminger, first vice president of the Drama league, have called a meeting of the organization for next Monday afternoon, at the Carnegie library, when steps will be taken for an active canvass among the theatergoers. This will not be limited to members of the league, but all citizens who care for clean, worth-while plays, well performed, will be asked to promise to purchase at least $1 worth of tickets each week. No subscription or gifts are desired, and Miss LaVerne wishes only a guarantee of patronage in which will enable her to make plans in advance for securing and producing the new plays now attracting attention. A committee of fifty will make a canvass of the city.

FIRST COMPANY INDORSED.

This is the first indorsement ever given a stock company, or any theatrical organization by a branch of the Drama League of America. The league has frequently indorsed a play, but never a company, and it is was necessary to obtain the consent of the national organization's officers before taking this step.

Dr. Memminger, who is rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, was enthusiastic in his praise of the company and confident of its success.

"Many members of the league have seen Miss LaVerne's players and have talked with Miss LaVerne and her associates," he said. "They have proved themselves such capable players and evidently hold such high ideals that Atlanta cannot afford to lose them. Miss LaVerne seems determined to give Atlanta the very best possible in plays worth while, well presented.

NOT "HIGH BROW" PLAYS.

"Bear in mind that the Drama league has no intention of playing manager or dictating the plays to be offered. We have no idea of urging 'high brow' plays, or those appealing to a limited class. We only ask that no plays be given which receive the league's positive veto, and Miss LaVerne fully approves of this."

Following the action of the league a number of its members attended the performance of "The Escape" at the Lyric Wednesday night, and the boxes and orchestra chairs were filled with the most prominent people of the city. A number of theater parties have been arranged for this week and next, when Miss LaVerne will appear in the title role of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," a comedy in which she starred last season, including a run in New York. She will have the role originally created by May Robson.

"NEVER AGAIN" DECLARES ONE OF ROOSEVELT'S MEN

George K. Cherry Says Experience Was Dangerous, and Would Not Take Trip Again

NEW YORK, May 21.—The discovery by Colonel Roosevelt of the river Duvida was not accomplished without great danger to himself and members of his party, according to George K. Cherry and Leo E. Miller, members of the staff of the American Museum of Natural History, who accompanied him.

Cherry, who accompanied Colonel Roosevelt on his trip down the Duvida, told today how the party subsisted on what he called a "monkey diet" when they faced starvation.

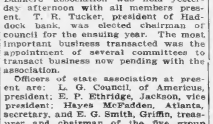

In the twenty-five years that he has been making exploration trips to South America, Cherry said his experience as a member of the Roosevelt party had been the most eventful and hazardous. "I never would make the same trip again," he said.

CHILDREN DEFY MEXICANS AND WAVE U. S. FLAG

Parents Leave Huerta's Capital Fearing Demonstration Against Them

(By Associated Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—Patriotism and reverence for the American flag of his two children, Mariana, nine years, and Horace, six years old, drove Dr. Horace G. Whittlesey out of Mexico.

Dr. Whittlesey, who has been in Mexico City for several years, arrived here today to visit relatives.

About ten days ago there were anti-American demonstrations and mobs all over the Mexican capital, he said, and several times the Whittlesey family was threatened with violence. In the middle of this the two children paraded through the street, waving American flags. The children were captured by their parents and the flags hidden. But the feeling against the family rapidly became more bitter, until Dr. Whittlesey decided to leave the country.

JUDGE NEEDS GUN TO BACK UP HIS DECISIONS

Jurist of Bell Center Makes Statement When Arraigned for Carrying Weapon

PRAIRIE DUCHENE, Wis., May 21.—A judge has the right to carry a revolver when sitting on the bench if he needs it to enforce respect for his decrees, Judge George Clementson has decided in circuit court here. He heard the charge brought by District Attorney Munneen against Judge Davis Dobson of the municipal court of Bell Center, Dobson was accused of carrying concealed weapons.

"There is a rough element at Bell Center, judge," explained Dobson, "and unless backed by a gun there is often a 'kick' at my decisions."

The case was dismissed.

Men Pay Homage to Mother's Friend

"I am not surprised to observe the number of men who come into the store to purchase 'Mother's Friend,'" remarked a leading druggist. "It is a happy thought to send hubby to the drug store. 'Mother's Friend' is applied externally over the abdominal muscles. It is a gentle, soothing lubricant, penetrates to the finest work of nerves beneath the skin and has a marked tendency to relieve the muscular strain to which these broad, flat abdominal muscles are subjected. The corda, tendons and ligamentous area thus permitted to stretch without the corresponding surface strain so often observed during the period of expectation. This in part accounts for the entire absence, in many cases reported, of nausea, morning sickness and other distresses, such as laceration of the epidermis so often the case when this gentle form of lubrication is neglected.

"Mother's Friend" has been highly recommended by a host of women who know from experience and by men who know from observation. Write Bradfield Regulator Co., 323 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and we will send you a valuable little book to expectant mothers.

DEMOCRATS AT COLUMBIA CHEER FOR MR. WILSON

Primary Reforms Subject of Spirited Debate by South Carolina Democrats

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 21.—Re-enrollment of Democratic voters throughout the state, closing of all club rolls 30 days before the first primary; filing of certified copies of all rolls with the clerk of court in each county, and the publishing of in essence of all copies of each county in newspapers, were the main features of the plan to reform and safeguard the primary elections which reported to the Democratic state convention in session here today from the committee on constitutions and rules.

The committee was in session all night working on the plan, the convention recessing at midnight last night until this morning in order to give the committee time to make up its report. The convention agreed to limit all speeches on primary reform to five minutes. The debate will consume about two hours before the convention takes a vote.

Laudation of President Wilson and the record of the national Democratic administration, indorsement of the Mexican policy and the anti-trust program of the administration were features of the platform adopted by the convention.

Resolutions calling on Senators Tillman and Smith to vote for canal tolls repeal were adopted amid cheers. Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to the senators and congressmen, from this state and to President Wilson.

Sessions of the general assembly and reform of the primary were indorsed.

"This convention gathers with this plain mandate of the people to reform the primary rules," Mr. Hoyt's brief address before the committee. The overwhelming Smith majority in the convention is proceeding with quiet determination.

ENGLAND'S KING GUARDED TO KEEP WOMEN AWAY

Militants' Plan to Present Petition to Ruler Will Be Blocked by Police

LONDON, May 21.—St. James park and the grounds of Buckingham palace were crowded with police early today, the mobilization of 1,000 men having been ordered after the report of opposing the projected attempt by militant suffragettes to present a petition to King George.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragettes, announced would lead a great procession to the royal residence, but it was said she probably would be arrested if she put in an appearance.

The police formed a ring around the palace and its grounds, and no women had threatened to scale the high walls enclosing the gardens. All the detectives from police headquarters in Scotland Yard were on duty, and a body of a thousand patrolmen was held in reserve in case of emergency.

GIRLS' SCHOOL PLANNED BY EPISCOPALIAN CHURCH

Council of Diosese of Atlanta to Meet Here Next Wednesday and Thursday

The council of the Protestant Episcopal church, diocese of Atlanta, will assemble in the Church of the Incarnation on Wednesday, May 27, at 10 o'clock, and will be in session throughout Wednesday and Thursday. The Right Rev. Cleland Kinloch Nelson, D. D., will preside at all the business meetings. The Rev. L. B. Richards is rector of the Church of the Incarnation.

Delegates, consisting of all the clergy, and one or more laymen from every Episcopal church in north and middle Georgia, will be in attendance. The first service will consist of a celebration of the holy communion and a sermon by Bishop Nelson. Fifteen minutes before the service the clergy will assemble in the parish house back of the church to vest and be prepared to move in procession at 5 minutes before 10.

Immediately after this service council will be called to order in business session with Bishop Nelson in the chair. The first business before the council, after roll call, will be the election of secretary. The chairman will then proceed to the appointment of the various committees. The work of the council is carried on largely by committee work.

One of the important matters to come before this meeting of the council is the consideration of plans for a girls' school. A valuable piece of property is already in the possession of the diocese of Atlanta, and also quite a handsome sum of money has been raised for the erection of the buildings. At the last meeting of the council, which was held in Athens, May, 1913, a general committee was appointed to devise plans to carry forward the movement and to take definite and active steps towards raising funds sufficient for the construction of the buildings necessary. Since that time each parish in the diocese has appointed a committee to co-operate with this general committee. The school has already been organized, and a charter has been secured.

In connection with the meeting of council the woman's auxiliary will hold its annual session. The woman's auxiliary is the Missionary society of the Episcopal church, and is composed of all the women who are members of that church. These meetings are held annually at the same time the church holds its council meeting. Through the woman's auxiliary thousands of dollars are raised every year for the purpose of both home and foreign missions. It is one of the most active and efficient missionary organizations in existence.

The Daughters of the King, which is another important organization of the Episcopal church, will hold their meetings in the Church of the Incarnation on Tuesday, May 26, the day before the meeting of the council. This society does the same class of work among women and girls as the Brotherhood of St. Andrew does among men and boys.

PAINTINGS FOR EXHIBIT CREATE MUCH INTEREST

Studies of Many Noted Artists Arrive for Display in Governor's Mansion

The paintings sent by the American Federation of Art for the exhibit which will be held at the executive mansion during the next several weeks have aroused the greatest interest in those who have already seen them. They include portraits, landscapes, seascapes and still life studies by some of the most noted of modern artists, and there are several pictures that have attracted much attention.

Atlantians will be especially interested in the "Tempest," by August Koopman, who spent some time here prior to his death.

Cameron Burnside, who is personally well known in Atlanta because of frequent visits here with Mrs. Burnside, who was Miss Lucille Hitt, has also consented to hang some of his paintings in the exhibit, and they will be viewed with particular interest.

Miss Sophinisia Bergsteimer, the young southern artist who has made such a success, and whose paintings were shown here last year, will have four new canvasses in the exhibit.

The only drawback to the exhibit is the fact that Atlanta has no suitable place for the showing of fine paintings. The art association, which is working for the erection ultimately of a fine arts building, where pictures may be properly hung and exhibited, was in a quandary until Mrs. John Marshall Slaton kindly proffered the use of the executive mansion for the present exhibit. While the mansion is not the ideal place for an art exhibit, it is centrally located and answers the needs of the association better than any other place, and the members of the association are very appreciative of Mrs. Slaton's interest and courtesy.

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR SUICIDE'S BURIAL

Relatives Completing Plans for Funeral of James V. Garrett, Who Killed Himself

The funeral arrangements for the burial of James V. Garrett, seventy years old, a Confederate veteran, 59 Hay Pavillion street, who shot and killed himself in Grant park at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, have not yet been completed.

The body was moved late Wednesday from Donehoo's undertaking parlors, where the bequest was sent, to Greenberg & Bond's.

When the body was found in the park a note was placed, by the veteran's coat, reading: "My name is James V. Garrett. Call my son, C. H. Garrett, 357 Atlanta phone."

Another note, sealed and addressed to the son, was found beside the body. This note the son says he will never open, as he knows about what it contains. C. H. Garrett is a telegraph operator at the Union station.

Detective Sturdivant, one of the officers who went to the scene, recognized the dead veteran as an old friend.

Mr. Garrett, who fought for four years in the Civil war, came to Atlanta with his family eight years ago from Warren county.

His second wife, who is now critically ill, was kept in ignorance of the manner of her husband's death, for fear the shock would kill her.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. "NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 2

GARIBALDI—ITALIA'S GREAT PATRIOT

IN the cause of Personal and National Liberty this modern Rienzi of sunny Italy would have gladly laid down his life. It inspired him to deeds of immortal grandeur, of superb valor and of boundless suffering. Garibaldi would not have legislative tyranny of any kind enter into his own private life any more than will our millions of liberty-loving Italian citizens. His flaming soul scorned any legislation which would prohibit ALL because ONE man out of thousands imbibes in gluttonous quantities. He knew that the light wines of Italy and the barley brews of Germany are beneficial to humanity.

Upon an old Germanic basis 57 years ago Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, established their brand. The Constitution of the United States is the sole authority upon which they launched their business in America. Every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the brewing of an honest Barley-malt and Saazer Hop brew—the kind that spells Temperance throughout the world. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the public demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

BILLS OF INDICTMENT DRAWN IN FRANK CASE

Several Persons Who Figured in Trial Said to Have Left Atlanta

While the solicitor's office refuses to make a definite announcement, it is known that bills against several persons who figured in the Frank case are being prepared for presentation to the grand jury probably Friday.

As a result the probe of the case is expected to begin before the grand jury on that date. It is generally expected that following the charge of Judge Ben H. Hill the grand jury will begin with an investigation of the affidavit, involving not only the minister, but Arthur Thurman, a lawyer, C. C. Trodder, an employe of attorney William M. Smith and erstwhile Burns operative, and Dan S. Johnson, the Burns lieutenant.

C. W. Burke, employed by the defense, was most frequently involved in the testimony before Judge Hill on the extraordinary motion and his name will be among those presented to the grand jury.

While it is rumored that some of those who figured in the case are preparing to leave the city, no warrants have been issued, it is said.

Besides the grand jury probe the solicitor general has been busy the present week with the routine sessions of the criminal division of the superior court and has had little time to prepare his answer to the motion of Frank's counsel to set aside the verdict of guilty on the ground that he was not in the court room when it was returned.

The fact that the solicitor will contest the statement of fact by the defense makes more time necessary for gathering affidavits. As a result the solicitor expects to ask the court for another continuance when the case is called Saturday morning.

CONTEMPT CASE SATURDAY.

Judge Arthur Powell, of counsel for William J. Burns and Dan S. Johnson, will not return to the city until Friday morning, and as a result the contempt charges against Burns and Johnson will not be heard before Judge Hill until Saturday.

Judge Hill stated several days ago that he would take no action until Judge Powell returned to the city. Judge Powell is said to be ready with his defense of the two detectives, and little delay after he returns is expected.

The fight on the Burns agency by the board of police commissioners will reach a climax Friday night when the committee, according to A. R. King, chairman, will recommend to the board that charges against Burns, Lehon and seven operatives, including C. C. Tedder, W. J. (Boots) Rogers, L. P. McWorth and W. D. Whitfield be made in the police court, under sections 2024 and 2025 and 2027 of the city code.

One of these sections provides a $500 fine or thirty days' imprisonment for operating a detective agency without an proper permit, and this, the police commissioners contend, Burns did have. W. J. Sears had a license, but the commissioners say Burns did not work under Sears' direction.

Another section provides that any person following the occupation of detective without giving a bond and certificate of good character is liable to the same penalty.

The Burns agency is not only preparing to fight the effort to council to revoke its license, but is preparing to launch a fight on the Pinkerton Detective agency. The Burns people contend that several Pinkerton operatives have not been properly listed with the police, and say that if the Burns agency is not within the law, neither is the Pinkerton agency.

ONLY THREE DAYS MORE TO GET "HEART SONGS"

Our distribution of "Heart Songs" has been wide and far-reaching. We only regret that we cannot renew our contract with the publishers whereby we have been able to distribute the century's master work of song music among our readers at less than cost of distribution to ourselves. Seldom has a book seemed to so completely satisfy a want among the people. This is not to be wondered at when we reflect that for more than fifty years past the greater part of the present population of this country has been practically raised on the songs that appear in Heart Songs. The descendants of the old settlers and of the soldiers on both sides of the civil war, and their wives, sisters and sweethearts sing the only music that was then known. The memories that extend back over a lifetime are not easily forgotten. And this may be the reason that the distribution of a book like "Heart Songs" has spread like wildfire. Certain it is that none of the more modern song music has taken the place of the old melodies that seem always new and fresh. Comic songs come and go, fantime flavors topped fades away, but the songs of our fathers still abide with us. This, at any rate, is what constitutes the popularity of the book we have been distributing far and wide. Our offer is to positively withdraw on Saturday next, which gives only three days more to our readers. In order that none may be disappointed we print this notice. The coupon is published elsewhere in today's paper.

Preacher Illustrates His Sermons With Drawings

REV. O. W. GREER.
Preacher cartoonist, who draws "Life and Death."

Rev. O. W. Greer, Pastor of Jones Avenue Baptist, Makes Big Hit at Revivals With Easel and Canvas

Chicago has her vaudeville in churches, New York her sermons illustrated by "movies," but it remains for Atlanta to have a preacher who turns from the pulpit to an easel to illustrate with cartoons every phase of his sermons.

Rev. O. W. Greer, pastor of the Jones Avenue Baptist church, introduced this innovation here, and congregations that fill his church to the doors every night are the result.

"During the Baptist revival I am holding services every night at 8 o'clock," said Rev. Mr. Greer, "and before each service, at 7:30 o'clock, I draw cartoons of what I am going to speak about.

"This draws the crowds; by 8 o'clock the church is filled with people, and when I start on the sermon every point is explained by the different cartoons."

Like those clever cartoonists who amuse vaudeville audiences by drawing something that looks like a house, but which changes at the last stroke into a pretty girl eating candy, or something else equally different, so Rev. Mr. Greer mystifies his audiences. A whale which looks as if it might swallow Jonah suddenly is transformed by a clever stroke into Adam and Eve running out of the Garden of Eden, pursued by the serpent.

"I always work out the drawings on small sheets of paper before coming into the church," said Mr. Greer, "and I try to draw lines in church so that the people will not know what I am making until the cartoon is finished. If possible, I make it look like something else until the last stroke. All of this seems to please them; it certainly makes them come to church."

Near the pulpit Mr. Greer has a large easel, on which are many sheets of paper, 30 by 40 inches. A box of variegated crayons stands near the easel.

For half an hour before the sermon begins, Mr. Greer wields the crayons with skill, sometimes the decorous church congregation nearly forget themselves, and applaud the performer. Then, when every seat is taken, and four or five cartoons are spread out in their brilliant colors, the preacher begins to talk.

After the revival is over I shall hold illustrated services every Sunday night for the grown people, and on Sunday mornings for fifteen minutes I shall draw pictures for the little folks in the Sunday school," said Mr. Greer.

The cartoon shown above, to which Mr. Greer is putting the finishing touches, shows a man entering the world in both hands. On one side is a prophet, offering him the way to life. On the other, a grisly skeleton, death, is calling the man to fill an open grave. The man is saying, "I'm not prepared to live. I'm not prepared to die," yet he does not want to leave the world.

"Any fool can get to do both," said Mr. Greer. "He's got to live and he has to die.

"The only way to do either properly is to have faith in the Bible and in the Lord."

Mr. Greer came to Atlanta recently from Alabama to take charge of the Jones Avenue Baptist church. He was a photographer in Birmingham for fifteen years before entering the ministry. He has had cartoons in many religious papers.

TURNER LOSES 34 VOTES AND HIGHTOWER LOSES 16

Figures Do Not Include Ten Country Precincts Not Recounted

All of the ten city wards and four of the fourteen country precincts have been finished in the re-count of ballots for Charles G. Turner and T. J. Hightower, Jr., candidates for county commissioner.

The election manager's returns from these polling places gave Mr. Turner a total of 5,526 votes.

The re-count of those polling places gives Mr. Turner a total of 3,492 votes.

Thus he loses by the re-count, so far as it has progressed, 34 votes.

The election manager's returns from these polling places gave Mr. Hightower a total of 3,847 votes.

The re-count of these polling places gives Mr. Hightower a total of 3,831 votes.

Thus Mr. Hightower looses by the re-count, so far as it has progressed, 16 votes.

The re-count is being conducted by the subcommittee of the Fulton county Democratic executive committee. The subcommittee did not reconvene Thursday morning to proceed with the re-count on account of the death of a sister of Mr. Turner. The subcommittee probably will resume next Monday. The ten remaining country precincts, being smaller than the city wards, can be counted much faster. The subcommittee expects to finish in half a day.

Mr. Turner has protested the votes in the Second ward, which went against him, because ballots of two different colors were used, when the rules of the primary say the ballots shall be uniform in color. He has protested the votes in the sixth ward, which went against him, because the seals on the box containing the ballots appeared to have been broken when the subcommittee opened the box to make the recount. He has protested the votes in the ninth ward, which went against him, because the box of Precinct A of that ward was opened to take out the ballot of a negro who was allowed to vote in the county primary.

Pink Ears, Hook Curls Is New Style Sprung by The Belles of Peachtree

Pink ears are the latest—very pink ears. With the advent of the fish-hook curl and closely coiffeured hair, ears have become fashionable again; they no longer hide behind their owner's drooping locks. And Miss Peachtree has decreed that her now visible ears shall be very pink.

It's easy—a little rouge and a chamois rag does the trick. Not all of the ear is rouged—just the lobes, which show so prominently. When not overdone, the result is pleasing; the ears then resemble the dainty, pink-tinged seashells sung by poets as models for their ladies' hearing apparatus.

The next style, as far as can be discovered, started right here in Atlanta. So far, it has not gone to extremes—no green or purple ears have been seen on Peachtree street.

FIRM OF RILEY & CO. IS SUED FOR $10,000

Allen Wilder Declares Malicious Letters Written by Defendants Ruined Business

A suit for $10,000 damages was filed in the city court of Atlanta Thursday by Allen Wilder against members of the firm of J. L. Riley & Co., J. L. Riley, A. W. Malone, T. J. Day and G. W. Price.

Wilder charges in substance that the defendants ruined his business through malicious letters, which they wrote to his customers, and that further against the advice of attorneys they went before the grand jury in an effort to have him indicted on a criminal charge.

The attempt to secure criminal action, he says, followed the failure of a civil suit to collect sums due him from his customers. The attempted criminal action was made in bad faith he charges, simply for the purpose of injuring him.

Wilder is represented by Attorneys William M. Smith and W. L. Jarrell.

PREACHERS FLAY MODERN EVILS IN MANY CHURCHES

Baptist Clergyman in Big Revival Touch on Divorce, Money and Other Topics

The time has come when many a preacher is afraid to open his mouth on the subject of divorce for fear of hitting some church officer who has two or three living wives," was the startling declaration of Dr. Ray Palmer Wednesday night in a Baptist revival service at the College Park Baptist church.

At many Baptist churches Wednesday night and Thursday preachers scored the evils of modern life.

Dr. M. E. Dodd, of Shreveport, spoke on the uses of money, in the meeting Thursday at the First Baptist church. "The pulpit needs to come back to the discussion of the right use of money. You church members are getting rich, and you are failing to use the money which you are getting for the glory of God.

"The responsibility for this state of affairs according to Dr. Dodd, lies with the pastors of the churches.

"Some of your leading church members are going to stand before the Judgment empty handed," he declared, "and it will be because you have not preached to them about the eternal treasures as you should."

"The money you have belongs to God, and the question should be not how much you will give Him, but how much you can afford to use for yourselves," he declared. "Men who handle trust funds sometimes allow themselves to become defaulters; many Christians are guilty of the same thing, and they will be punished for their thefts from God as surely as the others."

Friday at the First Baptist church an old fashioned "testimony meeting" will be held. Saturday there will be no meeting at the First church in the forenoon.

Special prayer was offered Thursday morning for those who live in boarding houses in Atlanta. Their home ties have been broken," said Dr. Bruner "and many of them are for the first time coming in contract with the wickedness of city life. Theirs is the life which is the most critical to the spiritual existence. Let us offer special prayer for these, and give them whatever assistance we may be able to give."

Special prayer was offered for a number of penitents in the meetings in the individual churches throughout the city, who have expressed a desire to be remembered in prayer. The number of these is growing rapidly, and the reports which are coming from the individual churches are encouraging.

"The interest which is being displayed in these meetings, and the success which has been met is remarkable, coming as they do the week after Shrine week, when Atlanta was plunged into dissapation to a greater extent than ever before, perhaps in the history of the city. I don't mean wicked dissapation," Dr. Bruner continued, "although there was no doubt a great deal of that during the week.

"I am greatly encouraged with the results which have been gained, and I believe that we have in store for us a great religious awakening which shall sweep the city, and not only the city, but the entire state."

Prayer was offered Thursday morning for the son of a broken-hearted mother who wrote anonymously to Dr. Bruner requesting it.

"He has wandered away from the teachings which I have instilled into him, and from the influence which I threw about in his childhood. Won't you pray that he may remember his old mother, and her teachings, and that he may be brought to Christ?" The letter asked.

MRS. FUNK TO SPEAK AT SUFFRAGE RALLY HERE

Meeting to Be Held in Streets Near State Capitol Thursday Night

The chief speaker at the suffrage rally to be held in the senate chamber at the state capitol Thursday night at 8 o'clock, will be Mrs. Antoinette Funk, of Chicago, lawyer and suffragist, who comes to Georgia from Washington, where she took a prominent part in a recent suffrage demonstration.

Other speakers will be Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, Dr. Fred A. Line and Mrs. Amelia Woodall.

Wednesday night Mrs. Funk spoke at a suffrage rally in Macon. Reports from Macon indicate that much excitement was caused by the rally, as it brought the anti-suffragettes out in full force, parading the streets wearing red roses on their sleeves.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

W. J. HARRIS EXPECTED TO ENLIVEN GOVERNOR'S RACE.

Up to date the gubernatorial contest has been a more or less listless and uninteresting affair, but with the delivery of his opening speech at Cedartown on Saturday William J. Harris is expected to put some real spice in the campaign.

Mr. Harris already has done more than any of the other candidates to liven up this contest. His recent formal announcement, preceded by newspaper controversy with two or three politicians, has attracted more comment and criticism than any other development in this race.

Mr. Harris has given notice of his intention to resign as director of the United States census and to relinquish the position of chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and he promises an active and vigorous campaign for the governorship.

There are now four announced candidates for this office—J. Randolph Anderson, of Savannah; Dr. L. G. Harreman, of Commerce; Judge Nat E. Harris, of Macon, and W. J. Harris, of Cedartown. Others whose names are frequently mentioned are Judge W. E. Thomas, of Valdosta; William H. Burwell, of Sparta, and Hugh M. Dorsey, of Atlanta.

UNEXPECTED RESULTS IN WARE PRIMARY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 21.—Showing unexpected results in several contests, Ware county's primary results were consolidated today. Calvin W. Parker led the race for representative with Representative L. J. Cooper and Leonard Hixon running close behind. E. J. Berry was re-elected clerk with a handsome majority over James Cowart.

J. T. Strickland snowed under his single opponent, W. J. Mullis in the race for tax collector.

W. E. Steedley and J. W. Bellinger are leaders in the race for treasurer and will enter the second primary.

John D. Gibson and John McQuaig ran a close race for tax receiver, and will enter a second primary.

For county commissioners, A. M. Knight and Dr. A. Fleming were chosen in the Waycross district, J. D. Miller losing out.

D. W. Pittman received a large majority over three opponents for sheriff.

The second primary will be held August 19. Three will be in the second contest for representative.

JUDGE ATKINSON MAY RUN FOR LEGISLATURE.

Some few Fulton county politicians are just a bit apprehensive because as yet there are no announced candidates from this county for the legislature. These anxious ones appear fearful that the offices will go begging. They evidently have overlooked the fact that the primary does not occur until August 19, which is a full three months or ninety days distant.

While it is true that there have been no announcements it is also true that some well known citizens are being solicited to make the race. One of these is Judge Spencer R. Atkinson, who has been petitioned by many prominent Fulton county citizens, but who has not yet reached a decision. Several others are being considered for the other two places.

SLATON PAPERS PROMISE "PEP AND GINGER" SOON.

Newspapers supporting Governor Slaton for the United States senate are authority for the assertion that he will soon issue a statement which will be "full of pepper and ginger."

These papers do not give any intimation as to what will form the subject matter of the governor's statement, but it is presumed by the politicians that he will take this means to reply to the attacks which his opponents have made upon him in their public speeches.

NO OPPOSITION TO CONGRESSMAN HOWARD.

Congressman William Schley Howard, of DeKalb, representative of the Fifth district, has no opposition for re-election, and it is the opinion of the politicians in this district that he will be returned to the house without a contest. Congressman Howard is in Washington attending to his congressional duties, but his close political friends are on the alert for him and are watching every development with a view to advancing his interest.

CALLS ATLANTA "HOME" AFTER 30 YEARS' ABSENCE

Claiming Atlanta for his home after living in New York for thirty years, O. L. Braumuller, president of the Braumuller Piano company, 627-641 West Forty-third street, New York city, is at the Winecoff for a week.

Mr. Braumuller has numerous friends in Atlanta, and states that nothing in years has given him greater pleasure than seeing his old friends and his old home town again. He is the son of the late H. Braumuller who operated the first piano store in the city of Atlanta.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS OF GORDON INSTITUTE

Exercises at Barnesville Begin Saturday and Continue Through Tuesday

BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 21.—The sixty-second annual commencement exercises of the Gordon institute will begin Saturday, May 23, and close Tuesday, May 26.

The commencement sermon will be preached Sunday, May 26, in the school auditorium by Dr. Charles Jarrell, of Athens, Ga. The literary address before the graduating class will be delivered Tuesday by Warren Grice, of Atlanta.

Tuesday afternoon, the competitive individual and companies drills will occur. The graduating class numbers forty-one, one of the largest in the history of the school.

The year has been a successful one and the commencement exercises promise to hold unusual interest for a large number of visitors who will be present.

This year's senior class has been highly honored; three of its members receiving appointments to the naval academy at Annapolis and one of its number a commission as third lieutenant in the constabulary service of the army.

RECORDS ARE BROKEN FOR COKE PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, May 21.—All records of production of coke in the United States were broken in 1913 when the total output was 46,311,369 short tons, valued at $128,951,430, according to the report of the geodetic survey. Last year's production was greater by 2,327,000 short tons than that of 1912, which was the previous high record year.

The principal increase in by-product coke production was in Alabama, where the gain was nearly 50 per cent, and in Pennsylvania about 33 per cent. The average price per ton for bee hive coke in 1913 was $2.39 and for retort coke $3.83.

Market in New York Closed 5 to 16 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—There was a renewal of yesterday's buying at the opening of the cotton market today and after starting steady at an advance of 8 points on May but general buying carried it 5 lower in early dealings. On disappointing cables, active months sold about 8 to 8 points higher. Realizing was started and there was a quick reaction to about yesterday's closing but the market soon firmed up again on predictions for a continuation of unsettled weather in the western belt and a broadening outside demand.

The buying movement became still more active and excited after the publication of the detailed weather report for the Houston district showing general rains and active months sold about 10 to 21 points net higher around midday.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—On the first call the cotton market fell 1 to 3 points, but heavy rains in Texas again were considered very bullish and there was a rush to cover, the market month 8 points over yesterday's close in the first half hour of business.

Buying increased as the morning grew older, some of it for long account but the trade considered that many stop loss orders were being swept in on the advance. At noon prices were 18 to 16 points up.

WORLD'S LACK OF FAITH IS DEPLORED BY BRYAN

Secretary Thinks It Better to Trust and Be Deceived Than Never to rTust at All.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Asserting there is a deplorable scarcity of "faith" in the world today, Secretary Bryan thinks there never was a time in the world's history when it is needed as much as today. The secretary has expressed his views on faith at the graduating exercises of the girls' seminary here last night.

"It is far better that we trust and be deceived occasionally than that we, one another, but there are many things in life that we must take on trust—things that we do not understand and cannot be explained. Even love is a mystery."

Secretary Bryan told the young women that they must have sympathy, too, adding that this was one of the qualities that made Thomas Jefferson a truly great man.

LAWYERS WOULD CHANGE SELECTION OF JUDICIARY

Want Supreme Court Judges Named by Governor; Others by Supreme Court

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 21.—The Georgia Bar association at its meeting next month will likely recommend the appointment of supreme court judges by the governor, all other judges to be named by the supreme court, and the abolition of all city courts. The committee on revision of the judicial system and procedure will report as follows:

Abolish all city courts; all elective justices of the peace; give the courts of appeals exclusive appellate jurisdiction in criminal cases, and transfer all civil jurisdiction to the supreme court.

This leaves vacancies to be filled as follows: Have superior courts hold quarterly sessions (or oftener), in all counties, and render judgment at the first term where no issuable defense is filed. Where business requires superior court may be divided into divisions and additional judges provided for, as in the case of Fulton county.

Have a county judge to hold court monthly at the county site, with jurisdiction to try misdemeanors and civil cases involving not over $500, with juries of six instead of twelve. He shall also hold court monthly at each militia district court ground with same jurisdiction as now given by law to justices of the peace. The notary public ex-officio justice of the peace of the district shall be ex-officio clerk of this court in his district, with authority to issue all papers as now, but no other authority, except to hold courts of inquiry.

There shall be no jury trial in any court except it be demanded in original petition or answer.

Cases may be taken by certiorari (and only by that method), from courts below the county judge to the superior court and the judgment of the superior court therein shall be final; unless the judge of the superior court shall certify that some constitutional question is involved which is properly raised in the pleadings at the trial.

Civil cases from the superior courts shall be taken to the supreme court, and criminal cases to the court of appeals, as under the present system.

ADVANTAGES CLAIMED.

The advantages claimed by this scheme are:

1. The system will be absolutely uniform throughout the state (except for the lower courts as recently created for Atlanta).

2. There shall be but one trial and one review of each case (except as to constitutional questions).

3. Judgments may be obtained as speedily in the superior courts as now in the city courts and there will be a general expediting of business by reason of this, and by eliminating many jury trials which take fully twice as long as trials by the judge alone.

4. Making judgment of the superior courts final in cases originating in lower courts, and giving all criminal business to this court of appeals, would probably reduce the number of cases going to the supreme court sufficiently to enable that court to keep up with the business as well as now.

5. Practically all of the present city court judges (except those in the larger cities) could be made county judges, and the extra work which would keep them occupied practically all of their time would justify a corresponding increase in their salaries.

6. The fee system, which is sometimes suspected of perverting justice would be eliminated.

Have the justices of the supreme court appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate. Have the judges of the court of appeals, and all of the superior court judges, and county judges appointed by the justices of the supreme court, and in the event there should be a tie vote of the members of the court, the side on which the chief justice votes shall prevail.

The recommendations are made by Andrew J. Cobb, chairman; Orville A. Park, secretary; J. H. Merrill, P. W. Meldrim, W. K. Miller, W. H. Grimm, Arthur G. Powell, Wright Willingham, Samuel H. Sibley, Alex W. Smith. Personnel commission on the revision of the judicial system and procedure.

BOY GETS FIVE YEARS FOR SHOOTING POLICEMAN

William Britt, Who Inflicted Flesh Wound on Patrolman Sentenced by Judge Hill

"Our officers must be protected," remarked Judge Ben H. Hill in the criminal division of the superior court Thursday, when he sentenced William Britt, an eighteen-year-old boy to five years in the chaingang for attempting to murder Policeman W. A. Garrett.

The boy had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assault with intent to murder and asked the leniency of the court.

He said that he was drinking on the night he fired on the officer, and did not realize the seriousness of his action.

Judge Hill told him that on account of his youth he would impose only a five-year sentence, although the extreme penalty would be twice that much.

Britt was placed under arrest by Officer Garrett on Decatur street only in April on a disorderly conduct charge. As they were walking toward the station house he drew his revolver and suddenly fired on his captor, inflicting a slight flesh wound in the arm. Garrett then wrested the revolver from the boy, who coldly remarked that he bought the pistol so "the could get a cop."

PRISON COMMISSION TO HEAR WILBURN'S CASE

The state prison commission's hearing on the application of Nick Wilburn for executive clemency was begun Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It had been intended to open the hearing at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, but John R. Cooper, Wilburn's attorney, could not arrive in time and the postponement was taken. Wilburn is sentenced to be hanged at Grays, Jones county, on May 29, for the murder of John King, a Jones county planter. A special session of the prison commission is being held to hear his application for clemency, Governor Slaton having declined to grant him a respite.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION LAW WILL HELP GEORGIA

State Will Avail Itself of Advantage Afforded by Smith-Lever Measure

That Georgia will avail itself of the full advantages afforded it in common with other states of the union through the Smith-Lever agricultural extension law, is the opinion of leading educators and influential members of the general assembly.

This law, of which Senator Smith, of Georgia, and Congressman Lever, of South Carolina, were joint authors, provides an unconditional annual appropriation of $10,000 for each of the forty-eight states, and this sum is supplemented by an increasing annual appropriation each year until the additional yearly appropriations total $4,100,000.

However, the appropriations carried in this law, in excess of $480,000 each year—$10,000 to each state—are conditional and will be divided among the states on a basis of rural population. The conditions imposed are that every state which shares in the additional appropriations must set aside like amounts for agricultural extension work.

These amounts may be appropriated direct by the states or donated by individuals or organizations.

Georgia's strained financial condition is causing some apprehension lest the legislature will this year be unable to make the necessary appropriation. The importance of agricultural extension, is realized by the leading members of the legislature and they will make every possible effort to have this state take such action as will secure for it its full share of the federal fund.

PROVISIONS OF MEASURE.

An understanding of the provisions of the Smith-Lever law can be gained from the following sections of the law:

"That co-operative agricultural extension work shall consist of the giving of instruction and practical demonstrations in agriculture to persons not attending or resident in said (agricultural) colleges in the several communities, and imparting to such persons information on said subjects through field demonstrations, publications, and otherwise; and this work shall be carried on in such manner as may be mutually agreed upon by the secretary of agriculture and the state agricultural college or colleges receiving the benefits of this act.

"That for the purpose of paying the expenses of said co-operative agricultural extension work and the necessary printing and distributing of information in connection with the same, there is permanently appropriated, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of $80,000 for each year, $10,000 of which shall be paid annually, in the manner hereinafter provided, to each state which shall by action of its legislature assent to the provisions of this act, Provided, That payment of such installments of the appropriation hereinbefore made as shall become due to any state before the adjournment of the regular session of the legislature meeting next after the passage of this act may, in the absence of prior legislative assent, be made upon the assent of the governor thereof, duly certified to the secretary of the treasury: provided, futher,

"That there is hereby appropriated an additional sum of $600,000 for the fiscal year following that in which the foregoing appropriations become available, and for each year thereafter for seven years a sum exceeding by $500,000 the sum appropriated for each preceding year, and for each year thereafter there is permanently appropriated for each year the sum of $4,100,000 in addition to the sum of $480,00 hereinbefore provided.

MUST BE APPROVED.

"Provided further, That before the funds herein appropriated shall become available to any college for any fiscal year plans for the work to be carried on under this act shall be submitted by the proper officials of each college and approved by the secretary of agriculture.

"Such additional sums shall be used only for the purposes hereinbefore stated, and shall be allotted annually to each state by the secretary of agriculture and paid in the manner hereinbefore provided, in the proportion which the rural population of each state bears to the total rural population of all the states as determined by the next preceding federal census;

"Provided further, That no payment out of the additional appropriations herein provided shall be made in any year to any state until an equal sum has been appropriated for that year by the legislature of such state, or provided by state, county, college, local authority, or individual contributions from within the state, for the maintenance of the co-operative agricultural extension work provided for in this act."

The first unconditional appropriation of $10,000 for Georgia is now available. Governor Slaton has been notified by the secretary of agriculture and has written the secretary accepting the money on behalf of the University of Georgia for the State Agricultural college.

RESULTS OF COLDS

To Neglect a Cold in the Beginning is to Run a Pretty Big Risk.

When the Liver Gets Lazy the Blood Thickens and the System Becomes Easily Susceptible to Cold and Disease.

A cold is directly traceable to an inactive liver. The liver fails its efforts overcome and food remains in the stomach or bowels. The head gets hot, the feet cold and the bowels constipated. Right then and there is the danger point. The bowels must be kept open. The system must be relieved of congestion.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known relief. It is better than calomel. It will immediately start liver and the blood racing through the veins, dispel the congestion and make you feel as if life is worth living.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT acts quickly and mildly, and never gripes or nauseates. Don't take an inferior substitute. HEAD OF BAPTIST ASSOCIATION MAKES APPEAL TO ALL

Editor The Journal:

The great evangelistic campaign is now on in the city. The forces in all the Baptist churches are waging the battle for the kingdom of our God in earnest. But we need that every Baptist in the city shall be enlisted in the work during the three weeks of the campaign. We appeal to every Christian in the city to lend his influence and give his service to the cause during these three weeks. We would be glad if every church of every denomination in the city would join us in the campaign so that there might be gospel services in every church in the city. The Atlanta spirit enlisted in this religious campaign would mean a better city than we have at present. Why not all the leading citizens of our city lead off in this religious effort for the souls of our people? They could not do a better or greater thing in all their lives. We appeal to them to give themselves to this campaign. Watch the papers for the places of meetings for Sunday afternoon.

Indications today were that the enrollment of students would exceed the expectation of the university authorities. Already upwards of 1,500 applications have been received.

DISCUSS OIL PIPE LINE TO SUPPLY FUEL TO NAVY

U. S. Officials Consider Feasibility of Installing Line From Oklahoma to the Gulf

(By Associated Press.)

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., May 21.—Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, and Lieutenant J. O. Richardson, of the navy, began here today the first of a series of hearings on the feasibility of the United States government constructing and operating an oil pipe line approximately 660 miles long from the mid-continent oil field of Oklahoma to a convenient port on the gulf of Mexico to supply the navy with its fuel oil.

Twenty-five local oil men appeared before the investigators and gave testimony. The hearings will cover Oklahoma and Texas, and will end June 8 at Baton Rouge, La.

URGENT DEFICIENCY BILL BEFORE HOUSE FOR ACTION

More Than $6,000,000 Needed for Expenses, Due Largely to Mexican Trouble

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The "further urgent deficiency" appropriation bill, making provision for more than $6,000,000 for the present fiscal year largely on account of the Mexican crisis, was before the house today for action. An interesting statement had been prepared by the war department to show exactly the approximate amount of the deficiencies in appropriation of the quartermaster's department of the army, due to the Mexican situation, to June 30, next. This made a total of $4,573,186. It includes $1,100,146 for subsistence, $2,429,079 for transportation of the army, both along the border and in Mexico, and numerous other items relating to transportation.

Of the total amount in the deficiency estimates on account of Mexico covered in the bill, the government already is obligated for $1,824,862.

The figures showed that fitting up chartered ships for troops and animals cost $110,000. For horseshoes and nails alone the bill carries $25,000. The chartering of the steamers Sabina and San Marcos to June 30, cost $31,890, and for chartering additional steamers to June 30, $279,000 was asked. Altering the transport McClellan for cold storage cost $40,000.

The movement of troops to the Mexican border during April cost $155,509.

Among other things the bill meets a war department estimate of $42,390 for movement of troops on account of the Colorado strike and $14,715 for the squadron of the Twelfth cavalry from Fort Meade to Fort Wingate. It was set out that the expenses of the house mines committee that investigated the Ludlow and Michigan strikes aggregated $6,000 and $4,000 respectively.

An appropriation of $15,000 was authorized for these inquiries and the two committees are expected to use all of it before completing their work.

SEE SPEEDING COMET FROM U. S. OBSERVATORY

Discovered by European Astronomers Five Days Ago, Passes East by South

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Moving swiftly east by south, the comet discovered by European astronomers five days ago, was seen last night from the United States naval observatory here. As it melted into the haze above the northwestern horizon, it appeared to be a large patch of nebulous light, without nucleus or tail. Deep haze prevented the taking of an accurate observation, but officials at the observatory gave this estimate of the comet's position:

Right ascension 4 hours, 55 minutes and 58 seconds; declination, 47 degrees and 55 minutes north.

H. E. burton, an assistant observer, after an hour's search, found the comet with field glasses. It was not far from the bright star capella, and appeared to be moving much more rapidly than was indicated by the observation of the European astronomers last week.

Georgia's Share in the Agricultural Extension Fund.

Ten thousand dollars of the federal fund, created by the Smith-Lever law for agricultural extension work, is now available for use in Georgia, Secretary Houston, of the national Department of Agriculture, has notified the state authorities to this effect, and as soon as legal formalities are complied with the money will be forthcoming. The same amount will be allotted to Georgia annually, as to each of the other forty-seven States, without condition, and will be employed for the improvement of farming interests.

That, however, is only a part of the fund provided in the Smith-Lever act. The remainder of the appropriation, which ultimately will amount to some five million dollars a year, is to be distributed among the states on a basis of rural population, but in order to receive its pro rata of this latter sum the state must contribute for the same purpose an amount equal to that to which it is entitled from the federal government. All progressive states, of course, will be eager to avail themselves of this opportunity, for, within the prescribed limits every dollar which they appropriate for agricultural extension work will secure an additional dollar from the national treasury.

Georgia's share of the fund will thus be twenty-five thousand dollars, or more, every year. The State will receive ten thousand dollars unconditionally, but it should take prompt steps to secure the additional sum by meeting the requirements of law. This is one of the most important matters awaiting the legislature's attention. So great an opportunity to develop Georgia's agricultural resources should be seized without delay. The necessary appropriation should be made at the next session of the General Assembly. The Savannah Morning News well says in this connection:

> If proper advantage is taken of the Smith-Lever agricultural extension bill the farmers of the country directly and the rest of the people indirectly should profit immensely from the expenditure for which it provides. Its intent is to improve farming methods so that the per acreage production and profit shall both increase, that waste will be avoided on the farm; that the crops most suited to the soil will be grown; that in brief, the men upon whom the country depends for its food supply will be taught all that experts can teach them about the coaxing of bountiful and varied crops from the soil and disposing of them after the most approved methods of marketing. The bill, which must now be called the Smith-Lever law, since it has received the signature of the President, should be regarded as one of the notable results of a notable session of Congress.

Georgia has peculiar reason to be proud of this constructive law, for, it was introduced in the Senate and pressed to enactment by Senator Hoke Smith. He and Congressman Lever, of South Carolina, were joint authors of the bill. In the House there was little opposition, but when the measure reached the Senate, persistent efforts were made from the Republican side to tack on amendments that would have been extremely distasteful and unjust to the South. Senator Cummins of Iowa for instance, sought to change the basis of prorating the fund from that of rural population to the number of acres cultivated in each state, a plan that would have proved a serious handicap to Georgia. Senator Jones, of Washington, urged a division of the fund between white and negro schools in states where negro schools are established. That scheme would have meant duplicated effort, and for all classes of farmers would have weakened the service of the law. Senator Smith vigorously and successfully opposed all such amendments, and secured the passage of the bill in a form most useful to the South and the common country. The measure is conceded to be one of the masterworks of the present Congress, and its benefits will be felt by the people of Georgia and all other agricultural states through long generations to come.

Many a man gets left because he doesn't do right.

The New Haven was no haven for the widow and orphan.

Back in harness again, Colonel Roosevelt now faces the task of signing rejection slips.

If you are fond of really good biscuits, Alonzo, marry a homely girl. All a pretty girl knows about "dough" is how to spend it.

And yet, every four or five years, we have an added permanent population as great as the temporary one with us this week.

Forging Ahead.

In an address delivered before the Macon Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway Company, presented some remarkably interesting facts on Georgia's development. Quoting from records of the national census bureau, he showed that from 1900 to 1910 the value of farm property in the state increased one hundred and fifty-four and two-tenths per cent, as compared with ninety-nine and nine-tenths per cent for all other states. In the same period the value of farm crops increased one hundred and sixty-two and four-tenths per cent in Georgia, and only eighty and six-tenths per cent in the remainder of the country, while the value of manufactured products increased one hundred and fourteen and five-tenths er cent, as compared with eighty and nine-tenths per cent for all the other states.

It is especially notable that Georgia has far exceeded the average not only in agriculture but in manufacture as well, and that the development of its farming and industrial interests has gone forward with wonderful vigor, side by side. It is evident, moreover, that the growth in manufacturing keeps with a broadly enriching influence upon agriculture, for, when raw materials are converted into finished articles in the same territory where they are found instead of being shipped to distant points, such materials are very much more profitable to those who produce them.

One of the most significant and gratifying features of Georgia's agricultural progress is its increasing production of food crops. The value of the state's corn yield for 1913 was nearly twelve million dollars greater than in 1912; the value of its wheat harvest represented a gain of more than half a million dollars for the same year; and the yield of oats, a gain of approximately a million dollars. Truck farming has developed rapidly in recent years, and is becoming the source of much new wealth and enterprise.

Georgia still spends millions of dollars annually in buying from distant sections foodstuffs that could be raised easily and cheaply at home. But she is moving in the right direction; she has caught the creative spirit. The tyranny of the one-crop idea is fast crumbling. Her farmers are stirred as never before with an ambition to make their farms self-supporting, to produce on their own fertile acres the supplies needed in the home.

The record of the last few years is interesting as an omen rather than an achievement. It foreshadows the time when Georgia's wondrous variety of natural resources will be turned duly to account and when, as a result, the economic power and prestige of our commonwealth will be a thousandfold greater than they are today. It has been truly said that this state can grow corn equal to Iowa, oats equal to Ohio, apples with better flavor than those from New York and Oregon, wheat as good as Illinois', and practically everything needed for man's subsistence. To the extent that these broad possibilities are realized, the state will prosper and advance.

Heretofore we have used only a few of our almost innumerable talents; we have merely scratched the surface of our well-nigh unlimited treasure. But a more energetic and productive era is at hand. The scope of agriculture is widening, and its methods improving. The field of industry is likewise teeming with fresh enterprise. The world is learning more and more of Georgia's vast opportunities and, most important of all, Georgians themselves are becoming alert to the potential as well as actual greatness of their state.

In Georgia politics the question is largely one of elimination.

Many a June graduate will march out to conquer the world, and some will—a small crevice in it, at least.

Congress in its prohibition legislation would hardly go so far in restricting personal liberty as to prohibit a man from having a mint bed for his own personal use.

South America's Good Will.

The growing friendship between the United States and its South American neighbors was happily witnessed in the President's signature of the recently enacted bills raising our government's legations at Argentina and Chile to the rank of embassies. One of the gold pens with which the measures were signed was presented to Minister Naon, of Argentina, and the other to Minister Suarez, of Chile. "Let me say, gentlemen," spoke the President, "how gratifying it is to me that it should fall within my time that this long-deserved recognition of the full rank and sisterhood of your two countries should have been accorded. I want to look forward, if I may, to closer and closer relations with our sister republics, whom we so honor and whom we are so glad to be associated with."

The recognition of "the full rank and sisterhood" of these nations will strengthen all Latin America's good will toward the United States and will open richer prospects in both diplomacy and trade. The present administration has done much to overcome the feeling of suspicion with which South American countries had begun to regard the United States, and has cleared the way for a new era of friendly and profitable intercourse.

With the biggest wheat crop on record, Uncle Sam is in shape to stand a lot of prosperity.

Once more we ask leniency of our creditors, this time until we see how the cotton crop is going to pan out.

Now that there is no likelihood of congress considering the prohibition amendment at this session, we shall order a supply of the raw material and turn the hose on the mint bed.

THE GENTLEMAN

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1914, by Frank Crane.)

What is a Gentleman?

First, he is a Man; and second, he is Gentle. That constitutes a Gentleman.

To be a Man means not to be a Brute. His spirit is above the body and always in command.

His principles never give way to policy. His convictions are stronger than his fears. "I Ought" means more to him than "I Want." He is superior to his pleasures.

To be a Man also means not to be a Woman. No reflections upon Woman, who is in many ways a superior being; but a man ought to be a Man.

The Gentleman is a Man; that is, he is virile, masculine, strong, forceful, masterful. The womanly woman has her ways; they are adorable, but they are not a Man's ways. The attractiveness of each sex consists in its being true of type; when it apes the other it is disgusting. The ladylike Man is as offensive as the mannish Woman.

A Gentleman is not only a man, he is Gentle. That is, his masculinity is exerted with self-restraint.

His is the iron hand, but in a velvet glove. His motto is: "Suaviter in modo, fortiter in re"—suave in manner, inflexible in purpose.

Here are some of the marks of a Gentleman:

He is quiet in speech, in dress, in manner.

He hates exaggeration; he does not use profanity, which is the resource of impotence in expression.

He is not an egotist nor a boaster.

He does not seek honors nor office, but waits till they come to him.

He gives you the impression of being interested in you, and not of trying to get you to be interested in him.

The one note of his clothing is that it is precisely what one would expect; it has the mark of good taste, which is inconspicuousness.

He is not petulant, but when irritated he keeps still or goes away.

He never threatens.

He is clean of self-pity, the pettiest form of self-indulgence.

He is never cynical. A cynic is a dog. A gentleman is a man.

He is reverent toward every woman. To despise a woman, or to treat her as common, is to him an offense to his own selfrespect.

He never advertises his virtues. He never shows that he feels himself superior to any other human being.

When you stand him beside other men you find he outstatures them by his humility. The lesser men cannot understand this.

You may trust him, but your joy in him is wholly different from your love of woman, as a tree differs from a flower.

Above all, he is loyal—to you, to himself, to all. You know where to find him.

No better picture of him can be painted than that Hebrew phrase:

"A man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

Glance Across the Rio Grande

By Savoyard

> "I do not like you, Dr. Fell;
> The reason why I cannot tell;
> But this I know quite well:
> I do not like you, Dr. Fell."

And that is the way our jingoes feel toward Woodrow Wilson. All of inter nevel spring they have denounced him for not interfering in Mexico, and now that he has ordered a naval demonstration to enforce respect for the flag they are dissatisfied with that, too. Knew if Wilson paid any attention to them he would be in this fix:

> "You can and you can't;
> You will and you won't;
> You'll be damned if you do,
> And you'll be damned if you don't."

Mondell and Willie Alden Smith have nothing but criticism for the action of the president, whose aim is to protect American lives and the flag and to force apology for unwarranted arrest of our sailors by a ruffian henchman of the butcher, Huerta.

* * *

Early after his inauguration Wilson determined that he would not recognize Huerta. That enraged his critics and forced the resignation of our minister to Mexico, who was a warm partisan of the bloody usurper. In all the assaults on the president from enemies in congress and out of congress the chief complaint has been that Wilson did not recognize Huerta.

Well, General Huerta is nothing if not astute. Suppose the murderer of McKinley had mustered the backing and usurped the office of president of the United States after his bloody work, it would have been precisely what Huerta has done. The difference is that Czolgocz went to the electric chair and Huerta went to the palace. That is all, and Wilson and Bryan, being Christian men with a horror of murder, refused to extend the hand of amity to this conscienceless scoundrel.

By the way, the New York World seems to be of opinion that the journalism practiced by one Hearst is calculated to create another Huerta, and it was asserted by Theadore Roosevelt that he believed Mr. Hearst is responsible for the assassin who murdered President McKinley.

* * *

If no foreigner had a "concession" in Mexico, that country would be as tranquil as ours. All that strife and violence and battle down there can easily be accounted for. Adventurers with capital wishes to exploit Mexico. One millionaire will get a "concession" from the government; another millionaire covets that concession. Then he has money to get it—finance a Huerta and precipitate a revolution. He will cancel the first concession and grant another to his supporter.

That is what "dollar diplomacy" has been doing in Latin America for certain years. This is the age of pelf. There are too many folks in Christendom—Europe and the United States especially—who hold that man has but one mission in this life, and that to get money, honestly and dishonestly if he can, knavishly and violently if he must.

* * *

It looks as though the usurper is nearly at the end of his rope. With the administration at Washington resolved to bring him to a sense of some sort of responsibility, and the constitutionalists victorious in the field, Huerta is bound to fall. It may be that Carranza is a bad man, but his avowed policy is beneficent and the only policy that will bring peace to his distracted country. In Villa he has a captain of superior military genius, and the two may be able to bring order out of chaos.

They announce that the fertile land of Mexico shall no longer be monopolized by a few rich men. Villa says that every Mexican shall have a patch of land of his own, his children sent to school, that peonage shall cease and the slaves be emancipated. You give every Mexican who wants to work a farm, and revolution will cease. There are millions of millions of acres to individuals, and the land monopoly of Mexico is responsible for all the turmoil down there.

* * *

Of course, Carranza and Villa intend to confiscate some, perhaps all, these immense estates, and divide them into homesteads for the people of Mexico, and, in proportion to population, there are more landless folk in Mexico than in any other country in the world. The mines also are monopolized by a few individuals, and doubtless some of these will be confiscated.

Confiscation is a mighty ugly word to a people like ours, but it might as well be understood that there is going to be no peace in Mexico until the land monopoly is broken up, and capital, wildly speculative, withdrawn from that unhappy land. Then decent and honest capital will have a show down there.

* * *

It need not astonish you if Wilson's policy of "watchful waiting" shall soon be triumphantly vindicated by the event.

Let us hope that war may be averted.

MILLS WHO WILL MUSTER IN MILITIA

BY HERBERT CORBY.

WASHINGTON.—"The National Guard," said General Alfred Leopold Mills, "has never been better equipped or better trained or better officered for service than it is today."

Which may be an important factor in the present situation if the states' militia should be called on for action. General Mills' statement may be taken as fairly representing the situation. In the first place, General Mills knows. He is the head of the division of militia affairs at the war department, and as such would have charge of the transfer of the militia to the service of the national government. In the second place, Mills wouldn't say it if it were not true. His specialty is seeing—and saying—the truth.

"General Mills," said one of his near associates, "is not one of the brilliant men in the army. He is not remarkable for scholarly attainments. But he owns a most impressive brand of common sense, combined with every soldierly quality. He is a man of sterling character and great force."

Mills is the man who reformed West Point. Before his day there as superintendent the cadets were treated like prisoners, fed upon theory and clothed in uniforms that pitched like the skin of a mushroom. If a regiment of West Point cadets had ever charged an enemy, the sound of popping seams would have been heard above the rattle of musketry. They knew a great deal about the manner in which Napoleon was whipped at Waterloo, but they didn't know how Geronimo used to lie behind a rock in order to pot soldiers. Mills changed all that.

Mills came to the academy as superintendent while he was a first lieutenant, and therefore still young. That fact did not please any one at all. The elder officers thought it impudent that a "young whiffet"—these cruel words are quoted with exactness—should be given a place that had been likened in honor to the command of the division. The younger officers were jealous, and said that his appointment was due to favoritism. As a matter of fact, it was due mostly to A. L. Mills, somewhat to Theodore Roosevelt, and partially to President McKinley. Mills was at the battle of San Juan hill in command of a company of regulars. Roosevelt's Rough Riders were being mai-treated on the slope.

"He took command of my three rearmost companies," said Roosevelt afterward, "moved them over to the right of the line, gathered up some troopers of the Ninth cavalry, and headed his detachment in the rush up the hill."

In that rush Mills was struck by a Mauser bullet which destroyed his left eye and passed completely through his head. Which did not interfere with that rush up the hill. It wasn't until San Juan hill had been captured that he gave his wound a thought. All the surgeons said he would die at once—he was the first wounded officer to be returned to the United States—merely in connection with his bravery. Fortunately, the surgeons thought it would be more economical to let him die in Cuba. But he completely regained his health.

President McKinley met him, determined that the youngster had the punch and pep the president thought was needed in the reconstruction of West Point, and made him superintendent.

"But the older officers will protest," was Mills' modest statement to the president. Whereupon, according to tradition, the president answered him in scriptural language:

"Let the older officers rage and imagine vain things," said he. "You go to West Point."

Mills found the academy being operated somewhat as a reform school and somewhat along the education-al lines that prevailed prior to the first war with Mexico. Cadets were forbidden to smoke; therefore they smoked by stealth. He let them smoke pipes on the campus. They were forbidden to leave the post; therefore they escaped by night and tore up neighboring villages. He granted them liberty leave in return for good behavior. He found them getting stoop-shouldered over their books. He retired the more grimly technical courses to the postgraduate schools, where they belong, and sent the cadets hiking over the hills to get a taste of the campaigning that he experienced in actual war. He found grooms leading their horses to them at the riding school. He taught them how to saddle and shoe horses, as well as ride them. He even made them proficient veterinary surgeons. He found hazing flourishing at West Point, successive generations of repressive measures having failed to stamp it out. He created a sentiment against it, and for the time, at least it died out. He did away with everything that savored of the automatic in the system of education, and taught his men to think.

During this time he became a captain, and Roosevelt became president. Roosevelt had seen Mills on San Juan hill, and as superintendent at the academy. So he just jumped him over 857 superiors—857, count 'em, 857—and made him a bradier general. There was the usual wail from all hands. But that promotion took. The more the senate looked into Mills and his record the more it seemed that he deserved it.

He has commanded a department in the Philippines and in Georgia, served with distinction in the earlier days against the Apaches and Sioux, and has always displayed the qualities of tact and perseverence. He hammered away at congress until the veterinary corps body gave $6,500,000 for a complete reconstruction of the West Point plant, a thing that had been begged for years.

"Mills," said one of his associates, "can do that almost impossible thing: he can speak the truth without giving offense."

The Journal's Letter Box

Stanton, Ky., May 18, 1914.

Editor The Journal:

I have just finished reading your editorial in The Journal of May 1 issue, and note what you say about canal tolls, friendship and good feeling for the countries south of us, and Japan, and it calls to mind what I heard your state's great general, John B. Gordon, say at Lexington, Ky., a few years ago, since my father, who is now dead and was with Generals Grant, Thomas, Rosecrans and Sherman, gave it hearty approval, when General Gordon said that he wished to see the north and south know and love each other better. So I would like to see our South and Central American countries know and love us better, and the dear old United States of America meet them more than half way in doing so. Keep giving us more of your good editorials, do unto others as you wish to be done by, and I am for you.

Yours truly,

Quips and Quiddities

Sir Robert Ball, the famous English astronomer, whose death occurred a few months ago, used to tell a little story of an experience that he had when he was at the Dunsink observatory. A farmer came to him one day and asked if he might look at the moon through the telescope.

"Surely you can," said Ball. "Come round tonight and I shall be very happy to let you see it through the telescope."

"Can't I see it now?" asked the farmer, surprised.

"I am sorry that you cannot," said the astronomer. "You will have to wait until night."

"Huh! Then your old telescope is not so great a thing as I thought it was!" cried the man, relieved from his illusion. "I can see the moon at night without it."—Youth's Companion.

"What kind of meat have you this morning?" asked the husband of the butcher.

"The best steak we ever had, sir," replied the butcher. "Here you are, sir; as smooth as velvet and as tender as a woman's heart."

"I'll take sausage."

THE BRITISH CRISIS

X—PRACTICAL POLITICS

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

There is something more than being subjected to a fusillade of questions every afternoon in the life of a cabinet minister or King George. There is something more than a mere opportunity to ask such questions in the life of a "back-bench" member of the house of commons.

* * *

Practical politics plays its part in this Mother of Parliaments no less than in some of the legislatures that are more modern. The chief difference seems to be that in the house of commons there is more candor in the recognition of the power of money—candor that accepts as a matter of course practices and customs that in America would be denounced as evidences of graft and corruption.

* * *

Foreigners are apt to judge Americans by our own addictions. Our newspapers denounce fraud and corruption in American politics, and the British with delightful politeness always begin a conversation on politics with an American by referring to the corrupt politics of the states. The fact that the same things are done over here, and that the only difference is that they look upon such things as perfectly legitimate, is something that can be got into their heads only by the aid of surgery and nitroglycerine.

* * *

As was mentioned in a previous letter, the custom in the United States of a rich man contributing funds for legislative candidates' campaign expenses and then getting elected to the senate might be referred to as the purchase of a senatorial seat. Over here the rich contributor to the party funds gets a peerage, but any newspaper that should charge that the purchase of a peerage would be prosecuted for libel. Worse than that, its editor would be declared a bounder. It is true that the practice is referred to in general terms as one of corruption, but no names are mentioned.

* * *

It is not only in the moribund house of lords that such things happen. Men who are known to be the special representatives of special interests sit in the house of commons as the elected representatives of a constituency of voters. Not in that vague way that the charge is sometimes made against a member of congress, but in a way that permits that member to retire in his seat and openly advocate the interests of the railroads, or the life insurance companies, or the ship builders or some other interest. But it creates no scandal, and everybody apparently agrees that it is all right and proper in every way.

* * *

A member of parliament does not have to live in his constituency. He may stand for any constituency that will stand for him. He has to pay all the expenses of holding the election, including the expenses of polling, out of his own pocket. The excellent corrupt politics act has eliminated bribery completely, and even treating, but many legitimate expenses remain, so that it costs the average member anywhere from $5,000 to $10,000 to be elected.

* * *

Until three years ago the members served without pay. The labor party began an agitation for payment of members that resulted in the present liberal government putting through a bill giving each member of the house of commons a salary of $5,000 a year. This is considered by the conservatives in the house of England to be a terrible scandal, and is referred to in the editorials and cartoons nearly every day. Demands for its repeal are made annually, but only eight members decline to receive their salaries.

* * *

The theory used to be that the special interest sending a man to parliament ought to pay his expenses, provided the member were not able to pay them himself. It is practically impossible for a member of parliament unless one is rich enough to live on his income. The labor members were supported by a tax levied on the members of the trades' unions, and their election expenses were paid in the same way. Then a court decided that such a tax was illegal under the charter of the unions, and payment of members was forced. No one objects to the payment of election expenses from a general party fund, however that fund may be raised. Full publicity of how it is spent is required, and the law enforced to the letter. The Conservatives have announced their intention that when they are returned to power they will repeal the law giving salary to members. They desire a return to the theory that a member of parliament ought to be able to support himself.

* * *

The same public sense that is shocked at the payment of $2,000 a year to a private member of parliament is not at all shocked at the payment of huge salaries to cabinet ministers.

* * *

The prime minister gets a salary of $25,000 a year, in addition to a residence and other perquisites. The lord high chancellor gets double that salary and many other emoluments. The lord lieutenant of Ireland, who holds office under the cabinet, gets a paltry $100,000. There are no less than fifteen members of the cabinet who get $25,000 a year, and most of them have a residence thrown in. The attorney general gets $35,000 a year and fees for everything he does, making that office perhaps the fattest still left in the realm of politics.

* * *

Not only is the conscience that is shocked by the payment of private members of parliament $2,000 a year unstrained by the payment of $100,000 to cabinet officers, but it holds that it is perfectly proper to pension cabinet ministers on their retirement. One "noble lord" who is a director in more than fifteen banks, railways and other large concerns, gets a pension of $10,000 a year for services he rendered as a member of cabinet that went out of office just twenty-two years ago. Another noble lord who died a few weeks ago leaving a fortune of $400,000 on which inheritance taxes were paid, has been in receipt of an annual pension of $10,000 for twenty-eight years. Two present members of the house of lords, one of whom led in the opposition to an old age pension of $1.25 a week for the aged poor, have themselves been drawing pensions of $6,000 a year for more than ten years because they have been three times given the state as ministers of the crown. One pensioner has had his stipend reduced. He has been getting $6,000 a year for fourteen years, but as he is now a member of the house of commons his pension was docked $2,000 a year in consideration of the fact that he gets that much salary. He is opposed to the payment of members.

* * *

It is only fair to say that no such pensions as these have been granted since the Liberal party came into power in 1906, although they were granted by both parties before that. The last pensioner placed on the rolls was the Hon. Herald W. Balfour, brother of Arthur J. Balfour, who retired from the premiership at the same time. Mr. Balfour resigned his pension in 1911. The only way to make this clear in the American sense is to state it in a hypothetical way. Suppose President Wilson should appoint his brother to a place in the cabinet paying $25,000 a year, and then when his administration passed out were to obtain for that brother an annual pension of $6,000 and on top of that suppose both brothers should actively oppose a movement to give members of congress, hitherto unpaid, a salary of $2,000 a year. What would happen?

* * *

This is not written to say that British politics is corrupt. According to their standards it isn't corrupt. But the plain fact is, and one that Americans ought to recognize, that their standards are not as high as those we have set up in the United States. It is a scandal to serve a special interest at Washington, it may be an honor to do so at Westminster. It is a scandal in America to expend more money in a campaign for an office than the salary of that office will amount to; it is a disgrace in England to spend less. It is a scandal in the United States for a member of congress to be suspected of representing any particular section of his constituency—over here a landlord must represent only the landlords, a labor member only the trades unions, a manufacturer only the manufacturers, on pain of instant forced retirement from political life.

FUND FOR FORREST ADAIR WILL NOT STAY CLOSED

Late Subscriptions Have Increased the Total Amount to $2,545

That fund for Forrest Adair's present from the people of Atlanta just won't stay shut.

No sooner does the committee say "the final total is so and so" than somebody else pries open the box and puts in another subscription. Inasmuch as the money is pinned to the addition, the committee has not been able to refuse any of these new donations.

Every subscriber already announced who has not paid his subscription is requested to do so at once.

One of Thursday's contributions came from W. S. Brown, treasurer of the imperial council, A. A. O. N. M. S. Mr. Brown wrote from Pittsburg, Pa., on impressive stationery of the imperial council, as follows:

"I am just in receipt of a copy of The Journal with coupon attached for popular subscription to Forrest Adair, and I desire to enroll my name on the list of contributors to this memorial. Having gone to your city with a new paper dollar and a clean collar, and not having changed either while there, and having charged same to my expense account prior to my departure for your hospitable city, I return the dollar to you for the very pleasing purpose of this sentimental. Don't give him this in cash let he might blow it in for a bass drum."

Subscriptions received with checks Thursday morning added $35 to the total, making it $2,545. Here are what the committee hopes are final givers:

W. S. Brown, imperial treasurer, A. A. O. N. M. S., $1.
Sam E. Finley, $5
J. A. Lynch, $5.
Osah, W. A. F., $2.
Atkinson & Horn, $10.
J. L. DeDive, $10.
Hamilton Douglas, $1.
J. H. McDonald, $1.
Burton Smith, $2.
Clarence Angier, $2.50.

DEAD CHILD'S MOTHER THREATENS TO END LIFE

Mrs. Sarah E. Bashlar Detained at Police Barracks at Husband's Request

Heart-broken over the recent death of her little three-year-old daughter, Mrs. Sarah E. Bashlor, 218 Crew street, is being detained at police barracks at the request of her husband to prevent her from committing suicide.

According to the police, Mrs. Bashlor swallowed strychnine Monday afternoon in a drug store on Capitol avenue, and was rushed to Grady.

She was detained at the hospital until fully recovered, and Wednesday morning, because of threats against her life, she was sent to the police barracks. She was released on promise not to kill herself, but later her husband had her locked up because she bought more strychnine, which she threatened to swallow, it is said.

CHURCH MEMBERS ARE 'STINGY,' SAYS EVANGELIST

Give to All Social Functions Instead of Aiding Work of Gospel, Declares Wolfe

"The stingiest set on God's green earth are the folks who hold membership in our churches," declared Dr. L. C. Wolfe, the evangelist, in his sermon at the Central Baptist church Wednesday night. "That is, they are stingy if you want money for purely religious work. They will give to grand opera and for social functions and anything but the propagation of the gospel."

Dr. Wolfe's subject was "Christianity Is Not Making a Living, but Living a Life." He drew his lessons from comparison of men's business methods to their church work.

Announcement was made that Dr. Wolfe will speak to women and girls at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and will speak in the Sunday school at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

THEATERS

(Publication of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater management.)

This week's bill has scored a tremendous success for the busy Forsyth theater. The headline act is Frank Keenan and company, in "Vindication." This act deals with warfare, and tells a clever story. Mr. Keenan is superb in the leading role, and his supporting company most able. John Geiger scores a big success with his talking violin. This man possesses a wonderful power over his violin and really seems to be able to make his instrument talk. The other acts help to compose a good all-round entertainment.

Next week Jesse Lasky's tremendous success, "The Red Heads," will be the headline number. Mr. Lasky, in scouring the country for talent for this, his biggest success, secured a wealth of red-haired beauties. This act will undoubtedly prove a big drawing card, for no act has been more talked about and hundreds of requests have been made by patrons to have this act brought here. Other members of pleasing qualities will be Dorothy Meuther, a character singing comedienne, with a beautiful wardrobe; Duffy and Lorenzo, a corking good singing, talking and dancing duo; Webb and Burns, two Italian character singing and musical comedians, and other acts composed of good comedy and variety.

Miss Lucile LaVerne, head of the stock company at the Lyric, isn't one of those actresses who insist on having the spot light turned on themselves all the time. She has contented herself with character parts almost throughout the six weeks she has played in Atlanta, and this week in "The Escape," the principal woman's figures are Miss Marguerite Chaffee, the beautiful leading woman, and Miss Olive Blakeney, the ingenue. But next week Miss LaVerne will be "it." She will be Aunt Mary in the famous comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," in which she starred a whole season, including a New York engagement.

In addition to "Sealed Orders," the big seven-reel war drama that is drawing large audiences to the Grand this week, the management will offer today, tomorrow and Saturday as a special feature, "The Shriners in Atlanta." This is a Pathe extra and shows the big scenes of the parades, the crowds, etc. The fact that this reel is a Pathe is enough recommendation for it, Pathe's Weekly having gained a world-wide reputation among picture lovers.

MAJOR J. O. SEAMANS IS PRAISED FOR SHRINE DRILL

Commander of Yaarab Patrol Receives Congratulations From Many Nobles

Major J. O. Seamans, commander of the Arab patrol of Yaarab temple, is receiving many congratulations from his fellow-nobles of the temple and by mail from nobles of other temples who attended the Atlanta meeting of Shriners, on the excellence of the great review and exhibition drills in Piedmont park. Major Seamans was field marshal of the review and director of the drills. The precision with which each detail of that big program was worked out well in advance of its enactment has elicited the praise of thousands of Shriners, and the program will be a pattern for the Seattle meeting next year.

Also, every member of Yaarab patrol shares in the congratulations now coming back to Atlanta from the temples whose caravans were here. The patrol did hard work, but did it so willingly and thoroughly that people on the outside thought they were enjoying it. Perhaps they were; but that doesn't alter the fact that they got little rest from their duties Shrine week.

STRIKERS DESIRE RETURN OF DISCHARGED MEN

At a mass meeting held Wednesday night strikers from the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, claiming to number 300, expressed their resolve not to work until men recently discharged from the mill were reinstated. The strikers claim these men were discharged because they belonged to their newly-formed union.

Policemen guarded the mill Wednesday afternoon and Thursday night, but no disorder was reported.

The strikers claim that 100 more men left the mill Thursday, and have issued a statement setting forth their contentions.

WASHINGTON, Ga., May 21.—A home wedding, which came as a surprise to their numerous friends, was that of 3:30 Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Frankie Ramsey, one of Washington's beautiful young ladies, became the bride of Mr. A. O Story, a young business man of Thomson.

Only the immediate members of the families were present.

Rev. J. P. Erwin, of the First Methodist church of this city, performed the ceremony.

Cheatham-Blount

The wedding of Miss Ida May Blount and Mr. Elliott Cheatham was an interesting event of Wednesday evening, taking place at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bartow Blount, on Piedmont avenue.

The impressive and beautiful ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Memminger, of All Saints' Episcopal church, and was witnessed by many friends and relatives.

The reception hall and living room were elaborately decorated for the occasion in a color scheme of green and white, palms and tropical plants being combined with stately Easter lilies in artistic arrangement.

Contrasting decorations prevailed in the library, where vari-colored sweet peas filled cut crystal vases, and in the dining room, which was charmingly decorated with a profusion pale pink poppies.

Mrs. Hamilton Block and Miss Margaret Nutting held the ribbons leading to the place of ceremony, each wearing a gown of white lace and chiffon and carrying bouquets of yellow roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Ernest Duncan was her sister's matron of honor, wearing a lovely gown of white embroidered net. The brides maids, Miss Caroline Blount and Miss Ruth Cheatham, wore white embroidered net, and all three attendants carried pale-tinted roses showered with varicolored sweet peas.

The bride was very lovely in her wedding robe of soft white satin charmeuse with artistic draperies of lace and tulle, the long tulle veil falling softly from beneath a cap of rare lace. Her flowers were a shower of valley lilies.

Mr. John Hardisty served the bridegroom as best man.

Punch was dispensed from a flower-embowered alcove in the library by Miss Grace Goldsmith and Miss Lelia Ponder, and following the ceremony the guests were served a hot supper.

Mrs. Blount, the bride's mother, wore a beautiful gown of white charmeuse with panniers of lace.

The bride is a charming young woman of unusual attainments and following her graduation at Columbia university, has traveled extensively. Lately she has been actively identified with local philanthropic and civic enterprises.

Mr. Cheatham is a prominent lawyer, standing high in his chosen profession.

Upon their return from a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cheatham will be at home with the bride's parents.

What Anne Ruttenhouse Says

One May as Well Accept the Clong Tunic, for It Is Here to Remain for Some Months.

NEW YORK.—There seems a fatality toward popularity about tunics. They have changed in shape during the last two years, gut not in name or sensationalism.

As the scorc goes now Paul Poiret has one tunic to his credit and Madame Cheruit has two. She invented the looped up tunic which was called a pannier, and Poiret invented the Minaret tunic. Up until August they stood even in sensational development, but Cheruit has scored one extra with her long tunic pleated at the waist.

This tunic has assumed many shapes, it has departed from the original, but it has not gained in grace or convenience so far. It has established a new line. It has brought the dividing of the figure well below the knees, which means that it is taken away from the hips.

The wise one think that the next step will be to lengthen the tunic into a skirt and drop the narrow lower skirt that still impedes walking.

The sketch shows one of the new adaptations of the original Cheruit model. It shows the large waistline, but the material is gathered instead of pleated and the hem is executed instead of straight. It has that upward tilt at the back which the designers have been trying in vain for six months.

The two belts which are placed at and below the waistline are accessories that Madame Cheruit produced a year ago. She has used them constantly on fabrics that were gathered or pleated at the waist for she believes that few women can stand the short waisted effect in its extreme form.

She felt that something had to be designed to offset the kind of waist women had adopted, and she had great success with these bands. They are like narrow belts and are made of ribbon material or leather.

An Odd Bodice.

The sketch shows a bodice that is unusual and very attractive. The sleeves are cut so wide and deep at the top that they form p ps of the front and back of the bodice and all of the shoulders.

On every side one sees a tendency toward this kind of sleeve, and in this exaggerated form that may find a good deal of favor. In order that no one will lose sight of this sleeve, the line where it joins the blouse is accentuated by a stitched fold of the material.

The manner of cutting out the neck may not please the American mind unless it is filled in, but it is quite easy to put in a gimpe that reaches half way to the neck. This could be of plain or figured white net or even muslin to match the high rolling collar that serves as a frame for the head.

Tea at the Wren's Nest

Mrs. E. L. Connally is chairman of the committee who will serve tea on the porch of the "Wren's Nest" on Saturday afternoon. The members of the committee include Mrs. F. J. Paxon, Mrs. John S. Spalding, Mrs. Warren Martin, Mrs. Sally E. Brown, Mrs. W. P. Patillo, Mrs. John J. Woodside, Mrs. J. T. Averill, Mrs. George Winship, Mrs. Nin Homady, Mrs. W. Woods White, Mrs. Luther Rosser, Mrs. Luther Rosser, McD. Wilson, Jr., Mrs. Charles B. Shelor, Mrs. Cherbs P. Conally, Mrs. Arthur ton, Miss Frances Conally, Miss Carrie Hoyt Brown, Miss May Robinson, Miss Lola Dean Jones.

To Mrs. Straton

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elyea will entertain informally at bridge Friday evening at their home on Peachtree place in honor of their guest, Mrs. Charles Straton, of Jacksonville, Fla.

OUR ASTROLOGER

"The stars incline, but do not compel."

HOROSCOPE FOR FRIDAY, MAY 22, 1914.

Those who read the skies announce that this is not an auspicious day, since Uranus is strongly adverse and Saturn mildly malefic.

In the early morning the sun gives promise of favors to be obtained from persons in authority. It will be wise for those who seek promotion or cooperation to make the most of this aspect, but great tact must be employed in dealing with the old, who are likely to be affected by Saturn's evil sway.

Saturn this day is supposed to produce feelings of discouragement and melancholy, which present wise judgment in business affairs. Matters of importance should be delayed.

It is not an auspicious time for any business initiative. Make no changes or removals.

According to ancient lore old buildings and dark places were especially to be avoided under this rule, as danger of falls and accidents was believed to be greatly augmented.

The aspect is held an exceedingly unfortunate one for weddings, as it is the belief that contracts entered into while this astral sway prevails will endure just long enough to produce the greatest possible regret.

Uranus has power which menaces happiness where love affairs are concerned. As the influence is said to be toward strange and unwholesome attractions, as well as toward sudden and secular changes of feeling, it is well to avoid meeting strangers.

The aspect is held to operate to increase the activity of the mind, making it dissatisfied and rebellious. Desire for new surroundings and general discontent may lead to impulsive and unwise actions.

Restraint against impulsive sarcastic and irritable speech is counseled by the seers. Conditions are not favorable to domestic harmony.

A summer of sensational history is prophesied. Death in many forms will shaken public alarm, for unusual accidents and crimes will be recorded.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the prognostication of rather an unsettled year. Men should give extra care to their business. Women should not waste time in pleasure, but should employ their energies in useful pursuits. Economy is counseled.

Children born on this day are likely to be warm-hearted and fond of company. They may be dreamy and imaginative, and, therefore, not successful in financial affairs. Many writers are born under this sign of Gemini, the twins. The principal ruling planet is Mercury.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORTON W. BURGESS.

Pray do not tip your nose in scorn
At things which others eat,
For things to you not good at all
To others are most sweet.

There are ants, for instance. You wouldn't want to eat them even if you were dreadfully hungry. Neither would Jimmy Old Mr. Toad and Buster Bear think there is nothing much nicer. Now, Buster Bear had found old Mr. Toad catching ants one at a time as he kept watch beside their home, and it had tickled Buster to find some one else who liked ants. Right away he had invited Old Mr. Toad to dine with him. But poor Old Mr. Toad had been frightened almost to death when he heard the deep grumbly-rumbly voice of Buster Bear, for he had been so busy watching for ants that he hadn't seen Buster coming. He fell right over on his back, which wasn't at all dignified, and made Buster laugh. That frightened Mr. Toad more than ever. You see, he didn't have the least doubt in the world that Buster Bear meant to eat him, and when Buster invited him to dinner he was sure of it.

But there was no way to escape and after a little while Old Mr. Toad thought it best to go, because, you know, it always pays to be polite, and so he said in such a faint voice that Buster could hardly hear him that he would be pleased to dine with Buster. Then he waved his hand cheerily, trying to get on his feet again. Buster Bear laughed again. It was a slow, deep, grumbly-rumbly laugh, and sent the cold shivers all over poor Old Mr. Toad. But when Buster Bear reached out with a great paw with long, cruel looking claws on it, Mr. Toad quite gave up. He didn't have strength enough to even kick. He just closed his eyes and waited for the end.

What do you think happened? Why, he was rolled over on to his feet so gently that he just gasped with surprise. Then he was dragged along, and when he found himself at a great paw with long claws on it, Mr. Toad quite gave up. He didn't have strength enough to even kick. He just closed his eyes and waited for the end.

What do you think happened? Why, he was rolled over on to his feet so gently that he just gasped with surprise. Then he was dragged along, and when he found himself at a great paw with long claws on it, Mr. Toad quite gave up. He didn't have strength enough to even kick. He just closed his eyes and waited for the end.

Now, said Buster Bear in a voice which he tried to make sound pleasant, but which was grumbly-rumbly just the same, "I hope you like a fine dinner waiting for us just a little way from here. You follow me and we'll have it in no time."

So Buster Bear led the way and Mr. Toad followed as fast as he could because he didn't dare not to. Presently Buster stopped beside a great big decayed old log. "If you are ready, Mr. Toad, we will dine now," he said.

Old Mr. Toad didn't see anything to eat, and his heart sank again and he shook all over. "I—I'm not hungry," said he in a very faint voice.

Buster Bear didn't seem to hear. He hooked his great claws into the old log and gave a mighty pull. Over rolled the log, and there were ants and ants, hurrying this way and scurrying that way, more ants than Mr. Toad had ever seen in all his life before.

"Help yourself," said Buster Bear politely.

Old Mr. Toad didn't wait to be told twice. He forgot all about his fright. He forgot all about Buster Bear. He suddenly found that he was hungry after all, and in he jumped right among those ants, and for a little while he was the busiest toad ever was seen. Buster Bear was busy, too. He swept his long tongue this way and he swept it that way, and each time he drew it back into his mouth it was covered with ants. At last Old Mr. Toad couldn't hold another one. Then he remembered Buster Bear and looked up a little fearfully. Buster was smacking his lips and there was a twinkle in his eye.

"Good, aren't they?" said he.

"The best I ever ate," replied Old Mr. Toad, with a sigh of satisfaction.

"Come and dine with me again," said Buster Bear, and somehow Mr. Toad didn't mind because his voice sounded grumbly-rumbly.

"Thank you, I will," replied Old Mr. Toad.

Next Story—Old Mr. Toad Is Puffed Up.

"I know where there is a fine dinner waiting for us just a little ways from here."

LITTLE PAL---WELL, HE'S WILLING TO DIE FOR HIS COUNTRY --BY LEO

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE KIDNAPPER

Spring, you old vagabond, what do you mean.
Calling me off from the work I am doing?
Can't you observe that my purse is still lean,
That I must still be achieving, pursuing?
See here, you loafer, I'm wise to your stuff;
Beat it before I get peevish and rough.

Nix on that chatter of mashies and cleeks.
What with the high-cost-of-living's tuition;
You say the day is the finest in weeks?
You say the course is in perfect condition?
Oh, well, of course, if you put it that way—
Boy, if any one calls, say I'm gone for the day.

The moth-eaten stand by is still traveling around in regard to the Reds and Browns being joke ball clubs. Just as the comic weeklies referred to "the long-haired football players" for about ten years after said hair was cropped close. The Reds and Browns may be jokes to a number of scribes, but they are far from being such to opposing clubs.

THE LUCK OF IT.

Great achievements are more than often a matter of luck. Jim Scott travels nine rounds without yielding a hit and then loses credit for a no-hit game and the game itself. Some years ago Kone, of Savannah, went thirteen innings without allowing a hit and was beaten 1 to 0. And Tesreau, with twenty-six men retired hitless, is tapped for a single by a gent batting around .170.

With only a brief pull of luck Vaughn, Tesreau and Scott would have no-hit games to their credit, but with a brief pull of luck a number of things would have happened quite differently in this bizarre world.

THE ONE SURE TIP.

The betting is now listed at 5 to 2 for America in the coming polo carnival. We might be inclined to risk a kopeck or two if the dope did not favor America to win. Our system has always been to forecast the result via the purling dope and then bet the other way. And this goes for any game you care to ring in, with only Brickley and Baker barred.

THE PIRATE JINX.

Unless the Pirates can disperse the Giant jinx upon their home sod they are up against another splash of trouble and disaster.

This jinx has or have practically subdued the Pirates for a run of four seasons. In four years play at Pittsburg, New York has won 27 games and lost 9—a steady average of three out of four. To invade a pennant-dreaming metropolis for four campaigns and wrench off three games out of every four starts is enough to leave that metropolis submerged. Unless the Pirates can invent some system of shooting the harpoon into the Giants on Pittsburg soil the answer is entirely too obvious to call for additional comment.

A ball club is supposed to make its best stand within the fragrant odor of home cooking. And when a club exhibits a percentage of .250 at home against .750 for the invaders, the obviousness of the ultimate answer is again apparent to the understanding.

You can take sin off now—the risk is small. The Athletics and Giants are moving up toward the top and Ty Cobb is drifting on toward .400. Lamming the aspect of the calendar offers no surer tip on summer's approach.

PERSONAL NOTE.

According to Walter J. Travis, a golfer only looks at the ball with one eye—that being the left. And then again a golfer doesn't look at the ball with either eye. The only chance for him to see said ball as the stroke is made would be to have eyes under the bottom of his chin.

PROFESSIONAL GOLF.

The controversy now on in regard to the professionalizing amateur golfers recalls old Hughey Fullerton's comment along this line.

"Paying me $10,000 a year for my golf playing wouldn't make me a professional," he said, "not when they look at my scores."

It is still well enough to remember that Pittsburg is now well beyond her average standing, in late May, and that, as usual, she is likely to play her best ball after June. It will take the end of the eastern invasion to show whether the Pirate slump was merely a brief lapse or whether it was based upon some inherent weakness. No ball club can be judged by one series, and there can be no question but that Clarke has a much better machine this season than he has shown for some time.

Last season Detroit lost twenty-five games by one run. This season Detroit is landing most of those nip and tuck battles. Which shows that quite often there is only a slight edge between a flag contender and a second division finish. From now the Tiger test should be complete. The club's offensive strength will be well tested against Boston and Washington where pitching abounds, and the club's defensive strength will be tested in Philadelphia, where the wallop is still said to be extant. Between these two cross fires we should have a tidy line on the Tiger outlook by June.

STALLINGS REBUTTAL.

I buried them from the bottom, where they'd lingerered many a year
I canned the curse upon them and I brought them back the cheer;
I battled like a Trojan and I labored like a Turk.
But at last the law of gravity is getting in its work.

Cobb Out With A Broken Rib

DETROIT, Mich., May 21.—A dispatch received here last night from Boston says Ty Cobb, the Detroit outfielder, will be out of the game for a week or ten days because of a broken rib.

The injury was received Monday in the game with Boston, when Foster hit Cobb with a pitched ball. The break is said not to be serious. This is the first time in the Georgian's major league career that he has been out of the line-up because of an injury.

HANLON WILL BOX JIMMY PERRY AT ORPHEUM TONIGHT

Jimmy Perry, of Pittsburg, and Eddie Hanlon, of Atlanta, will hook up for a scheduled ten-round boxing match at the Orpheum theater tonight. This bout was originally scheduled for Shriners' week, but was called off. It is understood that since that time these boys have signed a new agreement to box on a winner-take-all basis.

Both boys are well known to local fight fans. Perry is a rather clever boxer, and carries a stiff punch. Also he has something on Hanlon in the matter of experience. For these reasons he rules favorite over the local battler.

On the other hand Hanlon has improved considerably in the past six months, and evidently figures that he stands an excellent chance of trimming the Pittsburger, or else he would never have signed on a winner-take-all basis. It is a fact that Hanlon himself can hit and hit hard. However, it remains to be seen whether he can land on Perry.

In addition to the main bout the preliminaries have been arranged. Kid Wonder will meet Battling Robinson in the opening bout, while Bridges and Jones will meet in another six-round affair. In the semi-final Young Howard will meet Stump Goodwin.

Journal Trims Chelena Team

The Atlanta Journal baseball team easily defeated the Chelna Market nine Wednesday afternoon, 13 to 3. The game was staged at Piedmont park and a fair-sized crowd turned out to witness the affair.

Osborne was on the mound for The Journal, and held the Chelna team to three scattered bingles. Besides hurling a brilliant game he had a great day at the bat. In five trips to the plate he rapped out four safe hits. With the proper support from his team mates he could have shut out his opponents.

Simmons also featured at bat, getting four hits out of five times up.

Tesreau in Form And Giants Win

CINCINNATI, May 21.—Tesreau had the Cincinnati players completely at his mercy Wednesday and New York won easily, 5 to 0, thereby breaking even on the series. Only one Cincinnati player reached third base during the contest. The hitting of Doyle, Merkle and Tesreau and the fielding of Herzog enlivened the contest.

The game was staged at Brisbine park, and a large crowd turned out to root for their favorite team.

Georgia's Food Supply And Live Stock Industry

NLESS a person actually knew how low down the people of this state are sending away for food supplies of different kinds they would not believe if anyone told them how much money we actually spend annually for our supplies. And, it is possible for us to raise here at less cost everything that we use than it can be produced in possibly any other state. But, we have never gotten in the habit of doing so. There-fore we have neglected this most important part of our work. But, things must change or we can never stand this terrible drain every year on making an sufficient quantity of feed to carry through the winter all the live stock. This has made many people skeptical of accumulating and having on hand every year a big lot of animal and taking a chance on having something to winter them on. Other sections of country have found out how to do this and we must do likewise. There are certain things that must depend on as a feed and we must plant these things and prepare annually for these food supplies. If the western farmer has gotten rich off of the cotton planters raising corn and live stock on high priced land and ruined for it about one-half what we can get for these products, why is it that we cannot do so? There must be a reason somewhere.

The western farmers have grown rich year by year raising mules, cattle, poultry, corn and hay. They have shipped them to the south and received for them the hard-earned cotton money, when we can make more corn and hay of all kinds per acre anywhere in the south than can possibly be had by the western farmers, even on land worth about one-tenth as much as their land. We have gotten in the habit of growing cotton and taking a chance on getting money enough for it to pay for these things and it is really a habit as much as anything else that keeps us continually in debt. This is the only thing that we depend on as a food and money with any kind of live stock or poultry. The ravished insects have been very often we have a drought and a man cannot figure for a certainty every year on making a sufficient quantity of feed to carry through the winter a big lot of live stock. This has made many people skeptical of accumulating and having on hand every year a big lot of animal and taking a chance on having something to winter them on. Other sections of country have found out how to do this and we must do likewise. There are certain things that must depend on as a feed and we must plant these things and prepare annually for these food supplies. If the western farmer has gotten rich off of the cotton planters raising corn and live stock on high priced land and ruined for it about one-half what we can get for these products, why is it that we cannot do so? There must be a reason somewhere.

The western farmers have grown rich year by year raising mules, cattle, poultry, corn and hay. They have shipped them to the south and received for them the hard-earned cotton money, when we can make more corn and hay of all kinds per acre anywhere in the south than can possibly be had by the western farmers, even on land worth about one-tenth as much as their land. We have gotten in the habit of growing cotton and taking a chance on getting money enough for it to pay for these things and it is really a habit as much as anything else that keeps us continually in debt. This is the only thing that we depend on as a food and money with any kind of live stock or poultry. The same old story every year. But when will the change come? Possibly not until it is forced upon us by the boll weevil or something else probably more serious.

A change must come, and it looks like some one must start with capital would study the situation as now exists in the west and undertake the live stock business in Georgia on similar lines to which it has made many western farmers immensely wealthy. The chance is here for people with capital to do this and it will be a big thing for the future of their efforts.

If good beef cattle, hogs and horses were raised in great quantities, acclimated here in the south, it would be no trouble for the producer to attend some of our leading fairs and have an auction sale, sell these animals to the farmers, for one-third cash and the blance in one, two and three years at 6 per cent interest. In his way many good breeding animals would be distributed in different communities over the south and be seed sown that would certainly bring a wonderful crop in the hands of thousands of people to get the advantage of better breeding animals than they now have. If the western breeders can come in our midst and buy our native cows by the hundreds, pay a big freight rate on them, take a load in a shipment, carry them to the west and breed them on to good animals, produce neat and ship it back to us at four or five times what they paid us for it, why not some of our people out here get busy and take advantage of them? If it seems impossible to get our people to see that sooner or later we must make a change and must take up and do the very things that the western farmers are getting rich by doing and we must take advantage of their object lessons.

I have seen twice during the past two years one big western breeder come in the south and in a few hours sell enough of these good animals to go back home with almost $10,000 in cash in his pocket. You can imagine what a big profit he received for his efforts, when his brood sows and breeding males in hogs brought from $50 to $500 each, his beef bulls averaged more than $250 each and his draught stallions sold for $500 to $2,000 each. Some of it all was carried into cash and good paper in a few hours. He has not only made money for himself, but he has helped materially every community in which these animals were distributed. The good seed sown on a side issue to get any money out of. Therefore he had to raise corn, hay and grain and converted it into cash through his live stock.

This same state of affairs is being done by thousands of people and it is the thing that has made the western farmer rich. Annual auction sales are conducted nearly every year on many western farms, and sometimes several times during the year by all of the big breeders, especially of the east and west. There is a better opportunity in the south for a thing of this kind to be done than anywhere in the world, because if there ever was a country that needed good animals it is throughout the southern states. The people are beginning to realize this, and the opportunity is here for the man with capital who will take up this line of work and push it. They can make ten times as much profit is they are now doing by planting cotton and sticking to some other lines of industry that are overworked. We will sooner or later be forced to take up the breeding of live stock. Therefore the people who get at it first are sure to be the ones who will make the largest amount of money out of it. And, as we grow any amount of hay, ensilage and grain on one year with another, the live stock cattle industry is no one to get a way longer, but thoroughly investigate these things and get busy on this line of work as soon as possible, and the men who do so will be the ones who will reap a rich harvest and make a tremendous fortune.

Yours very truly.

Alabama Street and Central Avenue Corner Brings $60,000. West Peachtree Corner in $56,500 Exchange — $24,000 Marietta Street Sale—West North Avenue Sale — Small Sales—Another Apartment Permit—Investment Demand

More sales and other real estate developments were announced Thursday than on any other day this year. Several other announcements are scheduled to come during the week.

The H. F. Bishop and L. O. Turner syndicate has sold for T. A. Perry to S. L. Verner the property at the southeast corner of Alabama street and Central avenue, consisting of a three-story building on a lot fronting 27 feet on Alabama street and 135 feet on Central avenue.

The building is occupied by several tenants and brings a substantial rental. No details were given out by the agents, but the price brought by the property was reported elsewhere to have been about $65,000. It was a sale, without exchange features.

W. PEACHTREE EXCHANGE.

The B. F. Burdett Realty company sold for Mrs. Annie B. Armistead to D. W. Meadow, the northeast corner of West Peachtree and Kimball street, known as the Konts property.

The latter has a frontage of 190 feet on West Peachtree street, and 75 feet on Kimball street, with a two-story frame house on it. It was valued at $56,000.

Mrs. Armistead took as part payment a large lot 360x867 on Piedmont avenue, between the Peachtree and Roswell roads, known as the almshouse site, which was valued at $20,000.

MARIETTA STREET SALE.

Papers went to record on Thursday transferring from H. E. F. Jones and J. P. Oglesby to Sigmund and Augustus Weil a tract of railroad frontage on Marietta street, 90 feet south of Emmett street, for a consideration of $24,000.

This property fronts 9 feet on Marietta street, with a depth of 260 feet to the railroad, where there is 100 feet of frontage.

NORTH AVENUE SALE.

Another transfer disclosed the sale by Mrs. Carrie Oliver to A. L. Dunn of 6 West Norths avenue, a dwelling on a lot 50x190. No consideration was given.

SMALL REALTY SALES.

Several more small sales came in for announcement on Thursday.

Parris & Tyson report the following sales:

By Mr. Tyson No. 41 Orleans street, a five-room cottage on a lot 42x108, from G. W. Green to Philip Loubenstein for $1,900.

No. 204 Dill avenue, a five-room cottage on a lot 50x135, from Mrs. Emma Cole to W. H. Middlebrooks, for $2,200.

By Mr. Parris, five acres facing the Stone Mountain car line at Coolidge station, improved with a twelve-room residence, servant house and barn, from Dr. B. L. Hoskins to Mrs. R. T. Pace, of Stone Mountain, who will make it her home.

For Mr. Parris to W. E. Worley seven lots on Rock Springs avenue, near Piedmont avenue and Rock Springs school. Price not given. Mr. Worley bought these for investment and proposes to put in sewers, lay the walks and connect with the new water main now being put down on Rock Springs avenue to Piedmont avenue.

The firm of Parris & Tyson is dissolved, Mr. Parris continuing business at the same office, 1125 Atlanta National Bank building.

BUILDING NOTES.

Building made another good showing on Thursday, when permits during the morning aggregated over $50,000 in value.

Among them was one for $25,000 to Hamilton Douglas for the erection of a frame apartment house on Eighth street to cost $25,000.

INVESTMENT DEMAND.

The demand continues strong for investment property or any other kind for which there is a practical need, such as lots ready to build on, or residences ready to occupy.

The demand for investments is best for properties up to $15,000 in value. One agency recently advertised a store proposition at $13,500 on an 11 per cent basis and had three customers for it that day. The property was sold.

Any property at all desirable and showing a return around 10 per cent can be sold. The fact is a good deal of money that has been hoarded is now seeking investment.

The market couldn't be in better shape from the standpoint of the buyer, and those who ordinarily keep out in boom times are recognizing that now is the time to come back.

YOUNG MAN IS HELD FOR FIRING AT POLICE

A young man who gave his name as Will C. Knight, his age as 21 and his address as 88 Jett street, is held by the police on suspicion. They say he is one of two men who early last Sunday drew a revolver on Policemen Holley and Austin at Western Heights.

Knight, the police say, has a police record, and was involved in a safe robbery at Milledgeville. The other man has not been located.

Holley and Austin saw two suspicious looking men in Western Heights at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, but when the police approached them, one covered them with a revolver. The police fired, and the two men fled, apparently untouched by the bullets.

EAST ATLANTA CLUB WANTS FIRE STATION

Passes Resolution Urging Council to Make the Necessary Appropriation

The East Atlanta Improvement club has adopted resolutions urging the general council to provide an appropriation to build and equip a fire station in that section of the city.

The nearest fire station to East Atlanta is the present time is the station on DeKalb avenue, which is one and a half miles distant. Although this station is equipped with an automobile apparatus, which reaches a fire much quicker than horse-drawn apparatus, the East Atlanta people feel that hore than one apparatus might be necessary to handle a fire in their section, and in this event the nearest horse-drawn apparatus is more than two miles distant.

The resolutions adopted by the club will be filed with the general council and probably referred by council to the finance committee. The club is in hopes the committee will find the money to make the appropriation in the June sheet, which is shortly to be prepared.

FAMOUS PISGAH FOREST BOUGHT FOR GOVERNMENT

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Appalachian White Mountain forest reserves, consisting of 86,000 acres, Congressman Lee, of Georgia, is a member, today purchased the famous Pisgah forest, constituting a part of the Baldwin estate in North Carolina. The commission negiotated the trade with the widow of the late George Vanderbilt, who established the Biltmore estate. It is understood Mrs. Vanderbilt was anxious that the federal government should own the famous forest and sold it at a great sacrifice, $250,000 less than was asked by her husband.

HICKS GETS M'CLESKEY'S PLACE AS GAME WARDEN

State Game Commissioner Charles L. Davis issued an order removing M. P. McClesky, game warden for Cobb county, from office and appointing C. M. Hicks, of Marietta, to succeed him.

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Congressmen Webb, of North Carolina; Fitzhenry, of Illinois, and Volstead, of Minnesota, constituting the committee that investigated the charges against Federal Judge Emory Speer, probably will hold their first joint conference early next week. Following this conference, it is believed that the findings of the committee will be submitted shortly to the House judiciary committee for consideration.

The belief continues that the three members will not agree, and that two reports—one signed by Webb and Fitz-Henry, and the other by Volstead, will be presented.

Owing to hte press of legislative business engaging the attention of the judiciary committee, Messrs. Webb, Fitz-Henry and Volstead have been forced to work individually in their analysis of the testimony that was taken by them at Macon and Savannah bearing on the charges against Judge Speer. They have never compared notes, and it is stated that none of the three is informed as to the tentative decision of the others.

BIGGEST VESSEL AFLOAT STOPS NAVIGATION IN N. Y.

Liner Vaterland Defied All Efforts to Dock Her as She Swept Down Stream Mile

NEW YORK, May 21.—Navigation in the North river, between lower New York and Hoboken, stood still today while the Vaterland, biggest ship afloat, defied all efforts to dock her and swept broadside down the stream for more than a mile.

While the liner arriver at her pier after her maiden voyage, her great length and a strong ebb tide proved too strong a combination for the fleet of willing tugs that urged her toward her berth. For more than three hours the tugs pulled and hauled, at the gigantic liner without success. Once she was almost ready to tie up when the tide gripped her and dragged her out of the slip. Everyboats and small craft scurried to safety as the leviathan floated broadside down the river with twenty tugs circling frantically around. She floated a mile before the tugs got her straightened out, and then she returned under her own steam.

Three thousand persons aboard, impatient to land, watched the maneuvers without showing any alarm, although there were moments when the steamer narrowly missed crashing the end of a pier. Thousands watched the struggle from the skyscrapers facing the river.

Twice the Vaterland's great draught made her bottom foul.

While the contest was in progress ferry schedules were suspended and the Atlantic liner Barbarossa was penned in her slip unable to go to sea. The Vaterland, 950 feet long, dominated the river. She fought to attempt to dock the ship proved successful.

Gordon Jarrell Killed

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21.—In the language of Mark Twain, the report of the death of Conductor Everett L. Jarrell last night was "slightly exaggerated," as it was flagman Gordon C. Jarrell who was fatally injured by being run over at Ohio and died late in a Savannah hospital. The mistake was not discovered until this morning, when it was found that an error had been made in registering the name of the injured man on his arrival at the hospital.

SALTILLO REPORTED ABANDONED TO FATE BY FEDERAL TROOPS

and complete capitulation of Huerta to all of the demands of the Washington government. With a solution of this problem and the republics of Central and South America in accord concerning the future policy of Mexico, the mediators believe Carranza, Villa and their associates would subscribe to their findings, and bloodshed would end.

Squadron of Cavalry Is Aiding the Rebels

(By Associated Press.)

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, MAZATLAN, Mexico, May 20.—(Via Wireless to San Diego, Cal., May 21.)—An army of 5,000 constitutionalists, having occupied Tepic with a loss of 400 killed and an unknown number of casualties among the federals, has begun its advance on Guadalajara. In advance of the moving troops a flying squadron of cavalry is working destruction to the Huerta lines of communication, its main object being the crippling of the railroad from Manzanillo to Guadalajara.

Women Aid Federals In Fight With Rebels

ESTANCIA, Chihuahua, Mex., May 21—Via El Paso, May 21.—Women took a prominent part in the fighting at Zaritche Sunday. As the federal soldiers swarmed from the cars, some of the women dragged out and broke open boxes of ammunition, carrying the cartridges to the federal soldiers in the face of the constitutionalist fire. Others crouched on the iron roofs of the cars, took up the rifles of the wounded and loaded and fired with all the coolness and determination of veterans.

A half dozen women made a desperate effort to bring a machine gun on one of the flat cars to bear on the constitutionalist troops but before they could get it into position the male soldiers had surrendered.

Officials Are Watching Mediation Developments

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson and his advisers today gave their attention to reports of the opening of the Niagara conference and confidently awaited next developments in the mediation proceedings.

Reports of the American delegates—Justice Lamar and former Solicitor General Lehmann—were received at the White House over a private telephone wire direct from the mediators' headquarters on the American side of the border.

While determination to delay pressing his campaign against Saltillo until a forty-mile stretch of railway had been repaired and cleared of disturbing reports from Vera Cruz and Mexico City appeared to administration leaders the opportunity to address, practically all their attention toward Niagara Falls.

Huerta's denial that his delegates were authorized to concede his elimination, if that appeared to be a precedent necessary to the success of mediation, caused little uneasiness. Such a public proclamation by Huerta was not to be expected, despite assurance from various sources that ultimately he would not stand out against a proposal for his retirement.

Government officials today were pleased over news of cordial and informal personal relations among members of the two missions and the South American envoys that marked the opening of the conference. Such conditions were considered unusually propitious for the serious phases of the proceedings that will be encountered later.

There remained, however, disturbing factors in the equation today. The continued absence of news of the movements of John R. Silliman, American vice consul held by the federals at Saltillo and later reported to be on his way to Mexico City, caused some apprehension. Huerta had not reported the fate of Samuel Parks, the American soldier who was reported to have been executed after wandering from Funston's lines at Vera Cruz. It was said, however, the federal dictator had instituted an investigation.

AMERICANS DEFEATED BY ENGLISH GOLFERS

McFarlane Plays Best Game on Record to Beat "Chick" Evans, of Chicago

(By Associated Press.)

SANDWICH, England, May 21.—Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, today was beaten 4 up and 2 to play, by B. C. McFarlane, a Scottish golfer, and Harold Weber, of Toledo, was defeated by Captain Cecil K. Hutchinson, of the Ireland Ancient club, St. Andrews, 6 up, and 4 to play, in the fourth day's play for the British amateur golf championship. Evans and Weber were the only Americans left in the contest. Originally there were ten.

Harold H. Hilton, the pesent title holder, was eliminated by Edward Blackwell, of St. Andrews, Scotland, who beat him 2 up and 1 to play.

The card of the Evans-MacFarlane match follows:

Out—MacFarlane	..343 642 332—21
Evans	.....443 655 435—37
In—MacFarlane	...444 646 3—34—55

TUBBS OUT.

H. H. Tubbs, of Littlestone-On-Sea, who recently defeated Ferdie Quimet, was beaten today in the fourth round by H. Ellis, of the Royal and Ancient club, by 2 up.

YESTERDAY'S PLAY.

The excellent playing of Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, and Harold Weber, of Toledo, carried them through to victory in their respective contests yesterday.

Francis Ouimet, the American open champion; Frederick Herreshoff, New York, and Arthur D. Lockwood, Belmont Springs County club, Massachusetts, lost their matches yesterday.

Weber won two matches yesterday, defeating his first opponent by 7 up and 6 to play, and his opponent in the third round by 3 up. His score going out in the morning was 38, which is considered good. Later, Dr. Gillies, of London, now one of the strongest favorites, did it in 32. Weber failed to show as well in the afternoon and he took 39 to get out and 82 for the round.

Ouimet's defeat, by the youthful player, Tubbs, of Littlestone, was unexpected. Tubbs is little known outside of Littlestone. Tubbs was "scratch" there when he was seventeen years old. Ouimet was 2 up on his second and third shots. His chief weakness lay in his failure to get distance in his approach, in fact, in his every effort.

Evans yesterday did poor work with his wooden clubs after the first few holes, but he improved in putting, which had been indifferent going out.

Herreshoff also finished strongly in both his matches yesterday. He won handily in the morning contest by 4 up and 3 to play, but in the afternoon he could not quite make up his bad start against the Hon. Michael Scott, the ex-champion of Australia and France, losing on the 18th green.

All the American players are planning to enter the French championship, and all except Travers will compete in the British open championship.

"Chick" Evans' mother was an interested spectator of her son's playing today. She followed him about the course.

Walter J. Travis Wins Gold Medal at Englewood

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., May 21.—Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, former holder of the British and American amateur golf championship titles, won the gold medal with the low score of 145, in the 36-hole qualifying round of the championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf association over the Englewood Country club's links yesterday.

Jerome D. Partridge, of Bedford, N. Y., and Oswald Kirkby, of the home club, finished close to the veteran with scores of 150 each. C. B. Van Vleck, jr., of Baltusrol, was three strokes behind the pair with Max R. Marston, his clubmate, fifth. There were 183 starters.

Play today and Friday will consist of 18 holes of match play and the final round of 36 holes for the title and custody of the trophy will take place Saturday.

Play was resumed early today with thirty-two surviving aspirants for the title now held by Jerome D. Travers.

The veteran, Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, and Oswald Kirby, of the local club, who led the field with scores of 148 and 150, respectively, in yesterday's medal play, were separated in the upper and lower brackets of the draw for the championship match play round today, and so were Max R. Marston, last year's interscholastic champion, and the former Yale player, Dwight Partridge, both of whom had cards of 73 in their first round yesterday.

With two rounds of eighteen-hole match play decided today, the field will be reduced to eight men for the second round tomorrow.

RAILROAD MONOPOLY UNDER REGULATIONS FAVORED BY MELLEN

nation." In response to a question regarding the acquisition of certain Massachusetts trolley lines, Mr. Mellen said:

"My interest in the Massachusetts trolleys was personal. I bought them myself and paid for them with my own money. I would have lost money if the stock had gone down. It went up and I made money. I made a total of $22,500."

Taking up the acquisition of the Rhode Island trolleys, asked Mr. Mellen:

"What assurance did Senator Aldrich give you to be transmitted to the New Haven directors?"

"I do not remember any," Mr. Mellen replied.

Mr. Mellen stated his impression was that when Mr. Aldrich saw him at Stockbridge he made some allusion to resuming negotiations for acquisition of the Rhode Island trolleys.

HAD TO TAKE ALL.

Mr. Mellen further said the United Gas and Improvement company refused to separate the Connecticut and Rhode Island trolleys. The intimation was that the New Haven had to take the properties in both states to get the Rhode Island trolleys.

"Has the deficit that resulted from the purchase of the Rhode Island trolleys ever been made up?" Mr. Folk asked.

"No, but I am confident it will be," said Mr. Mellen.

"So you paid $19,000,000 or $20,000,000 for property worth about $8,600,000?"

"I do not accept your valuation of $8,000,000."

"How do you estimate the value in a case like that?"

"When I value a purchase I consider its prospective value, what it ultimately will be worth."

In explaining the purchase of the Rhode Island trolleys Mr. Mellen said the price paid was in debentures of the Rhode Island Security company, securities guaranteed by the New Haven railroad.

J. O. COCHRAN EXPLAINS COLORS OF BALLOTS

Desires Public to Understand Why Some Pink Ballots Were Used in Second Ward

J. O. Cochran, secretary of the Fulton county Democratic executive committee, desires the public to understand why ballots of different colors were used in the Second ward in the county primary on May 8. He says:

"Mr. Charles G. Turner, one of the candidates for county commissioner, has filed a protest against all votes cast in the Second ward because part of the ballots were printed on white paper and part on pink paper. There seems to be some misunderstanding among citizens as to why this happened.

"Following the usual custom as secretary of the committee, and in charge of the details of holding the primary, I had 15,000 ballots for use in the city wards printed on white paper and 3,000 ballots for use in the county precincts printed on pink paper. These numbers corresponded approximately to the total registration of the city and county respectively.

"When I opened the ballots on the day before the primary I discovered that the printer had made a mistake and printed 14,000 white ballots and 4,000 pink ballots. It was then too late to have the mistake corrected. Rather than send to any city ward a fewer number of ballots than the total registration for that ward, I decided to use some of the pink country ballots for the city. I deemed it best to send them to one ward, so as keep them together. So I sent them to the Second ward.

"The white ballots and pink ballots were exactly the same, except the difference in the color of the paper. In having the country ballots printed on pink paper, to distinguish them from city ballots, I simply followed a custom that seems to have been observed for years."
