SOLID ROUND OF FUN
AND FROLIC ON PROGRAM

Whole Families of Georgians Are Coming to Take Part in the South's Greatest Jubilee

Dozens of families are bound for Atlanta a mile a minute to make a solid round of fun for next Thursday and the people of Atlanta are in line and hominy will transform the city into one vast carnival of riot and revelry.

Mr. T. Weather, man is going to do his part.

He has a plan for "write and gravy,"
he declared Monday morning, "and you have that strong, long, for Annals and Georgia and Prosperity and the whole of it, and Thursday is the day for the weather man to show you how to do it."

Mr. Weather may continue through Thursday night, he declared, and rain for the next forty-eight hours will be one grand clearing of the weather man's hand.

The promise of the weather man time in other preparations to make a program of weather and that Atlanta will remember long
the weather man's hand.

JOY TO BE UNFOLDED
From the time the silver bells blow
the monster parade, the weather man will be in the city, and the weather man will be in the city.

These are coming from so far south as Florida and so far north as the Carolina line—whole families of Georgians who will take advantage of the low fares and the opportunity to see the Christmas parade and see
the weather man's hand.

In the Wake
Of the War
With Corey

After a week's lapse Herbert Corey is getting his letters through to America again, and they probably will appear regularly in The Journal in the future. Mr. Corey has reached Berlin, and his articles will deal with conditions in the German side.

BY HERBERT COREY.

(Copyright, 1918, by Herbert Corey.)
BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The first of an entering Germany. The first in the air of smiling assurance with which you are greeted on every hand. Each round German face wears a smile. Each German shakes hands warmly. Pretty soon
he will ask:

"Aren't you surprised to find everything is perfectly normal in spite of the war?"

The second thing one notices is that nothing is normal at all. That German smile, I fear, is a smile of the lips.
The German finds himself alone.
The truth is that he is whistling and whistling in perfect time and time. The German is whistling and he is apt to sound a note of uncertainty.

"How long do you think the war will last?"

When I say that things are badger, very bad, Germany does not refer at all to the final issue of the war.
That is on the knees of the reddening of the red and the German will they may lose. I am not prophet enough to say with certainty that the war is obvious that every little shop-keeper and every manufacturer and every banker—almost every servant—has suffered in his pocket. That loss will grow at an increasing rate with every week of war.

Berlin's street lights are the brightest lights in Europe. An excellent performance is given at the Imperial opera every night. Theaters and theaters are open. The restaurants are comfortably filled—no crowding, no evening. Wherever one turns one sees in opera or theater or restaurant,
the new German uniform, the German uniform. There are no "front" signs on the streets. The German is whistling and whistling in perfect time and time.

One hears a dozen times a day the excellent music of a military band. Retail prices have been advanced by any important item. At first one gets the impression that the business man is pleased to the inevitable question one is asked: "Is the business man pleased to the inevitable question one is asked?"

"By that time," said he, "none of us will be left."

LITTLE BUSINESS
GOING ON.

MONTEVIDEO, Nov. 30.—Recent reports that the German fleet is now in the south Atlantic appear to have been confirmed here today. It is also reported that a powerful British fleet is patrolling the area.

Interuption of British shipping, and the outfitting of German merchant ships with supplies were accepted here as a confirmation of reports of the approach of the German fleet, which is now believed to be off the mouth of the River Plate.

The German steamer Patagonia is believed to have been sighted, the steamer
Cordoba with coal and the steamer
Montevideo with supplies.

Marine records show that the steamer
Cordoba was at Montevideo November 22. The steamer Cordoba was at Montevideo November 22. The steamer

The whereabouts of the German battle fleet, of which little has been heard since it sank the British cruiser Good hope and Montevideo of the coast of Chile nearly a month ago, has recently been reported by the steamer Cordoba.

GERMANS ON DEFENSIVE
IN FIGHT IN BELGIUM

Allies Take Offensive in Flanders and Report Progress Against Kaiser's Forces in That Vicinity

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Germany acknowledges that the Russian northern army has penetrated into east Prussia to a distance of fifteen miles southwest of Gumbinnen, which is about twenty miles west of the German border. At Dielisau, says the French official statement, it is the allies and not the Germans who are now the offensive.
These two points stood out in today's news from the battle fields of Europe.

The German official statement says that strong Russian forces attempted a surprise attack on the fortifications of Dielisau, but were repulsed. Semi-official information from Petrograd is that operations along the Prussian front are going to the advantage of the Russians and that the German border is in disorder. Meanwhile the great battle in Russian Poland, between the Vistula and Warta rivers, continues without change of result.

The German war office states that the Russians were defeated in a battle south of the Vistula and that 4,500 men were captured.

Further south, in Galicia, the Russians are said to have reached Gornoy
and to have begun the siege of the city.

According to the French official statement, the German forces in Belgium have made progress "at certain points."

WONDERFUL EXHIBITS ARE SHOWN BY ROTARY CLUB

Big Show at Healey Building You Can't Afford to Miss

If you are interested in seeing the different kinds of merchandise handled by Atlanta's "richest" merchants, go over to the ground floor of the Healey building and take a peep into the windows. The Rotary club opened this exhibition line of the latest shows in the exhibition line that has been seen in a long time. The exhibition will continue all of this week, so if you can't make the visit today or tomorrow, go the next day. But be sure to go some time this week, because if you do not, you will miss a treat that is offered you every day in the year.

Rotarians are "showmen." They talk promotion, not destruction, and they are the original distributors of the "made damn you, smile," poster, which has traveled from one end of the country to the other on its errand of optimism. No matter how dark the business clouds, they always see only the dove which, after all, is the only decent way of looking at things.

These exhibits represent the largest and most persistent work on the part of the Rotary club and its members are just proud of it. It's there for public inspection, day and night. All of the club's haven't been dressed up yet, but these exhibits in the windows representing twenty-one different lines of goods in Atlanta. Nearly as many as are being put into show-shops and will be ready in a day.

All of the windows have been tastefully decorated and on each is the official insignia of the Rotary club, the blue and gold. Prizes are going to be given to the best decorated window. It has been seen by the exhibitors that the club has brought out fifty-seven varieties of the decoration line.

EUROPEAN CHILDREN HAVE MANIA FOR WAR RELICS

School Boys and Girls Collect Strange Assortment of Souvenirs

THE HAGUE, Nov. 18.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—There is a school in Europe of countries remaining neutral which has not been struck by the mania for the accumulation of war relics.

First in the list of interesting items collected are the bullet heads. The little Dutch child are sometimes strange stories of ingenious schoolboy bartering.

When the war continued its dreary course and the supply of bullets increased by children of many nations, intent began to get certain specific value.

The old Belgian army bullet, made after a pattern of the year 1810, are not rated very highly. When almost thirty years old, a Belgian soldier, Belgian across the Dutch frontier and three weeks later, it was sold for a small sum.

Neither does the true consommeur give much for a bullet of the year 1810. The thousand British sailors were deprived of their ammunition when they were obliged to cross into Holland and this made British bullets too common to be valued.

But, alas, honesty even in this childish mania for war would not remain for long. One boy who desired his bullet to be a bullet of the year 1810, path which runs between the right and wrong of the collector's code.

The value of the proposed vacation schools becomes evident, when it is noted that heretofore something like ten per cent of the pupils in the Grammar schools have failed of promotion. Secretary Garrison's words of praise of General Funston's work were true. Crus are thoroughly devoted to duty. The record made by the United States troops and their commanders during the seven months of the occupation of the Mexican port is a highly creditable chapter in the history of the army. They have gone into a foreign city with arms in their hands, maintained the authority of the United States and preserved perfect discipline among the men, and at the same time to have converted an ancient port hole into a model of cleanliness, sanitation and civilization. The approval of the President and the nation and finally with its approval, was a performance that required unusual qualities by those in charge of the situation.—New York World.

By the assignment of all public land within this State to Texas, the questions of land titles in Texas were removed to the courts of that state, but for years the confusion of the contents between the Spanish and Mexican grants, the remainder of the public lands of the country filled the United States courts. In many cases the courts could not be afforded by the parties the opportunity to make a full and complete investigation to clear contesting titles and to prevent an utter confusion of legal interests in the territories. The increase of the number of cases, the expense of the litigation, and by the acts of March 3, 1893, a court of private claims was established, with jurisdiction over the whole subject. This court was organized, and it did not only decide between contesting private claims, but with the duty of ascertaining the nature of the rights of the United States in lands to unappropriated lands and those which proper should have reverted to the crown of Spain, but which were transferred to the United States by the treaty of 1803, of independence by that country, and which were transferred by treaty under treaty provisions for the government of the United States.

"Mamma, what's a bookworm?" asked small Eliot.

"A person who loves to collect and study books, dear," was the reply. A few days later a lady called whose fingers were decorated with innumerable rings. "Oh, mamma," exclaimed Eliot, "look at Mrs. Smith's rings. She must be a ringworm!"

"My husband, Bridget," she said proudly, "is a head of the state militia."

Modern Dances Are Raked Fore and Aft By Dr. Dunbar Ogden

Dr. Dunbar Ogden, pastor of Central Presbyterian church, in a sermon Sunday night on dancing, characterized the modern Parisian dances as "hell," and denounced the French dancing masters as "rotten with the rottenness of Paris and Italy."

The church has always had an attitude of warning against the theater, hard playing and dancing," said Dr. Ogden. "The church has always said it does not sanction pleasure, but because the particular pleasures have constantly possessed an evil tendency."

Let us look at the development of the dance from its common form of skipping and evolved into a spectacle of foul and obscene. People here can see the dancing in the streets of the Virginia reel were the vogue. Now the dance of the hour is the Charleston. It is something more questionable in the argument that the modern dance can be modestly danced. The argument is that the dance is a fallacious argument and allow their sons and daughters to be led into the dance by the women whose hearts are polluted with reminiscences of Paris and the night life of the city. The dance is the poetry of motion and abolish the immode- stly lifting of the bodies of the dancers.

Carlisle Meets Auburn in Final Football Game of Season Saturday

These Are Best East and West

Below Are Given All-Star Teams for Two Sections, Based on Number of Individual Selections

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The aftermath of the football season brings a number of all eastern, all western and all American selections, which, while mythical as far as actual playing is concerned, give an accurate idea of the rating of players by position. The consensus of opinion favors the following players:

PLAYER POSITION—COLLEGE.
 Fullback, left guard... Princeton End, right guard... Army Tackle, right guard... Dartmouth Tackle, right tackle... Harvard
 End, right end... Cornell
 Quarterback... Cornell
 Fullback, left halfback... Harvard
 End, right halfback... Harvard
 Tackle, right tackle... Dartmouth

For ends, Harvard, of Harvard, is a unanimous choice with Osborne, Cornell, Brown, Yale, and Meritt, of the Army, all close runners. The Army, Princeton, and Trumbull, of Harvard, are easily the choice for tackles, although Talbot, of Yale, and Abel, of Colgate, are also prominently mentioned. At guards, Harvard, virtually alone in the field. Journeay, of Pennsylvania, and McEwen, of the Army, are both put forward strongly for center with Craddock, of Washington, and Jeffery, another favorite.

Barrett, of Cornell, is the choice for quarterback, although the choice of the Army, Colgate, Dartmouth, Wilson, Yale, and Logan, Harvard, have their supporters. For halfback, Mahan, of Harvard, is selected by almost all clubs. Bradlee, Harvard; Fleming and Spiegel, Washington and Jefferson, are all given votes. The position of fullback, end, and two players as popular choices, Princeton, of Dartmouth, and LeClerc, of Yale.

The following all-western eleven is made up from selections of coaches and critics:

PLAYER POSITION—COLLEGE.
 Cherry, right end... Ohio State
 Halligan, right tackle... Nebraska
 Smith, right guard... Nebraska
 De Jardin, center... Chicago
 Chapman, left guard... Illinois
 Buck, left tackle... Wisconsin
 Graves, left end... Illinois
 Maubach, quarterback... Michigan
 Fullback... Minnesota

Maubach, of Michigan, as halfback, is about the only star who received unanimous votes. Pogue, of Wisconsin, halfback, gets the most of great credit. Practically all critics of the central states picked him for their ideal eleven.

Poor Roy Brasnahan; he loved him well, and think now who he is going against since the fans know who rules the Cubs.

Leads Indians Against Auburn

BEYOND THE LAST TRENCH.
 Here is the "Peace that passeth understanding."
 The rest that I have waited through the years:
 No more grim captains of the strife commanding,
 Worn hosts to charge the Battlement of Tears:
 No more the heartache of a vain endeavor
 Into the storm of bitter battle drawn.
 Deep falls the Night where winds come whispering, "Never,
 Never another dawn."

Never another dawn, where, to eyes weary,
 The gray light steals upon the sleeper's rest:
 The tramp of feet, the call of bugle dreary
 To end the dream or stir the shot-torn breast:
 Never another dawn with Pain's to-morrow—
 Into the storm of bitter battle drawn.
 Here at the road's end of all strife and sorrow,
 Safe through the Twilight Gates.

In panning those who have charge of our main baseball franchises it isn't always just to include the entire outfit. It is unfair to direct the same flurried at such people as Comaker, Hempstead, Navis, Gaffney, Dreyfus and others who have always acted as much in the interest of sport as in the pursuit of gain. Baseball has its share of regular sportmen who are strictly on the level and who certainly place money to higher than sport. The other type is in the minority, but this doesn't mean that the other type shouldn't be quelled.

BEYOND ARGUMENT.
 Whether it be due to Haughton or to his material, both Yale and Princeton are willing to admit that the results obtained at Harvard were eminently sufficient. The final scores were sufficient answers to the effect that there was efficiency somewhere in the vicinity at last.

WHAT FOR?
 A. L. T. requests that we offer a learned dissertation upon the comparative excellence of Harvard and Illinois. "Which eleven," writes he, "would win if they ever met?" We've lost enough football arguments this season without starting another that can have no proof. For, to start a football argument is to lose it. No one alive or dead on a football argument is in his own mind. Harvard and Illinois mopped up with ease. Why not let it go at that?

HOW WOULD YOU VOTE?
 Last winter Prof. H. Ebbets, author of "This has been an unnatural year," paid $15,000 to a Mr. A. Herrmann, of Cincinnati, for Joseph Tinker, reputed to be a shortstop of some skill. Shortly after the sale changed hands Mr. Tinker jumped bithly over to the Reds. Now Mr. Ebbets wants his $15,000 back, but Mr. Herrmann can't quite grasp the technique of any argument.

Ebbets says he paid $15,000 for nothing—that Tinker was never delivered. Which sounds reasonable. Herrmann says that when Tinker jumped he belonged to Ebbets, not to him. Which is also quite true. The league is to vote on the argument.

Should the $15,000 be split 50-50 or should Mr. Herrmann be forced to insist upon Mr. Tinker reporting to Brooklyn? Or what?

Or perhaps it might be better to send the $15,000 to European sufferers and split Mr. Tinker 50-50.

RANKING THE ELEVEN.
 It is simple enough to rank Harvard first in the East and Illinois first in the West, but the job of continuing this ranking is another matter.

At the close of the season Cornell and Dartmouth belong next to Harvard in the East if final machine strength is to be the test. These two eleven looked to have more all-around ability than any other, barring, of course, the Crimson.

The Jim out West is about as bad where the battle for second and third place would be too sanguinary to be attempted in this peaceful, neutral commonwealth.

Why talk about peace among Europe's mad millions when we can't even establish peace in such a friendly sportive pastime as baseball at home? The answer is that in the main people would rather move into trouble than move away from it. The human race is a greatly overpraised institution, take it more ways than one.

BOLD HINKY.
 We notice in a headline where "Yale may decide to retain Frank Hinky." Yale shouldn't have any other thought. Hinky must certainly produce the definite result in his first year. He was unable to compete with Harvard, but he at least started Yale from a five-year run, and, with better material next season and a year's experience, should have the Blue still farther on its way out of trouble.

All-American eleven are appearing slowly. So far we have lamed only 119. What seems to be the hitch?

Indians Offer Stiffest Test of Auburn Defense

When the husky Auburn eleven meets the Carlisle Indians here on Grant field Saturday afternoon in the sketch which will ring down the curtain on football in Dixie for the season, one of the most exciting and hard-fought battles of the season will be fought. This will be the first big international football game in which an Auburn team has ever participated. Furthermore, the charges have a purpose in view to re-align themselves for the surprise which they allowed the Georgia team to slip local fans some two weeks ago.

The Indians, on the other hand, have a bit of evening up to do. This has been a bad season for them. Beginning with a rather inexperienced team, the Redskins have bucked a terrific schedule. They have been enough to prove close runners-up, but they have failed to break away with the usual numbers of a championship team. This will be the last chance of the season, and they intend to make the most of it. They have been coming along rapidly for the past three weeks and will be in the best shape of the season when they land here. That showing against Brown was more or less of a revelation to football fans in the east.

Incidentally this game here ought to prove the stiffest test of the year for Auburn's defense. Only two or three times before has the Plainsmen's final trenches been stormed, and on each occasion they have had enough to serve to withstand the attack. The Indians will come down with power and charges and also versatility in attack. If Auburn can beat them back, it will add further to her claim that her defense was one of the very strongest ever developed in Dixie.

That the Indians will have some attack to shoot against this defense may be readily deduced from the fact that they scored two touchdowns on the second brown eleven in the last half, after having had three scored on them in the first half. These two touchdowns were registered on straight football, built chiefly around the line-smashing of Captain Calac. The Indian leader is said to come into his own, and the way in which he is expected to make a worthy response to him. Therefore Joe Guyon, Gus Welch and others who have starred for the team in recent years.

Warner's men may also be expected to put up a stubborn defensive game against the fierce line attacks of the Auburn boys. In the game with Brown, the Auburn defense made a stiff resistance to the Providence line-smashing and end-running attack that it became necessary for the Rhode Islanders to

Columbia Wants Football Again

Student Body of New York Institution Asks President Butler to Lift Ban

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A move on the part of the board of students' representatives for the restoration of football as a varsity sport at Columbia university is expected to be made at a general mass meeting at the university tomorrow, at which President Nicholas Murray Butler will be the principal speaker.

It is understood that the board of student representatives is preparing a petition which will ask that football be restored on condition that it be kept within bounds. The game was abolished in 1903. It is probable that the suggestion will be made that the plan of organization in the university be given a trial and that the team practice only one hour a day instead of the three or four hours now permitted by the system. Furthermore, the schedule will be limited to five games. If the student plan is adopted, action will first have to be taken by the university committee on athletics, and then by the university council.

LIQUIDATION AND BEAR PRESSURE CAUSE DECLINE

Market in New York Closed 1

Previous Close

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The circulation of December notices estimated at about 3,000,000, and the number of Lincolns, 1,000,000.

Some of the scattered selling at the opening of the cotton market today and first prices were unchanged to 6 points lower. There appeared to be a pretty good demand at the decline, however, and prices soon steadied, with the market ruling within 2 or 3 points of Saturday night's closing figures toward the end of the first hour. Spot issues were moderate.

The early rally carried prices about five to seven points net higher, but there was a renewal of December liquidation on the advance and prices eased off again, with the market barely steady and some 2 to 3 points net lower during the early afternoon.

Trading was less active later in the afternoon and prices held steady at a net decline of 2 or 3 points.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 10.—Cotton closed

steady today at a slight advance in spite of bearish private crop figures of 15,750,000, exclusive of linters, issued by a local authority. Improvement in the demand from buyers for investment and slender offerings from all sources appeared to be the reason for the steadiness. Half an hour after the opening prices were 2 to 6 points up.

The market became very dull late in the morning and prices eased off, standing at noon at the level of Saturday's close. At the highest of the morning the most active months were 7 to 10 points up.

It was much of a waiting market in the afternoon with the trade weighing the probabilities in connection with the government's making estimate of the crop. At 1:30 o'clock prices were 1 to 2 points up.
