SOLDIERS ARE LITERALLY WALKING BLOBS OF MUD

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, Dec. 29.—The following official report of the French army between December 14 and December 24 was announced today:
The period of nine days resulted in consolidating the successes won by us during the ten days preceding. Our aggressive attitude has been continued with even more energy; everywhere the enemy has been reduced to a defensive attitude.
The violence of counter attack has made it evident that the enemy's attitude is becoming more and more desperate. The checking of every movement made by him in his own defense has been made to us made our advantage the greater.
"It is proper to say that at various points along the front, particularly near Arras on the western boundary of the Argonne district and near Verdun, we have made ourselves the masters of important points of support."
The operations to the north of the Lys have been attended by great hardship because of the bad weather. The liquid mud in which the men have had to move has been a great hindrance to the progress of the troops. This made it impossible to shoot. The fighting consequently was done with the butt-ends of muskets and even with fists.

In Speech

WHOLE WORLD FACING BANKRUPTCY, HE SAYS

"Germany Will Never Be Beaten and We Prolong Suffering
by Allowing Shipments of Munitions of War"

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—That the United States and the European war in three months by cutting off export of war material, was the assertion of Representative Vollmer, of Iowa, today before the House foreign affairs committee. With Representative Harbo, he introduced a resolution to authorize the president, in his discretion, to prohibit such exports.
"President Wilson," he said, "suspended the export of arms and munitions to Mexico in the interest of true neutrality as against neutrality on paper."
The right of congress to impose an embargo, he said, was fully established and the only question at issue was one of national policy.
"I maintain," said Representative Vollmer, "that this resolution is in line with the historic reputation of this nation as the greatest advocate of peace. It is not in line with that reputation to supply the instruments of murder to European nations. We are to take the position of the arch hypocrite among the nations. We are to go upon our knees and pray to God for peace and at the same time supply the instruments of death to European nations."
"We are not in the position of sending dollars for Belgium and dumb bullets for Germany," he said.
Representative Vollmer emphatically declared that Germany should be determined to pay the last drop of blood.
"If this war continues it will go on until all the world is drawn into bankruptcy."
"There is only one nation which is capable of saving the world from this war," he said. "That nation is the United States. I do not hesitate to predict that Japan proposes to hold out only as long as she can. She is a nation which she has seized. She desires to dominate the world. She is the rapidly developing land of China against the world. Some day this issue must be decided. It is the interest of this country to see that the world is not divided into two camps. REAL ROAST OSTRICH ON MENU OF CLUB

City Editor of Constitution Given Place Vacated by Resignation of Hammond

Sidney Ormond, city editor of the Atlanta Constitution and one of the best known newspaper men in the South, has accepted the position of executive secretary to Mayor James G. Woodward and will assume his new duties in a few days.

Frank Hammond, who on Tuesday resigned as secretary to the mayor, left the mayor's office Wednesday and is now established in the Empire Life building as another manager of the Rochester Photo Press company.

Mr. Ormond is a native Atlantan, educated in the public schools of the city and a resident of the city for the major portion of his life. He studied to be an architect but abandoned the pursuit of the newspaper "game" and has since been a newspaper man.

His first position was on the Columbia Journal of Columbia, S. C. In 1895, a year later he came to Atlanta as a reporter on the Constitution, and in a short time to night city editor and then city editor. In 1907 he went to Memphis, Tenn., and after five years there and in Little Rock and New Orleans, he returned to the Constitution in Atlanta. Lier he was with The Journal back to New York City and then to Atlanta to become city editor of the

Mr. Ormond's experience as a newspaper man, coupled with his wide acquaintance in Atlanta, will make him exceedingly valuable to Mayor Woodward in the position he accepts.

The unruffled man, clever in the hand of Ferdinand Calles, chief of the Capital City club, forebodes the fate which will overtake the young attorney who is to be roasted for the New Year's dinner of the club members.

The members of the Capital City club will begin the new year with a dinner of roast ostrich.

There's nothing like a good roast, says Henri Broderick, steward of the club, and his idea of a good roast is to have something rare.

According to New Year's day he gives the club members a list they've never tasted before. Last time it was kangaroo. This time an ostrich. Next time it will be a baby elephant.

The ostrich arrived Tuesday night in a crate from Texas and Wednesday morning he was released from the cage which bound him by the ankle and allowed to disport with perfect ease in the brick-paved restaurant. Wearing a few times to pluck and eat a lamb from an evergreen growing in a pot on the balcony.

His nearest approach to discomfort was when the chef, Ferdinand Calles, came forth with a huge meat cleaver to pluck him in a photograph for The Journal. He viewed the cleaver with a look in which disdain was somewhat mixed with alarm, and for a moment almost forgot himself as to why he was there.

But this was a momentary only, and when the chef hooked an arm over his back he fell into step with the chef and resumed his stroll.

And when the chef led the way down the stairs to the sidewalk and took his place on a sunny spot where the camera would get a fair shot. Mr. Ormond followed with a perfectly blank face as if posing for a picture with a murderous meat cleaver poised above his head was a common everyday occurrence.

He certainly looked as good as eat," exclaimed Broderick, the steward, in reply to an astonished inquiry by a member of the club who happened along and found the bird's fate in the upstairs kitchen.

"It is not to his meat to be fed," provided the bird is young and properly cooked. The one is just four months old, as you might say. But we must not fry him. We shall dress him as a turkey in a large oven and roast him, and shall serve him a la carte on New Year's day at as much per portion. Of course you will not be supposed to make him any thing else."

progress in the region of Four de Paris. Between the Argonne and the Meuse there has been cannonading alone all the front, but particularly severe along the heights of the Meuse.

In the Vosges the enemy delivered an attack against our positions at La. Two 24. Fauch; this was repulsed.

The two new German divisions are consolidating our positions. Our heavy artillery refused to silence the German howitzers which were bombarding our positions.

Germans Make Desperate Fight for St. Georges

BERLIN.—The official communication from the German war office says:

"In the western theater of the war we still are fighting for the hamlet of St. Georges, to the south of Neuport, which has been completely evacuated owing to a surprise attack.

"Horn and ridge have been captured by the positions of both sides in Plunders and in northern France.

"The Russian Russian cavalry was driven from the direction of Pskov (four miles from the Russian front) to the south of the Niemen river."

"In Poland—On the right bank of the Vistula the Russian cavalry was driven from the direction of Pskov (four miles from the Russian front) to the south of the Niemen river."

"Reports from outside sources give the impression that Lower and Silesia are not in our possession. We captured these places more than six weeks ago. Silesia is situated far behind our front."

Russians Holding Germans Back, Say Dispatches

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Russian soldiers hold the main German army in check and continue to press their advantage, according to dispatches reaching London. At the same time they are harassing the Austrians, who have been flung back over the Carpathians.

In the west the allies continue to gain slow progress. The offensive started two weeks ago, has not yet slackened, a fact which Berlin, accepting the order issued by General Joffre as bona fide, declares means the failure of the attempted allied advance.

Even some of the British newspapers call attention to the marked decrease in the vigor of the French, British and Belgian thrusts, but they add that the reason for this quietness will be disclosed.

The Buxa river, west of Warsaw, has become the Yser of the east. On its banks the Germans have been encircling thousands of men as they were driven from the river.

crossing, which they forced at great cost has now been rolled, according to dispatches from Petrograd, the Russians having driven the invaders back to the west bank of the river.

THE WINDOW LOOK IN

Our Business, Too

When your income shrinks, you cut personal expenses. Don't you? When your business slackens, you reduce expenditures there. Don't you? And you don't say "by your leave" to anybody under the sun. Do you?

With us, that matter is different. We must get permission before we can spend less. For that involves the service we furnish; and over our service and rates and everything else, you have taken statutory supervision. The law says we must get approval from the state itself.

New conditions have been brought about everywhere by the workweek. We didn't cause 'em. You know their immediate results.

Cartelism by you, your friends, associates, employers—by all of you together in varying measure—has been your choice to make it. You consulted nothing but business policy.

The aggregate of that law had inevitable effect on our street-car business. Former workers are not buying car-fares. Our revenues go down; our expenses stand as they were.

We've asked the railroad commission for authority to reduce the car service on certain routes. Our petitioners are to be given full hearing before that court of your own creation. If they're reasonable, they'll be granted; if not, they won't.

Would you have it otherwise?

LARGE DECREASE SHOWN IN DEFECTIVE CHILDREN

Inspection System in Schools Shows Good Results, Says Slaton

The percentage of defective children in the schools of Atlanta has been decreased since the system of medical inspection was inaugurated in 1909 from 78 per cent to 41.8 per cent, according to the report of Superintendent Slaton, which was submitted to the board of education on Tuesday afternoon.

In this connection the report of the superintendent says: The medical inspection department which was established early in 1909, has grown rapidly in efficiency. It has one chief medical inspector, one assistant for the white schools, one assistant for the negro schools, four trained nurses for the white schools and one for the negro schools.

The number of pupils examined during this calendar year is 14,990; the number defective, 6,267. The percentage defective, 41.8. The statistics of the department show that the number of defective children has been reduced from 19 to 41.8 per cent, proving that parents have availed themselves of valuable information concerning the condition of their children.

The statistics of the department show that the number of defective children has been reduced from 19 to 41.8 per cent, proving that parents have availed themselves of valuable information concerning the condition of their children.

He shows that the per capita cost of education in the public schools of Atlanta, based on the total enrollment of 33,938 children, is $2.35. In Columbus, Ohio, for instance, the rate is more than double that in Atlanta, or $5.10. The rate is also considerably higher in Richmond and Memphis than in here. The superintendent declares that the present high school buildings are inadequate and recommends the erection of new ones. He also recommends the erection of grammar schools in the following localities: Spring street (not already purchased by city); Moreland and Euclid avenue, East Atlanta; Pearl and Gaslight streets; Milton avenue, an addition to the Gray street school; primary school buildings for Capitol View, Oakland City, Battle Hill, Exposition mills and Howell station and an annex for the English Avenue school.

VACATION SCHOOLS. The superintendent recommends the establishment of vacation schools, the establishment of separate schools for mental defectives, and another school for incorrigibles, and the establishment of at least two negro night schools. He also urges the abolition of the double session, stating that there are now more than 5,000 children in double sessions.

Denies Story Czard Would Consider Independent Peace Terms

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—A statement having been sent wide-spread through the United States that Russian peace negotiations for peace with Germany independent of her allies, France and England, and it having been suggested that Ambassador Sazonoff had been authorized by such an arrangement, the Russian ambassador to the United States has not only issued a statement denying such a possibility, but has called to the attention of the American public the following message from the Russian minister of foreign affairs: "Certainly please deny absolutely the absurd statement."

NEW YORK WILL TRADE IDEAL FOOD FOR WORK

Plans to Give Six Meals and Two Night's Lodging for Day's Work

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The mayor's committee on unemployed is today considering a plan proposed by Charles Commissioner Kingsbury to furnish six meals and two night's lodging for eight hours' work on city streets and bridges. By working only on alternative days, Commissioner Kingsbury explained, hundreds of men, now idle, would be able to solve the question of living until regular employment could be obtained for them.

Five hundred new beds were placed in the municipal lodging house yesterday, making 2,508 in all, an increase of 1,500 over the number available last year. Should weather conditions result in unusual crowding at the municipal lodging house, the mayor's committee announced today that a national guard armory and an unused school building would be opened to house the homeless.

DECATUR BOARD OF TRADE NOMINATES 1915 OFFICERS

President Dabney Has Been Asked to Serve Another Year

The nominating committee of the Decatur board of trade has announced the following nominations of officers for 1915: President, W. J. Dabney; first vice president, H. G. Hastings; second vice president, J. M. Wilson; third vice president, W. E. Gibson; treasurer, A. J. Almon.

Directors: W. J. Dabney, M. G. Hastings, E. M. Wilson, W. E. Gibson, O. Scott Candler, J. O. Bell and Wiley R. Ansley.

In view of the fact that the board has before it in 1915 the most important work for Decatur, and Decatur county that it has ever done, Mr. Dabney has been prevailed upon to accept the presidency for the third term. His two years of service as head of the board have been characterized by steady and constructive advancement.

It is generally understood that the efforts of the board next year will be devoted mainly to furthering the growth of the Boys' Corn Club, the Girls' Canning Club, the Pig Club, to promoting diversified farming, and to securing an interest in poultry and live stock. The above nominations will be submitted to the members of the board at night, with space left on the ballot for other names which a member may desire to vote for, and the ballots will be deposited in the office of the board on the first Monday in January and counted by a committee consisting of Charles H. McKim, Raymond Daniel and W. H. Weekes.

ATLANTIAN SOLDIER IN HOSPITAL IN FRANCE

Letters received by Atlanta friends from Paul Rockwell, former Atlanta newspaper man, who with his brother, Griffin, is fighting in the foreign legion of France, state that Mr. Rockwell is convalescing in an army hospital. At the time the letters were written Mr. Rockwell was expecting to be discharged from the hospital by Christmas and to immediately rejoin his brother-in-the trenches.

HAYES STATION EXTRA CARS NEEDED, SAYS KING

Protests Against "Tripper" Being Taken Off by Street Car Company

R. W. King, an Atlanta business man who resides in Columbus and rides the main Decatur car, has written a letter to the state railroad commission objecting to the proposed discontinuance of the "tripper" cars now operated on this line between Atlanta and Hayes station, the latter being a stop about midway between Decatur and Atlanta.

The Georgia Railway and Power company a few days ago filed a petition with the commission asking permission to discontinue this and other "trippers" on various lines in the city, claiming insufficient business to justify their continuance.

Mr. King in his letter to the commission admits it may be true, as the company claims, that the Hayes Station cars were operated as express cars between Atlanta and Hayes Station both ways, leaving the traffic between Hayes Station and Atlanta to be handled by the Hayes Station cars. Under this system the Hayes Station cars were operated as express cars between Atlanta and Hayes Station both ways, leaving the traffic between Hayes Station and Atlanta to be handled by the Hayes Station cars.

When the Hayes Station cars were first put on, the letter says, the Decatur cars were operated as express cars between Atlanta and Hayes Station both ways, leaving the traffic between Hayes Station and Atlanta to be handled by the Hayes Station cars. Under this system the Hayes Station cars were operated as express cars between Atlanta and Hayes Station both ways, leaving the traffic between Hayes Station and Atlanta to be handled by the Hayes Station cars.

Dumdums Found by Germans Won't Fit Rifles Allies Use

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—State department officials have practically completed their investigation of charges by the German ambassador, Count Bernstorff, that dumdum bullets were being supplied from the United States to armies of the allies.

State department officials also have been informed by an American diplomat back from Europe that he found no ground for charges that Belgians had been mortified by German soldiers.
